Nixon, Rocky Parley As Convention Looms

Mail Delivery Starts On Hilltop Road

Earl C. Evans, Gail Star Route, makes his first stop at the James C. Harper residence on Hilltop Road in the Balch Addition. House-to-house mail delivery was initiated along this street Saturday morning.

Mail Delivery Begins In New Balch Addition

By SAM BLACKBURN

Thirty residents on Hilltop Road, a street in the Balch Addition just outside of the city east of the Gail road, began receiving house mail delivery Saturday morning.

Earl C. Evans, star route carrier for the Gail route, began a daily custom of looping through the Balch development, leaving mail in the boxes in front of residences. His first stop was at the James C. Harper house.

Until Saturday, the Hilltop residents had to have their mail boxes at the intersection of Hilltop and the Gail road. Since some live a mile or more from this point, this practice was not convenient.

SYSTEM SET UP

Now, by an agreement worked out by Elmer Boatler, postmaster, and Evans, who has been carrying the Gail route for 25 years, the house delivery system has been set up. Residents are required to erect their mail boxes at the curb. Most of the houses had their boxes in place Saturday. Others were busy putting up boxes.

Saturday also saw improved mail delivery started, for some 18 families who live in the Hyman area in the extreme southeast part of the county. Boatler said arrangements have been made with Pat Duncan, who is star route operator on the Sterling City route, to afford these families six mail deliveries weekly. Heretofore, only three deliveries a week have been made.

Evans, who is serving the Balch Addition, expressed pleasure at being able to render this additional service to the patrons.

He is a real veteran fo the mails. He has been a contract star route carrier for 28 years. He actually began his career with the mail service in 1916.

SERVES 180

For 25 years he has been the Gail route mail man and he serves 180 patrons daily on his run. He likewise carries the bulk mail from Big Spring to Gail and Gail mail back to Big Spring.

He figures he has driven many extra thousands of miles in the 25 years he has been on the route, making detour runs to make certain a patron received his mail.

He knows everyone on the route and they frequently ask him to do errands for them.

"Only last week," he said, "a boy needed some gadget for his camera. I found what he wanted in town and took it to him on my next run."

ACTIVE IN SRA

Evans was state president for 10 years of the Texas Branch of the Star Route Association for eight years and was a lobbyist in Washington in 1947. The association was campaigning at that time for the enactment of a bill which enables the star routes to do exactly the kind of thing now being done on Hilltop Road.

He said he was more than happy to cooperate with Boatler in his efforts to supplement mail service on his route.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Big Spring is to become the home of another sizeable industry. The Sid Richardson Carbon Co. is to locate its new smokeless type carbon black plant northeast of the Cosden complex east of town. No value is attached to the plant, but it undoubtedly will cost a few million. Simflarly, there are no payroll projections, but there could be 50-60 employes.

• • •

The Air Force last week announced that it had released $1,150,000 in construction funds for Webb AFB. This will extend the west runway 1,000 feet, cover a new taxiway on that side and will provide for roads. Bids may be asked within a couple of months.

• • •

Three long-time and well-known residents succumbed suddenly to heart attacks last week. The first was Mrs. C. E. Johnson, who died in her beloved First Methodist Church. Dalton Mitchell, a leading life underwriter for years, died en route to a hospital, and Saturday Mrs. Noel T. Lawson, widow of an oilman here, died unexpectedly.

• • •

A Big Spring man, Joe Kenneth Murdock, 35, was killed almost instantly in an accident west of Eldorado. The horse he was riding reared and fell back on him.

Formal application will be made this week for a three mile road extending from the FM 700-Inter-

Extra Special! Lucy's Cartoon!

Good ol' Charlie Brown of "Peaunts" fame wasn't the only one who was flabbergasted when Lucy announced that her local paper had actually printed her political cartoon. Flabbergasted and a little annoyed, because obviously the cartoon—which she said will cure the ills of the world—was too big to be shown within the confines of a comic strip.

Alert, as always, to our readers best interests, The Herald has arranged for a full-sized copy of Lucy's masterpiece. It will be worthy of your serious meditation. We can't print it until Tuesday, so look for it then.

A BIRDS-AND-BEES YARN

Family Gets Hives Over This Honey Of A Problem

HOUSTON (AP) — This is a story of the Birds and the bees.

The Birds are the Ross H. Birds. The bees are a swarm that set up housekeeping in the Bird residence and caused a honey of a problem.

The bees first built a hive above the front door last summer. Everyone was fascinated until the family dog, the postman and Bird were stung. Bird locked the front door, certain the bees would move when cold weather came.

Bird was right. The bees disappeared and all was well until recently when a humming sound came through the ceiling of the family room. Then honey began oozing through the paneled grooves of the wall.

The bees kept humming away and more honey kept oozing.

L. E. Froehner, a beekeeper, volunteered his services.

Froehner Saturday determined the combs were between the family room ceiling joists. He cut a hole in the ceiling and found 15 combs, each about 1½ inches thick and 18 by 21 inches in area. He estimated 15,000 to 20,000 bees were in the hive.

Froehner smoked the bees first, explaining this alarms the bees and prompts them "to feed up on the honey." This makes them full, contented, and easy to handle.

The contented bees and the combs were removed. A special solution was sprayed to keep any straggling bees from setting up another hive.

The Birds were happy — momentarily.

Froehner discovered another hive between joists of the living room. He promised to return next week and take care of the second hive.

Texas Retail Sales Drop

AUSTIN (AP)—The Bureau of Business Research said Saturday retail sales in Texas in June dropped 22½ million dollars from May. This is below the normal seasonal decrease.

Sales of cars, which have lagged behind for the first half of 1960, were up in June.

Total retail volume was down one per cent from January-June 1959. For the May-June comparison, nondurable goods dropped 3 per cent and durables rose 8 per cent. Both indexes were below the year-ago level.

Dollar value at general merchandise stores fell 11 per cent and sales were also below the same month last year and for the January-June period. Automotive stores, including motor vehicle dealers, rose 9 per cent from May although sales for the six-month comparison were down 5 per cent. Auto sales dipped 12 per cent from June 1959.

Castro Supporters To Mark Anniversary At 'Cradle' Site

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's supporters headed for the remote mountains of eastern Cuba Saturday to celebrate in the cradle of the rebellion the anniversary of the movement that brought him to power.

At the same time delegations began arriving in Havana for the opening of a leftist-sponsored Latin America Youth Congress for the "liberation of all Latin America."

Castro is expected to utilize both forums for renewed attacks against the United States.

The opening session of the youth congress will be held in the all but inaccessible Oriente Mountains Tuesday to coincide with the national holiday marking Castro's revolt against the government of Fulgencio Batista on July 26 seven years ago.

It is certain the Prime Minister will lambast President Eisenhower and the U.S. government in his main speech to the nation. And with delegations from the Soviet Union, Red China and other Iron Curtain countries prominent among the early arrivals, the youth congress is expected to turn into demonstrations against Washington and U.S. supporters.

Cuban Roman Catholics who oppose mounting Communist influence in the Castro government changed signals on plans to show their displeasure. After two public demonstrations earlier this week resulted in arrests of Catholics, lay leaders decided to "go slow" in their public demonstrations.

As a result, any observance Tuesday as a "day of mourning" for the victims of Communist oppression will be on the basis of individual action and not as an organized movement as planned earlier by Catholic women.

Because of the remoteness of the region the turnout for the joint celebration is expected to fall far short of last year's gathering of rural and city workers in Havana.

Among the special guests for the joint celebration will be Communist Chinese Deputy Minister of Commerce Lu Shu Chiang, who is here with a trade delegation, Jacobo Arbenz, deposed president of Guatemala's Communist tinged government of 1954, and Jeronimo Remorino, foreign minister in the government of exiled Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron.

GOP Leaders Smooth Over Plank Pains

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican leaders worked Saturday to overcome widespread discontent among party conservatives over the liberal-tinged policy compromise reached by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Despite hot protests from such party figures as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, it appeared the 14-point set of platform principles agreed upon by Nixon and Rockefeller are ticketed for approval by the GOP National Convention this week.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, GOP National Committee chairman, predicted after a conference with Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, that "in general the platform will approach the points specified."

Morton said he'd never considered Nixon and Rockefeller too far apart anyway.

AWAY FROM IKE

The Nixon-Rockefeller agreement appeared sure to steer the GOP away from many of the policies President Eisenhower has been following and closer to doctrines contained in the platform of the rival Democrats.

But there was much grumbling among conservatives over the far-ranging terms of the Nixon-Rockefeller policy pact reached at a secret eight-hour meeting in the governor's New York apartment.

Goldwater, a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, said he would fight against letting the platform be dictated by Rockefeller.

"I am going to insist that the Platform Committee be allowed to use its prerogatives in selecting the type of platform the Republican party will stand on and not take dictation from the governor of New York," he added.

The Platform Committee went into an all-day huddle to revise tentative drafts of platform planks already worked out to incorporate Nixon-Rockefeller views on national defense, economics, foreign policy and civil rights.

MEET LATER

After a long session the full Platform Committee broke up and decided to reconvene later after subcommittees had a chance to thrash out problems. This indicated party leaders were experiencing difficulty in selling some of the stipulated platform planks.

Most opposition came from members representing Dixie.

They balked at the civil rights portion of the Nixon-Rockefeller declaration. This pledged aggressive action to eliminate racial discrimination "in all areas of national life — voting and housing, schools and jobs." It endorsed sit-in demonstrations and urged businessmen to serve all customers regardless of race.

Nixon went along with Rockefeller's pet plan for regional confederations of nations to solidify free world defenses against communism. The vice president, too, endorsed an expanded national defense plan with "no price ceiling on America's security."

The agreement embodied earlier Rockefeller plans for reorganizing defense and foreign policy planning. It contained a reminder that Nixon once called for a five per cent annual growth rate, a goal more lately urged by Rockefeller.

TEXAS LEGISLATIVE STUDY

Special Tax Panel Lays Out 4 Levies For Talks

AUSTIN (AP)—A special subcommittee studying new taxes for Texas laid out four multi-million dollar levies for discussion Saturday.

Each of the five members present had different ideas on how the Legislature in January can handle the mounting deficit and finance state operations in the future.

"I want you fellows to look at a business activities tax," said Dr. George Hester of Southwestern University at Georgetown, and chairman of the subcommittee on sources of additional revenue, a study group of the governor's 36-man State Finance Advisory Commission.

"It's a working compromise between the gross receipts tax, a net income tax and a payroll tax," Hester said.

"I have in mind a transfer tax," said John McKee of Dallas. "That's a new name for an old tax. If we are going to solve this problem we have got to get out of our minds the prejudice against a certain tax—the sales tax."

"I'm for a broad based tax," said Hugo Loewenstern of Amarillo, "but the only one I've seen that I would go for is a small addition to the utilities bill tax. A utilities customers tax is a good name." He also wants to put a limit on the permanent school and university funds and use part of the income for current expenditures.

"I favor a payroll tax where one-half of it is paid by the employer and one-half by the employee," said W.W. Heath of Austin. "That would get everyone who works or has people working for them."

"I'm seriously interested in a payroll type tax," said French Robertson of Abilene, "but I also want to make a serious study of cutting the present franchise and oil taxes."

The subcommittee agreed to meet Aug. 27 and begin writing the specific recommendations it will make by Sept. 8 to the parent committee.

Members present readily agreed they should recommend a "package deal" that would cover the state's growth perhaps for the next decade.

"We must have taxes with growth possibilities," said Robertson. "We must have taxes that can expand as the population expands. At the same time we must submit something that is palatable to the Legislature."

"We are not going to solve all the tax problems for the next 10 years but we can at least set a pattern," said McKee.

"We should make a detailed study of the taxes of all states, not just of adjoining states," said Heath. "We must make a specific recommendation, not just shoot from the hip as it has been done in the past."

"I am not one of those who think and assume our great prosperity and the taxing capacity of our people is going to continue throughout the next decade," said Heath. "In fact I think we must consider some kind of tax package that will meet different demands."

Hester said the group also would consider several specific tax and fund raising plans submitted by persons outside the subcommittee. He said these included repeal of the Briscoe-Colson Act which sets aside 15 million dollars each year for new farm roads, a tax on soft drinks, a ton-mile truck tax, additional taxes on liquor and beer and a tax on sports events.

A&M, Rice Get Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Science Foundation made grants totaling $2,153,710 Saturday to help 54 colleges, 2 in Texas, improve their graduate research laboratories.

The grants were awarded on a matching basis which requires the recipient to provide at least half of the funds needed for improvement.

Texas grants, for construction, modernization or conversion of laboratory facilities, were Texas A&M, $16,300 and Rice University, Houston, $32,100.

Borger Cleanup Champion Dies

AMARILLO (AP) — Clem Calhoun, former assistant attorney general of Texas who was sent to clean up Borger during the 1929 oil boom, died today after an extended illness. He was 64.

For 30 years he has been a criminal lawyer in Amarillo. He was a native of Sherman.

Calhoun was appointed in 1929 by former Gov. Dan Moody, and sent to Borger to help restore order. The Panhandle city had been placed under martial law following the slaying of Dist. Atty. Johnny Holmes.

The next year he ran for attorney general but was defeated. Calhoun was district attorney in El Paso and Abilene before going to Borger.

A son and two sisters survive.

Carbon Black Plant Planned For Big Spring

The Sid Richardson Carbon Company announced Saturday that it will build a carbon black plant in Big Spring with an estimated annual output of 50,000,000 pounds.

United Carbon Company, Inc. of Houston and Sid Richardson Carbon Company of Fort Worth completed licensing agreements at the end of the week for use of United Carbon processes by Richardson for the manufacture of oil furnace carbon blacks.

A site for the facility has been acquired from Cosden Petroleum Corporation and is a 40-acre tract out of the northeast corner of its holdings east of Big Spring.

According to the joint announcement by United President R. W. French and Frank Andrews, vice president and general manager of Richardson Carbon, the agreements followed nearly a year of thorough engineering investigation and comparison by Richardson of the latest manufacturing techniques and processes of leading carbon black companies. Andrews said that United's long record for high quality and uniformity of product, as well as the high degree of instrumentation of its manufacturing processes which makes for consistent results, were important considerations for Richardson in making the agreement.

NO OFFICIAL FIGURES

No figures were announced officially as to cost but a plant capable of producing that volume of black will involve a major investment. The number of workers required has not yet been fixed, but it could range upwards from approximately 50, it was learned.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation, which made the land available at a nominal fee after Richardson had encountered difficulty in acquiring a nearby site at a reasonable charge, has entered into a long-term contract to furnish Richardson Carbon with its basic raw material, furnace oil.

The licensing agreements cover current and pending United Carbon patents and engineering design for the production, processing, and packaging of the carbon blacks by Richardson. Also included are recently developed processes and equipment arising from United Carbon's expanded research and development program.

YEAR FOR BUILDING

Construction of the Richardson plant, which will make HAF and ISAF type blacks, is expected to start late this summer and will be completed by mid-1961.

Richardson Carbon operates the world's largest channel black plant at Odessa and has been a major manufacturer of channel blacks since the company's formation in 1948. Richardson plans to continue the production of channel blacks for use in rubber and the production of other grades of channel blacks for use in paint, ink and plastics.

The projected plant represents Richardson's entry into the furnace black field. In this type furnace oils are burned (in combination with some gas) to yield black that is collected mechanically through separators and filters. It is particularly desired in tire manufacture with synthetic rubber. The black imparts a toughness that gives the rubber its exceptional wearing qualities. (In the channel black process gas flames deposit the black on channel irons suspended in metal huts. Most of the black is recovered from the irons but some escapes as smoke.)

ELEMENTS

United Carbon has a long experience in the black field and operated eight furnace and channel black plants in Texas, Louisiana, Kansas and New Mexico. The 35-year-old firm manufactures carbon black in Australia and Great Britain, and currently is building a furnace black plant in France.

A spur will be run off the Texas & Pacific main line to serve the docks and bulk storage of the new plant here. Howard County officials have indicated interest in extending a lateral road a short distance from the termination of the present road to reach the facility.

Elements of the plant will include reactors (furnaces), cyclone separators, bag filters, pelletizing and drying units, bulk storage (such as silos), warehousing for bag storage, loading docks, offices, labs, tank storage, etc.

Governor Puts Stamp On Platform

CHICAGO (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller hammered his stamp on a party platform Saturday and then swooped down on the scene of a Republican National Convention ablaze at last with drama—a secret midnight rendezvous with sure-shot presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

For eight hours through the night, the New York governor and the vice president conferred in the seclusion of Rockefeller's New York City apartment. It was Nixon's idea, and Nixon went to Rockefeller.

Party unity and positions the November vote of mighty New York State were some of the stakes in this meeting of Republican giants.

Out of their session came a political compact to tilt the party platform toward the liberal side. Nixon and Rockefeller agreed on blending together basic aims and principles both can support when the GOP gets around to the voting stage at the convention which opens Monday.

KEY ISSUES

Their understanding reached such key issues as national defense, foreign policy and civil rights.

The repercussions were quick, loud and broad:

—From the far right wing of the GOP, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona proclaimed bitterly that Nixon had surrendered to Rockefeller. He threatened a fight against some of the planks of the Nixon-Rockefeller program if they are hauled onto the convention floor. He left open a possibility of allowing his own name to be placed in nomination for the presidency as a gesture of protest.

Various other conservatives and some of the convention delegates from Dixie cried out angrily against the platform agreement. Delegates from a dozen Southern states held a protest meeting. The platform subcommittee handling the civil rights plank balked at immediate acceptance of the Nixon-Rockefeller views.

ROLE ABANDONED

—Rockefeller all but abandoned his wishful role of a man who would accept a draft for the party presidential nomination. Before winging out of New York for Chicago, the governor conceded that: "In terms of political realities, Nixon will be the candidate. The candidate doesn't matter. I'll support the nominee."

—With no apparent encouragement from either principal, sev-

LAMESA MAN NOTES ANNIVERSARY
Polio patient, in an iron lung, for 8 years

Harvick Has Been In Lung 8 Years

LAMESA—A. E. (Elbert) Harvick Saturday had an anniversary he'd just as soon not talk about, much less celebrate. It marked his eighth year of life as an iron-lung polio patient.

Elbert celebrated his 39th birthday Monday with the traditional big dinner, cake and trimmings. His family consists of an attractive wife, Billie, and a petite 13-year-old daughter, Tonja, who is bursting with pride at being a teen-ager.

The stalwart polio patient is a pleasant, soft-spoken man who is so well adjusted to his life in the iron lung that his wife says, "We think we're all a normal family and everyone else isn't."

Harvick's affliction came when he was in Big Spring. "I first thought I had the flu," he said. "I bought a sandwich and drove up on Scenic Mountain to eat it and relax. Finally, I drove home (in Lamesa) and began to feel better but went to the doctor the next morning."

DIAGNOSED

In those times, polio was more or less yet unknown and it wasn't immediately diagnosed as such — or at least the Harvicks didn't know it.

Time passed and the paralytic effects of the disease worsened and the time finally came when Elbert could be told that he must spend the rest of his life — predicted by experts to be a couple of years —in an iron lung, chest respirator or similar apparatus.

As it happened, Elbert has spent just a couple of days short of eight years in that lung, defying his ailment and spending much of his time watching television, talking to friends and neighbors and helping surpervise the housework.

Elbert is on a tight schedule and probably is one of the busiest men in town. This includes bathing, exercising, eating and taking his daily rest on the rocking bed.

TWO CHECKUPS

Twice he has been to Houston for checkups. Once, the USAF Military Air Transport Service flew him and once he went by train. This was a departure from the original order upon leaving the hospital after his attack, for the doctors didn't believe he would ever survive a trip for the examination.

Ten minutes a day he is allowed to leave the lung to the rocking bed, which applies a similar principle in respiration and permits him to breathe and still have a little deviation from the long hours in the lung.

Paralyzed from the neck down, he has learned to "frog breathe" for five minutes a day — a principle recommended in case of dire emergencies. He commented, "If I could move one arm I would be earning a living"—and he would, too.

When the electrical service is disrupted, a gasoline powered generator is turned on at the rear of the house. This continues the operation of the lung and precludes the use of the frog breathing method.

DIFFICULTY

About the only serious difficulty that arises, is when the electrical service is off, the generator won't work and Billie is alone in the house with Elbert on the rocking bed. He isn't allowed on the bed for more than 10 minutes a day and there is no emergency power for that apparatus.

Normally, however, a full-time nurse is on duty. The present Harvick nurse is Joan Truitt, who has been with the family about five months.

Tonja and her friends often help pass the time of day and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Harvick, 809 N. 13th, spend much time with the family.

In the event a real emergency arises, a siren posted at the house provides as SOS message for the neighbors in addition to a ship-to-shore foghorn.

Boasting the "best" neighbors in the world, Billie Harvick commented that they were glad they were living in Lamesa when their problems arrived. She said, "We never had to call very loud for help."

WATCHES TV

He gets a lot of enjoyment out of TV, (he wanted Sen. Johnson on top of the ticket) but baseball games confuse him a little. Looking into the mirror on the lung and viewing the TV backwards, he says the baserunners go to third base first instead of first base. His mirrors are strategically placed throughout the house so he can view almost all of it. He cannot see himself.

His weight has scaled down from his original 170 pounds to 75 during his illness and this concerns him more than any other thing. His entire body is extremely sensitive, the exact opposite of many other polio patients. His only movement is in his left toes.

Prior to his ailment, Elbert showed promise as an artist. Beside the lung hangs a western scene depicting cowboys corralling some wild stallions. It is deftly painted with a professional touch, although he had little training and is one of many pastels and charcoal scenes he has done.

He has been ill lately, and when he returns to better health he plans to resume his art career — with brush in teeth.

NEW RIG

He is planning to devise some rig for his iron lung and rocking bed but it will take a little more planning since he is a "perfectionist," as Billie called him and he quietly denied.

His wife summed up the sentiment of the family in one brief statement: "We've done a lot of laughing and a lot of crying and I guess the laughing outweighed the crying or we wouldn't have been able to go on."

Watermelons Make Good Firefighters

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—A veteran firefighter, forest ranger Richard Heninger went into action when he saw an overturned truck-trailer catch fire.

As the fire spread to weeds, Heninger hailed a passing truck laden with watermelons.

By squashing melons on the flames, Heninger soon put out the fire. No one was hurt and damage was confined to the truck, a few weeds and lots of melons.

In his official report, Heninger added, "and to top if off, I'm sure bloated."

Questions, Answers On The Cuban Situation

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

A lush, pretty little island of six million population has become one of the most grievous headaches for U. S. policy makers.

U. S. citizens long had regarded their Cuban neighbors as cordial friends. What happened to that relationship? Where is Cuba headed?

Here, briefly, are some of the outstanding questions which seem to be on American minds today with answers based on the best information available.

Q. What stakes does the United States have in Cuba?

A. Far more is at stake than private American investments. The developing situation threatens the U.S. position in the hemisphere, future cooperation with Latin America, prospects for orderly transition to more flourishing economies—in the long run perhaps even the prestige and world leadership-position of the United States.

LITTLE NATION

Q. Cuba is just a little nation, how can it threaten all that?

A. Latin America has a strong undercurrent of anti-Yankeeism. Prime Minister Fidel Castro has abused and humiliated the Yankee colossus of the north. The support he has generated among Latin-American masses, exploited by extreme left, makes Latin Governments wary of taking any public position against him, even though he has opened the door to Soviet penetration of the Western Hemisphere.

Q. Why should there be such a significant amount of anti-Yankeeism in Latin America for Castro to exploit?

A. It has been building up for generations. Latin America was poor and backward while the United States was rich and powerful. The United States often interfered in the past in Latin-American governments' affairs. U. S. business interests dominated the Latin-American economic scene. For expediency's sake, U.S. governments often backed whatever regimes were able to grab power, sometimes identifying the United States with dictatorships.

AGENTS BUSY

Q. Is Castro taking advantage of all these things?

A. His agents are busy all over Latin America. He has set up an extensive hemisphere press service to spread propaganda. In their contacts with other Latin-American countries, Castro and his subordinates seize every opportunity to fan anti-Yankee, pro-Castro sentiment.

Q. The big U.S. naval base on the island at Guantanamo Bay is a point of possible shooting conflict. How much does the United States need the base?

A. In terms of nuclear warfare, the base probably has little long-range strategic value for wartime. But military officials say it's important as logistic support for the Atlantic Fleet, as a year-round training base, and as protection for the Panama Canal.

Q. Does all this mean that world war might break out because of Cuba and its Western Hemisphere activity?

A. That would presuppose a long-odds Moscow gamble. The Soviets at this time do not seem to intend any attempt to make Cuba an outright satellite.

SOVIET BASE

Q. What do the Soviets want in Cuba, then?

A. They appear to want a base of operations for keeping Latin America in turmoil and for harassing the United States.

Q. Could the Communist party take over Cuba now if it wanted to?

A. The Communist party is a strong, disciplined unit in a politically chaotic country. But it is also subject to direction from abroad and unquestionably would take over physically only on orders.

Q. Does Castro openly help the Communists?

A. He has laid down the doctrine that anti-communism is counter revolutionary. Important men in his regime go down the line for Red doctrines.

Q. Is Castro's economy in dangerous condition?

A. Unemployment has been growing. The country is running out of foreign exchange. Prices are rising.

Q. How much popular support has Castro in Cuba?

A. It has been diminishing but still seems strong among the masses.

Q. Is the Roman Catholic Church a real threat, now that he attacks its priests?

A. Until recently the church has taken no strong stand. The church has yet to test its strength, but in a real showdown Castro's support likely would suffer additional damage.

Q. Is there opposition inside Cuba?

A. What there is seems disorganized and largely silent.

Bullet Ends Burglar's Life

FORT WORTH (AP)— An off-duty detective killed a burglar early Friday as the burglar's common-law wife fled in a car with their 8-month-old son.

The woman returned to the scene, picked up her fatally wounded husband and took him to Northwest Hospital. He was dead on arrival.

The victim, Clifford Davis, 21, was shot by detective A. A. Lewis. The detective said he heard noises in the street outside his home, grabbed a pistol and went outside. He said he fired four times at Davis when he ran down the street.

A companion of Davis jumped into the waiting car, driven by a woman who said she was Davis' common-law wife. She is Barbara Hanson, 18.

The woman's baby, Bunny, and her sister, 17, were also in the car.

Mrs. Hanson said she drove about 1½ blocks, then went back for her husband when she saw that he was hurt.

She said she told him, "Don't die."

"I won't die. I can't. I love you too much," she said he replied.

Civil Docket Opens Monday

Judge Ralph W. Caton, 118th District court, has set a civil jury docket to open on Monday morning. A jury panel has been notified to report.

Judge Caton said he had some 16 civil matters slated on the docket. However, a number of these have already been settled or continued by agreement and he expects to wind up with perhaps five cases announced ready for trial.

Judge Caton has instituted a practice of having jury panels report on the opening day of a jury week at 1 p.m. He utilizes the morning to sounding the docket, disposing of any motions in cases before the court. Then, he is ready, when the panel arrives, to go immediately into trial of cases which are to be handled.

Part Of The Big Show

What would a national convention be without its evident counterpart—pretty girls with attractive hats and labeled skirts and campaign buttons for drawing attention to leading participants. Here, as the Republican National Convention gets ready to open in Chicago, two girls bring attention to headquarters of New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller—who isn't an avowed candidate, Jean Sanders, left, and Ginger Lorr are working with the Draft Rockefeller organization.

Third Party No Peril Yet

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A threatened revolt by Southern Democrats will have little effect on the presidential election unless the race is closer than any in the past 44 years.

An Associated Press survey indicated today that as of now, a third party, or independent, ticket could count on a possible 44 electoral votes in 5 states.

Not since 1916 has the losing candidate in a presidential election come close enough to victory that 44 electoral votes would have made the difference. Woodrow Wilson went into office that year with a 23-vote margin.

A third party movement might muster more strength by the time the electoral college meets in December. There is no sign of it at the moment despite widespread resentiment in the South against the Democrats' strong civil rights stand.

ANGRY DEMAND

Adoption of the party platform at Los Angeles brought an angry demand from Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi for another Dixie rebellion like the one in 1948 which kept 39 electoral votes away from Harry Truman, the Democrat.

In that fateful uprising, the 39 electors, all Democrats, cast votes for the states rights ticket headed by South Carolina's Strom Thurmond.

Barnett's call for another bolt against the national party got a cool reception from other Southern political leaders. So he offered to compromise for slates of unpledged electors who would owe allegiance to no party.

The AP survey found no likelihood of third party or independent electors in Dixie except in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, with a total of 49 electoral votes.

ONLY 5 PLEDGED

Five of Alabama's Democratic elector nominees have promised to support the John Kennedy-Lyndon Johnson ticket, leaving 44 perhaps unpledged.

The other six in Alabama have not said they will withhold their support from the party nominees. But neither have they promised to vote for them.

Georgia's Democratic electors are unpledged under an 8-year-old state law. Three of Georgia's congressmen have endorsed the Kennedy - Johnson ticket and lambasted the elector law.

No definite move is underway in Louisiana to put up an independent elector slate, but it is possible. The answer will come when the democratic state central committee meets around Sept. 1.

In Mississippi, the State Democratic Executive Committee meets Wednesday. It could reconvene the state convention and put up a ticket of independent electors to run against the Democratic and Republican slates in November.

Here's a rundown in the situation in other southern states this year:

Arkansas—Independent electors permitted under law on petition of 5 per cent of qualified votes, but no indication of that this year. No indication from Democratic electors of party revolt.

Florida — Law prohibits independent electors. Democratic nominees bound by oath to support party ticket.

Georgia—Democratic state committee meets Sept. 14 to name electors which by law are unpledged.

Kentucky — Law permits independent elector ticket, but will be none this year because individuals cannot run without party label. No Democratic elector nominees have indicated they will bolt party.

OTHER STATES

North Carolina—No independent electors allowed by law. Democratic electors free to vote for anyone within party, but no nominees have indicated they will withhold votes from national ticket.

Oklahoma—Independent electors cannot get on ballot. Democratic electors have given no indication they may bolt ticket.

South Carolina—Strong possibility of independent ticket, which is allowed by law.

Tennessee—Law prohibits independents. Democratic nominees will support Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Virginia—No independent electors can be chosen. No Democratic nominees indicating revolt.

Recovered Loot

Moroccan infantrymen, part of the United Nations force in the Congo, load recovered loot aboard a trfick in Matadi. The Moroccans took over control of the strategic port city but looting of stores and villas by crowds of Congolese continued in the European section, abandoned by its Belgian civilian residents. Texas Dry Areas Almost Hit Vanishing Point With Rains

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Dry areas in Texas, from the standpoint of agriculture, almost reached the vanishing point this week, district agents reported to Director John E. Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

They said rains and showers generally left farm and rangelands in very good condition for so late in the summer.

Only spotted areas continue to need moisture, the director said.

Prospects for a late hay crop continued to improve. Dryland crops and ranges in most sections of the state were greening up. All sections of Texas have been favored with some moisture. Farmers in many areas would like to see a return of hot dry weather, especially those on the South Plains.

Cotton insects are on the increase but as weather conditions permit, farmers are carrying out control measures. Livestock conditions ranged from fair to good but short supplies of stock water were still a problem in some areas.

GENERAL RAINS

Good rains have been fairly general over the north counties of the far South Texas district. Late crops and pastures will benefit as did soil preparation for fall vegetables in the Valley and Winter Garden counties. Livestock generally is in fair condition.

In South Central Texas a general rain was needed by most crops, pastures and for stock water. The broomcorn harvest is well along; watermelon harvest is about complete; cotton insects are still a problem and livestock is in fair to good condition.

Early cotton is opening and the first bale is expected in Jackson County this week. Rice is looking good and is growing nicely. Rain in Waller County caused heavy hay losses and the watermelon harvest has reached the peak.

Good showers in parts of deep East Texas benefited pastures, timber and late feed crops. The peach harvest has reached the peak as watermelon and pea harvests entered the home stretch. Cotton and peanuts are making good growth.

CENTRAL TEXAS

Last weekend rains and others at midweek improved the moisture situation in Central Texas. Corn and grain sorghums are maturing and cotton making good progress. Melons and peaches are now moving to market in increasing volume. Most pasture grasses were mature and dry. The rains will help the late hay crop.

Last week's rains and showers helped the surface moisture in Central West Texas but a good general soaking rain is needed. Stock water supplies are on the short side; light stock are in fair to good condition and field crops should benefit from the rains.

Showers to general rains have left far West Texas with adequate to short moisture supplies. All ranges have improved and livestock with them. Dryland crops are also responding to the moisture. Cotton in the district is fruiting well. Irrigated grain sorghum is heading and the onion harvest has been completed. The cantaloupe harvest has started.

TRUCK CROPS

Scattered showers in Northeast Texas greatly benefited truck crops and pastures. Watermelons are moving to market in increasing volume and vegetable supplies are plentiful. Cotton is making good progress. Cattle are in good condition and late hay yields are about two-thirds of last year's crop.

Some rain has fallen over all of North Central Texas with 4 to 5 inches in certain areas. All field work has been stopped but crops will benefit from the moisture. Range, pasture and livestock conditions are good.

Moisture in the Rolling Plains is adequate to surplus. Cotton and grain sorghums look good and the first sorghum may be harvested within the next two weeks. A few hundred acres of cotton were destroyed by hail in Cottle County.

Field work is being done between showers and rains on the South Plains where farmers would like to see a lot of hot, dry weather. Hail and flooding destroyed several hundred acres of crops. Moisture conditions are very good. Plenty of lake water is available for August irrigation.

Anderson On GOP Ticket Seen As Offset To Lyndon

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Relation Writer

Texas voters, only now recovering from Sen. Lyndon Johnson's surprise acceptance of the Democratic vice presidential nomination, could face another shakeup that would leave them wavering like a field of wheat in the wind.

It is well within reason that two Texans will be running for vice president this fall.

The second possibility is Robert B. Anderson, talked in some quarters as a Republican who could offset Johnson in appealing for votes in the South and particularly in Texas.

True, Anderson, Secretary of the Treasury, moved to Connecticut and took on some of the markings of an Easterner.

But to every cowboy west of Fort Worth and every banker east of Dallas, Anderson is one of their own.

The treasury secretary's name has received only secondary mention in estimates of whom the Republicans will nominate for vice president.

But some authorities feel he is no more a dark horse for second place on the GOP ticket than was Johnson two days before the Democratic convention.

Some of the same arguments that placed Johnson on the ticket apply to Anderson. At 50, he is slightly older than Richard Nixon, a shoo-in for the top spot on the ticket, and thus would add maturity. He is a conservative.

And his former Texas ties might be used as an argument to overcome Southern opposition to the proposed GOP platform, which took a turn toward liberalism in the early morning hours Saturday during a conference between Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

It was much the same argument that caused top Texas Democratic leaders to applaud the decision of Johnson to accept second spot on the ticket after he failed to be nominated for president.

The Texas delegation to the Chicago GOP convention beginning Monday is committed to Nixon for president and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona for vice president on the first ballot.

But if Nixon taps Anderson on the shoulder for vice president the Texas delegation could easily switch to Anderson.

On the conservative issue, Anderson generally fits somewhere between Nixon and Goldwater.

Anderson was manager of the Waggoner Estate in Texas before he was persuaded to enter federal service. In that Texas job, his interests were cattle, oil and finance on a large scale.

He became a Democrat-for-Eisenhower and was named Navy secretary, then assistant secretary of defense but quit in 1955 to become president of Ventures, Ltd., a Canadian mine holding company.

By July 1957 he was back as secretary of the treasury, this time as a registered Republican.

Anderson has President Eisenhower's support and confidence, although the president apparently is taking no position on the vice presidential nomination. It is known that Eisenhower considers him of presidential caliber.

Anderson has shrugged off mention of vice presidential nomination.

So did Lyndon Johnson.

East Reich Jet Hits Schoolyard

BERLIN (AP)—A Soviet-built jet fighter of the East German Air Force crashed into the courtyard of a kindergarten at Cottbus last Tuesday, Information Bureau West, a private West Berlin intelligence organization, said Saturday. Most of the children were eating lunch at the time and one child and the pilot were killed, the bureau said.

Building To Go

PARIS (AP)—The old North Atlantic Treaty Organization buildings, long an eyesore, will be torn down by February. Demolition started right after the collapse of the summit conference in May, for which the buildings served as a press center. NATO headquarters now is at the Porte Dauphine, near the Bois de Boulogne.

Mrs. Luce Is In Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Clare Boothe Luce remained in Doctors Hospital Saturday for treatment of a mild gastro-intestinal disturbance, her physician reported.

Dr. Michael A. Rosenbluth, the physician, said Mrs. Luce, former U.S. ambassador to Italy, would not be hospitalized long. She entered the hospital two days ago.

Her husband is publisher Henry Luce, editor-in-chief of Time-Life Inc.

Guard Is Killed

HAVANA (AP) — A 20-year-old university student serving as a member of the militia guarding the former Hilton Hotel—now Hotel Libre—was shot to death Saturday on the eighth floor of the hotel, police reported. They said Julio Lagomasino Gonzalez was hit by the accidental discharge of a pistol while relieving another guard. The hotel is headquarters for a convention of Latin American youth opening Tuesday.

Man Injured In Car Crash

A Big Spring man suffered minor injuries early Saturday morning in a two-car collision, one of three investigated by police Friday and Saturday morning.

Douthitt Clay Buchanan, 28, was treated for abrasions at Howard County Hospital Foundation following a collision with Floyd Sherman, 1307 N. Runnels, at 4th and Gregg. He was taken to the hospital in a Nalley - Pickle ambulance.

Randolph R. Murphy, San Angelo, and Willie Jiminez, 602 N. San Antonio, were in collision at 3rd and Runnels.

Carolyn C. Chandler, Capehart Addn., and Wanita Ramirez, 308 NW 7th, were in collision at 3rd and Runnels.

Green, Double-Breasted; Odd Shoes, For Male Mode

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, if you want to be in the avante garde of fashion this season, hold onto that double-breasted suit up in the attic—the green one, preferably—and rush to the nearest Salvation Army depot for a pair of high button shoes.

Everything you and your grandfather ever owned has a good chance of coming back into style again.

This became apparent Thursday when the American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear unveiled its new fall line before an audience of top female fashion writers and a few unkempt male reporters.

The Ivy League look is still with us, and so is the Continental look, but apparently the disgruntled designers have abandoned any real hope of dragging the American male into the rocket age. The big hit of the show was something called the British accent in men's wear, a tailor's throwback to a giddier, gaudier era that might more accurately have been named the Immigrant Look.

Your real fop this year, if the designers have their way, will sport a loud check suit, preferably green or gold, a bowler hat, high-rising tan gaiters, and look for all the world as if he had just disembarked from a ship that somehow was delayed 50 years at sea. All he needs to complete the ensemble is a straw suitcase and a red polka-dot hankerchief.

"This is what we call the country suit," explained the man at the microphone in a keynote speech compounded of all the superlatives left over from the recent Los Angeles convention. "Lighter, brighter, natural in expression, responsible but unaffected, a conscious return to the elegance of another era."

Green and gold definitely will be the big colors in men's fashions this year. Lapels will be narrower, cuffs tighter, shoulders unpadded, umbrellas longer, blacker, and wrapped tighter. One Ivy League ensemble, consisting of a green corduroy jacket and beige corduroy slacks came complete with what the announcer described as "authentic dirty tennis sneakers."

Aside from the British accent, the biggest splash into the usually placid masculine fashion pool was made by the irrepressible Mr. John with a collection featuring the tightest trousers this side of a Shakespearean festival. One male mannequin looked as if his snug black trousers had been plastered on him with a billboard brush.

"Disgusting," muttered one of the fashion editors. "I don't know what the fashion world is coming to. The whole trend this year is for women's fashions to get looser and looser while men's get tighter and tighter."

Costly News

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A single copy of the Chattanooga Times cost Willie Cravens $50.

Judge Riley Graham last week levied that amount for taking a paper from a carrier's bundle left in the hallway of a building.

Fiddler's Contest Feature Of Reunion

Bill Thompson has accepted assignment to handle the old fiddlers contest which is a traditional feature of the annual Old Settlers Reunion.

The old settlers rally will be at the City Park next Friday. It will feature a big barbecue dinner and is sponsored by the Glasscock-Howard County Old Settlers Association. It will be held under the pavilion and trees in the park and will follow the same pattern it has pursued for the past three decades.

PRIZES

Thompson has extended a cordial invitation to all old time fiddlers to report to him if they desire to compete. Three cash prizes will be awarded —$25 for first place, $20 for second and $15 for third.

The old fiddlers contest usually draws a large number of the more famous musicians from the two counties. The contest is an afternoon feature of the reunion.

The morning hours will be spent in registering all participants and are utilized by the pioneers in "visiting" with their neighbors and former neighbors.

At noon, the big barbecue dinner is served. Preparations for this feature will start Wednesday. Crews of volunteers, all experts in the field, will begin barbecuing the hundreds of pounds of meat on Thursday.

Enormous pots of beans, gallons of coffee and tea, all of the other essential elements of the barbecue dinner will be assembled.

Usually hundreds show up for the big one day get-together which is financed by donations. An advance campaign is waged to collect as much money as possible. At the registration, it is the custom for all registrants to make a contribution.

Not all of the diners are real pioneers. Scores of residents who are familiar with the quality of the food are on hand—happy to make a small cantribution for the sake of the fun and food.

Finance committee members said advance gifts have been slow and that a great many are needed to insure the financial feature of the event.

CONTRIBUTORS

Announcement of contributors not previously announced includes: Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Wasson $25; Higginbotham - Bartlett Lumber Co., $25; Rupert P. Ricker $15; Burton Lingo Lumber Co., $15; G. F. Blind Men Plan Hitchhiking Trip

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two blind men have announced plans for a hitchhiking trip to Philadelphia.

Bill Scrimgeour, 50, of London, England, and Bob Lambert, 27, of Philadelphia, are going to make the trip with their seeing-eye dogs because they found opportunities lacking here.

Scrimgeour will be looking for work and Lambert wants aid in completing his preparation for teaching mathematical logic.

59 Graduate In Class 61-A

"You are now launching upon a career which is as unlimited as space itself. I envy you for the type of aircraft your are going to fly, the things you'll see, and the places where you'll be going."

This statement came from Col. Burton C. Andrus Jr., Commander of the 96th Bombardment Wing, Dyess AFB, Abilene, as 59 graduates of Class 61-A received wings and diplomas at the Base Chapel Friday night.

Col. Andrus placed before the men stark realities which he said he hoped will be a part of their frame of reference hereafter.

FACE FACTS

One hard, cold fact which they must face, he said, is that Christian ethics govern our way of fighting even though the utterly unscrupulous Communists fight as thugs.

He reminded the young pilots to remember that Democracy and Communism are unalterably opposed. "Khrushchev has promised that he will preside at our funerals—and he is one of the world's most experienced morticians."

The whole world, the colonel said, including millions of uncommitted peoples, will look to the officers for leadership. As leaders, they should recognize and remember the destructive power of the modern weapons which they will wield.

POWERFUL

The B-52 pilot, he said, has eight throttles which control more power than 32 diesel locomotives. And the payload is of even more fabulous proportions—each aircraft's bombs being more destructive than the combined force of all the weapons fired in the history of warfare.

History, he pointed out, has proved that man rises to his greatest heights under stress and, conversely, is known to deteriorate during periods of ease and relaxation.

Speaking of the problem of coping with the Red manace, the colonel asked if it were possible for a young flying officer to cope with a problem so vast and complex. Then he answered the rhetorical question by saying that not only could each officer do something but it was his duty to do so. To accomplish this, the colonel listed several "planning factors":

(1) Know the mission of the unit. Make sure that subordinates are aware of it, and "let everything you do be related to the mission of the organization."

(2) Set and maintain high standards. "I hope," he said, "that it is not old-fashioned to talk of patriotism, dedication, and integrity." He urged the graduates to beware of the " 'What's in it for me?' attitude which has affected so many Americans in these times."

LEADERSHIP

(3) Develop leadership. Since World War II, he said, science has spent much on devising better ways to do tasks, but there have been "no break-throughs in human relations", and leadership is indispensable.

(4) Be a professional. The officers, he said, should know their jobs and the job of the man above them, so as to be prepared to take over when called upon.

FIRST AF CLASS

Col. Andrus said that he was particularly happy to be able to address the class in which the first graduates of the Air Force Academy received their wings. He attended that first graduation in Colorado Springs, Colo., last spring. The speaker is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, West Point.

Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, Webb commander, introduced Col. Andrus, and Lt. Col. Leland A. Younkin, Pilot Training Group Commander, presented diplomas.

Top graduates of the class were 2nd Lts. Robert H. Siteman and Jay N. Mitchell, both of whom were AF Academy graduates. They received letters of congratulations from the commander of Air Training Command, and Siteman, as top man, also was presented with an engraved silver trophy.

First of the 22 AF Academy graduates (who comprised almost 50 per cent of the local class) to receive his wings was 2nd Lt. James E. West. Other sections of Class 61-A graduated Saturday at other ATC basic training bases, and it is believed that one of the academy men there was the first of the entire first academy class to don wings.

TWO GERMANS

Two German Air Force men received wings as members of Class 61-A. Mutual Assistance Pact students, they were 1st Lt. Lutz G. Mundhenk of Gelsenkirchen and 2nd Lt. Christian K. Reimers of Heide-Holstein, Germany. Both will join German Air Force units at Fuerstenfeldbruck Air Base, Germany, following leave at home.

Lt. Siteman is from Los Angeles, Calif., and Lt. Mitchell is a native of Artesia, N. M. Lt. West's hometown is Granite City, Ill.

Chaplain (1st Lt.) Lewis Dunlap pronounced invocation and benediction.

Odessan To Fight Cuban Charges

ODESSA (AP) — A Texan held by the military in Cuba denied in a telephone conversation Friday night that he called Cuban officials Communists.

Neal Alderman, who was arrested Friday, told Radio KOSA here that he was seized by the Cuban militia.

Leslie said the connection was cut after a brief conversation.

Alderman is general manager of El India Cattle Ranch in Cuba, a subsidiary of the American-owned Francisco Sugar Co.

The Odessa radio station was told by M. J. Malone of New York, president of the sugar company, efforts are being made to free Alderman.

Alderman's mother, Mrs. W. W. Alderman, lives in Artesia Wells in southwest Texas. She expressed concern for her son's safety.

Odessa Arrest Clears 3 Thefts

The arrest in Odessa of a Mexia man has cleared three burglaries committed in Big Spring three years ago.

The burglaries of Staggs Auto Parts, 413 E. 3rd, in July and August, 1957, were solved with the confession of a 22-year old man arrested in Odessa for a burglary there.

The man admitted taking spark plugs and about $50 from the auto parts in the three break-ins. The cash was taken from the safe.

According to Detective Sgt. Jack Jones, the man admitted about 19 burglaries, including the ones here and several at Odessa and Waco.

Sailmakers Union Gives Up Ghost

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Whatever became of the San Francisco Sailmakers' Union? One of the oldest seafaring crafts, its members kept the windjammers and schooners sailing into and out of this port in the raw days of the building west.

Well, it has dwindled from hundreds to fewer than 20. And last week the sailmakers voted to affiliate with the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union. It had become too expensive, they said, to maintain their own union.

Stranded Scouts

Thirty-one Boy Scouts and their leader, from Jefferson Parrish, La., camped at the Big Spring YMCA Friday night on their way home from a two-week trip to Carlsbad Cavern, N.M. Saturday morning, breakfast was served the group at the YMCA, through arrangements with J. M. Hardy, director. Saturday night was to be spent at Webb AFB, according to Scoutmaster Earl Von Hoven, standing, second from right. Von Hoven said the troop's bus developed mechanical trouble which was discovered after arriving in Big Spring. The difficulty was to be fixed Saturday, however, and the Louisiana Scouts were back on the road Sunday morning. From here, they will make a stop in Mexico, crossing from Laredo. The troop has been making a summer trek annually for the past 15 years, Von Hoven said, covering the entire eastern portion of the United States and much of the West.

Guinea Troops, Red-Armed, Arrive In Troubled Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Troops from the Republic of Guinea, equipped with Soviet vehicles and Czech guns, arrived Saturday and joined other U.N. troops restoring order in this turbulent republic.

The first 60 troops from the former French colony were flown in by a U.S. Air Force Globemaster shortly before Belgian paratroops completed their withdrawal from Leopoldville, The Congo capital.

All day, trainloads of Belgian equipment and troops headed for the Belgian base at Kitona, west of Leopoldville, and automobile columns took more troops by road.

Bowing to U.N. pressure to withdraw from the Congo, the Belgians also agreed to get out of the strategic Port of Boma by Sunday, turning it over to Moroccan trops. At the mouth of The Congo, Boma controls upriver traffic to Leopoldville.

With Leopoldville now under effective U.N. control along with the major port of Matadi downriver, the Belgians were fast relinquishing their grasp on Leopoldville Province.

The Belgian rulers of The Congo until independence June 30, have agreed to send technicians to both Boma and Matadi to repair port facilities, the U.N. Command said. The ports were badly damaged in fighting that erupted after Belgium sent in troops to check an antiwhite wave of terror by Negro soldiers.

The U.N. Command also made its first move to take effective control of Kasai Province, which adjoins Leopoldville Province on the east. An advance brigade of Tunisian troops was sent to Luluabourg, Kasai capital and scene of violent disorders earlier this month.

But the difficulty U.N. forces face in trying to restore order in the outlying provinces was pointed up by the attempt of rebellious Congolese soldiers to detain Andre Tshibangu, The Congo's finance minister, at Stanleyville, Oriental Province capital.

Tshibangu and a U.N. official flew to that northeastern city to pick up 400 million Congo francs—eight million dollars—from government vaults to replenish the depleted treasury.

Capt. Michael D. McCallum, Canadian pilot of their plane, said Ethiopian troops of the U.N. force seemed to be in command of the Stanleyville Airport. But Congolese troops appeared, beat up Tshibangu and later tried to keep him from leaving with the money.

U.N. officers obtained his release.

Stanleyville is a stronghold of Premier Patrice Lumumba, who often has talked of moving The Congo's capital there.

On his current flying visit to the United Nations, Lumumba is certain to bring up the case of Katanga Province, which has proclaimed its independence, called in Belgian troops to preserve order, and has threatened to fight if U.N. troops try to enter.

A U.N. spokesman said that for the present, no attempt will be made to send U.N. forces into Katanga because there are other problems that must be faced first.

Forest, Brush Fires Rage Out Of Control On Coast

By The Associated Press

Forest and brush fires raged out of control from border to border in the West Saturday.

The disastrous blazes already have claimed four lives, blackened thousands of acres of lush timberland, and caused losses mounting into the millions.

Fire fighters gained the upper hand in some areas, and held out hope of eventual victory. In other parts of the West, however, forestry officials said the fires were unchecked and the situation continued to grow more perilous.

The biggest forest fires were burning in thick pine forests in Idaho and Oregon.

A fire that already has covered 10,000 acres of woodland broke loose with a rush Saturday, and spread rapidly in the upper Hell's Canyon area—a nightmare of rugged mountains 40 miles northwest of McCall, Idaho. Six hundred men were on the fire lines.

Widespread reports indicated more than 200,000 acres in the West have been hit by flames last week. There are hundreds of other fires in the Northwest — ranging from one acre to as many as several thousand.

California has been hard hit by days of fierce fires, but temperatures dropped and humidity rose Saturday, giving fire crews an assist.

Long Touring Backwoods For Congress Votes

BUNKIE, La. (AP) — Earl Kemp Long, surrounded by country Negroes, shouted for voters Saturday to send him to Washington for "truth crushed to earth will rise again, and so will the Longs."

The perspiring, disheveled Long, speaking from a dirty railroad freight platform, asked for an eighth district seat in Congress.

A little more than two months ago, the 64-year-old Long ended his tornadic term as governor after losing a frantic bid for lieutenant governor following two trips to mental hospitals.

Long seeks the post of U.S. Rep. Harold McSween (D-La) of Alexandria, who twice in recent years defeated Long candidates.

A third rival is Attorney Ben Holt of Alexandria, an ambitious, young aggressive politican who broke with Long last year after serving as his House floor leader.

No One Hurt In 4 Accidents

Four traffic accidents were investigated by police Saturday. No one was reported injured.

At 7th and Main, Harris Nelson Clemow, 1704 Mulberry, was in collision with Hugh Busby, Sacramento, Calif.

William Gray Graham, Artesia, N.M., and James Green Jr., 1008 Sycamore, were in collision in the 100 block of NW 4th.

Mrs. Ruby Hardgraves Shamblin, 205 Owens, and John Valvero Rangel, 503 NW 7th, collided at NW 3rd and Gregg.

Grady Ray Sharp, Fullerton, Calif., and Ambrosio Rodriguez, Stanton, collided at FM 700 and South Gregg.

Constitution Party Plans Convention

DALLAS (AP) — The Constitution Party holds an interstate convention in Dallas Friday and Saturday to name candidates for president and vice president.

Bard Logan of San Antonio is executive chairman of the party in Texas and nominee for senator.

The Constitution Party polled 30,000 Texas votes in 1956.

Check Suspect Arrested Here

A carpenter wanted in Yuma, Ariz., for passing bogus checks was arrested in Big Spring Friday evening.

Brummett Lincoln waived extradition to Yuma after his arrest at Specks Drive Inn, 701 Lamesa Highway, where he was doing carpentry work. He was arrested on a fugitive from justice warrant obtained in the court of Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter.

Police Capt. L. A. Hiltbrunner made the arrest after receiving word from Yuma that a felony warrant was held in that state for Lincoln, believed living here.

NIXON

eral party leaders once again reved up their hopes for a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket.

Once more, Rockefeller said: "Absolutely, no." And at a Washington news conference, Nixon said he accepts this decision. He left the matter of a running mate suspended in midair.

—Some of the members of the convention Platform Committee said heatedly there will be no rubber stamping of the platform proposals of the vice president and governor. Others predicted the platform will hew closely to the pattern Nixon and Rockefeller want.

FACTS OF LIFE

But the political facts of life are such that the platform the convention finally adopts next week hardly could be one on which Nixon would hesitate to stand or which Rockefeller would refuse to support.

The terms on which Rockefeller and Nixon agreed definitely are as much the governor's as those of the vice president — perhaps more so.

But there were disclaimers of any deals or sell-out or capitulations.

Nixon said that on basic principles they held before their New York meeting there was no yielding or compromise on either side.

Whatever the agreement or whatever the results of it may be, the secret huddle of the two figures who have dominated preconvention maneuvering gave a bit of zip and zest to preliminaries which had failed to strike a single spark of surprise or excitement.

CUT TO PATTERN

It still will be a convention which was pretty much cut to a pattern ahead of time.

Nixon had far more than the 666 votes needed to clinch the presidential nomination long before the Republican legions began assembling here.

About the only thing left for decision is the name of the vice-presidential nominee.

That subject came up, too, in the quiet of Rockefeller's New York apartment.

But the word throughout the day was that Nixon didn't offer Rockefeller a place by his side and that the governor positively wasn't interested in receiving such a bid.

At a news conference of his own at his convention headquarters, Rockefeller repeated that "definitely not under any circumstances" would he accept the vice-presidential mantle—even if President Eisenhower asked him to.

SECOND TALK

Nixon and Rockefeller had a second conference Saturday—over the long distance line between Washington and Chicago. Rockefeller said they talked about the platform again and that they are "in complete accord" on it.

The story that it was the vice president who set up the earlier face-to-face conference in New York came first from Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary here in the Windy City, then from Nixon and Rockefeller in turn.

It went like this: The vice president telephoned the governor early Friday afternoon. That was after the governor, through an aide here, had blasted at proposed platform planks on defense, foreign policy and civil rights as "seriously lacking in strength and specifics."

Nixon said he wanted to "set the record straight" on what he termed exaggerated differences between himself and Rockefeller.

DINNER ALONE

So he caught a plane to New York and had dinner alone with Rockefeller at the latter's residence in mid-Manhattan.

The meeting and the agreement itself had puzzling aspects.

Did this new meeting of party leaders represent a surrender in any measure? To what degree did it reflect a possible desire of Nixon to get away from policies of the Eisenhower administration?

Why did the vice president of the United States fly to the side of a governor when position and protocol would have seemed to decree that Rockefeller go to Nixon?

No pat answers were forthcoming to such questions as these.

But a matter of practical politics was involved deeply. New York's bundle of 45 electoral college votes is the biggest in the nation.

Lyndon Ends Vacation --No One Knows Why

JOHNSON CITY (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, returned to his Central Texas ranch at 7:28 p.m. Saturday after three days in Acapulco, Mexico.

He looked sun-burned and tired like any other summertime vacationer.

"But I really got some rest down there," he said.

Johnson refused to say anything other than chat socially with the Associated Press reporter who was the only person outside his family to meet the returning plane.

"I didn't give any interviews down there, and I don't intend to give any up here," he said.

Johnson was asked specifically about the foreign policy significance of his Mexican visit, about the tentatively scheduled talk he has with the presidential nominee, about the Democratic campaign plans, and when he would return to Washington for the Aug. 8 congressional session.

"I have nothing to say about that," he said in answer to each of the questions. "I'm not going to have anything to say for a few days. When I do I'll tell you."

Johnson was dressed in slacks and short-sleeved sport shirt, and Mrs. Johnson wore a bright colored print dress. Most of the members of the vacation party, which included U.S. Rep. Homer Thornberry (D-Tex) of Austin, carried gaudily colored Mexican hats and other souvenirs.

Only a few hours earlier he had been sunning himself on the beach at his holiday retreat. An aide said then he had no immediate plans to depart although he might change his mind at any moment.

Sticking to his decision to talk about nothing but sun and fun while here, the Democratic vice presidential nominee this morning refused comment on a report from Dallas that former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers might run against him for U.S. Senator.

The senator from Texas picked up a rosy color although he spent much of his time at Acapulco catching up on correspondence.

During his brief vacation, the Senate majority leader sidestepped every attempt by foreign and domestic newsmen to get him to utter some word related to his activities as a public figure.

The explanation was that after all he had come to Acapulco only as a devotee of sun worship.

Three United States reporters who were admitted to Johnson's vacation sanctuary the day after his arrival found him up and impeccably attired almost before the sunrise.

They arrived with questions about U.S. domestic politics, Mexican-U.S. relations, the situation in Cuba and inter-American affairs in general.

The questions withered in the feeble morning sun.

An enterprising local reporter invaded the candidate's citadel by sea. He leaped ashore from a speedboat, established his minuscule beachhead and penetrated as far inland as the senatorial presence.

A hot but friendly battle in mixed idioms was in progress when reinforcements rushed up in the person of Reedy. . .

The local reporter withdrew in some confusion but carried with him as a prize the one bit of solid information the senator's sojourn produced:

"My wife Lady Bird went fishing and caught a shark."

Intruder Shoots Attorney In Face, Kidnaps Housewife

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP)—An intruder shot an attorney in the face, kidnaped his pretty, 25-year-old wife from their luxurious Long Island home, and was captured Saturday after a chase hours later in Connecticut.

Connecticut State Police arrested Ruben Black, 30, a Negro of Hempstead, N.Y., at Wallingford, about 100 miles from here. Nancy Rothkrug, trembling but unharmed, was with him.

Mrs. Rothkrug said Black told her a crime syndicate hired him to kill her husband for $5,000, but police were quick to discount this. They said Black made a statement saying he was just trying to scare Mrs. Rothkrug by telling her that story.

Connecticut authorities said the motive was robbery in an effort to help "a sister — of Black's — in trouble in Hartford." Police found $350 in cash on Black.

Mrs. Rothkrug said she was downstairs in their Great Neck home when she heard a shot upstairs.

"My husband called out 'Nancy' and I went upstairs and saw him (the gunman). He discharged the gun again but it didn't go off. Then I saw my husband all covered with blood. The man motioned me in, and told me to tie my husband."

Mrs. Rothkrug said the gunman forced her into the Rothkrug car, promising to let her off at a hospital to get aid and saying she would be back in an hour. But she traveled with him all the way to Connecticut, where Black stopped in Hartford, locking her in the trunk while he bailed a relative out of jail.

"He kept saying to me, 'I don't know why I kidnaped you,'" Mrs. Rothkrug said. She said the gunman did not try to harm her.

A salesman, Amos Fleishman, found Mrs. Rothkrug's husband, Leonard, 32, moaning, with the left side of his face shattered by a bullet.

After Fleishman found Rothkrug, an alarm was broadcast. A patrolman spotted the car about seven miles from Wallingford and gave chase—at speeds up to 85 miles an hour—until the Rothkrug auto hit a fence.

"I feel okay," said Mrs. Rothkrug.

"He said to me, 'I don't care whether I live or die.'"

Mrs. Rothkrug said her son, Hiram, 2, awoke while the gunman was at their home. She said Black was "very nice about my child and said he wanted me to feed him." The boy was sleeping again when Fleishman found Rothkrug later.

Summer Back Once Again

The temperature climbed to 102 degrees Saturday, the highest reading since 100 degrees registered July 4.

During the 19-day interval temperatures ranged between the higher 70's and the upper 90's.

Woman's Letter Has Praise For Fire Department

To the Editor:

I wish to express much appreciation for our fire department. I found our den full of smoke, and in the excitement gave the address wrong. The fire department was still here in record time. Believe me, if it's your house, they can't get there too quick.

We should all be thankful. We have a very efficient fire department.

2 Thefts Add To Police Woes

Two thefts reported Saturday morning were added to the already swollen list of break-ins and petty thefts under investigation by police.

Glen Holloway, Snyder, reported the theft of several articles of clothing and $75 to $80 in cash from his car while it was parked in the 500 block of Northwest 4th late Friday night.

Margarite Duran, 708 NW 8th, told police someone broke into her house and made off with $1 in pennies.

Wanted Man Held For Murder

A Negro wanted in Big Spring for assault has been caught in Pensacola, Fla., but chances of his facing charges here are remote. He has been indicted for murder in Florida.

Det. Sgt. Jack Jones was notified Saturday that sheriff's officers in Pensacola had apprehended Willie James, charged here July 15 with assault upon a female. He allegedly stabbed his wife, Katherine James, during a family fracas.

James is also wanted by Alabama authorities as an escapee from the penitentiary in that state.

Headed For Those Famous Big Rock Candy Mountains?

Two city jail prisoners assigned to a work detail at the east edge of the city, walked off the job Saturday morning and left for parts unknown, Silvesta Justice, a Negro, and Jasper Jones, white, presumably hopped a freight train and headed east.

Tonsillitis Tops County Illness List

A total of 131 communicable diseases were reported diagnosed for treatment in Big Spring hospitals during the past week, according to a survey conducted by the Big Spring-Howard County Health Unit.

Tonsillitis topped the list with 33 cases reported. There were 30 cases of pharyngitis and 26 cases of diarrhea reported. The health unit counted 21 cases of upper-respiratory ailments.

The report also included mumps, 1; virus, 6; impetigo, 3; syphilis, 3; and gastrointeritis, 8.

Thieves Break In

Burglars broke into the Sahara Drive-in theater snack bar Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies said the only loot seemed to be an undetermined amount of candy. The place had been ransacked by the prowlers who evidently were in search of hidden money. Apparently no money was taken.

Kennedy Receives Intelligence Data

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee for president, Saturday received from the Eisenhower administration a briefing on the world situation, with emphasis on two trouble spots—The Congo and Cuba.

Central Intelligence Agency chief Allen W. Dulles came by air to the Kennedy summer home to give the candidate secret information on foreign policy problems at the direction of President Eisenhower.

Kennedy said after their 2-hour, 15-minute session that he found the information very useful.

The United States is faced with a good many serious problems around the world," Kennedy said. "Mr. Dulles has discussed them with me in detail—particularly the situation in Africa.

He disclosed the the Congo and Cuba were two of the places specifically discussed.

When a reporter asked if Berlin also was mentioned, Kennedy replied: "There was a general discussion of all of these matters, sort of particularly The Congo."

Kennedy said they will meet for further briefing on foreign affairs after Congress revonvenes Aug. 8, and that in the meantime Dulles is to arrange for somebody from the Defense Department to come to Hyannis Port within the next two weeks for another briefing session.

The briefings were ordered by Eisenhower for the candidates for president and vice president of the two major parties for their guidance during the campaign.

Dulles said he hasn't yet made arrangements to talk to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who is Kennedy's running mate. Johnson is vacationing at Acapulco, Mexico.

Dulles declined to expand on what Kennedy had said about their meeting.

Hard Texas Rains Move Northward

By The Associated Press

Hard rains that have battered Texas areas, one by one, for nearly two weeks moved northward Saturday into Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City had more than four inches and just north gauges showed 5½ inches. Tulsa and McAlester also were soundly soaked.

The only rain clouds over Texas early in the afternoon were in the mountains west and southwest of Wink in far Southwest Texas.

Forecasts, however, called for widely scattered thundershowers in all areas through Sunday. Little change in temperatures was forecast except for the extreme southwest, which was due to become a trifle warmer.

Skies over Texas ranged from clear to partly cloudy. A low pressure system was over West Texas, causing some fog and low cloudiness early Saturday in the upper Panhandle.

Afternoon temperatures usually were in the 90s.

Suspended Term In Babysitter Case

SAN AUGUSTINE (AP) — Prominent San Augustine businessman Hugh Sparks was convicted of murder without malice Friday.

Sparks, 37, was given a five-year suspended sentence.

Sparks was found guilty of the auto slaying of Bobbie Jean Ligon, 15, a Negro babysitter in the Sparks' home New Year's Eve. Her body was found New Year's Day on a farm road near here.

State witnesses said her skull had been crushed and her body mangled. Dr. Jack Pruitt of Lufkin said death could have been caused by injuries inflicted by an automobile.

Better Late Than Never - That's Hollywood Cue On Sex Queen

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

Director Billy Wilder; "After working all day with her I feel like going home and beating my wife."

Sir Laurence Olivier told a friend that co-starring with and directing her in a movie aged him 10 years.

All are talking about Marilyn Monroe.

It's no secret that Marilyn's delays on "Some Like It Hot" added a million dollars to the cost.

It's also no secret that the picture thus far has grossed 14 million dollars, a record for a movie comedy. Curtis, Wilder and Miss Monroe all had healthy chunks of the picture. The actress' take alone is reported at a million.

Her current "Let's Make Love" went three weeks and uncounted thousands over budget. Columnists accused Marilyn of unprofessionalism, a devastating thing to say about a performer.

THEY LIKE HER

Is Marilyn unprofessional?

The day I visited the set everybody, including Marilyn, seemed to be having a gay time. She was the Marilyn of old, laughing, giggling friendly with everyone.

Jerry Wald, the producer and money man admitted that Marilyn's re-takes and illnesses had cost thousands.

"She is not punctual," says Wald, in a burst of understatement. "But I'm not sad about it. I can get a dozen beautiful blondes who will show up in makeup at 4 a. m. promptly each morning. But they are not Marilyn Monroe.

"Marilyn doesn't come cheap but she's nice to have around when the grosses are counted."

And director George Cukor: "Marilyn's delays are neither irresponsible nor careless. She does not want to do a scene until she is ready for it and can give it her best. We have an agreement that she works only when she is satisfied she is ready to begin."

HASN'T CHANGED

"You ask if international stardom has changed Marilyn? No emphatically no. This business of being late: Why, she was much later when she was a nobody.

"She's a perfectionist and she is not going to do a scene until she is 100 per cent prepared.

"Marilyn is a born star. Like the pitcher on a ball club, she's the one chalked with the win or loss I and no one knows it better.

"Naturally, it makes some people nervous waiting around most of the time but we're all getting good pay for it. I have never known Marilyn to be intentionally mean to anyone.

"Our overtime is coming out of her cut."

Olivier, Curtis and Wilder got irked with Marilyn because she overtime also came out of their cut. Olivier, and to a lesser extent Curtis, served apprenticeships in acting before they became stars.

A STAR FIRST

Marilyn became a star before she became an actress. She can't be expected to one-take a scene with an Olivier.

Her apprenticeship was served in a list of incredibly bad movies. She wants no more of those.

Until "Some Like It Hot" says a friend, "Marilyn never had a great picture — yet became one of the screen's greatest stars despite poor pictures. Her rebellion — if you can call it that — stems from an honest desire to please herself and the public. She believes that what pleases her will please the public."

That's one reason she insists on having her drama coach on the set. The mere presence of a coach is irksome to director. That probably accounts for Wilder's blast.

The coach is Paula Strasberg of the actor's studio, one of the best. Her husband is the famous Lee Strasberg, her daughter actress Susan Strasberg.

TOP TALENT

Mrs. Strasberg calls Marilyn "a phenomenal talent. I believe Marilyn could be one of the great stage stars of all time."

Marilyn may relax a little in her next picture because she is working for Arthur Miller, her playwright husband. It's a script he tailored to his wife "The Misfits." It's about divorcees in Reno, with Clark Gable and Montgomery Clift.

"I play a girl," Marilyn says, putting it mildly.

The director is John Huston, who gave Marilyn her first important break in "The Asphalt Jungle" just 10 years ago.

What does Marilyn think of all the publicity about her professional attitude?

"I don't know where they dream up such stuff. I was sick enough to go to a hospital and I read that I am holding up production."

JUST ANY?

Marilyn says early in her career she used to believe that any publicity was good publicity. Now she's not so sure.

"I have always been honest in my answers. No one has to make up anything about me."

She admits her lack of punctuality.

"It's a bad habit, I know but I believe that you shouldn't do anything in life until you're ready. Half of life's heartaches come from decisions that were made in a hurry. One should make haste slowly."

Marilyn says she's a happy girl. It hasn't always been that way.

She was movie struck even as she grew up in Los Angeles. As a child she lived with her mother, a studio film cutter. Her father abandoned them. As a young girl she was a ward of the county shuttling from foster home to foster home. Her mother was in and out of hospitals.

WED AT 15

Marilyn married at 15, unhappily.

She operated on the fringes of Hollywood — bit parts modeling anything — for years. When she finally clicked and married baseball hero Joe DiMaggio even that failed. They were divorced in less than a year.

But with marriage to Miller and and permanent home in New York she seems to have found peace.

"I try to improve myself. I like to read and learn new things. I want to be a good actress."

What does she think about Wilder's blast?

"I think he is a good director."

What brought on Curtis' harsh observation?

"I think Mr. Wilder is a very good director."

And what about Yves Montand her co-star in "Let's Make Love?"

"Next to my husband and Marlon Brando I think he is the most exciting man I have ever met" she answers. Then with her characteristic friendliness to old friends of the press: "Present company excepted."

Mahon Speaks To CC Lions

COLORADO CITY—George Mahon, congressman from the 19th congressional district, reported to the Colorado City Lions Friday that the major factors in the victory of Jack Kennedy at Los Angeles, were "his hard work, ambition, boundless energy and his brilliant facile mind..". He predicted that if Kennedy were elected he will "grow into the job until he will be recognized as of presidential stature."

"It is the pressure of the demands of a job that makes a man grow great or collapse," he said.

Johnson failed in his bid for the nomination, because, Mahon said, the Texas senator stayed at his job and waited until too late to make the race, and also because of sectional prejudice.

"Northern prejudice against the south must be experienced to be believed," Mahon said, adding, "The North talks about bigotry in the South, but the bigotry and hypocrisy of the North is certainly as bad as the South."

Mahon said that should the Democrats be elected, Johnson will exercise great power in the president's cabinet.

"And I will feel better and I know that many of you will feel better knowing that Johnson is in that group (the cabinet)."

Mahon was one of the Texas delegates at the National Democratic convention.

GARDEN TALK

Try Gravel For Cover On Open Garden Space

Open spaces are important to all gardens, and these areas should receive every bit as much thought as the planted spaces. It is the same way with a birthday cake, candles and frosting are interesting, decorative, and tasty, but where would they be without the cake? Gardens are the same way, roses, shade trees, flowers and all the rest are most interesting, but without open areas from which to admire them they are little more than a jungle of growth.

The most popular way to handle an open space is to cover it with a lawn. These green carpets have become a standard way of dealing with the open area, but there are other possibilities. Here where water is a limiting factor there are a number of happy choices for the open areas.

I am using two different gravel patterns for this purpose at Cedar Ridge where I live. I have a small white limestone gravel that makes an excellent patio ground cover. It can be easily raked and reflects the lighting for evening entertainment. It is clean and neat, and when some weeds do grow through it, 20 minutes with a sharp hoe will restore its neat appearance. Rain, sprinkler water, or water from a Coke cooler will always make a muddy spot in the ground unless something like gravel covers it. I find the gravel patio ideal in this respect because all water goes through the gravel and still leaves a pleasant surface for traffic. Even the trees that surround the patio benefit from this and any other moisture in the patio area, there is no grass to mow, edges to clip, grub worms to kill, or bald spots.

Another area we also covered with gravel was our grove of 35 hackberry trees. Usually one would expect a large area for so many trees, but this space measures about 50x75 feet and the trees are quite close together with a few cedars and mesquites mixed in for variety. Beneath these trees we have spread quartz gravel that is made up of black and off white pebbles. These are graded to a larger size than the patio gravel, and are more interesting to look at because of the contrasting colors; though I believe they are harder to walk on. Again the gravel does not interfere with the moisture going to the trees and it provides an attractive finish to the open area beneath the trees.

In Japan they sometimes cover an open area with sand and carefully rake designs in its surface. Some people prefer to pave these areas, but no matter how they are handled they are vitally important to any garden planting. In the European formal gardens there is a rule that says that not more than one third of a garden area should be planted.

For answers to your garden questions, write to Bruce Frazier in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Half Million Added To Local Payroll

By SAM BLACKBURN

Paychecks reaching some 1,100 Big Spring and Howard County people this month are a little larger than those of last month.

These are the checks being issued for the current pay period to civil service workers who were granted a raise of approximately 7.5 per cent by action of congress a few weeks ago.

The average boost in salary represented by the raise seems to be about $350 a year. The actual increase varies from $225 to as much as $700 depending on the base salary of the specific employe. Key personnel, naturally, benefitted more from the pay hike but the raise was across the board.

HALF MILLION

It is estimated that the change in pay schedule will mean about half a million more dollars annually to the civil service workers of the community.

However, it's not all gravy, as many such workers pointed out. Their "deducts" are higher and, in some cases, the boost puts the earner in a higher income tax bracket.

One official estimated that he would actually get $12 a week additional take-home pay as a result of the congressional action. He is in the bracket eligible to receive the maximum $700 increase.

"Don't get me wrong," he hastened to add. "I'm happy to get that."

Majority of the workers do not know exactly how much bigger their checks will be. They have not received payment for work since the new schedule went into effect. The period stated in the law was the work month beginning July 1 and the first checks will begin to arrive in the next few days.

1165 EMPLOYES

Leon Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission, made a survey earlier this year and found that there are 1,165 federal government employes on the payrolls of Howard County. He listed 15 active agencies under this category. He also discovered that the federal agencies here employ 375 women.

Webb Air Force Base, as would be expected, is the largest single employer of civil service workers. Warren A. Farrow who heads up this activity at Webb, said there are 750 such employees on the Webb lists. He estimated the annual pay increase to reach these workers as $362,000. The average increase ranges from $225 to as much as $700. Across the board, he said the average would be around $350 per year.

Veterans Administration Hospital is second largest civil service employer. There are 189 employes at this institution who will be benefited by the pay boost according to Carlton Carr, special services chief. There are 89 others, however, who operate under what is known as the "wage board" program and do not benefit from the bill. He said the annual payroll would be upped $73,502 annually.

53 AT POST OFFICE

Big Spring Post Office, with 53 full time employes, will have its payroll increased by about $20,000 a year. Elmer Boatler, postmaster, said that the first paychecks reflecting the new schedule are due soon.

Gabe Hammack with the Agricultural Stabilization Committee, said five of his associates were placed under special benefits of civil service by a rider on the bill but that the employe share of the costs of these benefits will just about offset the increased salary. The benefits include retirement, insurance, and other civil service provisions.

The other agencies in the community, which benefit from the increase, estimated their raises to average about on a parity with figures already cited. These agencies include the Soil Conservation Services, the Internal Revenue Service, the Bureau of Employment and a few others. In general, the number of workers in each of these is relatively small.

The act of Congress which brought about the salary increases involved 1.5 million workers and will cost the government 746 million dollars. A million of those benefited are classified as white-collar workers and the other half million are employes of the postal department.

To enact the legislation, the two houses had to override a presidential veto.

Wife-Killing Trial To Start

AUSTIN (AP)—A Houston accountant goes on trial Monday on charges he hired Negroes to kill his wife.

The trial of Joseph Selby, 52, was sent here from Houston.

Selby is the second of four facing trial for the Nov. 16 killfor-pay slaying of Mrs. Wilma Selby, 48, and a grandmother.

Maggie Morgan, 45, a Negro fortune teller, on April 9 was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Also charged are Mae Bounds, 31, a Negro massage parlor employe, and Clarence Collins, 23, a 306-pound Negro longshoreman.

After his arrest Nov. 22, Selby signed a statement saying he had paid $1,500 while negotiating with several Negroes to find someone to kill his wife.

Mrs. Selby was shot to death in the hallway of her home in the fashionable Afton Oaks section a half hour after she and her husband had left downtown Houston in separate cars.

The Harris County grand jury indicted each defendant for murder and as an accomplice to murder. The indictment alleges the three Negroes killed Mrs. Selby after the accountant had promised them money.

All four also were indicted for conspiring to murder.

Only the Bounds woman, who turned state's evidence, has been free on bond.

Testifying as a state witness at the Morgan trial, the Bounds woman said Selby was a customer at the massage parlor and said she introduced him to the Morgan woman after he asked her to find "somebody to get rid of someone for me."

She testified the Morgan woman arranged the murder and forced her to go along under threats of violence. She said she and Collins accompanied the Morgan woman to the Selby home.

"Maggie told me to watch the back door and if I saw a lady come in I was to clear my throat," the Bounds woman testified. "That would signal to Clarence to shoot."

Judge Langston King of Houston granted the change of venue to Austin. The defense said widespread publicity made it impossible for a fair and impartial trial in or near Houston.

Actor's Dream Is Up For Sale

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stewart Granger is putting a dream up for sale.

In a few weeks, when he finishes "Go North" with John Wayne, he's selling his 10,000-acre ranch in Nogales, Ariz. This is the ranch that Granger and Jean Simmons, a couple of soon-to-be-divorced Britishers, had developed into an American dream.

"Now that Jean and Tracy (their daughter, 3) are no longer there," says Granger sadly, "I couldn't live in the place. Almost everything is named after the baby. It would be too depressing."

Granger will sell the big spread and go to Europe for a series of pictures.

Joy Tonic Makes Old Feel Young

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis says he has a report that a man at a state mental hospital has invented a joy tonic that makes elderly patients "act like kids."

Gov. Davis reported a woman had written him the tonic's effect reminded her of the song "I Could Have Danced All Night," except, as she put it, "I could have danced all month."

With straight face, Davis said: "If we can find that man, he's in for some fast business."

Fatal Accident

WYLIE, Tex. (AP)—Perry Osborne of Terrell was killed Saturday when his car ran into a creek about three miles southwest of Lavon Dam.

220 W. Texas Horned Toads To Akron Derby

When Mike Smith takes off for Akron, O. and the All-American Soap Box Derby around Aug. 7, he will take along some very special merchandise.

This will comprise 220 West Texas horned toads. The prickly lizards were garnered by industrious youngsters who were offered a nickel a head by Radio KBST with a free airplaine ride for the kid who fetched in the biggest number.

Saturday afternoon was horned frog day at the station and when the dust had settled, the station had acquired, in Mike's name, 220 of the horned frogs. Mike will give them to his fellow contestants at Akron as a souvenir of West Texas.

Top frog catchers were Cliff Creighton and Carl Jordan. They delivered 50 apiece. They were the ones who got the free airplane rides.

The frogs were then placed in the window of the Chub Jones Insurance agency on the Ritz Theater building.

Dividend

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Co. has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents per share. The company second quarter earnings were $1,863,304, up 15 per cent from 1959.

Victim Treated

A Latin-American was treated for head cuts Friday night following a fracas at Sam's Lounge, 400 NW 3rd. No charges were filed in the incident.

Enrique Torrez Lopez, a laborer, was treated at the Howard County Hospital Foundation following the affray and released Saturday morning.

DEAR ABBY

SERIOUS MISTAKE

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday the little girl next door received her first communion. She was dressed from head to toe in white and looked like an angel. Her parents gave her a party. Not a party for a 7-year-old, but an adult party with drinks and canapes for all their friends.

We went but we didn't want to mix our drinks with a little girl's communion day. We'll drink and joke and dance, but not at a party for a little girl who is so full of her church and God.

Why didn't her parents give her a party with ice cream and cake and children's fun? By 10 o'clock the parents and guests were in no communion day condition. Why do people do this?

LITTLE GIRL'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Some people use every occasion as an excuse to whoop it up. Parents who plan to entertain in honor of a child should think twice before making this kind of blunder. It's unfair to the child AND in the poorest possible taste.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who would steal four rose bushes off a grave? A week ago I planted four small rose bushes on the grave of my beloved late wife. When I went there yesterday they were gone and the holes were refilled. This is the second time this has happened. The superintendent of the cemetery and the foreman expressed surprise at my complaint but offered no solution. Perhaps you, or one of your readers, can offer one.

Very truly yours,
M.C.S.

DEAR MR. S.: The guard at the cemetery is hired to prevent such atrocities. Perhaps he needs police assistance.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My problem is very unusual. I am considered very beautiful and have a very lovely figure, but nobody wants to take me out more than twice because they say I am so attractive they would never be able to hold onto me.

I am 21 and in love with a wonderful guy, but he stopped seeing me for the same reason.

How can I convince people that beauty is only skin deep and it's what is on the inside of a person that really counts? I feel like a China doll that nobody wants to touch for fear it might break.

CHINA DOLL

DEAR CHINA DOLL: Open those big baby doll eyes and look at the truth. Beauty never has been and never will be a handicap to a girl who has brains and personality to back it up. If men do not date a beautiful girl with a lovely figure more than twice, she had better get her best friend to tell her the real reason.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO ED: If you are willing to admit you are all wrong when you are all wrong, then you are all right.

* * *

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in Care of The Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

U. S. Appeals Bracero Ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — The government has appealed a Federal Court restraining order against a Labor Department minimum wage set for Mexican cotton pickers in the Rio Grande Valley.

U. S. Atty. William Butler filed the appeal of the July 18 ruling by Federal Judge Joe Ingraham. Valley farm groups had sought the order against the $2.50 per 100 pounds minimum set by Secretary of Labor James Mitchell.

Some farm groups are paying $2.30 per 100 pounds.

Butler said Ingraham's order affects about 95 per cent of some 55,000 braceros working in the Valley.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 24, 1960 — SEC. B

Doug Sanders Is Leader In PGA

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Doug Sanders, a young player with an unorthodox golf game, shot one of his best all-time rounds Saturday to go into the lead in the PGA Championship at the 54-hole mark.

Sanders, playing what he termed "real good golf," fired a third-round 69 over the sun-baked, 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course and gained a one-stroke lead over three rivals with one round to go in the tournament.

The Firestone course, supposedly made tougher, turned out to be surprisingly easy for the 94 remaining pros in the tournament. Jim Ferrier, a 45-year-old Australian-born veteran from California, shot a record 66 and tied with Sam Snead and Friday's leader, Jay Hebert at 211. Don January was next with 212.

Arnold Palmer, the Open and Masters champion and favorite in this tournament, ran afoul of the fearsome 16th hole and wound up six strokes back at 216. Palmer found about every imaginable trouble on the 625-yard 16th and took an eight, three over par. Then he bogied the last two holes.

It was a day of thrills and excitement for 11,347 cash customers who made up a record gallery for the third round. With all the top contenders except Ferrier in the last two threesomes, the mob gathered to watch the lead change almost hole by hole.

It was a day when Ben Hogan, without a birdie for 54 holes, failed to make the 54-hole cut and when Cary Middlecoff had to sweat out a long committee meeting before PGA officials decided merely to reprimand him for slow play instead of penalizing him. Hogan, with a third-round 78 for 225, missed the cutoff point by one stroke.

The last time Hogan failed to make the cut in a tournament was in the 1957 Masters. Even he couldn't remember when he had played 54 holes without a birdie.

Sanders, who will be 27 Sunday, has been a top performer on the pro tour for about three years. His biggest victory was in the Canadian Open, while he still was an amateur.

He uses an unusually short backswing, which he claims allows little latitude for trouble.

It was a superb putting exhibition that put him out in front. On the front nine he holed putts of 10 feet, 6 inches, 40 feet, 10 feet and 50 feet for birdies on the front nine.

Trophy For Champs

Three members of the local VFW admit the Nall Little League trophy, which was awarded to their team after the Vets won the City title recently. Left to right, they are Granville Miller, commander of the local post; Bill Pate and Ed Booth, co-managers of the team. The trophy is furnished by Poncho Nall, who operates a newsstand here.

Ted's Hitting Still The Same

By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Usually when a baseball man reaches the age of 41 he no longer is playing, or he goes downhill so fast that even the players who admired him are left speechless. All they can say is "too bad."

Last year the players began saying that about Ted Williams. He hit .254 in 103 games. He was bothered nearly all season with a cranky neck and was in no shape to swing a bat. But he played. And because he couldn't retire on such a sad note, Williams is playing this year and hitting the ball like a spring chicken.

Williams will be 42 on Aug. 20. Players are back on the tops of dugout steps every time he takes batting practice.

The remarkable thing about Williams is that he compiled a .347 career average despite all the mishaps he suffered and the two Marine hitches which kept him out of baseball almost five years.

"I'm all right now," says Williams. "I'll finish up all right. I'm positive I won't play next year. I don't know what I'll do. It's too much to play at my age."

This was during the All-Star break when Ted was hitting .345 and leading the American League. He had hit his 506th home run. Ted will take all the homers he can get. He's aiming to retire with at least 512. That would put him second, exactly 200 behind Babe Ruth, and one ahead of Mel Ott.

Going over 500 is amazing in that Williams has played more than half of his 2,200-odd games in Fenway Park, a stadium built for right-handed banjo hitters with its short left field wall.

"To hit homers into the right field stands in Boston," Williams said recently, "you've got to pull the ball close to the line. It's quite a trick."

Williams is known among the trade as "the best student of hitting in this era." Actually, he's the professor.

"What I thought about hitting 20 years ago is still right today," Williams was saying. "I know more about hitting than anybody. I'm not saying that as a boast. I'm saying it because I think it.

"When we flew into New York from Kansas City the discussion got around to hitting with Lew Fonseca (he directs the World Series movies) and Jim Lemon (Washington slugger). We had more young ears (Ron Hansen and Brooks Robinson, Baltimore infielders) listening to us. We talked about what the top hand should do on the bat, the position of the feet and other things.

"I have a lot of respect for Fonseca. He knows pretty much more about hitting as any one I know. He once led the league (.369 in 1929).

"Now take Billy Herman (Boston's third base coach). Herman was a great player with much experience. But we disagree on everything concerning batting. When he says we are to pitch a certain hitter inside I say 'pitch him outside.' When he says 'pitch him high,' I say 'pitch him low.'

"Herman thinks the hit and run play (where the batter hits the ball behind the runner going to second base is baseball's greatest play. I think it's the most overrated play in the game.

Then And Now

Ty Cobb was right some years ago when he said Ted Williams had the eyes to hit until he is 45. Closeups of Ted's eyes (1940 picture at top; 1960 below) still maintain sharpness.

"You hit a ball and you break your wrists on the follow through. Herman says you break your wrists just beofre you hit the ball. He's wrong."

The writer suggested that Williams ask Mickey Mantle, who was standing nearby.

"How about it Mickey? Williams asked. "Do you break your wrists before or after you hit the ball?"

Mantle thought for about 10 seconds and said:

"To tell you the truth I really don't know."

Mantle walked by as though he had more important things to do and Williams continued talking about hitting:

"I still say pitching is 85 per cent of the game. That little game that goes on between pitcher and catcher is a big thing. When batters have trouble hitting the breaking pitch the advice they get is 'shorten up on the bat.'"

Rogers' Homer Saves American

Gary Rogers' two-on homer provided the American League with the cushion they needed to defeat the Nationals, 9-6, in the Little League District finals here Saturday night.

The Americans staged an electrifying rally in the final inning to salvage the win, scoring seven times after two were out. Steve Underwood, Johnny Arrick and Gary Miears walked in succession to start the round.

Underwood was forced at the plate by Larry Bruton but Bruce Bellamy and Frank Sabbato received free passes to force in Arrick and Miears.

Johnny Stone then singled to plate Bruton and Bellamy and tied the count.

Rogers followed with his four-master to send the American League fans home happy.

Larry Broughton was the winning hurler, Tommy Dobbs the loser.

The American Leaguers will now oppose Andrews next Thursday night for the right to play in the Sectional round at Wichita Falls.

Charley Boswell Title Repeater

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP)—Charlie Boswell, Birmingham, Ala., Saturday won his 11th National Blind Golfers Championship at the Kebo Valley Country Club. He has missed the prize only once ized.

Boswell carded a 103 for a total of 203.

Hot on Boswell's heels was former International champ Joe Lazaro of Waltham, Mass., who shot an amazing 98 Saturday to finish with a 207. Lazaro was the only man in the field of 14 to break 100.

The best nine of the day was shot by Harold Mitchell of Hamilton, Ont., a 47 on the front nine. Mitchell finished in third place with 209.

Pappa's All Wins Juvenile Feature

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Pappa's All, a California 2-year-old, got back on the winning trail Saturday with a thrilling finish in the $143,200 Hollywood Juvenile Championship.

A roaring crowd estimated at 46,000 saw Jockey George Taniguchi drive the second favored Pappa's All in by a nose over a longshot, Sullivan's Bud, with Big Smoky third.

The favorite, Rex Ellsworth's Olden Times, ran out of the money.

Seven 2-year-olds went to the post for the mythical championship of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Pappa's All ran up a winning streak of five until Olden Times beat him a half a length here July 12.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:10 flat.

Rice Is Elected Coaches' Prexy

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — M. T. Rice, superintendent of Midway Schools, Waco, was unanimously elected president of the Texas High School Girls Basketball Coaches Association Saturday.

Rice served the association as vice-president last year until moving into the head position after Peggy Hughes of Gilmore City resigned as president.

Craig Stifles Phillies' Bats

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roger Craig confounded Philadelphia with a 3-hitter Saturday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers scored a 2-0 victory and extended the Phillies' scoreless streak to 24 innings.

The Dodgers, picking up their 12th victory in 15 games before a ladies-night crowd of 43,829, pulled to within five games of league-leading Pittsburgh.

Craig, recently out of action six weeks with a broken collarbone, didn't let the Phillies get a man past second base as he bagged his fourth victory in five decisions.

Parade Of States To Open Tourney

MIDLAND (SC) — "Welcome to Texas" will be the theme of the Parade of States, ushering in the 7th Jaycee International Tennis Tournament in Midland August 1.

The thrilling spectacle, with representatives of each of the states entered in the tournament, will feature beautiful floats and several musical contingents, including a nationally known Air Force marching band. A generous selection of Texas' most beautiful girls will be included.

Each of the 50 delegations of states will be presented with appropriate identification as to the place they represent. The spectacle will begin at 1 p.m. on August 1, forming at Midland High School and winding its way through the city along "A" Street to Wall, to Main to Texas and back to the High School.

Many individuals have indicated they will be entered in the parade on horseback—a sort of a tradition in Texas. Max Osborne, Midland Jaycee president will join with other local, state and national officers of the Junior Chamber in the parade to welcome the entrants and others to the city of Midland for the six day tourney.

HPC Expecting Better Eleven This Autumn

Brownwood (SC)—With considerable experience and better depth than in past years, Howard Payne College Yellow Jacket gridmen are hoping for their best Lone Star Conference grid year in the school's history when football takes over the sports pages this fall.

The Brownwood school, heading straightway into its fourth Lone Star Conference grid campaign, has 22 returning lettermen, including two who were off the scene last year. The twosome, both of whom are senior veterans, are Harvey Neal, 185-pound Brownwood halfback, and Don Fuqua, a 215-pound guard who played high school ball at Sonora.

The Baptists also have two new coaches. Aiding Head Coach and Athletic Director Bennie B. Williams will be Melvin Lindsey, who came here last spring from Odessa High School to direct the backfield, and Bill Purcer, line coach who came to HPC this month to handle the forward wall. The grid professors will also bank on Cage Coach Glen Whitis to help groom the team early in the season.

Back to guide the team at quarterback is 165-pound Coleman junior Dale Byerly. Now a junior, Byerly led the LSC in total offense as a freshman. Other backfield lettermen include Bobby Robbins, El Campo; Shirl Gandy, Brady; John Culpepper, Katy; Al Schlosser, Kermit; Dale Fisher, Comanche and Jack Roberson, Valley Mills.

Returning line lettermen are Carl Davis, Corsicana; Jerry Miller, Guthrie; Don Martin, Stamford; George Ray, Keego Harbor, Michigan; Daylon Whitehurst; De-Leon; Wayne Harris, LaVaga; Dorman Riddles, Brady; Roy Self, Harbinger; Tex Farris, Odessa; Don Houck, Kerrville; Robert Chavira, Del Rio; Mickey Warlick, Seminole and Ray Jacobs, Corsicana.

Veterans will report August 22, while first-year gridmen are due August 29.

Tough Team To Beat

Baltimore, Detroit Halve Double Bill

BALTIMORE (AP) — An unearned run, forced across on a bases-loaded walk by relief pitcher Gene Woodling, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the second game of a twi-night double-header Saturday night.

Detroit won the opener 4-1 as Frank Bolling and Eddie Yost hit homers to back up lefty Hank Aguirre's three-hit pitching.

Rookie Phil Regan, making his first major league start for the Tigers, was charged with the night-cap loss.

The 23-year-old right-hander allowed only two hits over the final 5 2-3 innings before Detroit shortstop Chico Fernandez opened the gates for the winning run by making a wild throw on Jackie Brandt's two-out bouncer in the ninth.

Gene Stephens, who dropped a fly ball to permit an unearned Tiger run in the sixth, then rapped a double off the right field wall, sending Brandt to third. After Woodling walked to load the bases, Labine replaced Regan.

Labine worked the count to 3-2 on Jim Gentile. The Oriole clean-up hitter fouled the next pitch and then took a fourth ball.

Regan gave up single runs in the first three innings before he settled down. The Tigers came back with a single run in the third, a solo homer by Fernandez in the fifth and the unearned run in the sixth.

Hoyt Wilhelm pitched three hitless innings in relief of Hal Brown, striking out four, to pick up his eighth victory since May 22. He allowed only a scratch infield hit before Dave Nicholson homered to lead off the Oriole eighth.

By that time, a two-run homer by Bolling and a one-run homer by Yost had served up the southpaw's third triumph in five decisions. The loser was Jerry Walker, the first of three Baltimore pitchers.

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — Ken Ford, Sammy Baugh's own Hardin-Simmons product Saturday led the Whites to a 20-13 victory over the Blues in a New York Titans inter-squad football scrimmage.

Ford passed 25 yards to Don Maynard of Texas Western who ran over from the 10. He later completed a 44-yard pass to Ken Campbell of West Chester (Pa.) State in the end zone.

Halfback Bill Shockley, also of West Chester, scored for both sides, kicking two field goals, running for a touchdown and kicking a point after.

Betsy Rawls Wins Fem's Open Crown For 4th Time

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Betsy Rawls overcame a seven-stroke deficit and steadily mounting pressure Saturday and won an unprecedented fourth U.S. Women's Open Golf title with a 292.

The Spartansburg, S.C., golfer fired a brilliant, 4-under-par 68 in the morning round, wiping out the seven-stroke lead built up by defending champion Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif., in the first two days.

In the afternoon she fired two strokes back of Joyce Ziske, Waterford, Wis., on the first nine, but rallied and pulled it out with a 2-under-par 35 on the last nine.

Miss Ziske, who trailed Betsy and Mickey by three strokes at the end of 54 holes, came in with a 73, one stroke back in second place.

Tall, blonde Mickey's 299 was good for fifth, one stroke back of Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge, Crystal River, Fla., and Mary Lena Faulk, Sea Island, Ga., who tied

Wright, Partner Shaded In Amarillo S'Finals

AMARILLO (AP) — Defending champions Chris Blocker of Jal, N.M., and John Farquhar of Amarillo slammed into the finals of the Amarillo invitational partnership golf tournament Saturday.

They will meet Jimmy Johnson of Levelland and Don Nix of Hobbs, N.M., Sunday in a finals that is all Texas Tech. Blocker, Johnson and Nix are on the Tech golf team, Farquhar formerly played for the Red Raiders.

Blocker and Farquhar reached the finals with a 14 and 10 victory over Charley Douglass and Ben Lane Jr. of Amarillo. Nix and Johnson got there with a 3-up triumph over Jack Newby of Amarillo and Bobby Wright of Big Spring.

In the partnership tournament one hole counts two points and the team that runs up more points than there are points still out wins the match.

Blocker and Farquhar are favored to win the championship and if they do it will be the first time in the 9-year history of the tournament that one team has won two titles.

In the quarter-finals this morning Blocker and Farquhar defeated Bill Garrett of Amarillo and Frank Luke of Harlingen, 9 and 8. Douglass and Lane took out Jimmy Linn of Spearman and Jimmy Haren of Phillips, 13 and 12. Nix and Johnson beat Robert Rogers and Bobby Scott of Amarillo 1-up, 19 holes, and Wright and Newby downed David Lard and Joe Bob Brown of Amarillo, 6 and 4.

Chicago Takes Lead In American League

NEW YORK (AP)—Minnie Minoso cracked four straight hits and drove in three runs to boost the Chicago White Sox into first place in the American League Saturday with a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Bob Shaw, with ninth-inning help from fireman Gerry Staley, recorded his ninth victory of the season as the surging White Sox extended their winning streak to seven in a row, including two straight over the Yankees. Al Lopez' hot club has now won 21 of their last 29, dating back to June 21 when they were in fifth place.

Whitey Ford, Yankee ace, was the victim of Chicago's 11-hit assault. The veteran southpaw was tagged for nine hits and all the runs before he gave way to Ralph Terry in the sixth. The loss evened his season record at 6-6.

Minoso's fifth-inning single drove home Luis Aparicio, who had opened with a walk and had stolen his 25th base. Minnie's RBI tied the score at 1-1. New York had scored in the first on a single by Hector Lopez and Yogi Berra's double.

Chicago tallied four times in the sixth to break the tie with Minoso delivering the key hit, a single with the bases loaded.

Ideal Conditions Prevail For Thomas Fishermen

Lake J. B. Thomas never looked better, fishing conditions were never more favorable than they have been the past week at the big reservoir.

Perhaps the oddest thing at the lake within the past several days occurred when Mrs. Don Brasher of Ackerly hooked three fish on two hooks.

Mrs. Bracher caught a crappie on one line and then had it swallowed by a six - pound blue catfish. She caught a channel catfish on the other line. The bait she used: minnows.

She was fishing near Claud Hodnett's Sportsman Paradise on the south side of the lake at the time.

Other reports from around the lake:

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE — Jack Graham, who resides on Lake Thomas, reeled in a 6½-pound black bass and a number of smaller ones, using plugs on a rod and reel.

Two youngsters, Mike McDonald and Bub Harris, used a trot line to catch a six - pound blue cat and lots of channel cat.

W. A. James and a Mr. Kirchner, both of Big Spring, netted 30 white bass ranging in weight from one to one and a half pounds using Lily rods.

A Mrs. Underwood and party, Big Spring, caught a number of crappie and catfish while fishing from the Hodnett fish house. They were using minnows as bait.

CLYDE MONTGOMERY'S LAKESIDE GROCERY — Dwain Leonard, Big Spring, caught 22 channel catfish, the biggest of which weighed three pounds.

James Vines, Big Spring, reported some good catches near the grocery store without specifying what he caught. Leonard returned to his favorite fishing spot later and reeled in no fewer than 56 channel cat.

David Bain, Dumas, reported he caught five channel cat while Mrs. Don Brasher, Ackerly, caught a 2½-pound channel catfish and several nice white bass.

HOMER SMITH'S GROCERY—Business appeared to be rushing at this spot, located on the banks of the Colorado River immediately west of Lake Thomas. Fishermen lined the banks Thursday.

W. W. Jones and son, Big Spring, Wednesday night caught 25 catfish of assorted sizes, weighing up to three pounds. They were using blood bait.

Snagged On Trotline

J. W. Holder and T. Atkinson, both of Snyder, hold up a 9¾ pound catfish they caught on a trotline near Lake Thomas Lodge at Lake J. B. Thomas recently. They were using chicken hearts as bait.

A Loop man, Dwight Smith, caught a blue catfish weighing 5¼ pounds and eight channel cat, weighing up to two pounds each.

J. O. Freeman, J. R., Jim and J. C. Moore, all of Tahoka, caught two good-sized channel cat, and seven crappie, the biggest of which weighed one and one-half pounds.

B. J. Mills and son, Mikie, Seagraves, landed six channel catfish weighing up to one and one-half pounds each, along with three big crappie.

B. J. Scott and son, Donnie, both of Plains; and Eddie McNenny; Lubbock, left after catching fish that dressed out to 25 pounds.

JINKINS MORELAND GROCERY — Miss Moreland reports that the fishing luck has been generally good in these parts.

A Mr. Colley, Lamesa, brought in three black bass, weighing up to 4½ pounds each. He was using a rod and reel.

Juanice Chilton and son, Lamesa, reported they caught some fine crappie and catfish every day the past week.

Bill Wiley and his brother, both of Lubbock, caught 60 pounds of catfish, weighing from one to six pounds each.

Jinkins says she will stage a carp fishing contest during the month of August. The fisherman bringing in the biggest carp during that 31-day period will win a rod and reel. The reel will be a 40 Garcia.

HALLEY BROWNE'S GROCERY — Leo Huddleston and family, Brownfield, have been spending a week's vacation near here and have been catching lots of channel catfish.

LEM GRESHAM'S BAIT HOUSE — Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Payne, Odessa, left after reeling in 25 channel catfish. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rhodes and Bill Britt, Lamesa, reeled in 20 white bass while trolling. A Lamesa group, composed of R. O. Parker, J. P. White, Ross Boardman, Walter Burkett and Virgil Williams, teamed up to catch five channel catfish weighing up to 2½ pounds each, plus 60 crappie and channel catfish. They were using minnows and liver as bait.

Skeet Norret, also of Lamesa, reported he caught ten pounds of catfish while a Lamesa couple, netted a nice string of catfish, crappie and channel catfish, weighing up to 3½ pounds.

A Seagraves man, Ira Allen, while fishing off the dock, caught several catfish weighing up to three pounds.

Turner Morrisett, Lamesa, caught a good string of catfish on a trotline, weighing up to five pounds each. He had between ten and 15 fish, all toll.

BOYD'S LODGE — Boyd's place is becoming the beauty spot on the lake. Enough grass and trees have been planted back of the cabins for a small park and the recent rains helped the area no end.

Raymond Boyd, co - operator of the lodge, has been in Temple, where his wife was hospitalized with pneumonia.

L. P. DENT'S GROCERY — W. S Hart of the Lion's Oil Camp checked in here to report he caught a four-pound blue catfish on a trotline and several smaller ones. He lamented that another, weighing upwards to 20 pounds, got away after he had been hooked.

Morgan Sepulvada, Dunn, caught an eight - pound blue catfish and gave the liver bait sold by Dent the credit.

LAKE THOMAS LODGE — Lots of activity in these parts. Mrs. T. E. Knight, Mrs. Casey Bishop and Tommie Sterling, all of Snyder, caught a marked blue catfish, weighing 9¼ pounds.

J. W. (Bo) Rich and W. O. Loper, both of Odessa, report good catches near here as did Buddy Lindsey, Andrews, and J. W. Holder and Tracy Atkinson, both of Snyder.

Lucky Angler

Buddy Lindsey of Andrews holds up a 4½ pound black bass he recently caught near Lake Thomas Lodge at Lake J. B. Thomas. He was using Bombers as bait.

Sizeable Cat

Martha Rae Graham proudly stands beside a whopping, flopping catfish her father, Jack Graham, recently pulled out of the waters of Lake J. B. Thomas. The fish is displayed at Sportsman's Paradise.

American Wins By 16-10 Tab

The American Little League withstood early pressure applied play, however, and salted away went on to win a 16-10 District game played here Friday night.

The Internationals started fast, scoring five times in the first, twice in the second and twice in the third.

The Americans trailed by only one tally after three innings of play, however, and salted away the decision with an eight-run fifth.

Freddie Stiehl highlighted fifth inning play for the Americans by belting a bases - loaded home run.

Gary Miears and Bruce Bellamy also clubbed home runs for the winners while Johnny Mercer hatl a single and a double for the Internationals.

Aug. 7 Is Deadline For Tourney Entry

Area golfers have until Sunday, Aug. 7, to post qualifying scores for the annual city tournament, which will be held at the Municipal course.

Entry fee is $5. The winners get golf merchandise.

Matches will begin Tuesday, Aug. 9 and will continue through Thursday, Aug. 14.

R. S. (Red) McCullah is the defending titlist and is due back to try and defend his laurels.

Par for the Muny layout is 73. Low qualifier thus far is Jimmy Newsom, who is almost certain to rate the title flight with his 72. None of the other three players who have qualified are close to Newsom.

Up until last year, entries were given a week in which to complete each of their matches. For that reason, the tournament extended over much of the summer.

However, Shorty Gideon, manager of the 18-hole course, elected to telescope the meet into five days and the reaction of most of the linksters was most favorable.

The course is in good shape for the meet, having benefitted from some good rains recently.

Pipe which will be used to irrigate the layout line some of the fairways but have not proved to be much of a handicap to players.

Usually, 60 to 70 players compete in the tournament and Gideon held out hopes that that many will get their names in the hopper this time.

Those desiring to enter can register at the golf shop.

AT HOUSTON CHURCH

Warren Is Summer Youth Director

Charles Warren, one-time basketball star at Big Spring High School and Howard County Junior College, is serving as the summer youth director at the Rice Temple Baptist Church in Houston.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Warren of 605 E. 15th Street. His wife is the former Shirley Riddle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Riddle, 911 E. 16th.

Charles is a senior student at the University of Texas Dental Branch in Houston.

After graduating from HCJC, he entered the University of Texas on a basketball scholarship.

In 1953, Warren attended the Baptist World Youth Alliance in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. He took a trip that made a 45-day tour along the coast of Brazil playing games and giving demonstrations.

The team was sponsored by two outstanding churchmen, Rev. Jackie Robinson, former Baylor University All- American cager, now pastor of the First Baptist Church in Augusta, Ga., and Dr. William Marshall, president of Wayland College at Plainview.

Youth training, fellowship and publication of a weekly paper constitute most of Warren's program on his new job. He has instituted a family night to bring the youngsters and their parents together at the churches Thursdays.

Charles had his college studies interrupted by two years of service in the Army.

KP Tigers Near Clinch Of Teen-Age Pennant

The KP Tigers moved toward clinching first place in the Teen-Age Baseball heague standings by defeating the Kiwanis in both ends of a double header here Friday night.

Rickey Wisener hurled a no-hit, no-run game as the pace setters won the opener, 14-0. The Bengals enjoyed two big innings to swamp the Kiwanians, 14-3, in the afterpoece.

Charley West, James Bowen, Bill Fox and Howard Bain each drove out two hits for the winners in the opener.

Only two batters, Velton Jones and Willie Garica, reached base against Wisener and both walked. Rickey fanned 11.

Wisener paced his team's attack in the second game, collecting three singles in as many trips.

Fox blasted a first inning home run with the bases loaded for the winners. John Villa had two of the Kiwanians' four hits.

The Tigers meet Cosden Wednesday in an important game that could clinch the pennant for them.

Jim Perry Handcuffs Red Sox For Tribe

BOSTON (AP) — Cleveland rookie Mike de la Hoz cracked his first major league home run and a sacrifice fly in a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday, supporting Jim Perry's 11th pitching triumph.

Willie Tasby and Ted Williams provided the Red Sox punch with solo homers.

Centerfielder Jim Piersall was thrown out of the game in the eighth inning for obstructing Williams' batting vision. Manager Joe Gordon had ruled he would fine Piersall $500 the next time Jim was ejected but got bounced himself defending his outfielder's right to dance back and forth on defense.

De La Hoz, 20-year-old Cuban, hit a sacrifice fly off loser Tom Brewer in the second inning to put the Indians ahead 2-0. He homered in the fourth, running the Indians' margin to 4-1.

De La Hoz was called up from Mobile to play shortstop for the Indians while Woody Held is sidelined by a broken finger.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Mike Hicks broke training in 1930 and was dropped from the Roscoe High School basketball team . . . The following football season, he scored the first and season's only touchdown against Big Spring and helped the Sweetwater Ponies inflict a 7-0 defeat on the Steers . . . Eligibility rules in the Texas Interscholastic League were a lot more lax in those days . . . They say the Plainview School Board bought up Buzz Warren's contract as head football coach there . . . Warren reportedly is going to Tennessee . . . A few months before he died a dozen years ago, the Chicago Cub hitting great, Hack Wilson, was hired as a park laborer in Baltimore, broke and in debt . . . His body almost wound up in potter's field . . . Only the charity of those who cared for him found him an honorable grave . . . George McAlister, who'll serve as co-director of the National Junior College Track and Field meet here, is now in summer training with the U. S. Marines in California . . . Odessa High School plays seven of ten games at home next season, including its Saturday, Oct. 29, engagement with Big Spring . . . In all, the three Odessa high schools will be seen 17 times by home crowds . . . Arlen White, the former Forsan High School and HCJC cager, is now a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps and stationed in California . . . He departs the service in December and hopes to enter the teaching-coaching profession . . . He and Mrs. White recently became the parents of a boy . . . Bill Howton, the former Plainview gridder who starred as a pass catcher for Green Bay for several years, says he won't be lured back into pro ball if the construction firm with which he is associated starts work on a shopping center in Houston within the next few weeks, as planned . . . Tom Spell may not be able to lend Forsan's James Blake much help as coach of the West Eight-Man All-Stars in next week's football game at Abilene . . . He's in summer school at Denton and his prof may not give him any time off.

Excellent Grid Magazine Now Available

Perhaps the best of the football magazines this year, for Texas readers, anyway, is the one entitled 1960 Texas Football, edited by Dave Campbell, the able Waco scribe . .Campbell, assisted by Al Ward, did a most thorough job in covering collegiate and high school football within the state . . . Once the blessed event had taken place, Campbell remarked "the conclusion here is: this state plays a lot of football" . . Dave not only did a thorough job on the prospects and hopes at each Southwest Conference school but picked his idea of the dozen best players in the league . .The publication also strives to name a super high school team for the fall campaign . . Included on the mythical contingent are such names as Billy Belew, the Sweetwater tackle, referred to as "possibly the best schoolboy lineman in Texas"; Gary Crain, the Odessa Permian fullback; and Haskell Davis, the Sundown halfback who appeared here in a playoff game with the Roughnecks last fall . .The magazine sells for 50 cents on the newsstands. . .

If you can't find it, write to P. O. Box 95, Waco, for a copy . .The Seminole High School basketball coaching job, recently filled by Jack Whitton of Huntington, probably pays more than most AAAA schools in the state . .Whitton's starting salary will be $6,800 . . . Clifton McNeely, who resigned as cage mentor at Pampa High School to take an administrative job in a Fort Worth School, seemed determined to get out of coaching . . He tried to land a non-coaching job in Dumas not long ago . .Reports from Snyder say the Tigers will operate from the LSU style of attack this fall, which means that the club will depend upon jet-propelled halfbacks to produce its touchdowns . .Carrollton High School, which hired Hugh Hamm away from Big Spring, is rated fourth in Class AAA by some observers, just back of Sweetwater, Kilgore and Cleburne . .Carrollton's powerhouse this fall will be a 180-pound boy named Clint Mitchell . . . Mitchell ran against Big Spring's R. L. Lasater in an AAU track meet at Garland earlier this year.

Bobby Layne Close To Sam's Record

Big Spring's Bobby Wright was nipped by Roland Adams of Lubbock, 1 up, in the first round of the Levelland Invitational Golf tournament last week but Bobby came back to edge Levelland's Mack Tubb in the 19th hole in the championship consolation finals. . .Byron (Santone) Townsend, one of Odessa High School's all-time football greats; recently was tried and found wanting by the Houston Oilers of the American Football League . .Tex Shirley, who pitched in Big Spring several times prior to World War II and who later was a regular on the 1944 St. Louis Browns' World Series club, is now manager of the Walton Transportation Company in Houston . .Ingo Johansson, the deposed Heavyweight boxing champion, not only denied he said that his next fight with Floyd Patterson would be his last but also maintained that he would give up his country-club training atmosphere in favor of a trailer-camp hideaway . .Pro football players are placed under contract long before they begin workouts but their salaries do not begin until they play their first league games. . .They receive their room and board, plus a modest allowance each week . .Pay day usually falls on Tuesday, once league play begins . .Bobby Layne, who owns a bowling alley here, may break a NFL passing record with his first completed pass this fall. . .He's only 22 yards shy by Sammy Baugh's 22,085 yards gained through the air. . Baugh established his record in 16 seasons of play . . .Layne will be in his 13th year. . .The San Francisco Giants may hire Joe Gordon away from Cleveland as their manager next spring. . .The Boston Patriots of the AFL started their fourth day of practice with 40 fewer players than they had on opening day . .Billy Capps, the one-time Big Spring infielder, recently was fired as manager of the Visalia entry in the California league . . His club was fifth and threatening to drop into the cellar in the six-team circuit.

C. City Shades Snyder, 7-5

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City All-stars, under the coaching of Don Clark and Gene Parham, outscored the Snyder American League All-Stars 7 to 5 in a playoff game held at Colorado City Friday night.

Pitcher John Beezley and catcher Tom Mann went all six innings for the winners and Buddy Powell and Powers Boothe were the losing battery. Lonnie Bates also pitched for Snyder.

O. N. Wooldridge and Bill Fisher coached the Snyder team.

Wayne Parham, the first Colorado City batter hit safely and went to second to come in on a double by Larry Curry. Curry stole third and came in on a single by Mann. Mann scored on a passed ball to give the Colorado City team a quick three run lead.

Powell hit a grand slam homer to give Snyder a one run lead, in the bottom of the second.

In the top of the third, Colorado City's Barney Cupp and Larry Curry scored to put Colorado City ahead. Snyder's Danny Howell knotted the count at 5 all in the bottom of the fourth. He stretched a single into a three bagger on Colorado City misthrows. He was waved in from third when one of the Colorado City players threw his glove at the ball.

Raymond Bell and Wayne Snowden scored in the fifth to give Colorado City a two run lead.

RICHARD GILMORE

Gilmore Hired By Wilson Hi

Richard (Ricketts) Gilmore, a member of some of HCJC's finest basketball teams, has accepted a position on the high school faculty at Wilson, Texas.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gilmore. He attended public schools at Forsan, where he starred in basketball.

Ricketts, who attended East Texas State College in Commerce, where he also played basketball, will serve as assistant football coach at head basketball mentor at Wilson.

For the past couple of years, Gilmore has been coaching football and basketball at a junior high school in Lubbock.

Gilmore succeeds G. C. Roberts as the Wilson basketball mentor.

Wilson is located in Lynn County not far from Lubbock. It is a Class B school.

Aaron Is New Homer Leader

CHICAGO (AP) — Hank Aaron took over the National League homer lead Saturday as he smacked his 28th in Milwaukee's 3-0 defeat of the Chicago Cubs for the second-place Braves' eighth win in the past 10 games.

Aaron homered with one out and the bases empty in the ninth. Loser Don Cardwell, who suffered his 10th loss among 14 decisions despite the fact he pitched a four-hitter, was the victim of Aaron's blast.

Eddie Mathews set the Braves in motion offensively with his 21st homer in the first inning.

Winner Juan Pizarro fanned 12 and walked three before he was lifted two outs from the finish line.

Rookie Records 2nd Win, 3-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rookie Juan Marichal pitched his second victory in as many major league starts Saturday, stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on four hits. Home runs by Bob Schmidt and Willie Mays powered San Francisco to its victory.

The defeat, coupled with Milwaukee's victory over Chicago, cut the Pirates' National League lead to 1½ games over the second-place Braves.

Ruidoso Feature Set For Fillies

RUIDOSO, N. M. (SC) — The Bright Eyes Stakes, a race carded for fillies and mares, at 400 yards and The Knox Cattle Company Allowance, a race which has attracted almost all of the handicap horses at the meeting, will draw the co-featured spots on Sunday's card at Ruidoso Downs. With an outstanding 870 yard dash, a good AA plus race and several top Thoroughbred races, this shapes up as one of the better cards of the season and should draw a strong support from the public.

The Bright Eyes Stakes, named in honor of one of the greatest Quarter running mares of all time (C. L. Maddon's Bright Eyes), has attracted 10 of the top sprinters at the meeting. Eight of the 10 are graded AAA plus, the highest grade obtainable in the Quarter Horse world, while the two remaining are graded AAA minus and both rate a better than even chance.

This will mark the first appearance of Miss Louton, one of last year's consistent winners. The balance of those named to go include Mary K Kay, Miss Annie Bar, Bar Flirt, Antlers Trade, Li Chilla, First Call, Kaystorm, Easter Rose, Lena's Bar, Aunt Judy and Granite Dust.

The Knox Cattle Company Allowance has enticed a fine field of Thoroughbreds at the seven-furlong distance, topped by the grey ghost from Chicago, Masud, from the stable of G. E. Thompson.

Masud fared badly in his last outing but was winner in a previous handicap and scored several wins in the Midwest against tougher competition. Burgundy Belle, a surprise winner in last week's handicap must draw consideration here and Turkson, scoring his first win of the year last week at one-half mile, will be trying the seven furlong distance for the first time. This shapes up as one of the better allowance races of the meeting and once again could hold a surprise winner.

The 870 yard event has drawn a full field of 10, including Flying Tom, winner of the Eight Seventy Stakes; Careless Curl, who finished third to Flying Tom in a previous 870, and who holds the track record at six furlongs, and a host of other top sprinters including Reagan Bar who won his last 870 outing going away. This is probably one of the best 870 races ever run at the Downs and looms as a wide open race.

Nominations:

FIRST RACE (6 furl.)—Fair Manso, Gladmor, Teds Jeep, Real Bold, Star Sweeper, Indian Peace, Running Texan, Velmas Regards, Sir Bag, Kingsboy.

SECOND RACE (6 furl.)—Just Step, War Days, War Tuffy, Short Wait, Bold Slip, Rajah Diablos, Senorita Alma, Gray Jewel, Marie's Dream, San Patricio.

FOURTH RACE (350 yards)—Durango Man, Call Me, Hat Eight, Hoop Wagoner, Sierra Hotshot, Kittyhawk Gay, Brevity Joe, Kings Ike, Jerico Kat, Lou Van.

FIFTH RACE (350 yards)—Blue Bars, Shubalee, Armsmear, Idle Hour, Rang's Catch Me, Tonta Tex, Surelike Ma, Ida Louise, Tee Beau, Outrider.

SIXTH RACE (6 furl.)—Sleptover, Fran's Tip, Carolos, Tet's Flyer, King Khal, Trucker, Single Somer, Fleet Sis, Bull O'Val, Gary R.

SEVENTH RACE (5½ furl.)—Golly Whiz, Sad Boy, Terra Shot, Flying Charlie, Ruby Hills, Mesquite Baby, Whizzing Yonder, Ramaline, I'll Talk.

EIGHTH RACE (870 yards)—Hurrikate, Clover Leaf, May High, Mr. Freckels, Black Barrera, Flying Tom, Odelia Kaye, Shes Saucy, Reagan Bar, Careless Curl.

NINTH RACE (7 furl.)—Akalady, G-Eye, Go On, Creole Baby, Boerpan, Macdan, Ellwillow, Chee Bones.

TENTH RACE (7 furl.)—Burgundy Belle, Quick Thrust, Don R., Ah-Ba's Grandson, C-West Texas, Didjano, Masud, Turkson.

11TH RACE (400 yards)—Lena's Bar, Miss Annie Bar, Antlers Trade, Easter Rose, Kaystorm, Aunt Judy, Mary K Kay, First Call, Miss Louton, Li Chilla.

Walt Moryn's Circuit Smash Boosts Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Walt Moryn belted his second home run as a Cardinal and fourth of the season Saturday, giving St. Louis a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Lindy McDaniel nailed down the victory in relief, his 37th appearance as a fireman for the Cards this season. He lost a three-run lead in the ninth inning on a two-run homer by Frank Robinson.

But Bob Grim, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, set up Moryn's deciding poke with a walk to Joe Cunningham.

A late rally broke a tie and gave St. Louis one run in the eighth, and two more in the ninth on Bob White's two-run double.

The game was pockmarked with errors and defensive miscues, and four of the 12 runs were unearned.

Tigers Oppose Levelland 9

Smarting from their first defeat of the season, administered last Sunday, the Big Spring Tigers seek a return to winning ways in a 3 p.m. baseball game at Steer Park today.

The locals play host to Levelland in a New Mex-Tex League game. The Tigers currently pace the circuit with a 13-1 record and are 19-1 overall.

Bobby Suggs, who has won six straight games, will probably pitch for Big Spring.

Marion Tredaway is leading the Bengals in hitting with an average of .541. Tredaway, who plays shortstop, has collected 33 hits in 61 trips to the plate and has scored 30 runs.

Closest man to him on the team is Billy Weatherrall, an outfielder, who has smashed 27 safeties in 55 attempts for a .491 mark. Five other players are above the .400 mark. They are Billy Paul Thomas (.474), Sonny Dutchover (.457), Chubby Moser (.450), Bobby Beall (.444) and Preston (Ridge) Daniels (.441).

Moser and Suggs lead the pitchers, each with a 6-0 won - lost record. Joe Cadenhead is also undefeating, having won two games. Danny Valdes, the other member of the Tiger mound corps, stands at 3-1.

Moser has been the busiest hurler on the staff, having toiled in 48 innings. He has fanned 70 batters during that time while walking only 19.

The Tigers were to have met this afternoon but the two teams couldn't get together on the gate split. Piedras Niegras wanted more money that the Tiger management said it was able to pay.

Triple Play Helps Sens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators pulled off the first American League triple play of the season and Harmon Killebrew hit his ninth homer as the Senators whipped the Kansas City Athletics 8-3 Saturday.

Chuck Stobbs, with five innings of four-hit, one-run relief work, was credited with his seventh victory against two defeats. Bud Daley, seeking his 13th victory, instead was tagged with his seventh setback as the Senators belted him for their first five runs in his three innings.

Bartzen Wins Over Aussie

CHICAGO (AP) — Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen swept past Rod Laver of Australia Saturday, 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 6-2, and earned a finals berth in the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament.

Bartzen, seeking a fourth clay courts title and his third straight, meets Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, in Sunday's championship game. MacKay Friday defeated Jon Douglas 4-6, 6-4, 10-12, 6-3, 6-3, in the other semifinal match.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode entered the women's finals by defeating Nancy Richey, 6-4, 11-9.

Mrs. Knode, the 35-year-old star from Panama City who won the clay courts title in 1951, 1955 and 1958, had little difficulty in defeating her 17-year-old rival from San Angelo, Tex., in the first set.

Miss Richey, however, held leads of 4-2 and 5-3 in the second set only to see Mrs. Knode even the score at 5-5. The two played 10 more games before Mrs. Knode

SCOT Conclave On Safety Set

AUSTIN (AP) — Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas (SCOT) Saturday announced a statewide conference on boating safety will be held here Aug. 19.

Henry LeBlanc Sr., president of SCOT of Port Arthur, said members of the legislature have been invited to attend.

William J. Murray Jr., Texas railroad commissioner and SCOT director, will call the meeting to order. Rep. Ben Atwell, Dallas, sponsor of the boat regulatory act which went into effect April 1, will be moderator.

LeBlanc said he hoped representatives of such groups as water skiiers, fishermen, skin divers, boat manufacturers and law enforcement agencies would attend.

He said there probably will be amendments offered to the boat regulatory act at the next legislature.

Farrell Betters Freestyle Record

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—American records were shattered in two more events Saturday in the AAU National Men's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Jeff Farrell, who Friday bettered the existing mark in the 100-meter freestyle, cracked the American standard Saturday in the 200-meter freestyle.

The 23-year-old Kansan did it in 2:03.0, clipping six-tenths of a second off the accepted mark.

Just after Farrell's new record went up, Ron Clark, a University of Michigan senior, turned in an American record time in the 200-meter breaststroke.

This event is regarded as the one in which the United States will be weakest in the upcoming Olympic Games in Rome.

Clark churned home in 2:38.9. The recognized mark is 2:43.1.

Cook's Ousted In Tournament By Vine Ave.

ODESSA (SC)—Cook Appliance Company of Big Spring was ousted from the ISC State Softball tournament here Friday night by Vine Avenue Baptist Church. Final score was 5-4.

Earlier in the evening, the Big Spring club had dropped a 2-1 heartbreaker to the tournament favorite, Coors Beer of Odessa.

Vine Avenue scored twice in the first and three times in the third to squeeze by Cook's. The Big Springers counted twice in Round Two and came back to get two more in the sixth.

Each team collected seven hits. Oakie Hagood drove out two hits for Big Spring, as did Gene Gross.

Cook collected only four hits in the game against Coor's. Randy Reiger was the winning tosser while Troy Wetsel was the loser.

Marion Tredaway accounted for half of Big Spring's hits in that game. J. White had a single and a double for Coor's.

The Odessans scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh when Strech doubled and rode home on a two-baser by Reiger.

T. V. Lark First In Chicago Event

CHICAGO (AP) — T.V. Lark, owned by C. R. McCoy of Pasadena, Calif., Saturday won the $135,600 Arlington Classic by about three-quarters of a length over John William, while the even-money favorite Venetian Way finished third.

Ridden by John Sellers, T.V. Lark grabbed the lead on the turn for home and covered the mile in 1:36 1-5 in winning an $86,500 ppt.

Venetian Way, the Kentucky Derby winner, packed 123 pounds with Eddie Arcaro aboard and shared top weight with John William. T.V. Lark carried 120.

A Pat on the Back

For MRS. HOMER "PAULINE" PETTY

A gift of $1,030—representing two years work by Altrusa Club members—was presented to the YMCA last week by their president, Mrs. Homer Petty.

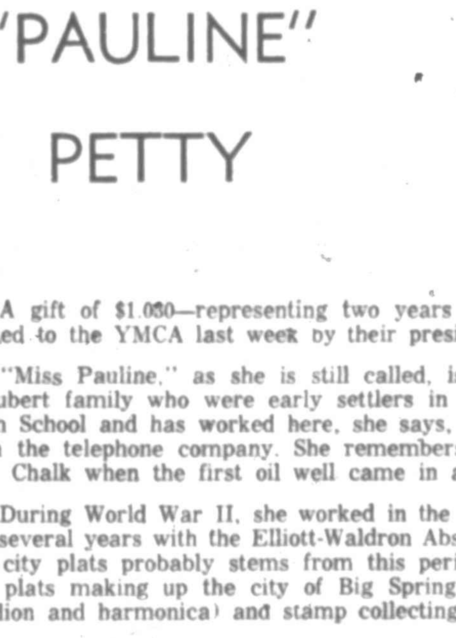
"Miss Pauline," as she is still called, is a native Big Springer, a member of the Schubert family who were early settlers in this area. She graduated from Big Spring High School and has worked here, she says, "all her life". One of her earlier jobs was with the telephone company. She remembers handling the call to Dallas made by Mr. Otis Chalk when the first oil well came in at that field.

During World War II, she worked in the Selective Service office and was associated for several years with the Elliott-Waldron Abstract Company. Her unusual hobby of drawing city plats probably stems from this period. She has completed 65 of the estimated 150 plats making up the city of Big Spring. Music (she plays piano, organ, piano-accordion and harmonica) and stamp collecting are other spare time interests.

Speaking fluent Spanish was an invaluable aid to Mrs. Petty during four years of local welfare work. An effort was being made at that time to provide certain Latin-American citizens with permanent passports. She was able to save considerable time in this processing by using their language with some who did not speak English.

Her appointment as County Clerk came in 1953. Currently, she is interested in helping people who do not have birth certificates obtain them. "My personal ambition is simply to be of help to people no matter what their race or creed," she said. The organizations in which she is active—such as the Altrusa, Order of the Eastern Star and John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge—have provided this opportunity. She holds membership also in the auxiliary for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Chamber of Commerce.

Her husband, Homer Petty, operates a barber shop on the North Side. They live at 707 North Gregg and attend services at the First Christian Church.



We Always Have Time To Serve You.

Two Webb Officers In Rifle Matches

Two Webb Air Force Base officers leave shortly for Camp Perry, Ohio, where they will compete in the National Rifle Matches.

The matches get under way Saturday, Aug. 6, and continue through Thursday, Aug. 11.

The two men are Capt. John S. Smith, assigned Group Operations and Flight Training, and Lt. Jim Harper of the 3561st Pilot Training Squadron.

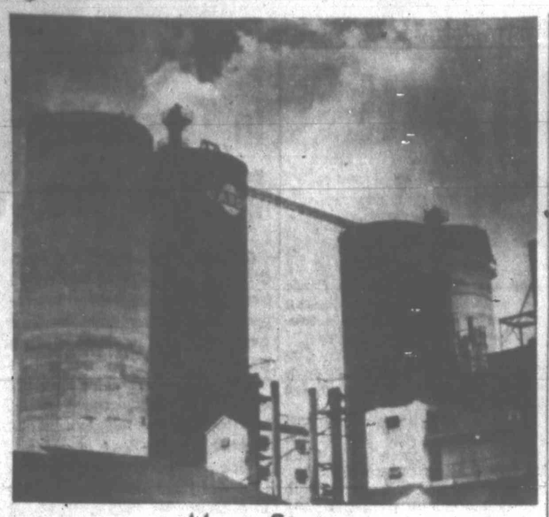
Smith and Harper will make the trip separately by private conveyance. Each plans to leave Aug. 2.

Harper recently finished second in the World Wide Air Force Rifle meet at Lackland Field, San Antonio, scoring 3180 of a possible 3200.

Smith is a native of Dallas and has been shooting only two years. He has nearly 18 years service in the Air Force.

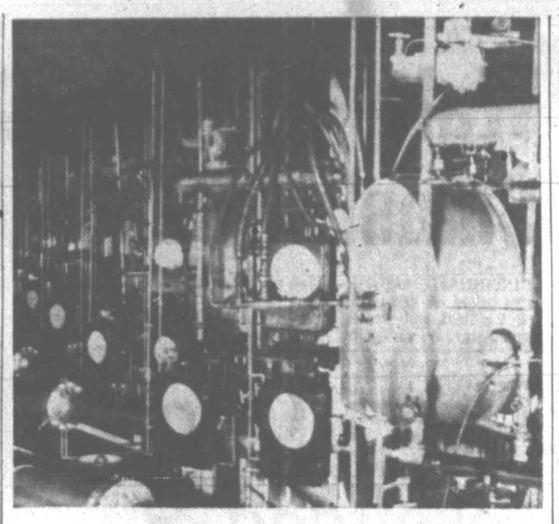
Harper is a native of New York State.

The two competed at Camp Perry last year and returned with awards.



More Storage

Towering 150 feet into the air above the Cabot plant are these four storage silos, each capable of holding from three to four million pounds of carbon black. The two unpainted structures are still in the construction phase and should be ready for use sometime this fall. The additional silos, when completed, will double Cabot's silo storage space. The finished black is stored in bulk form and in bags which are preferred by some tire manufacturers The silos are at the north end of the carbon black plant adjacent to the railroad.



Reactor Unit

Improvements in this reactor unit at Cabot have increased the yearly productiona potential to 120 million pounds of black per year, from 75 million pounds. Temperatures in the row of reactors reach over 2,000 degrees to convert Cosden's residual oil into carbon black. The oil enters the reactors at about 500 degrees, and is sprayed into the white-hot reactors as a mist during the carbon-forming process. From here the black is cooled and made into pellets, the market product.

Cabot Carbon Improves Plant, Increases Production, Storage

By JACK RADER

The Cabot Carbon plant, just outside Big Spring on East U. S. 80, has recently increased its production 50 per cent and is in the process of doubling storage space.

In addition to improvements in the manufacturing end of the carbon black industry here, a new office and laboratory is proposed.

With all these improvements, company and local plant officials are fairly bursting with pride over the work being done at the 95-employe facility.

IN PELLET FORM

The carbon black, produced here, is in the form of tiny pellets, about the size of buckshot, and is used principally by rubber companies throughout the United States in the production of automobile tires, according to Dave Davenport, plant superintendent.

The carbon is used specifically as a reinforcing agent in tire manufacturing, giving tires their needed strength, and wearing quality. "As a matter of fact, synthetic rubber would be useless without carbon black," Davenport said.

The plant is now producing a potential 120 million pounds of black a year, a 50 per cent increase over the 75 million pounds produced before the improvements were put in effect.

The exact improvements are a carefully guarded secret at Cabot, since the patents are still in process, Davenport explained.

"This is a highly competitive industry and we can't let all our trade secrets out."

IN REACTOR SECTION

The production increase stems largely from improvements in the reactor section of the process, where the residual oil obtained from Cosden is converted to a carbon.

What looks like a series of bent smoke-stacks extend into the air from the reactor unit and these stacks constitute Cabot's pet project. Inside the stacks are pipes and other paraphernalia the company developed to boost production.

Under construction are two giant silos which will double storage space for the manufactured carbon black, Davenport said. They are due for use this fall.

The new silos will be 150 feet high and 40 feet in diameter, the same size as the two now in use. They will hold from three to four million pounds of black each. When completed the plant will be able to store about 16 million pounds in silos. In addition, there is warehouse space for about 35 million pounds.

Also due iprovements is the pellet - making process, Davenport said. This is the last thing that happens to the carbon before it is packaged for shipping.

From the reactors, the minute fluffy particles of carbon black are cooled and run into machines where they are mixed with water to form pellets. The water is then extracted, the pellets dried and the finished product ready for storage and shipping.

The Big Spring plant still stores some black in special 25 and 50 pound bags, Davenport said, but more and more shipping is being done in bulk form.

Cabot has its own railroad hopper cars which the company designed for bulk shipment. Each of these cars will carry from 80,000 to 100,000 pounds of black.

The cars are pulled up beside the silos, the black dumped in and the product sent on its way to one of the many rubber companies scattered around the country.

NEW OFFICES

The new office being proposed here will be completely air-conditioned and constructed to keep the carbon from filtering into the building. The laboratory and engineering office is currently located within the plant itself and carbon dust often sifts around doors and windows into sensitive equipment.

The new office, to be built just west of the present building, will house the engineering office, the laboratory, and the bookkeeping and administrative departments.

Rotary Activity Makes Slight Climb To 208

Rotary drilling activity in the Permian Basin area increased slightly last week with the addition of three rigs for a total of 208, according to the Reed Roller Bit Co. survey.

The eight-county area showed an increase of six rotary operations, from 13 to 19.

Martin County boosted the area record with the addition of four turning rigs, from two to six. Dawson County leads the area with eight.

Borden and Howard counties got back on the active list this week and reported one rig each. Garza gained one, from two to three.

Mitchell County lost its one active rig of the previous week and and no rotary activity is reported in Sterling and Glasscock counties.

Lea County, N. M., led the Basin with 30 active rotary operations at the end of the week, an increase of five since the last count.

The county-by-county survey of the Basin, with last week's figures in parentheses, includes:

Andrews 25 (24), Borden 1 (0), Chavez 2 (1), Cochran 2 (0), Crane 7 (7), Crockett 5 (3), Crosby 1 (0), DAWSON 6 (4), Dickens 0 (2), Ector 14 (12), Eddy 24 (22); Fisher 0 (2); Gaines 7 (10), GARZA 3 (2), Glasscock 0 (0), Hale 1 (0), Hockley 2 (2), HOWARD 1 (0), Irion 1 (1), Lamb 1 (1), Lea 30 (25), Loving 1 (2), Lubbock 0 (1).

Texas Drillers Final 198 Wells

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission said Saturday drillers brought in 198 oil and 32 gas wells during the week.

For the year, 5,589 oil and 1,070 gas wells have been completed, compared with 6,643 and 1,125 a year ago.

Some 100 wells were plugged, including 70 dry holes. Drillers have closed 4,818 wells this year compard with 5,464 a year ago.

Drillers brought in 13 wildcat oil and 5 gas wells. This year, drillers have brought in 215 wildcat oil and 55 gas wells compared with 236 and 38 in 1959.

The daily oil allowable increased 6,367 a day to 2,636,436 barrels.

New Production Group For Shell

HOUSTON (AP)—Shell Oil Co. has formed a new production group to handle offshore production operations in Texas.

F. D. Leigh, former production superintendent of Shell's New Orleans area marine production division, has been named manager of the new group.

Shell is the largest single holder of leases off Texas. The 134,482 acres under lease include 126,720 in the federal zone and 7,762 in the state zone that extends 10½ miles from shore.

D&D PERSONALITY

Mrs. Broughton Is Honor Member

Desk and Derrick Member of the Month is Mrs. G. C. Broughton, buyer in Cosden's purchasing department.

Mrs. Broughton joined Cosden in March, 1956, as a secretary in the purchasing department. Her first association with the oil industry was in May, 1950, when she went to work for the Westex Oil Co. She was employed in the bookkeeping department and also handled accounts receivable.

Mrs. Broughton was born in Big Spring. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wise.

She attended public school in Coahoma where she graduated from high school. Following graduation, she entered Draughon's Business College in Abilene and while there worked part-time for the Connally Stevens Co. She graduated from the business college with training in bookkeeping and secretarial-accounting.

She had been a member of the Desk and Derrick since its organization here in 1954, serving at that time on the first nominating committee.

Mrs. Broughton has served as president of the local chapter one term and as vice president two terms. In addition, she has served on numerous committees and the board of directors. She has attended two national conventions, in Banff, Alberta, Canada, and in New Orleans, La. Mrs. Broughton was also responsible for initiating monthly board meetings. She is presently serving on the bulletin committee.

MRS. G. C. BROUGHTON

She was married in November, 1950, and she and her husband live at 1750 Harvard.

C-City Native Quits Island Post

HONOLULU (AP)—Riley H. Allen from Colorado City, Tex., stepped down as editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin Friday.

Allen, 76, has been editor of the paper since 1912.

Allen's appointment as trustee of the Wallace Farrington estate preceded announcement of the editorial staff changes by Mrs. Joseph Farrington, president of the publishing company.

Rotary Operations Increase To 1,730

The number of rotary rigs actually making hole in the United States increased from 1,710 to 1,730 this past week, according to a survey conducted by the Hughes Tool Company.

Texas added four to its grand total for a count of 570, the survey showed. West Central Texas dropped five, however, from 96 to 91.

Texas kept a tight hold on first place as second - place Louisiana reported 302 rigs turning, an increase from 291 the week before.

Oklahoma held steady with 167, Kansas dropped two to 110, New Mexico gained four to 106, and California lost one to 83.

New Gas Well In Culberson

DALLAS (AP) — A significant new gas area may be opened in West Texas by Mobil Oil Co.'s wildcat' discovery in Culberson County 30 miles from production of any kind, the company reports.

Located near the highest point in Texas, Guadalupe Peak, and farther west than any other Texas well, Mobile's No. 1 State-Barrett was completed in the Pennsylvanian-Strawn formation at 5,814-5,829 and 5,842-5,857 feet with a calculated open flow of 13,500,000 cubic feet of dry gas daily.

Mobil has 60,000 acres or so under lease in the area and indicates plans are already under way to drill a second well in the region.

The company said the area is considered to have "excellent possibilities" for additional oil or gas production.

CATC Group Completes Plant

HOUSTON (AP) — A $1,300,000 plant to recover gasoline from natural gas has been completed at Grand Chenier, La.

Officials of the CATC group of offshore operators said the plant is the largest of its type in the nation.

Continental Oil Co. of Houston is operator for the group, which also includes Atlantic Refining Co., Tidewater Oil Co., and Cities Service Co.

The plant 40 miles southeast of Lake Charles has an initial capacity to process 175 million cubic feet of gas daily. Gas will be received from CATC's East Cameron and West Cameron fields, 30 miles off the Louisiana coast.

Construction began in 1959.

Annual Report Has Cosden Holding Steady; Small Gain

A year in which the company held steady, despite industry pressures; is reviewed in the annual report of Cosden Petroleum Corporation to its 6,700 stockholders.

What started out with a rosy 32 per cent increase in net income during the first half, levelled off as predicted during the last half to show a 5.5 per cent gain for the year ended April 30, 1960. The depressed market for liquid fuels was responsible for the modification.

Noting that the oil industry had experienced a capacity to handle dynamic growth, President R. L. Tollet observed that "our greatest difficulty is in slowing down our operations to let other basic industries catch up."

He looked for an early abandonment of impsovident sales policies by the industry.

GRACE PURCHASED

The past year saw W. R. Grace & Company acquire ownership of Cosden through purchase of 53 per cent of the common stock for $40,500,000 cash. This resulted in no change in management or policies, and none, at this stage, are indicated. Two Grace representatives, James J. Monot, and Rooert P. Russell, were added to the Cosden board.

Cash flow, as it has for the past decade, continued to gain in reaching $11,078,189. Of the $11,693,297 of funds provided during the year, $7,256,966 went to property additions, $2,969,686 to stock dividends, $606,000 to reduction of long term debt and $590,645 in working capital.

Among the highlights of the report are:

INCOME HIGHER

Gross operating income of $83,292,868, a gain of about a quarter of a million dollars; net income (after provision for $3,315,000 federal income taxes) $4,763,414, an increase of a quarter of a million or $1.60 a share (down four cents a share); stockholder equity, $43,265,761; up two and a half million.

Cosden sold 13,173,309 barrels of gasoline and other fuels, 2,639,341 barrels of asphalt and road oils, and 506,848 barrels of petrochemicals. The latter was up by 28 per cent.

During the year, 14,430,332 barrels of crude were processed along with 2,995,449 in other feedstocks. Cosden produced 2,057,895 barrels of oil and 3,400,834 thousand cubic feet of gas. Its own production was worth $6,096,002.

THE EMPLOYED

Cosden's working force at the end of the year stood at 1,115, and the total payroll was $7,195,009, a gain of half a million dollars for the year. Assets of the pension trust (in ownership of Trust Pipeline Company and other holdings) aggregated $7,250,292.

In production, Cosden completed 26 net oil wells and 8.6 gas wells (it hit 41 per cent of the time on wildcats, far better than the industry average). The company held 150,618 acres in nonproducing leases plus 36,430 acres of producing properties with 551 net wells. Capital expenditures for this division amounted to $3,694,000.

Capital expenditures for plants at Big Spring and Colorado City were limited chiefly to replacements, although the polybutene facilities were expanded, for double capacity. A Unifiner, which uses hydrogen in desulfurizing straightrun gasoline, was installed and some improvements were made in the gas recovery and fractionation equipment. Total capital expenditures at both refineries was $2,530,102, all but half a million made available through depreciation charges.

PETROCHEMICALS

The yield of petro chemicals (polybutene, liquid styrene, polystyrene molding resins, benzene, toluene, orthoxylene and metaxylene concentrate) amounted to 3.7 by volume but 18 per cent of the gross profit. Tollett called attention to the new UOP Alkar unit, the first in the United States, now under construction. It will treble the styrene capacity. Cosden licensed two of its unique processes during the year.

Cosden sold 7.7 million barrels of automotive gasoline last year. Through 675 retail service stations marketing 9,000,000 gallons a month of Cosden, Col-Tex and Onyx products, Cosden sold 42 per cent of its output as branded fuel. The remaining was custom refined for others. Two thirds of the distillate sales were in JP-4 jet fuel for the military. Asphalt accounted for 16 per cent of the volume and 12 per cent of the sales.

PIPELINES

Cosden made good use of its 357-mile pipeline system, which includes some gathering lines, lines between the Big Spring and Colorado City plants, storage at terminal points, and the line to Wichita Falls and Duncan, Okla. Cosden shipped nearly 8,000 tank cars from the two refineries in its own fleet of 285 tank cars, plus leased cars.

The report was prepared by Cosden's own staff and produced by Big Spring Printing Co.

Active Rig Count Climbs To 2,830

The total number of active rotary and cable tool rigs in the United States jumped from 2,498 to 2,830 during the past week, according to the weekly survey made by the International Oil Scouts Assn.

Texas, the leading state, decreased from 831 to 807, while the West Central Texas area increased its total from 87 to 103.

Louisiana increased from 379 to 412, Oklahoma lost from 359 to 346, New Mexico dropped from 144 to 133, Kansas gained from 95 to 133, and California increased from 114 to 116.

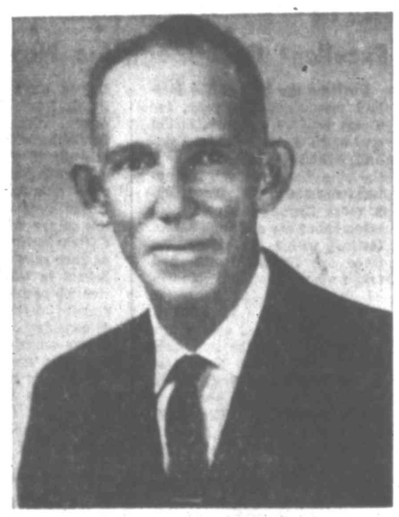
MEET THE 'seniors' OF THE COSDEN FAMILY . . .



J. D. MILLER

This is the 10th in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employes who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the company.

July 16 marked J. D. Miller's fifteenth anniversary with Cosden Petroleum Corporation. Several years earlier, however, as a service station attendant under the late Victor Flewellen, he was filling many an automobile tank with Cosden gasoline.

Those were the years in between his business college days at Chillicothe, Missouri in the early '30's and 1938, when he was briefly at Cosden's bulk plant. Moving to Houston, he got a job at a defense plant. Since his return in 1945, he has been based at the Pipeline Department in Forsan, first as an assistant gauger, more recently as pump mechanic. His work along the gathering system calls for plenty of travel, sometimes as much as 100 miles a day. As a commuter from his 509 North Main residence in Coahoma, he has a daily round trip of 56 miles.

Miller is a strong booster for Coahoma, where he has lived the past 15 years. It's where he met his wife, the former Mattie Armstrong, who is city clerk there as well as tax assessor-collector for both Coahoma and the school district. The couple was married August 16, 1941. They are members of the First Presbyterian Church in Coahoma.

Their pretty and spacious yard is obviously one of their hobbies. Miller likes to fish when he can find time, but a major interest is woodworking. It is a handy skill, all the more so since he has two rent houses to maintain, too. Among his handiwork are bedroom suites and kitchen cabinets. His most novel project started when a friend found and gave him an old set of wagon springs. Miller has outfitted it with oak and made a unique settee for the back porch.

He takes pride in the pattern of growth experienced not only by Cosden but by Big Spring, for he is a native of this community and a graduate of Big Spring High School. He is one of the five sons of Mrs. W. A. Miller and the late Mr. Miller.

JUST THINK!
When you buy a Mobile Home from D & C Trailer Sales you save $112.99 each month or $1355.88 each year, or $6779.40 at the end of 5 years, which actually is more than enough to pay the entire cost of your Mobile Home. By then it is yours, free and clear. After 5 years you would still owe $12,432.52 on the house and your monthly expenses continue on for the next 25 years.

June Bond Sales Reach $24,870

Howard County savings bond sales during June hit $24,870 to bring the year's total to $304,871.90 and put the county at 41.1 per cent of its $740,000 goal, according to Robert W. Currie, county chairman.

District No. Five, which includes Howard County, had June bond sales totalling $88,392 for a cumulative total of $768,189. The district has now reached 44.4 per cent of its $1,730,000 goal. Larson Lloyd, Big Spring, is district chairman.

Andrews County reported June sales of $2,498 to bring its year's total to $48,172, and 80.3 per cent of the $60,000 goal. June sales in Dawson County were $2,642 making the total to date $33,497. Dawson sales are 30.5 per cent of the $110,000 goal.

Sales last month in Gaines amounted to $2,173, putting the county at 47.9 per cent of its $120,000 goal with $57,420. In Martin County, June sales were $716 for a six months total of $31,204. This is 78 per cent of the county's $40,000 goal.

Mitchell County's sales in June were $13,492. With cumulative sales of $123,661, the county stands at 45.8 per cent of a $270,000 goal. Scurry County sold $41,997 in bonds in June for a total of $170,041 for the first half of the year. This is 46 per cent of its $370,000 goal. Borden County has not reported any bond sales since the first of the year.

Sales in the state last month amounted to $10,846,598. The first half total was $80,671,007, which is 48.7 per cent of the goal of $165,500,000.

No Excuse

DETROIT (AP) — Arrested for questioning about a $30 robbery, LeRoy Davidson, 22, told police, "I needed the money for cab fare to go and see my parole officer."

Davidson was paroled in May from Southern Michigan Prison where he was serving a burglary sentence.

Chaplin Kin Sues Over Prejudice

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlie Chaplin Jr. is miffed because his famous father's name isn't engraved in the cement of Hollywood's sidewalks.

So he has brought suit in Los Angeles superior court to compel the Los Angeles City Council, the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce and the Hollywood Improvement Assn. to make such a record.

Young Chaplin charges that the groups "arbitrarily and with malice, prejudice and bias" decided not to include his father's name. He termed the elder Chaplin's career "a milestone in the history of picture making."

New Runway, Taxiways Projected For Webb

Extension of one runway and taxiway will be the major elements in a $1,150,000 construction project at Webb AFB.

The office of Col. Adolf Korever, Air Force (Southwest) regional civil engineer, said Saturday that 1,000 feet is to be added to the west runway at Webb, better accommodating it to F-102s used by the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

At the same time, construction of the parallel taxiway on the west side will permit planes to return to the 331st complex on the northwest corner of the base without using other taxiways and having to cross runways.

The new arrangement will help keep the 331st runway clear and at the same time promote the training mission of Webb on the other main runway. Of course, both runways will be available for either purpose in event of emergency.

Aside from the 331st needs, the additional runway length and taxiway on the west side will help to separate the function of the base. This is important, for primary training as well as the present advanced training, is due to be added as a function of Webb AFB soon.

Another element of the construction project is the rehabilitation of existing roads in the 331st area and the installation of additional roads to connect with various units of the air defense establishment.

No dates have been set for asking bids, but the engineer's office indicated that the project would be expedited.

Meanwhile, a building (calibration), once cut back short of bidding this year, is now due to be readvertised. Air Force engineers said that bids would be asked around Aug. 1, and this being the case, the opening and contract letting would be in the neighborhood of Sept. 1.

Threads Of Life

DETROIT (AP)—Mary Barbara Doyle and Jerry Salkowski first saw each other in a nursery.

They were born there Dec. 8, 1941. The same doctor delivered both. In the first grade of school they met again.

After the eighth grade their paths parted. They went to different high schools.

Last month they met again at a graduation party at Mary Barbara's school.

Thursday they got a marriage license. They'll be married next Thursday.

Cubans Seize Sugar Company

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government announced officially Friday it has seized three mills belonging to the Cuban American Sugar Mill Co.

An intervention order signed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro said the action was taken "for the protection of workers and the national industry."

The decree accused the American company of failing to liquidate its obligations to suppliers "leaving thousands of Cuban cane growers in a state of ruin."

Experts estimate the mills — two in Cuba's eastern Oriente province and one near Havana—have a total value, including adjoining land, of nearly 75 million dollars.

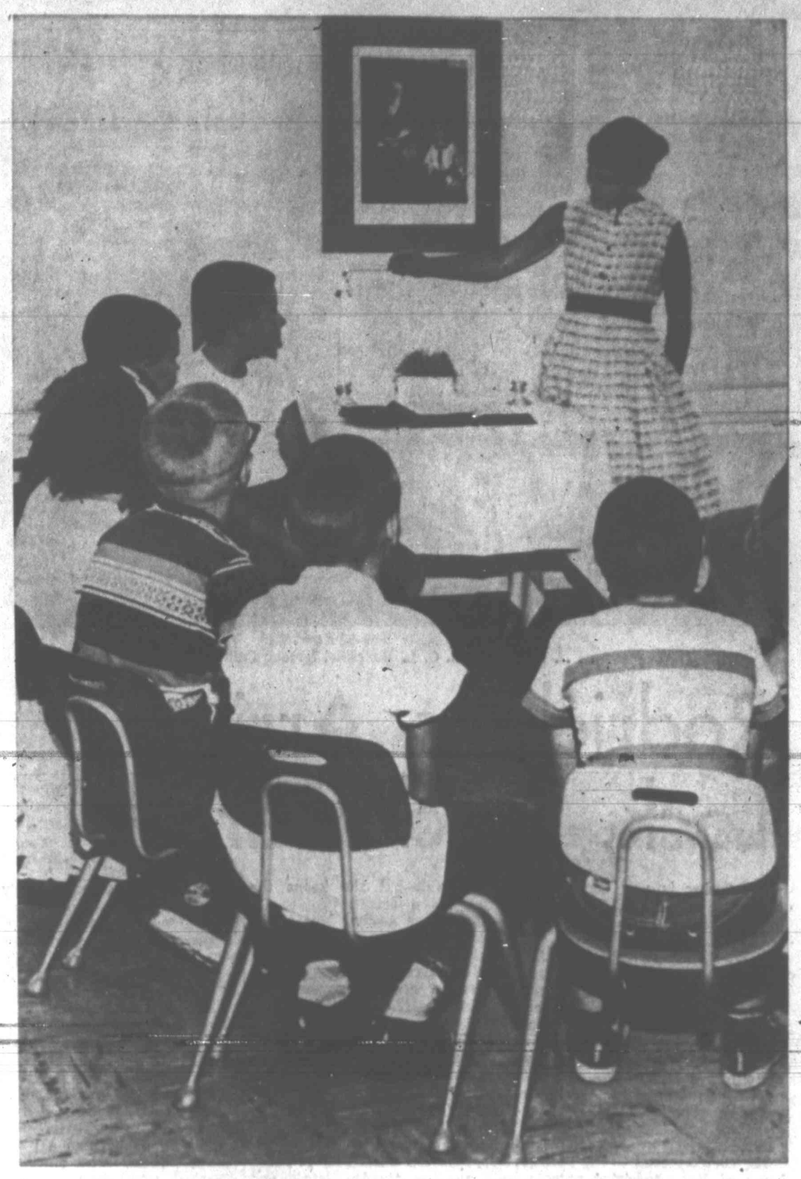
WOMEN'S NEWS
The Big Spring Herald
Big Spring, Texas, Sunday, July 24, 1960

FOR A QUIET PERIOD—which does not occur very often in this group of four-year-old youngsters, the church has a small chair inside where one can go and sit quietly. The building is made from a large carton with blue cellophane to represent stained glass windows, and it's great fun to get and look outside at everything in a blue tint.

MORNING DEVOTIONS are held each day at the vacation Bible school, with worship centers similar to the one shown in picture at right. Celia Smith extinguishes the candles as the service ends.

Photos by Keith McMillin



YOUNG VOICES proclaim the tidings, "Jesus Loves Me," as Mrs. Carl Riherd directs them in their morning song service at the school. Mrs. James Gunter is the accompanist for the daily sing-song.

A WELCOME TIME for both pupils and teachers is the refreshment period at the vacation Bible school at First Methodist Church. Shown above is a group of six-year-olds with punch—the cookies which accompanied it disappearing rapidly. The school, which began July 18, will end Friday.

BRAND NEW BIG SPRINGERS
.... Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Rodricks, former Californians

Rodrickses Arrive Lock, Stock Barrel

Big Spring is now their home town—for the O. L. Rodrickses have moved lock, stock and barrel to West Texas.

Orville and Gertrude left the San Fernando Valley of California for Big Spring after living there most of their lives. Rodricks moved to Los Angeles in 1911. More recently they lived in Tarzana.

"In the past 10 years the Valley has grown a half million people," relates the newcomer. Rodricks owned a venetian blind, drapery and floor covering business for 17 years.

The couple moved to Big Spring, home of Mrs. Rodricks' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Thomason, because of the California smog. "We like the people, hospitality and weather here!" says Mrs. Rodricks.

When warned of the Texas sand storms, the Rodricks recall the same kind of storms experienced in the California valley before it was well-populated.

Mrs. Rodricks is a collector of recipes from all over the world. She has a special barbecue sauce that she has concocted to surprise friends with—but she keeps the ingredients a secret.

Flowers are another love of the attractive Mrs. Rodricks. She specializes in African violets and is now starting to grow orchids.

"Orchids are really easier to grow than African violets," contends the gardener. "They are hardy despite their fragile appearance, and the common varieties don't need a hot house." The initial cost of starting orchid raising is about $4, says Mrs. Rodricks. Blooms last six to eight weeks.

Before moving to Big Spring, Mrs. Rodricks worked for 10 years with the Los Angeles Herald and Express and later with the Bureau of Public Works for the city of Los Angeles.

Handyman Rodricks specializes in picture frames which can be seen on the walls of his home. He also builds and refinishes furniture.

One of the features in their Early American home is a cuckoo clock given to Rodricks by his mother. The old timepiece still chirps out the hour.

The Rodricks family, who are Presbyterians, is completed by a son and daughter who live in California, a dog, and a parakeet named Stinker who possesses a 400-word vocabulary and dances the Varsuviana.

Vacation Bible School Busy With Recreation, Study And Worship

By ANNE LeFEVER

The week just past has been one of great activity around the First Methodist Church, and there is yet another week to fill with the classes of the vacation Bible school.

Theme of the study is "The Church" with three divisions carrying out the work in various ways. Members of the kindergarten set, being led along the lines of "Together in Our Church", are making churches of construction paper or of large cartons.

Primary pupils are studying the history and the schedule of the local church, and they have made field trips during the week to visit other churches of the city.

Booklets made by the junior group show the history of Methodism and record events in the life of its founder, John Wesley.

All is not work during the two hours spent each morning at the church; there is a period of outside play, ending with a rest time. There are refreshments served each day, much as adults take a coffee break in the midst of their tasks.

Films bearing on the subjects being taught are shown to groups at various times during the sessions; song and story hours are a part of the training for all the pupils.

Handwork comes in for a share of the activity, with prayer cards being made by youngsters in the fifth and sixth grade range and booklets compiled with pictures and information about John Wesley.

Interest of the third graders centers in the rebus story that they are developing. They have made a small screen which rolls in the manner of a scroll, and with pictures of objects and people, they tell the story of Bible characters.

Worship centers have been set up in the different rooms where groups gather for devotions before starting the morning schedule.

Director of the school, which will be in session through Friday, is Mrs. Martin Staggs. Refreshments are served each day by Twila Lomax, Eula Ashbrook and Mrs. Marshall Brown.

Mrs. Lon Curtis is in charge of the nursery in which workers' children up to three years of age are kept. Helping with this department are Mrs. C. W. Kesterson, Mrs. T. R. Braddock, Candy Bacus and Judy Hinds.

Kindergarten work for four year-olds is done under the supervision of Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, Mrs. J. M. Hill, Mrs. Ladd Smith, Mrs. James Duncan, Mrs. Willie McDaniel, Mrs. L. A. Zant and Kathy Cantrell.

Five-year-olds are taught by Mrs. Bill Ward, Mrs. John Bizzell, Mrs. Hayes Stripling Jr., Mrs. Walter Osborne, Mrs. Bobo Hardy and Karen McGibbon. Workers with the six year old youngsters include Mrs. James Watts, Mrs. Bill Coleman, Mrs. O. A. Davis, Mrs. Pete Cook, Mrs. Paul Shaffer and Mrs. Gerald Hill.

Workers in the primary department, grade one, are Mrs. Carl Riberd, Mrs. Darrell Hulme, Mrs. James Gunter, Mrs. Reg Hyer and Mrs. Bruce Dunn; in grade two, Mrs. Ray Pipes, Mrs. Joe Bell, Mrs. Warden Mayes, Mrs. Kimball Guthrie and Mrs. Bill Rust are the instructors.

Grade three is directed by Mrs. Larry Patton, Mrs. Stanley Grant and Mrs. Paul Nelson.

Junior pupils, grade four, are being taught by Mrs. H. H. Morris, Carolyn Thompson, Mrs. W. J. Priebe, Mrs. R. H. Weaver and Marianne Bell. Those in grade five are studying under the direction of Mrs. Harroll Jones, Mrs. C. M. Frost, Mrs. Ike Robb and Mrs. Ralph Gossett.

Mrs. Roy Rosene, Mrs. [illegible] McDonald, Mrs. Tommy Fry and Dana Lou Rosene are helping with the group in grade six in the junior department.

Glass Pitcher Has Many Good Features

A new glass formula pitcher incorporates several convenience features — measurements clearly marked on one side; a comfortable, easy-grip handle; and a wide tip for pouring without the bother of a funnel.

This pitcher has an extra-wide mouth, making it easy to get the dishcloth into every corner for thorough washing in hot soap or detergent suds — very important because all utensils used for infants' food must be sanitary.

Remember that milk should be rinsed with cool water before going into hot suds.

Bride's Mother, Sister Fashion Wedding Gown

LAMESA — In an antique lace gown designed and made by her mother and her sister, Judy Karlene Wood became the bride of Charles Frank Hughes at 6 p.m. Saturday in the Lamesa Church of Christ.

W. T. Hamilton, minister, officiated for the double ring ceremony after the wedding music was presented by a chorus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Primm Wood; Hughes is the son of H. A. Hughes, Star Route 1, and the late Mrs. Hughes.

The altar setting was enhanced by an archway of greenery, branched candelabra and floor baskets of pastel flowers.

Mrs. Hughes was given in marriage by her father. Her gown, which combined chiffon and peau de soie with antique lace, had a fitted lace bodice with scallops outlining the portrait neckline and full-length tapered sleeves. A fully shirred chiffon overskirt was caught with seed pearls to form deep scalloped poufs midway on the skirt and hand-clipped scalloped lace outlined the bottom edge of the skirt.

Her veil of white tulle was gathered on a bandeau of antique lace, appliqued with flowers cut from the lace design and sprinkled with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a shower of white rosebuds.

Glenda Wood was her sister's maid of honor. Her dress of pale green silk organza was fashioned with tucked bodice, rounded neckline, tiny puff sleeves and bouffant skirt. She carried a single long-stemmed yellow mum.

Bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Sharon Quinn of Causey, N. M., and Wanda Richardson of Big Spring. Their dresses of yellow were fashioned similarly to the honor attendant's with wide collars forming ties in front. They carried long-stemmed mums.

The bridegroom's brother, Robert Hughes, was best man. Ushers were Marvin Lynn Carter and Leon Cohorn; candlelighters were the bride's niece, Cheryl Powell of Odessa, and the bridegroom's nephew, Melvin Lux Jr.

Vickie Jan Powell, Odessa, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The wedding reception was held at the bride's home, where the spotlight focused on the tea table where a miniature bridal couple was set within a large wedding bell decorated in green, yellow and white motif.

MRS. CHARLES FRANK HUGHES

Members of the house party included Mrs. Ocie Woodul, Mrs. B. R. Truitt, Mrs. Lloyd Martin, Mrs. Jim Foster, Mrs. Troy Powell, Mrs. John French and Mrs. B. B. Evans.

Guests were registered from Big Spring, Odessa, Lubbock, Carlsbad and Causey, N. M.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride was wearing a white embroidered sheath dress with red sash and red accessories. She is a graduate of Lamesa High School and is employed by the Lamesa Insurance Agency.

Hughes, who attended the Lamesa schools, is farming in the Punkin Center community.

Seven were present, with Mrs. John Hammack, a guest. Mrs. J. E. Freeman, 2110 Johnson, will be hostess Friday afternoon.

Comfort Is Interest In Furniture

AP Newsfeatures

The recent summer home furnishings show held in Chicago may not take honors for having overwhelmed anyone with spectacular or ingenious design. But American homemakers weren't neglected completely.

Lurking in the background was comfort to be found in cushions, capacious seating arrangements and plastic chair molds. Americans who love comfort more than anything in the world will respect the efforts of designers in that respect.

In some instances, one could have a choice. Bed readers can have their upholstered headboards, for instance, and when they get bored with the idea, can fit an alternating plain wood board into the grooves.

Clothes Sprinkler

A new clothes dryer has an automatic sprinkler that performs a perfect clothes - dampening job. Water is placed in a built-in dispenser and the clothes are tossed in the drum to disperse the water evenly. Then the wash is ready for immediate ironing—or, if you prefer, it can be placed in a plio-film bag until ironing time. Another nice feature about the clothes sprinkler is that the directions for its use are printed on it.

Music's Charms

Now Brooklyn is famous for a group of modern apartments where the public laundry rooms have continuous piped-in music—24 hours of every day.

Couples Go To Dinner

FORSAN — The Frank Shannons and Roy Walravens are in Iraan for the weekend. They were among Standard Oil employes attending a retirement dinner for Jack Garber.

The James Childress family are home from Denton, where he attended NTSC's summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Hood Jones and children were here from Kermit to visit his parents, the A. O. Jones.

Visiting in Robert Lee and Olton this week has been Mrs. Vera Harris.

A Pecos resident, Mrs. Jeff Pike, has been a guest of the Joe B. Hoards Jr. during the week.

And Now Buildings Are Drip-Dry Items

Even buildings are becoming wash-and-use these days. For instance: New York City's new Solomon R. Guggenheim Memorial Museum has been sprayed with a liquid vinyl coating.

Besides its many protective advantages, this cocoon coating permits keeping the museum clean simply by hosing it with sudsy water.

MRS. EDWARD B. BUTLER JR.

Roberts-Butler Rite Read In Webb Chapel

A double ring ceremony, read Friday at 6 p.m. in the chapel at Webb Air Force Base, united in marriage Barbara Roberts and Edward B. Butler Jr. Chaplain Lewis Dunlap heard the vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Roberts, 1406 Wood; Mrs. L. B. Austin of Bridgeboro, Ga., and E. B. Butler of Clearwater, Fla., are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white nylon over net and taffeta. The fitted bodice, which joined a full skirt, was covered with a brief jacket buttoned in the back. Three-quarter sleeves and the rounded neck were bound with satin. Yellow shortie gloves and a flat half hat with nose veil completed the attire.

On a white Bible, the bride carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

In line with tradition, she had borrowed her headdress from Mrs. Landon Derryberry, who served as matron of honor; something old was her mother's wedding band. The bridal gown was new and a blue garter had been presented to the bride by Abby Modglin. Pennies bearing the couple's birthdates were in the yellow wedding slippers.

Mrs. Landon was attired in a dress of yellow with bateau neckline and full skirt which was trimmed with lace. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Pat Roberts, sister of the bride, chose a yellow frock with white flowers embroidered on the full skirt, and she, too, wore white carnations in corsage.

Attending as best man was James A. Spradling.

When guests called at the home of the bride's parents for a reception, they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, the newly-married couple and the wedding attendants.

White net over an underlay of yellow covered the table on which rested the three tiered cake. A miniature bridal couple topped the confection.

At the guest register was Melva Burton; other members of the house party were Mrs. Leon Davis, Mrs. Claude Posey and Cleta Sneed.

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride chose a white linen suit with black and white checked blouse. Appliques of black and white flowers enhanced the short sleeved jacket.

Upon their return, the couple will be at home at 706 Main.

Mrs. Butler is a graduate of Big Spring High School and is employed by Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital.

The bridegroom who was graduated from Doerun, Ga. High School is stationed at Webb AFB, with the 3560th Civil Engineering Group.

Bridge Tournament Ends At OWC Game

A three-month tournament concluded Thursday at the Officers Wives bridge. First place winners were Mrs. Hollis Webb and Mrs. Tom Lane. Mrs. Benjamin Hevel and Mrs. Herman Tillman were second.

The 10 tables were hosted by the Wing Headquarters Group. Hostesses were Mrs. F. A. Ivey, Mrs. H. V. Lindsey and Mrs. J. E. Greene.

Mrs. John Winslow won the door prize, and Mrs. Murhl Ruhl the travel prize.

First place winners were Mrs. [illegible], second, Mrs. Richard Hickenbottom and Mrs. David Holton.

Miss Watkins Is Bride In Double Ring Vows

In a Friday evening ceremony, Glenda Watkins became the bride of Bobby Brazel in the Calvary Baptist Church, with the Rev. J. H. McWilliams reading the double ring vows.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Watkins, 1605 Owens, are parents of the bride; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Brasel of Jasper, Ark.

Tapers in candelabra stood on each side of a basket of white gladioli to form a setting for the bridal party.

Brenda Morgan sang "Always" and "Walk Hand in Hand With Me" as part of the nuptial music; she was accompanied by Mrs. John Birdwell, pianist.

A gown of white lace over satin was chosen by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. The full skirt, waltz length, joined a bodice with long pointed sleeves; points were repeated at the front and back of the waistline.

Seed pearls and sequins frosted the tiara which held the bridal veil, and a bouquet of white gladioli was carried on a white Bible.

For something old and borrowed, the bride carried a handkerchief of Irish linen, which belongs to her grandmother, Mrs. Annie King of Wingate; something new was her wedding gown; something blue, a garter.

Three sisters of the bride were her attendants, all identically attired in mint green cotton satin frocks with full skirts, moulded bodices and scooped necklines. Each carried a long-stemmed pink rose and wore headdresses of white velvet attached to brief veils. Short gloves completed the ensembles.

Attending as maid of honor was Jo Ann Watkins; Peggy Watkins was bridesmaid, and Shirley Watkins, junior bridesmaid.

Altar taper lighters were Sharon King, a cousin of the bride, and Raellen Gilbert; both were dressed in pink in the same fashion as the bridesmaids.

Best man was Fred Cagle; groomsmen were Ronald White and Clanton Ray Watkins. Carrell Watkins and Bill Thompson seated the guests.

At the parsonage of the church, the couple, along with the parents of the bride and her attendants, received guests, who were egistered by Gail Watkins, another sister of the bride.

Lace over green covered the table, where a floral centerpiece was made of the attendants' roses in a pink vase. Pink rosebuds decorated the four tiered cake, which was topped with three roses of frosting.

Members of the house party were Mrs. John McChristian, Mrs. Jerry Fowler, Tommie Sue Lovelace, Mary Ruth Asbill and Peggy Hammitt.

When the couple left for an unannounced destination, the bride wore a two piece dress of navy with red shoes and bag and white gloves.

They will make a home at 1704 Johnson upon the return from their trip.

The new Mrs. Brasel is a graduate of Howard County Junior College where she was a member of the Lass-O Club, the WRA, volley ball team and BSU.

Brasel, who was graduated from Jasper, Ark., high school, is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Guests coming from out of town were Mrs. Annie King and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. King, all of Wingate; Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Watkins of Colorado City.

Gifts For Kitchen Are Presented

First of the pre-nuptial courtesies to be given locally for Julie Rainwater was the informal coffee and kitchen shower Saturday; Mrs. Adolph Swartz was hostess.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Rainwater, 715 Hillside, the honored guest is to be married to Delbert Neal Shirey in the First Methodist Church, Aug. 27. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Shirey of Midland.

Following the chosen colors, red and white, Mrs. Swartz centered the table with a red ceramic "tomato can," with other appointments in the appropriate motif. Mrs. Robert Currie assisted in serving guests.

About 30 were included on the invitation list.

Asparagus Soup Has Hearty Flavor

Combine pantry-shelf ingredients for new flavor for soup.

HEARTY QUICK ASPARAGUS SOUP

1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of vegetable soup,
1 jar (13½ ounces) all green asparagus,
1 tablespoon onion soup mix (from an envelope).

Turn condensed cream of vegetable soup (undiluted) into a medium-sized saucepan. Add liquid from asparagus to soup can; fill can with water; slowly stir or whisk [illegible] vegetable soup. Heat slowly, stirring occasionally.

When almost hot add asparagus stalks (cut into 1-inch lengths); save asparagus tips for salad. Stir in onion soup mix just as it comes from envelope, making sure you add a good portion of the small pieces of dry onion as well as some of the fine solids. Continue heating until very hot; the onion should stay crisp. Makes 4 servings.

Glamorous

Black and white star in a late-day fashion styled with a deeply scooped neck, tiny waist, and full skirt. The dress features a floral printed cotton pique that looks as if it were painted with a dry brush technique.

Miss Taylor, Fiance Are Honored

EASTLAND —Judge and Mrs. Esco Walter entertained Saturday afternoon and evening at their home on Lake Leon, honoring Helen Taylor and R. B. Hall Jr., whose wedding date is set for Aug. 6.

Members of the Chapel Choir of First Baptist Church, where Hall is minister of music and education, served as co-hosts with the Walters.

The group enjoyed several hours of swimming, water skiing, boating, shuffle board and ping pong, before being served a picnic supper.

Twenty members of the choir attended and presented the bride-elect with a surprise kitchen gadget shower following the supper hour.

Hall is director of the choir, which includes members of the Intermediate Department of the church.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Taylor, and Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hall of Big Spring.

ARA CUNNINGHAM

ABWA Has Nomination

Ara Cunningham has been selected as Woman of the Year of the Scenic Chapter, American Business Women's Association, it has been announced.

Her nomination will be judged for national recognition at the convention slated for Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 21-23. Local delegates to the meeting are Mrs. A. G. Eitzen, club president, and the vice president, Mrs. A. W. Rowe.

Miss Cunningham, who is volunteer service officer at the VA Hospital, has also served in the hospital at Alexandria, La. Her duties include recreation plans for hospital patients and work with the 56 teen-age volunteers who are assisting at the hospital this summer.

The Easy Way

A good sugar cookie is wafer thin, delicately browned and crisp. Instead of rolling the dough and cutting each cookie, try dropping the dough by rounded teaspoonfuls on a lightly greased baking sheet. Grease the bottom of a glass, dip the glass in sugar and flatten each cookie as thin as possible. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees before starting to bake. This keeps the shortening from melting and seeping out of the cookie. Bake only 10 minutes.

Utensil Tree Forms Shower Centerpiece

A miniature tree of kitchen utensils in a base of pink zinnias and white crepe myrtle formed the centerpiece for the tea table at a shower given for Joyce Horn Friday evening.

Miss Horn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Horn, 500 E. 4th, is to be married to Ray Revelette, Aug. 12. He is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Revelette of Evansville, Ind., and Bert Revelette of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

The miscellaneous gift tea, given in the A. E. Fiveash home, was hosted by Mrs. Fiveash and Lida and Mrs. Desmond Powell.

Beverly Horn, sister of the honoree, registered guests, who were greeted by the hostesses, Miss Horn, and her mother in the receiving line.

Phyllis Palmer and Miss Fiveash served refreshments from the table covered in white net and centered with the utensil tree. It was flanked with blue tapers, emphasizing the chosen colors of the bride-elect, blue and pink.

Rosemary Horn, a sister of the honored guest, and Joellen Fiveash displayed gifts to about 40 visitors.

Surprise Shower Is Mrs. Skeen's Honor

FORSAN — A recent meeting of the Sunshine Sewing Club turned into a surprise stork shower for one of the members, Mrs. Charles Skeen. Mrs. Paul Kennedy was hostess for the group that added a new member, Mrs. Doug Smith. Mrs. Don Murphy will be the next hostess.

Van Allen Hayhurst of Weatherford accompanied his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hayhurst, to Forsan for a visit when the couple returned after spending a few days in the home of their son and his family, the Dan Hayhursts.

Women Will Hold Key Positions During Republican Convention

Editor's Note — When the Republican National Convention in Chicago Monday, women will step into some of the confab's key jobs—from parliamentarian to executive director. These are some of the women and the roles they will be playing.

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Newsfeatures

The first major speaker on the Republican convention program in Chicago, Mrs. Williams is an indefatiguable, blue-eyed blonde with a lifetime love of politics.

For the past two years, she has been assistant GOP national chairman in charge of women's activities.

It has taken her over 120,000 miles to almost every state—plugging the GOP.

Mrs. Williams, who once taught speech and oral English and had a career as a high fashion buyer, is putting all her prior training and experience to good use in the political field.

Born in Syracuse, N.Y., widow of a prominent St. Louis attorney, Frank Williams, she lived for many years in Florida and got her training in politics there from the precinct up.

She's a Florida national committeewoman and was appointed assistant GOP chairman in July, 1958.

Mrs. Williams, who is tall and thin and never worries about her weight, lives in a Washington, D.C., hotel when she's not traveling. She works fulltime for the GOP and thrives on the rigors of campaigning.

To be successful in politics, she says, a woman must "look like a girl, act like a lady, think like a man and work like a dog."

MRS. E. HEFFELFINGER

The roll caller for the Republican convention, Mrs. Heffelfinger of Wayzata, Minn., the convention secretary, describes herself as a "Progressive Republican."

Wife of Minneapolis grain executive F. Peavey Heffelfinger, former chairman of the GOP national finance committee, she got into politics two decades ago, working for Wendell Willkie.

One of her five children is the wife of Wendell Willkie Jr., son of the late GOP presidential candidate.

Mrs. Heffelfinger has attended every national convention of her party since 1939.

She says she plans to retire as a national committeewoman when her term expires this year "to make way for younger blood." She has been national committee woman from Minnesota since 1949.

She also served as a delegate to the U.N. Economic and Social Council twice, under appointment by President Eisenhower.

The Republicans have had a woman convention secretary since 1948. The Democrats named a woman, Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, in 1944. She is still serving.

MRS. CONSUELO BAILEY

Mrs. Bailey made history by being the first woman lieutenant governor in the United States when she was elected in Vermont in 1954.

Now, she's done it again as the first woman chairman of the GOP convention committee on call.

Her job in connection with the call of the convention is now just about over, but she also goes to the convention as a national committeewoman from her state and a vice chairman of the GOP national committee. She hasn't missed a convention since 1936.

Mrs. Bailey's long career in politics and public service includes a stint as speaker of the Vermont House of Representatives, the first woman in her state and second in the country in such a post.

She also has been in the Vermont Senate and held the post of state's attorney for Burlington County, Vt. As the prosecutor, she was the first woman ever to try a murder case in Vermont.

Mrs. Bailey, an attorney, has been admitted to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court, and she and her husband operate a law firm in their home town.

REP. K. ST. GEORGE (R-NY)

As GOP convention parliamentarian for the second time, Rep. St. George doesn't expect any problems.

She got through the 1956 convention with a hitch and expects her fellow Republicans to make things easy for her again.

The GOP convention has a set of rules spelled out, unlike the Democrats who go by precedence and the ways of Congress.

A widow, she has represented the wealthy Tuxedo Park, N. Y., district in Congress since 1947.

When she was picked to be convention parliamentarian for the 1956 convention, she was the first woman named to that key spot in either party.

JOSEPHINE GOOD

For two years now, Jo Good, a tall, slender blonde, has been planning the GOP convention — from alloting tickets to reminding committees to meet.

She's the first woman executive director of a convention as far as political veterans of either major party can remember.

Miss Good will cart along several big file cabinets to set up her convention office in Chicago.

She'll even provide a prompt script so the chairman will know what he's supposed to do every minute.

A native of Denver, Colo., wartime member of the Coast Guard SPARS, secretary to congressmen and onetime aide to Postmaster General and GOP Chairman Arthur Summerfield, Miss Good was selected for her job in 1956.

At that time, her predecessor, the man who ran the GOP conventions for 30 years, the late William Donald, was in failing health.

For the 1956 convention in San Francisco, Donald was too ill to attend and Miss Good went to his place, working with an occasional assist from Donald 3,000 miles away.

"Nothing came up that I did not feel equipped to handle," she says.

This year, she's on her own for the first time, responsible for keeping the convention rolling along by handling the infinite details.

MRS. C. WAYLAND BROOKS

From the host city of Chicago, energetic and attractive Mrs. Brooks will have the job of looking after the thousands of delegates and convention spectators.

She's the widow of the late Sen. C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, and when not politicking, runs the Flat Top Sheep Co. Ranch in the Saw Tooth Mountains, 40 miles from Sun Valley, Idaho.

A top spot for the ladies on Mrs. Brooks' party schedule is a big glamor luncheon Wednesday, with a "great lady" theme.

There's room for some 1,250 guests.

Feature of the luncheon will be a display of exact copies of first ladies' inaugural gowns, originals of which are on display in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

A copy of the dress worn by Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, wife of the President nominated a century ago, will be modeled by Mrs. Everett Dirksen, wife of the senator from Lincoln's home state of Illinois.

And Mrs. Eisenhower's first inaugural ballgown — a dazzling pink number — will be worn by Mrs. William G. Stratton, wife of the governor of Illinois.

Mrs. Brooks, who hopes Vice President Nixon will be the presidential candidate, has been Republican national committeewoman from Illinois since 1957.

Secretary Of Year Named At Meet

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Martha Michalik, a secretary at the University of Pittsburgh, is the national secretary of the year.

Mrs. Michalik of suburban West Mifflin was selected Thursday from six finalists at the National Secretaries Assn. convention. A Pitt graduate, she is secretary to the assistant chancellor for development.

Runnerup in the contest was Miss Venera Rizzo of Albany, N.Y., and Miss Wilma Macomb of Kansas City, Mo., was third. Other finalists were Mrs. Maria Dorweiler of Burbank, Calif.; Miss Alice Tilson of Washington, D.C.; and Miss Dorothy Greenwood of Portland, Ore.

Mrs. C. Schwede Is Home From Hospital

FORSAN — Mrs. Clarence Schwede has been dismissed from Medical Arts Clinic Hospital where she was an appendectomy patient. Her mother, Mrs. T. W. Fullerton of Vernon, has been visiting in her home.

The E. B. Prescotts of Midkiff have been guests in the home of their son and family, Forsan's Leroy Prescotts.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Greer of Stephenville were here to visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Knight.

Lou Murphy of Abilene is a guests of his relatives, the Frank Phillèys and the Oscar Johnsons.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gilmore and Tommy are entertaining Charm and Paige Gilmore of Wilson for a few days. The little girls are the daughters of their son, Richard Gilmore.

Campus Cutie

The fashion-wise young miss will include attractive, comfortable sports separates in her back-to-school wardrobe this fall. Slim slacks and belted tunic-type vest are made of cotton corduroy.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

It must be round up time in Texas because the bloom is really on the sage . . . at least the sage that is planted in the yards about town is in bloom. The rather drab gray green plant turns its best side when the beautiful purple blossoms break forth. The color is truly something to inspire song, verse and story.

MR. AND MRS. PHILLIPS W. BUCKNER, Mike and Paul, have recently returned from a visit in McMinnville, Tenn., where their parents make their home.

* * *

MRS. W. V. P. BAKER of Lubbock is visiting in the home of the J .B. Pickles and Miller Harrises.

* * *

In Weatherford for the weekend are MR. AND MRS. G. M. BUMGARNER and Jerry. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Moore. Last weekend they were in Denver City with Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Taylor.

* * *

Planning to leave Monday for several days in the Davis Mountains are MR. AND MRS. FINIS BUGG and MR. AND MRS. TED PHILLIPS.

* * *

MRS. NORMA GUMM of Norman, Okla., is visiting in the home of MR. AND MRS. DINK BURRELL. Mrs. Gumm and Mrs. Burrell are sisters.

* * *

When the M. F. BRYANTS went to O'Brien and Knox City the past week they planned to spend a few hours with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bryant. They did spend just a few hours, but during that time another brother, A. C. Bryant, Wichita Falls, decided he'd run over for a short visit, completing the impromptu family gathering. The local Bryants had a visit with the Barnard brothers, whose sister is MRS. GEORGE TILLINGHAST, a former resident of Big Spring and well known here.

* * *

* * *

When the K. D. HESTES family came here from Fort Worth for a short visit this past week, they were entertained with a barbecue at the R. E. SATTERWHITE home. Other hosts for the affair were the Clarence Percys, the Felix Jarretts, the Wayne Gounds and the J. D. Joneses.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. E. V. SPENCE are vacationing at Alice at the ranch home of her father.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JULIAN FISHER and their children have returned from a trip in South Texas, visiting relatives and friends in Gonzales, Cuero, Austin, San Marcos and San Antonio. While taking in the sights at Brackenridge Park in San Antonio, they were accompanied by Capt. and Mrs. Robert Reid, formerly of Webb AFB. At San Marcos they saw the Aquarena—an original project of Hila Weathers, who used to live in Big Spring and later was Chamber of Commerce manager at Stanton. They enjoyed the spectacle of looking through glass windows to see an underwater show in the giant springs.

Forsan Coach With All-Stars Players

FORSAN — Head coach of the Forsan school, James Blake, left this weekend for Abilene where he will lead practice sessions for the West All-Stars. The game will be held Friday night.

Mrs. Blake and son Scottie accompanied the coach. They plan to visit their parents in Brownwood and Blanket before returning to Forsan.

Forsan football players on the All-Stars are Freddie Park, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Park, who is now attending a business college in Abilene, and Jerry Bardwell, son of the D. M. Bardwells.

Houston Guests

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Henry, 306 E. 20th, have been their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Blackmon, Mike and Betty of Houston. The visitors left for their home Friday afternoon.

Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Colvin, 1600 E. 5th have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lunda Joan, to Billy G. Greenfield, 1109 Sycamore. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Greenfield of Merkel. The date and place of the wedding are to be decided later.

Bridal Tea Honors Frances Aldridge

A bridal tea for Frances Aldridge was held Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Neal Bryant.

Miss Aldridge's chosen colors, blue and white, were carried out in the table decorations. Blue punch was poured from a milk glass bowl and blue candles stood in milk glass holders. White carnations and baby's breath centered the table.

The hostesses presented Miss Aldridge, bride-elect of Clarence Grimes, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Grimes, with a blue and white carnation corsage.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. O. D. Aldridge, the honoree's mother from Longview.

First Ladies' Gowns Recreated

One of the biggest social events planned for women at the Republican National Convention, slated for Chicago during the coming week, will be the style show of GOP First Ladies' dinner and inaugural gowns. The parade, which will include dresses of presidents' wives from Mary Todd Lincoln to Mrs. Eisenhower, will be modeled by wives of prominent Republicans at a luncheon on Tuesday. Pictured on the White House lawn are (left to right) Mrs. Everett Dirksen, wife of Senate minority leader (Mary Todd Lincoln, 1861); Mrs. Robert Smylie, wife of Idaho governor, (Julia Dent Grant, 1869); Mrs. Frederick Seaton, wife of secretary of interior, (Lucy Ware Webb Hayes, 1877); Mrs. Thruston Morton, wife of GOP national chairman, (Lucretia Rudolph Garfield, 1881); Mrs. John Byrnes, wife of representative from Wisconsin, (Caroline L. Scott Harrison, 1889); Mrs. Arthur Summerfield, wife of postmaster general, (Edith Kermit Carew Roosevelt, 1901); Mrs. Charles Halleck, wife of representative from Indiana, (Helen Herron Taft, 1909); Mrs. Cecil Underwood, wife of West Virginia governor, (Florence K. deWolfe Harding, 1921); Mrs. William Miller, wife of representative from New York, (Lou Henry Hoover, 1929) and Mrs. William Stratton, wife of Illinois governor (Mamie Geneva Doud Eisenhower, 1953). Not pictured, but included in the show, are Mrs. Robert Hill, wife of ambassador to Mexico, (Ida Saxton McKinley, 1897); and Mrs. Styles Bridges, wife of New Hampshire senator, (Grace Anna Goodhue Coolidge, 1923).

When Visiting Friends Have Good Manners

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Going away for the weekend? Or perhaps you've been invited to spend a long vacation period with the family of your best friend.

A house visit obligates a guest. The fact that you've accepted an invitation indicates you've made a contract to be on your best behavior, and to observe the household routine. Here are some points to remember.....

1. Arrive on the train, plane, bus or other conveyance at the time they expect to meet you. If you do change your plans, inform your hostess immediately.

2. You should have all the necessities with you — toothpastes, comb, brush, nightgown, negligee, slippers, cosmetics. If you forget something, buy a replacement at the first opportunity.

3. Keep your room clean. Do not expect your hostess' mother to clean up after you. Make your bed each day as soon as possible. Pick up your clothes, put them on hangers and put them in the closet.

4. Use cleansing tissues to remove your makeup. Do not smear lipstick on towels or use them for shining shoes.

5. A good hostess will tell you the mealtime schedule the first day. You are supposed to observe it. If she is kind enough to suggest you sleep late in the morning, try not to overdo it. She may want you to eat breakfast in your room if the family eats early, however.

6. They should tell you what the household plans are insofar as entertainment goes. If the family invites you to go dancing or swimming, it's a good idea to fall in with the plan. Don't hold out for bicycle riding, even if that is your fondest exercise.

7. Observe good table manners. If you are unsure of yourself, borrow an etiquette book from the library. Learn to butter small bits of bread instead of the entire slice; eat your soup with the spoon scooping away from you.

8. Try to keep out of the way in between times. Your hostess' mother would like you out of sight when the house is being cleaned, and she'd like you out of your room long enough to vacuum it during your stay, no doubt.

9. It's a good idea to get in the habit of being helpful. Offer to remove the dishes from the table, to wash or dry them, if it is that kind of household. If the family has help, they'd probably like it if you'd stay out of the kitchen.

10. Be sure to take a warm sweater or stole, low shoes for play, your own notepaper and fountain pen.

11. It's a good idea to bring your hostess' mother a little gift. If you do not, be sure to send her a bouquet or nosegay of flowers when you get home. In any case you should get your thank-you note off as soon as possible.

12. If you and your hostess date in the evening, it's wise to observe the curfew laid down by her parents. You can be assured that you will never get another invitation to their household if they must be put in the position of unusual responsibility for you.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. D BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 24, 1960 SEC. D

City Still Has One Village Blacksmith

By SAM BLACKBURN

If Mr. Longfellow was alive today, and in this part of the country, he'd find things pretty rough locating his beloved village smithy.

Time was, to be sure, when there was a blacksmith shop at every cross-roads. Even at cross-roads where there were no other business establishments. And every town and village had several shops.

Small villages had two, and sometimes three, and the quietude of summer days was broken by the constant clang of their anvils. And village lads in this shank of the woods were just like those of Mr. L.'s day. They liked to hang around the shop, watch the forge flare and see the sparks rain off the red hot iron under the blows of the sledge.

INDISPENSABLE

Blacksmith were indispensable in the day of the horse. Wagons and buggies, despite their exterior appearance of sturdiness, were prone to frequent mishaps. Old Dobbin had to be shod. Plows had to be sharpened and broken parts welded. There were no electric welding devices and the welds were by the ancient method of battering two white hot pieces of metal together.

Yes, times are now different. But, today, there are still two blacksmith shops in Big Spring. Fairview, Coahoma and Knott each have one shop. They have changed their ways. Most blacksmith shops do a lot of electric welding these days and what little true blacksmith work done is a sideline.

One shop here, however, still retains much of its ancient flavor and character. It still devotes its full time to blacksmithing. Although it has welding equipment, Lewis McKee, the blacksmith, does not enjoy welding. He will do a job with these newfangled devices if it has to be done but he prefers to take the problem to his forge, his anvil and his sledgehammer.

STILL FOLLOWS OLD WAYS
. . . Lewis McKee, touches up a plow point

OLDTIMER

McKee is an oldtimer in his business. He has been a blacksmith since 1944 professionally. Actually his experience goes back to the early 1920's. He picked up the knack for the trade on his farm where he rigged a forge, anvil and sledge and made as many of his own repairs as he could.

He was deeply impressed by the adeptness of the late Charlie Hull, one of the early day smiths who operated a popular shop in Coahoma. He learned a lot of the tricks of trade from Charlie and one of the proudest possessions in his shop is a pair of tongs which Mr. Hull hand made for him back in 1927.

He points out the smooth union where this old blacksmith welded the handles to the tongs and he casts derogatory comments on the commercial tongs which he has to use from time to time.

His shop at 201 NE 2nd has been in operation since 1952. He first began blacksmithing in Big Spring in 1949 after setting up his first professional place in 1944, 8½ miles north and east of Big Spring on the Old Colorado City road.

KEPT BUSY

"There wasn't any town or settlement there," he says. "It was a cross road and my shop was all the business there was. There were a lot of farmers in the area and they had to have repair jobs done. They kept me pretty busy."

The equipment he has in his shop today is the same that he had when he started. He has an old fashioned coal burning forge but he has made the concession of using an electric blower.

"We used to have a bellows," he recalls, "or a blower which you had to turn by hand."

The anvil, the sledges, the tongs, and a triphammer (another concession to modern demands) are the same he used at the outset. He doesn't like modern gadgets like gas-fueled forges. "They don't get hot enough," he insists. He doesn't like the modern method of electric welding sweep points; he would prefer, if the fee was enough, to weld them the old fashioned way.

NO HORSES

They are no longer any horses to be shod. There are horses, to be sure, but horse-shoers now go from ranch to ranch with rigs in trucks and do what shoeing there is to be done, right on the ranch.

The work of the shop is largely restricted to plowpoint sharpening, sweep overhauling and knife grinding. Naturally such work is highly seasonable.

"We commence to get busy busy around January," he explained, "and we are pretty busy on into July. Then there ain't anything until next January.

"Why, look—I been here all day and I bet I haven't done a dollar's worth of work. It'll be that way from now on until next January."

Fall doesn't bring any boom.

Blacksmiths used to keep busy the year around tightening wagon tires, making repairs on buggies, and doing repair jobs on farm tools.

"I'd kinda like to buy me an old wagon," sighed McKee, "but I swear I don't know where I'd find one."

Mr. Longfellow would have to do quite a bit of looking in these parts to find a village smithy to inspire his muse.

They Eloped, Search Called Off

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—A three-state search was called off when parents of a teen-age couple learned they had eloped.

Jeanne Sotille, 16, daughter of a millionaire banker, and Harold Walsh III, 17, an apprentice cameraman, sent identical telegrams to their parents: "We are married and safe. Be home Friday. Sorry or any worry. Love."

The telegrams came from Marianna, in northwest Florida. The couple, sweethearts for two or three years, had vanished Wednesday from their homes a block from each other.

Jeanne is a daughter of James Sottile Jr., of the Sottile banks group and citrus-cattle empire. Walsh is a son of Harold Walsh II, nationally-known cameraman who filmed Jerry Lewis' movie "The Bellboy" and Tennessee Williams' "The Rose Tattoo."

Crop Hopes Look Better After Rains

Cotton and feed crops in Howard County look good—better, in the opinion of a great many farmers, than they did in 1959.

The recent rains, which broke the stranglehold the drought had applied to the fields and ranges, has brought quick revival to crop prospects. Jimmy Taylor, county agent, who has been in all parts of the county in past weeks, said that across the board, the prospects are the best for a good crop this year that they have been in many seasons.

AUGUST RAIN

He added that additional rain will be needed in August to put the final insurance on the situation but at the present time, the fields are flourishing and there is enough reserve moisture to hold things even for some weeks.

Bolls are forming on cotton in many places. Weeds are in evidence but are not bad enough to pose a serious problem. Farmers are being able to keep abreast of this problem.

Insect infestation is in evidence and is causing some damage to crops. However, as a general thing, the damage being caused by insects has not as yet reached serious levels.

Boll worms, fleahoppers and cabbage loopers are found in nearly every field. Flea hoppers are doing the worst damage at this time. The boll worms for the most part have descended from the upper portions of the plant into more developed bolls. This makes it impractical to poison.

What must now be watched and met is the next hatching of boll worms. Poisoning, to be effective, must be before the worms move into the bolls.

The flea hoppers are considerably in evidence but Taylor said the infestation is not yet where poisoning is a practical solution. The loopers have not developed into a major menace.

RABBITS

Jackrabbits, which were causing the farmers grave concern ahead of the recent rains, have moved back into the rangelands, now that these are greening up. The rabbits no longer pose a serious crop threat.

Ranch lands are in excellent condition. Old timers say that it has been many years since the pastures have looked so green and been in such good shape as they are now.

This has been a tremendous relief to the cattlemen who were becoming hardpressed to keep their herds as the drought stripped the pastures of grass.

Assuming that a rain does fall in August, the prospects are good that this year's cotton and feed harvest should be excellent—better than 1959 and far better than in most years in the past decade.

Wet Rehearsal

Top cafe comic Joe E. Lewis has made a career out of kidding his own capacity for alcoholic beverages, and long before production started on the story of his life, "The Joker Is Wild," he sent Frank Sinatra, who portrays him in the Paramount release at the Sahaha Thursday, a case of Scotch. With it was a note: Start rehearsing."

The stranger-than-fiction story of Lewis' comeback from a gangland assault that ruined his singing voice stars Oscar-winner Sinatra, Mitzi Gaynor, Jeanne Crain and Eddie Albert.

Summer Recreation Program Closes This Week At YMCA

Next week will mark the windup of the Summer Recreation Program at the YMCA.

On Thursday night at 8 p.m., the second Parents' Night program will be held, bringing to a close instruction in trampoline, rifelry, creative dance, tumbling, archery, baton twirling and a charm course.

A special gymnastics exhibition under the direction of Joe Leach, YMCA physical education director, will be given.

CRAFTS SHOW

On the same day, an Arts and Crafts Show will be presented in the all-purpose room of the Y. Displays of elementary, teen-age and fun club craft programs will be on exhibition. Ribbons for first, second and third places will be awarded in each of the divisions. From that group, 12 championship winners will be selected.

Mrs. Terry Patterson, art director, will give special recognition to those outstanding in the arts and crafts program.

On July 30, the Fun Club activities will come to an end with the Fun Club Olympics at Steer Stadium, beginning at 8 p.m. Included in the running events for both boys and girls will be the 75-yard dash, 50-yard dash; piggy back race, three legged race, tow sack race, back-to-back race.

FIELD EVENTS

The field events will consist of volleyball serving, baseball throwing and archery for girls; archery, horseshoes (singles and doubles) and washers (singles and doubles) for boys.

Ribbons will be awarded for the first three places in all events, and outstanding fun clubber awards will be presented.

Officials for the Olympics are Hugh Hamm, director; Jerry Caddell, announcer; Bobby Zellars and Lillian Burnett, recorders; Harold Bentley, starter; Bobo Hardy, Dan Bustamente and Wiley Woodard, finish judges; Joe Leach, timer; Romero Jaime, horseshoe and washers judge; Frances Bueno, baseball throw and volleyball serve judge; Cornelia Childs, archery judge; Joe Pickle, presentation of awards.

There will be no official summer program during the month of August at the Y. Instead of attending classes of instruction, members can take part in free swim and free gym sessions at regular class times.

SWIM CLASS

A Tiny Tot Learn to Swim class for children, two to six, will be held for two weeks in August, but regular swimming instruction for others will not begin again until September. Further information on fall classes can be obtained at the YMCA.

The Summer Recreation Program, headed by Joe Pickle, has been held at the Y during the months of June and July and was provided through the support of the United Fund, the Big Spring School District, the City of Big Spring and the YMCA.

Special instructors for the classes were Wiley Woodard, gameroom supervisor; Hugh Hamm, Cornelia Childs, Romero Jaime, Frances Bueno, Doug Eastham, and Lillian Burnett, fun club instructors; Chop Van Pelt and Mary Ann Nugent, aquatics instructors; Terry Patterson, crafts director; Charles Driver, instructor; and Harold Macomber, basketroom attendant.

Wreck Injures Mrs. Wallace

Mrs. Linda Wallace, 17, wife of Glenn E. Wallace, Coahoma, is recuperating from a cut on the leg and bruises received when the Wallace car left the road Thursday night and plowed into a pasture.

Highway patrol officers said that Wallace and Mrs. Wallace were travelling south from Ackerly when Wallace lost control of his car. It rammed through a fence, plowed over and through a mesquite thicket and finally came to a rest some distance from the highway.

The car was extensively damaged and Mrs. Wallace was taken to the Howard County Hospital Foundation for treatment.

Stripper Clapped In Cell In Nude, Judge Is Unhappy

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Judge Rodney Weiss said last week it was "reprehensible and barbaric" to jail stripper Clarise Annjell overnight in the nude.

He dismissed charges of performing a lewd act, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace, filed against the dancer. The city will appeal.

Clarise, 27, was dragged away screaming and kicking from her night club act by three detectives Wednesday night.

The detectives carried her off in the paddy wagon clad only in a feather here and there and handcuffs.

At the station house a matron took the costume for evidence. Then Clarise, wearing only spike heeled shoes, was clapped into a cell.

Clarise refused to accept her street clothing from a matron. But 12 hours later, faced with the prospect of wearing a baggy, white smock into court, she finally accepted her clothes and dressed.

During the filming of "Snowfire," Allied Artists, release at the State Thursday, Molly McGowan, 9-year-old star, became so attached to Snowfire, the white stallion in the picture, that her father, Dorrell McGowan, purchased the horse for her. It is worth $50,000.

A Devotional For Today

Because I live, ye shall live also. (John 14:19.)
PRAYER: Loving Father, we thank Thee that Thou art ever with us. Thou art with us all the while, whether we are led through green pastures and by still waters or through the valley of the shadow of death. Make us so receptive to Thy love in this life that the life to come will hold no fear for us. We ask this in the spirit and name of Jesus. Amen.

Looks Like Busy Times Ahead

Between the summer's heat, the natural lull of vacation time and the uncertainty created by national political conventions, it is sometime easy to get the doldrum blues.

There's really no point in that for our own area because signs point to a definitely more active last half of the year. In fact, the outlook is pretty bright.

Perhaps the thing which will be most immediately felt is what promises to be a bumper harvest. Even with prolonged drought, we still are in line for a fair crop because the dry weather before the early July rains had driven the cotton roots deep so that now the plants will make a crop on reserve moisture. A few more showers would turn the yields into bumper proportions.

But there are other factors which promise to pump a lot of vigor into the economic blood stream. For instance, the U. S. Air Force last week announced $1,150,000 had been made available for runway extension and taxiways at Webb AFB, and some other improvements are in the offing.

The Howard County Commissioners court has all but completed the right of way requirements for converting U.S. 87 north from Fairview to the county line into a divided highway, and contracts should be let no later than September, and if previous estimates hold firm, this means a project of some $635,000. Last week the district highway engineer told a local group that a lateral road from east U.S. 80 to swing on the east side of the county airport and intersect with the Snyder highway had been recommended in the amount of $396,000. This could be in the contract stage before the end of the year. Getting the U.S. 87 project going will open the way—indeed will create an urgency for getting the roadway from Fairview to Big Spring for bringing the divided highway into town.

Cosden now has a substantial project (the new UOP Alkar Unit and related facilities) well underway. Soon we may hear of another sizeable undertaking on another front.

There are other factors, but these are enough to indicate that busy times are ahead here this autumn and winter.

Get That Pre-School Check Now

Within a month school doors will be opening for the beginning of a new term.

If that interval seems short to Junior, it is even shorter for parents—particularly those with children beginning school.

Those who will be starting out in the first grade will require a physical examination—not that the schools specify it, but your own peace of mind and for [illegible] vaccination certificates, etc. which are required. This is an excellent chance to make sure that there are no physical impediments to learning instead of risking some tragic by discovering it down the line.

But what we started out to say is that you shouldn't wait until the last day before school starts to see your doctor. There is a minimum of time that he can devote to each patient, and by attending to this chore now you'll save yourself time, get a more unhurried examination, and will relieve the doctor of an unnecessary strain. Do it this week.

Scouting Must Have Changed, Too

Note that the Boy Scouts have swarmed up to Colorado Springs for this Jamboree business. For all I know, they are staying at the Broadmoor Hotel, and reveling in room service.

This is the opinion of an old fuddy-duddy, of course, who rises to protest change. Not that the Scouts have gone far enough, really, to stay in $30-a-day rooms, but by gollies, they did go to the Jamboree by plane. This may come under the heading of transportation study, but it would make some oldtime scoutmasters whom I can remember take a turn or two in their graves.

TIMES HAVE JUST changed, Dad, since you were a Scout.

It is told for the truth—although I haven't seen the late Scout handbooks—that the current instructions to boys for making pancakes while on outings say "Make the pancake batter according to instructions on the box."

There's nothing wrong with this, except that the era of the packaged mix, having conquered the kitchen, has now enveloped the campfire meal. I suppose boys sfill are told how to rub two sticks together to start a fire (although I never believed in the efficacy of this) but maybe using a cigarette lighter is a lot simpler? Better yet, the troops may be carrying portable stoves that have an automatic lighter.

TO TELL THE TRUTH, though, the Scouts of my day would have gone in a plane, had they the opportunity.

Our hikes never did consist of much more than going a half-mile or so up Lone Wolf Creek, and finding a cleared space by the side of a hole of water big enough for some swimming.

These treks were never designed to be more than just overnight affairs, and a good thing, too, or else the scoutmasters would never have survived.

PACKAGING HADN'T come in then, but pancakes were considered too much of a challenge, anyway. About the only items I can remember at a Scout's-night-out-meal were bacon and baked potatoes. The potatoes were prepared, you know, by burying them in the hot coals. Those I prepared always were a bit burned around the skin and completely raw on the interior. After all, who could wait for potatoes to roast properly? The bacon was managed a bit better, although more times than not the pan would upset in the fire, spilling all the grease and coating the bacon with ash. Not a bad flavor, though, if you're young enough.

OTHER THAN LOAD our stomachs with goop that would make strong men blanch, I can't remember that the Scouts of my time did much on these outings. The only wildlife rules we knew were to look out for snakes and skunks. Either could ruin the whole trip and the skunks frequently did. Activity consisted in some dog paddling in the crek pond, but this usually didn't come until after two boys had fallen in, and three others had been pushed in.

After a supper of raw potatoes and ash-covered bacon, breakfast—consisting of the same menu—was never quite as inviting. By mid morning, everybody was ready to go home, principally the scoutmaster. There must be some reason why all the boys in my troop never got beyond the tenderfoot rank.

Historic Step Toward World Order

UNITED NATIONS.—At precisely the time when the Democratic convention in Los Angeles was breaking out in the frenzy of the Stevenson demonstration, there was happening here what may well, if the tragedy of breakdown in the Congo is finally averted, be recorded as one of the momentous milestones on the long, painful, uncertain march toward world order.

Largely lost sight of in the furor over the convention, the United Nations, by putting together a force to stem the tide toward chaos and violence, took the only move that could prevent "another Korea."

ANOTHER KOREA would have come—the threat is still there—if the Belgian troops had stayed on to protect Belgian nationals and if then, in response to the unstable Premier Patrice Lumumba, the Communists had sent in their own forces to resist them. Thus the battle lines would have been drawn as they were drawn in Korea, with racial fury as an added element of terror and violence.

The credit for this goes mostly to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold who now plans to fly to Leopoldville.

IN A PERIOD OF 36 hours beginning Wednesday morning in which he had scarcely more than four or five hours of sleep, Hammarskjold played the role of an international Paul Revere. With three aides—the top U.N. secretariat is pitifully small—he overwhelmed the U.N. cable office with a series of formal requests to 27 countries not only for men but for every possible kind of assistance to sustain a force in the Congo.

As his office on the 38th floor of the U.N. building became a command post in the race to stave off disaster, he began shortly after midnight to telephone to the capitals of the world—Stockholm, Accra, Jerusalem, New Delhi, London, Leopoldville. In the interval between midnight and 4 a.m., not long after the Security Council passed the resolution authorizing the sending of troops to keep order in the new Congo Republic, he talked to four heads of state.

IN THE CURIOUS dry, unaccented speech that is his hallmark, in four languages Hammarskjold stated his case very simply. It was a choice between doing what could be done immediately or delaying until it was too late and waiting until the flames were out of control. It was necessary to create out of nothing a force of 10,000 men who would be accepted as order-keepers both by the Belgians and by the shaky regime in the Congo.

The Soviet Union, absent when the council voted to use force to put down aggression in Korea and abstaining in the Suez crisis, voted for the first time for a U.N. military force. For the first time, too, Hammarskjold invoked Article 99 of the U.N. Charter which says: "The Secretary General may bring to the attention of the Security Council any matter which in his opinion may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security."

ALTOGETHER, IT was a precedent-making night that has enlarged the scope of the U.N. to an extraordinary degree.

What has not been known until now is that Hammarskjold was prepared to go ahead even if the council had not voted the authorizing resolution. If fact, he had long since started the wheels turning to try to cope with a situation he had foreseen in all its stark desperation.

DISCUSSIONS WITH Ethiopia, Ghana and other newly independent African nations had prepared the way for a force made up largely of Africans. Representatives of these powers were themselves fully aware of the danger to the whole independence movement in a breakdown in the Congo ending in massacre and intervention. They realized the tragic plight of the Congolese in their almost complete lack of preparation for nationhood.

As a final move, Hammarskjold sent Deputy Secretary Ralph J. Bunche to Leopoldville for the independence ceremony. Bunche has performed heroic labors in holding the line of U.N. authority and coordinating the first contingents of U.N. troops to arrive in Leopoldville.

DURING THE TENSE 36 hours, when clearly it was touch and go whether another disaster like Korea would break upon the world, there were many alarms. Lumumba threatened at one point that if U.N. troops could not instantly restore order he would call on the Bandung powers to come in. This would have opened the door to Communist China.

But through it all Hammarskjold's calm was unshaken. And he was as carefully neutral, in the words of one Security Council delegate, as only a Swede coming from a nation that has not been in a war since 1815 can be. If no one else was prepared for the explosion in Africa, the U.N. Secretary General was. He knows all too well that seven more African nations will come into the world organization for certain this year and there will probably be an additional eight. The rising tide of color is a reality here and now.

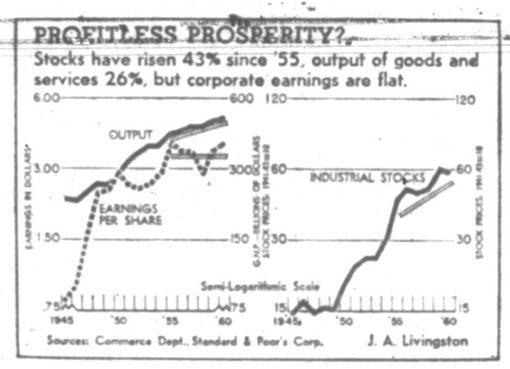
We're In The Midst Of 'Profitless Prosperity'

Maybe you've noticed it in your budget. These costs keep creeping up. Perhaps it's public utility rates. Or doctors' fees. Or the price of a visit of a TV repairman. (As soon as you buy an auto or an appliance these days you've got a mechanic on your payroll for life.) Or some food or clothing item is higher than you thought it would be.

Well, if you've noticed how your dollar buys less and less, you're at one with America's corporations. They're in a phase for which there's a phrase—"profitless prosperity."



CONSIDER THE case of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. Sales in the second quarter reached an all-time high of $562,000,000; yet, net operating income was down 12 per cent from the year before. Explanation: Increased competition aggravated by price concessions.

Or take Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co.: Second - quarter sales up 15 per cent, earnings down 8 per cent. Or B. F. Goodrich Co.: Six-month sales up 5 per cent, net down 7 per cent. Explanation: High natural rubber and employment costs.

YET, DU PONT, Honeywell, and Goodrich were fortunate. Steel companies did not have the benefit of rising sales to offset higher costs. Result: Youngstown's June quarter net was down to $1.72 a share from $4.94 the year before. Crucible Steel barely escaped a deficit, earning five cents a share versus $1.31. And Sinclair Oil has cut its dividend to fit its reduced income.

Ths profitless prosperity has been going on for nearly five years (see chart). Sales have been on an escalator, but costs have been on an even faster escalator. Some companies and industries have done well in some years, some in other years. But in the nation as a whole, you can paraphrase Alice Through the Looking Glass: It takes all the running you can do, to keep profits in the same place.

SINCE 1955 the total output of all goods and services has risen 26 per cent; industrial production has increased 15 per cent; sales have gone up 18 per cent. That's genuine expansion. You'd expect profits to flourish—increase faster than sales.

Instead...in 1955, the gross national product amounted to $397,500,000,000, and corporate earnings came to $3.78 per share. This year, an annual rate of $501,000,000,000 of gross national product yields earnings of $3.72 a share. And in the intervening years, despite a rising total of business, earnings per share fluctuated between $2.95 and $3.53 (see chart).

THIS CAN BE expressed in another way. In the first five years after the war, corporate profits as a per cent of sales, ranged from 3.9 per cent to 4.8 per cent; in the last five years, from 3 per cent to 3.7 per cent. And in the first quarter of this year, the rate was 3.4 per cent. The second-quarter rate, based on early returns, suggests a lower margin.

This paradox of higher gross and stand-still net explains the why and how of the stock market. To experienced Wall Streeters, not the nouveau cognoscenti, earnings, and earnings only, determine the worth of stocks in the long run. The professional always asks: How much of a return can I expect on my money?

THROUGHOUT the postwar period, investors have been counting on economic expansion—long-term growth—to produce higher earnings, and, of course, higher dividends. And they've coupled this with rationalization: Common stocks are an inflation hedge; safeguard your dollars with a stake in American industry.

But common stocks aren't a protection against rising prices if the rise in prices eats into profits. And that has happened and is likely to continue. In automobiles, the compact car is reducing gross margins per vehicle.

IN STEEL, higher wages will take effect in December. But will the companies dare raise prices when operations are low and competition for volume is intense? And in household appliances, high inventories and slow sales have just forced price cuts.

The postwar rise in sales has tended to conceal the inroads higher costs have made into corporate net. But this year, in which the sizzling 'sixties were to start, the slowdown in industrial activity underscored the profits squeeze.

THIS EXPLAINS the drop in stock prices since last August. Investors will pay 16 to 20 times earnings in expectation of higher dividends. But when higher sales are absorbed by higher costs, the price investors will pay for a dollar of earnings is likely to sag.

Not until either higher volume gets translated into higher net or until price-earnings ratios get so low as to become enticingly attractive will this trend change, will the bear market be over. First, the de-sizzled 'sixties must be re-sizzled.

Flood Men Flooded

MILWAUKEE (AP)—One hundred government officials gathered in the court house to discuss flood control problems, but they forgot one simple way to control one type of flood: close the windows.

When they were out to lunch, a violent wind and rainstorm drenched the meeting room.

The Way To Rewards In Life

Are you getting what you want from life?

This is a good check - up question everyone should ask himself once in awhile. A lot of people would have to answer no because, sadly enough, they are not really living —they are just drifting.

One reason many people do not get what they want is simply that they do not know what they want. A young man of 21 came to me for advice. He bluntly asked, "How can I get somewhere and be somebody? Questioning him I found he had absolutely no idea what he wanted to be or even what kind of job appealed to him the most.

NATURALLY I told him, "Before you can get anywhere or be anybody you'll have to make up your mind where you want to go and what you want to be. You must have a definite goal. When you decide on your specific objective in life you will be taking the first step on the path to achieving it."

A friend of mine has had a career which strikingly demonstrates the creative power of a clearly defined goal. His parents were poor German immigrants. In his youth as he describes it, he "didn't have two nickels to rub together." Today he is editor of a very important newspaper. I once asked him, "How did you get to be editor of this paper?"

"IT WAS WHAT I wanted more than anything else in the world," he answered. "As a boy I used to walk past this building. Through a big window I could see the editor sitting at his desk, handling papers. I got to thinking how much a man in his position could affect people's views —what an influence he could be. Then one day I got a picture of myself sitting in his place. I knew that was what I wanted and I just made up my mind to get it.

To lead a rewarding life it is most important to picture clearly in mind what you want and be willing to work for it. In addition you must have what it takes to overcome the failure elements that hamper personality. All of us have these failure elements —crucial weaknesses of one kind or another. And we cannot always get rid of them solely by our own unaided efforts —we need God's help.

I KNOW A MAN whose high percentage of failure elements once cost him his job, his home, reputation and friends. Everything he had went down the drain. He had taken to heavy drinking and had let it drag him down until he was actually a common drunk. Having used up all his money he borrowed from relatives and friends. When finally there was no one he could "touch" again, he left town and wandered aimlessly from place to place, sometimes even sleeping in haystacks and begging meals at back doors.

One day to pass the time he read some religious literature given him by a kindly old lady whom he had asked for food. Then one of those almost incredible miracles took place. The power of God's word penetrated his consciousness and started working in him. He began to pray for the first time in years. He hardly realized what was happening to him; but later events demonstrated that an amazing change had occurred. The old failure elements were done..

WHATEVER HAPPENED to this man is hard to describe. A new force entered his mind. He found new strength and sense of direction. He acquired what it takes to remove oneself from failure to achievement.

Plato once said "Take charge of your lives; you can do with them what you will." That great truth is worth committing to memory. And one way to take charge of your life is to set yourself a goal, picture it, pin-point it and steer your course by it. At the same time eliminate the failure elements from yourself. These steps, taken together, can form with God's help a real program for getting what you want.

Most Heart Victims Return To Normal Living

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You sure knocked the props from under me with the article on 'No return to normal after heart attacks.' I had a so-called mild heart attack and I've been hoping I'd be able to do all my work, especially out in the garden. The article doesn't give me much hope.—A.Y."

And your letter knocks the props from under me! I didn't get the idea that I wanted to across to you.

Let me put it this way. You have a lot of heart muscle. Somebody once figured out that the heart muscle has 30 times the strength it needs to support life. Maybe the correct figure is even greater. Anyway, you are born with a heart that has a great deal of reserve strength.

Now when you have a heart attack big enough so you know it, and you call the doctor, some of that heart muscle is probably damaged. Scar tissue forms and, from the tissue standpoint, some damage has been done. You can't undo it any more than you can get rid of a scar from a serious cut. Little nicks disappear, yes; scars from a severe wound, no.

We do know, from years of observation, that a great many people have heart attacks so mild that they never notice them. There are other injuries to the body, "little strokes," bumps or strains on the joints and muscles, overfatigue, and all sorts of small matters which cause little if any notice at the time, but some are great enough so they add up. That's part of the "wear and tear of life."

To get back to hearts, three out of every four people who have heart attacks return to their normal activities — and when I say this, I mean three out of four of those whose heart attacks are serious enough so they knew they had an attack and called the doctor.

Overly-strenuous activity may have to be avoided. Look at it this way: A football player, whose leg is broken, may go back to playing football, or he may not, depending on the severity of the break. If he breaks a leg a second time in the same place, he'd better quit football. But he still can walk on that leg for the next 50 or 60 years.

It's the same with a heart attack. The majority of people who have them go back to normal activities, although they may well have to avoid strenuous activity. You can be able to keep house, work in the garden, go shopping, do all the normal things of life, but perhaps not be able to play 36 holes of golf, stay up dancing until 5 a.m., play water polo with the kids, or go on 10-mile hikes.

In addition, time is a great factor. Your heart (like a mended broken leg) may demand that you favor it for six months, or a year, or even two years to allow it to regain strength after healing.

Believe me, I hadn't the slightest intention of knocking any props from under you or anyone else. A heart attack is nothing to ignore; but the healing powers of nature are not to be underestimated, either. They are tremendous. Just don't demand the impossible!

* * * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: I made a comment in the office that since I stopped smoking I noticed that leg cramps do not occur as often. My friends disagree with me. —E.L.D."

Let your friends disagree if they wish; that's their affair. But nicotine from smoking (or any source) does have a recognized effect on the small blood vessels of the system, and hence is one known cause of leg cramps.

* * *

Dr. Molner is always happy to hear from his readers, but he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters due to the great number received daily. Whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

If Kennedy And Rockefeller Tangled—

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Vice President Nixon was a big Kennedy booster for the Democratic nomination. Now it's the other way around. Cadidate Kennedy stands to be a big gainer by Nixon's all-but-inevitable victory at Chicago. Each man thinks he can lick the other — and yearns to run against him. But there's another party to this prefereence. I mean the American people.

Which contest would be better for the country? Would Nixon vs. Kennedy provide the optimum possible choice of men and ideas? Or would Rockefeller vs. Kennedy? In the first instance, the picture is cloudy because Nixon's political philosophy is still very fuzzy.

NIXON '60 IS designedly different from Nixon of the 1940-50's. Unlike many of the Vice President's friends and admirers, I liked the original image better than the revised edition. Nixon reached Congress in the 1946 election by clobbering an entrenched Demo-Laborite New Dealer, and I say hurrah! As a Representative, Nixon bloodhounded Alger Hiss and was co-author of the Mundt-Nixon bill, which eventually became the McCarran Internal Security Act—another big hurrah!

To gain the Senate seat Nixon defeated a lady who was "pink" by any standards, and it was as a skillful, respectable and understating accuser of Reds-in-America that Senator Nixon became prominent enough to achieve the nomination for Vice President in 1952.

HISTORY HAS proved the Nixon of '50 to be right. Everything important that has happened to the USA in the past decade has related to our struggle against Communism. But it's been several years since Nixon was on speaking terms with his former self.

But this man Rockefeller, while rating as a Modern Republican, is much more Modern than he is Republican. The Rockefeller theme and record, both in Washington and Albany, have been for economic growth. Nixon has used the term in derision and ridiculed the Rockefeller philosophy as one of "Growthmanship".

VERY WELL—LET us accept it. If we had a Kennedy-Rockefeller race this autumn, it would be the New Frontiersman vs. the New Growthman. We know from Jack Kennedy's Los Angeles acceptance speech that he is offering us something almost Churchillian—not security but "challenges". And we know from Nelson Rockefeller's recent speeches that, if President, he would try to steer the American economy toward increased, automated productivity to give us something I would call Early American—not "leisure" through shorter work hours, but a rebuilt American Civilization.

It would be different, of course, from what the pioneers built as they ranged westward and created, under smokestacks and high tension lines, the beautiful cities of the plains and the Pacific coast. The Rockefeller vision, although beautiful, too, in concept, has the repellent name of Gross National Product. He wants to increase the GNP by greater investment in modern machinery and public facilities. If Rocky gets his chance, either in this election year or in a later one, he would put forward a program best expressed, I think, here in his own words on June 1, 1960, at Cooperstown:

"I WOULD, THEREFORE, firmly dissociate myself from those who argue that massive government spending, creeping inflation and farreaching government controls provide the only route...I am talking about growth . . . within the terms of reference of our proven system . . . Obviously we could not go on indefinitely cutting down work hours . . . I think that the American public might agree on a moratorium on increased leisure . . ."

WELL, I DO NOT expect Rockefeller to beat Nixon for the GOP nomination, but I have not yet learned to clamber upon bandwagons for the sake of being right-by-association. While a Kennedy-Nixon fight would please the two principals, it would not kindle the intellectual sparks which fly upward when flint meets steel. A Kennedy-Rockefeller battle would benefit the USA by bringing into contention two vigorous men who are pledged to demand great things of the American people—not more loafing and coddling, but more hard work and more daring adventure.

As strange as it seems, these two handsome young millionaires are both bursting with the pioneer spirit which made this country great.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

In the more or less bright lexicon of government, the word "temporary" obviously means forever. As instances New York City's sales tax was labeled "temporary" when it was enacted a generation ago, ditto those war time nuisance taxes laid by the federal government, and the innumerable boards and commissions which have found permanent residence on state payrolls.

Congress is currently coping with another "temporary" problem. It's the federal program to aid rural libraries set up in 1956 to last five years. The program has been so successful that rural librarians want it renewed for another five years—temporarily, of course.

From where Rep. Bow of Ohio stands, the program has been a failure because local communities do not support their libraries but leave that to Uncle Sam. He doesn't question the cultural advantages of rural reading which are conceded. Apparently Bow is merely curious to find out whether it is possible to stop a federal aid program onee it has been started—temporarily.

Wisdom

One of our old teachers used to say, "I can lead you to knowledge, but only God can give you wisdom."

And how right he was. A string of diplomas and degrees does not make a man wise. Many of the wisest never had a formal education.

For knowledge is the accumulation of facts. But wisdom is the ability to apply a few facts — perhaps only one — to a life-situation.

We know a distinguished scholar who has written volumes on ecclesiastical architecture. And we know an elderly widow who told her grandchildren, "Churches ain't made to look at!"

And the scholar — earnest Christian that he is — humbly bows to the wisdom of the widow!

For whether it be a cathedral or chapel, the Church cannot enrich our lives until reverently we enter its portals to worship and serve God. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A love story from the Old Testament

'Story Of Ruth' Plays This Week

"The Story of Ruth," a Twentieth Century-Fox, CinemaScope, DeLuxe Color presentation of the romantic and religious conflicts of the famed woman of the Old Testament, starring Stuart Whitman, Tom Tryon, Peggy Wood, Viveca Lindfors, Jeff Morrow and introducing Elana Eden, dazzling young Israeli beauty in the title role, opens Sunday at the Ritz Theatre.

A world-wide talent and glamour search resulted in the casting of Elana Eden in the challenging role of the biblical beauty. Stuart Whitman is seen in the role of Boaz, Ruth's devoted lover and husband. Tom Tryon, the "Texas John Slaughter" of TV fame, adds still another romantic interest as he portrays Mahlon, Ruth's first husband and Peggy Wood, Viveca Lindfors and Jeff Morrow complete the cast.

The film was directed by Henry Koster, whose directorial credits include "The Robe" and "A Man Called Peter."

Author Norman Corwin worked for a year, in close association with Producer Samuel Engel, on the scenario. Corwin's script filled in the Old Testament biblical story.

Corwin has combined the six stories of Ruth: The story of her childhood; the story of her first love for Mahlon (Tom Tryon); the story of her devotion to her mother-in-law (acted by veteran stage and screen star Peggy Wood); the story of her courageous fight for acceptance in Naomi's country, despite the emnity of her adopted neighbors, and the conflict inherent in her mature love for Boaz (Stuart Whitman) despite her betrothal to his elder kinsman, Tob (Jeff Morrow).

Gish, Bickford At 1,000 Mark

Including their latest film, "The Unforgiven," Lillian Gish and Charles Bickford have between them, appeared in more than 1000 films.

Miss Gish made her motion picture debut about 1908, in the days when making a film took a couple of weeks. Bickford went from stage to films 31 years ago. He has been employed constantly as hero, villian, strong man and character actor.

In "The Unforgiven," which John Huston directed for Hecht-Hill-Lancaster, Miss Gish and Bickford play the mother and father of two neighboring families, menaced by Indians.

'Ice Palace' Is Ferber Tale Of Alaska Statehood Battle

"Ice Palace" is Warner Bros.' big-scale Technicolor film version of Edna Gerber's novel about the taming of Alaska and the struggle of this great northern wilderness to become America's 49th state. Following its serialization in the Ladies Home Journal, the book stayed on the best - seller lists for 22 weeks.

As was the case for Miss Ferber's "Giant," the studio has spared no expense to make "Ice Palace," which opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. What "Giant" did for Texas, "Ice Palace" does for Alaska.

Exceptional care was exerted to assure the right castings for the Ferber characters. The story of the march to statehood by the last great American frontier is told in the half-century - long struggle of two Titans. The Titans are Richard Burton, who as Zeb "Czar" Kennedy, wants to take everything from the country and give nothing, and Robert Ryan as Thor Storm, of Norwegian heritage, whose love for Alaska rouses him to battle for the statehood its people want.

Carolyn Jones, Martha Hyer and Jim Backus also are starred in a cast which includes Ray Danton and two lovely newcomers, Diane McBain and Shirley Knight. Of unusual interest is the casting of the 19-year-old Eskimo beauty, Dorcas Brower, from Point Barrow in the Arctic, in the role of Robert Ryan's young native wife.

To insure authenticity of background, the company spent four weeks in Alaska filming scenes against its primitive grandeur of glaciers, mountains and ice-fields, its salmon-fishing, its canneries and the frontier-tested cities of Fairbanks and Juneau and the small fishing community of Petersburg on Mitkof Island in the Inland Passage, largely inhabited by Norwegians.

"Ice Palace" is the first big-budget film to be made by a major studio in wide screen and Technicolor on location in the 49th state. Many of the story's characters are identifiable to Alaskans, even though their names have been changed.

Some native Alaskans expressed interest over the idea of having their land pictured on the screen as it really is —not just as a country of igloos, Eskimos and ice, although there are some magnificent snow scenes in the film.

The screenplay covers a 40-year span (1920-1960) in the growth of America's most northern state.

To supplement location scenes, two of the largest exterior sets ever built on a studio sound stage were constructed on Warner Bros.' largest stage to represent a vast expanse of Arctic snow country and an Eskimo village in the Arctic. Designed by the film's art director, Malcolm Bert, they were realistic down to such fine details as bear tracks in the snow, glistening ice packs, Eskimo huts (no igloos) and endless rows of frozen fish. They were also inhabited by caribou, reindeer, Kodiak bears and howling huskies, as well as actors, during the filming.

"Ice Palace" was produced by Henry Blanke and directed by Vincent Sherman.

Gets Confused With Look-Alike

Barbara Lawson, who wishes people wouldn't confuse her with Shirley MacLaine because they look so much alike, oddly enough was discovered by Producer Hal Wallis in the same show in which Miss MacLaine also came to his attention—"The Pajama Game." He saw Shirley in the New York production, and Barbara in the road company production.

Miss Lawson does a special Beatnik dance with Spacenick Jerry Lewis in Mr. Wallis' new Paramount comedy, "Visit to a Small Planet." It is one of the highspot scenes — the hilarious "Hungry Brain" nightclub sequence. In it Barbara not only does a terrific dance but also sings "Desdemona's Lament," a tune that's really "way out."

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

Most of you already know the story of Ruth, as it is given in the Bible. It is rather brief, but simple, and its beauty lies in its simplicity.

Most Bible stories are of this nature, so short and simple that the drama must largely be inferred. This situation makes life nearly impossible for an honest screen writer.

Norman Corwin, however, is able to surmount this first barrier in "The Story of Ruth." He has taken the hard bones of the original and has woven around it a screen story that is fictional, but logically developed from the premises. Too, his version is told in a simple manner.

Corwin's weakness was in his failure to capture the sheer poetry of which Biblical stories are capable, and there are times when his movie falls rather flat—particularly in that moving sentence with which Ruth tells her mother-in-law, Naomi, "Whither thou goest, I will go..." In modern language it loses its imagery.

"The Story of Ruth" is more in the tradition of "A Man Called Peter" rather than that of DeMille. There is some glitter and violence in the first part, where Ruth is pictured as a pagan priestess, but this is soon over with. Afterwards, the story is that of a woman seeking to be accepted by an alien people.

In spite of its few weaknesses, "The Story of Ruth" is one of the finer Biblical films to come out in some time.

What Edna Ferber did for Texas with "Giant," she has done for Alaska with "Ice Palace."

There were thousands of Texans who, after having seen "Giant," were ready to sue Miss Ferber for libel, treason or lese majeste. What the outcome in Alaska over "Ice Palace" will be is not yet apparent.

More than an hour and a half in length, "Ice Palace" allegedly tells the dramatic story of Alaska's fight for statehood, and there is plenty of history interwoven into the plot. The film might have been excellent as a documentary.

The plot is exceedingly involved, following Richard Burton, the cannery magnate who opposes statehood, and Robert Ryan, his bitter enemy. The story goes through 40 years of succeeding generations and political shenanigans. The scripting from the book is just barely intelligible—enough to give the actors something to work on, and they do rather well, considering.

There are some wonderful shots of Alaskan scenery, but these often are interrupted for studio shots, and in some cases the technical level is lousy — like the color and quality of the sky undergoing a sudden switch from reddish to bright blue in a matter of seconds.

"Ice Palace" is as much a tossed salad as "Giant" was, and it's a pity—with the story's potentialities, it might have been an award winning film.

Returning and recommended: "The Unforgiven." Audrey Hepburn as a Kiowa girl reared as white. Her family and neighbors, as well as the Kiowas, discover she is a Redskin, instead; the neighbors disown her, her family almost does, and the Kiowa warriors come after her. Burt Lancaster is his usual heroic self as the foster brother who decides to keep the girl.

The film is startlingly realistic, even down to the oath of do-or-die the Kiowa warriors were in the habit of making—and keeping. The only unrealistic thing about it is the fact that around 40 Kiowas end up dead and only one paleface. It was generally the other way around.

"On the Beach." Stanley Kramer's stirring drama based on the best-selling novel by the late Nevil Shute, translated to the screen with the Shute story almost intact. It is the story of a small group of survivors faced with certain extinction after a nuclear war, and the brave and very human ways in which they meet their fate. There's nothing super-scientific and there aren't any dead bodies lying around in this tale of the end of the human race —and the possibilities of such a thing really happening are too close for this movie to be classified as fantastic. It should be seen by every politician in the world.

'On The Beach' Makes Return

Stanley Kramer's "On the Beach," opening Sunday at the Sahara Theatre through United Artists release, has been called "the biggest story of our time."

Kramer, dedicated to the belief that this is a solemnly hard truth, arranged an unprecedented premiere for the film, a story about the survivors of an atomic disaster. It had its world premiere simultaneously in major cities on all seven continents.

This unprecedented multiple global showing was devised by Kramer because of the stark urgency of the picture, the quality referred to by the book critics who, in reviewing the sensational Shute novel, spoke of it as "the most important and dramatic story of this era."

An adaptation of the late Nevil Shute's sensational best-selling novel, "On the Beach," stars Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner, Fred Astaire and Anthony Perkins, and introduces, in her movie debut, lovely 19-year-old Donna Anderson. The strong supporting cast is headed by John Tate, Lola Brooks, Guy Doleman, John Meillon and Harp McGuire.

Stanley Kramer produced and directed "On the Beach" from a screenplay by John Paxton, Guiseppe Rotunno, the prize-winning Italian cameraman, was chief cinematographer, and the musical score was composed and conducted by Ernest Gold. The picture was filmed in its entirety on location in Australia, on sites precisely corresponding to those used in the Shute novel.

In the case of "On the Beach," the customary "This film could not have been made without the cooperation of . . ." was considerably more than a formality. It could not have been made without the all-out cooperation of Australian Commonwealth officials, who were unstintingly generous in their assistance to the movie troupe.

One of the most unusual—and terrifying—sequences ever filmed was an auto race in which all of the participants, doomed to a lingering death, throw caution to the winds, take impossible gambles in their lethal vehicles, and actually court disaster.

Kramer, noted in Hollywood for his daring "cross-casting" — casting deliberately against type—exceeded even his own customary reach when he signed Fred Astaire for his first serious, straight acting role as Julian Osborne, an atomic scientist. Astaire, for the past 25 years the world's top dancing star, was stunned by the offer.

DR. PAUL C. YOUNG

Dr. Young Is Chairman Of Y Workshop

Dr. Paul C. Young, clinical psychologist for the Big Spring State Hospital, is chairman and one speaker for the counseling workshop, slated to be held here Aug. 1-6.

The workshop is designed to train YMCA leaders in counseling techniques for youngsters who participate in the Y program. The workshop has been limited to 10 persons for the initial session.

Dr. Young has a wide and varied experience in his field. He has been a professor at SMU, Arkadia University, SW Texas State College, Florida State College, and Harvard College. He was a member of the LSU faculty for 37 years and was head of psychology department 10 years.

He has written numerous scientific papers and is listed in "Who's Who in America." and "American Men of Science." His education includes degrees from Boudoin College, University of Minnesota, and Harvard University.

The workshop is a trail-blazing step for the local YMCA and may be the first taken by an association of this size.

Dr. Young will lead three of the discussions, which include techniques of counseling, personality and testing, and mechanisms of character formation.

SUPERINTENDENTS

District Pays Less Than The Average

According to recent surveys, the three top jobs in the Big Spring Independent School District pay less than comparable positions in other districts throughout the state.

These figures were released during recent school board meeting. In three separate studies, it was revealed that the three superintendent's positions here, on the average, pay less than in other districts.

In the survey of school superintendents, 30 schools participated. The high salary of the group was at Lubbock, which pays the superintendent $20,500 annually. The low salary was tabbed at Galveston where the salary is $12,000.

The average salary is $15,854. Big Spring ranks 20th in the list at $15,104.

Ranked above the Big Spring district are Midland, Grand Prairie, Amarillo, San Angelo, Odessa, Andrews, Goose Creek, Wichita Falls, Abilene, Waco, Kermit, Victoria, Arlington, and Borger.

In the survey of assistant superintentendents, Big Spring ranks 11th in a field of 22 schools. The top salary is listed at $14,600 at Lubbock and the low salary was $9,000 per year at San Angelo.

The average salary per year was $10,702. The salary in Big Spring is $10,362.

Districts paying more than the local one include Lubbock, Midland, Tyler, Grand Prairie, Arlington, Beaumont, Freeport and Galena Park.

In the third survey, covering the position of business manager, Big Spring ranks 12th in a field of 29 schools. The highest salary is $15,000 at Beaumont and the low salary is listed as $8,000 at Snyder.

The average annual pay is $10,440 and in Big Spring it is $10,162 annually.

Districts paying more than Big Spring include Lubbock, Amarillo, Brazosport, Odessa, Grand Prairie, Arlington, Midland, Victoria, San Angelo and Galena Park.

Student Council Attends Confab

Officers and the sponsor of the Big Spring Student Council will leave Sunday for Canyon to spend a week in a workshop at West Texas State College.

George Mathes of Colorado is to be the consultant for the workshop sponsored by the Texas Association of Student Councils. Only officers of the various councils are eligible to participate.

Mathes will propose problems for various groups to discuss and to present solutions. As officers arrive they will be put in groups which will be competitive throughout the week in discussions, solutions, sports and recreational activities.

Presiding over the sessions will be Jerry Crawford, divisional president. Attending from here will be Ross Reagan, president; Larry Moore, first vice president; Kay Crownover, second vice president; Lynn Clawson, recording secretary; Janie Harrington, secretary; and Mrs. Don Green, sponsor.

2nd Annual Horse Show Set Aug. 6

Second annual Big Spring Quarter Horse Show is slated for Aug. 6 at the Rodeo Grounds. An expected 100 to 125 quarter horses from all parts of West Texas and New Mexico will be here for the show.

It is sponsored by the American Quarter Hosrse Association and the West Texas Quarter Horse Association. The judge will be B. F. Yeats at Plainview.

Jimmy Taylor, county agent, said that 29 trophies will be presented and rosettes awarded to the first six places in each class.

A $10 entry fee will be assessed for all halter class events and $15 for each performing class. Half of the entry fees will be returned to the four top winners in the two classifications.

The show is open to all quarter horses listed with the quarter horse association.

Classes will be set up for mares and stallions foaled in 1960, 1959, 1958, 1957, 1956 and before.

There will be five halter classes in both groups. Classes for geldings, and performance classes for both junior and senior horses are on the program. Reining, roping, cutting and barrel race evets are set for the performing division.

A special event will be for western riding and pleasure horses, for quarter horses which are owned for pleasure rather than for showing and breeding.

Halter show events are slated to start at 9 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 6. The performance class division events get under way at 1:30 p.m. All activities will be at the Rodeo Bowl west of the city.

Dances Again

Rita Hayworth, who started in show business as a dancer, once again dons dancing shoes for Columbia Pictures' "Pal Joey," also starring Frank Sinatra and Kim Novak at the Sahara Theatre. "Pal Joey" is the Technicolor motion picture version of the Broadway stage hit by Rodgers and Hart.

Now...Gas Ranges bring you another important cooking "first"

ACCURATE OVEN CONTROL AS LOW AS 140°!

At last, here is glorious freedom from the frustrations of dinner delays and dried-out foods. With the remarkable FLAME MASTER oven control, you can cook meals even hours in advance . . . secure in the knowledge that whenever your family or guests are ready . . . the meal is ready, at precisely the right serving temperature!

Until now, most temperature settings below 200° have been "guesstimates"—subject to wide fluctuations. The FLAME MASTER provides pin point accuracy at any setting from 550° down to 140°! What's more, it lets you pre-warm your best dishes without danger . . . thaw foods more quickly and evenly. For example, a 7-lb. turkey can be thawed in about 2½ hours vs. 14 hours at room temperature!

Check with Pioneer or a Gas Appliance dealer about all the wonderful advantages of the new Gas Ranges and "find out what Gas is doing these days"!
