Panfork Opens to Record Youth Crowd Monday

The annual Youth Camp of the Panhandle and North Fork Baptist Association opened at Panfork Baptist Encampment northeast of Wellington with the largest enrollment in its history, 161 boys and girls. This will be followed by the Junior Girls Camp and the Junior Boys Camp, which will close the summer encampment program on July 28. The encampment opened this year to a remodeled and greatly enlarged camp grounds, the Rev. Allen B. Earnest, pastor of First Baptist Church, said. Much of this is in new recreational facilities for the boys and girls.

There is a newly reworked swimming pool, and a new lake, stocked with fish. A 9-hole miniature golf course was completed only Monday, the opening day.

"And we have the finest hiking area in the country," said Rev. Earnest.

A new ball field, to accommodate various types of games is used for the first time. There will be more improvements to come, the First Baptist pastor reveals.

"In the past we have used the Panfork Baptist Encampment only three weeks each year, for the summer camp programs. We hope to expand and open this for the use of other churches for their camping programs or retreats," Rev. Earnest continued.

Each of the three camps will close Thursday at noon, with the Youth Camp ending its activities July 14.

With the present group as an indicator, the 250 expected at each of the other camps may rise to 300, those in charge predict.

Bank Assets, Deposits Rise to New Mid-Season High Here

Assets of Collingsworth County's three banks have passed the $9 million mark to set an all-time mid-year high in local financial history.

The asset figure was $9,125,210.71 at the close of business on June 30 reported in a call to the Federal Reserve Bank and State Banking Commissioner.

This upsets the 1965 record figure of eight and one-half million just as it had exceeded the 1964 assets by more than a quarter of a million.

June 30, 1966 deposits followed the asset trend, reaching well above the eight and a quarter million mark, approximately half a million above deposits last year at this time and three quarters of a million higher than the 1964 figure.

The combined asset figure of $9,125,210.71 compares to $8,590,261.17 a year ago on June 30. Two years ago the figure was $8,249,107.45. Three years ago it was $7,408,796.59 and four years ago, $7,454,099.79.

Deposits this year are $8,348,768.26. A year ago they were $7,838,606.69; two years ago they were $7,515,367.60; three years ago the figure was $6,776,334.11 and four years ago it was $6,832,671.92.

Demand deposits on June 30 were $6,182,853.01.

A year ago they were $5,951,382.59, which is well above the $6,776,334.11 and four years ago it was $6,832,671.92.

Demand deposits on June 30 were $6,182,853.01.

A year ago they were $5,951,382.59, which is well above the demand deposit figure of five years ago.

Two years ago, demand deposits were $5,521,381.63.

This year's demand deposits—the working accounts of the banks' depositors—exceeding the six million dollar mark, reached that peak in spite of dry weather that cut the wheat crop approximately in half.

Loans and discounts on June 30 were $4,256,279.22. This is down somewhat from the loan figure of a year ago.

Undivided profits are up — $270,385.59 compared to $235,573.59 a year ago, $205,847.77 two years ago and $173,948.05 three years ago.

The increase in Collingsworth County's financial structure has been steady and continuous over the past decade. The June report to the Federal Reserve Bank and State Banking Commissioner always reflects the low point of the year financially for this part of the state, oriented as it is to a cotton-feed-wheat-livestock economy.

Congregation Votes

Baptists Hire Firm to Draw Plans

The congregation of First Baptist Church voted Sunday, July 10, to enter a contract with Bentley-Ray Associates of Corsicana to draw plans and specifications for the new church building.

Upon presentation of the plans, the congregation will then decide if the contract for construction will be awarded to this company, one of the largest builders of churches in the country, or put out for bids, said the Rev. Allen B. Earnest, pastor.

He said no date was set for the plans and specifications to be presented.

Members of the building committee have been in consultation with John Ray, partner in the company.

The plans will call for an expenditure of around $190,000, although that has not been set as a concrete amount, said Rev. Earnest. The sanctuary will seat 550 persons and the Sunday school facilities will accommodate approximately 450.

A building of contemporary design is called for, although it will not be as extreme as some in the area, said the pastor. The sanctuary will be of solid brick construction, the educational building of brick veneer. Everything will be on the ground floor.

Bentley-Ray Associates have built many churches in the Panhandle, Rev. Earnest continued. These include First Baptist at Childress, now under construction, and First Methodist and Church of Christ at Shamrock. Nineteen churches have been built by the firm in Amarillo, where it has a branch office, as well as churches at Stinnett, Pampa, and in Oklahoma.

The new First Baptist Church will be on 15th Street between Arlington and Belton, where almost an entire block was secured. The ground has been cleared of buildings.

C-C Publishes New Directory of Organizations

A directory of Collingsworth County organizations has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce, covering the various groups that function, their top officials and meeting dates.

Copies of the directory, which contains 128 entries, are available to persons needing them as long as the supply lasts, according to Mrs. Joe Bartlett, secretary in the C-C office.

The chamber of commerce compiled the information and the stencils were cut and the mimeograph work was done by Mrs. Bartlett.

The directory includes listings of churches, Department of Agriculture offices, veterans, civic and fraternal organizations, youth groups, social and community clubs, and government agencies, as well as other miscellaneous groups.

No One Hurt in Collision

A collision at the intersection of Floydada and Fourth streets Sunday morning, July 10, involved the cars driven by Mrs. A. C. Boverie and Henry McClure, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

He said damage to both vehicles would probably amount to $200.

No injuries were reported.

Burglars Take Guns From Steve Owens Friday

Burglars who entered Steve Owens businesses Friday night July 8, took merchandise valued at approximately $200, a long with $26 in cash, Sheriff John Rainey reported this week.

Entry was gained by prying off the lock of the back door on the east side of the building, according to the sheriff.

Three guns were taken, a 12 gauge shotgun, a .410 shotgun and a .22 rifle.

An undetermined amount of ammunition for a 12 gauge shotgun was taken also, Rainey said.

Davis on State FB Committee

L. A. Davis of Rolla is serving as a member of the Growth committee of the Texas Farm Bureau Federation, according to Dee Burba, manager of the Collingsworth office.

This committee will seek out information as to what members want the voting delegates to act on in the November state convention.

The growth committee will make recommendation to the state body as to new services which the members desire.

A recent survey, made in Collingsworth and other counties, and information obtained in this survey will be reviewed in a meeting of the growth committee in Waco in August.

Besides the services members thought the Farm Bureau should get into, members were questioned as to what they believe the costs of farm operation will be in 10 years, and other factors concerning agriculture.

Davis is first vice president of the county Farm Bureau this year.

Live-Fire Training on Hood's Sun-Seared Hills Awaits Guard

DALLAS.—Nearly 8,000 highly mobile Texas National Guardsmen move to Fort Hood Sunday, July 17 for the 49th Armored Division's Annual field training. The state's Lone Star Division will spend two weeks at the regular Army's sun-scorched training center whipping out a double-barreled mission.

Major General Luther E. Orrick of Wichita Falls, the 49th's commanding officer, outlined a round-the-clock schedule. Some phase of training will be going on every hour of the day and night. General Orrick said he expected the division to have "an excellent training period."

Lieutenant Colonel James McKnight, Fort Worth, the division's training officer, said night training exercises will be emphasized.

Among the units of the 49th participating in the summer maneuvers will be Wellington's Battery A, 2nd Battalion, 131st Artillery, commanded by Capt. James Chappell.

An advanced group will leave with the equipment Thursday and the remainder of the Battery will leave the Armory at noon Saturday.

Pfc. Ronnie Hartman left on Wednesday to attend the cooks and bakers school.

Veteran members of the 49th will devote their time to combat exercises. The tankers and infantrymen will combine into task forces for realistic live-fire training tests.

Col. McKnight said two of the division's three brigades, five artillery battalions and the engineer battalion will move from home stations directly to the rough, hilly terrain that makes up Ft. Hood's famous armored maneuver

Can Make "Fair Crop"

Guar Can Be Planted on Feed, Cotton Land Under New Ruling

Farmers who have failed to get cotton or feed grains planted due to the dry weather can still plant guar and harvest a crop.

This information was relayed by Lester E. Brooks, who represents Stein, Hall & Co. Inc., of Chillicothe, a major guar buyer, while on a visit to Wellington Tuesday, July 12.

Mr. Brooks explained that the Department of Agriculture has changed the wording of the rule regarding cotton and feed acres to permit the planting and harvesting of crops that are not under marketing quotas. This will not affect the program payments of the farm, however, the operator must go to the ASCS office and establish the fact that he had made every effort to get a cotton or feed grain crop up.

Guar is a proven crop in Collingsworth, Brooks reminded.

There is yet time to produce a fair crop of guar beans if the seed is planted this week, he said.

"And remember, guar is the supreme soil builder. It pays its way in benefits to succeeding crops. The cash you receive for the guar beans is clear profit," Brooks reminded.

"Industry needs the beans. You need the cash, the soil needs the benefits," he declared.

He pointed out that guar planted at this time will not produce a bean crop equal to that planted at the normal time, but a fair yield can be expected.

Church Men to Hear Patrolman

Highway Patrolman Estes A. Nelson of the Highway Safety Department, a member of First Baptist Church of Childress, will be the speaker at the Methodist Men's regular meeting at Trinity Methodist Church July 19 at 8 p.m.

Approximately 50 girls are expected to participate and the camp will be held in its usual location, the Willie Smith farm on Buck Creek southwest of Wellington.

Buses will pick up the girls at Elementary school at 7 a.m. and return them at 11 on

Donna Allred Joins Tech Group for Study at San Luis Potosi, Mexico

LUBBOCK.—A group of 54 Texas Tech students will spend the second summer term in Mexico studying the Spanish language, the history, literature and culture of Mexico.

One of these is Donna Allred of Wellington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allred.

Individual members of the party assembled Tuesday, July 12 in San Antonio, traveling from there by train to San Luis Potosi where headquarters for the field course has been set up under the direction of Foreign Languages Department Head Harley D. Oberhelman and Language Professor Dr. Scottie Mae Tucker.

The special course of study is designed to perfect the students' fluency in Spanish and to explore various phases of Hispanic and pre-Hispanic civilization, Dr. Oberhelman explained.

Class members will speak Spanish only during their stay in Mexico. They will be lodged in a hotel in San Luis Potosi and during the week will attend class, visit places of interest in and near the city and will be given an opportunity to attend operas, concerts, plays, lectures, exhibitions and bull-fights.

Early in August they will visit Mexico City. They will return to Texas Aug. 20.

The field course, offered in alternate years by Tech, may be taken for six hours of advanced undergraduate or graduate credit. This will be the 16th field course in the program inaugurated more than 30 years ago, Dr. Oberhelman noted, making it one of the oldest programs of its type in U. S. college curriculums.

Miss Allred said that upon their return from Mexico City, the Tech students will live in homes in San Luis Potosi, to better learn the everyday ways of Mexico.

She also will visit with the wife of the Mexican vice consul in Lubbock who will be visiting in Mexico.

Miss Allred, a junior foreign language major in the school of Arts and Sciences, was on the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester of 1966.

National Knitting Contest Will Be Part of Collingsworth County Fair

To keep the fashion ball rolling in 1966, it's hand-knitted and hand-crocheted fashions. So whether knacky needlers are using their fingers to turn yarn and needles into au courant apparel or newly popular afghans, they'll have the opportunity to turn these talents into possible recognition by competing with other needlework enthusiasts in the 1966 National Wool Needlework Contest, which will be included again in the Collingsworth County Fair.

Now in its fourth successive year as a result of the enthusiastic interest it has engendered among knitters and crocheters from Maine to Alaska, the contest continues to be co-sponsored by the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association and the American Wool Council.

Conducted initially through state, local and county fairs throughout the country where entries must be made first for preliminary judging, the contest will culminate in a national judging held in New York in December. At this time a panel of nationally recognized fashion and needlework experts will select the grand national champion as well as other national winners.

Open to all non-professional needleworkers, the contest offers six different categories for entry, three each for knitting and crocheting. These categories include afghans, sweaters, and three-piece baby sets. First prize blue ribbon winners at the participating fairs in each of these six categories then become eligible to submit their winning designs for the national judging.

At this final judging, first, second and third place winners will be chosen in each category and the grand national champion will then be selected from among the six first place national blue ribbon winners.

The grand national winner will receive a cash award of $1,000, a trip to New York for two including a three-day stay and a special engraved silver trophy. Other national winners will also receive appropriate ribbons and cash awards.

Get Bagworms in Early Stage

COLLEGE STATION.—Bagworm damage to evergreens such as arbovitae, cedar and evergreen species is being reported from many areas in Texas.

Phil Hamman, Extension entomologist, Texas A&M University, says evergreens should be watched carefully at this time of year, especially if old worm bags are found on the twigs. Wingless females crawl out and die after laying eggs inside the bag. In this case, each bag may contain hundreds of eggs which hatch into tiny larvae, he explains.

The newly-born larvae immediately start to make bags by chewing off small pieces of the tree. Young worms carry the bags wherever they go. The larvae can be killed with insecticides applied when the bagworms are still small.

Chemical controls are ineffective when worms are full grown.

Chemicals suggested as controls include sprays or dusts of Toxaphene, Sevin or Malathion. Directions on the container should be followed carefully, the Texas A&M entomologist emphasizes.

If control measures are initiated too late, hand pick and burn the bags, because the worm goes through the winter in the egg stage within the bag, said Hamman.

Mrs. John Beauchamp and Drake of Dallas are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Drake.

Hundred and Thirty Attend Annual Childress Family Reunion July 9-10

Approximately 130 relatives, with widely scattered homes, gathered Saturday and Sunday, July 9 and 10 at the VFW building in Wellington for the annual Childress family reunion.

The group enjoyed four meals together between Saturday morning and Sunday afternoon. On Sunday morning an informal church service was held with scripture reading and prayer.

New officers, elected at the reunion, are Loy Lewis of Plains, president; Nova Roach of Denton, vice president; Mrs. Loy Lewis, secretary; and Craig Lewis, chaplain.

The 1967 reunion will be held in Wellington again, on July 8 and 9.

Almost all of the reunion visitors are Texans, but they came from such widely scattered cities as El Paso, Houston and Brownsville. One group of out-of-staters attended from Wichita, Kan.

Three of the original members of the Childress family were present. Mrs. Joe Self of Shamrock, 82, and her brothers, Will Childress of Brownsville, 78, and Joe Childress of Wellington, 80.

The youngest reunion visitor was Cindy Tooms, 3-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Tooms of Borger.

Mrs. W. M. Horton Entertains Friends

Mrs. W. M. Horton was hostess to a number of relatives and friends during the July 4 week end.

Fertilizer Use Down in Texas

COLLEGE STATION.—Fertilizer tonnage purchased in Texas during the spring planting months of March and April was down compared to the same period last year.

Total for the two-month period was 264,594 tons, compared to 306,646 tons used in the same period in 1965, according to C. D. Welch, Extension soil chemist at Texas A&M University.

Reduced cotton acreage allotments and a lag between sales and reporting the sales, account partially for the lower tonnage figure, explains Welch.

Patriot's Will Aids Tree Trend

WEST COLUMBIA. — The wishes of James Stephen Hogg, Texas first native governor, that wild nuts be planted to perpetuate native Texas trees, is being honored through pecans harvested from the Varner-Hogg Plantation State Park near here.

Thousands of pounds of pecans, both native and shelled, have been retained at the park to be distributed to visitors in keeping with Governor Hogg's written wishes in his own will filed after his death in 1906: "Let my children plant at the head of my grave a pecan tree and at my feet an old-fashioned walnut tree. And when these trees shall bear, let the pecans and walnuts be given out among the plain people so that they may plant them and make Texas a land of trees."

Visitors receive a small plastic container bearing the late Governor's request and six pecans, comprising two native varieties and one each of Stuart, James, Frotcher and Monty.

Superintendent Joe Cariker said the 150 pecan trees on the 53-acre tract bore a substantial crop last fall. He said some of the trees date back to as early as 1920.

The giant trees, with their massive summer shade, provide a forested setting for the restored plantation home, containing rare furnishings dating back to the ante-bellum period.

The estate, easily accessible on West Columbia outskirts, after the former governor's death was donated to the state by Miss Ima Hogg with an endowment designed "to perpetuate an appreciation of the simple, industrious and sometimes elegant life of the early settlers of Texas."

It is considered the historic showplace of the state parks system. Admission is on Saturdays, Sundays, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Visiting Mrs. J. L. Hays and Larlu the past week end were Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Biter, Joe Jan, Vernon and Jimmy of Wichita Falls, Miss Merle Hays of Wichita Falls, Miss Myra Hays of Plainview, Mrs. Emmett Thornton, Darla and Doyle of Uebelo, Colo., and Miss Barbara Pollard of Odessa.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thompson and Mrs. Emory Hunter and son, Steve, are in Amarillo visiting their granddaughter and niece and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Beam and family.

Miss Mickey Ann Kendrick visited this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Babe Walberg of Happy.

Social Discipline Guidelines Needed

A University of California psychologist has made an extensive study of parental discipline and its results. The findings offer some guidelines that might be useful not only to families but to society as a whole.

They show that parents who were firm but affectionate reared happier, more successful youngsters. Parents who got the best results most often were those who laid down clear rules of conduct for their children and enforced them consistently.

It was found that children from such homes were much more likely to develop what the psychologist termed a strong feeling of self-esteem. And children most successful in school and at play were found to be those who had such a feeling.

Typically, the parents of these children emphasized rewards rather than punishment to guide their children's behavior, and their disciplinary methods worked nine-tenths of the time.

Children from strict homes felt whatever punishment they had received was usually deserved. Those from easy-going homes felt their disciplining was usually unfair.

Children of firm parents also said they experienced greater feelings of closeness and affection for their parents than those of lenient parents.

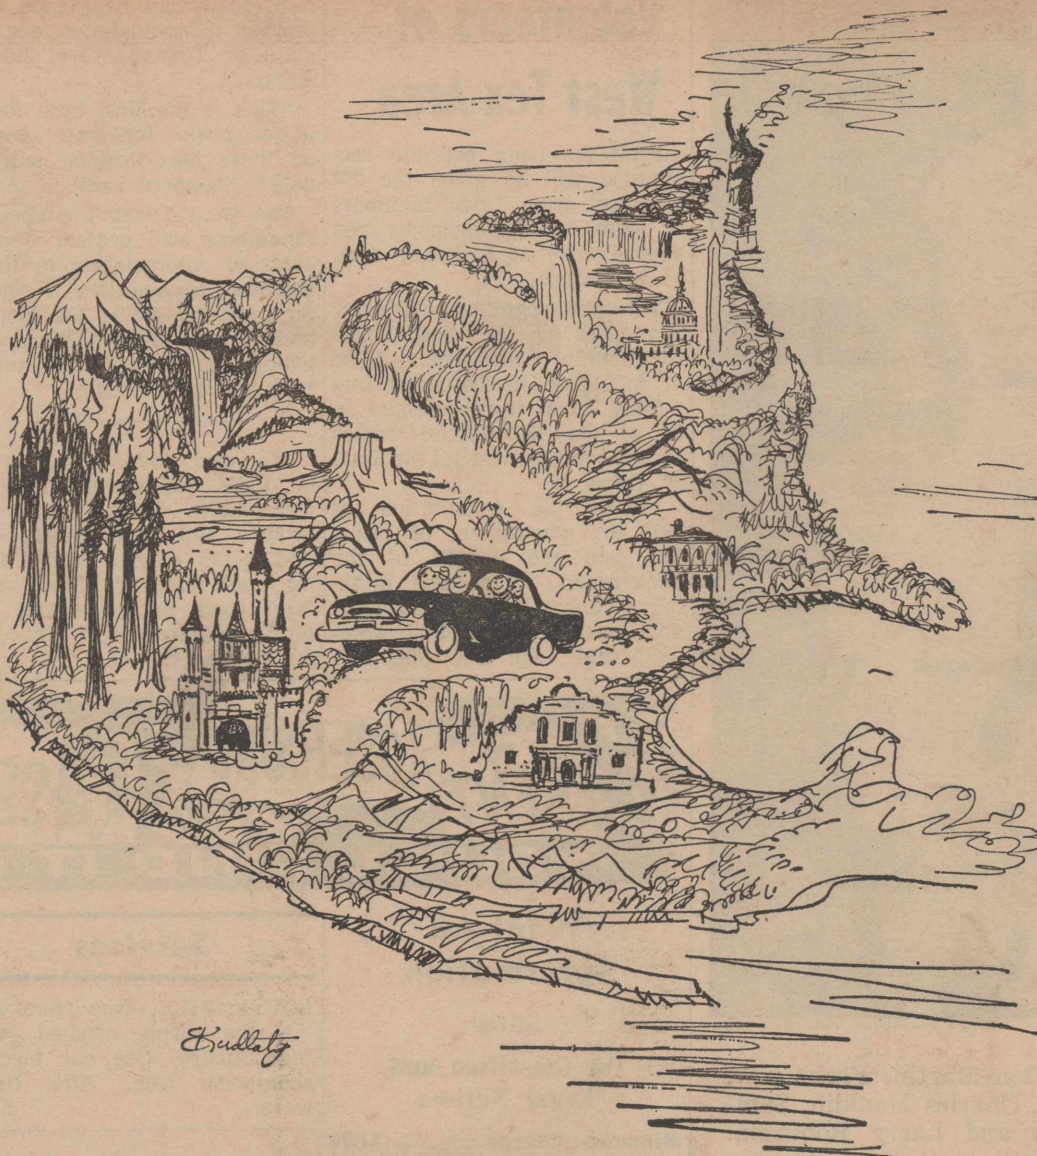

The parental application of this knowledge is obvious. It can be projected to our entire society, however, with even greater benefit.

Its application on that level would be in the form of clear laws consistently enforced and clear moral values firmly endorsed plainly and frequently. This should help immensely to spread happiness and success, especially if the opportunities open to those adhering to these legal and moral principles were emphasized more than the penalties awaiting those rebelling against them.

Among the worst faults of modern society are: It doesn't expect enough of its individual members, give them enough responsibility for their own success or failure. It doesn't speak clearly enough concerning what it does expect of them. It doesn't convince them that it means business in what it speaks, with respect both to rewards and punishment. And it fails to persuade them that what it expects is something that would be to their individual good as well as to that of society, or mankind, collectively.

Don't Go To Strangers

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW:

By Roger W. Babson

There is mounting concern in our country and elsewhere because we are failing to meet the food needs of all the 3.4 billion people living on the earth. If we cannot meet those needs now, how shall we feed the 4.6 billion people expected to be on this planet by 1980?

Population Control

Right now, the worst of the hunger problem appears to be centered in India, though there is good reason to believe that many of the 700 million people of mainland China are also seriously undernourished.

The immediate task in India is to get foodstuffs to the affected areas in quantities large enough to sustain the lives of the hungry. Apart from that, there are other long-range efforts being made to meet the world's food requirements. One of these is in the field of population control.

Birth control and family planning have been gaining acceptance gradually. As a result, birth rates are falling in such places as Hong Kong, South Korea, Singapore, and Taiwan. Also, the initial benefits of population control are expected to be felt in India and Pakistan soon.

However, it will be a long time before population control really cuts back births (not birth rates alone) to more manageable proportions. It is not likely that a stationary world population can be achieved in our time ... barring widespread famine or pestilence, or large-scale nuclear war.

Increased Crop Yields

In addition to population control programs, governments the world over are hoping to conquer famine and/or improve the health of their peoples by boosting crop yields. Underdeveloped nations must, of course, make new land tracts available for crop planting. But this alone will not supply the needs of the population upsurge that is expected.

Expanded crop yields will be a slow attainment. Lack of funds, lack of experts with necessary agricultural know-how, lack of education, and lack of incentives to persuade land owners to co-operate—all these will hamper and delay the effort to boost crop yields.

Wheat Reserves Are Shrinking

The need for increased crop yields is by no means centered in the overpopulated areas of Asia and Latin America. It is found also in other areas of the world that, by contrast, are more fully developed. It is found even in parts of Europe itself, and especially in the Soviet Union which is already hard put to feed its own growing population properly.

Moreover, this need for increased crop yields is becoming more insistent as world wheat reserves shrink. When the final figures are in for the crop year now ending, it will be found that use of U.S. wheat for domestic and export demand has set another new record. As world food needs intensify, the U.S., Canada, Australia, and other large wheat producers will see their wheat output moving over

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where Senator Dodd is in trouble because some people he fired for excessive office romancing got peeved at him and swiped a batch of documents from his personal files and published same.

My fink-feathered neighbor says this will teach other lawmakers to be mighty careful about trying to monitor the morals of their secretaries and assistants.

Says he reckons that a man in Congress will just have to quit hiring anybody who hasn't got a shady past which he can hold over them to keep them from selling out his professional secrets.

News is that college graduates these days are mighty reluctant to take jobs in business, on the grounds that's not where the Action is any more.

And it could be they have been looking at Poverty War payroll figures and decided that business is not where the most money is now.

My realistic neighbor says there may not be much Social Action in business, but there wouldn't be any action anywhere else, either, if business wasn't around to finance it.

News is that a club of people who don't much want the Grand Canyon to be dammed up have been warned if they don't quit talking against this progressive move, their taxes will be raised.

My anti-dam neighbor says he has noticed how society outcasts all dam demurrers, but hadn't realized that being dam-doubtful is apt to get the Revenuers after you too.

Says it's OK nowadays to be against Motherhood, or the Flag, or God, but being against a Dam is the unpardonable sin under the New Social Gospel which teaches that every ditch has got to be dammed.

The papers say Thailand is fixing to send some Peace Corps volunteers to the U.S. Which is a development our public squanderers likely didn't foresee when they invented the Peace Corps.

My reasonable neighbor says though, if we are going to send missionaries to sell our way of life, it's only fair that other countries try to sell us on the way they live.

Like Ghanarea, or some such country, may decide to send its Peace Corps volunteers to teach us how to cut down on our high cost of living, by spearing our own meat as it drives past our front door.

Committees Work on Auto Safety & Water

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — Congressman Walter Rogers this week faces an intensive schedule of committee activity and deliberations by the full House of Representatives on key legislative proposals.

The House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, on which Congressman Rogers serves as ranking majority member, resumes executive sessions to make final decisions on the so-called auto safety bill. Congressman Rogers predicts that committee action on the highly-publicized and controversial legislation will be completed by July 20, with debate by the full House to follow shortly thereafter.

Congressman Rogers said the Committee can be expected to recommend a bill that is "fair, effective, and reasonable—and with teeth in it."

Meanwhile, the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs will meet Wednesday to deliberate provisions of the Lower Colorado River Basin Project Act, a measure recommended to the full Committee by its Subcommittee on Irrigation and Reclamation of which Congressman Rogers is chairman.

Congressman Rogers had led the fight to include West Texas in planning provisions of the Lower Colorado measure. "I am very optimistic that the full Committee will agree to including the Texas Panhandle and High Plains area as planning is undertaken by the Act to make further distribution of Western and Southwestern water resources," he said.

Scheduled for a vote in the full House of Representatives this week is the Foreign Assistance Authorization Act of 1966 — the authorization bill for the foreign aid program in the coming fiscal year. Congressman Rogers has always opposed U.S. foreign aid as having failed to prove successful in attaining goals set for it. He said he would again vote against the foreign aid program and the appropriation measure to fund its operation.

Also scheduled for House action is the final House-Senate agreement on military procurement authorizations for the coming year.

Easy Chair State Tour in P&WD Magazine

AUSTIN.—The July issue of Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine, a recent national award winner among conservation magazines, is now available. A publication of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the full-color magazine is issued monthly.

Articles in the new issue cover a range of topics from camping to dramatic productions, and span the State from the Gulf Coast and East Texas to the Panhandle and Big Bend. Full-color art and photographs illustrate each item.

Vacation planners may read about the asset of Martin Dies Jr. State Park, located on the edge of the Big Thicket of East Texas, in this issue of the magazine. Boating, fishing, hiking, swimming and water skiing are some of the activities described. Modern camping facilities make the rough-hewn beauty of this piney woods playground even more enjoyable.

To escape civilization completely, delve into the story of a hiking trip in the Chisos Mountains. Some of the state's highest terrain is located in this section of the Big Bend country. You'll be breathless, both literally and figuratively, after scrambling up a tall peak with the author to view the isolated grandeur of the region.

Also featured in the July issue is Sea-Arama, the new ocean showcase of Galveston.

Sea-Arama boasts an oceanarium and large aquarium tanks where ferocious piranhas, 300-lb. turtles, seahorses, treacherous moray eels, and many other marine animals can be viewed. Dolphins entertain visitors with games and races performed in an outdoor amphitheatre.

Far removed from the sea, another performance in an outdoor amphitheatre is now underway. Against a backdrop of mountains and black velvet evening sky, "Texas", a drama of man's struggle for existence in a hostile environment, is being presented by Pioneer Theater. The Palo Duro Canyon State Park in West Texas is the site of the production.

Other features in the magazine include an editorial on resource patriotism, a colorful story of the dangerous copperhead snake, and an article on deer movement. Regular monthly columns cover guns, fishing tackle, outdoor books, junior sportsman information, and other topics.

Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine is available by subscription only. Rates are $2 for one year, $3 for two years, and $5 for five years. Additional information can be obtained by writing the magazine, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

Texas Must Take Lead In World Agriculture

COLLEGE STATION.—About 175 Texas agricultural leaders and Texas A&M University College of Agriculture staff members met to begin a study of the state's farming and ranching industry.

The session was the Agricultural Study Convocation, a project requested by the A&M board of directors because of the importance of agriculture to the Texas economy, its increasing complexity, and the state-wide responsibility of A&M to the industry.

Nationally known authorities spoke at the meeting and suggested various approaches for study.

A. E. Cascino, vice president of sales of International Minerals, Inc., in Illinois, said the study should be aware of the "great transition" underway internationally. The U.S. has operated in an economy dominated by agricultural surpluses.

if it is to help feed the world, it must learn to live with the world shift to a food-deficient economy.

"The most important thing is to get rid of provincial interests and bias," Cascino said. "You can't think entirely as citizens of Texas or of the United States. There are no political boundaries. You are citizens of the world, producing food for the world."

F. R. Wilcox of the American Arbitration Association at Pasadena, Calif., said farm people can no longer leave the merchandising of their products to other persons.

"Through group action of various kinds, producers will find it necessary to advertise and merchandise to the extent of expenditures which, in some instances, will be as much as 10 to 20 percent of the wholesale price," he said.

H. C. Heldenfels of Corpus Christi, president of the A&M board of directors, said the convocation could be the most important planning effort ever made by the university.

He said if Texas is to remain an agricultural leader, it must use advanced technology and management, develop enterprises which have advantages over those of other states, and encourage in-state, out-of-state and world markets for its products.

W. H. Lynch of Dallas, president of the Texas Power and Light Company, said nothing is more important than research in agriculture, and nothing is more profitable.

The problem "seems to be one of enlisting the interest and support of the local people, of showing what can be accomplished and of laying the ground work for the rather substantial financial program necessary to put the lands in a suitable condition for high productivity," he said.

The Provost for Agriculture of the University of Florida, E. T. York said that land-grant universities, such as Texas A&M, should seek help from other sections of the university instead of leaving the job entirely to the college of agriculture.

His talk centered on mobilizing resources of a land-grant university to support a dynamic agricultural industry.

"I would suggest very strongly that we need to mobilize resources within the university, but outside the college of agriculture, to assist with many problems which go beyond the problems of agricultural technology," he said. "I should emphasize the fact that while some of these problems are peculiar to agriculture, many others are problems of a total society which are merely shared by agriculture."

A&M President Earl Rudder said an internal study by the university's College of Agriculture staff members has just been completed as a possible reference for the external study group. The external study should be finished late this year.

Change Made in Federal Gas Tax Refunds

Farmers and ranchmen will not file a claim for refund of Federal tax on gasoline used on their farm and/or ranch as they have done in past years. Instead, the refund on Federal tax on gasoline used on or after July 1, 1965, must be claimed as a credit on their annual income tax return, County Agent Sam Helmers said.

This credit will first be taken on the return for the first full tax year beginning after June 30, 1965. If the return is filed on a calendar year basis, the credit for gasoline tax refund taken on their 1966 return will include the tax on gasoline used in the period from July 1, 1965, through Dec. 31, 1966.

The refund is claimed as a credit in a manner similar to the credit for tax withheld on wages.

AVERAGE TRUCK MILES

The average intercity tractor trailer travels more than 50,000 miles a year. The average passenger automobile goes only about 10,000 miles a year.

Kiwanians Hear of Club Work in Europe

Kiwanis International took another step in its program of international extension this spring as representatives from the twenty-four Kiwanis clubs in Western Europe met in Vienna, Austria, recently to plan and discuss the eventual federation of the service organizations on the Continent.

News of the gathering was received here by John Holton, president of the Kiwanis Club of Wellington.

The two-day session, held at the Vienna Intercontinental Hotel, was under the direction of Dr. Werner Bartschi-Rochaix, Bern, Switzerland, President of the European Commission of Kiwanis Clubs.

The president of Kiwanis International, Edward C. Keefe, Oklahoma City, Okla., presided over the conference. He was joined by two Kiwanis International trustees, Harold M. Heimbaugh, Los Angeles, Cal.,

and Jack Willis, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Kiwanis clubs sending representatives to Vienna included: Salzburg and Wien, Austria; Brussels, Brussels-Toison d'Or, Charleroi-Ellipse, and Liege, Belgium; Metz and Paris, France; Frankfurt/Main and Bonn, Germany; Amsterdam, Holland; Reykjavik-Katla and Reykjavik-Hekla, Iceland; Oslo, Norway; Drammen, Kolbotn; and Basel, Bern, Geneva, Lugano, Luzern, Neuchatel, St. Gallen, Thun and Zurich, Switzerland.

Twelve of these 24 European clubs were chartered by President Keefe and Trustees Heimbaugh and Willis prior to or following the conference.

Kiwanis is now established in eight Western European countries. The first club was chartered in Vienna in May of 1963.

Kiwanis International is relatively new outside the United States and Canada. Delegates to the organization's 46th annual convention in 1961 adopted a resolution favoring expansion into other countries. This policy was implemented in 1962 with the establishment of the Kiwanis Club of Tijuana,

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

After some frustration and several telephone calls, we think we are on our way to Boston. Originally we were scheduled to fly TWA from Oklahoma City to Boston; but this happened to be one of the major lines affected by the machinists strike. Now we have passage on American Air Lines out of Dallas.

This strike of one small branch of the workers that has paralyzed 60 per cent of the air traffic in the nation causes you to wonder about what we have done to the passenger service of the railroads by undue government regulations while subsidizing shipping on the seas and waterways as well as air travel and mail service. One reason Hitler lost in World War II was that he forgot about the importance of railways while concentrating on his autobahns.

I have come across a scientific explanation of why it is so unseasonably hot in New York and the New England states this year. The mighty Gulf Stream has changed its course. In most years it turns east at Cape Hatteras on its way to the Azores where it divides with one major stream turning southeast to warm France and Spain. The southern part of Spain is as far north as New York and France is as far north as Quebec and southern Ontario while Great Britain is as far north as the northernmost tip of Labrador and the middle of Hudson Bay.

It is the Gulf Stream that keep all of these countries from being frozen wastes. This year instead of turning east at Cape Hatteras it is flowing on north to within 40 miles of the New England coast. After that it turns again to the southeast to resume its normal course in the mid-Atlantic.

The Gulf Stream is formed by the prevailing winds from the southeast piling up water in the Gulf of Mexico until it becomes higher than the level of the Atlantic Ocean. With the continuous pressure of the winds there is only one way for this gigantic ocean current to go and that is between Florida and Cuba. There the warm water from the Caribbean and the Gulf pours forth in a gigantic ocean river that discharges six billion gallons of water a second. It is estimated that the flow is 22 times larger than all the land rivers in the world.

Paul Spillman, the Baylor basketball star of two decades ago, was out in his pea patch with his son Bill picking peas and occasionally pulling up weeds. When his son was unable to pull up a giant careless weed, Paul said: "Here, let a man do a man's work." He took hold, gave a tremendous jerk on the giant weed. Now he walks rather stiffly with his side all taped up due to a rib separation.

Managers of swimming pools in Chicago have ruled that boys with long hair must wear swimming caps before they can enter the pool. A sign at a swimming pool in California makes more sense. It says: "Men with long hair prohibited."

Trio Completes Drawing Class

Judy K. Jones, Ann Smith, and Joey Manuel have completed a two-weeks' course in art and drawing conducted by Dr. Bruce McIntyre of Santa Anna, Calif. Dr. McIntyre is the author of a book entitled "Drawing Textbook."

He has been an artist with Walt Disney for 12 years and has taught drawing in Carlisle, Pa., for 12 years. For teaching such a drawing in Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas. Mrs. Howard Jones accompanied the group each morning to Hollis, Okla., for the lessons.

Miss Margaret Henard of Lovington, N.M., visited over the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nelson, and her aunt, Mrs. John Coffee and family. Miss Henard is attending the summer session of Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Mrs. Margaret Peters of Dallas is spending the summer with her father, John Puryear. She teaches in the Dallas schools.

Draft Boards to Call 1,585 Men in September

AUSTIN.—State draft boards will be called upon to furnish 1,585 men for the armed forces in September, Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Friday.

Col. Schwartz also announced that the August quota for Texas had been increased from 1,636 to 1,837 and the July call from 1,284 to 1,381.

These monthly quotas compare with 878 for June, 1,927 for May, 979 for April, 1,068 for March, 1,372 for February and 1,475 for January.

The state director of Selective Service said that Texas local boards would probably be called upon to send between 4,000 and 5,000 men for pre-induction mental and physical examinations in September.

Calls on the local boards for September, with quotas for both induction and pre-induction examination, will be sent out by state Selective Service headquarters on or about Aug. 10.

The Texas quota of 1,585 for induction in September is the state's share of a national call for 31,300 men, all for the army.

The number of men classified as available for armed forces service by Texas local boards has increased since the end of May, the state Selective Service director pointed out.

At the end of June, Texas boards had a total of more than 68,000 men in Classes I-A and I-A-O. This pool was increased from about 44,000 at the end of May. The number of men classified as students declined during this period.

Texas boards had 93,000 men classified in Class II-S at the end of June and 98,000 at the end of May.

Mangum Legion Team Continues Winning Streak

The Mangum American Legion baseball team, for which Wellington's Bill Spillman is pitcher and first baseman, has won 11 of its last 12 games, including those with teams in Amarillo and other major towns.

The won-lost record is 22-6. The team goes into the district tournament in double elimination play the week of July 25. The tournament will be held at Mangum, and that team drew a bye in the first round.

Other towns in the district include Elk City, Hobart, Hollis, Gould, Clinton, Woodward and Mangum.

Spillman, besides playing for the team, is working for the City of Mangum this summer on the construction of a new stadium.

This is Spillman's second year to play with the Mangum American Legion team.

grounds. Two units will return to the cantonment area near Gatesville for the annual division parade on July 23.

The second half of the 49th's mission will be to complete boot training for the division's 2,300 recruits. Col. Louis Neumeyer of Liberty, will head the special training brigade. The men are the new enlistees who get their first taste of Army Camp life this month.

They are eventually destined for six months of active Army training. Their entry on active duty was delayed because Vietnam-committed basic trainees overcrowded Army facilities normally assigned to new Guard units.

Some units will be missing. Temple's Third Tank Battalion with units at Cameron, Tyler and Belton, along with infantry companies from Bonham, Cooper, Arlington and Waxahachie already have their summer field training under their belts. They served in June as aggressor forces for training the 36th Brigade — the selected reserve force designated as first-line reserve.

Company B of the 386th Engineer Battalion at Brenham will spend its two weeks at Camp Mabry in Austin. It will do on-site construction work at the Guard facilities in Austin. Other highlights will be the ferrying of large groups of Guardsmen aboard hastily-made rafts across streams. This is to practice for the time when the 49th's men might be called on to make river crossings under combat conditions. Tanks will fire on special ranges at night, using searchlights to pinpoint targets.

Recruits will go through the familiar toughening-up program that calls for close combat, infiltration courses and long foot marches. There will be rifle firing, too.

Movement of the 49th to Ft. Hood from 70 Texas cities will be completed by mid-afternoon Sunday. Units from Rio Grande Valley cities will spend the better part of two days on the road to Ft. Hood.

The four officers and 50 men of Battery A who will participate in this field training are Capt. Chappell, 1st Lt. Sammy G. Helmers, 1st Lt. Leonard King, Jr., of Childress, 1st Lt. George J. Raab of Hollis, 2nd Lt. Charles M. Burrows of Wichita Falls, and
