RAIL CHIEFS FAVOR PLAN LABOR OPPOSES

Press Association Convention Opens With Flying Start

The Ship Subsidy—
Republican Genius—
Concerning Gas Probes
Chaste Hollywood—

PRESIDENT HARDING WAS the father of the ship subsidy bill. He had the congressional leaders of the party introduce the bill. He asked the republican congress to take up the bill and enact it into law. His chairman of the shipping board, Albert D. Lasker, foremost publicity agent and advocate of the administration appealed to the American people to get in behind their senators and representatives and push them along until the latter had pushed over the measure which he said would only cost the people $60,000,000 annually and would be a life saver for the American merchant marine. Now official Washington says the ship subsidy bill is dead so far as the present congress is concerned. Chairman Lasker is a very wise business man a wiser business man than he is a politician. He established bars on American passenger ships and beyond the three-mile limit all the famous whiskeys ad brandies and wines and beers may be had by the passengers who have the money to pay for the drinks. Albert D. said that this was necessary in order to make it possible to operate profitably these American ocean palaces of commerce and travel. Of course when the public was apprised of the fact that Uncle Sam was the greatest bootlegger in the world, a hurricane was let loose and the very dry drys threatened the president with defeat and the republican elephant with extermination. Then came the coal strike. Then came the rail strike. Then came the snuffing out of old guard leaders. There were vital issues uppermost and the people concerned themselves with their pockets instead of their thirsts.

Dr. Atticus Webb let a wail or two as a protest against Uncle Sam selling drinks on American ships but the political campaign away down here in Texas grew a bit peppery and the pious Dr. Atticus felt that he had work to do nearer home.

But the ship subsidy bill is dead; the soldier bonus bill is sleeping; the republican tariff bill is up in the air; Albert D. Lasker continues to operate bars on American vessels and the users of coal are going to pay fancy prices for their fuel this winter. It must be true that this is a leaderless congress, a leaderless administration and a leaderless people running amuck. Regardless of this there is a rainbow in the heavens. Texas is going to produce a very substantial crop of cotton this fall and if the buyers and sellers of the world are prophets the fleecy staple will be sold for a fancy price. Texas is a billion dollar agricultural state. Cattle raisers are optimistic now; sheep raisers are getting a fancy price for their mutton and their wool. Pork producers are in fine shape, financially speaking, and the farmers and ranchmen are said to be 100 per cent better off than they were a year ago.

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON SAYS that a governmental commission may be established to regulate the oil industries as a result of the senatorial investigation of high gasoline prices. Some of the members of the senate comittee are known to believe as well as to insist that only in this way can the public be protected against exorbitant charges for gasoline. This is an old story. Investigation after investigation has taken place since 1918 and what has been accomplished by the probers appointed by the senate or the house? They have investigated war profiteers. They have investigated war grafters. They have investigated the so-called packers trust. They have investigated the so-called steel trust. They have investigated the so-called money trust. They have damned Harding of federal reserve board and forced him to retire. They have investigated or damned the men who conducted a winning war. Now they say they are investigating the gasoline trust. Not many years ago the International Harvester trust was investigated. About the same time the Standard

Efficiency in Service Is Keynote of First Sessions; Northwest Texas Represented

Efficiency in the news service as well as the advertising departments of newspapers was the keynote of practically every talk made Friday at the Northwest Texas Press association convention, which convened just before noon in the chamber of commerce rooms for a two-day meeting. Buford O. Brown of Electra, president of the association, presided at the meeting, arriving late, however, because of automobile trouble en route. Attending the convention are more than two dozen of the best known newspaper men from the northwest section of the state.

The welcoming address to Wichita Falls was delivered by Alderman Burton Stayton, speaking for Mayor Frank Collier, who could not be present. Mr. Stayton gave the visitors a hearty welcome. He said he would not offer them the keys to the city, but would break down the doors for them.

Harrison Speaks

O. C. Harrison of Seymour who took charge of the opening of the session until President Brown arrived, spoke of the history of the association and of its accomplishments. He recalled the days, long past, when newspaper men rode on passes and the conventions were filled. He reminded his fellow workers that there were many things to discuss and suggested speed in working out the problems before the assembly.

Mr. Brown, on taking the chair, discussed the newspaper and the community and how they are related, stating among other things that a good community will always support the right kind of a newspaper. He spoke of the newspaper's relations to the farmer and the duty the paper owes the public as a whole and expressed the opinion that the papers still have ample room for improvement in giving the public service.

WEST FEELING STRIKE IMPACT

Trains Stalled and Freight Held Up

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, August 11.—Southern California felt today for the first time the full impact of the strike of railroad shopmen which had spread on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad lines centering in Los Angeles to include members of the big four brotherhoods, engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen and had thereby resulted in the almost complete tie-up of the Santa Fe passenger transportation work, and a very marked retarding of freight handling.

Trains Marooned

Coupled with this were the marooning of 12 transcontinental trains at desert points where from 2,200 to 2,500 passengers waited for their interrupted journeys to be resumed; an announcement by postal authorities that mails would be moved north and south by boat and east by motor trucks; a partial embargo on perishable freight over Santa Fe lines; and an effort by stage companies to do what they could to aid the traveling public by doing away with seat reservations, abandoning schedules and adopting the plan of sending out a stage on any route whenever there was a load for it.

S. P. Unaffected

The Southern Pacific lines were not affected. President Sproul said guards objectionable to brotherhood men had been removed.

Efforts were being made by the Santa Fe system to move its stalled trains off the desert. Two of three trains that were halted at Barstow Thursday night and reported to be No. 4, the California limited and No. 22, the Missionary, were reported to have been backed to Needles as the first stage of their return to Los Angeles whence they went Thursday.

Word received here from San Bernardino, where 23 bombs were exploded in and about the Santa Fe yards early today, was that all was quiet. The bombs did little damage.

SPUDDERS DOWN GIANTS BEFORE TEXAS EDITORS

13-1 Win Runs String to 24 Straight for Home Stay

By "SPIKE" COOPER

With Peacocks no longer parading,
And Cats that are Kittens at Play.
The Spudders continue their winning,
One game or two every day.

Fond visions of a dual flag raising
Fill the dream of each Spudder fan.
We wait for the September saw-off
And the Dixie Series—Oh! Man!

Nine humble Spudders waded through the "Milion Dollar Ball Club" yesterday afternoon for a 13-1 count, as hurler after hurler went to the mound in a vain attempt to halt the onward drive which has netted the Spudder machine 24 straight wins.

Editors All There

In addition to the faithful fans, who have seen the Spudders beat down all opposition for the past month, there were visitors galore in the stand yesterday for Wichita Falls was host to the editors of Northwest Texas.

Spudder fans and Dallas fans were included in the guests of the day and added life was seen as the Dallas representatives died gamely at the hands of brother association men.

But the life in the stands was not all confined to the visitors, nay, far be it from such, for the local followers of the greatest game in minor league baseball relished the rough-shod manner in which the Peacocks were trodden down. Time after time did the stands rock as flashing play turned back the opposition and made the "million dollar machine" function like a "cranky flivver."

Fans who held a slight fear for the outcome of Slim Love's start now breathe easier, but the faithful fans are wisely nodding their noodles and pulling the "I told you so" stuff.

Slim lasted two and twi-thirds rounds before the uppercut hooks and jabs of the coming champion, but took the count after the fifth haymaker had echoed off his jaw. Slimmer Davenport had fond hopes of halting the attack and adjourned from the bull-pen to the firing station, but did not last long enough to get to bat. Wee Jackie Reid was the third sacrifice offered up by "Bad News" Jim and he was forced to stick the remainder of the route, but was severely beaten and badly bleeding as the "sun went down."

And the "sun went down" too, for the light of Dallas' hope faded to a mere shadow as Love succumbed. He had been counted to cop the second win of the series. Roy Mitchell failed. So did Love and now there is only the "swan song" to be sung.

But all the while the Spudders were dealing misery in batches, Rip Wheeler was showing no mercy, no quarter, not even sympathy. Si Lingle shot a fast one to Adams in deep short in the third and beat the play, though Fred Beck reached his limit in trying to stave off a hit. In the seventh, Mike Massey dropped a single into center and in the eighth Buck Wheat whammed one over the left wall. When those few words are

Wealthy Harvester Head Marries Opera Star

GANNA WALSKA

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester company, and Mrs. Alexander Smith Cochran, known to the music world as Madame Ganna Walska, were married quietly today in the city hall of the select Passy district of Paris.

Including the bride and groom only five persons were in the office of the mayor when that dignitary made the couple man and wife.

Dudley Field Malone of New York, who was attorney for Mrs. Cochran in her divorce proceedings against the wealthy American manufacturer, and Mrs. Malone were witnesses.

The entire ceremony lasted less than six minutes, from the time that Mr. McCormick, Madame Walska and the Malones left their automobile and entered the city hall. The formality of marriage bans being posted in the city hall two weeks in advance of the ceremony had been waived by the French authorities as a special privilege.

BLACK REPUBS TO BE HANDED WARM GREETING

They May Yet Play Part in Final Election

By H. N. F.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 11.—Shades of Wright Cuney, Henry Ferguson, Charles Ferguson and Goose Neck Bill McDonald!

There is a white republican party in Texas and its machinery is white from top to bottom. According to the political prognosticators, there are 200,000 negro men and women voters in Texas.

They may have a country, but they are without a party. They are barred from the democratic primaries and those who attend a republican state convention are permitted to play in the back yard and that is all. They have no voice in creating the official machinery. They have no voice in making nominations or platforms. They are told that this is a white man's country, that they are all right in their place, but the white men are the leaders and that on general election day those who call themselves black republicans will be welcomed at the polls by the candidates and the leaders.

Wright Cuney and the Fergusons are dead. Goose Neck Bill McDonald is in the land of the living.

He is conducting a successful bank for blacks in this city and if the democratic leaders did not bar blacks from democratic primaries Goose Neck and many of his followers would proclaim themselves democrats and vote the straight ticket. There is a republican organization in Texas and white men are running the machine. They had a largely attended convention and the delegates were 98 per cent white and claimed to be a 100 per cent American. State Chairman R. B. Creager is the head of the organization.

Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas is the general manager of the party. Clarence Linz of Dallas is the official bag man and treasurer. It was a very respectable convention. There were prominent men present from almost every section of the state. Included in the list were four United States marshals, who ran away from the cities and towns where the Hobby Open Port law is the law of the commonwealth and national guardsmen and rangers are keeping the peace. Eugene Nolte, Charles A. Boynton, Charles G. Littleton and many of the old time regulars were the lieutenants of Creager. Director of the Mint F. A. Scobey could not get away from Washington, but he wasn't missed. There were others there to do his work.

It was a Harding convention and the man from Marion was in the hands of his friends—that is his pic-

ILLINOIS COAL SESSION ENDED

Lewis Flayed by Operators

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Reaffirming their determination to settle the coal strike with Illinois miners on an arbitration basis alone, representatives of the three Illinois coal operators organizations who have been meeting here this week closed their meeting and went to their homes today.

Previous to adjournment, a telegram from President Harding stating that he did not see how Ilinois miners can refuse a proposal such as made by the Illinois operators was made public. This proposal was that Illinois miners return to work at present wages and under present working conditions and that the controversy be submitted to arbitration, the result of the arbitration boards findings to be binding on both sides for a two year period from next April 1.

Score Lewis.

This proposal was again placed before Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, while to president John L. Lewis of the miners union was sent terse statement saying the operators had adjourned and criticising the "arbitrary position" of Mr. Lewis in refusing to consider any plan, "except the unfair and unreasonable one you have offered."

MINE WORKERS READY TO RESUME PARLEY.

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—The United mine workers are ready to resume negotiations to end the strike in the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania "on any date designated by the operators' representatives," said a message sent tonight by President John L. Lewis, to the Scranton board of trade.

"BIG 4" STRIKE ON KATY LINES COMES NEARER

Brotherhoods to Vote On Matter in Waco

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, Aug. 11.—Whether or not members of the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen on the Katy line will go out on strike in protest against the use of armed guards around railroad property and the operation of alleged dangerous equipment is to be determined at a statewide meeting of representatives of the brotherhoods in Waco Sunday. This announcement was made tonight following a meeting of an executive committee which issued a call for the meeting.

According to members who attended the meeting today, efforts were made to call a strike, but it was decided definite action should be referred to a larger meeting.

While action Sunday will affect only the Katy line, it is understood that big four members on other Texas lines will walk out immediately after the Katy men go out, provided this action is taken, according to those who attended today's meeting. Big four employes of all Texas roads are expected to attend Sunday's meeting, as well as officers of the national brotherhoods.

Calling of the Sunday meeting follows a similar one held here July 12, at which time authority to strike was asked from national officers.

Road Heads to Accept; Unions Still Undecided

Conditional Acceptance Made by Executives; Labor Conference Results in No Decision Being Reached in Settlement Measure; Committees to Report to Harding Today

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The executive heads of 148 American railways tonight conditionally accepted President Harding's second proposal for settlement of the nation-wide railroad strike.

This unofficial announcement was made shortly after 7 o'clock following a prolonged conference at the Grand Central terminal, surrounded by the greatest secrecy.

Officially it was merely stated that a committee representing virtually all the railroads in the country would wait on President Harding at the White House tomorrow afternoon with a reply to his program drafted by a committee appointed by the association on railway executives and approved by the body as a whole.

The conditions which into the acceptance, according to unofficial sources were:

"First, that the president's request that the strikers be taken back would be interpreted that the roads would rehire only as many of the strikers as would be needed to recruit their present forces to normal.

"Second, that such strikers are taken back return unconditionally their seniority rights later to be established by the railroad labor board.

President Harding has suggested that all strikers be given back their old jobs and that the question of seniority be left to the railroad labor board to be thrashed out later.

UNIONS OPPOSED TO HARDING'S PLANS

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11. After several hours' conference behind closed doors, chief officials of all the railroad organizations adjourned tonight until 9 a. m. tomorrow, declaring themselves unready to make response to President Harding's final strike settlement offer to the shopmen, and still unready to make public the policy which unions now on strike intend to follow in the circumstances.

Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers' brotherhood, and chairman of the meeting, announced at its close, however, that both these expressions would be forthcoming tomorrow.

Officials of the seven unions on strike will reply to the president for themselves, Mr. Stone said, while the remainder of the organizations intended to join in a declaration of their position to the public.

Conditions Bad.

Mr. Stone, in commenting on the walkouts of trainmen in various places, said that he had reports from fifty terminals, "where our men are facing conditions just like those," and added that "there might be walkouts" at such terminals which would completely tie up transportation.

At the white house the administration's view of these walkouts, attributed by the union leaders to the presence of armed guards, was said to be that no strike which had as its purpose the preventing of the government from authorizing agencies of law and order to protect life and property would have countenance or effect.

President Harding, it was said, does not intend to put the government into a threatening posture in the industrial situation.

B. M. Jewell, chairman of the group of strike leaders as well as Mr. Stone, insisted that only general discussions had marked the prolonged union session.

Oklahoman Killed

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 11.—The body of a man found yesterday just across the Maryland line with a rope around his neck and a score of knife wounds, was identified today as Bernard A. McBride, formerly of Muskogee, Okla.

A woman at whose home McBride had roomed, identified the body, saying McBride came here in June to attend commencement exercises at a school at which his ward, Ellen Deer, of Oklahoma, was a student.

The police learned later that Miss Deer is visiting in Chicago and she was asked to come here to make sure of the identification.

15,000 WITNESS KLAN SHOW AT BALL GROUNDS

Masked Columns Put On Big Show in Wichita

A flicker—flash, and then a light.
As if it were God-gifted.
And from the darkness of the night
A klansmen's cross was lifted—

A momentary hush fell over the crowd of 15,000 persons who were gathered at Athletic baseball park to witness the ku klux klan meeting—but that was just for an instant. And then those 15,000 persons all but rocked the enormous grand stand with the clapping of hands and stamping of feet mingled with shouting voices.

Thus began the celebration — the first to be staged in Wichita county—last night.

Stands Packed

Hundreds of people had begun pouring into the grandstand, claiming the choice seats at dusk, and by 7 o'clock, long before the entertainment advertised to begin at 7:30 had started, the stands were packed.

A band placed at the right hand side of the stands on the field, contributed music, playing several numbers while the crowd was coming in. Klansmen, robed in their official gowns, mingled with the guests in the grand stand, and assisted in seating the crowd, several klansmen being stationed at each entrance.

Beyond the left field fence, a 20-foot cross, the symbol of the organization, shone forth a brilliant red, the office being electrically lighted.

High in the air outside the right field fence a large American flag on which lights were trained floated in the breeze, and with the first rays of electricity that were played on the bunting, the crowd in the stands gave vent to their appreciation in a vociferous manner.

Following a parade in which numerous placards were borne, a speaker whose identity was not revealed but who wore the regalia of the klansman, having only his face unshielded, took the speaking stand erected just over home plate in front of the box seats, delivering an hour's address on the principles of the organization.

He created a picturesque sight as he stood there with a large American flag floating at his back.

"We are gathered here tonight, friends," he began, to determine the age-old question of whether truth and its principles shall prevail or not.

"These principles — these truths that we must consider are in danger tonight," he said.

For An Open Bible

The speaker described how the struggle had begun in the early days and traced the period during the mid dle ages, comparing that condition with the present in America.

"The klan stands for an open bible," he declared during his address, to which the crowd responded

THE WEATHER

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS
AUGUST 12, 1922

Oklahoma, East and West Texas—Saturday and Sunday, partly cloudy.

COME BACK TO WICHITA

Come back to Wichita Falls in 1923.

Members of the Northwest Texas Press association, in session here, heard G. L. Inglish of Stamford say during a dinner at the Wichita club Friday night that Wichita Falls is the best place to meet once each year and they cheered the suggestion. Mr. Inglish knows that Wichita Falls is the logical point for the newspaper men of the district to meet because it is located so all of them can get here without having to travel too far and Wichita Falls wants the newspaper men to come here. There is no use in trying, a better place for a convention can not be found and Wichita Falls should be made the annual meeting place of the Northwest Texas Press association. This city is as much a home for the visiting newspaper men as their own home towns, because it is a city that reaches out to them commercially and because it is a city that they have helped build by their splendid spirit of co-operation. Wichita Falls wants the Northwest Texas Press association to call it home as long as the association exists.

NORTHWEST TEXAS NEWSPAPER MEN SAMPLE HOSPITALITY HERE

"We'll Come to Wichita Falls Every Year If You Want Us," Declares Speaker After Day At Convention; Many Prominent Editors Attend Dinner Given by Local Newspapers

After-dinner speeches, some of which bristled with humor and others sound in their logic, featured the evening when members of the Northwest Texas Press association were guests of The Record News and Daily Times at dinner at the Wichita club Friday night.

With Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald as toastmaster the evening passed merrily with not a dull moment. The speakers were men who are known throughout the district and though there were others just as well known who did not speak, those who responded to the toastmaster's call filled every minute w th remarks that were particularly appropriate to the occasion.

B. D. Donnell of the Daily Times welcomed the visitors as they entered the club rooms and supervised the event generally.

Harry Koch of Quanah, at one time president of the Northwest Texas Press association, was the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Fitzgerald introduced the speaker as one of the real old-time newspaper men of this section. Mr. Koch told of incidents of the early days and an especially humorous story of how a newspaper man, while drunk, went to get an interview from a man condemned to hang for murder, and the jailer locked him in the cell with the murderer all night. When the newspaper man came out next morning he was sober and produced $1.50. He had sold the condemned man a year's subscription to the paper.

Hubert Harrison of the chamber of commerce, in a short talk, told the visiting newspaper men of the Texas-Oklahoma fair, of what it will do for the country and what it means to the vast territory it represents.

In the name of the fair association he thanked the visiting newspaper men for the loyal support they have given the fair and presented them all with complimentary tickets.

The toastmaster introduced Colonel Bill Edwards of Henrietta as the dean of Northwest Texas newspaper men and one of the grand old men of the profession.

Edwards Promoted

Colonel Edwards said that he had been referred to as a sergeant but that he would go home and tell his wife that he had been promoted to a colonel and made a dean. He told of coming to Clay county in the early seventies and going on the range as a cowboy and then happening into a newspaper office, which was opened up. He had been a printer before he came to Texas and the printers ink drew him back again. He told of some of the trials of the early day newspaper man and compared the business in that day with the present business.

Dick McCarthy of Albany was introduced by the toastmaster as one of the best writers in the game. He was paid a splendid tribute by the toastmaster who told of the time when they had differed editorially on public questions.

Mr. McCarthy made a talk that combined the element of humor with the element of sentiment. He spoke of the old school days and Webster's blue back speller. He spoke of the struggles to get an education back in the little school house in Tennessee and of coming to Texas in the early days. He paid a beautiful tribute to the Texans of the early days and spoke of how the state has developed.

Mr. McCarthy took occasion to pay a splendid tribute to the toastmaster, Mr. Fitzgerald, as one of the best editorial writers in the south. He also paid tribute to the hospitality of Wichita Falls.

Old-Time Papers Gone

B. O. Brown of Electra, president of the Northwest Texas Newspaper association made a short talk which mingled humor and cold facts. He told some stories and then he told of the newspaper game. He said the old time country newspaper has gone—it has become modernized.

G. L. Inglish of Stamford started applause when he said the newspaper men have been treated so well here they wanted to come back again next year. He told of the hospitality offered and thanked Wichita Falls for the way in which the visitors have been treated. He said he thought the association should come here once each year.

E. P. Haney, once a newspaper man and now an oil man who has other interests spoke of his love for the newspaper game. He told of the fair to be held here, but made his main talk on Wichita Falls as a place to live. He told of the schools, the churches and the general conditions that make this city one of homes. He laid special stress on the junior college and told what it means to the school children of Wichita Falls as well as those who reside in other towns and can attend here. "We should invest our surplus in education and declare dividends in manhood," he said in conclusion.

Mrs. Harrison Speaks

Mrs. O. C. Harrison of Seymour was the one speaker of the evening representing the gentler sex. Her short talk prompted applause. She told a humorous story and concluded with a parody on "Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot."

A. D. Jackson of Texas A. & M. college, made one of the best talks of the evening. He talked on education and west Texas. He told of how the educational institutions have been neglected by the legislature and expressed a hope that the law-making body will soon provide for them amply. Mr. Jackson said that unless this is done the people will take them out of the hands of the legislature and place them on an independent basis as they should be. He spoke of the splendid living conditions of west Texas and said that it is a grand section of the state. He said that east Texas and west Texas think alike on most things, and that all the people are in favor of putting the educational institutions on a sound basis and providing the best possible schools for the youth of the state.

J. D. Farnell talked on politics and education. He was the closing speaker of the evening. He said the people should pay more attention to politics and declared that if politics is to be lifted out of the mire the people must go to the polls and vote. He declared in favor of good rural schools, good roads and thinks the educational institutions should be built up at any cost. He declared the people are spending more money in breeding fine cattle than they are for education, and pleaded for more attention to the children and their future.

PRESS ASSN.—

newspaper editor, responded appropriately to the address of welcome in which he thanked Wichita Falls for the hearty reception given. Mr. McCarty's paper on editorials was one of the gems of the convention.

The question of rates is one of the big matters up before the convention and O. C. Harrison of Seymour took up that subject after the formalities of the opening were over. This was a matter of special interest to newspapers and the discussion was led by Ralph Shuffler of Olney.

Guests at Banquet.

At noon the visiting newspaper men were guests of the chamber of commerce at luncheon in the Kemp Hotel dining room. Hubert Harrison, vice-president and general manager of the chamber of commerce, made the address of welcome and a response was made by O. C. Harrison of Seymour.

Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald spoke of the newspapers of Northwest Texas and of the profession as a whole. He said that he believed that the newspapers in this immediate section are better equipped and that as a whole are giving better news service than ever before in the history of the state. He touch on the influence of newspapers in building a city or an empire.

George McQuaid, veteran newspaper man, told of his impressions of Wichita Falls and traced the growth and development of the city and territory. He said it was the spirit of faith that has developed this entire section and that the energy, faith and hard work of the North Texas pioneers is not surpassed anywhere. Mr. McQuaid is head of the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

After luncheon the members of the association took up their meeting in the ball room of the Kemp hotel, the first discussion being that of "Advertising and Business Management," by Sam Roberts of the Haskell Free Press.

V. N. Armstrong, advertising manager of the Daily Times, gave a talk on "Selling Methods" in which some valuable pointers on selling advertising were given. His talk was followed by a discussion of advertising agencies by Al Ellis, who explained the relation of the advertising agency to the newspaper and the advertiser and told of the duties of the agency.

First Cotton Bale Brought to City

R. M. Miller, farmer living on the J. W. Henderson place, three and a half miles southeast of Wichita Falls, holds the credit of having brought the first bale of cotton to this city to be ginned.

The bale, which, according to Mr. Miller will average around 525 pounds, was brought into the city yesterday and will be ginned next Wednesday at the Farmers' gin.

Mr. Miller explained yesterday that the bale cannot be ginned before that time in view of the fact that the ginnery is not operating and is in bad order at the present time.

THIEVES GET TROUSERS

Thieves broke into and ransacked the rooms of O. F. Carter, 815 Indiana street, sometime during the hours of darkness Thursday night or Friday morning, according to a report of the affair made to police headquarters yesterday morning.

The thieves, who identity is as yet unknown, are believed to have escaped only with two pairs of trousers.

No trace of them has been found.

PANTS TOO LONG

The man who makes this complaint is R. C. Wertheim, captain of the Australian team which came to America in the hope of winning back the Davis Cup. From the ground to the top of his smoothly brushed hair he measures 6 feet 7 inches. Because we don't make 'em long enough, Mr. Wertheim had to play in one match at Seabright, N. J., when his socks and trousers scarcely met. He is shown here (at left) with Robert Kinsey, the California star.

M'QUAID BOOMS WICHITA FUTURE

Other Items About Press Meeting

George MQuaid, head of the Texas public service information bureau and one of the veteran newspaper men of Texas and Oklahoma, here during the meeting of the Northwest Press association had a whole lot to see in Wichita Falls. He had not been here since the City National bank building and other large structures have been erected.

"A city built on faith, the faith and energy of hardy pioneers," was his coment. Mr. McQuaid has been managing editor of the Galveston News, San Antonio Express, Dallas News and various other newspapers and is recognized as one of the south's best newspaper men.

When Buford Brown of the Electra News and president of the Northwest Texas Press association remarked during the afternoon session that it was getting near time for the baseball game he almost stampeded the convention. The truth of the matter is that the newspaper men let about half of the afternoon program go over until Saturday morning because they wanted to see the ball game. And there was not a dissenting voice when the postponement was mentioned.

O. C. Harrison of the Baylor County Banner published in the thriving little city of Seymour is one of the energetic newspaper men attending the convention. Mr. Harrison brought Mrs. Harirson and their two children with him, thereby guaranteeing his good conduct while here.

R. H. Nicholson of the Alvord News, published in Alvord, was among the first to register at the convention. Mrs. Nicholson is here with him and they are enjoying their stay in Wichita Falls to the fullest extent.

Eric G. Schroeder of the Vernon Press is attending the convention and has not missed a thing that is going on. He is on the program today.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. McCarey and Miss McCarew of the Albany News are here "among those present." Mrs. McCarey is having a hard time keeping track of her well known husband. He is a regular convention fiend and if he lived in Wichita Falls he would make a hot Spudder fan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Dickson and their two sons motored over from Iowa Park for the opening day of the convention and met many old acquaintances that they had not seen for several months.

W. E. Edwards of the Peoples Review, Henrietta, veteran newspaperman, is one of the bright lights at the convention.

G. L. Inglish and son from the Stamford Leader and Frank H. Stedman of the North Texas Adventure, published in Stamford, are taking in association festivities.

R. Shuffler of the Olney Enterprise, secretary of the North Texas Press association, brought Mrs. Shuffler with him. Being secretary, however, he has plenty of excuses to mix with the boys who did not bring their wives.

The Electra News is more than well represented at the convention. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Buford Brown and daughter, Ray S. Carney, also representing the paper, is at the convention.

W. Frank Dyer, king pin for Barnhardt Bros. & Spindler, went off into a humdrum of avid dementia, to borrow a word or two from enclycopedic Hubert Harrison, at the ball game yesterday. Dyer was one Dallas fan who fought for Dallas throughout the game. Incidentally, Dyer is a prince of a fellow and a young demon for cultivating friendships at the press meet. Those who didn't know him when they hit town yesterday are warm friends of the type salesman today.

Fred Martin, linotype salesman, is on the job as usual. Martin has just won another trip to the big town for salesmanship. He sold 47 machines in his territory, leading all other salesmen. Fred's well known and is a hearty fellow well met with all Northwest Texas editors.

Sam A. Roberts, formerly mayor of Haskell, and incidentally one of the best known editors in this section, was mingling with old friends. Roberts says that if Wichita Falls doesn't sluff off on its growth soon, he'll not recognize it on his frequent visits to the old city.

E. B. Harris of Rule is one of the editors who's always a Spudder fan. He was out at the game yesterday rooting from the first inning to the last.

Grady Roberts of Haskell says the press meeting is one of the best that he's attended. Grady runs one of the best papers in this section of the state and it may seem odd, but his sheet is always crammed with advertising.

W. H. Park, paper salesman for West-Cullum company of Dallas, is another press meeting king pin. He is an old side-kick of W. Frank Dyer and a prince of a fellow.

And the Fire Boys Cussed

Dyer King has some new upholstering to buy for a "flivver."

"Some how or other" the cushion of the rear seat became ignited last night and the boys from central station turned out, "hook 'n ladder" and everything, rounded the corner down Indiana where a blazing Ford waited for a dash of chemicals.

A couple of squirts and it was all over. Little damage, but lots of lost sleep and another "Henry" still able to "hoopenkack."

in applause. "I lived three years in Mexico City," he continued, narrating that during that time it was his duty to conduct some private investigations which resulted in the revelation that there were only two sources from which the bible could be obtained there, both of which ,he asserted, were American.

"The purpose of the plan is to restore the bible and its teachings to America and the American people," the speaker declared in this connection, shouting to his auditors that "the klan must fight for that principle until it becomes the predominating influence in this country."

In speaking of the schools, the speaker asserted that "the klan stands pledged to give its united support to free, open and public schools."

"The ku klux klan," he continued, "stands for the American government and says no foreign dictate shall have the right to usurp our freedom and our liberty," and referring to 'the invisible empire of the Tiber," he said that "no 100 per cent American can get in that organization."

"The reason crime runs rampant," he said, in speaking of the evils that go to bring the downfall of cities and municipal government, "is because the police departments of our large cities are in league with the criminals."

Concluding his remarks, the unknown klansman said "the fight the klan is making is not against religion, but against foreign domination; friends, the time has struck for America to rid itself of foreign domination."

Prior to his address, a long line of klansmen, marching in single file, had passed before the grand stand displaying for the benefit of the spectators large placards. At the center of the field, and just in front of the stands stood a klansman holding the American flag, which each placard bearer kissed as he passed.

"America for Americans," "We are not fighting any sect, creed or nationality," God give us men with hearts," "Good men do not refuse to serve on juries," "We are for the law through constituted channels, we are non-partisan, no good negro need fear us," "One God, one flag, one country," "Investigate us before you hate us," and "Joy riders must keep their lights burning on country roads," were some of the placards carried, and as each came into view it was loudly applauded by the audience until it had passed on out of sight.

Preceding the address, the Shrine quartet took the speaking stand and sang "Rock of Ages," "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and one other number, klansmen standing at intervals about over the field while they sang.

The speaker's address was followed by the announcement that due to the fact a hole could not be dug in the baseball park, that the initiation would not be held before the public. However, it is understood that beyond the fence, after the crowd had dispersed, an initiation was held.

UNDERWOOD TO PUSH CLAIMS

Wants American Commission

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 11.—Announcement of the signing of an agreement between the United States and Germany for a joint claims commission to determine American war claims against Germany, was followed today by a statement from Senator Underwood of Alabama, democratic leader in the senate that he intends nevertheless to press his bill for establishment of an American instead of a mixed commission.

Senator Underwood said he had been advised of the administration plan but he said it did not provide a legal method for determining or paying Americans who had suffered damages and did not provide for disposition of German property taken over by Alien property custodian. Under his bill, American claims would be expedited, Senator Underwood said, adding that he would write a letter soon to Chairman Cummins of the state judiciary sub-committee considering his bill, giving his position n detal and reasons for pressng the bil despite the administration program.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Oil trust was investigated and dissolved. Former Governor Thomas M. Campbell ran the Waters-Pierce oil company out of Texas. A Texas legislature invited it to come back. Lawmakers of America are forever investigating trusts. They are ever investigating combines. Now just what have they acomplished of lasting benefit to the American people?

UPLIFTER GENERAL WILL H Hays of Movieland journeyed all the way to Hollywood on a tour of investigation. He found Movieland as chaste as Alaskan ice and as pure as the snow of the artic. Then the great uplifter general crossed the continent afain and on his return to New York painted a beautiful picture of the home and the fireside as he found these institutions reflected in Hollywood life. Then what happened? Wild Bill Hart the man of two-gun fame, and Winifred Westover Hart after a honeymoon of six months, announced that they had come to the parting of the ways and that Winifred would go to her mother and Wild Bill might go to the devil for all she cared. And now the Hart fortune is to be split 50-50 and the two-gun man must go it alone. Then came the romance of Gloria Swanson. Gloria is the wife of Herbery Sanborn, a Pasadena millionaire. That is, she was his wife until the spirit moved her to desert the Sanborn mansion and return to Mother Swanson-Burns. Marshall Neilan is a screen hero and a director who has accumulated a fortune. He married Blanche Sweet last June. Now she has deserted her Hollywood home and Los Angeles newspaper correspondents say that what the Lord hath put together in June shall be put asunder by a divorce court judge in October or November. This is a mad old world as best. It is a merry old world for those who make light of it and take it as it comes. As an uplifter, the former postmaster general of the United States is the best publicity man in America.

DAWSON SETS ASIDE COURT JUDGMENT

Judge Arch Dawson, sitting in the county court at law yesterday morning as special magistrate in the absence of Judge Guy Rogers, who is out of the city on a vacation, set aside the judgment of the court in the case of M. S. Bemott et al. vs. J. H. Freeman et al.

Defaulted judgment had previously been issued Aug. 8 and a writ of inquiry had been issued.

The default judgment was set aside through agreement.

SOUTHERN AUDITOR TO BRECKENRIDGE

O. B. Womack, auditor of the Wichita Falls & Southern, departed yesterday for Breckenridge on company business.

Mr. Womack is expected to return today.

CHARGES ARE MADE AGAINST PAIR

Statutory offenses were docketed against Lillie Fair and N. G. Baker, a man and a woman arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Kinsner and Daves late Thursday night.

Both were conducted to the Wichita county prison for the night upon being arrested, according to the authorities.

CADILLAC STOLEN

Fort Worth officers notified local police officials yesterday morning that a sport model Cadillac automobile was stolen from that place Thursday, and that it is believed the thieves escaped driving toward the north.

A reward of $50 for the recovery of the vehicle has been offered by T. W. Jackson, chief of detectives at Fort Worth, and for the arrest of any persons captured with it.

ture was in the hands or the house of his friends and whenever his name was mentioned, it was a signal for uproarious applause.

Chairman Creager has one of the best oiled political machines than an engineer ever operated in Texas.

He favored the nomination of John Henry Kirby for United States senator. Judge George W. Armstrong of this city, a democrat, favored the nomination of Kirby. A wire was sent to Kirby asking him if he would accept the nomination. His reply was that he coul dnot run as a republican but he would be grateful for the support of all republicans at the polls. This did not appeal to Messrs. Nolte and Boynton and others of the old guard. It did not appeal to C. C. Littleton. He was a candidate himself on a light wine and beer platform. Littleton is said to be a millionaire and willing to be liberal in pushing the campaign if given the nomination.

Clarence Linz insited that Jack Culberson of Wichita Falls should be given the honor as he has made a gallant fight two years ago as the head of the state ticket and as a senatorial standard bearer he would make republicans proud of his campaign and his vote getting ability in November.

Dr. E. P. Wilmot, who did not want the nomination, was made the senatorial standard-bearer. He is widely known as a successful banker, a successful business man, a life-long republican and a man who has as many friends in democratic circles as he has in republican. Those who profess to know say that Dr. Wilmot will retire from the ticket early in September. Republican leaders are watching the outcome of the August run-off.

Should Ferguson win the democratic nominations there will be a dry democrat placed on the republican ticket.

Should Mayfield win there will be a light wine and beer democrat who will make the race on a platform which denounced invisible government and opens wide the gates of the republican party to men of all creeds and all nationality.

W. H. Atwell, the nominee for governor, is one of the foremost lawyers of Texas, an eloquent orator and a very effective campaigner. He is a native son of Texas and was a federal district attorney for 12 years. George E. Kepple, the nominee for lieutenant governor is a well known Houston newspaper man and was for years the political as well as the state capital correspondent of the Chronicle. Texas democrats did not name a woman for a place on the state ticket. Texas republicans named Mrs. Mary P. Bernet for superintendent of public instruction. There were 50 or more women delegates to the convention. They were given a luncheon at the Texas hotel where State Chairman Creager spell-binded beautifully and praised the ladies for their splendid efforts for the building up of a republican party in Texas.

Don H. Biggers of Tarrant county was nominated for commissioner of agriculture. He is a life long democrat, a former member of the legislature, his four sons fought in the world war and Don H. is the editor and publisher of two of the warmest weekly publiactions under Texas skies. General Webster Flannagan who went down with Grant in a famous convention not many years after the close of the civil war, war-whooped for 30 minutes on opening day and set the delegates and spectators afire. David A. Robinson of Dallas, who sat in a national republican convention as a delegate 42 years ago, announced to the writter that the Texans who attended that convention with him were all sleeping in the cemetery. Robinson did not warhoop. He is very old and very feeble but as full of fight as ever for the G. O. P. and its leaders.

There were many young men present as delegates and many business men came from the larger cities of the state. Former State Senator E. G. Senter, after thirty years on the democratic firing line, appeared as a delegate at this convention, and made one of the most vitrolic speeches ever heard in Texas. What he said of the democratic party and its leaders could not be printed in Whiz Bang. He was not molested. There were many prominent oil men and ranchers present as delegates or spectators, and on the second day of the convention there was a senatorial boom launched for Col. Ike T. Pryor of San Antonio, the multi-millionaire cowman and ranchman and the largest grower of pecans in America. This boom never found its way to the headquarters of the committee on nominations and died on the same day it was born.

Creager and his lieutenants are of the opinion that the republican ticket will receive the largest vote ever cast for the nominees of the party at the November election. They say that a hundred thousand former democrats will desert the democratic wigwam in Texas this year. State Manager Talbot says the republicans have an organization one hundred and eighty counties and the republican women are organized in sixty counties. Their treasury is not bankrupt. They have a reserve fund of $5,000 to go on and are promised a plentiful supply of funds by the faithful. There is very little interest manifested in the democratic finals. W. A. Hanger, the chief bell wether of the democratic flock has gone to the mountains of Colorado. There may be a large vote cast in Tarrant county August 26, but the leaders of all factions are as docile as sick kittens.

A big delegation headed by Mayor E. R. Cockrell will attend the San Antonio convention. Those who are on the inside of the local political joss house say that the victors here in the contests which were settled in July have slated Marvin Brown as the successor of Mayor Cockrell. Having captured all the county offices the anti-Cockrell faction has decided to gather in the municipal offices if possible and they have picked Brown as the man to head their municipal ticket. This will provoke another bitter political campaign which bids fair to split this old town wide open. Cockrell has the backing of the women, preachers and the idealists who believe in the city beautiful and all that goes with it. But back to the original proposition: All the wise ones say that the popular banker of Anstin who has been a leading citizen of Texas for forty years may step aside in September to make way for an independent democrat. His name? That depends on which way the democratic cat will jump August 26.

COOL NIGHT SERVICE PROMISED SUNDAY AT FIRST METHODIST

The following announcement of services for the First Methodist church, south, was made Friday:

"Star shine, cool night breezes and especially entertaining preludes, combined with the regular features of the night services of the First Methodist church, south, corner of Tenth and Lamar, continue to draw splendid congregations to the open air tabernacle next door to the church. The following numbers will be given Sunday night: Soprano solo, by Mrs. C. Y. Tully, vocal duet by Misses Glenore and Josephine Fisk, piano solo, by Miss Stella Winters; a mixed quartette by Miss Glenore Fisk, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, and Messrs, Paul Von Allmen and G. C. Bullington, enthusiastic sing-song, led by J. W. Akin, Jr.

"Rev. J. D. Pinkston will preach at night on the subject: 'Heroes of Common Life.' Mr. Pinkston's sermons are logical, forceful and above all, helpful, so if you want to hear a sermon that will make common, plod along, every-day existence, have a new meaning, come out Sunday night. The subject of the sermon at 10:50 will be 'God's Conquering Host.'

"The big organized classes and the leagues are going right along during the hot weather. The K-K-Klass for men, which meets at the Olympic theater at 9:45, is flourishing and has an excellent program each Sunday. The Escalator class offers a glad welcome to all young men and young women of the city and so on. For every member of the family there is some interesting class waiting in our great Sunday school."

Still Captured

A 50-gallon still, several gallons of whiskey and some mash were captured late Friday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff H. F. White in a shack near Newtown, one man, giving the name of G. R. Sims, being arrested in connection with the find.

The officer watched operations for some time, he reported, before making known his identity and declared that "business was good."

Sheriff Fred Smith consigned all the confiscated booze to the gutter with the exception of a pint to be used as evidence.

Pipeline Co. Short of Water

WELLS ON SAND ONLY EXCEPTION

Heavy Oil Runs Tax Pipe Capacity

All companies using water through the Texas Pipeline company water line were put on notice Thursday that for a period of ten days at the outside, the Texas Pipeline company could deliver no water.

An exception will be made in the case of wells on the sand, the pipe line company representatives stated Friday and by a special effort water sufficient to permit these operators to get the wells in the producing class will be supplied.

This shut down order is the result of mechanical shortage, instead of lack of water, it was stated at the pipe line office Friday, the Texas Pipeline company having sufficient water to last for a period of time. The oil runs from the south field are so heavy now, that the lines are pumped practically all the time to get the oil out of the field. Water has been delivered through the oil lines, but the equipment is now completely lined by the oil runs it is stated. Ten days was set as the maximum time for making other arrangements to get the water to south leases, though the shut down may be of even less duration.

MEXIA GETTING SHALLOW TESTS

Deep Sand Producer Now Rumored

Special to The Record News.

MEXIA, Aug. 11.—Interest in the field here now is centered in deep tests, in wildcat and in shallow tests.

For the past several days rumor has circulated freely that one of the Humphreys Oil company's deep tests in this field had come in for heavy production. First, rumor had it that it was the Focke, then that it was the Berthelson, then the dame fluttered to the Blake Smith. Each time the reply was that "if the well had come in, it had not been reported here."

The bigger companies particularly are watching the developments of the deep holes being drilled by this company, and the public in general is waching for reslults, as in case oil is found in paying quantities nearly a mile and a half below the surface of the earth, it will mean that hundreds of wells will go down to the Trinity sands after the Woodbine has been depleted.

The Big Williams is the big boy in the wildcat class that is commanding the attention of those who are watching for new territory to be opened.

Then, in the shallow test class, which probably interests larger numbers of the oil fraternity than any other in this or in any other field, the M. E. D. Oil company's Rowe No. 1 comes in for respectful watching. Progress is being made by the drillers and the pit today is around the 1,000 foot mark. Oil men who have been watching this section, which is about two miles from production and southwest of the city assert that it is the best looking shallow test that has yet been made in the field.

The test is being made on the Sam Rowe tract.

The E. L. Smith Oil company owns about 500 acres in this promising territory surrounding the test.

Prospects are considered exceptional, due to the excellent showing of oil at the 800-foot level found in the Rafe Long well when it was drilled in the 1,500-foot level. The drillers of the Rafe Long did not test out the oil bearing sands, because their contract called for the deep test, it is understood, but ever since the "find" there signs have been going forward which are culminating in the Rowe 1 of the M. E. D. Oil company.

Klan Trial to Proceed Monday

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—The trial of thirty-six defendants charged with having as members of the ku klux klan, taken part in a raid in Inglewood last April, will proceed next Monday, according to an agreement reachedby attorneys today and approved by Judge Houser. Baker, whose physical collapse halted the trial yesterday, will be given an order of mistrial and subsequent proceedings in his case will await the report of alienists who will examine him under the direction of the court.

ABOARD THE STEAMSHIP ADRIATIC OFF NEW ENGLAND, Aug. 11.—An explosion occurring today aboard the steamship Adriatic in the reserve coal hatch killed five members of the crew and injured four others.

The explosion which took place at 1:30 a. m. was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Not a passenger was killed. Of the five members of the crew who were killed, one was believed to have been blown overboard.

New Baseball Scandal Rumored

By Associated Press

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 11.—C. H. Strawn, telegraph operator at Andrews Field, is quoted as declaring he was offered a hundred dollars a game to enter a scheme to flash southern association baseball games for the benefit of gamblers, but that he refused.

What we wish is that Henry Ford would now concentrate his genius on the quantity production of parking places.

MUD FOR MILADY'S MUG

Members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority stopped off at Yellowstone park on the way home from their convention at Glacier National park. They were very much interested in the mammoth paint pots which contain enough volcanic mud, ranging in color from white to a deep rose tint, to supply "complexions" for all the college girls in the world. The photograyh shows (left to right) Miss Nelle Carey, University of Kansas, and Miss Rebecca Martin, Ohio State university.

NEGROES AND THE SOUTH

AMERICAN negroes edit and publish 113 newspapers and 14 magazines. They employ 1,300 workers and there are 65 whites on their pay rolls. Sixty-three of the publications maintain and operate their own press and an additional seven conduct work of book or job nature. There are 23 religious newspapers published by negroes and eight fraternal published weekly, monthly and daily. Not a bad showing for a race who were in bondage not many decades ago. There are thousands of industrious and law abiding negroes in Texas. They are wealth-makers and wage earners.

They behave themselves, they send their children to school, they build churches, they worship the god of the white man and they are doing their best to work out their own salvation. God Almighty is said to have created all things. He gave the negro a black skin and a wooly head. White Christians say that God gave the negro a soul. If he did then the white man should give the law-abiding and industrious negro a chance. This isn't a defense for the negro. It isn't an appeal for the negro. But if God made the negro he has a place here below and as long as he behaves himself he should be protected in his rights and permitted to work out his own destiny. His ancestors did not come here of their own accord.

They were stolen by white men. They were sold into slavery by white men. They were emancipated by white men and they are here and here to stay. Godly New Englanders engaged in the slave trade and there were many slaves owned by these pious people of New England in the long ago. They discovered that as a slave the negro was an economic failure and so they sold their slaves to the planters of Virginia and other southern states where cotton and tobacco and sugar cane were the staples and negro slave labor could be made profitable. Slave labor was a failure in the south. It proved to be the curse of the south.

If there had never been slave labor in the south, the south would have been the manufacturing section of America today and New England would be made up of rocky farms, splendid for the pasturage of goats and nothing else.

WHAT OF THE RAILWAYS?

THERE are 14,000,000 motor cars and truck vehicles in America. What they are doing to railway revenues is something that is staggering. There are millions of pleasure car owners who travel from ocean to ocean in the summer time. There are millions of pleasure car owners who never pay a cent to the railways for transportation. And from ocean to ocean the federal government and the respective states are building national highways side by side with the transcontinental railways.

Over these channels of traffic the auto owners travel and will travel in the near future. Now what is going to happen to the American railways? Trucks are carrying freight for short hauls. Motor cars are carrying travelers for short and long distances. Gone are the good old days.

GIVE US MORE POLICEMEN

YEGGS blew a safe in Wichita Falls one night this week. There also have been reported an increase in robberies. The number of stolen automobiles is on the increase.

When he had to cut down his force because there was no more money to pay men, Police Chief McCormick told the city fathers that the city was facing a hard lot with such a small police force. He knew that the crooks keep a keen lookout and when they find a town without ample police protection they flock in. They have started in Wichita Falls and with the small police force maintained there is very little chance that the crooks can be stopped. A few of them may be caught but with not enough men to patrol the business district even during the day time how can a police chief be expected to give protection to an entire city?

President Harding should throw aside his silk gloves and arm himself with a big stick. He is the president of the United States and the mine owners and the miners and the rail executives and the rail strikers in bygone years all made haste to make peace with the American president who carried a big stick and never hesitated to use it.

THE PRESS MEETING

WE have with us today in Wichita Falls the moulders of public opinion in Northwest Texas. At least we have a big per cent of the moulders of public opinion because we have newspaper men from the entire district who are here attending the Northwest Texas Press association convention.

The convention convened Friday and the men who serve the choicest morsels of news to the public got down to business right away. Newspaper men are essentially business men, even though the average person may have an entirely different idea about the matter. And those connected with the business office are not the only members of the newspaper fraternity who can be classed as business men.

The boys from the editorial rooms are business men, in a way, too, so that when the press association meets it is, in reality, a meeting of business men discussing business problems. They are dicussing their own business and the business of the public because there is no other business, individually controlled, so closely related with the public as the newspaper business. The visiting newspaper men have honored Wichita Falls by their presence here. They will like the city—they already like it—they can't help but like it and they will tell the world they like it.

Whatever the members of the Northwest Texas Press association discuss while here or whatever action they may take on anything whatever, there is one sure bet and that is that such discussion or such action will either, directly or indirectly, be for the public good.

WHAT WILL BORAH DO?

SENATOR W. A. BORAH of Idaho is being flooded with letters written by men and women demanding that he shall form a third party and take the lead in uniting the politically restless in the United States under a new banner.

All the letter writers of almost every shade of political opinion announce their dissatisfaction with the old parties and ask that the Idaho senator step out and lead a political revolution. Senator Borah is a life-long republican but is the most independent of all the senators of the west. Should be become the leader of a third party, the elephant will be going on two legs in the campaign of 1924. If all the politically restless votes of America affiliate with a third party movement, then Borah will be the man of the hour, in a political sense, and may be as successful a smasher as Theodore Roosevelt was in 1912. Roosevelt made the election of Woodrow Wilson possible and should Borah follow in the footsteps of Roosevelt, Harding may be a one-term president.

OBREGON WATCHES MONEY HOGS

OFFICIAL WASHINGTON says that Mexico can win the recognition of the United States without signing the treaty proposed more than a year ago by this government if by actual accomplishment she will guarantee and safeguard American interests in the southern republic. More bunk.

Why not safeguard American interests in the American republic before pointing the finger of scorn or suspicion at the people of the southern republic? President Obregon is for law enforcement. He is for the protection of property rights. He is for the cultivation of friendly relations. He is doing his best to make it possible for Mexico to pay her foreign creditors.

Of course he is unwilling to turn the latent resources of Mexico over to alien overlords or the get-rich-quick foreigners who have been seeking rich pickings in the Aztec republic for many years. Obregon is opposed to foreign millionaires hogging all the wealth of his country and giving the people nothing in return for the concessions.

THE STORY WILL NOT BE KNOWN

DEAD men tell no tales. There was an awful wreck on the Missouri Pacific railway in Missouri and 37 were slain and 140 injured. A fast express telescoped a local train. After a searching investigation the dead pilot of the engine of the fast express was held to blame for the frightful wreck. He went down with his engine. His heart ceased to beat and his lips are closed. Dead men tell no tales.

There is practically no unemployment in France. All the people are busy. How like America!

Rippling Rhymes

HOPE ON

Hope on, hope ever, say the seers, who're packed with disdom to their ears, and have good sense to burn; "though things look dark," the sages say, "and crises face us every day, the good times will return." The wild men raise a frightful noise; but through it all the wise old boys keep saying, "Don't lose faith; 'tis true conditions are a scream, but shortly all these things will seem a pipe dream and a wraith." There is a carnival of crime, and undertakers spend their time embalming murdered men; but still the wise old sages cry, "These crazy times will soon pass by, and sense will come again." Suspended are established rules; the workingmen thrown down their tools at every passing whim; and still the sages make their cracks: "The world wil lsoon get down to tacks, we'll all be in the swim." When I wade through the daily news I'm threatened with a case of blues, so many things are wrong; delirium each nation has, and life is like a Darktown jazz, that should be one sweet song. But while I'm sighing I can hear the cheer-up message of the seer, who does a grouch disdain: "These ragtime things will pass away, and there will dawn a better day, when we will all be sane."

LESSON NO. 41
Detection Circuit for the Vacuum Tube

After the radio-frequent oscillations have been intercepted by the antenna and inductively or conductively impressed upon the secondary circuit, they are rectified by the vacuum tube so that a preponderance of current flows in one direction through the plate circuit.

In the accompanying diagram of a detection circuit the primary and secondary windings of the receiving transformer are represented by (L-1 and (L-2) respectively. (C-1) is the shunt secondary condenser, and (C-2) the grid condenser. The three elements of the vacuum tube are shown by the filament (F) the plate (P), and the grid (G). The low voltage storage battery is shown at (A), and the plate battery (B) has its positive terminal connected to the plate (P.) As explained in previous articles, if the filament is properly lighted and a positive terminal of the battery "B" to the plate (P) thence to the filament (F) through the tube and returning through the receiving telephones to the negative terminal of the battery. The current flow through the tube, therefore, is from plate to filament while the flow of electrons emitted by the filament is in the opposite direction.

As the incoming oscillations are impressed upon the grid circuit, they tend to charge the grid alternately positive and negative. When the grid is positive, it attracts the electrons leaving the filament and when it is negative, it repels them, with the result that the plate current is increased when the grid is positive and decreased when the grid is negative.

If a group of incoming radio-frequent oscillations is impressed upon the tube, the group is rectified by the valve action existing between the grid and the filament with the result that the grid condenser receives a uni-directional charge.

For the purposes of detection the potential relation existing between the grid and filament may be so adjusted that a small decrease in grid potential will result in a comparatively large increase in the plate current while an increase of the grid potential negatively will cause a small decrease of the plate current. By a different adjustment of the potential reltaion between the grid and the filament, the action just described may be reversed.

When the grid condenser (C-2) is connected between the grid (G) and the secondary of the receiving transformer (L-2.) it receives a uni-directional charge due to the rectification of the groups of radio-frequent oscillations. During the period of a group of oscillations the charge in the grid condenser increases and the plate current decreases. When the group of oscillations is completed, the charges in the grid condenser is dissipated through the grid leak (R) and the plate current returns to its normal value. The grid leak (R) is a resistance of large value and serves the purpose of dissipating the charge in the grid condenser between groups of oscillations.

The fluctuation of the plate current and consequent variation of the telephone current impulses the diaphrams of the receiving telephones for each group of incoming oscillations and ressults in the receipt of audible signals.

Swimming for Beauty

The National Champion's Brilliant Victories—She Tries Hard to Win, But Does Not Suffer When Defeated

BY GERTRUDE ARTELT, NATIONAL CHAMPION AND RECORD HOLDER

MISS ARTELT AT WORK IN THE "GYM"

ET ET ET ET ET
In addition to being a national champion swimmer, Gertrude Artelt is a famed gymnast. The illustrations show that the Philadelphia maid is as graceful in a gymnasium as she is in water. It is to swimming and gymnastic work that Miss Artelt attributes her physical development, which won for her the title of the most physically perfect woman in America.

DURING my athletic career I have won many swimming races and gymnastic competions. I have won a few titles and broken a few records and also I have been beaten, oh, so often. I love to compete, and, of course, I try my best to win, but I don't mind the defeats 'cause its all in fun.

When I was ten years old, I merely drowned. That frightened me into swimming lessons and I joined the Turners. I was one of the hundreds of youngsters who waited patiently for the pool doors to open on Saturday mornings, and one of the many girls who took gym lessons twice a week.

I liked gymnastics, but swimming had a better appeal. I progressed only moderately.

A year later I was playing with another girl and we tried to do a double dive. I was just getting my balance on her shoulders when she slipped. I fell and hit my neck on the diving board. I had to be pulled out of the water and my swimming enthusiasm left me.

The following summer I went abroad and the deep, blue European sea took my fright from me and I grew fond of the water again.

WHEN we came home I wanted to go in the Turners' monthly competition, but I couldn't dive, and that was required. I watched the girls with whom I had been swimming progress and pass on.

First Medal Thrills

ONE night I attended a simming banquet at which medals and prizes were given to successful swimmers, and the competitive spirit in me was aroused. I worked by myself all summer, practiced every day in the Delaware Bay and in October entered the monthly Turners' competition and won my first gold medal for speed swimming. Then I entered the Middle Atlantic championships and, although I didn't win any firsts, I placed, and thta put heart into me.

When I was fifteen I placed second in a national championship, and that meant more to me than ten Middle Atlantic medals.

In the summer of 1917 the first women's swimming pentathlon was held at Graham Beach, N. Y. Among the entries were Claire Galligan, the New York star; Charlotte Boyle, Bessie Ryan and Elizabeth Becker, who was Philadelphia's best bet.

There was little rest between events and we finished one race after another. I won every swimming race, establishing a record for each distance, but I fell down in the diving. However, I won the pentathlon and a month later won the national hundred yards. It was windy, rainy day and the water was very choppy. I'll never forget that race, and hope I never have to compete under such conditions again.

The following summer mother chaperoned Olga Dorfner and me on an invitation swim in California. Fred Cady coached us. Olga swam two races and was taken ill. Her swimming career virtually ended there.

I RACED her races and mine, too, and on all the events with the exception of the 25-yard dash which I don't consider a race.

Overestimated Strength

IN THE spring of 1919 I was swimming in better form than ever. There was a hundred-yard Middle Atlantic at the Central Y. M. C. A., and I won my heat. We were called for the finals and to my alarm I couldn't move.

My father, who is a physician, was called. He told me I couldn't go into the finals, and I cried. I had an attack of appendicitis and was operated on three days later. I was swimming again two months after that.

I intended just slimming slowly, but it couldn't be done, and I admit now that I over-estimated my strength I haven't ever suffered, but my advice is to stay out for at least six months after such an operation.

I did little swimming in the following year. I just lost interest and I turned to gymnastics.

I joined the leaders' class at the Turners, and after passing the examination became a gymnastic enthusiast. The stars were practicing for the annual championships, which were held laast year at Chicago. I was so absolutely green I saw no way of making the team until I heard there were to be field events.

Triumphed at Chicago

I WENT to Chicago and entered in every event. I afterward heard I was the only girl who did that.

My apparatus work was better than ever, my field sports higher than any other Philadelphian entry, and I won the third highest place of our Philadelphia girls. In addition, I won swimming races and finally was chosen out of all the gymnasts as being the perfect type of athletic girl.

I came home with honors, but minus weight and so tired.

Last autumn I swam occasionally and went south in December and stayed until March and came up for the national fifty-yard at Baltimore. In this race both Helen Wainwright and I were given a joint record.

LAST month I won a breaststroke race from the Middle Atlantic record-holder. You see, I try to swim all strokes. It's so much fun.

In the next article Miss Artelt gives advice about swimming suits.

Little Stories For Bedtime

Ever since he had come to the Green Meadows to live Old Man Coyote had taken the greatest pains to keep away from Farmer Brown's. You see he felt that he was a stranger and being such he would be quite likely to make mistakes, which might get him into trouble. If there is one thing that Old Man Coyote prides himself on it is the way in which he manages to keep out of trouble. He is so smart that it is very seldom that Old Man Trouble ever catches up with him. So he kept away from Farmer Brown's henyard and Farmer Brown's duck-pond, although sometimes the sound of the roosters crowing and the ducks quacking made his mouth water so that he would trot off into the Green Forest where he could not hear them, for fear that he might be tempted to do something foolish.

But all the time he was studying and studying. Yes, sir, Old Man Coyote was studying. He was learning all about the ways of Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's boy and Farmer Brown's hired man and Bowser the Hound and the hens and the ducks. Day after day he would hide where he could see all that went on about Farmer Brown's house and dooryard, and no one ever suspected it. He knew just when the hens were allowed to run outside the henyard. He knew just which ones were boldest and went farthest from home and where they usually went. He knew just when the ducks went down to the duckpond and here their favorite resting places on the edge of the pond were.

The truth is Old Man Coyote knew a lot more about those ducks and chickens than Farmer Brown's boy himself. More than once a fat chicken or a plump duck had passed almost under Old Man Coyote's nose and never guessed how close danger was. And he had let them pass, because he was smart enough to know that to seize them would be to give himself away.

Now the time had come when he felt that he had learned all that was to be learned about chickens and ducks and Farmer Brown's folks, and that if he made the most of what he had learned he could dine on chicken or duck when he pleased without running any danger. So that is how it happened that one night Farmer Brown's boy, counting his ducks before he shut them up for the night, found that one was missing. He hunted everywhere for some trace of the missing duck, but not so much as a feather could he find. Nor could he find a track of any one who might have stolen and carried away the missing duck.

And at that very time, far over in the most lonesome corner of the Green Meadows where he makes his home, Old Man Coyote was smiling to himself as he dined royally. "Duck certainly is very good eating," said he, as he picked the last bone. "It was worth waiting for. I have heard say that these human beings are very smart, but if they are smarter than Old Man Coyote then it is time for me to move away, and I don't think I'll do that yet awhile. When I was just a young puppy I learned that the surest way to keep out of trouble is to lead people to suspect some one else. When Farmer Brown's boy begins to miss his ducks and chickens he mustn't think of me. He must suspect some one he knows has stolen from him before. Now, who shall it be?"

Old Man Coyote stretched out comfortably to digest his good dinner and think out his plans for putting the blame on some one else. Of course, it was wrong, very wrong, of him. Nothing could be meaner than trying to put the blame for his own misdeed on some one else. But Old Man Coyote didn't once think of it in this way. You see he has so often been blamed himself for things he didn't do that he felt that he was simply getting even.

SMASH DUE IN FEW DAYS

Thirty days from now these may seem to you to have been really delightful times. By that time Europe, North Africa and all of Asia will have been destroyed by earthquakes beginning at Budapest, says Dr. M. A. Noble, Philadelphia. He thinks the eastern United States will be spared. Let us hope something more will be saved. The doctor's hypothesis is that heat and dust are accumulating beneath the mountains of California and other regions, and when the strain gets too great, sometime in the next few weeks, there will be a vast upheaval. If we were to hazard a guess, it would be that nothing very unusual will happen. The world has been scheduled to come to an end 10 times in our life time and every time the prediction has proved a "dud."

CAPE COSTUMES OFFERED FOR SPORT WEAR

By ELOISE

If you are an advocate of the cape costume you may wear one every hour of the day and always be smartly dressed. Instead of being a passing fancy the cape costume seems to be gaining favor with each new day until there are now any number of styles offered for both sports and dress so that one may wear a dress with cape to match from the early morning golf game to the late restaurant dinner. Here are three snappy cape outfits for sports, afternoon and dress wear respectively.

Tan and brown plaid eponge makes the cape suit in the center which is designed for sports or country wear. The one-piece frock is made with two large patch pockets, short sleeves and a deep V-neck, showing a tiny net gilet. The swagger cape is bound in silk braid and is of the three-quarter length.

Green and white cross barred gabardine makes the stunning costume at the left. It is suitable for sports or afternoon wear and is plain save for bands of green embroidery on the skirt and cape. The cape of this suit is somewhat shorter than that of the plaid costume.

A graceful dinner gown is shown at the right. It, too, is a three piece cape costume featuring the new long skirt in draped effect. It is made of navy roshanara crepe bordered is a huge design. A collar of roses formed by the crepe finishes the cape. With these three costumes you fill your wardrobe with cape dresses for morning, afternoon and evening wear.

KATY TRAFFIC IMPROVING

Supt. Grace Issues Statement

Marked improvement in the strike situation so far as the M., K. & T. company is concerned is reflected in practically every item of operating figures for the first 10 days in August, according to a statement concerning the situation locally made public by Superintendent F. W. Grace yesterday.

Traffic and business has increased and conditions are better generally for the first 10 days of August, Mr. Grace says in his statement than it has ever been.

His statement follows in full:

"Local car loading on M., K. & T. lines for the first 10 days in August has been heavier than during the corresponding period in any previous month this year. It exceeded that for July by nearly 1,500 cars. More loaded cars were also received from connections than during the first ten days in July. Marked improvement in the strike situation so far as the M., K. & T is concerned is reflected in practically every item of operating figures for the first 10 days in August. Almost 5,000 more loaded cars were moved than in the first 10 days in July and only 846 less were moved than in the corresponding period in June and months preceding the strike. Another figure accurately reflecting improved conditions is the percentage of bad order cars.

"August 10, the bad order car percentage for the M., K. & T lines were 6.7 per cent; July 10, were 7.8 per cent; June 10, it was 7.9 per cent. It has not been below 6.4 per cent on the 10th of any month since March. These figures indicate that so far as car department is concerned conditions are again normal. The M., K. & T has recruited its shop forces to 47 per cent of normal and is rapidly strengtheneing the efficiency of its organiaztion as the new forces are organized. It is now certain that the M. K. & T will move the largest volume of freight business in August than it has moved in any month this year."

FASHIONS

What is new in skirt styles for autumn is a question that is promptly answered by one word—fabrics.

All sorts of rough surface wool fabrics are being used for sport skirts for fall and winter wear, and the usual array of stable and serviceable twilled weaves also appear. Color combinations are new and interesting, and never have been seen such striking stripes and plaids as are being cut up into separate skirts by manufacturers of these garments.

Bold Stripes Popular in Separate Sport Skirts

The skirt shown in the sketch gives an idea of what may be expected, and it is interesting to observe that just four stripes are required to fashion this swart little garment. One wide plain stripe forms the front panel, another wide plain stripe appears at back and a cluster of small stripes in a riot of gay colors flended to form one large stripe fills in each side section. The skirt is a wrap-around, a style that is always popular because it is easy to get into a skirt so fashioned, and, too, these wrap-around skirts are easy to press, clean or launder, as they may be laid flat on the table or board.

The blouse illustrated is an excellent slip-over model, and a style that is so staple that it appears season in and season out. Silk crepes of various kinds and a wide range of cottons are being offered in fall sports blouses, and there is also on foot an effort to popularize light-weight wool fabrics such as challis, in plain colors and white as well as in figures and flowered designs. Just how strong the vogue for these will be remains to be seen.

The increasing vogue for out of door sports makes sports apparel of interest every season, and for fall the separate skirt promises to be a very colorful and smart garment.

Wheeler Humbles Alley-Bats With Three Safe Blows

THREE PEACOCK HURLERS GO DOWN UNDER TERRIFIC BAT ATTACK FOR THIRD OF SERIES

White Leads Club to Decided Victory With Flashing Play in Field and Great Day at Plate; Tanner and Wheat "Sock" One Each; Love, Davenport and Reid Take Lacing said, it is all said, as regards the Dallas hitting. Those three bingles, grouped with four for each of the two preceding days brought the visitor's total up to 11 for three games.

Wheeler Harrass 'Em.

Wheeler was in top form and was never in trouble. During the first six innings only 18 hitters presented arms. Two of these got on base, one by a walk, the other by a scratch hit. The first runner was thrown out on an attempted steal while the other fell victim of a double play.

In the seventh Massey reached second after he singled to center and Adams fumbled DeMaggio's grounder as he rushed up a double play and both runners were safe. Galloway then politely flied out to Summa and Donohue took his allotted three swings for the third out.

Lingle retired in the sixth inning in favor of Buck Wheat. 'Twas the most strategical move noted of the Galloway cohorts, for Buck pulvedized one of Wheeler's fast ones for an ace, the only semblance of a marker gathered by the pennant hopes of Walter Morris and Ike Soblosky.

Buddy Tanner started the game with a grouch and promptly vented his feelings on Love for he looked a couple over, then sent one over. "A fur ways" did Buddy smite one, high and far over the left wall and the fun had commenced.

In the second, Al White played his up and got three bases on a ... double when Nic DeMaggio ... behind him from left field. George Bischoff responded nobly with a long sacrifice fly to left and Al registered.

Three more in the third broke up a ball game. Tanner started things off with a base blow to center. Adams sacrificed him to second. Summa drew his second pass of the game and Texas McDonald singled to left scoring Tanner. Fred Beck dealt a death blow to Love when he singled to right and when Donohue booted the ball Summa and McDonald scored. Davenport managed to retire the side.

Davenport Bombarded.

The long-distance hurler got by the fourth all right, but when Summa greeted him with a double into left in the fifth, trouble began. Tex worked him for a pass, but Beck flied out to left. White poked a liner between third and short for a single and Summa romped in. Bischoff was presented with a parade, moving both runners up a peg. Davenport then got the hook, and Reid faced Wheeler as the first hitter. Rip grounded to Rader who forced Bischoff at second while Tex scored. Bob Bescher singled to center and White rode home with number three for that round.

That Big Eighth.

When Wheat poled his drive out of the lot, he must have riled the Spudders for they came back in their half of the eighth with a whole sluice of tallies. Wheeler walked as a starter and Bescher moved him up with a single to center. Tanner popped out to Rader, but Adams smote another knock to center and filled 'em up for Summa. Homer promptly rattled the boards in right center for two bases and as many runs. On the play he started to third, but there were too many runners around that corner so he turned back. Segrist had time to get him at second or tag Sporty Adams on the line, but passed up a golden opportunity and clung to the ball like a school boy with his first apple of the season, while both returned to their proper stations. Tex McDonald refused to let Summa share in the glory of the round and drove one to center for a trio of cushions and counted the fifth marker of the round when White doubled to left after Beck had grounded out to Galloway.

Another Game Up

And all the while the Spudders were knocking the Dallas horde under, Shreveport was fighting behind Mr. Johnson and the Cats were chased again, giving the Spudders another full game lead with a total that now measures exactly 78 points, more than three full games.

As the Spuds near the record mark of wins the tension becomes stronger. They've only three more games to go and those three are scheduled with Dallas. Two more here, one today and another tomorrow, while the scene shifts to Dallas for the third, a break-the-jump game as the two clubs start southward for their last time around the circuit.

Of course the first two of the present series were more or less difficult, but they only served to show the Spudders just what they can do under the strain of circumstance.

Looks like a new world's record, and the Dixie series. Looks that way, more and more every day.

Boy, ain't it grand to be winnin'?
Movin' up as we play every game?
Bring 'em on, we choose 'em, we'll beat 'em.
To the Spudders, they all look the same.

WHITNEY WILL SELL WHISKAWAY

By Associated Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., August 11.—Harry Payne Whitney today notified Trainer G. W. Barnes that he had accepted C. W. Clark's offer for the colt Whiskway and that Barnes might take the three-year-old, generally regarded as the champion of his year tomorrow. The price involved was not made public, but is generally accepted in turf circles to have been $125,000.

SMALL AND BUNDLE OF NERVES IS JOCK

Jock Hutchison, of the Glenview Golf club, Chicago, who won the British open golf title last year, is now in merry England again and with Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen is representing our national oasis in the British open golf championship tournament.

The conflict scene is the Princes and Royal Georges courses at Sandwich which sounds as though the game would be appetizing, to say the least and which, by the way, brings to mind that this would be an appropriate name for a lot of our American courses as the boys take so many bites out off them with their clubs that they have all the farmers, who flivver by, wondering what the bird who ploughed the field is going to plant.

Last year, in the British open, Jock played against and beat representatives of practically all the allies in the world war without starting another one and this year will find, among the entries, leading "pro" golfers from France, Australia and Spain as well as England which will probably mean more work for the gentlemen at the Hague conference.

Hutchison is small of stature one of the smallest in fact of professional golfers. He likewise holds the distinction of being a loud and lusty explosion of the theory that to be a good golfer, one must be absolutely nerveless and as cool as the front porch of an Eskimo's igloo for Jock is as nervous as a pickpocket at a cop's picnic. The thud of a cigarette butt hitting the ground near Jock starts him trying to establish a new altitude record. He has never held an American national title although he has held the western open championship, which ranks next in importance to it.

Hutchison is a native of St. Andrews, England, and his acquisition of the British title last year was his first great triumph.

ST. LOUIS, August 11.—Pitcher Dave Danforth, for whom the St. Louis Americans gave Columbus eight players last spring, will be released under option, business manager Bob Quinn of the Browns announced late this afternoon. Danforth will not depart for Chicago with the Browns tonight. Although Danforth has been pitching fairly good ball, the announced reason for the action is to give him a chance to "come back."

OUR "AL"

AL WHITE

During the present home stay, White has shown himself one of the most dangerous hitters in the league, for he seldom fails in the "clinches." Not only that, but he has been flashing the greatest game around the middle cushion seen in Texas in many years.

Climaxing his accomplishments, White accepted 11 chances cleanly yesterday (some of them difficult, too) and drove out a single, double and triple which figured in many Spudder runs.

KINSEY MEETS RICHARDS IN FINALS

Yonkers Flash Plays Great Games Friday

By Associated Press

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., and Robert Kinsey of San Francisco, won their way today into both the singles and doubles finals of the men's invitation tennis tournament on the grass courts of the Meadow club.

The youthful Davis cup player was put to two of the severest tests he has encountered this season to emerge triumphant. Meeting unexpected opposition from Seiichiro Kashio in one of the singles semi-finals, Richards lost one set and was forced to top speed to pull out the match 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. His partner in the doubles, Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., national indoor champion, was off form, and the Yonkers youth carried the brunt of the battle in a five set victory over Hugh Kelleher and Leonard Beekman of New York 6-8, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Robert Kinsey, in the other singles semi-finals scored a sensational victory over the Nipponez crack player, Zenzo Shimizu, in straight sets 8-6, 6-0, 6-2.

Paired with his brother, Howard, in the doubles, he gained his bracket in the doubles final by eliminating Willis E. Davis of San Francisco and S. Howard Voshell, of Brooklyn 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONER COMING TO WICHITA

Austin, Tex., Aug. 11.—Railroad Commission Engineer R. D. Parker will go to Wichita Falls Aug. 15 to assist in a conference on estimating freight revenues and divisions of the Orient Railroad line in Texas.

This conference follows the recent inspection trip made over the line by a party of officials which included Mr. Parker and Railroad Commissioner Clarence E. Gilmore.

TEXAS SCHOLASTIC APPORTIONMENT FIXED

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 11. — The Texas scholastic apportionment for 1922-23 was fixed at 10 by the state school board Thursday, the lowest figure in four years. The reduction from 13 to 10 was made on an estimated reduction of $105,240,000 property valuations, and because the customary appropriation of from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 for school purposes was not appropriated by the legislature for the coming year.

The scholastic census will show a decrease of between 5,000 and 10,000 instead of the normal increase, it was stated, and there are prospects the opportionment may be raised 50 cents during the year.

The sum of $1,340,755 was set aside out of the funds to be derived from taxation, for the purchase of free text books.

The school board decided to purchase no more school bonds until those bought on installments are paid for.

The appeal of H. H. Powell, teacher in a San Augustine county school, to compel payment of his salary during term of his contract heretofore sustained by the state superintendent of education was upheld by the board.

HALL TO CONSIDER STATE BANK MATTERS

AUSTIN, August 11. — Proposed separation of the state banking department from the insurance department will be discussed at a meeting of the Texas Bankers' association executive committee with bank and insurance commissioner, Ed Hall, next Monday, here, when State Senator Paul D. Page of Bastrop will be invited to confer on the legal phases involved. The bankers executive committee recently went on record as favoring separation of the two bureaus into independent departments.

Senator Page, who is not a candidate for re-election, it was stated, and who is at the same time a lawyer and a state banker and has had years of experience in the senate on banking law matters, will be consulted at this time with a view of determining what legal difficulties would have to be met in a bill to be introduced at the session of the legislature next January, to separate the banking department from the other bureau, it was declared.

PRISONER CLAIMS HE WAS BEATEN BY MEN

By Associated Press.

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, August 11.—Claiming to authorities here he was whipped by men wearing what he believed to be uniforms similar to those of the ku klux klan, in Fort Worth Wednesday night, Ben Baker, about 30 years old, of Navasota, Texas, is in the county jail recovering from a beating. He is being held on charges of aggravated assault, burglary and carrying a pistol unlawfully. Baker is said to be of a prominent south Texas family.

Baker was arrested at Howard. Sheriff Henry Forbes and Deputy Tom Godfrey brought Baker to the jail yesterday.

He is alleged to have forced his way into a negro's home near Howard.

Stock Prices On Upgrade Despite Rail Troubles

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Prices on the New York stock exchange today continued to move steadily upward regardless of strike developments. Trading naturally was restricted pending outcome of today's conferences, the day's sales approximating 535,000 shares.

Rails continued to move ahead as a group on relative light dealings, but the greatest strength was shown in industrials, several of which made new high records. Bumper crop prospects advanced International Harvester and advanced Rumley preferred, manufacturers of farm implements, about 3 points to the year's prices and Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward also jumped sharply.

International Paper advanced sharply an announcement of an increase of $5 a ton in the price of news print paper, while United States Alcohol went to a new high on reports of increased production. Equipments like Baldwin and American Locomotives and General Electric, bettered their positions presumably in response to further orders by railroad companies.

Shipping, like International Mercantile Marine preferred and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, which had been moreor less reactionary all week, were up over a point. Cuban sugar stocks also displayed a stronger tone, indicating an end of the pressure which followed the senate's adoption of a higher tariff duty on the Cuban product. Columbia Gas, Brooklyn Editon and Pacific Gas and Electric, all at new top prices, featured the general advance in public utilities. The demand for rails was confined largely to the low priced issues, such as St. Louis and Southwestern, Missouri, Pacific & Texas. Special activity in Wabash was based on a report of the earnings which were at the annual rate of $9 a share.

Congressman Alice Robertson of Oklahoma breaks the record, being first woman to be re-elected to Congress. Miss Robertson, a two-fisted, hard-boiled representative of her district, deserved her victory and won it on her record.

BIG DRUG HAUL MADE IN FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, August 11.—Following a sensational drug raid on a residence in a prominent part of the city last night and the capture of 4,800 grains of morphine, W. H. Hammond, said to have been a detective in Shreveport until recently, was accused of possessing narcotics in violation of the Harrison act in formal charges filed today. The charges were filed before United States Commissioner Parker. Two other men and two women were arrested in the same raid but no charges have been filed.

WHEAT SLIPS TO LOW LEVEL

Other Grains Take Light Losses

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—In absence of buying support, wheat slipped down today to prices below any heretofore touched this season. The close was unsettled at 1⅞ to 1⅞ net decline, with September $1.04⅝ to $1.04⅝ and December $1.04⅞ to $1.05. Corn lost 1 cent to 1⅞c and oats ⅝@⅞ to ⅝c. In provisions the outcome varied from 2½ to 12½c gain.

Corn and oats reflected the action of wheat, dealings were almost entirely local. Provisions averaged higher, with hogs and as a result of some export buying of meats.

DALLAS, Aug. 11.—Cotton steady; 20.90. Houston, steady; 21.20. Galveston, steady; 21.40.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, August 11.—Renewed nervousness over the progress of the crop reports of a better trade demand led to a further sharp recovery in the cotton market here today. After selling up to 21.44 for December, or 74 points net higher and 139 points above the low level of Wednesday morning, however, offerings increased and there were reactions of 30 points or more during the later trading. December closed at 21.15 with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 30 to 58 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 14 to 28 points on relatively firm cables. Considerable realizing by recent buyers for a rally and some southern selling was reported around the opening figures, but it was absorbed on reactions of 10 to 15 points with the market soon developing increased strength on covering and trade buying. The demand from shorts was also stimulated by a mid-month report making the condition of the crop 69.4 or 5.5 points below the figures published toward the end of July. October contracts sold up to 21.42 and January to 21.30 before there was any halt in the upward movement.

COTTON PRICE GOES HIGHER

Net Gains Made for Day

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—Reports of widespread deterioration in the belt put the price of cotton higher from the opening today. Considerable liquidation by holders of long contracts who wanted their profits met the advances but recessions were not wide. At the highest of the day the trading months were 64 to 79 points over yesterday's close with October up to $21.07. On the close the list showed net gains of 46 to 52 points with October at $20.80.

A private bureau report on mid-month condition of 69.4 per cent of normal, indicating deterioration since the end of the July period of 5.5 points, was the outstanding feature of the middle of the morning session and it helped to carry prices to their highest levels.

Cotton closed barely steady at net advances of 46 to 52 points.

Down Goes Meat Prices

Public Market Company operating a chain of retail meat markets to open for business Saturday, August 12. Why we undersell our competitors: We buy our meats in large quantities. Buyers in all packing house centers. We sell for cash. No delivery, no telephone orders, no bookkeeping.

VOLUME! VOLUME! VOLUME!

The more volume we have in your city the lower the price; our expenses are the same if we sell four cattle each week or if we sell twenty cattle. Think this over. All meats sold by this company purchased from the world's largest packers, guaranteeing rigid inspection.

TWO DRAW $100 FINES IN COURT

Woman Guilty of Shoplifting

Judge John P. Marrs took a $100 forfeiture on two cases yesterday, one in which a woman arrested on Thursday was charged with shoplifting, and one in which a physician from Bellevue was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace in this city.

The woman, who was arrested after she had been caught stealing goods in Kress 5 and 10 cent store, admitted Thursday her guilt in connection with several shoplifting deals. She was sent to all the stores in the city, where she admitted having stole goods, and was introduced to the managements as a thief.

An investigation into her character showed her to be wealthy and of prominence in this community, according to the police.

The man whose bond of $100 was forfeited by Judge Marrs, was arrested in a local hotel upon complaint of the management when he had made insinuating remarks to a woman he met there.

A speeder and a drunkard met the same fate in Judge John Marrs court yesterday.

The speeder was fined $10 and the drunkard $10, and both put up bonds for appeals on their cases.

Judge Marrs reprimanded severely the man charged with intoxication and told him he should have more respect for himself than to get drunk.

Now That's Rather Odd

SAN FRANCISCO — Should the modern Portia wear headgear when she approaches the bar of justice?

The mooted quested of feminine court dress continued to be the center of conversation among the women delegates to the conclave of the American Bar association here today. And it is said for the lady lawyer delegates to the convention that a majority favor a covering for the head when they address a jury.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — Feudal warfare brought death to two more members of the Wingate wamily last night near Hillyard in Nassau county, leaving only the fourth son, Elijah, surviving, the father and three sons having been killed in the last three years. William Wingate, the father, aged 71, and his son, Scriven, age 41, were shot dead in their automobile last night, but a 7-year-old son of Scriven was spared when he begged for his life. Two other sons were shot and killed some months ago. No arrests are known to have been made.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal.—Jimmy Davis, age 14, takes his obligation as a boy scout seriously. The creed requires that scouts befriend other boys in every way possible. Yesterday, Jimmy submitted to skin graft operation to save the life of Grover Johnson, age 9, who was burned in a fire cracker explosion.

LOS ANGELES—Eugene O'Brien, motion picture actor, who suffered a possible fracture of the skull and internal injuries when he was run down by a motor truck last night, was reported resting easily at a Hollywood hospital today.

Surgeons treating O'Brien's scalp found it necessary to shave off his curls.

STABLE BOY ENGLISH PEER

As a boy in Detroit, Albert Hnery Stanley started to work in the stables of the street railway in the days of horse-drawn cars. Promotions came rapidly. Eventually he became Superintendent of the lines. Several years later he went to London as director of London's underground railways. In 1913 he became a British citzen. In 1914 he was knighted by King George. Last year he was elevated to the peerage. Now he is Lord Ashfield. Who says there is no romance in the twentieth century?

Life is sure that: The first woman was Eve, because her arrival brought an end to Adam's perfect day.

'COAL OIL' CAN DIDN'T WORK

Morgan Finds New Booze Device

Frank Morgan, having cast aside the yoke of campaigning, has entered upon his new season's work as constable, precinct No. 1, with a vim.

Yesterday he declared "open season" on bootleggers and law violators of all descriptions; and he had a good day to start with.

Visiting a house on Front street, where a bootlegger was suspected of having a cache of liquor hidden away, Constable Morgan returned to the county court house later in the day with the most novel camouflage bootlegging device that has yet been captured in Wichita Falls.

The prize package is none other than a greasy five-gallon coal oil can, and which, at first sight, is harmless.

Morgan declares that he looked at the oil can several times, and that he shook it to hear its contents "slosh, slosh" with the peculiar aroma of coal oil arising from it as a result. He was about to abandon the can when he noticed that the most peculiar part about it was that its spout was not greasy and dirty with coal oil dregs as were the other portions, but that it was slick from having been used presumably as a handle.

Thinking this queer, the officer carried the can away with him, and it was not until he had reached his own office in the court house that he discovered that the oil can had a false bottom, in which reposed a full gallon of "mountain dew" liquor. The top portion of the can slips out and is a small coal oil can in itself, while the larger receptacle which fits around the oil can has space in its bottom sufficient to contain a full gallon of "corn" whisky.

No charges have been filed against the party from whom the novel delivery oil can was obtained, but the constable intimated yesterday that an arrest will be made soon.

Katy Chief in ...ity Friday

C. N. Whitehead of St. Louis, vice president and chief operating official of the M. K. & T. railroad, was in Wichita Falls Friday in his private car looking over the strike situation locally and conferring with railroad officials.

Mr. Whitehead would make no statement for publication but from reliable sources it was ascertained that he was here to talk to other officials an dsee that everything is in the best of possible condition pending a possible long, drawn out strike. It is understood that Mr. Whitehead expressed the opinion that there will be no compromise on the part of the railroads as the railroads believe they are legally and morally on the right side of the strike.

Thieves Ransack Clothing Shelves

The fourth of a series of well-planned and well-executed robebries in Wichita Falls occurred here Thursday night when unknown persons entered the business establishment of O. B. Dudley, 1200 Scott street, and escaped with a number of articles of wearing apparel.

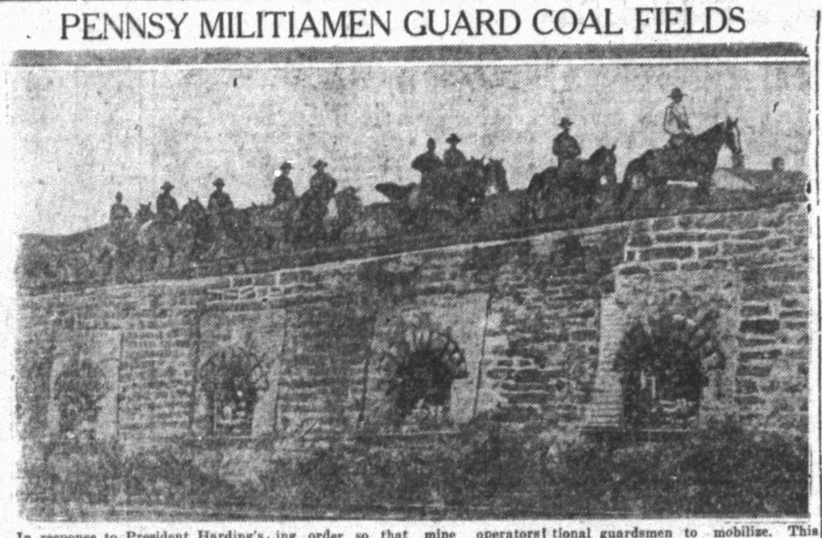

Contained in the loot with which the thieves escaped were two silk blouses, one silk dress, silk underwear and other similar articles.

Some of the apparel bore the "O. D." laundry mark, according to a description given police yesterday.

Although officers began an early investigation of the robbery when it was reported yesterday morning, no clue as to the parties implicated in the affair has as yet been found.

"Paramount Town" Film Takes You Right Through Movie Land

"A Trip to Paramount Town"—that's what Manager H. S. Ford of the Olympic theater, has planned for theater-goers of this city.

Famous-Lasky players will be seen in interesting depictions, behind the scenes and sidelights on the movies that the ordinary movie fan does not know about will be displayed from the screens—right in Wichita Falls, for the first time that this production has been placed here.

The Paramount town production, according to a communication received yesterday by Manager Ford, has been playing all the "first-run" and leading theaters, and is now on a run at the Palace theater in Dallas, where it will come from here.

"Take my word for it," one manager writes Mr. Ford, "it's 2,000 feet with more value than the "Affairs of Anatol."

COPS GET CHOC RIGHT IN TOWN

All that's in an alley might be deceiving, according to Constable Frank Morgan.

The constable, accompanied by Deputies Bob Heimbree and E. S. Richardson, captured enough "chock" beer right in the heart of Wichita Falls Thursday night to start a "cold drink stand."

Constable Morgan had previously located a place in the alley at the rear of Scott street, where the beer was cached, and, leading his men to the spot Thursday night, he captured a total of 140 bottles full of "chock" nicely capped, together with a barrel of beer in the process of fermenting.

One man, giving the name of H. C. King, was arrested by the officers, and charges of having "chock" beer in his possession were filed against him yesterday.

MASSEY FINDS PLENTY OF FRIENDS HERE

Mike Massey, star second baseman of the Dallas team, is an old University of Texas baseball player and track man. Friday he found that he had many of his old university friends here in Wichita Falls. He was on the team at the same time that Charles Francis played baseball there and Ralph Mathis was on the track team. He was also a class mate of Sam Beatie's and knows many other well known Wichita Falls men.

12-Year-Old Boy Disappears From Austin Street Home Thursday

Little Wilburn Sholte, 12, went out into the yard to play Thursday morning. His mother, Mrs. W. P. Sholte of 700 Austin, left him there to enjoy himself, while she went about with her household duties.

Wilburn has always been an obedient little fellow. And because he wore a pair of light blue serge trousers, a light blue blouse and a perfectly white hat, he promised his mother that he would not get in the dirt and that he would keep clean.

Dinner time came, and Mr. and Mrs. Solte sat down to a table that was somewhat less sunny and pleasant than it had usually been, for Little Wilburn wasn't there.

Whether Wilburn took the wanderlust suddenly, or whether he was carried away is not known, but Mrs. Sholte does know that her baby boy has been missing ever since sometime Thursday morning, and a frantic search made for him last night ended in vain.

The Sholtes recently came here from Oklahoma, and have only been in Wichita Falls but a short while. Little Wilburn, his mother believes, got lonesome for his pals and playmates back in Oklahoma, and it is her honest conviction that he has possibly wandered back there.

Who knows but that Wilburn has become another knight errant, and that he has gone back for his own little Juliet? Such things have happened.

Officers yesterday sounded the warning to all ports, sending out a complete description of the little fellow, and trusting that ere daybreak they would have some knowledge of his adventure and whereabouts.
