None injured in unrelated gas leaks

From Staff Reports

Three unrelated oil field accidents late Tuesday and early today — including a fiery pump station explosion in south Midland County — inconvenienced area travelers with closed highways but caused no injuries, authorities said.

The Texas Department of Public Safety blocked a portion of Texas Highway 87 about a mile north of Big Spring early today after a pipe leaking hydrochloric acid caused a gaseous cloud about 100 yards across, authorities said.

DPS troopers also rerouted Interstate 10 traffic near Ozona after a hydrogen sulfide gas leak seven miles east of the city was discovered about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

And although an explosion at an Arco pump station 20 miles south of Midland Regional Airport burned itself out Tuesday night, officials acknowledged that major damage resulting from natural gas flames could have been worse.

"It could have been a hell of an explosion," Midland County Fire Department Chief James Roberts said of the pump station fire south of the airport.

The blast rocked a production plant on Arco's June Tippett Lease, six miles north of the Upton County border on County Road 1788.

Arco officials said they mainly were concerned that a pressurized propane tank adjacent to the flames would explode.

Even without the added danger, flames lit up the sky at about 7:20 p.m., necessitating the call to fire departments from Midland, Ector and Crane counties.

Roberts said the flames were visible to air traffic controllers at Midland Regional Airport 20 miles away.

No Arco employees were at the site when the blast occurred and no injuries were reported, but the damage was severe, said Arco District Gas Plant Superintendent David Thomas.

A price tag on the amount of damage was not known this morning, nor was the blast's cause, said Nancy Avery, an Arco spokeswoman.

Firemen said there was little they could do but watch as the fire burned itself out.

Near Big Spring, a hydrochloric acid leak at the Reeves Company, an oil field servicing company, was dangerous only to persons with respiratory ailments, a Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation spokesman said this morning.

The gaseous cloud resulted from a chemical reaction involving the leaking acid and the ground on which it fell, said Alan Wright, a Reeves Company spokesman.

Although the leak occurred about a mile from the Big Spring State Hospital, no evacuations had been ordered by early today.

Near Ozona, DPS troopers expected Interstate 10 to remain closed until about noon today while toxic hydrogen sulfide gas dissipated from a leak discovered Tuesday night.

Clements wants no tax hike

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Saying a $5.8 billion tax increase will "stifle economic growth," Gov. Bill Clements today proposed a $36.87 billion spending bill for the 1988-1989 biennium.

Advance copies of Clements' state of the state address indicated he would "continue current revenues," maintain state spending at its current level and sell land, settle outstanding tax issues and reallocate funds to make up the estimated $5.8 billion shortfall.

"We are in a time of economic distress, and I will veto a $5.8 billion tax hike," Clements said.

The governor proposed "we substantially lower the sales tax rate and broaden its base." The total state revenues achieved from that restructuring would not exceed the $35.1 billion Comptroller Bob Bullock has estimated plus the $2.9 billion that would come in if lawmakers extend the temporary sales and gasoline tax increases passed last fall and scheduled to expire Aug. 31.

Unlike some of former-Gov. Mark White's major speeches, Clements made no arrangements to broadcast this one live via satelite to radio and television stations across the state. "The PR razzmatazz has come and gone," Clements press secretary Reggie Bashur said.

Rep. Mike Toomey, R-Houston and one of Clements' key budget advisors, said he expects lawmakers to consider Clements' program seriously and not follow the tradition of ignoring a governor's budget plan. "He's got a little bit of a mandate behind him from the people to change the way we're doing things," he said.

State Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown said Republicans have grown in strength to make Clements "veto-proof," meaning the Legislature could not over-ride a Clements veto. Brown added that he expects the governor to "be tough in the handling of it until he gets what he wants."

Toomey would provide no specifics on the governor's plans for cutting state spending or dealing with taxes. "We're not cutting any direct services, but business as usual for the bureaucracy will not continue," he said.

Bashur said Clements will "talk at length" about taxes and spending. Asked if the governor will support extending the temporary sales and gasoline taxes the Legislature passed last summer and that expire Aug. 31, Bashur said, "There has to be a serious, serious look at the current revenue stream."

Democrats have waited almost a year for Republican Clements to reveal what became known during his campaign against White as his "secret plan" for solving the state's budget deficit.

Big Bend area cocaine bust among largest in sector

By PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writer

FORT STOCKTON — More than 660 pounds of cocaine valued at $21 million were seized in a motor home north of Big Bend National Park Monday, according to the U.S. Border Patrol.

Hugh J. Rushton, chief patrol agent for the 92,000 sqare mile Marfa sector, said a man and a woman were arrested 13 miles south of Fort Stockton on U.S. Highway 385. They were driving north on the highway that runs north and south from the giant park when they were stopped.

"It is probably the largest (seizure) for our sector and among the largest ever," Rushton said.

Officials said officers from Big Bend National Park assisted in the arrests and seizure.

According to the arresting officers, the cocaine was brought into Big Bend from Mexico, and was hidden in kilo-sized packages in a 40-foot-long 1978 motor home with Nevada license plates.

Now in the custody of the Drug Enforcement Administration is a Cuban national, Carlos Manuel Pol-Garcia, 46. Garcia gave authorities an Andrews address, but they determined he had been living in New Jersey for several years. Also arrested was a Fort Stockton woman, Rosa Maria Chacon-Rodriguez de Pena, who officials said is a naturalized U.S. citizen.

Both have been charged with possession of cocaine with intent to distribute. Bond was denied in a hearing Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate A.J. Pope, said David Pfeifer, deputy chief of the border patrol in Marfa.

"We usually don't get cocaine on the ground in this area," Rushton said. "It is suspected that (the cocaine) was probably flown in from Colombia to one of those landing strips in that area."

Rushton said there are landing strips on practically every ranch in that sector of Mexico that borders the Big Bend.

"You're dealing with a large-scale Colombia-Mexico-United States network," Phil Jordan, special agent in charge of the DEA in Dallas told the Associated Press. "As far as this case is concerned, the investigation is just beginning.

"The investigation right now continues as to who the recipients were or were to be," Jordan said. "More arrests are anticipated."

Jordan said the cocaine was being transported to DEA labs in Dallas.

Jordan said the largest cocaine seizure in West Texas was in November, when DEA agents working with the Department of Public Safety seized 750 pounds of cocaine in Odessa.

"In the whole of Texas the latest seizure will rate in the top five," Jordan said.

More Marines move into Mediterranean

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The United States sent additional Marines to join a battle group in the eastern Mediterranean, and some warships were reported within 50 miles of Lebanon in apparent response to rising tensions in the region and kidnappings in Beirut.

The Moslem kidnappers have threatened to kill American hostages if the United States attacks, but Pentagon sources in Washington stressed Tuesday that the battle group did not have orders to prepare for any military operation.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the carriers Kennedy and Nimitz and a Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group of about 1,900 Marines were steaming on a "routine patrol pattern" south of Cyprus. Cyprus is 100 miles northwest of Beirut.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said Tuesday that Israel would consider helping the United States launch a military operation in Lebanon if asked.

"I don't think we will be asked, but if we will be asked, we will consider it," Shamir told The Associated Press on a visit to Kiryat Gat, 35 miles south of Tel Aviv.

The U.S. force consists of about 22 warships. On Tuesday, 1,900 more Marines were moved out of Spain to join the fleet.

Official sources in Cyprus said civilian aircraft flying near the ships had been ordered by radio to veer away from the warships, which were lying in international waters.

Also Tuesday, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted a Foreign Ministry spokesman in Tehran as denying a U.S. news media report that hostage negotiator Terry Waite was held by Iranian Revolutionary Guards in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

Delegates drafting guidelines for arms treaty

GENEVA (AP) — U.S. and Soviet delegates are drafting guidelines for an arms control treaty for the first time in their nearly two years of negotiations in Geneva, the chief Soviet arms negotiator said.

Yuli Vorontsov, at a news conference Tuesday, called the guidelines a "kind of frame on which (we) will later on put all the necessary elements" for a treaty. He did not give details of what the treaty would encompass.

The three areas under discussion at the talks are space and defense systems and long and medium-range nuclear weapons. The superpowers launched the arms talks in March 1986, but Vorontsov said the current work on treaty guidelines is "the first time we're working with a paper and pencil in drafting."

He said delegates also had made progress toward consolidating the results of the Oct. 11-12, 1986 U.S.-Soviet summit in Iceland, and credited the results to a new format.

In previous rounds, delegates met three times a week. But during the seventh round of talks that began Jan. 15, the format has been changed to "numerous and intensive meetings at various levels in the delegations," Vorontsov said.

President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev agreed in principle at the Reykjavik, Iceland summit to cut their strategic nuclear forces in half. However, the summit ended in failure when the Soviets insisted on linking agreement on arms cuts to curtailment of the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative, or "Star Wars," a program for researching a space-based missile defense system.

"It is our belief that all the necessary prerequisites exist in this round for consolidating the positive results of Reykjavik," Vorontsov said. "We intend to continue doing everything necessary to implement the Reykjavik decisions. But as you can see, it is now up to the American side."

He said the main sticking point remained Star Wars.

Vorontsov said the Soviet side is doing all it can "to intensify the negotiations and make them productive. Unfortunately, thus far we cannot claim that we have been fully successful."

He said "alarming signs" emerged that the United States was sticking to old positions and introducing new ones that further complicated the talks. He did not elaborate.

The current negotiating round is tentatively scheduled to end March 4, but Vorontsov said it could be extended if progress is being made.

Use of breath-analyzing device raises questions

By PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writer

Local authorities say they doubt a proposed bill requiring some convicted drunken drivers to take a breath test each time they try to start their autos would work.

On Monday Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, introduced the bill in Austin, and said she believes a device known as an interlock, now being used in four states, could reduce the number of repeat offenders.

"I think the carnage on our highways has cost us untold millions of dollars in property damage...and a dollar amount really can't be put on the loss of human lives and the loss to family members," Ms. Denton said.

The device, used now in Colorado, Maryland, Michigan and Ohio, is connected to the auto's ignition. Before the car can be started, the driver must breathe into the device to insure sobriety; a code must also be entered into the device before it will allow starting, which officials said helps prevent a third party from starting the car.

The bill would give judges the option of requiring that the breath-analyzing device be installed in the cars of convicted drunken drivers as a condition of probation.

"I have some questions about this device," said Midland Department of Public Safety Capt. Coy Clanton.

"What is to prevent the individual from driving some other car?" he said. "Also, as far as safety is concerned, what if the vehicle is stopped on a railroad crossing, and can't be started, or is in an intersection and stalls? There are several things that I would like to know a little more about."

Clanton said faced with a vehicle so-equipped, a convicted drunken driver will likely use another vehicle, that of a wife, other relative, or friend, and drink and drive anyway.

"It's been my experience with these people that drink, that they are going to do it anyway," Clanton said. "I think most of them will figure out a way to circumvent it."

Confrontation likely on speed limit bill

New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — A bill allowing states to raise the speed limit to 65 miles an hour on rural interstate highways was easily approved by the Senate Tuesday, setting up a confrontation with the House.

The vote, 65-33, came as the Senate began work on a $65.4 billion, four-year highway and mass transit bill. The House passed the bill last month without an amendment to raise the current 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, and narrowly rejected an increase in the speed limit when it voted on the same legislation last year.

After raising the speed limit, the Senate then rejected a compromise amendment that would prohibit new billboards in rural areas and limit their size in urban areas. The amendment, which lost 57-40, was less restrictive than an across-the-board ban approved by the Senate last year.

The approval of the higher speed limit may delay quick passage of the legislation, which died at the end of the last Congress because of a deadlock between the House and the Senate over the speed limit, billboard regulations and other issues. But the defeat of the billboard proposal should help Senate and House conferees to reach a compromise because the House is also opposed to the ban rejected in the Senate.

The current authorization for highway and mass transit programs expired Sept. 30, at the end of the fiscal year 1986. Members of Congress, local officials and highway contractors are pushing for quick approval of the highway and mass transit bill this year so that construction projects will not be delayed. But they are worried that another deadlock in a House-Senate conference over the speed limit and other issues could delay approval and cause lost construction time.

The vote on raising the speed limit generally pitted senators from rural and Western states against those from urban and Eastern states. For those supporting the higher speed limit, the issue was "states rights" — the right of a state to determine its own speed limits.

Supporters also contended that the current speed limit was being ignored, and therefore should be changed. "We ought not to have laws that breed contempt for the law," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

While supporters agreed that the current speed limit had saved lives, they said that since it was being exceeded regularly, raising it would not result in an increase in injuries.

Opponents of the amendment maintained that saving lives was the issue. Sen. John C. Danforth, a Missouri Republican, said it was a matter of "time saved on one side of the scale and lives saved on the other side of the scale," adding, "Raising the speed limit will cost lives — a lot of them."

He and other senators cited studies showing that the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit has saved from 2,000 to 4,000 lives a year in the United States since the law went into effect in 1974. The law was initially passed as a measure to conserve gasoline in response to the Arab oil embargo.

Under the amendment, the higher speed limit would be allowed on interstate highways outside urban areas that have a population of 50,000 or more. This would allow a speed limit of 65 miles an hour on most of the nation's 43,000-mile Interstate System.

On the billboard amendment, supporters of the restrictions said the Highway Beautification Act of 1965 had so many loopholes that billboard were increasing, rather than decreasing.

Opponents said the ban on new billboards in rural areas and the limit on those in urban areas would hurt small businesses that depend on them for advertising.

The House voted on Jan. 21 to authorize highway and mass transit programs that could cost $91.6 billion over five years, starting this year. Of this, $20.6 billion is for mass transit. Over four years, the same period as that covered in the Senate bill, the House bill authorizes $75.6 billion, of which $16.4 billion is for mass transit.

The Senate bill would authorize about $55.5 billion for four years, with about $13 billion for mass transit. An amendment to add the mass transit program to the highway bill must still be approved by the Senate.

Because funds for the highway program and about $1 billion of the mass transit program comes from the Highway Trust Fund, the authority to enter contracts for construction is carried in this authorization bill. A separate appropriations bill for the highway program for this year has already been approved.

DEVICE

But the head of the DPS in Austin is withholding judgment on the device.

"Before taking any position on these devices, I would want to review the results of independent studies," Col. James Adams said in a statement. "In this way, we could be informed concerning any potential problems with these systems."

Adams said one such study on the devices was initiated by the National Safety Council Committee on Alcohol and Other Drugs "late last year."

Agency spokesman Mike Cox said DPS does present testimony to legislative committees on certain bills when requested, but he said since Ms. Denton's bill was only introduced Monday, he said it was impossible to say if the agency's input would be requested.

"And, we'll just have to wait and see what the studies show," Cox said.

Midland Police Department spokesman Lt. Hank Norton, like other officials, doubts the reliability of the device, but he said "If it does work, it would be a tremendous aid. Anything that would help eliminate drunk drivers would be welcome."

Midland County Attorney Mark Dettman said last month his office processed 103 convictions for driving while intoxicated, and averages about two dozen a week.

"As an alternative to punishment, I'm not in favor of it at all," Dettman said. "It's my understanding that this is for people that have been convicted of felony DWI. I find that system too easy to beat."

Ms. Denton said studies have shown drinking is a significant factor in traffic accidents. More than 100,000 Texans were convicted of drunk driving in each of the last two years, she said.

However, she said overcrowding in the state prison system and in county jails statewide makes it impractical to imprison every drunk driver.

"It's easy to say lock them up. But...our prisons are at capacity and our county jails are feeling the same pressures. We have to look at realistic alternatives," she said.

"I don't view that as a viable alternative," Dettman insisted. "I think a better alternative would be for them to do community service work."

Dettman compared the interlock device to one that was installed on some autos in the mid 70s, and prevented the driver from starting the engine until the seat belts of front seat passengers were buckled.

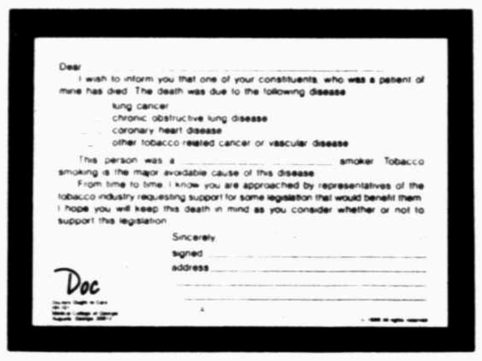

That interlock was phased out by the car makers.

Doctors to use postcards to make anti-smoking point

By SANDY JOHNSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dear Congressman. One of your constituents is dead, killed by cigarettes.

The message is not quite that stark, but physicians pushing a new anti-smoking campaign hope their black-bordered death notices get their point across to Congress.

Dear _____
I wish to inform you that one of your constituents, who was a patient of mine has died. The death was due to the following disease _____ lung cancer _____ chronic obstructive lung disease _____ coronary heart disease
_____ other tobacco related cancer or vascular disease
This person was a _____ smoker. Tobacco smoking is the major avoidable cause of this disease.
From time to time I know you are approached by representatives of the tobacco industry requesting support for some legislation that would benefit them. I hope you will keep this death in mind as you consider whether or not to support this legislation.
Sincerely

Doc

The tobacco industry called the postcard announcements a "grotesque exploitation of personal tragedy," but the members of Doctors Ought to Care disagreed.

"I've made the diagnosis of lung cancer four times in the last month," said Dr. Luke Burchard of Mattoon, Ill. "None of those people will see next Christmas. And the average age there is 55. They're in the prime of their life."

"I'm tired of (patients) who smoke for 30 to 40 years, then die or have emphysema," Dr. Mark Glassner of Wilmington, Del., said. "I get tired of telling a 35-year-old man who smoked three packs a day since age 12 that he has lung cancer."

DOC, a group with 4,000 members nationwide, modeled its postcard campaign after a similar effort in Great Britain in 1984 in hopes the stark announcements will personalize to members of Congress some of the 350,000 deaths attributed each year to lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease.

DOC president John Richards of Augusta, Ga., said 10,000 postcards were printed last week, and he had requests for 700 cards even before he notified members.

AP newsman given club's achievement award

AUSTIN (AP) — Associated Press newsman Garth Jones, who has covered Texas politics for four decades, is the second person to win the Headliners Foundation's Lifelong Achievement Award, the Headliners Club of Austin announced.

Jones will receive the award "for accomplishments during a distinguished career in journalism" at the club's annual Charles E. Green Journalism Awards ceremonies Saturday.

Jones, 69, currently is covering his 18th regular session of the Texas Legislature.

Earlier Tuesday, speaking at the opening session of the 1987 Geneva Disarmament Conference, Vorontsov reiterated that Moscow would end its 16-month-old unilateral moratorium on nuclear weapons tests after the first U.S. test this year.

Later in the day, the United States conducted its first nuclear test of 1987 with an underground explosion at the Yucca Flat, Nev. test site.

LEAKS

The leak at a well owned by J. Cleo Thompson Inc. of Dallas brought company representatives, DPS troopers, Texas Railroad Commission personnel, Crockett County Sheriff's deputies and the Ozona Fire Department to the scene.

DPS troopers began rerouting westbound Interstate 10 traffic at Sonora and eastbound traffic at Ozona after the leak was discovered about 10:30 p.m.

A DPS spokesman in Midland reported no instances of persons overcome by contact with the potentially toxic gas.

Repair crews began working on the well at daylight, according to troopers.

Staff writers contributing to this report include Rick Brown, Jane Marler Dees, Julie Hillrichs and Frank Trombley.

Pianist Liberace lapses into coma

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Liberace was clinging to life after lapsing into a coma, and a priest has been contacted to administer last rites to the flamboyant pianist.

"His pulse has gotten weaker, and his breathing has gotten more labored," the musician's attorney, Joel Strote, said Tuesday evening. "He can't swallow."

Asked how long the 67-year-old Liberace might survive, Strote said "it's hard to estimate, but obviously it's not going to be long."

Strote said Liberace lapsed into a coma Tuesday and that a priest was contacted but had not administered last rites.

There were no reports on Liberace's condition early today, and a security guard said the attorney for Liberace's estate was asleep.

Liberace publicist Denise Collier said in New York that Liberace suffers from anemia, emphysema and heart disease. A spokesman last week denied a published report that he had AIDS.

"He is very pale but obviously resting very comfortably," Strote said. "He's not in any pain and basically his family is here — his sister; his deceased brother's wife, Laura; his sister's daughter and her husband."

Strote said there were no plans to hospitalize Liberace because "there is really nothing that could be done for him in a hospital, and it was his desire to rest comfortably at home."

Fans had lit candles on the curbstone outside Liberace's desert home Monday night and remained gathered outside Tuesday. Strote said Liberace "wanted them to remember him as he was, an entertainer."

The group of young and old fans that had numbered 65 Monday night had dwindled to only a few by the time Strote appeared outside the house Tuesday. Early today, only four reporters remained outside the house.

One of the fans outside the home Tuesday was Jerry Terp, 31, of Palm Springs, who said he met Liberace twice and "I just feel it's kind of a duty to visit and pay my respects and offer silent prayers."

A photographer arrested for investigation of trespassing on the property Monday night was freed without bail Tuesday after signing a promise to appear in court, police spokesman Fred Donnell said.

Michael Cassels, 38, was free-lancing for the National Enquirer, Donnell said.

Polish coal mine explosion kills 17, injures 20

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — An explosion of methane gas tore through a coal mine in southern Poland today, killing 17 miners and injuring 20, officials said.

The accident occurred in Myslowice, a town near the southern city of Katowice, said Andrzej Zajac, an official with the mining ministry.

"There were 17 people killed and 20 are in hospitals," said Zajac, reached by telephone. "According to doctors' opinions, there is no threat to their (the injured) lives."

Zajac said the blast occurred about 5:30 a.m. about 1,650 feet into the shaft. He said 64 miners were in the shaft when the explosion occurred, and all had been accounted for.

Methane gas collects underground during coal mining operations. Zajac said an investigation was under way to determine what sparked the gas to explode.

LEBANON

The 47-year-old Anglican Church envoy has not been seen since he left his hotel in Moslem west Beirut on Jan. 20. He was believed headed for a meeting with Islamic Jihad, a Shiite Moslem group holding two Americans.

Lebanon's justice minister, Nabih Berri, said in Damascus, Syria, on Monday that Waite had been "arrested" by the kidnappers, but did not elaborate.

Unconfirmed reports last week said Waite was spotted in the Bekaa Valley, a Shiite stronghold and base for about 400 Iranian Revolutionary Guards.

IRNA, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, quoted the Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying the report was "fabricated by imperialist news media" and that Tehran never sanctioned kidnapping foreigners in Lebanon.

Islamic Jihad is believed made up of Shiite fundamentalists loyal to Iran. It holds Terry Anderson, 39, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, and educator Thomas Sutherland, 55, both kidnapped in 1985, and threatened Monday to kill them if the United States attacks Lebanon.

Altogether, 26 foreigners are missing in Lebanon and presumed kidnapped, including eight Americans. Eleven were kidnapped within a two-week period in January.

Hundreds of students demonstrated Tuesday in Moslem west Beirut's rainswept streets to protest the Jan. 24 kidnapping of four teachers. The teachers, three Americans and an Indian, were taken from the campus of Beirut University College by gunmen posing as police.

Seib due to leave Iran tomorrow

WORLD

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib, who had been detained in Iran and accused of spying, was ordered expelled today, the official Iranian news agency reported.

The Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted an unidentified source as saying Seib would leave the country Thursday. The agency did not elaborate.

In a previous dispatch, IRNA had quoted an unidentified Information Ministry official as saying Seib was expelled after a judicial probe into his case concluded.

There was no immediate explanation for the contradiction between the two dispatches. Both articles quoted officials as saying Seib would be barred permanently from Iran.

Iranian Prime Minister Hussein Musavi had said earlier today Seib would be "expelled" within two or three days.

Seib's brother, Paul, said from the family home in Hays, Kansas, that relatives were "upbeat and elated but also reserved because we don't take anything for granted until the Wall Street Journal tell us he's definitely been released."

Seib, 30, was among a group of 57 foreign reporters who visited Iran at the invitation of the Iranian government last week. IRNA said the reporters had been invited to file reports of "new Iranian victories" in the war against Iraq.

Seib had been in Tehran 10 days when he was seized outside his hotel Saturday and accused of being a "spy of the Zionist regime."

Tehran Radio on Monday alleged Seib entered the country with a false passport disguised as a journalist.

Musavi said in a Tehran Radio interview today that Seib was "engaged in certain investigations and collecting intelligence at the front."

"After being questioned, the issue has been clarified," Musavi said.

Seib has been a Journal reporter since 1978, and has covered the Middle East from Cairo since 1985.

Jim Fusilli, a spokesman for the Journal in New York, said he was aware of a report that Seib "has been or is being (released) but we know nothing further."

"It's wonderful news if it can be confirmed," said Dennis Farney, a Journal colleague who is staying with Seib's parents to help field inquiries.

In Washington, Nancy Beck, a State Department spokeswoman, said today that she didn't know anything about reports of Seib being expelled.

The Swiss Embassy in Tehran, which has represented U.S. interests there since the 1979 Iranian revolution, today refused to comment on Seib's case.

Journal chairman Warren H. Phillips called the detention a "dreadful mistake" and said Seib had been seized "without any cause at all."

In Washington, the American Society of Newspaper Editors protested Seib's arrest in a telegram Tuesday to the Iranian Ministry of Islamic Guidance.

"This kind of mistake hurts the reputation of Iran anywhere in the world," ASNE President Michael G. Gartner said in the telegram.

Musavi also commented on the presence of U.S. warships in the eastern Mediterranean, saying, "America must know that any kind of attack on Moslems anywhere in the world will not go unanswered."

"Moslems have the capability to respond to any kind of attack and America will certainly not achieve anything from it," Musavi said.

The United States moved about 22 warships into the eastern Mediterranean in apparent response to rising tensions in the Middle East and kidnappings in Lebanon.

Iranian list effort to better ties with West

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel provided U.S. officials with a list of 90 Iranian "pragmatists" in an effort to convince the White House that improved ties with Iran were possible, an Israeli arms dealer says.

Yaakov Nimrodi told The Associated Press on Monday the list, which included clergymen and high-ranking government officials, was given to him by the deputy speaker of the Iranian Parliament, Ayatollah Mehdi Karroubi, at a meeting in Europe in May 1985. Also at the meeting was Saudi billionaire Adnan Khashoggi and Iranian go-between Manucher Ghorbanifar, Nimrodi said.

Nimrodi is the Israeli arms dealer who arranged three shipments of U.S. weapons from Israel to Iran in what he and American officials have said was an attempt to foster a moderate leadership in Tehran and obtain the release of American hostages held in Lebanon by pro-Iranian Shiites.

He said the list represented a group of Iranians who viewed renewed ties with the West as the only hope of saving their country from anarchy or Communism. Nimrodi said the group consisted of the top echelons of the Iranian government, the army, the clergy, and the business and academic world.

The list was submitted to officials of the U.S. National Security Council, according to Nimrodi.

He said that among the most prominent names on the list were: Ahmad Khomeini, the son of Iranian patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini; Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Majlis or parliament; Hussein Musavi, the prime minister; and Ahmad Tavasoli, a member of Parliament.

The list was examined by intelligence experts and deemed authentic, said another Israeli source, who added the people mentioned had "delivered" several times in clandestine dealings with the West.

In one such case, members of the pragmatist faction exerted pressure on the Shiite Moslem hijackers of a TWA jetliner and obtained the release of the 39 hostages in Beirut in June 1984, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

"We believed they could deliver again, and we were right," said the source. He noted Iran had released three American hostages in the course of the past year in return for U.S. arms shipments.

After close scrutiny in Israel, the list was handed to the former director-general of the Foreign Ministry, David Kimche. Kimche has told the AP he took the list to then-National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane in Washington in July 1985.

The AP was shown copies of three versions of the list: The original one in Farsi, the language of Iran, and the Hebrew and English translations. The Farsi and Hebrew versions had short biographical summaries next to each name, while the English translation was headed: "For Your Eyes Only, Not to be Xeroxed or Distributed."

Sri Lankan baby trade likened to 'slave trade'

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Hundreds and maybe thousands of Sri Lankan babies are sold each year to foreign couples through an underground scheme that officials have likened to a "slave trade."

The island's commissioner of child care, Vinitha Jayasinghe, says her efforts to stop the sale of babies, which often result in legal adoptions, are running into a well-organized network of middlemen.

"We have laws prohibiting slavery. We want to use them against all people involved in the buying and selling of humans," said Mrs. Jayasinghe.

"If this is not a slave trade, what is?"

Mrs. Jayasinghe and other officials say the baby trade involves hotel operators, doctors, lawyers and corrupt officials who bring in foreign couples, sell them babies and then arrange legal adoptions.

At least 1,500 babies leave the island each year under such adoptions, she said, and many more are believed sold without any legality.

"We know many local women carry either their own babies or someone else's, leaving the country for various reasons," Mrs. Jayasinghe said. "They thereafter give the infants to middlemen who sell the kids to West European couples."

The transactions usually begin through middlemen abroad, say government officials and sources in the baby trade.

Couples check into Sri Lankan hotels and are presented with infants for inspection or they pick out children from "baby farms," where several infants are put on display.

Once a baby is chosen, an adoption can be arranged after a court hearing that takes only a few minutes.

New attention was focused on baby sales in mid-January when police raided a hotel at Wadduwa, 27 miles south of this capital, and found 22 babies apparently ready to be sold. The owner and 20 local women were arrested.

The infants, ranging from 3 weeks to 6 months, were being cared for by the women, Police Inspector S. Sumanadasa said.

"We also found British, Dutch and German women, all married, feeding the kids with milk or cuddling them," said Police Inspector S. Sumanadasa said.

Police Superintendent Rukman Silva said when police began taking the babies away, some of the European women burst into tears.

He said it was believed the hotel had sent 600 Sri Lankan babies abroad in the last four years at an average price of $1,000 each.

Other officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said babies have been sold for more than $3,000, while mothers giving up the children sometimes get as little as $40.

Mrs. Jayasinghe said the system was difficult to stop because the adoptions themselves are legal, despite the sale of the baby and no investigation of the child's origin or of the prospective parents.

The basis for the baby trade is economic.

Childless couples cannot find babies to adopt in Europe, with its affluence and falling birth rates. But babies are plentiful in Sri Lanka, where the annual per capita income is $360.

Official say that not only the poor, but prostitutes and unwed mothers are easy prey for the baby sale racket.

One newspaper, the independent Sun, reported that prostitutes were being paid to have sex with European men to produce lighter skinned babies more attractive to foreign couples.

Police Superintendent Silva also said some of the children found in the raid at the Stamford Cabana Hotel could have been kidnapped. Police have put out an appeal asking for people to identify the children.

WORLD in brief

Prison reform project has prisoners performing opera

TURI, Italy (AP) — Twelve convicts are spending two weeks outside prison performing opera in theaters in southern Italy.

The tour is part of a prison reform project. On its first stop Tuesday night, the troupe made up of prisoners, prison workers and students of the University of Legal Studies in Turi staged Edoardo Scarpetta's opera "La Santarella" before about 15,000 people in Turi.

The prisoners, ages 25 to 50, are serving various terms for a wide range of offenses.

Ministry refuses letter

PEKING (AP) — The Foreign Ministry refused today to accept a letter from foreign journalists in Peking expressing concern about the expulsion of American reporter Lawrence MacDonald.

Graham Earnshaw, Peking bureau chief of the British news agency Reuters and president of the Foreign Correspondents Club, said the ministry's information department rejected his request for a meeting to hand over the letter, signed by 43 Peking based correspondents.

He said he then sent the letter by registered mail. It expresses deep concern over MacDonald's expulsion last week and asks for urgent clarification of the rights of foreign journalists.

The government had accused MacDonald, a 32-year-old reporter for the French news agency Agence France-Presse, of receiving unspecified intelligence from a student. The student was arrested, but MacDonald was not formally charged.

MacDonald had reported on recent student pro-democracy demonstrations, and the expulsion appeared to be an expression of official dissatisfaction with Western reporting of the protests.

South Korea to repay U.S.

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea plans to repay $670 million in U.S. loans toward weapons purchases ahead of schedule, using low-interest loans from European money markets, a newspaper said today.

The Seoul daily Chosun Ilbo quoted an unidentified high-ranking government official as saying the U.S. Foreign Military Sales loans would be repaid this year or early next year.

The report did not say when the loans were due, and the Defense Ministry refused to comment. It also refused to disclose the total amount of outstanding U.S. military loans to South Korea.

Only half a step

What if the Soviets called a truce in Afghanistan and none of the Islamic rebels came out of the hills? The Soviet-backed puppet government in Kabul has called for a cease-fire. It offered amnesty to deserters and called for expatriates to return.

Rebels on the Pakistan border defiantly vowed to continue fighting. But the war in Afghanistan appears heading toward a slowdown, if not peace.

The Soviets are the tenuous victors in Afghanistan. They have set up a regime not likely to fall from power soon. Although the regime only controls the cities, there is little chance of Afghanistan becoming independent.

Afghanistan has been called the Soviets' Vietnam. True, young Soviets died in that country, and the body bags caused anguish and criticism in the homeland. But the totalitarian regime in Moscow wasn't rocked by anti-Afghanistan war protestors.

If the cease-fire eventually leads to a negotiated settlement, the Soviets will maintain a hammer poised above the Afghanistan puppet regime. If Afghan leaders try to pull away from the Soviets, the sickle will slash their throats.

The West has little to be happy about in this civil war. The Soviet atrocities, the aerial bombings of villages, the reports of germ warfare all went on with impunity. Covert aid to the rebels from the West may have replaced their World War I rifles with more modern weapons; it may have given them a fighting chance against Soviet patrols. But the aid did not succeed in routing the Soviet army or overthrowing the Kabul regime.

The Soviets caused many evils by marching into Afghanistan. Not the least of them was to speed up the nuclear-arms race, which the Soviets now say they are eager to stop.

Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev didn't start the Afghanistan war and deserves credit for trying to bring it to a close. But if the Soviets want the United States to engage in serious arms-control agreements, then they will have to convince the American people that they are not going to repeat Afghanistan. And the crushing of human rights must stop.

LETTERS

Was Khrushchev right?

Don't send your uneducated, poor, homeless masses of people to us. We have masses of poor, uneducated, homeless of our own.

We are forced to provide escalating tax monies for the education of these people who invade us. Our schools are good and the quality of instruction is good, yet the system is foundering because it is forced to accept masses of uneducated aliens.

Our nation has rampant unemployment and this is aggravated by the influx of untrained workers.

The homeless and poor, already a staggering number, are multiplied by this influx of aliens. The private and public welfare systems that were already overburdened now find it impossible to feed, shelter, and provide emergency medical services.

These workers demand and get education and training. This is paid for by an ever-escalating tax burden on those who are working.

After an unnecessarily long delay, an immigration bill was finally approved by the government. Now bills are being introduced to circumvent the new law. As a citizen who does not think the new law is strong enough, I sure do not want to see it circumvented.

The population of our country has started growing at an alarming rate. The reason is the influx of aliens who adhere to religious dogma and will not control family size. Our largest cities have uncontrollable ghettos, and now we find these same conditions in intermediate and smaller cities.

When will these do-gooders quit trying to mold the United States into the same image as the Third World countries? Our forefathers worked and fought to make a nation free and prosperous for their families. Now people are trying to turn it into a socialistic society for all people. The end result will be that we will lose it all and Khrushchev will have been right.

Residents show respect

I was in Midland recently to attend the funeral of my daughter's father-in-law, Curtis Fallin. Services were held in the chapel of one of the funeral homes there and as the procession made its way to the cemetery I couldn't help but notice the respect shown as we passed. Every car stopped. We even passed a construction zone and all the equipment was stopped; the operators had their hats off, either holding them over their hearts or down by their side.

Your people are to be commended. It certainly made an impression on me.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1987. There are 330 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Feb. 4, 1783, Britain declared a formal cessation of hostilities with its former colony, the United States of America.

On this date:

In 1801, John Marshall was sworn in as chief justice of the United States.

In 1932, New York Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt opened the Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid.

In 1938, the play "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder, opened on Broadway.

In 1941, the United Service Organization, better known as the USO, was founded.

In 1945, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Soviet leader Josef Stalin began a wartime conference at Yalta.

In 1948, the island nation of Ceylon, now Sri Lanka, became an independent dominion within the British Commonwealth.

In 1974, newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was kidnapped from her apartment in Berkeley, Calif., by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

In 1975, more than 22,000 people died when a severe earthquake struck Guatemala and Honduras.

Ten years ago: Eleven people were killed when two cars of a Chicago Transit Authority train fell off elevated tracks after a collision with another train that sent the cars plunging into the Loop. And the Soviet Union expelled Associated Press correspondent George A. Krimsky.

Singapore's leader keeps it thriving

WASHINGTON — Although he's only 63, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew is the dean of democratic politicians in the Far East, having held power for 28 years. He has announced he'll retire next year, but don't bet on it.

Jack Anderson

Lee has been Singapore's leader since the former British colony achieved limited self-rule in 1959, then through two difficult years in a federation with Malaysia and finally independence in 1965.

"I didn't set out to build an independent Singapore," Lee told us recently. "I set out to build a Singapore which is part of Malaysia. ... After 1965, the question was: Could we survive? Without Malaysia, there was no hinterland to keep the place going. ...

"We are like a heart without a body without Malaysia. And we then had to reach out to the world and make ourselves relevant to the rest of the world. So our trade lines and our investment lines were thrown to Europe, America and Japan. We became a different place."

The 239-square-mile island is indeed a "different place," boasting a healthier economy than nations hundreds or thousands of times its size. The fact that Singapore's living standards have risen faster than any other country's in the last two decades is the most significant tribute to Lee's leadership.

Lee has ruled his 2.5 million people like an imperious father, sponsoring numerous campaigns designed to keep his ethnically diverse people happy, harmonious — and orderly. Though Sinapore's Chinese, Malays, Indians and Europeans speak at least two dozen languages and dialects, Lee has imposed English as the official language of government and schools.

Lee's persuasive campaigns have promoted family planning, marriage between educational equals, good manners and brushing and flossing the teeth, while condemning smoking, spitting, chewing gum and long hair among men. Littering and jaywalking invite heavy fines; many commercial vehicles are fitted with yellow rooftop lights that start flashing when the vehicle exceeds the speed limit.

Singapore suffered an economic shock in 1985 because of the world trade slowdown. Lee is leading the struggle back from his country's worst economic slump in two decades. He admitted that it has been "a very slow recovery."

That's one reason we don't think Lee will retire next year. He's no quitter, and it wouldn't be like him to bow out while his country is still struggling economically. Another reason is that, so far, none of Lee's lieutenants has measured up to his exacting standards as a political heir.

We asked him point-blank if he was really going to retire in 1988. Lee replied: "I'm hoping that I'll be able to do it. ...

"It's a target I have set in order to force the pace for the younger men to come forward and take over the job. (It just) depends upon whether somebody can take over this job and run it. I think I have a good team of younger colleagues who can run the government."

Asked about his son, Brig. Gen. Lee Hsien Loong, Lee described him simply as part of that team. Some observers believe Lee is trying to set up a Chinese dynasty through his son, and Lee may in fact have that in mind. "Somebody has got to take over this job and provide the captaincy of the team," he said.

Asked what he would like to be remembered for, Lee said: "As someone presented with an awesome challenge who managed to keep the place alive and found a younger group of people to keep it going, improve on it and prosper after my colleagues and I were too old to do it. That's about it."

NASA'S NO-NOS: The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has distributed an internal "No-No List," to its technology offices, naming companies that are not to be given unclassified publications. The reason, according to NASA officials, is that the companies either represent or are owned by foreign corporations or countries. Congressional sources tell us that some members of Congress, including Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, are outraged that NASA is clamping controls on unclassified documents available to the public. The no-no memo lists 33 companies, including several with such clients as Japan, Israel, Canada and France.

THYED RED?: The KGB has recruited more than 250 Thai students since 1981 and taken them to Moscow for spy training, according to intelligence sources. The students are initially approached by Soviet journalists or embassy officials in Bangkok, and if they prove amenable, they are advised to go to another country before they get visas to the Soviet Union. That way, the Thai government won't know what they're up to. And the system appears to have worked. Thai investigators, alerted by some students' parents, have been unable to identify all the potential Soviet spies.

MINI-EDITORIAL: As we were puffing and perspiring over the unaccustomed task of snow-shoveling the other day, we were astonished by the number of joggers who kept loping past, cheeks red, eyes glistening. We thought: "What a waste!" And then, leaning on our shovel, we had an inspiration worthy of Tom Sawyer himself. Before the next snowstorm, we plan to have a sign ready to post at the end of the driveway: "Fitness Club! Lose that Flab! Superb Conditioning for Upper Body Muscles! All Necessary Equipment Provided. Membership Fee: $1 an Hour. Professional Supervision. Act Now!"

WILLIAM SAFIRE

Poindexter 'truth' needed in arms scandal

WASHINGTON — Larry Speakes, the departing White House spokesman, offhandedly revealed an illuminating fact in one of his farewell interviews.

He recalled that at the time of the Grenada invasion, he unwittingly misled the press when asked about the action. He had been misinformed, and his credibility undermined when the deception was exposed, by a National Security Council staff member named "Poindexter, of all people."

William Safire

I remember calling the White House, soon after the Grenada invasion was officially announced, to find out who was responsible for the decision to exclude the press from the combat operation. Throughout the nation's wars, the tradition was to bring along at least a few correspondents to report the action impartially, at no risk to military security.

Robert McFarlane, then national security adviser, took my call and wondered "Is that really your central concern in all this?" Here was an example of prompt and effective use of force to stop communist takeover and to prevent taking of American hostages; here was an action that hawkish pundits could be expected to applaud; what was this fuss about a side issue of media coverage?

The fuss was about telling the truth to the people. The United States government may on rare occasion fall silent for a time, but it must not deliberately lie; only the presence of reporters pledged to temporary secrecy can help justify a news blackout. By breaching that democratic precedent, and by issuing a lie, the Reagan administration engaged in self-corruption far more important than one victory in the Caribbean.

I think Bud McFarlane may realize that now. But Vice Adm. John Poindexter, promoted to the national security adviser's post after that lie, probably does not. That is because the truth, for him, seems to be less a moral imperative than an instrument of policy.

The same man who misled Larry Speakes about Grenada urged the president to apply "disinformation" to the pressure on Libya. He saw nothing wrong in destroying the reputation for truthfulness of American officials by peddling stories to the press that might make an enemy dictator nervous.

When his stupid and venal memorandum was unearthed and exposed in The Washington Post, Poindexter came before a group of pundits and pumped out some bomfog about having to check his files, never admitting its authorship. The truth was not something he was prepared to own up to — not even the truth about a memo he wrote about lying.

We know now that as he was stonewalling about disinformation, this flag officer had for months been urging the president to trade arms for hostages in secret while saying just the opposite in public.

No wonder, when called upon to do his duty and report the whole truth, this man becomes the first admiral to take refuge in the Fifth Amendment.

We have the right to assume from his plea that his truthful testimony would tend to incriminate him, perhaps to cause his criminal indictment, conviction and incarceration. With Oliver North and Richard Secord, Poindexter stands silent in the midst of a scandal more akin to Teapot Dome than Watergate, a scandal not merely of abuse of presidential soft-heartedness, but one in which investigators now tell me $40 million is unaccounted for.

Not all high officials in this matter have brought shame on the U.S. Naval Academy, which graduated John Poindexter first in his class apparently without inculcating in him the democratic value of truthfulness in office and accountability to superior officers. Former Marine officers McFarlane, Regan and Shultz, who did not receive their higher education at public expense, have taken the oath and taken their chances by testifying.

But Poindexter persists in his pattern of refusing to tell the truth. His excuses have ranged from national security to self-incrimination, but his habit was established and rewarded years ago.

This is not a man to be given immunity from prosecution. We are owed the truth; we should not have to pay ransom for it. If justice requires that the Poindexter testimony be delayed, and the admiral chooses to hold the president hostage, so be it; if anybody in this gets convicted, that person would probably have a lot to say to show contrition before sentencing.

As for the deception-crippled president, the next time he decides to sign a Bible, let him consider John 8:32: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

'Cabin Fever' bad byproduct of snowstorms

Last week the Northeast was locked in by two snowstorms in a row. It was so bad that in the Washington area alone there were 347,987 reported cases of Cabin Fever.

This was a typical case.

Art Buchwald

The Porter family was stuck in their house for three days as the wind blew back and forth, producing three- and four-foot drifts of snow.

Mr. Porter stationed himself in the living room where he maintained he could monitor weather bulletins much better. As we move in on him the newscaster has just announced, "Only those with essential jobs are required to report to their government offices today."

Mrs. Porter said, "Thank God you're not one of them."

Mr. Porter blew up. "Are you trying to say I don't have an essential job?"

"No, I did not say that at all. I just meant it's good you don't have to go in to work."

Porter was now shaking.

"I have a good mind to go in and show them whether I'm essential or not."

"Suppose they send you home?" Mrs. Porter asked.

"You'd like that. You would like me to be humiliated at work."

"Here, have some more vanilla pudding."

"I don't want any more pudding. I've been eating pudding for two days. Why do you keep giving me pudding all the time?"

"You told me to make it because it was the only thing to keep us alive during the 'snow emergency.'"

"I think I'll shovel the walk."

"You keep saying that and then you don't get out of the chair."

"I want to watch Phil Donahue. I never get to see Phil Donahue when I go to the office. After that I'll either shovel the snow or go through my suits and tell you which ones I want to throw out."

"You always say that too."

"There are a lot of things to do when you're snowbound, and it's not easy to decide which one should get priority."

Veronica Porter, the 15-year-old, came downstairs. "Daddy, Daddy, Harriet says she's going to kill Robert if he plays Bruce Springsteen on his tape machine one more time."

Mr. Porter smiled. "Well, don't interfere. Harriet is old enough to know what she is doing."

Mrs. Porter said, "How can you give permission for your daughter to kill your son?"

"You have any better ideas of how to make him stop playing Springsteen? I don't like those drapes."

"You never looked at those drapes before. I asked you a thousand times whether you liked the drapes and you always went 'mmemomemmnom.' I thought that meant you liked them."

"You would think with the money I give you I could have a say in the kind of drapes we have in this house."

"Do you want some pudding?"

"No, I don't want pudding. Did Harriet kill Robert yet?"

Veronica said, "Not yet. I think it was a joke."

"I'm going to take a snow shovel and break his tape player."

Mrs. Porter said, "Doctors warn not to make decisions while you are snowbound in the house."

"I think I'll get out all my photographs and catalogue them by subject matter and file them by date in albums."

Mrs. Porter said, "That's interesting. Scientists have found that the most severe cases of Cabin Fever develop when a snowbound person talks about putting all his photographs in order."

WEATHER SUMMARY

From Staff and Wire Reports

The possibility of rain is in the forecast for the Midland-Odessa area, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport. Forecasters at the NWS are calling for a 40 percent chance of rain tonight, increasing to a 60 percent chance on Thursday.

Cloudy skies will cover the Permian Basin through Thursday with an overnight low in the upper 30s and Thursday's high climbing only into the middle 40s. Winds will be out of the east-southeast at 10-15 mph tonight, shifting on Thursday to the northeast at 10-15 mph.

Tuesday's nigh was four degrees below the record high of 80 set for that date in 1976. Today's 45-degree low was 36 degrees above the record high set for this date in 1956.

STATE

Thundershowers and widespread rain fell into the Gulf waters off the entire Texas coast early today as a low pressure area sat over much of the state.

Skies were mostly clear over the interior of the state from north Central Texas to the Trans-Pecos. Partly cloudy skies covered the high plains of west Texas while skies were mostly cloudy over South Texas.

Dense fog was widespread throughout the Austin metropolitan area and sourrounding counties, restricting visibility to near zero in some spots, the National Weather Service said.

Winds were generally from the southeast and south throughout most of the state at 5-10 mph.

Early morning temperatures ranged from the 30s to the 50s in West Texas. In the south, temperatures were in the 60s while the rest of the state had temperatures mainly in the 50s. The extremes at 5 a.m. were 31 degrees at Marfa and 67 degrees at McAllen and Brownsville.

The forecast calls for increasing cloudiness over West and North Texas today with a slight chance of rain or thunderstorms in the southeast part of North Texas. In South Texas it will be mostly cloudy with a slight chance of rain today.

NATION

Scattered snow showers fell today across the northern Rockies, the northern and eastern Great Lakes, northern New England and sections of the central Appalachians.

Heavier snowfall overnight included 2 inches on Mount Washington in New Hampshire, and 1 inch at Casper, Wyo.

Pedestrian accident

Cynthia Hilton, 35, above, is consoled by police officer Andrew Hale following an vehicle-pedestrian accident about 5:25 p.m. Tuesday. According to reports, the vehicle driven by Ms. Hilton was northbound in the 300 block of Wall Street, when it attempted to turn left on Front Street and struck 29-year-old Adela Marmolejo, who police said was crossing a street against a red light. Ms. Marmolejo was examined by a paramedic at the scene, below, then taken to Midland Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for bruises and released.

Abnormal weather results in decreased cotton crop

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The mix of drought and excessive rains in 1986 resulted in a short cotton crop for Midland County and most of West Texas.

The Midland County production was about 60 percent of normal, which is computed over a 10-year average, said Herb Sorley, executive director of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office for Midland County.

"We cry, holler, spit and moan about the lack of moisture," he said.

And when the moisture did come, particularly in late summer and early fall of 1986, it was enough "to run us out of the creek."

"That's not normal for West Texas," Sorley noted. "We gripe when it's too wet. We gripe when it's too dry."

For Midland County, the drought resulted in a late planting. A light rain in late May had allowed dryland farmers to plant, even though late in the season. Ideal planting is early to mid-May.

After the late cotton planted, the skies withheld moisture during much of the summer when it was needed. And when it wasn't needed or was needed in moderation, the rains fell excessively.

When cotton was trying to mature, the rains flowed freely and kept the soil almost saturated. The cooling temperatures prevented cotton from maturing properly.

Cotton prefers warm-to-hot weather to mature.

It's similar to humans.

"We've got to suffer to produce," he said. But when a human being gets "lazy and complacent," productivity drops.

That's what happened to the 1986 cotton.

Cotton got so much moisture and cooling temperature that it didn't labor to produce abundant bolls and lint. Instead, stalks produced more leaves than lint.

In fact, much stripped cotton hauled into the Midland County Farmers Co-op cotton gin was so ladened with trash (leaves, burrs, twigs, stems) that farmer Mike Denny described a load of his cotton as "firewood."

"Production all over West Texas is so much lower," Sorley said.

Overall, the 34,000 to 35,000 acres of cotton planted in Midland County averaged about 270 pounds to the acres. The 10-year average is 450 pounds per acre, Sorley said.

The Midland Farmers Co-op gin turned out 7,694 bales of 1986 cotton, noted Hoot Leonard, co-op manager. "I guess we were lucky" to get that, he said. Ginning there in 1985 produced almost 12,000 bales.

Although the drought, the light planting rain, the late planting and then the excessive rains during the latter part of the growing season contributed to the "short" cotton crop, Leonard projects hope for a better crop in 1987.

Underground moisture is thorough and deep, and that is a good omen for a good crop.

"It sure plows pretty," Leonard said. "That wet soil smells good."

Neighboring Martin County fared far worse than did Midland County.

Casa suspects job loss reason more people seeking GEDs

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

Officials at Casa de Amigos suspect job loss is the primary reason more Midland adults are seeking high school diplomas than ever before as residents continue to feel the effects of a sluggish economy.

"We have a lot of people signing up and, on any given night, we have as many as 25 to 30 people here studying," said Judy Morris, director of education.

Ms. Morris said the total enrollment in GED courses at Casa de Amigos have exceeded 60 persons — a 50 percent increase over the fall enrollment figures.

Of those, the vast majority are out of work and looking for other means of supporting their families, she said.

"I suspect people see this as a way to spend their time as they look for a job and as a way to help them find a job," she said.

Adults may obtain a GED — the equivalent of a high school diploma — through individualized instruction at three Midland locations: Casa de Amigos, Midland College and Hollowell Methodist Church.

Also, the Midland Independent School District will begin to provide GED courses to 16- to 21-year-olds at its Alternative School when it opens later this month at Dellwood Mall.

The Alternative School will be made available to 40 young people, categorized as high school dropouts or those believed to be at risk of dropping out.

Announcement of the opening of the Alternative School was made last week at the regular meeting of the MISD Board of Trustees. The school is part of the board's goals for 1986-87. Funds were made available through a state grant in conjunction with the Job Training Partnership Act.

Although Ms. Morris said she's encouraged by the heightened interest among local adults, she said the greater demand for services has left the organization with a shortage of space, supplies and volunteers.

"At this point we are sadly missing math books because they have disappeared and have not been returned," she said. "We also need math volunteers."

Ms. Morris said most of the volunteers who teach mathematics at Casa are technical workers, not skilled instructors.

"Yet, they are doing a great community service by helping to reduce the math illiteracy rate among adults," she said.

Ms. Morris said the GED "is not the easy route to a high school diploma" as one might think.

"The GED is not an instant degree," she said. "They do have to work and, believe me, it's hard to keep an adult motivated."

ECISD superintendent 'disturbed' by test results

Ten elementary schools score in lowest 25 percent on TEAMS test

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — A group of about 200 parents and others interested in education last night were told that 40 percent of the Ector school district's 25 elementary schools had very poor performance on minimum competency tests last year.

ECISD Superintendent Hugh Hayes told those attending — what he said he hoped would be the first annual Friends of Education banquet — that "10 of the district's 25 elementary schools were among the lowest 25 percent in performance on the state-mandated academic minimum competency (TEAMS) tests."

He added, "This is a very disturbing picture for us and, frankly, we were very disturbed to hear that," Hayes stated.

The report resulted in a trip to Austin to meet with the state commissioner of education to find out what could be done to correct the situation, he said.

"We've had a visiting team in our district since that time to take a look at our program and we realize we have some work to do," Hayes told those attending the meeting.

"We are going to have to restructure and improve our elementary curriculum," the superintendent said, "to assure that the essential elements identified by the Texas Education Agency are being taught in every classroom and that all of our teachers are aware that minimum compentency is being measured by the state," Hayes said.

In what might be described as his first report on the state of the Ector school district, Hayes said a basic problem in the district is a language problem.

He said a survey conducted by the school district identified 3,000 students "as having limited English proficiency. About 1,800 of those students are being served by bi-lingual or English-as-a-second-language programs, which leaves about 1,200 of those identified as 'limited English speaking' not currently being served," he said.

> "...(Ten) of the district's 25 elementary schools were among the lowest 25 percent in performance on the state-mandated academic minimum competency (TEAMS) tests...a very disturbing picture for us and, frankly, we were very disturbed to hear that...We've had a visiting team (from the state commissioner of education)in our district since that time to take a look at our program and we realize we have some work to do."
> — ECISD Superintendent Hugh Hayes

"We're quite concerned about that," Hayes said. "We feel that has a major impact on our ability to progress as a district."

The ECISD superintendent noted, however, that a survey of those 1,200 students revealed "that almost 1,000 are earning passing grades, leaving a total of about 250 students, who are not receiving services, who are failing more than one academic course," Hayes said.

In the area of limited proficiency in English, Hayes said this is "good news," but he added, "The figures do point up the program can be improved" and efforts are being initiated to do that.

Part of the effort, he said, involves hiring additional bi-lingual teachers in the future. The district is also receiving some technical assistance from the TEA in developing short and long-term plans to further develop ECIDS bi-lingual programs.

The goal, Hayes said, is to develop a program that will allow students entering the program to become sufficiently fluent in English in three years so that he or she can then move successfully into regular classes.

Hayes said the Friends of Education program was initiated to establish a line of communication between the school district, parents and other members of the community that will promote greater involvement in the local education process.

He also noted the group will be receiving periodic reports to keep it informed about ECISD activities, programs and projects.

Near the end of this school year, Hayes said, a survey form will be sent to the original 600 Friends of Education. The survey will seek their perception of the school district and input concerning the direction the district may want to take in several areas.

Concerning the rumored "mass exodus" expected to occur, Hayes said enrollment figures indicate it hasn't taken place.

Enrollment this year stands at 25,600, down only 900 from the same period last year. This year's enrollment is still higher than that of the 1984-85 school year and is the second highest enrollment year in the history of the Ector school district.

TWC reduces fines levied for sewage discharge violations

By RICK BROWN
Assistant City Editor

The City of Midland will pay $1,300 less than expected in Texas Water Commission fines stemming from airport sewage treatment plant violations following a Tuesday administrative hearing held by Texas Water Commissioners in Austin.

City Attorney David Reagan said after the hearing that water commissioners reduced penalties for violations at the antiquated plant from $3,900 to $2,600. The penalties were assessed for sewage discharge violations that occurred between September 1985 and February 1986.

The plant last February was listed among the worst sewage handlers in the state.

Reagan said that the city never disputed that the plant was in violation of water commission regulations. He attributed the reduction to the commissioners' understanding that the violations were beyond the city's control.

City administrators have said the violations resulted from the breakdown of a World War II-vintage water purifying system for which replacement parts were unavailable. Because of the age of the equipment, manufacturers had to re-cast the parts before sending them.

Rex McDonnell, chief of the TWC Waste Water Enforcement Section, said that in addition to the fines, the water commissioners' executive order on plant operations included five technical recommendations.

Under those recommendations, the city must:

— develop a plant preventative maintenance program,

— operate the plant as efficiently as possible,

— maintain a chlorine level of at least 1 milligram per liter in water leaving the plant,

— immediately begin operating the plant under terms of the TWC permit, and — maintain an adequate spare parts inventory so as to minimize down time.

McDonnell said that talks between city and TWC officials will determine what level of inventory is "adequate."

Reagan said that many of the provisions already are being put into effect.

In addition to the technical recommendations, water commissioners also directed the city to submit within 90 days a revised industrial waste water ordinance. "We would like a stronger ordinance," McDonnell said.

Reagan said the ordinance will strengthen the city's enforcement powers over businesses that dump into the city sewer system materials deemed corrosive.

Woman pours out heart about daughter, grandson

Ott

When the older woman, she was probably in her late 50s, sat down next to me, she pulled out a ball of yarn and started knitting.

We exhanged vague greetings and I went back to my magazine.

She seemed like a nice enough person, sort of everyone's grandmother, if you know what I mean. She was a tad overweight and appeared to be the kind of person who would have a hearty laugh.

I liked her right off the bat, even though we hadn't talked much. It was just a gut feeling, I suppose.

We were in the laundromat and shortly after she had been seated one of her dryers concluded its cycle. She got up and started folding clothes.

Out of habit, I watched her. For some reason, people's laundry intrigues me. I'm weird, of course.

She had the usual assortment. There were several men's trousers and shirts, women's blouses and pants, towels and some undergarments. What caught my attention was the children's clothing. They were obviously for a very small child, a boy judging from the unusally large number of jeans and T-shirts with pictures of Spiderman and the like on them.

When she sat back down, I said, "Looks like you've got a young one there."

She smiled and said, "Yeah, our grandson."

I didn't want to pry so I just asked one question. I said, "How old is he?"

"Four," she replied. "And, he's a wild one. He's about to wear us out."

I could tell she was saying that in a fond way. The twinkle in her eye and the smile on her face were a dead giveaway. You can't hide a grandmother's love.

"He's our daughter's son," she continued, even though I didn't ask. "We've had him for about three months, now. It was going to be for just a few days, but you know how things work out sometimes."

I didn't, of course, but I said "yeah," anyway. It seemed the appropriate response at the time.

It didn't really matter because she told me all about it.

The story was fairly typical.

Her daughter was having marital problems. She and her husband were in the process of getting a divorce and because she hadn't worked during the marriage, now she was having to find a job.

"She moved to Dallas to look," the woman said. "Jobs are hard to find in Midland, right now."

I said I knew.

"When she moved she left Billy with us and said she would be back for him when she found a job. Like I say, that was three months ago. She did find a job real quick but she has to work at night and can't really afford a babysitter. You know how tight money is these days."

I said I knew.

"So we still have Billy. It's a shame. He's needs his parents. We give him love but he needs his family together. There's no substitute for that. To tell you the truth, I think our daughter is enjoying her freedom. She's probably living it up in Dallas because she knows we'll take care of Billy. You know how irresponsible young people can be at times."

I said I knew.

"She never should have gotten married. She was too young, only 17 at the time. It broke our hearts. We tried to tell her, but she wouldn't listen to us. She said she was in love. You know how young people are."

I said I knew.

"Why won't young people listen to their parents?"

I said I didn't know.

Bentsen backers can go to breakfast for $10,000

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen

By PEGGY ROBERSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Senate Finance Committee chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, is inviting lobbyists to join his "Chairman's Council" for a $10,000 fee, to go into his 1988 re-election campaign.

Members of the council will have breakfast with Bentsen once a month and the senator will pick up the check. Bentsen has promised to limit the number attending to 35 or 40, and if more join, multiple breakfasts will be held each month.

Bentsen's committee handles tax and trade legislation.

So far Bentsen has no announced opposition, but he is telling lobbyists and political action committee directors he expects a strong, well-financed Republican to enter the 1988 race.

In a letter inviting prospective members to the first breakfast at a Washington hotel last Thursday, Bentsen said he will be relying on the council "for advice, assistance and early financial support crucial to a successful campaign."

In 1982, Bentsen spent $5 million in winning 59 percent of the vote against James M. Collins, a former Dallas congressman who spent more than $4 million.

Dan Dutko, a political consultant who attended the meeting, said Bentsen expects to raise $1 million in the next 60 days to "scare away" prospective opponents.

"He told us he wants to be chairman of the Finance Committee, not a candidate," said Dutko, a former Texan.

Bentsen's fundraising gimmick is not unique. The Washington Post Tuesday reported that Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of both the Commerce and Finance committees when the GOP controlled the Senate, started a similar breakfast program. But it cost half as much to join.

Both major political parties have created special groups who are given the opportunity to meet personally with the president for a sizeable donation. And most congressional candidates in recent elections have set up a special leadership group made up of big givers.

Political partisans can join the House Leadership Circle or the Congressional Caucus for an appropriate contribution.

Jack DeVore, press secretary to Bentsen, said the start of this session of Congress also signaled the beginning of a new election cycle.

Last week Bentsen hosted a $125-a-plate dinner in Austin that raised $80,000. Next week, he will be raising money in South Texas, and later will schedule fundraising events in Houston and Dallas, DeVore said.

At the first briefing of the council last Thursday, Bentsen told the group that its purpose is "to talk about matters of trade and taxation and anything anyone wants to raise," according to a lawyer who was present.

Mike Pate, a former Bentsen staffer who now is a member of a lobbying firm, said his firm will join. "We want to be helpful," he said.

A Washington lawyer who attended the meeting said his firm will join for $5,000 and will raise another $5,000 from clients. "We all sit around and wink at one another," he said. The menu is the same as it is at any coffee shop, he said, "scrambled eggs and bacon."

Bentsen is asking political action committees (PACs) to give the maximum. Under election law, the most a PAC can give to a candidate is $5,000 for a primary and $5,000 for a general election.

The money can be donated directly by a PAC, or it can be collected from individuals, who are permitted to give only $1,000 to a candidate in both the primary and general elections.

"I can't think of anyway to make it clear the senator wants to focus on what he has spent the last 16 years doing, and not on running a campaign," Dutko said.

Bentsen recently named three co-chairs of his campaign: State Treasurer Ann Richardson, San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros and Joe Kilgore, a veteran conservative Democratic politician.

Thouvenel String Quartet will give concert Saturday at MC

From Staff Reports

The Thouvenel String Quartet will present the third concert of its 1986-87 Midland & Odessa Chamber Music Series in Midland at the Allison Fine Arts Auditorium on Saturday at 8 p.m. and in Odessa at the Art Institute for the Permian Basin on Feb. 19 at 8 p.m.

Members of the group include Eugene Purdue and Edmund Stein, violin; Sally Chishol, viola; and Keith "Robby" Robinson, cello.

Since its inception, the Thouvenel String Quartet has distinguished itself with its interpretation of the chamber music repertoire. Formed in 1975 at Indiana University where its members were graduate students, the group accepted an Artists in Residence position that was created for them in Midland. From this base they have established themselves as "a quartet in the upper echelons," according to Donald Henahan of the New York Times.

They first gained international recognition in 1979 when Andrew Porter of The New Yorker wrote of their performance of the complete quartets of Ernst Krenek, "A young, expert, alert ensemble, very well balanced, lithe, musical, sweetly and truly tuned." In 1980, following tours of both coasts and the Midwest, their reputation grew further in winning the Weiner International String Quartet Competition.

Later that year, they made a New York debut of which Peter Davis of The New York Times wrote, "The Thouvenel Quartet surmounted all the difficulties expertly, playing with a sweet tone, polished ensemble precision and a bracing vitality."

They are now well-established on the New York concert scene appearing every year in either Alice Tully Hall, Carnegie Recital Hall, Abraham Goodman House or the 92nd Street "Y."

The Thouvenel's recent touring included an appearance as guest artists on the Cimarron Wind Quintet's Chamber Music Series in Houston on Jan. 11, and a concert in Kerrville on Feb. 1. Their concert in El Paso on Dec. 6 was said to have drawn their largest audience in many seasons, according to Purdue.

The Quartet's international touring will begin in March with concerts in Frankfurt, Saarbrucken, Milan, Brussels, and a performance at the famed Concertgebouw of Amsterdam. In June the Quartet will be making a return trip to China with concerts scheduled in Dongying, Beijing, Xian, Lhasa, with a possible performance in Hong Kong.

The Feb. 7 and 19 performances will feature Kerry Howlett in Mozart's Quartet for Flute and Strings in D Major, K.285. Ms. Howlett is currently a musician with the Midland-Odessa Symphony as well as a private teacher in Odessa. She is a recent graduate of the University of Michigan School of Music.

Also on the program is Quartet in A Major, Op. 18, No. 5 by Beethoven and Brahms' Quartet in C Minor, Op. 51, No. 1.

Tickets for both events may be purchased at the door. Prices are $5 for adults and $3 for senior citizens and full-time students.

For more information, call the Midland-Odessa Symphony concert line at 563-5269.

House is destroyed

Doris Williams gestures toward what is left of her home in east Houston after a car, carrying suspects from a robbery, went out of control during a chase with police and crashed into her home. The crash caused a natural gas fire that detsroyed the house and its contents. Ms. Williams was home alone and barely escaped injury.

Suspect caught in Crane County

SYLACAUGA, Ala. (AP) — Three men were charged with murder Tuesday in the stabbing death of a man whose body was found in a creek in southern Talladega County, police said.

Sylacauga Police Chief Billy Hay said Billy Ray Helton, 31, and Robert Barnes Jr., 21, both of Sylacauga, were arrested early in the day in their hometown.

Authorities in Crane County, Texas, south of Odessa, later arrested James Franklin Linbaugh Jr. of Childersburg in the case.

Illegal traffic to be monitored

HOUSTON (AP) — Sitting in a room jammed with radar screens is a multimillion-dollar monitoring center aimed at countering the flow of illegal drugs, weapons and currency into the Southwest.

The U.S. Customs Service facility, dubbed the Blue Fire Operations Center, is located behind locked doors where it keeps an eye on marine traffic in the Gulf of Mexico.

It is the tactical center of Customs' participation in Operation Alliance, also based on the top floor of a six-story Houston building.

The center will officially be opened today by Customs Commissioner William von Raab.

By 1989, Operation Alliance eventually will be tied into a string of radar stations including aerostat balloons based on land along the 2,000-mile Texas-to-California border.

"This gives us a set of eyes from Sabine Pass to California," said an unnamed Customs official in Washington quoted Tuesday by the Houston Chronicle. "We'll be able, for example, to look at Corpus Christi day or night and see marine traffic."

COTTON

Nestor Hernandez, the Martin County ASCS county executive director, noted that much of Martin County cotton was left in the fields, shredded, and turned under.

"There are some (farmers) that are still harvesting," Hernandez said. "At least 75 to 80 percent (of the cotton) is shredded or plowed under."

What killed the Martin County crop was the drought-caused late planting. That was followed by rain. "When it started raining, it kept on raining."

Overall, the 1986 Martin County cotton crop may produce about 15,000 bales, Hernandez said. The average yield there is about 90,000 bales a year.

But what financially may bail Martin County farmers out of a dismal crop is federal disaster payments if there is enough money to go around. Nationwide, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has allotted $400-million in disaster payments, he noted. "That's barely enough to take care of from here to Lubbock."

Still, "It'll be a tremendous help," he said.

In the Midkiff area southeast of Midland, the Midkiff Farmers Co-operative cotton gin had a "fair year," said Rocklan King, co-op manager.

"We're down about 2,000 bales" — to 13,600 from 15,600.

About 1,500 acres of cotton was wiped out due to hail in the Midkiff area.

Unlike, the Midland area, the Midkiff and St. Lawrence farm land is mostly irrigated. About 95 percent of Midkiff cotton land is irrigated.

"What saved us was getting planted early," King said. "The biggest part of our cotton was planted before the (heavy) rains."

From Staff Reports

It could happen while just walking down the street. You feel as if someone had just hit you in the face with a cold, wet rag. You feel faint — dizzy and unsteady. As you look around for help, you feel your heart racing and the fear begins to choke you.

This experience is typical of a panic or anxiety attack. In fact, it is an actual experience described by an agoraphobic, a person who possesses an unreasonable fear of fear. Experts say they are so afraid of a panic attack, they live in constant fear of having another.

On Feb. 6, Maxine Dudley, director of the Agoraphobic Research Institute and Treatment Center in Denton, will lead a seminar at Glenwood Hospital dedicated to the subject.

It is estimated that nearly 100 people in the Midland-Odessa area suffer from this intense fear that may cause them to become completely homebound.

The seminar is for sufferers, the family of agoraphobics, mental health professionals and anyone interested in finding out more about agoraphobia or phobias in general.

Glenwood is located off Highway 80 on 1788, at 3300 South Fort Road.

The seminar will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and participants are urged to bring a sack lunch.

Cost for the all-day seminar will be $60 per participant. One of the goals of the seminar is to set-up a support group for agoraphobics.

Pre-registration is not necessary. For more information, call Glenwood Hospital at 563-1200 or Dr. James Huggins at 687-3404.

From Staff Reports

The deadline for ordering 1986-87 yearbooks at Midland High School will be Thursday.

Yearbooks will be sold this week during the lunch hour in the MHS Trophy Room and after school in Room 208.

Books are $23 each. This is the last opportunity to purchase a yearbook. No books will be sold when the annuals are distributed in August.

CASA

Ms. Morris said the trend at Casa has shown that people who have recently lost their jobs are turning to the GED as a way of getting ahead in society.

"By losing a job, people start thinking, 'Where am I going to go from here?' and back they come for the GED," she said. "They are people who ought to be very much admired because they are the survivors."

Couples can tie knot Valentine's Day for $1

FRESNO (AP) — A Fort Bend County justice of the peace who considers himself a romantic at heart is planning to offer $1 weddings on Valentine's Day.

Usually, the fee is $35 on weekdays and $50 on weekends, said Justice of the Peace R. George Molina.

"With what they can save they can go out and have dinner and celebrate," Molina said.

"I've always been a romantic. I do it because I enjoy it. It's a lot of fun."

This is the second year he has offered the special deal on Feb. 14. Last year, he performed a dozen ceremonies for free.

This year, however, Molina decided to give the new brides a flower, probably a carnation. The $1 will offset the cost of the flowers, he said.

Police Roundup

From Staff Reports

The Midland County Sheriff's office is trying to determine who stole firearms valued at more than $2,500 from a residence Tuesday.

According to reports, two rifles valued at $825, a rifle with scope valued at $1,500, a 12-gauge pump shotgun valued at $150, and a videocassette recorder valued at $500 was stolen from a residence on the north side of County Road 56 West. Reports said the burglary occurred between 8:15 a.m. and 3:20 p.m.

Police are investigating the burglary of a residence in the 2800 block of Mariana. According to reports, a five-inch AM-FM stereo and black and white television combination was stolen sometime between Jan. 27 and Tuesday.

In other reports, police are investigating the burglary of a residence near Elkins Road and U.S. Highway 80. Police said a front-loading videocassette recorder valued at $400 was stolen Tuesday between 5:30 p.m. and 10:15 p.m.

Archeological Society to meet

From Staff Reports

David Hughes of the Anthropology Department of the University of Oklahoma will present a program on Southern Plains prehistory to the Midland Archeological Society at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the planetarium of the Museum of the Southwest.

Hughes also will discuss the Texas Archeological Society Field School, which he will direct from June 6 to 13.

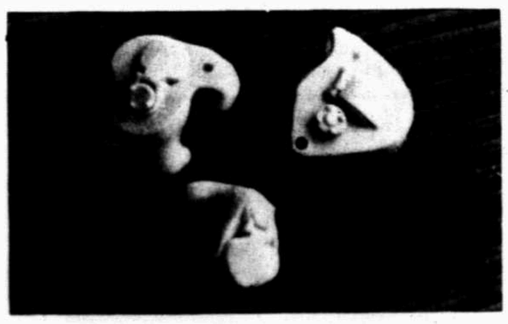

The field school will be located at the Courson Ruins group of the Buried City complex, near Perryton. This site was first visited by T.L. Eyerly of the Canadian Academy in 1907, and then about 10 years later by Warren King Moorehead of Andover, Mass.

During the summer, Hughes expects to expand the site's earlier excavations. At the meeting he will show slides of this area and his 1986 field work.

The public is invited to attend.

Officials have no clues in car bombing

STATE

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — A car bombing that bore the earmarks of an underworld assassination continues to baffle authorities, who went so far as to stop traffice and query passing drivers for help.

Crouch

Federal, state and local officials pooled notes from their investigations Tuesday night but still had no suspects, motive or a firm description of the bomb, city police spokesman Earl Cox said.

He would not deny, but said he couldn't confirm, reports that a remote control device triggered the explosion Monday night that obliterated or damaged eight cars and rattled windows up and down Texarkana's busiest street, State Line Avenue.

Daryl Crouch, a 36-year-old civic leader and president of Walsh-Lumpkin Drug Co. Inc., died when his Mercedes-Benz exploded.

Crouch's daughter, 10-year-old Sandy, was hurled from the car by the bomb's impact. She was hospitalized in fair conditon Tuesday night with burns on her face, hands and back, and was expected to be released today, Wadley Regional Medical Center spokeswoman Ann Beaty said.

Crouch's wife, Jane, 35, was in her own car when the explosion went off in the Walsh-Lumpkin parking lot. She required brief hospitalization from burns suffered when she frantically tried to pull her husband from the flaming wreckage.

A passerby pulled Mrs. Crouch from the car, said Lorann Ables, who works at the Taco Tico restuarnant on the Arkansas side of the street.

"She was on fire with a little blaze on her. She tried to get back into the car to pull the man out, but they wouldn't let her," she said.

On Tuesday night, onlookers jammed State Line Avenue, further snarling traffic that police brought to a crawl by asking questions of drivers passing by the Walsh Lumpkin offices.

Crouch's car was parked in plain view of the street. "We're trying to find someone who may have driven by and seen something between 5 and 7 p.m. Monday," said one officer who declined to identify himself.

Other federal agents quizzed onlookers at the scene and guests staying at motels across from the cordoned wholesale pharmaceutical warehouse.

Employees who were ordered to stay mum on the incident reported to work as usual Tuesday but were unable to accomplish much, company spokesman Ron Gray said.

When asked to describe the mood inside the single-story brick building, Gray said, "We've got a terrorist who killed our president and our friend. We're angry. We're hurt. We're upset."

Other residents expressed shock and outrage at the slaying that has shaken this normally quiet city that straddles the Texas-Arkansas border.

"He's the kind of man who helped the community grow," said family friend Janet Harrell. "There's just no rhyme or reason to this."

Gray said all of Crouch's businesses were operating in the black, that he had plenty of money and no known enemies.

"It almost sounds like an underworld type of thing, and certainly Daryl Crouch and Pearson Walsh (Crouch's father-in-law and chairman of the board of Walsh-Lumpkin) wouldn't be associated with anything like that," said Ron Hertlein, president of Security Savings Association where Crouch was on the board of directors until last week.

Hertlein said Crouch had resigned as expected to devote his attention to his other business interests.

"He made too much money legally to be associated with that kind of crap," Gray said of any possible underworld connections.

Gray also said company officials had no reason to believe the explosion was related to an extortion attempt made against the pharmaceuticals supply company last summer.

Walsh-Lumpkin received an anonymous letter in August that company officials interpreted as a tampering threat aimed at an unspecified product. The threat was investigated, but no evidence of tampering ever was found.

Crouch, a member of the Texarkana Airport Authority, was preparing to take over leadership of the pharmaceutical company, Gray said.

He also was president of Tri-State Hospital and Surgical Supplies of Joplin, Mo., and executive vice president of Texarkana-based Humco-Emerson Laboratories.

Wright says Reagan 'lives in fantasy world'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent meetings with President Reagan have convinced House Speaker Jim Wright that the president lives in a "fantasy world," Wright said.

"He has a self-satisfaction with, and fixation with, certain fantasies, things that he believes to be true that just aren't true," Wright told reporters Tuesday at a luncheon. "At times he seems to live in a fantasy world."

The president is well-intentioned, but tends to fix on an idea and refuse to accept anything that conflicts with it, Wright said.

The Fort Worth Democrat said he told the president the Clean Water Bill was a nine-year, $20 billion program and not a one-year program as Reagan thought. But Reagan said he didn't believe that was true and said he would veto the bill regardless.

"When you have these fantasies...how can you reason with him?"

Wright recalled a meeting with Reagan last year during which he said the president refused to admit that he could not raise the defense budget, cut "wasteful social programs — all one word," while at the same time reduce the budget.

"President Reagan is a positive thinker. He can put himself in a positive attitude and really accomplish things at times," Wright said. "But it reaches a point when it becomes dangerous when he can simply reject factual data."

The speaker also joked about the way Reagan seems not to have aged while in the Oval Office the past six years.

"Often I've seen presidents up close. All of them I have observed — back to Eisenhower — have aged visibly while in the White House. I'd say three years for every year he's in office," Wright said.

"Except for Reagan. He looks young. He has more hair than I've got. And it makes me upset," Wright joked.

Senate panel OKs plan that would place more prisoners on parole

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A Senate committee Tuesday approved a plan to ease prison overcrowding by placing more convicts on high-security parole and probation programs and by giving the governor power to release prisoners who normally would be ineligible for parole.

The package, crafted by Senate Criminal Justice Committee Chairman Bob McFarland, would try to ease prison overcrowding by putting low-risk, non-violent criminals on intensive supervision probation instead of locking them up in the Texas Department of Corrections.

The bill also allows the Board of Pardons and Paroles to dip into a larger pool of inmates when looking for convicts to parole. Certain non-violent prisoners who normally would be ineligible for parole could be released if the the Texas Department of Corrections hits its legal limit of 95-percent capacity.

Scott McCown, the assistant attorney general handling the lawsuit against TDC, said the bill gives the parole board needed flexibility. "You can change the profile of who comes out of TDC, but you can't change the number," McCown said. "What Senator McFarland's bill tries to do is change the profile so those being released are a safer group."

McFarland, R-Arlington, said the bill requires about $25 million for additional parole and probation officers, more TDC medical personnel, temporary inmate housing and renovation projects. Lawmakers still are looking for a way to pay for the improvements.

All the players who hammered out the proposal stressed that it was a short-term solution designed to ease overcrowding and bring the system into compliance with court-ordered reforms that the state must meet to avoid huge fines against TDC.

Only one senator, Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, on the Senate Criminal Justice Committee voted against the package. He said his vote was a protest of the "piecemeal way" the Legislature has handled the troubled prison system during the last several years.

Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, said the bill would work only if prosecutors and judges agree to use intensive supervision parole instead of sending criminals to prisons. Many district attorneys and judges, he said, think they should send criminals to prison and let the state worry about overcrowding problems and the federal court order against TDC.

"We need to get them out of that mentality," said Glasgow, a former district attorney and a strong law-and-order proponent.

The full Senate probably will pass the bill, reluctantly, later this week or early next week, said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who runs the Senate.

Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, filed an identical bill Tuesday in the House and is working with House Speaker Gib Lewis on the details. "When we settle on what the specifics will be and the speaker comes out in support of it, I'll have the votes," said Hightower, chairman of the House Corrections Committee.

Rider Scott, Gov. Bill Clements' chief prison advisor, said the governor realizes the plan is the only way to bring TDC into compliance and will support it. "The governor doesn't like to release anyone early," Scott said. "But he will support the McFarland bill as a short-term solution to the problem. The long range solution is building more prisons and getting out from under the lawsuit."

STATE IN BRIEF

Dying girl gets her wish

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Monica Ramirez dreamed of seeing the Harlem Globetrotters in action and several hours after getting her wish, the 11-year-old leukemia victim died in her sleep.

Her mother, Elvira Martinez, said she was in such a hurry to go and "when we got home, she told her daddy that she had seen two virgins and then she died in her sleep."

Monica, who died Saturday morning after a seven-month battle with leukemia, had her wish fulfilled by the Camelot Foundation.

Man held on bank fraud

EL PASO (AP) — An man accused of defrauding 10 banks of $25,000 by depositing business checks with insufficient funds and then making rapid withdrawals was ordered held without bond, the FBI said.

Glenn Robert Leffman, 31, of El Paso, was arrested without incident Monday by FBI agents and a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper. He was being held on bank fraud charges contained in a Jan. 23 warrant, Raymond P. Yelchak, special agent in charge of the El Paso FBI, said Tuesday.

Budget cut requested

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has asked lawmakers for a $1 million cut in his two-year budget for 1988-89.

Hightower told the Senate Finance Committee, Hightower his agency could get by on $19.3 million.

He said he would not ask for restoration of the 10.6 percent budget cut the Department of Agriculture sustained during last year's cuts.

Dollar gains

LONDON (AP) — The dollar, boosted by favorable economic reports, rose against most major currencies in light European trading early today. Gold bullion edged up to around $402 after slipping in Hong Kong.

Despite its gains, traders said the dollar was fluctuating within a narrow range and that market sentiment remained bearish.

The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that its main index of future U.S. economic activity rose 2.1 percent in December, but the improvement was attributed mainly to one-time factors.

The government also said single-family home sales surged 12.7 percent in December and U.S. factory orders rose 1.2 percent.

Traders said the better-than-expected reports prompted a wave of short-covering, giving the dollar a temporary lift. In a short sale, traders sell borrowed dollars with the expectation of buying them back later at a lower price.

—1.8105 West German marks, up from 1.7875

—6.0425 French francs, up from 5.9700

The British pound fell to $1.5215 from $1.5265. Unlike other foreign currencies, the pound's value is quoted on exchange markets in U.S. dollars.

The dollar closed in Tokyo at 152.40 Japanese yen, fractionally higher than Tuesday's close of 152.28 yen. Later, in London, the U.S. currency fetched 152.67 yen.

London's five biggest bullion houses fixed a recommended gold price of 401.75 dollars a troy ounce, up from $400.40 late Tuesday.

In Zurich, the metal traded at a bid of $402.00, up from $401.50.

Earlier, in Hong Kong, gold closed at a bid of $403.85, down from $404.96.

Mattox: Interstate banks OK

Rules out-of-state operation illegal

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers and bankers are studying an attorney general's opinion which says out-of-state banks can purchase Texas institutions but must be careful about trying to operate them.

The opinion issued Tuesday said the the new law allowing the purchases is constitutional.

"It's legal, but they had better be careful," Mattox said. "They had better abide by the letter of the law, or we think they will be found to be in violation of the (Texas) Constitution."

The Texas Constitution was amended in 1904 to prohibit out-of-state banks from operating banks in Texas, Mattox said.

In his opinion, Mattox said the interstate banking law approved by the Legislature last summer "authorizes foreign ownership, not foreign operation" of the Texas institutions.

"Ownership ... of bank stock by an out-of-state bank holding company does not violate per se the (constitutional) prohibition against a foreign corporation exercising banking and discounting privileges," Mattox wrote.

"If, however, the holding company acts in a way to disregard the separate corporate existence of individual banks, then we think that courts would conclude that (the constitution) had in fact been violated," he said.

Maximum punishment would be $1,000 per violation per day and possible revocation of a bank's charter, Mattox said.

At a news conference, Mattox refused to say what specific actions might violate the prohibition against an out-of-state company operating a Texas bank.

However, he said, an out-of-state company would be placed in "a delicate legal position" under circumstances such as: "When you come in and control loan policies, when you come in and control all computer hookups, when you come in and control ... the election of all the officers and the placing of officers in the institutions, when you come in and set up a joint advertising program, when you operate these banks in a consolidated fashion ... "

The Legislature passed the bill to allow out-of-state takeovers after backers of the idea said the oil price plunge and Texas' shaky economy had endangered many of the state's largest financial institutions.

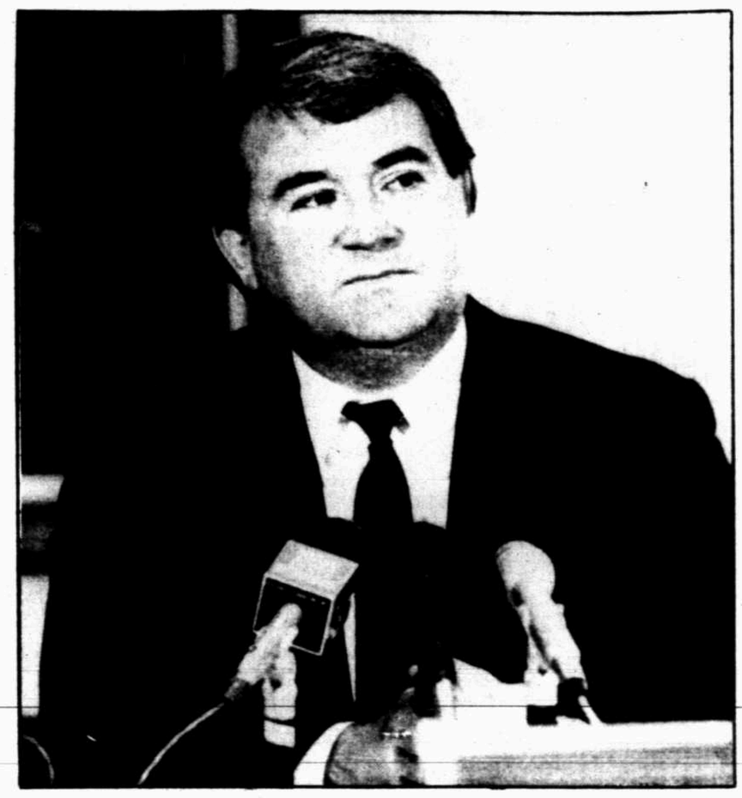

Mattox said the new law "very clearly was passed in an effort to get around (the portion of) our state constitution that prohibits the conducting of banking services in state by out-of-state corporations."

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, chairman of the House Financial Institutions Committee and a sponsor of the interstate banking bill, said the attorney general's opinion might make ownership of Texas banks less appealing to out-of-state buyers.

"What was envisioned (when writing the law) was a structure similar to the bank holding structure that was in the state. Interstate banking would be an extension of the state's borders nationwide. This would seem to restrict that," Gibson said.

Such a restriction, he said, "would make owning banks in the state obviously less desirable by an out-of-state bank."

Although it is too early to determine, Gibson said he would sponsor a proposed constitutional amendment if one is needed to make the interstate banking law workable.

Home sales jump in December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of new homes jumped sharply in December as the housing industry completed its best year since 1978, the government reported Tuesday.

The Commerce Department said 749,000 new single-family homes were sold last year, an 8.9 percent increase from the 1985 sales total and the third best sales performance in 23 years of government record-keeping.

Sales of both new and existing homes posted big gains last year as dramatic declines in mortgage interest rates put home ownership within reach of millions of additional American families.

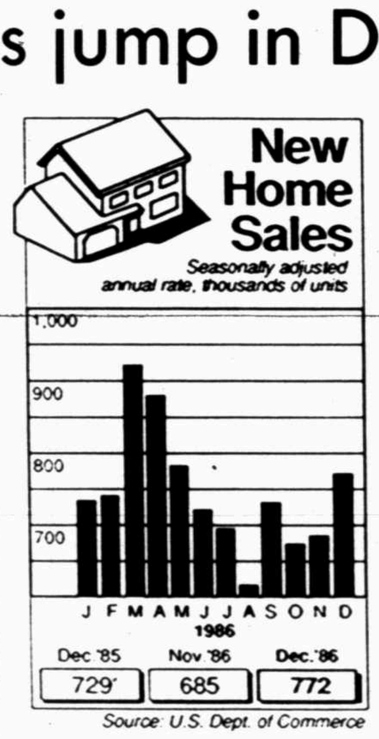

The National Association of Realtors reported Tuesday that its housing affordability index climbed in December to its highest level in nearly nine years, helped out by further declines in mortgage rates.

The trade group said sales of existing homes totaled 3.57 million units last year, 10.9 percent higher than 1985 and the best sales year for existing homes since 1979.

For December, new homes were sold at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 772,000 units, a 12.7 percent rise from the November sales pace.

But the price of a new home went up as well, with the average price rising $8,000 to a record $122,600.

David Seiders, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, said the big 7 percent one-month price increase may reflect the fact that a higher percentage of the market is made up of trade-up buyers seeking bigger, more expensive homes.

Source: U.S. Dept. of Commerce

He noted that the median price of a new home, the mid-point between the highest and lowest prices, rose only 0.5 percent in December to $95,500.

The 749,000 new homes sold last year was the third best performance since 1963 when the government began keeping home sales figures. It is topped only by 819,000 homes sold in 1977 and 817,000 homes sold in 1978. It compares with a sales pace of 688,000 in 1985.

For all of 1986, the Commerce Department said sales rose by double-digit margins in all parts of the country except the South.

The Northeast sold a record 138,000 new homes last year, 23.2 percent higher than a year ago, as this region continued to benefit from a boom in high-technology industries. Sales in the Midwest rose 18.3 percent to 97,000 units while sales in the West were up 15.9 percent to 197,000 units.

The South, which has been hit by troubles in the oil and farming industries, saw sales decline 1.9 percent in 1986 to 317,000 units.

Many economists predicted that sales in 1987 will decline slightly to around 700,000 units, still a healthy pace for home builders.

"I am looking for another strong year of production and sales of homes," said James Christian, chief economist for the U.S. League of Savings Institutions.

Oil companies report mixed quarterly results

From Staff and Wire Reports

Besieged Diamond Shamrock Corp. announced a fourth quarter loss Tuesday, while Pennzoil Co. and American Petrofina Inc. showed slightly improved performance during the three-month period.

Diamond Shamrock's announcement comes on the heels of its decision to split into two separate companies and reported a fourth-quarter loss of $42.2 million.

The loss, which amounted to 42 cents per share, compares with earnings of $47.8 million, or 37 cents per share, in the fourth quarter a year ago.

For the year, the oil company lost $115.6 million, or $1.16 a share, compared with a 1985 loss of $604.7 million, or $5.09 a share.

The company, which is battling a hostile takeover by Amarillo oilman T. Boone Pickens, said a third-quarter writedown for oil, gas and coal assets and a first-quarter writedown of refinery crude inventories contributed to the annual loss.

Pennzoil's earnings totaled $46.5 million in the fourth quarter of '86, compared to a $41.1 million loss it posted for the same period the previous year, company officials said.

The earnings report included a $32 million after-tax gain attributed to the recovery of excess assets from its salaried retirement plan, Pennzoil officials said.

Per-share earnings for the Houston-based energy company were $1.03, compared with a $1.12 per share loss in the same 1985 period. In the 1985 fourth quarter, Pennzoil took a$75 million after-tax write off of losses from discontinued metals operations.

Without the special items, Pennzoil said its fourth-quarter profits were $14.5 million, or 26 cents per share, compared with $33.9 million, or 69 cents per share, the previous year.

Coors will expand new draft beer

GOLDEN, Colo — Adolph Coors Co. has announced that its Joseph's Original Draft, the only premium draft in a bottle in the U.S., is now available in 23 states, including Texas.

Previously sold only in select markets in Texas, Virginia, Colorado and Wyoming, the beer will now be sold throughout the western United States including Alaska and Hawaii, also in Louisiana and select markets in Virginia.

The bottled draft is available in 12 ounce non-returnable bottles and in draft in selected markets. Also being introduced is 3.2 percent alcohol version for states where a lower alcohol content is required.

To support the expansion, Coors plans a new advertising campaign that will sell the "smoother and better" premise.

Betsy Ross Krieg, Coors spokesperson, says she is optimistic about the brand's success based upon its performance in existing markets where it has established a following.

Youth employment workshop scheduled

By MELLA McEWEN
Business/Oil Writer

The Midland Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with the Boy's Club of Midland and Job Training Partnership will sponsor a youth employment workshop.

The workshop is scheduled for 7 p.m., Feb. 19, at the Boy's Club of Midland, 110 E. New Jersey.

Officers and board members of the MHCC also discussed at Tuesday's meeting nominations for Midland Hispanic Businessman and Businesswoman of the year, Member of the Year and Corporate Member of the Year, to be announced at the inauguration banquet March 7. It was decided that the Awards and Scholarships committee headed by Celia Morales will put together a list of five to six nominations in each category and the board will hold a special meeting to decide the winners.

Another item on the agenda was the upcoming awareness seminar on the new immigration law, scheduled for Feb. 24 at the Holiday Inn Country Villa from 8 a.m. to noon. "This is important," said Sam Flores, president of the MHCC. "Even Washington is confused, so you can see how our members would be concerned."

The seminar is sponsored by the MHCC and the Midland and Odessa Chambers of Commerce. Free of charge, it will cover such topics as employer sanctions, temporary and special agriculture workers, and the legalization program.

Also in February, a meeting to organize a neighborhood watch program will be held on Feb. 5 at 7 p.m. at the De Zavala school cafeteria. The MHCC is co-sponsoring this with the De Zavala PTA and Casa de Amigos. The Midland Police Department's crime prevention unit will make a presentation.

Tall City Lanes and the MHCC is holding a bowling tournament all day on Feb. 28. An after hour mixers is scheduled for Feb. 11 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Tall City Lanes Lounge.

Executive director Elvia Hernandez reported to the board that singer Jose Feliciano will appear in concert May 21 to kick off the chamber's second annual Ethnic Folk Festival. Hernandez said a site for the concert is still being negotiated. Midland Park Mall, a new member of the chamber, has asked the MHCC to put on a "preview" of the festival at the Mall the week-end before the festival. The festival will be held at Midland Center May 23.

She also announced that Texas Instruments is joining the chamber, and that efforts are continuing to get Arco Oil & Gas, Texas American Bank and First City National Bank to join as well.

The board welcomed Darlene Gifford of Southwestern Bell, who will complete the term of Manuel Sanchez. He resigned from the board last month.

SOUTHWEST AIRLINES is bringing back its popular senior citizens fares, offering special $25 and $39 one-way fares to travelers 65 years and older.

The fares are good for travel to any city Southwest serves between Jan. 22 and May 30, 1987. They can be used for departure all day Monday through Thursday and Saturday, and proof of age is required at airport check-in.

According to Don Valentine, vice president of marketing, over 100,000 passengers took advantage of the airline's special $25 senior fare last year.

Southwest is also introducing the "Go for the Gold" sweepstakes. In late march, a drawing will be held in each of Southwest's 25 markets to give a senior citizen a Gold Pass, good for one full year of unlimited travel across the Southwest system. The Gold Pass also allows a companion of any age to accompany the winner.

Entries can be made at any of the Southwest Airlines ticket counters or gate areas through Feb. 28.

PETROLEUM LISTING SERVICE has issued its seventh mailer and its first main update after beginning publication the first of December.

Founder Ron Wise said the form has over 100 producing properties on file, and has mailed the publication to over 2,500 industry personnel. He added that an update should follow soon with some current and new listings.

Wise said he is seeking more mineral and drilling activity listings, and hopes to get companies to send in their used equipment for sale to be listed. While the equipment won't be published, it will be kept on file and can be accessed by anyone looking for equipment, he noted.

The firm has moved from Independence Plaza to the Henry Petroleum Building, 601 N. Marienfeld.

Black Chamber to open incubator

By MELLA McEWEN
Business/Oil Writer

The Midland Black Chamber of Entrepreneurs will not only celebrate its first anniversary, but the opening of its first phase of Operation Incubator on Feb. 14, according to Robbyne Fuller, president of the chamber.

She told members at Monday's meeting that the chamber will hold a ribbon cutting at Joan A. Love's Insurance, located in the 1400 block of Lamesa, to open its Operation Incubator. The operation will house Joan Love Insurance, Collins Ceramics, Flowery Ideas by Robbyne, and Thalia's Gallery.

Following the 1 p.m. ribbon cutting will be a banquet at the Holiday Inn Convention Center, beginning at 7 p.m. A cash bar will be open from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by the dinner and guest speaker from 8 to 9, and a dance from 9:30 to 1 a.m., Ms. Fuller told members. Tentative guest speaker will be Hans Gordon of Dallas, a procurement officer with Frito-Lay. According to James Fuller, vice president of education for the chamber, Gordon spent over $40 million last year, and hopes to spend much more than that this year.

The chamber is also beginning work on its second annual Jubilee. Fuller, chairman of the Jubilee task force, called for volunteers to help organize the parade, public relations and financing. He told members the chamber has been contacted by George Richardson of New Jersey, who wants to do a series of events promoting the historical contributions of the black cowboy to Texas and the U.S. He contacted the chamber after learning the chamber had the only event that underscored the contributions of black cowboys and pioneers during the Texas Sesquicentennial, Fuller said.

According to Fuller, Richardson wants to do a series of events culminating in a major black rodeo in Dallas-Fort Worth this fall. "We are talking about major network coverage of the event, and our contributions to it," Fuller said. The chamber's Jubilee may have to be moved up to accomodate the rodeo, he noted. He added that Richardson is working with Eric Strong and Eddie Dixon, who were responsible for Project Replica, which was brought to Midland for the first Jubilee. Richardson is also working with the Dallas Black Chamber and Calvin Stephens, who helped organize last year's black rodeo in Dallas.

In other business, first vice president Rhiny Williams announced a seminar on resume writing for Feb. 17. This is the first in a series of seminars on job-hunting, covering such subjects as resume writing and interview techniques, he said.

Christian said this optimism could be upset if mortgage rates begin rising based on investors' concerns over the weakness of the dollar in foreign exchange markets.

"Interest rates have risen in the bond market in recent days and if that trend continues then it will influence the mortgage market," he said.

Fixed-rate mortgages have declined to 9.1 percent, their lowest level since January 1978, according to the most recent survey by Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

The December gain was the best monthly performance since a 20.6 percent September increase in sales. Sales had risen 1.0 percent in November.

RESULTS

For all of 1986, Pennzoil posted earnings of $45.4 million, or 72 cents per share, compared with 1985 earnings of $113.2 million, or $2.20 per share. Sales were $1.9 billion, versus $2.2 billion in 1985.

Pennzoil said the 1986 earnings included a writedown of $58 million for oil and gas properties of an affiliate, Proven Properties Inc., and $23.1 million for a debenture exchange.

Dallas-based American Petrofina reported net earnings of $5 million for the fourth quarter, compared with a loss of $39.4 million during the same period of 1985.

Earnings for the final quarter of 1986 amounted to 41 cents per share, comparable to the $3.29 per-share loss for the same quarter of 1985, according to the statement.

The company reported a net loss of $24.6 million, or $2.06 per share, for the year ended Dec. 31. That's more than twice the 1985 loss of $10.2 million, or 85 cents per share.

"While the company reported a profit in the fourth quarter, it wasn't sufficient to overcome the cumulative effects of the severe drop in crude oil prices earlier in 1986," said Fina president and CEO Kenneth W. Perry. "Inventory values and production operations were adversely affected by the price decline."

Special Advertising Section
Published February 10, 1987

Congress designed the 1986 tax bill with an extremely ambitious goal - to change the way Americans make many of their most basic financial decisions.

TAX TIME 1987 will include articles on what changes were made and how they affect the American Tax Payer.

This informative special section is the perfect way to have your message delivered to over 25,000 households in the Midland area. The section is sure to be kept in homes and offices for several weeks and referred to many times by the public.

-A chronology of key provisions of the tax bill.
-How to choose a stock broker
-The latest board games featuring financial themes.
-IRA's Wounded by the new tax law, but they are a long way from dead.
-Major credit cards holders drop interest rates.

CANNED CONVENIENCE

In this age of working women, busy singles and active families, the sit-down family dinner is often replaced by grab-and-run meals on the go. When there is time to eat together, juggling schedules leaves less time to prepare a fancy feast. The increased need for convenience foods has been met by a deluge of one-serving frozens and prepared foods – with prices that rival eating out!

There is good news for those who need a balance of time-saving, economy and good nutrition. It's the updated cupboard standby with a healthy dose of convenience – canned food. The quality of canned foods has never been better, and there are more than 1,500 different items now available in cans. Most canned foods last two years or more on your shelf – the Canned Food Information Council suggests turning over your stock annually.

STOCK UP ON VARIETY

Once it's stocked, your cupboard can offer limitless possibilities for quick meals and snacks. Beyond the usual peaches and pears are dozens of canned fruits including berries, oranges and various combinations. More than 70 different fruit and vegetable juices also come in cans (these make great snacks and substitutes for carbonated beverages). Ethnic foods, meats, seafoods and pastas, entrees, gravies, nuts, puddings and dessert toppings are canned. And, of course, soups (more than 100 different kinds) and vegetables (at least 130 varieties) can't be forgotten.

A CANDID LOOK AT GOOD NUTRITION

Healthy eaters will find canned foods keeping up with the fitness trend. In the past three years, more than 25 new light-syrup and no-sugar-added canned products have been introduced by national companies (more are available in private grocery brands). Dozens of low sodium canned products are stocked next to regular varieties in the store, and sodium labeling can be found on most canned foods.

Canned foods also stack up nutritionally to their fresh and frozen counterparts. Studies by the National Food Processors Association (NFPA) laboratory found that canned seafoods and canned vegetables provide nutritional value essentially equal to fresh and frozen foods when prepared for the table. Minerals, vitamins and fiber content were also similar between fresh, frozen and canned items.

PACKED FRESH FROM THE FIELD

"One thing most people don't realize about canned foods is that canning requires no preservatives," explains Judith Olney, cookbook author and spokesperson for the Canned Food Information Council. "Foods are cooked in sealed cans and preserved with heat processing, so you only need to warm canned foods gently before serving," Olney says. Because canning plants are located near the picking fields, most foods are canned within hours of harvest. "There's no worry about foods losing nutrients from being shipped across country," she explains.

EASY ENTERTAINING

Olney, who is known for her glamorous food preparation and several books, including Entertainments, says it is possible to entertain elegantly "without spending hours in the kitchen like our mothers used to." Here are some of her quick ideas for putting elegant touches on the table in minutes with canned foods:

- Soup Swirl – Prepare two smooth canned soups of contrasting colors – creamy potato and tomato or split pea, for example. Put one ladle of each in serving bowls, swirl for contrasting presentation. Garnish with croutons or parsley.
- Raspberry Ice – Put a large can of raspberries in freezer, shake every couple of hours to distribute fruit evenly. When frozen, open both ends of can, slide out iced raspberry cylinder. Serve 1/2" slices with shortbread.
- Primavera Pasta – Drain and marinate several favorite canned vegetables (e.g. large can whole tomatoes, cans of mixed vegetables, mushrooms, black olives) in a dressing of olive oil, wine vinegar and Italian spices. Toss over cooked, chilled linguini for a pasta salad or side dish.
- Fancy Fruit Cocktail – Prepare a ginger glaze by blending two tablespoons brown sugar and a large pinch ginger into two tablespoons melted butter. Add small drained cans of whole plums, peach halves, pear halves, pineapple chunks and maraschino cherries and stir until heated through. Serve over pound cake or ice cream.

HASTY BOUILLABAISSE

5 green onions, thinly sliced
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
1 can (14 1/2-oz.) stewed or whole tomatoes
1 cup red wine
3/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1/4 teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1 can (16-oz.) mixed vegetables OR peas and carrots OR 2 cans (8 oz. each) other vegetables (beans, corn, carrots, peas, etc.)
1 can (7-oz.) tuna, flaked
1 can (6-oz.) crab meat, flaked and cartilage removed
1 can (6-oz.) minced clams
1 can (4 1/4-oz.) shrimp

In large saucepan, cook onion, green pepper, garlic and parsley in oil over medium heat until tender. Add tomatoes, wine and seasonings. Simmer 10 minutes. Add vegetables and seafood. Heat and serve. Makes 8 servings.

CARROT BEET MARINADE

Separately, marinate and chill 16-oz. cans julienne sliced beets and carrots in bottled (Italian, French) salad dressing. Serve in twin mounds on crisp lettuce. Makes 4 servings.

SHORT-CUT SHORTCAKE

Spoon chilled canned peach slices, cherries or blueberries (in juice, syrup or pie filling) over layers of split shortcakes. Top with whipped cream or topping and a dribble of syrup.

CANNY FACTS ABOUT CANNED FOODS

DID YOU KNOW?

- Less than six hours pass before most produce is commercially canned after being picked from the field.
- Important dietary fiber is found in many of the 1500 items packed in cans. Excellent sources of fiber include legumes such as peas, lima beans, navy beans and kidney beans, all of which are canned, as well as garbanzos, corn and blueberries.
- A new canning process, Salad Bar Fresh™, retains foods' crunchy texture and flavor, and allows canning of foods never before canned. Beets, carrots, cauliflower, mixed vegetables, zucchini, pasta and shrimp have been tested successfully.
- Canned green vegetables including peas, spinach and green beans now can be specially processed to retain their bright green color. Veri-green™ processing uses a special coating on the can's interior that protects the chlorophyll content of the food. Vegetables canned by the Veri-green™ process show its logo on the label.

Stock kitchen for winter emergencies

Hearst News Service

Now is the time to stock the pantry for winter emergencies. Snow, ice, power failure and illness can make trips to the market impossible.

Be prepared with a supply of crackers, frozen bread dough, baking mix or recipes for homemade quick breads. Instant nonfat dry milk can be used in sauces, baking, desserts and hot cocoa.

When the power fails, it is wise to leave freezer doors closed. A well-filled freezer will maintain the quality of food for two days when the door remains closed.

For some, a power failure means no water. A convenient emergency supply of water will make it easy to keep hands and utensils clean.

Common staples that work well in a variety of emergencies include cold cereal, peanut butter, jelly, dried fruits, nuts, tea and coffee.

SALMON-PASTA SALAD

1 can (7¾-ounce) salmon, undrained
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 cups cooked shell macaroni
1 apple, diced
½ cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley or 2 teaspoons dried
Lettuce

Combine reserved salmon liquid with oil and next five ingredients in small bowl. Mix and pour over pasta. Cover and refrigerate at least one hour. Add salmon, apple, walnuts, green onion and parsley. Stir well. Serve on lettuce.

TUNA QUICHE CASSEROLE

1 package (5½-ounce) au gratin potatoes
1 can (6½-ounce) tuna, rinsed and drained
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
2½ cups boiling water
4 ounces shredded cheese

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Combine potatoes, sauce mix and tuna in 2-quart ungreased casserole. Beat egg. Add milk and water. Pour over tuna mixture. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake uncovered until potatoes are tender, 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD

1 can (27-ounce) sauerkraut
¾ cup sugar
1 cup celery, diced
¼ cup onion, diced
1 cup green pepper, diced
3 tablespoons vinegar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery seeds

Drain sauerkraut in colander and rinse with cold water. Drain for 15 minutes. Cut into 1-inch pieces with kitchen scissors. Transfer to large mixing bowl.

Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Store covered in refrigerator up to four weeks.

CORN MUFFINS

1½ cups biscuit mix
½ cup cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
⅔ cup milk

Combine first three ingredients in large bowl. Make well in center of mixture. Combine eggs and milk. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Spoon into greased muffin pans. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 20 to 23 minutes. Makes 1 dozen.

Chicken chowder made low-fat way

By NANCY BYAL
Associated Press

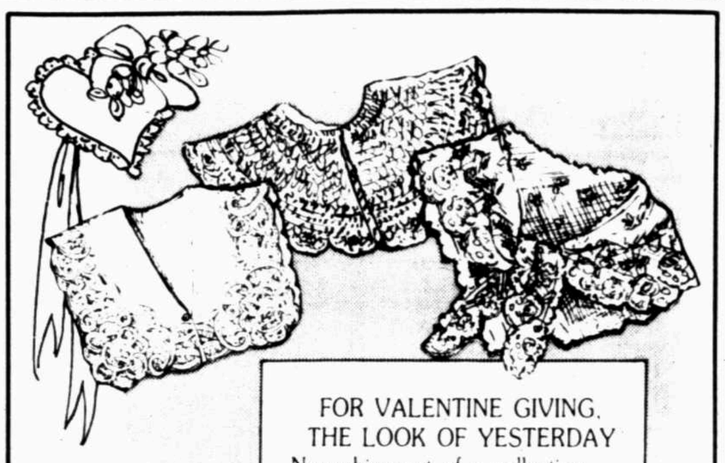

Concerned about cutting the amount of fat you eat? Then get acquainted with evaporated skim milk. You can use it in many recipes for soups, sauces and desserts where you usually use light cream or regular evaporated milk. A cup contains just 1 gram of fat, compared to 28 grams for cream and 20 grams for regular evaporated milk.

CHICKEN CHOWDER

2 whole medium chicken breasts, skinned and boned
1 cup water
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium carrot, shredded
1 clove garlic, minced
2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon granules
¼ teaspoon ground red pepper
1 medium potato, peeled and cut up
12-ounce can (1½ cups) evaporated skim milk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons snipped chives

In a saucepan combine chicken, water, onion, carrot, garlic, bouillon granules and pepper. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Stir in potato; cover and simmer about 15 minutes more or until chicken and potato are tender. Remove chicken. When cool enough to handle, cut into bite-size pieces; return to saucepan. Mash potato slightly. Combine milk and cornstarch; add to saucepan. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 2 minutes more. Sprinkle each serving with some chives. Makes 4 servings.

WHAT'S COOKING

4-H cook also trains, shows horses

By LINDA ANDERSON
Lifestyle Writer

Kent Porter/Reporter-Telegram

Shannon Bray

Shannon Bray, Midland County 4-H Club member, had her 16th birthday Monday — that means she has been riding horses for about 15 years.

"I've been riding since I was 1 or 2," she said. "The first day I was home from the hospital, my Mom and Dad set me up on a horse."

So it comes as no surprise the Midland High School sophomore works with horses in several 4-H projects. "We have three houses at my house. On our land in Dublin we have two more," she said.

"I am in horse judging with 4-H; I show, manage and train a 3-year-old gelding; I show, manage and train a yearling filly; I have a 22-year-old mare — I show and maintain her; I do a breeding program with my brood mare, Star; I do a mare and foal program — manage the mare and foal and train the foal."

Shannon hopes all her experience with horses will lead her into her chosen profession: "When I'm older I want to be a horse trainer and have my own business. I plan on going two years at Tarleton State University and two years at Texas A&M."

But horses aren't her only interest in 4-H. "I was in the county clothing project show — I received first with a (latch hook) project and I placed second in the clothing project with my sweat suit," she said.

Shannon is an accomplished cook, too. "In food and nutrition, I was leader to two juniors and one more senior."

ESKIMO APPLES

6 medium apples
Lemon juice
½ package (10 ounce) frozen raspberries, thawed
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup raspberry liquor, rum or kirsch (optional)
3 tablespoons flaked coconut
¼ cup ground pecans or almonds
½ cup plain yogurt
1 cup whipped cream or whipped topping

Wash apples well and polish with clean towel. Cut off top of each apple; brush with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Set aside.

Carefully cut out inside of each apple, leaving ½-inch shell. Brush insides with lemon juice. Dice removed portions of apples; discard core and seeds. Combine with sugar, raspberries, liquor, coconut and ground nuts. Fold yogurt into mixture. Spoon into apples.

Top each apple with dollop of whipped cream OR with dollop of whipped cream, reserved raspberry and sliced nuts. Cover with apple tops and serve.

CHOCOLATE DECADENCE CAKE

3 squares semi-sweet chocolate
1 package (two-layer) chocolate cake mix or pudding-included cake mix
4 eggs
¾ cup water
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup oil
• Fruit-Nut Filling and Chocolate Frosting (recipe follows)

Chop chocolate into small chunks and set aside. Combine cake mix, eggs, water, sour cream and oil. Blend; beat at medium speed of electric mixer four minutes. Fold in chopped chocolate. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch layer pans.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pans 10 minutes; remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.

Fruit-Nut Filling and Chocolate Frosting: Beat ¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter or margarine until soft. Blend in 3 cups confectioners' sugar. Add 1 egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add 3 additional cups confectioners' sugar alternately with 3 tablespoons milk until of spreading consistency. Set aside 1 cup of mixture in small bowl for filling.

For filling, stir ½ cup each chopped dates, raisins and almonds into 1 cup of mixture. Spread between layers.

To frost, melt 5 squares semi-sweet or unsweetened chocolate. Cool; add to remaining mixture. Add 2 tablespoons milk for smooth consistency. Frost and decorate top and sides. Garnish with dates, raisins and nuts if desired.

LUCKY EYES OF TEXAS

1 can (16 ounces) black-eyed peas, drained
1 cup chicken, boned and chopped
¼ cup celery, chopped
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice, cooled
¼ cup onion, chopped
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon pepper
Dash hot sauce
Sauce:
1 avocado, mashed
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon lemon juice

Mix first nine ingredients and pack in mold (a Texas-shaped pan for mold is a nice touch). Refrigerate 30 minutes. Mix ingredients for sauce and spread on mixture. Can be served as cold salad, as main dish or with crackers as snack.

DEAR ABBY

Needless tragedy preventable

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife refused to wear a seat belt. She said it messed up her clothes, was uncomfortable and, besides, she might be trapped if the car ever went underwater — even though there is no water within 50 miles of here.

Well, she had an automobile accident last May, and now she is paralyzed from the shoulders down. There is no doubt that she could have prevented this tragedy had she worn a seat belt, but she had always said, "It's my right to choose to wear a seat belt or not to wear one; it's my life, and it's nobody's business but my own." (Her exact words.)

Between my job and caring for her, I have no life at all. I'm only 42, and now all our dreams have gone up in smoke. I have all I can do to keep from printing her words on a poster in big block letters and placing it in her bedroom on the wall facing her, then walking out. Abby, at times I feel such hostility toward her, I don't know how much longer I can go on like this. God, give me strength! I've always worn a seat belt; so have our two practically motherless teen-age children. — DISGUSTED IN GEORGIA

P.S. I have a 48-year-old brother in Alabama who is dying from lung cancer. He's been a heavy smoker since age 17, and I find it difficult to feel sorry for him, too, but that's another story.

DEAR DISGUSTED: While your brother's plight may be "another story," the plots are similar in that both tragedies could have been avoided.

People owe it to their families to take good care of themselves. Those who live recklessly — and that includes doing drugs, and breaking the law — will not pay for their selfishness alone; their families and those who love them also suffer emotionally and financially.

Your anger is appropriate, but your wife is the principal victim, so get some counseling and learn how to deal with your anger. And persuade your wife to get counseling, too. Her guilt and anger must be overwhelming.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a grown man with teen-agers of my own, but I can't describe the guilt and shame I felt during my teen years because when I was 13, my mother took me aside and said, "I know you've been 'playing with yourself'" (she couldn't bring herself to use the word "masturbating"), "and if you don't stop it, you will lose your mind and end up in an insane asylum!"

Before Christmas my wife sent for your booklet, "What Every Teen-Ager Ought to Know," and she was so impressed with it, she sent for four more for her sisters to use as "stocking stuffers" for their teen-agers.

This morning I read the booklet, and when I read the chapter on masturbation, I couldn't help but recall the tirade of my mother and how damaging it was to my self-esteem. What a pity I couldn't have read your booklet when I was 13.

Please print that portion of your teen booklet in your column. You'd be helping thousands of young people and their parents as well. Sign me ... BORN TOO SOON IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR BORN: Here's the chapter:

MASTURBATION
This will be the shortest chapter in th booklet. Why? Because all you need to know about masturbation is: It is normal. Every healthy normal person has masturbated.

Now I will tell you what it is not: It's not depraved, a crime, or harmful to your health. (But if it makes you feel guilty because you've been told it's wrong, don't do it.)

I repeat, all normal boys and girls (and some adults, too) practice this natural type of sexual gratification.

Now, isn't that a load off your mind?

Cooking cures 'nothing to do' blues

Associated Press

Toddlers find kitchen wares more interesting than the most expensive toy, which gives the smart mother an idea on how to entertain the kids when they are stuck indoors.

Winter weather often confines children indoors and, according to an article in the February issue of Country Living, that's when kids complain, "There's nothing to do."

Among the child-proofed cabinets, there should be one child-friendly cabinet at floor level filled with stacking pots, wooden spoons, unbreakable bowls, a collection of cookie cutters and other child-safe kitchen wares.

As soon as kids can stand on a kitchen chair to reach the countertop, they want to help with the actual food preparation.

That means preparing even the simplest dish may take forever, but it will yield precious memories. Let children roll out pie crusts — although they may get covered in flour — and have enough dough left over for the children to make their own tiny pies in tart tins. Their pies can be filled with jam or cinnamon and sugar.

Every child loves to break eggs. It is even more fun if you draw a face on the egg and recite "Humpty Dumpty." Children also love to mix up a batch of brownies from a mix — something they can do without assistance.

Brownie-making illustrates the cardinal rule of cooking with kids — the dirtier they get, the more fun they have.

There also are more serious rules on cooking with kids, the most important being never leave them alone for a second with a stove or kitchen appliance. Also, cook on the back burners with handles turned away from the edge of the stove. Cooking with children means never turning your back.

Other children's favorite kitchen chores include shelling peas, snapping beans, decorating cookies, sifting flour, grinding meat with a hand-cranked grinder and scooping out melon balls.

At Christmas, you can try making a gingerbread house. If it caves in, as they often do, try making miniature houses with graham crackers cemented with edible frosting. When the houses are dry, the kids can decorate them with more frosting, candies, sprinkles, gumdrops, chocolate chips, Lifesavers and whatever else looks good.

Other chores to keep little ones busy include sorting buttons from the sewing box, shelling peanuts for homemade peanut butter, cutting snowflakes out of paper to decorate windows and peeling potatoes, carrots, apples and other fruit and vegetables.

The children can "plant" sweet potato vines, avocado pits, carrot and pineapple tops and grass seed in eggshell halves.

The only two essential ingredients for making winter hours in the kitchen precious are a mother's imagination and her willingness to make time — even if it means spending a whole afternoon preparing a lavish tea party for a family of dolls and then sitting on the floor to eat it.

Crunchy snack made with pasta

By NANCY BYAL
Associated Press

You'll never be able to stop with just one handful of this crunchy snack mix. To prevent spattering, drain the pasta well before frying.

SHAPELY PASTA SNACKS

6 ounces corkscrew macaroni, little bows, wheels or other bite-size pasta
Cooking oil for deep-fat frying
1 cup walnut halves, toasted
¼ cup pumpkin seed, toasted
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. Rinse with cold water; drain well. Heat 2½ inches of cooking oil in a deep saucepan or deep-fat fryer to 365 degrees. Fry cooked pasta, about a dozen at a time, in deep hot oil 1½ minutes or until browned, stirring to separate pieces. Remove with slotted spoon. Drain on paper towels. Repeat with remaining pasta.

Turn into a bowl; add nuts and pumpkin seed. Pour margarine over mixture in bowl; stir to coat. Combine Parmesan, oregano and garlic salt. Sprinkle over mixture in bowl; toss. Cool. Store in airtight container. Makes 6 cups, 12 servings.

Stock kitchen for winter emergencies

Hearst News Service

Now is the time to stock the pantry for winter emergencies. Snow, ice, power failure and illness can make trips to the market impossible.

Be prepared with a supply of crackers, frozen bread dough, baking mix or recipes for homemade quick breads. Instant nonfat dry milk can be used in sauces, baking, desserts and hot cocoa.

When the power fails, it is wise to leave freezer doors closed. A well-filled freezer will maintain the quality of food for two days when the door remains closed.

For some, a power failure means no water. A convenient emergency supply of water will make it easy to keep hands and utensils clean.

Common staples that work well in a variety of emergencies include cold cereal, peanut butter, jelly, dried fruits, nuts, tea and coffee.

SALMON-PASTA SALAD

1 can (7¾-ounce) salmon, undrained
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 cups cooked shell macaroni
1 apple, diced
½ cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley or 2 teaspoons dried
Lettuce

Combine reserved salmon liquid with oil and next five ingredients in small bowl. Mix and pour over pasta. Cover and refrigerate at least one hour. Add salmon, apple, walnuts, green onion and parsley. Stir well. Serve on lettuce.

TUNA QUICHE CASSEROLE

1 package (5½-ounce) au gratin potatoes
1 can (6½-ounce) tuna, rinsed and drained
1 egg
⅔ cup milk
2½ cups boiling water
4 ounces shredded cheese

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Combine potatoes, sauce mix and tuna in 2-quart ungreased casserole. Beat egg. Add milk and water. Pour over tuna mixture. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake uncovered until potatoes are tender, 35 to 40 minutes. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD

1 can (27-ounce) sauerkraut
¾ cup sugar
1 cup celery, diced
¼ cup onion, diced
1 cup green pepper, diced
3 tablespoons vinegar
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery seeds

Drain sauerkraut in colander and rinse with cold water. Drain for 15 minutes. Cut into 1-inch pieces with kitchen scissors. Transfer to large mixing bowl.

Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Store covered in refrigerator up to four weeks.

CORN MUFFINS

1½ cups biscuit mix
½ cup cornmeal
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs
⅔ cup milk

Combine first three ingredients in large bowl. Make well in center of mixture. Combine eggs and milk. Add to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Spoon into greased muffin pans. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 20 to 23 minutes. Makes 1 dozen.

Chicken chowder made low-fat way

By NANCY BYAL
Associated Press

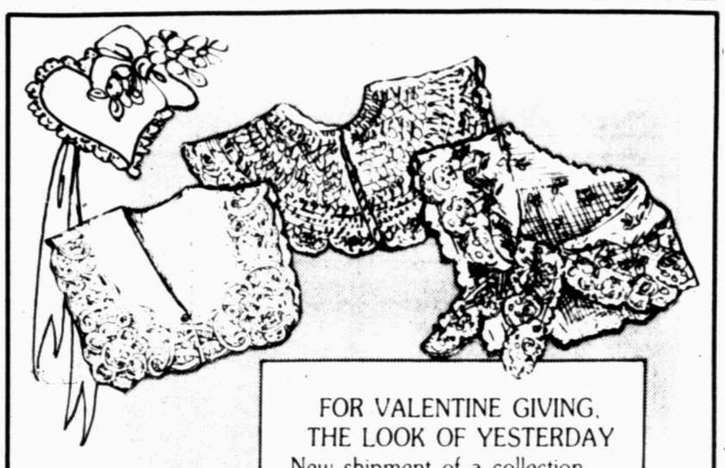

Concerned about cutting the amount of fat you eat? Then get acquainted with evaporated skim milk. You can use it in many recipes for soups, sauces and desserts where you usually use light cream or regular evaporated milk. A cup contains just 1 gram of fat, compared to 28 grams for cream and 20 grams for regular evaporated milk.

CHICKEN CHOWDER

2 whole medium chicken breasts, skinned and boned
1 cup water
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium carrot, shredded
1 clove garlic, minced
2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon granules
¼ teaspoon ground red pepper
1 medium potato, peeled and cut up
12-ounce can (1½ cups) evaporated skim milk
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons snipped chives

In a saucepan combine chicken, water, onion, carrot, garlic, bouillon granules and pepper. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Stir in potato; cover and simmer about 15 minutes more or until chicken and potato are tender. Remove chicken. When cool enough to handle, cut into bite-size pieces; return to saucepan. Mash potato slightly. Combine milk and cornstarch; add to saucepan. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook and stir 2 minutes more. Sprinkle each serving with some chives. Makes 4 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 270 cal., 35 g pro., 23 g carbo., 4 g fat, 76 mg chol., 367 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 112 percent vit. A, 16 percent vit. C, 11 percent thiamine, 24 percent riboflavin, 63 percent niacin, 30 percent calcium, 44 percent phosphorus.

WHAT'S COOKING

4-H cook also trains, shows horses

By LINDA ANDERSON
Lifestyle Writer

Kent Porter/Reporter Telegram

Shannon Bray

Shannon Bray, Midland County 4-H Club member, had her 16th birthday Monday — that means she has been riding horses for about 15 years.

"I've been riding since I was 1 or 2," she said. "The first day I was home from the hospital, my Mom and Dad set me up on a horse."

So it comes as no surprise the Midland High School sophomore works with horses in several 4-H projects. "We have three houses at my house. On our land in Dublin we have two more," she said.

"I am in horse judging with 4-H; I show, manage and train a 3-year-old gelding; I show, manage and train a yearling filly; I have a 22-year-old mare — I show and maintain her; I do a breeding program with my brood mare, Star; I do a mare and foal program — manage the mare and foal and train the foal."

Shannon hopes all her experience with horses will lead her into her chosen profession: "When I'm older I want to be a horse trainer and have my own business. I plan on going two years at Tarleton State University and two years at Texas A&M."

But horses aren't her only interest in 4-H. "I was in the county clothing project show — I received first with a (latch hook) project and I placed second in the clothing project with my sweat suit," she said.

Shannon is an accomplished cook, too. "In food and nutrition, I was leader to two juniors and one more senior."

ESKIMO APPLES

6 medium apples
Lemon juice
½ package (10 ounce) frozen raspberries, thawed
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup raspberry liquor, rum or kirsch (optional)
3 tablespoons flaked coconut
¼ cup ground pecans or almonds
½ cup plain yogurt
1 cup whipped cream or whipped topping

Wash apples well and polish with clean towel. Cut off top of each apple; brush with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Set aside.

Carefully cut out inside of each apple, leaving ½-inch shell. Brush insides with lemon juice. Dice removed portions of apples; discard core and seeds. Combine with sugar, raspberries, liquor, coconut and ground nuts. Fold yogurt into mixture. Spoon into apples.

Top each apple with dollop of whipped cream OR with dollop of whipped cream, reserved raspberry and sliced nuts. Cover with apple tops and serve.

CHOCOLATE DECADENCE CAKE

3 squares semi-sweet chocolate
1 package (two-layer) chocolate cake mix or pudding-included cake mix
4 eggs
¾ cup water
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup oil
• Fruit-Nut Filling and Chocolate Frosting (recipe follows)

Chop chocolate into small chunks and set aside. Combine cake mix, eggs, water, sour cream and oil. Blend; beat at medium speed of electric mixer four minutes. Fold in chopped chocolate. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch layer pans.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool in pans 10 minutes; remove from pans and finish cooling on racks.

Fruit-Nut Filling and Chocolate Frosting: Beat ¾ cup (1½ sticks) butter or margarine until soft. Blend in 3 cups confectioners' sugar. Add 1 egg and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add 3 additional cups confectioners' sugar alternately with 3 tablespoons milk until of spreading consistency. Set aside 1 cup of mixture in small bowl for filling.

For filling, stir ½ cup each chopped dates, raisins and almonds into 1 cup of mixture. Spread between layers.

To frost, melt 5 squares semi-sweet or unsweetened chocolate. Cool; add to remaining mixture. Add 2 tablespoons milk for smooth consistency. Frost and decorate top and sides. Garnish with dates, raisins and nuts if desired.

LUCKY EYES OF TEXAS

1 can (16 ounces) black-eyed peas, drained
1 cup chicken, boned and chopped
¼ cup celery, chopped
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked rice, cooled
¼ cup onion, chopped
2 tablespoons diced pimiento
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon pepper
Dash hot sauce
Sauce:
1 avocado, mashed
½ cup sour cream
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon lemon juice

Mix first nine ingredients and pack in mold (a Texas-shaped pan for mold is a nice touch). Refrigerate 30 minutes. Mix ingredients for sauce and spread on mixture. Can be served as cold salad, as main dish or with crackers as snack.

MASTURBATION

This will be the shortest chapter in th booklet. Why? Because all you need to know about masturbation is: It is normal. Every healthy normal person has masturbated.

Now I will tell you what it is not: It's not depraved, a crime, or harmful to your health. (But if it makes you feel guilty because you've been told it's wrong, don't do it.)

I repeat, all normal boys and girls (and some adults, too) practice this natural type of sexual gratification.

Now, isn't that a load off your mind?

Associated Press

Toddlers find kitchen wares more interesting than the most expensive toy, which gives the smart mother an idea on how to entertain the kids when they are stuck indoors.

Winter weather often confines children indoors and, according to an article in the February issue of Country Living, that's when kids complain, "There's nothing to do."

Among the child-proofed cabinets, there should be one child-friendly cabinet at floor level filled with stacking pots, wooden spoons, unbreakable bowls, a collection of cookie cutters and other child-safe kitchen wares.

As soon as kids can stand on a kitchen chair to reach the countertop, they want to help with the actual food preparation.

That means preparing even the simplest dish may take forever, but it will yield precious memories. Let children roll out pie crusts — although they may get covered in flour — and have enough dough left over for the children to make their own tiny pies in tart tins. Their pies can be filled with jam or cinnamon and sugar.

Every child loves to break eggs. It is even more fun if you draw a face on the egg and recite "Humpty Dumpty." Children also love to mix up a batch of brownies from a mix — something they can do without assistance.

Brownie-making illustrates the cardinal rule of cooking with kids — the dirtier they get, the more fun they have.

There also are more serious rules on cooking with kids, the most important being never leave them alone for a second with a stove or kitchen appliance. Also, cook on the back burners with handles turned away from the edge of the stove. Cooking with children means never turning your back.

Other children's favorite kitchen chores include shelling peas, snapping beans, decorating cookies, sifting flour, grinding meat with a hand-cranked grinder and scooping out melon balls.

At Christmas, you can try making a gingerbread house. If it caves in, as they often do, try making miniature houses with graham crackers cemented with edible frosting. When the houses are dry, the kids can decorate them with more frosting, candies, sprinkles, gumdrops, chocolate chips, Lifesavers and whatever else looks good.

Other chores to keep little ones busy include sorting buttons from the sewing box, shelling peanuts for homemade peanut butter, cutting snowflakes out of paper to decorate windows and peeling potatoes, carrots, apples and other fruit and vegetables.

The only two essential ingredients for making winter hours in the kitchen precious are a mother's imagination and her willingness to make time — even if it means spending a whole afternoon preparing a lavish tea party for a family of dolls and then sitting on the floor to eat it.

Crunchy snack made with pasta

By NANCY BYAL
Associated Press

You'll never be able to stop with just one handful of this crunchy snack mix. To prevent spattering, drain the pasta well before frying.

SHAPELY PASTA SNACKS

6 ounces corkscrew macaroni, little bows, wheels or other bite-size pasta
Cooking oil for deep-fat frying
1 cup walnut halves, toasted
¼ cup pumpkin seed, toasted
2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt

Cook pasta according to package directions; drain. Rinse with cold water; drain well. Heat 2½ inches of cooking oil in a deep saucepan or deep-fat fryer to 365 degrees. Fry cooked pasta, about a dozen at a time, in deep hot oil 1½ minutes or until browned, stirring to separate pieces. Remove with slotted spoon. Drain on paper towels. Repeat with remaining pasta.

Turn into a bowl; add nuts and pumpkin seed. Pour margarine over mixture in bowl; stir to coat. Combine Parmesan, oregano and garlic salt. Sprinkle over mixture in bowl; toss. Cool. Store in airtight container. Makes 6 cups, 12 servings.

Hot meat salads warm meals for cold weather

By MERLE ELLIS

Salads are not normally thought of as hearty winter fare. But the combination of cool crisp greens and hot fried or sauteed meat makes a salad perfect for a cold day's lunch or marvelous as a first course for a simple winter dinner. The contrasts in texture and temperature can be deliciously interesting.

There are a few things that you need to be aware of when combining hot meats with cold ingredients if the best results are to be achieved. One: the meat, whatever it is — beef, pork, lamb, turkey, chicken or whatever — must be lean. Any fat will quickly solidify upon contact with the cold ingredients yielding an unpleasantly greasy-tasting end product. Trim all meat of all fat.

Use meat that is naturally tender and can be cooked quickly. Long slow-cooked pot roast is not the stuff of which hot meat salads are made. Some cuts that work well are tenderloin of beef and pork, top loin of beef and pork, top round of beef, lamb and chicken and turkey breast meat.

Whatever meat you use, fry or saute it quickly and combine it with the other salad ingredients at the last minute. There is an endless array of combinations to consider; use your imagination. Try nuggets of chicken in batter, deep-fried and tossed in a sliced celery and lettuce salad with a blue cheese dressing. Hot strips of lamb in a cold pasta or rice pilaf salad offer some possibilities. Explore! Here are a couple of recipes to get you started.

HOT AND COLD PORK SALAD

⅓ cup bottled Italian dressing
1 head romaine lettuce (about 6 cups), washed and torn and crisped in refrigerator
¾ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
3 to 6 drops Tabasco sauce
1 cup croutons (preferably fresh made)
½ cup sharp cheddar cheese, shredded
Freshly ground pepper

Trim all fat from tenderloin and cut into ¼-inch thick slices. Put pork in glass bowl; pour Italian dressing over and marinate at room temperature 30 minutes, turning once or twice.

At last minute, saute marinated pork over high heat, turning to cook on both sides. This should take 4-5 minutes. When pork is cooked, quickly toss with crisp romaine, croutons, shredded cheese and black pepper. Serve immediately with spoonful of mayonnaise dressing. Serves four.

NEVA'S HOT NUTTY CHICKEN SALAD

¼ cup cornstarch
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1½ tablespoons dry white wine
2 egg whites
1½ cups finely chopped walnuts
2 bunches fresh spinach
1 cup mandarin oranges, drained
½ cup celery, sliced thin
1 cup onion, sliced thin
⅔ cup olive oil
⅓ cup tarragon vinegar
½ teaspoon curry powder
Salt and fresy ground black pepper
Peanut oil for frying

Cut chicken breasts into strips about ¾-inch wide. Mix cornstarch, salt and sugar. Add wine and mix thoroughly. Beat egg whites lightly and add gradually to cornstarch mixture, stirring constantly.

Spread chopped walnuts out on flat surface. (Cookie sheet works well.) Dip strips of chicken in cornstarch mixture and roll in nuts to coat. Set aside.

Clean and crisp spinach and break into bite-size pieces. In large bowl, toss together spinach, mandarin oranges, celery and onion. Make dressing by combining olive oil, vinegar, curry powder, salt and pepper.

Heat peanut oil in heavy skilled; add nut-coated chicken breast slices and cook, turning for 6-8 minutes until lightly browned and cooked through but not dry. Drain.

Yogurt spread over top of salad prevents fruit, lettuce from discoloring

Associated Press

To keep the lettuce and fruit from wilting or discoloring while the salad chills, spread the yogurt over the entire top of the salad and seal it to the bowl.

LAYERED FRUIT SALAD

3 cups shredded lettuce
1 honeydew melon, peeled, seeded and cubed
20-ounce can pineapple chunks, drained
1 pint strawberries, halved
1 large banana, sliced
8-ounce carton pineapple, lemon, or vanilla yogurt
½ cup shredded Gruyere or Swiss cheese (2 ounces)

In a large salad bowl place half the lettuce. Top with layers of melon, pineapple, strawberries and banana. Top with remaining lettuce. Spread yogurt over top; sprinkle with shredded cheese. Cover and chill 2 to 3 hours. Toss gently to serve. Makes 12 servings.

Apple, brown sugar sweeten carrots

By NANCY BYAL
Associated Press

Sweeten vitamin-rich carrots with sliced apple and a little brown sugar.

SWEET GLAZED CARROTS
6 medium carrots, sliced (1 pound)
3 cups frozen crinkle-cut carrots
1 medium apple, cored and sliced
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In medium saucepan cook fresh carrots, covered, in boiling salted water about 15 minutes or until tender. (Or cook frozen carrots according to package directions.) Drain thoroughly. Add apple, brown sugar, margarine and lemon juice to carrots in saucepan; mix well. Cover and cook about 5 minutes or until apple is tender. Makes 6 servings.

Valentine dessert trimmed in hearts

Associated Press

Honor your sweetheart with a lovely Valentine dessert trimmed with chocolate hearts.

PETAL TARTS
1 package piecrust mix (for 2-crust pie)
3 tablespoons sugar
⅓ cup chocolate-flavored syrup
20-ounce can calorie-reduced cherry pie filling
2 tablespoons burgundy
½ cup dairy sour cream
Chocolate Hearts

Combine crust mix and 2 tablespoons of the sugar; add syrup and mix well. On floured surface roll dough to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into 48 2-inch circles, rerolling trimmings as necessary. Place a dough circle in the bottom of 8 ungreased 6-ounce custard cups. Overlap 5 circles around sides of cups; press to seal. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes. Cool slightly. Remove from cups. Cool thoroughly. Combine pie filling and burgundy; spoon into cups. Chill. To serve, combine sour cream and remaining sugar; spoon over filling. Top each with a Chocolate Heart. Makes 8 servings.

Chocolate Hearts: Melt ½ cup semisweet chocolate pieces with 1 teaspoon margarine or butter; spread ⅛ inch thick on wax paper-lined baking sheet. Chill 10 minutes. Press small heart cutter into chocolate. Chill until firm. Lift out cutouts. Cover; chill. Remelt trimmings; drizzle over hearts.

Banana crop expected to be abundant

Copley News Service

Bananas should be more abundant in the coming year, now that Jamaica is growing more than half its fruit from tissue cultures.

The high-quality breed known as Grant-Nain produces a much smaller banana tree, which isn't buffeted by hurricanes as much as the traditional type.

JEANE DIXON'S your horoscope

© 1986, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1987

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Fight for what you want in the year ahead, but do it in a positive way. Your integrity and dedication will pay rich dividends for years to come. The romantic outlook is rosy. June is the best time for a wedding. Other people may try to cut in on your profits. Travel proves highly useful for business; keep a bag packed. You need to be decisive when it comes to making changes and moving ahead. Maintain high standards. Trying to cut corners will work against you in the long run.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Former U.S. Vice President Adlai Ewing Stevenson, St. Louis Cardinals catcher Mike Heath, New York Times publisher Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, actor Christopher Guest, comic Red Buttons, actor John Carradine, football's Roger Staubach, newscaster Bernard Kalb, actress Charlotte Rampling, home run king Hank Aaron, actress Barbara Hershey.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Most things will go your way today. A parent-child relationship is looking up. Do not be afraid to speak out or make the first move. Get ready for a big profit push.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are likely to emerge the winner in any battle of wits. The breadth of your knowledge surprises others. Do not neglect mate or offspring. Stay alert where money is concerned. A friend could deceive you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take charge at work today. Someone influential is watching you. Two relationships are changing. Do not despair; you will emerge a stronger and happier individual. Make the most of a new financial opportunity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Extra cash helps you to move closer to a goal. Your dreams can come true if you believe in yourself. Cut your ties to someone who drags you down. You can do much better!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Higher-ups will not be able to refuse you today. Make your requests early. You will enjoy the change that a new position offers. Give someone a chance to show what he can do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You finally receive the acclaim you deserve for a special project or idea. Romance thrives. Avoid becoming so absorbed in your own activities that you lose sight of the larger picture. Form new alliances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A great day for both sports and creative work. New business comes your way. Look your best. Others will judge you by your appearance. Fewer restrictions will be placed on personal spending.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Play it safe with your finances. Find out more about the people you plan to deal with. Asking mate for favors should bring a positive reaction. Midweek business entertainment has social overtones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Money flows in faster now, but you must continue to curb extravagance. Work assignments should be approached with greater creativity. Use caution when initiating important long-term activities. A personal relationship improves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Expand your social circle and you will gain both friends and new business. Profits rise, thanks to a recently formed partnership. Take children to a sports event. A generation gap closes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Intellectual activities are favored today. Let your closest associates know exactly what you are thinking and doing. Your patience is tried by a teen-ager's behavior.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠ Fear is a powerful factor at the bridge table. The belief that something untoward might happen can be as devastating as if the evil really existed. South learned this lesson to his misfortune.

North-South did well to avoid three no trump, a contract which stood no chance as the cards lie, in favor of a five-club contract that rated to be a laydown. But West found a way to upset declarer's plans.

He led the ace of spades and continued with the four to his partner's king. East played a third round and declarer, afraid that West had started with a doubleton ace, chose to ruff with the queen. When East showed out on the second trump, declarer had to concede a trump trick for down one.

This hand illustrates two different types of imagination. First, West's spade lead was not only imaginative but logical. Both opponents had the opportunity to bid no trump, yet both had spurned it. Therefore, it was very likely that East held the king of spades, so the lead of the ace from A-Q was unlikely to cost a trick.

Declarer suffered from overactive brain cells. If West indeed had started with the doubleton ace of spades, East would have had six spades headed by the K-Q-J. Even if his side were not employing weak jump overcalls, East would certainly have grabbed the opportunity to show the master suit at the one-level. Had declarer taken a few moments to think matters out more clearly, he would have come to the conclusion there was no reason to panic. He could have afforded to ruff low, and the contract would have sailed home.

Leave them something to REMEMBER.

Nelson gets Roy Acuff Award for aid to 'strapped' farmers

Willie Nelson

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Willie Nelson has received the 1986 Roy Acuff Community Service Award in recognition of his concerts that raised approximately $14 million for financially strapped farmers.

"I'm accepting this for all the entertainers and people who put this together. It should be split into 1,000 pieces," Nelson said Tuesday.

Nelson raised the money at his FarmAid concerts in Champaign, Ill., in 1985 and near Austin, Texas, last July 4. He said he awaits approval from the University of Nebraska to stage FarmAid III there Sept. 19.

The Acuff award is sponsored by The Tennessean newspaper and the Country Music Foundation, a nonprofit organization.

NEW YORK (AP) — Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis and musical stars Clarence Clemons and Narada Michael Walden are helping kick off a world Peace Run that will encompass six continents.

The 103-day event, in which an estimated 20,000 volunteer runners will pass flaming peace torches, will begin April 27 and culminate Aug. 7.

It is sponsored by the Sri Chimnoy Marathon Team, an international organization that seeks to promote peace through sports and meditation.

Clemons, a member of Bruce Springsteen's E Street Band, said, "It (the Peace Run) is not money...it's love."

Tom Cruise

NEW YORK (AP) — "Top Gun" star Tom Cruise has replaced Sylvester Stallone as the top box-office draw, according to a poll of U.S. motion picture exhibitors.

The top draws for 1986 were Cruise, who also starred in "The Color of Money," Eddie Murphy, Paul Hogan, Rodney Dangerfield, Bette Midler, Stallone, Clint Eastwood, Whoopi Goldberg, Kathleen Turner and Paul Newman.

Martin Quigley, president of the company, refused to say how many exhibitors were surveyed, but said the sample "is not a small number" and was weighted to favor large theater chains.

• • •

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — The University of Idaho is naming its school of music after jazz great Lionel Hampton.

"It's highly appropriate and fitting the university extend this honor to a man who's not only a living legend in American music, but a humanitarian and educator of youth," University President Richard Gibb said Tuesday.

Hampton, 73, will be on campus this month for the 20th annual Lionel Hampton-Chevron Jazz Festival. The music school will be dedicated Feb. 28.

Hampton has established scholarship funds at Idaho, Duke University and the University of Southern California. He has raised millions of dollars for charities and helped break color barriers in American music when he joined Benny Goodman in the 1930s.

Mel Torme

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mel Torme says that for a time he was oblivious to the praise heaped on him by the judge of NBC's "Night Court."

Torme, 61, has been a singer, composer, pianist, drummer, conductor, vocal and orchestral arranger, author, producer and TV talk show host.

Harry Anderson plays a judge on "Night Court" who is an ardent fan of Torme.

"I didn't know about this until six weeks into the show," Torme said. "Then people started coming to me and saying, 'Did you see this show, "Night Court?" My God, they do a plug about you every week.'

"Needless to say, I tuned it in, and I was bowled over. So I called them, and they said, 'Do you think we could get you to do even a gag thing, on tape?'"

• • •

NEW YORK (AP) — Holocaust survivor and writer Elie Wiesel and homeless advocate Trevor Ferrell will be among those honored by The Christophers at the Roman Catholic organization's 38th annual awards ceremony Feb. 26.

Wiesel, the winner of the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize who will receive a special Christopher Award, was described by the Rev. John Catoir, director of the Christophers, as "a man with a mission who speaks for human rights wherever those rights are threatened."

Ferrell, 14, who drew attention three years ago when he persuaded his family to help him provide blankets and clothing to people living on Philadelphia's streets, "is a young man who truly believes one person can make a difference," Catoir said Tuesday.

• • •

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Pat Boone will be host of the annual Dove Awards Show April 9 for achievement in gospel music.

The show will originate from the Tennessee Performing Arts Center and will be broadcast live by CBN, it was announced Monday.

• • •

CLEAR LAKE, Iowa (AP) — The Clear Lake Chamber of Commerce said it expects more than 2,000 visitors for the ninth annual Buddy Holly Memorial Concert this weekend.

Holly, performers J.P. Richardson and Ritchie Valens and the pilot were killed when their plane crashed near Clear Lake in the snowstorm after a concert on Feb. 2, 1959.

A tea party will begin at 8 p.m. Friday at the Surf Ballroom in Clear Lake, where Holly played his last concert before he was killed. At 7 p.m. Saturday, the first of five concerts will begin at the ballroom.

Del Shannon, Bobby Vee, Johnny Tillotson, The Rockin' Ricochet, and Paul Water are scheduled to perform.

Twins acquire Jeff Reardon

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins obtained Montreal Expos relief pitcher Jeff Reardon and catcher Tom Nieto for pitcher Neal Heaton, catcher Jeff Reed and two minor league pitchers.

Andy MacPhail, executive vice president, said the Twins had been working to get Reardon since the winter baseball meetings in December. He identified the two minor league hurlers as Al Cardwood and Yorkis Perez.

Reardon, 31, was second in the National League in saves last year with 35. He was 7-9 with an ERA of 3.96 last year. He led the NL with 41 saves in 1985.

His personal save total of 35 in 46 opportunities in 1986 was 11 more than the Twins turned in as a team. The right-hander has had a total of 76 saves the past two seasons, more than any pitcher in the majors in that period.

NEW YORK — Yankees' Pitcher Joe Niekro has been hospitalized for a precautionary checkup after suffering a back injury. The 42-year-old Niekro suffered a slightly strained lower back while bending over at his home in Lakeland, Fla., the Yankees said.

NBA names Fitch

NEW YORK — Bill Fitch, who Rocketrs posted an 11-4 record in January, was named NBA Coach of the Month. The Rockets, last year's Western Conference champions, went into the month with an 11-17 record, then lost two key players, guards Lewis Lloyd and Mitchell Wiggins, who were banned Jan. 13 from the league for drug use.

NEW YORK — Ron Harper, Cleveland Cavaliers, who averaged 22.4 points in January, was named NBA Rookie of the Month.

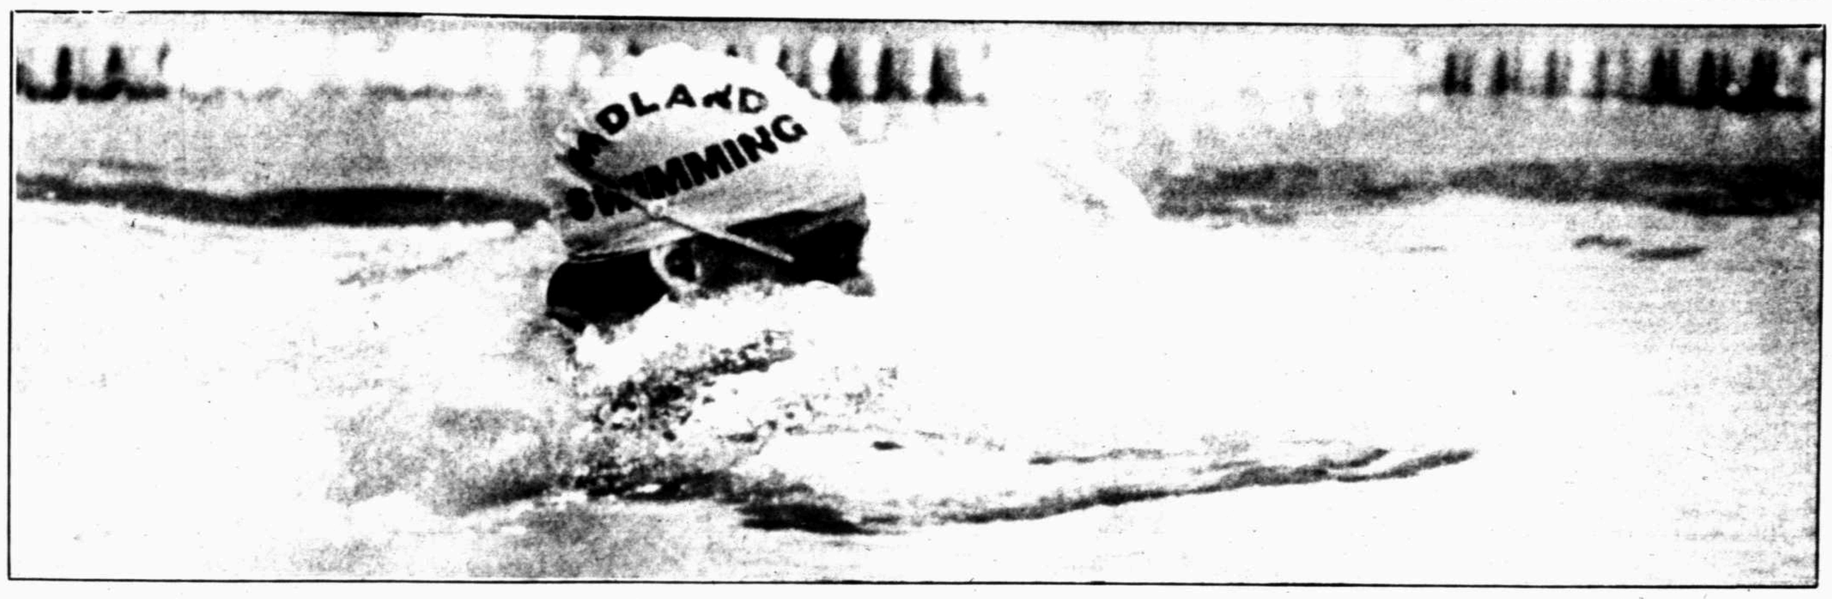

Harper quits

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Sophomore guard Kevin Walls, who started nine games before being benched, quit the Louisville basketball team, Coach Denny Crum said. Walls' move apparently follows his refusal to enter Monday's game against South Carolina in the last minutes when Crum asked him to.

SMU awaits verdict

DALLAS — SMU officials confirmed they have been notified that they will be summoned before the NCAA Committee on Infractions next week in California for a hearing to decide the fate of the school's football program.

At that time, the NCAA committee will receive an institutional report based on inquiries and discussions involving SMU representatives and the NCAA enforcement staff, headed by NCAA enforcement director David Berst.

Midland High's Sam Perry heads for the finish line in the butterfly event in double dual swim meet action Tuesday against Midland Lee and San Angelo.

Midland High boys and girls win duel swimming titles

From Staff Reports

Midland High School won both the boys and girls District 4-5A duel meet swim titles by splashing to victories over San Angelo and Midland Lee at Mabee Pool Tuesday night.

Midland's girls defeated Lee, 60-20, and San Angelo, 56-46, while the boys edged Lee, 45-39, and took San Angelo's measure, 48-33.

Nate Neatherlin and Allan Gruzins finished one-two in the diving for Midland while the 200-medley relay team took two firsts with its 1:45.85 while Midland Lee's 400-free relay team also was a double winner on a time of 3:35.77.

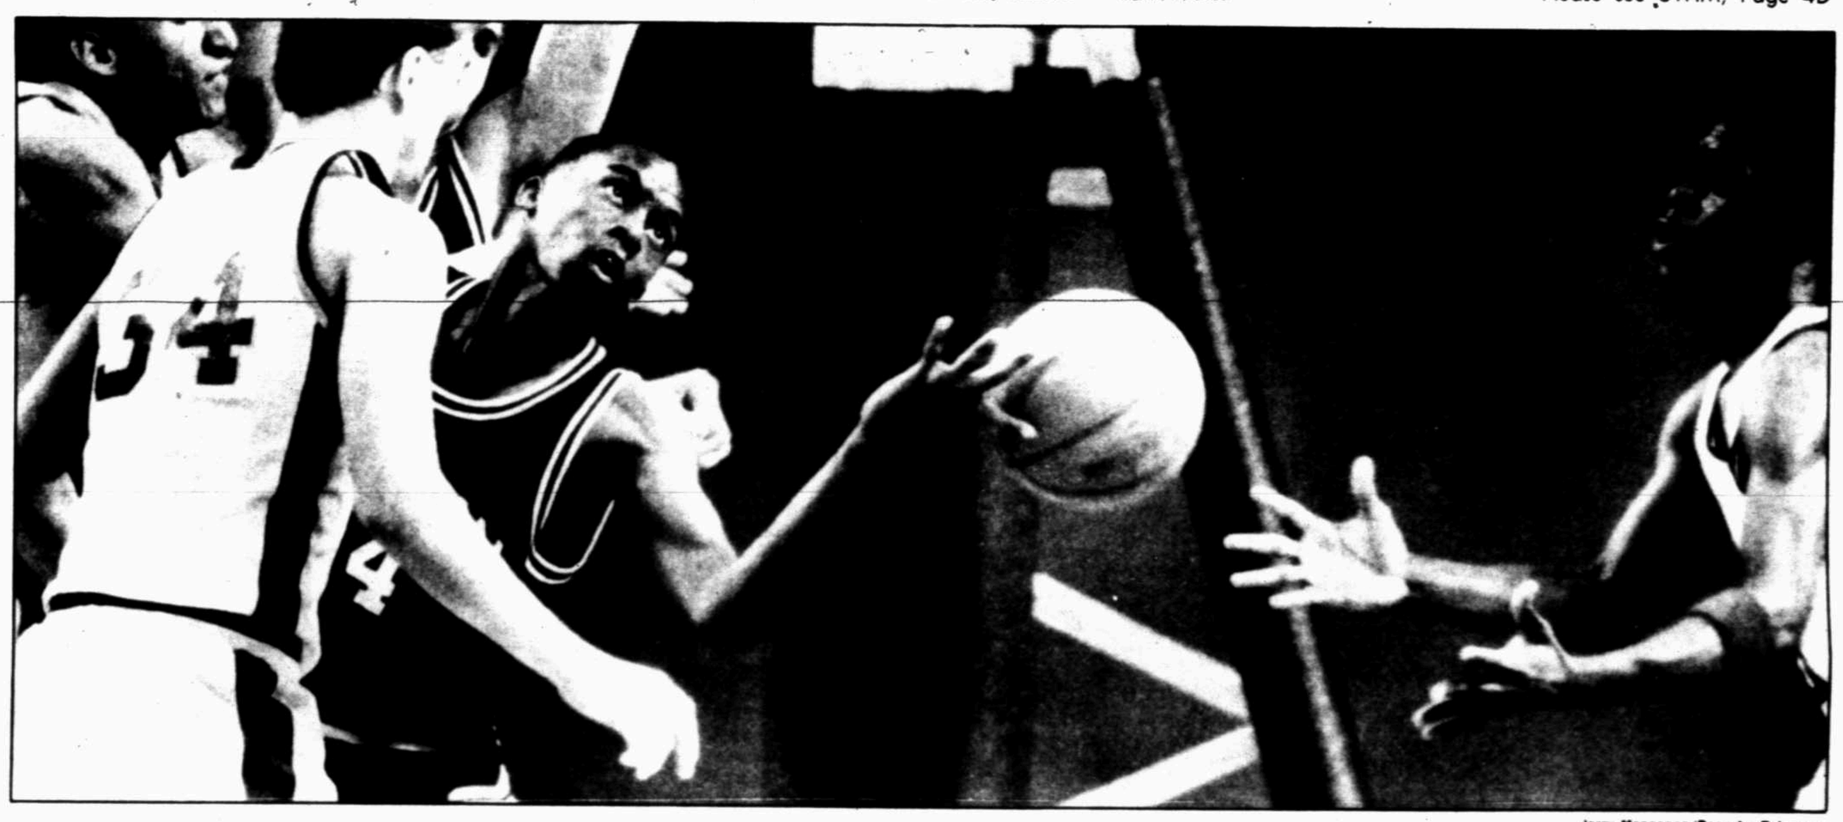

Michaela Hasek led the Midland girls with victories in the 50-free and 100-free on times of 25.77 and 1:14.75, respectively. Hasek also swam the opening leg on the 200-medley relay, which took two firsts in 2:00.57.

The District 4-5A swim meet will be next on the schedule and will be held in Midland this year at the COM pool Feb. 21.

The regional meet will be at Texas Tech in Lubbock in early March.

Odessa Permian's Lance Watkins (34) flips the ball from under the basket toward Midland High's Varrick McDonald Tuesday in District 4-5A action at Chap Center.

Permian moves another step closer to 4-5A title

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

District 4-5A defending champion Odessa Permian moved another step closer to a second straight league title Tuesday night, using a quick start and the 30-point effort of Lance Watkins for a 72-63 victory over Midland High at Chaparral Center.

The 7-1 Panthers own a comfortable but insecure 1½-game lead over San Angelo, 5-2, while Abilene Cooper is on the bubble 2½ games back at 4-3. Midland High, Midland Lee and Odessa High are out of the running at 3-5.

"We'll be at least 1½ games ahead of San Angelo after tonight," said Permian head coach Charles Pattillo before knowing San Angelo posted an 87-74 victory over Abilene High.

With only four games left to play, the Panthers can clinch a playoff berth with two victories but can only lock down the title by going undefeated.

THE PANTHERS didn't waste much time in putting a comfortable margin between themselves and Midland High. The Bulldogs took early 2-0 and 4-2 leads only to watch Watkins start a spree of first half scoring they couldn't match.

Watkins scored Permian's first bucket, tied the game at four on an 18-foot jumper, added two layups and two free throws for 10 first quarter points and a 20-10 Mojo lead.

He was even hotter in the second, hitting three field goals and 5-of-6 free throws for 11 more points as the Panther margin increased to 40-28.

Though his shooting slowed down, missing all three third quarter buckets, Watkins was still hurting the Bulldogs as he again hit 5-of-6 free

ODESSA — Coach Keith Thompson is beginning to see a silver lining around a season that has been anything but a dream for the Odessa High Bronchos.

Against Midland Lee Tuesday night, that meant a 59-52 shot to the ribs in a season that has the Rebels already knocked out of playoff contention.

For the Bronchos, the playoffs are no closer, but with wins in three of its last four games — two of three in district — the young Bronchos have given Thompson new life.

"It's encouraging, we start three juniors, and it's something to look forward to," Thompson said.

The Bronchos, now 3-5, 9-19, are small, but their leaping ability and quickness has given Lee, and several other teams in the district fits. Tuesday, it was Ed Rheams and Tracy Blaylock with 14 points, and Victor Dancer's 13 points that led the way.

But it was their free throw shooting that was making it impossible for Lee to gain ground in the final period. OHS sank six-of-eight charity tosses down the stretch to protect a lead that was only one point as the quarter began.

Lee's Nicky Sanchez nearly brought the Rebels back from seven points down singlehandedly with less than three minutes to play. First, the junior point guard buried a 20-foot bomb to make it 51-46. Then after an OHS basket, Sanchez hit a pair of free throws, and on the in-bounds, stole a pass at halfcourt and was driving for a lay up, but was fouled.

INSTEAD OF the possible three-point play, Sanchez' lay up spun off the rim, then both free throws bounced away. Even a 22-foot Sanchez jumper 20 seconds later couldn't bring the Rebels back in it as OHS was too consistent from the line and too aggressive on the boards.

Although their tallest starter is junior Lorenzo Allen at 6-1, OHS matched Lee rebound for rebound, 28-28, despite Lee's size advantage. The Rebels start a pair of 6-5 posts in Mark Van Cott and Wes Watson.

And Watson, making just his second start since Mike Courtney left the team last week, was making the most of his opportunity. In the first quarter, Watson hit his first four shots on his way to 10 early points and a 17-10 Rebel lead.

But after that, Lee, 3-5, 11-4, never got in synch offensively and never matched that 17-point first quarter output.

AFTER THAT first quarter, the game's complexion changed. OHS relied on patience on offense and pressure on defense to throw the Rebels off balance.

"We tried to get more disciplined by slowing the offense down. I made them make three passes before they could shoot," Thompson said.

The discipline worked. OHS made up a seven-point first quarter deficit with patience and a balanced attack, outscoring the Rebs 15-8 for a 25-all tie at intermission.

"We missed some easy ones that could have really had them down," Anthony Pertile said.

"They started putting a lot of pressure on the ball and we never could get our offense going," explained Lee's Danny Allen in a hushed Rebel lockerroom.

In the junior varsity game, OHS avenged its only defeat in district play with a 65-58 decision over the Rebs. Lee's JV is now 6-2 on the season.

Conner regains Cup

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) — Dennis Conner, the man who lost the America's Cup, won it back today as Stars & Stripes completed a 4-0 sweep over Australia's Kookaburra III to raise Old Glory over the Auld Mug again.

It was sweet revenge for the 44-year-old San Diego sailor who dedicated three years of his life to reclaiming yachting's biggest prize, which he lost to Australia in 1983 at Newport, R.I.

Conner was the first American to lose the cup, which had been held by the New York Yacht Club since the schooner America won it in 1851.

"It's a great moment for America, a great moment for the Stars & Stripes team and a great moment for Dennis Conner," the victorious skipper said.

"My heart goes out to Iain Murray," he said of Kookaburra III's skipper, who was in the same position Conner was in three years ago — a loser of the cup.

'It's hard to explain, but it's a great day to be an American," said tactician Tom Whidden, who lost with Conner in '83. "I think we showed that not only are we the best nation technologically, but we have the sailors to go along with it."

"I'd like to say it was all skill, but we had the best boat."

Murray said he hoped the Australians could do in 1990 — when cup racing resumes — what a sign proclaimed as he sailed off on his final race: "What goes up must come down."

"He just had a bit more (speed) than we had," he said of Conner. "The boat just hasn't got what he's got, and that's it. We thought we were sailing better than we've ever sailed before."

Referring to his crew, Murray, 28, sailing in his first America's Cup series, said: "I think they realize they've been beaten by a better boat and a better team on this occasion, and they accept that.

"We're very happy. We're disappointed but happy," he said.

Conner received a message of congratulations from President Ronald Reagan via U.S. Ambassador Laurence William Lane Jr., in a telephone hookup.

Prime Minister Bob Hawke, who declared a national holiday when Australia won the cup, also phoned his congratulations to both sides. Hawke owes Reagan an Aussie bush hat for a bet he made with the president.

Chaps move into tie for first in WJCAC

From Staff Reports

Midland College climbed into a tie for first place in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference standings Monday, but the Chaps still aren't out of the woods.

South Plains College threw the WJCAC race into turmoil by defeating New Mexico Junior College, 95-85, at Levelland Monday night. That gives MC and NMJC 9-1 records and South Plains moves into second with a 7-2 mark.

"Both teams played well and it was a tough game with New Mexico Junior College leading most of the way," said SPC Coach Ron Maberry. "We didn't nudge ahead until the final two minutes, but once we did, they just seemed to crater. First, it was two points, then four, then eight...you know how those things go. But it was the type of game that could have gone either way."

Also lurking in the weeds is Howard College, which first lifted a lot of eyebrows by scaring the daylights out of MC at Midland three weeks ago, and then Monday beat the daylights out of Clarendon College, 144-88.

The loss may also tarnish the ranking of NMJC's No. 4 national ranking, leaving the Thunderbirds 21-2.

No. 5 MC gears up for Odessa College 7:30 p.m. at the Chap Center Thursday. It will be Kent Oil night. Free tickets for the game are available at all Kent locations with any purchase.

After that the 21-1 Chaps head for the return game with NMJC at Hobbs, N.M., Monday night and then another road trip to Howard College next Thursday.

NMJC handed Midland its lone defeat of the season.

But, not willing to roll over and die, the Bulldogs quickly pulled within 10 as Eric Freeman and Kelly Sloan found the range from college three-point land for a pair of baskets each while Jim Pannell, Tim Christensen and Greg Arrell worked in close in a 14-6 spurt.

MHS closed even closer with 2:42 left to play when Arrell followed a 10-footer with a pair of free throws for a 66-56 lead.

Answering the call, Watkins broke the MHS press defense for an easy bucke and Robert Giddens sealed the Bulldogs' fate with two underneath shots and a free throw for the final 72-63 score.

WATKINS' EFFORT matched his career high, which came in a 30-point night against the Bulldogs in Permian's gym in the second district game of the season.

Midland High coach Jack Stephenson, who is suffering his worst coaching year since coming to Midland High, said, "He's a good player and Permian is playing well. They're playing a lot better now than they did earlier. For one thing, their transition game is working well."

While Watkins was busy putting up big numbers, Giddens added another 12 and Todd Evans 10. For the Bulldogs, only Kyle Lusby broke the magical double figure barrier, hitting for 12 points.

With the district lead in hand, the Panthers return home Friday night to host cross-town rival Odessa High. Midland High travels to San Angelo where all of Permian's fans would love to see the Bulldogs come out on top. An MHS victory would all but clinch the crown for Mojo.

TED BATTLES

Grace play brings attention back to MC

Battles

Ricky Grace may wind up doing as much for the reputation of Midland College as Spud Webb has done and Ricky isn't even 5-7.

Webb went from MC to gain national exposure at North Carolina State and last year became the darling of the fans by winning the NBA's slam dunk contest during the all-star break.

Spud's career seemed to take off after that. His playing time with the Atlanta Hawks increased and in the playoffs, it was Webb who made the Hawks-Celtics series interesting.

AND NOW Grace is following in Webb's collegiate footsteps and drawing attention to himself, despite his handicap.

It's easy to attract attention and draw koodoos when Al McGuire can chortle, "Here comes the PT boat" when you are 5-7. AT 6-2, just like everybody else, you've got to find another way to grab the public's lapels.

Grace has done it by breaking into the Oklahoma lineup and running the offense as a junior college-transfer. The Bob Costas announcing team for Saturday's game with NC State made note of that, pointing out it's unusual for a juco guard to fit right in on a major college team that enjoys a national ranking without a half year or year to learn the system.

A FEW days ago, Grace deflected a shot to insure a win over Kansas. Saturday, after NC State had crept to within five of the Sooners after trailing by 20 at half, Grace went inside to convert a three-point play that restored OU's momentum.

Costas offered the fact that Grace had broken Webb's assist record at Midland Junior College in making a point that this kid was something out of the ordinary.

In a word, Costas reached the essence of Grace's game. If one tried to dwell on the 26-point scoring effort, Grace would point out that he actually set up more points with assists.

GRACE, IN that respect, was a lot like Pete LaCock of the old Midland Cubs. Pete lived to lead the Texas League in triples. Ricky would rather have an assist than a point.

Saturday's OU-NC State game almost matched former MC players in a game. Six-nine Teviin Binns and Grace were teammates at MC two years ago, but Binns never got into Saturday's game for the Wolfpack.

This hasn't been a good year for Binns, a senior. When he has been in action, that delicate touch from either side is conspicuous by its absence. Maybe it's because he hasn't beefed up, bulked out like it had been hoped.

THE MERE fact that North Carolina State and Oklahoma were playing Saturday makes you wonder about the lip service given academics on the major college level.

The Wolfpack is fairly typical. State not only plays in one of the toughest leagues in the nation, but last weekend was playing Kansas in Kansas City and this week OU at Raleigh. Monday night NC State played at DePaul.

As much as one may enjoy the excitement of watching big name teams on the tube, you don't have to be an educator to recognize the incongruities of the student-athlete sham.

With the TV exposure beckoning and sellout crowds cramming 15-20,000 seat arenas to watch, these kids are making too much money for their colleges to waste their time in the class room.

Celtic' Scott Wedman faces heel surgery; out for season

BOSTON (AP) — Forward Scott Wedman, who started the National Basketball Association season with Celtics on the injured list and played in just six games, faces surgery that is expected to keep him out for the rest of the season, the team reported.

The club said Wedman, 34, was to undergo surgery today to remove a small cyst in his left heel bone. The surgery will be done by Dr. Robert Leach at University Hospital in Boston.

The 6-foot-7 Wedman has experienced chronic Achilles tendinitis in the same area that required surgery last summer.

FOOTBALL— The Atlanta Falcons named defensive coordinator Marion Campbell head coach, ending a six-week nationwide search that began after the firing of Dan Henning. Campbell, 57, who returned to the Falcons last season as defensive coordinator, is back for his second try as Atlanta's head coach. He was fired in 1976 after compiling a 6-19 record in parts of three NFL seasons...

In Atlanta, a federal judge upheld a Douglas County High School senior's claim that pre-game prayers at school games are unconstitutional. The case arose last fall when Doug Jager, an 18-year-old member of the marching band, objected to the prayers, claiming they were in violation of separation of church and state. Jager describes himself as generally agnostic...

Fired Chicago Bears GM Jerry Vainisi met last month with Detroit Lions GM Russ Thomas to talk about a job, but said no offer came out of the meeting...

An international American football tournament, featuring teams from 16 nations, will be held in Australia next year, the Australian American Football League announced. Teams from the United States, New Zealand, Japan, Great Britian, Switzerland, Austria, The Netherlands, West Germany, France, Belgium, Italy, Finland, Canada, Western Samoa and South Korea would be invited to compete in the three-week tournament...

After interrupting his drug treatment program to play in the AFC championship game and Super Bowl, Denver Broncos TE Clarence Kay is back at a California drug rehabilitation center, finishing his final two weeks of a six-week program for chemical dependency...

GENERAL— Ron Franklin, Houston's longest-running sports anchor, will leave KPRC-TV to become the full-time voice of University of Texas sports. "I'll do all their play-by-play work, plus the coaches' shows, and I'll be starting my own production company. When you're in my business, this is what you ultimately want to do," Franklin said...

HOCKEY— Edmonton center Wayne Gretzky, who collected 35 points in 14 games, is NHL Player of the January, the second consecutive month he won the honor. Gretzky had 10 goals and 25 assists in leading the Oilers to a 10-2-2 record...

The NHL said it erred in its announcement that Los Angeles Kings Coach Pat Quinn had been barred from coaching in the league until the 1990-91 season. The announcement should have said Quinn was suspended only from coaching the Vancouver Canucks until that season, and not from coaching other teams...

BASKETBALL— SWC named SMU's Kato Armstrong and Texas' Beverly Williams as men's and women's players of the week. Armstrong averaged 27.5 points, 3.5 assists and shot 65.6 from the field in helping SMU to a 1-1 week in SWC play. Williams was instrumental in leading UT to a pair of victories over Houston and Rice...

Hawks pluck Celtics in OT

Associated Press

The Atlanta Hawks needed a pick-me-up before the All-Star break and they got it from Dominique Wilkins.

Five days before making his first start in an All-Star game, Wilkins scored 41 of his 54 points after halftime Tuesday as the Hawks defeated the Boston Celtics 126-123 in overtime.

"We really needed this one," said Kevin Willis, who had 18 points and 21 rebounds for the Hawks. "We needed to win a big game and a close game. We played smart; we played hard. We needed to win one going into the All-Star break, to finish on an up note."

NBA

Nuggets 107, Rockets 105

Denver got 26 points, 14 rebounds and 11 assists from Lafayette Lever — his 10th triple-double of the season — and Houston lost All-Star starting forward Ralph Sampson for six weeks with a left knee injury. Sampson suffered the injury to his left knee in the first quarter and will miss Sunday's All-Star game in Seattle.

Knicks 110, Bucks 109

New York won in Milwaukee for the first time since 1983 and snapped a seven-game losing streak behind Patrick Ewing's 30 points. Gerald Wilkins' 24.

Bulls 98, Bullets 91

Jazz 101, Kings 95

Spurs 111, Warriors 103

San Antonio won its sixth straight, beating Golden State behind Artis Gilmore's 24 points and 18 rebounds and David Greenwood's 18 points and career-high 23 rebounds.

76ers 99, Pacers 94

Blazers 117, Suns 103

Top speakers address Medicine Symposium

Cochran

The Medicine Symposium that will be presented by Physician and Surgeons Hospital at the Midland Center Saturday. The speakers, who are all nationally known for their contributions to sports medicine and literary, are coming from all over the United States.

A tremendous effort has been made to develop a very special program for this symposium. Instead of delving into medical minutia, we are going to lay the foundation for a true understanding of Sports Medicine as well as applied sports physiology and biomechanics.

Bob Goldman, D.O., will be starting the symposium with a discussion of sports and drugs. He is probably the world's expert on this topic. Not only is he the chief physician in the AAU, but he heads a 131-nation commission on drugs and sports. By the way, he is also a world class athlete.

Sir John Golding, M.D., is joining us from Jamaica. He is the chairman of the Department of Orthopedics at the University Hospital of the West Indies and is their Chief Olympic physician. He received his knighthood for his contributions is sports medicine. He will be discussing sports injuries in children.

From the Cooper Clinic, Aerobic Center in Dallas, Arnie Jenson, M.D., will be discussing several topics, including "What is Sports Medicine," "The Difference Between Aerobic and Anaerobic Exercise," and "techniques in Designing Fitness Programs."

The chief athlteic trainer from the University of Oklahoma, Dan Pickett, M.S., A.T.C., will be presenting the topic, "The Realm of a Sports Trainer." He will also conduct a breakout session for trainers.

Coach Pete Martinelli, strength coach from OU, and Sam Claphan, first string right guard for the San Diego Chargers, will be discussing "Techniques in Designing Body Building Programs." They will also assist in the Coaches Breakout Session.

With all of the brains and brawn, we added Vicki Baily, C.F.I., from the Greenhouse Spa of Fort Worth. She is a beautiful, intelligent lady who happens to be a certified fitness instructor. In addition, she is a member of the American Academy of Sports Medicine. Her topic is "Techniques in Designing Aerobic Fitness Programs."

St. Louis Cardinals Coach Gene Stallings will be presenting one of the most important topics of the symposium, "Coaching to Prevent Injury." He will be aided in his discussion by former Dallas Cowboy Charlie Waters. Together they will also conduct the breakout session for the coaches.

We are pleased to have B.K. Khandelwal, M.D., and P.V. Patel, M.D., both of Midland, who will be conducting the physicians breakout sessions. They will be presenting topics germaine to anyone involved in sports medicine either as an athlete or health professional.

As course coordinator, I have attempted to put togehter the most exciting and informative sports symposium possible. We started by designing a comprehensive program that touches on all basic aspects of sports medicine from drug use to physiology to injury prevention.

Secondly, we have produced contributions to this field. Initially, this conference was designed for continuing medical education for doctors, coaches and trainers. However, the public response has been so significant that P and S Hospital Board has decided to open the meeting to the public.

Early blast fails to halt anti-nuclear protesters

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Disarmament activists are vowing to go ahead with a mass demonstration Thursday after being caught off guard by a U.S. nuclear test blast that was conducted despite a Soviet threat to end its test moratorium.

Protesters said Tuesday's detonation, the nation's first of the year, was moved up from Thursday because of their planned rally to coincide with the test.

Energy Department spokesman Chris West said protests were considered in moving the test up, "but the one overwhelming factor is that we were ready to do the test."

"It is our policy that we conduct a test as soon as it is ready. We schedule tests weeks and months in advance, and we change many," West said.

Despite Tuesday's test, the anti-nuclear activists said they would go through plans for Thursday's demonstration near the test site. Actor Martin Sheen and scientist Carl Sagan are among those expected to attend.

"There are people already on their way to Las Vegas for the rally," said Tom Lynch, an organizer for the American Peace Test. "We believe greater numbers of Americans will now make the pilgrimage to Nevada."

The test, conducted 700 feet beneath the surface of Yucca Flat, about 86 miles northwest of Las Vegas, was the 660th announced blast since testing began in the Nevada desert on Jan. 27, 1951. Not all tests are announced.

There were five protesters near the test site gates, more than 20 miles from ground zero when the test, code-named Hazebrook, was conducted, said Energy Department spokesman Jim Boyer.

The Soviet Union has said it would end a unilateral test moratorium after the first U.S. test in 1987. The United States has announced more than 20 underground nuclear tests since the Soviet moratorium began in 1985.

House leaders' fancy footwork pays off

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders used fancy parliamentary footwork to give themselves and 3,000 high-level government officials substantial pay raises while still casting a symbolic vote against it.

The House leadership deliberately delayed a vote on the controversial raise past last night's midnight deadline when it automatically took effect, thereby throwing into question the validity of a vote expected today.

No matter what ultimately happens to the $12,100-a-year increase for members of Congress and to the increases for federal officials, federal judges appeared almost sure of having the increase stick for them.

The Constitution says once a judge's salary is raised it cannot be lowered, although that, too, could be open to court interpretation since the rejection is likely to come before the increase actually takes effect, March 1.

Denouncing the tactics which allowed the raise to take effect without an up-or-down vote, Rep. Tom Petri, R-Wis., said, "The House leadership acted like a thief in the night, skulking away with its ill-gotten gains."

House Democratic Whip Tony Coelho of California said the House would pass Senate-approved legislation today to give $50 million to the homeless as well as disapprove the pay raise — but too late to stop it. The Senate attached the pay raise rejection as an amendment to the homeless bill.

Rep. Connie Mack, R-Fla., said, "Every member is going to get a chance to vote against the pay raise, and it doesn't mean anything."

The House had searched at length for a way to secure a raise for lawmakers, setting their pay at $89,500 annually — up from $77,400 — after the Senate disapproved the increase last week and then forced House action by tying the sensitive issue to homeless aid.

Under the law, both the House and Senate would have had to disapprove the increase by midnight Tuesday to keep it from taking effect.

When House Majority Leader Thomas Foley, D-Wash., motioned for adjournment, opponents quickly called for a vote but lost 221-17. Mack tried to force a roll call vote on the adjournment, but presiding officer Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Md., pounded his gavel and refused to recognize Mack.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the maneuver "added treachery to their arrogant and avaricious behavior," and warned that the public outcry would force Congress to relent.

SDI deployment's status unclear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says no deployment of the space-based "Star Wars" program is likely soon.

Despite rapid progress in anti-missile research, President Reagan probably will not face a decision this year on whether to deploy the first phase of the controversial system, Shultz testified Tuesday.

He appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee immediately after attending a top-level meeting with Reagan on arms control at the White House.

While Shultz refused to say what advice he had offered, he told uneasy senators: "There has been no decision made about deployment of any kind."

But Senate Republican leader Bob Dole offered reporters a different impression after Reagan met with GOP congressional leaders.

"I think the president supports at least the deployment of an early phase," the Kansan said. "I would conclude from that he must feel that we can do that without getting in the way of arms control."

Star Wars, known formally as the Strategic Defense Initiative, is based on the theory that lasers, X-rays and other futuristic technology could shield the United States from Soviet missiles.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev has denounced Star Wars as an acceleration of the arms race and refused to conclude agreements to reduce U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons unless Reagan agrees to restrictions.

Parental leave faces Senate fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill guaranteeing unpaid leaves to new parents is likely to overcome opposition in the House, but Senate sponsors anticipate a hard time converting their colleagues to the idea.

The Family and Medical Leave Act would require businesses with 15 or more employees to offer up to 18 weeks of job-protected leave over a two-year period to parents of newborn, newly adopted or seriously ill children. Seriously ill employees could take up to 26 weeks over a 12-month period.

"It's tougher over here. Business always does better in the Senate," Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said Tuesday after a news conference.

Dodd and Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., sponsors of the Senate bill, said it would take educational efforts on their part and lobbying by supporters to overcome opposition from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the Reagan administration.

The House version would also allow 18 weeks of leave to care for a seriously ill parent — a provision Dodd said he'd have "a terrible time" getting into the Senate version.

PHILADELPHIA TODAY

CONFEDERATION TODAY

William Samuel Johnson mentioned that it was very cold in New York. He dined at the Temples.

DELEGATES TODAY

George Washington's weather report for Mount Vernon: "24 in the Morning, 30 at Noon and 34 at Night. The wind shifted to the West blew very hard and turned cold."

By letter today, the general provided Henry Lee with his specifications for selecting a bricklayer slave needed that summer at Mount Vernon:

"It is not my wish to be your competitor in the purchase of any of Mr. Hunters tradesmen: especially as I am in a great degree principled against increasing my number of Slaves by purchase and suppose moreover that Negroes sold on credit will go high. yet if you are not disposed to buy the bricklayer which is advertized for Sale, for your own use, find him in the vigour of life, from report a good workman and of tolerable character and his price does not exceed one hundred, or a few more pounds, I should be glad if you would buy him for me. I have much work in this way to do this Summer. If he has a family, with which he is to be sold; or from whom he would reluctantly part I decline the purchase, his feelings I would not be the means of hurting in the latter case ,nor at any rate to be incumbered with the former."

LOOKING BACK

Slavery

For the eight Pennsylvania delegates to the Federal Convention, slavery was on the wane. Pennsylvania's Gradual Abolition of Slavery Act of March 1, 1780, while something of a fluke and limited in its effectiveness, represented the first abolition law in America.

Quakers and other Christian groups in the Philadelphia area had long been working simultaneously against the institution and for improved conditions for free blacks. The Revolution brought inflation and social disruption which helped make the ownership of slaves in Pennsylvania less economically viable.

Nevertheless, three of the eight Philadelphians in the Pennsylvania delegation — Robert Morris, James Wilson, and Thomas Fitzsimons — each owned a domestic slave. They represented a shrinking and tiny minority in their state, for by 1790 Pennsylvania's census showed only 0.86 percent of the population as slaves.

Most of the slave-owning delegates lived in the four southern states of Virginia, North and South Carolina, and Georgia. In the Deep South, slaves were considered the keystones of the economy; without them plantation life would collapse.

Among the most outspoken among the Southerners who defended slavery were John Rutledge and Charles Pinckney of South Carolina.

Rutledge, however, felt a personal ambivalence toward slave ownership. Already in 1787 he was preparing to free some of his own blacks while arguing firmly in the convention for the right to recognize and indeed perpetuate the institution.

This ambivalence, evident with many delegates, slaveowners or no, was particularly strong among the Virginians. Thomas Jefferson perhaps had set the example in 1776 by trying to write an anti-slavery clause into the Declaration of Independence.

James Madison and George Mason, both slave-owning plantation owners, argued in the convention for the inclusion of a clause restricting the future importation of slaves into the country.

Ambivalence came in many forms for the slave-holding Virginians. Washington, by his will, freed his slaves and tried to provide them with some financial assistance in their new freedom.

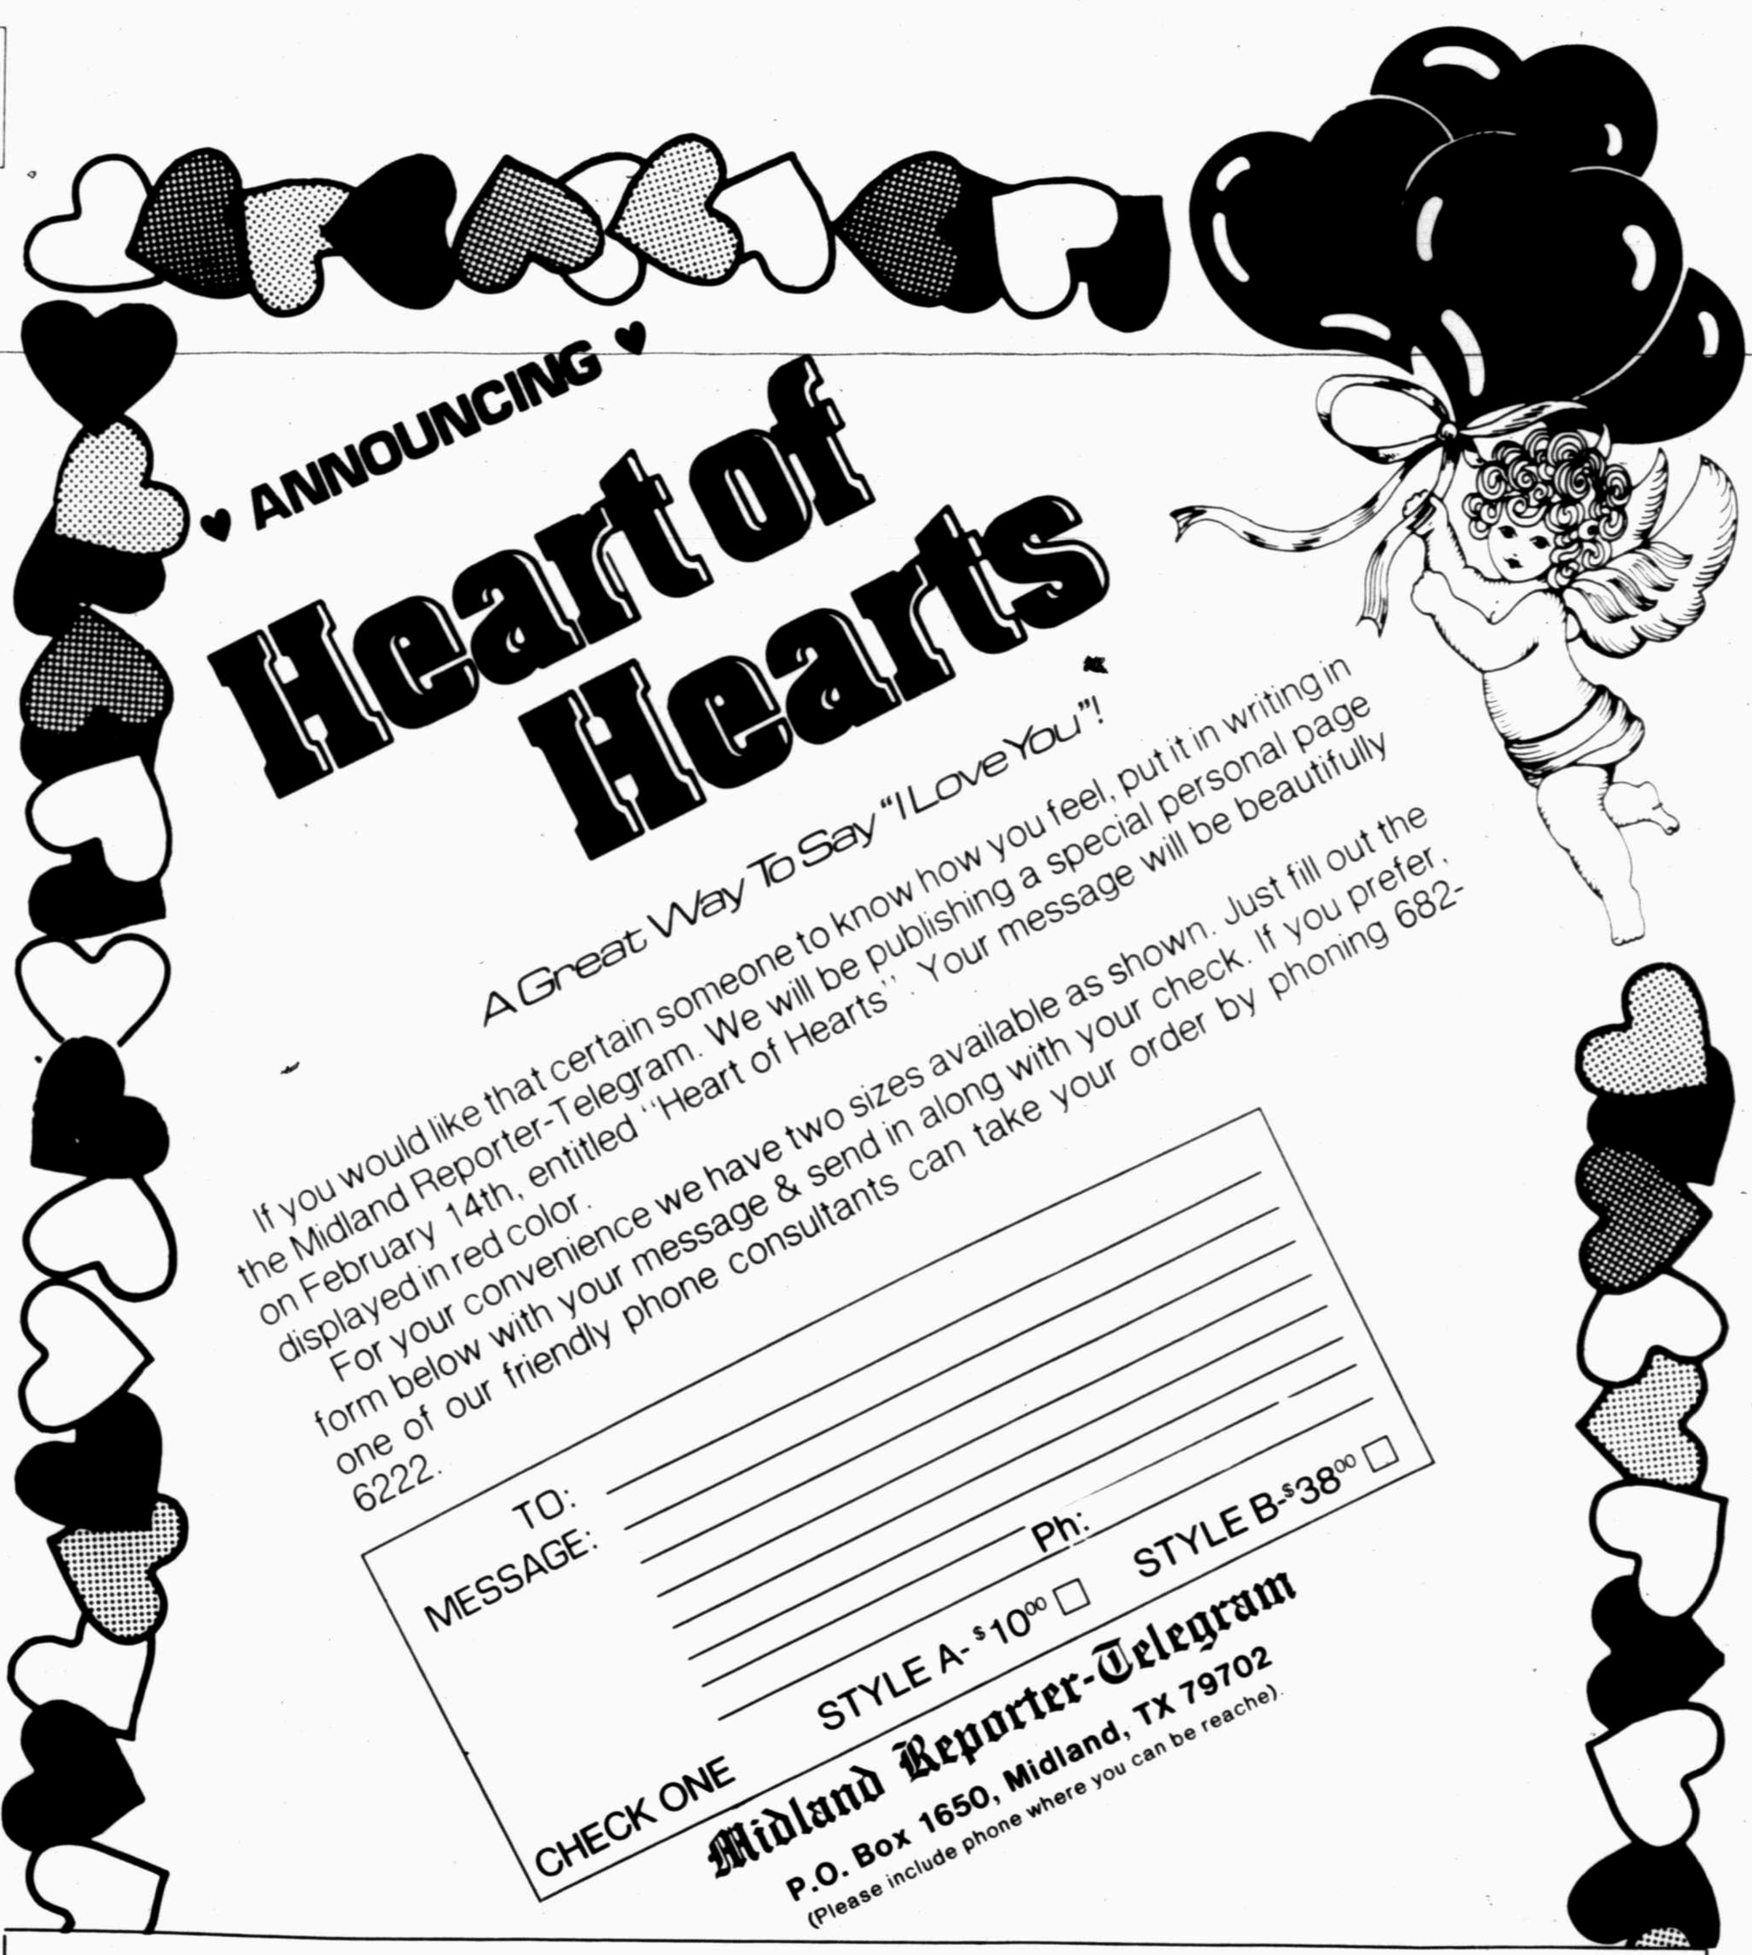

Madison, in later life, decided the answer to the problem was to re-colonize freed slaves in Africa and he set up an organization which unsuccessfully promoted this plan.

None of the solutions for slavery were satisfactory, nor simple. It was an entrenched institution, one embraced by many, if not most, with only half a heart, until the Civil War finally settled the issue once and for all.

Mother's concerns quadruple

DENVER (AP) — A woman who gave birth to quadruplets conceived through a nonsurgical in vitro fertilization procedure in a doctor's office said Tuesday her first order of business is to buy baby supplies.

"I had to go on bed rest so early in the pregnancy, it seemed too early to go out and start buying things," said Dixie Schock, 36, meeting reporters for the first time since the Jan. 19 birth.

NATION IN BRIEF

AIDS testing draws fire

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal agency's proposal for mandatory AIDS tests for anyone admitted to a hospital and even for couples seeking marriage licenses "would drive the disease underground," a medical ethicist says.

Civil libertarians also condemned the tentative U.S. Centers for Disease Control proposal, saying screening would violate fundamental rights to privacy.

Dr. Walter Dowdle, the agency's AIDS director, said Tuesday's proposal and a public hearing later this month were a way to "explore issues related to using the test to prevent further infection."

But Carol Levine, who researches ethical issues related to AIDS at the Hastings Center in Hastings-on-Hudson, N.Y., said such screening would "drive the disease underground by driving people away from the setting in which they could get the needed treatment and help."

WILLIAMSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A minister says he plans to distribute condoms at services Sunday to help make people more aware of AIDS.

"In view of the fact that experts have warned us that in the next few years the AIDS epidemic could make the Black Plague and the bubonic plague pale by comparison, churches should take the lead in educating the public on this life-or-death issue," said the Rev. Carl F. Titchener of the 300-member Unitarian Universalist Church of Amherst in this Buffalo suburb.

Parents will decide if their children should remain at the service while the condoms are distributed, he said.

Witnesses name bartender

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A U.S. attorney said he has 13 witnesses who allege bartender Jose Francisco Rivera Lopez incited others to start the Dupont Plaza Hotel fire that killed 96 people on New Year's Eve.

Rivera Lopez pleaded innocent Tuesday in U.S. District Court to a federal charge of "procuring," or instigating, arson. Judge Justo Arenas denied bail.

U.S. Attorney Daniel Lopez Romo told the court he had 13 witnesses who had testified to incitement by Rivera Lopez before the fire started at the hotel, which was having labor problems.
