DEBT ACCORD HAILED AS HERALD OF PROSPERITY

CANDIDATE FOR STERLING'S JOB STATES ISSUES

More Than 10,000 Hear Wichitan Plead For Governorship

ASSAILS TRUSTS

Waste in High Offices And High Taxes Cited By Speaker

An attendance of more than 10,000 Northwest Texans, attention which was a marked tribute to the speaker, and applause which amounted to a rousing ovation greeted the appearance of Tom F. Hunter of this city on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium Friday night in an impassioned plea for election as the next governor of Texas.

Enthusiasm which precipitated a wild outburst of cheering at Mr. Hunter's first appearance upon the platform gave way to a profound silence as he launched into a fervent plea for restoration of popular government. The vast audience comprised almost wholly of adult men and women accorded the candidate the closest attention, but marked the sincerity of its response with frequent and spirited rounds of applause as he hammered incessantly on burdensome taxation, on monopolistic business enterprise, and upon idustrial stagnation.

Man Power vs. Money Power

Mr. Hunter's address opened with a stirring appeal for greater interest on the part of individual citizens in governmental affairs, and in issues and candidates in the current political race.

"This is a battle of man power against money power," he declared, "and no one man, nor any small group of men, can redeem a suffering people from the deplorable distress which now is upon us. If chosen as your governor for the next two years—and I shall be!—there will be put into effect every word, every statement, of my platform, or there will be a bear-fight in that capitol every day that I am there."

Utilities concerns operating in Texas were made the object of Mr. Hunter's most pointed single attack. After citing specific instances of alleged high-handedness and excessive charges by various gas, electric, and telephone companies, he charged that such enterprises are unfairly taking $80,000,000 or more annually from citizens of this state. Such operations, he urged, are permitted under present laws of the state.

Gas Company Assailed

Companies dealing in natural gas for fuel purposes, Mr. Hunter declared, have acquired a more complete and sinister control of their industry than any other branch of commercial enterprise in this country. He cited the existing schedule of gas rates in Wichita Falls as "typical of the legalized thievery which such concerns are exercising throughout the state."

Charging that the Municipal Gas company extorts by excessive charges here annually more than $400,000, he added that "their enormous profits are distributed by bookkeeping manipulation in an effort to give the system an appearance of decency."

Mr. Hunter also declared that the entire nation is in danger from too great centralization of wealth. Asserting that one per cent of the people of the United States own more than the other 120,000,000 residents, he charged also that wealth is centralized in localities as well as in individuals.

"This," he continued, "is the explanation of why our tax system is a broken-down, inadequate system."

The speaker, with brief exposition of his views, also urged a reduction in poll taxes, urging his conviction that the present tax of $1.75 per capita "materially reduces the voting strength of the plain people through whose action alone relief may be obtained"; enactment of an equity of redemption law, permitting the owner of foreclosed property sufficient time to redeem his home; and a tax upon chain stores which would preserve for independent merchants a fair opportunity for self-preservation.

Three Bands Play

Incident to the gathering of hundreds of supporters from other communities, the Hunter rally was featured by the presence of three bands. The Iowa Park Triangle band, the Burkburnett band, and the Los Caballeros band, directed by A. Goetze, E. L. Nichols and Paul Seeds respectively, played in the downtown section between 7 and 8 o'clock, and presented a massed-band concert at the auditorium before Mr. Hunter was introduced.

Introduced by J. B. Marlow, local Hunter leader, Dr. J. C. A. Guest read a large number of telegrams from all over the state promising victorious support for Mr. Hunter in the coming primary. In presenting the gubernatorial candidate, Judge John C. Kay of this city said:

"Any man who will not support his neighbor, if that neighbor be honest, upright, clean and competent, has something wrong with his heart or his head. You are going to vote for your neighbor and mine, the next governor of Texas."

Following Mr. Hunter's address, Dillard Hinson and W. D. McFarlane of Graham, and George W.

Sterling Will Call Special Session In Fall For Tax Relief

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, July 8. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling announced here tonight he would call a special session of the Texas legislature next fall to consider tax relief measures for the state and the counties.

He said he would submit measures designed to reduce the cost of state government and to relieve counties of bonded indebtedness incurred for the construction of state highways.

The statement follows:

"It is my intention to call a special session of the legislature in the fall for submission of tax relief measures to eliminate cost in state operation and to relieve counties and road districts of their bonded indebtedness voted in the past for construction of state highways."

The statement was made to newspaper men and others after the governor had addressed the 56th cavalry, Texas national guard, in encampment here. Previously he had delivered a campaign speech at Graham.

It was not unexpected. For several weeks, on numerous occasions, Governor Sterling had declared a reduction in taxes was necessary and had commended the state highway commission for its new policy of allowing no further contributions from counties in building highways.

He spent the night in Mineral Wells, planning to leave tomorrow morning for Fort Worth and Tyler.

Hutton-St. Pierre Case to Jury Today

LOS ANGELES, July 8. (US)—"Thou art the man!"

Pointing an accusing finger at the rotund defendant, Lorrin Andrews, chief counsel for Myrtle St. Pierre, late today characterized David (Baby Boy) Hutton as a philandering psalmist whose love song has turned into a $200,000 sour note.

It was the final chapter in the speech in which the lawyer painted the husband of the former Aimee Semple McPherson as a "ruiner of a good woman," before a jury of seven men and five women.

At the conclusion of this argument Judge Lester Roth adjourned court and announced he would deliver his final charge to the jury tomorrow morning.

Missing Yacht Reported Safe

WASHINGTON, July 8. (US)—The long missing racing yacht Curlew which carried a crew of six tonight was reported "safe" by coastguard headquarters.

Information relayed here from the coastguard destroyer force base at New London, Conn., declared the cutter Marion had found the Curlew near the "Davis south shoals buoy." Davis shoals are about 20 miles north of Nantucket.

The message from the destroyer Force was received here at 7:35 p. m. The Curlew was reported in the message to be heading for New York.

The yacht disappeared on the Montauk-Bermuda sailing vessel race in which her 28 other rivals all reached their goal safely.

Aged Hitch-Hiker Dies After Drinking Poison

VICTORIA, Texas, July 8. (INS)—An elderly man who registered at a hotel here as S. R. Campbell of Dallas drank poison at a filling station here today.

He had gone to the station to hail a ride to Houston. He was followed there by a hotel man from Tivoli where he had allegedly left an unpaid bill.

JURY RETURNS 28 TRUE BILLS

'Paper Sack Bandit' Named In Second Case

Jack Carter, "paper-sack bandit" returned by county officers from Abilene Thursday, faces two indictments for robbery as a result of action voted by the July grand jury which returned 28 felony indictments and one bill for a misdemeanor in a report Friday afternoon to Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court.

Carter recently was given 25 years for robbery at Abilene. He was indicted in connection with two cases of robbery here. Victims of the offenses were reported by county officers to have identified Carter, while he was imprisoned at Abilene, as the man who robbed them here.

Death Made Misdemeanor

Carter gained the designation "paper sack bandit" here in 1927 because of his use of paper bags to carry away money from cash registers which he tapped, usually in filling stations. He was sentenced June, 1927, to 10 years in the state penitentiary, and a few weeks ago was released on furlough.

The misdemeanor count returned by the grand jury is a charge of negligent homicide against Lynne Warren as a result of the death of Jim Dillard a few days ago. Dillard, a resident of the Friberg community, was said to have engaged in a fist fight with Warren back of a building on Ohio avenue.

Three men charged with box car burglary; one with forgery and passing; and four with child desertion are not yet under arrest, and are unnamed. The remaining 18 indictments are as follows:

Other Indictments

Milton Furr, burglary; O. J. Parham (colored), theft over $50; Leon Harvey, burglary; Lewis Worley, burglary; L. D. Vines, forgery and passing; John Butler, theft over $50, receiving and concealing over $50; John Bankhead, burglary of box car; J. E. Hales, theft, receiving and concealing, over $50; D. C. Carver, theft, receiving and concealing, over $50; Jim Brown, theft, receiving and concealing, over $50; Cecil Howard, theft, receiving and concealing, over $50; Ernest Walker, burglary of private residence; J. T. Davis, burglary private residence; G. C. Thedford, forgery, three cases; John Borms, burglary; Lacy Wingfield, box car burglary.

W. A. Roberts of Burkburnett foreman of the jury impaneled by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Tuesday morning, submitted the report. Judge Montgomery is acting as judge of the 78th, 89th and his own 30th district court this month.

Negro Prowler Jumps Fence as Owner Shoots

One Wichita Falls negro qualified for Olympic high jumping competition, with reservations, about midnight Friday when he topped a six-foot picket fence in the backyard of R. L. Matthews, 2211 Yale, and was spurred on by five pistol shots after Mr. Matthews found the negro stacking his garden tools in preparation for appropriating them. Detective George Garrett and Patrolman Tom Poe arrested a suspect shortly afterward.

CITIZENS BUDGET BALANCED STERLING TELLS GRAHAM

GRAHAM, Texas, July 8. (P)—Gov. R. S. Sterling spoke today at Graham's 60th anniversary festival, reviewing some of the outstanding points of his administration and touching briefly upon legislation he hopes to see enacted if he is re-elected.

He said the state treasury had a deficit of approximately $4,500,000 when he took office and proposed appropriations threatened to increase the deficit to $11,000,000. By vetoing some appropriations and instituting other economies, he explained that the state's financial affairs had been balanced. He said the treasury will close the fiscal year "on an even keel," making Texas one of the three states of the union having a balanced budget.

Improvements in the management of the state penitentiary were discussed in some detail, including various provisions for industrial development in order to supply inmates of the prison with food and clothes through their own efforts.

Governor Sterling pointed out the

WORLD FLIGHT ATTEMPT ENDS WITH CRASH

American Airmen Crack Up In Peat Bog Near Minsk, Russia

HURTS NOT SERIOUS

Mattern and Griffin Able To Visit Scene Of Accident

(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

MINSK, Russia, July 8.—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, American army pilots whose round-world flight attempt came to grief with a crack-up in a Russian peat bog northeast of here, are both severely but not dangerously injured.

Griffin has deep cuts in his right arm from wrist to elbow and severe cuts around his head. Mattern is the more serious, with a splintered right knee, and cuts on his right hand. Both fliers had gasoline thrown into their eyes when their plane crashed near Borisov early Thursday. They were located early Friday morning.

Despite their injuries, both Mattern and Griffin are able to move about, and yesterday accompanied agents of Osoaviachim, Soviet civil aviation society, to the scene of their crash to inspect the wrecked plane.

Plane Wrecked

Their red, white and blue Lockheed-Vega monoplane, Century of Progress, in which they established four records on their two-stage hop from New York to Berlin, is a ruin. The fuselage is smashed completely, one official said, and the rudder is broken.

Mattern and Griffin stayed last night at Minsk, 60 miles from the Polish frontier, and after inspecting the wreck of their plane today, decided to wait at Minsk until tomorrow before coming to Moscow.

The proprietor of their Minsk hotel said over the telephone that both fliers were able to get around, not seriously hurt. He said they spent the day in the country near Borisov, northeast of Minsk, inspecting the wreckage of their plane.

First word of the accident that ended Mattern's and Griffin's ambitious attempt to race round the world against the sun in better time than the Post-Gatty record of eight days, 15 hours, and 51 minutes, was flashed here from Borisov at 11 a. m. (4 p. m. eastern daylight time).

Searchers Recalled

Russian army planes that had taken off in search of the round-world ship when it became more than 24 hours overdue in Moscow were recalled. Mattern and Griffin were due in the Russian capital on their hop from Berlin at 11 p. m., eastern daylight time, Wednesday.

The time of the crack-up was fixed approximately at 4 p. m. yesterday, but word did not percolate through to Moscow until 21 hours later. Official sources would not release first reports until they had been carefilly checked.

To the handful of American newspaper correspondents, who had alone kept the second night's vigil

Shipping Interests Ask Moratorium on Loans

WASHINGTON, July 8. (US)—A moratorium on $150,000,000 loans advanced to American shipping interests was under consideration today by President Hoover and his cabinet.

Chairman T. V. O'Connor, of the shipping board, which authorized the loans from a revolving fund of $250,000,000, today told the president that the companies which benefitted by the extension of credit are unable to meet the payments. The payments should be suspended if it could be done within the law, he said. Attorney General Mitchell has been asked for a ruling.

Mayor Wins Hung Jury In Prohibition Law Case

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 8. (UP)—The third trial of Mayor T. H. Gideon, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, was ended without a verdict today.

The jury, deadlocked at 11 to 1 for acquittal, was discharged by Judge Albert L. Reeves after four hours of deliberation. Two other juries have failed to reach a verdict.

Gideon, who has characterized the government's charges as "a political frameup," will go to trial for the fourth time in September, U. S. Attorney W. L. Vandeventer said tonight.

Bill to Cut Interest On Vets' Loans Nears Passage

WASHINGTON, July 8. (P)—A measure reducing the interest rate on veterans' bonus loans and permitting holders to borrow on certificates less than two years old may be reported soon by the house ways and means committee. It already has been passed by the senate and Speaker Garner has said he "hoped" it would be passed by the house. House leaders have forecast early action.

Bonus Army Starts March Back Home

By CHARLES H. M'CANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Bonus army leaders, vainly trying to find sufficient money to feed their 15,000 men, tonight faced the prospect of a serious break in their ranks.

President Hoover late today signed the Howell bill, providing $100,000 for loans to bonus seekers in the form of transportation home and subsistence on the way.

News of the signature was telephoned at once to the veterans' bureau, and within a few minutes transportation certificates were being issued. It was hoped to send 200 men homeward by midnight. The bureau will remain open until midnight each day until July 14, when the offer expires.

Five hundred men in all applied for transportation today. Three hundred, who went away when told the money was not yet available, were expected back tomorrow with reinforcements.

As part of the plan to get the bonus army home, the veterans' bureau and the department of labor will cooperate in trying to obtain jobs for the veterans who leave.

CRACK DIVERS SPEED TO SUB

Salvage Ship Races in Hope Of Saving Seamen

CHERBOURG, France, July 8. (US)—The Italian salvage ship Artiglio II, whose divers are the most daring and able in Europe, tonight was steaming from Brest to the spot off Cape Levi where the crack French submarine Promethee carried 62 men to almost certain death.

At the most, the trapped men could live only 36 hours at the depth of more than 165 feet in the English channel. This time was up at 8 o'clock tonight, eastern daylight time, but even before that microphones sent down over the hulk of the submarine had detected no signs of life within.

Reports were current meanwhile in Cherbourgh that Commander Couespil Dumesnil, skipper of the

Chum Held in Death Of Smith Reynolds

WINSTON SALEM, N. C., July 8. (P)—Ab Walker, life-long chum of Smith Reynolds, was taken into custody by police here tonight as a material witness to events surrounding the death of the heir to the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco millions.

Although he was being kept under surveillance, the 19-year-old boy who told the first story of the tragic shooting was not placed in jail, and officers indicated he might be allowed to sleep in a guarded hotel room instead of at police station.

GARNER BACKS INVESTIGATION OF TREASURY

Speaker Accepts Challenge Of G. O. P. For Thorough Probe

FRAUD IS HINTED

Republican Member Makes Sensational Charges In House Speech

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

WASHINGTON, July 8. (US)—Speaker Garner in the house today interrupted Representative Louis T. McFadden, Republican of Pennsylvania, while he was making sensational charges of irregularities in the treasury department and threw his powerful influence behind the movement for a thorough investigation.

The federal reserve board and member banks in the federal reserve system as well as the comptroller general's office also would be investigated under the program set in motion by the speaker.

Tax Frauds Hinted

Charges that the treasury department has been derelict in collecting taxes; that privately-employed tax experts were in collusion to defraud the government, and unjustifiable tax refunds have been made, would be investigated.

Frequently reiterated charges that the federal reserve board has given foreign nations the use of the reserve system's credit in violation of the spirit of the law, also would be probed.

The house rules committee tomorrow will act on resolutions introduced by McFadden, providing for the board investigation by either the banking committee or one chosen by the speaker. Indications were the committee will report a resolution to the house not later than Monday.

With dramatic suddenness the far-reaching investigation was projected. When Speaker Garner first interrupted MacFadden, he said he had refrained from urging an investigation, because it would have unsettling effect upon the confidence of the country in the government; also that the Democrats would be charged with playing politics just before the elections.

Garner Accepts Challenge

But when Representative Michener of Michigan, acting Republican floor leader, interjected that the speaker's excuse for not having an investigation was not adequate and that if there was "fraud and corruption" in the department it should be exposed, Speaker Garner took it as a challenge. He announced the Democratic majority would move for the inquiry.

McFadden had said hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes was being withheld from the government through manipulation of tax experts. Over $900,000,000 in taxes is uncollected, he said.

"The Fox," Means Plead Not Guilty to Charges

WASHINGTON, July 8. (US)—Norman C. Whitaker and Gaston B. Means entered pleas of not guilty today when arraigned on charges of conspiring to steal $104,000 that Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean put up to ransom the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Whitaker, known as "The Fox," is alleged to have posed as the contact man with the kidnaping gang and to have conferred with Mrs. McLean and Means at Aiken, N. C. and El Paso, Texas, after she had given Means the money.

Means was recently convicted of the larceny of the money.

Missing Kansas Girl Believed Kidnap Victim

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 8. (P)—Police expressed fear today that 14-year-old Hyla Englehaupt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Englehaupt, who disappeared Tuesday noon, is the victim of kidnapers.

The girl was last seen walking near the business section of town.

F.D.R. GUARD

Texas Ranger Chief May Be Bodyguard For Roosevelt

DALLAS, July 8. (UP)—Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas, offered today to loan Adjutant General W. W. (Bill) Sterling, tall, thin-lipped chief of the Texas rangers, to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt as a bodyguard and traveling companion during the New Yorker's campaign for election to the presidency.

If Governor Roosevelt accepts the offer—made by telegraph—he will be the third person of presidential rank to be guarded by a Texan, and none of the others were shot, or even attacked, Governor Sterling promised the ranger chief would be as capable as the other guards.

Governor Sterling described the general as "commanding and completely typifying that historic, colorful and courageous band, the Texas rangers." He is six feet four inches tall in his stocking feet.

ACCORD FAILS ON RELIEF BILL

Compromise Collapses With Veto Certain

WASHINGTON, July 8. (P)—A Democratic attempt to compromise on an unemployment relief bill that would receive President Hoover's signature collapsed today through Speaker Garner's insistence upon a provision for loans to individuals.

As a result of the failure of the negotiations, leaders predicted tonight the $2,100,000,000 bill would be sent to the president probably tomorrow to receive an almost certain veto.

Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, refused to compromise with senate Democrats, as he previously had declined to yield to President Hoover.

Compromise Offered

The new effort to seek a compromise from Garner was made by a committee of three Democratic senators appointed by a conference of the senate minority earlier in the day.

Some of those in the conference felt it would be wiser to yield to the presidency before a veto than after, and proposed the negotiations with Garner.

Although there was considerable

Rockefeller Observes 93rd Birthday Quietly

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8. (US)—John D. Rockefeller Sr., was 93 today. His birthday celebration, a quiet family affair, varied but slightly from his daily routine.

Arising at 7 a. m., the oil king walked through the blooming gardens of his 3,000-acre estate in Pocantico hills.

Then, after a frugal breakfast, he omitted his customary game of solitaire to read congratulatory letters and telegrams, and to receive members of his household.

The aged philanthropist did not permit any press interview on his birthday this year, having issued his own birthday message to the newspapers last night.

Grizzly Bear Claws Zoo Keeper to Death

Brouse Through Patent Office Shows Freak Inventions

Authors Prowl And Find Bullets That Shoot Around Corners

By H. ALLEN SMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 8.—People who have been looking for a tapeworm trap, an air-cooled rocking chair, goggles for their chickens, bullets that shoot around corners, or even a device for creating and maintaining dimples, are herewith referred to the United States patent office where specifications of such articles are on file, duly stamped with the government's approval.

Two men have pried into the patent office records and out of their labors has come a compilation of strange inventions, which will be published here tomorrow under the title, "Beware of Imitations."

The contrivances have been designed for a wide variety of problems. A balloon propelled by harnessed eagles or vultures, patented in 1888, is pictured and described. There is a trackless railroad train which functions by the simple device of having tracks on top of the cars and ramps at either end, so that if another train comes along, it will run up over the top and down again.

Two methods of awakening the commuter are included. One is an alarm clock attachment which squirts water on the sleeper's neck, while the other drops 20 or 30 wooden blocks in his face.

A self-tipping derby hat, patented in 1896, contains a mechanism in the crown. The gentleman, when the lady approaches, bows slightly, whereupon his hat tips itself, leaving his arms free, presumably, to fight off wild beasts.

An electric bedbug exterminator is so designed as to "kill or startle" the bug, in which case "it will more than likely change its mind and return in the direction whence it came."

In 1868 a novel idea on coffins was born. It has a turret at the head, extending to the surface of the ground, and is equipped with a small ladder for climbing out and a bell for attracting attention in case the occupant happens to be buried prior to demise.

The problem of shooing horses and cows off railroad tracks was solved in 1884 when a patent was issued for a locomotive attachment which throws a stream of hot water some distance ahead, thereby scalding the animals and warning them to stand their distance.

The tapeworm trap, patented in 1854, is attached to a string and swallowed, whereupon, in the inventor's words, "the worm seizes the bait, and its head is caught in the trap." All that remains to be done is to pull the string.

The air-cooled rocking chair is equipped with bellows beneath the seat and a snake-headed pipe running up the back and out over the rocker's head, so that he gets puffs of air on his scalp with each rock.

An improved foot-warmer consists of two tubes extending to a single mouthpiece through which the sleeper breathes his warm breath onto his heels.

BUSINESS TO IMPROVE IS WIDE OPINION

Reparation Dispute Comes To End as Powers Agree At Lausanne

CONFEREES HAPPY

Germany's Final Payments To Former Foes Cut To $750,000,000

NEW YORK, July 8. (UP)—The Lausanne reparations agreement was hailed by financiers and business leaders today as lifting one of the last clouds overhanging world economic affairs.

Some believed that the turning point in the world depression was not far away and that results of the agreement would be felt in business channels before many more months.

Comment was generally cautious, however, in view of the scope of the plan and the somewhat meager details on the agreement that have reached this country.

Many points still must be settled, such as formal approval of the various nations entering into the agreement, and the prospective attitude of the United States government when foreign nations attempt to settle their $11,000,000,000 war debt to the American people.

The latter apparently is the principal obstacle to a wiping off of the reparations-war debt tangle. American public opinion so far is emphatically against any scaling of foreign war debts on this country.

Many bankers here believe, however, that this sentiment will change before the end of the year in view of the conciliatory attitude on the part of European nations looking toward cooperative action to promote economic recovery. At least the scrapping of reparations would strengthen prospects for American bankers and investors of salvaging the billions of dollars they loaned Europe in recent years.

COMMODITY PRICES CLIMB

NEW YORK, July 8. (UP)—Belief that commodity markets may be calling the turn in the business depression gained further headway today when wheat, cotton, rubber, sugar and coffee climaxed a long period of rising prices with further gains.

Universal improvement in speculative sentiment caused by the reparations settlement at Lausanne combined with local conditions to attract traders to the buying side of all commodities and sent a ripple of cheer through the business world.

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE ENDS REPARATION DISPUTE

LAUSANNE, July 8. (US)—Europe settled her reparations dispute today and representatives of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium and Japan tomorrow will sign formally an agreement by which Germany's final payment to her former foes will be reduced to $750,000,000.

As a result of the settlement, carrying out Secretary of State Stimson's demand that Europe put her financial house in order, Europe now looks to the United States to cancel or drastically reduce war debts owed America.

Signing Delayed

All the delegates met in evening dress tonight to sign the accord, but they were balked when Foreign Minister Titulescu of Rumania refused to initial it. When he was backed by other small states, the signing was put off until tomorrow and further negotiations were in order.

The text of the treaty, which fails to recognize abrogation of the "war guilt lie" in the Versailles treaty previously demanded by Germany, states that the agreement was reached in order to "create a new order permitting the establishment and development of confidence among nations in a mutual spirit of reconciliation, collaboration and justice," and that the agreement "will completely put an end to reparations."

The Bank of International Settlements will handle the financial arrangements of the treaty, which provides:

1. Germany will make a final reparations settlement of approximately $750,000,000. This will be paid by bond issue, with bonds selling at 90, cutting the cash value

City Officers Arrest Two, Seize Brew

Two raids on "home brew" joints on Lake street were conducted by police Friday, one of which netted a small quantity of whisky. Two prisoners were held by officers pending filing charges with federal authorities. One of the prisoners was a woman.

Numerous burglaries and petty thefts were reported to officers Friday as criminal operators in the city continued activity. Several gallons of gasoline was taken from a pump of the Atlantic-Pacific and Gulf filling station at Holliday and Sibley between 4:30 and 5:30 a. m. Friday. Patrol officers investigated the broken pump and notified Manager W. F. DeHaas.

Art Daniel, 1515 Taylor, reported thieves had burglarized his garage Thursday night taking two automobile tires and one wheel.

Description of one suspect was furnished officers in two thefts of automobile tires in Iowa Park Thursday night. J. N. Holmes of that city lost two casings and W. J. Kimberlin lost four.

C. L. Brown, 1910 Huff, called police to report the theft of a bicycle from 1905 Eleventh.

Traffic Sergeant E. A. Deaton and Detective F. M. Dowdy conducted the beer raids for the department during the day, taking one man, four dozen bottles of brew and other equipment late Friday morning and arresting a woman and taking 15 bottles of brew and two pints of whisky in the afternoon.

Hope Gone For Trapped Seamen

Promethee, who was saved with six others, had shot himself. These reports were officially denied by Admiral Malavoy, Admiral Ledo and the maritime prefecture.

Death Accepted

Cherbourgh and all the Norman coast, from which the crew of the Promethee was drawn, stoically accepted as inevitable the death of the men aboard the sunken craft despite the efforts of the French navy to bring the submarine to the surface.

The naval authorities were admittedly helpless, but assembled all salvage apparatus at the scene of the Promethee's plunge, marked by a telephone buoy released automatically at the time of the accident. No sounds have come through the telephone, indicating that the telephone compartment is waterlogged.

Naval seaplanes swung low over the area off the coast but found no floating bodies. Destroyers and Norman fishing craft, on one of which I watched the search today, aided. The spot where the Promethee went down is only a few miles distant from that at which the U. S. S. Kearsarge sunk the Confederate cruiser Alabama in June, 1864.

When the two Italian salvage ships, Artiglio II and Rostro, which have been engaged in lifting the $5,000,000 cargo of the sunken liner Egypt off Brest, reach the scene, their divers will be sent down at once. Whereas French divers can only descend about 135 feet, the Italians have worked at a depth of 175 feet.

Hopes exist solely on the ability of the Italians to attach an airline by which the submarine could be raised. If this is to succeed, it depends on whether the French submarine crew was able to close the watertight doors by which the fore and aft compartments were to be shut off from the influx of water.

The only favorable element now is the weather, which is ideal for surface operations. Admiral Durand Viel will take over from Admiral Malavoy the direction of salvage operations when the Artiglio arrives.

need of legislation to eliminate evils of the fee system by providing stipulated salaries for all public officials. He predicted that such legislation would be enacted by the next legislature.

In closing, he briefly discussed the plan for the state to take up county road bonds. He suggested that a special session of the legislature might be called to consider the necessary legislation.

Prisoners Escape From Jail While Sheriff Seeks Yeggs

PRYORN, Okla., July 8. (UP)—Sheriff Don McElroy today had lost faith in humanity, or at least that part of humanity which society decrees must be punished behind prison bars.

While the veteran peace officer was searching for bandits who had robbed the bank of Adair and carted away the safe containing a few hundred dollars, three prisoners escaped from the jail.

That was yesterday. Today the sheriff was still searching for the bank bandits and the escaped prisoners.

CRASH ENDS WORLD FLIGHT

Mattern and Bennett Hurt As Plane Lands

at the airport, the terse announcement of the crash told what a heartbreaking experience it must have been for the two fliers.

They roared off from Berlin on the third leg of their venture at 4 p. m., eastern daylight time, Wednesday, 10 hours and 43 minutes ahead of the Post-Gatty schedule. They expected to cut two additional hours off the trail blazers' Berlin-to-Moscow time by making it in seven.

Records Remain

In the Russian capital, where Post and Gatty paused 10 hours and 30 minutes for sleep and to attend an official banquet, Mattern and Griffin had a chance to garner more time. They could have left Moscow approximately a day ahead of the record.

As it is, when they do come by train tomorrow they will arrive approximately 66 hours behind Post and Gatty.

To Mattern and Griffin, however, still remain four flight records:

The fastest transatlantic crossing, 11 hours and 24 minutes, from Harbor Grace to a sighting at Rosapena, Mulroy bay, Northern Ireland;

The first direct non-stop flight from North America (Harbor Grace) to Berlin, 18 hours and 41 minutes;

The fastest two-stage flight from New York to Berlin, via Harbor Grace, 31 hours and 41 minutes, and

A two-hour-and-53-minute slash off the Post-Gatty time from New York to Berlin.

BACKERS PLEDGE SUPPORT FOR SECOND WORLD HOP

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (AP)—Jimmy Mattern and Bennett Griffin, who crashed in Russia on their round-the-world flight attempt, may try again next year if they like.

Harry Turner, Oklahoma City oil man who with John Mabee of Tulsa backed the flight, said today he would be glad to sponsor another trial.

Plans for disposition of the wrecked ship in Russia are entirely up to the fliers, he said.

Turner said he thought the summer was too far advanced for another effort this year.

Turner and Mabee cabled the fliers:

"Congratulations game fight against unforeseen elements. Better luck next time."

"Too bad they had to crash," said Wiley Post, holder of the 8½ day record they were trying to break, "they were making wonderful time."

"I'm proud of them—they made a nice flight anyway," said Mrs. Bennett Griffin, comely brunette wife of the Oklahoma flier.

BEER OUTLOOK BEGINS FADING

Bingham Admits Defeat; Pulls Card From Sleeve

By EDWARD W. LEWIS

WASHINGTON, July 8. (UP)—Hastily withdrawing his amendment authorizing immediate legislation and taxation of 2.75 per cent beer in the face of certain defeat, Senator Hiram Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, said tonight he would continue his fight for modification of the Volstead act and resubmit the measure.

Harassed Democrats, eager to avoid another prohibition vote at this session, had united with dry Republicans to force approval of a substitute to the Bingham amendment offered by Senator William E. Borah, Republican, Idaho, when Bingham acted.

Sly Stroke Put Over

"I put over a sly one," the Connecticut senator chortled. "I'll introduce my amendment again after they vote on the Borah amendment."

Bingham said he realized the only opportunity for joint congressional action this session on modification of the Volstead act was in having such a "rider" to the home loan bill and he was determined to carry on the fight.

Borah, serious and determined, took the floor in defense of his amendment which embodies the proposals of putting into circulation new currency up to $905,000,000 backed by federal bonds, which was offered earlier in the session by Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, Virginia.

He said the depression had cost the United States between $150,000,000,000 and $200,000,000,000 and doubted that the gold standard "is doing the work it should do."

Robinson Warns

"Unless commodity prices are raised and stabilized," Borah declared, "the relief policies undertaken this next winter cannot but lead to greater distress, and this situation will lead to chaos.

"Both parties in Chicago pledged an honest dollar. The world is crying for an honest dollar. We must determine what we can do with the vast supply of gold at our disposal. Let us use it as a basis for expanding our currency into billions of dollars."

Before Borah opened the battle, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, minority leader, warned he intended to use all parliamentary strategy to prevent a beer vote.

Bingham twitted the Democrats for "failing to adhere to their party plank." His measure was designed to place the Democrats on record on their feelings on the plank which calls for immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Shortly after Borah had concluded his plea for his amendment, Bingham conceded defeat. He charged the Democratic leadership with the connivance of Borah has "cooked up an extremely clever scheme." Bingham spoke for more than an hour in favor of the beer amendment and was accused of filibustering by Senator George Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

Norris' accusation came when Bingham refused to yield the floor to allow a vote on a resolution asking the reconstruction finance corporation to make public loan data. His long speech also prevented action on the proposal of Senator Warren Barbour, Republican, New Jersey, to discharge the judiciary committee from consideration of his resolution repealing the 18th amendment.

Meantime the house "wet" block petitioned Speaker John N. Garner to allow an immediate vote on modification but leaders admitted they had based their hopes of a vote on favorable action on the Bingham amendment.

Dallas Suspect Cleared In Electra Kidnaping

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 8.—Police Chief J. T. Taylor and W. N. Owen, rural mail carrier, returned from Dallas late Friday after failing to identify Ted Farley as a suspect in the kidnaping of Taylor and Owen several months ago. The charge will be dismissed, Mr. Spence said.

Farley was thought to have been a companion of Ralph Fults, who was assessed two five-year sentences here in connection with the same case.

Tom Hunter Given Ovation at Rally

Backus of Vernon, candidates for representative from the 13th congressional district, were presented by George Hodgins. Each spoke for 10 minutes in support of his own candidacy.

Candidates Introduced

More than a score of county and district candidates then were introduced by Mr. Hodgins.

In urging support for his platform and his candidacy, Mr. Hunter featured abolition of the state ad valorem tax; state control of public utilities; elimination of many state departments; enactment of a blended tax system, and transfer of one cent of the state gasoline tax to be used in the payment of county road bond issues with counties not bonded to receive highway improvements in adjustment.

Serious charges of waste against the state highway commission and other departments of government at Austin were made by Hunter who declared that every 40 cents actually spent for highway construction "took 60 cents to put it there."

Last year, Mr. Hunter asserted, Texas property owners paid approximately 22 per cent of their total income in taxes.

"Our average contribution per family has reached the astounding total of $30 per month," Hunter said, "while less than half a century ago our per capita tax was $1.13 per month.

"The frugality of our citizenship can but little longer compensate the waste occasioned by these increased burdens.

Tax System Wrong

"Our broken down tax system, treating Texas as 254 units for state revenue in ad valorem assessments is fundamentally wrong because it cannot be administered for equal and uniform taxes required by the writers of our constitution. These inequalities cannot be avoided except by the adoption of a new and a blended tax system, and to do it we must treat Texas as one unit.

"That taxes may be equal and uniform, our new and blended system must require every one who lives in Texas and every one who does business in Texas to pay direct into one general state fund, in proportion to their ability to pay, irrespective of locality of wealth, so fixed, as nearly as humanly possible, that no one will pay more nor less than his just portion.

"This realization will return us plain people to 1914 control, will undo the fact of manipulation of combines and mergered interests making our government their business for profit while we called it politics.

"The utilities and the oil trust since 1914, when we began to divide up on 'isms and prejudices, have required us to finance an educational program for our own undoing. In the U. S. senate hearing at Washington, where I closed the argument for the 14 governors of oil producing states represented, it was shown that the majors of that industry had spent more than $1,000,000 a month through one agency alone largely for propaganda that we gulled in while they put men of their thinking at the helm of our ships of state.

"We have in Texas more than 120 commissions, bureaus and departments of government, more than 12,000 employes on the state's pay roll. I propose to abolish a greater part of these and consolidate and co-ordinate the rest.

Waste in Highway Work

"One group of the highway department overlapping our county organizations cost us in wages last year $151,000 a month. It is costing more than $15,000 a day to operate the state's motive power. State employes ride around in $3,000 state-owned automobiles, and I don't mean one but many of them, lolling back on the rear seat while a state-paid chauffeur honks his horn to make you fellows get out of the road. The highway department reported for the last two years an expenditure of $81,000,000. The commission paved only 1,037 miles of road, asphalted something more than 400 miles, and graveled and graded some.

"You can check the figures any way you like and you'll find that out of every dollar spent, 40 cents went into the road bed while it took 60 cents to get it there, and any business that spends 60 cents to invest 40 cents is a failure. I do not charge graft, but do charge some of the most foolish waste.

"At every branch crossing in Texas there has been erected a pretty white sign on a pine post telling you that the stream or dry branch is 'West Sandy' and not 'North Boggy.' Who cares about that. And now, every five hundred feet down the highways they are erecting concrete monuments marked R. O. W., which they intend to indicate 'right of way' but really means 'reign of waste,' to show us where the road ends and the pasture begins.

"I am unalterably opposed to a state highway bond issue. I favor instead the transfer of one cent of the state gasoline tax to be used for payment of county road bonds as they fall due and to adjust with counties not bonded by giving them road improvements. Such 1 cent transfer would provide approximately $7,000,000 a year, ample to meet the annual payments on county bonds in Texas of about $6,000,000 a year.

Oil Imports Assailed

"I wish to state a few facts about the operations and manipulations of the oil trust. The Standard Oil group and the Mellon interests for the last two years imported into the country the equivalent of 300,000 barrels of oil per day. With this oil on the market they have decreased the average earning power of oil field and allied workers in Texas $175,000,000 a year. They have deprived the farmers and royalty owners of probably $20,000,000 a year in lost bonuses and rentals, not to mention reduced royalties. They have reduced the annual returns to Texas oil by more than $200,000,000.

"I warn you that if independent competition is not maintained we will, ere long, pay as other countries do, where oil is produced and no independent competition exists, 300 per cent of the price of a barrel of oil for a gallon of gasoline or a quart of lube.

"Those who have followed the silent march of Ross Sterling tell you that he saved the oil situation in Texas. If he has, he has saved it for the major interests.

"At Washington I stayed all through the last session of congress, without pay and largely at my own expense, fighting the battle of labor, seeking a tariff on oil. I aided in the negotiations that reduced the foreign oil importations last year by some 28,000,000 barrels.

"As a result of the lack of pipe line control, it has been possible for the big combines to strangle from existence the little refineries in the state, to become the only buyers for crude in the state, to destroy the hope of the independent industry of the little city along their pipe line, to fix a charge of 54 cents per barrel for transportation of Southwest Texas oil while they offered only 10 cents per barrel for the university and independent produced oil in that area.

"And there has been no buyer for oil except the transporters of that oil under the excessive rate these major pipeliners were able to set through lack of proper state regulation.

Utilities Rates in Wichita

"But the oil trust is not the only leech that is sapping the economic vigor of Texas. I refer to the public utilities.

"The gas companies maintain the worst monopoly of them all. Too powerful to be checkmated by any one city or town whose authority ends at the city limits, these great corporations are able to rule in their own way.

"I take my home city of Wichita Falls as an illustration, although any city in Texas, save three, could be employed with equal effectiveness for an example.

"They charge their subsidiary serving company in the city 40 cents for the gas delivered at the city limits, while just outside the gate they are serving customers at 11 cents. This difference of 29 cents is nothing less than book-manipulated, legalized theft and is costing the citizens of Wichita Falls $400,000 each year, money that should remain in that city as a buying power.

"The electric companies are guilty of the same piracy, and where the telephone rates for business purposes, for an illustration, stood at $3 per month they now are $7 and $9 per month.

"The public utilities are taking out of Texas annually more than $70,000,000, money that should remain in Texas as a buying power for Texas people. And the only solution for the condition is state regulation of these public utilities, which I make part of my platform, every word of which was written while I was camped alone on the Frio river in a tent.

"Chain stores are a greater evil than most people think and they must be curbed. The chains are driving out independent business. The major oil company has driven out the independents in that industry. The utilities have successfully eliminated the independent in that line. Chain stores have bankrupted hundreds, even thousands, of independent merchants, and chain banks are coming—are now in some states.

Jim and Ross "Wake Up"

"When there are but two classes, you have no hope, no ambition, no aspiration to hold out to your boy or girl. All they can hope for under such conditions is a job with some corporation. Every nation that has fallen, every nation that has crumbled in the history of the world, has done so for one or two reasons, either unjust and excessive taxes or by destruction of the middle class.

"Neither Jim Ferguson nor Ross Sterling has ever gone before a legislature and told that body that the tax system of Texas was not equitably distributed. They have never suggested to the legislature the fact that a home-owner, acquiring his property, may pay from 24 to 132 times as much taxes as plants of the big combines.

"Neither Jim Ferguson nor Ross Sterling has ever gone before the legislature and suggested to that body that of the more than 120 bureaus, commissions and departments in the state government, a greater part should be abolished and the balance consolidated and coordinated in the interest of retrenchment in expenses and for greater efficiency.

"Not until eight weeks ago after Tom Hunter's platform was published by the press of the state did any of these ideas occur to both Ferguson and Sterling. Now each of them plans to use a part of that Hunter platform. It makes me think it is a pretty good one."

POWERS AGREE ON DEBT PLAN

Reparations Dispute Ends At Lausanne

of the final settlement to about $714,000,000.

Issue in Three Years

2. The bonds will not be issued for three years, during which time the conference expects world economic conditions to improve, and the settlement will be nullified if the bonds are not issued before 1947. The bonds carry five per cent interest and guarantee amortization in 37 years.

When issued, the bonds will add another $42,000,000 annually to Germany's war payments. Germany is now paying approximately $[illegible] annually, of which $[illegible] go for service on Young plan and Dawes plan bonds, $[illegible] for expenses [illegible], $[illegible] on American mixed claims, and $[illegible] for the costs of the American army of occupation.

Under the new arrangement Germany's annual burden as the result of the war will be about $[illegible] a year, instead of more than $[illegible] under previous plans.

The agreement was reached informally in the hotel room of Premier MacDonald, following Chancellor Von Papen's withdrawing his demand that the "war guilt lie" be expunged from the Versailles treaty. With this accord reached, Germany will now carry her campaign against the war guilt clause to the Geneva disarmament conference.

Herriot Happy

The "war guilt" Cognate, it was said informally, was dropped in a manner satisfactory to Germany and reparations were explicitly declared a thing of the past. The new German payments are for the "reconstruction" of Europe.

Premier Herriot of France, emerging from MacDonald's room, exclaimed "Thank heaven, it's done!" then he joyfully kissed German and French girl reporters on both cheeks. Von Papen, Herriot and MacDonald had forgotten to lunch while working out the final crossing of 22 days of crises. The accord was to be presented at the plenary session tonight with formal ratification coming at tomorrow's meeting.

The Lausanne conference considers they have not only accomplished the noble task of putting Europe's house in order financially, but have also aided the disarmament conference at Geneva, hastening the conclusion of this meeting.

Allred Speech Brings Cheers

Attorney General Addresses Crowd at Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 8. (AP)—An enthusiastic crowd heard James V. Allred, candidate for re-election as Texas attorney general, here tonight applaud his statements regarding enforcement of the anti-trust laws and concerning his record in office.

Prior to the rally, Allred lightly turned aside a challenge issued by Clem Calhoun, another candidate for the office, for a debate.

"Ernest Reiter, another candidate for attorney general, and Calhoun both have issued challenges for debates. I suggest that they meet and debate it out," Allred explained, and added, "when I first ran for attorney general I had a hard time getting crowds, too."

Won't Sling Mud

The attorney general, in his address which was cut short by rain, did not name either of his opponents, but he did say:

"I am not going to descend into a mud-slinging contest. Some people are trying awfully hard to break into the newspapers and they don't seem to be particular about how they do it. People of this class have been known to sit on flag poles, or engage in a marathon dance race. These now circulating vile charges against me seem desirous of engaging in a marathon mud-slinging contest. I admit they are champions."

Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney, who introduced the speaker, declared that the only issue in the campaign was "Jimmy Allred versus the Standard Oil Trust."

Allred charged that the Texas company and the Humble Oil company had "rather spend a few hundred, or so thousand dollars to defeat me in a political campaign than to face a possible maximum fine of $[illegible] in court."

Four Given Hearing On Liquor Charge

Preliminary hearings for four persons, including one woman, were held before U. S. Commissioner Melville E. Peters Friday afternoon after the quartet had been arrested by city police and local prohibition agents for alleged violation of the national prohibition laws.

One of the defendants was placed under $1,000 bond, the other three under bond of $[illegible] each, pending a final hearing before Judge Peters to determine whether they will be bound over to the November federal grand jury.

Charged with receiving and concealing stolen property from an interstate shipment, a woman was placed under $1,000 bond pending action of the federal grand jury. The charges originated in the theft of goods from the depot at Munday several weeks ago, and the discovery of part of them in this city. Two men wanted in the case are still at liberty, according to United States Deputy Marshal J. T. Dudley.

Half of Reservations For Pampa Trip Sold

The special Fort Worth and Denver City railway Pullman car to carry the Wichita Falls delegation to the celebration at Pampa Friday, July 15, for the formal opening of the new Pampa-Childress railway has been half filled by business leaders of the city, President Albert E. Kelly of the chamber of commerce, said Friday.

The special car will be ready for occupancy on the local tracks at 9:30 o'clock Thursday night and will arrive in Childress for breakfast. The group will stop for visits with business friends at Wellington and Shamrock Friday morning and will spend the afternoon in Pampa. The return trip will be broken by a stop at Childress and the Wichitans will leave the car here Saturday morning.

Hijacker Given Liberty To Free Young Daughter

HOUSTON, July 8. (AP)—Charlie Ford, 45-year-old [illegible], this afternoon traded his chances for liberty in order to free his 14-year-old daughter from the city jail.

The two were arrested while hitchhiking on the east beach at Galveston yesterday.

Ford promised police to help them "work up" three cases of hijacking against him if they would release the girl. They agreed. Six charges of robbery by firearms were filed against Ford.

JUNIOR C-C PLANS RALLY

Convention July 16 Open To Non-Members

Thirty-nine members of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce enthusiastically launched definite plans for entertaining approximately 150 delegates for the annual state junior chamber conference here Saturday, July 16, in a luncheon meeting at the Wichita club Friday. The convention sessions will be held at the club with a luncheon period scheduled at the Kemp hotel.

The local registration committee in charge of E. F. Noe has already begun functioning with many local members signed for the program of business and entertainment. The registration fee has been cut in half, to $2.50, this year. Registrations will open at the Wichita club Saturday morning after formal entertainment of visitors Friday evening by individual members of the local group.

Business sessions will be held in the lounge of the Wichita club. A banquet and dance will close the official program Saturday night at the club while informal entertainment for visitors will be held Sunday.

Duties of the nine committees were outlined at the luncheon and talks were made by President Dan T. Bryant, Jerry Vinson, state vice president; Gus Hecht, who has assisted General Chairman T. J. Waggoner in selection of committees.

The group voted to extend formal invitations to the conference to young business men of Wichita Falls not affiliated with the junior chamber as well as to those residing in the Wichita Falls area. Many Oklahoma groups are expected to participate.

Veto Certain For Relief Measure

criticism in the conference of Garner's stand, there was a strong disposition to support the speaker if he insisted upon sending the bill to the president in its present form.

The committee appointed to talk the matter over with Garner was composed of Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Senators Wagner of New York, and Bulkley of Ohio.

Decided Against Revision

They conferred with the speaker about two hours, and it was finally decided not to revise the bill.

This decision will be reported to the minority conference tomorrow and the Democrats will then decide whether to support the measure.

The conference report was scheduled to come before the senate today, but was withheld until the Democrats could decide upon their course of action.

Already approved by the house, if it is adopted by the senate it will be ready for the White House.

In their discussion of the problem, the senate Democrats gave consideration to the question of a final adjournment of congress and expressed a desire to reach an agreement which would permit winding up the session as soon as possible.

Garner, in his conference with the senators, indicated he was not convinced President Hoover would veto the bill in its present form.

"B.C." Relieves Periodical Pains In Three Minutes

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from [illegible] pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system, without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—Adv.

ACREAGE LESS IN OKLAHOMA

Estimates Reduce Yields Of Wheat and Cotton

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (UP)—Oklahoma wheat production as of July 1 today was estimated by Harry B. Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture, at 35,290,000 bushels from a harvested acreage of 3,532,000.

This compared to last year's production of 70,388,000 bushels from 4,303,000 acres.

Cordell said harvests and threshing have been delayed by wet fields and considerable damage and loss of grain from recent heavy rains have resulted. Wheat was reported sprouting in the shocks in some state areas and complaints of bleaching also were reported.

Carry-over wheat in Oklahoma July 1 was 8 per cent of last year's production, or 5,632,000 bushels, Cordell's report said.

The area of cotton in cultivation in Oklahoma July 1 was estimated by Cordell at 3,013,000 acres, compared to 3,423,000 acres July 1, 1931, a reduction of 12 per cent.

Condition of cotton in the state was reported to be backward due to excessive rains and lack of warm weather and sunshine. A few reports of boll weevil infestations have been received from the South, Central and Eastern areas, Cordell said.

Garner To Hunt Before Conference

WASHINGTON, July 8. (INS)—Speaker John N. Garner plans a 10-day hunting and fishing trip in West Texas before he goes to Albany, N. Y., to discuss the campaign with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate plans to leave for his home immediately after congress adjourns.

"I went to that country for my health—the doctor said I had to go there to live," said Garner today.

He is still weak from his recent attack of grippe. He was in high spirits today, but overslept—to 7:30 a. m.

Oklahoma Oil Concern Fined for Violations

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 8. (P)—The H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company was found guilty of contempt charges by the state corporation commission today and fines totaling $8,500 for violation of proration rules in the Oklahoma City oil field were assessed.

The case, which W. L. Murphy, Wilcox attorney, said he would appeal to the state supreme court, is a major test of the commission's power to penalize oil companies for violation of its rules and regulations.

There were 12 charges for failure to make daily reports on production from 10 wells, and five charges for failure to make monthly pipe line reports.

Aged Californian Wins Hand of Woman After Waiting 45 Years

LOS ANGELES, July 8. (INS)—A drama of loyalty and undying love had been written here today as Capt. James Smith, 67, field deputy of the United States marshal for Utah, started his honeymoon with the woman he wooed 45 years ago.

Mrs. Julia Norton, now 62, spurned Smith's love 45 years ago and married another man.

Norton died 11 years ago. A few years later Smith and Mrs. Norton again became engaged. She went blind and begged Smith to free himself from his promise to marry her. He refused.

They waited.

Love finally triumphed and they were married.

CURTIS WINS ERROR WRIT

Sentence to Be Imposed In Hoax Case Monday

TRENTON, N. J., July 8. (P)—John Hughes Curtis, convicted of obstructing search for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was awarded a writ of error by the supreme court today, returnable at Trenton July 28.

Ryman Herr, of counsel for the Norfolk boat builder, obtained the writ from the court clerk's office. Curtis is scheduled to be sentenced by Judge Adam O. Robbins at the Flemington courthouse Monday.

The writ of error, issued as a matter of course, has the effect of an appeal. Lloyd Fisher, also of counsel for Curtis, said shortly after the boat builder's conviction that there were more than 100 grounds on which the jury's verdict could be appealed.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

When troublesome questions arise, avail yourself of the service of this department. It costs you nothing—you have only to send three cents for postage on the personal letter you will receive in reply. Any question on any subject of fact will be answered. Address your letter of inquiry to The Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What makes Mexican jumping beans jump?—O. T.

A.—The jumping bean is not, in fact, a bean. It is the fruit or seed of a shrub. The larva of a tiny moth enters the seed and eats its contents. The contortions of the fattened larva cause the movement of the hollow shell. The moths emerge in the spring and fall and the beans cease to jump.

Q.—Was "Uncle Remus"—Joel C. Harris—a church member?—R. N.

A.—Shortly before his death, he was received into the Catholic church.

Q.—What causes gas heaters to generate carbon monoxide?—C. R.

A.—If air passages in the bottom of the heater become clogged, or the air supply to the burner is cut off for any reason, carbon monoxide is generated.

Q.—What will remove paint from an old brick wall?—M. N.

A.—Dissolve 10 pounds of caustic soda in five gallons of water and stir into the solution five quarts of cheap mineral oil; then add enough sifted or fine sawdust to yield a pasty mass that will cling to the wall without running down. Plaster this thickly on the old paint and let stand a few hours. Then scrape off and wash the surface with water.

Q.—When will the first returns come in under the new tax law?—M. S.

A.—The new taxes were effective as of the beginning of business, June 21, 1932, except the tax on theater ticket brokers, which became effective June 6, at 5 p. m., and the tax on electrical energy which became effective June 22. The first returns to be rendered will cover the period from the effective date to June 30. These returns must be filed and tax paid on or before July 31. Each month thereafter, returns and taxes for the preceding month's business must be sent in.

Q.—Have the major parties ever adopted antiprohibition planks?—P. F.

A.—In 1872 the Republican party adopted a plank declaring opposition to "laws for the purpose of removing evils by interference with the rights not surrendered by the people to either the state or the national government." This was generally regarded as an antiprohibition plank. In 1884 the Democratic party adopted a plank reading, "We oppose sumptuary laws which vex the citizens and interfere with individual liberty."

Q.—Does John D. Rockefeller Jr. look like his father?—T. K. L.

A.—He has the long head, the broad brow and strong nose of his famous parent, but there the likeness ends. He is a man of medium height and square build. The thin tight lips of the elder Rockefeller are not part of the son's countenance.

Q.—When are gold and silver coins considered mutilated?—A. B.

A.—Gold coins are mutilated when so punched, clipped, chipped or otherwise defaced as to result in any loss of metal. Silver coins are mutilated when so punched, clipped, chipped, or otherwise mutilated, as to be appreciably reduced in weight, or when so defaced as to be not readily and clearly identified as to genuineness and denomination.

Q.—Who comprised the lake poets?—G. E.

A.—The Edinburgh Review so named Wordsworth, Coleridge and Shelley.

Bulletin on Home-Drying of Fruits and Vegetables

Economy is the by-word today, and this summer there will be not only more home-growing of fruits and vegetables, but also more home-drying of the products grown in home gardens.

The drying of fruits and vegetables saves food, space, and containers. It is a simple method of preserving food materials against the time when prices will be up, or fresh foods will not be on the market.

The government bulletin, Farm and Home Drying of Fruits and Vegetables, gives ample instructions on this phase of home industry, and will be invaluable at this time when so many people are practicing economy by doing more things in the home.

Send for your copy at once, using this coupon, and enclosing four cents to cover handling and postage.

The Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith four cents in coin (preferred) or stamps for a copy of the booklet on Home Drying of Fruits and Vegetables.

A New School of Orators

REAL oratory has been almost a lost art in American politics in recent years. Now it is beginning to look as if what is left of it is going to suffer a most profound change.

The impassioned shoutings, the majestic deliberation of address, the age-old tricks of the orator's trade—all of these, abruptly, have become handicaps instead of assets. The most moving political oration of the future is apt to be a quiet speech almost conversational in its tone.

You get this idea, anyway, after absorbing part of a political campaign by radio. It is the radio which is about to transform the orator's art—and the net result will be a distinct gain for the orator's listeners.

Sitting by the loudspeaker, you would hear Senator Whoozis or the Hon. Blank engaged in making the welkin ring. It would all be in the traditional manner. Each sentence would take anywhere from 30 seconds to two minutes to come to birth. There would be a long pause for wind after every fourth or fifth word. The orator's vocal cords would be torn in frenzied shouts until it would seem as if his throat must burst from the strain.

Then, when he had finished, a regular radio announcer would take the microphone to make some announcement—and what a contrast!

In a quiet, even voice he would prove himself capable of saying 10 times as much in a given time, of saying it infinitely more clearly and of making an incomparably better impression.

The contrasts—furnished over and over again, day after day, at each convention—were too sharp to leave any room for doubt. The orator is going to have to change his style. The tricks that went over big in the day of vast outdoor meetings fall utterly flat on the radio. The passionate shout becomes a nuisance; the impressive pause becames a bore. The orator of tomorrow will be the man who can say what he has to say quickly, quietly and with restraint. The school of Senator Sounder is done for.

The Lausanne Agreement

BRITISH, French and German premiers in the Lausanne reparations conference have reached an agreement for a new reparations treaty fixing the balance which Germany shall pay at a lump sum of $750,000,000. This is about one-tenth the sum fixed under the Young plan some years ago.

The manner and terms of the payments are to be fixed at a further conference but the funds are to be raised through a bond issue of the German government.

The question of reconsideration of responsibility for the war was declared to be a thing of the past.

Certainly a country as resourceful and progressive as Germany can find a way to finance such a payment.

In response to the news of the agreement there was a rise in this country in the prices of a number of commodities which Europe buys here.

The agreement is certainly to be regarded as a step toward international concord and economic recovery in Europe. It may bring renewed pressure for the reduction of debts owing the United States by European governments, but this pressure is constant and could not be escaped or evaded by any failure of agreement by France, England and Germany. On the other hand the settlement of the vexatious qustion of reparation payments from Germany ought to make more easy a final agreement on the payment of debts due the United States. In the meantime this country will benefit from any progress toward economic recovery in Europe.

A Challenge to Our Cities

THE urgent need of every large city for funds with which to carry on settlement, playground and similar activities among its underprivileged groups is sharply emphasized by a recent report from a city mission in New York.

This mission, which specializes in providing brief country "vacations" for children from the tenement areas, reports that the children it is caring for this summer are weaker and punier than ever before. Instead of trying to give them a little recreation, it is working to prevent them from actual breakdown and from diseases of malnutrition.

The depression is beginning to levy its toll on child health, and the toll is a cruel one. A similar problem is present in every sizable city. The challenge to tax-supported and private relief agencies is one that must be met. Whatever happens, the children of the unemployed must be protected.

SO THEY SAY!

I feel and believe that we are at the bottom of the depression through which we have been passing, and from now on we may reasonably hope for a gradual but none the less constant improvement.—Daniel Willard, president Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

I guess women are no judge of looks. They've passed me up all my life.—Senator Huey Long of Louisiana.

We want fair and rational and, what is more important, practical arrangements (for disarmament). To be practical, the proposition should be gradual and based on the geographical o rother circumstances of each power.—Statement by the Japanese naval department.

Wings

Since it is over who am I to cry
My blasphemies against the pranks of fate?
No oath of mine will dull the last goodbye—
Or raise the latch that bars the heavy gate.
Since it is over what is there to gain
In cringing back to view the flowered past?
Oh, better lads than I have faced the rain,
And found the going bitter to the last.

But there are taverns I have yet to know—
And nights to pass in warm and friendly talk;
Who cares, today, if once I loved you so?
Not one! And some gay morning I will walk
Along a strange and yet uncharted trail,
And you will race to catch me, dear, and fail!

—DON WAHN.

Of Course!

Betty Bialk argues "no wonder the moon never got over that mountain with Kate Smith standing in the way!"

He Needs a Benefit

New York, as some one once observed, is a place where a person can starve to death—and not be disturbed.

But the panhandler at 50th street and 7th avenue finds it tougher than that. "Howya doin'?" we asked him.

"Awful," he groaned, "I just manage to make a livin'."

Quiteso, Quiteso

And Chariton Andrews, after listening to all that oratory from Chicago, came to the conclusion that too much was said about the length and breadth of the land—and not enough about the thickness.

Slanguage

One who signs his contrib "Circus Performer" offers this glossary on circus slang: "Corn" is small change..."Spoiled water" is lemonade...A "wren" is a young girl...A "peacock" is an up-stage or ritzy performer...A "squirmer" is a cooch dancer and when you take out a blonde you're "toting a bale of straw."

The Best Version

It remained for Judge to add a twist to the timeworn squelch: "May all your children be radio announcers!"

The snapper being: "And may all your children have to listen to 'em!"

Sotto Voce

Ide Gruber and Phil Stack: Irvin Cobb may have written it for a magazine in 1931, but we wrote it in a column in 1928.

Tee, Hee

"There is no doubt that the Tinsel street doesn't live by the Golden Rule...A few months ago Film Daily was furious because Walter Winchell had broadcast the result of a poll of the Ten Best Pictures before the release date. It launched a bitter attack on the columnist...Well, sirs, Metro on Monday sent out the company's announcement for the new season, with a courteous note to all papers asking them not to release until Thursday...All papers complied—except Film Daily which held Winchell up to ridicule. Film Daily released it the day before. As Dayton Stoddart expressed it: 'It's a dirty trick, but it's good Broadway!'"—Beau Broadway in the N. Y. Morning Telegraph.

Nifty

And I. Hoffman passes along the word that Noel Crawford is sending local ladies postcards of the armless Venus de Milo to which he inscribes: "This is what happens to little girls who bite their nails!"

Trap

They say that the same ruse was used in the old days during the draft to catch fellows who were trying to evade army service. Last week a mendicant who was arrested for begging without a license pleaded "deafness" to the court. Hizzoner's sympathy was aroused and the beggar was released.

As he ankled away from the bar, a court attendant followed and dropped four dimes at his toes. The "deaf" chump immediately turned and looked at the coins, whereupon he was brought back and is now on the second lap of a month's holiday.

In Case You Didn't Know

Nick, the Greek, the best known "nothing ventured—nothing gained" man in the land, sums it up this way: "The gambler bets. The sucker calls!"

What Luck!

Among other things you won't see in the news columns is that tale about an orgy in the shack of a locally prominent physician, whose neighbors complained to the cop on the beat about the noise.

The officer went into the place to urge them to put on the soft pedal and at the same time interrupted a strip poker party that had progressed delightfully. The participants were all members of the so-called Best Set—all of whom contributed to a collection for the cop, who went away about $400 richer.

With a Nod to Nash

Girls will find
Their dates are fewer,
If they insist
On being pewer.

—NAOMI SHAW.

Meow!

Two chorus girls, who were bitter enemies for a whole season while on tour, encountered each other for the first time in a month the other afternoon.

"You look," said the first, "as though you hadn't had a dinner since I saw you last."

"Yeah?" replied the other, as she sized her up and down, "and you, dearie, look as if you had been at a dinner ever since."

The N. V. A. claimed the body.

Observation

And Izzy Elinson says things might have been a lot worse for those movie stars, who lost their money in that Beverly Hills bank bust-up.

Imagine if they had deposited their salaries reported by their press agents.

KILLED IN RIOTS

TOLEDO, Spain, July 8. (INS)—A number of civil guards, syndicalists, Communists and farm workers were killed and several others were wounded in a clash today at Villa de Don Fradique, according to reports from Quintanar Dela Orden.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE BUILDING MOVED BY 18 MEN—On Oct. 14, 1930, officials of the Indiana Bell Telephone company and about 300 onlookers witnessed the start in the moving and turning of a 22,000,000-pound eight-story building in Indianapolis—a most unusual procedure for a structure of that size. It was moved a distance of 52 feet in one direction, and then given a 90-degree turn so it faced another street. And all this was accomplished without interrupting the phone, elevator, heat, water, or electric services, and the actual moving was done by only 18 men. These men operated the huge hatchet screw jacks working against the I-beams, rolling the building over a specially constructed platform of steel rails. The building was permanently situated in its new location in about six weeks.

DEFEATED AND ELECTED AT THE SAME TIME—When Jack Lawlor ran for election as a member of the board of freeholders of San Francisco in 1930 the returns in the office of the registrar of voters showed that on the unofficial count he was defeated, the vote being 30,308, but the official count elected him by a vote of 30,260—48 less than the count on which he was tentatively defeated.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

By FRANK BUCK with EDWARD ANTHONY

For 18 exciting years, Frank Buck has been gathering live animals, reptiles and birds for American zoos, circuses, and dealers. He hunts them barehanded in jungle and mountain-fastness, in wildest Africa, in darkest Thibet—but he always brings 'em back alive.

He now tells about a 16,000-mile journey into the interior of Nepal to capture, at the order of Dr. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological park, a great armor-plated, single-horned Indian rhino—rare as the unicorn of fable. He obtains help from General Shum Share, a nephew of the Maharajah of Nepal. Buck's plans are frustrated by the Ganges river which is on a rampage. He starts back for Singapore. Later he returns to collect the rare rhinos the Maharajah has captured for him. The most difficult part is transporting them to the rail head in India. After an exciting journey, he arrives in Calcutta with his rhinos.

Of the thousands of monkeys and apes Buck has brought to America from Asia, the most interesting was a female orangutan picked up in Borneo which he named Gladys. In the last chapter, Buck related the experience of a white adventurer named Holter, who gave up the tea business to go on a tiger trapping expedition. Meeting Holter a year later, Buck hears the story of how Holter lost his leg when caught in his own steel trap.

Returning to America with one of the biggest of many floating zoos Buck brought back, he has trouble with a huge orangutan and is aided by a powerful sailor, "Chips," to subdue the animal. In the last chapter, Buck's friend, the sultan of Johore, challenges Buck to capture a man-eating tiger, native to the sultan's domain. Buck leaps at the opportunity to try for a man-eater and joins the Sultan at his fort. The tiger, after killing a native, is trapped in a pit dug by Buck. He sets out to capture the animal alive. Buck arrives at the pit which is surrounded by fear-ridden natives.

Buck, at the instance of a Los Angeles animal dealer, sets out to capture the smallest baby elephant in the jungle. Buck now sets out to obtain the rare species of proboscis monkey.

He obtains a father, mother, and baby monkey, but the father suddenly dies.

Buck takes part in an elephant round-up.

He arrives at Singapore with his captures.

Aboard ship, one of the elephants, named "Babe" runs amuck.

CHAPTER XXXVIII

As we made for the iron deck I examined my rifle. It was in fine working order. One of Lal's duties on shipboard was to keep it in good shape, ready for immediate use in just such an emergency as this.

I wanted to get in among those oil barrels and gradually work my way back to the spot where the leopard had taken refuge. How near I should get to the savage beast would depend upon his behavior. But before making any definite decision or plans about taking him alive I had to find out just how his new found liberty was affecting his morale. If he proved as ferocious loose on the deck as he had been while in the cage then, of course, he must be shot immediately. While I felt pretty certain that he would be more scared than vicious, my first job was to make sure of this.

Lal was carrying my revolver, which he had loaded with the blank cartridges. He also had with him, in addition to a further supply of blanks, a round of perfect revolver bullets ready for use.

With the boy at my side I began to crawl in among the barrels. I was prepared to shoot to kill. Lal, aware of this, was delighted. His was a typical Hindu view that the animal had sinned grievously and should be punished. The only fit punishment was death.

We crept up closer and closer. I raised my rifle for action, getting a bead on the leopard not more than 15 feet away. My finger was on the trigger. I had no desire to shoot. But I was prepared to pull the trigger if he gave any signs of springing at me. I crept a few inches closer. All the leopard did was snarl and bare his claws and once or twice make a movement as if he were going to jump up on top of the barrels to get away from me. Everything in his manner indicated that the thought uppermost in his mind was escape. Of course he would fight unto death if attacked but my guess was—one plays hunches in my business, there being no rulebook by which to judge animals—that here was a badly worried leopard. In surroundings that were more familiar to him, where he would be surer of himself, he might have forced the fight, lashing out with his vicious claws and ripping open everything in sight with his cruel teeth. But my experience told me that here was an animal that considered himself at a disadvantage.

"We can take him alive, Lal," I whispered. I've never seen the boy's face take on a more disappointed look. The animal had caused much trouble and should be shot before he caused more, was the way he felt. On occasions like this the boy would thirst for gore, his primitive instints asserting themselves.

Dragging Lal along by the arm, I crawled out, leaving the leopard where he was, and made for the steps leading from the iron cargo deck up to the ship's main promenade deck where the officers' mess-room was located. I look the ground over carefully and decided that it would be possible to drive the leopard up the steps and into the mess-room.

With Lal's assistance—he still thought the animal should be shot but that didn't interfere with his speed and sureness as a helper—I hauled the empty cage, now repaired by the ship's carpenter, up the steps to a space near the door of the mess-room. Leaving the door open, I had all other means of reaching the room closed.

Then I went after my leopard, revolver in hand. It was loaded with blanks but I don't mind saying that I wasn't taking any chances. I am not one of those fearless adventurers who snap their fingers, in their memoirs, at any rate, and step right up to the jaws of death while some one, miraculously on the scene with a camera, takes a picture. After all, a leopard is a leopard. These spotted cats have killed many human beings and I had no desire to be added to the list. My loose leopard, in addition to being worried, was perhaps rather scared (any wild animal, no matter how ferocious normally, is at a disadvantage in a setting that befuddles him) but he was still a leopard; and once he got it into his head that he was fighting for his life, he would become a terror. This is by way of explaining that I wasn't as bold as I seemed when I set forth with my blank-cartridge pistol. I saw to it that Lal was by my side with my loaded rifle, ready to hand it to me any second—or to blaze away himself if there was not sufficient time to hand me the weapon.

Again Lal and I were among the oil barrels facing the enemy. The leopard, at a loss to know what to do, was approximately where we had left him. My mind was made up. There was nothing for me to do but to chase him from the position he had taken up among these barrels, get him to scamper up those steps leading into the mess-room, drive him into this chamber and then slap the open case against the door and drive him into that.

Lal and I took up a position where I could fire at the leopard at an angle that would drive him out on the open deck (in the event he was in the mood for being driven). I raised my pistol and blazed away. The big spotted cat, in a series of great leaps—and even if he isn't leaping at you there is something terrifying about those tremendous and seemingly effortless jumps—made for the open deck. Round and round he went, Lal and I in pursuit. After circling the iron deck about half a dozen times I blazed away at the animal three or four times in a row when we were about 10 yards from the steps leading to the promenade deck where the officers' mess-room was. Instead of scampering up the steps as I hoped he would the animal stopped in his tracks and whirled around. Teeth and claws bared, he faced me, ready to spring. I let him quiet down. We stood facing each other this way for a full minute. I could not afford to back away, any more than I could afford to advance. The animal started to relax. His lips began to close over his teeth. His claws were receding. This was a good time to shoot. I let him have another blank, the fire bursting close enough to his eyes to frighten him. He turned and ran. I thought I had him cornered so that he couldn't help colliding with the steps but he swung wide as he ran, and passed my objective. Round he went for two more circuits, making such speed I thought he would lap me. He would have done so in a few more rounds, for by now he was desperate for a means of escape and he had dropped his halting manner of running. As he completed his second circuit he was not many yards behind me. Swinging round, I advanced and opened fire. The suddenness of my attack was too much for him. At a loss what to do, he swung around and started going in the other direction. As he went around the turn, I heard an agoned shriek. The leopard had almost collided with a Chinese boy carrying two buckets of water. What the boy was doing on deck I didn't know. I thought every one had been warned to keep off.

The cukets went careening crazily down the deck, the water splashing in all directions. The boy scrambled to his feet, frightened out of his wits. Madly he tore for the bulkhead doorway from which he had recently emerged. The leopard, as scared at the boy, ran uncertainly for the same door, neither of them quite sure what it was all about. When the unexpected takes place in this fashion, the animal is as much as a loss as the human being involved. As he neared the doorway the boy saw a rope hanging from a boom above his head. He grabbed the rope and scrambled up it like a monkey.

I took advantage of the animal's confusion, coming up on him suddently, as he stood still after a few hesitant movements beneath the boy swinging on the rope. The chambers of my gun refilled with blanks, I blazed away again, and this time succeeded in maneuvering the leopard to a position in front of the steps that led to the deck above. Another series of shots sent him scampering up; and the first stage of my task was over.

In the meantime, the passengers (there were about 80 of them) had awakened, not unaided by the many shots I had fired. The news of the leopard chase had spread and the passengers rushed for the glass-enclosed upper deck above the mess-room to take in the show—or as much as they could see.

The much harassed leopard made circuit after circuit of the promenade deck, Lal and I in pursuit. Every other lap or so, he would suddenly swing around and face us, teeth and claws bared as before, and ready for action. Again we would stand motionless and give him a chance to quiet down. Once after his teeth and claws relaxed to normal and we thought he was calming down, the cries of passengers startled him and he poised himself for a leap, his eyes distorted with rage and fear.

"The rifle, Lal!"

The boy was so anxious to place it in my hands he almost threw himself at me in handing it to me. He wanted that leopard killed; there was no doubt about that.

I got a bead on the animal about five or six yards away. My finger on the trigger, I was ready to bang away and catch the enemy in midair if he leaped.

I advanced a foot to see how anxious the leopard was for a scrap. He started backing away.

"Give him the pistol, Lal!" I had handed Lal the revolver when I took the rifle from him. Lal blazed away and again the animal turned and ran.

It was getting to be a tiresome business. I made up my mind to get that leopard, dead or alive, without wasting much more time and energy.

Fortunately my spotted fugitive was tiring too. Weary of the chase, he would hesitate before the open door of the mess-room and scamper round the deck again, without much assurance—not quite certain whether he had anything to lose by going in. Finally seeing that there was no other place to go, he entered. I banged the door shut and the second stage of the job was finished.

Lal and I, after a few moments of well-earned rest, removed the bars from one end of the repaired and reinforced cage and shoved it smack against the doorframe, first hastily opening the mess-room door. We took the precaution of blocking in the open space above the cage.

So far so good. This was progress.

With a group of husky sailors holding the cage firmly against the door I decided on the [illegible]

The Fight Pictures

They pay off on points in the boxing game these days, and Jack Sharkey did indeed pile up enough points to shade Max Schmeling in the recent heavyweight "fight" at New York, according to this writer's impressions of the fight movies which had their first showing yesterday afternoon at the Majestic theater here.

A day or so after the bout, when the ring faithful were arguing pro and con in high pitched voices concerning the outcome, Sharkey said these fight films would prove conclusively to the public that he outshaded the Black Uhlan.

Sharkey, according to our view, was entirely right in this respect. But in defense of his own popularity it is our further opinion that Sharkey should have bought the rights to those films and burned them instantly. For while it is true they show the Boston Sailor's left popping Max with great consistency on diverse parts of the German's map, it also reveals Sharkey's inglorious retreat from start to finish with all the stark reality that the kleig lights and camera afford.

If there ever was any doubt that Jack Sharkey will be the most unpopular heavyweight champion possibly in history, these films will immediately dispel it.

What little color there was in the bout was provided by the German. In the sixth round, and in the 14th and 15th, he was particularly effective, weaving in to break down Sharkey's defense and landing some good blows. In the early rounds he hauled off with an occasional uppercut. Those who still are inclined to believe the German entitled to retain his crown will be pleased to hear that Max received virtually all the applause from the ringworms present. When Sharkey was announced champion there was an avalanche of noise which in the sound picture cannot be classified. It might have been cheers. It might have been boos.

The fact that Max forced all the fighting is made clear in the picture. But the foreigner is not to be over-praised. What fighting he forced wasn't very much. He was capable of much more. It is clearly evident that Max had the same idea that Sharkey had—to box for points; and it is equally as clear that Max wasn't clever enough to click off as many points as Sharkey did on the run.

At the start of some of the rounds, Sharkey would land two or three pokes to Schmeling's face before the German had got his feet straddled out in fighting position. It is true most of the licks weren't much. A drug store ice-cream-cone fiend, it appeared, could have stood a score or more of them without groaning much—but those licks meant points, and Sharkey was getting them in there, whereas the German, though making a much better appearance and waging an offensive battle, couldn't out-smart the American.

Neither fighter appeared tired at any stage of the battle of hit and run, although Sharkey, with his closed eye, was obviously the most handicapped. This leads one to much speculation. If that fight had been one to the finish, it leaves no doubt in my mind that Schmeling would have given Sharkey such misery in the right eye that the American would have lost his point-getting self-control. And then, we venture, the German would have landed a right that would have sent Sharkey to the resin for the 10-count.

But perhaps it is better that the fight ended with the 15th round. A few more rounds of such dilly-dallying and the whole audience would have been asleep.

AL WATROUS PACES FIELD

Former Champ Shoots 70 In Second Round

OTTAWA, Ont., July 8. (AP)—Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., pro, shot his way into the lead in the second 18-hole round of the 72-hole Canadian open golf championship today.

While yesterday's leaders, Harry Cooper, Walter Hagen and George Von Elm, were running into all sorts of difficulties, Watrous, holder of the title in 1922, added a par-breaking 70 to his first round 72 for a total of 142 at the halfway mark.

That 70 gave Watrous a two-stroke advantage over Cooper with Hagen, defending champion, another stroke behind.

Cooper fell back to 75 today. Hagen also scored a 75 for his 36-hole total of 145.

In a four-way tie for fourth place at 146 were two former champions, Leo Diegel and Macdonald Smith, and two other United States players, Tom Kerrigan of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Olin Dutra of Brentwood, Calif. Dutra, Kerrigan and Diegel all had 74s today while Mac Smith added another par 73 to his aggregate.

Another batch of four Americans had 147s. Ed Dudley and Horton Smith posted 73s for their second round while Wiffy Cox had a 74 and Mortie Dutra of Long Beach, Calif., clipped a stroke off par with a fine 72. Tied along with them for eighth place was the leading Canadian, Andy Kay of Lambton, Ont., who had 75-72—147.

Von Elm posted a 78 that tied him with Walter Smithers of Ottawa for 13th place.

Kuffer Defeats Cowboy Waters

By MACK TURNER

Ferocious Freddy Kuffer, the Portland Badboy, won in straight falls from Cowboy Teddy Waters on the main event of the weekly mat entertainment at Govro arena Friday night. The Portland slugger won both falls by use of the Japanese toe hold, winning the first fall in 16 minutes and 30 seconds and the second fall in 10 seconds less.

Silent Condell, the popular Scotch dummy, worked a draw with George Craig, the Tulsa blacksmith, on the semifinal, each winning one fall. Both men used the holds for which they are famous in winning their only falls. Condell won the first with an octopus hold in 15 minutes and four seconds while Craig used a double flying headlock to win the second fall in 8 minutes and 25 seconds. They wrestled the remaining 22 minutes without registering a fall.

Alva Anderson and Buck Kennedy, both of Wichita Falls, wrestled 15 minutes to a speedy draw on the preliminary. Both of the boys mixed it pretty freely throughout the 15 minutes.

The first fall on the main event developed into more of a poke and duck battle that reminded one of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight, until Kuffer worked Waters down with a series of rabbit punches, then applied the winning toe hold.

Waters worked through most of the second fall applying hammerlocks upon Kuffer's right arm, but all this work went to waste when Kuffer came up with another toe hold that gave him the match.

Plane to Search Sea For Missing Yacht

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—David Rosenstein, owner of the Ketch Curlew, missing on a race from Montauk point to Bermuda with six men aboard, announced today that W. H. Alexander, who flew to Bermuda from New York in April, 1930, with Lewis A. Yancey, had been engaged to make an airplane search for the yacht.

Alexander will operate from a base at Hamilton, Bermuda. One theory is that the Curlew missed Bermuda and is being carried toward Africa in the gulf stream.

The flier will leave for Bermuda as soon as he can obtain a seaplane, Rosenstein said. The Curlew had been out 14 days today.

SHIPPERS 6, BUCS 0

GALVESTON, July 8. (AP)—Luke Hamlin started for Beaumont tonight where Schoolboy Rowe left off last night and held the Galveston Bucs to three singles and no runs for a 6 to 0 victory that saw Galveston's consecutive scoreless innings against the Texas league leaders stretch to 26. The victory gave the Exporters a clean sweep of the three-game series and was the fifth loss of the locals to the first half champions since the second half opened.

Hamlin kept his three hits scattered and gave up only two bases on balls to keep clear of trouble throughout the game.

Lefty Darrow gave the winners but six hits, but one of these was Reiber's home run that came with the bases loaded in the fourth inning. Two of the men scoring were walked, another was hit by a pitched ball and the fourth reached first on an error. Score:

CHILLICOTHE PLAYS TIPTON

Oilers Meet Quanah in Other League Game Sunday

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, July 8.—The second round of play in the final half campaign in the Red River Valley Baseball league is scheduled Sunday with Chillicothe's invasion of Tipton, Okla., holding the spotlight. Electra's first half champions will play at Quanah in the only other definitely scheduled game. Oklaunion's carded game with Frederick will not be played as the Oklaunions dropped out of the league early this week.

Thalia's Tigers, rumored as a possible addition to the loop to take the place of Frederick, have not as yet entered the league. Should the Foard county nine enter the circuit before Sunday, it will play at Oklaunion in its opening contest. If the Tigers fail to enter the loop this season, one of the five remaining teams in the league will remain idle each Sunday.

The addition of Thalia to the league would mean little more than the re-entrance of Vernon, as the Tigers compose two-thirds of the club here.

Chillicothe's contest at Tipton Sunday will bring together two of the strongest clubs in the loop. Tipton, co-favorite with Oklaunion for the second half title, will be favored to win, however. The Sooners blasted Frederick in their opening game but do not get credit for the victory since the withdrawal of the Boosters. Chillicothe, the "dark horse" in the race, blanked Electra in its opening game by a 4-0 score.

Electra will be a heavy favorite to dispose of Quanah in the other league contest. Quanah started its second half campaign where it left off in the first half, by dropping its contest to Oklaunion by a 12-10 score. The Gassers won but one game in the initial half, that by protest.

The standing:

| Club— | Won | Lost | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Oklaunion | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Chillicothe | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Tipton | 0 | 0 | .000 |
| Electra | 0 | 1 | .000 |
| Quanah | 0 | 1 | .000 |

Sunday's Schedule

Chillicothe at Tipton.
Electra at Quanah.

Combs Ends Yanks' Losing Streak With Homer That Beats Tigers, 3-2

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Prof. Earl Combs terminated the Yankees' losing streak suddenly and effectively today when he knocked one of Vic Sorrell's offerings into the distant bleachers with two mates aboard, the big punch being sufficient to give the leaders a 3 to 2 decision over Detroit.

Combs' blow, which came in the third inning, was about all the damage the Yanks could do to the Tiger star.

The defeat sent the Tigers into third place, below the Athletics, who took a double-header from the Chicago White Sox. Score:
