OPEC moving toward pact to lower oil prices

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland — The president of OPEC said today that the cartel was moving toward agreement to lower some oil prices.

Egypt's oil minister, attending the emergency session as an observer, left the meeting and criticized OPEC for inability to make decisions.

President Subroto, the Indonesian oil minister, told reporters after the 13 ministers adjourned a 2½-hour midday session, "We made progress in the sense that we narrowed" the differences in views among OPEC factions.

Subroto announced a meeting for later in the day of a committee of oil ministers from Libya, Nigeria, Qatar and Kuwait to decide a new price spread between OPEC's most expensive crudes and the cheapest ones. He declined to say if that would mean a drop in the cartel's base price of $29 a barrel.

He said today, the second day of emergency OPEC talks in Geneva, that discussing a possible drop in the base price would be a "logical consequence" of the continuing negotiations on a broader price package.

"We will come to exact figures" later, he added.

OPEC's prices now range from $30.50 a barrel for the highest-quality oils to $26.50 for the cheapest. A continuing world oil glut has put pressure on OPEC to reduce its prices.

Any cut in prices would be only the second in the 25-year history of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. The first, to $29 from $34, was in March 1983. Unanimous agreement is required for a price reduction.

Today's proceedings were marked by confusion about which crude prices would be reduced.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the oil minister of Saudi Arabia, said when asked if he expected a cut in the $29 base price, "It seems we'll keep it as it is." He did not elaborate.

Earlier, Egypt's oil minister, Abdul-Hadi Kandil, withdrew as an official observer of the OPEC negotiations.

"I saw some way which is different from my way. That's it," he said, adding that OPEC's inability to make key decisions was hurting the oil market.

City's Master Plan reviewed

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

Midland City Council and Planning and Zoning Commission this morning reviewed concepts for four of the eight communities within the city's comprehensive Master Plan.

The joint session in City Hall's conference room allowed the city officials to review ideas being incorporated into the Master Plan, which is being prepared by J.T. Dunkin & Associates of Dallas. Suggested were extending Garfield Street to Interstate 20 and widening it to accommodate more traffic, eliminating some C-3 zoning in east Midland and rejecting more retail development in southwest Midland.

Once all areas are completed, neighorhood meetings will be held to gather ideas from each community, which in turn will become part of the Master Plan.

Mayor G. Thane Akins said after the meeting this plan could eliminate some of the problems experienced in recent years when plans by developers were opposed by the neighborhood.

"We won't have to do everything that comes before us. As it is now, everything is judged on its merits" and not on how it fits into a long-range plan or the neighborhood.

Pact on Stacy Dam near approval

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

A preliminary compromise on the controversial Stacy Dam has been worked out by the staffs of two feuding river authorities and may be approved by the end of the week, according to O.H. Ivie, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring.

"The Texas Water Commission is going to make the final decision, but what we do will have some bearing on that," Ivie said today.

Ivie wouldn't release any details of the preliminary agreement, which must still be approved by the boards of the CRMWD and the Lower Colorado River Authority, but he predicted the plan would be approved by the end of the week.

"I feel rather sure it will," Ivie said. "The numbers are such that they'll be attractive to both boards."

The Stacy Dam project has been under a cloud since the Texas Supreme Court ruled last fall that it infringed on downstream water rights. The court later stepped back from that decision and left the matter in the hands of the Texas Water Commission, but West Texas legislators, including Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, and Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, have threatened to hold up the proposed statewide water plan until the Stacy Dam is approved.

This abandoned school bus has been approved by state officials as summer housing for a migrant family.

State had inspected family's bus

Associated Press

ST. JOSEPH, Mich. — An excrement-strewn bus where police found three shoeless, nearly savage children dressed in dirty rags was inspected last summer by welfare officials and cleared for limited migrant housing, authorities said.

The children, ages 8 months, 3 years and 4 years, were removed from the bus, examined and put in state custody after they were discovered locked inside the rusted-out vehicle with several dogs, said State Trooper Larry Krieger.

Their parents, Donald and Eva Monk, were arraigned Monday on three counts of child abuse and neglect. Monk posted $3,000 bail and was released, but his wife remained in custody early today.

Social services workers told police the family was living in the bus last summer but that their living conditions apparently had worsened considerably since.

When he children were found Sunday, they were "dressed in dirty rags," said State Police Sgt. Larry Seman. "They are nearly feral children with practically no communication skills and no knowledge of eating utensils."

Their parents were away pruning fruit trees when the children were found, police said.

Seman said the bus offered little protection from the elements and was "full of human and animal fecal material generated (by the family) and their two dogs."

Wes Bowerman, a spokesman for the state Department of Social Services, said the bus, parked 500 yards off a road near abandoned shacks in the community of Berrien Springs, had running water and that its windows were intact when it was inspected last summer.

There also was a toilet outside and the department declared the vehicle suitable for summertime migrant housing, Bowerman said.

"The children were clean at the time ... well-dressed ..." Bowerman said.

But when people on a sleigh ride spotted a child's face in one of the bus windows on Sunday, the bus' windows were broken. It had electricity and a space heater, but the family had been using a can for a toilet, said State Police Sgt. James Uebler.

County, FDIC trying to check out library fund

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Midland County and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. are undergoing negotiations on who collects the $551,240 which the now-defunct First National Bank of Midland had entrusted to the county in 1981 toward building of a new public library.

The money's interest, which also is in dispute, brings the funds in negotiations to approximately three-quarters of a million dollars. The county apparently is trying to hold onto the interest, while the principal will be transferred to the FDIC as the bank's receiver. The money is being held in escrow in First City National Bank, which is the county's depository.

The 1981 library concept perished, as the petroleum boom of the early 1980s waned and the bank on Oct. 14, 1983, failed. FNB was taken over by the FDIC as both liquidator and receiver.

In a closed executive session on Monday, the Midland County Commissioners' Court met with Stanley Clark, FDIC's managing liquidator, and two other FDIC representatives. No decisions were announced but are forthcoming.

In August 1981, FNB, then led by President and Chief Executive Officer Charles Fraser, tendered the county $701,240 as a good-faith gesture toward assisting the county in building a four-story, $5.5 million library to replace the two-level 1958 library building just south of the downtown bank. Construction costs later were hiked to $8 million. In Fraser's words, the first $5.5 million of the library's construction cost "will be borne by" the bank or its assigns.

Of the FNB library-bound funds, $100,000 was in non-refundable earnest money and an additional $50,000 was for demolition of the county-owned American Legion Hall behind the library. In addition to its veterans' functions, the hall had been used as a site for the Summer Mummers' frolicking, community brown-bag luncheon discussions and, at last, as a book-storage warehouse for the Friends of the Library.

Atlantic Council launches study on averting nuclear war

By KINGSBURY SMITH
National Editor, The Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — One of the most important studies ever undertaken to avert the danger of nuclear war has been launched by the Atlantic Council under its new president, General George M. Seignious, former director of the U.S. Arms Control Agency.

The purpose of the studies is to determine and recommend what should be done to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on mutual security arrangements that would create a stable balance of military power, lead to drastic reductions in nuclear weapons, and possibly cooperative development of anti-missile defense systems.

The studies, scheduled to be completed in 1986, will be conducted by a prestigious bipartisan group of former American military leaders, high- ranking defense officials, members of Congress, business executives, university professors and media representatives.

When completed, the studies and policy recommendations will be presented to the President, the Executive Branch, Congress, and America's allies.

General Seignious, who assumed leadership Monday, January 28, of the Atlantic Council, a Washington-based non-profit educational organization, said the studies will involve two projects. One project entitled "U.S. Policy Toward the Soviet Union: A Long-Term Perspective, 1985-2000," will examine the long-term relationship between the two superpowers and recommend what U.S. military, economic and political policy should be toward the Soviet Union. This project will be chaired by General Andrew J. Goodpaster, former NATO Supreme Commander, and Ambassador Walter J. Stoessel, former Deputy Secretary of State and Ambassador to the U.S.S.R.

The other project, titled "Avoiding War and Controlling Arms: Toward the Year 2000," will be co-chaired by General Brent Scowcroft, chairman of the President's Commission on Strategic Forces and former National Security Affairs adviser, and R. James Woolsey, former member of the U.S. SALT negotiating team.

General Seignious, who also was a member of the U.S. SALT delegation, told the Hearst Newspapers the two projects have the support of President Reagan and Secretary of State George Shultz, although they are privately funded and will not be subject to government direction or influence.

WEATHER SUMMARY

AP Laserphoto Map

A wide area of snow is forecast for Wednesday from the central Rockies to the Great Lakes and Midwest, extending to portions of the Southwest, according to the National Weather Service. Rain is expected in the Southeast.

Cooler temperatures due in Permian Basin

From Staff and Wire Reports

A cold front coming in from Canada will bring cooler temperatures to the Permian Basin area, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Forecasters are calling for increasing cloudiness tonight and lows in the mid-30s. Winds will be from the southwest at 10 to 20 mph. Wednesday will be mostly cloudy and cooler as highs are expected to be in the low 50s. Winds will be from the west at 10 to 20 mph and gusty, shifting to the northwest by late afternoon.

Monday's high of 57 was 22 degrees below the record set in 1950. This morning's low of 35 was 33 degrees above the record of 2 set in 1948.

STATE

Don't be fooled by the sunny skies and mild temperatures that were on the agenda for most of Texas today.

Readings across the state were headed into the 60s and 70s this afternoon, but the National Weather Service said another arctic cold front would hit on Wednesday, accompanied by winds of 20 to 30 mph that could drop the chill factor to 20 or 30 degrees below zero.

New hearings begin on Meese

By MERRILL HARTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, saying that "unreasonable inquiries" would be unfair to President Reagan, announced today that he will push for a panel vote by Thursday on the controversial nomination of Edwin Meese III to be attorney general.

In a statement prepared for the opening of new confirmation hearings for Meese, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., told his colleagues: "The election is now over and Mr. Meese's nomination has been resubmitted to the Senate. It is now in the public's best interest...to move forward on this nomination."

Thurmond's comments came one day after Meese's attorney confirmed that government ethics investigators had concluded Meese, as the president's counselor, had violated the government's ethics rules.

That conclusion was kept secret by their boss, a Reagan appointee.

As the hearings opened, Meese also won support from Sens. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, and Paul Laxalt, R-Nev.

But the White House counselor's leading critic on the committee, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, declared he feels Meese to be unfit for the attorney general's job.

In his prepared remarks, Metzenbaum said that "based on the extensive record already compiled by this committee and the eport of the independent counsel, I do not believe that Mr. Meese should be confirmed as attorney general."

Independent counsel Jacob A. Stein concluded in a report released last September that Meese had violated no laws in connection with allegations that he helped friends find government jobs in exchange for loans.

The Senate panel, however, wants to know why a report concluding that Meese violated ethics rules was rejected after being shown to his lawyer and the White House.

Two government ethics officers who wrote the report were called to appear before the comittee later today.

The conclusion of the two Office of Government Ethics officials, whose names were not released, was suppressed by their boss — David H. Martin, a Reagan appointee.

Without mentioning the staff findings, Martin overruled his staffers and wrote Thurmond last week that Meese had complied with ethics rules.

Meese's chief attorney, Leonard Garment, on Monday confirmed the report's existence and also defended his role in persuading Martin to reverse his staffers. The report was reportedly first shown to White House counsel Fred Fielding.

Thurmond summoned all three ethics office officials to testify about the still-secret report.

At the White House today, deputy press secretary Marlin Fitzwater was asked whether Meese still enjoys the full backing of the president.

"Absolutely," Fitzwater replied.

"He thinks he is an excellent candidate and should be confirmed as soon as possible," Fitzwater said. "We're hopeful of expedited passage in the Senate."

The committee's confirmation hearings are expected to concentrate on Meese's ethical conduct, especially any role he played in helping those who aided him financially in obtaining federal jobs.

The hearings will also mark the first ideological clash of President Reagan's second term between the chief executive's conservative philosophy and moderate-to-liberal senators.

Reagan's philosophy is epitomized by the 53-year-old Meese, a strong law-and-order advocate who has called the American Civil Liberties Union a "criminal's lobby."

White House intruder wanted to hear oath

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON — A man who "just wanted to see the ceremony" followed the Marine Band into the White House for President Reagan's Jan. 20 inaugural and was arrested on the State Floor of the executive mansion less than two hours before Reagan took the oath, the White House acknowledged today.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater denied that the intruder, Robert Latta of Denver, was arrested in the first family's private dining room in the upstairs residential quarters, as had been reported.

In an interview with the AP, Latta said, "I just walked in with the band. I just had my hat and coat on."

But Latta, who was released on $1,000 bond after spending eight days in jail on a misdemeanor charge of unlawful entry, said, "I really think that the penalty was a little unjustified, for the reason that I did it and everything."

Fitzwater offered no explanation why the Secret Service and the White House withheld information about the incident until after it was described in today's editions of the Denver Post, the (Denver) Rocky Mountain News and the New York Times.

Latta, 45, wandered freely through the White House until he was discovered sitting at the dining room table in the Reagans' second-floor family quarters, the published reports said.

Fitzwater, under a barrage of questions at today's White House press briefing, first said Latta "was arrested for unlawful entry in a hallway of the State Floor. He was not in or near the family quarters," which are on the second and third floors.

Pressed for details, Fitzwater acknowledged the man may have been discovered in the Family Dining Room, which is a small dining room off the much larger State Dining Room on the State Floor, the main public floor of the White House. The conflict with the published report may stem from the fact that there is another family dining room in the upstairs residence.

The spokesman said Reagan was informed of the incident "soon after" it occurred, but said he was not sure Reagan was told the same day.

Fitzwater could provide few other details.

Latta said in the interview with the AP that he had gone through the White House four days earlier on a guided tour. During that visit, he said, he and several other visitors "wandered off from the group. So, you know, I from this didn't see that that'd be such a bad thing, to walk in.

The war avoidance project will give special attention to space and other strategic defensive forces. General Seignious attached importance to a little publicized statement January 25 by Paul Nitze, who will be adviser to Secretary Shultz in the forthcoming Geneva arms talks with the Soviets. In what appeared to be a strongly conciliatory gesture toward the Soviets, who are gravely concerned the U.S. might develop a space defense system that could greatly reduce the offensive capability of their nuclear weapons, Nitze said the American objective over the next 5 to 10 years will not only be a radical reduction in offensive nuclear arms but "the effective limitation of defensive nuclear arms whether air, land, sea, or space-based."

General Seignious said that in addition to consulting America's allies, it is hoped at a later stage in the studies to have informal discussions with the Soviets on some of the problems. He did not exclude the possibility that eventually discussions might explore cooperation among all the nuclear weapons powers, including the Soviet Union and China, on development of defense systems against nuclear missiles.

The war avoidance project will, General Seignious added, seek (1) to "identify and analyze those factors which make the East-West confrontation so potentially dangerous, (2) explore and weigh both the limitations and opportunities for finding cooperative or at least parallel measures to restrict those risks, and (3) provide a framework for the consideration of more specific issues and measures to reduce the likelihood of war."

Project II, the General continued, will "examine the major issues and possible sets of arms control measures to reduce the likelihood of war while being prepared for the defense of freedom." These will include limitations on nuclear forces, controls on conventional forces, and limitations on resorting to force, such as measures for crisis control and confidence building.

FDIC

Then on Sept. 14, 1981, the county, in order to get a clear deed to the library land, paid the city of Midland $146,091.70 for the city-owned 2½ lots of the 12 lots making up the library property at 301 W. Missouri Ave.

The bank and the county essentially had planned to swap out land. Where the library stands was to be part of the site of the bank's Eagle Plaza and its envisioned one or two 40-story bank towers. The new library, to be built nearby, was to complement the plaza. The bank, which was to have helped the county arrange financing on building the library, was to lease two of the library's floors. Money from that lease would have paid off the county's indebtedness.

In March 1983, the bank, after pondering the economic "uncertainty of the times," set aside its pledge to aid the county in building the library. "We are most interested in proceeding...in a spirit of cooperation and understanding" when the economy improves, FNB attorney Charles Tighe had said. In less than seven months, the bank had failed. the FDIC became FNB's liquidator and receiver, and RepublicBank of Dallas bought FNB's assets from FDIC for $51.1 million.

"There are disappointments for all of us," Commissioner C. DeWayne Davis said in March 1983, "but at the same time, we have to face reality."

PLANNING

"We can hand this Master Plan to a developer and tell him to come up with something that fits that plan. With this, you have all the ingredients of long-range planning you need to work from rather than doing it as it comes along. It could eliminate some of those lengthy public hearings where the community is in opposition to a plan."

Area 1 covers northwest Midland and an area bounded by Loop 250, Andrews Highway, Garfield, Wadley and Midland Drive. Dan Sefko with the Dallas planning firm pointed out a vacant area along the Loop and suggested "land uses which are appropriate to fill in this land and complement the balance," which is a lot of apartment complexes.

Councilman Steve Davidson said he doubted if people wanted to live in single family homes along the Loop and development might be more multi-family dwellings.

Community Area 2 is bounded by Wadley, Big Spring Street, Andrews Highway and Midkiff Road. Sefko noted that most of the houses in this area were built before the 1960s and fall into the category of Type 2. If not maintained, these houses could be dropped into Type 3. However, he said, this area has some well-established neighborhoods.

HE THEN proposed Garfield Street be extended to I-20 to provide a major north-south arterial.

Akins said the council has attempted several times to extend Garfield and "there doesn't seem to be a resolution because of proximity of houses to the street. Shouldn't there be some alternative?

Richard Hennessy, director of planning and community development, said the Garfield problem is a common situation in older cities. "No thought was given to how the city should develop in the future. It's the same problem we have with Cuthbert Avenue. The city has tried to use it as a semi-arterial street because Golf Course Road got stopped at the (Fairview) cemetery.

"The general problem of capacity and lack of arterial street plan is there is no alternative to Garfield. We'll probably have to use every available major street to move traffic," he said.

Extending L Street through land connected to Midland Memorial Stadium could be one alternative, according to Gordon Marcum II. "The school board thinks there might be a majority vote to move those practice fields to Midland High School, but they have to build dressing rooms at the new site."

Area 4 is bounded by East Highway 80, Fairgrounds Road, Big Spring Street and Wadley Avenue. Sefko pointed out a "substantial amount of vacant lots. There are over 900 platted lots that if filled would impact the population of this area."

THIS NEIGHBORHOOD contains no significant shopping area, but Fairgrounds Road could be the site for such zoning. A large area along Fairgrounds Road between Highway 80 and East Golf Course Road has been zoned C-3, he said, "and there is not a need for this type of development along this road. Light industrial or medium density housing would be better."

Hennessy said that area was rezoned to C-3 in the late 1970s "when there wasn't much activity out there. But as has been indicated, there's not that much market for C-3 here."

He then suggested it as a good site for diversified industries because other areas are developed with oilfield supply or other heavy industry.

"We haven't been able to attract other businesses. It's not fair to make the landowner keep it zoned that way (C-3)," said Councilman David Godfrey.

"It's apparent you do have a lot of C-3," said Sefko. "Where possible, you should examine other types of zoning."

Davidson suggested that area would be prime for an Enterprise Zone, if Congress could pass the legislation enabling such an area. Enterprise Zones give developers tax deductions and job credits for developing such tracts.

Area 7 is bounded by Andrews Highway, Midkiff Road, West Highway 80 and Loop 250. Numerous drill sites are located in this community and Sefko recommended the city not allow drilling in close proximity to the neighborhoods.

"THERE IS SOME vacant retail land in this area suggesting there may not be the demand for retail once thought. An increase in population wouldn't support an increase in retail. Modify the retail here," Sefko said.

Integrity of the neighborhoods located near the Loop should be protected with a compatible zoning, he said.

Four other parts of the city will be reviewed later and all will be taken to the various communities for citizens' input during late April or early May, according to Hennessy.

DAM

"The bill is not going to come out of committee until an agreement is reached on the Stacy Dam," Craddick, chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee, said today.

"They're strong people, and the stand they've taken has helped," Ivie said. "Why have a Texas water plan if West Texas can't get water?"

The Stacy Dam and reservoir, to be built on the Colorado River near Ballinger, is designed to serve the water needs of West Texas into the next century.

The water plan was put together by Gov. Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis, and is sponsored in the House by Craddick and in the Senate by Montford. But Craddick's Committee is holding hearings on the bill now, "And I think they're going over it sentence by sentence," said Laurie McLaughlin, Sims' administrative aide, in Austin Monday.

"No Stacy, no water," was the way Ms. McLaughlin characterized the feelings of the West Texas legislators. "I think it's in the River Authority's court right now to come up with an agreeable compromise."

If the preliminary compromise is approved by the CRMWD and LCRA boards, the Water Commission should be able to settle the matter within a month, Ivie said.

Democrats 'waiting, not sleeping' on budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats insist they are "not sleeping" while President Reagan and Senate Republicans try to strike a bargain on reducing federal deficits and may propose an alternative if a budget deal falls through.

In the meantime, Democratic leaders say they'll give Reagan the benefit of the doubt and not seek to engage in partisan battles with him.

"Our strategy is dictated by our circumstances. To be effective, we have to wait," said Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus.

The caucus, made up of all 251 House Democrats, was to meet today to fill committee vacancies, hear from the four candidates seeking the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee and to plot strategy for dealing with Reagan's budget, due to be submitted next Monday.

The Democratic tactic of biding time on the budget drew criticism on Monday from the assistant House Republican leader, Trent Lott of Mississippi. "At some point, the Democrats are going to have to get on the playing field," Lott said after he and other GOP leaders met with Reagan at the White House.

"What do they perceive is fair? When are they going to start considering the budget issue?" Lott asked.

However, Gephardt told reporters: "We have a role that's to be played. It's not to be played at this time...We're not playing rope-a-dope, we're not sleeping. We will have our alternatives on the table at the appropriate time...You don't want to do that prematurely."

At Monday's White House session, Republican lawmakers told Reagan to hold off on tax simplification until a budget-cutting plan wins approval. Reagan met with GOP members of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee and House Ways and Means Committee, according to participants.

'Talking proper' in Britain passport to high social standing

" With your perfect diction old chap, you're obviously officer material."

LONDON (AP) — A dozen different accents jostle for space on these crowded British Isles, and having the right one is still a passport to social standing.

Four decades of mass media and state-decreed equality have rubbed out some of the linguistic anomalies that have long bedeviled Britain, but the 17th-century dramatist Ben Jonson's dictum still holds true: "Language most shows a man. Speak, that I may see thee."

Three centuries after Jonson, another playwright, George Bernard Shaw, complained that "it is impossible for an Englishman to open his mouth without making some other Englishman despise him."

A British Broadcasting Corp. television documentary recently provided an insight into the problem. It was called "Talking Proper," which is what generations of schoolchildren have been told to do if they are ever to get a decent job, marry respectably and belong to the right kind of organization.

Judi Conner's film showed a little schoolgirl from northern England telling how her southern schoolmates laughed at the way she said potatoes: "p'teetoes."

Janet Street-Porter, a television talk show hostess whose cockney voice could clip toenails, recalled being reduced to tears by a party at the Ascot races of upper-class ladies who mocked her accent. "People think I'm thick (dumb) because I speak cockney," she said.

Scottish radio announcer Susan Rae described the deluge of uncomplimentary mail she received when her burr first went on the air on a London station.

Peter Bowles, who specializes in playing plummy-voiced English gentlemen on television, told how he trained for years to iron out the glottal stops and replace the dropped consonants of his thick Nottinghamshire accent before becoming famous in the weekly comedy series "To the Manor Born."

Today, at 48, part of him wished he had kept his Nottingham brogue. The actor said he felt that somewhere along the road to that image of tweedy, pheasant-hunting country squire, "the backbone of my identity had been interfered with."

"It is still quite easy to venture an intelligent guess about where a Briton comes from, socially if not always geographically, from the way he speaks," writes Tim Heald in "Networks," a study of the English social scene.

Accents in Scotland alone range from impenetrably slurry Glaswegian to the dulcet musicality of Inverness.

In Yorkshire, striking miners defiantly talk among themselves in local dialect to emphasize working-class solidarity. The Welsh sound liltingly conciliatory, the Ulster Irish sound blustery, West Country people purr, Bristolians mysteriously add an L to various words (windol for window, Normal for Norma), East Anglians wheedle, cockneys sound cheeky and Liverpudlians... well, just think of the Beatles.

But towering over them all is the accent which is roughly defined as southern, formalized in linguistic jargon as Received Pronunciation or RP, and popularly referred to as Talking Proper.

According to linguistics professor John Honey of Leicestershire University, RP originated in 1431, when the southern accent became standard in the courts and government. The invention of the printing press entrenched its rule, and by the late 1880s, with the advent of a national school system, it became the accent you simply had to have.

The BBC, established in 1922, gave it the final stamp of legitimacy.

Sometimes it went to absurd extremes. Yorkshire novelist Keith Waterhouse remembers his elders pronouncing push and cushion to rhyme with rush and Russian, thinking that only uneducated folk pronounced such words with the oo sound characteristic of Yorkshire - poosh and cooshion.

Margaret Thatcher began her rise to the premiership only after she bleached the native Lincolnshire out of her voice and began speaking RP.

George Orwell thought this sort of thing could be done away with by adopting a cockney or northern accent as the national style so as to "remove class labels from the English language."

The 1960s saw a sort of inverted snobbery, brought on by the Beatles and the Angry Young Men of the theater who glorified the working-class north and made its accent fashionable. "Talking Proper" showed a drama school where students were practicing northern pronunciation - "toof, snoof, enoof" for tough, snuff, enough.

Some purists fear that RP is breaking down. The Queen's English Society, which established itself in 1972, campaigns vigorously to maintain RP's ascendancy against the encroachments of regional accents and Americanisms.

The society insists that it is not snobbish, just concerned about clarity, which it believes can only be ensured through RP. Critics reply that what may be clear to a Londoner can be unintelligible to a West Country person.

"Who's to say what is the correct way?" asks John Germon, chairman of the Devon Dialect Society.

Honey said he believes all non-RP accents will be dead in 70 years. "The sacrifice is sad," he said, "but the gain is in greater equality."

Janet Street-Porter told "Talking Proper" she hoped accents like her own would survive. She asked:

"Do we want to be like America, where there are accents but they're not very strong, or do we want to be like Britain, a small island with a wonderful diversity of accents?"

Theater class may come down with chicken pox

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State University students may have acted rashly when they swapped smooches in the ever-popular theater class on the art of stage kissing: One of them had chicken pox.

In class, assistant speech professor Charlotte Headrick told students how not to bump noses or upstage a partner in a stage kiss.

Then she passed out peppermints and assigned the 26 class members to kiss at least five other class members.

"It was a real high-energy class," Ms. Headrick said after posting a "chicken pox alert" on the theater bulletin board.

Ms. Headrick said the day after the class a male member of the class had come down with the disease.

Lawmaker: Arms talks, Soviet food need linked

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The recent Soviet interest in arms talks may be linked to that nation's need for food, the chairman of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee says.

U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, here to address the 47th annual meeting of the National Cotton Council Monday, said he sees no need for a further nuclear buildup in the United States.

"With one more farmers you can feed 80 people. With one more missile you can kill thousands," he said.

"I'm more concerned about keeping one young farmer on the land than getting another missile to fire on the Soviets," he said.

The Soviets, he said, "are not scared of our missiles. They want our food and fiber and they have to appease us" with the promise of arms talks.

At a news conference following his speech, de la Garza said farmers are suffering from a negative public image.

"It's very frustrating that the best-fed people in the world should have a negative image of farmers," he said.

It is going to be difficult to turn that perception around, he said. But if necessary, the congressman said he would "shout it from the top of the capitol dome."

At present, government spending on agriculture is 3 percent of the federal budget, de la Garza said.

In addition, he said, America's farmers have already made a contribution to cutting federal spending.

The congressman said the federal farm program already has been cut by $23.5 billion in the past four years.

"We hear a good deal of talk these days about the possibility of freezing government spending in fiscal 1986," de la Garza said in a prepared speech.

"I wonder how many people outside of agriculture understand that agriculture has already made a major contribution in that department," he said.

De la Garza, whose committee is scheduled to draw up a four-year farm bill this year, said lawmakers want to hold farm program costs down to the lowest possible level.

White hoping GM puts new plant in Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he is trying to persuade General Motors' officials that Texas is the best place for the company's new Saturn plant.

The new GM division is to include major advances in the way cars are made. The Michigan-based company is expected to announce a location for Saturn in about a year.

"We're hoping they are going to move to Texas. They did make one commitment. They are going to a place where it doesn't snow," White told the Communications Workers of America on Monday.

The governor met with GM Chairman Roger Smith in Dallas last week. Also at the meeting was H. Ross Perot, who became a GM board member when the company bought his Dallas-based electronics business.

White did not mention possible Texas sites for the Saturn plant. But Mimi Purnell, director of the Governor's Office of Economic Development, said she has heard "rumors" of several possible locations, including Sherman, Eastland, the Golden Triangle and Waco.

The facility could mean up to 18,000 jobs, she said. GM wants to produce the first Saturn car in 1989 or 1990.

White mentioned his overtures to GM last week during his weekly television show.

"Yes, we did discuss the Saturn plant," he said of his meeting with Smith, "and he gave us some very favorable indications."

He promised he would be "very aggressive in trying to demonstrate to them the real test of a company's ability to locate in Texas — profitability."

White told the CWA meeting that GM is most concerned about transportation and electricity costs. He said the Public Utility Commission, which in recent months cut rates for several major eletric utilities, has helped make Texas a more attractive home for business and industry.

Gov. Mark White

It's up to management, White told the union members, to keep Texas industries sound.

"We can talk about a well-trained labor force all day long. If we don't have well-trained management we don't get the combination that makes for productivity," White said.

"When you give the working people of America an opportunity to produce, they will. That's management's responsibility. We cannot be productive if we have old tools. We cannot be productive if we have old-design equipment that's worn out," he said.

He boasted about Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.'s efforts in Tyler, where, at a cost of $250 million, a bias-ply tire plant has been converted to a radial tire facility.

"The conversion was made in two years, and in April those radial tires will start rolling onto the market and they will be better tires."

Couple's child abuse trial to start

WACO (AP) — Jury selection was scheduled to begin today in the trial of a Fort Hood couple charged in the 1982 scalding death of their 11-month-old daughter and injury to their son.

Richard Lee Fesler Jr., 24, and Deborah Ruth Fesler, 27, pleaded innocent Monday in U.S. District Judge Walter Smith's court.

The four-count indictment accuses the couple of abusing their children, causing the death of Laurie Fesler and injury to her brother, Carl Fesler.

Prosecutors allege the couple dipped their daughter into a bathtub filled with scalding water on Dec. 21, 1982. The child died 17 days later at a burn center in San Antonio from complications caused by the burns.

The government intends to prove that the children suffered a "whole pattern of severe child abuse," U.S. Attorney Jan Patterson said Monday. The abuse included beatings with a dog leash and a U.S. Army belt for at least two or three months prior to the girl's death.

The indictment also alleges that Fesler, a U.S. Army soldier, bruised the face, neck and legs of the boy on the same day his sister was injured.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Lump, enlarged testes may indicate cancer

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have been told that men should examine their testicles for cancer the way women are supposed to examine their breasts. But if I do it, I have to know what I'm looking for. Can you give me some information about this? — Kenneth, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Solomon

Dear Kenneth: Testicular cancer may be evidenced as a hard lump. The testes may also become enlarged.

Testicular self-examination is best performed after a warm bath or shower, when the skin is relaxed. It should be done at least once a month.

The testicles should be gently rolled between the finger of both hands. A normal testicle is smooth and free of lumps. If a lump is found, a physician should be asked to evaluate it. The results of a study perfomred at the Massachusetts General Hospital indicated that almost all cases of testicular cancer can be cured if the diagnosis is made early.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Would you please clear something up for me? My mother told me that she heard that some type of eye problem can be treated by the use of a posion. This makes absolutely no sense to me, but I told her I would write and ask you about it. — Mrs. D.L., El Paso, Texas

Dear Mrs. L.: In this cae mother knows best. Strabismus (cross-eye) in children has been treated successfully with botulinum, which is a bacterial toxin. Dr. Edward G. Buckley, of Duke University School of Medicine in Durham, N.C., has reported that he injects a very small amount of botulinum into certain muscles of the eye. The toxin paralyzes the muscles, causing them to relax, and enabling other, weaker muscles of the eye to get stronger. After the toxin has worn off, the eyes are often realigned.

Dr. Buckley says that the treatment is safe and takes only a few minutes. In addition, it can be repeated if it is not successful the first time.

Dear Dr. Solomon: When I was still in school a long time ago, everyone seemed to take it for granted that boys did better in math and girls did better in languages. Since women are now going into the sciences in greater numbers than they ever did before, I was wondering whether this has changed. I have a son and a daughter, and I don't see any difference in their ability in math. — Calvin, Santa Rosa, Calif.

Dear Calvin: The results of an analysis of almost 40,000 seventh-grade students show that boys apparently do better in math. Among students who scored the highest on a College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test, the boys outnumbered the girls by a margin of 13 to one. The reason for this is not clear.

Dear Dr. Solomon: You have written that too much use of laxatives may cause a person to become dependent on them. Could this be avoided by using enemas instead of laxatives? — Mr. T.Z., Philadelphia, Pa.

Dear Mr. Z.: It may not be so much a case of going from the frying pan into the fire, but of remaining in the frying pan. The excessive use of enemas, like the excessive use of laxatives, may create dependence on them.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My feet always seem to be cold, but when I told my doctor about it, he said there was nothing to worry about. I was afraid that there could be something wrong with my circulation. Isn't this usually the cause of cold feet? — Lena, Los Angeles, Calif.

Dear Lena: Many people complain about cold feet, but most of them have normal circulation. If your doctor has told you that there is nothing for you to worry about, I would try to follow his advice.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I know that blood pressure is usually given as two separate figures. What I would like to know is what they mean. — Vi, Morganton, N.C.

Dear Vi: As you note, blood pressure measurements are recorded in two figures. The first, or systolic blood pressure, is an indication of the force of the blood against the walls of the arteries when the heart pumps. The second, or diastolic blood pressure, is a measure of the pressure that remains in the arteries between heart beats.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I dont mean to downplay the importance of pregnant women not drinking, but it seems to me that alcohol is not the only problem these women face. Many of them don't eat well either, and I would like to know how doctors can tell that it is the alcohol that is causing the damage and not something else. — Dorothy Athens, Ga.

Dear Dorothy: You are correct that alcohol abuse is often linked to other kinds of behavior that may be harmful to the mother and her baby. For example, many of these women may not be eating properly, may not be receiving adequate prenatal care, or may be smoking or using drugs other than alcohol. Nevertheless, there is sufficient data to show that alcohol itself does pose a serious risk of birth defects.

Dr. Jerry Kruse, of the University of Missouri School of Medicine in Columbia, points out that alcohol readily crosses the placenta and that the concentration of alcohol is the same in fetal and maternal blood. Furthermore, animal studies have shown that alcohol can damage the membranes of fetal cells.

To say that a woman who drinks while she is pregnant is exposing her unborn child to the risk of malformation is not to minimize the other factors cited.

For Lynn, Little Rock, Ark.: The excessive use of alcohol is associated with sexual dysfunction in both men and women. As I've noted previously, small amounts of alcohol may cause a relaxation of inhibitions and tend to enhance sexual pleasure; however, larger amounts of alcohol tend to impair the ability of men or women to become sexually aroused.

For Jody, Hagerstown, Md: A measles rash in an adult is similar to, and may be mistaken for, the rash of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Trainer suggests pigeons carry out water samples

SEATTLE (AP) — An acid rain study of alpine lakes should use pigeons, not helicopters, to fly out water samples from ecologically sensitive areas.

Pigeon trainer Charles Fullerton says the job would be "duck soup to what we did in the service during World War II," when 98 percent of carrier pigeons got through with their messages.

"It's made to order. None of the flights are much over 100 to 150 miles," Fullerton said.

Officials of Environmental Testing & Balance Inc. of Bellevue said the helicopters the EPA plans to use at 85 lakes in Washington state would be too disruptive in areas where motor vehicles are banned.

"Flying a helicopter into an area where eagles and ptarmigans are nesting is devastating," said Craig Parsley of Environmental Testing.

Charles Tetta, a chemical engineer for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, is skeptical.

"It won't fly," said Tetta. Each lake sample is more than a gallon and would have to be packed in ice, much too heavy for pigeons to carry, he said.

Mockery of justice

Suppose Walter Mondale had been shot dead during the height of his campaign against President Reagan by a member of the security detail at the Washington, D.C., airport.

Suppose President Reagan identified the killer, who was executed on the spot by other guards, as a communist agent acting alone. Suppose outraged public opinion and rampaging mobs forced the president to end his whitewash and appoint a high-level citizens' board to investigate the assassination. Suppose a majority on the board implicated in the murder plot Gen. John W. Vessey Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; the chief of Washington's police department; a high-ranking Air Force general; two Marine Corps colonels; 20 other military personnel; and a prominent civilian Reagan supporter.

And suppose, after reviewing the evidence, the Department of Justice formally indicted Gen. Vessey and each of the other 25 individuals named by the citizens' board either as principals in the assassination or accomplices.

Such is the shocking state of affairs in the Philippines. The government this week formally charged the armed forces Chief of Staff and 25 other men, who were earlier accused by a citizens' board in connection with the 1983 assassination of President Ferdinand Marcos's opposition leader, Benigno S. Aquino Jr.

As jury trials are not part of the Philippine justice system, the case is expected to be tried before a special three-judge court appointed by President Marcos. Heretofore this panel has ruled on minor corruption charges involving government officials. So, there is much doubt whether justice can prevail.

The spreading consequences of the Aquino murder have already shaken the authoritarian rule of President Marcos, whose followers sought to conceal the facts and contain the damage in an initial government investigation that was a mockery. The very fact that government prosecutors have preferred formal charges proves a loosening of the heretofore tight Marcos grip on Filipino life.

However the high-level trial goes, the results could be fatal for the Marcos regime: Sham proceedings resulting in mass acquittals could provoke a popular uprising. Or, convictions based on evidence implicating President Marcos himself could bring him down if the complications of old age do not intervene first.

In any case, the United States has an immense stake in the orderly transition of the Philippines into a more democratic society.

Trouble with dollar

The dollar is now worth 70 percent more than in 1980. That's a mixed blessing, at best. It's good news for bargain-hunting Americans in London and Paris and for any American who buys foreign goods. It's a major factor in holding down inflation because American products must remain competitive. But there's a high cost for these benefits.

The lower prices abroad are drastically shrinking America's older industries. The "strong" dollar is causing American farmers to lose overseas customers. Even IBM, the titan of American exporters, complains that the rising dollar has depressed its computer profits. Only this currency gap keeps farmers and IBM from holding their own in world markets.

The Reagan administration has finally conceded that Government ought to try intervening in money markets to slow down the run-up of the dollar. Its concern is welcome, but selling off more dollars can't address the underlying problem.

It is the budget deficit that has kept interest rates unusually high, thus adding to the dollar's allure as an investment. Not until U.S. government borrowing stops increasing can interest rates ease off enough to make foreign currencies more desirable. Otherwise the clamor for protectionist measures against foreign goods will become unstoppable.

Through its first term, the Reagan administration held that it could not and need not do anything about the dollar's high value. Not to worry, officials said; foreigners are buying dollars because America's vigor and stability make it the best place to invest.

No one believes government intervention alone can scotch the run-up. But when the dollar remained strong even as America's interest rates moved down, the administration had to show concern. Selling dollars and buying up weaker currencies can be at least a short-term palliative. It increases the supply of dollars and, at the same time, the demand for other currencies, thereby strengthening them.

Washington ought to work at attracting foreign investment, but by maintaining stability and opportunity, not by pumping up interest rates. Even further reductions in interest rates may not be enough. Other governments also need to do more to revive their economies. The administration's new willingness to enter the currency markets is first aid for a malady that cries out for surgery — most of all, deep cuts in the budget deficit.

— The New York Times

TODAY IN HISTORY

In 1843, the 25th President of the United States, William McKinley, was born in Niles, Ohio.

In 1900, the American League, consisting of eight baseball teams, was organized in Philadelphia.

In 1936, the first members of the baseball Hall of Fame were named in Cooperstown, N.Y. They included Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth.

In 1958, actors Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward were married.

In 1963, the first members of the football Hall of Fame were announced in Canton, Ohio.

Also in 1963, poet Robert Frost died.

Ten years ago: A bomb exploded at the State Department in Washington. The radical Weather Underground claimed responsibility.

In 1891, Liliuokalani was proclaimed the Queen of Hawaii.

Five years ago: Comedian Jimmy Durante died in Santa Monica, Calif., at the age of 86.

One year ago: In a nationally broadcast speech, President Reagan announced that he and Vice President George Bush would run for re-election in order to complete "what we began three years ago."

Today's birthdays: Comedian "Professor" Irwin Corey is 73. Actor Victor Mature is 69. Actor John Forsythe is 67. Author Germaine Greer is 46. Actress Claudine Longet is 43. Actress Katharine Ross is 42. Actor Tom Selleck is 40.

Thought for today: "There's a million good-lookin' guys, but I'm a novelty." — Jimmy Durante (1893-1980).

West Germans won't plug leaks

WASHINGTON — The massive leaks of militarily useful technology from West Germany to the Soviet bloc will take years to plug, according to a secret CIA report. The reason is that the West Germans simply don't want to shut down the profitable high-tech traffic.

Jack Anderson

This is the sobering conclusion of the CIA report, titled "Transfer of Strategic Technology to the Soviet Union from West Germany." My associates Michael Binstein and Dale Van Atta have reviewed the highly sensitive report.

The CIA notes that the West Germans have traditionally paid lip service to the idea of limiting the flow of military technology to the Soviet bloc. But West Germany has opposed putting any teeth into the repeated attempts to restrict the traffic as recommended by COCOM, the coordinating committee set up by the Western allies to control West-East trade.

"The Kohl government, like previous governments, sees expanding trade between West Germany and the Soviet Union as essential to its economy and its balance of foreign trade," the CIA explains. "West Germany will therefore continue to interpret COCOM regulations narrowly in its own best interests. West Germany is (also) opposed to trade embargoes for political purposes and will resist U.S. attempts to exercise extraterritorial control over West German subsidiaries of U.S. firms."

The report chides West German licensing authorities and intelligence agencies as "ineffective" in trying to control illegal technology sales to the Soviets. They have acted effectively only when "outside sources" (the CIA, presumably) have given them evidence of illegalities.

Here are some specific points the report makes about the West Germans' performance:

— The diversity and efficiency of West Germany's industries and banks, its excellent transportation system and its convenient location next-door to both Soviet-bloc nations and neutral countries make it an obvious target for Soviet efforts to obtain Western high-tech items.

— "Small, entrepreneurial firms in West Germany ... continue to be the main instrument of Soviet-bloc diversionary efforts," the report states. "An industrial security-awareness program is needed to sensitize law-abiding West German firms."

— Soviet military shoppers take full advantage of West Germany's system of bonded customs transit zones, where customs agents are forbidden to snoop without evidence of probable violations of the law.

"Customs agents should be sensitized to the need for inspection of suspicious shipments," the CIA report says, "in particular those received from abroad which are reconsigned to a foreign destination without being delivered to their original West German consignee."

— The fox is in charge of the chicken coop. Export controls are a responsibility of the Ministry of Economics, which wants to encourage foreign trade. Not surprisingly, the trade control office suffers from understaffing and other problems, the CIA reports.

As for what could be done, the CIA suggests "periodic expulsion of Soviet-bloc intelligence personnel known to be engaged in illegal technology-transfer activities." But this doesn't happen very often in West Germany.

The Germans have made some preliminary moves to plug the high-tech leaks, such as a secret interagency meeting two years ago that agreed on a program "to help stem the problem of illegal technology transfer."

The Economics Ministry was directed to produce an updated list of firms producing and shipping high-tech items — which would number some 200, according to the CIA. The West German equivalent of the FBI was ordered to "describe in detail the methods" used to send technology illegally to the Soviet bloc. And the intelligence service was to "provide lists of the high-technology items sought by the Soviets."

But "progress to date on the new cooperative program has been limited," the CIA noted. The report glumly predicted that "it will be several years before West German enforcement is significantly improved in the area of illegal trade."

AT IT AGAIN: As if their posteriors weren't smarting enough from their trip to the woodshed with Ronald Reagan last fall, the Democratic Party's professionals continue to belabor each other with brickbats in the fight over the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

Nancy Pelosi, a California party satrap, is the personal choice of outgoing DNC chairman Charles Manatt to succeed him. Some disgruntled Californians are supporting Pelosi's No. 1 opponent, Paul Kirk, a Ted Kennedy favorite, and they've been spreading the word that Ms. Pelosi won't do, mainly because she can't get along with the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

The charge dates to May 1983, when Jackson appeared in California for a party fund-raising telethon and used the opportunity to criticize the party rules on delegate selection. Ms. Pelosi headed the party panel responsible for enforcing the rules; and she and Jackson reportedly "had words" after the telethon. She supposedly told Jackson to get out of California.

A spokesman for Ms. Pelosi, noting that her job at the time was a thankless one, said, "If Jackson was the only person she offended, then she did a great job." There are, of course, those who suggest that talking tough to Jackson might be a good way to win support from certain influential elements in the party.

'Message' from case disturbing

The story of Bernhard Goetz, the man who admitted shooting four thugs on a New York subway, provides several insights into some of the causes of the problems we face.

Charley Reese

News media persist in referring to Goetz as a vigilante. Aside from the fact that Goetz is entitled to a presumption of innocence, using "vigilante" shows that people who should be most concerned about preserving the precision of our language abuse it instead.

If you shoot someone who is attacking you, you may be declared guilty of murder or innocent by reason of self-defense but in neither case are you a vigilante. A vigilante is one who seeks to punish criminals without the blessings of the law and without regard for whether the criminal necessarily victimized the vigilante.

The obvious facts of the case indicated Goetz was no vigilante. If his intention had been to lure muggers into an attack so he would have an excuse to shoot them, then he certainly would not have chosen a crowded subway car with plenty of witnesses present.

Whether Goetz can meet New York State's requirements for legal self-defense is an issue only the court system can decide. It is useless to speculate on the outcome. We don't know enough facts. Moreover, there is an element of chance in every judicial product.

What is useful to note is the hypocrisy of the elitist politicians. They are much more concerned with making an example of Goetz than they are in making the streets and subways safe. I suspect this is because Goetz's act has exposed their fraudulent claims as people who are competent to govern.

New York City crime statistics show that in 1983 there were 84,000 robberies reported but of these, 7,000 convictions resulted. Of 27,000 reported assaults during that year, only 727 ended in convictions. During the first 10 months of 1984, 12,000 reported felonies were committed on the subway system alone.

These statistics reveal a state of near anarchy. Despite the fact that New Yorkers are carrying one of the highet tax burdens in the world, they are not receiving the most fundamental of all government services — protection of life and property.

Now, you may recall that Goetz had been badly beaten by a mugger before and had applied for a gun permit. New York City turned him down. They said he didn't have a good reason to carry a gun. Well, that's not unusual. It's almost impossible for an ordinary citizen to get a gun permit in New York.

The city long kept the list of people it did give gun permits secret. A couple of years ago, though, someone took them to court and they were forced to make the list public.

Would you like to know who gets gun permits in New York? Big shots. Politicians. Publishers. Celebrities. Even some people, like the publisher of the New York Times, which is always howling for more gun control laws, got a permit to pack a pistol.

Well, the message here is a plain as the big red nose on a clown. Elitists will live by one set of rules and they'll make another set for the common folks. It's just as Tom Jefferson said, elitist fear the people.

The big shots in New York City know they have broken the system. They know the streets aren't safe. They pack guns. But the thought of allowing a working class person to carry a gun scares the bejeebers out of them.

If the people of New York City ever get the full drift of what's being done to them, there'll be a hot time in City Hall.

Community responded

On behalf of the Cherie Shelburne Trust Fund and the family of Cherie Shelburne, I want to express gratitude for the wonderful way our community is responding to the need to raise money for Cherie's liver transplant.

I especially want to say thank you to those who worked so hard to make the recent rummage sale a huge success. The sale raised over $17,000. Several individuals and groups need to be recognized in a special way. Madge Wallis and Geneva Richards were the coordinators for the sale. Clyde White donated the use of the building. The Altrusa Club, Southwestern Bell Telephone Community Relations team and employees, Village Kiwanis Club and Crestview Baptist Church gave sponsorship to the event. The members of these groups manned the sale and picked up and delivered items.

A special thank you should go out to the media of our community. The Midland Reporter-Telegram, radio stations, and all three television stations were extremely helpful in getting the word out about the sale.

The people of Midland are a caring and generous people. The generosity of Midland citizens has raised $23,797.56 toward the $80,000 needed for Cherie's transplant. I hope that we can continue to receive donations toward the total amount needed. Contributions can be made through Petroplex Savings or Crestview Baptist Church. Again we say thank you to the people of our great city.

Dr. Kenneth L. Hall
Trustee, Cherie Shelburne Trust Fund

What 'dishes' being watched?

Jack Anderson reported recently (Midland Reporter-Telegram Jan. 7) on the Young Cosmonaut-Young Astronaut program designed to develop present and future awareness of the value of space and its exploration. Among the multinational corporations supporting this program is Intersat, which "has developed a Young Astronauts satellite dish for schools."

I'll bet the kids immediately tune in the Playboy channel. But why not? The way our government programs are run, it'll be good training.

Now's chance to return love

As a handicapped person myself, I have been watching with interest the publicity surrounding little Cherie Shelburne who has been in urgent need of an organ transplant for survival. The tremendous expense for this is mind-boggling.

For many years her parents and all her family have helped to make Midland a better place to live. Now is the opportunity to return some of this love to them.

The rummage sale is over, but there will be other opportunities to help this deserving family. Ten thousand people giving a love gift of $10 each will provide the amount needed now.

'Lunch gap' options endless

A woman (or man) who can think of only six unworkable solutions to the "lunch gap" deserves to be miserable.

Here are a few that are more reasonable:

1. Cook yourself a lovely luncheon. Save some for him for supper.
2. Set a nice table in the back yard. Join the cardinals.
3. Invite a friend over for lunch or go to a friend's for lunch.
4. Communicate! If you know it is his lunch day, then either eat a big lunch yourself or don't expect him to gorge himself while you are dining sumptiously at home.
5. If he eats out everyday, find yourself an occasional dining partner, female or male (that should perk him up!)
6. Feed him peanut butter sandwiches and carrot sticks for supper. Save the money for treating yourself to a luncheon.

Study: Star Wars' cost, risk 'imprudently high'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A limited effort to find weak links in strategic defense systems would be of more value than investing huge sums in research for the Strategic Defense Initiative proposed by President Reagan, a new study says.

"For SDI, both the risk and the cost appear imprudently high," said the report issued Monday by the Council on Economic Priorities. "The hasty infusion of very substantial funding raises knotty questions."

The research for the defense proposed by the president — popularly known as Star Wars — would cost more than the entire proposed budget for such programs as the MX missile and the B-1 bomber, the report said.

It suggested that a more modest program to find holes in strategic defense systems "would provide a hedge against Soviet breakthrough without unleashing a crash program of questionable value and astounding cost."

The report recommended that the Defense Department reduce emphasis on developing prototype systems and that Congress slow down spending for SDI "until the technological uncertainties of deploying an effective overall defense have been clarified."

It warned against "political momentum" driving the nation to develop defensive systems and recommended that the administration "vigorously pursue" verifiable arms control agreements.

The price tag for all this is impossible to estimate since the Strategic Defense Initiative program is barely in the research and development phase, the report says, adding:

Reagan enjoys 68 percent approval, poll indicates

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan is enjoying his greatest popularity since the April 1981 assassination attempt, a Los Angeles Times poll published today indicated.

The survey found the president with a 68 percent approval rating, his highest since 80 percent of those polled by the Times endorsed Reagan shortly after the attempt on his life, the newspaper said.

The paper also said that 73 percent believe Reagan will keep the United States at peace during his second term.

But the paper said "there may be pitfalls ahead," particularly noting erosion of support for a defense buildup and cuts in social programs.

The poll, conducted Jan. 19-24 by telephone to 1,847 scientifically selected people with an error margin of 3 percent, said it found that only one-third of the respondents favored his social cuts, with 57 percent registering disapproval.

The survey by I.A. Lewis also found a bare majority of 52 percent favoring the military buildup. And while 50 percent favor his handling of the federal budget, 40 percent are opposed.

But the poll found strongest confidence in Reagan's peacekeeping abilities, with five out of six respondents seeing a peaceful second term. While 55 percent said Reagan would make America stronger militarily than Russia, only 32 percent thought he could halt the spread of Soviet influence. The survey found a strong 59 percent approving of his foreign affairs program, with only 27 percent disapproving — his best rating in two years.

The poll also found:

—59 perent believe he will make industry more productive.

—52 percent think he will cut unemployment.

—42 percent see him slowing down the growth of government.

—24 percent think he will balance the budget.

Thirty-two percent of respondents believe he will make major tax cuts; 58 percent the contrary. However, overall 54 percent approved of the way he is handling taxes, and 63 percent vs. 32 percent like the way he is handling the economy in general.

Children die in house fire

BLUEFIELD, W.Va. (AP) — A toddler and her infant brother died in a house fire sparked by a portable heater that was being used because their unemployed parents couldn't afford gas payments, officials say.

Sherry Lanell Davis said she left the house briefly Monday afternoon to fetch water for her children because the pipes in her home had frozen, said Bluefield police Sgt. Michael Poe.

She returned to find the house in flames, said Poe. The father, Tyrone Davis, was not home at the time.

The bodies of Tacarra Chenel Davis, 2½, and Donald Tyrone Davis Jr., 3½ months old, were found wrapped in blankets on the living room couches where they were left sleeping about 3 p.m., said Poe's father, city fire Chief Richard Poe.

Both miners, British coal board trying to fire up negotiations

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON — Both sides in the 46-week-old coal strike are trying to restart negotiations after a three-month break in which thousands of miners quit the walkout.

A meeting was arranged for today between Peter Heathfield, general secretary of the miners' union, and Merrick Spanton, a member of the National Coal Board, in hopes formal talks could be started on how to end the strike, which turned violent as miners crossed the picket lines.

The London Times said today's meeting could lead to substantive negotiations on Thursday and a signed agreement to end the stoppage by Feb. 11.

But other news media were less optimistic, with the British Broadcasting Corp. saying: "It is clear that the miners' union will not be allowed a face-saving deal and there is no sign of any wavering on the government's insistence that the union must agree to the coal board's right to shut down uneconomic pits."

The union has contended that only pits that have run out of coal or are dangerous should be closed, while management insists on the right to carry out plans to shut down 20 mines it considers unprofitable. The board's plan would eliminate some 20,000 miners' jobs through attrition.

The union president, Arthur Scargill, declared on Independent Television News on Monday: "There will be no selling down the river of my members."

WORLD in brief

Pope heads to Ecuador

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Pope John Paul II urged 45,000 cheering Venezuelan high school and college students to resist the temptation to seek refuge from reality in drugs, sex and "alien ideologies."

The pope — making his 25th trip abroad and sixth to Latin America — winds up the Venezuelan portion of his four-nation tour today with a brief trip to the southern industrial town of Ciudad Guyana. He then returns briefly to Caracas before flying to Quito, Ecuador.

Two executed in Chile

QUILLOTA, Chile (AP) — Firing squads executed two policemen before dawn today for 10 murders that one claimed were ordered by a right-wing "crime club" that targeted opponents of President Augusto Pinochet's military rule.

Lawyers for the murder victims' families had joined defense attorneys in fruitless appeals of the death sentences, arguing evidence against members of a higher-ranking death squad would die with the two policemen.

But on Monday, Pinochet closed the case by refusing to grant clemency appeals by the condemned men.

Soviets open session

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet Union opened this year's session of the 35-nation European security conference today by proposing a treaty that would commit nations not to be the first to use military force.

President Reagan has said previously he would be willing to consider the concept of such a pledge, but Western officials made no comment on today's Soviet proposal.

Soviet Ambassador Oleg A. Grinevsky, Moscow's delegate, outlined the proposed treaty to the conference, which includes the United States and Canada, the Soviet Union, and all European countries except Albania.

The conference convened with increased hopes for progress following the U.S.-Soviet agreement to resume nuclear arms negotiations. But no quick results were anticipated.

Polish policemen 'guilty'

TORUN, Poland (AP) — Three Polish secret police officers are guilty of the premeditated murder of a pro-Solidarity priest with the support and assistance of their immediate superior, a government prosecutor told a court in final arguments today.

The prosecutor, Zygmunt Kolacki, said the abduction and killing of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko last October "has the traits of a political provocation against the authorities."

It was aimed "against national accord and the political, moral and legal principles of socialism," he said.

Ultimatum issued priest

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Foreign Minister Miguel d'Escoto, a Roman Catholic priest, says he has received a Vatican ultimatum to either give up his church duties or his post in the leftist government.

D'Escoto said he received a letter from the Vatican last week ordering him to decide within 15 days whether to quit as foreign minister or give up his church titles and duties, the pro-government newspaper Nuevo Diario reported Monday.

Elsewhere in Central America, the Honduran military said U.S. and Honduran troops will hold joint military maneuvers Feb. 11-May 3. And in Panama, U.S. military personnel gathered Monday at a Howard Air Force Base chapel to pay their respects to the 21 Americans killed when an Air Force C-130A airplane crashed a week ago in the Caribbean Sea off Honduras.

The action against d'Escoto and three other priests who hold high office in the Sandinista government had been announced earlier by Monsignor Pablo Antonio Vega, president of the Catholic Episcopal Conference of Nicaragua.

Lee's girls end skid

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Abilene Cooper was like a dull ache for the Midland Lee Rebels: Not enough to incapacitate but enough to be annoying.

The Cougars annoyed the Rebels in the first half, leading 14-13 after the opening quarter and trailing 31-19 at intermission before starting to lose ground in the third quarter as Lee took off for a 62-53 District 4-5A girls basketball victory Monday night at Lee Gym.

"Cooper has a good team," said Lee coach Shirley Stephenson. "They shoot well from the field and from the line and they were dribbling through our press tonight. I really good about winning this one."

IT WAS a win Midland Lee needed. After posting an 8-0 start in the 4-5A race, Lee ran into some trouble, losing back-to-back games to Midland High and San Angelo to fall into a tie for first place with Odessa Permian at 8-2.

With the victory over the Cougars, Lee remains atop the district standings with the Panthers, who defeated Big Spring, 49-41, at 9-2 to set up up a big game Friday night against the Panthers at 8 p.m. in Permian Gym.

"We go to Permian Friday and you know, with these girls, the effort will be there."

The effort was there against Abilene Cooper and it eventually paid off for the Rebs.

AFTER BOUNCING the lead back forth 10 times in the first two quarters, the Rebels started taking control in the final seconds of the second and first 1:33 of the third quarters.

Cooper took its final lead of the game with 44 seconds left in the half, 29-27. It only took 10 seconds for Rebel Megan Pace to tie it up as she went to the free throw line for two tosses. Seventeen seconds later Roz Eaden gave the Rebs the lead for good by rebounding a teammate's shot and putting it back up for the 31-29 halftime score.

Becky White, who led Lee in scoring wih 11 points, and Denise Hatch strecthced the margin to 35-29 with two buckets at the start of the third quarter.

Cooper's Chandra Scott broke Lee's scoring string with a shot under the basket but it was the only points the Cougars would get in the first five minutes of the third quarter as Lee rushed out to a 43-31 lead and the eventual 62-53 victory.

White was not only Lee's biggest scorer in the game but also the top rebounder as she helped Lee take a commanding edge on the boards, 42-22, with nine carooms.

REBEL NOTES: In Friday night's loss to San Angelo, the Rebs suffered an even bigger setback when they lost the services of junior post Candace Morney for the season. Morney and Lee point guard Diane White were in a collision Friday night and Morney tore the ligaments in her ankle. "She's a very good player and a very important part of the team," said Stephenson. "We'll miss her a lot."...

Becky White was Lee's only double figure scorer in the game, but, as usual, Lee had several girls pumping in a high number of single-digit points. Eaden, Denise Hatch and Valencia Wallace each dropped in eight while Diane White added another seven. For Cooper, Jennifer Badgett was 5-of-6 from the line and added five field goals for a 15-point effort while Angie Dunn chipped in 13.

Lady Bulldogs win again

From Staff Reports

The Midland High Bulldogs were in a tough buzzer-to-buzzer battle with the Abilene High Eagles Monday night but when the final second elapsed from the clock, MHS had a 45-44 victory to remain in a tie for third place in the District 4-5A girls basketball race.

The final difference in the game rested in the first quarter when the Bulldogs outscored the Eagles 12-11. For the rest of the night, the two teams scored the same amount of points in each quarter.

Denise Lanz and Diedra Knapp led the scoring for the Bulldogs with 14 and 10 points respectively to counted the 20 and 14 point efforts by Eagles Trena Jackson and Jennifer Wolfe.

With the victory, the Bulldogs improved to 8-3 on the year as did San Angelo, a 57-36 winner over 0-11 Odessa High Monday.

With 9-2 front-runners Midland Lee and Odessa Permian playing Friday night, that sets up a possible three-way tie for second place between Lee or Permian, MHS and San Angelo. The Bulldogs host the Bronchos at 8 p.m. in MHS Gym while San Angelo travels to Abilene Cooper.

Friday's Games: Midland Lee at Odessa Permian; Odessa High at Midland High; Abilene High at San Angelo; Big Spring at Abilene Cooper. All Games at 8 p.m.

FOR PERMIAN, It was a 49-41 victory over Big Spring that kept the Panthers in a tie with Lee for first place, setting up Friday's big shootout in Odessa between the two leaders.

LeeAnn Rood topped the Mojo attack with a 14-point effort while Big Spring's Trell Clemmons scored a game-high 19.

The victory also makes Permian the first team in the district, boys or girls, to gain 20 victories this season. The Panthers' record is 20-6.

Chaps rebound, 96-87

Teviin Binns rips for 37 points

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland College and Odessa College were beginning to turn the Western Junior College Athletic Conference into a two-team race. While the Chaparrals were turning Western Texas College's press into a 96-87 boomerang, the Wranglers were racing to an easy 96-51 victory over Clarendon College Monday.

That leaves MC and OC with 8-1 WJCAC records while Amarillo College, the preseason favorite, lost another game to the leaders when New Mexico Military Institute trapped the Badgers in overtime, 63-61.

And WTC, with what some call the best athletes in the conference, was losing its third straight and the team that two weeks ago was in the thick of the race is now 4-5.

DESPITE the nine-point margin, MC's 17th victory in 20 games, wasn't easy.

"We finally got so we could handle their press," said a relieved Jerry Stone. The MC coach added, "They remind you a lot of Howard College. They have a lot of good shooters. The difference is that Western has more of them."

Dennis Spradling, Western's first-year coach, played at WTC on the national championship team coached by Nolan Richardson. Spradling's team reflects his former coach's influence. WTC plays harrying, full-court, ever-busy defense that translates into transition basketball.

Only Monday, the Westerners didn't make the most of the turnovers they instigated early in the game and it eventually cost them.

Although an assistant at WTC last year, his first out of Tulsa University, Spradling wasn't named head coach until this fall when Barry Davis resigned to go to Texas A&M as an assistant.

"I didn't get to do much recruiting," Spradling said.

AFTER THE 61-55 disappointment at OC last week, this was the kind of game MC needed. While 6-9 Teviin Binns scored 37 points, it was a game in which Stone needed and used his entire bench, and they came through admirably.

Ricky Grace, back from his losing bout with a motorcycle on the MC parking lot, looked like he had never been away, scoring 17 points, second high for the Chaps.

Big Tony Wright may be muscle under the boards, but he made some passes that caused one to suspect that here was a large, economy-sized Pooky Wigington. Wright went scoreless, but had three "showtime" assists in the first half. Unfortunately, he also picked up three quick fouls.

"Tony has a tendency to keep his head down and run over people," Stone grinned.

Wright's deft ball handling came as no surprise to assistant coach Reggie Franklin, who pointed out, "he was a guard in high school."

Deon Hunter also came off the bench to turn a good floor game and Eddie Frazier, in a starting role had eight points and proved hard to move under the boards.

Zeak Williams, Lawrence Chumbley and Ricky Graves combined for 19 points while Wigington had 10, all in the second half.

In fact, it was hard to find a Chap that didn't contribute in this one.

"Usually, I expect seven or eight guys to emerge and carry the load," said Stone. "This year I've had to shuffle around until I find the right combintation for the game."

HOWEVER, THE night's star was Binns, who had 25 points at half time with 10 of 15 from the floor.

"I think this was Teviin's best game," said Stone. "He scored a lot of points in tough going and didn't get tired. I just don't want him taking any more of those charging fouls. It could mean his career."

Binns wound up 14 of 22 from the floor.

WTC held a 27-23 lead with 7:25 left in the half when Binns scored a basket and free throw. Grace added the first of two one-and-ones and then fed Binns on an alley oop before driving the base line for a basket. It was a 9-0 run that gave Midland a 32-27 lead that stood up the rest of the way.

WTC didn't lack for fire power with Alvin Hicks scoring 23, Victor Spencer of Lamesa 19 and James Dunn and Jeff Gibson 15 apiece.

AS A RESULT, MC never completely shook the Westerners, although widening a 78-64 breech with 7:19 left in the game. However, TWC had crept back to trail 93-85 with 51 seconds left.

WTC, which has now lost to Amarillo, Frank Phillips and MC in rapid order, converted 15 of 20 free throws. Against Frank Phillips, WTC converted just 19 of 50 shots. MISSED 31 free throws.

In other action Monday, New Mexico Junior College pulled a shocker in beating Howard College, 77-71. The Hawks last week had handed OC its first loss in league play.

MC returns to the Panhandle Thursday to play Clarendon.

Western Texas College—James Dunn 8-14 3-4 5 15; Victor Spencer 9-15 1-1 1 19; Alvin Hicks 8-12 5-5 3 21; Billy Chambers 2-5 0-0 4 4; Anthony Smith 2-5 0-0 4 4; Floyd Singleton 1-8 2-2 4 4; Ed Teal 0-4 1-2 4 1; Vince Turner 0-3 0-0 0 0; Jeff Gibson 7-9 1-2 4 15. Totals 36-73 15-20 26 87.

Redmen grab No. 1 rung

Associated Press

Hoyas Lose Again, Page 2B

In December 1951, St. John's was the No. 1 basketball team in the nation and Lou Carnesecca was in his second year of coaching at St. Ann's Academy.

In January 1985, St. John's is the No. 1 basketball team in the nation and Lou Carnesecca is in his 17th year as coach at St. John's.

There were 905 games between top rankings and about the only thing that didn't change was Carnesecca's aversion to the No. 1 tag.

"It's hoopla," the coach of the Redmen, 15-1, said Monday about St. Jonn's going to the top of the Associated Press poll. "It's good for the school, good for the kids. We have to keep our feet on the ground."

St. John's had to be walking on air last weekend after ending Georgetown's 29-game winning streak at a time when the Hoyas' were No. 1. The Redmen beat Georgetown 66-65 Saturday at the Capital Centre.

It is the first time since December 1951 that the Redmen, who were ranked third last week, have held the top spot, according to the school's sports information office. They held the No. 1 position for just one week then, before losing to Kentucky by 41 points. St. John's lost to Kansas in the national championship game that season — just two years after Carnesecca graduated.

St. John's received 52 of 63 first-place votes and 1,249 points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Georgetown received 10 first-place votes and 1,202 points in easily outdistancing Memphis State, which received the other first-place vote and 1,130 points in moving from fourth to third.

Georgetown, which had held the top spot from the preseason voting through nine regular-season polls, suffered its second consecutive loss Monday night, bowing to Syracuse 65-63.

In Carnesecca's tenure, the Redmen had just one chance to take the top ranking. That came in the 1982-83 season when No. 1 Virginia was upset. If St. John's beat Boston College on the road, the Redmen would be No. 1.

"No way am I trying to downplay this, but two years ago we were in a position to go into No. 1, then we got knocked off," Carnesecca said of the 68-64 loss to the Eagles. "So, I have to take it from there."

Southern Methodist, which suffered only its second loss in 18 games this season Saturday at Texas Tech, 66-65, fell from second to fourth, receiving 1,016 points, 28 more than Illinois, which switched places with Duke, 867 points, from last week.

Oklahoma is seventh with 850 points, followed by Georgia Tech, one of two teams to jump eight places in this week's poll. The Yellow Jackets, 15-3, received 716 points in moving from last week's No. 16 ranking. They beat Clemson 64-59 and North Carolina 66-62 last week.

Syracuse received 698 points in moving from 11th to ninth place, while Michigan, 18th last week, joined Georgia Tech in the long jump category. The Wolverines, 14-3, rounded out the Top Ten with 636 points after victories last week over Michigan State and Kansas.

North Carolina leads the Second Ten, followed by Tulsa, DePaul, Oregon State, Louisiana Tech, Nevada-Las Vegas, Maryland, Villanova, Kansas and Alabama-Birmingham.

Last week's Second Ten was Syracuse, Louisiana Tech, Indiana, Villanova, Kansas, Georgia Tech, Tulsa, Michigan, Virginia Commonwealth and Nevada-Las Vegas.

This week's newcomers, Maryland and Alabama-Birmingham, were both previously ranked this season. The Terrapins, 16-5, were ranked 19th four weeks ago before falling from the Top Twenty, while the Blazers, 18-4, were ranked in the first three regular-season polls, reaching 13th.

The Top Twenty teams in the Associated Press' college basketball poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, total points based on 20-19-18-17-16-15-14-13-12-11-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1, record through Sunday, Jan. 27 and last week's ranking:

Only two colleges who have been members of the west coast conference supplying the host to the Rose Bowl game have failed to send teams the Rose Bowl game. Name them.

Monday's answer: Bob Reynolds, a tackle for Stanford, is the only player 60 minutes in three straight Rose Bowl games —1934-35-36.

Lee, MHS face key 4-5A outings

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

Early in the first half of District 4-5A play, Midland Lee coach Paul Stueckler said, "It's nice to be able to lose a game and still be tied for first place."

That comment came after the Rebels dropped a 56-55 decision to Odessa Permian. The statement also holds true after Lee's more recent setback, Friday's 60-58 loss to San Angelo.

Going into the game, Lee was the undisputed 4-5A leader at 6-1. With the loss San Angelo and Abilene High (by virtue of a 78-72 win over Permian) join the Rebels atop the league standings at 6-2.

And, they aren't the only teams looking for a piece of the pie. Permian and Midland High are waiting in the wings for the top three teams to stumble. The Panthers are alone in fourth place a 5-3 while the Bulldogs are in fifth at 4-4.

The Bulldogs can go a long way toward getting back in the 4-5A race tonight when they host the AHS Eagles at 8 p.m. in Chaparral Center. Not only could the 'Dogs use a victory as far as the race is concerned but also to get back some self-respect after the first meeting with AHS.

In that game, the second of the district season, the Bulldogs suffered a 99-78 setback despite a 31-point effort by league-leading scorer Darrell Davis. Also, the game was played on the road, a notoriously tough place to win in 4-5A.

"I think it ought to be an outstanding basketball game," said MHS coach Jack Stephenson. "We had a game down there for the first half before we ran out of people. We had to leave Anthony (Deande) and Tim (Hickey) at home and only had one guard left (Roger Henderson) and he fouled out.

"I'm not taking anything away from Abilene. They play well but it's hard to compete when you don't have all your people."

A key to tonight's game against the Eagles will be the MHS defense. The Bulldogs have proven they can put the points on the board but not quite as often or from as many different directions as the Eagles. Basically, Abilene High's defense is it's potent offense.

"They play a whole lot like Hobbs, N.M.," said Stephenson. "With their pressing technique, everything is geared around it, pressing and running. They're not going to come out and hold anybody to 50 points. They're the kind of team that will play the first minute like the last. They're not going to hold the ball. They'll come down court and shoot it and hope it goes in. Then they dare you to get it."

While Davis leads the district with a 27.6 per-game average, AHS has two shooters in the top four: Mickey Russell, 18.8 and Greg Lowry, 18.4. A few notches down at 10 and 11, the Eagles have Cliff Johnson, 15.6 and Kirt Robinson, 15.3. A well rounded one-two-three-four punch.

Faltering Hoyas shocked by Orangemen

Associated Press

There was nothing mysterious about Georgetown's second consecutive college basketball loss.

No. 9 Syracuse matched the second-ranked Hoyas blow for crushing blow, outrebounded the defending national champions 41-32 and, with the game on the line, got a 15-foot basket from Dwayne "Pearl" Washington with eight seconds left to pull out a 65-63 decision Monday night.

"It was a tough shot that Pearl made," Georgetown Coach John Thompson said after his Hoyas slid to 18-2. "Michael (Jackson) was right in his face, but there was nothing he could do."

WASHINGTON, the flashy star for the Orangemen all season, had scored only nine points and was guilty of seven turnovers before his deciding basket.

"Basically what I tried to do was get up as high as I can on the jump shot and jump right over him and shoot," Washington said.

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 3 Memphis State got 21 points and nine rebounds from 6-foot-10 forward Keith Lee and thumped Cincinnati 81-61.

All-American center Pat Ewing, who scored 21 points and grabbed 17 rebounds, was fouled on a rebound basket that brought the Hoyas even with Syracuse. His free throw made it 61-60 with 3:07 to play.

Rafael Addison, who led Syracuse with 26 points, gave the Orangemen the lead again 18 seconds later with a pair of free throws.

But Ewing responded with two of his own for the last Hoya advantage, 63-62 with 1:54 left.

Georgetown had a chance to put the game away, but turned the ball over inside the final minute. Syracuse used that break to set up Washington's game-winner.

"I thought our team had a lot of heart, a lot of courage," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim, whose club improved to 5-3 in the rugged Big East Conference, one-half game back of 18th-ranked Villanova, 5-2. Georgetown is 7-2 in the league while top-ranked St. John's is 7-0.

FOR THE second time in three days, Memphis State faced a Metro Conference foe with first place at stake. The Tigers beat Virginia Tech 89-79 on Saturday before waltzing over Cincinnati on Monday. The Tigers now stand 6-1 in the league to Tech's 4-1 and the 5-2 mark of Cincinnati.

"I'm happy for the win, but I'm not as concerned about the conference standings as I am at getting enough wins for the NCAA Tournament," Memphis State Coach Dana Kirk said. "What matters is how many wins you have in the left-hand column."

Thanks to the scoring of Lee and center William Bedford, who added 19 points and 14 rebounds, the Tigers have 16 in that left-hand column after 17 games.

"We started off strong at first, getting a 13-point lead," Kirk said. "This enabled me to give our starters a break. Unfortunately, we let them get back into the ball game in the first half."

The Bearcats slipped within 25-20 before Memphis State rebuilt a 31-22 margin at the half and then stretched it in the final 20 minutes.

"Lee plays like a seven-footer with those long arms," Cincinnati Coach Tony Yates said. "He's a tremendous shooter and can score from both inside and outside. He hit three or four early and they built a quick lead just like that."

Boston College, victimized recently by the Big Four of the Big East, got back on the winning track Monday night with a 94-77 blitz of non-conference foe Hartford. Junior forward Roger McCready led the Eagles, 13-5, with 21 points and Skip Barry added 19.

College Roundup

Connecticut, another of the not-so-big members of the Big East, won its seventh game against nine defeats with a 90-65 non-league romp over U.S. International. Earl Kelly scored 19 points and handed out eight assists while Ray Broxton scored 16 points for Connecticut.

Damon Godwin scored 26 points to lead Dayton to a 63-54 victory over Miami of Ohio, Dayton's 14th win in 18 starts this season and its 55th over Miami in the 99 games of the series.

NOTRE DAME improved its record to 10-5 with a 70-63 victory over Providence. Ken Barlow had 19 points for the Irish, including seven during an 11-0 second-half run that overcame a four-point halftime deficit. Providence of the Big East slipped to 9-11.

John Williams scored 20 points and Clyde Eads 17 as Tulane edged Florida State 64-61 in the Metro Conference. Tulane, 10-8 overall, is 3-4 in Metro play while Florida State is winless in six starts in the league and 7-10 in all games.

South Carolina ran its Metro record to 3-3 with a 90-72 romp over Southern Mississippi, which dropped to 2-4 in the conference and 6-13 overall. Linwood Moye scored 18 points and Jimmy Hawthorne pitched in with 15 as South Carolina ran its season mark to 10-6.

Gerry Henry scored 10 of his 23 points in overtime to spark Niagara to an 85-80 victory over Northeastern. Niagara, the only team to beat No. 1 St. John's, is 10-8 overall.

In other games, it was American 64, William & Mary 62; James Madison 74, East Carolina 65; South Florida 86, North Carolina-Charlotte 54; Drake 69, Indiana State 67; Detroit 77, Oklahoma City 74; Loyola of Illinois 97, Oral Roberts 92; Stanford 60, Southern California 54; Washington 74, Nevada-Reno 62, and Utah State 93, Pacific 67.

AT ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., reserve guard Niles Dockery canned a 22-foot jumper with one second left to give New Mexico a 44-42 Western Athletic Conference basketball victory over Colorado State. The victory pulled UNM to 13-6 overall and into a three-way tie with San Diego State and Brigham Young for second place in the WAC. Those three are 6-2, one game back of league-leading Texas-El Paso. San Diego State, 15-4, kept pace with a 74-64 triumph over Air Force that featured a 19-point performance by forward Mike Kennedy.

And at Portales, N.M., East Texas State nipped Eastern New Mexico 108-107 in an overtime game capped by a brawl.

East Texas State's Jerry Thomas, who scored 36 points, stole a pass inside the final minute and was heading for an easy layup when he was grabbed by the Greyhounds' Ken Butts. The two players grappled, both benches cleared, and officials assessed technical fouls against each club. Tony Coger hit two free throws and Thomas added three out of four for a 105-99 East Texas lead. ENMU's Wallace Williams hit all four to complete a 33-point night and cut the deficit to 105-103, but the Greyhounds got no closer.

Among the women, Sam Augsburger led with 222-589.

At Dellwood, the pace setter was Ron Hopkins, 265—662, in the Civic Commerical Men's, and then posted a 279 the next night in a mixed league.

Don Pyle's 667 in the His & Her Mixed was the top series at Dellwood, followed by Burt Evans with 665. Dana Shank had 655 and Mark Miller 247-611 in the Petroleum National. Barbara Sutton recorded here first 200, 209, and Pete Zepeda reached 600 for the first time in the Viva Las Vegas league.

Randy Truesdale, competing in the In-House qualifying portion of the Most Over Average tournament, rolled 144 pins over his average at 289.

In youth bowling, Brandon Robey, 115 average, rolled 186-184-109—479. Father Ken had better watch out. Brandon's gunning for you. Shane Vann, 105 average, scored 156—337; Daryl Waisner, 94 average, 141—366; Stephen Marlowewith, 109, had a 418; Kent Egler, 117, showed a 146-156-129—431; Lionell Gonzalez, 69, 123-116—309; Kevin Renton, 29, 189—446; and Zac Mitchell, a 158 bowler, 189—468.

In the bantam age, Tonya Altman had a 99 series and Katie Bowman notched a 100 series. Both are six-years-old.

From Pat Houck, Fairmont Park Lanes Coach Ty Murphy paced the prep division with 129—368. Kevi Jordan had a 151—353. Nicole Blair led the girls with 145—354. Jessica Lesser rolled a 117.

Holly Blair paced lthe bantam girls on an 87-153. Justin Houk had 95-189 and Eric Reingiermer 110—178.

Upcoming events: Most Over Average Tournament at the three Midland centers are being held each weekend. World Class Alibi Tournament is scheduled Saturday and Sunday at Dellwood. Fund raiser Amanda is Feb. 9.

Indiana's Knight answers critics

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Coach Bob Knight, under fire from Indiana alumni and other fans over recent coaching tactics, says he doesn't tell them how to run their businesses and doesn't need their advice.

Knight used his weekly sports program on radio station WIRE in Indianapolis Monday night to answer critics.

"Just as I leave the law business or the grocery business to people who know what they're talking about, I think I'm capable of handling the coaching business," Knight said.

"If my primary purpose at Indiana is to go out and win basketball games, I can probably do that, maybe as well as anybody can. I'd just cheat, get some money from a lot of people around Indianapolis who would like to run the operation that way and get the best basketball players I can and then we'd beat everybody all the time."

UNHAPPY WITH the recent play of most of his regulars — including 1984 U.S. Olympian Steve Alford — Knight started four freshmen along with 7-foot-2 senior center Uwe Blab in Sunday's nationally televised game against Illinois. Indiana scored just 12 points in the first half and lost 52-41. The Hoosiers lost at Purdue 62-52 last Thursday.

In the radio program, Knight dealt with questions concerning the status of forwards Winston Morgan and Mike Giomi and his decision to play Blab and six freshman at Illinois.

He said Morgan and Giomi did not return from a loss at Ohio State with the team 10 days ago because Knight had "got on them pretty good" for their play and didn't want him "to keep pounding on them" all the way home. Knight said he had Morgan and Giomi fly back with Athletic Director Ralph Floyd so he and his staff could get on with their planning.

Morgan and Giomi did not play at Purdue and didn't make the Illinois trip, a third straight loss that dropped Indiana to 11-5 overall, 3-4 in the Big Ten.

"I think there comes a time that somebody needs to be jolted a little, and if jolting them doesn't get them playing to what their potential is, then they've got to think about dropping out of it or playing somewhere else," Knight said.

"Consequently, I didn't even take Giomi and Morgan on the travel roster to Illinois simply because they didn't show Friday and Saturday in practice that they played any better. It's such a simple thing for me; if you play well in practice, then you'll play in games. I've never operated any way else.

"I've always felt that the greatest motivator of all is the bench. If a kid isn't playing well, he's got to sit down and another kid's got to have a chance."

KNIGHT SAID there were players he would like to have used at Illinois but he was determined to stick to his guns even if they turned on him. The move was precipitated by Knight's dissatisfaction with his team's lack of aggressiveness and its play on defense and the boards.

"(Dan) Dakich should have played," Knight went on. "But I'd made a commitment to myself and to the freshmen that this was going to be their ballgame, this was going to be their chance. They were going to get the opportunity to play. They worked like the dickens, and they deserved the chance to play in view of how our older players had been playing."

Knight said his greatest regret was benching sophomore guard Alford.

"When I called my Mom last night to see how she was doing, the first thing she said was, 'How come you didn't play Alford?' She wasn't particularly happy that Alford didn't play.

"Nor was I. I didn't enjoy sitting through a ball game without playing Steve and one or two other guys."

Knight talked about how Alford's assists have fallen off and his leadership and defense have been lacking.

Colts pass reigns to Dowhower

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mark Herrmann, the only Indianapolis player who has had experience with Rod Dowhower, is optimistic that the new head coach of the Colts can improve what last season was the worst passing offense in the National Football League.

Colts' owner Robert Irsay announced Monday that the former St. Louis offensive coordinator would succeed Frank Kush, who resigned the week before the final game of the regular season to become coach of the Arizona Outlaws of the United States Football League.

"He worked with me quite a bit in Denver," said Herrmann, one of three quarterbacks competing for the starting job next season. "He certainly has an excellent background as far as working for people that know how to throw the ball and how to teach quarterbacks.

"He's had quite a bit of experience teaching quarterbacks himself. I feel very excited about being able to work with him."

Art Schlichter and Mike Pagel, the other two signal callers during the 4-12 campaign of the Colts in 1984, also expressed optimism.

"I can only look from where he's been," Schlichter said. "And when you look at St. Louis, they've got one of the better offenses in the league. He groomed a young quarterback, Neil Lomax."

Schlichter, who started five games for Indianapolis after missing the 1983 season because of a legaue suspension for gambling, was hopeful Dowhower would go to training camp with an open mind.

"I'm working hard during the off-season and expect to be ready when the time comes. I'm glad we're getting someone who wants to throw the ball. All of us had problems with the offense last season."

Pagel, who started the club's first seven games, was uncertain about his future.

"From what I understand, he's definitely a player's coach in that his whole philosophy revolves around the quarterback. It could be a good situation for all of us, but I'm not certain if I have a future with this club. I've asked to be traded, but if I'm not I'll give it my best. I guess it comes down to what he (Dowhower) thinks," Pagel said.

"I know the Colts used three quarterbacks last season," said Dowhower, 41, who received a five-year contract. The terms were not disclosed.

"I want them to know that all three have a shot at the job and that there is no number one at this point. It all depends on how hard they want to work, how their adapt to my plans and how they take directions," Dowhower said.

"The only one I'm really familiar with is Mark," he said. "But I won't comment about him because it wouldn't be fair to anyone."

Dowhower's first NFL coaching experience was with St. Louis as a member of Don Coryell's staff in 1973. He then moved to UCLA where he served as offensive coordinator under Dick Vermeil, helping the 1975 Bruins defeat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl. Following a year as offensive coordinator at Boise State, he was named quarterback coach at Stanford under current San Francisco 49er coach Bill Walsh.

In 1979 he coached Stanford to a 5-5-1 record. He joined the Denver Broncos as offensive coordinator under Dan Reeves in 1981, where he coached Herrmann as a rookie. Dowhower rejoined the Cardinals, under Jim Hanifan, in 1982.

"I've been with systems where we throw the ball a lot and that's the type of offense I want here," he said.

Arbitration figures run $1 million

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time, three baseball teams have submitted proposed salaries of $1 million a year or more for three of their players who have filed for arbitration.

Of the 98 players who filed for arbitration, seven are seeking settlements in excess of $1 million annually, according to a report in Tuesday's editions of The New York Times. And three — the Los Angeles Dodgers' Fernando Valenzuela, the St. Louis Cardinals' Joaquin Andujar and the Montreal Expos' Tim Raines — have been offered seven-figure contracts by their respective clubs.

Valenzuela, a left-handed pitcher, is seeking $1.3 million, $200,000 more than the Dodger offer. Andujar, a right-handed pitcher, asked for $1.26 million while the Cardinals bid $1 million, and Raines sought $1.2 million from Montreal, which countered with a $1 million offer.

Four other players also are seeking more than $1 million, led by the $1.3 million being sought by relief pitcher Bill Caudill, who was traded last month from Oakland to Toronto.

Chicago Cubs first baseman Leon Durham and Kent Hrbek of the Minnesota Twins, each want $1.1 million and third baseman Wade Boggs of the Boston Red Sox asked for $1 million.

Toronto offered $850,000 for Caudill, the Cubs bid $800,000 for Durham and Minnesota's offer for Hrbek was $650,000. Boston's bid for Boggs wasn't disclosed.

In the nine previous seasons that salary arbitration has been used, only three players have asked for salaries in excess of $1 million and only one, Valenzuela last year, won at that level. Henderson bid for, and lost, $1.2 million when the arbitrator chose the Oakland A's offer of $950,000, at that time the largest bid ever by a club.

And the Dodgers' Pedro Guerrero averted an arbitration hearing on his $1.2 million demand when he signed a 5-year, $7 million agreement last year.

On Friday, Minnesota pitcher Pete Filson, who had filed for arbitration, signed a new contract. Toronto pitcher Bryan Clark signed Monday, while the New York Mets said pitcher Ed Lynch had agreed to terms on a one-year contract.

Arbitration hearings are held during the first 20 days in February.

Last year, 80 players filed for arbitration, but only 10 cases went to the arbitration stage.

Mavs' Aguirre punches in 49 against Sixers

Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers were gunned down by a sharpshooter out to make his point.

Dallas' Mark Aguirre, snubbed by the All-Star selectors, drilled 17 of 25 shots from the floor and scored a career-high 49 points Monday night, leading the Mavericks to a 111-109 National Basketball Association victory over the 76ers.

"I was kind of upset," said Aguirre, who made last year's All-Star team. "I came out to win."

And he helped nail down

DIGEST

T-bills gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Yields on short-term securities, which last week fell to their lowest levels in two years, posted a small increase in Monday's auctions.

The Treasury Department sold $7 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.76 percent, up from 7.68 percent last week. Another $7 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.97 percent, up from 7.93 percent last week.

The rates for three-months bills were the highest since Jan. 7 of this year when the rate was 7.78 percent. It was the highest six-month bill rate since an 8.05 percent on Jan. 14.

Interest rates have generally been dropping since early September when they reached peaks of 10.63 percent for three-month bills and 10.75 percent for six-month bills.

The new discount rates understate the actual return to investors — 8.03 percent for three-month bills and 8.42 percent for six-month bills.

Dollar eases

LONDON (AP) — The beleaguered British pound steadied on foreign exchange markets early today, as the dollar eased against all major currencies.

In response to the dollar's decline, gold bullion rose above $300 an ounce in active trading.

Currency and bullion traders in London said markets were keyed to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' meeting in Geneva, Switzerland.

Confusion at the OPEC meeting Monday threw the British pound into a tailspin. The pound fell to an all-time closing low in London of $1.1110, but recovered in New York after major British banks raised base lending rates two percentage points to a three-year high of 14 percent.

A few hours after European markets opened today, sterling was being quoted at $1.11835 and remained steady against major European currencies.

The pound is sensitive to fluctations in oil prices because of Britain's dependence on North Sea oil revenues, which make up 6 percent of the country's gross national product.

A London dealer who did not want to be identified said the pound could benefit from a agreement in Geneva resulting in a more stable oil-pricing structure. A continued uncoordinated slide in world oil prices would have the opposite effect.

Currency dealers in Tokyo also cited uncertainty over the OPEC meeting as a reason for a lack of buying. The dollar closed at 254.03 yen, down from 254.22 yen. Later in London, the U.S. currency was quoted at 254.10 yen.

The value of gold and silver bullion rose as investors shifted away from the dollar. A London bullion dealer reported "good buying" of gold in early dealings, but said the OPEC meeting clouded prospects for the remainder of the day.

London's five biggest bullion houses fixed a recommended gold price at midmorning of $303.50 a troy ounce, up from $299.50 late Monday.

In Zurich, gold also was quoted at $303.50 up from $297.80.

Earlier in Hong Kong, the precious metal gained 1.58 to close at a bid of $302.82.

Personal income increases 2 percent in third quarter

By The Associated Press

Residents of Georgia, Alaska and Florida enjoyed the biggest gains in personal income during the third quarter of 1984, although all 50 states recorded increases, the Commerce Department reported.

Last week's three-day freeze, meanwhile, will cost the Florida citrus industry more than 25 percent of its frozen orange juice production this season, according to an industry estimate.

In the third quarter of 1984, non-farm personal income rose 2 percent from the second quarter, the Commerce Department said.

The gain, while considered healthy, was down from advances of 2.5 percent in the second quarter and 2.4 percent in the first quarter of the year.

The smaller increase reflected generally slower economic growth in the latter half of the year relative to the brisk expansion earlier in 1984, analysts said.

By state, the biggest increase was a 2.9 percent rise in Georgia followed by Alaska and Florida, where incomes rose 2.8 percent. New Hampshire residents enjoyed a 2.7 percent gain followed by Arizona at 2.6 percent.

The state with the smallest income gain was West Virginia, where a 0.5 percent increase lagged far behind the national average. Other states with small gains were Montana, 1 percent; Delaware, 1 percent, and Idaho and North Carolina, both with 1.2 percent gains.

Florida's largest citrus grower cooperative, Florida Citrus Mutual, estimated that growers lost 36.7 million gallons of concentrate because of last week's freeze — 26 percent of what they expected to produce with this year's harvest, said Bobby F. McKown, executive vice president of the cooperative.

Before temperatures plunged below freezing beginning Jan. 21, industry leaders figured they would turn out 141.6 million gallons of frozen juice. But in the wake of the fourth disastrous freeze in five years, the concentrate estimate fell to 104.9 million gallons.

McKown stressed that the figures were "very preliminary," and the official projection will not be available until after the U.S. Department of Agriculture issues its crop forecasts over the next two months.

The preliminary estimate was lowered because of both a loss in the number of oranges and because fruit that survived the frost last week will yield less juice.

In other economic developments Monday:

—Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds totaled $4 billion last year, a 4 percent gain over 1983 and the best performance since 1980, the Treasury said. The gain is attributed largely to the introduction in November 1982 of money-market rates paid on the bonds.

—The Treasury Department said it sold $7 billion in three-month bills Monday at an average discount rate of 7.76 percent, up from 7.68 percent last week. Another $7 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 7.97 percent, up from 7.93 percent last week.

—Steel production fell to 1.46 million tons in the week ended Jan. 26, a decrease of 5.9 percent from the previous week's 1.55 million tons, the American Iron and Steel Institute said. Production amounted to 56.6 percent of capacity, down from 60.1 percent the previous week.

HUD secretary says economy depends on reduced spending

HOUSTON (AP) — The housing industry went "back to work" during the Reagan administration, but the future of the nation's economy will depend upon reduced federal spending, the secretary of Housing and Urban Development said.

"We want as many people as possible to be homeowners," Samuel R. Pierce said Monday during the 41st annual convention of the National Association of Home Builders.

Home ownership is the "American dream," and the Reagan administration's success in lowering interest rates has helped the housing industry, Pierce said in a news conference.

However, Pierce said, the nation's economy is not as healty.

"If we don't get deficits down, our economy is going to go straight to hell," Pierce said. "We have to decrease spending if we want to keep our economy strong."

But he would not say what concessions he would be willing to make for his department in the upcoming federal budget to be proposed by President Reagan.

"I don't want to get into that," he said of the budget battle. "It's the president's business."

Pierce reminded home builders that housing starts have been up dramatically for two straight years now and that mortgage rates have fallen and continue to fall.

"We must be doing something right," he said. "Together, we've succeeded in putting the housing industry back to work. When you're working, it radiates throughout the economy — pulling other industries forward with you."

A Treasury Department tax reform plan recently released would, among other things, eliminate state and local property taxes as deductions, a move seen by builders as a hindrance to their business.

Pierce promised home builders to "work to keep your interests understood and fairly dealt with at Treasury and within the Administration."

Desk & Derrick offers class at Midland College

The Midland Desk and Derrick Club is offering "Fundamentals of Petroleum" through Midland College.

The course has 12 classes, each addressing different aspects of the industry. Classes are held Monday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Tuition is $54, and a textbook is available at the Midland College bookstore. Registration is at Midland College from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday in the Administration Building.

Each course is taught by a different industry member. Proposed classes include Petroleum Geology and Reservoirs by Don McGookey, Petroleum Prospecting by Ed Woodruff, Aspects of Leasing by Vern Dwyer, Routine and Special Drillion Operations by Chris Morphew, two classes on Production: Bringing Petroleum to the Surface and Treating, Storage and Sampling, taught by Taylor Maine. Also, Oil and Gas Pipelines and Refining and Processing, taught by John Ochsner, Petroleum Marketing by Dave Tinkerton, and an Overview of the industry taught by Clem Ware.

OIL & GAS REPORT

EXPLORATION HIGHLIGHTS

Abo discovery pumps 45 barrels

Staff Reports

An Abo discovery has been completed in the Stump field of Andrews County.

USENCO tested the No. 1 McNeill "A" to pump 45 barrels of 38 gravity crude, 50 Mcfpd and 17 barrels of water. Gas-oil ratio is 1111:1. The Abo was perforated from 7,273 to 7,476 ft. and acidized with 23,750 gallons of 15 percent HCL acid.

Drilled to 7,625 ft., the well is plugged back to 7,569 ft. Final casing set was 4 1/2 inches at 7,613 ft.

With a ground elevation of 3,525.7 ft., formation tops chosen were the San Andres at 4,308 ft., the Glorieta at 5,624 ft., the Upper Clearfork at 6,089 ft., the Lower Clearfork at 6,707 ft., the Drinkard at 6,905 ft. and the Abo at 7,199 ft.

Location of the well is 1,980 ft. from north and 660 ft. from west lines of Sectin 24, Block A-28, PSL survey, 27 miles southwest of Seminole.

The McNeill is part of a five-well 1984 development drilling program by USENCO. The company also completed the No. 1 Markham in Gaines County for 126 barrels, 170 Mcfpd and 7 barrels of water daily. The well is completed in the Tex-Mex Southeast (Wichita Albany) field.

The company is completing the No. 1 Wright in Dawson County and the No. 1 White "A" in Schleicher County. The No. 1 Hughes in Borden County is being completed as an Ellenburger discovery.

Loving strike flows 42 barrels of crude

A strong oil discovery has been completed in Loving County.

CHRISTOPHER P. RENAUD, Midland, tested the No. Harrell to flow 42 barrels of 41 gravity crude, 194 Mcfpd and 238 barrels of water on a 14/64 inch choke with a flowing tubing pressure of 910 psi. Gas-oil ratio is 4,619:1. The well is flowing from perforations 5,023 to 5,042 ft., which had been acidized with 1,000 gallons of 7.5 percent HCL acid and fractured with 12,000 gallons of gel and 20,000 lbs. of 20/40 sd.

Drilled to 5,168 ft., the well is plugged back to 5,092 ft. Final casing set was 5 1/2 inches at 5,167 ft.

On an elevatin of 2,809 ft., formation tops chosen were the Lamar Shale at 3,464 ft., the Ramsey Sand at 3,500 ft., the Olds Sand at 3,524 ft. and the Cherry Canyon at 4,442 ft.

The well is located 660 ft. from south and 1,980 ft. from west lines of Section 6, Block 55, T-2, T&P survey, 17 miles northwest of Mentone.

Dawson wildcat tests to pump 9 barrels

TEXACO, INC. tested the No. 20 A.J. Spraberry, a Dawson County wildcat, to pump 9 barrels of 41 gravity crude and no water. Gas-oil ratio is 846:1. The well is producing from perforations 10,323 to 10,358 ft., which had been acidized with 3,000 gallons of acid and fractured with 5,000 gallons of gel and 7,500 lbs. sand.

Drilled to 10,7500 ft., the well is plugged back to 10,410 ft. Final casing set was 7 inches at 10,428 ft.

On an elevation of 2,898 ft., the well topped the Pennsylvanian Reef at 7,800 ft., the Lower Mississippian at 10,260 ft. and the Woodford at 10,620 ft. Top of the pay was 10,323 ft.

The well is located in Section 38, Block 34, T-5-N, T&P survey, 10 miles southeast of Lamesa.

Commissioners to study reserve deputies proposal

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

While Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter is proposing a 25-deputy reserve force, the Midland County commissioners are concerned about getting renewed law-enforcement insurance coverage and are pondering a rural fire protection plan.

Painter wants a reserve force to augment his core of about 55 deputies at no cost to the county. The commissioners are concerned about liability.

Gardendale Volunteer Fire Department Lt. Joe Foster is seeking the Commissioners' Court's approval of his "ambitious" plan to establish 14 rural fire stations throughout the county.

And the commissioners are seeking another carrier to replace the Houston-based Republic Insurance Co. which for "no reason" cancelled the county's Law-Enforcement Professional Liability Insurance coverage.

The policy, which is to lapse at 12:01 a.m. on Feb. 23, costs the county almost $15,000 a year and covers up to a maximum of $1 million per incident.

PAINTER ASSURED the commissioners that the reserve force would be at no expense to the county outside of the costs of badges and said that the on-call reserve deputies would assist in operation of the jail, would patrol with regular deputies, would go on trips to pick up prisoners, would perform in parades and in rodoes and would help "keep comp time (overtime) down" in saving the taxpayers' money. Reserve deputies would pay for their own schooling and training, uniforms and firearms, he said. When not placed on duty by the sheriff, the reserves would not be allowed to carry firearms.

But Commissioner Win Brown said in cases a reserve force has been "more detriment than help."

"Let's walk a little bit before we run," he said in suggesting that the commissioners and the sheriff further study the proposal.

"Why would someone want to do this (become a reserve deputy)?" asked Commissioner Durward Wright asked.

"There are people who want to carry a gun," said Midland County Judge Bill Ahders, a retired FBI special agent. "I know of a hell of a lot."

Painter said the reserve deputies, who would include former lawmen, would not have the authority of regular commissioned deputies but would only have authority when he called on their assistance.

"They do not have carte blanche," Painter said.

Brown said the Commissioners' Court would be "more comfortable" if it could further study the proposal and its ramifications, particularly on the county's liability, and could survey other counties to ascertain the effectiveness of reserve deputies.

"I WANT TO GET the facts instead of more hearsay...to sift it out first," Brown said.

Painter said Montgomery County Sheriff Joe Corley of Conroe said he "could not function without the reserves" and that Ector County Sheriff Bob Brookshire "speaks very highly" of his reserves.

But Commissioner C. Wallace "Wally" Craig said the force would need "extremely close monitoring," for "all of a sudden," the reserve force could become a "small vigilante group."

Craig, who said "I appreciate law enforcement more than you know," said Painter's proposal "is worth looking at...I think it is an extremely sensitive type of thing."

"It has both pros and cons," said Wright, who noted that a reserve force evokes the "image of the old sheriff's posse."

"We probably ought to look at it a bit harder before we jump," Wright said.

Painter admitted that "You're going to have trouble" if the reserve deputies are unrestrained. He said potential reserve deputies would be "thoroughly screened."

The commissioners also considered Foster's proposal to form the 14-station "Midland County Firefighters Association.

"IT WON'T COST the county anything," said Foster, who at 21, said he has six years experience on the Gardendale Volunteer Fire Department near Odessa. "All of our firefighters will be trained and state certified. All our firefighters will be on 24-hour call."

Brown noted that such an association would complement the Midland Fire Department but should "be definitely explored."

Foster said the rural fire stations would be financed by subscriptions: 10 cents per day ($36.50 a year) for each household and 30 cents a day ($109.50 a year) for each business.

"We will respond to all calls," he said. "If they are not a subscriber, we'll have to collect a donation when we get there."

Foster said each station would have four firefighting trucks and would be manned by 25 on-call volunteers. He proposed a 10-minute response time.

Foster conferred with Midland Fire Department Chief James Roberts before he met with the commissioners.

"I told him it's an awfully ambitious project," Roberts said. "It's a good idea." However, Roberts suggested that the 10-minute response time for a volunteer fire department was somewhat unrealistic.

CURRENTLY, RURAL Midland County comes under the fire protection of the city of Midland, which has nine fire stations throughout the city.

Assuming the Commissioners' Court approves his plan, Foster said he plans to have four stations, costing $700,000, in operation within six months. They would include locations off Cotton Flat Road, the Rankin Highway and Midway Estates.

In apprising the commissioners of the impending cancellation of the law-enforcement insurance policy, County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin said Republic Insurance Co. only offered "underwriting risk" as a reason for dropping Midland County from its coverage.

"It's a risk they don't want to write, period," Jarnagin said. "Insurance (coverage) is becoming a problem in many areas, but increased premiums have become horrendous."

Wright noted that juries nationwide have awarded million-dollar judgments to plaintiffs in suits against insurance companies.

"The insurance companies have had to protect their backsides," he said.

In mid-1984, another insurance company cancelled the county's law-enforcement policy.

"We had no claims," Wright said, "but they cancelled it anyway, based on the national average." Afterward, the county contracted with an interim carrier until it signed on with Republic.

Jarnagin addressed the Commissioners' Court concerning the coverage of reserve deputies.

"I don't know if we could get the insurance to cover them (reserves) if we wanted to, because we can't get coverage for regular deputies."

Odessa hospital board responds to AG letter

By LAWRENCE BUDD
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The Board of Trustees at Medical Center Hospital met this morning in response to a letter from the Texas Attorney General's office urging them to alter an exclusive contract agreement with a group of Odessa radiologists.

The board met at 9:30 a.m. in executive session. No action was expected but the AG's letter proposes a compromise in the contract "to avoid the possibility of burdonsome and expensive litigation."

The Jan. 22 letter estimates that as a result of the exclusive contract between the Odessa radiology group and MCH "no radiologist other than the members of ORG has been permitted access to the hospitial's facilities and patients for over 30 years.

"We recgonize the right of the hospital to place reasonable limits on access to its facilities for the sake of efficient administration," says the letter from Steven Baron of the AG's antitrust division.

"However, also in the interest of providing high-qualitiy health care, a hospital should be willing to make its facilities available to a variety of practitioners or groups of practitioners," said Baron.

The county hospital's contract with the group, which runs one year in length with a provision for automatioc renewal, leaves other radiologists "at a substantial competitive disadvantage," said Baron.

AG estimates indicate 93 percent of Ector County patients as well as patients from many of the smaller communities turn to MCH for cat scans, according to the letter.

"The reality is that hospital patients and their physicians for all practical purposes are captive and must use ORG for their radiological needs. Such a complete lack of choice cannot promote high-quality low-cost health care," says the letter.

Baron proposes amending the contract so that other radiologists would be given access to MCH radiology equipment if they show:

— The radiologist demonstrates professional competence and qualifications by formal application to the hospital staff.

— The doctor has been requested by a hospital patient or a patient's doctor.

— Radiologists who are not members of ORG should not account for more than 50 percent of the monthly use of the radiology department's facilities.

He also recommends deletion of the automatic renewal provision of the contract and urges the hospital to invite proposals annually from all interested radiologists.

The investigation is being conducted based on the Texas Free Enterprise and Antitrust Act of 1983.

According to the letter, the Attorney General's office has had "extensive discussions" with hospital administrators, legal counsel and members of the group about the contract.

In April 1984 an Odessa radiologist's application for staff privileges was denied by the hospital committee.

This came on the heels of a March 1984 U.S. Supreme Court decision in a similar case ruling that such exclusive contracts are not illegal.

Judge grants new trial for former A&M cadet

Associated Press

BRYAN — Attorneys will pick a new jury to hear the trial of a former Texas A&M University cadet accused of hazing another student.

District Court Judge Carolyn Ruffino on Monday dissolved the six-woman jury chosen hours earlier after an attorney complained some members of the panel discussed the case outside the courtroom.

A gag order is imposed in the case.

"A new trial, with new jurors and everything will be selected on Wednesday," said a court spokeswoman who refused to give her name. She characterized the incident as "an infraction on the gag order."

Gabriel Cuadra, 21, of Houston, is charged with hazing and tampering with evidence in connection with the Aug. 30 death of Bruce Dean Goodrich, 20, of Webster, N.Y.

Authorities said Goodrich died of heat stroke after three upperclassmen got him out of bed and forced him to take part in early-morning "motivational exercises."

An indictment alleges that Cuadra, the senior personnel officer in Goodrich's cadet unit, knew about plans for the motivational exercises, which had been banned by A&M, and later destroyed an exercise roster after officials began investigating Goodrich's death.

Ruffino declared the mistrial after Hank Paine Jr., Cuadra's attorney, complained that jurors had discussed the case with spectators during a five-minute afternoon recess.

Bryan attorney Bill Vance, who represents three other cadets charged in the case, testified he saw an employee of County Attorney Jim Kuboviak talking to jurors in the hallway outside the courtroom.

That employee, Kaye Purifoy, actually works for the juvenile probation department, but is on special assignment to assist Kuboviak, chief prosecutor in the Cuadra cases.

Ms. Purifoy said she heard a reporter talk to the jurors and told the juror not to discuss the case because the trial was in progress.

Brent Manley of The Houston Post, testified he had asked the jurors if they had been told how long the trial was expected to last.

Manley said later the conversation was an accident.

"I got here an hour ago," he said. "I had no idea there was a gag order. I was just trying to find out how long it would last."

Paine then asked for the mistrial.

"In light of all the evidence, I feel the risk is too great to continue," he said.

Glenn Lewis, assistant city editor at the Post, said he believed the judge declared the mistrial because of the jurors' conversation with Ms. Purifoy, which occurred before Manley talked to the jurors.

Lewis said no disciplinary action would be taken against the reporter.

Man to serve terms concurrently

From Staff Reports

Pat Baskin, 142nd State District Court Judge, has ruled that a 22-year-old former Midland delivery man sentenced Friday to 99-years on three counts of aggravated sexual assault will be allowed to serve the sentences concurrently, according to Thomas S. Morgan, administrative assistant of the Midland County District Attorney's Office.

Barry Wion was sentenced by a four-man, eight-woman jury which included a former high school principal and the wife of a former Texas Rangers captain to three 99-year sentences.

The guilt verdict came after 23 minutes of deliberation; sentencing took 20 minutes.

"I'm not surprised," Morgan said this morning, adding "it's unusual" for a judge to stack terms of that length.

Baskin, who ruled on the sentencing Monday afternoon, had the option of either linking the sentences together or allowing the defendant to serve them at the same time.

Wion, who has been jailed since his arrest June 6 in Hobbs, N.M., was charged with the aggravated sexual assault of a Midland couple's three daughters, ages 7, 9 and 11. The assaults occurred last May, according to testimony given during the one-day trial.

Hance to address statewide meeting of Young Democrats

From Staff Reports

Former Congressman Kent Hance will address a statewide meeting of the Texas Young Democrats at 5 p.m. Saturday at the Ramada Inn, 3100 W. Wall St. His topic will be the future of the Democratic Party in Texas.

Hance, who had represented Midland in his 19th Congressional District until the 1980 redistricting plan removed it, served three terms in Congress. Last year he sought the Democratic nomination for the U.S. senate seat vacated by John Tower. He was edged out in the May primary run-off by Lloyd Doggett.

The former attorney and state senator who has returned to Lubbock to practice law said recently he is evaluating his chances for various positions — such as governor, lieutenant governor or attorney general — in the 1986 elections.

Preceding Hance's speech will be the statewide convention of the Young Democrats beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn. This marks the first time any statewide Democratic meeting has been held in Midland.

Following the speech will be a reception for Hance. To be auctioned at the reception will be three official Texas flags and commemorative wine from the San Francisco National Democratic Convention.

Tickets are $10 per person for the reception and a cash bar will be available. It is open to the public.

Information concerning hosts, sponsors and patronships can be obtained by calling Michael Higgins, 683-6133 or 687-1210.

TV remote control great device for turning off commercials

The television remote control has got to be one of the greatest inventions of all time. You scoff at the thought? Then you haven't really thought about it very much, have you?

Consider, for example, the ease in which this modern day device can be used to turn on and off the TV set without getting up, crossing the room and pushing a button.

Consider how easy it is to change channels without getting up, crossing the room and twisting a knob.

Consider how easy it is to adjust the volumn without getting up, crossing the room and turning another knob.

I know this sounds like I've become incredibly lazy since I've gotten a TV with this little device, and I admit it's true, but I haven't mentioned the most important characteristic, the clincher to my argument.

Consider how easy it is to turn from one football game to another during huddles or from one television program to another. Even more important, how easy it is to avoid those commercials that constantly plague the television viewer.

Before I got a TV set with the remote control I'd sit through the 30 and 60 second segments (that seemed to last longer than the show I was watching and probably did) and endure the constant "Buy this, buy that," being chanted by actors trying to supplement their already overwhelming income.

If I was hungry, I'd jump up at the first catchy jingle and run into the kitchen and spend five minutes looking for something I knew wasn't there. That's alway good for at least an hour, trying to figure out what to eat.

Now, the annoying interruptions to my evening's entertainment can be avoided. Every time the show breaks away "for a word from our sponsors" I break away to find out what's playing, as they say on the Tonight Show, "On another network." Sometimes the show I was originally watching becomes completely forgotten because "the other network" is showing something I'd rather be watching.

Because of this little box that can so easily bring network advertising campaigns to their knees, I've made a discovery that I long suspected but was too lazy to get up and check out. It seems all networks use the same format so when you change the channel, odds are a commercial is also playing.

That's were the movie channels come in. They don't show commercials except between movies when they're plugging their upcoming attractions. That's when I go back to network TV and start the commercial dodge all over again.

Not only do I miss what I don't want to watch, I also have the perverted thought in the back of my mind: "All that money being spent to get me to buy something and I don't even watch it."

All things considered, it's not a bad way to spend an evening. Try it sometime.

Opal Keisling

STANTON — Opal Keisling, 81, of Stanton, died Monday in a Midland hospital following a lengthy illness. Graveside services were to be 2 p.m. today at Evergreen Cemetery with the Rev. Lennol Hester, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, officiating. Services will be under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Mrs. Keisling was born Oct. 1, 1903, in Kent County, and had been a Stanton resident for 60 years. She married A.W. Keisling March 3, 1924, in Stanton. He died in 1955. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church, and was past Worthy Matron of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include a son, A.F. Keisling of Lubbock; a stepson, W.M. Keisling of Midland; two daughters, Billie Jean Fulton of Dennison and Tommye Keisling of Midland; a sister, Ethel D. Berryhill of Big Spring; seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Rosa L. Harris

BIG SPRING — Rosa L. Harris, 82, of Big Spring died Monday morning in a Big Spring hospital.

Services were to be at 3:30 p.m. today at Nalley-Pickel and Welch Rosewood Chapel with burial in Mount Olive Memorial Park Cemetery.

She was a homemaker and a member of the Church of Christ.

Manager: Unoccupied apartment burglarized

From Staff Reports

Almost $1,000 worth of items was reported stolen from an unoccupied apartment at 4415 Northcrest, according to Midland police reports.

Gayla Nicholas, manager of the Clusters Apartments, told police a $500 microwave oven, three ceiling fans valued at a total of $300 and five recessed light fixtures with bulbs valued at $175 were missing from Apt. No. 1811.

The burglary took place between Friday and Monday morning, according to reports.

Jessie Fennell, 1911 Nash, told police Monday his 1978 white-over-yellow Buick Skylark was stolen from a residence at 2119 Butternut sometime in November. The vehicle was valued at $2,000, reports said.

More than $500 worth of items were reported taken in a burglary at 3403 Travis. According to occupant Alfredo Gonzales Rocha, someone entered the residence between 8:30 a.m. and 8:30 p.m. Monday through an unlocked bedroom door. Taken were an AM/FM receiver and a cassette tape player. Also, a pink mattress valued at $20 was reported stolen from the carport, according to reports.

In complaints filed with the Midland County Sheriff's Office, Ray DeLeon of Poole Well Service said $655 worth of hand tools were stolen from a rig sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning.

The Poole Well Service rig is located on South County Road 1150, about a mile north of State Highway 158.

Ten Midland firemen responded to a mobile home fire at 3:15 p.m. Monday on West County Road 116, just east of Cotton Flat Road.

The trailer, owned by Kenneth Holt, sustained damage to the insulation under the floor of the mobile home. Reports indicate the insulation caught fire during a grass fire.

An area 300 yards from a burning tractor was evacuated Monday morning when a power line fell across the tractor, igniting it.

According to fire department reports, the International Farmall tractor, owned by Roy Fuller, Route 3 Box 40, was destroyed. The fire, blazing on arrival, was extinguished with 300 gallons of water.

Employees of Cap Rock Electric were called to the scene on West County Road 130, just east of Cotton Flat Road. According to reports, firemen evacuated the area because of a fear of an explosion.

Police hunt car involved in accident

From Staff Reports

Police are looking for a red Camaro or Pontiac suspected in a hit-and-run accident early Monday morning that left a 24-year-old Midlander hospitalized today.

Bill Ketenbrink was listed in stable condition this morning with multiple fractures suffered after he was struck by a car while walking across West Wall Avenue at about 1:30 a.m., police said.

The accident is being investigated as a hit-and-run.

A 38-year-old employee of Atlas Van Lines, 4400 W. Industrial, found early Saturday morning lying in a parking lot of an eastside restaurant remains in critical condition with gunshot wounds to the chest and abdomen, a Midland Memorial Hospital spokeswoman said today.

Jose Villa Leon, 1400 S. Loraine, was found at 4:15 a.m. in the lot of Red's Drive-In, 1807 E. Front, according to police reports.

Police have a suspect and the investigation is continuing.

A 24-year-old Columbus, Ohio, woman was listed in stable condition in the MMH critical care unit this morning with injuries suffered Monday morning in an automobile accident outside of Monahans.

According to the Monahans ambulance service, the accident occurred at about 11 a.m. on U.S. Interstate 20, at mile marker 56. The Department of Public Safety in Monahans investigated the accident but no details were available.

Jill Stamper, who was transported to Midland by ambulance, was the only person injured in the accident, according to the Monahans ambulance service.

Craddick introuduces bill to continue water agency

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, has introduced legislation providing for the continuation of the Department of Water Resources under the "sunset" process and for a change in the name of the Water Development Board.

HB 474 is a 117-page measure dealing with operation of DWR, WDB and Texas Water Commission, and setting out specific duties in various areas.

The measure adds provisions on filing of reports with the governor and Legislature, eligibility requirements for WDB members (and grounds for their removal), adoption of rules for permitting and enforcing functions, and employment practices (including development of a career ladder program).

Among the changes made from existing law is the transfer of regulation of water and sewer rates to DWR from the Public Utility Commission, as was recommended by the Sunset Advisory Commission.

Another section provides for approval by TWC of the purchase by a river authority of mining equipment costing more than $1 million.

Also included is a requirement that the TWC consider the effects of issuance of water rights permits on water quality.

Civil penalties authorized for the agency under the act would be raised to a maximum of $25,000. Current penalties are limited to $1,000 or $10,000, depending on the type of violation.

HJR 35 is a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow the name of the Water Development Board to be changed by statute.

Burglary information sought

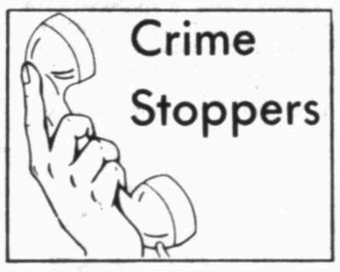
Information about the burglary of an Odessa residence last October is being sought this week by Crime Stoppers.

Entry into the Jimmy Don Robinson residence at 3008 Newell Road was gained by breaking out a window on the northwest side of the house, which faces an alley. According to reports, the burglary took place between 7 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.

Among the items taken were a video cassette recorder, a home computer with keyboard, memory and printer consoles, two television sets, a .22-caliber Magnum pistol, a 30-06 Remington and a 765 Mauser.

Persons with information this week that leads to the arrest and indictment of those responsible could receive $1,000.



Crime Stoppers pays cash rewards for information about felony crimes. To contact Midland Crime Stoppers, cal 694-TIPS; in Odessa, call 333-TIPS.

All callers can remain anonymous.

Woman accused of second robbery

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 21-year-old Odessa woman charged with the Sunday aggravated robbery of a convenience store has now been charged with another robbery which took place a few minutes earlier, according to police.

Elizabeth Ann Elizondo, 4136 E. 52nd St., was arraigned on a $10,000 bond, and the two 16-year-old boys who were arrested with her were being held in the Ector County Youth Center.

The three were arrested Sunday after allegedly robbing a Stop 'n Go at 5100 E. University of $24 at 10:35 p.m. Sunday. After that robbery was publicized Monday, an employee of the Parkway East Motel, 3071 E. Highway 80, reported a similar robbery which had occurred a few minutes earlier on Sunday, when two male juveniles came into the motel office and one pulled a pistol. They escaped with an undisclosed amount of money, but it wasn't very much, police said.

Ms. Elizondo was driving the escape car in both robberies, according to police. The three were arrested after police spotted a car matching a description of the getaway car from the second robbery.

Midlander charged with taking toys

From Staff Reports

A 19-year-old Midland man was arrested Monday morning on charges of stealing $20 worth of toys from a neighbor's home.

Juan Diego Galindo, 1006 S. Terrell, was arraigned Monday on charges of burglary of a habitation by Justice of the Peace Charlie Sprayberry. Bail was set at $5,000.

According to police reports, O.L. Smith, 506 S. Jackson, was driving to a friend's house at 11 a.m. when he saw a man toss a stuffed pillow case out a rear bedroom of a house at 1008 S. Terrell.

Smith told police he parked his pickup across the street and waited after he flagged down a passing motorist, gave him a quarter and asked him to call police.

Officers spotted the suspect walking away from the residence and questioned him. The man was identified by Smith as the one he saw inside the house, which is occupied by Kathy Williams.

A pillow case found under the window contained $20 worth of children's toys, police said.

Part of Norwood Drive scheduled to be closed

From Staff Reports

Norwood Drive was scheduled to be closed to through traffic across the drainage channel between Loop 250 and Lehigh Drive at 8 a.m. today for sewer construction.

The closing is scheduled for three days and will be open Friday, weather permitting, according to a spokesman with the city Traffic Department.

Father sentenced 99 years for raping daughter

HOUSTON (AP) — A 28-year-old father was given a 99-year prison term for the rape of his 6-year-old daughter.

A seven-woman, five-man jury imposed the sentence Monday after defense attorneys contended the man was a responsible father but prosecutors insisted he was someone who should be kept from children.

The man's name has not been disclosed in order to protect the identity of the daughter.

The jury returned the guilty verdict on a charge of aggravated sexual assault after the girl testified she was raped by her father and then was sexually assaulted by six of his friends, four men and two women, in an incident last October.

House resolution honors Midland city attorney

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Midland City Attorney Joe Nuessle, who retires Thursday after having served as city attorney since 1960, was honored Monday in a resolution by the House of Representatives.

Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, sponsored the resolution, which praises Nuessle for his service to the city and wishes him well on retirement.

"This commendable citizen...has been a permanent fixture at City Council meetings, answering questions on legality of proposed council actions many times by quoting the law from memory," the resolution says.

"Mr. Nuessle's wit has often eased tension during lengthy and hotly debated cases," it comments.

"The citizens of Midland will continue to benefit from the wisdom and knowledge of this esteemed gentleman through his service as special counsel to the city."

The resolution notes Nuessle graduated from the University of Texas School of law in 1946 and worked in private practice in Ranger four years, going on to serve as Eastland County District Attorney seven years.

The House, in the resolution, praises Nuessle for "his unselfish service and devotion as a public servant."

An official copy of the resolution is to be prepared for Nuessle.

Youth listed in stable condition after car accident

From Staff Reports

A 17-year-old Midland youth was listed in stable condition after he was hit Monday afternoon by an eastbound car on Wadley Avenue just east of Midkiff Road.

Edmund Keith Sorensen, 3507 Hyde Park, was listed in stable condition with a multiple contusions and abrasions, according to a Midland Memorial Hospital spokeswoman.

The student ran south across Wadley in front of a 1984 Chevrolet Impala driven by Greg Wayne Scoby, 405-A Neely, at about 5 p.m., according to police traffic reports.

Scoby, an engineer with El Paso Natural Gas Co., was not injured, reports said.

Sorensen was transported to MMH by ambulance.

This elegant slacks outfit, shown above, is from the 45-piece collection patterned after styles worn by the stars of television's "Dynasty." Designed by Beverly Hills couturier Nolan Miller, who also fashions the clothing worn by Joan Collins as Alexis and Linda Evans as Krystle, these styles help prove that glamour doesn't have to end at a woman's 40th birthday.

After-40 beauty healthy, glowing

Hearst Feature Service

Tish Hooker and Sunny Griffin, both in their mid-40s, hate to hear they look younger than they are.

"I'm not a dragged-out 32, I'm a put-together 44," says world-class blond model Griffin. "I'm trying to look my age," adds Hooker, the silver-haired Nashville interior designer recently turned 46.

The two high-energy, high-fashion women who glow with health are touring the United States with the message that "40 is fabulous" from Germaine Monteil cosmetics (pronounced "Moan Tay," in case you've ever wondered). The company that emphasizes women 40 and over points to Jane Fonda, Raquel Welch, Linda Evans and Joan Collins as additional proof that life begins at 40 for women today.

GRIFFIN AND HOOKER say there are several reasons women are blooming in their 40s as their mothers never did:

— Women are working out with aerobics, dance and weightlifting equipment, as Griffin does, or doing aerobics and race-walking with weights, as Hooker does.

— So much is known about diet and nutrition today that no one needs to be overweight or unhealthy out of ignorance.

— Smoking is unpopular today.

— Radical cosmetics discoveries about the rejuvenation of skin have emerged from modern treatment of burn victims. The major breakthrough in the chemistry of skin care is manufactured collagen and knowledge of the skin's capacity to absorb it from outside. Natural collagen is a protein substance in skin that ages, causing wrinkles.

"I have very dry skin," Griffin says. "Now, even in Idaho, it doesn't dry out because I can add collagen." Many men, too, are using it, along with hair-care products, she adds.

LOOKING GOOD after 40 begins as an inside job, both women say. "Tish radiated confidence, optimism, self-reliance even in her photos," says Griffin, who helped choose Hooker over 7,000 other women who applied for Monteil's seal of approval as the ideal woman over 40 who was not a professional model.

"I will match stress, frustration, broken dreams and health problems against anyone," Hooker drawls in her Tennessee accent. She has decorated the leading homes of Nashville, chaired many committees and raised her three children enjoyably after a divorce. "I have little sympathy for the woman who weeps over being overweight, for example, and chooses not to do something about it. Life is what you make it. No one's going to do it for you."

As for makeup itself, the more collagen you use, the more the skin can store, Griffin says. It comes in face creams, lip creams, eye creams and concentrated instant action film to be applied with an eyedropper on specific lines.

Another tip, she says, is that the skin can develop product sensitivity from mixing one company's products with another, since ingredients vary. Don't use X's cleanser with Y's toner with Z's moisturizer, she advises.

BOTH GRIFFIN and Hooker use cleanser, toner and moisturizer night and morning as their only skin care. Moisturizer and mascara — that's the bottom line after 40, says Hooker, who uses no foundation or powder. But Griffin spot-applies foundation because her skin is not perfect.

Buy foundation only when you've seen it on your face in natural light, Griffin says. Your hand isn't the same color, and store lights are artificial. Powder, she adds, is the enemy of the fresh and dewy look.

Forget contouring, highlighting and so forth, Griffin advises. It looks terrible on women over 40. Mascara is a must, with eyeliner, both women say. Griffin loves her eyelash curler, too. Hooker doesn't use one.

Because she's sallow, Griffin uses powder blusher applied with a big, fluffy brush. She says the brush that comes with blusher is never big and fluffy enough to avoid painting on a streak of color — just what you don't want.

Hooker's dark eyebrows never need a touch, but Griffin's extraordinarily light ones require mascara and pencil to show at all. Both women use eye makeup on their eyelids and blend it upward to the brow.

LIPS ARE LAST, and all women over 40 need an outline pencil to overcome the little lines that make lipstick bleed. Never let that outline show, though, they say. After the lipstick, both women add gloss.

Taking proper care of skin important for men

Hearst Feature Service

If President Reagan didn't use makeup in his debates with Walter Mondale, he should have. And Reagan's round, rosy cheeks look like Howdy-Doody.

So says Daniel Eastman, whose "Face Fitness: A Man's Guide to Looking His Best," is the first book ever written on that subject. Its very existence proves, if further proof be needed, that men's faces are a new fashion focus. Eastman says the male face deserves the care women's faces always have had.

Eastman believes every well-groomed person has the upper hand in this competitive and visual age where first impressions are often the last impressions.

"Some do judge a book by its cover," he says.

In fact, a recent Vanderbuilt and Virginia Polytechnic sociological study of 3,600 men and women showed the best-looking ones made more money and had better education. Where occupation, age and income were equal, the most attractive people felt attractive about themselves.

EASTMAN IS ONE of a new breed of experts that includes New Yorker Rochelle Weithorn, described by the Wall Street Journal as preparing executives for their annual report pictures. Though his career began with women, he found so many concerned about their men's blemishes, blackheads, acne, wrinkles and dry skin that he began offering care to men.

In a truly equal society, after all, men have as much right to look and feel as good as women. Sun worship has taken its toll on skin never meant to be so exposed to it. Air conditioning, airplane cabins and daily booze are tough on skin tissue.

The gay community, of course, was already aware of skin care, knowing its connection to good appearance and sex appeal, Eastman says.

Women can use his book too, Eastman says. The only difference between men's and women's skin he has noticed is that men's lip muscles are so developed from shaving that they never have what he calls whisper lines, puckered upper-lip lines.

HE ANALYZES SKIN as being of eight types: extremely oily, oily, normal, combination, problematic, sensitive dry and extremely dry.

Don't get lost in the sea of commercial skin-treatment products for different skins, though, he warns.

All skin types need the same few products, with a balanced pH (5.5 to 7, halfway between acid and alkaline). The products are a water-soluble cleanser (not alkaline soap), toner or after-shave (non-alcohol base) and moisturizer for daily use by all types.

Then comes deep-pore cleanser as face scrub to get rid of dead skin and a pure mask to help close and refine pores and retexturize skin. These two products are used in differing frequency, depending on skin type.

You'll find such products as Interface and Jan Stuart among men's skin-treatment lines now available in stores. The latter says it has the only eye cream for men. Clinique for men is now a well-established line, and Erno Laszlo also has men's care products.

More and more men's fragrance lines are developing skin-treatment products and Women's skin-treatment lines will work on men, too. Eastman's book includes kitchen blender recipes for making skin-care products from your larder.

THOUGH HE DOESN'T discuss male cosmetic makeup in his book, Eastman is aware that tinted moisturizer or bronzer is the most popular men's skin treatment product on the market today. Some lines make three different strengths. The trick here, men say, is to find one that doesn't set in the pores and turn dark.

AT WIT'S END

Crisis in homework

By ERMA BOMBECK

Something has got to be done about homework in this country.

Parents just can't handle it anymore. Most of them have tried to keep up with technology, but things are moving too fast. A woman I know who is a secretary in an insurance office said, "I have a limited knowledge of computers, but in another year, I'll be left behind." Her son is 12.

This is a major blow to parenting. It has always been one of our more powerful weapons of respect. You show me a mother who knew how to cojugate verbs and I'll show you a mother who could get her garbage taken out for the next ten years.

In our neighborhood, homework was a status thing among parents.

I would say to my neighbor, "What did you get on your essay on Thoreau?"

"B plus, and you?"

"I got a B, BUT there was also a note in the margin, 'Shows creativity and depth.'"

"What about the math homework?" she asked.

"Not as well, HOWEVER, my science project was displayed at Open House. I used lace doilies for the volcano."

"I saw it," she said, "Too bad the dry ice melted."

Homework was one of the few areas where we could show off in front of our children. We needed all the esteem we could get.

As the years went by, it got tougher and tougher. I sensed I had peaked one day when I volunteered to test 5th-graders on their reading ability. I had no idea how to thread the tape into the machine. (My ironing board had been up for 13 years because I didn't know how to get it down.) I assigned the job to a student as a "learning experience."

I was to click the button when everyone had read a paragraph. When I noticed students engaging in conversation, tying their shoes and asking permission to go to the bathroom, I realized I was the last one to finish. THEY WERE WAITING FOR ME.

Eventually, my children informed me if I didn't stop helping them with their homework, they wouldn't graduate until they were 35. That hurt, but it was a reality.

I feel sorry for today's parents. Their time for homework is limited. Fingers as a counting tool have become obsolete. Technology has catapulted their children into the 21st century.

Imagine the poor father who said to his five-year-old the other day, "Wanta see Daddy blow out the red traffic light and make it turn green?"

The kid said, "If your breathing apparatus is in sync with the timer connected to the lighting system that operates from the central computer downtown, you can do it, but it's no big deal!"

Car keys. It's all we got left for leverage.

DEAR ABBY

Cowboys' hats worn 'with pride'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was taught that a gentleman always removes his hat when he is indoors. (The exception is the kind of hat worn for religious reasons.) However, I see the 10-gallon cowboy hat worn in restaurants and even in private homes here in Mesa, Ariz.

Have the rules of etiquette changed? Or is it still considered ill-mannered for a gentleman to wear his hat indoors? And are wearers of the cowboy hat exempt from that rule? — ROADRUNNER

DEAR ROADRUNNER: The rules haven't changed; gentlemen still remove their hats when they are indoors.

When I so stated some years ago, I heard from all of Texas, most of Arizona, and parts of New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado advising me that the 10-gallon cowboy hat was not just an ordinary hat, it was part of the western man's uniform — to be worn with pride and honor, remaining on his head as long as he had his boots on.

DEAR ABBY: My sister (22) has a 4-month-old baby boy, but she is not married. The baby's father is 24, is supporting the baby, but wants nothing to do with my sister. They have no plans to marry and have nothing to do with each other.

The parents of the young father have no idea they have this grandson. Don't you think they have a right to know? As an aunt to this child, don't you think it's my duty to tell them? — CURIOUS AUNT

DEAR CURIOUS: As an aunt, you have a "right" to be curious, but a duty to mind your own business. It appears that the young parents have worked their problem out to their satisfaction. Do not tell anybody because you think they have a right to know — that right belongs only to the parties concerned.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 19-year-old female soldier doing a 12-month tour in the Republic of South Korea. Every day I see things that would shock your readers. Elderly men and women, with backs bent from years of hard labor, still toil in the fields and rice paddies to feed their families. These people have no pensions or Social Security.

Every night on the street I see girls and women — scantily clad — trying to pick up male soldiers. Some of these women have high school educations — and some even college — but they become "bar girls" because there are few jobs for women in Korea. A large number of these girls get pregnant by the GIs and have beautiful Amerasian children. Nobody wants these kids, so they either live on the streets or end up in orphanages funded by donations.

Last Halloween, my company had a party for these kids, and I wish you could have seen how thrilled they were to be treated kindly and get all they could eat, plus candy and ice cream.

Abby, Americans who are dissatisfied with the United States should spend a little time in Korea. They'll soon realize how lucky they are to be living in the United States where they have Social Security, pensions, unemployment and welfare benefits, and a foster parents plan for children. — PFC BRENDA S., CAMP CASEY, KOREA

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Wednesday, January 30, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: President Franklin Delano Roosevelt was born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: actor Gene Hackman, historian Barbara Tuchman, comedian Dick Martin, Vanessa Redgrave and Tammy Grimes. The way you handle things for those depending on you -- children, parents, employers, pets -- reveals a lot about your basic values. Romance looks highly promising. Travel gives you a new perspective on a business or financial matter. Keep good records; you may be asked to substantiate certain claims. Write recommendations only for people you know well. Others have great faith in your judgment. Curb a tendency to invest in haste; demand more information.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be on the lookout for new financial opportunities. Children could become a source of concern unless you spend more time with them. A former flame tries to re-enter your life.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Mate or friend solves a problem, reducing your responsibilities. Travel and communications play a key role in your business success. Keep your cards close to your chest until ready to make your move.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Married couples find new ways to work out their differences. Doubts disappear in love's warm glow. Use your creative energies judiciously. Avoid tackling too many projects at one time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do not put too much stock in a newcomer's promises. A small gamble pays off handsomely if you bet on yourself. Romance enters a particularly exciting period. Dress elegantly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be careful not to become too self-absorbed or you could miss out on a wonderful opportunity. An easy-going approach works fine with someone who is conservative. Just mind your manners.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Tackle a family problem that arose yesterday and you will soon find a solution. New insights help you make the right decision in business or romance. Do not take loved one for granted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A change in attitude will restore a child's confidence in you. Show more understanding. Those who remain calm in the face of adversity win widespread admiration. Showcase your managerial talents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New financial gains come when you share your expertise or knowledge with a co-worker. Go ahead and step into the spotlight. You find yourself the center of attention at a social gathering.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If a financial problem arises, contact people at a distance. New opportunities abound for those in law, science and communications. Make a decision that is final and binding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be prepared for delays. Mate or partner may not recognize your need for variety or a little more excitement. Speak candidly. A Leo could complicate an on-going romance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not risk your savings on a new venture unless it is a sure thing. Your co-workers' cooperation will boost profits. A brother or sister helps you make the right decision.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An authority figure is in your corner even if you do not yet know it. Try to work at home if you must concentrate on complex financial matters. Dine out this evening.

By and large, you will do well to abide by standard opening leads. Odd leads might confuse declarer, but they are more likely to fool partner. The one time when an eccentric lead might pay huge dividends at little risk is against a grand slam—your chances of blowing a trick with the lead are much less.

This hand is from the recent Fall North American Championships in San Diego. North-South were using key-card Blackwood, so North's response showed the missing ace and the king of trumps. South's leap to seven no trump was based on the expectancy of finding at least a five-card diamond suit in the North hand, which would make 12 tricks a certainty. Either a sixth diamond, a black queen or a finesse would produce the 13th trick.

Against seven no trump West, Frank Kimball, found the inspired lead of the jack of spades. Declarer won the king of spades and played four rounds of diamonds, sluffing a club from hand. So did both defenders. Next came three rounds of hearts, to which everyone followed.

Declarer had twelve tricks. The fulfilling trick could come either from spades or clubs. Had West not led the jack of spades, declarer would now have cashed his high spades and, when the suit split evenly, the long spade would have assured the contract.

As a result of the lead, however, declarer thought he was onto a sure thing. West "had to hold" the ten of spades because he led the jack at trick one. Declarer cashed the ace-king of clubs, in case the queen would drop. When that didn't happen, he cashed the ace of spades and continued with a low spade. When West followed with a low spade, declarer confidently finessed dummy's nine. East won the ten of spades and a heart for a surprising down two!

Lionel Richie captures six American Music Awards

By RICHARD DE ATLEY
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES — The mellow crossover sounds of Lionel Richie outpolled Prince's ragged rock edge at the 12th annual American Music Awards, with a surprised Richie winning six awards and Prince, accompanied by a tattoed bodyguard, taking three.

Kenny Rogers won three trophies on the nationally broadcast show, making him the all-time American Music Awards champion with a total of 16. The awards Monday night honored winners of a nationwide public opinion poll.

Tina Turner, Anne Murray, Cyndi Lauper and the Pointer Sisters picked up two awards apiece during the three-hour ABC telecast at the Shrine Auditorium.

Offstage, Richie and producer Quincy Jones announced that several top recording artists including Richie, Bob Dylan and Bruce Springsteen were joining together Monday night to record a song, with the proceeds donated to relieve starving Ethiopians.

Prince and Richie were nominated in eight of the same categories, and Prince had 10 nominations overall, giving him a shot at breaking the record set last year by Michael Jackson, who won seven regular awards and also was the year's Award of Merit recipient for career achievement.

Richie, who was host of the show, was honored as favorite male vocalist and favorite male video artist in both black and pop-rock categories. His video clip, "Hello," was named favorite pop-rock video single and black video single.

"I cannot believe it. I was concentrating so much on making sure the show was going properly that when they kept calling my name I said 'Wait a minute — this is not in the program, this is not in the script,'" said Richie, who had previously won seven of the awards.

Prince, the 26-year-old sensation from Minneapolis, won for favorite black single with "When Doves Cry," as well as top black album and pop-rock for the soundtrack album to his hit film, "Purple Rain." He electrified the audience into a swaying mass with a live performance of the title song.

"For all of us, life is death without adventure," Prince said after his third trip to the podium. "Adventure only comes to those willing to be daring and take chances."

But the slim, androgynous Prince apparently preferred to take no chances at the awards, with a hulking, tatooed bodyguard accompanying him even to the stage to accept his trophies.

Rogers' awards included one he shared with Dolly Parton for favorite country single for their duet, "Island in the Stream." Rogers' LP, "Eyes That See in the Dark" was voted favorite country album, and he also was named favorite male country vocalist for the fifth time.

Miss Lauper was named favorite female vocalist and video artist in pop-rock, while Miss Turner picked up the same awards in the black artist category. Miss Murray won favorite female country video artist, and her hit, "A Little Good News," was voted favorite country video single.

Little subs for imprisoned Keach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When actor Stacy Keach couldn't narrate the season's last two episodes of "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" because he was in a British prison, the CBS detective show's producers hired a ringer — impressionist Rich Little.

Keach, 43, who plays the hard-boiled detective, was unable to do the voice-over narration for the two otherwise-completed shows before being sentenced in London last month to nine months in prison for smuggling cocaine.

So the producers turned to Little, who is famous for his impressions of hundreds of celebrities, Monroe Friedman, the 46-year-old comedian's publicist, said Monday. Keach's voice was not part of Little's repertoire at the time, Friedman said.

The two episodes were broadcast Jan. 5 and 12, said CBS spokesman Roy Guiver.

"We got a few calls" from viewers who detected that the narrator wasn't Keach, but most didn't recognize the impersonation because "overall, it was pretty good," Guiver said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson, Bruce Springsteen, Cyndi Lauper, Lionel Richie and other top stars are banding together to record a song to raise money for starving Ethiopians, several of the musicians say.

"It's just being a human being, wanting to help," said Tina Turner, who with the rock group Hall and Oates and the others were to record the new song "We Are the World" following the American Music Awards on Monday night.

The tune was written by Jackson and Richie.

The American rockers were following the lead of Culture Club, Duran Duran and other top British performers who formed the supergroup Band Aid last year to record "Feed the World." That hit song raised millions for Ethiopian relief.

The artists said they did not know when the single will be released.

ATLANTA (AP) — Former National Football League quarterback Fran Tarkenton is tackling personal finances as the host of a new cable television series.

"Smart Money," an hour-long program seen twice nightly Monday through Friday, debuted Monday on the Lifeline cable TV channel.

"What we're trying to do is have a show that will interest the person that's got everyday business to do," said Tarkenton, 44. "It won't be just for the big businessman. It's going to be a far-ranging show on how you invest and spend your money and how you buy and sell things."

Tarkenton, who played for the Minnesota Vikings and New York Giants, has been a management consultant to major corporations since the early 1970s, when he was still playing football. He owns the Tarkenton Productivity Group here, a New York computer software company and several other businesses.

Tarkenton's previous TV credits include ABC's "Monday Night Football" and "That's Incredible."

"I have no interest in doing any more sports," he said, adding that he wasn't unhappy to see "That's Incredible" canceled last spring after 4½ years on the air.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — A champion sheepdog accused of mauling to death his owner's 87-year-old mother-in-law was neutered and defanged in order to avoid being destroyed, a veterinarian said.

King Boots, an 8-year-old Old English sheepdog weighing 100 pounds, was taken home following the operations Monday at the Beverly Hills Veterinary Associates clinic in this Detroit suburb, according to Dr. Brad Theodoroff.

"It's been a very rough experience, but we'll cope all right," said owner Charles Schwarb. "I feel pretty depressed, I really believe the dog did not do it. King Boots never attacked anyone at any time, despite what the court says."

City officials had sought a court order for King Boots' destruction, claiming that on Dec. 19 he attacked and killed Gertrude Moore, Kathryn Schwarb's mother. But the Schwarbs contended that the woman died of natural causes and fell on the sleeping dog, who was rated top in the breed by the American Kennel Club.

PARIS (AP) — Greek shipping heiress Christina Onassis-Roussel gave birth to her first child, a daughter, in the American Hospital in Paris early today, a hospital spokesman said.

Hospital spokesman Bruce Redor confirmed Mrs. Roussel had a girl "during the night, and mother and baby are in satisfactory condition."

He gave the confirmation after Professor Ioannis Georgakis, head of the Alexander Onassis Foundation in Athens and an old family friend, said in Athens that he had been told the news by phone from people close to Mrs. Roussel.

Mrs. Roussel married French businessman Thierry Roussel, her fourth husband, last March 17.

Poem suggests Trojan War actually ocurred

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The discovery of a single line from a poem that may have been written more than 500 years before Homer's classic "Iliad" may provide evidence that the Trojan War actually took place, a Harvard University professor says.

Calvert Watkins, a professor of linguistics and the classics, was examining writing on a 3,200-year-old clay tablet from Anatolia — now Turkey — when he came upon a scrap of text that said: "When they came from steep Wilusa..."

"What I found was a line in that language that was clearly a piece of poetry and was clearly the first line of a song or poem that was about the city of Wilusa, the (ancient) name of the city of Troy," Watkins said.

"I call it the Wilusiad," he said.

Watkins said that the single line describes Troy the same way Homer does in his epic tale of the Trojan War, which was touched off when Paris, the son of King Priam of Troy, kidnapped Helen, who was the wife of King Menelaos of the Greek city-state of Sparta.

Homer, writing in Greek, refers to Troy as "steep Ilios," which is similar to "steep Wilusa," a reference to the city in a language known as Luvian, Watkins said.

Luvian is a language related to Hittite, which became the forerunner of several Indo-European languages including Greek, Watkins said. And linguists think the words for Priam and Paris may be derived from Luvian, he said.

Homer's poem, written in the 8th century B.C., is one of the first great works of Western civilization and has left an indelible imprint on poets, playwrights and philosophy. But although the ruins of Troy have been discovered, no one knows if the Trojan War actually occurred.

For the past 20 years, archeologists working in western Turkey have discovered evidence that Greeks occupied the area as early as the 15th century B.C., 200 to 300 years before the dates traditionally given for the war.

Last summer, a German archeological team headed by Manfred Korfmann discovered a group of Greek graves beneath the sand of an ancient beach a few miles west of Troy.

Korfmann said it was "very interesting" that the graves dated to the traditional period of the Trojan War and that they were found near what experts believe was the likely site of Troy's harbor.

Brighten your home this winter with flowers from North Park Florist

It's time to think about Valentine's Day

Springtime brings new life and color. Yards become rich green carpets, beautiful flowers begin to bud, and fruit trees put out new blossoms. Watching the new growth and enjoying all the beautiful colors makes the season really special. Some would say that it's too bad that it can't be springtime all year long.

Well, it may not be springtime outside, but North Park Florist can help you create your own springtime indoors right now! You can have color all around you. Cynthia Talboys, owner of North Park Florist, makes it a point to keep a wide variety of unusual pot blooming flowers, green plants, silk arrangements, and cut flowers in stock.

North Park Florist is full of vividly colored pot blooming plants. There are beautiful primroses, azaleas, and cinereria in deep blue, red, fuchsia, yellow and orange. That's only the beginning.

North Park Florist has healthy green plants of many types with a wide selection of decorative baskets to hold them. Dish gardens allow you to enjoy a variety of green plants in one miniature garden.

Whether you select blooming plants, green plants, or both, the experts at North Park Florist will give you care instructions. They want you to enjoy your plants for a long time.

If you want to brighten your home up with plants but are concerned about the care of live plants, ask Cynthia about her beautiful silk arrangements. She has some beautiful bunches of silk flowers which make very nice arrangements.

Cut flowers also bring beauty to any setting. Flowers from Holland and tropical regions are particularly beautiful in exotic arrangements, so North Park Florist keeps a wide variety of these in stock.

It's time to begin thinking about Valentine's Day. You can wish someone special "Happy Valentine's" with one of the blooming plants or let North Park Florist deliver your sweetheart a cut flower arrangement of roses, carnations, or orchids. You will also want to take a look at the heart shaped containers that Cynthia has in stock.

Special flower containers, jelly bean baby bottles, and candy announcing "It's a boy" or "It's a girl" is also available to send to new mothers. North Park Florist knows how to dress up floral arrangements for such special occassions.

For those occassions when a friend is a little down in the dumps, North Park Florist as the perfect suggestion - an FTD Pick Me Up Bouquet. You can choose a bouquet of silk or cut flowers and the rainbow mug the flowers come in will be enjoyed for a long time.

Flowers from North Park Florist, conveniently located in North Park Plaza on Loop 250, make any occassion better. Brides now is the time to begin planning for your spring or summer wedding, so call 699-7050 today.

North Park Florist is ready to help you say "Happy Valentine's Day" with beautiful cut flowers, blooming plants, and decorative containers. Go see them today in the North Park Plaza at Loop 250 and Billingsley.

At Matlock Furniture outstanding value is 40-year-old family tradition

Traditions are an important part of business. Nearly everyone knows that there is at least one bakery that still stocks fresh bread at the neighborhood store every day - just like the company's founder did years ago. A few old time pharmacists continue the tradition of delivering prescriptions to their customers' door steps. Midlanders enjoy Matlock Furniture's 40 year tradition of offering only the best values in home furnishings.

Travis and Gladys Matlock, owners of Matlock Furniture, know what a good value in furniture is and they know what Midlanders like. Their daughter Ann Matlock Hopkins continues the fine Matlock traditions as vice president. Thus, the family tradition of friendly service and outstanding quality goes on!

The Matlock's and sales manager Donny Rains realize that furniture is an investment which customers hope to enjoy for a long time. Selection is important. It's not always simple to determine what will look good with the decor of your home and be durable for years to come. You need the help and understanding of an expert who knows about furniture construction, fabric durability, and style.

With over 40 years of experience to back them up, the Matlock team just can't be beat when you're looking for someone to help you select furniture that you will be proud to have in your home.

Donny Rains points out one very important Matlock tradition. "We try to carry in stock something for the mobile home dweller, the apartment dweller, and the big home dweller."

Matlock Furniture is also committed to offering Midland their wonderful Sealy bedding line at very reasonable prices. Ann Matlock Hopkins points out that the Sealy line includes seven different feels. Four of which are posturpedic and three are non-posturpedic.

As always they have a wide selection of Broyhill bedroom suites in stock, including traditional suites, contemporary groupings, and juvenille suites like the ever-popular study oak bunk beds. Broyhill is known for offering quality furniture, so the choice will always be yours at Matlock Furniture.

Brass headboards, as well as white wrought iron headboards with brass accents, are found in abundance in the showroom. These beds add a classic touch to any bedroom.

The Matlock tradition of offering quality living room and dining room furniture is evidenced by the brands that they carry. For your living area there are Smith sleepers, upholstery by Benchcraft and Riverside, Action by Lane Recliners, and Riverside accent tables. At Matlock's you can select from Universal, Broyhill, and Stoneville dining room furniture.

On with the tradition of wide variety, says Rains. He announces that they have just received a new shipment of Lawrin lamps and fine Olson mirrors. The Olson mirrors, most of which are bevelled and have solid wood frames, are available in many sizes. Rattan folding screens and bamboo patio furniture groups have also arrived.

There are only a few days left for the traditional January Clearance Sale at Matlock Furniture. If you haven't made shopping at Matlock's a tradition yet, do it now. There's no better time than during the sale and no better place than 805 S. Big Spring.

Leroy Cobb (left) and Jimmy Williams of Associated Mechanics offer quality repair service for domestic and foreign vehicles. All their work is guaranteed so give them a call at 697-2336.

Associated Mechanics: We repair anything between the 2 bumpers

You have a million things to do today. There are fourteen places that you need to be. Then, your car breaks down. Isn't that just the way it happens? The family car seems to pick the busiest days to quit on you. Who knows how long it will have to be in the shop or how many times you will have to take it back to get the job done right?

Well, you don't have to worry about that when you go to Associated Mechanics. Leroy Cobb and Jimmy Williams do all types of mechanical repairs, including engine jobs, transmission and rear end work, as well as front end repair. In fact, they say, "We repair anything between the two bumpers."

Whether you have a domestic or foreign car you can count on Associated Mechanics doing the job right. Usually they will even have it out in one day.

Cobb has been in the business for 30 years and has a General Motors certification for work on GM diesels and turbo-chargers.

Associated Mechanics guarantees all their work for 90 days. On tune ups they will give you a 90 day or 4,000 mile guarantee and on engine overhauls they offer a flat 12 month warranty. Now, do you know anyone else that has that much confidence in their work?

Associated Mechanics will pick up and deliver your car. Moreover, for your convenience, they also have inexpensive rent cars available.

To find out more about what these dependable mechanics can do for you just give them a call at 697-2336 or go by 2250 Warehouse Road. The shop's not hard to find. Go south on Midkiff to the I-20 service road, turn west (next to Dimension Cable Services), then turn right on the first gravel road. 2250 Warhouse Road will be on your right.

Associate Mechanics - you can count on them!

NATION IN BRIEF

Desegregation plan rejected

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the predominantly black Kansas City School District to draw up a new desegregation plan after rejecting a proposed consolidation with 11 predominantly white suburban school districts.

The plan turned down Monday by U.S. District Judge Russell G. Clark would have resulted in a 118,000-student district including the 36,000-student city district. The Kansas City district has a 73.4 minority enrollment, while that of the suburban districts is 6.9 percent.

Clark said the district plan could be included in an appeal in the eight-year-old desegregation lawsuit and could be used to push legislation to merge the 12 districts. He ordered the district to draw up a new proposal that would involve only schools within the district's boundaries.

Group against Cuban residency

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Granting permanent residency to Cubans who fled to this country in the Mariel boatlift would increase community tension and "ethnic animosity" in southern Florida, says a group which is suing to stop the process.

In the suit filed in U.S. District Court on Monday, the Federation for American Immigration Reform asks for a halt in the residency process began last month by the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service.

About 100,000 of the 125,000 refugees in the 1980 "freedom flotilla" are eligible to apply for permanent residency and about 90,000 of them have settled in southern Florida, the INS estimates.

YMCA fire arson, marshal says

READING, Pa. (AP) — A pre-dawn fire at the downtown YMCA that forced out more than 100 residents and killed four people was the result of arson, says the city fire marshal.

Several separate fires were set Monday, said Fire Marshal Ralph B. Pennypacker. The blaze severly damaged the first three floors of the six-story building and injured 12 people, none seriously, he said.

Among the dead was 28-year-old firefighter Donald Jacobs, whose body was found with that of a YMCA resident he had been carrying, said Fire Chief Charles W. Schaeffer. No identities were given for the other dead.

Board orders woman reinstated

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — A woman who lost her state job as a drug counselor because she used peyote in religious ceremonies says the state Personnel Board's order that she be reinstated is "a good beginning."

In its 4-1 decision Monday, the board also directed the state Department of Human Services to give Frances Warner pay retroactive to July 16, when she was suspended.

Mrs. Warner said she did not know when she would return to her job in rural Devil's Lake. She says she is a member of the Native American Church, which uses peyote as a sacrament.

Court rules 'scheme' not rape

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A state appeals court ruled that a man who had sex with a woman after telling her it would cure her of a fatal disease cannot be prosecuted for rape because the woman "understood the nature of the act."

Citing state law, the 1st District Court of Appeal said in its 2-1 decision Monday that Daniel Boro's "scheme" did not constitute rape despite its "heartless cruelty."

Boro still faces attempted grand theft charges for allegedly asking the woman for $4,500 for the "cure" last March.

U.S. attorney, black leader to discuss Goetz

NEW YORK (AP) — A U.S. attorney says he'll meet with a black leader to discuss whether the government could prosecute confessed subway gunman Bernhard Goetz under civil rights laws.

However, U.S. Attorney Ralph Giuliani said Monday that his office might not be able to do anything in the case because those laws "give the federal government a very limited role."

"I don't want to create public expectation one way or the other. There are very significant legal problems," he said. "We will decide whether it is fair, reasonable and appropriate to begin an investigation."

The prosecutor was to meet today with the Rev. Al Sharpton, a black activist, and possibly other black and Hispanic leaders who want Goetz prosecuted for a civil rights violation.

Goetz, a 37-year-old white engineer, has admitted he shot four young black men who he said menaced him on the subway Dec. 22. A grand jury on Friday refused to indict him for attempted murder, but did indict him on illegal gun possession charges.

A civil rights prosecution probably would require a showing that the shootings were racially motivated, that there was a conspiracy to violate someone's rights, or that there was wrongdoing by a public official acting "under color of law," Giuliani said.

He said he has also heard from the Rev. Herbert Daughtry and Assemblyman Angelo DelToro, a candidate for New York City Council president.

The prosecutor said he also would meet separately with Roy Innis, the chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, who has sided with Goetz.

One of the wounded youths, Darryl Cabey, 19, was paralyzed below the waist by a bullet and has lapsed into a coma. The other three have been released from hospitals.

Meanwhile, in a telephone conversation with a friend that was taped the day before he surrendered to authorities on Dec. 31 in New Hampshire Goetz said, "if most people would've been in my shoes, they would've done the same thing."

"What I did...I turned into a monster — and that's the truth," Goetz said on the tape, which was played by WNBC-TV on Monday night.

"The people have to have guns," Goetz said on the tape. "And yet the city tells you, 'Don't you dare have a gun.'...The legal system is a farce... it's a self-serving bureaucracy."

Jerry Nachman, WNBC-TV's director of news, said the tape was obtained from "sources" which he would not reveal. He said he could not say why the friend taped the conversation.

"It was confirmed by both sides of the conversation," Nachman said. "People able to speak for Goetz confirmed that it was his voice and granted permission for this station to air it."

January 25, 27, 29, 1985

NOTICE OF HEARING
"Midland County Hospital District for Midland Memorial Hospital, 2200 West Illinois, Midland, Texas 79701, represented by Fred Davis, P. O. Box 1588, Austin, Texas 78767 (THFC File No.AH84-1228-857) is scheduled to appear at a hearing at 9:00 a.m. on March 20, 1985, in the offices of the Texas Health Facilities Commission, 1600 West 38th Street, Suite 305, Jefferson Building, Austin, Texas, to present evidence in support of the application for a Certificate of Need to acquire by purchase replacement special procedures equipment and a replacement radiographic/fluoroscopic unit. The project involves 710 square feet of minor renovation to accommodate the installation of the proposed equipment. The Commission proposes to render a decision on the application no later than the ninetieth day from the date of publication of this notice.
A request to become a party to the application may be made by filing a sworn affidavit with the Commission using the format prescribed by Commission Rule 515.9 no later than 5:00 p.m., February 18, 1985, and by forwarding a copy by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the appliant and all other parties."
Note: If no request to become a party or interested person is timely filed with the Commission, the Commission may proceed without a hearing on the application for a Certificate of Need at any time after February 18, 1985, upon written request by the applicant.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Project No. 85-1
Sealed proposals, addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, for the furnishing of materials and labor and the construction of 8,440 square yards of caliche base with hot mix asphaltic concrete surface; 960 linear feet of concrete curb and gutter; 150 square yards of concrete valley gutter; 360 linear feet of 12" corrugated galvanized steel pipe slotted drain and 410 linear feet of 12" corrugated galvanized steel pipe inlet lead will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, until 2:30 p.m. on the 19th day of February, 1985, and publicly opened and read aloud at 3:00 p.m. on the same day.
Any bid received after closing time as stated above will be returned unopened.
Bid envelopes shall be plainly marked "Proposal for Project No. 85-1, Ohio Avenue Reconstruction.
Information for bidders, proposal forms, specifications and plans are on file in the office of the City Engineer, Fifth floor of the City Hall, 300 North Loraine, Midland, Texas, and may be secured upon a deposit of FIFTY DOLLARS ($50) for each set as a guaranty of the deposit will be returned to the contractor on submission of bid on the work, with such plans and specifications; or upon return of the plans and specifications immediately after the examination of same and advising the City Engineer that no bid will be submitted; otherwise the deposit for same shall be forfeited.
A bid bond or proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to five percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check, issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Midland, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is expressly understood and agreed that the City of Midland is given the right to retain such as liquidated damages if such bidder withdraws its bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official rejection of such bid, or if successful in securing the award thereof, such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance and payment bonds. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and acceptable to the City of Midland.
The City of Midland, Texas, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals or bids, to waive technicalities, and to make any investigation deemed necessary concerning the bidder's ability to perform the work covered by the plans and specifications, to award this bid by items and to accept what in the judgment of the Mayor and City Council is the most advantageous bid.
