I. C. C. Hears Kell On Proposed Pampa Road

OIL, FARMING AREA SERVED

Another Hearing May Be Called Before Decision

Examiner Sullivan of the Interstate Commerce Commission heard Monday the application of the Clinton and Oklahoma Western for authority to extend its line from Cheyenne, Okla., to Pampa, a distance of 95 miles.

The application was not opposed.

Frank Kell of Wichita Falls, president of the company, informed the commission that 85 per cent of the territory to be opened was suitable for agriculture.

Mr. Kell, who was here a few weeks ago, asked no support to his claim, and consequently the local Chamber of Commerce delayed presentation of its brief. Failure of opposition to appear before the commission gives an uncertainty to the probable next proceeding. Another hearing may be called before final action is taken, or a decision may be made by the commission after a private investigation of the needs along the proposed route.

Thrills Galore Are Promised In Auto Polo Here

Thrills, spills, excitement galore will be at the Pampa baseball park Saturday and Sunday afternoon when two auto polo teams from Amarillo tangle here for their last exhibition in Texas before leaving for California.

M. J. Bryant's blue cars, and Clark Askey's gold cars will tangle in the first game of auto polo ever seen in Pampa. The game will be played in 30-minute halves, with five minutes intermission.

The small fire truck will be in attendance in case one of the cars catch fire in the melee. A nurse from the Pampa hospital will also be present to render first aid to any member of the team who is injured when the cars roll over.

Four cars will be on the field at one time with the remaining four in reserve in case of accident to the cars in the field. The cars used are Fords and have large hoops over the body so that when they are turned over in a collision the driver, who is strapped in, is not injured. But the player has to jump clear.

It is a scene of dashing, daring driving as only veterans like Hod Johnson of Hutchinson, Kan., and Hobby Hobson, of Los Angeles, two of the chief drivers, are capable of doing. Auto polo is the most thrilling sport of today.

King Ferdinand Of Rumania Dies

MONARCH WAS MUCH BELOVED

End Long Expected Arrived At 2:15 Today

BABY TO THRONE
BUCHAREST, July 20. (AP) — Prince Michael, young son of the former Crown Prince Carol, will be proclaimed King of Rumania to succeed his grandfather at 4 o'clock this afternoon it was announced today.

The prince, whose mother is Princess Helen of Greece, was born October 25, 1921, and was created heir apparent December 31, 1925, when his father renounced rights to the succession.

At Paris today Crown Prince Carol refused to be seen by newspaper men. Troops are being concentrated at barracks and measures taken by the government for instant use in the event Carol should attempt to return to Rumania.

(By The Associated Press.)

BUCHAREST, July 20. — King Ferdinand of Rumania, long failing in health, died at 2:15 o'clock this morning.

The monarch's long and courageous battle with the dread malady, cancer, came to a close at Chateau de Pilsbor at the Sinaia summer residence of the Rumanian royal family.

The end came with suddenness, but was peaceful in the extreme, the king closing his eyes calmly as if falling asleep. Members of the royal family were at his bedside.

Ferdinand's death had long been expected, and even the simple country folk, who loved him more as a kindly father, than as a king, knew the disease which he so courageously battled would be fatal.

Neutrality Desired
King Ferdinand ascended the Rumanian throne during the troublous times shortly after the outbreak of the World War when his country was greatly agitated regarding the position.

Dallas Buys Love Field As Airport

(By The Associated Press.)

DALLAS, July 20. —The city has just closed negotiations to purchase 160 acres of Love Field, as a municipal airport at $2,500 an acre. Love Field was one of the most modern and largest aviation training centers in the war. It is just a few miles outside the city proper.

W. S. Taylor, who came to Dallas county from South Carolina in 1866 bought the same land at $2.50 an acre. His children sold it for $300 to $400 an acre. Parker says the man from whom he bought it probably paid about 10 cents an acre for it.

Vacations In Texas Urged by Company

(By The Associated Press.)

SAN ANTONIO, July 20. — A "spend-your-vacation-in-Texas" campaign has been started by the officials of the Central Power and Light company with their headquarters here, who have taken the initial step by urging their own employees to enjoy their rest and recreation within the confines of the state.

"Because the executives of this company have spent their recreation periods in other years in places outside Texas and because they have come to know Texas as folk know their own communities, they are urging not only their own official family but Texans of all other callings to spend their resting days and their money as well inside Texas," says a statement from the company.

Both loyalty to the state and a reduced budget of expenses for vacation are given as the reason for the recommendation.

Purviance Tells Of Hospital At Rotary Luncheon

The Rotary club met in regular session today at the new Schneider hotel. The feature talk of the dinner was by Dr. W. Purviance, who spoke on the new hospital. Talks were made by visiting Rotarian Hawley S. McCall of Waco. Frank Erwin, visiting here from Dallas, also gave a short talk, as did J. D. Sugg, a new member of the club.

The members took a vote on the winner of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight tomorrow night, and Dempsey won by a large majority. Rotarian J. M. Dodson voted for a draw, but got no support.

Visitors at the dinner were Hawley S. McCall, Waco, Frank Erwin, Dallas, and W. F. Clausing, Pampa.

American Legion Plans Rodeo For Next Labor Day

The American legion is planning to have a rodeo in Pampa Labor Day, and at last night's meeting a committee was appointed to secure information and make plans for the event, which will last two days.

The members were also unanimous in their support of the Pampa Grays baseball club and intend taking a collection from the members to swell the tournament fund.

It was decided to assist the city in beautifying the block in which the new city hall and the Legion building are to be situated. The block will be cleaned up, grass planted and a fence built. A small park is being planned, with benches and trees at the rear and side of the proposed Legion and city hall.

Empire Starts First Six Gas Wells In Carson

Six gas wells to supply the Carson county extension of the 20-inch gas line centering here have been started by the Empire Gas and Fuel company.

They are located along the route of the pipeline extension, and are in sections 55, 23, 44, 49, 50, and 51, all of the I&GN survey.

Four other wells are planned, but the locations have not been definitely made.

The gas wells are on the big Burnett estate, which will receive a guarantee of $50,000 a year from the gas lease. During the first two years the gas will be paid for at the rate of 3 cents per thousand cubic feet, 3 1/2 cents the next two years; and ultimately the price will be 4 cents per thousand cubic feet.

The Empire company has the gas lease on the estate, but ground leases have been taken for a carbon black plant, an application for which has been filed at Austin.

Italians Sincere In Hunger Strike

BOSTON, July 20.—Nichola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti today gave evidence that they were in earnest in their hunger strike, now entering the fourth day, by refusing the offer of Warden Hendry of the state prison to change the menus of the meals set before them.

GRAYS SEE "CASEY"

Members of the Pampa Grays baseball club, in uniform, are the guests of Roy Sino at the Rex theatre this afternoon to see "Casey at the Bat".

It was expressed that Roy thought the boys needed to learn some of the finer points of baseball from Casey before they journeyed to Amarillo for the tournament which commences Sunday. Casey strikes out with the bases full but the members of the Grays don't do that.

BALLOTING ON ISSUE NEARLY IS UNANIMOUS

Ratio Is 100 to 1 On Water—216 Persons Vote

WORK TO START WITHIN 60 DAYS

Council Will Meet Tonight To Perfect Details

Pampa taxpayers yesterday went to the polls with a single thought—to provide water and sewer facilities for the city—and the result was a remarkable example of unanimity.

The vote on the three propositions was as follows:

1. For water extensions, 209; against, 2.
2. For sewer extensions, 212; against, 4.
3. For refunding bonds, 210; against, 3.

A total of 216 votes were cast, and only eight ballots were mutilated.

Voting was light up to 4 o'clock, but a late rush pushed the total above the 200-mark.

Tonight the city council will meet to canvass the election and go through the legal procedure of calling for bids and advertising the city work. City Engineer Doucette has practically all of the engineering specifications completed, and no delay is expected.

Several weeks ago the proposed bond issue was sold—conditional upon its passage—to the United States Bond company of Denver and Amarillo. The price was 6 per cent at par, and accrued interest. This company handled the $125,000 issue of public improvement warrants, which by the third election proposition were converted into long-term bonds. The warrants were accepted as issued and no delay was occasioned at any time.

Advertising for bids on the sewer and water extensions will require a month, and contracts likely will be let in the next 45 days. The funds from the bond issue will be available by that time.

Before the snow flies, the sewer and water extensions will be well toward completion. Work on the water mains will be started first, because cold weather would hinder this construction but will not affect the laying of the sewer and the building of the two new disposal plants.

Water improvements will cost $70,000 and sewer extensions $160,000.

Issuance of bonds is based upon new city valuations of more than $4,000,000, and bond buyers regard Pampa paper as the best obtainable in this area.

Deputy Lee Bañks made flying visits to McLean and Stinnett yesterday. He reports the new highway to Berger to be in excellent condition and the road from Berger to Stinnett under construction. Cars were having to be pulled through the river bed yesterday.

WOMAN OF 95 TO TOUR EUROPE BY AIRPLANE

LONDON, July 20. (AP) — Mrs. J. E. Henry of Lincoln, New Hampshire, just arrived in England from the United States, intends to make a tour of Europe by automobile and airplane despite the fact that she is 95 years old.

"Now I am here, I intend to search London thoroughly," Mrs. Henry said. "I love pictures and mean to explore all the galleries. Then I want to see the Tower of London, and tour the country in an automobile."

"After I have seen England I am going to fly across the English channel to Paris by airplane. From France I shall continue to Italy."

Otis Harlan

The decadence of the spoken drama can find its reason largely in Hollywood, Calif., for Hollywood contains the names of many who have been lured away from the legitimate stage to that of the celluloid. Among these there is none more prominent than Otis Harlan, who for thirty-three years was on the spoken stage, but who for the past seven years has cast his lot and his talents with the silent drama. Harlan made his debut in Hoyt's "A Hole-in-the-Ground" in 1897 and was a star with the Charles Hoyt comedies until 1919. Then followed other important engagements. He cast his lot with the screen in 1919 and has appeared in many notable pictures, the latest being "Abraham Lincoln," "Lightnin'" and "Three Bad Men." He has just finished "In Old Heidelberg" and at present is playing a stellar part in "Eternal Silence."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21, Senator Hiram Johnson was leading an uneventful life.

AT THAT time I was practicing law in Sacramento. I spent my days at my desk or at the courts, and when I got through work in the afternoon I went home and stayed until it was time to go to work again next morning.

"My real life began when I was given an opportunity to quit working for myself and began working for the people of the state," Hiram Johnson.

TODAY: Senator Johnson has been given the opportunity to work not only for the people of his native state, but for the people of the United States. He is one of our most famous and virile political leaders.

Johnson achieved his first celebrity when he moved out from the comparative confines of Sacramento to the greater spaces of San Francisco and was retained there as counsel for a group of citizens to prosecute graft scandals in the city. The case involved most city officials and many public utility corporations and Johnson secured the convictions he was after.

FOR THE GOOSE—

A SMALL injury is like a pimple—it only gets bad if you pick on it.

Go callin' on your rich friends on'y when you're invited, but drop in on your poor ones whenever you can find the time.

Actin' up in fronta your sister-in-law is sprinklin' chypre on the ocean.

FOR THE GANDER—

When you're out with a girl, never admire other girls. A woman might not be narrow-minded about them things, but she's seldom broad-minded enough to be tophheavy.

When you picked your winner, stich to her. Remember, you ain't at the races where it's good policy to pick an entry for second and third place.

Darkness Stops Oilers' Rampage Over Magnolia

In a decidedly lopsided game last night at the Magnolia park, the league leading Oilers beat the Magnolia nine by a 26 to 9 score. It was a case of too much Nichols.

Sadler started the game for the Magnolia team, and after having 16 runs scored off his delivery, J. Deavers took up the mound duty, but was hit freely.

At bat, the veteran Red McClendon was the big hitter with six safe wallops out of as many times at bat. Nichols was also hitting the ball.

The game was called at the end of the sixth on account of darkness.

Batteries: Oilers — Nichols and Middleton; Magnolia — Sadler, J. Deavers and Austin.

SPORT TALK

Every afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the Pampa Grays go out for practice and are fast becoming a smooth working machine, especially the Ruth-to-Weeks-to-Gober combination. Allred is looking better than ever on the mound and Red Galther has his big bat in working order.

Who has gotten the thrill of watching an auto polo match. The Pampa Grays ball club is sponsoring two fast games of auto polo at the park Saturday and Sunday afternoon. The two teams to play were the ones which provided the entertainment at Amarillo July 4. It is a game of thrills and dangers galore. The games will be called at 3:30 o'clock both afternoons.

The Grays will play the Clarendon team here Thursday afternoon and maybe Borger Friday afternoon. All the local team will be here for Thursday's game. Ketchum and Powers of Erick, Okla., are to report tomorrow as will Buffalo Hines, Lefty Fuller and Narrein from Borger.

The best the home run kings could do yesterday was Gehrig's three-bagger. Ruth got a single, but the long blows were missing.

Yesterday, John McGraw, veteran manager of the New York Giants, celebrated his 25th year as manager of that club. McGraw is the oldest manager in organized baseball, in time of service. Fans are wondering who will be next.

The Pampa Daily News and the Radio News stand will commence their big sport party at 6 o'clock Thursday night in front of the offices when the first preliminary will commence. The big fight is scheduled to commence at 8 o'clock, Pampa time.

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair is the only woman on the general program of the convention of the International Advertising Association being held in Denver.

TOMMY SEWELL

CHICAGO, July 22. (AP)—Plenty of pairs of brothers have paraded into the major leagues, but the Sewell family of Alabama is the first to put three sons under the big tent at the same time.

Tommy Sewell, 25, has come to the Chicago Cubs as a reserve third baseman, to share diamond honors with his brothers, Joe and Luke, shortstop and catcher, respectively, for the Cleveland Indians. All three brothers played on University of Alabama teams, and it was there that Tommy was spotted for the Cubs by Riggs Stephenson, Chicago outfielder, also an Alabama alumnus. Scouts have called Tommy a more finished player than his brothers were when they came to the majors.

UNITED CITY PASSES BONDS FOR ITS NEEDS

Yesterday's almost unanimous approval of the city bond issue was a remarkable tribute to the spirit which is building Pampa.

It appears that the provisions of the election were so clearly understood and the needs were so apparent that the local citizenship voted gladly for each of the three propositions. Such evidences of civic intelligence — which alone can bring about such unanimity — may be expected to attract wide attention throughout this section.

The story of Pampa is being told well in distant cities. No greater step could have been taken than that of providing adequate water and sewer facilities — prerequisites of a modern city.

Such unanimous recognition of the needs and opportunities of Pampa will be further manifested as time passes. A united city means a progressive city, and the Panhandle offers no better example than Pampa.

SALARY AMENDMENT IS BELIEVED IN ERROR

Advance predictions are that the amendments abolishing the county fee system and reforming the judiciary will pass in the election of August 1 unless they are overwhelmed in the opposition to the tax amendment, which would let down the bars for all kinds of revenue schemes.

A fourth amendment proposes "removing from the Constitution all limitations as to the amount of compensation of officers, the compensation and expenses of said officers to be as provided by law, and fixing the compensation of the governor, and providing that said amendment shall be effective on and after January 1, 1929, and not sooner."

Obviously, state officers are meant, or at least many persons were led to believe that was the meaning when the amendment was before the Legislature. Yet in section 30A of the amendment it says "all provisions of the present Constitution of Texas fixing or limiting the amount of salary or compensation of officers and members of the Legislature are hereby repealed."

In other words, the omission of the word "state" before the word "officers" above will prevent the amendment's covering many $2,000 a year men, such as state treasurer, comptroller, and others. Representative John F. Wallace asserts that to carry the meaning intended the amendment should have read "state officers and members of the Legislature."

The governor's salary can be raised to $10,000 because it is specifically mentioned. A maximum of $1,500 is set for the compensation of members of the Legislature, and may be paid them whether they meet or not. The raise in the governor's salary will be generally favored, as will adequate pay for legislators, although it will occur to some that pay should be scaled to days of service in any given year.

It is regrettable that the amendment should be defective, for it has desirable provisions. Yet the voters have the choice of defeating the proposal or passing it with incomplete provisions and no details as to the giving of salaries under the maximum set.

It appears very much like the Legislature needs a Marvin Jones to suggest corrections on proposed amendments.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON. — Exposure of new political scandals in Indiana, involving Governor Ed. Jackson, raises the question why, among the host of brilliant Hoosiers the state has produced, one or two of them couldn't have been persuaded to stay at home and clean up politics.

There is a growing feeling that an upheaval in Indiana is due, and that it will bring about new and better conditions in the state's political affairs.

A close friend of the late William Jennings Bryan recalls a hitherto unpublished story indicating what the Commoner thought of Indiana politics, even in his own party.

Bryan was campaigning for Wilson in 1916 and was working his way toward engagements in Ohio. He was besought to stop off in Indiana and speak once or twice there on behalf of the ticket.

"No," Bryan is said to have replied. "You're too rotten for me."

The number of "Bryan men" one still finds in Washington is surprisingly large. Old fellows, most of them, and veterans of all the Bryan campaigns. One and all, they still have faith in the departed leader and regret that there is none to take his place at the head of a united party.

Recent controversy over the credit for the Federal Reserve Act, which Colonel E. M. House appeared to claim for himself, which Senator Carter Glass sought to wrest from House, and which Samuel Untermyer tried to grab from both of them on behalf of ex-Senator Owen, meets with a grunt from a Bryan worshipper.

It was a Bryan congress that passed the act, says he, and a deciding majority waited for Bryan's approval before they would have anything to do with it.

HUNTING MOTIVES IS VERY POOR PASTIME

Hunting motives is a poor pastime, and it often leads to nowhere. To expect people to have a motive for every little word or act is ridiculous. Many a word is dropped carelessly and oftentimes the speaker little realizes the anguish that it may cause a listener.

A listening ear must discriminate. Comes the good old Associated Press today with a good example:

"Dallas—Women's age-old alleged preogative and proclivity to cry has been bolstered up a bit here. Persons living near a vacant house heard sobs and called the police, who found a young woman on the floor, crying aloud.

"There's nothing the matter," she sighed. "I just wanted to take a good cry to make myself feel better and I thought I wouldn't be disturbed here."

Explain it yourself; we give it up. Perhaps psychologists will connect the event with women's long suffering in other ages, and explain it as a fleeting reversion to type, during which the woman wished to shed tears for the burdens of her kind.

Silly? Well, maybe, but no more so than trying to find a motive or excuse for every whim of the human race.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

THE NIGHTMARE

IN MANY sections of the country it is customary for people subject to nightmare to sleep with a pair of scissors or a knife under the pillow as a preventive against the affliction. In some sections they will tell you that the nightmare is caused "by an evil spirit struggling with one."

This conception of nightmare as an evil spirit is a conception of primitive man and one which exists in the minds of primitive races today, as well as among the superstitions of the civilized peoples. And anyone who has ever experienced nightmare cannot wonder. Shakespeare, in a song in "King Lear," makes St. Withold say when he meets "the nightmare and her nine fold," "Arroint thee, witch! arroint thee!" and the first definition of nightmare given by the Century dictionary is "An incubus, or evil spirit that oppresses people during sleep." Some of us may be content to ascribe our nightmare to a poorly-made Welsh rabbit instead of a witch or an evil spirit but not so our ancestors or our more superstitious neighbors.

In folklore, then, the nightmare being a witch or an evil spirit, what is more potent to keep it away than a piece of cold iron which, as is well known, from the beginning of the iron age witches and evil spirits have abhorred and feared? The reason for the fear and abhorrence of iron by evil spirits has brought forth much discussion. The belief began when man first tried to work iron ore into a usable metal and from the superstition under consideration, and from numerous other current superstitions, we see that it has not entirely vanished.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21: Samuel Insull Was Edison's Secretary.

"AT ABOUT this time I was engaged as Mr. Edison's private secretary, a position I had long waited and strived for.

"I had to work in the office all day, and after the financial and business end and very often I would be with Mr. Edison at his laboratory most of the nights. We usually worked about four nights in seven. We seldom worked on Sunday nights but as a rule we were at it during most of Monday and Tuesday nights. By Wednesday night we were so exhausted through lack of sleep that we usually spent the night in bed.

"Thursday and Friday nights saw us busy again until well into the morning. I have known Edison to work night and day ten days on end. He seemed to be able to go without sleep as long as a camel can go without water.

"In the office I was expected to clean up the correspondence with Edison's laconic comments as a guide as to the character of the answer to make. It was a very common thing for Edison to write the words 'yes' or 'no' and this would be all I had on which to base my answer.—SAMUEL INSULL."

TODAY—Mr. Insull is head of the Commonwealth Edison company of Chicago, the largest power plant, it is said, for producing electricity in the world and is one of the greatest figures in the financial and business life of this country.

For a job on the side, Mr. Insull directs the destinies of the Chicago Civic Opera association, which is to the West what the Metropolitan Opera company is to the East.

Last December, Miss Wilson, described by her fiancée as a "Simple, unaffected little backwoods girl," who did not smoke, drink or dance (except square dances), came to New York. She made her home with the Stillmans and promptly decided that she should study to "keep up" with "Bud," then completing his senior year, with honors, at Princeton.

"It was all her idea," commented Young Stillman. "As a matter of fact, I love her just as she is. She is so unspoiled, so utterly sincere, so unworldly—I want to keep her that way. I never want her to be sophisticated in the sense that much abused word is used about girls nowadays. Still, if she wants to study mathematics and history and a bit of science, it's all right with me."

Miss Wilson did so desire, and more. Two women tutors called daily. To the "math, history and science" she added English, music and drawing, and studied longer hours than "Bud."

In the meantime, the country girl was transformed, as far as clothes were concerned, into a modern, fashionably dressed miss. But she lost none of her charm for "Bud."

The wedding will be in LaTouque, Quebec, and the honeymoon trip will take the young couple abroad. Afterward, they plan to take a little apartment near Columbia university's medical school. While "Bud" studies to become a physician "Lena" will cook and keep house.

When the young son of the family announced his intention of passing by the debutantes of New York to marry this girl of the north country, his parents, recently reconciled after divorce proceedings, offered no objection. New N. E. A. Head Prefers Teaching

(By The Associated Press.)

SEATTLE, July 20.—Named for an aunt who taught school for 40 years, Cornelia Storrs Adair, new president of the National Education association, declares she was never intended for any other profession save that of teaching.

Miss Adair, an English instructor in the Richmond, Va., junior high schools, has consistently refused to leave her class room to engage in other branches of pedagogy, preferring to remain in actual contact with the children in the schools. She is 41 years old.

While Miss Adair admits that the child she teaches today has greater freedom than the student of 20 years ago, she cannot see that it has had any harmful results.

"Children today are just as good and just as bad as their parents were," she said with her sunny Virginia smile. "We teachers instead of trying to control them as we used to, now try to point out to them how to control themselves."

"The tendency in education today is to bring out the individuality of the child, discover what talents are peculiar to it and develop them to the fullest extent."

"Contrary to the fears of some of our citizens, I don't believe we are getting too many frills in education, or too many outside activities. We need both classical and practical education and we seek to give to each student whatever course for which he or she may be most fitted."

"The association meetings are a great aid for learning through the educational practices of others, to avoid mistakes. While the association desires to better conditions for the teacher, our fundamental problem and interest is still the child."

OLD MR. MOON

OFF in the distance was the moon. It was a very enormous moon, too. Oh, yes, old Mr. Moon was looking his best.

"I'm in the best of health," he seemed to be saying. "Just see how I actually grow with health. In fact, I'm not a pale moon at all but a ruddy moon."

"I've color and they say that when a creature has color it means that that creature has lots of health."

"I almost look sunburned, too. You see I'm a golden-red moon, which makes me look both sunburned and

"Wouldn't it cause a commotion if some one should come up to the sky and hang out a sign over one of the clouds which would read:

"Bright Sky, M. D. Office hours from one to five and Sundays by appointment."

"Yes, it would be absurd and the poor doctor would have no patients."

"We might go to call on him to pass the time of day, or night as it were, but we would not want his sky pills if he had any, nor his sky tonic."

"I must explain why it doesn't mean anything because I am pale most of the time."

"To be pale is the moon's usual way and it doesn't mean anything like a sickness coming on any more than it means that I must add weight when I am only half a moon."

"I will get back to being a full moon in good time without having to eat fattening foods. Oh, yes, I'm a healthy moon all right."

Now the little girl spoke to her brother about touching the moon and her brother said that no one could touch the moon even though it seemed to be right on top of the hill, and even though it looked as though if one went to the top of the hill one could touch it. But he was willing to take her to the top of the hill to let her see for herself. And the little girl went with her brother.

"The moon seems to be touching that hill over yonder," she said.

"Oh, dear, how I do wish I could go and touch the moon. I would like to stroke Mr. Moon's face and perhaps if I stroked it with a feather Mr. Moon would grin and squirm as I do when my face is tickled by a feather. Oh, that would be a good joke."

Up to the top of the hill they climbed and when they got there Mr. Moon did not seem to be touching the hill at all.

In fact he was far off in the sky and yet it had not seemed as though they had seen him move.

"I can't tickle Mr. Moon's face," the little girl said, "for you were right, brother. I don't believe anyone can touch the moon."

Mr. Moon grinned to himself as the sky messengers came hurrying along to tell him what the little girl had said.

"Touch me," he said. "I should say not! I'm not proud or anything like that, but Mr. Moon is not a creature to be handled by humans. They might forget I was a moon and treat me as though I were an enormous ball or something of the sort."

"At any rate I'm not taking any chances. I'll smile at everyone, but I also say to everyone:

"Keep your distance! Keep your distance!"

"And I'll see that they do it, too!"

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

DIAMOND DUST DEADLY

THERE is a widespread belief to-day, not only among the ignorant, but among those "who ought to know better," that diamond dust, taken internally, is a deadly poison. The poisoners of the Middle Ages and after used diamond dust as an ingredient of their lethal draughts and every now and then today you will hear some one say: "Diamonds are poison if you swallow them." Sir Thomas Overbury was poisoned in the Tower in the reign of James I by being fed arsenic and diamond dust, and his death was sacrificed quite as much to the harmless dust of diamond as to the deadly arsenic. Not many years ago an attempt was made to poison the British resident at the court of the Galkwar of Baroda by means of a like mixture.

We find this belief in the poisonous qualities of the diamond taken internally extending far back in history. But also we find that the diamond was, paradoxical as it may seem, supposed to possess curative qualities of great value. Applied externally it was highly recommended as a cure for fevers.

The diamond gets its reputation as a cure and as a poison from the same fact—that of its resemblance to ice—ice that won't melt. This gave it the character among the ancients of a refrigerative stone of great potency. Applied externally it reduced the temperature and cured a fever; taken internally it froze the intestines and produced death. The first of these superstitions we have apparently lost; the second is still with us. The idea which endued the diamond with its refrigerative qualities is akin to that which produces the "doctrine of signatures" by which plants were supposed to indicate by their markings or structure their particular place in medicine.

FEATURES FROM OTHER LANDS

HINDENBURG'S PICTURE ON POSTAGE STAMPS

BERLIN (AP)—President Hindenburg will soon see his picture on millions of postage stamps. He will be the first German thus to be honored during his lifetime. Even William II was not depicted on postage stamps.

The Hindenburg stamps are to appear in connection with the festivities planned for the celebration of the soldier-president's eightieth birthday, October 2. They will be issued in denominations of 5, 10, and 20 pfennigs, but will be sold at double their face value and the difference turned over to charitable purposes.

Thus far the only portraits on German stamps have been those of Heinrich von Stephan, Germany's first postmaster-general, who in 1875 organized the world postal union, and political and cultural leaders of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries—Goethe, Schiller, Frederick the Great, Kant, Beethoven, Lessing, Leibnitz, Bach, and Durer.

BERLIN MERCHANT BECOMES PLAYWRIGHT

BERLIN (AP)—Dr. Louis Ravene, one of the most prominent industrialists in Berlin has become a playwright. His play, "Contemporaries," will be produced next autumn by the municipal theatre in Stettin.

Dr. Ravene belongs to one of the oldest firms of Berlin merchants, dealers in hardware. The firm was founded in 1775 by Jacob Ravene. Ravene's father, who died in 1879, was famous as one of the largest private collectors of paintings.

BERLIN FIREMEN CALLED TO CAPTURE SNAKE

BERLIN (AP)—A harmless ring snake caused a near-panic here and mobilized the fire department for its capture.

Pedestrians on a busy street saw a snake crawling along the roof of a house. The tenants, alarmed, anxiously watched its progress, and closed the windows and doors with panicky haste. But nobody dared to climb on the roof to catch it.

Someone thought the fire department would be a help. An alarm was turned in. The fire fighters bravely entered the skirmish, and after reaching the roof with the aid of a fire ladder, persuaded the snake to wind itself around a long pole. As the firemen were carrying it down the snake slipped off the stick and dropped some fifty feet onto pavement and was killed by the fall. It was then found that the whole battle had been waged against a harmless ring snake.

MISTAKES DIPLOMATS' WIVES FOR FILM "SUPERS"

BERLIN (AP)—Ladies of the diplomatic corps are much better disciplined than film "supers," in the opinion of Dr. Fritz Wendhausen, stage director for the Ufa Film corporation.

The Ufa recently invited the diplomatic corps to visit its outdoor studios at Neubabelsberg near Potsdam. Several scenes were "shot" for the special benefit of the diplomats, among them a mass scene.

Wendhausen was directing this scene. Finding a number of women standing in the way of the camera and thinking them to be "supers" who as usual had failed to heed his instructions, he "hauled them out." Timid and abashed the ladies thus accosted meekly took places Wendhausen assigned them.

Up rushed the publicity director, "For Heaven's sake," he whispered to Wendhausen, "what are you doing, using such rough language to these women? Don't you realize that they are the wives of diplomats?"

Wendhausen was flabbergasted for a moment, then observed calmly: "I just felt something was wrong. I never saw 'supers' mind so quickly. Our regular 'supers' are not nearly as well disciplined as these diplomats' wives."

EXPERTS SAY GRAPE-VINE IS OLDEST IN THE WORLD

BERLIN (AP)—Frau Katharina Ott of Oberludstadt, near Speyer, can boast of owning the oldest grape-vine in the world. Experts including Prof. M. Dade of Berlin, whose word is usually considered final on questions of this kind, believe that the grape vine was planted about 1500.

The stem of the grape-vine has a circumference of 47 inches. Its roots reach down 250 feet. Every year it bears luscious grapes.

The grape-vine formerly considered the oldest in the world is a Novara in Upper Italy.

BISHOPS OBJECT TO WOMEN'S FIELD DAY

BERLIN (AP)—Women athletes of Bavaria had a hard time arranging their annual field day.

At first Bavarian bishops interfered. They declared it was shameful for Christian women to show their legs before a mob of gawping males. Then Margarete Miller, a well-known Catholic writer, attacked the management, saying it was entirely under the domination of men.

Despite these protests the Bavarian State Athletic Federation stuck to its program, and the field day came off at Neuburg on the Danube as originally arranged.

YOUNG WOMAN LICENSED TO PRACTICE LAW

CLYDE WHEELLESS

DOUGLAS, Ga., July 20. (AP)—Clyde Wheelless, 21-year-old Georgia woman, has set a mark for ambitious young Portias to equal.

Two years ago, she began work as a stenographer in a law firm's offices. She liked the work so well, she took up the study of law and made such rapid progress that she was admitted to the bar last year.

She has just been admitted to the state supreme court, one of the youngest, if not the youngest, ever to be so licensed in Georgia. She still is associated with the same firm, specializing in corporation law, but expects eventually to hang up her own shingle.

Notorious Robbers Slain In Siberia

(By The Associated Press.)

BLAGOVESHENSK, Siberia, July 20.—Andrew the lame and Basil the strangler, leaders of robber bands that have terrorized a district nearly as large as the whole of Europe for years, have been caught and shot.

Their chief prey has been the gold diggers of the Aldan mines in northern Siberia. The bandits had posts established on all roads leading from the mines, whence they swooped down upon outbound miners. Their victims were robbed, strangled and hung up by the roadside.

The Aldan gold district, reported to be of fabulous wealth, was discovered about two years ago and attracted crowds of adventurers, who set out recklessly on a 500-mile trip through the trackless Siberian forests. The shortest route, during two months in summer, is 1,200 miles up the Lena river from Irkutsk, and from there 250 miles further on horseback.

Hundreds are reported to have been killed in the forests by wild beasts or by "hunghtuses" (bandits) but far more died from starvation. It is reported that out of parties originally numbering several hundred frequently only two or three reached their destination. The successful ones met with disappointment. There was plenty of gold, but no food, and the gold soon melted away in exchange or was seized by the robber bands.

REINDEER FORAGE

Likens, principal winter forage for Alaska's reindeer herds, may suffer tremendous damage from fire. The United States Biological Survey says that even under favorable conditions it may take 25 years or more for a renewal of lichen growth following fire.

Alaskan reindeer herds total 400,000 head. Biologists warn that increased herds depend upon continued maintenance of present forage crops.

EXPERIMENTERS SEEK PERFECT WATERMELON

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 19. (AP)—A quest for the perfect watermelon is nearing its conclusion in the division of plant industry of the Illinois department of agriculture.

The paragon of watermelons must have delicious flavor, be of marketable size, shape and conformation, with a rind which will withstand the strain of shipping, and it must have stamina to resist the disease known as watermelon wilt.

After several seasons of experiment experts have produced melons sweet enough, sound enough and of the right shape, but the only melon which resists wilt is a round one, and the public wants its watermelons elongated.

The wilt-proof variety is being crossed again with other varieties.

WHAT IS LIFE?

RIGHT living ranks first among the fine arts. But what is meant by the term life? The answer to this subtle and perplexing question has been the study of the ages. The interesting thing is that no person has as yet given a satisfactory definition of the word "life." Life is everywhere about us, yet we cannot see the thing itself. We only see its manifestations. Life is nearer to us than anything else in the world, and yet we cannot handle it. The most mysterious thing about it is that we cannot destroy it. Try however hard we will, we cannot destroy life. We might destroy the senses of touch, taste and hearing, and still that does not do away with life. We might to all appearances be dead, and yet death is only another form of life, for the body only passes off into other forms of existence.

While it is impossible to either explain, define or destroy life, we do know something of its origin. Life can only come from life. The rock is dead because it has no environment to which it is subject. It cannot communicate with the life that is about it. The tree, on the other hand, lives because it can come in contact with the world of nature that lies about it. It receives the necessary requisites for its life from the sun, the atmosphere and the soil. The bird rises still higher, because it can communicate with a larger environment. It possesses a life of consciousness. It has a world of its own. Man rises still higher because he has the capacities of a larger correspondence. The more perfect the correspondence the more perfect the life.

Life is also a wonderful development and the most important developing element is motive. If life has no definite and dominating purpose it will be very dull and dreary. If an all-controlling motive and a determining purpose make life effective, in terms of service to humanity, we shall have something to take away with us from this world when we die. And yet life itself courses through the realm of thought without a definition. We do not know what it is.

Good Cattle High, Hogs Also, While Lambs Are Lower

KANSAS CITY Stock Yards, July 20.—Good to choice fat cattle, whether grass or grain fed were in active demand Monday at fully steady prices. Medium and plainer classes were slightly lower. Butcher cattle and stockers and feeders were steady. Receipts, though not as large as expected, carried an unusually large per cent of grassers. Hog prices were in limited supply. Hog prices continued to advance. The market now is $1.50 above the low point in June. Lambs were 25 cents lower and sheep were fully steady.

Receipts today were 15,500 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, compared with 16,000 cattle, 7,500 hogs and 10,000 sheep a week ago, and 11,050 cattle, 8,250 hogs and 8,500 sheep a year ago.

Chicago had 26,000 cattle today, and the bulk of that run was in the fed classes assembled from the entire feeding area. Prices there were lower. Here the supply of fed cattle was moderate and the market for them and the better classes of grass steers held firm. Common and plain grass steers were 15 to 25 cents off, but the decline included only a small per cent of the total supply. No finished steers arrived. The best offered brought $12.50 to $13.25. Wintered Kansas steers sold at $10.50 to $12.25 and straight grassers showed an extreme price spread of $6.75 to $12.25. Texas cake fed steers brought $10 to $11.50. Cows and heifers were fully steady. Those showing dry feed were in limited supply. Choice mixed yearling were scarce. Veal calves were 50 cents lower.

Trade in stockers and feeders was fairly active at steady prices. Receipts were larger than on preceding Mondays and the movement will expand from now on.

The hog market is showing a steady upward movement. Prices were 15 to 25 cents higher than Saturday, 75 cents higher than a week ago, and $1.50 above the low point in June. Demand is urgent and it is probably that there will be a further advance. Today 140 to 230 pound hogs sold at $10, to $10.25; 230 to 260 pounds, $9.85 to $10.15; 260 to 300 pounds $9.50 to $10; packing hogs $7.50 to $8; stags $7.25 to $7.75, and stock hogs and pigs $10 to $10.75.

Sheep were steady and lambs 25 cents lower. Demand was active, the decline being the result of lower prices elsewhere. Western lambs sold at $13.75 to $14.10; natives $12.75 to $13.50; yearlings $10 to $10.50; weathers $7.25 to $8; ewes $5 to $6.50. Feeding lambs $11.50 to $12.50.

Demand for horses and mules is quiet as is usually the case at this season of the year. The fall trade will start in August.

Find Chewers Spread Disease In Tobacco

(By The Associated Press.)

LEXINGTON, Ky., July 19.—Workers who chew tobacco while weeding and transplanting tobacco may spread the disease known as mosaic or dry weather freckling, investigations by Dr. W. D. Valleau and E. M. Johnson, plant pathologists at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment station, reveal.

Should the chewing tobacco be infested the disease is spread easily, the pathologists point out. The virus has been found extremely resistant to drying, living in dry tobacco as long as 31 years.

Tests showed the disease rarely is developed in plant beds sowed and then not touched by man, whereas, when handled in the ordinary manner by men chewing infested tobacco the freckling spread rapidly.

DOES DEMPSEY PACK THE WALLOP TO BREAK SHARKEY'S DEFENSE?

BY ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, July 20. (AP)—It will be a battle between a 32-year-old ex-champion, survivor of the slugging school of pugilism, and a youth of 25, fast, crafty and hard-hitting, when Jack Dempsey starts his come-back against Jack Sharkey, July 21.

Dempsey is one of the last of the old "rock 'em and sock 'em" type of heavyweights, a two-fisted hitter whose attack has nearly always been his best defense. Sharkey is a product of the more modern school, a shifty, defensive boxer of the type best exemplified by the present wearer of the heavyweight crown, Gene Tunney.

Dempsey, the "Manassa mauler," has scored his biggest victories, such as those over Willard, Carpenter and Firpo, with a crushing, whirlwind attack that beat down his opponents before they had a chance to get their bearings. He carried the so-called "killer" instinct into the ring. Sharkey, on the other hand, started climbing the heavyweight scale chiefly because of his ruggedness and ability to thrive on punishment and to wear his opponent down with a persistent battering. Not until he applied the "crusher" to Jimmy Maloney in his fight did the Boston Lithuanian display a convincing knock-out punch.

Any analysis of the Dempsey-Sharkey bout amounts chiefly to this: Can Dempsey, granting he still packs the wallop, break through Sharkey's defense early and often enough to apply the finishing coup?

If not, the odds would appear nearly all in favor of Sharkey, whose youth and stamina, superior boxing ability, speed and craftier defense all figure to aid him in a long-drawn out battle. And Sharkey has demonstrated, at least against Maloney, that he carries some dynamite in his right hand.

Red Plane Wrecked Landing Near Bull

SHELBYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A Bluegrass bull is the latest addition to the perils of airplaning.

William Van Arsdall, of Harrodsburg, Ky., made an emergency landing in his bright red plane in the pasture of a farm near here. While he went for help, a bull grazing in the pasture sighted the machine and charged it.

When Van Arsdall returned he found wing-coverings and struts ripped and crooked. Strips of red cloth covered the ground and the fuselage and elevators of the plane were badly damaged.

New Dodge Four Fastest of Light New Automobiles

Several pages have turned recently in the history of Dodge Brothers, but what appears to be by all odds the most important is being revealed today.

The company is bringing out what it claims is the fastest line of four cylinder cars in America, entirely new in every way. Prices range at levels so far below those at which Dodge Brothers cars have always sold that the success of the new line seems assured from the start.

Dodge Brothers have been a major factor in the industry since their first car was built in 1914. The car became so popular that within an unthinkable short time the company's sales mounted to third in the industry. Less than six weeks ago Dodge Brothers brought out their remarkable new line of sizes and within a month had it established on a production basis equal to that of many large companies which have been making sixes for years.

But today's is probably the most remarkable announcement Dodge Brothers ever made—the fastest fours in America—priced to sell in tremendous volume.

Coming from Dodge Brothers this announcement is particularly significant. Dodge Brothers' reputation has been built around the dependability and rugged construction of its cars. Speed has never been a factor in their sale. Nor will it be made the paramount issue in the marketing of the new cars, it is said, although it is obviously a feature upon which the public will focus much attention.

Built with the distinctive beauty and completeness of appointment that characterizes custom-built cars, the new line is of the type that should sell readily on appearance as well as performance. The fact that the cars are capable of going 25 miles on a gallon of gasoline, at average touring speed, should also add greatly to their popularity.

Initial production will embrace three body types, a four-door sedan, a cabriolet roadster and a coupe. Only the sedan is available for delivery now but within a very short time the roadster and coupe will be in dealers' hands.

tion Rumania was to take in the conflict. During the first two months of the war, Rumania, under the rule of the late King Charles, it was charged, had been secretly aiding the Central Powers. Ferdinand took the oath as king upon the death of his uncle in October, 1914, and immediately announced that Rumania would remain neutral unless attacked.

During a speech from the throne in November, 1915, King Ferdinand was shouted down with cries of "Down with Hungary"; "Down with Germany"; "Down with the Hohenzollerns." This demonstration was taken as an indication of the government's sympathy in the conflict, Ferdinand and his predecessor having been princes of the house of Hohenzollern.

Joined the Allies

In August, 1916, the former German kaiser sent a letter to King Ferdinand informing him that it was his intention to send a special mission to Bucharest relative to Rumania's position. The king replied that such an act would be inopportune and since he was a constitutional monarch, he would be obliged to refer the envoy to his ministers. A few days later Rumania entered the conflict on the side of the Allies by declaring war against Austria. This action was believed to have resulted from the influence of Queen Marie, who was a princess royal of Great Britain and Ireland. The declaration by Rumania was followed almost immediately by Germany declaring war against Rumania.

With his troops at the front King Ferdinand's throne began to totter from intrigue charged against Rumanian politicians and German agents, who planned to dethrone the ruler and install a German prince in his place. There were even plots against the life of the king.

In Difficult Position

Rumania's position in the war was a difficult one and after nearly two years' fighting two-thirds of the country was overrun by the enemy.

OUT OUR WAY

—By Williams

The Rumanians, isolated and without outside support were obliged to accept drastic peace terms sent by Germany with an ultimatum that they be accepted in 24 hours. The collapse of the German army on the western front and the armistice, however, rendered the enforced treaty between Germany and Rumania ineffective.

Ferdinand Victor Albert Mainrad was born at Sigmaringen, August 24, 1865, the son of Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern and Antonia, Infanta of Portugal. He was educated in Germany and was an officer in the German army. He was created a prince of Rumania by royal decree in 1889 and the path was cleared for his ascension to the throne by a series of renunciations. The heir presumptive of King Charles was his elder brother, Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern-Sig-marigan, who renounced his rights in favor of his son, Prince Wilhelm. The latter in turn resigned his rights in favor of his younger brother, Ferdinand.

King Ferdinand achieved considerable notoriety before his marriage through a love affair with Mile. Helene Vacaresco, a favorite of the then queen of Rumania. When marriage between Ferdinand and Princess Marie, daughter of Alfred, Duke of Edinburgh and later Duke of Saxe-Coburg was talked of, it was said the Rumanian queen was much insensed and that Mile. Vacaresco felt it so keenly that she sent Ferdinand's love letters to Princess Marie. However he married the latter January 10, 1893.

The royal couple had six children, one of whom died in childhood. The others were Crown Prince Carol, born in 1893; Princess Elizabeth, born in 1894 and married in 1921 to King George of Greece; who afterward abdicated; Princess Marie, born in 1899 and married in 1922 to King Alexander of Yugoslavia; Prince Nicolas, born in 1903, and Princess Ileana, born in 1908.

Although he took the oath as king the day after the death of his uncle, King Charles, in 1914, King Ferdinand and his queen were not crowned until October 1922. The ceremonies took place at Alba Julia. On that occasion the crown used by the late King Charles again was pressed into service. It is made of steel from Turkish guns captured at Plevna in 1877.

The Amusu Bridge club voted to disband during the month of August. The next meeting will be held the First Tuesday in September.

American Bankers To Meet in Houston

HOUSTON, July 20.—Houston, proud of its selection as the meeting-place for the annual convention of the American Bankers association in October, plans to extend the open-hand hospitality, not only to its own limits, but of the entire southwest, to the visiting bankers when they arrive by train, boat and airplane from every corner of the United States.

The convention in Houston will have a double value to the nation's bankers, Mr. F. M. Law, vice-president of the First National bank and general Chairman of the convention committee of the Associated banks of Houston, thinks.

As usual there will be the personal contacts, new associations, new friends and the wealth of the information and ideas that can be gathered from the addresses and business meetings. Added to these will be the opportunity of viewing and studying at first hand a part of the country which is astounding the world by its swift, firm-striding growth.
