THE BIG KABOOM — When the inside tire blew out on this truck Thursday morning, it blew the outside tire off, and it rolled down IS 20 and injured a man who was fixing a flat on his vehicle. State Trooper Dean Richardson surveys the cause of the freak accident.

Tire (some) pressure pains Sooner

By MARJ CARPENTER

Tuesday was not "his day" for Neeley Sims of Afton, Okla.

Sims had a flat tire and pulled his vehicle off the edge of the westbound lane of IS 20 to change the tire.

In the meantime, a Acco Feed truck from Abilene driven by William Crim, was also headed west on IS 20. The truck was rolling along in the area opposite of Peach Electronics when the inside dual tire blew out, forcing the outside wheel off the truck.

The wheel rolled down the highway, according to witnesses, ran up the back of Sims who are repairing the flat. It broke Sims's arm, peeled the skin off his back and knocked him to the ground.

The wheel then bounced off the top of his car, continued on down the north service road and slammed into a pickup parked at Big Spring Auto Electric. That pickup was dented. It is owned by Kenneth Elliott of Big Spring.

State Trooper Dean Richardson, who investigated the accident, said, "It was one of the most unusual series of incidents I ever investigated."

Sims was in good condition at the Malone-Hogan Hospital where he was kept for observation.

Possibility of another depression is raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — While some Carter administration officials have been busy trying to refute predictions of a recession next year, the newest member of the president's economic team is raising the possibility of a worse danger: a depression.

The only depression in the United States this century was in the 1930s when one-fourth of the nation's labor force was without work. It had such a terrible impact on the lives of most Americans that it is remembered not just as a depression, but as the Great Depression.

The majority of Americans today were not even born when the depression occurred; it is something they have heard about and learned to fear from textbooks and from relatives who suffered through it.

It's such a serious and emotional prospect that the threat of a depression presumably would not be raised in idle speculation by the government.

So there were some private expressions of surprise and dismay when President Carter's new inflation adviser, Alfred Kahn, said Wednesday the United States will face a "deep, deep depression" if the new anti-inflation program doesn't work and inflation continues unchecked.

Although more ambiguous in his response, Carter himself seemed to take the same basic position when asked Thursday about Kahn's depression talk. The president said failure of his inflation and dollar-support programs would raise the threat of "a recession or even a depression."

But he added, "I intend to hold my course; I meant and do mean business."

Two other key officials dismissed suggestions of a depression as unfounded, even if the Carter program fails.

"I'm not that pessimistic," G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said Thursday. "If this plan doesn't work, we'll have another plan."

Asked what other plan he had in mind, Miller declined to speculate. "This plan is going to work," he said.

And Lyle E. Gramley, a member of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers, said, "The idea that we're going to have a depression of the kind we had in the 1930s seems to me to be preposterous."

Gramley said the 1930s experience is the only reference he has for defining a depression, since there is no precise definition for one.

The World Book Encyclopedia defines a depression as "a condition in economic life in which a great many men have no work, machines stand idle and the general level of economic activity is low, or depressed."

A recession is more precisely defined as being two consecutive quarters, or six months, in which the economy not only does not grow, but contracts. The most recent recession, and the worst economic slow-down since the depression itself, was in 1974-1975, when the economy declined by 2.7 percent.

One government economist quipped that the difference between a recession and a depression can be defined as follows: "When you are out of a job, it's a recession; When I'm out of a job, it's a depression."

Presumably a depression would occur somewhere between the impact of the 1974-1975 recession, when unemployment hit a peak of 9 percent, and the Great Depression, when unemployment was three times as bad and 10 million people were out of work. That depression lasted from the stock market crash in October 1929, virtually to the outbreak of World War II.

Prior to the 1930s, the next most recent depression was in 1884.

While some officials said privately they thought it was a mistake for Kahn to raise the specter of a depression, it was understood that Kahn did it purposely because he believes one would occur if inflation continues worsening indefinitely.

Recounting in Howard County to start at 9 a.m. Monday

Recounting of the Nov. 7 ballots in the U.S. Senate and governor's race will get underway at 9 a.m. in the Howard County Clerk's office in the courthouse.

The Republican representative during the recheck is expected to be Mrs. E.A. Fiveash. District Clerk Peggy Crittenden may be asked to be the Democratic representative.

Lemens said Webb County recount results received Thursday showed Democrat Bob Krueger lost 82 votes in the Senate while Republican John Tower lost 44. In the governor's race, Republican Bill Clements lost 26 votes while Democrat John Hill lost 53.

Other counties scheduled to make recounts today were Galveston, Midland, San Patricio, Victoria, Tarrant, Chambers, El Paso, Jefferson and Tom Green.

Lubbock and Montgomery counties will recount today.

The recount of Travis County is set for next Monday and Tuesday.

Also set for next week is a recount of Bexar County. A Bexar County official said Clements' campaign organization was paying for armed guards to protect election results until the recount could be conducted.

Lemens said Smith, Harrison, Cameron, Hidalgo, Nueces, Andres, Collin, Wichita, Nacogdoches, Grayson and Pecos counties have completed their recount.

Harris County officials have balked at a recount, saying their canvass was made last Thursday.

A recheck of Dallas County voting machines was under way Thursday.

Krueger and Hill asked that recounts be held in 39 counties where voting machines and punch-card ballots were used. They said they might ask recounts in some paper ballot counties later.

$3,705,000 highest bid for local Capehart Housing

By JAMES WERRELL

A bid of $3,705,000 was the highest of eight received for the purchase of Capehart Housing at the Big Spring Industrial Park.

Bids were opened Thursday afternoon by officials of the General Services Administration (GSA) in Dallas. The high bid was submitted by James R. Duncan, president of City Savings and Loan in San Angelo.

"We were very pleased to receive eight bids. That is high," said Doyle Marshall, realty officer for the GSA.

According to Marshall, three out-of-state bids and five from Texas were received. None was received from Big Spring.

The lowest bid was for $10,000.

Although bids have been opened, official awarding of the bid will not take place until mortgage termination and antitrust clearance can be completed.

In order to terminate the mortgage, the U.S. Air Force will pay the remainder of the mortgage held by the First National Bank of Dallas. A routine antitrust examination will then be made of the transaction by the U.S. Attorney General.

"Most of that $3.7 million will go to the Air Force's housing account, with a small amount being used to pay GSA expenses," said Marshall.

Assuming he is awarded the bid, Duncan plans to "repair," paint and see that all the units are in excellent condition," he said this morning.

The homes will then be offered for sale as single family units.

"We plan to offer them on the private market with no government subsidies or anything like that. They will be phased into the market, and I think it could take as long as four years to sell them all," said Duncan.

He hopes initially to set aside a portion of the housing for rental, and then, as sales increase, to offer homes only for sale.

Is he worired that such a glut of homes for sale will depress his own investment along with the rest of the housing market in Big Spring?

"That's the $64 question. We are putting a lot of homes on sale at one time, but I don't anticipate that we will be able to sell all of them in one, or even two years," he said. "We hope that it is gradual, with some families renting, and some homes being sold over about a four-year period."

For expansion of First Baptist Church

Groundbreaking set for Tuesday

By MARJ CARPENTER

The First Baptist Church culminates 18 years of planning with the groundbreaking Tuesday at 6 p.m., for a $11,119,000 Family Life Center.

The building program will include an addition of 42,000 square feet east of the present church plant at FM 700. Included in the project will be 6,000 feet of remodeling.

The building will include a Family Life Center.

The Rev. Kenneth Patrick, church pastor, said, "Our thoughts on this plant is that we will be able to minister to the whole person and the whole family."

The center will include a full-size gymnasium and flooring that makes the room usable for banquets. They also will have roller skating, basketball, volleyball, handball, bandminton exercise and tennis court facilities.

There will be a suspended track from the ceiling of the gymnasium designed for joggers and there also will be six full bowling lanes. There will be a game room with foosball, billiards and other games.

The facility will feature a ceramics and hobby shop facility and a snack bar. There will be dressing rooms, lockers and a shower area.

There will be a complete new youth department with community kitchen facilities and a fellowship hall that will seat 800.

There will also be a chapel that will seat from 230-260 and a new parlor with a kitchen adjacent.

The first plans were made in 1960 when the church acquired, debt-free, a 13-acre tract in the Coronado Hills addition in the heart of the southern section of the city.

On Dec. 12, 1965. there was a dedication of the present facility. It contains 65,000 square feet, 25,000 in the sanctuary and will seat, with the balcony over 1,200.

Co-chairmen of the building committee are Dr. Charles Warren and Clem Jones with Roy Reeder as honorary chairman. Members include Dr. P.W. Malone, Dr. Charles Hays, Mrs. Clyde Angel, Eddie Eastman and Billy T. Smith. Chairman of the board of deacons, Elmer Dickens, is an honorary member along with the pastor. Joe Pickle is chairman of the trustees.

Many of these, along with representatives from the architectural firm of Gary and Company will take part in the ground breaking Tuesday.

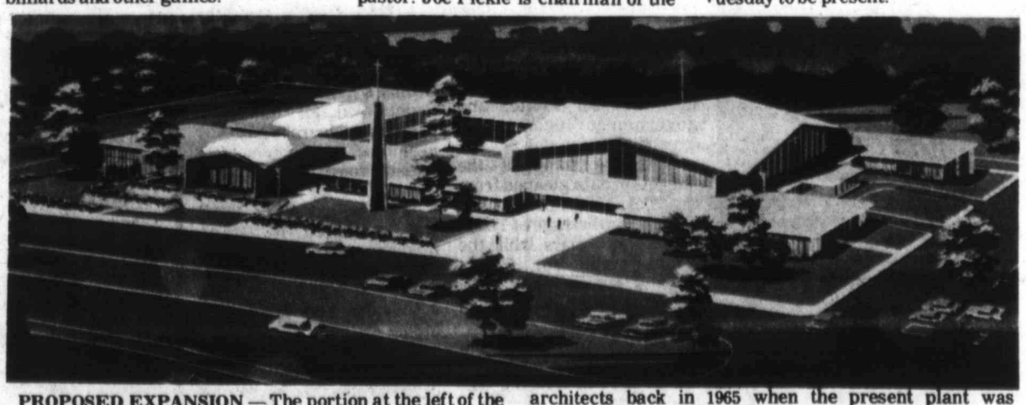

The First Baptist Church began here on Nov. 13, 1886. They first met in a schoolhouse and in 1980 occupied their first church at 5th and Gregg. It was destroyed by a cyclone in 1897.

They rebuilt it in two months. Fire burned that church in 1908 and the Baptists rebuilt by 1909 at 6th and Main. That church burned Oct. 24, 1928 and they rebuilt by Nov. 3, 1929.

A survey committee was named in 1959 and they obtained the land where the present church stands. The congregation also had a master plan for growth of the church.

The construction, which will begin soon after the ground breaking is expected to take 345 working days and will be completed during 1979, exactly 20 years after the survey committee was named to find a new location.

The Rev. Patrick invites any friends of the church who would like to attend the ground breaking ceremonies Tuesday to be present.

Griffin wins another round

The State Commissioner of Education, M.L. Brockette has ordered that James E. Griffin, Big Spring Independent School District teacher and head basketball coach during 1976-77, be reinstated as teacher-coach.

The next avenue for appeal, should the local district decide to appeal the order to reinstate Griffin, would be the State Board of Education.

Focalpoint

Action / Reaction: Cyclists headlighted

Q. I have seen an increasing number of motorcyclists ride with their headlights on during the day. I'm new in the state and wondered if this was a law?

A. Not in Texas. Some cyclists ride with their headlights on at all times so that other motorists can see them better. Too many car-motorcycle accidents occur because the car driver simply didn't see the cyclist. The motorcycle's small size causes it to "disappear" into the background on busy streets. Some states (like Virginia) require cyclists to have their lights on all the time. Some manufacturers are making cycles so that the headlight comes on whenever the engine is started, but there is no law to that effect in Texas.

Diamond Anniversary week being observed

Howard County joins in observing the Diamond Anniversary Farm Demonstration Work this week. The week was officially proclaimed Farm Demostration week by Howard County Judge Bill Tune.

Extension's technique for teaching people — the farm demonstration method which began in Texas on the Porter Farm of Kaufman County in 1903, is being used in much of the world today, including Howard County.

It was just after the turn of the century that Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, a U.S. Department of Agriculture educator and special agent, came to Kaufman County to set up a farm demonstration to improve general crop production in Northeast Texas.

The Walter C. Porter farm near Terrell was the site selected for the demonstration which was designed to show farmers how to use scientific methods to increase yields and income.

Knapp's "teaching by demonstration idea' was highly successful and spread rapidly to other states. The U.S. Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act in 1914, which paved the way for an extension service concerned with agriculture, home economics and related subjects in each state.

Texas legislators accepted provisions of the Smith-Lever Act in 1915, creating Extension as a part of the Land-Grant University System, where it continues to function forcefully today as a part of the Texas A&M University system.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service now has educational programs in more than 72 different subject matter areas that reach into each community, county state and territory to "help people to help themselves" through the application of relevant knowledge from research.

The result demonstration phase of the educational program in Howard County is planned by the Howard County program Building Committee and the various Subcommittees in Howard County.

Persons involved in carrying out result demonstration in agriculture in 1978 were: Big Spring Field Station, Gene Perry, Lomax; J. E. Peugh, Lenorah; Larry Shaw, Knott; L. N. David, Coahoma; Wayne Davis, Coahoma; Raymond Stallings, Big Spring; Loyd Underwood, Luther; G. C. Bayes, Sand Springs; Jerry Paige, Sand Springs; Boyce Sneed, Sand Springs; David Barr, Vincent; Clay Reid, Coahoma; Elbert Long, Big Spring; J. L. Metcalf, Coahoma; Ralph Neill, Big Spring; Ritchie Tubb, Knott; Thomas Justice, Big Spring; Ralph White, Coahoma; S. C. Rhoton, Gayhill, and Dale Fryer, Big Spring.

Home economics also uses Knapp's "teaching by demonstration idea". The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has been working with families of the state since the early 1900's, when the first county home demonstration agent was named to work with girls' clubs in Milam County.

Mrs. Edna W. Trigg was the first home demonstration agent to serve there. She organized and worked with Tomato Clubs for girls in 1912, two years before congress passed the Smith-Lever Act.

Texas Families today continue to be a major audience. Extension home economists contacted more than 1 million homemakers and their families during the past year with timely information about family stability, housing environment, family resource management, family clothing, and community environment and leadership.

Senior citizens are benefitting a wide range of programs, and teens are studying a variety of projects — ranging from nutrition education to parent education — as part of extension's effort to add to the quality of life for all citizens.

The result demonstration phase of the educational program in home econmics in 1978 was conducted by Mrs. Alton Underwood. Mrs. Underwood conducted practical research in the area of family health.

Thus, Dr. Knapp's philosophy of helping people help themselves through demonstration methods of teaching continues as a worldwide challenge today, three-quarters of a century after the effort was first launched in Texas.

$10 million may be lost

MIAMI (AP) — More than half the cocaine and almost all the marijuana seizures made by U.S. authorities are made in four southeastern states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, according to the latest federal drug statistics.

Robert Battard, U.S. regional commissioner of customs, said the figures show 57.4 percent of the cocaine seized in fiscal 1978 and 86.9 percent of the marijuana was taken in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. During the 12-month period, officials confiscated 814 pounds of cocaine and more than 4 million pounds of marijuana in those areas.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Springfield may lose more than $10 million in federal and state funds because its affirmative action hiring program for Hispanics is a "completely inexcusable" failure, a state antidiscrimination official says.

Sam Stonefield, a member of the Commission Against Discrimination, said Thursday that Springfield has been warned repeatedly that enforcement of its own affirmative action plan was "unacceptable." Hispanic community leaders released a survey on Wednesday showing that since the city's program was adopted in 1976, Hispanics actually dropped from 1 percent to 0.9 percent of the municipal work force — in a city where they make up about 10 percent of the population.

More support was needed

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Pollster Mervin Field says that if Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. had aided his own lieutenant governor earlier in this year's campaign for re-election, Brown might not have ended up with a Republican in the job.

Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally might have had a "better than even chance" in his race against GOP challenger Mike Curb with Brown's help, Field told a luncheon here Thursday. He also said that racism was not a factor in that contest — nor in the unsuccessful fight for state attorney general waged by Yvonne Brathwaite Burke, who, like Dymally, is black. Mrs. Burke lost to Republican George Deukmejian, who ran a law-and-order campaign.

Eight fender benders were reported Thursday.

A vehicle driven by Jackie Lee Berry, Route 2, jumped the curb, and ran into bushes and trees at 907 E. 16th, 10:51 p.m.

A parked vehicle belonging to Clyde A. McGee, Moss Creek Trailer Park, was struck by a vehicle that left the scene in the lot of the College Park Shopping Center, 11 p.m.

Freed on bail

Billy Wayne Aldridge, 18, of 904 N. Gregg St., was released Thursday on $1,000 bond by County Judge Bill Tune. He was charged with a forgery and theft.

Bond given to Griffith

Bart Griffith, Howard County 4-Her, received a $25 bond as exhibitor of the steer with the fourth place carcass in the 1978 State Fair of Texas.

Five U.S. Bonds ranging from $100 to $25 were awarded to the winners, who came from a field of 225 exhibitors.

"Each youngster that sells his or her steer in our auction sale automatically competes in the carcass contest," stated Don Clark director of State Fair Livestock Activities. "Premiums in the form of U.S. E Bonds are appreciated, but the most important achievement is the production of steers that are yield grade one and quality grade choice or better," Clark further commented.

Cosden reveals price increase

DALLAS — Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Incorporated, today announced a price increase effective immediately for Cosdenol 70 and Cosdenol 104.

The price for Cosdenol 70 increases two cents per gallon to forty-six cents. The new price of Cosdenol 104 is fifty-nine cents per gallon, an increase of four cents per gallon. All prices are f.o.b. producing point.

Cosdenol 104 is a solvent used as a degreaser, in herbicide and insecticide applications, and also as a gasoline blending additive to improve octane.

Cosdenol 70 is used in formulations for oil well treating applications.

Voluntary price allowance axed

DALLAS — Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of American Petrofina, Incorporated, today announced that it is necessary to delete their temporary, voluntary price allowance on styrene-monomer because of increased production and raw material costs. List prices, effective Dec. 1, 1978, for sytrene-monomer are as follows:

Barge shipments — twenty-one and one-half cents per pound, f.o.b. producing point.

Tank car and transport shipments — twenty-one cents per pound, f.o.b. producing point.

Terminal shipments, either tank car or transport — twenty-one and one-half cents per pound, f.o.b. terminal

'Texas Fact Book 1978' crammed with goodies

AUSTIN, Texas — Though smaller than a breadbox, it's crammed with statistical goodies. Fitting neatly into a coat pocket or purse, it's like having a portable atlas.

It is "Texas Fact Book 1978," a new mini-publication from The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

The 93-page-booklet succinctly pulls together information about Texas that helps newcomers and old-timers alike "grasp the economic life of a state as big and varied as Texas," according to Dr. Charles C. Holt, director of the UT bureau.

Through maps and figures, the booklet gives quick reference to many aspects of Texas including its geography, population, income, employment, business establishments, agriculture, mining, construction, manufacturing, transportation-communication-public utilities, trade, finance-insurance-real estate, and government income and expenditures.

Here are some of the nuggets of data gleaned from the "Texas fact Book:"

—The median age of Texas males is 26.6 years, while the median age for Texas females is 29.

—A four-person family in Austin on an "intermediate" budget will spend $3.659 on food annually, while its counterpart in Houston will spend $3,953.

—Houston leads all over Texas cities in the number of manufacturing plants (33) having more than 500 production employes; the figure from Dallas is 23 such plants.

—Only five of Texas' 254 counties — Glasscock, Jeff Davis, King, Kinney, Zapata — have no manufacturing plants.

—Income levels in Texas are lower than the national average. Texas households have a median effective buying income of $13,117, compared with a nationwide median of $13,781.

—The Killeen-Temple area registered a 28.1 per cent increase in population from 1970 to 1976, leading all over Texas metropolitan areas. In a tie for second, with 27.9 per cent increases each, were Austin and the Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange area.

—Only 398 Texas businesses failed in 1977, compared with 585 business failures in 1970.

—Harris County posts the greatest number of motor vehicle registrations — 1,671,556, followed by Dallas County's 1,188,945. Sutton County led all others in percentage increase (114.9) in number of motor vehicle registrations between 1970 and 1976.

"Texas Fact Book 1978" was compiled by three members of the UT Bureau of Business Research — Dr. Charles P. Zlatkovich, Rita J. Wright and Robert S. Moore.

Copies are $4 each (plus 20 cents tax) and may be ordered from the Bureau of Business Research, The University of Texas, Austin, Texas 78712.

State employees total 168,919

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday said Texas state government employees per 10,000 residents ranks well below the national average and the Comptroller's Office can now instantaneously measure the state workforce.

Bullock, in a letter to Governor Dolph Briscoe, Governor-elect Bill Clements and legisltive officials, reported all state employees totaled 168,919 on Nov. 15, 1978.

The total number includes 83,917 non-academic employees and 62,058 university and college employees as well as 22,944 part-time and seasonal employees.

He said the figures were generated using a new procedure in the Comptroller's Office. For the first time in state government, the payee record system can readily determine the number of state employees paid from funds in the Treasury.

There are about 129 employees per 10,000 Texas residents compared to the 1977 national average of 134 full-time equivalent state employees per 10,000 population, Bullock said.

"By comparison, it takes 149 government workers per 10,000 residents to run the government in Arkansas and 234 state employees per 10,000 citizens to operate New Mexico's state government."

Texas' population is estimated at 13.05 million, and if seasonal and part-time employees were dropped from the count, the employee-population ratio would be even more favorable, Bullock said.

A complete breakout of the employee count shows there are 3,018 exempt employees, 80,899 on non-exempt or classified employees, 8,808 hours workers, 1,809 seasonal and temporary employees paid hourly rates, 1,104 salaried seasonal and temporary workers, 25,502 academic employees, 7,254 academic administrators, 25,302 academic support employees and 11,231 academic part-time and seasonal workers.

Bullock said the employee count system can also provide an agency-by-agency tally on government workers.

He said statistics from the payee record system would be made available to the Legislature to assist in their consderation of legislation effecting state government.

Revenues of CRMWD sliced by shut-down

Revenues of the Colorado River Municipal Water District have sagged through the first 10 months of the year because of a shut-down on deliveries of surface water to oil companies.

Although revenues from municipal customers was up $140,000 in reaching $4,166,646 for the period, the $1,402,326 in sales to oil companies was down $728,000 for the 10 months. The only thing that kept this from being disastrous was that the interest earned by trust funds, made possible by a refunding issue last year, amounted to $271,673. As it was the total revenues through October stood at $5,939,046, down $292,615.

Operating expenses of $2,766,101 were up $455,333 for the period. Of this, $1.594,966 was in electric energy charges, which was $373,000 more than for the same stretch last year.

Harra to perform here Saturday

Johnny Harra looks like Elvis Presley, sings like him and is just off a successful 15-month show in Las Vegas. He appears at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Saturday at 8 p.m.

An Indiana newspaper wrote that some of the 800 people who saw Johnny Harra's show there said it wasn't really Harra on stage. They claimed it was Elvis himself.

Harra does everything to convey that impression.

He wears sequined white jump suits, combs his black hair like Elvis and has the shaggy sideburns.

Harra straps on an acoustic guitar and begins to sing. He very seldom plays the guitar but then, Elvis didn't play his guitar very often either.

After Harra sings, sometimes women scream and it is very reminiscent of "the king." A reporter in Evansville, Ind. quoted a young woman, Libby Label, as saying, "I think that Elvis' death was all a joke. That's my true feeling. That was the only way he could get his freedom. Now, he is touring the country as Johnny Harra," she said.

Nobody believes this, but Harra does give a very forceful impersonation as he sings, "Love Me Tender" and other Presley hits.

Tickets are on sale at the Brass Nail for $5, $6 and $7 depending upon the seat in the stadium. There will also be tickets at the door.

Sign of times or rules to live by

Just who runs the country? It's not the Republicans, the Democrats, the bureaucrats, not the labor unions, or Mr. and Mrs. Voter — the folks who really run this country are sign painters.

We were reminded of this fact again recently when we took a friend to the giant Fort Worth-Dallas airport. As we parked and walked into the terminal, my friend commented on the number of signs directing passengers what to do. Park here. Check bags here. Buy tickets here. These items unlawful to be carried aboard the aircraft. Check in here. No smoking and Smoking area.

MY FRIEND asked the question. He wondered aloud if the passengers on the Butterfield State that clattered within 70 miles of Big Spring were faced with such a battery of signs? I assured him they were and promised to send him a copy of the stagecoach rules that appeared on signs in stage offices in the Dakota Territory and spread to other sections of the country.

1. Undisciplined children traveling alone will be severely disciplined by the driver.

2. If Ladies are present, Gentlemen are urged to forego smoking cigars and pipes as odor of same is repugnant to the Gentle Sex.

3. Gentlemen must refrain from the use of rough language in the presence of Ladies and Children.

4. Abstinence from liquor is requested, but if you must drink, share the bottle. To do otherwise makes you appear selfish and unneighborly.

5. Buffalo robes are provided for your comfort during cold. Hogging robes will not be tolerated and the Offender will be made to ride with the driver.

6. DON'T SNORE loudly while sleeping or use your fellow-passengers shoulder for a pillow; he (or she) may not understand and friction will result.

7. In the event of runaway horses, remain calm. Leaping from the coach in panic will leave you injured, at the mercy of the elements, hostile Indians and hungry coyotes.

8. Firearms may be kept on your person for use in emergencies. Do not fire them for pleasure or shoot at wild animals as the sound tends to rile the horses.

9. It's a long walk home, so behave yourself.

BY RETURN MAIL my friend sent me a clipping out of a Dallas newspaper that reported the contents of a sign called "The Family Constitution." The author must have quite a few young children and is seeking "domestic tranquility ... etc.

1. There will be no staying up late to watch television programs.

2. No watching scary television programs when staying up late.

3. No calling Mother when having nightmares after watching late scary television movies.

4. Mother will not stay in bed for more than one hour with anyone having nightmares after watching late scary television programs.

5. No sitting down at the dinner table without first washing hands.

6. No eating with fingers after sitting down at the dinner table without washing hands.

7. No eating food of any kind in bed.

8. Positively no eating crackers in bed.

9. After eating crackers in bed, all crumbs must be brushed from the sheets.

10. There will be no playing around and acting silly when grown-up company is visiting.

11. POSITIVELY NO roller skating or soccer in the house when grown-up company is visiting.

12. While roller skating or playing soccer in the house when grown-up company is visiting, no rollin their toes or kicking soccer balls into the persons.

13. Any person skating over company's toes or hitting them with soccer ball must immediately apologize.

14. When Mother or Father says no, this is final.

15. No giggling or excessive gloating when Mother or Father, after saying no, gives in.

THERE YOU HAVE old and the new on signs to regulate our behavior.

The Stagecoach instructions had a ring of authority to them, but the 1978 Constitution is just a shade permissive.

The stop refreshes

Around the rim

James Werrell

I have just hit the mile mark on my first run of the week. My legs are pumping. My heart is definitely pumping. My lungs are working overtime, and...

At this point, according to the newly annointed gurus of the religion of running, I should launch into a reverie about the nirvana I have achieved, the wholeness of spirit I have gained and the glory of sweat.

The truth of the matter is that this is the point where it starts to hurt like hell!

The mind's eye begins to form a grim vision of my own innards: shin bones that look like shredded coconut; a massively overworked ticker with tiny blood vessels popping all over its surface; a pair of useless, flapping, leathery lungs; and feet with loose shards of bone floating around in them.

Ah, the joy of running!

I saw Dr. George Sheehan, the runner's Pope, on TV the other day telling an audience of disciples that sweat is American's new wonder drug. Maybe his sweat is different from mine. My sweat just trickles down my jogging shorts and helps make the run a little more miserable.

As with many experiences in my life, I began running as a source of salvation. I believed, or was ready to believe, all that stuff about euphoric runs, better than any highs attained with false drugs; the pot of gold at the end of the track.

But as with most of those aforementioned religious experiences, a drastic cutting back of expectations was required. After a little over a year of running four days a week, I have yet to blow my mind on it.

So why do I (why does anybody) keep running? One thing for sure: if the immediate gratification weren't there, albeit on a smaller scale than promised by Pope George, I wouldn't.

The best description of the joy of running was inadvertently supplied by my cousin while he was trying to convince me of the value of goosing my car up to 70 miles an hour with high RPMs.

"It's like sandblasting the inside of your motor," he said, which is pretty much what you've done to yourself after you've struggled around the track (or through the wooded glen) for a mile or two.

It gets the juices moving. It pops loose the joints and stretches the tendons compacted by sitting in a chair all day. It pumps out the stale air that lies stagnating in the bottom of the lungs. And it forces cleansing sweat (that old wonder drug) through dark, clogged pores.

It sandblasts your motor!

So I guess I will continue to run, not because it brings me salvation or because it expands my consciousness, but because it feels so good when I stop.

A tough recall

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Consumers think that just because the government orders a company to recall an unsafe product they will have no more problems. Silly people.

The largest recall in history has been of a radial tire that was deemed unsafe for the road. After paying lawyers millions of dollars to keep the government from recalling the radial, the company finally gave in and agreed to replace the tire.

The consent agreement looked good on paper, but the consumer hasn't had as much luck as the government in getting his tires changed.

A friend of mine went to his local tire store and said, "I just received this notice that you would change my tires, which are unsafe and could cause me and my family to become needlessly involved in an accident."

"Unfortunately, we do not have any substitute tires to give you at this time," the tire distributor said nervously, "and would you mind not parking in the area because you are taking up space for customers who want to buy new tires."

"But wait a minute. It says right here in this registered letter that the tire company is terribly sorry about the alleged poor workmanship of the radials I bought and wishes to make amends. It further states that all I have to do is take my tires down to my local dealer, which is you, and you will be HAPPY to give me four new tires which won't fall apart when they are driven on the highway."

"It is ture that the tires to which you refer were once handled by me," the tire man said. "But we cannot be responsible for the lousy way someone designed them. The company we are both talking about expects us dealers to change these tires without covering the costs of our time and labor. I don't see why we should take a bath on them just because you got a registered letter."

"Everything you say may be true, but someone has to give us new tires and because you handle the product when times are good, you should take care of us when things go wrong. That is the American way which has made this country so great that almost anyone can afford a defective radial tire."

"Mister," if I had to honor every registered letter sent out to this area, I would be doing nothing but changing lousy tires for good ones. Right now, I am trying to sell snow tires. How can I sell them if you keep bothering me about some stupid recall?"

"I can see your problem. But what fun is it getting a registered recall letter from a tire company if I can't get anyone to give me safe tires? What am I supposed to do?"

"You could buy new tires at a special Thanksgiving Day price and I will take back the ones you have on your car without charging you for the labor of taking them off."

"But wait! Why should I pay for new tires when it says right here in the registered letter that I am supposed to get them free?"

"I am not stopping you from getting them free. I am just telling you I have no intention of giving them to you for nothing because it is not my responsibility. You can write to the company and tell them I won't give you new radials, or you can write to the government telling them the same thing.

Easy bruising calls for blood studies

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'd like to know what is causing purpura spots on my arms, legs, neck and elsewhere. Also, I have these sudden attacks starting in my throat and I spit my blood. The doctor has taken several throat cultures but has not been able to pinpoint my problem. Can you suggest anything? — E. B.

Purpura (PER-pure-ra) is bleeding under the skin or in the mucous membranes (as in the throat or intestinal tract). Mysterious black and blue patches, ease of brusing, and blood in sputum are common symptoms. The chief cause is a disturbance in blood platelet production — called thomboyctopenia. To clot properly, blood must have a certain number of platelets for its volume. When the platelet level drops below this figure, bleeding occurs. You need a thorough blood analysis to detect any platelet deficiency. It is usually correctible, either with drug or, when required, spleen removal.

The bleeding can have various other causes. Certain virus or bacterial infections may bring it on. In some a food allergy can be found. Chemical or drug reactions can be involved. A vitamin C or K deficiency can disturb the clotting mechanism in the blood and cause purpura.

If the most common cause — the blood platelet lack — is ruled out then there may be quite a bit of detective work to be done to get at the villain. You should see a hematologist to begin the search.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What effect would drinking three cans of beer every evening have on a person who uses pilocarpine drops every evening for eye pressure. I am 62 years old and female. — Mrs. K.

Pilocarpine is a moitic eye drop used in control of glaucoma (the eyeball pressure you speak of). You should not be drinking large quantities of any liquid, and I would consider three cans of beer a large quantity, especially at night. Four to six ounces of fluid after dinner is a maximum.

If you smoke you should stop. You might want to see my booklet "Cataracts and Glaucoma." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Oh, man, have I got itchy skin! You wouldn't believe what I go through after I'm in bed at night. It's like sleeping on hills of ants. I've even gotten up when I couldn't stand it and soaked in hot water. But as soon as I get back in bed it begins all over again. I have even brought blood to the surface by scratching. I am 52 years old and in good health, and am not bothered by this at all when I am up and about. Madness is fast descending upon me. — Mrs. D. S.

Try an extra rinse cycle on your washing machine. The timing of your itching ordeals suggests a detergent reaction from the bed clothing or pajamas. I don't suspect any disease process or menopause connection because you do not have it during the day when you are about. However, nighttime itching can also be related to something you eat or drink before retiring.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have mentioned biofeedback recently as possibly helpful in controlling certain ailments. What about ear noises? Has it helped in lessening that problem? — P.K.S.

There are reports of it being used successfully. No guarantees.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Describe the Huhner test. — H.

It is an examination of the vagina shortly after intercourse to analyze the number and quality of sperm present there. Part of fertility testing.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of The Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend insists taht one should not drink any liquids for at least 15 minutes after each meal because this would certainly wash all the vitamins out of the stomach. Is there any truth to this? — Mrs. M.F.

Not true. The body is quite efficient in absorbing the vitamins it needs from our food. And, in fact, it does this lower down in the digestive system — in the intestines. It is good to drink liquids with meals.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Leaving Israel

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has already started to shift his troops and armor, according to intelligence reports, from his Israeli front to the Libyan border. The redeployment is a direct result of secret understandings that were reached at Camp David, our sources say.

This confirms our report a year ago that Sadat had a secret reason for visiting Israel. "He sought to neutralize the Israeli threat on his eastern front," we wrote on Nov. 29, 1977, "so he would be free to confront his unruly neighbor to the west, Libya's enfant terrible Muammar Qaddafi."

There was a time when the two leaders seriously considered unifying their nations under a common flag. But in 1973, Sadat countermanded a Qaddafi order to an Egyptian submarine to torpedo the Queen Elizabeth II which was carrying American and European Jews on a pilgrimage to Israel.

This precipitated an exchange of insults, which grew more heated over the years. Qaddafi accused Sadat of betraying the Arab cause; Sadat said Qaddafi was a "madman." The words erupted into occasional border clashes.

Sadat may also have hard economic reasons for pressing his quarrel with Qaddafi. Sadat has been fighting a losing battle against insolvency. The Libyan oil fields with their $8 billion annual income, must look tempting to him.

The Egyptian leader also feels threatened by the Soviets, who are building a wall of steel around him. He cut his military ties with the Soviet Union and threw out his Soviet advisers in 1972. The Kremlin responded by shipping arms to Egypt's hostile neighbors — mainly Libya, Ethiopia, Syria and Iraq.

The arms buildup in Libya, our sources say, helped to spur Sadat into making his dramatic peace overture to Israel. When the Kremlin later dispatched Cuban troops to spearhead an Ethiopian drive against Somalia, Sadat wanted to send an Egyptian expeditionary force to bolster the Somalians. He was talked out of it by the United States, whose logistics support he sought.

Meanwhile, an agitated Sadat has repeatedly urged President Carter to take a stronger stand against the Soviet power play in the Middle East. At Camp David, the president assured Sadat that the quiet cooperation of Egypt, Israel, Iran, Saudi Arabia and the United States would checkmate Soviet expansion in the area.

At the same time, Carter agreed to the Egyptian buildup along the Libyan border, with emphasis that it should be a defensive redeployment not a prelude to an invasion. The maneuver also had Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin's tacit consent. For months, the Israelis and Egyptians have been secretly exchanging intelligence.

PRICE CONTROLS: The prevailing wisdom in Washington is that mandatory price controls won't work. But this is disputed by the only living person who has had responsibility for enforcing price regulations on a national scale.

He is Washington attorney Edward P. Morgan who was the enforcement chief at the Office of Price Stabilization during the Korean War. "Mandatory controls have worked effectively," he told us, "in every instance where they have been tried."

The federal government held the line on wages and prices during World War II and again stopped galloping inflation dead in its tracks during the Korean War, he said. He also contends that controls worked "to the extent that they were employed" during the Nixon administration.

"The secret to holding the line on inflation," said Morgan, "is firm, even-handed enforcement of wage and price regulations by an enforcement organization that ruthlessly ferrets out and prosecutes the cheaters."

ENCOURAGING SNITCHERS: The Internal Revenue Service is encouraging businessmen to snitch on employees they suspect may be overclaiming dependents in order to cut down or eliminate tax deductions from their paychecks.

Falsification of a withholding form is punishable by a $500 fine and a year in jail, so an employer who cooperates with the IRS could be getting his workers in deep trouble.

A small businessman in Ohio has written us in anger after receiving a form letter from the Cleveland IRS office instructing him to turn in any employee who "suddenly increases substantially the number of exemptions claimed or ... files a form claiming exemption from withholding."

Wrote the fiesty Ohio businessman, "I consider this an outrageous document indeed ... I think that IRS has become paranoid by reason of growing resentment of thousands of employees and employers who simply are rebelling against autocratic and arbitrary tactics of this government agency.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Your November 5th issue of the Big Spring Herald has been received by me, and I noted with very much interest your news item on the dedication of the W. P. Soash Historical Marker near the old town of Soash. If my father was living he would have deeply appreciated this the same as I do.

I also want to extend my appreciation to the Howard County Historical Society, its officers and members, in getting the State of Texas to designate this marker and also to Mrs. Mary Stipp who wrote the history of the town of Soash and my father which Mrs. Marj Carpenter read at the ceremony. My wife and I enjoyed the dedication ceremony very much.

The first year of my schooling was at Soash, and I still remember playing by the lake at Soash, with Tom my bulldog. The lake was full of water when we first moved there.

My admiration goes to those hearty pioneers who weathered the four years of drouth in that area, as it is hard to conceive how they procured enough food to survive, and I still remember my mother mentioning several times in the latter days of her life, that one of the saddest things she had witnessed were the cows and calves dying of starvation.

Sincerely
George W. Soash

Dear Editor:

There has been a lot of talk that the Steers are losers. True, they have not registered a win on the scoreboard, but they have won every game they have played. They play their best, they have confidence in themselves, and they have all the pride and spirit they had at the beginning of the season. So, you see the Steers aren't losers, they are winners in every sense of the word. I am proud to be a fan of the Steers and am proud to support a "winning" team.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: When my mother got old and senile, she began to doubt her salvation, although she had put her faith in Christ many years before and had always loved the Lord very much. Now I worry whether she is in heaven. Do you think she is? — Mrs. B. R.

DEAR MRS. B. R.: If she had honestly and sincerely put her faith in Christ, then I believe the Bible tells us she is secure in God's hands. In the years when she had her full mental faculties, she was trusting Jesus Christ for her salvation. Remember that it is Christ that saves us, and she had trusted Him. From what you say, she was not responsible for her thoughts in the last years of life, and you can be sure God knows this. God's promise is clear: "Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them" (Hebrews 7:25).

Remember the example your mother gave you during her active years — an example of faith and love toward God. Don't let those last days of doubt cloud your memory of her, or even shake your own faith in Christ. Instead, your mother's life should inspire you — and others — to seek to work for Christ while we have the strength.

Cold front moves beyond Texas coast

A cold front that brought a wide variety of bad weather to Texas moved well beyond the coast during the night, leaving in its wake clearing skies and colder temperatures.

The front produced snow, freezing rain and drizzle in the Panhandle and heavy rains across a wide section of North, Northeast and Southeast Texas.

But forecasters said a warming trend was to begin early today with high expected to range from the 50s in Northwest Texas to the 70s in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas. Most of the state was to have highs in the 50s and 60s.

Most of the rainfall associated with the front ended well before Thursday evening and only small amounts were reported during the night. Houston had .14 of an inch and Palacios had slightly more than a trace. Brownsville reported light drizzle.

Skies were clear early today and temperatures ranged from the chilly lower 20 in the mountains of Southwest Texas to the 40s and 50s along the coast. Temperatures northwest of a line from Dallas to Waco to San Antonio to Junction were mostly in the 30s.

FORECAST

WEST TEXAS — Fair through Saturday. Warmer today, but cool again tonight. Highs 50s north and mountains to lower 70s Big Bend. Lows 30s and 40s. Highs Saturday 60s and 70s.

EXTENDED FORECAST

WEST TEXAS: Clear to partly cloudy through Tuesday turning cooler north portion early part of the week. Highs 50s and 60s north and 60s to 70s south. Lows mostly in 30s and 40s.

Friends, relatives say of Ruiz

Only trying to save his life

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — David Ruiz, plaintiff in a federal court suit to shake up the way Texas prisons are run, was only trying to save his own life when he refused to leave his cell on May 9, friends and relatives say.

But that refusal to go to work brought him punishment by the Texas Department of Corrections and snowballed last week into rejection of his latest bid for parole.

Ruiz' brother, Johnny, and friend Julius Corpus, are angry that the Board of Pardons and Paroles refused to look behind the TDC's decision docking him 30 days of time off for good behavior.

The board said that's policy, that it didn't single out Ruiz because of his suit, currently being heard in Houston by U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice.

Board members Connie Jackson and George Killinger and commissioner Charles Shandera voted against Ruiz' parole while Commissioner Gilberto DeLeon voted for it.

The board recommended parole for Ruiz, a convicted armed robber from Austin, in 1977, but Gov. Dolph Briscoe denied it. Ruiz' case next comes up for review in April.

Killinger and Mrs. Jackson said they voted against parole because the board has an ironclad policy of denying parole when time off for good behavior has been forfeited and not restored.

Citizens United for Rehabilitation of Errants (CURE), the prison lobby, says this gives TDC a virtual veto over parole, with no public accountability, for any inmate who makes waves.

"If a person has a TDC infraction and time is taken away, there certainly is a problem of his adjustment. ... It is common knowledge among the inmate population," Mrs. Jackson answers.

Johnny Ruiz and Julius Corpus say the board might have ruled differently if it had been willing to receive evidence about the infraction.

Both said Ruiz refused to leave his cell because the building tender of the area in which Ruiz was ordered to work had threatened to kill Ruiz.

"He refused to get out of his cell because that man was going to kill him," Johnny Ruiz said.

PRIMATE AND PLAYMATE — Nine-month-old Marty, a member of the Lenz chimpanzee troupe in Ringling Bros, and Barnum & Bailey Circus, plays with Prince, a two-year-old German shepherd, while his trainers are performing in the circus.

TDC spokesman Ron Taylor refused to give the official version of the case, saying state law prohibits disclosure of disciplinary actions against inmates.

Killinger said the board does not look behind TDC actions.

"I think the TDC reviewed the case very carefully. When they take away good time — I'm sure they didn't take it without a reason. ... I can't parole a man like that unless he can conform to reasonable rules and regulations," he said.

CURE director Charles Sullivan said DeLeon's vote to grant Ruiz parole is evidence that the board could — if it wished — parole a convict even if he had been docked "good time."

"If they can point out a case where there was forfeiture (of good time I'd like to see it," Killinger responded.

CURE and Ruiz' brother believe Ruiz was denied parole because of his suit against the prison system — an allegation Killinger denies

Stages three-hour monologue

Charles Manson denied parole

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) Mass murderer Charles Manson failed to win parole after staging a dramatic three-hour monologue denying his guilt in the Sharon Tate murders, but admitting: "I don't belong in society. There's no place in society that I fit."

Manson, speaking out for the first time since his 1971 conviction in the Tate-LaBianca murders, alternately stood and sat, flailed his arms and even sang a song in trying to show he was wrongly convicted.

"I didn't kill nobody and I didn't order nobody to be killed," the 44-year-old Manson said.

He told the three members of the Community Release Board that if he wanted to kill someone, he would never have entrusted the job to his rag-tag hippie "family."

Leaning across the table, his face level with theirs, he said: "If I wanted anyone killed, I'd kill them myself. But I don't want anyone killed because I love my own life. Does that make any sense?"

He denied, as he had at his trial, that he ordered members of his "family" to murder actress Sharon Tate and six other persons in August 1969, or to kill grocer Leno LaBianca and his wife, Rosemary, the following night.

"I did not tell Tex (Watson) to do anything other than what Tex thought was right," Manson said of his chief lieutenant in murder. Watson, who says he worshipped Manson as Jesus Christ, has insisted Manson ordered him to kill.

Manson, who has been in prison for 9 years, was clad in dark blue slacks and a light blue sport shirt that showed his heavily tattooed arms. He was thin and had prison pallor, and his hair and beard were long and shaggy, much as they were when he was arrested in 1969.

He ridiculed his reputation as a demonic murderer.

"I'm not your executioner. I'm not your devil and I'm not your God," he said. "I'm Charles Manson."

Manson also let the board know he does not like being in prison.

"I'm mad," he said. "I'm indignant. I'm mad to every bone in my body that I have to come back to the penitentiary when I didn't break no law....I'm dying every day in this hole."

The parole hearing was a session granted automatically to each inmate who has served 7 years in prison. Manson will receive another parole hearing in a year, and one each year thereafter.

Originally sentenced to death, Manson's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment when the death penalty was outlawed in California. He is serving nine concurrent life sentences.

Asked what he would do if granted parole, Manson at first said, "I have no plans."

But a moment later he changed his mind.

"My plan," he said, "would be to go to the wilderness and live off the land. I'd go to the desert and talk to the animals. I couldn't make it running by the watch and making that car payment. My ways are simple."

He added, "I love life and I love living."

But Manson concluded, "No, I don't want to live in society.... Society don't want me so why should I want them?"

After a brief recess, the panel returned with its expected decision. Chairman Rudy De-Leon told Manson: "You are unsuitable for parole."

Texas teens tangle with pregnancy trauma

The statistics tell a sad story about sex and Texas teenagers.

About a third of teenage girls and more than half of teenage boys are sexually active. More than half of both sexually active groups do not use any type of birth control.

With odds like that, it is easy to see why one of every nine teenager girls becomes pregnant, mostly unintentionally, and teenagers have 35 percent of the abortions in Texas.

If she does have the baby, both mother and child have a greater chances of illness or death than other groups.

Deborah McFarlane, an assistant professor at The University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, completes the grim picture by adding that teenage mothers also have high rates of suicide, divorce and dropping out of school.

Writing in the November issue of "Texas Medicine", the Texas Medical Association's monthly journal, McFarlane says more education about birth control methods and increased availability of family planning services would help remedy the teenage pregnancy problem.

She says open family communication, private physicians and family planning clinics should be major sources of help for teenagers.

About 68,000 Texas women under age 20 received contraceptive services from family planning clinics in 1976 and about 63,000 were assisted by private doctors in 1977. But an estimated 145,000 sexually active teenager women had no counseling at all in 1977.

These figures show that physicians and clinics are doing a lot but financial problems and lack of public knowledge result in slow progress.

Education for males and females about bodily processes, contraception and risks of pregnancy needs to increase and begin at earlier ages since the age of first intercourse is decreasing. McFarlane says one study shows about half of sexually experienced high school boys had intercourse before age 13.

Financial problems are trickier to solve because of governmental restrictions on funds to pay for services and the inability of many teens to pay full clinic fees. One of McFarlane's suggestions is for clinics to adjust fees for teenage users.

She says increased efforts to improve education and services are important from a financial as well s a health viewpoint.

For instance, the annual cost for one fully subsidized family planning client is $70 but the Texas Department of Human Resources pays $855 for each birth to a welfare recipient, and that does not include dependent child support.

Seeing Her Through It

DEAR ABBY: When my 27-year-old daughter and I went shopping, she saw a blouse she loved, but they didn't have it in her size. Knowing how much she wanted it, I made several trips to the store trying to get it in her size. I finally succeeded and got it for her as a gift. (She knew how much trouble I had gone to to get the blouse.)

She and her husband (he's 29) came over to get it, and she tried it on for him. He said nothing, but two days later she called, in tears, saying her husband thought it was too sheer. (It WAS quite sheer, but not nearly as sheer as many I wear.)

I suggested she wear a slip under it, but she said her husband didn't want other men to see through her clothes—that he had forbidden her to keep it, and that was that!

I was furious and told her I wouldn't return it.

What is your opinion of this situation?

ENRAGED IN CALIF.

DEAR ENRAGED: I think you're making a mountain out of a molehill (or maybe two, for all I know). If your daughter allows her husband to impose his wishes on her, that's between them.

Too bad you went to so much trouble to get the blouse. Tell your daughter that if she can't wear it, return it. The whole fuss strikes me as sheer nonsense.

DEAR ABBY: When a person confesses to adultery, is he or she obligated to provide the details?

I am the wronged wife, and when I demanded to know when, why, where and with whom, I was called nosy.

NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: If it's your intention to forgive and forget, the less you know the less you'll have to forget.

DEAR ABBY: I asked a friend for advice about my problem and she said, "Write to Abby," so here goes:

I am engaged to marry the son of a minister. (I'll call my fiance Timothy.) Timothy's father, without even discussing it with us, has assumed that he will perform our marriage ceremony.

Timothy and I prefer to have his father sit with his mother at the wedding and be a guest with no official duties to perform.

Our problem is how to tell Timothy's father without offending him. He's a wonderful person, but he's very persuasive and we're afraid he might try to talk us into letting him have his way.

Is there a solution? Or should we just give in and grin and bear it?

WEDDING BELLS

DEAR BELLS: It's your wedding, and you have the right to do your own thing. Timothy should tell his father respectfully, lovingly, but firmly of your decision. And the sooner the better.

Readers set him straight

By Robert Wallace Ed. D.

Dear Teens: About four weeks ago I ran a letter from a 12-year-old girl from Ukiah, Calif. She was told to shut the garage door and because of this her father backhanded her and put her on restriction for three weeks. She said her parents had been up-tight with her ever since her sister died and she felt like running away.

My very "weak" answer was that a week's restriction was in order but that the backhand and extra two-week restriction was a bit harsh.

I followed that up by telling her to take her punishment and that girls have more restrictions placed on them than boys.

It didn't take long for over 100 letters to start rolling in telling me I had made a serious error in my answer and I agree.

Mrs. Margaret Carlton of Fresno, Calif., said it best when she said I completely overlooked the recent death in the family. Mrs. Carlton hears in the girl's letter, an angry father and a troubled girl.

The father angry because a daughter was taken away from him by death and fear of losing the other some day; the girl troubled by the total lack of communication with her father.

Mrs. Carlton said the girl reached out for help and instead got her wrists slapped.

I agree — I'm sorry — I was wrong. I should have told (and I'm telling her now) the young lady from Ukiah that her father was emotionally upset due to the recent death of her sister and was undoubtedly being overly protective and totally insensitive. I should have said that family love and trust will soon be back in the home.

I should have told her in the meantime to discuss her problem with a trusted church member, school teacher, or adult relative or friend.

Thanks to those who wrote to remind me I was wrong. The letters came from Colorado Springs, Galesburg, Seattle, Columbus, Rock Island, Fort Smith, Fresno, Oklahoma City and on and on. ...

A special thanks to Virginia Furlong, Ed.D., of Sacramento who "set me straight" — Peace.

History has painted our pilgrim ancestors in the somber tones of formality and austerity. Yet they were really a bold and vigorous band—a society of brave believers who lived their beliefs.

Thanksgiving Day in 1621 marked the reaping of their first harvest in what they quaintly called New England.

But never forget: it also marked their filling of the barns and stocking of the larders for what men still describe with awe as a "New England Winter."

Thanksgiving is not just a look back in gratitude. It is a look forward in faith. It is a People remembering their dependence on God!

Chemical from kidney promises new attack on high blood pressure

DALLAS (AP) — The isolation of a long-sought chemical from the human kidney promises potent new weapons for the medical attack on high blood pressure, which endangers some 34 million Americans.

Medical teams at two universities announced Thursday they have extracted and purified a human enzyme called renin — a goal that has frustrated scientists for more than a decade.

Renin, produced by the kidney in minute quantities, has a crucial role in many cases of high blood pressure, although scientists disagree sharply on how many. Estimates range from 16 to 75 percent.

Also called hypertension, high blood pressure can result in stroke, heart failure, kidney failure and other major problems. Its cause remains a mystery in all but a handful of cases.

But with the enzyme itself now available, researchers can begin to "understand what the enzyme looks like and how it behaves," said Dr. Eve Elizabeth Slater of Massachusetts General Hospital. "This hopefully will provide a prototype for a whole new classification of (safer and more effective) drugs" to control hypertension.

She said it provides an invaluable tool for discovering the causes of high blood pressure, and the way it progresses and may ultimately permit identification of potential victims so the disease can be prevented.

"I'm sure that hypertension will turn out to be a whole spectrum of diseases with a host of causes," Dr. Slater said.

The purification was accomplished independently by Dr. Slater and coworkers at the Boston hospital and by a group led by Hideyoshi Yokosawa at Vanderbilt University. Both teams described their work at the American Heart Association's annual scientific session here.

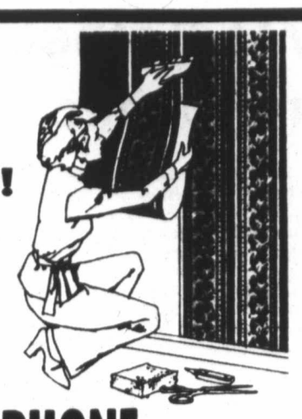

Renin is produced in minute quantities and is quickly converted through a series of biochemical steps in the blood into a new substance that constricts blood vessels and raises blood pressure.

She said the first practical benefit should appear within two years as a simple blood test capable of "a direct, inexpensive and much more accurate measurement" of human renin content than any now available.

Mt. Bethel sets renovation project

The Mount Bethel Baptist Church, which was established in 1924, is currently undergoing a renovation project.

On Sunday, Nov. 19, the church will celebrate its 54th anniversary and homecoming. The Rev. I.S. Moreland, pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Abilene will bring the message.

He is also district moderator. Letters have been sent out to former members inviting them to attend. The public is also cordially invited at 3 p.m.

The church is accepting donations to their building project. The project is under the leadership of the Rev. Freddie Nelson. B.C. Daniels is financial chairman. The front of the church has been completely bricked by Luis and Joe Contractors.

Church members thanked five non-members for contributions including Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas, in memory of Dewey Stewart and Mrs. Mattie Mann, Kent Morgan and John Coffee.

The project is being accomplished on a step-by-step process. The church has been in three different locations with the first place a one-room dirt floor house at the corner of 5th and Lancaster.

The second was an adobe building at 500 NW 5th. It was condemned in 1945. They then used the Lakeview School until the present building was placed at 630 NW 4th at a location donated by Dr. P.W. Malone. The first building was purchased from the Bombardier School during the administration of the Rev. E. Felton Nelson.

Food donations will be accepted on the next two Sundays for the love basket to be given at Thanksgiving. Co-chairman are Mrs. Rose Von Hassell and Mrs. Ruth Vineyard.

Refreshments were served to ten members by Mrs. Evelyn Pachall and Mrs. Hansen.

New Pope uses press in New York

NEW YORK (AP)- The Episcopal Church, descended from the Protestant break with Rome in the 16th century, is becoming a major publishing outlet of the new Roman Catholic pope.

The church's publishing house, Seabury Press, says it has acquired exclusive publishing rights to three books written by Pope John Paul II while he still was Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Krakow, Poland.

One of the books, "Sign of Contradiction," a Bible-based book of spiritual renewal in the modern world, is to be issued in Feburary, with others, "Love and Responsibility" and "Peace and Joy," in preparation.

Seabury also has scheduled publication next spring of a major biography of the pope, being completed by the Rev. Mieczyslaw Milinsky, University of Krakow chaplain and life-long friend of the pope.

DALLAS GROUP DUE HERE
. . . to make people aware of deaf

Christ's Fellowship Center to share with the deaf

Christ's Fellowship Center at FM 700 and 11th Pl. will hold a special meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21 to share the gospel with deaf people. The second purpose is to make hearing people more aware of the deaf.

The program will be presented by the Signs of the Covenant, who are from the Christ for the Nations Institute in Dallas.

The group includes 12 persons from various parts of the United States who sing both with their voices and with sign language.

They attempt to share the gospel with the deaf, claiming the deaf need to know the gospel. They also attempt to make hearing people more aware.

Relatively few people know about the deaf. The group from Dallas say most people do not know of the needs of the deaf. Currently, there are not nearly enough people to work with the deaf.

The group travels throughout Texas on weekends and holidays ministering in churches of any denomination, both Protestant and Catholic. They also share about deaf awareness in other places such as community organizations and rehabilitation centers.

Supper set at church

A Family Night supper for Thanksgiving will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday at the church.

Members are asked to bring a covered dish. The program will include slides of the year's activities since it is the 88th birthday of the church, according to the Rev. Wm. F. Henning, pastor.

New members who have joined the church in recent months will be guests of honor.

Also on Sunday, the Rev. Gage Lloyd and the Rev. Shirley Guthrie, both of Big Spring, will take part in an installation service at First Presbyterian Church in Pecos. The Rev. Ben Gillespie will be installed as pastor of that congregation.

Methodists present award

LONDON (AP)- The World Methodist Council has chosen Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for its World Peace Award, hailing him for his "courage, creativity and consistency" in the cause of peace, the council's chairman, the Rev. Dr. Kenneth Greet, has announced.

The Rev. Joe Hale, general secretary of the council, which involves about 45 million Methodists around the world, said the award generally was intended for some little-known Christian working in behalf of peace.

But this time, he said, the overwhelming consensus was for it to go to Sadat, a Moslem, not only because of his bold and dramatic efforts toward ending the 30-year deadlock between Israel and Egypt, but because of his fostering of good will between religious communities.

Latter Day Saints schedule quarterly

He taught one year at the University of Utah Institute of Religion before being called as president of the Texas South Mission.

One missionary who served under him in the South Texas Mission said, "I was really impressed with his command of the scriptures, and his ability to explain them so they could so easily be understood by anyone."

After three years in the Mission field, Elder Laren taught at the Ogden, Utah Institute of Religion, has been coordinator of curriculum planning for the church, director of instructional materials and then editor of the Church Magazines.

He stated, "My goal is to help people discover the gospel and help them enjoy living its principles. I hope it does as much for them as it has for me."

TWO POINTS . . . Big Spring Steer Mark Poss prepares to launch a short jump shot over an Ector Eagle in the Steers 51-47 win last night. BigSpring's John Fleckenstein awaits a possible rebound.

Scrappy Steers defeat Ector

The Big Spring Steer basketball team opened the season on a winning note last night with an exciting 51-47 over perennial Class AAA powerhouse Odessa Ector Eagles.

The Steers, playing without the services of two starters that are temporarily ineligible, played the game with one returning starter. The remainder of the team were either junior varisty graduates or transfers, but they played like experienced vets in the pressure packed ending.

Ector jumped off to an 8-2 lead four minutes into the game, but Big Spring rallied to even the score at ten at the end of the stanza.

The second quarter was a fierce struggle, with neither side able to go ahead by more than two points. The Steers ended on top by a 22-21 count.

Ector came out and jumped into their biggest lead in the second half, 28-24, early in the third period, but Big Spring rallied to take a lead they never relinquished at the third stanza buzzer on a jump shot by Mark Poss.

Poss, whose ten third quarter points had carried the Steers into a slight lead, drew his fourth personal foul thirty seconds into the last period and left the game momentarily. This didn't stop the Steer attack, however, as James Magers and James Cooper added key buckets to enlarge the Big Spring lead to six.

Big Spring Coach Tommy Collins ordered the delay game with four minutes remaining, but Ector still managed to have two chances in the final minute and a half to tie the score. The first time the scrappy Steers fought for a rebound on an errant Ector shot, then Magers made a timely steal of an Eagle pass with thirty seconds remaining.

The Steers then displayed some excellent passing, winding the clock to the buzzer without allowing Ector to foul or turn the ball over. Poss added icing to the victory by concluding the passing delay with a short bank shot at the final buzzer.

Collins was happy with the first game performance of his crew. "Overall, I was real pleased. We did what we had to do to win, and this was the key. We had to come out of our regular defense due to foul trouble in the second quarter. This was hard because of our depth problem, but the players made good adjustments. We handled their press pretty good throughout the game. I also thought that we did a real good job of handling pressure in the delay game."

Poss played an aggressive game and led all scorers with 24 points. Cooper, a transfer from Mexia, played an excellent first game, scoring 11 points and adding some important rebounding. Magers played a good floor game, and guard Tony Rubio played a smart one. Ector's guards were quicker, but Rubio exhibited smart position basketball to overcome the deficiency.

Collins and the players were most appreciative following the game in regard to the fans. Collins said: "There are no group of fans anywhere that are more loyal. They made as much noise at 2,500 people. I appreciate that, and our players also stated that the fans were inspirational to them."

The Steers hit the road for a Saturday night contest against Fort Worth Western Hills, then return to Steer Gym for a Tuesday night game against the tough Snyder Tigers.

Hawk rally fails

ODESSA — The Howard College Hawks rallied twice in the first round of the Odessa College Tournament, only to finally fall one point short in overtime to St. Phillips. The final score was 113-112.

St. Phillips came out red hot to storm to a 28-6 lead. During this stretch, the Hawks were just the opposite, as they couldn't find their range. They rallied at halftime, however, to cut the deficit to ten at 57-47.

St. Phillips increased the lead to 17 points with only six minutes remaining, but at this point Coach Harold Wilder's crew staged a furious rally. Behind the bombing of Robby Randolph, Howard College tied the game and actually had the last chance shot to win the game in regulation.

Howard College took a lead in the overtime period, but their opponents made a comeback of their own to win the contest.

Despite the loss, Wilder was proud of his troops: "We didn't play to well at first, but I was really proud of the way our guys came back. We never gave up, and that showed a lot of character."

Howard College plays the Angelo State JV's this afternoon at two o'clock in the consolation. Angelo lost to Midland College yesterday.

Randolph led the Hawks with 38 points, followed by Michael Wallace with 23 and Allen Bonds with 18. Mark Taylor led St. Phillips with 36.

Jabbar enjoys new role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have won their last 11 games, and during that span a new-look Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has borne a striking resemblance to a National Basketball Association center of the past. It's no coincidence.

"I remember when Wilt Chamberlain led in all kinds of statistical categories," said Abdul-Jabbar, "but Bill Russell's Boston teams won the championships. Wilt had the personal glory but Russell was held in as much esteem."

Abdul-Jabbar has been the game's most dominating figure in recent years, rolling up the points by endlessly flipping his skyhook over defenders. But now, at 31, he's playing Bill Russell-style basketball.

Suddenly he's become the NBA's top passing center, averaging better than six assists a game. During the winning streak, he's averaged nearly 12 rebounds and four blocked shots per outing. He's been clearing the ball out fast — a key to the Lakers' deadly fast break.

At times, the 7-foot-2 center has actually been on the leading end of the fast break, sprinting down the floor for layins.

Using his skyhook judiciously, he's averaged 24 points a game, 5 points below his career average.

He doesn't really have to score, with forwards Adrian Dantley and Jamaal Wilkes and guard Norm Nixon providing plenty of points — many on the big center's feeds.

Abdul-Jabbar, a five-time NBA Most Valuable Player, happily accepts the change.

"My role has changed a lot," he said. "I don't have to shoulder the responsibility of scoring. We're a lot more difficult to defend because they can't just key on me anymore."

Arkansas win means Fiesta

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arkansas will be invited to play in the Fiesta Bowl on Christmas Day if the Razorbacks stop Texas A&M Saturday, Fiesta Bowl President Bill Shover said Thursday.

Shover confirmed an earlier Associated Press story that the Razorbacks would receive a bid Saturday afternoon with a victory over Texas A&M.

"Arkansas is the No. 1 team for one of our berths," Shover said. "Our interest in Arkansas has always been high."

Shover said Ohio State has been added to the list of possible teams for the other berth. He said Ohio State was added when the school's athletic council voted to rescind a 1975 decision which limited the Buckeyes to the Rose, Orange, Sugar and Cotton bowls.

"We would like to see Michigan become available," he said. A loss to Purdue would eliminate the Wolverines from the Rose Bowl and put them in line for the Fiesta Bowl.

In addition to Ohio State, Arkansas and Michigan, also under consideration are Oklahoma, Texas, Southern California and UCLA.

FINDING HIS MAN — Los Angeles Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar watches a pass sail over Milwaukee Bucks Kent Bensen and into the hands of Jamaal Wilkes during second quarter National Basketball Association action Tuesday night in Milwaukee. Abdul-Jabbar scored 30 points, pulled in 12 rebounds and collected nine assists and the Lakers defeated the Bucks 137-119.

Steers host Bobcats

Two teams that have failed to crack the win column meet tonight with one last chance to vent their frustrations for the 1978 season when the Big Spring Steers host the San Angelo Bobcats.

The Harris Rating System has the Bobcats as favorites in the contest, but the Bovines are hoping to utilize the home field advantage. Elsewhere around the district, Permian is a heavy favorite over Odessa High, Lee two-touchdown choice over Midland, with the Abilene-Abilene Cooper contest rated as a near tossup.

Both teams are in the bottom echelon of the district statistics as a team. San Angelo is last in total defense and sixth in total offense. Big Spring is seventh in team defense and last in total offense.

The Bobcat offense has been very erratic thus far. One game they will be extremely cold, and the next week score as many as five touchdowns. Steer boss Ron Logback believes that this is due to the fact that San Angelo has tried so many sets and variations off these formations that they have not tried to establish a consistent pattern. Of course, much of this is due to the fact that the Angry Orange defenders have been very leaky and forced San Angelo to play catchup.

Offensively, San Angelo has some outstanding individuals in tailback Glen Payne and wide receiver Doug Larson. Payne, fifth in the district in rushing, needs only 36 yards to overtake Bill Woodard as the leading ground gainer in Central history. Payne, the loop's leading receiver, lacks only five catches to catch former Bobcat Frankie Stringer's season receiving mark.

Big Spring broke a three-game scoring drought last week by using three passes for touchdowns. Both Billy Ray Johnson and Ricky Myers threw scoring tosses, with Joe Willie Jones catching two scores and Mike Evans one. Jones had an excellent game, and therefore moved into third place among district receivers. Tailback Eddie Puga also showed a flash of brilliance in the contest by returning a kickoff 85 yards to paydirt, only to be called back for an infraction.

The Big Spring defense, like their opposition tonight, have been very leaky this year. If the Steers hope to entertain the chance of winning, they will have to play a good defensive game against the explosive but unpredictable Bobcats.

Big Spring is 0-6 in district and 0-9 on the year. San Angelo is 0-6 in league play and 1-8 on the year. The Bobcats decisioned Austin Anderson.

Stanton at Forsan

The Forsan Buffaloes host the Stanton Buffaloes tonight in the first rivalry between the two schools in recent years. Game time is 7:30.

Forsan has found Class A to be much tougher than Class B was last year. The Buffaloes have a district mark of 1-5, and a record of 2-7 for the 1978 season.

Stanton lost a tight 13-8 game last week for the District 5-A championship. They sport a loop record of 4-1-1 and a season mark of 5-3-1. Their two non-district losses were to Class AA toughies Coahoma and Tahoka.

Forsan Coach George White will start an offensive lineup headed by quarterback Ernie Strickland, fullback Rusty Henderson, halfback Randy Cregar and Flanker Joe Kinder. The line will consist of center Will Gressett, guards D. F. Stanley and Kevin Lowe, tackles Dayton Robertson and Todd Underwood, and ends Tim Decker and David Bates.

Stanton Coach David Thompson will start on offensive line boasting Miles Tollison at center, Dennis Martin and Scott Robinson at guards, Russell Oglesby and John Parker at tackles, and Paul Sparks and Ben Bowlin at the ends. The elusive Stanton backfield will be led into action by quarterback Tommy Morrow. Mitch Elmore starts at fullback, with speedster Todd Smith at tailback and Richard Perez at wingback.

Coahoma at Stamford

STAMFORD — The Coahoma Bulldogs will be hoping to conclude a very successful season on a winning note tonight when they travel to Stamford.

The Bulldogs lost their first game of the year last week, a heartbreaking 3-0 loss to Colorado City. The Bulldogs of Stamford, winners over Merkel by a 28-0 count, also suffered their only loss in district play to Colorado City by the same score. Coahoma is 5-1 in district action and 8-1 on the year. Stamford is 5-1 in league play and 7-1-1 for 1978.

Coahoma Head Coach Roy Winters was pleased with the effort of his team in last week's defeat. He expects no letdown due to the loss. The Big Red Machine will start an offensive line featuring ends Randy Phillips and Randy Clanton, tackles Gary Bayes and James Devers, guards Kyle Bennett and Mike Ritchey, and center Jim Bob Read. The backfield will be headed by quarterback Gary Gee, with Gary Paige at fullback, and Ronald Sundy and Tim Childers at halfbacks.

FLYING HIGH — Virginia Wade of England makes a leaping return to Kerry Reid of Australia during Thursday night's quarterfinals of the $250,000 Series Championship at Mission Hills Country Club in Rancho Mirage. The 1977 Wimbledon winner outlasted Ried 6-2, 3-6, 6-3 to advance to Friday's semifinals against defending champion Chris Evert.

Earl the Pearl shows old form

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Earl Monroe, known in National Basketball Association circles as "The Pearl," added polish to his status as a gem Thursday night.

The 34-year-old guard for the New York Knicks, playing in only his second game since ending a contract dispute that kept him sidelined through the first month of the season, came off the bench to spark the Knicks to a 97-93 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The spindly-legged veteran tossed in 15 of his 17 points in the second half, helping the Knicks erase an 11-point, thirdperiod deficit and keeping them close until forward Toby Knight's basket and two free throws in the final 1:20 of play sealed the victory.

In the only other NBA game Thursday night, San Diego nipped Golden State, 112-109.

"I didn't expect to play that much, but we had foul problems and there I was," Monroe said, a happy smile creasing his tired face. "I felt like I was wearing a lead jacket.

"I think I'm in terrible condition. It's going to take another two weeks to get in good condition. And there's a big difference between being in condition and being in game condition," he added.

Coach Red Holzman, whose Knicks are 3-0 since he took over the reins from Willis Reed, smiled knowingly when asked about Monroe. "I was very, very surprised he was able to do all that. He got bumped around pretty good and he had to reach down a little."

Goliad JHS sweeps Snyder

The Goliad Black Team defeated the Snyder Gold Team 16 to 6 Thursday night in the first game of a doubleheader involving Big Spring's and Snyder's seventh grade football teams.

The first score in the game came in the 2nd quarter when quarterback Marty Rodriquez completed a 25-yard pass to tightend Robert Porras. Tailback Eric Sherman ran the 2 point conversion in to make the score 8 to 0. Goliad led at halftime 8 to 6.

Goliad scored again in the 3rd quarter when Rodriquez ran from 6 yards out on a quarterback sneak. The PAT was good as Scott Richardson stepped in for the 2 points. This completed all of the scoring as Goliad took a 16 to 6 decision in the final game of the year.

Outstanding offensive performers were Sherman, Rodriquez, Jerry Wrightsil, and the entire offensive line of Daniel Arista, Mike McKinley, Pete Crabtree, Mike Brown, and Guy Gosciniak.

Outstanding on defense were Wrightsil, McKinley, Richardson, and Rodriquez.

This game ended the season for the Black Team as they finished with a record of 4 wins and 4 losses.

The second game of the evening ended on a winning note as the Goliad White Team defeated the Snyder Black Team 26 to 6.

Goliad scored in the first quarter when quarterback Mark Johnson scored on the opening offensive play on 45 yard quarterback sneak behind the blocking of center David Villareal. The 2 point conversion was good on an Alijah Aldridge run.

The second score came on another sneak of 1 yard by Johnson in the 2nd quarter. Johnson mixed up running plays by Holston Banks and Larry Hamilton as they piled up yardage with nifty running and good pass receptions by Blake Ford, Juan Williams, and Charlie Ragan.

On the kickoff after Goliad had made the score 14 to 0, Snyder fumbled and Goliad recovered on Snyder's 40 yard line. Goliad took the ball in and scored to take a commanding lead at halftime 20 to 0.

Goliad scored again in the 3rd quarter after a drive that consumed the entire quarter.

Outstanding on defense for the game were Villareal, Jay Gonzales, David Deal, Luis Rios, and Scott Stanton.

An outstanding statistic of the game was the ball control portion. Goliad had the ball for at least 18 for the 24 minutes of the contest. The game marked the end of the season as the Goliad White Team finished with a record of 5 wins, 1 lose, and 1 tie.

Modern tennis behind the times

NEW YORK (AP) — The modern sports fan, insists tennis' most strident revolutionary, still fits the mold attributed to it by the late circus impresario, P. T. Barnum:

"There's a sucker born every minute."

"It's beyond my comprehension that the public doesn't rise up in mass protest against the abuses foisted on it by tennis promoters and the tennis players," says James Van Alen of Newport, R. I., Cambridge-educated socialite, long-time tennis patron and founder of the Tennis Hall of Fame.

"The game, as currently played, is draggy and archaic. The administrators have no regard at all for spectator entertainment. The new kids are court monsters — ill behaved, utterly lacking in style with only disdain for the people who pay to watch them.

"Most of them couldn't earn $5 working in a gas station but are drawing down astronomical — or should I say gastronomical — hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in prize money.

"The game is deteriorating fast from lack of modernization and imagination. The only thing that can save it is a revolt by the masses."

Van Alen, sixtyish, is a highly-charged little man always on the move. He crosses oceans the way most people cross streets. He rushes around the world with his arms loaded with papers.

Boise State coach admits illegality

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — In an attempt to defeat Northern Arizona and win the Big Sky Conference football title, Boise State University football Coach Jim Criner says he financed an illegal scouting attempt by a California teacher against the Lumberjack football team.

Criner, after having denied for the past week any involvement in a scouting venture, said Wednesday night he paid a "close friend" — Cal State-Hayward physical education teacher Bob Rodrigo — for an attempt to scout a NAU football practice prior to last Saturday's Big Sky Conference championship game.

BSU officials reacted to Criner's statements with caution.

"The first time I talked to Jim was today and he told me what I feel to be the complete story, but I'm going to investigate it further," said university President John Keiser. He refused to say whether Criner's job was in danger.

Athletic Director Lyle Smith said Criner had made a "grave error." But he didn't know what the coach's future would be.

Criner may face sanctions from the conference, said Commissioner Steve Belko, but that will be up to a violations committee.

"Jim has admitted he made mistakes and from there it's in their hands," Belko said. One possible sanction, Belko said, is that Criner might be prohibited from recruiting for some period of time. But to predict what the violations committee would do "would be a guess on my part," Belko said.

USC-UCLA highlight college weekend

By the Associated Press

It's showdown in show town when Southern Cal and UCLA renew their backyard feud in Los Angeles, while an extra helping of grits is the order in the Deep South where unpredictable, unimpressive Auburn challenges the title aspirations of eighth-ranked Georgia.

These are the sources of this week's upset specials in college football. The Trojans and Bulldogs have the edge in talent and statistics, but, as the commercial says, it's not the dog in the fight that counts — it's the fight in the dog.

Last week: 38-15, .715 (Nebraska over Oklahoma). Season: 348-124, .737.

UCLA 25, Southern Cal 22: Rick Bashore picks up more yardage with his arm for UCLA than Charles White gets for USC with his legs.

Nebraska 38, Missouri 13: Hipp, Berns & Co. still on the wave of euphoria but should beware of a letdown.

Oklahoma 21, Oklahoma State 13: Normally the difference would be greater but this isn't a normal week for the downcast Sooners.

Michigan 34, Purdue 20: Rick Leach gets a chance to build on his Heisman Trophy credentials.

Auburn 18, Georgia 15: The Plainsmen have looked alternately good and miserable — should be ready for a high.

Texas 30, Texas Christian 7: Rarely do the Longhorns come so far with so little to play for.

Notre Dame 20, Georgia Tech 7: Our Dixie spies say Tech will pull an upset. The Irish are too deep in talent.

Clemson 22, Maryland 17: The Terps are slightly favored among the oddsmakers. Clemson has Steve Fuller and a good defense.

Arkansas 26, Texas A&M 20: The Razorbacks' Ron Calgagni has a 61 percent completion average, which should suffice.

Michigan State 33, Northwestern 7: This one is such a cinch they took it off the betting line.

Mississippi State 24, Louisiana State 20: Both come off losses but Charley McClendon's boys at LSU took the worst beating.

Pittsburgh 27, Army 6: No Blanchard and Davis touchdown twins on this Army 11, only sweet memories.

Ohio State 36, Indiana 14: Woody Hayes, with a 6-2-1 mark, is just playing out the string.

Yale 15, Harvard 7: The Blue and the Crimson — there was a day the whole nation would be watching and listening.

Florida State 22, Navy 14: A fine year for the Midshipmen, who can turn attention to the Army game.

Drought persists in Corn Belt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought areas persist in parts of the country but the Corn Belt has enough soil moisture to warrant predictions that crops there can get off to a fast start next spring, according to two government weather analysts.

Dry weather has stunted winter wheat growth in the Plains and raises the possibility of widespread dust storms and wind erosion damage to land, they said.

The analysts, R. E. Felch and J. L. Lambert, made their report at the Agriculture Department's annual outlook conference Thursday, the conclusion of the four-day meeting.

They said the Soviet Union, which harvested a record grain crop this year, has a favorable soil moisture reserve and could produce another good harvest in 1979.

Recent and current weather patterns are important in trying to figure out next year's potential harvests of wheat, corn, soybeans and other crops, they said.

"For example, the rainfall patterns of recent weeks have helped to determine how much soil moisture the corn and soybean crop of 1979 will have available for growth," the report said.

Farmers currently are completing record harvests of corn and soybeans and soon will be planning their 1979 crops.

"Compared to a year ago, conditions east of the Rockies are generally drier with moderate to extreme drought over the southeastern Great Plains and moderate drought over much of the Southeast," the report said. "Very heavy precipitation last winter has erased the severe drought which had prevailed in the West."

Conditions across the entire winter wheat belt of the Great Plains "are much drier than a year ago" and precipitation last month was less than 50 percent of normal for October over the entire central and southern Plains, the report said.

The area includes parts of Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas.

"In general, the certainty of adequate moisture for the 1978-79 (winter wheat) crop is much less than a year ago and the Great Plains will be very susceptible to blowing," it said.

Looking at the Corn Belt — which includes the big corn and soybean states of Illinois and Iowa — the analysts said that in general "the odds are in favor of a normal planting season" next spring and "possibly a little earlier than usual."

They said that, "with normal rainfall patterns," soil moisture in the Corn Belt "will be near capacity at the beginning of the growing season" next year.

In the Soviet Union, farmers for the second year in a row planted winter wheat this fall under favorable soil-moisture conditions, the report said.

As usual in the Soviet Union, the wheat will be subject to winterkill from cold weather in the coming months.

Consumer aide speaks out on inflation points

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food is one of the items uppermost in the minds of consumers as they think about inflation, but Esther Peterson says a few other things also need to be talked about.

Mrs. Peterson, who is President Carter's chief consumer aide, says manufacturers complain a lot about the "cost of consumer protection" that federal regulations require in a variety of products to help insure the safety and health of the public.

"I'm always a little teed off on that," she told a final session of the Agriculture Department's outlook conference Thursday.

For instance, Mrs. Peterson said, the cost of making safer automobile bumpers is a complaint.

"But did they ever ask us if we want that chrome-plate bumper?," she said. "No, they don't."

Inflation is hurting consumers more today because "it is concentrated primarily in the esssentials — food, housing, health and energy" unlike in 1974, when it was about the same in all commodities, she said.

"Inflation in the essentials this year is double that of other commodities, and food inflation, as you know, plays a unique role in our perceptions," Mrs. Peterson said.

Meat prices, led by a 25 percent boost in beef at supermarket counters, "have an even more profound effect on consumer perceptions" of inflation, she said.

Spy planes sent to Cuba recently

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's most-sophisticated spy planes have been dispatched over Cuba in attempts to determine whether new Soviet-built fighter planes are capable of firing nuclear weapons, administration sources say.

Cameras and sensors aboard the spy planes have been aimed at Russian MiG-23s, reported to have arrived recently in Cuba, in hopes of learning whether they are designed strictly for air defense or have some "offensive" capability, the sources said Thursday night.

The Air Force SR-71 overflights, which would require approval by President Carter, are considered so sensitive some government officials were ordered to remain silent about them. White House officials refused any comment.

Other sources, refusing to be identified in any way, confirmed the flights.

However, it was not clear whether the missions are continuing and there was no word on what they have found.

The presence of Russian nuclear weapons in Cuba is forbidden by a 1962 U.S.-Soviet understanding that followed the near-war crisis over arrival of Russian offensive missiles on the island republic 90 miles south of Florida.

U.S. officials have said they learned by intelligence means that a Russian freighter recently delivered to Cuba 18 to 20 of the MiG-23s, which are among the most advanced of Russia's fighter aircraft.

The Soviet Union has sent MiG-21 fighters to Cuba in the past, but those are principally air defense planes armed with conventional weapons.

They call it Odessa

with Marj Carpenter

They call it Odessa. That's a city to the west of here about 55 miles away. (as if you didn't know.)

We call it a lot of other things around here when Permian beats us in football or they manage to get the Texas Tech medical hospital and training center for which we know we were the best qualified. The things we call it are not printable in a family newspaper.

But there was a time that Big Spring was a lot bigger than Odessa. But back in those days, too many people were listening to the folks that were trying to halt progress and keep everything the same.

Nowadays, the local loud and vocal group that occasionally try to halt progress are fortunately often ignored by the majority of the populace.

But Ector County, as such, was named for Mathew Duncan Ector, who was a Georgia legislator before he moved to Henderson in 1850.

He rose from private to brigadier general in the Confederate Army. That's really climbing the ranks. He was one of the district judges removed by General Sheridan as an impediment to Reconstruction. Then he later became the first presiding judge of the Court of Appeals in Texas.

Ector County was organized in 1891 and the population was 224. Big Spring had a lot more residents than that at that time.

One of the Texas and Pacific railroad officials thought the country resembled the steppes of Russia (whatever those are) and named it Odessa. The first courthouse was a sanitarium that had been moved onto the square. A courthouse was first built in 1904 and was replaced in 1938 by a $245,000 model which was enlarged and again remodeled in 1964 at a cost of $1.5 million.

One source says there are two different legends on how Odessa got its name. One is that Russian railroad laborers thought the flat plains resembled their homeland in the Ukraine and called it Odessa.

There is another more romantic story that says a beautiful Indian maiden named Odessa died there and her name was given to the frontier settlement.

The Post Office was officially established Oct. 10, 1887. There's a character over in Pecos getting up in years that started the Oessa American and later sold it. He also started the Pecos newspaper and later sold that. And he started the Pecos radio Station, KIUN and recently sold it. His name is Barney Hubbs and he's a walking history on West Texas newspapers.

Ector County's growth began in the 1920s when the oil started coming in and they encouraged the working oil man to live in Odessa. A lot of the production offices are in Midland but the workers settled over in Odessa.

The town now includes a junior college, UTPB for the last two years of college and three high schools — Permian, Odessa and Ector. Odessa High is the oldest and original high school.

Permian is in the newer part of town and Ector us on the South side of town, and except for a couple high schools in Lubbock, is probably one of the most segregated minority high schools left in West Texas.

The town has the national oil show every second year and so many people come that they fill up the motels on IS 20 all the way to Big Spring. The alternate years the oil show is held in Tulsa.

They have a go-ginning chamber manager, Art Roberts, who used to be over in Lamesa. John Ben Sheppard, a former state attorney general, joins a lot of other history buffs in Odessa in helping with the Permian Basin Historical Foundation.

They have a museum which honors American presidents and it is very unique and worth the time to visit. It's downtown located near the colorful Inn of the Golden West.

Some of the paintings of Marion Russell from Pecos, of the presidents, are featured including one of Sam Houston and one of Lyndon Johnson.

Agree with it or disagree with it, Odessa is a thriving booming town in which it's difficult to find a place to live because the town is always full. They have a lot of things going for it . . . and a lot of good people there that sometimes out — hustle their neighbors — although I personally prefer good old Big Spring — out where I ride fence.

Man is shot after taking woman hostage

WEST BRIDGEWATER, Mass. (AP) — A man who invaded a Bridgewater home and dragged off the wife of a food store manager was shot at dawn today after holding the woman hostage for more than five hours in a car here, police said.

Police said the woman hostage was unharmed.

State Police Lt. Raymond Paposa identified the wounded man as Donald Johnson, 43, of Randolph. He was taken to Cardinal Cushing Hospital in Brockton, where Raposa said he was undergoing surgery and reported in "very bad condition." The lieutenant said Johnson had been wounded once.

Police had surrounded the gunman's vehicle at a busy intersection in the center of this eastern Massachusetts community shortly after midnight, blocking a getaway.
