

OUR FIRST TRIP TO CEDAR LAKE IN GAINES COUNTY

After Spending 22 Years Within 32 Miles of One of Nature's Wonders, A Visit is Made to It. Considerable Scrap With Indians Once Took Place on Its Banks.

We have lived within 30 miles of Cedar Lake in Gaines county for the past 22 years, and last Sunday afternoon was the first time that we ever visited this, one of nature's wonders. The water and family were accompanied on the trip by Claude Haggard and Kyle Graves and families. Leaving town after church, the lake was not reached until nearly 3 p. m., and when dinner was finally spread it was a hungry bunch that devoured food by the bunch. Let us say right here that the ladies had prepared a very fine repast for the occasion Sunday and Sunday morning.

All the cooking that had to be done after reaching the lake was frying the hams, boiling the coffee and warming up the beef roast. Other dishes consisted of salads, pickles, bread, pie and cakes. A big cream can was made up into lemonade, and three thermos bottles furnished all the ice cold water that was needed. When the lake was reached, two cars were run side and side about ten feet apart and a large tarpaulin stretched from one to another which furnished a good shade, as the sun was certainly coming down about that time. Later in the afternoon the sun went behind clouds and it became cooler. Max, that was some dinner—or lunch—it took us about all the afternoon to shake it down.

The afternoon was spent in climbing bluffs, seeing other sections of the lake, and gathering geological specimens, of which there are many about the lake. All kinds of shells around that are found on the shores. A flint rock is also found here, which is white with a beautiful blue coloring that make it appear a clear lake, if not a pure granite. Cedar grow profusely on the shore, especially the north shore, which probably accounts for the name, as cedars growing naturally in this section are rare.

The lake cover several sections of land, and while it does not appear to have any water in it at present, the sand is damp, caused probably from having so much salt in the seeping springs which surround the lake. It is estimated that it is from 40 to 45 miles around the lake. Anyway, it is a whopper. It is believed by many that if collages would make a thorough investigation of the lake that they would likely find considerable specimen of prehistoric animals and probably fish embedded in the lake, cliffs and canyons about.

About the first historical incident connected with the lake known to white people is said to have happened on this lake somewhere in the late 70's or 80's. At that time there were no white settlements this side of Brown county, until the building of the Texas & Pacific into Abilene. It seems that a bunch of Indians stole a lot of horses from Settlers in that section and started northwest with them. A company of white men followed and came upon the Indians in camp at Cedar Lake at a spring of drinkable water. This spring is, we understand still in existence somewhere in the southern end of the lake. A battle was fought, and the Indians had to leave without water or the herd of stolen horses. It is thought they either perished or made it on through to the Pecos river in New Mexico. We do not remember what tribe they belonged to, but it seems that they were Comanches. We have heard old Uncle Billie Wilkins, who formerly lived in this section some 15 years or more ago talk about the matter. He hunted buffalo all over this section in the 70's.

Anyway, the lake formations, of this section are curiousities, and we believe that they all hold valuable minerals that will some time be developed. It is easy to see that they were once under water as was most of Texas. Perhaps the ocean proper came up to where the caprock now is, and that these lakes inland basins connected by rivers with the main ocean. At that time perhaps this entire section was covered by heavy timber and the climate was much more humid than now.

Orders Coming From Mexico For Chickens

While some of our people are ordering baby chicks and larger stock from the far north and east, people at as great distances are ordering chickens from Roton. Which is had business for our buyers, for they pay more for chicks, pay transportation and do not get the chicks in as good condition as they could here, where they can get as good stock as can be found anywhere. It is simply that peculiar trait outcropping, common to men and beasts. The fishing is always better on the other side of the creek, and a cow will break out of a good pasture to feed on poorer grazing.

Many orders have been coming to our hatcheries from great distances, one of the latest being an order to the Roton Hatchery from a party in Mexico, near Mexico City, who has been buying shipment of 300 young chicks.—Roton Advance.

A complicated traffic tangle was caused recently by a lady motorist who signalled that she was about to turn to the right and did so.

Some New Faces Seen At the Rotary Club

Ray Collier, of the furniture and undertaking department of the Brownfield Hardware Co., is now a full fledged member of the Rotary Club, taking his place with them at the last meeting. We are sure that Mr. Collier is going to make a good member, and always have a good attendance record. This is one thing that can be said of the club of late. While the membership has been cut down greatly from one cause or another, the attendance has been real good of late. One from Loveland club was in attendance to make up his record, and Homer Winston, former member, was on hand for an address, and we hope to have him numbered with us again before long.

As stated above, the main address for the occasion was delivered by Homer Winston, our district clerk. He has just recently returned from a trip to East Texas, where he went in company with Sheriff Mont Telford and family, to Bowie county, where Homer says Mont has about two hundred kin folks, some farmers and some merchants, and that they had a fine time fishing and hunting. Homer took for his text, as it were, East Texas.

He stated at the outset that he had been reading the Herald for about 22 years, and had always had abiding faith in what it said, and that from reading it he had gleaned the information that we were several years, perhaps a generation or two ahead of those people in progress, but he found that they were equal to us and in some instances ahead of us. He cited the fact that they were up with us on live stock, poultry and dairy cows, and ahead on good roads over most of that section, but were not of course doing farming on the large scale of this section. He asked those people if they were mail ordering and found that they had quit that game ten years ago. That is one thing they are ten years ahead of us on. Asked why they quit ordering by mail, and a chorus of answers were they found they would soon have no towns close to them if they kept it up, and that they didn't care for such a condition to be wished on them. They had to have local markets, and if they put home people out of business it would be just too bad for their community.

Well, if the Herald has not told truth about East Texas, it is very sorry, but we find that Homer has no notion of making that his home anyway soon, at least. We believe he will stay with the sand storms while yet, and let the chiggers and mosquitoes go plunking. We acknowledge that we were not altogether satisfied with all his statements at the banquet, and visited Sheriff Mont in his office. The first question Mont asked us was, "Did Homer tell you why he got sick?" We knew that Homer and wife both came home sick, but he claimed it was bronchitis—yes, bronchitis—had a single of it last year about the same time. But this is what Mont told us:

Homer over ate himself. Had to hurry him to a chiropractor who said all the matter with Homer was that he still had about ten pounds of undigested cat fish in him that I'll have to roll out. You now have the other picture, readers.

Brownfield Girl Wins High Prize at Tech

Many of our Terry county boys and girls are making records of which we can all feel proud while here at home in the grades and high school, and two, many of them are making high scores, and invariable high points in their contests at schools and colleges after they leave home. The latest one we have heard of is Miss Edna Brock, of the Union Community. Miss Brock did most of her grade and high school work at Union, but graduated here with the class of 1930. She entered Tech College, Lubbock, as a freshman last fall.

Miss Brock is the daughter of Com. and Mrs. L. L. Brock, of the Union community, and has always made good grades in her school work. She is taking a course in Home Economics at Tech along with her other studies. The Pan Hellenic society last fall offered as a prize of $40 in gold to the freshman student that made the highest grade in home economics. Miss Brock won and has the shining gold to prove it. She has a $20 piece and two $10 pieces. Miss Brock had lots of competition, and of course had to work hard, but she dug down in her studies and won.

The Herald feels proud of this accomplishment of Miss Edna Brock, with her parents and many friends, and we feel sure she will make her influence felt for good in the community when her school work is complete. Let's all press on to a high mark of our calling.

Urge Substitution of Cotton For Jute

Austin, Texas, June.—In a letter to J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, the belief was expressed by W. J. Walker, cotton agency prior to New Orleans, that jute holds the "balance of power" in arriving at the price of cotton.

Walker cited figures from Louisville, Kentucky, cotton manufacturer and selling agent of New York city, that to replace jute with cotton in its many uses as burlap bags and bagging would increase the consumption of American cotton in America by 1,500,000 bales a year.

"The farmer will have to start housecleaning at home, by covering his cotton with cotton bagging, by demanding his fertilizer sacked in cotton sacks," Walker declared. "Positively no cotton can be had in producing increased use of cotton when the farmer uses jute."

"Cotton bagging and cotton sacks are available, and if the farmer will demand them, half the battle will be won."

"Just suppose that six years ago we had stopped importation of jute into this country, or had refrained from using it for any purpose. We would have consumed about nine million bales or more of cotton in that period, and there would be a cotton famine now instead of the largest surplus in the history of the south."

Walker is making a speaking tour in Mississippi, in company with J. C. Hobbs, commissioner of agriculture of that state.

NO MORE CIRCULARS DISTRIBUTED AFTER 19TH

City Council Voted Unanimously to Stop the Practice. Will Be Means of Stopping Them From Other Towns. Nothing in the Ordinance to Hinder Mailing Them.

The City Council at the behest of the people themselves, are determined to keep the little city clean and free from unsightly circulars blowing around over the town, lodging against fences and houses, trees and vines to become a fire menace, as well as something to mar the otherwise beauty of our little city. It seems that some thought had to only confine the ordinance to the business section, but this would be hard to do, as the business and residential sections are converging and meeting from time to time, and will be for years. Besides, no household any more enjoys having her front yard matted up with circulars than the business man do their store fronts. So, to head off anything in this direction, the ordinance was made to cover the entire city.

There is nothing in the ordinance to forbid anyone from mailing all the circulars they want to, and those not wanted can be taken from the boxes in the post office and dumped in the waste basket, for that is usually what happens to them. As an ad in the Herald is the best place after all. While we'll admit that the Herald does not reach all families, for all families do not take any kind of paper—wouldn't it you gave it to them—but fully eighty percent do, and they are the best buying families in the county. Many of these families are right now making a sacrifice to keep the Herald in the family. Some of them have given full notes to cover their papers for this year. This shows that the Herald is appreciated in these families, and that it is the right buying guide. When you go into the Herald, it is a guarantee to you that it will not be shipped in the waste basket at the post office or anywhere else, but will go into the homes of 40 percent of the families of the county, and this 40 percent probably do 75 percent of the buying in this county.

And despite the depression and tight money matters, most of the home owned dry goods and grocery-men are keeping a good ad in the Herald most of the time. These men appreciate your business. Most of them own homes here or are preparing to own them in the future. Brownfield is the only town, and Terry county the only county they are interested in. They are for our schools, our churches, our farms and other business. They are helping to support your home paper, which in turn is trying to give you and your county publicity that will make it grow and prosper. These home men are not just here for what money there is here, but are for the up-building of the city and county above all other phases. You will find their names on the Chamber of Commerce list as officials and directors, on the city council and the board of trustees of our schools; members of the Rotary and Lions clubs.

This ordinance will not only keep the city clear of Brownfield circulars that can be reached better by an ad in the Herald or direct mail, but it will keep the streets clean of circulars brought in from other cities. This alone, will be worth all the ordinance will ever cost anyone, and the Herald takes this means of thanking the city council in complying so promptly with the demands of the people.

P. E. Pope of Alvarado Up to See His Land

Mr. P. E. Pope, of Alvarado, Texas, better known in that section as (Pete) was up this week looking after his two sections in the west side of the county. While here he paid a pleasant call with the Herald, and although brief, we were talking, and he said much in the few minutes he was here. He was accompanied by his son, Joe, of Dallas, who is employed by the Perkins wholesale dry goods house of that city, also, Dr. Lewis, wife and daughter, Miss Louise, of Dallas. After seeing the Pope place in west Terry, the party was to make a trip to the Caverns at Carlsbad, N. M.

Mr. Pope is a grocery merchant of Alvarado, and has been doing business in that city for many years. In fact, he was in business there when this writer landed in Johnson county from old Tennessee 11 years ago. Mr. Pope surely must be a successful grocery merchant, or he could not have stayed in the business that long. As he looks rather young yet, we have an idea that he has never worried much. While we have never known Mr. Pope very well ourselves, we have many mutual friends that tell us that he is a first square man.

In the short conversation, we could not help from reminiscing just a bit. He remembered that it was quite different making trips up here to what it was some 25 years ago when he first purchased his land up here. At that time, he boarded the M. K. & T. at his home town, changed to the T. & P. at Fort Worth, and next day found himself in Big Spring, still 110 lone miles from his destination. As early as possible he would catch a line car or hire one out here, and those days it took the old two-cylinder knockabouts from early morning till late at night to make Brownfield over the rattling patch-cut roads we had in those "good old days." We had about the same experience in coming out here 22 years ago. We left Big Spring at about nine in the morning in Jack Reed's line car, reached Lubbock in time for late lunch, and arrived in Brownfield just as the sun was down. We don't know why they called them "line cars" then; they were buses or stages now.

Mr. Pope said he and his family ran into Brownfield about 11 A. M. last night. He also handed out quite a compliment. Said he had a very fine bed and got a good rest, and that he found the very accommodating hotel. Pope said crops in the county to a late start, but were next. Corn, he said was

As many of the Legion men are Odd Fellows Legion men, this will be a hard game to become partners in, but you must have some choice. Come on out and enjoy a good game.

As a small crowd have hit the Tuesday section this week wiping out some $8,000 acres of growing crops and depriving three people. The Red Cross has been called on for help. They have made no crop for three years, and a new colony like them, and action most all worked out. He remembered that once had made a bumper crop and were bringing from 18 to 20c per bushel.

Death of Lamesa Boy Said to Be Accidental

Lamesa, June.—Belief that Jimmie Hunt, 17, who died here Friday morning from a gunshot wound in his head, was the victim of an accident, was expressed here today by members of his family and a number of his friends.

The youth was found lying on the floor of his room by his mother, Mrs. Charles Hunt, Friday morning in a dying condition. A .22 calibre bullet had pierced his brain. The small rifle was on the floor near him. Accuser's verdict had not been returned late today.

High in Forehead
Mrs. Hunt told acquaintances today that she believed her son's death was accidental. The bullet wound was high on his forehead in the edge of his hair much higher than it probably would have been had the shot been fired deliberately, she said.

"I had placed the rifle on a sewing machine in the room when I was cleaning house earlier in the morning," she said. "I believe Jimmie was taking the gun to its customary place in a corner of the room when it was accidentally discharged. He had just lit a cigarette when the shot was fired."

Had "Hair" Trigger
The rifle was known to have a "hair" trigger and was easily discharged, according to the boy's father.

Mrs. Hunt said her son was very cheerful when he talked to him shortly before he was wounded. He was planning to return to the printing office where he was employed when his mother left him, it was said.

Some of the youth's associates said they had noticed no unusual conduct on his part during the morning. He suggested out his program of work for the afternoon before he went to his home, they said.

Funeral services for the young man were held this afternoon at the Presbyterian church with Rev. Eugene Starbuck, pastor, officiating. Burial was in a Lamesa cemetery.

Young Hunt is survived by his parents, two sisters, Miss Mary Hunt, of Fort Worth, and Miss Joan Hunt, of Lamesa, and a brother, Jack Hunt, of Hale Center.

Miss Hale Badley Hurt Last Friday Night

We are sorry to report that Miss Hale, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Hale was very seriously hurt last Friday night while attending a swimme roast, presumably out at the sand hills. Our informant indicated that she was unconscious for some time after the accident and that it was feared she had fracture of the skull. We understand that it was a Sunday school class picnic.

It seems that she and some one else ran together, bumping heads in the semi-darkness, which so stunned her that she lost all control and pitched forward on her head on the hard ground. We hope she will soon have a complete recovery.

Holmes Elected Cashier Of the State Bank

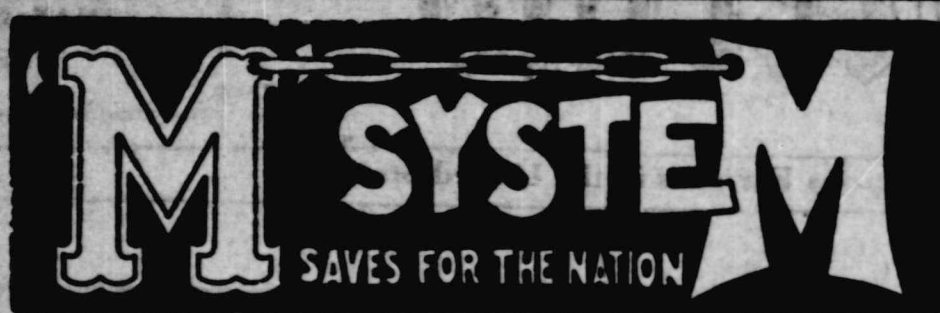

At a meeting of the directors of the Brownfield State Bank, at Brownfield, Leo Holmes who has served as assistant cashier of that institution for the past four years, was promoted to the position of cashier. This followed the recent death of Morgan Copeland, who served in that capacity.

The many friends of Leo Holmes around Seminole are indeed glad to see him honored with this promotion. He started his banking career with the local bank about six years ago, and until going to the above bank had resided continuously in this community where he grew to manhood. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Holmes who reside six miles west of Seminole.—Seminole Sentinel.

Revival to Go On Over Sunday Night

Flock to See Reconstructed Ft. Dearborn

Chicago, May.—Opened two years and two weeks before the formal opening of Chicago's 1933 World's Fair, the first exhibit building of that exposition is already attracting thousands of visitors.

The exhibit is old Fort Dearborn, an exact replica of the hand-hewn log stronghold which was built by soldiers on the south bank of the Chicago River near Lake Michigan in 1803.

The Fort was dedicated with impressive ceremony on Saturday, May 16. The Black Horse Troop, an independent cavalry unit used as an honor guard at all important civic occasions, sallied out of the Fort, marched and counter-marched before the speakers stand and the guests of honor.

The Right Reverend George Craig Stewart, Bishop of the Chicago Episcopal Diocese, pronounced the invocation. President Rufus C. Dawes of the Century of Progress Exposition, made the dedicatory address. Prof. James Ilton James, dean of the graduate school of Northwestern University, told the story of Fort Dearborn and the massacre of its fleeing garrison in 1812.

As the climax of the ceremony, a detachment from Fort Dearborn Post of the American Legion, dressed in the coonskin caps and buckskin shirts and leggings of frontier days, raised a fifteen-star flag, while a battery from the 124th Field Artillery, Illinois National Guard, fired a twenty-one round salute.

Crowds assembled about the entrance to the Fort on the following day long before the opening hour. Between 10 a. m. and 7 p. m., 2,691 persons visited it.

The Fort stands on made-land on the shore of Lake Michigan at Twenty-sixth st., about three and one half mile from the scene of the Fort Dearborn massacre.

It was built after the original drawing made by Captain John Whistler and deposited by him in the War Department archives.

Brass cannon of French manufacture, which were used in 1812, flint locks, bullet molds, swords, pistols, hunting rifles, powder horns—all a century or more old—are to be found in Fort Dearborn. Priceless curios, obtained through the assistance of the Smithsonian Institution, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Chicago Historical Society, the Army and Navy, bring back the atmosphere of the days when Fort Dearborn and a half dozen buildings outside its stockades comprised all that there was of Chicago.

Postal revenues in May increased 3 per cent.

Expect a Bumper Pecan Crop this Year

Austin, Texas, June.—Prospects throughout the pecan growing regions of Texas are bright for a large crop this year, according to James T. Kelly, pecan expert with the department of agriculture, who has traveled over most of these sections in the past few weeks.

Kelly reported he had not seen a larger potential crop since 1919, when production was estimated at about 21,000,000 pounds.

Late freezes helped instead of hindering the pecans, Kelly said. He explained that the wet winter furnished an abundance of sap; but the freeze killed the terminal twigs and buds. The sap then forced out dormant buds, some of which have lain dormant for years, with the result that trees over the state are covered with nutlings, Kelly stated.

This also has resulted in equal distribution of the buddings over the entire tree. In dry winter years, when terminal buds are allowed to develop, the tendency of the tree is to hear only at these terminals, Kelly said.

Farmers in the pecan sections, according to Kelly, are fast learning to appreciate the profit of thinning out native growths of pecans on their farms and harvesting the nut efficiently, as a valuable crop.

In his section—around San Saba—farmers have found their native pecan crops a welcome source of revenue in recent "tight" farm years.

That farmers are taking an interest in the cultivation of pecans is evidenced by the large attendance at community pecan schools, being held in several sections by county agents from A. & M. College. The state department of agriculture sends speakers at these meetings.

PAID TOO MUCH NOW

WHERE'S THE BABY

In this family there was a large number of small children. Little Willie, aged six, was taken in one morning to see his father, who happened to be laid up with influenza. Little Willie was quiet, almost reverent, in the sick room. When it was time for him to go, he went up to his father's bedside and said:

"I bin good, ain't I, pop?"

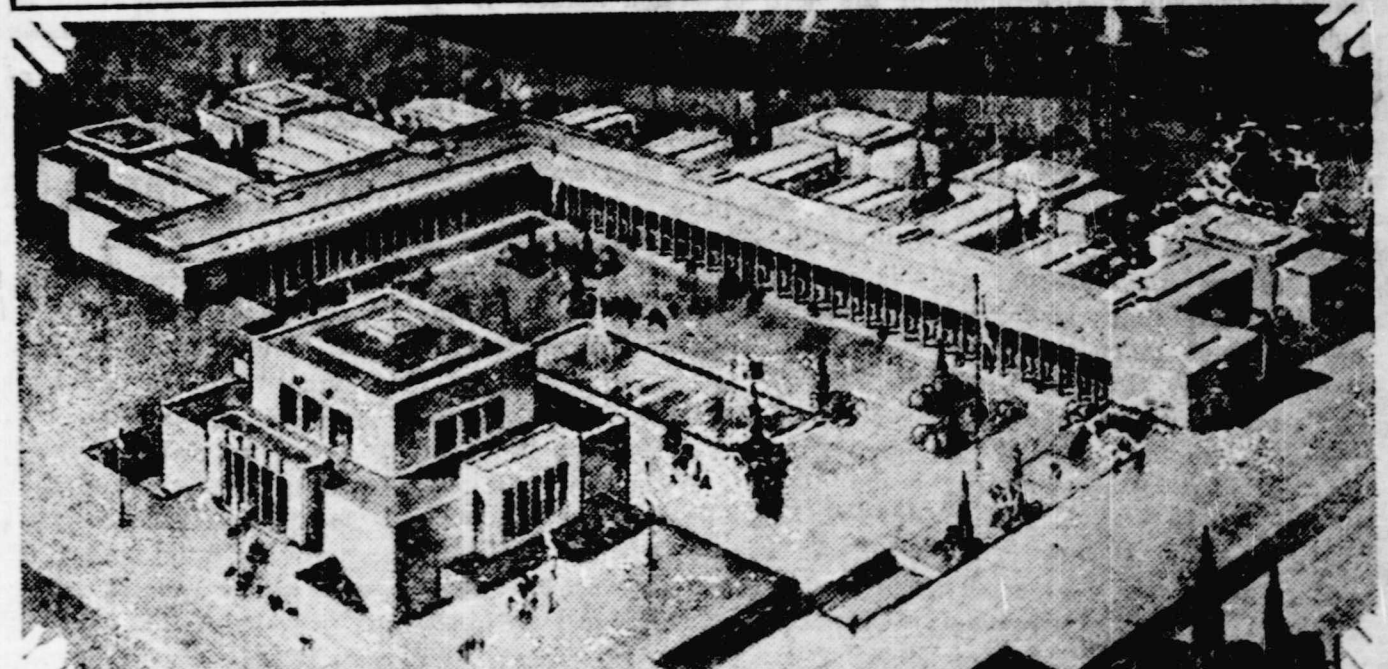

"Yes, son," dad whispered.

"Well, then, kin I see the baby?"

SMALL ARMS AND NATIONAL DEFENSE

An important point that crusaders for anti-gun laws apparently overlook is that the small arm and the small arms industry is vital to our national defense.

Their experience with guns as civilians is largely responsible for the efficiency of green American troops in all wars. Our gun manufacturing industry has always been ready to turn its facilities to producing large quantities of arms for the government when the need arose.

To deprive a citizen of the right to own his gun is tantamount to depriving him of part of his heritage. The American has always been noted for his interest in sport. Shooting for pleasure is certainly a harmless diversion—and it is one that may serve well on some occasion. The constitutional right to possess and bear arms should be respected.

Punish those who misuse a gun but don't do so at the expense of the law abiding.

THE LIFE INSURANCE DOLLAR

During the average year, 19 cents out of each dollar collected by leading life insurance companies goes for expenses and taxes.

Taxes take two cents; clerical and administrative work, two cents; medical and welfare activities, one cent; advertising, printing, etc., four cents; and for compensation to agents, ten cents. The balance, 81 cents, is used for payments to policy-holders and beneficiaries and for legal and special reserves. This rather refutes the claim that appreciable part of life insurance receipts are wasted in overhead.

It is likewise interesting to note how the average life insurance dollar was invested. Forty-three cents was in mortgage loans on real estate; 23 cents in railroad securities; 12 cents in government and municipal securities; nine cents in public utility securities, cash and miscellaneous assets, and 13 cents was out in loans to policyholder. The contribution to employment and prosperity resulting from the gigantic insurance reserves invested in this manner, may well be imagined.

TYPHOID FEVED, THE NATIONAL DISGRACE

A case of typhoid comes from just one thing—human excreta—from a person suffering with typhoid or from a person who is known as a typhoid carrier.

It must come to you on your fingers, in your food, in your water, in your milk, or from flies.

Typhoid can be caused by nothing other than the taking of material from fecal matter into ones mouth. The absolute destroying of all human excreta would blot out typhoid at once, from our list of dangerous diseases. Such a thing is impossible, but good toilets, protected water supplies, protected milk supplies, the killing of flies, together with immunization, will cut down the rate of infection greatly.

Unfortunately at present we are informed that the State Health Department will not be able to furnish more of the serums, due to there having been so great a demand in the drought areas. Perhaps later a supply can be obtained.

It is important that every preventive measure be taken, and since there has already been one case of typhoid in the county this year it is very advisable that for safety's sake you have your family physician give you the immunization shots as usual.

Dr. W. L. Allen, City Health Officer, Rotan.

NO BANK FAILURES IN FOUR MONTHS

Austin, Texas, June.—During May, commercial failures in Texas averaged 15 per week, compared to 16 in April and 12 during May of last year, according to records of the Bureau of Business Research at The University of Texas. Liabilities of defaulting companies averaged $402,000 per week during May, compared to $377,000 in April and $325,000 in May, 1930. This increase from April to May compares with an average seasonal decrease between the two months of 7.4 per cent.

No bank failures occurred in May, the fourth consecutive month without failures in this business.

JAYTON CHRONICLE CALLS LAKE A HUGE JOKE

We have heard of costly jokes, but the most costly one we have ever been acquainted with is Jayton's Municipal water system. Its so serious its hysterical. When it rains enough to keep water in the lake we have no use for it and when its needed the blooming thing is dry. Its not even a safe haven for pollywogs, and frogs, dry land turtles are about the only thing that can make use of it. They go there to dry off after a shower.

The towns old faithful gyp well is all that saves us from being without fire protection six months out of the twelve.

We should give the dry lake to some one that wants to grow smart weeds and make linament for the rheumatism and frost bites, or a place to grow cockle burs to make snake bite medicine. Old Credit lake right here in town is a cash asset as compared with that $35,000 boomerang.

If we owned it and a section of good land we would sell some fellow the land at half price and deed him that hole in the universe for good measure.—Jayton Chronicle.

THE RETURN OF THE ABSENTEE

The night clerk of the hotel was surprised to see a very battered person in his shirt sleeves come rocking up to his desk and pause there groggily.

"What can I do for you?" inquired the clerk.

"I'd like," said the stranger laboriously, "to be 'scorted to that room 202 on secon' floor."

"202?" repeated the clerk. He consulted the register. "Why, that room is occupied by Mr. Billups, and it's pretty late to be rousing a guest."

"I know that, well as you do," stated the inebriated one. "Nevertheless and contrary notwithstanding, I desire to be shown to room 202 without any further con-con-conver, any further talk."

"What business have you got there?" demanded the clerk. "Thash my business."

"Well, what's your name, then?"

"I'm Mr. Billups. I jush fell out of the window."

THE Triplex safety glass windshield has always been an outstanding feature of the Model A Ford. By reducing the dangers of flying glass, it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile collisions.

Now comes a further assurance of safety to every Ford owner... polished plate safety glass in ALL DOORS AND WINDOWS at slight additional cost.

The charge for this extra protection is unusually low because of large production and the development of new methods of manufacture. Simply tell the dealer when you buy the Ford that you want "safety plate glass in all doors and windows" and the car will be factory-equipped for you in that manner.

Today, as before, the safety glass windshield is furnished as standard equipment on all Ford cars without extra charge.

FORD OWNERS This announcement refers only to NEW CARS. Ford dealers are not in a position to install safety glass in the windows of your present Ford at this time.

Municipality League to Meet in Lubbock

Lubbock, June.—"Municipal Problems of Today" will be the theme of the nineteenth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities and Texas City Managers Association that will meet in Lubbock, June 15 and 16.

A number of pertinent questions that every municipality has, whether large or small, will be brought up on the convention floor and a short discussion of particular problems will be made by mayors or some city official of all cities and towns represented.

Subjects to be discussed range from "Reasons why cities are interested in municipal ownership of utilities" to "Growth of City planning in Texas."

Everyone who attends will be invited to take part in the discussions.

Among those on the program are the following: Judge W. E. Ely, Abilene, chairman, Texas State Highway Commission; Attorney General James V. Alfred, Austin; Mayor Ernest O. Leopold, Dallas, manager Southwestern Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who will talk on the subject, "These Changing Times"; Major E. A. Wood and John E. Surratt, Dallas, who will speak on city planning, zoning and parks; R. E. McDonnell, Kansas City, who will speak on the subject, "Reasons Why Cities are Interested in Municipal Ownership of Their Utilities"; City Manager John N. Edy, Dallas, who will speak on the subject, "My Experience with State League of Municipalities in California and Michigan"; Mayor F. W. Hayden, Pilot Point; J. Bouldin Rector, Austin; Ralph R. Durkee, San Antonio; State Health Officer, Dr. J. C. Anderson, Austin; Prof. L. B. Brayton, College Station; Senator Pink L. Parrish, Lubbock; Mayor Leon Goodman, Midland; J. H. Painter, Houston; and others.

Frank E. Givan, manager of the Gordon ranches, sat himself down this week at his home in Hereford, and sent the Herald another check on the Brownfield State Bank for the Herald another year. Frank always gets in the kale just about the time his paper expires.

LONELINESS INSURANCE

We can buy insurance policies to protect ourselves against loss by fire, theft, tornado and most other causes of human distress, but money will not buy an escape from that most poignant of all miseries, a lonely old age. Friendship is the one and only insurance in the world against the tragedy of loneliness.

Loneliness is terrible. If you want to see how terrible loneliness can be, walk down a forgotten city street and look into the swimming eyes of the gray old men as they go from door to door seeking employment. Visit a drowsy park at twilight or any of the rendezvous of desolate men whose feet have slipped. If you think they aren't lonely, win their confidence with a good cigar and talk of them of "home."

Wise old Sam Johnson was never wiser than when he told Boswell: "If a man does not make new acquaintances as he passes through life he will soon find himself alone. A man should keep his friendships in constant repair."

Napoleon did not follow Johnson's advice. The secret of his life is not in his utterances on great occasions nor in his studied letters. It is found in a chance remark, made when for a moment his cloak of glamor slipped from him.

"After all," he said, "I care only for people who are useful to me, and so long as they are useful." And again, "I have made courtiers. I have never pretended to make friends."

If Napoleon had so cared, he might have made many friends and had kept his friendships in repair he would not have died in a crazy old shanty, alone.

One does not purchase devotion except with the stuff of fellowship—that extra word of appreciation, a visit to the hospital, the assurance of loyalty when the horizon is overcast.

It pays to keep friendships in repair. And the only way ever discovered to have a friend is to be one.—The Rotarian.

Relics to Be Shown At Cowboy Reunion

Stamford, June.—A new feature of the Texas Cowboy Reunion program for this year on June 25, 26 and 27 in this city will be a large exhibit of relics of pioneer days in West Texas. This collection will consist of early day saddles, bridles, spurs and other cowboy trappings; historic revolvers and rifles, branding irons, and other antiques of the open range days. There will also be a large and varied assortment of interesting ranch pictures.

A request is being broadcast by R. A. Bible, director of this part of the reunion, to all people who have articles that might be included in this display to communicate with him. He is desirous of having a large exhibit and will be glad to know of any items that can be secured for it. Another attraction will be a replica of the famous Roy Bean saloon at Langtry, where Bean, self-appointed magistrate administered the "Law West of the Pecos" for a number of years in a highly individual style.

Numerous other exhibits that will be reminders of the beginning of civilization in West Texas and neighboring areas are being planned for the pioneer cattlemen's round-up, and indications are that the cowboy rodeo and its kindred features which will be an outstanding offering.

19 OF 20 TWINS FOUND TO BE LEFTHANDED

San Antonio.—Among 20 sets of twins who were subjected Tuesday to tests in connection with a research project being conducted here by Miss Aline Rather, director of art in public schools, it was found that with one exception one child of each set was left-handed, and the other right-handed.

The twins underwent tests at De Zavala elementary school to determine if physical likeness is borne out in the mental action of the twins. Miss Rather is conducting the tests for Duke university, Durham, N. C. Of the twins, both of whom were right-handed it was explained that one child was left-handed in infancy and early childhood, but was trained to become right-handed by its parents.

Although Miss Rather will submit the results of the tests to the university for findings and conclusions the most obvious result from an observation of the tests was that the right-handed children were posed of more imagination than the left-handed ones. Miss Rather said. Each child was asked for a sample of handwriting and to draw the same objects.

Although handwriting was similar in most cases the right-handed child gave more attention to detail in the execution of the drawings in most cases.

Although only 20 sets of twins from elementary schools took the tests Tuesday, Miss Rather found upon investigation in preparing for the work there are 50 sets of twins in city elementary schools and approximately 100 sets in all the city schools including junior and senior schools. The older children may be subjected to tests later.

BRYAN WAS RIGHT

They are now saying William Jennings Bryan lived 40 years ahead of his time. The impartial student of affairs on reading his speeches are struck with Bryan's prophetic vision, for everything that he predicted forty years ago has been fulfilled during the last two years.

The discovery of gold in Alaska, the development in Africa, the opening up of Goldfield, the perfection of the cyanide process permitting the profitable treatment of low grade ore are at a cost never before possible these events combined to defeat the fulfillment of Bryan's prophecies at that particular time.

Along with the demonstration of gold in India and the debasement of coinage the world over, and the failure to open up any new sources of gold metal, the most liberal and progressive thinkers are beginning to see the fallacy of the gold standard.

Even the United States has agreed to enter into a conference to discuss recognizing silver as a money metal, as it is now held that the present de-

We see by the papers that our own Gloria Swanson is off for Europe on her vacation. We wonder if this is another man hunt? She got one over there that cost her a lot to turn loose.

The Lea County Courier, of Tatum, N. M., has reached our desk, and we are glad to exchange with it. It is a six column four pager at present, and seems to be very well patronized, having some Brownfield ads. Our good friend Nyles Morris is the editor and publisher, and when he gets his line and other tools moved over from Ropes, we expect to see things hum around that beautiful little city.

We stated last week that nothing was much cheaper that entered into making of a paper than it was in 1919, and a whole of a lot higher than in 1914. We take this back. We began buying linotype metal in 1919, when it was at its peak of about 25c per pound. Now it can be bought laid down in Brownfield for 7 1/2c per pound. But linotype metal, which is 85 percent lead is a small item of the expense of issuing a paper.

The News is not Puritanical in prescribing the kinds of amusements that other folks shall enjoy, but the character of public dance halls that have been operated in this county is not calculated to elevate the morals of our young people. One defense attorney in the trial of a case here recently denominated them as "hell-holes." We do not believe that any county official should lend his patronage to any sort of a "hell-hole."—Lynn County News

Live cities are full of boosters. Dead ones are full of knockers. Boosters are the fellows who know the truth when they see it and then get busy and let others know it. Knockers are those who sit around and "chaw" their tobacco or "puff" their cigarettes and never lack words of criticism when anything is undertaken to better the town and community. Parasites, in other words, who never help any worthy cause but are ever ready to profit upon the prosperity of other whose undaunted will and energy bring things to pass despite the cold shoulder given them on every hand.—Rochester Reporter.

It seems that employees are in almost every instance the ones that are getting the ax when firms, state, county or city gets ready to do the retrenchment act. This has happened in practically every school district in West Texas. Only recently, Scurry county commissioners let both their county agent and home demonstrator go, and announced that if they did not cut this and other expenses, the county would be $75,000 in debt by fall. People had a hard enough time paying taxes when conditions were 100 percent better than now, and taxes must be cut if they are paid, or else the tax gatherers are going to have a lot of property on their hands they won't know what to do with. Taxation must be gotten on a fair parity with present conditions.

There is more money piled up in the United States than ever was known before in the history of the country, but the trouble is that about a half dozen men own it. They are hoarding it and only put it out when the government backs it up. The other day an issue of eight hundred million of U. S. Bonds were offered. The big boys oversubscribed it to the tune of six billion dollars. If this huge amount of money was put out for construction of buildings, or roads, it would put all the unemployed to work. As it is, the money will be kept in low interest drawing bonds and benefit no one. If this thing keeps up at the pace it is going now, these boys are going to be rudely shook loose from their money some of these days in a way never dreamed of before. This writer is no communist, not even a socialist, but communism is growing as never before right here in America. And they are not all ignoramuses either. Many of them have college educations. These people used to be confined to the large cities, but they are now in the small towns and rural communities. We have them right here in Brownfield, and they are making converts fast. It may not come some day win seats enough in congress to tax the ultra rich out of existence, but they are out to get him you can bet.

Here is a sample of the headlines carried by the daily press: "Temple Farmer Kills wife and Self," "Aged Widow Charged With Slaying Mate," "Woman Held For Filling Husband." These are Associated Press dispatches telling of murders and suicides committed in the homes of the nation in one day, and that is not all—a close scrutiny will show a dozen or more. Men and women bound together in wedlock, becoming tired, then brooding, a quarrel over a trifle and murder. It is appalling, to say the least. As one man said to us only yesterday: "What is the world coming to? What is the matter with the people? What is twisting their brains until they see red? Why take this case, and he pointed to the headlines of a newspaper, "Father Slays Wife and Three Children With Ax." It must be insanity—some peculiar disease that is going around. Who knows what we will do—you and I—for these people we read about are sane people, and the majority respected citizens. What makes them murder, and especially their loved ones? We have no answer. We do not know, we muddle over the question, but fail to find an answer.—Ropes Hustler.

A lot of our so-called Democrats who tucked their tails and went under the bed with a flea ridden bunch two years ago are scratching and yelping like March hares now. They were not willing to stay in and fight from the inside in order to rid the party of any timber they considered rotten. They became deserters and went to the camp of the enemy with aid and comfort and helped to lick their own kind and kin to a finish. In the new camp everything was sweet and nice. There was no racketeering and the 18th was a noble experiment. Indeed, we wonder not that they were all promised 40 acres and a mule, and prosperity was to fill the land under the guidance of the Supreme Engineer that was to head the ticket. They have been gloriously disillusioned. They now want back in the party of their father, but want to dictate its policies. They want to kick out every mother's son in the party who don't believe that the 18th Amendment was written by the God of high heaven and sealed in the blood of his Son and proclaimed by His holy angels. Well, our opinion is that its going to take more people than the dry southern Democrats to kick Hooverism out of the whitehouse. It is going to take a united party centered on some man that is more of a statesman than a damogogue, a man that both wets and dries can unite on and fight for. If there is not some relief in the next few years from high tariff and taxes, there is going to be a rebellion right here in the United States that will run rivers of blood. Too, few men are getting too much money in their control. And we can never hope for better times with the present lineup in charge at Washington.

Sometimes we get so aggravated that we think the next bugologists that comes into a West Texas cotton patch ought to be shot between the eyes and buried under a mass of tumblebugs. These snoopers came into West Texas a few years ago, being both Federal and State representatives and found four or five dead worms they pronounced pink boll worms. Soon thereafter a cry from East Texas went up to the high heavens, and this that and the other including little Dandylin Moody were called in conference. They knew that these worms, like boll weevils could never hurt West Texas. The climate is too dry and high, and the winters freeze the ground too deep for them. But they would literally ruin East Texas. They knew the pink boll worm beside the boll weevil would be as a lion compared to a lamb. So at the big conference, they got representatives from these several so-called infested counties and from A. & M., and from Austin. They promised everything if these counties would fumigate and go to other expenses to eradicate these pests. No more worms were ever found, although the State and Federal governments have kept men in the fields of these counties from the time the first square came on until after frost. But these bully friends (?) from East Texas forgot their pledge. Even Little Dan accidentally (?) vetoed such a bill two years ago, and Sterling had to veto one this year that would have partially repaid what the farmers of Dawson, Howard and other counties were out, because statemen (?) from old eas' Texas had tacked on a lot of appropriations to kill their cattle-ticks in order to kill this bill. West Texas killed their own ticks. Yet you cannot mention the division of Texas without some people right here bellowing their guts out about the "Alley-mow." Why dagdum it, we'd be a lot better governed if we were a part of New Mexico, Colorado or Oklahoma. We would be hooked up with people nearer our ideals. We are not so sure that we would not fare better as a part of Old Mexico even if we had to take the whisky, gambling tables and all. At least we would be treated like the rest of Old Mexico and not taxed to death. But just let a West Texas man announce for governor, and a lot of these old bloated bellied West Texans will vote for some chimney corner politician back in East Texas that used to hunt coons with his double half uncle. As for the Herald, we never expect to vote for any guy for any public office in Texas that lives east of the Brazos if there is a man west of it running for that office.

MOONLIGHT AND ROSES

From Hollywood comes the information that moonlight and roses are to replace gangster films. Producers, having long since exhausted the gangsters theme, are turning to romantic opuses as an antidote to a rapidly sickening public taste. As a matter of fact, if the producers had only known it, the public was fed up on gangster films a year ago, but they have been coming in squads and battalions just the same. Movie goers will breathe a sigh of relief, if Hollywood makes good on its promise to give them something besides tough hombies in the way of heroes. The gangster has been heroized enough—under a thin veneer of pretense of "teaching a moral lesson." Teaching a moral lesson in that manner is like giving a man the smallpox to make him forget the bubonic plague. We need not expect too much, all at once. Doubtless the producers still have a number of gangster pictures on their shelves and must feed them slowly to the public. All the topnotch pictures of the last year were non-gangster types, and that fact probably had something to do with the producers' change of mind on the subject. Even a movie producer can see the light when profits begin to shrink.—Abilene News.

We see by the papers that our own Gloria Swanson is off for Europe on her vacation. We wonder if this is another man hunt? She got one over there that cost her a lot to turn loose.

The Lea County Courier, of Tatum, N. M., has reached our desk, and we are glad to exchange with it. It is a six column four pager at present, and seems to be very well patronized, having some Brownfield ads. Our good friend Nyles Morris is the editor and publisher, and when he gets his line and other tools moved over from Ropes, we expect to see things hum around that beautiful little city.

We stated last week that nothing was much cheaper than entered into making of a paper than it was in 1919, and a whole lot higher than in 1914. We take this back. We began buying linotype metal in 1919, when it was at its peak of about 25c per pound. Now it can be bought laid down in Brownfield for 7 1/2c per pound. But linotype metal, which is 85 percent lead is a small item of the expense of issuing a paper.

The News is not Puritanical in prescribing the kinds of amusements that other folks shall enjoy, but the character of public dance halls that have been operated in this county is not calculated to elevate the morals of our young people. One defense attorney in the trial of a case here recently denominated them as "hell-holes." We do not believe that a county official should lend his patronage to any sort of a "hell-hole."—Lynn County News

Live cities are full of boosters. Dead ones are full of knockers. Boosters are the fellows who know the truth when they see it and then get busy and let others know it. Knockers are those who sit around and "chaw" their tobacco or "puff" their cigarette and never lack words of criticism when anything is undertaken to better the town and community. Parasites, in other words, who never help any worthy cause but are ever ready to profit upon the prosperity of other whose undaunted will and energy bring things to pass despite the cold shoulder given them on every hand.—Rochester Reporter.

It seems that employees are in almost every instance the ones that are getting the ax when firms, state, county or city gets ready to do the retrenchment act. This has happened in practically every school district in West Texas. Only recently, Scurry county commissioners let both their county agent and home demonstrator go, and announced that if they did not cut this and other expenses, the county would be $75,000 in debt by fall. People had a hard enough time paying taxes when conditions were 100 percent better than now, and taxes must be cut if they are paid, or else the tax gatherers are going to have a lot of property on their hands they won't know what to do with. Taxation must be gotten on a fair parity with present conditions.

There is more money piled up in the United States than ever was known before in the history of the country, but the trouble is that about a half dozen men own it. They are hoarding it and only put it out when the government backs it up. The other day an issue of eight hundred million of U. S. Bonds were offered. The big boys oversubscribed it to the tune of six billion dollars. If this huge amount of money was put out for construction of buildings, or roads, it would put all the unemployed to work. As it is, the money will be kept in low interest drawing bonds and benefit no one. If this thing keeps up at the pace it is going now, these boys are going to be rudely shook loose from their money some of these days in a way never dreamed of before. This writer is no communist, not even a socialist, but communism is growing as never before right here in America. And they are not all ignoramuses either. Many of them have college educations. These people used to be confined to the large cities, but they are now in the small towns and rural communities. We have them right here in Brownfield, and they are making converts fast. It may not come to a bloody revolution. They may some day win seats enough in congress to tax the ultra rich out of existence, but they are out to get him you can bet.

Here is a sample of the headlines carried by the daily press: "Temple Farmer Kills wife and Self," "Aged Widow Charged With Slaying Mate," "Woman Held For Filling Husband." These are Associated Press dispatches telling of murders and suicides committed in the homes of the nation in one day, and that is not all—a close scrutiny will show a dozen or more. Men and women bound together in wedlock, becoming tired, then brooding, a quarrel over a trifle and murder. It is appalling, to say the least. As one man said to us only yesterday: "What is the world coming to? What is the matter with the people? What is twisting their brains until they see red? Why take this case, and he pointed to the headlines of a newspaper, "Father Slays Wife and Three Children With Ax." It must be insanity—some peculiar disease that is going around. Who knows what we will do—you and I—for these people we read about are sane people, and the majority respected citizens. What makes them murder, and especially their loved ones? We have no answer. We do not know, we muddle over the question, but fail to find an answer.—Ropes Hustler.

A lot of our so-called Democrats who tucked their tails and went under the bed with a flea ridden bunch two years ago are scratching and yelping like March hares now. They were not willing to stay in and fight from the inside in order to rid the party of any timber they considered rotten. They became deserters and went to the camp of the enemy with aid and comfort and helped to lick their own kind and kin to a finish. In the new camp everything was sweet and nice. There was no racketeering and the 18th was a noble experiment. Indeed, we wonder not that they were all promised 40 acres and a mule, and prosperity was to fill the land under the guidance of the Supreme Engineer that was to head the ticket. They have been gloriously disillusioned. They now want back in the party of their father, but want to dictate its policies. They want to kick out every mother's son in the party who don't believe that the 18th Amendment was written by the God of high heaven and sealed in the blood of his Son and proclaimed by His holy angels. Well, our opinion is that its going to take more people than the dry southern Democrats to kick Hooverism out of the whitehouse. It is going to take a united party centered on some man that is more of a statesman than a damogogue, a man that both wets and dries can unite on and fight for. If there is not some relief in the next few years from high tariff and taxes, there is going to be a rebellion right here in the United States that will run rivers of blood. Too, few men are getting too much money in their control. And we can never hope for better times with the present lineup in charge at Washington.

Sometimes we get so aggravated that we think the next bugologists that comes into a West Texas cotton patch ought to be shot between the eyes and buried under a mass of tumblebugs. These snoopers came into West Texas a few years ago, being both Federal and State rep-representatives and found four or five dead worms they pronounced pink boll worms. Soon thereafter a cry from East Texas went up to the high heavens, and this that and the other including little Dandylion Moody were called in conference. They knew that these worms, like boll weevils could never hurt West Texas. The climate is too dry and high, and the winters freeze the ground too deep for them. But they would literally ruin East Texas. They knew the pink boll worm beside the boll weevil would be as a lion compared to a lamb. So at the big conference, they got representatives from these several so-called infested counties and from A. & M., and from Austin. They promised everything if these counties would fumigate and go to other expenses to eradicate these pests. No more worms were ever found, although the State and Federal governments have kept men in the fields of these counties from the time the first square came on until after frost. But these bully friends (?) from East Texas forgot their pledge. Even Little Dan accidentally (?) vetoed such a bill two years ago, and Sterling had to veto one this year that would have partially repaid what the farmers of Dawson, Howard and other counties were out, because statemen (?) from old eas' Texas had tackled on a lot of appropriations to kill their cattle-ticks in order to kill this bill. West Texas killed their own ticks. Yet you cannot mention the division of Texas without some people right here bellowing their guts out about the "Alleyknow." Why dadgum it, we'd be a lot better governed if we were a part of New Mexico, Colorado or Oklahoma. We would be hooked up with people nearer our ideals. We are not so sure that we would not fare better as a part of Old Mexico even if we had to take the whisky, gambling tables and all. At least we would be treated like the rest of Old Mexico and not taxed to death. But just let a West Texas man announce for governor, and a lot of these old blot bellied West Texans will vote for some chimney corner politician back in East Texas that used to hunt coons with his double half uncle. As for the Herald, we never expect to vote for any guy for any public office in Texas that lives east of the Brazos if there is a man west of it running for that office.

Municipality League to Meet in Lubbock

Lubbock, June.—"Municipal Problems of Today" will be the theme of the nineteenth annual convention of the League of Texas Municipalities and Texas City Managers Association that will meet in Lubbock, June 15 and 16.

A number of pertinent questions that every municipality has, whether larger or small, will be brought up on the convention floor and a short discussion of particular problems will be made by mayors or some city official of all cities and towns represented.

Subjects to be discussed range from "Reasons why cities are interested in municipal ownership of utilities" to "Growth of City planning in Texas."

Everyone who attends will be invited to take part in the discussions.

Among those on the program are the following: Judge W. R. Ely, Abilene, chairman, Texas State Highway Commission; Attorney General James V. Alfred, Austin; Mayor Ernest O. Thompson, Amarillo, who will speak on the subject, "Amarillo's Municipally Owned Gas Distribution System"; Joseph F. Leopold, Dallas, manager Southwestern Division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who will talk on the subject, "These Changing Times"; Major E. A. Wood and John E. Surratt, Dallas, who will speak on city planning, zoning and parks; R. E. McDonnell, Kansas City, who will speak on the subject, "Reasons Why Cities are Interested in Municipal Ownership of Their Utilities"; City Manager John N. Edy, Dallas, who will speak on the subject, "My Experience with State League of Municipalities in California and Michigan"; Mayor F. W. Hayden, Pilot Point; J. Bouldin Rector, Austin; Ralph R. Durkee, San Antonio; State Health Officer, Dr. J. C. Anderson, Austin; Prof. L. R. Brayton, College Station; Senator Pink L. Parrish, Lubbock; Mayor Leon Goodman, Midland; J. H. Painter, Houston; and others.

Frank E. Givan, manager of the Gordon ranches, sat himself down this week at his home in Hereford, and sent the Herald another check on the Brownfield State Bank for the Herald another year. Frank always gets in the kale just about the time his paper expires.

LONELINESS INSURANCE

We can buy insurance policies to protect ourselves against loss by fire, theft, tornado and most other causes of human distress, but money will not buy an escape from that most poignant of all miseries, a lonely old age. Friendship is the one and only insurance in the world against the tragedy of loneliness.

Loneliness is terrible. If you want to see how terrible loneliness can be, walk down a forgotten city street and look into the swimming eyes of the gray old men as they go from door to door seeking employment. Visit a dowdy park at twilight or any of the rendezvous of desolate men whose feet have slipped. If you think they aren't lonely, win their confidence with a good cigar and talk of them of "home."

Wise old Sam Johnson was never wiser than when he told Boswell:

"If a man does not make new acquaintances as he passes through life he will soon find himself alone. A man should keep his friendships in constant repair."

Napoleon did not follow Johnson's advice. The secret of his life is not in his utterances on great occasions nor in his studied letters. It is found in a chance remark, made when for a moment his cloak of glamor slipped from him.

"After all," he said, "I care only for people who are useful to me, and so long as they are useful." And again, "I have made courtiers, I have never pretended to make friends."

If Napoleon had so cared, he might have made many friends and had he kept his friendships in repair he would not have died in a crazy old shanty, alone.

One does not purchase devotion except with the stuff of fellowship—that extra word of appreciation, a visit to the hospital, the assurance of loyalty when the horizon is overcast.

It pays to keep friendships in repair. And the only way ever discovered to have a friend is to be one.—The Rotarian.

Relics to Be Shown At Cowboy Reunion

Stamford, June.—A new feature of the Texas Cowboy Reunion program for this year on June 25, 26 and 27 in this city will be a large exhibit of relics of pioneer days in West Texas. This collection will consist of early day saddles, bridles, spurs and other cowboy trappings; historic revolvers and rifles, branding irons, and other antiques of the open range days. There will also be a large and varied assortment of interesting ranch pictures.

A request is being broadcast by R. A. Bible, director of this part of the reunion, to all people who have articles that might be included in this display to communicate with him. He is desirous of having a large exhibit and will be glad to know of any items that can be secured for it.

Another attraction will be a replica of the famous Roy Bean saloon at Langtry, where Bean, self-appointed magistrate administered the "Law West of the Pecos" for a number of years in a highly individual style.

Numerous other exhibits that will be reminders of the beginning of civilization in West Texas and neighboring areas are being planned for the pioneer cattlemen's round-up, and indications are that the cowboy rodeo and its kindred features which will be an outstanding offering.

19 OF 20 TWINS FOUND TO BE LEFTHANDED

San Antonio.—Among 20 sets of twins who were subjected Tuesday to tests in connection with a research project being conducted here by Miss Aline Rather, director of art in public schools, it was found that with one exception one child of each set was lefthanded and the other right-handed.

The twins underwent tests at De Zavala elementary school to determine if physical likeness is borne out in the mental action of the twins. Miss Rather is conducting the tests for Duke university, Durham, N. C.

Of the twins, both of whom were right-handed it was explained that one child was lefthanded in infancy and early childhood, but was trained to become right-handed by its parents.

Although Miss Rather will submit the results of the tests to the university for findings and conclusions the most obvious result from an observation of the tests was that the right-handed children were posed of more imagination than the lefthanded ones. Miss Rather said. Each child was asked for a sample of handwriting and to draw the same objects.

Although handwriting was similar in most cases the right-handed child gave more attention to detail in the execution of the drawings in most cases.

Although only 20 sets of twins from elementary schools took the tests Tuesday, Miss Rather found upon investigation in preparing for the work there are 50 sets of twins in city elementary schools and approximately 100 sets in all the city schools including junior and senior schools. The older children may be subjected to tests later.

BRYAN WAS RIGHT

They are now saying William Jennings Bryan lived 40 years ahead of his time. The impartial student of affairs on reading his speeches are struck with Bryan's prophetic vision, for everything that he predicted forty years ago has been fulfilled during the last two years.

The discovery of gold in Alaska, the development in Africa, the opening up of Goldfield, the perfection of the cyanide process permitting the profitable treatment of low grade ore at a cost never before possible these events combined to defeat the fulfillment of Bryan's prophecies at that particular time.

Along with the demonstration of gold in India and the debasement of coinage the world over, and the failure to open up any new sources of gold metal, the most liberal and progressive thinkers are beginning to see the fallacy of the gold standard.

Even the United States has agreed to enter into a conference to discuss recognizing silver as a money metal, as it is now held that the present de-

Legion Decorate the Graves of Buddies

Rather late this week to relate what happened on Decoration Day here, but the Herald expected a writeup on the matter last week, which failed to reach our desk. On account of the fact that Decoration Day happened on Saturday, when most of the American Legion members and ex-service men were busy in stores and other business matters, the decoration of graves was put off until Sunday afternoon the 31st.

Many other citizens of the city joined the boys in this worthy undertaking, and marched to the cemetery, where not only the graves of ex-soldiers of the Civil War, the war with Spain, and the World War were decorated, but the graves of civilians as well had their quota of flowers placed on their graves. This is a sweet custom, and should be remembered by more people.

In connection with this, Mr. Lincoln, of the service department of the local post showed us a letter from one of the buddies who was shell shocked and had to be carried to Little Rock for treatment. He is now at his home in Brown or Runnels counties, we have forgotten which, and seems to be recovering nicely. This is another great service the American Legion here is offering. They are watching out after the health of their buddies.

BIG ORGAN TO BE PUT IN W. O. W. CHAPEL

W. A. Fraser, President of the Woodmen of the World, signed a contract Friday for the erection of a three manual Austin organ to be installed at the new Woodmen of the World Chapel and Bird Sanctuary located at San Antonio, Texas. The organ cost $25,000.00.

Mr. Fraser said that contracts have been let also for the chimneys that will also be installed in the chapel.

The Chapel and Bird Sanctuary, which will be dedicated in the fall, is connected with the Woodmen of the World Sanitarium located on the outskirts of San Antonio.

"It will be one of the show places of Texas," President Fraser said.

We note that our implement men are still selling a few cultivators and two row go-devils. Implements are said to be just as high as ever. Probably the IHC has never discovered a depression yet.

TENNESSEE MAN TELLS WHY TIMES ARE HARD

To his home-town paper, a fellow in West Tennessee writes:

Holler Rock Junction, Tenn. March 6, 1931.

Dear Editor:

There seems to be so much talk about our so-called Republican prosperity. I believe 'tis my duty to write my views on same and help to analyze the situation as far as possible so's we can make up our minds that we had auto change our ways of living and so forth.

I have taken my own case for instance. I see my mistakes and many others have acted likewise. I bought a Ford instead of a farm and it is worn out, but the farm I figured on is still O. K. I invested in a radio instead of a cow, and the radio gives static instead of milk.

I am feeding 5 nice hounds which answers to the name of Red, Wing, Slobber, Jake and Bayrum instead of five pigs. I had our piano tuned instead of the well cleaned out. I spent all my cash in 1928 and used my credit in 1929 and traded up my future wages on installments in 1930, so hard time caught me in bad shape last fall.

If I had spent my last $10.00 for flour and meat instead of gas and oil, I would have been O. K. I built a nice garage last year instead of covering my barn and I loafed in a mountain two weeks instead of being in the pasture fixing it so's my cow won't get out, but she is dry and mortgaged to boot for two blankets my wife bought from an agent instead of paying the preacher.

I am on a cash basis now, but ain't got no cash. I am tied to the end of my rope and the man I am working for is busted on account of nobody paying him and his cotton won't sell because nobody won't buy cotton clothes, all the gals wear slick silky stockings and silk underclothes right here in our cotton patches. I had $4.00 saved up for a rainy day, but it turned dry and I spent the $4.00 for two inner tubes.

I tried hard to make both ends meet with a turnip patch, but when I got turnips ready to sell, everybody else was selling turnips for nothing and the market was glutted. I am worried plum to the bone and my wife's finfolks are coming over next Tuesday to spend two weeks.

Write or phone if you hear of any relief from the Government coming down my way.

Yours truly,

MIKE CLARKE.

LITTLEFIELD MAYOR PAYS $37.30 FINE LAST WEEK

According to Sheriff Crimm and Deputy Sheriff Miller, T. S. Sales, mayor of Littlefield, pleaded guilty in county court last week to drinking intoxicants in a public place and paid a fine of $37.30.

According to Sheriff a portion of a pint of whisky was found in Sales' car, and this will be turned over to the grand jury as evidence.

Sheriff Crimm stated to this writer that regardless of a man's position, if he violated the law he was after him just the same as he would be anyone else. Cooperation from the public is asked by the Sheriff.—Amherst Argus.

DRY ICE

"Dry Ice" is solidified carbon dioxide, and when it melts or absorbs heat it becomes carbon dioxide gas, which passes off into the air and leaves no moisture behind. It is claimed that 1 pound of dry ice will do the work of 15 pounds of ordinary ice and will keep ice cream and other foods cold much longer than ordinary ice. The solid carbon dioxide resembles snow in appearance.

DESTRUCTIVE COMPETITION HURTS LABOR AND CAPITAL

When gasoline wars cause the retail price of gasoline on the Pacific coast to drop to ten cents a gallon, including state taxes, the motorists at first think he profits. He does not at first see the men who have lost jobs with oil companies, private stations that are closed or the reduced power of the oil industry and its employees.

When a milk war such as has been launched in New York State, offers milk to buyers at nine cents a quart, the consumer does not realize that this cuts a million dollars a month from the buying power of New York State's dairy farmers.

These are specific examples of abnormal price reductions which cause unemployment and lowered producing power of producers.

Legitimate price competition is in order as the world drifts back to normal but reckless competition causes unnecessary hardships to both labor and capital, and the readjustment period is long.

TRYING TO INTRODUCE THE WEARING OF COTTON

Dallas, Texas, June.—Demonstrating that Texas-made cotton clothes are as modish and as useful as any to be purchased, Colonel W. E. Talbot, Agency Manager of the Southland Life Insurance Company, and Misses Bonnie Ingle and Elizabeth Isaminger of the Southland Life appear wearing Texas-made cotton clothes. The demonstration is for the purpose of inaugurating "Cotton Week," and movies were taken. "If other institutions in Texas were to follow the plan inaugurated by the Southland Life Insurance Company," says Colonel Talbot, "a great deal would be done toward not only providing employment, but also reducing the cotton surplus and going a great way in re-establishing prosperity in the South."

"Law West of the Pecos" is Recalled

San Antonio Man Has New Book On Judge Roy Bean

At last the colorful, picturesque and resourceful "Judge" Roy Bean is to come into his own, twenty-eight years after the famous self-styled "Law West of the Pecos." Justice of the Peace, saloon keeper, wit, jester and grande alcalde of a far-flung through mythical jurisdiction, passed away at Langtry, he is the subject of a rather elaborate and entertaining biography by Everett Lloyd, San Antonio editor and writer.

The title of Lloyd's book is "Law West of the Pecos: The Story of Roy Bean," the first edition of which will be released to the book-trade and libraries in June by the University Press, Inc., San Antonio.

Has Authentic Photographs
The Bean biography contains nearly two hundred pages, twenty of which are devoted to rare illustrations made from authentic photographs hitherto unpublished. So striking are the illustrations that they may be said to constitute one of the most valuable features of the book. However, the book itself has everything in its favor. Some idea of its completeness is afforded by the chapter contents which include, in addition to a prologue—which is a highly creditable piece of descriptive background—chapters on "The Trail of Roy Bean," "How Much of What is True?" "Lillie Langtry and Roy Bean," "Roy Bean and W. H. Dodd," "The Life and Times of Roy Bean," "Justice of the Peace—Law West of the Pecos," "The Death of Roy Bean and 'The Saga of Roy Bean.'"

During recent months, the Saturday Evening Post and several other magazines have carried articles dealing with Roy Bean. Interest in the man and his unique system of dispensing law and liquor alternately is constantly increasing. For several years, Everett Lloyd has been collecting material and photographs for the Bean biography and he is the first to assemble in book form all the genuine, worthwhile Roy Bean stories, farcical and ludicrous decisions and ruling which have become a part of our humorous legal folklore, familiar to lawyers and laymen alike. The chapters dealing with the life and times of Bean accurately cover all the events of his career.

Although three different New York Publishers agreed and wanted to bring out Everett Lloyd's book on Roy Bean, the author felt that as the book deals with a famous Texas character and was written by a Texan, it was fitting that it should be published by a Texas publishing corporation.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement of the release date of "Law West of the Pecos," tentative offers were made by a well known Hollywood picture producer to make the book into a talkie at the option of the author. A second and third edition of "Law West of the Pecos" has already been scheduled by the publishers, and arrangements are pending looking to its future publication as a syndicated serial.

Everett Lloyd is widely known in newspaper and literary circles. He was educated at Tulane University and the University of Texas. As a newspaper reporter, he worked on various papers throughout the country, and for five years was staff writer of the National Magazine of Boston. His home is in San Antonio where he is the editor and publisher of Lloyd's Magazine.

BOOZE NOT ANSWER

Illegal traffic in liquor was said last Saturday night by Attorney General Mitchell to provide "on an average not over 20 per cent" of the revenue of organized gangsters prosecuted recently for income tax violations.

"This has been diminishing," he continued, "and if this be an indication of general conditions, the removal of illicit liquor traffic as a source of revenue would not end gangsterism and racketeering."

Judge Jay Barret mailed in his check last week to keep the Herald headed in his direction. Here she comes, Jay.

Complex Cause of Most Auto Accidents

Dr. Louis Bisch, noted health writer, states that the greater number of automobile accidents are caused by people suffering from the inferior complex, or mental weakness. He says:

"When the traffic stops and the red lights turn to green, they begin honking and racing their motors before the cars ahead have had a chance to get under way again. One finds the same type of individual breaking the speed laws on the open road. They are forever 'cutting in' and passing other vehicles with a great fanfare of noise. They are the sort of people who make the traffic police a necessity and who help swell the ever increasing toll of accidents."

"Why some want to behave that way—indeed, are almost compelled to act that way—is not hard to guess. For it is evident that by making a lot of unnecessary noise they draw attention to themselves. And the reason that they want to draw attention to themselves is simply because each one of them is suffering from inferiority. The inferiority, may not, of course, be conscious. They may not realize it. They may even be surprised and believe it to be untrue if one so labeled them. Yet there can be no question from a psychological point of view that such is the case. And if anyone so afflicted will have a straight, honest heart-to-heart talk with himself he will undoubtedly become convinced of the validity of the theory."

"When driving a car the individual's ego is pepped up, so to speak anyway. One feels somewhat superior to those who are walking and who are not so fortunate as to own a car. At least one is inclined to think so. Then, again, to be able to direct and control a powerful engine helps to enhance the ego. And under the circumstances to make it go faster than the others around you—and to let loose the horn to its full capacity, adds the last fillup to the ego, which to an inferior, timid type, is almost irresistible."

Such people should try to realize, however, what a nuisance such reckless disregard of the rights and sensibilities of others can be. They should also try to realize the elements of danger involved. And for their own good—their own future success in life—they should try to give up such defense reactions, stamp out their inferiority, and endeavor to get ahead and attract attention in the world on some more solid basis than merely noise."

WILL DO MORE GOOD

The best "Buy at Home" editorials ever written are the advertisements of live merchants in their home own home papers, and as long as business men of the small cities and towns continue to patronize their own paper they will not have to worry seriously about the competition of catalog houses. It's when merchants stop advertising that the catalog houses get in their effective work.

New catalogs are scattered over the country and mid-winter sales are conducted to get what cash may have been left over from Christmas. Usually the mail order houses beat the merchants to the January Clearance sales. Then again in April the catalog houses stage a spring sale, this being a mid-season time when the merchants are not advertising heavily. Again in July the merchants are advertising light in most places and again the mail order fellows get in their work.

During the fall most catalog houses go easy on advertising. The local merchants are going after holiday business with a vengeance at that time of the year and the mail order houses know that it would be a waste of money to try and combat that kind of competition. However, as soon as the Christmas drive is over, the catalog house again comes out in the open, because it knows the merchants intend to rest from advertising for a while.

If merchants could only learn to advertise steadily, even though they have to cut down the size of their space sometimes, and if they would constantly keep their name before the people of their community, they would give the mail order house real competition and would do more good than all the "Buy at Home" editorials that might be written.—The N. E. A. Bulletin.

MRS. TANKERSLEY PASSES

Mrs. C. W. Tankersley, 64, passed to the beyond Saturday morning at 11 o'clock after a long siege of suffering. Burial was had in the Brownfield cemetery following funeral services at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Revs. Curry and Vinson.

Mrs. Tankersley was typically a Western lady. Her home was always open for the entertainment of her friends, or any friends of her children. No one was ever turned from her home without being fed. She was a loving wife and a devoted mother, and her husband and children loved her with a passion almost approaching worship. As Miss Annie Lee Stone, she was converted and joined the Methodist church in early girlhood, and was a consecrated member, attending regularly until she became too ill to go to church. She was born in the State of Kentucky.

In 1888, at Decatur, Texas, she became the wife of C. W. Tankersley. They moved next to Hardeman county, thence to Lamesa in 1920 and to Brownfield in 1922, where they lived since. To this happy union has been born and raised to manhood and womanhood six boys and four girls, all of whom attended the funeral, and all but two living in Brownfield, and together with her devoted husband survive her. The boys are, Elvie, Sam, J. A., Cyrus, Lee and Sylvan. The girls are Mrs. Exa Mayes, Roscoe; Mrs. Eva Simmons, Electra, and Mesdames Lola Hunter and Effie Sawyer, of Brownfield.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to this grief stricken family.

BROCKMAN

Emory C. Brockman, 12-year-old son of Elder Brockman of the Poole community, died last Friday night of typhoid pneumonia. We understand that another of the children have the same disease. Emory had been a cripple since he was four years of age.

Funeral was conducted at Johnson school house at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, by Elder Robt. Drennon, of this city, following the body was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery. He was a member of the church of Christ. He also leave to mourn his passing four brothers and three sisters.

O. E. Pollock was in this week from the Union community after his egg stamp, he had us order. They received quite a nice rain in his community about ten days ago, and he reports they are not suffering and that crops are looking nicely.

"HOLLOW LOG" STORY

"Hollow Log," the fire-scathed remains of a giant tree so large that it has been used for a school house, church, family residence and various other purposes, is one of the unusual attractions to be found near Porterville, California, located on the edge of the high Sierras and not far removed from the Sequoia National Forest.

According to carefully kept records, the log was discovered by a group of sheep herders in 1867, and charcoal writings, still legible, show that the log was visited by other persons in 1871. In 1882, J. J. Doyle filed timber rights on the property and he and his family lived in the log for several years. During this time it was divided into three rooms.

After Mr. Doyle built a home home for his family, school and church services were held in the log. Later it was used as a barn and a place in which to store farm machinery. One year it was filled with apples. Then Mr. Doyle converted his place into a summer resort and drew thousands of visitors. He constructed a dance platform and used the log for an orchestra pit.

Now the spot is known as Balch Park and is under state supervision. "Hollow Log" must have been a tree that stood fully 250 feet high. It crashed to the ground while on fire but fell into deep snow which snuffed out the fire. In falling it stripped the limbs from Lady Alice, a tree of similar size which stands about 100 feet away.

Sunset Rock, Centennial Stump and House Tree, in which a man once lived, are other attractions in or near Balch Park.—The Earth.

FUNDS FOR HOMES SUPPLIED BY BANKS

By ROME C. STEPHENSON
President American Bankers Association

A LARGE portion of the funds required in home building always has been furnished by banks. They have shown constantly a deep interest in the performance of this feature of national development. Upon it rests much of our country's future stability, and any contribution to its advancement is to the advantage of all. So banking has never permitted its co-operative attitude toward home building.

Practically all banks now accept savings deposits which can well be turned to the advantage of the home builders. The construction of individual dwellings requires a large amount of financing and is a thoroughly commendable enterprise. Necessarily, the aid given to home builders is governed by the sound banking rules which have grown out of the years of experience and the constant studies of bank practices.

All of the efforts made to secure broader real estate loan privileges, to adjust resources to make it possible to lend larger sums for long terms, the standardization of mortgage loan formulas, and the actual lending of vast sums on mortgage notes evidence the desire of banks to contribute a full measure of support to the home-building movement. This is true of all classes of banks, but even in a more marked degree of those whose deposits are largely in the form of savings and whose loans are primarily for building or home purchasing purposes.

Both Sides Protected

The process through which bank loans are made on real estate is as simple as the nature of such an important transaction will permit. When money is advanced the lender must know that repayment will be made the specified time. Likewise the borrower wants to be assured that, after he has figured the loan on the basis of his conservatively anticipated ability to pay, he will not be required to do more, that he will not be disturbed in his efforts to work out of his obligations under those terms. Whether his agreement is to repay the entire loan in three or five years, or on a monthly or yearly basis, he wants the assurance that no additional burdens will be imposed upon him. All of this is settled definitely in advance.

There is no mystery about any of the details, and when the negotiations are complete the borrower knows just what he may expect and what he will be required to do to meet his obligations.

Loans made to persons who wish to acquire homes are not necessarily building loans. One may wish to purchase a home already constructed. In this form of transaction bank loans are used very freely because it is the only kind of a real estate loan some classes of banks may make. Others of course, may lend upon real estate with improvements uncompleted and advance funds as the construction progresses. Different styles in home financing have developed in the various states, and banks have tried to adapt their facilities to the needs. Whatever character of assistance is required in any particular instance usually can be found in some bank in the local community.

Among banks and borrowers for home acquisition purposes a long established and thoroughly tested relationship exists. Banks are not the only agencies through which such funds are available; they do not embody all the spirit of helpfulness which abounds. However, through the years of their co-operation their aid has been of unquestioned value to the home builders whose efforts to establish a permanence for themselves have received constant encouragement. Bankers everywhere are ready to counsel with their customers about their home-building plans and to assist to the extent of their ability. This is being done constantly and the many advantages of it are not without recognition.

Hubby—"I'd almost go crazy."

Wife—"Would you marry again?"

Hubby—"No, I wouldn't go as crazy as that."

Farm Service by a Bank

A farm service department was inaugurated a year ago by a bank in Olympia, Washington, and a farm advisor appointed. Close co-operation has been maintained with the state college extension service. Work is being carried on in conjunction with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Also a pasture contest was held in cooperation with the four banks in the county which offered prizes amounting to $100. Work in poultry was carried on in cooperation with the Co-operative Poultry Association and assistance was given in organizing an economic conference for the benefit of berry growers. The farm advisor of the bank is active in the Agricultural Council of the county composed of farm and other organizations interested in agricultural development, and also in the Farmers' Market. Six hundred farm business analysis blanks were distributed while farm account books and poultry record books were also provided to farmers and have been helpful in starting many farmers in keeping business records.

DEATH OF MR. WHEAT

Mr. Bread White died at the family residence, known as "the pit" after lingering illness attributed to over exposure in Washington, to a dreaded disease being fatal to business, known as Hoover's farm relief.

Mr. Wheat was born in the year of Joseph "B. C." survived the panics and depressions of all ages only to be stricken down in the year of 30, lived an honorable and upright life before God and man, serving with unflinching zeal, faith and confidence the human race for more than 2,000 years without regard to race, creed or color. A friend and faithful servant in war as well as in peace, the farmer's best friend, he stood for upright, honorable, sound, logical and reasonable business methods. A devout believer and exponent of free and unrestricted commerce between nations and individuals, based upon intelligent thinking and honorable practices.

Mr. Wheat is survived by three great grandsons—Doubt, Guess and Gamble. A legally adopted step-son, Hoover's Farm Board, who was constantly at his bedside during his last days and is now sitting up with the corpse; two daughter-in-laws survive him, who were with him constantly when he was exposed to this dreaded and fatal business disease known as Farm Relief, also called Stabilization—Mrs. Broken Down Bankrupt Coops and Mrs. Peanut Politician.

The death of this honorable character is a distinct loss to the economic world, he being one of its most faithful and responsible servants.

Services will be conducted by the Rt. Rev. Alexander Yegge and the body will lie in state for public inspection between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 1:15 p. m., each business day until the remains can be smelled as far east as Washington.

Burial—if any—will be in the campaign of 1932 and the honorary pall bearers will be selected by the present farm board.

By request, no flowers, donate the proceeds to the relief of some worthy farmer, the most of whom have been relieved of everything in God's great garden except taxes, debts and right to free air.—Webster (S.D.) Journal

CHEAP AT ANY PRICE

"How is it," asked an Englishman of an American friend, "that the Yankees got on so well in business, while many Englishmen fail?"

"Brains, my boy!" was the reply.

"You should eat more fish. Give me five dollars and I'll get you some of the fish that my wife buys me. Eat it and see how you get on."

The Englishman parted with his five dollars and the fish was sent to him. Next day he met the Yankee again. "How did you get on?" the Yankee asked.

"Well it was splendid fish!"

"Do you feel any different?"

"No, I can't say I feel any different," said the Englishman, "but five dollars was a lot for a piece of fish wasn't it?"

"There you are!" said the Yankee. "Your brain is begging to work already!"

STAR PART COMES EASIEST

"May I be a preacher when I grow up?" asked the small boy.

"Of course you may, my pet, if you want to," his mother replied.

"Yes I do. I s'pose I've got to go to church all my life, anyway, and it's a good deal harder to sit still than to stand up and holler."—Boyland.

On account of the "repression" the Herald and family were unable to attend the State Press Association meeting at San Angelo this week. Boy, it's L to be poor.

SIN CLAIR BELIEVES OIL PRICES AT BOTTOM

H. F. Sinclair, chairman of Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co., said at the annual meeting last week that he believed oil prices are getting very close to bottom.

Consumption of gasoline has increased slightly this year over 1930, but the industry as a whole is "not making any money," he said.

Regarding proration, Sinclair said the industry had had proration two years "and while the production has been prorated, the price has also been prorated so that I do not think we have accomplished very much by that system."

PHEASANTS, RENO COUNTY.

—Through the efforts of the Izaak Walton League, Reno County is the leading County in Kansas for pheasants. The estimate is for more than 5,000 birds. Some say they are beneficial to farms; others that they are harmful. Those holding to the latter view, have pretty good eating. —The Earth.
