16 Killed, 91 Hurt In Blast At Sioux City

By MARTIN MILLER
INS Staff Correspondent

SIOUX CITY Ia., Dec. 14.—An explosion which witnesses likened to a bomb blast ripped through Swift & Co.'s Sioux City packing plant today and killed 16 persons.

Two others were reported missing and feared dead.

Lt. Cmdr. M. W. Feddersen of the Sioux City naval unit directing rescue operations earlier had listed the death toll at 18 but said a re-check showed 16 bodies recovered from the ruins. All were identified.

Nurse Is Victim

One woman, a nurse, was among the casualties of the blast which shattered the city's noontime calm and spewed high into the air smoke that was visible a mile away.

Eleven other persons were listed as critically injured in the disaster which struck horror into the 82,000 inhabitants of the nation's fourth largest meat packing center.

Dr. E. J. Tierney, city health physician, reported that 91 persons were admitted to hospitals but that 32 were discharged later after treatment. Some of those hurt were treated on the scene.

Digging Continued

Rescue workers continued digging through the twisted mass of wreckage and debris tonight under floodlights in the freezing weather in an effort to uncover the bodies of employes reported missing.

A spokesman from Swift's industrial relations section said, meanwhile, that "as things look now we will probably re-open within three days." The official, who refused to be identified, said the operations would be set up in adjoining buildings.

The blast roared up from the basement through the first and second floors of the six-story building and blew out the west wall and shattered all the windows in the brick structure.

Gas Leak Blamed

Fire Chief Charles B. Kuhl and City Public Safety Superintendent Walter W. Lindgren blamed a natural gas leak in a pipeline for the terrifying explosion which was felt a mile and a half away in downtown Sioux City.

Kuhl said he was unable to determine immediately what sparked the thunderous roar which sent bricks cascading into the streets, burying three automobiles and shattering a railroad bax car.

The basement and first floors on the south side of the structure

Red Leader Gets Death As Titoist

SOFIA, Dec. 14. (INS).— Traicho Kostov, the little Bulgarian Communist denounced by Soviet Premier Stalin, was sentenced to death tonight by a Sofia court as a "Titoist" and Anglo-American agent.

Ten other Bulgarian leaders who pleaded guilty, begged for mercy and called the former deputy premier a traitorous pro-Yugoslav ideological leader, got prison terms ranging from eight years to life imprisonment.

Kostov, known as "the little man who said no," was condemned to the gallows. Alone Kostov had asserted his innocence of being a Yugoslav or Anglo-American agent.

In this defiant course Kostov had surprised the court at the opening of the trial last Wednesday by repudiating a confession ascribed to him by police before

50,000 In Area Eligible To Cast Ballots

Farmers To Vote On Cotton Quotas Today

SOUTH PLAINS farmers will join other cotton producers in the nation today to decide by ballot whether federal cotton marketing quotas will go into effect in 1950.

Although more than 50,000 South Plains farmers, landlords and their wives are eligible to vote, farm observers feared a light turnout in the area because of the harvest rush and strong opinion that approval is certain.

However, the realization by farmers that they face one of the most important elections in the history of this cotton-rich belt may bring a heavier turnout than has been indicated by the feeling of pre-election confidence.

Favorable Vote Expected

Authoritative opinion apparently was unanimously of the expectation that the South Plains vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of the restoration of federal controls in 1950.

But, to be put into effect, they must be approved by at least two-thirds of the voters throughout the nation who cast ballots.

A large poll on the South Plains has been urged by farm leaders as a possible offset to the opposition vote in some regions where the turnout is sure to be heavy.

Polling Places Set Up

Officials of the Production and Marketing administration said attempts have been made to arrange for polling places in practically every community of every cotton producing area.

Voting hours will be from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m.

Eligible to vote are all landlords, farmers, tenants, sharecroppers and others including wives, directly interested in the production of cotton during 1948.

It is not necessary that they possess a poll tax receipts or exemption certificate.

5,000 In Lubbock

The estimated qualified vote in Lubbock county is about 5,000. Polling places in the county follow:

Hardy community—at the Caldwell gin.

Becton—the old school building.

City of Lubbock — the courthouse, College Avenue Co-op gin and the McCoy and Ely gin.

Idalou—city hall.

Hurlwood—the Hurlwood gin.

Roosevelt—the school building.

Shivers Cold To Sales Tax

By MAC ROY RASOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, Dec. 14 — A suggested sales tax to solve the state's financial woes brought a new quick "no" from Gov. Allan Shivers today.

The suggestion came at a statewide oil proration hearing where a bleak picture was painted for any hopes of oil revenue building back the depleting treasury.

H. P. Nichols of Tyler, executive vice president of the East Texas Oil association, started the sales tax talk. Commissioner Olin Culberson suggested that less expenditures might work better than more taxes. Two legislators later offered some other suggestions.

Gov. Shivers did not repeat his oft-reported tax stand (a little tax on a lot of items) but quickly expressed personal disfavor for sales taxes.

"We've got to have some additional money for state hospitals," the governor said. "If we can get it from a combination of cutting back some expenditures and additional revenue, that's all right. But I'm personally against a sales tax."

He said the cutback in January crude allowable "makes the situation more serious." The legislature is scheduled to meet in January to try to balance the state budget and to find money not now in sight for eleemosynary needs.

Decrease Seen

Unquestionably further downturn in revenue from crude oil was indicated by these railroad commission figures:

1. Foreign oil imports are on the increase—353,000 barrels daily last year, 445,000 this year, and 624,000 forecast for next year.

2. Above-ground storage is on the increase—131,000 barrels daily being added to the Texas stockpile during the week ending Dec. 3.

3. Decreased demand—January daily allowable cut 83,373 barrels under December, reflecting decreased nominations from purchasers.

Nichols said the figures presented "a very dark picture."

"We've got to look for other sources of taxation. The depressing market will no longer permit the oil industry to pay all or any part of the state's increasing grocery bill," he said.

Nichols agreed with Culberson's

Testimony Opens In Murder Trial

AMARILLO, Dec. 14. (AP)— A state's witness in the murder trial of Dwight Hoskins told today how Charles Lee Freeman, 21, died of a gunshot wound in the chest without being able to name his attacker.

Freeman, a physically handicapped youth, was shot fatally Oct. 5 when two men robbed the filling station here of Wornie Kelley.

Kelley testified that he hurried to his station when Freeman did not answer the telephone. He found Freeman lying on the floor of the filing station office.

"I got a pillow and put it under his head and asked him what was the matter," Kelley said. "He said 'Wornie, I've been shot', but he died before he could say who did it."

Kelley said he found Freeman's pockets turned inside out and $31.11 missing from the station cash register.

Kelley was the first of about 20 witnesses the state will present.

Hoskins, 24, former Amarillo High school football star, and Pvt. Donald Gene Young, 21, were arrested a few days after the shooting and charged with murder. Both are being held in jail here without bond.

BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A HEATER?—This little bird found a winter apartment in Lubbock to break the cold north winds, picking the inside of the letter "A" on the front of the First National Bank building at Main and Texas avenue. Hunt Pressed For Lost Girl

(By International News Service)

KELSO, Wash. Dec. 14. — Cowlitz county's prosecuting attorney entered the search for Ruth Aberle today by asking the sheriff to round up for questioning the nine young men and women with the 16-year-old girl when she disappeared Sunday in the heavily overgrown Ostrander creek area.

Prosecutor Joe L. Johnson made it plain that he does not suspect any of the girl's companions of anything but that he wanted to talk to them for his "own satisfaction".

His decision to probe for information followed a visit to the search camp. Considerable criticism has arisen over the methods in which the search has been conducted. Some searchers have openly expressed the belief that the girl has met with foul play.

Were Quizzed Thoroughly

Sheriff C. W. Reynolds told Johnson that all members of the party were questioned thoroughly at the beginning of the search.

Those to be questioned by Johnson included two brothers of Ruth — Bill Aberle, 18, and Fritiz Aberle, 15. Oothers in the party were Kenny Riblett, 21, Kelso; Hugh Ashley, 17, Kelso; Gerald Ashley, 17 Kelso; Dave Ammons, 18; Kelso; Caroline Bakkala, 17, Longview; Ramona Scherer, 18, Longview, and Rita Doughy, 17, Longview.

Many searchers complained that the search had not been too well directed. Those who persisted in the foul play theory pointed out that it would be difficult to walk far in any direction without stumbling across a creek, railroad, road or other path leading to

Truck Driver Hurt In Refinery Blast

ABILENE, Tex., Dec. 14. (AP)—A cracking tower at the Onyx Oil refinery seven miles north of here blew up this afternoon. A spectacular fire followed.

H. L. Price, sr., of Abilene, truck driver who was delivering a truck load of casing head blending gasoline, suffered a broken arm.

Flames and smoke mushroomed high into the air following the blast. The fire destroyed the cracking tower, which was a vapor separator, and the refinery's small control building.

Jack Leveringwn general manager, declined to estimate damages. He said the refinery was closed down by the explosion and he could not estimate how soon operations could be resumed.

Clearing Skies Forecast For Area

Cold Front Expected To Ease Grip Today

A THREE-DAY cold snap on the South Plains is expected to break slightly today, the Weatherman said last night—but keep that overcoat handy.

The mercury was down to 23 degrees at 12:30 o'clock this morning and the forecaster talked in terms of a teeth-chattering 20 degrees or lower early this morning.

Clearing skies and temperatures in the middle 40's was the forecast for this afternoon as the Lubbock weather bureau eased away from previous predictions of light rains for today and Friday.

Skies Expected To Clear

Although the Weatherman said light drizzles were possible in the area before dawn today, he said clearing skies to the west indicated cloudiness would leave the Lubbock area around noon today.

Wednesday was winter's day on the South Plains, with a maximum temperature of only 35 degrees in Lubbock—lowest of the season.

Light snow for the South Plains area also was reported. A Reese Air Force base pilot said he ran into light snow 15 to 20 miles west of Plainview about 8 p.m.

New Low Foreseen

Clouds in the Lubbock area began to break late last night, with temperatures skidding downward as the protective blanket moved away. The forecaster said the mercury might get down to 15 degrees, which would crack the season low of 19 posted Tuesday morning.

The Weatherman warned against too much optimism in in the warmer weather department, pointing out that low temperatures Friday morning may reach down into the middle 20's. However, he said partly cloudy skies may bring Friday afternoon readings above the middle 40's expected for today.

Northeast winds are expected to shift from east to south by Friday, the forecaster said.

Although the local Weather bureau favored clearing conditions over light showers for today, the Dallas Weather bureau continued to call for light rain in the Panhandle, South Plains and the Pe-

Oklahoma Solons Propose New Name For 'Denison Dam'

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 14. — Cock your longhorn ear over Oklahoma way, you Texans—the folks in this state got a complaint.

They don't think it's right for the Denison dam—part in Oklahoma, part in Texas—to be called "Denison dam." They say, too, it's the fault of you Texans.

The House of Representatives approved a resolution which asks that the dam be renamed the "Okachito dam."

$150 Is Taken In Theater Break-In

A burglary, several thefts, and a possible hijacking were under investigation of peace officers here Wednesday.

I. B. Walker, manager of the Arcadia theater at 1213 Ave. H, informed police Wednesday morning that intruders had entered the building and taken $150 in change from a desk which had been pried open.

He said a filing cabinet also had been forced but that nothing else except a flashlight had been taken. Method of entry to the theater had not been definitely established.

Kenneth Richard Nutter of Northington W. Va. told officials that he had accepted a ride with a motorist at Snyder early Wednesday, became ill, and woke up in a barrow pit sometime later, his suitcase missing.

Initials "KRN" are on the bag, which contained important papers and most of his clothing, Nutter said.

A 17-year-old soldier, said to be absent without leave from his post at Fort Francis E. Warren, Wyo.,

U. S. Is Urged Not To Follow

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. —Members of Congress today assailed Britain's decision to recognize Communist China and demanded that the United States not follow suit.

State department officials said the British decision came as "no surprise" but carefully avoided any

Rep. Kee (D-W Va), another of full recognition to the Reds.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) called the British decision a mistake and said the U.S. must not repeat the "error" while Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) declared he would vote against confirmation of any U.S. ambassador to Communist China if Washington grants recognition.

Move "Unfortunate"

Rep. Kee (D-W. Va), another of the House Foreign Affairs committee, said the British decision "is very unfortunate at this time" and Rep. Mansfield (D-Mont), another influential member of the House Group, expressed hope that "we don't follow suit."

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), just back from the Orient, said in a telephone conversation from the West coast that recognition of the Chinese Red government "by any western power will be as great a blow to human freedom as was the pact of Munich . . ."

Congressional reaction came quickly after a British government spokesman said in London that Britain and the Commonwealth have approved a decision to grant full recognition to theReds.

Conference Set

The spokesman said that formal announcement may not be forthcoming until after the commonwealth diplomats discuss Far East problems in a conference next month at Colombo, Ceylon.

The British action came as no surprise to the American government, but so far as newsmen could ascertain the State department policy was still up in the air.

Secretary Acheson was questioned at his news conference today about prospects of U.S. recognition of the Reds before the British government's announcement was made.

For the most part, he fenced with newsmen. He agreed that treatment of U.S. diplomats in China would have a maor bearing on any decision—and that presently they certainly had little protection.

Panama Regime Okayed

Acheson then was pressed about one sentence in today's announcement that the U.S. is recognizing the Arias government in Panama. It was stressed that the new Panamanian regime had not come into power through any "intervention or other interference by any foreign government."

The secretary was asked whether this formula would apply to Communist China. He said that

COTTON BY THE MILE—Symbolic of the mammoth South Plains cotton crop, the long line of loaded cotton trailers, shown in the photo above, await service at the Roundup gin, about 18 miles northwest of Lubbock. While the line in the picture extends for approximately a third of a mile, it is only about one third of the entire line. Behind the last trailer shown in the photo to the right, were two lines of trailers parked on both shoulders of a rural road. Besides the long line of loaded trailers on the highway, more than 50 were parked on the gin yards awaiting a turn under the suction pipe. The field of shocked feed in the background is an uncommon sight this fall on the Plains as almost all acreage went into cotton. This may be the last of the "great" cotton years for this area as farmers vote today on the new cotton control program which may set up cotton quotas for the nation. (Staff Photo by Bill Hams.)

Weight Of Sentiment Found In Favor Of Spain As UN Member

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 14.—Public attitudes seem to be softening toward Franco Spain.

A little more than a year ago the weight of sentiment among persons familiar with the Franco regime was opposed to letting Spain join the United Nations.

Today, in a comparable public opinion survey, the weight of sentiment is favorable to Spanish membership in the world organization.

Also, there is substantial sentiment in favor of our resuming the custom of exchanging ambassadors with Spain. Although the United States did not break off diplomatic relations with the Madrid government, we have sent no ambassador to Spain since 1945, and Spain is represented here only by a Charge d' Affaires.

Russia and her associated powers in the United Nations, as well as England, have opposed admitting Spain to the United Nations. The American State Department attitude has also been firm against Franco Spain.

To find out how the general public feels today about the issue of Spanish entry into the U. N., the Institute had its interviewers put a series of questions to a balanced cross-section of adults throughout the 48 states.

They were first asked if they could identify the name Franco. A total of 56 percent were able to give a correct identification, while 44 percent either identified the Spanish leader incorrectly or said they don't know who Franco is.

Those able to identify him were then asked:

"Under its present government do you think Spain should or should not become a member of the United Nations?"

Here is the vote:

Should	26%
Should not	18%
No opinion	12
	56%
Not familiar with Franco regime	44%

In a comparable survey in November, 1948, a total of 53 percent identified the name Franco correctly, and these divided as follows on the issue of membership in the United Nations:

NOVEMBER 1948

Should	18%
Should not	25
No opinion	10
	53%

Exchange Of Ambassadors

In 1946, when breaking of diplomatic relations with Spain was being agitated, a public opinion survey found a mixed public reaction. While voters were not inclined to be sympathetic toward the Spanish government and were opposed to letting Spain into the U. N. at that time, they were evenly divided on the issue of whether the United States should go so far as to break off diplomatic relations with Spain.

The vote was 43 percent in favor, 43 percent opposed and 14 percent undecided.

The compromise step of maintaining relations but withdrawing our ambassador was taken by the State Department later that year.

Here is how the country feels today about resuming ambassadorial relations:

"Do you think we should or should not exchange ambassadors with Spain?"

Should	31%
Should not	14
No opinion	11
	56%
Not familiar with Franco regime	44%

DEFENSE DENIES LATEST CLAIM

Prosecutor Charges Iowa Youth Had Threatened To Kill Co-Ed

By LEE FERRERO
INS Staff Correspondent

IOWA CITY, Ia., Dec. 14 — A prosecutor charged today that Robert Bednasek threatened to kill the University of Iowa co-ed he is accused of murdering if she dated other men and the report was immediately labeled "untrue" by defense attorneys.

County attorney Jack White reported the alleged death threat, saying his department's investigation had disclosed that Bednasek was jealous of Margaret Anne (Gee Gee) Jackson, 20, the slain co-ed.

Claims Statement Signed

He said:

"We have a signed statement from a co-ed and friend of the slain girl that Bednasek had told her he would kill her if she went out with other men."

Clair E. Hamilton, Bednasek's attorney, scoffed at the report, declaring:

"As far as we are concerned there's no truth to that report.

"Bednasek and Miss Jackson were in love and had a complete understanding about friends, school work and other matters. And Bednasek was not jealous."

Says Slaying Was Accident

Bednasek is charged with first degree murder in the strangulation slaying which has rocked the famed University of Iowa campus. He denied he murdered the girl, saying "It must have been an accident; it happened when I sort of blacked out while showing her a choke hold."

Miss Jackson, a senior student in abnormal psychology as was Bednasek, met death as the climax of a candlelight dinner of lobster and burgundy wine in a dingy rooming house where the accused youth lived.

Johnson county authorities have charged Bednasek sought the aid of a psychiatrist to "help him control homicidal and suicidal impulses."

Bednasek and Miss Jackson had dated last Saturday night after she had taken another student, C. Warren Shelton, 20, Denver, Colo., to her sorority dance the night before. Bednasek admitted to police he was "a little perturbed about it, but I was satisfied with Gee Gee's explanation."

Campus friends described the young couple's romance as "apparently idyllic." They were reportedly engrossed in each other at university functions.

Students who withheld their identity because of fear of expulsion related that Bednasek worked long hours under the stimulant of benzedrine in order to court his campus sweetheart in style. Bednasek worked as a fry cook and waiter in the university's Amvet's club, where he and Miss Jackson met almost daily.

County authorities have questioned the slain girl's roommate and other co-eds.

When advised of reports in Cedar Rapids, Bednasek's hometown, that the accused reportedly had told friends he would take drastic action if he were "two-timed," county attorney White declared:

"That amplifies the findings of our investigation.

"I can tell you that we have information that Bednasek had warned his girl friend about dating other men, but we will not divulge the source of our information."

U. S. Cities Branded Dull, Dirty, Ugly At Club Luncheon Here

By EMMETT SHOCKLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

That American cities are dull, dirty, and downright ugly was the charge made Wednesday night by Dr. Scott E. Bedford, noted sociologist, who spoke at a dinner of the Knife and Fork club at the Hilton hotel.

"In the development of a beauty interest, the United States lags behind every civilized nation," Dr. Bedford stated, pointing out that this lack of emphasis toward beauty has shown up in the planning of American cities.

Beauty Affects Children

He pointed out that the influence of physical environment is very great in the development of children, who absorb it easily. Because of this, beautiful cities will have a higher degree of useful citizens, he said.

"There are six springs of human interest, and in five of these, health, wealth, knowledge, sociability, and rightness, our interests have been developed and satisfied," stated Dr. Bedford.

"However, the sixth, the beauty interest, is utterly famished, and has been crowded out of existence."

Colored Slides Shown

Dr. Bedford, who has photographed and studied the beauties of many great cities of the world, and has given considerable time to the study of city plinning, showed hand-painted slides of methods employed by cities of the world to enhance their beauty.

Lubbock he called new and clean, and said people here have a wonderful opportunity to develop a beautiful city. He suggested that the type of architecture most fitting to the area would be low and sprawling edifices, symbolic of the broad expansiveness of the Plains.

The most beautiful of the large cities of the United States, according to Dr. Bedford, is Washington. On a world-wide basis, he said he would choose among Paris, Rio de Janiero, and Buenos Aires.

Variety Called Important

He called variety one of the chief characteristics of beauty, and illustrated his point with the slides. He also commented that the inside of a home can be a gift of beauty to the family and to friends. "The outside of the home can be a gift of beauty to the world," he said.

Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, former president of the club, introduced the speaker. The Rev. A. W. Hall offered the invocation. Dr. A. G. Barsh, club president, presided.

Texas Military District Head Praises Liberal Leave Policy

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (Special) — Col. Oscar B. Abbott, chief of the Texas Military district, this week praised the liberal leave policies adopted by a major segment of "big business," but said he was convinced that thousands of "small" Texas businessmen still have to be sold on the fact that the citizen-soldier is the real bulwark of the national defense.

Top military officials, including Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, have expressed the view that the fair and democratic way to achieve and maintain national security is for all individuals and businesses to share as equitably as possible the inconveniences which it demands.

By law, federal and state employes in Texas who are members of the civilian components are guaranteed two weeks of military leave with pay annually.

Defense department officials have expressed satisfaction with progress made and the cooperation received from industry during the last three years. But the problem has not been solved to the satisfaction of all parties concerned. The Army is more convinced than ever that two weeks of training duty annually is vital for Organized reservists and National Guardsmen to be of any real value on M-Day.

THE 1949 Christmas cards display more variety than the contents of Santa's pack. To express your "Merry Christmas" wishes, more than 35,000 designs are available this year — the greatest number ever. Publishers estimate that 1,600,000,000 Christmas cards will be posted throughout the nation — an average of 40 cards per family.

Colorful and unusual cards have become a inseparable part of our holiday customs. Have you received cards that are unusual in design or greeting? We'd like to hear about them. They should make interesting reading. Please call us or write us, describing the cards and telling from whom they were sent. We'd like to hear.

TODAY'S GAG

I HAVEN'T had a bite for days," said a tramp to the landlady of and English inn called the George and Dragon. "Do you think you could spare me one?"

"Certainly not," snapped the landlady.

"Thank you," said the tramp, and slouched off. A few minutes later he was back.

"What do you want now?" snarled the landlady.

"Could I have a few words with George?" said the tramp.

YULE DECORATIONS

HAVE you ever wished you had just one more room where you could go all out on holiday decorations? If your house is small and can't accomodate all the Christmas spirit you feel, try using the front porch as part of your indoor decorating theme.

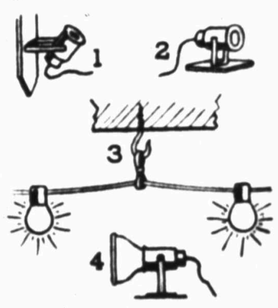

And by the way, how about listing your decorated window, doorway or tree in the Avalanche-Journal annual Christmas lighting contest? Saturday is the deadline. Call the office and ask for Mrs. Naomi Caddell.

OUTDOOR LIGHTING

WITH proper wire, sockets and fixtures outdoor holiday lighting is almost as simple as rewiring a lamp for your living room. Here are a few basic rules suggested by lighting specialists which you may want to consult when lighting up for the holidays.

First of all, always use two-conductor outdoor rubber cord, with weather-prof plugs if extensions are to be used.

When wiring for flood or spot lights, use one of the many adjustable weather-proof lampholders.

Several of the possible ways to mount these holders are pictured here. As shown in sketch No. 1, the holder may be mounted to a board peg or, as shown in drawing No. 2, the bulbholder may be mounted on a base of scrap board. Drawing No. 4 shows a projector lamp in a standard outdoor holder. Although you cannot see it in the drawing, outdoor holders allow for easy adjustment of the light beam.

When evergreen festooning is used in the same location in succeeding years, you may want to use wire screw eyes or hooks for convenience, as shown in drawing No. 3.

Tape wires so they will not rub against metal hooks and be sure to place the hooks close together to prevent lamps from striking the wall in the wind, lighting experts warn.

FLIERS MAKE 'TEST' FLIGHTS

Pilot Says Crash Landing Was Possible Before Dallas Crash

DALLAS, Dec. 14. (AP)— Capt. Laurens (Tommy) Claude said today he would have crash-landed, rather than try to regain altitude, had he known only two engines were functioning on the DC-6 which crashed here Nov. 29.

"I would not have attempted to go around, but would have ditched, there and then," he testified as a Civil Aeronautics board hearing into the crash ended. Twenty-eight persons were killed in the crash.

"What the consequences of that ditching (crash landing) would have been, no one will ever know."

Two Engines Out

Co-Pilot Robert E. Lewis testified yesterday he stopped the No. 4 engine just before the crash, without the pilot's knowledge, because it wasn't giving any power. The No. 1 engine already was out of operation at the time.

Claude said today he thought "right up to the last second" that he had the power of three engines. He said it is possible to make a safe landing with only two engines had he known only two were operating, he would have brought the plane on down.

The 52-year-old pilot added:

"I was in complete command and fully responsible for the aircraft. My crew were thoroughly instructed in their duties.

"I have complete confidence in the crew I had. If we go back to flying, I want to fly with them."

Capt. Walter Braznell, American airlines' director of flight, disclosed Capt. Claude joined a flight made last Sunday to test a similar plane under conditions as nearly as possible the same as those that preceded the crash.

Test Flights Made

Seven different approaches were made with the No. 1 engine feathered. At the crucial time the fuel flow was shut off from No. 4 engine — as Lewis testified he did at the time of the crash.

Braznell testified the sharp "yaw and roll" of the plane, with a quick drop of 250 feet, was noted each time, and that the maneuver required the pilot to keep both hands on the wheel and exert his entire strength to pull the ship back to a level plane. He said the pilot could not have released even one hand from the wheel, and was forced to depend on his crewmen to handle throttle and switches.

The hearing officially adjourned after two and one half days of testimony. All testimony will be briefed and sent to Washington for a month of study before a decision is reached as to probable cause of the accident.

BUSINESS GROUP MAKES REPORT

National Security Costs May Remain High For Many Years

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — The Committee for Economic Development estimated today that national security will cost at least $20,000,000,000 a year for years to come.

In the face of this costly cold war defense, it urged definite action to: (1) Safeguard civilian supremacy in the republic, (2) strengthen long-range security and (3) protect individual freedom.

The CED, an organization of business executives, said the $20,000,000,000 estimate on the annual cost of security for the next several years embraces several items. Military defense is the big one, followed by rearming of non-Communist nations, European recovery spending, atomic energy development, U. S. broadcasts overseas, and much of the government's diplomacy and intelligence work.

Civilian Leadership Urged

One of its principal recommendations was for a transfusion of civilian leadership into the whole security program. The CED criticized today's preparedness planning as being "neither efficient nor in balance."

And, while urging continued strong action against subversive activities, it called for caution in the handling of "loyalty" inquiries. The CED declared:

"Necessary investigations into loyalty can deteriorate into witch hunts which threaten the whole structure of individual freedom."

Fear Of War Remains

In summary, the report stated: "The fear of war may dominate our lives for a generation" security outlays, abroad and at home, can impose a drain on the nation's resources and a strain on the free American society; and it is time to bulwark the country against this hazard to its liberties.

CED was organized during the war to plan ahead for economic growth and high employment. Its statements on tax and economic policy and other matters have been credited with influencing legislation.

The new report was the work of its research and policy committee, headed by Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of Eastman Kodak Co., and including such businessmen as William L. Clayton, cotton factor and former undersecretary of state.

Services Held For Young Wreck Victim

SEMINOLE, Dec. 14 — Funeral services for R. C. Hurst, 19, who was killed in a highway accident three miles west of Tatum, N. M., about 10:45 o'clock Monday night were held at 3 p. m. today in Seminole First Baptist church.

Rev. T. L. Denton, pastor of that church officiated. Singleton Funeral home announced burial was in Seminole cemtery.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny C. Hurst of Seminole, was employed by the United Geophysical Co. in Arstesia, N. M.

He and Gene Williams, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams of Seminole, were going to Artesia from Seminole when the accident occurred.

Sideswiped Van

Hurst was killed instantly. Williams suffered head injuries. Information received here today indicated Williams condition to be satisfactory at Hobbs General hospital.

The car occupied by Hurst and Williams had passed a truck preparing to pull a stalled moving van and sideswiped the moving van in front of the truck, according to an account of the accident received here.

Survivors of the fatally injured youth are his parents: one sister, Mrs. T. G. Stewart of Seminole, and three brothers, J. C. Hurst of Portales, N. M., A. L. Hurst of Odessa and Bobby Hurst of Seminole

Midland Man Says Government Is 'Partner' In Oil Business

WICHITA, Kans., Dec. 14 (AP) — Two top officers of the Independent Petroleum Association of America called upon Kansas oil men last night to exert themselves on behalf of the industry.

A market for oil produced in the United States and profit incentives are the two things to keep the industry healthy and vigorous, they said. They pictured the market as one threatened by excess oil imports. Attempts to reduce the "percentage depletion allowance" can hurt the profit incentive, they said.

Speakers at the meeting of approximately 200 independent producers were J. Ed Warren of Midland, Tex., new national president of the IPAA, and Harold B. Fell of Ardmore, Okla., IPAA executive vice president.

Warren told the oil men that government is a partner in the oil industry. "It shares in profits, demands and gets them; it takes no risk; its profit is considerable; it manages the business to an extent and demands reports. If the oil man had an individual partner who had such an interest in his business, wouldn't he lose a lot of sleep worrying about how he's getting along?"

Nine thousand IPAA members in 46 states are working for the common cause, he said. "We are primarily interested in a healthy industry. We want fair play, taxes that are not destructive and a chance to progress."

Texas Appeals Court Reverses Judgment In Liquor Case Here

The court of criminal appeals Wednesday reversed and remained to Lubbock county court for a new trial a judgment fining Horton B. (Bo) Sessums, 27, of Lubbock $1,250 and sending him to jail for 90 days.

Attorney E. A. Blair, who argued the case last week on appeal in Austin, had not learned upon what point the decision turned.

The information of the court's finding came over United Press leased wires.

Bob Woodruff Will Continue As Head Coach Of Baylor Bears

Ralph Wolf Becomes Head Of New Stadium Building Plan

WACO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Young Bob Woodruff, who rebuilt Baylor's sagging gridiron fortunes, will continue as head coach.

Less than a week after resigning because of friction with Athletic Director Ralph Wolf, Woodruff accepted the $12,000-a-year job back today while Wolf became vice-president and general manager of the new Baylor stadium.

Woodruff quit Friday night and Wolf also resigned Saturday, stating he was doing so to "clear the atmosphere."

Trouble Undisclosed

At the time a compromise had been worked out by the athletic committee under which Wolf would continue as athletic director but eventually would become stadium director.

The trouble between Woodruff and Wolf was never disclosed. The best reports were that Woodruff wanted to conduct the athletic department on a larger scale—and more expensively—than Wolf thought proper. There also were reports of differences over scheduling and the mode of travel used for the football team.

Announcement that Woodruff and Wolf would remain with Baylor—neither resignation had been accepted—came from Dr. W. R. White, president of the university. He said trustees had ratified action of the athletic committee and a special committee which met Monday.

Woodruff and Wolf accepted the plan before it went to the trustees.

Director Still Needed

The position of athletic director at Baylor is now vacant. It will not be filled until duties and authority of the office are more clearly defined.

The athletic committee of the university last Friday worked out a compromise in the dispute but Woodruff declined to accept. He had said there was an "intolerable" situation and that he did not intend to compromise. Apparently his ultimatum was "Wolf or me."

New Contract Coming Up

Dr. White said the committee "removed Woodruff from the supervision to which he objected in his written request" but that Woodruff later made oral demands that "we could not in good conscience make such a drastic concession."

Woodruff's present three-year contract expires Jan. 1 but he has a new five-year contract starting then that will pay him a reported $12,000 a year.

Thus ended almost a week of turmoil at Baylor during which many of the alumni flooded the university with demands that Woodruff be retained.

Hutchinson Cagers Top Sorry Lot Five

After trailing at halftime, 12-13, the J. T. Hutchinson Junior High school cagers bounced back to defeat Sorry Lot, 24-21, at Boys club Wednesday in the top game of the day.

With Buddy Hill scoring 19 points, the Hutchinson team took over at the end of the third quarter, 16-14, and were never headed. Bobby Tollison garnered nine for the losers.

In a Midget league game Five Angels dropped Galloping Ghosts 28-14, as Jimmy House tallied 13 pointers. Maxwell Noland had six for the Ghosts.

A low-scoring Pee Wee game saw the Wildcats blank the Stampeders, 6-0, with Kenneth Marmaduke scoring four points for the Wildcats. The tilt was a complete reversal of form from Wednesday's game, which saw the highest score of the year in the Pee Wee circuit.

Today at the club the Stampeders try the Buffaloes and Maulers meet the Mustangs in the Pee Wee league. Other games pit the Raiders against the Alley Rats and Hornets against Fungis Five.

Moore was accompanied by three stars of his Texas conference championship eleven, Brad Rowland, Lester Cowan and Co-Capt. Elmo Cumming.

The banquet, held in the American Legion hall, was sponsored by the Petersburg Football Mothers association.

Lettermen on Coach Joe King's Petersburg squad, which won five and lost five in the 1949 season, were listed as Capt. Hal Hegi, Paul Main, Kenneth Meadows, Laural Brunson, Gene Briggs, Buddy Saffle, Tommy Randolph, Gene Martin, Johnny Smith, Herbert Welch, J. W. Marr, Frankie McDaniel, Charles May, Kenneth Reagan, John McCasalin, and Robert Fullingim. Eight Buffalo squadmen also were honored. Petersburg will compete in District 4-B next season.

Borger Bulldogs Defeat Westerners, 49-28

Wilson, Sexton Pace Local Five

(Special To The Avalanche)

BORGER, Dec. 14.—Led by the 17-point shooting of Center Keith Lane and Forward Thomas (Red) Hooper, the Borger Bulldogs exploded here tonight to defeat Lubbock's Westerners, 49-28, before several hundred partisan basketball fans.

After a slow start, the Borgans caught fire in the second half and began hitting shots from all over the court while the defense repeatedly took the ball away from Lubbock players.

Halftime score was 22-17, with Borger owning the advantage. A low-scoring third quarter saw the Bulldogs score but six points while Lubbock was tallying five, but then the barrage of Bulldogs shots began hitting the bucket for 21 points in the final stanza to complete the rout and leave the Lubbock team limp.

Wilson Leads Lubbock

Center Jim Wilson led the Lubbock attack, consistently outjumping Borger's Lane, scoring nine points. Forward Jimmy Sexton had six points, made on one field goal and four of Lubbock's six successful free throws.

The loss was the first for Coach David Cook's Westerner quintet after five previous victories Tex Hanna's Bulldog five came through its 11th game without defeat.

The work of the Borger team drew praise from the young Lubbock cage coach, being mentioned for possible state honors.

Lubbock took an early lead in the contest, with Sexton sinking a field goal after the opening jump, and the Westerners pushed the advantage to 9-5 before Hooper took command, pitching in two free throws and then coming through with two field goals in quick succession to give the Bulldogs an 11-9 quarter lead.

The visitors took the lead again in the second quarter, 13-12, and Wilson was taken from the game as protection because of three fouls, not entering again until after the half.

Lubbock Outplayed

Wilson's replacement, Walter Norton, rangy junior, helped the Lubbock cause with a nice hook shot, sending Lubbock ahead, 17-14, for its largest second quarter lead. But before the half ended Borger burst out in front again, scoring eight points while holding the Westerners scoreless.

The Bulldogs simply outplayed their opponents for the remaining half of the game, making 27 points to only 11 for Lubbock. Hooper hit from all angles and was a defensive standout.

Free throws definitely hurt Lubbock, the Bulldogs scoring 19 points from the free throw line. The Westerners made but six on foul shots.

Bertolino, Henderson Impressive In Drills For Championship Bout

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

Eddie Bertolino, top contender for the Texas lightweight boxing championship, arrived Wednesday in Lubbock from Galveston and promptly went through a rugged workout in preparation for his title bout here Monday night with Levelland's Bill Henderson.

Bertolino, a trimly built youngster of 21, was quite impressive as he sparred two three-minute rounds with Leonard Duncan, a middleweight, at City Club gym. Although outweighed by approximately 30 pounds, Bertolino swapped punches freely, connecting repeatedly with a flashing left jab and a straight right cross. He also weathered some of Duncan's heavy artillery, and displayed some fine footwork in the brief session.

The Galveston youth, who has won approximately 50 of 55 fights in his five years of pro campaigning, appeared to be in good condition, although he said he felt "a little sluggish." His trainer, Louis Massoni, opined that the change from Galveston's sea-level altitude to Lubbock's 3,200-foot elevation possibly had affected Bertolino slightly.

A few minutes after Bertolino finished his workout, Henderson climbed into the same ring for a brisk sparring match. The Levelland lightweight seemingly was near top form, although an ear injury suffered in a recent bout has not completely healed.

All indications point to a slambang battle when Bertolino and Henderson get together. With the state lightweight throne now vacant, this match between the No. 1 and No. 5 contenders has been sanctioned as a championship affair, over the 15-round route.

Belt For Winner

Although outranked by Bertolino in the official state listings, Henderson is a 6-5 betting favorite over the Galvestonian. The Levelland ace has won 29 of 31 pro bouts, having lost only two to Frenchman Jean Mougin, and local fight fans apparently think he is ready to take over the championship chair.

Promoter Edd Sides announced Wednesday that Monday night's winner will be awarded a sterling silver championship belt immediately after the fight.

Sides said ticket sales slowed somewhat Wednesday, but that he anticipated a full house for the title scrap. Ducats, priced at $4 ringside, $3 reserved and $2 general admission, are on sale daily at Hub clothiers, Tech drug and City Club gym.

Duncan Vs. Amado

Three preliminary bouts will round out the Monday night program. In the six-round semifinal, Leonard Duncan will square off with El Paso's Young Amado in a "rubber match." In two previous bouts, each has scored one victory. Duncan's loss to Amado, incidentally, is the only blot on his nine-fight professional record.

In four-round events, Juan Herrera of El Paso will meet Enrique Morales, San Antonio, in a featherweight go, and Joe Chaplin, Shreveport, will face Jimmy Moreland, Lubbock, in a welterweight scrap.

Overhull Downs Kasaboski In Go

Old-style and modern wrestling were seen at Sled Allen's wrestling arena Wednesday night on an action-packed wrestling card.

Using the slam-bang tactics of th modernists were George Overhull and Alex Kasaboski in the second main event, which Overhull won in two falls, the last fall or a referee's decision.

The two roughies used nearly every trick known in the game while the bout lasted, and it took 28 minutts of hard fighting before Overhull was able to pin the wily Kasaboski in the first fall.

In the second set-to Kasaboski was forced to break a hold by Referee Jack Pappenheim, and after doing so took a swing at the referee knocking him to the canvas.

Pappenheim immediately awarded the fall and the bout to Overhull, following which a free-for-all took place in the ring between the three men.

A bit calmer and more of a wrestling exhibition was the first main event between Herb Parks and Andy Tremain, the struggle going to a draw after each had won a fall.

Parks got the early jump on Tremain, winning the first fall after 25 minutes of hold-swapping with a combination face lock and cradle split.

But Tremain came back with a rolling split to win the second fall in seven minutes.

The remaining 13 minutes was a stalemate, with each getting a good hand from the crowd at the finish.

Another draw was seen in the preliminary bout between Gene Blackley and Gust Johnson. The 20 minutes was filled with action, but neither could pin the other for the necessary count.

Young Players To Be Developed

Cubs Hire Carey For General Utility

By PAT ROBINSON
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The Chicago Cubs made the smartest deal of the off-season by signing Max Carey as general utility man. It will be up to the old Pirate outfielder to produce and develop young ball players.

And we can think of nobody better fitted for the job. Max was not only one of the all-time great fielders and hitters but he excelled even Ty Cobb as a base runner. And we know of no closer student of the game than Max. Max is going to try to bring back some speed to baseball, at least as played by the Cubs, so that we will have dozens of base runners like Jackie Robinson.

He traces the loss of so many skills the old timers took for granted to the lively ball in use today. "I firmly believe," said Max, "that Ty Cobb would hit at least .500 against the present day ball and the type of pitching we see. You must remember that the woods were full of great pitchers in Cobb's day and that he hit against a dead ball. And besides that the pitchers could doctor the ball any way they wanted.

"The hitters had to look at spitters, emery balls, shiners and any other freak pitch the pitchers could think up."

It's a matter of record that Carey himself one year stole 51 bases in 53 attempts. He thinks he could do better today because pitchers don't hold the runners to the bags as they should. Max thinks the biggest difference between the old game and the game today is in run scoring. He says:

"They make more runs today of course but the old timers made more in relation to the number of base hits. That's because the old-timers were always running and it didn't take three hits to get a run.

"So many pitchers are wild today because they are afraid. They have no confidence in themselves and they are afraid to come in with a good hook on a three and two count, and they are always scared that even a banjo hitter will sock one out of the lot.

"Everything is based on the base hit today, especially salaries. If a fellow hits .350 he gets paid so much, if he hits only .250 he gets so much less, although he may actually be worth more in the run making department and in other skills than the .350 hitter."

Max can't do anything about the new ball, but he thinks he can do something about finding and developing young fellows who have speed, can throw and hit. We can't think of a man better fitted for the job.

Rudy Pilous, coach of the Louisville Blades of the U. S. Hockey League, never played pro hockey but is rated one of the best developers of young hockey players.

Durocher Trades Four Players To Braves For Eddie Stanky, Al Dark

Cincy Gets Northey And Klein In Swap

BY CHARLES EINSTEIN
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. — Leo Durocher peddled approximately half his New York Giant ball club to Boston today to get Eddie ("Durocher knifed me") Stanky and Alvin Dark from the newly-purged Braves in the biggest baseball deal of the year.

All manager Durocher had to relinquish in order to get this second base-shortstop combination was:

Outfielder Willard Marshall,
Outfielder-third baseman Sid Gordon,
Shortstop Buddy Kerr,
Pitcher Sam Webb.

In a crazy-patch day of winter trading at the major league meetings in New York, this also happened:

Reds Trade Players

The St. Louis Cardinals handed outfielder Ron Northey and the Mexico-jumping infielder, Lou Klein, to the Cincinnati Reds for Harry Walker (whom the Cards traded away three years ago) and an unnamed minor leaguer;

The Detroit Tigers gave pitcher Lou Kretlow and a sum of cash rumored to be in six figures for St. Louis Browns' second baseman Jerry Priddy;

The Philadelphia Athletics swapped third baseman Hank Majeski even-up for the Chicago White Sox' pitcher Ed Klieman.

The A's were ennerved to compound this latter transaction by an earlier midnight deal with the Browns — and a whopper it was — whereby they got the highly-regarded third baseman Bob Dillinger and outfielder Paul Lehner for $100,000 and four somewhat mildewed operatives.

Talks About 1950 Plans

This inspired quartet comprised outfielders Ray Coleman and Rocco Ippolitto, shortstop Billy Demars and the erstwhile Pittsburgh infielder Frank Gustine.

Upon announcing the completion of their mammoth come-all-ye today, managers Durocher of the Giants and Billy Southworth of the Braves chatted happily about their 1950 plans. Durocher has always valued Stanky, even though he traded him to the Braves from the Dodgers just before the 1948 season, producing Eddie's deathless sickbed statement about the knife.

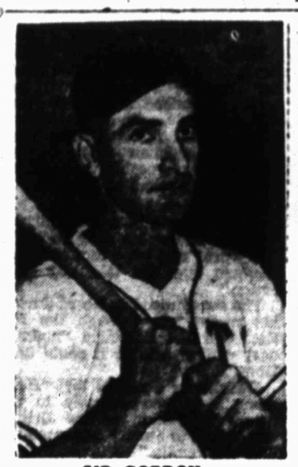

Apparently, Leo also treasures shortstop Dark, who hit .276 last year and throws lige a revolving door.

Thompson For Gordon

Leo said Hank Thompson, negro second baseman, will play third for him next season in place of Gordon, who, in turn, is going to be an outfielder, along with Marshall and the rookie negro phenom Sam Jethroe in Southworth's Boston scheme.

Marshall hit .307 last year, Gordon .284 and Kerr .209. The latter, though never ogled as a hitter, is, under proper conditions, a Marty Marion-like man in the field. It was no secret that he and Durocher weren't trading dinner dates.

It was no secret, for that matter, that the Braves were eager to trade Stanky, quite possibly in view of the rhubarbic season the Bostons had last summer, which finally drove Southworth to his Ohio home for rest and contemplation of the finer things.

Bowl Tickets For Sale At Texas Tech

Tickets for seats in the center section of the Rasin Bowl in Fresno, Calif., will be on sale in the Texas Tech stadium office until late next week, Morley Jennings, Tech athletic director, has announced.

Price of the tickets is $4.80 each, and numerous West Texas fans have indicated they plan to witness the Dec. 31 bowl game between Tech and the San Jose Spartans. Some of the fans will travel to the West Coast by automobile and others by train.

The Red Raiders will go by train, leaving Lubbock on Wednesday morning, Dec. 28, and arriving back home Jan. 4.

Space on special pullmans assigned to Tech is still available and may be secured by contacting the Santa Fe railroad ticket office, Jimmie Wilson, Tech business manager of athletics, advised. Fare to Fresno and back will be $66.72 by coach, $99.19 in the pullman. Lower berths will cost $14.09 and uppers $10.75.

The Tech team will retain control of its pullman cars throughout its stay in California, including a stop in Los Angeles for the Rose Bowl game.

Jennings has been notified by Raisin Bowl officials that no more Rose Bowl seats are available at regular prices. It was suggested that Tech fans witness the Pageant of Roses during the morning and watch the Rose Bowl game by television in the afternoon.

Chandler Orders Repeal Of Bonus Rule; Given Increase In Salary

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (INS)— Baseball Commissioner Albert B. Chandler ordered repeal of the bonus rule today and was voted an increase in salary from $50,000 to $65,000 a year.

Chandler's increase starts as of Jan. 1, 1950, and runs for the two years of his unexpired seven-year contract.

In the joint session of the two leagues that closed out the annual winter meetings today, the American League voted for repeal of the bonus rule and the National League voted to retain it.

That left the issue up to Chandler, who voted with the American League.

The bonus question now will be turned back to the minors for final decision. Three fourths of all the minor leagues must agree to make a change in the bonus rule, which failed of passage at the minor league conclave in Baltimore last week.

However, the major leagues believe that the minors now will follow Chandler's wishes and vote by mail to discard the bonus rule.

Under the rule any player who received $6,000 or more for signing a baseball contract cannot be waived out of the majors.

This has proved a distinct handicap to big league clubs who after paying as high as $75,000 to a youngster, could not then send him out to the minors for more than a year's development without taking a chance on losing him to another club for $10,000 in the draft.

The National League has 21 bonus players and the American has 15. These players represent an initial lay-out by the various clubs which own them of close to a million dollars.

The Philadelphia Phillies would benefit most by repeal of the bonus rule. They have seven young players whom they have to keep on their bench but who, with the bonus rule out, could be farmed to the minors for further seasoning without danger of losing them.

The raise in salary for Chandler seemed to clinch for him another term as commissioner.

According to baseball law, the commissioner cannot be signed to a new contract until 18 months before expiration of his current contract, or he probably would have been signed up for another seven years at these meetings.

Additional Home Basketball Game Arranged For Next Monday Night

An additional home basketball game for Texas Tech has been arranged for next Monday night, Coach Polk Robison said Wednesday.

The fast Checker Cab team of San Angelo will visit Tech gym, with a return game booked for Dec. 28 in San Angelo. The visiting quintet, formerly Ellis Parts, is composed mainly of former college players and is rated as a top team of the area.

Coach Robison has arranged a curtain-raiser game Monday night between Tech and Wayland freshmen.

Coach J. S. Fikes, who Friday takes his Littlefield Wildcats into the state Class A semifinals against Garland, owns one of the best coaching records in Texas schoolboy football.

In six years at the Wildcat helm, Fikes has compiled an overall mark of 58 victories, two ties and nine defeats. Granting that Littlefield usually has a wealth of grid material, 58-9 nevertheless is quite a record.

During the six-year span under Fikes, Littlefield has won two regional titles (1945 and 1949), four district pennants and four bi-district championships.

Now, of course, the Wildcats hope to cap all this with a state crown. Most qualified observers give them a 50-50 chance of achieving that goal. Littlefield is a 20-point favorite this week against Garland. If the Cats get past the Owls at Vernon Friday, they will meet either Mexia or Uvalde (Mexia is my guess) in the finals.

1944—Won 11, lost 1 (to Merkel in regional finals).
1945—Won 11, lost 1 (to Ballinger in non-conference play).
1946—Won 11, lost 1 (to Monahans in regional finals).
1947—Won 8, lost 2 (to Levelland and Sudan).
1948—Won 5, tied 2, lost 3 (to Brownfield, Sundown and Post).
1949—Won 12, lost 1 (to Dalhart in non-conference play).

It's up to Littlefield to keep the Class A championship in West Texas. Monahans, you will recall, won the title last year—the first campaign in which Class A teams played through to a state crown. The Wildcats now are the lone West Texas representative in the four team race.

School Loses $100,000 On Football

St. Louis' Football Program Cancelled

S. LOUIS, Dec. 14. (INS).— St. Louis university quit football today and ended its 63-year history of participation in the game.

The Very Rev. Paul Reinert, university president, said football would be eliminated from the institution's athletic program for the "foreseeable future."

A statement from the Rev. Reinert implied that St. Louis could only produce a winning team by lowering its educational standards. It read:

"Unfortunately . . . experience seems to show that today if a large university is to meet its highly-specialized football rivals on an equal, competitive basis, it is almost imperative that scholastic sacrifices be deliberately accepted.

"Proud of an academic tradition of longer standing than that of any other institution on this side of the Mississippi, the university is unwilling to submit to these athletic compromises . . ."

The cost of supporting football is also said to have influenced the decision to drop the game. St. Louis is reported to have lost $100,000 on football this past year.

St. Louis won only two games this season, lost six and tied one. Coach Joe Maniaci recommended several weeks ago that the school either cancel football or leave the Missouri Valley Conference and schedule opposition of its own calibre.

The Rev. Reinert hoped that St. Louis could "avoid or at least postpone" being ousted from the Missouri Valley Conference.

MVC Commissioner Arthur E. Eilers said member schools would have to vote on whether St. Louis should be permitted to remain in the Conference.

Maniaci and his four assistants were said to have been paid $30,000 as a settlement for their contracts which extended from one to four years.

St. Louis' stadium will be sold or leased to the St. Louis Prep League.

Sixteen Killed In Plant Blast

bore the full force of the blast.

Sioux City's four hospitals were overflowing with injured in what Lingren described as "probably the worst disaster in Sioux City history."

Piercing screams of the injured shattered the air after the explosion ripped through the building and left them amid flying bricks, broken plaster, twisted steel beams and rafters and mangled reinforced concrete flooring.

The first floor dropped into the basement after the blast and floors on other stories were cracked by the force of the explosion.

Crowds estimated at 5,000 persons swarmed to the scene to watch rescue workers as gas-masked firemen and volunteers dug through the debris in their effort to reach trapped survivors whose cries for aid could be heard coming from the ruins.

Emergency Declared

Woodruff County Sheriff Ed Lunde declared a state of emergency in the area, and three companies of the 134th Infantry regiment of the 34th Division were ordered to the scene to maintain order.

A Swift employe who was trapped on one of the upper floors said he was "very surprised at the calmness and lack of panic" of those who weren't hurt when the explosion rocked the plant.

He said he was lifted a foot into the air on the third floor, was struck on the head by a falling object.

Lindgren estimated that at least 25 persons were pulled from the tangled mass of wreckage. The blast left most of the roof intact and three walls standing.

Plant Manager Hurt

John Glenn, 60-year-old plant manager who was in a second floor office with Chief Engineer B. L. Lindberg was among those seriously hurt.

The men climbed through a window and crouched on a narrow ledge to escape ammonia fumes and flying debris.

A broken ammonia pipe originally was believed to have caused the terrifying explosion.

Bulldozers and mechanical steam shovels were sent to the scene to aid in clearing away the wreckage and bricks and to help in digging into the ruins for possible survivors.

Cab companies pitched in to help in removing the injured to hospitals and in carrying relatives to the scene in their search for possible victims.

The American Red Cross was swamped with offers to aid in the disaster work after issuing an emergency appeal for help. The ARC set up a canteen near the wrecked plant to supply hot food to the men who were digging in the freezing temperatures.

The dead included:

Charles Kurtz, Roland Edie, Clarence J. Rasmussen, Alvin E. Heck, Henry L. Babcock, Ralph B. Beck, Darrell Parker, Ermene Rodriguez, J. M. Butler, Joseph Santi, Louis Jones, Andrew Wisner, and Arthur DeLaughter, all of Sioux City; Glendon M. Johnson of Bronson, Ia., A. J. Selkirk of Hinton, Ia., and Mrs. Ruth Teager of South Sioux City, Neb.

USDA Agrees To Help Cotton Farmers Get 'Fairer' Deal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (INS)—The Agriculture department agreed today to help farmers get a "fairer" deal under production controls on next year's cotton crop.

Less than 24 hours before cotton growers will begin voting on 1950 output curbs, the department threw its support behind congressional proposals to redistribute unused acreage allotments.

Production and Marketing Administrator Ralph S. Trigg, in answer to the pleas of southern cotton growers, said the department has no authority to reallocate unused allotments under the present law.

But he declared that his agency is "willing and anxious" to endorse legislative changes to permit this when Congress reconvenes in January.

UMW, Hard Coal Operators Report 'Progress' In Talks

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—The United Mine Workers and hard coal operators reported "some progress" for the first time today in their efforts to agree on a new contract.

But the union's three-day work week remained in effect for the anthracite fields and some 80,000 hard coal miners will stay away from their jobs tomorrow and Friday.

UMW Vice-President Thomas Kennedy said after a two-hour bargaining session today: "We've made some progress."

Edward Griffith, head of the operator negotiators, said he agreed with Kennedy's statement. He added, however, that "no conclusions" on disputed points have been reached.

John L. Lewis, who said yesterday that he planned to attend today's meeting, stayed away.

$2,500 Bond Set For Robbery Suspect Held At Seminole

SEMINOLE, Dec. 14. (Special)—Leroy Ringgold, 24, of Paris, Tex., was charged with robbery and his bond set at $2,500 in a hearing before Justice of Peace R. R. Kelley here today. He waived examining trial.

Ringgold is charged in connection with the hijacking, of $77 from Y. L. Echols, Gaines county farmer, on a highway near Denver. City Monday night. All but $7 of the stolen money has been recovered.

PLANE LANDS SAFELY

SHREVEPORT, Dec. 14. (AP).—A B-36 bomber carrying a full crew of 16 and several 500-pound sand-filled bombs made a successful landing at Barksdale Air Force base tonight after developing engine trouble near Alexandria.

British Production Of A-Bomb Reported

LONDON, Dec. 15. (Thursday) (INS)—Britain was reported today to have successfully produced an atomic bomb.

The London Daily Mirror said that the atomic weapon was produced by British scientists during the past two years and has not yet been tested.

If true, the report makes Britain the third nation to develop the atomic weapon. The United States discovered how to turn nuclear fuel into an explosive during the second world war and President Truman announced Sept. 23 that Russia has succeeded in producing an A-bomb.

According to the Daily Mirror article, no further information on the British weapon will be available until it is tested. The newspaper said it is likely the British bomb will be tested in the forthcoming atomic tests at Eniwetok atoll in the Pacific.

Cotton Quotas Vote

Cooper school, Slide gin, and Union gin.

The locations of polling places in other counties can be obtained from the county Production and Market administration committeemen, according to PMA officials in Lubbock.

Here's The Situation

If cotton marketing quotas are approved by two-thirds of the U. S. cotton farmers voting today, this will be the situation:

Farmers who plant within their acreage allotments will be able to sell all the cotton they grow without paying any penalty. They will be eligible for government loans at 90 per cent of parity. They can receive conservation payments from the PMA ($23,000,000 in Texas this year).

Farmers who plant more cotton than their acreage allotments will pay a penalty amounting to one-half the parity price on all cotton they grow in excess of their marketing quotas. A marketing quota is the cotton produced on a farm's allotted acreage. At current parity prices, the penalty would be about 15 cents a pound on all excess cotton.

Farmers who overplant their allotments will not be eligible for government loans on their cotton. And they won't be eligible for government conservation payments.

Still Use Allotments

If quotas fail to receive the necessary two-thirds majority, then they will not be in effect. Acreage allotments, however, will still be used. In the event quotas are voted down, this will be the situation:

The government will support the price of cotton at 50 per cent of parity (instead of 90 per cent).

Farmers who plant within their allotments will be eligible for government loans at 50 per cent of parity. They also will be eligible for conservation assistance payments.

Farmers who overplant their allotments will not be eligible for government loans on their cotton, and they cannot receive conservation payments. But they can market all of their cotton without paying any penalty.

Texas To Push Cotton Quota Fight Despite Pending Changes

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14, (AP)—Proposals for changes in the cotton acreage allotment law will not slacken the court fight of 10 Texans to block enforcement of the program, their attorney said here today.

William H. Shireman, Corpus Christi lawyer filed a suit here Monday in U. S. District court on behalf of the Coastal Bend growers against Secretary Charles Brannan and other top Agriculture department officials.

Also on last Monday a House Agriculture subcommittee discussed the cotton acreage problem and drafted amendments to the law. Chairman Cooley (D-N.C.) of the full committee expressed hope Congress would approve the changes quickly in January.

"The proposed changes would give the Coastal Bend counties of Texas substantially more acreage than they seek through court action," Shireman told a reporter.

"However, the changes at this stage are only proposals, and until they are set forth in the law we will prosecute our case.

Illinois Five Drops Arkansas, 65 To 53

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Dec. 14. (AP) The University of Illinois basketball team won its third victory in four games tonight, defeating the barnstorming Arkansas Razorbacks, 65 to 53.

The Illini got off to a slow start and by the end of the first half they were trailing the visitors, 20 to 15.

With practically the same lineup on the floor in the final period, Illinois came to life, sparked by Forward Roy Gatewood and Center Wally (Ox) Osterkorn, and rallied to overcome the Razorbacks. The winners scored 50 points in the second half.

Arkansas lost four men on personal fouls in the game—two of them before the second period was five minutes gone.

Gerald Hudspeth, senior who is playing his final campaign at forward for Arkansas, captured the night's scoring honors with 23 points. Gatewood and Osterkorn, each collected 11 points for the winners.

Arkansas plays Indiana university at Bloomington tomorrow.

BIG SPRING EXPANDS

BIG SPRING, Dec. 14 (AP).—Annexation of 22 blocks adjoining Big Spring's west city limits was approved last night by city commissioners. The area, mostly residential, has been developed for 20 years.

Theater Burglary

was arrested in the 1200 block Ave. F Wednesday in connection with the theft of a .22 caliber rifle from a Comada, Texas, man several days ago.

Police said the youth had a rifle of that model in his room here. Military police have been notified of the case, officers reported.

Pistol Is Stolen

Douglas Robinson of Monahans said a .22 automatic pistol had been stolen from his car, after a collision here.

Littlefield authorities said a 1941 Chevrolet truck, license MH 7696, had been stolen there.

Three of four Bonham defendants in robbery with firearms charges in several Texas counties were served late Tuesday with certified copies of indictments voted in Dickens county, Dickens Sheriff C. C. Kimmel announced here.

The bills were returned Monday afternoon to 110th District Judge Alton B. Chapman.

The defendants—Talmadge Monroe Bonham, 17, William Robert Leeman, 22, and James Thomas Scrivner, 21—were served in Lubbock county jail, where they are held for Crosby county.

Charged In Robery

They are charged with robbery of A. W. Wallace the night of Nov. 26. Early in the night Wallace was robbed in his drygoods store in Crosbyton.

They have executed statements admitting that they took Wallace in their car when they fled from the store robbery.

Sheriff Kimmel said they "got only three-quarters mile inside Dickson county" before letting Wallace out of their car and robbing him of $5 at point of a pistol.

Leeman, Bonham and Orville Wayne Mann, 21, who also is held here, are charged with robbery of a Lubbock store the night of Nov. 19.

Leeman and Scrivner are charged in a Corsicana hijacking.

Bonds of $25,000 were set by Judge Chapman for each defendant charged in Dickens county.

Judge Chapman had said earlier that efforts will be made to arrange a trial date for the accused this month.

B. Bonner, who gave police an address of Lubbock general delivery, reported theft of a Christmas box from his car while the vehicle was parked near Twenty-fifth and College Ave. Wednesday. No value was placed on the package which contained an assortment of costume jewelry.

Missing Girl

safety.

The girl's mother, Mrs. William F. Aberle, urged that a powerful loudspeaker bet set up to call to her daughter. She feared the girl might be hiding rather than appear before strange men, as she had been strongly advised not to do.

Services of five high climbers of a Kelso logging crew were offered. They planned to climb trees to see if they could spot the girl in the vantage point of tall timbers.

Searchers, meanwhile, found bits of white wool that apparently could have been snagged from a sweater Ruth was wearing. The wool was taken to Kelso for identification by the lost girl's parents.

Wool Find Studied

The wool was found about a mile north of the place where the girl last was seen Sunday and far from footprints found yesterday, which were thought to be hers.

New recruits from Kelso and Longview bolstered the search at dawn.

Fog that shrouded the hills and the meandering course of Ostrander creek slowed up the search during the night.

More than 100 additional men entered the hunt this morning after others had been compelled by exhaustion or business reasons to return home.

No additional leads had been turned up by noon from the large crew combing the heavy underbrush on a branch of Ostrander creek where footprints, believed to be those of the missing girl, were found Tuesday.

Hope Begins To Fade

Hope that the girl would be returned alive began to fade as the hunt entered its fourth day. Warmer weather last night tempered freezing temperatures and sleet that covered the area Monday and Tuesday nights.

Every search device has been employed. Bloodhounds worked over the footprint area but failed to pick up the girl's trail. Even the services of a whale bone "divining rod", manipulated by Fred N. Schoner of Kent, Wash., proved of no avail.

Close order search continued to be the main work in the hunt. Trails of previous searchers were crossed and re-crossed as the men pried into every corner of an ever-widening area.

Trinity Gains 54-51 Win Over H-SU Team

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Trinity won a narrow 54-51 verdict here tonight from Hardin-Simmons university.

Ahead, 27-26, at halftime, Trinity hung on for dear life near the end to grab the win, the Tigers' third in four games.

Eddie Recko, Tiger forward, led his team with 19 points, 11 of them from the free throw line. For the Cowboys, Larry Wartes' 23 was tops.

With six minutes remaining and Trinity 10 points ahead the Tigers refused to stall. The Cowpokes capitalized on this to narrow the margin to 49-51.

Then Tom Daniel's fielder and Recko's foul conversion put the game on the ice.

82 REPORTED KILLED

BOGOTA, Colombia, Dec. 14. (AP).— An official communique said today 82 persons were killed in an attack by "bandits" on a conservative meeting in the town of Cocuy, in Boyaca department. Thirty ring-leaders were reported arrested. The communique also announced drives against "bandits in several sections" of Colombia.

1,000 Oakland Residents Flee As Ammonia Gas Covers Area

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP) A suffocating fog of ammonia gas escaping from a tank car spread over a 20-square-block area before dawn today, forcing 1,000 persons from their beds.

There were no fatalities. Five were hospitalized and scores overcome and made ill by the vapor which, in heavy concentrations, can kill.

The gas spread from a split pipe leading from a tank car filled with liquid ammonia. The liquid vaporized on hitting the air. The car was being unloaded at the Farm Service company's fertilizer plant in West Oakland.

It was midmorning before residents were able to return to their homes.

PI A4 STOCK MARKET rdent

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Wall Street enjoyed the heaviest stock trading of the year today as the market laboriously struggled up to a new 1949 peak. The market was the broadest on record, with 1,191 issues traded.

Sales volume approached 2,300,000 shares, a 13-month high. It was the third day this year that turnover has topped 2,000,000 shares.

Despite rapid-fire action, advances were limited mostly to less than $1 a share. A wide variety of stocks, at the same time, either closed unchanged or a trifle lower—notably in the automobile, airline, rubber and electronic groups.

Cold Weather

cos valley eastward. Both bureaus agreed on the "not so cold" forecast.

Rains fell over most of East and South Texas on Wednesday, but West Texas continued dry in spite of cloudy skies over the entire area.

In East Texas, rainfall was providing good seasoning for winter grain crops, but many West Texas farmers were wanting moisture to ward off possible damage to next year's crops by late planting under dry conditions. Moisture also is needed to keep strong winter winds from blowing the soil.

Low morning temperature on Wednesday was seven degrees at Dalhart in the upper Panhandle. Amarillo had 17, Clarendon 20, Lubbock 25 and El Paso 27. Highest maximum was 56 degrees at Presidio, while the low maximum was 30 at Dalhart.

Rain reports included Victoria 1.29, Austin .67, Houston 1.15, San Antonio .85 and Galveston .66. Other points reporting rain were Waco, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, Del Rio, Palestine, Lufkin and Bryan.

Snow was reported at Roswell, N. M., most of Wednesday afternoon. Clovis, N. M. also reported snow.

NEW STORM IS REPORTED MOVING FROM PACIFIC

DENVER, Dec. 14. (INS)—A new storm was reported moving slowly eastward from the Pacific ocean today, but forecasters at the U. S. Weather bureau in Denver said the cold wave may not get as far as the Rocky mountain states.

The weatherman said the storm was "moving so very slowly" that if it did reach the Rocky mountain region, it would not arrive until Saturday or Sunday.

Even then, he said, there will be no weather akin to blizzard conditions, but merely snow.

The forecaster explained that the present cold air over the mountain states will get in the way of the new storm.

Rain began falling along the coast of northern California and Oregon this afternoon, but weather conditions were not of storm proportion.

The weatherman predicted "some warming tomorrow" for the Rocky mountain region in the wake of temperatures that "are running colder than normal."

Jackie Robinson Receives Carver Award For Good Work

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (INS)—Brooklyn second baseman Jackie Robinson today received the gold award of the George Washington Carver memorial institute for his part in creating a betterment of race relations.

The National League's most valuable player was presented the award by newspaper publisher Frank Gannett, who said:

"All America must applaud this award. It goes to a real All-American."

Death Sentence

the Communist tribunal met.

Kostov, 52, four feet, five inches tal, had defiantly told the court that he only committed "anti-Soviet activities." He added later that he realized that "personal ambition is not permissible for a leader in the Bolshevik party."

Another of the 11 defendants, Nikola Pavlov Kolev, former Communist Politburo administrative secretary, testifed that Premier Stalin informed Bulgarian Communist leaders of Kostov's "nationalism."

"Things Moved Fast"

Kolev, who received a life imprisonment term, said that "things moved fast" after the Stalin denunciation.

During the trial the name of U. S. Minister Donald Heath had been injected as an alleged agent.

(The U. S. State department on Monday denounced the Bulgarian charges as fraudulent and a "deliberate attempt" to involve Heath in the trial. A spokesman told the Bulgarian envoy in Washington that "scurrilous" articles about Heath had been printed in the Bulgarian press and recalled that Heath asked two weeks before that his denial be publicized by the Bulgarian press and radio.

U.S. Raises Question

(The United States also asked Bulgaria bluntly what its "intentions" were, and said the question of continuing "normal relations" with Bulgaria had been raised.)

Besides Kostov and Kolev the others who were sentenced by the tribunal were:

Ivan Stefanov, former finance minister, life imprisonment; Nikola Nachev Petkov, former deputy president of the state economic and financial commission, life imprisonment; Ivan Gevrenov, millionaire former rubber industry director, life imprisonment; Ivan J. Tutev, former foreign trade ministry director, life imprisonment.

Shorter Terms Given

Three of the men who had testified against Kostov received 15-year prison terms. They were:

Tsoniu S. Tsonchev, former Bulgarian national bank governor; Balgoi I. Hadjipansov, a Macedonian of Bulgarian nationality and former Yugoslav embassy counselor in Sofia; and Goris A. Kristov, former Bulgarian commercial representative in Russia.

A 12-year term was given Vassil Invanovski, another Bulgarian of Macedonia who formerly was propaganda instructor in the Communist party's central committee.

The eight-year sentence was given Ilja Bayaltseliev, a native of Salonika, Greece, but now a Bulgarian subject and a former Sofia city official.

The charges against Kostov and the other 10 defendants were similar to those in the recent trial and execution of former Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk in Budapest.

They were accused of plotting to overthrow the pro-Soviet regime and create one favorable to the western nations. In addition Kostov was accused of plotting to assassinate the late Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov.

Approximately 475 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 2466 attended a semi-monthly business meeting at the post home Wednesday night.

The members voted to extend holiday greetings to the Lubbock County Old Folks home, Girlstown, U. S. A., and Milams Orphan home by donating a turkey to each institution for Christmas dinner.

The members were urged to pay their poll taxes and it was decided to establish a poll tax sub-station at the home.

It was unanimously proposed and passed to send $100 to the VFW National home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

A total of 99 new members were admitted to the organization during the meeting.

Seven members of the Plainview VFW post attended the meeting as guests.

W. Earl Creel, post commander, presided.

British Plan Rapped

was not one of the requisites of recognition but would be considered should it come up.

In the face of Acheson's reticence today and the adverse congressional reaction to the British move, no final estimate of the situation could be made.

Decision Delayed

While State department thinking in recent weeks has been along the lines of recognition it has been emphasized that no decision will be made without consulting congressional foreign committees.

Today' reaction from Capitol Hill was unfavorable to approval of the Red regime at Peiping.

Ferguson said that British recognition would be a "calamity in foreign policy." He said he could "only pray and hope that our government does not take any such action."

The senator said he heard during his recent trip through the Far East that Britain might "make a deal with Russia so it could hold Hong Kong."

O'Mahoney declared that "Hong Kong is not so valuable to the future of Britain or the British empire as to justify appeasement of the Kremlin."

Other comment followed:

Sen. Chavez (D-N.M.):

"I am not a bit surprised. The British agree with us only when it suits their convenience."

suggestion that decreased government expenditures might be another route to balance the budget.

By the time the tax talk hit the state capitol, Reps. Vernon McDaniel of Wichita Falls and William A. Swindell of Commerce had some suggestions to offer.

Cut five or six million dollars out of the departmental bill and go on deficit financing (red ink) for $17 million with no tax bill, said McDaniel. He suggested that the next regular session should study the whole tax structure and readjust it to meet current needs.

"If we could do this, about five out of every six people in the state would be happy, according to the way they voted on proposed constitutional amendments involving taxes in the last election," he said.

Swindell suggested selling state lands not being put to use and centralizing all state hospitals and special schools in one spot for economy.

Texas Farmers To Join In Vote On Cotton Quota Program Today

(By The Associated Press)

Texas farmers vote tomorrow in a national referendum on cotton marketing quotas.

This issue will be decided:

Will farmers who plant more land to cotton than provided by their acreage allotments be required to pay penalty on the cotton produced from the extra acreage?

Farmers Waive Benefits

If cotton marketing quotas are approved by two-thirds of the nation's farmers, this situation will go into effect:

Farmers who plant within their acreage allotments will be able to sell all the cotton they grow without paying any penalty. They will be eligible for government loans at 90 per cent of parity. They can receive conservation payments from the Production and Marketing administration ($23,000,000 in Texas this year.)

Farmers who plant more cotton than their acreage allotment will pay a penalty of one-half the parity price on all cotton they grow in excess of their marketing quotas. A marketing quota is the cotton produced on a farm's alloted acreage. At current parity prices, the penalty would be about 15 cents a pound on all excess cotton. Farmers who over plant their allotments would not be eligible for government loans on their cotton. And they would not be eligible for government conservation payments.

Effects Of No Vote Given

If marketing quotas fail to receive the necessary two-thirds majority, acreage allotments, provided by law, still will be in effect. This is the situation:

The government will support the price of cotton at 50 per cent of parity, instead of 90 per cent.

Farmers who plant within their allotments will be eligible for conservation assistance payments.

Farmers who overplant their allotments can market all of their cotton without paying any penalty. But they will not be eligible for government loans on their cotton and they cannot receive conservation payments.

The cotton acreage allotments for 1950 have drawn a flood of protests from Texas and other cotton-growing states.

In Washington, the Agriculture department said Wednesday it is without legal authority to do anything about reported inequities in the allotment program.

It added that there still is plenty of time before the planting season for Congress to correct the situation. The department's position was stated by Administrator Ralph Trigg of the Production and Marketing administration, who administers the cotton program.

Transfer Of Pension Credits Is Ruled Out

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP)— An act of the last Legislature to allow transfer of pension credits between the teacher retirement plan and the state employes retirement plan was ruled unconstitutional in an attorney general's opinion today.

The bill would have permitted a state employe with benefits built up under that retirement plan to go to work for the school system without losing his retirement benefits by simply transferring them to the other plan. It would have worked for transfers in the other direction, too.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General Chester E. Ollison, says it can't be done.

He noted it is prohibited by article 16, section 62A of the constitution setting up the state retirement plan. It contains these words: "Recipients of benefits from said fund shall not be eligible for any other pension retirement funds or direct aid from the State of Texas."

He said a similar provision is also contained in the constitution regarding the teacher retirement plan.

Judges Named For Stock Show At Tech

Judges have been selected by the Texas Tech Block and Bridle club for the Little International stock show to be held on the campus Jan. 11, Prof. Ray C. Mowery of the animal husbandry department announced Wednesday.

Approximately 60 entries from animals on the Tech farm will be judged in five divisions at the show. Students will groom and show the animals in divisions of beef cattle, dairy cattle, horses, sheep and swine.

Buddy Winters, Lamesa, will judge beef cattle entries; W. J. Krueger, Clifton, dairy cattle; W. G. Rogers, Lubbock, horses; J. H. Heath, Tokio, sheep; and Bobby Fee, Colorado City, swine.

The January show will be the second annual Little International held on the Tech campus. Judging will take place in the livestock judging pavilion and students showing animals will be seniors majoring in animal husbandry.

Rail Board Orders Cut In Oil Production

Crude Storage Stocks Increase

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. — The Railroad commission today ordered Texas oil fields to shut down an extra day next month to bring about an 83,373-barrel slash of daily allowables.

The cutback—the second in as many months—placed January permissive flow at 2,050,943 barrels per day, compared to 2,134,321 barrels permitted on Dec. 10.

"We are compelled to reduce our oil production in Texas to 17 days per month in January for the 1,652 fields of Texas, and 15 days for the East Texas oil field, because oil is accumulating in storage in tanks above ground," Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson said in explaining the cutback.

"Last week Texas oil stocks above ground increased 936,000 barrels and since Oct. 29 Texas crude in storage above ground increased by 5,264,000 barrels.

"Refineries are being closed down because of oversupply of oil. The market demand is being fully filled and every requirement for oil is being met," he said.

The January pattern allows production of 281,173 barrels daily of natural gasoline and distillate in addition to crude production, boosting total allowable of all petroleum liquids to 2,322, 121 barrels daily.

The crude allowable is 149,052 barrels daily under the estimate of January demand by the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

Special Committee Studies State Sex Crime Law Status

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP)— A committee revising the criminal code is making a thorough study of the sex crime law situation, Chairman Cecil Storey of Longview said today.

He was referring to an interim legislative committee charged with working over the criminal code and making recommendations to the next regular session of the Legislature.

Storey said if the matter of sex crimes should be submitted to the special session to be held early in 1950, the committee will give it "most careful and thoughtful consideration." The committee has written to every state attorney general and to J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of investigation, for suggestions on the sex crime subject.

Storey said there was some confusion as to the interim legislative committee and one appointed by the president of the state bar to study criminal law and procedure. The committees are different bodies, he noted, although the membership overlaps in some instances.

Carols Program Presented Here

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche Staff Writer

The spirit of Yuletide came to Lubbock in song Wednesday night as more than 900 persons attended the opening program of a three-night Feast of Carols presented by several hundred students of Lubbock schools. The presentation was offered in the Lubbock Senior High auditorium.

Another program in the three-night series will be presented in the O. L. Slaton Junior High school auditorium tonight, while the final performance will be at J. T. Hutchinson school Friday night.

Approximately 500 students from eight grade schools, Carol Thompson Junior High and Senior high were included on the Wednesday night program, intermingling long-time Christmas favorites with more modern carols.

Program Set At 7:30 P.M.

Tonight's program in the O. L. Slaton auditorium will begin at 7:30 p.m., with Harwell, Bean, Posey, Hunt, and Special School, besides Slaton, participating. Leo J. Warren and G. E. Dawson will be hosts.

Audience participation was given Wednesday night between appearances of the various student groups as Mrs. Elois Elliott, vocal music co-ordinator for Lubbock schools, led such tunes as: "O Come All Ye Faithful", "The First Noel" "Little Town of Bethlehem", and "Silent Night."

Fourth, fifth, and sixth grade students from the eight grade school were included on the night's program, with all those from each class joining together in song. Teachers in the different schools had trained their own pupils and the Wednesday program was the first time all had sung together.

Sang From Stage

Schools included in the program were: Arnett, Guadalupe, Sanders, K. Carter, Dupre McWhorter, Cottage, and Central Ward. This year marked the first time that students sang from the auditorium stage. Previously they had been seated in the balcony.

J. H. Penn, director of choral music at Senior high, directed the sophomore mixed chorus, the senior girl's chorus, and the senior A Capella choir for the final three parts of the program. Such favorites as "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," "The Three Kings," and

Farmers Urged To 'Speak For Selves'

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Sen. Clinton P. Andrews, (D-NM) today urged the nation's farmers to "speak for themselves."

The former secretary of agriculture told delegates to the American Farm Bureau federation convention that for some time he has wondered "who it is that's trying to speak for the farmers, and who is it who speaks for the farmers."

Anderson was principal speaker at the federation's 31st annual meeting, a role usually reserved for the governments incumbent agriculturt chief.

The federation leadership this year ignored Secretary Brannan, whose controversial farm plan was called by federation President Allan B. Kline "a political scheme to get the votes of both farmers and consumers."

Hoffman Is Speaker

Another speaker, Paul G. Hoffman, economic cooperation administrator, told the convention that Europe has achieved "a spectacular recovery with industrial production now running 20 per cent above pre war."

Anderson asserted farmers should "speak for themselves" first of all "by exercising their civic responsibility to take an active part in public affairs . . . and through their own farm organizations.

Referring to past Senate debates on farm legislation, he said that those most active in their efforts to speak for farmers were their congressmen and U. S., senators.

Views Differ

"Although the duly elected farm organization leaders said one thing, many of the politicians insisted that these leaders didn't speak for farmers but instead the politicians themselves were the real reflectors of farm thinking."

Anderson said farmers who still think they can get along without belonging to any farm organizations are operating under a delusion.

He said a farm organization, to perform its proper role, "must develop and maintain courageous leadership, capable and willing to lead." He said it must be run and paid for by farmers and be set up in such a way that policy formulation is one of its primary functions.

Mail Service To South Improved

Assuring both later departure of outgoing first class mail and earlier arrival of incoming first class mail to and from the south and east, a star route will go into effect between Lubbock and Sweetwater Friday, Postmaster Amos H. Howard of Lubbock announced Wednesday.

Such a route has been considered an intense need since change in railway schedule several months ago, he said. Numerous inquiries have been received from Lubbock residents whose mail has been held over 24 hours in many instances before leaving Lubbock.

The star route will make connections with the Texas & Pacific railway at Sweetwater. A truck will leave Lubbock nightly at 8:30 p. m., arriving in Sweetwater about 11:30 p. m. to make connections with a train going to Fort Worth and Dallas. The truck will leave for the return trip at 3:30 a. m. following receipt of mail on an incoming Texas & Pacific train and will arrive back in Lubbock about 7:30 a. m., in time for morning delivery here.

In the last few months, mail bound for eastern and southeastern points has been tied out at 6:30 p. m., after which numerous letters have been received which in many cases were held over for departure on a 7 p. m. train the following night.

Under the new arrangement, first class mail dropped in a post-office slot up to 8:30 p. m. will be placed on the star route.

"It's quite an improvement in our mail service to and from the south and east," said the postmaster.

Arrangements for the route were made by the Railway Mail service in Fort Worth through approval of the second assistant postmaster general in Washington.

Action On Soviet Bulletin Studied

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.— The Post Office department which is now distributing the Soviet Information bulletin, received at schools throughout Texas and the nation, at a losing rate of remuneration, which eventually is being borne by America taxpayers, says there is no law that forces it to carry this mail, but it fears the Soviet could recove in U. S. courts if it did refuse to accept the bulletin.

There is no law that says the U. S. must take this bulletin. There is only a law saying what is not mailable, a variety of letters, circulars, etc. As the Soviet bulletin does not fall into any one of those non-mailable categories, then the bulletin must be accepted, in the opinion of Nelson Wentzell, deputy assistant postmaster general.

He admitted that the mail is being carried at a loss although declined to state what that may be, as it depends on what zone the mail is directed to. This loss virtually is made up by subsidies from the U. S. government which are paid for out of tax money. For this reason, the department was asked if it was required to take the mail or not.

Wentzell gave it as his opinion that if the U. S. Post Office department refused to take the Soviet bulletin when it complies with regulations as to weight, address, packaging, etc., then it might be subject to court action. He says court action has been resorted to before. There is an implied obligation to take it, based partly on policy and regulation, he said.

The bulletin is mailed as third class bulk mail, which carries a rate of 10 cents a pound. It cannot weigh over eight ounces.

The statute declaring what is mailable is section 36.5 of postal laws, stating "any letter, writing, circular, etc., which contains any matter advocating or urging treason, insurrection, or forcible resistance to any law of the U. S. is not mailable and shall not be conveyed in the mails or delivered from any post office or by any letter carrier."

"The Post Office department says there is nothing subversive in the Soviet Information bulletin and any publication that does not attempt to overthrow the government can go through the mails the same as a newspaper from Akron, Ohio," said Jack Keeny, who says he is in the public relations office, authorized to answer public queries for the Post Office department.

The department had the matter called to its attention by Rep. George Mahon, (D-Texas) of Colorado City.

LAST YEAR'S WINNING DECORATION—This artistic arrangement won the grand prize for Sammy Ribble, now 14, of 2220 Eighteenth street, last year in the second annual Home Christmas Lighting contest sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal. Sammy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Ribble, is not competing this year. But he already is planning to be a contender in the 1950 contests.

Dawson Teachers To Hold Banquet Today

LAMESA, Dec. 14. (Spl.).— The Dawson County Teachers association will meet here at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria for their annual banquet.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of Texas Tech, who will speak on "Some Lessons in School Teaching from the Hoover Commission Report." He will point out the need for more personal initiative on the part of the teacher, instead of being dependent upon other agencies.

C. E. Green, superintendent of Dawson school and president of the association, will act as toastmaster for the banquet.

The Lamesa High school band, under the direction of Charles Hoffman, will furnish music for the occassion.

Reservations had been received today from 120 teachers from the five county schools.

Hosts and hostess for the evening will be G. B. Wadzech, Lamesa superintendent, Lamesa principals Abe Holder, G. L. Trice and Miss Hallie Mercer, Miss Bennie Speck and Mrs. R. A. Stuart.

Also attending the meeting will be Roy Boyd, Lubbock County school superintendent.

SEAMAN GIVEN LIFE

BEAUMONT, Dec. 14. (AP) — Louis F. Bertrand, Port Arthur seaman, tonight was given a life prison sentence for the murder of Homer Clifford Edgerly, 28, Port Acres carpenter, in a Port Arthur gambling hall November 15.

HOME OWNERS URGED TO ENTER

Additional Entries Are Received In Christmas Lighting Contest

Six more entries were received in the competition Wednesday for the $100 in cash prizes to be awarded in the third annual Home Christmas Lighting contest sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal.

A short drive around the city revealed that a great many homes already have been beautifully decorated which have not been entered.

The observations caused the judges in the contest, all members of the Lubbock Garden club, to wonder why entries for most of them have not been filed.

Some Would Be Contenders

"They haven't anything to lose and some certainly would be contenders for the prizes," one of the judges remarked. The names of the judging committee, incidentally, will not be disclosed until after their decisions are announced.

Next Saturday noon is the deadline for entries, which may be made by dropping a card or calling Mrs. Naomi Caddel in The Avalanche-Journal editorial department, telephone 4343.

The judges emphasized again that the cost of decorations will not be a consideration in selecting the winners. Originality will count most. They recalled that some of the first prize winners in the past spent less than 50 cents for their ornaments. One spent only 15 cents for a window decoration which won first prize.

New Entries Listed

New entries in the contests follow:

Most beautifully decorated exterior of home—Mrs. Gene Quest, 2822 Thirty-third street.

Most beautifully decorated doorway — Mrs. James White, 1514 Twenty-eighth street; Mrs. S. T. Hodges, 2204 Twenty-fourth.

Most beautifully decorated window—Mrs. T. C. Ingram, 2411 Twenty-fifth street; Thomas W. Butler, 3010 Twenty-sixth.

Cash prizes in the contest total $100, as follows:

Most beautifully decorated exterior of home—First $25; second $15, third $10, and fourth $5.

Most beautifully decorated doorway, window or tree—first prize of $10 in each class; second prize of $5 in each.

Entries can be filed in any or all of the divisions of competition by the same individual.

INTERNATIONAL RULE OPPOSED

Israeli Government Moves To Jerusalem In Defiance Of UN

By TED LURIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

JERUSALEM, Dec. 14 — Israel brought her government to Jerusalem today in defiance of a United Nations order for international rule over the holy city. Premier David Ben-Gurion declared "we have entered upon the greatest political struggle in the history of our people."

"Israel is aligned against the whole world," he said.

The premier moved his ministry to this city from Tel Aviv following approval by the parliament (Knesset) last night of a decision to speed the transfer of government offices to Jerusalem.

He made his pronouncement in accepting the freedom of the city from Mayor Daniel Auster.

Flag Is Run Up

The blue and white flag of the young republic was run up atop the Eden hotel, in the modern section less than a quarter of a mile from the old walled city still patrolled by the Arab legionnaires of Hashemite Jordan.

Ben-Gurion took offices in the hotel.

"Today's courageous move by the Israeli government comes as a great relief," the Palestine Post said editorially, "but it is only the first step and it will need determined and well considered action in the future to protect it against all outside intervention."

The British foreign office spokesman commented in London: "The move of the Israeli government does not surprise his majesty's government. At the same time we regret that Israel, which is a member of the United Nations, should have thought fit to flout its authority."

Opposed UN Plan

Britain and the United States voted with the minority in the UN General Assembly against international rule for Jerusalem. Russia backed the order.

There was no official fanfare. That was in keeping with the quiet shift of six government ministries previously to this city—which Ben-Gurion told the parliament yesterday "has been and always will be" Israel's capital.

This shift actually has been under way ever since the battle between Israeli and Arab forces for Jerusalem finally ended under an armistice last year.

Soon after their arrival, Ben-Gurion and his party conferred with other government ministers and permanent officials in Jerusalem. The parliament is to meet in the Jewish agency building here in about 10 days.

Air Flight Limited By Body's Inability To Withstand Speed

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 14. (INS).—Rockets that would reach the moon or circle the earth as satellites are now feasible, scientists agree, but before man can travel to the planets one of two things will have to be done.

The human body will have to be redesigned or means of overcoming shock and vibration to which it is subjected at transonic speeds must be found.

That was the opinion of some 300 scientists and experts from the armed forces who are conducting a symposium on shock and virbrations in rockets and guided missiles at the California Institute of Technology.

Comdr. Robert J. Trauger, executive officer of the office of naval research, told the group:

Dangerous Speed Reached

In other words, man is now approaching flying speeds at which permanent blindness may occur, his brain be torn loose or his mentality reduced to that of a jibbering idiot.

Dr. Elias Klein of the office of naval research, who is in charge of the symposium, pointed out that contrary to popular belief vibration and shock increase when a flying contraption crashes through the sonic barrier and goes faster than sound.

"The forces to which a missile is subjected increase as the square of the speed," he declared.

Work To Start On $600,000 Hospital In Colorado Town

LOVELAND, Colo., Dec. 14. (INS).— The town of Loveland, largest community in the state without a hospital, will see work on a 40-bed institution, to cost over $600,000 start early next year.

Herbert D. Moe, director of hospital facilities for the State Health department, said the construction contract was awarded to the Johns Engineering company of Denver. Construction will cost $457,516, and elevators and equipment will bring the total to $601,938.

It is expected to be completed by March, 1951.

Youth Skips College To Enter Graduate School At Chicago U.

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Joseph E. Nelson is so smart that he skipped college.

He plunged directly into graduate work at the University of Chicago after studying three years at a Bronx high school in New York and a prep school at Rome, Italy.

The university said Nelson is the first student ever to be advanced immediately to the graduate school, although the feat always has been "theoretically possible" under the school's unique placement test system.

Exams Test Skill

University officials said Nelson demonstrated in sweeping, 30-hour entrance examinations that he already has the equivalent of a college education.

Chicago accepts students who have completed only two years of high school, as well as high school graduates. But it imposes stiff entrance examinations on all.

Nelson passed all the ordinary tests with superior ratings, school officials reported, and then took in stride four advanced exams given only to students of "unusual achievement." In all, he took 30 hours of brain-taxing tests. He studied "some" for the tests, he said and found them "pretty hard."

Beginning Courses Dropped

Informed of his status, Nelson dropped his beginning courses and enrolled in graduate work in mathematics.

"I still feel normal despite what the tests show," he said. "I was very happy to learn of the results and very surprised."

Nelson studied at the Bronx high school in New York City for a year and a half. He also spent 18 months at the Instituto Giovanni Verga in Rome. He won a $1,050 scholarship at the University of Chicago on the basis of the entrance examinations he took in Rome.

The youth comes from an unusually intellectual family.

His father, Claud D. Nelson, national secretary for the YMCA in Italy, is a Rhodes scholar. Two older brothers were members of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary society.

London Electrical Workers To End Wildcat Power Strike

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Leaders of a three-day wildcat strike which sharply cut electricity output in London agreed tonight to send the 2,700 or more strikers back to work.

The agreement was reached after an all-day meeting of strike chiefs and officials of the state-sponsored industrial council for the industry, while soldiers, sailors and airmen struggled to keep four struck power plants in production.

The leaders said they will tell a mass meeting of the strikers tomorrow morning to end the walkout.

Terms of the agreement were not announced.

$9,335,802 Mailed To Schools In State

AUSTIN, Dec. 14 (AP) — The state mailed a $9,335,802 check to its public schools today.

It was made up of a $6 per-student payment on 1,554,671 scholastics. It was the third payment on the $48 per capita authorized by the 51st Legislature.

FAIR EMPLOYMENT HEADS LIST

Congress Expected To Start New Filibuster On Civil Rights Issue

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—When Congress returns in 1950 you can expect a repetition of what happened this year: a filibuster.

The Truman administration is going to try for an early vote on the bill to set up an FEPC (Fair Employment Practices commission).

The result? Pretty surely zero.

The FEPC bill would forbid an employer to discriminate against a job-seeker because of his race, color or religious belief.

It's part of President Truman's civil rights program. Other parts of it call for federal laws to outlaw lynching and the poll tax.

And the result if the Trumanites try to put through those other parts of he program? Pretty surely zero, too.

Democrat Split

Mr. Truman took a strong stand on the civil rights program in the 1948 elections in which he was elected president and the Democrats won control of Congress.

But the Trumanite Democrats lost control of Congress when, shortly after Congress opened this year, they tried to clear the way for bringing up a civil rights bill and thus fulfill Mr. Truman's campaign pledges.

At that point the Southern Democrats, deeply embittered by the civil rights program, split off from the Truman Democrats and filibustered. They did it so successfully that they prevented any civil rights bill from being considered in the Senate in 1949.

Old Filibuster Ruling

What happened as a result of that filibuster will have an important effect on what happens in 1950.

Before the filibuster started, this was the situation in the senate: There was no limit on debate—or a filibuster—unless two-thirds of the senators on the floor voted to stop it.

(And, of course, unless a filibuster could be stopped the Senate could not reach a point of voting on the measure which was being filibustered.)

But under the arrangement then in effect if only 90 or 80 or 70 senators were present on the floor, two-thirds of them could stop the filibuster. But, before the 1949 filibuster was over, this happened:

New Law Adopted

The Senate, with Republicans joining the Southern Democrats, made this rule for the future:

Now a filibuster can't be stopped unless two-thirds of the total 96 senators vote to stop it, whether or not all 96 are present on the floor. That's tougher to get than just two-thirds of those merely present at any voting time.

That's what the Trumanites face in 1950 if they try to bring up the FEPC bill and a filibuster starts.

Some senators are so set against any limit on Senate debate that they might vote against stopping a filibuster even though they might be willing to vote for FEPC once the filibuster was over.

Southern Demos Bitter

If the Trumanites lose on the civil rights issue during the congressional session in 1950, they can use it as a campaign issue—in the congressional elections later in 1950 — to get more Trumanites elected. Particularly among negro voters.

The seats of all 435 House members and a little more than one-third of the 96 senators are involved in the 1950 elections.

Senator Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat and one of those most responsible for getting the civil rights plank into the Democratic party platform in 1948, says the FEPC is the "real guts" of the program.

The Southern Democrats are, perhaps, more bitter about the FEPC bill than any other part of the Truman civil rights program. It's an invasion of individual and states rights, they say.

Trumanites Seek Support

Why, then, should the Trumanites bring up the FEPC bill instead of, say, the anti-lynching or anti-polltax bills?

At this moment no one of them seems to have any chance of getting through, anyway. But—

More support from more groups may be thrown behind FEPC than behind a bill to outlaw lynching or the polltax. Ten states already have FEPC laws. They are:

New Mexico, Washington, Oregon, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana, Wisconsin, Rhode Island.

U. S. Auto Industry May Pass Six Million Mark As Year Ends

By DAVID U. WILKIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

DETROIT, Dec. 14. — Low field stocks and indications of a continuing high demand will mark the year end for the auto industry.

So far this year approximately 5,985,000 cars and trucks have been built in the United States. The year's 6 millionth vehicle should roll off one of the scores of assembly lines tomorrow or next day.

Let-Down Expected

Production during the remainder of the year probably will not go very high. Several companies look for a sharp let-down during the Christmas-New Year week. Some of them, anticipating a heavy absentee rate, will close their assembly lines from Dec. 23 through Jan. 3.

Nevertheless the total assemblies should be well above 6,100,000.

Ahead, all sales chiefs agree, is a demand that will press the industry's manufacturing facilities at least for the first half of 1950. Most industry experts freely predict the January-through-June production next year will reach 3 million units.

More Previews Slated

More 1950 model cars are being given press previews this week. Following last week's presentation models were shown to the press at Lansing today. Tomorrow Chrysler will hold a private showing of its 1950 line. Later this month a similar private showing will be held by Chevrolet.

New model cars so far displayed bear out earlier speculation that automatic transmissions and improved engine design will be the outstanding mechanical advances for 1950. Of course, there have been styling changes. For the most part these have not bee drastic.

Burlington Club Swamped With Entries

Texan Tells Tornado Tale In National Liars Contest

BURLINGTON, Wis., Dec. 14. (INS) — Burlington, Wis., was swamped with lies today, and there are more pouring in all the time.

The reason for the epidemic of prevaricating stems from preparation for picking the world's champion liar.

Since 1929 when the Burlington Liars club got its start by announcing the champion liar of the city, the judges have looked at enough lies to make George Washington turn over in his grave.

O. C. Hulett, president of the club, announced that this year's crop is right up to standard. The judges are scheduled to start wading through the tall stories either Dec. 27 or 28.

Here are a few of the early entries:

James Asa Petty, Laredo, Tex.:

Recently I had just finished sacking up a burlap bag of black-eyed peas and hung the sack from the limb of a tree when I saw a tornado heading my way. I dove into the storm cellar. After the tornado had gone past, I went out again. The bag had blown away, but the peas were still hanging from the limb.

William McCafferty, Mellville, N.J.:

Last summer it was so hot and dry down our way that the fish swimming around in the river raised so much dust you couldn't see the other bank.

Frank J. Witham, Norway, Me.:

They had a lot of snow up in Quebec when I was a boy. We used to cut our wood in the winter time and haul it out on sleds. Then, in the spring, after the snow had gone off, we would go back into the woods and cut down the stumps for telephone poles.

To make beef birds spread round steak rectangles that are about two by four inches with a bread dressing; roll and tie in shape. Brown in a little hot shortening, add a small amount of liquid such as water or tomato juice, season, and braise.

Cost Of State Government Takes Big Jump In U.S., Study Shows

DETRIOT, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—The average cost of state government jumped 60.2 percent on a per capita basis between 1946 and 1948, a report by the Detroit Bureau of Governmental research showed today.

In 1946, the average cost for all the states was $40.24 a person. It rose to $50.93 in 1947 and then jumped to $64.50 in 1948, the report of the non-profit agency showed.

Nevada led all states last year with expenditures averaging $113.-22 a person, moving up from eleventh place with $51.28 in 1946.

Michigan Placed Second

Michigan spent $108.47 per person to take second place in 1948. New Mexico was third with $105.-11 Washington fourth with $101.45.

Cheapest government per person was New Jersey, which slipped from 28th place in 1946 to 48th last year with a per capita expenditure of $41.18. New Jersey ousted Kentucky from the No. 48 spot it held during 1946 and 1947, moving the Blue Grass state up to 47th.

Bureau Director Loren B. Miller said the per capita cost was obtained by dividing total expenditures—less contributions to trust funds and enterprises which are supported by a particular group of the population—by the previous year's estimated population as published by the U. S. Bureau of the Census.

Federal Funds Included

Expenditures included were debt retirement, highways, health, hospitals and institutions for the handicapped; public welfare, schools, capital outlay, aid to local governments, interest, general control, public safety natural resources, correction, libraries, recreation and other unallocable purposes. Certain federal funds also were included.

Per capita costs of state governments included:

Grand Falls Pilot Faces Charges Of 'Reckless' Flying

FORT WORTH, Dec. 14. (AP)—A Civil Aeronautics board hearing on allegations that a Grand Falls man chased antelope in a light plane in such a manner as to endanger private property and landed and taxied on a public thoroughfare has been set for Jan. 5 at Midland.

J. B. Poindexter, CAB regional hearing examiner here, said Wednesday that the Civil Aeronautics administration filed the complaints against G. J. Douglas of Grand Falls and asked that Douglas' private pilot certificate be suspended or revoked. Douglas asked for the hearing.

The complaint set forth that Douglas flew his plane near Fort Davis while chasing the antelope May 7, 1949. The allegations also stated that on Sept. 14, 1949 Douglas flew the plane at an altitude less than 1,000 feet over a congested area of Grand Falls, flew closer than 500 feet to persons and structures in Grand Falls and landed the craft on a highway leading into Grand Falls, from which point he taxied onto the streets of Grand Falls.

In Douglas' answer to the complaint, it was stated that he did not endanger life and property as alleged and that he taxied into Grand Falls with the permission of the Grand Falls city council.

An ultraviolet microscope, which uses different wavebands of invisible light takes photographs that can be projected as three-color pictures within a few minutes.

Oil Cut Ordered

"Deck the Halls" were sung by the separate groups.

No admission is charged to the three programs included in the Feast of Carols series. Programs last approximately 90 minutes.

Besides the caroling programs each night, several of the schools in the city are having special Christmas plays this week, sending invitations to the parents of children enrolled.

INTIMIDATION NETS LAUGHTER

Chinese Reds Fail In Attempt To Make U. S. Prisoners 'Lose Face'

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
Far Eastern Director, INS

ABOARD SS LAKELAND VICTORY, En Route to Japan, Dec. 14 — None of the Americans at Consul General Angus Ward's Mukden consulate "lost face" despite the indignities and restrictions heaped upon them by Chinese Communists during their 13 months of isolated captivity.

Ward and his party of 19, en route home today aboard the SS Lakeland Victory, revealed how they had met Communist intimidation with defiant American laughter.

As the evacuation ship put to sea from the Communist harbor of Taku bar, Ward took one last look at the disappearing China coast and remarked:

"The Chinese Communists are as glad to get rid of me as I am to leave."

Fighting Spirit Reflected

His words reflected the fighting spirit of his American staff members and the thorny problem they presented to Communist officials who strove futilely to make them "lose face."

Vice-Consul Fred E. Hubbard, referring to the Communist attempts to humiliate Ward and the consulate staff, said:

"We knew they wanted to depress us, so we sang, laughed and joked in front of them as much as possible."

How the Americans even countered with high-humored courage a Communist demonstration against Uncle Sam was related by Mary "Mickey" Braden, consulate clerk and the only unmarried American girl in Mukden. She said:

"Last February, the Communists held a huge Chinese New Year's parade with a bearded caricature of Uncle Sam.

Americans Stage Parade

"Ralph Rehberg (consulate administrative officer) had a pointed beard. So he got an old Japanese top hat, draped himself in yellow silk and carried an American flag while the rest of us, dressed outlandishly, followed him in a parade through our consulate compound.

"The Chinese paraders saw us and stopped to watch the 'crazy Americans'. The whole Communist parade got so jammed up it took hours for them to get untangled."

Vice-Consul Hubbard chimed in, saying:

"Yes, and when our Chinese cook asked why we paraded I said that Americans always parade like that on the Chinese New Year and he said, 'Americans are very crazy.'"

Slated Sailings Delayed

The Lakeland's sailing was delayed several minutes when a Communist policeman demanded the return of a photograph he claimed a member of the ship's party had taken from him.

Just before the Lakeland steamed out of Taku bar, where the relief ship had taken the consulate party aboard early Monday, Ward got a haircut and shaved his beard down to goatee size.

Ward, found guilty of beating a Chinese servant at the consulate, denied the charge and said he had been tried on a trumped-up charge by a Communist "kangaroo court."

Held in solitary confinement for 28 days at a Mukden jail, he said the Communists gave him "hellish" treatment which included a daily diet of six slices of bread and hot water.

Airmen Get Rest After Being Lost In Swamp For 30 Hours

BILOXI, Miss., Dec. 14 (U.P.) — The Air Force gave two sergeants from Texas a rest today.

The sergeants needed it. They wandered lost for 30 hours in a swamp 40-miles north of Pascagoula, Miss., without a bite to eat.

The airmen were M/Sgt. A. M. Mirick of Fort Worth, and Sgt. Joseph Martinez of San Antonio. They went on a squirrel hunt Sunday with two other sergeants from Keesler field, where they are stationed.

But when they reached the swamp, the four airmen went in different directions. They agreed to meet at a landing on Black creek about noon Sunday.

Mirick and Martinez got lost. A helicopter flown by Captain J. M. Lieske of the Pensacola, Fla., naval air station picked up Mirick Monday afternoon. A searching party from Keesler field at Biloxi found Martinez a little later as he made his way down a stream.

Mirick said he walked through briars so thick they tore the sight from his .22 caliber rifle.

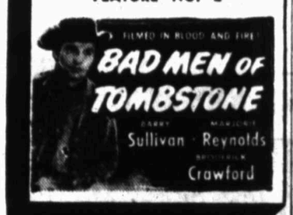

More than three-quarters of American farm families have radios and sewing machines.

STOCK EXCHANGE HITS HIGH POINT

U. S. Business Outlook Provides Promise Of Cheerful Christmas

By SAM DAWSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Cherry Christmas reading today for many businessmen, many industrialists:

Stock exchange price averages yesterday hit the highest point in over a year. And the total volume of trading also was larger than at any time since a year ago November. A number of people, apparently, are betting on better days ahead.

Steel production continues its spectacular rebound from strike days. Mills this week are operating at better than 90 per cent of capacity. Output in November is announced at more than four million net tons, compared with strike-bound October's 900,000 tons. December seems aimed at still higher goals.

U. S. Building Booms

Building records are being broken. The Bureau of Labor statistics predicts more than a million new homes will have been started this year. The construction industry in general is reported to expect that 1950 will equal the estimated $19 billion building peak being set this year.

And hand in hand go hardware sales. Stores in New York report November sales up to five percent better than last year.

Copper deliveries in November are reported today as the highest since March, 1948. The price of tin turned stronger in Singapore yesterday and sent dealers into the London futures market for active buying.

Paperboard production is reported running six per cent ahead of last year. The industry is considered an industrial barometer because the demand for paperboard indicates a need for containers to ship goods.

Plywood prices have been rising in the northwest. Homebuilding has spurred the demand for finished plywood.

Wool cloth output has rebounded from the mid-summer slump, and weavers now predict that the total in the final three months of the year will be as great as in the same period last year.

Rev. Olen Lowrance from Floydada, deaf minister, is to present the Christmas story in sign language.

Gifts will be exchanged and games will be played.

Mrs. Bundock interprets the sermon at Trinity Baptist church to the Silent class each Sunday morning. Listening to the sermon, she interprets in sign language what the minister says.

First Sale Under Vet Land Program Slated Today

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP).— A tract of land in Central Texas will be the first sale to an ex-GI under the $25 million veterans land program which begins with ceremonies in the Land Office building here tomorrow.

Bascom Giles, commissioner of the general land office, will deliver the first check and make the first formal purchase and resale of land to the "first veteran."

Actually, this "first veteran" is purely an honorary designation, as some 575 purchases will be made at the first meeting of the board for resale to Texas ex-GI's.

These purchases will be covered by checks totaling almost $3 million.

Hayworth Baby Not Expected Until January, Aga Khan Says

NICE, France, Dec. 14. (AP).— Prince Aly Khan and Rita Hayworth, who are awaiting the birth of a baby in Lausanne, Switzerland, have some time more to wait, the Aga Khan said today.

The wealthy leader of the Ismaili Moslems told a reporter the child will not be born before January. He is the father of Prince Aly and the father-in-law of Miss Hayworth, the screen star princess. The two were married May 27 at Vallauris.

EIGHT SURVIVORS ARE TREATED

10 Seamen Die In Ship Blast; Six Others Sought By Planes

By CLAUDE SITTON
INS Staff Correspondent

MIAMI, Dec. 14 — Eight exhausted survivors of an explosion and fire that gutted the Dutch motor ship Doros and killed 10 crewmen were flown to Miami today while a search continued for six others believed drifting in a lifeboat far out in the Atlantic.

Two of the eight members of the ill-fated vessel's crew that were brought to Miami were hospitalized for severe burns. The other six were treated for exposure and released.

Plane Picks Up Men

They were all taken by a Coast Guard plane from the tanker S. S. Sparrow's Point, which rescued them from a lifeboat in the choppy Atlantic and rendezvoused with the Coast Guard PBM at Great Abaco island in the Bahamas this morning.

The remaining six who escaped death in the ocean tragedy were believed drifting in a lifeboat somewhere in the Atlantic east of the Antilles islands 350 miles from Miami.

Five planes and a Coast Guard cutter searched vainly for them until late this afternoon and planned to resume the hunt at dawn Thursday.

Blast Rocks Ship

The 921-ton Doros, which belonged to the Royal Netherlands Steamship company, was outbound from New York to Haiti with general cargo when the first explosion rocked the ship about 11 a.m. Monday.

Survivors told how a cloud of smoke enveloped the ship after the blast, which they thought took place in the steward's storeroom.

Engineer Tells Of Fire

Chief Engineer Roelf Helmers, of Amsterdam, said he left his post in the engineroom and raced to the forward section of the blazing ship. He added:

"I couldn't find any of the officers and I ran through the flames back to the Doros' stern, where lifeboats were being lowered."

Helmers suffered second degree burns of the arms and face. The most seriously injured of the eight known survivors was DeWald Boulai, who had second and third degree burns on his eyes, arms and face.

Boulai, of Curacao, D.W.I., and Helmers were hospitalized. The other six, released after treatment for exposure, are:

Mario Beaumont, of Curacao; John Butterfield, of Turks Island, Bahamas; Benjamin Dickinson, of Turks Island; Enrique Rol, of the Dutch West Indies; Edward Anzand, of Dutch Guiana, and Leo Imambaks, of Dutch Guiana.

The razed hulk of the Doros was sighted some 300 miles east of Miami today by a plane which radioed there was no sign of life aboard.

CAB Hears Bid For Direct Air Service

Continuation of direct Lubbock-Fort Worth-Dallas service by Braniff airways has been recommended to the Civil Aeronautics board by James M. Verner, CAB examiner, according to information to the Lubbock chamber of commerce Wednesday.

The recommendation followed a hearing in Austin recently.

The CAB ordered the service discontinued several months ago on the grounds that it virtually duplicated that supplied by Pioneer Air Lines.

Braniff's demand for a hearing acted as a stay upon the effectiveness of the order and the service has been continued without interruption.

Final action in the case now rests with the CAB after a review of Verner's findings and recommendations.

One of the principal arguments stressed in favor of the Braniff appeal was that the service provided by the line is direct while that given by Pioneer is interrupted by several stops.

Man Who Posed As Son Of Late Kaiser To Be Banned From U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—Rico David Tancous, who won the hand of a New Orleans heiress while posing as the late Kaiser's youngest son, will be barred from returning to the United States, it was learned today.

The Justice department, an authoritative source said, has decided that it will not attempt to extradite the 26-year-old man from Mexico. Tancous is wanted by District of Columbia police in connection with a theft last June of $4,500 of paintings from Sumner Welles' home.

Tancous, who posed as Prince Otto Wilhelm Hohenzollern, went to Mexico shortly after his marriage on Oct. 30 to Virginia Kirk, 36, in New Orleans.

Decision on extradition was delayed while his citizenship was checked. Investigation, it was learned, showed him to be an alien.

It is understood orders will go out to the immigration service not to permit Tancous to re-enter this country should he seek to do so.

Such a procedure has been followed in the past in cases where expenditure of taxpayer's money would be unwarranted in relation to the case involved.

Dallas And Houston Beauties Named For Maid Of Cotton Contest

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 14. (AP).—Twenty cotton belt beauties were chosen today as finalists in the 1950 maid of cotton contest, to be held here Jan. 3.

The national cotton council said the finalists—from 12 states—will be judged by a seven-member board headed by Virginia Pope, New York Times fashion editor.

Sponsors of the annual beauty contest are the National Cotton council, Memphis Cotton Carnival association, and the cotton exchanges of Memphis, New York and New Orleans.

The finalists include, Texas — Betty Ann Cross, Houston, and Mary Campbell, Dallas.

Making the nineteenth store in this area for Davis and Humphries, Inc., of Lubbock, a new D. and H. Supermarket will be formally opened in Snyder Friday.

This newest addition to Davis and Humphries will be housed in a large new building, recently completed by D. D. Humphries, Lubbock contractor.

Shoppers in the new D and H Supermarket will make their selections from various food and household items, displayed in its more than 8,000 square feet of floor space. Construction of this 65 by 128 foot structure is typical of the widespread building now underway in Snyder.

An adjoining parking lot has been hard-surfaced for the convenience of shopping customers. The new D and H Supermarket of Snyder is located on the Snyder-Sweetwater highway, at 1400-Twenty-fifth.

Included in the equipment already in place in the new D and H Supermarket are open-type refrigerated self-service cases, displaying meats, vegetables, dairy goods, and frozen foods. All fixtures are the latest type.

Clyde Godwin, formerly assistant manager of Lubbock's Piggly Wiggly Supermarket No. 3, has taken over as manager of the new D and H Supermarket. Mr. Godwin, his wife, and baby will make their home in Snyder.

The 18 other South Plains and West Texas stores operated by Davis and Humphries, Inc., are in Slaton, Floydada, Big Spring, Brownfield, Post, Littlefield, Tahoka, Levelland, Muleshoe, and Andrews. The firm operates six Piggly Wiggly Supermarkets in Lubbock.

Some green vegetables are higher in nutrients than others, but the green color of vegetables usually denotes a plentiful supply of vitamin A.

New Test Set In Gaines County

Scurry Drilling Remains Active

Drilling is to start at once on a 5,100-foot wildcat in central-east Gaines county, approximately 25 miles east of Seminole, and about five miles southeast of the Cedar Lake field.

The prospector will be Edward C. Lawson and H. E. Chiles, jr., No. 1 Woolsey and Davis. The drillsite is 440 feet from south and east lines of labor 16, league 283, Schleicher county school land survey.

The scheduled destination of 5,100 feet is calculated to take the project into the San Andres-Permian lime, which is the producing formation in the Cedar Lake field.

PERMIT IS SOUGHT BY MONAHANS FIRM ON TEST

Russell & Wadsworth of Monahans, have filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas, requesting a permit to start drilling at once on their No. 1 J. H. Fisher.

The exploration is to be a 2,000-foot wildcat in central-east Culberson county. It is located 2,132 feet from north and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 12, block 110, psl survey.

That makes the venture 35 miles northwest of Toyah. Cable tools will be used.

SHOWING IS MADE ON NEW SCURRY EXPLORATION

A small amount of free oil was developed from the Ellenburger at a wildcat in northeast Scurry county, in a drillstem test in the top of that horizon.

The exploration is M. E. Davis and associates No. 1 Schattell. It is located 660 feet from north and west lines of section 90, block 2, H&TC survey, and five miles northeast of the town of Snyder.

The oil came in a drillstem test at 7,750-71 feet. The tool was open one hour. Gas showed at the surface on 18 minutes. The gas volume was not gauged or estimated.

Recovery, when the drill pipe had been pulled was 600 feet of free oil. The bottom 15 feet of that fluid was slightly cut with drilling fluid. There were no indications of formation water.

No pressures were recorded on account of the charts failing to register.

Operator started coring at 7,771 feet. The core will be cut to 7,781 feet, and then another drillstem test will be taken.

Top of the Ellenburger is at 7,750 feet. Elevation is 2,459 feet.

This exploration is five miles southeast of the nearest completed oil wells on the southeast side of the North Snyder field. It was low on the Canyon reef lime and it has failed to encounter any possibilities of production on any of the horizons in the Pennsylvanian.

YOAKUM COUNTY WELL TAKING DRILLSTEM TEST

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 Paul Cobb, northeast Yoakum county wildcat, 12 miles east of Plains, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 381, block D, John H. Gibson survey, was bottomed at 8,200 feet, and was taking a drillstem test to check shows of possible production which had been encountered in the zone above the present total depth.

This exploration has shown for a possible discovery from the upper Clear Fork of the Permian, between 6,031-6,144 feet.

It has also encountered interesting shows of oil and gas in the interval at 7,888-8,070 feet.

This development was originally started to dig to 8,000 feet. Operator has recently filed an application with the Railroad commission, requesting a permit to continue the project to a possible depth of 12,000 feet.

Informed sources say that the venture will be continued until it has penetrated the full Permian section—and it possibly may go below that formation.

SOUTHEAST TEXAS TEST IS DRILLING DEEPER

Tide Water Associated Oil Company and associates, No. 1 Nystel, Southeast Terry county wildcat, 14 miles southeast of Brownfield, and four miles east of the Adair shallow field, which produces from the San Andres-Permian, had reached 11,803 feet in an unidentified dolomite, and was making more hole.

Some observers expect it to reach the Ellenburger at any time.

Extra High Power.

According to some correlations that makes No. 1 Nystel 1,300 feet high on top of the Montoya to the same point in the Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 15 American Warehouse, deep dry hole in the Cedar Lake area of Northeast Gaines county about 10 miles to the south of the Tide Water prospector.

The Tide Water No. 1 Nystel is 660 feet from the north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl survey.

It has already shown for a possible discovery from the Pennsylvanian between 9,350 and 9,400 feet.

Considerable amounts of free oil were developed in drillstem tests in the Fusselman section of the Silurian between 11,469 feet and 11,595 feet. Interested observers think that horizon can be completed for a commercial producer and an important discovery.

EIGHT NEW LOCATIONS SLATED IN SCURRY COUNTY

Drilling will be started immediately at eight new locations in the North Snyder field in North-Central Scurry county.

Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware No. 2, R. C. Lunsford will be 467 feet from north and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 19, block 1, J. P. Smith survey. Rotary tools will be used. A 7,000 foot depth is planned for the exploration, which is five miles northwest of Snyder.

The Pure Oil Company No. 1 C L. Noble is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 295, block 97, H&TC survey. Rotary tools will be used, and the planned depth is 7,000 feet. Lcation is three miles northwest of Snyder.

William Hamm, r., No. 3 J. A. Joyce is 660 feet from north and east lines of the southeast quarter of section 16, block 1, J. P. Smith survey. Rotary tools will be used for the planned 7,000 foot exploration. The location is three miles north of Snyder.

FEDERAL PROJECTS DEFENDED

Private Enterprise Asked To Take Low-Rent Housing Lead

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (AP)— Raymond M. Foley, Housing and Home Finance administrator, said today that "a major share of the job of housing low and moderate income families must be assumed by private enterprise."

Foley told a House-Senate economic subcommittee studying the plight of low income groups that the government can't do it all.

"Public housing," Foley said, "is only a part of the solution of this problem."

Public Housing Administrator John Taylor Egan said his agency hopes to start 50,000 public housing units in the fiscal year ending June 30. Those units are being authorized under the 1949 housing and slum clearance law.

As of last week, Egan said, 403 localities had applied for a total of 375,252 housing units. Of these, 134,000 units in 108 localities have been approved so far.

Egan testified that only 49 per cent of the 40,000 white families admitted to public housing projects in 1941 were still in them by 1944. By 1948, he said, the total had dropped to 23 per cent.

He cited the figures to answer arguments that public housing projects tend to create a permanent "relief" class.

Egan said there is a "significant difference in the experience with negro families."

He said "their movement from the projects has been at a slower rate because the availability of better-paying jobs is much less for them." Negroes also have "much greater difficulty" than whites in finding "decent housing."

Man Claims 'Self Defense' In Fatal Port Arthur Shooting

BEAUMONT, Dec. 14. (AP) — Louis F. Bertrand testified in his murder trial today that he shot "in self defense."

The 58-year-old seaman and refinery worker is charged in the Nov. 15 slaynig of Homer Clifford Edgerly, 28, Port Acres carpenter, at Port Arthur.

Bertrand described pumping three bullets into Edgerly in a Port Arthur gambling place in the early morning.

Philippines To Boost UN Emergency Fund

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 14 (INS) — Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, president of the fourth UN Assembly session, announced tonight that the Philippine government will contribute $200,000 to the UN International Children's Emergency fund.

Romulo said the money will be used to buy Philippine products, chiefly copra. The copra will be used as a butter substitute to augment the diet of undernourished European children.

The Philippine leader pointed out that UNICEF operations now extend to the Philippines where demonstration feeding programs of skimmed milk, cod liver oil and meat are being held in 71 hospitals, schools and other public centers.

Plans Near Completion

He said that plans are being completed for an extension of UNICEF operations in the Philippines to include aid for tubercular children and the training of personnel to work among children in rural areas. The world health organization is cooperating in these plans.

Romulo declared:

"The program of my country is but one example of what UNICEF is doing in war-devastated lands all over the globe to bring health and some promise for the future to millions of children—children who had no part in bringing on the war and yet must suffer the worst consequences of it.

"It was this consideration which led the General Assembly only a fortnight ago to adopt a resolution congratulating the fund for its great humanitarian effort and drawing the attention of member nations to the urgent necessity of further contributions to enable it to carry out its programs.

"It is a particular satisfaction to me to be able to announce the action of my government in so promptly responding to this resolution, thus again acting to support the solidarity of the United Nations."

Shah Of Iran Deflates Rumor Of Romance In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14 (INS) — A rumor of a San Francisco romance was deflated today by the Shah of Iran.

Taking time out from a gay social and sight-seeing whirl, the affable Shah told a reporter:

"Nothing to it, nothing to it at all. I have met several very charming young ladies in San Francisco but they are only acquaintances. For one thing, I do not like dining alone. It is very agreeable to have a young lady along."

His denial that a romantic interest is holding him in San Francisco extended to 23-year-old Ruth Joyce Stevens, whom he has squired around the city since his arrival.

The young Iranian ruler said he has not set the time for his San Francisco departure but noted that he has a date with General Eisenhower in New York next Monday.

Doctor Operates On Incomplete Throat

Life Of Newborn Child Saved By 'Manufactured' Esophagus

By GEORGE L. SCOTT
INS Staff Correspondent

PORTLAND, Ore. Dec. 14— A beautiful baby girl, fully equipped with a new "manufactured" esophagus in her throat, probably will be home for a Merry Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wade of Coos Bay, Ore.

The 15-day-old baby, Sheryl Wade, was born without a complete gullet, Nov. 29.

Fortunately the physician attending Mrs. Wade accurately diagnosed why the child could not swallow food and rushed her to a Portland specialist the day she was born.

X-ray Reveals Fault

X-rays taken of the infant's throat, filled with iodized oil which is opaque to X-ray photography, ended abruptly in a tiny stub pocket. There was no way of determining, except through surgery, where the other end of little Sheryl's esophagus terminated.

Prior to the first successful tracheo-esophageal-fistula operation in Boston in 1939, there was no surgical technique known that could save the lives of babies born without gullets.

Twelve hours after the child arrived at Providence hospital, a tube inserted in her side was carrying food direct to her stomach. This nourishment bolstered the baby's tenuous hold on life during the long hours of surgery on her throat.

Part Of Rib Removed

The surgeon removed a large portion of the child's fourth rib and discovered the lower end of the gullet attached to the lung.

With infinite care, the delicate tissue was severed from its abnormal anchor and gently stretched until it could be sutured to the stub end of the esophagus extending down the baby's throat less than an inch.

To do this it was necessary to clip the two joining ends of the gullet over a catheter smaller than a cigaret to stitch the spliced ends firmly together. The catheter was then removed.

X-rays were taken Monday with the iodized oil. The throat was seen to be healing perfectly.

Food Given Girl

First food passed safely through tiny Sheryl's new esophagus today.

The "detour" tube carrying food through the side will be retained to supplement throat feedings until she is able to feed entirely by mouth.

Nurses proudly announced that despite the rigors of the operation, the child's weight was virtually normal for a two-weeks old baby. Sheryl weighed 8 pounds and 12 ounces at birth. Today she tipped the hospital scales at 8 pounds and 10 ounces—a normal shrinkage for newborns.

The operating surgeon, who asked that his name not be used, said his youngest patient was "a little beauty well worth saving."

He can point to two other husky youngsters growing up with "manufactured" gullets produced in Portland operating rooms during the past three years.

Oldsmobile Reduces Price On New Models

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 14. (AP)— Oldsmobile today cut $55 to $65 from the price of its various models in the series "88" cars for 1950. No price changes were announced for the smaller "76" or the larger "98" series models.

The price reductions, which are in addition to a recent $25 cut on Oldsmobile's hydra-matic transmissions, were announced at a press preview of Oldsmobile's new models here today. The new cars will go on public display early in January.

STRONG MOVE NEEDED TO CONVINCE EUROPEANS

Scientist Urges Union Of Western Democracies As Only Way Of Avoiding Disastrous Third World War

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. — Atomic scientist Harold C. Urey asserted tonight that a political union of western democracies is the only way to avoid a third world War which he said would last 10 years and end in a disastrous "stalemate."

The Nobel prize winning physicist who aided in development of the atom bomb declartd that western political u..ity must be achieved or "the Soviet strategy of infiltrating into western Europe will cause that area to acquiesce to its tyranny."

Urey told a meeting of the Atlantic union committee that the problem confronting the world is not the atom bomb but "modern war in which weapons of all kinds have become so effective that the victors and the vanquished are almost equally destroyed."

Complete Destruction Possible

Earlier, the scientist told a news conference that, one A-bomb a thousand times more powerful than the original missiles would "obliterate New York or Washington.

Urey insisted he did not know whether such a bomb was "in prospect," but Sen. Johnson (D-Colo.), a member of the joint congressional Atomic Energy committee, said recently that the United States is working on such a weapon.

Urey expressed hope that the "new revolutionary idea" of an Atlantic union would find response in the Russian people and inspire them to overthrow their "ruthless dictatorship."

The scientist applied the label "a crazy story" to the charges of ex-Major G. Racey Jordan that Russia's A-bomb efforts were aided by lend-lease uranium shipments to the Soviet Union during World War II.

He declared that to have withheld from Russia what was "a normal article of commerce at the time" would have "tipped our hand."

Urey urged that President Truman name a "technical man, probably an engineer rather than an atomic scientist," to replace David E. Lilienthal, whose resignation as chairman of the Atomic Energy commission is effective Dec. 31.

Union Believed Essential

The atomic expert insisted that a western political union is essential because should Russia dominate all Europe "Africa and Asia will be in the grip of Soviet power and this will leave the western hemisphere and particularly ourselves isolated."

Europe, he said, is afraid of two things:

1. War will eventually break out between the U. S. and Russia with Europe as the battleground."

2. In event of this war, the Soviet would be able to move her land armies rapidly to the Atlantic seaboard before help could come from the U. S.

Europt May Join

Urey said that "if very quickly it were possible to offer these countries a bona fide supra-government with powers to defend any part of the union against aggression, Europe might be led to join." He added:

"Only a strong move, a radical one, and a vigorous one can prevent such a movement on the part of the USSR and can convince western Europeans that relative safety for them lies with us."

The man whose basic research on "heavy water" and uranium greatly contributed to the development of the atomic bomb bluntly asserted that in his opinion the Baruch proposals for the control of atomic energy "are dead and cannot be revived." He urged their withdrawal from the UN.

Power Limitation Needed

Urey said that the proposed controls could only have any hope of success if all countries were willing to subscribe to a considerable limitation of national sovereignty. He declared:

"It is impossible to read the reports coming from the United Nations Atomic Energy commission or from any other branch of the UN without reaching the conclusion that the representatives of the USSR have no intention of working with the rest of the world in any way whatever except on the basis of a Communist conquest of the world."

The atomic scientist pointed out that the men who control Russia today were revolutionaries in their youth "and violated the law because they believed in a higher law which they themselves formulated;

"And in their old age they are dictators and again above the law.

Law Concepts Differ

"Therefore they have no concept of the subjection to law that all of us from the President on down observe in the U. S. And they have no concept of the establishment of a higher law on a world scale such as that contemplated in the Acheson-Baruch proposals."

The chance to avoid war, Urey said, lies in recognizing that a trend toward a government over the whole planet is inevitable and necessary. He said:

"It is not possible to prevent the development of weapons; it is only possible to control them, and the essence of control requires first, the authority to control, which is sovereignty, and second, a proper mechanism to establish effectively that control which is called government."

Urey Repeats Statement

Urey declared again—as he did recently in resigning from the United World federalists which advocates forming a world government with Russia in it—that:

"There is no possible way of working with a tyrannical government.

"In considering the establishment of a world sovereignty over and above the present nations of the world, it is necessary that the sovereignty shall be representative and democratic . . .

"We must adhere to principles and compromise only on nonessentials in thinking about world government.

"There is no compromise with tyranny."

The first window that could be moved up or down was invented in Holland in the 17th century.

Italian Unions Call Strike For Million State Workers

ROME, Dec. 14 (AP) — Italy's three major labor unions called a strike tonight of 1,000,000 state employes.

The strike, affecting virtually every state service except the railroads, was set to begin at 6 a.m., tomorrow (Wednesday midnight EST) and to end at the same time Friday.

Communist, Catholic and Socialist labor unions originally called the strike for last Saturday. They postponed it at the last minute when it appeared the government might boost a wage increase offer.

Since then, the government decided it could not.

Production Of Crude Oil Declines In U. S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—Daily average crude oil production and lease condensate was 4,979,300 barrels last week, a decline of 126,650 barrels from the previous week and compared with 5,671,150 in the like week a year ago.

The American Petroleum institute, reporting this today, said refiners ran to stills 5,234,000 barrels of crude daily, compared with 5,329,000 in the preceding week and 5,721,000 last year.

Heavy fuel oil production was 7,853,000 against 8,342,000 a week earlier and 9,387,000 last year; light fuel oil produced totaled 7,037,000 and 6,766,000 on the two periods this year against 7,585,000 a year ago.

Finished and unfinished gasoline stocks added up to 106,146,000 barrels compared with 105,264,000 in the previous week and 97,110,000 last year.

Gasoline production was estimated at 18,219,000 barrels compared with 18,128,000 last week.

ECONOMY PLAN

Might Get Results

MUCH has been said about economies in the federal government, with practically nothing being done about it. Sen. John L. McClellan has come up with a plan which might get results.

He announced this week he plans to propose the creation of a joint Senate-House budget commission to make a closer study of the spending requests and needs of the agencies which are responsible for most of the present high cost of government. This has the earmarks of a plan which would tackle the problem at its source.

In the past, Congress has paid little attention to the proposed budgets of governmental agencies until they have been presented for action—which usually has meant approval in substantially the form requested. Congress has had practically no part in the preparation of proposed budgets. The agencies simply have listed everything they would like to spend and have asked Congress to O. K. the bill.

Since some of those budgets are as thick as a big dictionary—and since there are many budgets—it has been impossible for Congress to make a genuinely detailed study of proposed expenditures. The almost invariable procedure has been for Congress to make a few cuts here and there—which have been publicized loudly and widely—and then to give the spenders practically all they have asked.

Senator McClellan has not yet explained exactly what he has in mind for the proposed congressional budget commission. Presumably, however, he intends that studies of proposed budgets should begin sooner and be more thorough.

The logical assumptions appear to be that such a plan would eliminate many proposed expenditures before they get into the budgets and give Congress a clearer idea concerning spending proposals contained in those documents after they are submitted.

Both of these offer sufficient promise of steps toward governmental economies to demand thorough study and probable approval of Senator McClellan's congressional budget commission proposal.

The Cost Of Strikes

THE statement that everyone loses in a war long has been accepted as an almost undisputed truth. The same thing can be said, with almost equal accuracy, of strikes.

The continuing labor turmoil in the coal mines illustrates. According to figures compiled recently in Washington, the average weekly earnings of coal miners last year approximated $76. This year, due entirely to the idleness caused by strikes and other deliberate work stoppages, the average has been cut to $60 a week.

Strikes and stoppages, in short, have cost the average miner more than $750 this year. Multiply that figure by more than 400,000 coal miners, and the gigantic total of more than $300,000,000 is obtained as an estimate of the cost of one strike to the strikers.

Such disturbances inevitably are expensive to every one. They result in many hardships for those who must rely upon coal for personal comfort and/or their jobs in plants which cannot operate without that fuel.

But to no group has the coal mine strike been as expensive as the coal miners themselves. This is true of the great majority of strikes. No one pays as dearly for them as the strikers themselves.

Paul Revere turned in an expense account covering his famous ride," asserts a historian. This country has long had citizens willing and eager to save it—at so much per salvation.

An Oregonian sleeps while the dentist fills his teeth. We're a bit different. We sleep while the dentist pulls our teeth, but stay awake during the filling operations because we enjoy hearing the drill buzz.

Autocrat Of The Furnace Room

The Cameo

By VIRGINIA TEALE
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Just as police and Stephanie Smith prepare to meet Andrey Yakov to exchange information about a valuable cameo locket for papers that will clear Hagar Blair of murder charges, there is a phone call for Chief Peters. From his conversation, Stephanie fears that something has happened to Yakov.)

XXVIII

CHARLIE REDDY slammed down the phone and looked up at Trotter standing in the doorway.

"Well," he spread both hands in an expression of defeat, "there goes our missing link. Yakov's in the hospital with a cracked head. May or may not live. They found him in the alley back of Bob's Place—that's the bar, you know. One of Bob's customers, full to the gills, went out back to get a little fresh air or something and found Yakov, lying on his face, blood on the back of his head, and a smashed half-gallon demijohn nearby. No fingerprints on it, of course."

"Nice!" Trotter commented quietly.

Trotter gave his attention to fitting his pipe into its battered leather pouch:

"No use wasting time maligning ourselves," he declared. "Let's get downtown and learn the particulars. Somebody ought to be near Yakov constantly in case he becomes conscious and is able to talk."

"May I come, too?" Stephanie's face was worried and fearful. "I don't want to stay here alone!"

Reddy nodded concernedly. "No you can't stay here, that's a cinch. Tell you what—why don't you pack up your toothbrush and pajamas and we'll get you a room at the Casa Rosa; you'll be safe there. It's right next door to where I live and I'll check with you from time to time."

CHIEF Peters and Charlie Reddy sat opposite each other in two wicker chairs surrounded by the scientifically contrived cheerfulness of the hospital's second floor waiting room.

Reddy straightened out his shoulders and took the ball: "Well, you say Pfieffer told you he suspects Tom O'Neill because of that weaving tool Tom borrowed from him to incise his pottery."

"Yeah. Pfieffer claims the thing was the right size and shape to've inflicted the wounds in both Falter and Mrs. O'Neill."

"But he didn't have another one like it to show you?"

The Chief shook his head, repeating once more a description of the instrument as Pfieffer had given it to him:

"Long, thin, steel thing with a little handle. Pfieffer says he used it for picking out threads in his weaving. Described it as an oversize bodkin with a sharp point. Ever see a bodkin?"

Reddy looked puzzled, "If I had, I wouldn't know it from a hogan."

The chief pursed his lips and expounded: "It's a large-eyed blunt needle for drawing tape or ribbon through a loop or hem. I looked it up in Webster's. Pfieffer told me this gismo of his was like that except for the large-eyed, blunt part. This thing was sharp, and about four inches long on the business end."

"What would Tom want with it?"

"I told you. He wanted it for incising sgraffitto work on his clay pots."

"Sgraffitto. Of course. Naturally." Reddy waved an arm wildly. "Clear as mud!"

"Oh, you've seen sgraffitto. It's that rough-textured pottery that looks like it had been scratched with a pin or something on the outside. When the clay is what they call 'green'—that is, before it's been baked or glazed — the potters sometimes scratch that roughness onto it for a special effect. They use all kinds of queer gadgets to get unusual surfaces. You know those wire flower-holders? Fella I know who has a pottery up in the canyon specializes in little lambs. He makes 'em woolly-looking by punching the green clay with one of those sharp-pronged flower holders. Tricks in all trades, you know."

Reddy scratched the stubble that was beginning to appear on his cheeks. "And Pfieffer thinks this sgraffitto thing could've been the murder weapon? Did he say why he thought Tom might have done it?"

"He babbled a lot of stuff about Tom being jealous of Falter and Nell—he seemed scared to death, wanted me to give him police protection. I pointed out to him that it couldn't have been Tom, since he has a foolproof alibi for the time of both murders. He was in Bob Knox's back room."

REDDY brought out his notebook: "Let's go over all the alibis once more. Suppose we start with Hagar's."

Peters thumbed through his notes. "Not much use checking that, she's the one who just plain hasn't got an alibi. That's why she's in jail, my boy."

"I'm pretty sure you can rule her out, though, Chief."

"Why should I? There's a lot that points right to her. Who was right smack-dab in Falter's house just after the murder — maybe right at the time of the murder? Who's studio was Nell O'Neill's body found in? Who was it gave us a big mumbo-jumbo about being down in Dana Point at the barbecue pits when Mrs. O'Neill was killed? Who had the cameo in her possession and claims she didn't know how it got there? Huh? Nobody but Hagar Blair, a tough old gimlet-eyed doll who looks like she'd commit a murder soon's she'd fry an egg!"

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

IT'S a little late for a story about Thanksgiving. But just as I don't believe that Religion should be practiced only on Sunday, so I can't see why thanks-giving should be confined to one day in the year.

BRANDEIS

It was the evening before Thanksgiving

We had finished our supper and my wife and I were sitting before the fire in our living room.

Tomorrow was going to be Thanksgiving with all its little pleasures and its culinary complications.

Somehow, though, I couldn't get myself into the proper spirit for the occasion.

"What have I got to be thankful for?" I asked. "Didn't I just get a notice from the Internal Revenue Office asking me to come down with all my records for 1947?"

It was eight o'clock — time for the Arthur Godfrey television show.

I turned it on and we got the usual lot of laughs out of it, Godfrey being both my wife's and my favorite comedian.

Then—almost at closing time—Godfrey became serious.

"I hope you will enjoy a little Thanksgiving song we are about to sang," he said in substance. "It is a poem written by Ralph Waldo Emerson many years ago, but only recently set to music by a man who has been blind all his life and still finds so much to be thankful for.

And then they sang —the whole lot of them — Godfrey and Jeanette Davis, and Bill Lawrence, the Mariners, the boys of the band, his girls' quartet—and even Mugs Richardson, his lovely but very serious assistant.

And this is what they sang:

"For flowers that bloom about our feet.
For tender grass, so fresh, so sweet,
For song of bird, and hum of bee.
For all things fair we hear or see,
Father in heaven, we thank Thee!
"For blue of stream and blue of sky.
For pleasant shade of branches high,
For fragrant air and cooling breeze,
For beauty of the blooming trees,
Father in heaven, we thank Thee!"

When the last notes of the song had rung out I felt ashamed of myself for having asked what I had to be thankful for.

IN BATTLE FOR VOTES

Demos Back Pensions

BY RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON: — "Pensions for all" will supersede the "welfare state," the "Fair Deal" and all other politically enticing slogans as the Democratic Party's and Truman Administration's formula for continuing to roll up victories in state, Congressional and presidential contests in the next few critical years.

It is far more alluring than "welfare State," which is too idefinite a promise to the mass of voters. President Truman himself never really liked the "Fair Deal," and coined it only to differentiate himself from the apostles of the wornout, Rooseveltian caption, the "New Deal."

TUCKER

The surest sign that the new movement is making steady progress was seen by insiders in a recent address by Charles Sawyer of Ohio, Secretary of Commerce and a relatively conservative business man. Adopting the same logic as the more vocal politicos, the Cincinnati figure declared that general pensions at a generous level have now become almost inevitable.

He also indicated that the government must bear the major burden, although his fellow-Ohian, Senator Robert A. Taft, estimates the nationwide cost of $100-a-month payments at $12 billion annually.

CONCLUSION: Mr. Sawyer is a highly respected lawyer, business man and industrialist in the sober Buckeye State. He is never classed by Washington observers with the more starry-eyed or politically opportunistic members of the Truman Cabinet and official family. Indeed, his friends back home sometimes wonder how he can "stand that bunch down there."

But in a recent address that received only slight notice, the secretary of commerce pursued the present pension drive to its logical conclusion. With an assist from CIO President Philip Murray, Mr. Truman has grafted monthly benefits of $100 on the steel industry.

Many others now have a similar system, or are falling into line to keep up with their competitors in the demand for labor.

Indeed, it has been estimated that more than 5,000,000 employees of large and small firms will enjoy high-level pensions as a result of the combination of private plans and awards from the Social Security system.

ALTERNATIVE: But Mr. Sawyer notes — and here is the critical point of his argument — that at least 4,000,000 small and medium-size business will go to the wall in no time fast if they have to assume this extra charge. It will necessitate such an increase in production costs, and therefore in prices, that they cannot compete with larger and more favorably situated rivals.

The government cannot permit that to happen without precipitating a decline in business activity, unemployment and general dissatisfaction. Moreover, these 4,000,000 firms constitute the backbone of larger production and assembly units in all fields of manufacture.

The only alternative to general bankruptcy, in Mr. Sawyer's opinion, is for the government to subsidize their pension payments through a major expansion of Social Security coverage and a steep increase in payments to those over 65 years old.

POTENT: So potent a political issue is "pensions for all" regarded by the Democratic strategists that they see no chance of a Republican recovery within the foreseeable future, especially if the G.O.P. policy makers should oppose enlargement of Social Security at next month's session.

First, they count on it to reelect a Democratic House and Senate next November, although such an off-year triumph for the party in power is extremely unusual.

Secondly, they believe that Mr. Truman can be re-elected in 1952, and they fully expect him to make the race in that year. Only obstacle now is Mr. Truman's reported desire that he quit the political arena at the end of his present term, when he will be 68 years old. His increased salary will enable him to retire comfortably.

CONFIDENCE: But the Democrats also figure that the "pensions push" may win them the gubernatorial seats next year in such states as New York and Pennsylvania, where so many industrial beneficiaries reside.

The Dulles defeat in the Empire State and Democratic gains in the Keystone State, together with this new appeal to the factory vote, will admittedly give the Trumanites a powerful asset.

In fact, the "ins" place so much confidence in the "pensions for all" issue that Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing now looms as a possible Democratic nominee for the Governorship of New York.

He is not generally known to the voters there, and the professional polls seem to resent his intrusion. But they may have difficulty in knocking off a man who will stand up and yell:

"I favor pensions for everybody!"

Overheard at the meat market: "I want a piece of meat as tender as a woman's heart." "Sorry—we're out of gizzards today."

Detroit is containing its pride quite well. So far its chamber of commerce hasn't added to its letterhead, "The No. 1 U. S. Target in Case of Atomic War."

Announcement was made Saturday by C. E. Maedgen, president of Lubbock National bank, of the merger of the First National and Citizens National banks of Crosbyton, effective Monday.

The bank will be known as the Citizens National bank and will remain in the same quarters with a capital and surplus of $60,000 and deposits of $330,000. Both banks formerly were capitalized at $50,000 each.

Officers of the new institution will be N. Y. Bicknell, president; Wade Cooper, active vice president; and R. H. McCurdy, cashier, all of whom served in the same capacity with the Citizens bank. E. M. Perkins, president of the First National, will be taken in as an officer, according to the announcement.

Mr. Maedgen was active in the merger, having purchased a controlling interest in the First National Saturday and selling to the Citizens National the same day.

Believe It Or Not -

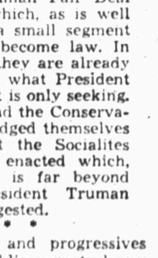

GOP LEADERS HAIL RESULTS

Conservatives Gaining Ground

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Successive defeats within a two-week period of Labor governments in Australia and New Zealand, which had been in power, respectively, for 14 and eight years, apparently is encouraging Conservatives here as well as in Great Britain.

Some of our Republicans, who catch eagerly at every trend, naturally seize those overturns as an augury in their own fight against the Truman Fair Deal or "welfare state," as they call it. Before they take too much for granted, however, it might be well for them to take a second and closer look, both in the Far Pacific and here, else they might do damage to their own party.

STOKES

Could Be Blow For GOP

If the arch conservatives of the Republican party should misinterpret the trend in the British commonwealths to try to pattern Republican party policy here in accordance with their views, it could hurt the party. For there was no trend of the arch Republican conservative sort in those elections, and none can be stirred up here. The progressive element of the Republican party knows that and is not so rash as to draw too optimistic inferences.

What the victors in New Zealand and Australia are committed to—both in existing social welfare statutes long on the books, which they will maintain, and in their campaign pledges—is far beyond the Truman Fair Deal program of which, as is well known, only a small segment thus far has become law. In other words, they are already well ahead of what President Truman as yet is only seeking. And in England the Conservatives have pledged themselves to keep what the Socialites already have enacted which, as we know, is far beyond anything President Truman even has suggested.

MODERATES and progressives in the Republican party know full well that no "back to McKinley" or even "back to Hoover" will work here, either as party policy or as a program for managing the government.

In recent months the "line" of old guard G.O.P. spokesmen is to condemn bitterly what they call "me-too-ism." This refers to the type of campaign in which the late Wendell L. Willkie in 1940 and Governor Thomas E. Dewey in 1944 and 1948 accepted the bulk of New Deal reforms and promised better administration of them. While not winning, Republicans gradually narrowed the ties in each of those successive elections on a moderate platform, and actually won a congressional election in 1946.

They might have gone on to victory in 1948 from that 1946 success if, in their test of actual performance in the 80th Congress, which they controlled, they had carried out the constructive ideas of those two presidential candidates. There was evidence in the 1946 election and for some time thereafter that the people were ready for a change. But the party not only failed to enact mild and clearly necessary reforms, such as housing legislation, minimum wage increase, aid to education and the like, but some Republicans tried to break down long-established reforms.

Must Have Concrete Case

The party, it would seem, would follow counsel of utter folly if it were induced by the anti-me-too element to make an all-out attack on New Dealism. It can only regain enough public confidence to win by accepting what we have achieved in the way of social welfare advances, which was the case in New Zealand and Australia.

In making comparisons with those British Commonwealths, it is well, too, to point out that we do not have a "labor government," despite loose talk to that effect. Far from it. Overlooked, too, is the simple fact that we have no single line of authority as in parliamentary governments, but ours is a system of checks and balances in which policy is a compromise. It is not what the President wants, but what Congress will give him.

LABOR does not control Congress, not by any means. If it did, we would not have the Taft-Hartley law, in the first instance, and it would have been repealed immediately after the last election, as it was not. And, if we had a "labor government," numerous other measures advocated by labor would have been on the books long ago, instead of being still in the blueprint stage after several years.

This must not be forgotten in trying to apply trends elsewhere, under different conditions and circumstances and rules of the game, to us under our system.

Fear Of Revived German Power Felt In West European Countries

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

A House subcommittee has added the question of the length of military occupation to the current discussions of what to do about Germany.

Rep. Javits (R-NY) says the situation now is so unstable that "we have to plan on a 10-year occupation," and that the committee was agreed after a first-hand look at Germany that she should not be rearmed.

Industrialists Return To Power

Drew Middleton of the New York Times reports from the Ruhr that the industrialists who backed Hitler are infiltrating back into power, and that British authorities there fear the new international administration of the area, with German participation, will weaken present controls on coal and steel.

There seems to have been an intensification of the old fear that once revived, Germany will throw herself into a coalition with Russia. Many Germans are represented as believing that such a coalition could take over Europe and that then, through their technical superiority, they can take over Russia, thus accomplishing the old German aim of complete hegemony.

Softening Of Brain Unlikely

Much of this talk seems to presuppose a softening of the brain on the part of the western allies which is not indicated by the Javits statement on continued occupation, by allied policy or by the actual situation.

The policy is that Germany sooner or later, like the rest of western Europe, must be made self-supporting and removed from America's economic neck. There is no official fear of a revitalized Germany in a generally vigorous western Europe where she will still be behind Italy, France and Britain.

There is one great safety guard against the possibility that American policy toward Germany will become too soft. That is the fixed determination that nothing will be done except in concert with Britain and France. And you can depend on it that France will not agree to anything militarily dangerous, nor Britain to anything economically dangerous.

San Angelo Woman Granted Perjury Conviction Reversal

AUSTIN, Dec 14. (AP) — Mrs. Mildred Blackstone of San Angelo today won a reversal of her conviction for perjury in the murder trial of T. Clinton Clary.

Evidence was not sufficient to justify the three-year sentence given Mrs. Blackstone, the court of criminal appeals ruled.

Mrs. Blackstone allegedly was the woman whom Clary visited in the evenings when his wife was away from their ranch home near Ballinger teaching school. Clary was found guilty of killing his wife, whose charred body was found in their burned home. The conviction was later reversed, and Clary is awaiting a new trial.

The perjury conviction was based on conflicting stories by Mrs. Blackstone. She told a grand jury she had not slept with Clary or gone to tourist camps with him. In a previous unsworn statement to officers she said she had done those things.

"An extra judicial confession (the statement to officers standing alone), is insufficient to establish that a crime has been committed," the appeals court opinion stated.

The court held that the state's testimony merely established the fact Mrs. Blackstone had made a statement and did not constitute proof of the facts.

Reversal of Clary's conviction, in which he received a 99-year prison sentence, was ordered some time ago, the court holding that a change of venue should have been ordered for the trial in view of widespread publicity given Mrs. Clary's death on Jan. 31, 1948.

Farmers Urged To Contribute To CROP

TAYLOR, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—Texas farmers could give 1,000 bales of cotton to overseas relief agencies if each contributed his share, the Texas State CROP office said today.

Daniel Russell, Texas CROP chairman, said that Texas cotton farmers already had accounted for 70 percent of the cotton given to the national CROP program.

"But even so, many Texas counties with good cotton crops harvested have made no contributions so far," Russell said.

"If everyone blessed by a heavy yield per acre would give cotton to be sent overseas for relief purposes in hospitals and orphanages, Texas could provide a thousand bales or more."

He said the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) collects cash for the purchase for distribution overseas.

State CROP Director Elmore R. Torn said 22 carloads of commodities from "44 counties had already been given by good hearted rural Texans to help alleviate the suffering of the hungry and cold the world over."

Torn listed the contributions as cotton, wheat, rice, cotton oil products, peanuts and peanut products, blackeyed peas, pecans, corn, grain sorghum and wool and mohair."

Torn said CROP distributes farm commodities without respect to creed, race nationality or political beliefs.

Lawyers To Hear Address On New York Tax School Saturday

One of a series of two addresses based upon attendance of two Lubbock attorneys at a recent tax school in New York City will be presented when Lubbock County Bar association conducts its luncheon program Saturday in Hilton hotel.

He is Thomas B. Duggan, jr., former association president.

Duggan and William H. Evans, who will speak on another phase of taxation at the January meeting of the bar group, attended the tax school in late November.

George W. McCleskey is association president.

Looking At Life

His name is Glenn Hurlburt, a talented musician, who lost his eyesight in an accident when he was a baby in San Francisco.

He lives in New York City with his wife, also a musician, and the two of them are not one bit discouraged about his blindness or about life.

To them life is beautiful and joyous, because they have their love and they have each other.

They go to the theatre and the movies — she sees with her eyes and he with his heart.

To Glenn Hurlburt EVERY day in the year is Thanksgiving Day. Because, he thinks, by losing one thing that is of great value you learn to appreciate so much more the many things that are left.

Fifty-five per cent of pedestrians killed in cities were using the roadway between intersections.

SOLON SAYS AID MUST CEASE

Americans Urged To 'Get Habit' Of Purchasing European Goods

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP) — Rep. Mansfield (D-Mont) has brought back from overseas an idea that Americans must keep on exporting billions or "get in the habit" of buying more European goods.

"Competition in some measure, and on fair and reasonable terms with the goods and services of our own producers," he said, "will have to be accepted."

This, he said in a report to the House Foreign Affairs committee, will require "a profound shift in the outlook of the American people to make them really import-minded."

Solons Disagree

Mansfield and Rep. Javits (Republican - Liberal - NY), another member of the committee, took opposite views on a quick peace treaty and diplomatic recognition for western Germany.

Mansfield is for them, Javits against. Each spent weeks abroad. Mansfield has been back for some time but just submitted his report today. Javits flew in yesterday and held a news conference.

Mansfield reviewed political and economic trends in France, western Germany, Austria and Italy.

He said all western Europe should be brought into an economic union without any customs barriers, the European recovery program should stop as such in 1952, and dismantling of German plants should stop now.

Mansfield said he had concluded that American aid through the recovery play has stopped the advance of Communism in western Europe and put it on the defensive.

Americans, Mansfield said, have three choices in helping Europe. He listed them this way:

The first is to stop or greatly reduce our exports and freeze world trade at a low level. He said this must be rejected because it would lead to stagnation and perhaps war.

The second is to continue to subsidize Europe's buying through gifts of billions of dollars a year. He said such gifts can't keep on indefinitely.

The third is to buy European goods and make investments abroad.

"In accepting the third choice," the congressman said, "the United States will have to get in the habit of buying European products, where price and quality make such purchases sensible."

Competition Must Be Accepted

After saying reasonable competition must be accepted, he added:

"European sales could be absorbed by this country into a constantly higher total flow of import and export trade, the whole resting on a solid foundation rather than depending upon the artificial prop of continuing dollar assistance by the United States."

Javits told his news conference that he and three other members of a foreign affairs subcommittee agree that western Germany should not be allowed to rearm now. The other members are Reps. Joseph Pfeifer of New York, Gordon of Illinois and Zablocki of Wisconsin, all Democrats.

Javits gave as his personal ideas: Occupation of Germany must continue around 10 more years; the United States should re-study its embargo on arms shipments to Israel; and President Truman's point four program for helping the world's backward countries should be the key point in foreign policy in 1950.

Vishinsky Pays Visit To Prime Minister Grotewohl In Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 14 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky paid a visit tonight to the ailing Otto Grotewohl, prime minister of the East German republic, ADN said. There have been reports from western sources that Grotewohl has lost favor in Soviet eyes.

ADN, the Soviet-licensed news agency in Berlin, said that afterwards Vishinsky was guest of honor at a reception given by Wilhelm Pieck, president of the East German republic.

Grotewohl is in a Soviet military hospital being treated for what the east zone government says is influenza. The American-licensed newspaper Tagesspiegel said today that Grotewohl and his wife tried to commit suicide. There was no confirmation of the report.

STOCKS HIT NEW PEAK

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (AP)—In the broadest market on record, and the fastest trading of the year, stock prices slowly rolled ahead to a new 1949 peak today.

It was the fourth advance in a row, during which well over $1,000,000,000 has been added to the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange.

The volume of business increased to 2,210,000 shares, a high since Nov. 9 last year.

A total of 1,191 individual issues changed hands, the largest number in the history of the exchange. As of Nov. 30, the last official reporting date, the exchange had a total of 1,457 issues listed. Gains were posted for 513 stocks and losses of 332.

The gains, small as they were, were enough to boost the market to the highest average level in more than 13 months. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced to 70.7, up .4 of one point and tops since 70.8 Nov. 26 last year.

The industrial group showed the largest rise, followed in that order by rails and utilities.

Fourteen of the 15 most active stocks were in the low price bracket. The exception was Chesapeake and Ohio, up ⅛ at 29⅛.

Only two closed lower, Packard Motor, down ⅛ at 3⅞, and Armour and Co., off ⅛ at 8⅜.

Most active issue was Servel Inc., up ⅛ to 10⅝, followed by St. Regis Paper, ⅜ ahead at 8.

Superior Oil of California again performed in spectacular fashion, rising 24 to 212. Yesterday the stock jumped 32½ to 190. The rise followed announcement that the company, subject to stockholder approval, would be split into two separate entities.

Also higher were Santa Fe, Frisco, R-K-O, Montgomery Ward, Radio Corp., Pepsi-Cola, American Telephone, Anaconda Copper, International Nickel, Dow Chemical, American Woolen and Gulf Oil.

Shaded a bit were General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, Emerson Radio, Zenith, Commonwealth Edison, Du pont, American Zinc, American Airlines, and Warner Bros.

Higher in the curb were Pancoastal Oil, Pantepec Oil, Pipe Aircraft, Salt Dome Oil, Imperial Oil, Cities Service, and Atlas Plywood.

Trimmed a bit were Kaiser-Frazer, Humble Oil and Eastern Gas Fuel. Sales of 420,000 shares compared with 440,000 Tuesday.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Cotton futures displayed early strength today, but later turned reactionary on profit taking. Renewed uncertainty over the cotton acreage and marketing controls program influenced some selling.

Spot houses were on both sides of the market, one leading firm buying upwards of 3,000 bales of the May 1950 position. Switching operatons were extensive between old and new crop positions, along with evening-up in nearby December prior to expiration of trading in those contracts at noon Friday.

Cotton closed steady.

Spots closed nominal at 30.85, up 2.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14 (AP) — Cotton futures advanced here today in the early trading but eased off later under profit taking from the long side and hedge selling.

Closing prices were steady, 30 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher.

Grain

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 14 (AP) — Wheat No. 1 hard 2.38½-43½.
Oats No. 2 white 94½-95½.
Corn No. 2 white 1.65-67, nominal.
Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.30-35.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP) — Selling pressure directed at December wheat knocked that contract down more than 3 cents at times on the board of trade today. Weakness in December wheat unsettled the rest of the grain market, although July wheat held steady.

Last day for trading in December contracts is Dec. 20. There appeared to be liquidation in all December deliveries by longs who were not anxious to obtain grain. The downturn came in the face of substantial export business by the private trade.

Wheat closed 2½ lower to ⅝ higher, December $2.20½-⅝, corn was unchanged to ⅛ lower, December $1.31⅛-⅜, oats were unchanged to ½ lower, December 77⅝-½, rye was ¼ lower to ¼ higher, December $1.41¾, soybeans were ½ higher, December $2.30½-¾, and lard was 10 to 22 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $10.30.

MAN MAKES GOOD IN HOME TOWN

Lufkin Industrialist Honored By Awards On Special 'Kurth Day'

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LUFKIN, Dec. 14.—Industrialist Ernest L. Kurth was honored tonight as a home town boy who made good while staying in his own home town.

Hundreds of Southerners applauded as the Lufkin businessman received awards as "the man of the south for 1949"—and Texas' most distinguished industrialist.

The 64-year-old native Texan also received words of praise from friends and associates and from Texas Governor Allan Shivers, U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex) and former Governor W. P. Hobby of Texas.

He was described as a leader among the men who had vision and foresight to bring industrial plants into the south.

Operation Impairs Voice

Kurth's response was read by a son, E. L. jr., and a brother, Melvin. A throat operation several years ago impaired the industrialist's vocal organs.

He called Lufkin's "Kurth Day" as "one of the greatest markers in my life" but said the awards actually were being bestowed upon every man and woman in Angelina county.

He said: "For in our community we have a partnership—no so-called leaders—but a partnership of people with honest regard for one another, a partnership of people with an eye to progress and the well being of their neighbors."

This partnership, he said, represents the ability of men "working, dreaming, envisioning new horizons together to accomplish good and lasting things."

Connally Describes Kurth

Connally described Kurth as a great business man who carved his career in East Texas but whose career reaches beyond Texas.

"He did not go somewhere else to make a career," Connally chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said. "He conceived the idea of utilizing what had theretofore gone to waste. With a penetrating vision he looked into the future."

Hobby, publisher of the Houston Post, said Kurth is "the man of the South of all time."

"He's the easiest picking you can find anywhere when it comes to a friend that needs him or to a fellow that's in trouble and trying to get out," Hobby said.

Kurth Called 'Kingfish'

"When we say free enterprise we think of Ernest Kurth as the kingfish. He heads up 16 different East Texas firms and advises dozens more."

Kurth, he said, is the home town boy who made good at home because of his helping make Lufkin "a better place, a place of vast opportunities for the individual.

Hobby concluded: "God never made a better man and the eyes of the South never looked upon a nobler son."

Don C. Mitchell, president of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., New York City, said Kurth's bringing industry to the South is sound business economy,

Open Country Needed

"Man was not made to live and work in the narrow confines of a city," Mitchell said. "He needs a healthier, more natural atmosp' ere of the country where he and his family have the freedom of rural living."

"Therein lies the great opportunity of our rural areas," he said.

The "Man of the South" award was presented Kurth by Hubert Lee, publisher of Dixie Business, Atlanta, Ga., magazine, the award's sponsor.

Ed C. Burris, executive vice-president of the Texas Manufacturers association, presented the certificate naming Kurth the state's industrialist of the year.

An eulogy on behalf of citizens of Angelina county was made by Col. Cal C. Chambers, Lufkin, while Judge Ireland Graves, Austin, spoke on "an old school mate as I have known him through the years."

A 24-hour rain cut heavily into attendance at the day-long, "Kurth Day" program.

Previous recipients of the magazine award are Thomas W. Martin, president, Alabama Power company, Birmingham; Donald Conner board chairman Avondale Mills, Birmingham; and C. Hamilton Moses, president, Arkansas Power and Light company, Little Rock.

Kurth was kept busy greeting old friends today. He proudly introduced many of his visitors to his two young granddaughters.

Until the parade was cancelled, an hour after its scheduled start, he had worried considerably over whether the rain would prevent the youngsters from sitting with him on the reviewing stand.

It was to have been a parade of Angelina county industry with floats depicting in miniature the manufacturing operations of the county's various plants.

Drawing considerable attention was the big Southland Paper Mills, Inc., plant at nearby Herty. Many publishers whose newspapers receive newsprint from the plant inspected its operations.

It was the first plant to produce newsprint in commercial quantities in the South and was a product of Kurth's vision and foresight. It was Kurth who saw that East Texas' vast supply of yellow pine could be turned into newsprint.

Southland paper is one of the 16 firms headed by the Lufkin industrialist. Others range from an insurance agency to a theater chain. He is a director and takes active interest in dozens of other companies.

Other plants that were open for inspection today included the Angelina Hardwood Sales company, Lufkin Foundry and Machine company, Lufkin Creosoting company, Moore Chair company, Mumment company.

Also Norris Fence company, Southern Pine Lumber company, Stroud Lumber company, Texas Foundries, Inc., Texas Pioneer Resources Electric Cooperative plant, and the B. L. Zeagler mill.

Kurth, a native of Polk county, grew up in the East Texas forests. He became a champion of reforestation and conservation.

Airman In Alaska Opens Drive Early

AUSTIN, Dec. 14. (AP).— An Air Force sergeant stationed in Alaska has opened the 1950 March of Dimes a month ahead of schedule.

The sergeant, Elvin Munsell, of Austin, was inspired by the wistful face of a girl from his home town, Wanda Wiley, eight-year-old poster girl for the 1950 polio appeal.

Munsell saw Wanda's picture in an Anchorage (Alaska) newspaper last Friday, the day her selection was announced by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The sergeant promptly posted a $5 contribution in care of the Austin Statesman. The donation is believed to be the first in the campaign that officially opens Jan. 16.
