Museum Fund Drive Opens On May 22nd

The annual Collingsworth County Museum membership drive will open Tuesday, May 22, and continue for one week, Mrs. John Holton, chairman, has announced.

All annual memberships come due at this time, Mrs. Holton said, as she called for the continued support of the Museum, which is sponsored by the Collingsworth County Historical Survey Committee.

Chairmen for Wellington and two other communities were announced.

Heading the drive in Wellington will be Mrs. Earl Hunter and Mrs. Cecil Masten.

Mrs. Hugh Painter is chairman at Dodson and Mrs. Carl Wischkaemper and Mrs. Loyd Langley are to head the work at Quail. The chairmen will appoint the workers they need.

While the goal of the drive is to renew all 1972 memberships, emphasis is also being placed on securing new members, Mrs. Holton explained.

They explained the three types of membership available:

- Annual memberships, costing $5.00 offer full membership for the 12-month period.

- Life memberships cost $25 and do not expire. However, a number of persons who hold this type have expressed the wish to give more financial support, and this is invited during the current drive.

- Angel memberships are $100, and they, too, are of life duration. Holders of these memberships also are invited to give the museum and Historical Survey Committee additional financial support.

This will be a door-to-door membership campaign, Mrs. Holton explained, as she asked for continued financial support of the work, which has accomplished much in the two years since it was established.

Swimming Pool Sets Opening on Monday

Marian Airpark Swimming Pool will open Tuesday, May 22, for the summer season, City Manager Lyman Daniel announced this week.

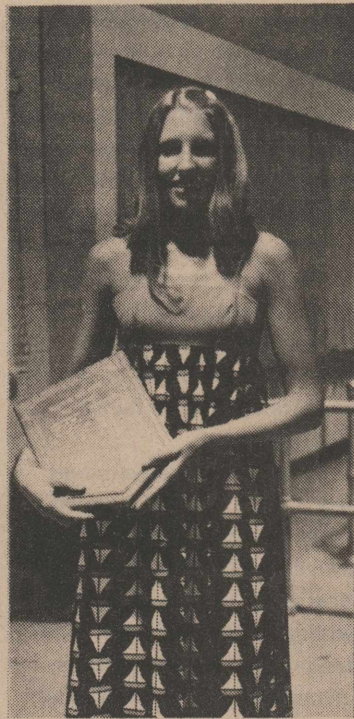

Season tickets are on sale, and may be bought at City Hall. It is the first time in two years that season tickets have been available, and these will be pushed, said Mr. Daniel, at the same time pointing out there is a substantial saving over single tickets for the person who swims regularly. Season tickets will be $12.00 each, he said.

Miss Marla Savage and Miss Michelle Savage, daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. Ted Savage, were approved as life guards by the City Council at its last meeting. Both are experienced swimmers, having begun their lessons in grade school.

Mr. Daniels said that swimming lessons will be available this summer, and a plan will be set up for private parties. These will have a maximum of 30 persons per life guard.

Hours which the pool will be open were announced:

- Tuesday, Friday and Saturday, 1:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.
- Wednesday and Sunday,

Rogers Goes to Youth-Music Place at Canyon

Clifford Rogers, music and youth director of First Baptist Church, resigned effective Sunday, May 13, to accept a similar position with Calvary Baptist Church in Canyon.

Mr. Rogers also plans to attend at West Texas State University.

"This move will be a great advancement for him in preparing for further work in the church," said the Rev. Ted Savage, pastor.

Mr. Rogers came here in August 1971, from Barrett Street Baptist Church in Pampa.

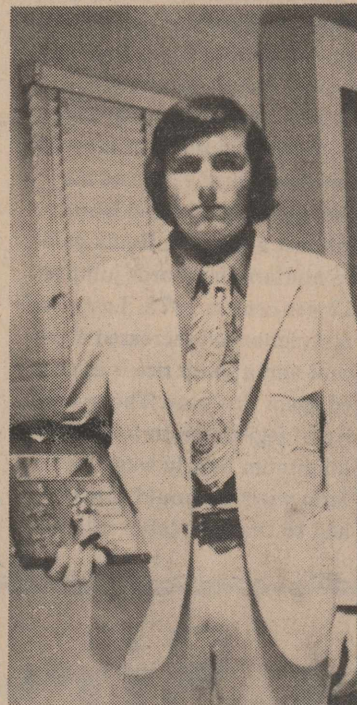

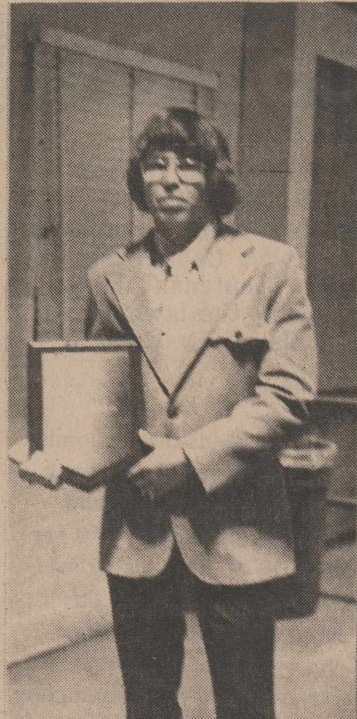

As music and youth director, he organized the One-Way Believers, conducted the adult church choir, and had under his supervision the Junior Choir and Good Time Singers.

He instigated and led in the opening of the youth activity center, "His Place," which in the few weeks of its life has drawn from 65 to 100 boys and girls each evening.

Under his leadership, also, the youth paid for the first bus, which the church uses in various phases of its work.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have been popular as vocalists and instrumentalists at various civic functions.

They have one son, Shane, almost a year and a half old.

C-C to Underwrite Total '73 County Fair Expense

Plans for the 1973 Collingsworth County Fair were set in motion in meetings held this week by the Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the fair, and by the fair committee. The date will be Friday and Saturday, September 7 and 8.

C-C directors voted Monday night, May 14, to cover the expense of the fair this year and eliminate any solicitation of funds among Wellington businessmen. The board earmarked $1,650 for premiums and other expenses.

The premium list was reviewed, and as a result of the directors action, cash prizes will be paid for the first time in the women's division, art show, flower show, and junior hobby show. Heretofore, money prizes were given only in those events in which boys and girls participated, the exception being the junior hobby show.

"We want to eliminate begging from the merchants when it comes time to hold the Fair," said C-C president, Don Welch, following the Monday night meeting.

Fair chairmen were announced following the meeting Tuesday morning, May 15.

Dwane Scott was appointed earlier to head the 1973 Fair, after his successful staging of the 1972 event last September.

Working with him will be these chairmen.

Pat McAlister will head the agriculture and horticulture division. His assistants will be the three agriculture instructors, Rodney Myrick of Wellington, Jimmy Brown of Samnorwood and Doyle Messer of Quail.

County Agent Don Reeves will be in charge of the beef cattle show.

Mrs. Haskell Manuel will head the women's division, and four chairmen will work under her. These include baked goods, Mrs. Joe Terry; food preservation, Mrs. Harold Caldwell, chairman, Mrs. Jack Colson assistant chairman; textile furnishings, Mrs. Lowell Wells chairman; clothing, Mrs. Malcolm Horton and Mrs. Henry Langford.

The Wellington Garden Club will be in charge of the flower show, with Mrs. Joe Thompson as chairman.

The art show will be headed by Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, Jr. Mrs. Bill Hall will again head the junior hobby show.

Mrs. Marlin Felts, county extension agent, is to be in charge of the girls division, and her assistants will be the home-making teachers, Mrs. P.M. Scott and Mrs. Gary Killian of Wellington, Mrs. Dee Coleman of Quail, and Miss Judy Barber of Samnorwood.

The Old Fiddlers Contest will be directed by Mr. and Mrs. Bill King of Dozier again this year.

Mrs. Cecil Masten heads the senior citizen activities.

The Old Settlers Reunion, always held along with the Fair, will be directed by Mrs. R.H. Isbell, and officers of the association will assist her.

There remains to be announced the chairman of the big opening parade, which always signals the big two-day Collingsworth County Free Fair.

Again there will be a carnival, in the same location as last year, the old East Ward School grounds. A contract was signed.

Make a New Home Inventory —With Photos

Photographs can help identify items lost through theft or fire.

"Most families cannot describe their possessions — even the most valuable ones — after home and belongings suddenly are destroyed or stolen," Lillian Cochran, Texas Agricultural Extension Service home management specialist, Texas A&M University, noted.

"A Photographic inventory of the home's contents can provide definite proof of ownership — a valuable asset for any household," she noted.

"Taking photographs for an inventory requires no special skill, talent or equipment — anyone with an ordinary snapshot-type camera can do it.

"For ease and thoroughness photograph each wall of a room to achieve an overall view — take close-up shots of particularly valuable objects — upon cabinets and drawers to expose contents," she added.

"Newlyweds and engaged couples can begin family records by taking pictures of their wedding gifts on display — and using them as an inventory.

"Save negatives from these pictures — if needed for insurance purposes, enlargements will provide details.

"Store photographs and negatives in a safe place, such as a safety deposit box or fire-proof container.

"Pictures help families remember exactly what was in their homes should accidents or thefts occur," she concluded.

Guests were served from a table laid with a gold cloth, which had a matching net overlay. An arrangement of golden roses formed the centerpiece, and crystal appointments were used. Again it was granddaughters who served the guests, Mrs. Mike Walls of Morris, Illinois, Mrs. Don Jenkins of Dallas and Mrs. Roy Dyer of Pampa. Miss Edith Jackson and Mrs. Claude McKinney assisted.

Friends called between two and four o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullington operate the only hotel in the county, although there are motels. Now they have only permanent guests.

Mr. Bullington was born in Parker. The former Vassie Ada Ryan, she is a native of Texarkana. Both are of Irish descent. They were married May 19, 1923.

Mr. Bullington is a former Deputy Sheriff. She has devoted herself to her family and friends. Both are members of the Methodist Church and belong to the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges.

Several close friends came from out of town to help them observe their golden wedding. These included David Hough and Linda Cook of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Finace Dyer of Pampa, Mrs. Larado Weldon and Ronny Weldon of Hollis; and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Bledsoe and Kathy of Amarillo.

New Johnson Grass Control

Studies by a Texas A&M University graduate student show that a chemical called glyphosphate may be effective for controlling Johnsongrass, one of the stubbornest field pests in Texas agriculture. The new chemical is strictly experimental and is aimed at fallow fields. In tests it outperformed terbacil, asulox, dalapon, and DSMA plus MH.

Blood Studies Aid Diagnosis of Some Diseases

New properties of human blood have been discovered by researchers working at the University of Texas in Austin and Galveston which may have profound influence on the diagnosis of certain disease conditions.

Dr. George B. Thurston, a professor of mechanical engineering and physics at UT found that blood possesses an elastic structure which must be disrupted before normal flow can take place.

"It is already known that a close relationship exists between the viscosity (thickness) of blood and coronary heart disease and peripheral arterial diseases," said Thurston. "An exact measurement of the blood elasticity may provide a more precise index to this thickening condition."

Such information is needed to understand the behavior of the distribution of the blood in the circulatory system. It is also necessary for the design of devices used in cardiovascular surgery, including artificial heart valves, circulatory assist pumps and artificial hearts.

"In the artificial pumping of blood, it is well known that the blood becomes damaged," said Thurston. "It is possible that one origin of this damage rests with the sticking between the red blood cells, which form the elastic structures."

The blood studies are being continued to explore further the influence of commonly used additives, such as aspirin, upon the elastic property of the blood.

In other research in Texas, scientists at the UT Medical Branch in Galveston have discovered that snake venom causes, among other reactions, abnormal-looking red blood cells. The cells become spherical and grow spiny projections, or burrs, all over them. No one yet knows why.

Ted Bond and Dr. M. Mason Guest of UT Galveston undertook the venom-blood research after receiving requests from clinicians across the state for information. It seems some snakebite patients bleed and continue to bleed, and others don't.

The researchers discovered that some venoms cause clotting. Others completely defibrinate, or destroy all of the fibrinogen — the plasma protein necessary for coagulation of normal blood. The cause has not yet been found due to the complex chemistry of snake venom, which contain enzymes and non-enzymic proteins.

Floyd.

A report from City Manager Lyman Daniel showed that 30 truck loads of trash had been hauled so far in the clean-up campaign, and work is continuing. Tree pulling will start soon.

Farm Cost Climb Upward

COLLEGE STATION —

"Farmers and ranchers will have to exercise severe cost control to protect their income levels in 1973," says an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This year agricultural producers can expect higher gross receipts, but production expenses are increasing rapidly."

According to Wayne Hayenga "Farm production costs rose more than 7 percent across the nation last year. And the trend may continue in 1973."

Farmers profited last year because of higher than normal prices they received for their produce. "Unless price increases keep pace with increases in production costs, farmers will be struggling to make ends meet," contends the economist.

The three major cost items for farmers — seed, feed and livestock — increased by 10 percent in 1972. Even higher increases can be expected this year as the demand for these items continues to increase as farmers expand their production. "This is especially true in Texas where farmers and ranchers use more high-cost items than the average producer across the nation," points out Hayenga.

Other major contributors to increased farm expenses are the high cost of hired labor, interest and rents. Rents paid to nonfarm landlords jumped 13 percent in 1972. Last year's farm labor bill increased 8 percent and a sharp rise is expected again this year. The possibility of legislation to boost the minimum hourly wage for farm workers would further add to the farm labor bill, es-

Texas Grey Wolf Myth Persists

AUSTIN — Despite widespread belief to the contrary, there are no timber wolves in Texas.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Dennis N. Russell, who has conducted studies of the Texas red wolf, said the gray or timber wolf (Canis lupus) has gone the way of the buffalo and grizzly bear as an extinct species in the state.

Therefore, the tiny group of approximately 100 red wolves in the state's southeast corner are the only representatives of the famed wolf clan.

Russell said the persistent reports of "wolves" from virtually every region of the state usually result from misidentification of large coyotes. Also adding to the confusion is the tendency of Texans to interchange the names "wolf" and "coyote" when talking about coyotes.

The timber or gray wolf, also called lobo or prairie wolf, especially in high labor using areas such as the Texas Rio Grande Valley.

Hayenga also points out that the current Phase III economic program may further contribute to rising farm costs. The program has relaxed price controls on many farm inputs so that an increase in demand of these inputs is likely to send prices upward further than they advanced the past year.

once roamed most of Texas following the great migrating herds of bison. When the bison was eliminated as a wild animal, the gray wolf's demise was sealed as well.

Russell said the nearest population of gray wolves to Texas is a small group in Northern Mexico, several hundred miles south of Texas' Big Bend region.

He said the last documented appearance of a true gray wolf in Texas in recent history was an animal shot by a hunter in the Chinati Mountains west of Big Bend National Park in 1969. The appearance of such a straggler in Texas has to be considered extremely rare, said Russell.

In fact, Russell said, the gray wolf is virtually extinct in most of the United States. The only known breeding populations of any size occur in parts of Michigan and in isolated areas of the Northern Rockies such as Montana.

Russell pointed out that there should be little difficulty in distinguishing a true gray wolf from a coyote. Coyotes rarely exceed 45 pounds in weight, while an adult wolf is usually in excess of 50 to 60 pounds and may weigh as much as 175 pounds.

Work of Nursing Center Ceramics Class on Display During Week

Work done in the ceramics class at Wellington Nursing Center is on display in the windows of Wells & Wells, in observance of National Nursing Home Week.

Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, Sr., volunteers her time each week to instruct the women, and to help them with the pieces they may wish to finish.

The works of 12 women, along with the handwork of another, are included in the display.

Mrs. Jeffrey conducts the class each Wednesday, working with the group as long as is necessary, assisting where necessary, their selection of color, and the process of decoration.

The time and work which Mrs. Jeffrey gives at the nursing center is only part of the total involved in the project, for before she goes to class, she pours the slip, then removes the pieces from the molds, cleans and fires them.

Each woman glazes or paints her piece as she wishes, calling on her imagination for the touches that make it individually hers.

Mrs. Jeffrey then returns the pieces to her house for firing.

There is variety in pieces and in color in the Wells & Wells display, and included are ash trays, vases, tiny pitchers, and ceramic boxes.

Members of the class whose work is shown are Miss Iva Davidson, Mrs. Ora Trotter, Mrs. Matie Black, Mrs. Pearl Rushing, Mrs. Eula Brown, Mrs. Ella Johnson, Mrs. Merle Carter, Mrs. Vivian Waggoner, Mrs. Belle Perrin, Mrs. Beulah Thomas, Mrs. Lena Miller and Mrs. Maybell Smith.

Mrs. Maxwell's pieces include a hand-pieced quilt top and pillow, and an embroidered apron.

Happy Homemaking

An easy way to clean between the times of a fork is to dip a pipe cleaner in silver polish and work between the prongs.

A wire coat hanger will remove static electricity from nylon clothes. Rubbing the hanger over them will prevent a shock when removing the garments. This also works on nylon auto seat covers.

To keep eggs from rolling off a working surface place a rubber band on the area and set the egg inside the band.

Snap fasteners that will not close can be fixed by either squeezing the "sock-ets" with a pair of pliers or pounding the protruding portion with a hammer, making sure not to flatten it too much.

Wash plastic curtains or slipcovers in washer with one cup water conditioner in lukewarm water. Spread out to dry.

Save time by attaching alphabetical tabs at the beginning of each letter in the telephone book.

Make an attractive wall plaque by drawing a pattern and gluing on colored stones, driftwood, shells and sand. Use heavy cardboard or thin plywood as the base.

Collingsworth County FARM NEWS

By Don Reeves
County Agricultural Agent

Cotton production in the United States may someday drop by 10 percent. Producing an acre of cotton could cost almost $10 more than it does now.

It's hard to believe, but it could happen. The figures result from a study by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station on the effects of withdrawal of different pesticides currently used in cotton production.

Cotton was chosen for study because out of the 140 million pounds of pesticides used on croplands annually in the U.S., most are used on cotton. The withdrawals, they said, had a significant effect on yield and costs.

For example, when the organochlorine pesticides family, which includes DDT, was withdrawn, per acre yields in non-irrigated farms dropped by 10 percent in Louisiana, Arkansas and all of the southern states east of the Mississippi River.

Yields declined by three percent or less in Texas and Oklahoma. Arizona, California and New Mexico were not affected at all.

In terms of yield, most irrigated farms were affected least of all. For irrigated farms, the yield decline due to withdrawal of organochlorine was usually 2.5 percent. However, the Rio Grande Valley of Texas and the Southern Panhandle area, both heavily irrigated, did suffer losses of seven to 10 percent.

Costs to irrigated farms were another matter. When organochlorines were withdrawn, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas felt cost increases of $9.50 per acre. Other increases ranged from 20 cents to $7.50. Dryland, or non-irrigated farms, felt increases of 30 cents to $6.00 an acre in their production costs. The increased costs were due to substituting other pesticides for the organochlorines.

Overall, when organophosphates and organochlorines were withdrawn, output of cotton changed the greatest in the region from Central Texas to the Atlantic. It amounted to a drop of about 10 percent for withdrawal of organochlorines, eight to 23 percent for organophosphates and up to 40 percent for both.

The withdrawal of aniline, a weed killer, had the greatest effect in the Rio Grande Valley, reducing yields by 34 percent. The remaining areas of Arizona, New Mexico, California and the Texas Panhandle were affected only slightly by the bans.

To extend the analysis, Casey and Lacewell included shifts in crop patterns caused by the withdrawals. To do this they assumed that there were no government programs to affect cropping patterns.

Their results indicated that even before any pesticide withdrawals were assumed, without support programs, cotton would shift completely out of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. Farmer not returns would increase when cotton was replaced by crops such as soybeans or corn.

Production would be reduced in Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, the Rio Grande Valley, California and Arizona. Only eastern Oklahoma, most of Texas and New Mexico would increase cotton production.

Questions People Ask About the Catholic Church

Q. What did you think of Golda Meir's visit to Pope Paul?

A. Unfortunately it was quite unsuccessful. Both leaders missed a very valuable and rare opportunity to establish more friendly relations between Christendom and Judaism. At a future time, I would like to see the visit repeated, but with a lot more preparation, with a definite purpose, and with a younger Pope and a younger Israeli leader.

Q. Is the kissing of a Bishop's ring still in vogue?

A. Most Bishops in this country discourage it, but if someone wants to kiss his ring out of respect to the office he holds, a Bishop will allow the gesture. In Europe, where kissing hands and rings is much more in style, it still holds.

Airport Recommendations Vital to Future Growth

The needs of Marian Airpark, as outlined to Wellington, should receive careful study, followed by updating action to begin as early as possible, if we are in any way concerned with our future.

Of immediate concern is lengthening the present runways and clear zones, along with a paved taxiway and apron, additional runway markings and a segmented circle. Other improvements are recommended to come later.

One of the first things any industry or major business will look for in considering Wellington as a location is our airport, and aggressive enterprises are going to those places with the best facilities.

The airport recommendations came from the transportation and land use committee of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, an official state body, after study by the Texas Aeronautics Commission, Texas Transportation Institute and the Governor's Office. The only practical way they can be met and obsolescence headed off, is through continued improvement.

One of the long-range recommendations is now being met, lighting the runway for night landing, and it is possible the terminal facilities might now meet the requirements. We must realize that Marian Airpark is of greater importance to us today than it was when it was built nearly 30 years ago. At that time we had rail and bus service. Now we have neither. For this and all other towns of our size, air travel and commercial air shipment becomes more important.

Work Incentives

State Rep. Hilary Doran of Del Rio at very least should get high marks for creative thinking, if not practicality, this session.

During House debate on a legislative pay raise proposal, Rep. Doran put a new twist on the old carrot-and-the-stick theory with this suggestion: Leave the legislators' pay at $4,800 a year, but give each member a $20,000 bonus if the session does not produce a tax increase.

"If you think about it a minute, it might not be quite as ridiculous as some members think," Doran contended amid chuckles from his colleagues. "It's a nice fat work incentive."

Voters probably wouldn't think any more of the idea than the House members who defeated the proposal 121-15. After all, the public already has a pretty good club to hold over a legislator's head if he doesn't keep taxes down: A vote for his opponent in the next election. For most law-makers, avoiding that fate is work incentive enough.

Feet of Clay

AUSTIN, TEX. — Gulf Coast and South Texas newspaper publishers kicked off an investigation into the "newsprint crisis" last week that could become a nationwide issue.

Last week in San Antonio a probe was launched into the causes of the current newsprint shortage in the United States.

A resolution requesting a "Congressional investigation" of the current newsprint crisis was adopted at the joint board meeting of the Texas Gulf Coast Press Association and the South Texas Press Association. Publishers speaking for the resolution asked the Texas Press Association and National Newspaper Association to "investigate the problem at all levels" including "price fixing" and the "reported nationwide newsprint shortage."

The resolution asked the press associations to report their findings to their members so that "publishers can make necessary plans and adjustments for the future months and years."

Several weekly newspapers recently have converted to daily publication because of the growth of their cities, and are having problems getting more newsprint for their publications.

The regional press associations also asked that the Texas Congressional delegation be alerted to the problem and requested "assistance in working toward solutions for an adequate supply of this resource which is so vital to our industry."

Other state press associations in the southwest and midwest have received copies of the resolution, and have received requests for action by their officers at future board of directors meetings.

The newsprint manufacturers in the United States have told publishers that shortages have been caused by paper mill closings in some states because of "environmental problems." Wet weather has kept timber in the forests and away from the mills, newsprint officials have said.

Canadian mills — another big source of newsprint in this country — have not been contacted by the publishers, but will be asked to report the reasons for current shortages, the press association officials said.

Some publishers have inquired about newsprint supplies in other countries, and "pool purchases" of newsprint from overseas markets.

Recent price increases by the newsprint companies have sparked part of the controversy also.

"We cannot understand why the price of newsprint is the same in the states with newsprint mills — close to the source of supply — and in areas hundreds of miles from the manufacturing plants," one publisher pointed out.

GOVERNOR SUPPORTS

SCHOOL FINANCE AID — Gov. Dolph Briscoe threw his support behind a stopgap school finance aid measure to provide $39.7 million in enrichment grants to the state's 113 poorest districts.

He spelled out his recommendations at a rally arranged here by San Antonio and Crystal City residents to dramatize the case for overhaul of inequities in educational funding.

Briscoe pledged additional legislation will "set into action a process of altering our entire funding system so that state funds will be allocated to all school districts...based on the financial resources of each."

While the governor didn't say exactly what he meant by the latter, aides said a "complete review" of tax capabilities of districts across the state will be ordered.

Briscoe, committed to avoiding a tax bill this year, found it difficult to accept far-reaching overhauls of the school finance system which will cost $500 million to $800 million for implementation.

The legislation he backs, with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's and House Speaker Price Daniel Jr.'s support, would require each district to report its taxable assets to the state comptroller on specified forms by January 1, 1975.

Data will aid in fixing true market value of the property for school tax purposes, aides said.

The governor's office would also be made responsible for coordinating work of legislative committees and other official agencies in working out a plan for overhauling the school finance system by 1975.

Briscoe told the demonstrators a court case from San Antonio's Edgewood district pointed up inequities and "we must move to correct them."

MAJOR BILLS ADVANCE — Texas' first state-supported adult basic education program received final legislative approval and was sent to the governor.

Meanwhile, a bilingual education plan for the first six grades of public schools also cleared both houses.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Considerable demand is heard lately for federal taxpayers' money to rebuild and restore some big cities which have become slummy at the core.

Dire prediction is that these huge people hives will ghost out if they don't get succor from tax suckers who live elsewhere.

Thousands of towns over the U.S.A. are not on the maps anymore because they couldn't support themselves, and in an Equal Righteous society, how come New York City is more entitled to federal saviorism than Loco, Texas?

Girls Receive BS in Nursing Degrees at TWU

Two Wellington girls, Carol Sue Burba and Elaine Karnes Corbin, will receive Bachelor of Science Degrees in Nursing at the commencement exercises at Texas Woman's University in Denton Saturday, May 19, at 8:00 p.m.

Both girls had identical schedules in that they studied a year at Denton, were in the clinical center at Dallas two and one-half years, and returned to TWU at Denton for their final semester.

Carol, who considers orthopedics her chosen field in nursing, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Burba. While in school, she was a member of Texas Nursing Students Association and the Baptist Student Union.

Her husband is Randy Corbin, and the couple lives at Koppell, where he is youth director of First Baptist Church. He is also a fireman and emergency medical technician, as well as assistant chief in charge of ambulance and rescue operations. Attending the girls' graduation from here will be their families, Mr. and Mrs. Karnes, Mrs. Doshia Dix, Mr. and Mrs. Burba, Betty, Richard, and Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. John James and children of Brownfield, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morris and grandchildren, Jill and Todd McKinney, of Water Valley, near San Angelo, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ace Rainey over the week end.

GOLD went to $128 an ounce on the European market May 15 which may not mean too much since the transactions completed with gold are insignificant to the total. Most economists would prefer for us to have a greater share of the earth's oil than a greater share of the world's gold. And food such as meat and grain is priceless in reckoning a nation's wealth.

GOLD reserves have been used to stabilize currencies through the centuries and though not essential are still important. We could have done better by our silver and gold mining industry than we have. When I was in Alaska in 1956, I visited one of the gold mining dredges that operates in its own self-made pond or lake. The foreman walked over to where our group was watching and said: "Gentlemen, you are watching a dying industry."

THIS is the last year this outfit will operate, the foreman of the gold mining dredge continued. Most of them in this part of Alaska shut down two or three years ago. We have continued because this is a particularly rich site. At that time the U.S. Government was paying $36 an ounce. We could continue to operate if gold were bringing $50 an ounce; but, he said, we can't continue on the present price. Thus another $2 million investment became junk while the Russians kept right on mining gold. The price was not important to them; but the gold was.

MAYOR Bill Hatch says the response to the clean-up campaign was tremendous. The trucks were still hauling trash of one kind or another last Monday and will continue as long as needed. The mayor suggests that people keep right on cleaning up. We still have a lot that needs to be done, he said.

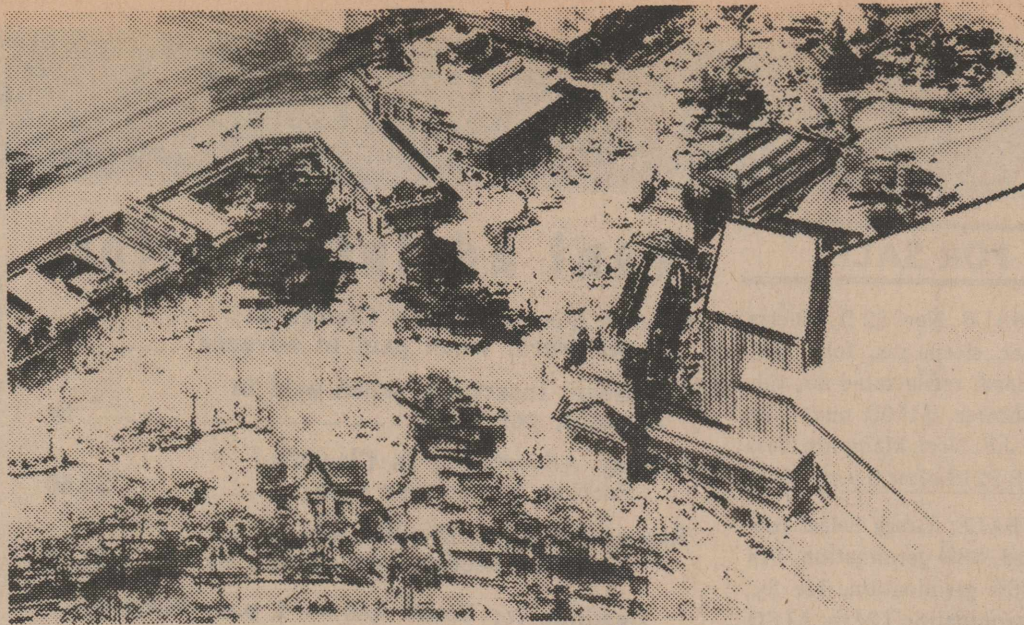

ONE ITEM of improvement that Wellington needs urgently is an improved system of sidewalks on West Avenue and East Avenue connecting the business district with the two rest homes, the hospital and the schools. One good broad sidewalk on each of the avenues and improvement on 15th street would do the job. Such sidewalks would be a great boon to both the young and the old.

JACK SANFORD, Sandy Parsons and others of the Chamber of Commerce are on the trail of a small industry that might mean six more families for Wellington. Good luck to them.

FARMERS in this vicinity are having their troubles in getting their crops planted with some of the ground too cold and other parts too dry. Even so they are having a picnic in comparison to farmers in the Mississippi River basin. Some of the corn growers had not been able to plant by May 15 and that is getting late for corn in Illinois and Iowa. Farther south cotton farmers have not planted for much of their land is underwater.

AMERICANS who are puzzled over the U.S. paying a subsidy to help ship grain to Russia might consider the consumers in Europe. Western Europeans who are paying what they consider real high prices for butter are wondering why their countries are selling half of their huge surpluses of cow butter to Russia for one fifth of the support price in Europe. If they could wonder out loud, the Russians would ask why they still have food shortages while their country spends more money for armaments.

SIX FLAGS ON THE GROW — Six Flags Over Texas will feature Good Time Square, an all-new section for 1973. Shown in the artist's rendering above, the five acres include two major rides, a miniature circus, a games area and new restaurant facilities. Built at a cost of some one and one-half million dollars, it is Six Flags' largest expansion program in several years. Good Time Square reflects the architecture of a Texas town at the turn of the century.

N. M. Nix of Shamrock Dies

N.M. Nix, 65, Shamrock Constable and former Wellington resident, died shortly before 8:00 p.m. Sunday, May 13, of an apparent heart attack. He was the uncle of Jerry Nix.

Mr. Nix grew up here and was married to Miss Willie J. Jones. They moved to Shamrock about 40 years ago.

He formerly operated the N.M. Nix Funeral Home in Shamrock about 25 years and also a farmer and stockman. He served as night policeman in Shamrock six years prior to his election as Constable.

Funeral services were conducted at 4:00 p.m. Tuesday at First United Methodist Church. The Rev. Bill Rushing, pastor of Date Street Baptist Church in Plainview officiated. Burial was at Shamrock.

He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Jim McDowell of Sulphur, Okla.; three grandchildren, and three sisters.

prefer natural foods over domestic livestock.

Another factor in the rise of the coyotes was the extermination of the Texas red wolf over most of its East Texas range. This wolf — the only remaining wolf species in Texas — is now confined to a tiny corridor of coastal marshland in Southeast Texas.

The coyote apparently stepped with vigor into the void created by the decline of the red wolf. The same predator control programs which hastened the demise of the red wolf may have been a factor in moving coyotes into unfamiliar areas.

Another factor which is yet unproven, but which has been documented in other states, is a tendency of the coyote to interbreed with domestic dogs. The resulting animal, reports indicate, may be larger and stronger than the coyote — and just as wild.

Russell said there is an apparent two-pronged flow of coyotes into East Texas.
