(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Mar. 15.—A flood menace continued to creep over various sections of the middle west today, as many rising streams stretched outward.

Quincy, Ill., reported the Mississippi had reached the 15.4 foot stage today, a rise of more than two feet since yesterday.

The Peconica river valley in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois was flooded, bridges and railroad tracks having been washed out in several places.

Beats Used In Funeral

At Winslow, Ill., boats had to be used for a funeral.

Rivers in upper Wisconsin were beginning to rise and the Wisconsin, Fox and Wolf rivers also were swollen.

In Iowa, the breaking of an ice jam in Lime creek near Mason City released a fresh torrent which swept down on Mason City, and flooded many fashionable homes among the residence of Hanford Mac-Nider, former assistant secretary of war, whose family was forced temporarily to abandon its home. From Boone came a report that a farm near the city was missing and was believed to have been drowned.

Bring Boon To Shippers

Floods which menaced other sections of the country brought a boon to northwest shippers—a nine foot channel in the upper Mississippi river.

As a result of the deepened water way, expected to last for the next two months, negotiations are under way for use of 1,000 ton barges in-

Federal Agents Make Liquor Raid

Five Men Released On Bond
After Raids On Caches In Littlefield and Sudan Territory; Liquor Secured

Bill Herman, Vernon Herman, W.
R. Atkinson, and John Atkinson, were released from custody of county officers under $750 bonds each, and Roy Campbell released under $1,000 bond, late yesterday, following their arrest late Thursday by federal prohibition agents L. H.
Tyson and J. M. Bacon, U. S. Commissioner Leonard L. Pearson, Deputy Sheriff O. B. Conley and City Patrolman George Eubank.

The five men were arrested after officers had made several raids on alleged liquor caches in the vicinity of Sudan and Littlefield, about 75 gallons of liquor of many varieties being confiscated. These places, so federal officers allege, were all the property of Bill Herman, wealthy property owner and former prominent rodeo star. The three places are said to have been earning about $475 a day.

Detroit Campus Bans Coed Talk

DETROIT, Mich., Mar. 15. (P)—
The campus of the University of Detroit was stirred today by an announcement by the President, the Rev. Dr. John P. Mc-Nichols, that the 50 co-eds enrolled in the University would be expelled if they were detected conversing with any of the 2,000 male students on the University grounds.

The man on conversation was defended vigorously by John S.
Malley, associate editor of the Varsity News, student paper.
Malley's statement said:

"The President's dictum is the greatest thing to come to U. of D. in years. The co-eds way of life harrass the male students.
They destroy the studious and scholarly atmosphere of the college with their blarneyings. It is the greatest single step forward in the history of education."

Connie To Wed Loop Merchant

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Mar. 15. (P)— petition Slated Today

Today is the last of the annual Spring Music Festival fostered by the South Plains Music Teachers association and contests will be conducted in violin, voice and for all instruments and bands, according to Miss Margaret Huff, president of the association.

Piano contests were completed yesterday evening following a concert given by the Lubbock High School band in the auditorium.

Miss Beulah Dunn, J. W. Crowley and Mrs. Lillian Butler of Slaton are in charge of the contests today, which start at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Wallace R. Clark of the West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon is to judge the events.

DALLAS, Mar. 15. (P)—Murder theories advanced after the body of James Wardlow, 69, was found yesterday in Turtle creek on the outskirts of Dallas, were abandoned today after officers investigated.

A railroad trestle spans the creek directly above the point where the body was found and friends expressed belief that Wardlow had fallen from it Wednesday night.

(By Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Mar. 15.—
The fate of 10,000 or more persons in the flooded districts of southern Alabama remained in doubt tonight, 24 hours after the rising waters of minor streams marooned many of them on the roofs of dwellings, on poles or in trees.

The stricken communities, of which Elba, with its 4,000 inhabitants, suffered most, were in need of food and the prospects of immediate adequate relief seemed slight. Guardsmen and others were pushing the work of rescue.

Number Rescued Unknown

Colonel W. A. Gayle, in charge of relief activities, reported to Adjutant General F. Eugene Butler that his men were taking refugees to higher ground from the outskirts of Elba by boat loads, but made no estimate of the total number rescued.

Outposts of the guardsmen reported that the tide had turned and that the water was falling, but while this relieved somewhat the fear of drowning, it brought little hope of prompt restoration to civilized comfort of the marooned thousands.

The floods had cut off ordinary means of communication and reports of the situation were naturally scant and unverified. Even the total number affected could not be ascertained.

Ten Thousand Marooned

An estimate that 10,000 persons are marooned in the flooded districts and a statement that they are badly in need of food supplies was radioed from the Pensacola naval station after seaplanes had flown over the flooded area, and reports from outposts established by national guardsmen sent on rescue missions made up the sum total of information on the situation available tonight.

had lost their lives and that boats of rescue parties had capsized flow-

Rhode Island To Face Amendment

PROVIDENCE, March 15. (P)—Renewal of Rhode Island's struggle against the 18th Amendment, was forecast today in the introduction of a resolution in the legislature directing the state attorney general to seek a ruling from the supreme bench on whether the amendment ever had been validly enacted.

The resolution directs Attorney General Charles E. Eison to seek the supreme court's opinion on two questions:

"Whether 36 state legislatures have validly enacted this amendment, and whether they had a right to do so."

The purpose of the appeal, said the resolution, is to re-establish the Constitution of the United States in the hearts and minds of American citizens.

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 15. (P)— Hearing on a motion to quash the indictment against former Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, charged with violation of the corrupt practices act, today tentatively was set for March 23, after a conference of counsel.

Both agreed to a hearing before Judge Duval West, March 23, which probably will be held in event Judge

Elba Appears As Lake Into Which Dropped Houses

(By Associated Press)
MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 15.—From the air the flood-stricken little city of Elba gave the appearance today of a huge lake into which houses had been dropped. Some of them seemed to have sunk too far; and here and there roofs had given away, presenting in some instances a picture of ruin.

This description of the southern Alabama town whose population of about 4,000 has been marooned for nearly two days was given by a staff representative of the Montgomery Journal who flew in an airplane over Elba today.

People Wave To Plane.

In some two-story dwellings people could be seen poking their heads from the upstairs windows and waving their arms as the plane passed over. House tops here and there were dotted with refugees who awaited boats to carry them to safety.

On the long, flat roof of the public school where some of the pupils had been marooned since Thursday afternoon several figures could be seen skipping about and others were huddled in a group.

On the narrow strip surrounding the steeple of the court house another group was cut off from rescue and the distance from their perch to the swift waters below appeared to be some 10 to 15 feet. These were the only buildings upon which groups were noted but here and there, could be distinguished one or two figures on the roofs of residences.

Drop Food On Hill.

A hillside southeast of the town adjacent to the highway leading from Elba to Enterprise and New Brockton was the spot selected by Lieut. Willie Persons, piloting the plane, to drop the cargo of food and cigarettes sent by the Red Cross from Maxwell Field.

Circling the top of the rise several times, Lieut. Persons nosed down as close to the ground as was safe and signalled to drop the heavy pack of food and the cartons of cigarettes. The supplies tumbled to the muddy pasture as the crowd in the highway moved upward.

Only one boat was seen during the seven or eight trips around and over the flooded town. The plane slowly was picking its way among the almost covered structures and only three or four people were aboard at the time.

Granger Man Leaps From Texas Hotel

FORT WORTH, Mar. 15. (P)—E.
R. Young, of Granger, was killed

Revolution In Mexico Develops War Prices On Food, Says Writer

BY JOHN LLOYD
Associate Press Staff Correspondent

CANTINAS, Zacatecas, Mexico. (With the army of General Calles)—March 15. (P)—War prices for food, miles of picket lines in a great circle and the bustle of continuous troop movements toward the front brought home to the party of American war correspondents passing through here that they were approaching the "front" in Mexico's rebellion.

Food prices have soared and even frugal meals cost exorbitant prices. A great scarcity of coffee, milk and eggs was noted.
This insignificant but geographically important junction is a dirty little Mexican town of about fifty adobe houses. Its importance comes from the railroads which lead to Durango and Torreon, toward which latter point a great federal army now is moving in an effort to administer a decisive defeat of the rebels and stamp out the rebellion.

Sooner Solons May Be Tenting

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 15. (P)—
Members of the Oklahoma legislature soon may be harmonizing on "we are tenting tonight."

V. G. Houston, Logan county representative, suggested jokingly yesterday that the solons held here by the impeachment session of the legislature sleep in tents of the national guard when their $6 per day salary dwindles into $2 a day at the expiration of their sixty day legislative period early next week.

Carrying out the joke, a committee called upon Charles F.
Barrett, adjutant general, who informed the legislators that not only could the general supply tents and cots, but could provide meals at fifty cents a day.

Today the idea didn't look so obscure to a number of the legislators who are men of limited means. Houston said some members may accept the offer.

Moody And Marrs Make Attack On Textbook Status

Joint Statement Tells Of

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Mar. 15.—Stating that the board of education and textbook commission have favored the plan of rebinding and reconditioning used textbooks, that the schools might get the greatest benefit possible of money expended for books, Governor Moody as chairman, and S. M. N. Marrs, superintendent of public instruction and secretary of the textbook board, today issued a joint statement bearing on the majority and minority reports of the senate committee investigating text awards.

Taking the American Book Company to task, the governor and superintendent said "we believe that if we can divorce it from the school funds of Texas we will have rendered a substantial service to the taxpayers that furnish the funds for education of our children."

General Escobar Announces That Troops Have No Intention Of Evacuating Stronghold In Torreon

Calles Moving On

Revolutionists Claim Victory In Capture Of Train Near Monterey; Calles Takes Durango

(By Associated Press)
JUAZAR, Chihuahua, Mexico, Mar.
15.—Facing a steady advance of Mexican federal troops under the command of General P. Elias Calles, leaders of the rebellion are determined to make a stand in Torreon, headquarters of the revolutionary movement and industrial capital of Coahuila.

Definite pronouncement was made in Torreon today by General Jose Conzales Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, that revolutionary forces have no intention of evacuating their stronghold. The revolutionary chieftain's statement was accompanied almost simultaneously by declarations from rebel headquarters in Juarez that there was no prospect of immediate fighting in the vicinity of Torreon because, it was claimed, the army of Calles is far to the south.

Claim Successes

lutionists were claimed at military headquarters here. General Francisco Urbalejo was claimed to have 12,000 troops in fortified positions in the canyon south of Canitas and was moving cautiously southward.
Rebel headquarters announced late today that their forces had captured a train between Monterey and Nuevo Laredo, tearing up the railroad tracks to prevent federal advances.

Calles Occupies Durango In Bloodless Victory

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 15. (P)—The forces of General Calles in a blood-less victory today occupied the city of Durango and prepared to thrust from a new direction against the rebel stronghold of Torreon four other federal columns are moving against Torreon, from the east and south.

By their capture of Durango, the federalists removed the last known obstacle in their advance for a concerted attack on Torreon.

Rebel General Withdraws

Amaya withdrew his small army from Durango before the federal troops appeared. He was cut off from a direct retreat to Torreon and so took the railroad leading north.
It was supposed that from the rail-head at Tepic he would attempt to lead his men over the high mountains for more than 100 miles to Parral, Chihuahua, and then south.

Federals Order War Materials

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15. (P)—
Large quantities of war materials, including arms, ammunition, and tear gas bombs, were ordered by Mexican officials in the United States today, further demonstrating the determination of the Gill Government, which has support of the Hoover administration, to suppress the revolution.

Arms, ammunition and kindred war materials were ordered out of the surplus stock of the war department and orders were placed with a private manufacturing concern for tear gas bombs. Ambassador Tellez explained that the federals did not desire to use poisonous gas

Eaker To Hop Off Today In Flight To Panama Field

Flier Will Attempt Dawn-to-Dusk Flight From Texas City; Plan To Return Sunday

(By Associated Press)
BROWNSVILLE, March 15.—
Capt. Ira C. Eaker, who will attempt his dawn-to-dusk flight from Brownsville to Panama Field, Panama, tomorrow, announced ready today for his take-off.

He will take the air at 4:30 a. m. before the sun is up and hopes to reach Panama Field at 7 p. m. Four stops will delay him one hour and 50 minutes.

A favorable wind is expected to speed his return flight, and he will leave Panama at 5 a. m. Sunday to reach here at 6:40 p. m. Sunday. He then will fly to Kelly Field, San Antonio.

Plans Third Flight.

On Monday, the captain intends to make his third dawn-to-dusk flight by flying from San Antonio to Washington.

The dawn-to-dusk flight to Panama originally was scheduled to start last Sunday, but was delayed by army orders because of the revolution in Mexico, after two days in Brownsville the captain returned to San Antonio to "stand by" for orders.

Tampico, Mexico, will be Captain Eaker's first stop tomorrow. His speedy ship also will be refueled at Minatitlan, Mexico; Quatamala City, Guatemala; Managua, Nicaragua; and David, Panama.

Negro Voodoo Gets Death For Murder

AUSTIN, Mar. 15. (P)—Bishop Adams, negro voodoo doctor, was sentenced to death by a jury here this afternoon on charges of murdering William Globor, an Austin Grocer.

Globor was found in his store February 13 with his throat cut. He lived long enough to give officers a description of his assailant.

Adams, an asserted voodoo doctor, was convicted entirely on circumstantial evidence. The state did not introduce a purported statement the negro was said to have made after his arrest.

Starvation And Bitter Medicine Flying Formulas

CHICAGO, Mar. 15. (AP)—Bitter medicine believed to produce levitation of the human body for the achievement of flight without wings, machinery or gas bags was used by an "air-minded" ancient who sought a solution to the mysteries of human flight.

Dr. Berthold Laufer curator of anthropology for the Field Museum of Natural History, uncovered this unusual solution to the problem of human flight in researches for a book on "The Pre-history of Aviation."

Desire Is Old

"The desire to fly is as old as mankind," Dr. Laufer says. "Our airplanes are pedigreed from kites which have their origin in China. Our modern progress in aviation is not due solely to efforts of the present generation, stupendous and admirable as they may be, but presents the process of a gradual evolution of ideas which have grown out of the imagination. Endeavors, experiments, triumphs and failures of many past ages."

Dr. Laufer says the starvation was advanced and practiced by some of the ancients who sought to fly without any mechanical aids. Scores of legendary tales about flying are told by the museum curator in his new book, which emphasizes the important part that imagination has played in the development of the age-old dream that some day man might fly.

Field Is Romantic

There is no field of human exertions in which imaginations and romantic dreams have played a greater role and have proved more fertile than in the development of aviation.

From ancient tales of India, Dr. Laufer obtained a description of an early conception of a dirigible airship. Schemes for harnessing teams of birds to draw vehicles through the air, conceived by ancient Babylonians, Persians and Greeks, also are described.

Bladud, the legendary tenth king of Britain, father of King Lear and father of Bath, is said to have made wings of feathers by means of which he attempted an aerial flight which resulted in his death in 852 B. C.

The Chinese emperor, Shun, who lived about 2558 to 2508 B. C. is not only the first flier recorded in history but also the very first to make a descent in a parachute, Dr. Laufer says.

Leidigh Talks At Sudan C. C. Feed

Dean A. H. Leidigh, of Texas Technological college, and B. Sherrod, representing the Lubbock chamber of commerce, were among the speakers at the Ladies' night of the Sudan chamber of commerce last evening.

There were approximately 150 men and women present at the gathering, which was more on the order of a general get-together, with the banquet table as the means of holding it. Special music was provided and a number of fine talks were made by Sudan citizens.

The congeniality of the Sudan folks was remarked about by both Leidigh and Sherrod, upon their return to Lubbock, and they reported the community as being progressive in every respect, with the largest shipments of feed stuff moving out of that town of any point in the entire state of Texas this year.

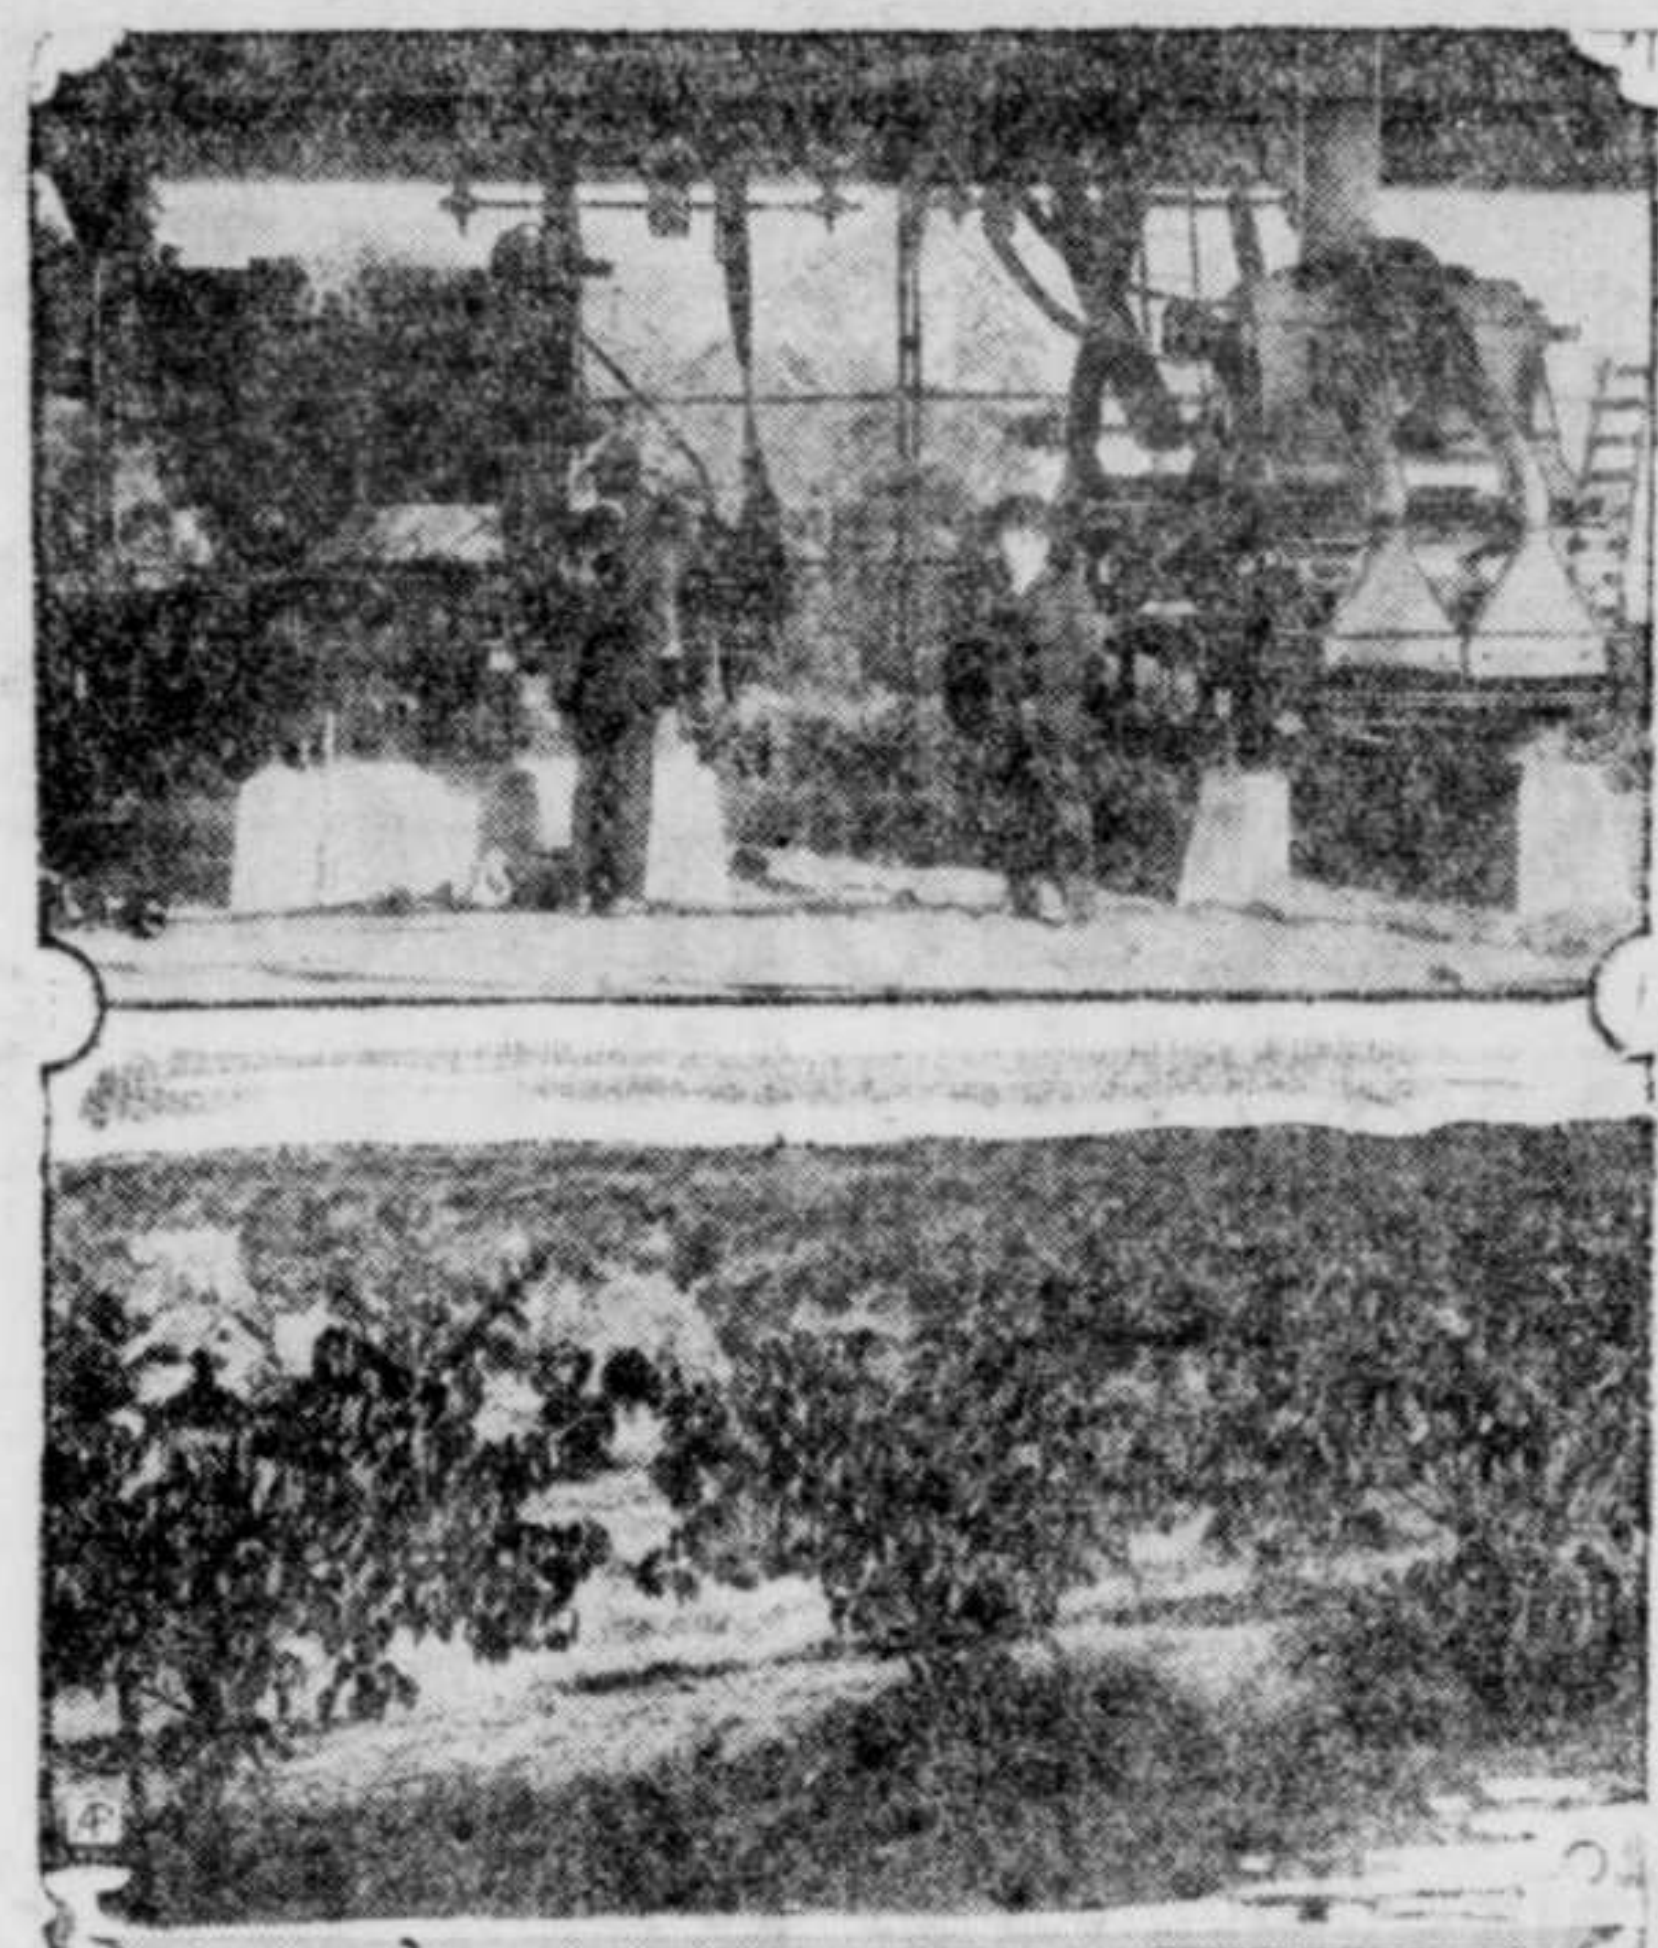

High School Band Presents Concert

Before one of the largest houses they have ever played to in Lubbock, members of the Lubbock high school band presented their fifth annual concert at the high school auditorium last night as one of the events of the annual spring Music Festival here. Encore after encore greeted the pupils of James W. Crowley, director, as they rendered a number of exceptionally heavy numbers for an amateur organization.

Walter Dickinson was featured a cornet solo while U. V. Blake drew a large ovation with his combination banjo-harp and voice selections. Lynn Gray Gordon was featured in a vocal solo, also. A varied program was given during the evening.

Fifty-two students took part in the concert, the proceeds of which will be used in defraying various expenses of the band during the year. The members of the girls' pep squad acted as ushers for the program.

Chinese Tung Oils Are Extracted By New Florida Factory; To Save Millions To U. S. Industries

Competing with cheap Chinese hand labor in a $75,000,000 paint oil production industry, Florida horticulturists now are operating the first mechanical tung oil plant in the world to care for the output of a 4,000 acre grove of the Chinese trees. Above is shown the mechanical press which crushes the valuable oil from the tung nuts and below, a section of the tung tree grove.

American Investments Are Heavy In Embroiled Mexican States; Holdings In Mines Said To Be Of Great Value

WASHINGTON, March 15.—American interests are heavy and varied in the revolution embroiled Mexican states.

In Sonora, which fell quickly to the revolution, are the great copper holdings of the Phelps-Dodge group, including the Greene-Canaan mines. In the northern part of Vera Cruz American capital is invested on a large scale in the petroleum fields. Petroleum products valued at $46,919,144 were exported last year, a drop of $75,702,563 from 1927.

Truck Crop Good. From the state of Sinaloa, contiguous to Sonora, are shipped great quantities of tomatoes and other fresh vegetables in the off seasons of this country. Sinaloa was another state whose capitulation was quickly announced by revolting forces.

Some 70 per cent of the copper exported from Mexico comes from Sonora, most of it through Agua Prieta and Cananea. Last year copper exportations amounted to $1,415,974 pounds from Sonora, valued at $6,024,659. Gold exports reached a total value of $1,650,451 and silver exports $4,302,119. Exports of all metals from Sonora were valued at $12,456,766.

Through the port of Tampico, Vera Cruz, last year, were sent exports valued at $18,459,212 including oil, fibers, some metals and fruits and vegetables.

There are 23 states in Mexico, the federal district and two territories. Vera Cruz, Jalisco and Puebla, each with populations more than 1,000,000, are the largest. Of the known states that have either joined the revolutionary movement or fallen before the revolution, Chihuahua has a population of 401,622; Coahuila, 392,341; Durango, 338,511; Oaxaca, 349,978; and Sinaloa, 341,265. Sonora is on the Pacific and Vera Cruz is on the Atlantic coast.

Tampico is one of the most important ports. It has a population of approximately 100,000 and is situated about midway between the United States frontier at Matamoros and Vera Cruz, 662 miles by railway from Mexico City.

Vera Cruz, a city of antiquity when the Spaniards took it, is the key to control in Mexico. Who holds Vera Cruz holds Mexico City. The city is the terminus of two railways connecting it with Mexico City, the Mexican railway, which is standard gauge, and the narrow gauge, Inter-oceanic railway, which belongs to the government.

GAINESVILLE, Mar. 15. — (AP)—The first modern tung oil plant in the world is operating near here, utilizing the fruit of the Chinese tung tree.

The plant is entirely automatic. The fruit is placed in a hopper and finds its way to a sheller through a separating machine. The hulls are removed, the meat passed to a cracking mill, and thence into a continuous automatic press. The oil, leaving the press through the sides, flows into storage tanks. The residue, a valuable fertilizer, drops out at the end of the press and is carried by a conveyor to storage.

Production Increases. Such a plant, claims B. F. Williamson, president of the Florida Forestry association and promoter of the tung oil project, can produce tung oil in competition with cheap Chinese labor. The Chinese press, he says, is a hand press and from 18 to 20 per cent of the oil is left in the residue. The more modern plant operating in Florida, he declares, develops a pressure of 10,000 pounds to the square inch, extracting nearly all the oil.

Tung tree groves are being planted rapidly in Florida. About 4,000 acres are already under cultivation with an additional 1,000 acres prepared for seedlings.

"The United States spends $75,000,000 yearly for paint oils of which tung is the best," Mr. Williamson says. "Tung oil produces a waterproof film that is more lasting and more resistant to weather. It is the basis of all waterproof paint and varnishes. It is gradually finding its way into many other articles, such as linoleum and oil cloth. Wherever durable waterproofing is required coating is desirable, tung oil is growing rapidly in favor."

Tax Collections Increase Receipts

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP)—Last minute collections were expected by treasury department officials tonight to boost the fiscal year income tax receipts, as of March 31, above the $1,624,174,196 which had been paid in over the same period a year ago.

Present collections, up until March 13, amounted to $1,130,415,642. Of this, $45,214,847 was received since February, an increase of $3,000,000 over the amount received in the same period last year.

It was explained that the income tax receipts are calculated on a fiscal year basis, even though the returns are based on the calendar year. Under this arrangement, collection totals as of March 31 will include payments made for the last half of the 1927 tax, along with those for the first quarter of the 1928 tax.

Indian Policy To Be Given Change

Secretary Wilbur Intends To Lead Affairs Of Department In New Era; To Make Complete Change

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 15.—The policy of the government toward the Indian soon is to take a new direction.

Word has gone out through the Indian service that Secretary Wilbur intends that the Indian is to be rehabilitated and that the Indian bureau is to lead the way toward a new era.

This new policy is part of a general program of re-organization. Secretary Wilbur is studying qualifications of a number of men suggested for the head of the Indian Bureau to succeed Commissioner Burke, whose resignation was announced today by President Hoover. Wilbur is looking for a sociologist.

This new chief, the Secretary believes, must turn away completely from the policies the Indian Bureau has been following for the last 100 years. He must be able to adjust the Indian to a program of rehabilitation and assimilation and at the same time turn a cold shoulder to any sentimentalists.

Floods Take Six Lives In Georgia

Six people lost their lives and many more were driven from their homes when swollen rivers went over their banks in the vicinity of Macon, Georgia. This picture shows a typical flood scene.

All-Day Meeting Of Terry's Farm Bureau Scheduled

An all day meeting of the Terry County Farm Bureau and 4-H Farm Club boys will be held today at Brownfield. The program for the morning will be given by the 4-H boys, to be followed by a basket lunch at noon and a business session of the bureau in the afternoon.

W. P. Moore, of Levelland, president of the Hockley County Farm Bureau, will be a principal speaker in the afternoon, as will Mrs. M. S. Hudson, of Hale Center; R. E. Overstreet, of Lubbock and Prof. E. O. Ellsworth, of Texas Technological college.

Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the Lubbock County Farm Bureau was held at Dalhart, the gathering being featured by talks from W. H. Tames, of Crosby county; R. E. Overstreet, both state directors of the bureau; N. H. Payne, field representative, and Prof. Ellsworth.

Boat Reported Capsized
Several detachments of national guardsmen were reported to have picked up marooned persons in boats this morning, but nothing further was heard from them, except an unconfirmed report that one boat, manned by three guardsmen, had capsized.

A plane sent out by the Mobile Register flew over the stricken area during the afternoon, after other planes had failed to make observation because of heavy fogs. Observers looked down on the towns of Brewton, Flomaton, Poland and Harrington, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad between Montgomery and Mobile. They saw water standing high up on the houses in each of the places and noted the roadways and bridges had been washed out and flooded so that it would be impossible for food supplies to be brought in.

Business Section Flooded
Brewton's business section was flooded, but there is a high section of ground on which residents have taken refuge, the observers reported. In the other towns over which the plane flew there also appeared to be places of safety.

Elba, however, was inundated, and guardsmen who went into the town in boats devoted themselves to saving women and children from the tops of houses on which they had taken refuge. There are approximately 4,000 inhabitants of the place, but no estimate as to the number rescued was made by the guardsmen, as they were working in small parties, not all of which made reports to the base established several miles away.

Some of the national guard officers near Elba reported that the water was falling, but the drop, it was one, was not sufficient to relieve conditions. Other reports were that waters of some of the numerous creeks and rivers in the flooded section were on the rise while others were stationary or falling.

Of four men who left Troy, Ala., last night in an attempt to reach Elbo, only R. Stone was accounted for today after their light outboard motor craft turned turtle in Big Creek. Friends believe the three others, Roy Hutchinson, Ralph Clark and Tom Jacobs, either had reached high ground or had taken refuge in a tree and could be rescued. Hutchinson's mother resided at Elba and the four were attempting to bring her to safety.

Other Areas In Distress
As the guardsmen pushed their way through into Elba, reports of alarming conditions were received from Geneva, to the south of Elba and in the path of flood waters that devastated that city and from Castleberry, on the Escambia river. Flomaton on the Conecuh and Brewton near the confluence of Burnt Cork and Murder creeks. These streams have been running rampant for days with crests not yet in sight.

An urgent appeal for food, medical supplies and blankets was made to Governor Bibb Graves today by Lieutenant Donald Kelsoe, commander of the enterprise unit of the national guard whose troops rescued 13 women and children.

Red Cross To Send Aid To Stricken Area By Air

WASHINGTON, March 15. (AP)—The American Red Cross announced tonight that it was sending food and medical supplies into the flooded town of Elba, Ala., by airplanes provided by General Butler at Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.

Red Cross officials said they understood, after conferring by telephone with Miss Mabel Culter, secretary of the Montgomery chapter, that the supplies had been carried from Montgomery by 17 planes with the intention of dropping them on roofs of houses on a high hill these crowded by refugees. The officials could not say whether the planes had succeeded, but it was their belief that the supplies had been dropped by nightfall.

It was said the supplies, which included candles, would be sufficient to last until Saturday noon.

The Red Cross said Miss Culter had reported to headquarters that it was estimated there are 2,000 people marooned in Elba mostly in second stories of houses, and that 200 people are refugees on the hill. She said there was no authenticated loss of life, although there was an unofficial report that 500 had been drowned.

Coast Guard Service Is Called To Aid In Rescue

GALVESTON, March 15. (AP)—Capt. James P. Phillips, Gulf Commander of the Coast Guard service, announced tonight that plans were being made to send two boats to the flood stricken area in Alabama. Surf boats will be dispatched from the Santa Rosa Island station, Pensacola; and from Barataria station, South of New Orleans. The boats will be shipped by mail as rivers leading to the district are too shallow for navigation. Additional boats may be sent from Galveston or other stations, if conditions justify, Phillips said.

El Paso Woman Caught Smuggling Ammunition

EL PASO, Mar. 15. (AP)—Charged with violating the federal law against exportation of arms and ammunition, Mrs. Margaret Mohr of El Paso was arrested on the International bridge between this city and Juarez today. Customs officers confiscated her automobile in which they reported more than 2,000 rounds of rifle ammunition was found.

Trucks And Employees Said To Be Commandeered

LAREDO, Mar. 16. (AP)—Laredo friends of R. M. Conner, engineer in charge of construction of the dam Don Martin, Coahuila, heard today that 15 trucks and 30 employees had been commandeered by Mexicans. Whether the Mexicans were federal or rebels was not indicated.

With each truck was taken a driver and mechanic and a drum of gasoline each. They drove toward Paredon, Conner is still at Don Martin.

Destroyed Railroad Bridges Halt Trains

ABOARD GENERAL ALMAZAN'S TRAIN, Hipolito, Coahuila, Mexico, Mar. 15. (AP)—Destroyed railroad bridges halted federal troop trains in the middle of the Coahuila desert today and General Juan A. Almazan federal commander, pressed scores of motor trucks into service to move his men and supplies toward Torreon.

It was estimated by newspapermen that General Almazan's army now numbers about 10,000 men, including cavalry and artillery detachments. Ten additional troop trains from Monterey joined his force today. The contingent was heavily supplied with arms and ammunition.

Reach Torreon Soon

Even though forced to travel by truck and foot from now on, the main body of federals should approach Torreon within a few days. A decisive battle is expected there with General J. G. Escobar's rebel garrison.

American newspapermen accompanying General Almazan's army were assured a good view of the impending battle. They were told a truck would be placed at their disposal tomorrow to transport them to the outskirts of Torreon.

Col. P. Martinez and 13 rebels captured while attempting to dynamite bridges in the path of the advancing federal army are being held here pending orders from Minister of War Calles.

Rail Hearing

Hobbs and other points in the oil field.

The mileage, to be constructed by both roads in Lea county, are approximately the same, although it is said to be contemplated by the Santa Fe to put down heavier construction than that proposed by the T. and N. M.

While the application from the T. and N. M., which is a subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific railway, is being made in the name of the T. and N. M., the Santa Fe's application is being made in the name of its own organization, the T. and N. M. being a separate organization from the Texas and Pacific.

Lovington Citizens Neutral

The citizens of Lovington are assuming a neutral attitude in the hope of obtaining both railroads, yet railroad officials and others who have had experience before the Interstate Commerce Commission state that there is no possibility of permits being granted both roads and that, while it is more than probable that one of the roads, either the Santa Fe or the T. and N. M., will be given a permit, it is possible that the I. C. C. might refuse to let either road make the proposed extension.

Because of the shortness of time, it will be necessary for the citizenship of Lubbock to get busy and have all the essential data, information, exhibits and evidence ready to present in time for this hearing. It had been thought that the Interstate Commerce Commission would give at least 30 days notice before holding the hearing.

Natural Marketing Center.
Lubbock's attitude in regard to the Santa Fe is that this is Lea county's and Lovington's natural marketing center. It always has been. As only one road can be built, as is contended, and if it should be that the T. and N. M. will receive the permit, then Lubbock will have lost the eastern New Mexico trade territory forever.

Newspapers of Big Spring, Midland, Kermit and other Texas towns along the Texas and Pacific main line, are spreading the claim that Lovington is a natural trade territory for them, which it is not and never has been, Lubbock interests contend.

The Standing Committee for Lubbock's part in this hearing is composed of: B. Sherrod, chairman; S. E. Cone, W. K. Dickinson Sr., W. O. Stevens and Charles H. Read. It will be necessary to have a large number of other committees to assist this one, and they will all be compelled to function immediately, if this city's work is to be effective.

U. S. Engineer Believes Levees Better Than Before

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Mar. 15. (AP)—Weather observers commented today that the high water situation on the Mississippi river was "anything but encouraging." Lieutenant Colonel F. B. Wilby, district United States engineer in charge of the Memphis engineering district, believes the levees are in better shape now than two years ago when the disastrous flood occurred in the lower valley.

The 1-vees, Col. Wilby said, are all right now and will remain so if there is no more rain, but a general rain would cause "some embarrassment." He explained that when water is backed against levees for some time, the dikes get soaked through, and there are weakened.

Crest Not Forecast
A stage of the 39.5 to forty feet on the Memphis gauge was predicted for next Friday, and no forecast of the crest has yet been made.

Wilby said if the Mississippi got to 43 feet here, "we would begin to get a little worried."

New conditions in the Missouri, Upper Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers have brought the situation in the Cairo district to what W. E. Barron, meteorologist, described as "a very aggravated point."

The senate committee, appointed to inquire into the legality of certain textbook awards filed two reports. One, subscribed to by two members, was to the effect that contracts should not be made on certain awards, because the belief such contracts would be illegal. This report also criticized other awards as tending to extravagance. The report filed by the third member was that contracts made on these awards would be legal. The report of the two members later was withdrawn and amended to eliminate criticism of the economy of the awards.

Governor Moody and Superintendent Marrs noted out that no contracts have been signed, and that only awards have been made.

Baby's Vision Develops Slowly

(Editor's Note:—Olive Roberts Barton, noted authority on subjects pertaining to children, has written for the Avalanche today the first of a series of articles on "Your Baby from Week to Week." In these articles she has compiled some interesting statistics for mothers to follow on eye, ear, motor and emotional development of the very young.)

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NEA Service Writer

Are you the mother of a very small baby? Are you wondering how old he must be before he begins to be a real person, to know people, to reach for things, and to try to make that beautiful body of his obey that important but fearsome thing we are pleased to call his mind?

One would have to be a walking encyclopedia to be able to answer the tenth of all the questions of anxious parents.

But here are some facts about his vision that may cover part of the ground, and may be of interest to others as well:

We often hear that young babies cannot see. This is not true. A child of two or three weeks old can see a stationary object very well; particularly if it is bright, and between three and four weeks of age he can look from one object to another. At from four to five weeks he can follow an object with his eyes while it is being moved.

At eight weeks he can focus his eyes on things a little distance away, and at ten weeks he has almost complete control of his eyes. At this time he begins to know faces. His mother or other members of the family who are with him frequently will be recognized, there is little question, by the time he is twelve weeks old.

At 12 or 14 weeks he will look for something that has been taken away, and also to look in the direction of sounds. And at 16 weeks he will coordinate eye and muscle and reach for something he sees and wants.

After 16 weeks progress is very fast. At 16 to 19 weeks, reaching and grasping are developed. The movements at first are vague; both hands are moved together. There is no right nor left to him. At 20 to 22 weeks he holds objects in his hands to look at before putting them into his mouth.

By 24 weeks or 6 months of age vision and other senses are developed to such a degree that we may say it is at this time his Highness begins to enjoy life.

His psychology then becomes an interesting thing indeed.

By LUCY CLAIRE
Fashion Expert for Central Press and The Avalanche

There is nothing new under the sun, but in fashions things have a way of taking a new twist that at least gives them the credit of being new. As a matter of fact, new fashions are created from inspirational ideas taken from old fashions. These ideas may have been in the air, or to the time of Cleopatra for that matter, but their very antiquity makes them new as a dead language to our fast moving modern age.

So we see sketched at the center the latest bridge jacket that might well have taken its inspiration from the dressing sack of the nineteenth century, when the negligee was short and much beruffled that it might pose over voluminous petticoats. The volume of the petticoats is gone, and the lower portion of the jacket hugs the smooth hipline, but, aside from the material being elaborate, the jacket has all the other earmarks of the nineteenth century dressing sack. The bridge jacket, as shown, is a Paris creation of ivory crepe satin, embroidered in motifs of rose, green and gold paillettes, very feminine and elaborate.

There is nothing very new in the Argentina scarf sketched at the left. Probably you could find something similar in grandmother's old trunk up in the attic. It is a pocket edition of the Spanish shawl with its long, fringed border. But it has been introduced as a new vogue, in keeping with the flair for the short jacket. Very charming is this one of red silk crepe with matching silk fringe posed over a frock of crisp, flesh colored chiffon. It is tied at the back and cleverly draped at the neck, giving it the effect of a jacket at the front with a back capelet.

In the model sketched at the right, we bring out the spring suit with which we have been familiar for the past two or three seasons in a new version. The tricky sleeve and manipulation of the jacket at the hip are the new touches. The saddle shoulder is achieved with tiny tucks coinciding with the curved tucks at the hipline of the jacket joining the pleats of the skirt. The suit is in aquamarine cashmere. The jacket closes at the front with a cluster of six buttons.

There is no shoe we go back to the soft kid and elaborate fabrics of the seventeenth century. The kid we have made "rational for everyday street wear. The elaborate fabrics we still retain for evening and formal dress.

The sketch in the lower center shows a new version of the square neckline which has become very popular for woolen frocks in Paris. The scarf is added to give the soft, draped effect.

He'll Dare Atlantic In This Tiny Boat

The strange craft pictured here isn't built exactly on the lines of a trans-Atlantic ship, but that's what Captain Leonard Greene, upper right, intends it to be. In this 17-foot collapsible sailboat, the Cambridge, Mass., adventurer expects to paddle and sail up the coast from Miami, Fla., to St. Johns, New Brunswick, and then across the ocean to Europe. Captain Greene believes he will reach St. Johns by the middle of June and will begin his trans-Atlantic voyage as soon as the weather is favorable. The little boat, christened the Sailfish, is practically non-capsizeable. Another attempt, by Captain Roemer, to cross the Atlantic from the east in a similar craft, ended in the loss of boat and navigator during a hurricane.

Fruits Stimulate Laggard Appetite

By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

Oranges and grape fruit are at their best now and are rich in vitamins, so it behooves the conscientious housewife to use them often.

Fruit stimulates the appetite, increases the flow of digestive juices, aids in the elimination of waste and counteracts the formation of acids due to eating a large quantity of protein as well as stimulating the flow of an alkaline saliva which helps to prevent tooth decay. This last virtue makes fruit an ideal food with which to end a meal.

Practically all our oranges are from Florida and California and the question often puzzles us regarding their relative merits. The obvious answer is that both are good and choice depends on personal preference and the way in which the fruit is to be used. Surely the sweet juicy Floridians are ideal for the breakfast orange juice. And the firm-pulp California oranges are excellent for salads or any dish in which the fruit is wanted whole.

Grapefruit has advanced from a novelty to one of the most popular fruits on the market within the last thirty years.

When marketing keep in mind that the fruit should be well formed, heavy in weight and have a thin skin of fine texture.

Oranges and grapefruit that are round and regular in shape and heavy are quite certain to be well flavored and juicy.

A thin, fine-textured skin almost always covers a juicy fruit. Press the fruit with the fingers. If it yields to the pressure the skin is comparatively thin. Coarse, thick skin is firm and unyielding. Of course grapefruit is thicker skinned than oranges so the comparisons should be made with fruits of the same kind.

Well colored fruit bespeaks ripeness, so choose that of deep color. There are certain varieties of early oranges that are greenish in cast, but comparatively highly colored specimens will be sweet and juicy.

Skin blemishes such as russeting, scars and scabs do not impair the flavor of grapefruit nor impair their keeping qualities. Coarse, thick skins, soft dark spots and irregular shape are indications of inferior quality and should warn the shopper against the fruit.

GRAPEFRUIT AND ORANGE SHERBET
Two cups grapefruit juice, 1 cup orange juice, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 2 cups water, 2 eggs (whites), 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin.

Boil sugar and water for ten minutes. Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes and add to boiling syrup. Let stand until cool and add fruit juices. When beginning to thicken, fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a freezer and pack in four parts ice to one part ice cream mix. Let stand two or three hours until frozen.

Business Record For 1929 Boosted

Dun's Review Says Confident Opinions Of Year Fulfilled; Increased Employment Of Labor Seen

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 15. — Dun's review tomorrow will say:

With only two weeks of the first quarter remaining, the business record for the period shows points of added gain. That is true both of the volume of dealings and factors which make for constructive trends. The confident opinions held at the opening of this year have been fulfilled largely, and in some instances surpassed, and expectations of further progress have a tangible basis. Preparations for the new season that is soon to begin are steadily widening. An early Easter is giving a special impetus to retail trade, and unusually mild weather in some sections, notably in the east, also has stimulated spring activities. Work in getting land ready for crops, which has a particular interest at this time, has been impeded in parts of the south and the middle west by excessive rainfall and floods, but other outdoor operations are broadening. That situation obviously is favorable to an increased employment of labor, with a resultant accretion to the general purchasing power, and the enlarging railroad freight traffic is merely one evidence of the heavy distribution of merchandise.

The Herald will be associated with a group of West and South Texas papers including the Abilene Reporter and News, the Corpus Christi Times, the Harlingen Star, the Sweetwater Reporter and the San Angelo Standard and Times.

CAMPAIGN ACTIVE

War On Prairie Dogs In County Successful

The county-wide prairie dog extermination campaign, started March 1, which is being conducted by County Agent D. F. Eaton, is receiving considerable interest throughout the county, he stated yesterday. The county has been pretty well covered, he said, with poison grain, which is being used. A survey of the county will be made soon, Mr. Eaton stated, to determine exact results of the pest war and to give detailed information about every community achieving complete extermination of prairie dogs.

LONDON.—At the South Western police court of Upper Tooting-road, Mrs. Elias Leon entered a complaint against her husband that he allowed her only $5 weekly to run the house and support a child, and that he kept her on a diet of bananas and eggs. When the tomatoes weren't red enough, she said, he fined her. When she did not look at him properly, he fined her. The judge ordered Elias to pay his wife $12.50 a week.

Summer Session Of Tech Assured

Enlarged Plans For Term To Be Carried Out, Dr. Horn Says Friday; Increase In Enrollment Expected

According to Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, the Tech summer school this year will be held in complete accord with the enlarged plans outlined some time ago. These plans will make the session of considerably greater extent than ever held heretofore, and have been made possible by the final approval of Gov. Dan Moody of appropriations voted by the legislature and funds to be supplied from college fees.

"Other valuable courses will be offered this summer," Dr. Horn declared yesterday, "in addition to the comprehensive list of courses offered last year, which included a large per cent of advanced college work."

Last summer's session witnessed an enrollment of 965, which was a big increase over the summer school of 1927, and it is anticipated that this year's session will see another large increase in the number enrolled.

Provisions will be made to take care of the growing demand, just so far as available funds will permit," Dr. Horn declared. "Attendance at Texas Technological college has been so rapidly growing that the demand for summer work will undoubtedly keep pace with this increase. It is the policy of the college to supplement the regular faculty by teachers of outstanding ability and reputation in certain fields."

Exhibition Games Line Trail Toward Eastern Grounds

Pittsburgh Pirates Pull Out From Paso Robles; Will Play 11 Games In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 15. (AP)—Camps of two big league teams training in the far west were left behind today and the former tenants started on a homeward trail lined with exhibition games.

The Pittsburgh Pirates pulled out from Paso Robles and starting on a long enough a homeward trail to play the San Francisco Seals, continued on to San Francisco where they have eleven games scheduled.

An exhibition contest in Los Angeles with the Los Angeles Bears was the last of the official start-off for the Chicago Cubs, although these teams have met before this spring. The Cubs broke camp at Santa Catalina Island yesterday.

At Phoenix, the Detroit Tigers ended their general training sessions.

A's Nose Out Phils In Hectic Contest

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 15. (AP)—In a free hitting game, enlivened by a players fist fight, the Philadelphia Athletics today defeated the Philadelphia Nationals, 15 to 14.

Susce, batting for Milligan of the Nationals, in the fifth, charged at Remmel after the first pitch came close to his head. Players separated the two before blows were struck. Susce was sent in to catch, and in the eighth Miller and Susce exchanged blows, after Miller had been declared out at the plate. Umpire Adams, aided by police, escorted Susce off the field.

Dallas Steers Sent Through Hard Workout

COBISCANA, March 15. (AP)—Manager Stock of the Dallas Steers sent his charges through their most strenuous job to date here today. He staged two workouts.

At the morning session, an exhibition game was staged between the regulars and yannigans.

The yans won 16 to 12.

Buffaloes Ready For Invasion Of Giants

HOUSTON, March 15. (AP)—Manager Snyder's Buffs today went through a couple of peppy workouts, indicating they are ready for the New York Giants who will play here Saturday and Sunday.

Leo Moon, wronglander; "Lefty" Myers, another southlander, and Jake Freeze, an orthodox hurler, are likely to see action on the hillcock for the Buffs.

Exporter Regulars Defeat Yannigans

DEAUMONT, March 15. (AP)—In the first yannigan game of the season the Exporter regulars beat the rookies today, 4 to 3, in eight innings. The pitchers, with a week's advantage in condition, proved they were far ahead of their mates who have yet to find their batting eye and their skill at fielding.

Spudder Rookies To Face Saint Sluggers

WICHITA FALLS, March 15. (AP)—Rookie pitchers will oppose the St. Paul Saints here tomorrow in the Spudder first exhibition game.

Manager Jim Galloway said tonight he intended to use Fred Stiley, a southpaw from the New York-Pennsylvania League, and Bill Schroeder, a young rightlander without previous professional experience.

Barrett Is Best Big Show Scout At Star Finding

Cardinal Scout Said To Have Discovered More Baseball Stars Than Any Other Ivory Hunter

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Morning Avalanche

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 15.—The world's greatest star finder is not a bewhiskered octogenarian with his eye glued to the small end of a powerful telescope.

He's Charley Barrett, that's who he is.

Barrett is said to have discovered more bright stars shining in the bleak bushes and to have transferred their brilliance to the major league heavens than any other ivory hunter now operating in organized baseball.

Now with the St. Louis Cardinals, Barrett has been laboring in the bushes for both American and National league clubs since 1908—that's 21 years ago.

In that time he has discovered a host of talent and shipped it north or east, as the case might be.

A few of the greats that Charley saw first are Jeff Tesreau, the mighty man who has since passed from the big time; Mickey O'Neill and Muddy Ruel, two of the best catchers that ever pegged a man at second in the American league; Art Fletcher, Tillie Walker, Bill Killefer, Andy High, Jim Bottomley, Heinie Mueller, Earl Hamilton, George Foster, Charlie Grimm, Elam Vangilder, Ray Blades, Art Reinhart and Andy Reese.

Barrett's job is harder than that of most scouts. He not only has to keep his eyes peeled for talent that might do well in a Cardinal uniform but he also has to watch out for material that would add lesser clubs in the St. Louis Nation's wide-spread "chain store" club system.

Though he spends most of each summer touring Cranberry Corners, Sausauit Center and other hamlets of the ball-playing United States, Barrett prefers St. Louis as a place to live.

He used to scout for the St. Louis Browns and when he left that club it was only because that he would hook up with the Cards.

Fort Worth Meet Set For Saturday

FORT WORTH, March 15. (AP)—Six hundred and thirty-two athletes from Texas and Oklahoma will be here Saturday for the seventh Southwestern Exposition track and field meet.

Weldon Draper, Fort Worth sprint star, will attempt to set a world's record for 60-yard dash in a special race.

Texas university, 1928 champions; Southern Methodist, 1927 winners, Texas Christian university, Baylor university and Alabama A. and M. will have strong teams on hand in the college division.

Ryder Cup Donor Against Importing

LONDON, March 15. (AP)—The British golfing federation should win the Ryder cup, in the opinion of Samuel Ryder, donor of the trophy.

"The great thing in golf matches of this kind," he explained, "is the will to win. Our men are playing better now than ever they were, and I feel confident that they will be successful this year."

Mr. Ryder looks with disapproval on Walter Hagen's suggestion that British born golfers resident in the United States should be permitted to have places on the American team. Such a modification, he declared, would make the match ridiculous and destroy the interest in the Ryder competition.

Tom McArdle says a bout in June between Uzcun and Schmelling will clear up the heavyweight situation. Maybe Mac doesn't know that the afore-said situation already is quite clear to most of us.

If Von Porat beats Heeney and earns the right to meet Sharkey, guess what we'll have? Oh, goody, goody, another of those matches with an international flavor?

Just look back at all the great international matches we've had lately, including Dempsey and Carpentier, Tunney and Heeney—haven't they been thrillers, though?

When a match between Sharkey and Stribling will draw $400,000, why go to all the pains of an international flavor?

Better bouts have been seen between Ty Cobb and the umpires than the recent heavyweight scuffles.

And, oh, yes, by the way, the international flavor has gone up 50 cents a quart in Washington, we're told, due to the Jones law. We speak of "embassy stuff" and if that has not an international flavor, there ain't none.

Windy City's Pilot Believes 1929 Will Be Big Year For Hustling Club Training At Catalina Island Camp

Team Has Everything With Which to Answer Opportunity's Knock; Punch, Spirit, Reserve Included

Cubs Clout Way To

BY VICTOR G. SIDLER Associated Press Sports Writer

AVAILON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., Mar. 15.—Opportunity is knocking at the Chicago Cubs' door this season and they have everything with which to answer—punch, spirit and reserve material.

Manager Joe McCarthy, in his characteristic forceful yet reserved fashion, thus described the championship chances of the Cubs in the forthcoming national league pennant race. He feels that 1929 will be the Chicago club's big year.

"The Cubs will send into the campaign a young club that is

Cage Aces Paired On Court 8 Years

CHAPLAIN, N. C., Mar. 15. (AP)—There's good reason why two forwards on the University of North Carolina basketball team have made such excellent scoring records. They have been playing together for eight years.

Captain Rufus Hackney and Henry Satterfield, who ended their collegiate basketball careers this season, began playing when they entered Durham, N. C., high school. Throughout high school the scoring team of Hackney and Satterfield was a sensation. They played together on the freshman team when they entered University of North Carolina and they have been doing it since. They are leading scorers on the team.

What An Infield

"What more could a person want than an infield, that lines up with Elwood English, at shortstop, Clyde Beck, at third, Charley Grimm, at first, Hornsby, at second, Norman McMillan, utility, and Clarence Blair, youngster from the Little Rock, Ark., club, a promising substitute for Beck? English is a young and improving shortstop and Beck ought to be better this year."

"Jones at best was an in-and-out-er last season, but we may miss his left hand twirling. However we have Art Neif and Mike Cengros, two crafty southpaws upon whom to depend. Cengros turned in a record of 21 victories and eight defeats with Wichita Falls last year, and his form shows no signs of breaking. Neif won 13 games."

Carlson Looks Good

"Hal Carlson looks like he has regained himself, and I see no reason why Charley Root shouldn't be as good as he was in 1927 when he won 25 games. I am satisfied that 'Sheriff' Blake, Guy Bush, Perce Malone and Bob Osborne will do their share."

"There is no need to say that I am satisfied with my outfield," McCarthy added. "Well, the Cubs will have an outfield that for hitting and fielding ought to be the best in the business, with 'Kiki' Cuyler, Cliff Heathcote, Jackson Stephenson, 'Hack' Wilson, John Moore and young Dan Taylor, who comes to us from Memphis. We had some trouble last season, with Wilson ill, and Cuyler suffering from an injured hand, but this year both are in good shape and playing well."

McCarthy is of the opinion that New York, Pittsburgh and St. Louis will furnish the Cubs their chief opposition.

Woman Tells Of Ravages Of Flood In Alabama; Hundreds Are In Danger

Miss Allie Hughes, County Home Demonstration, Gives Graphic Story Of Rise Of Waters In Elba, Alabama; Many Houses Are Washed Completely Away

(By Associated Press)
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 15.—Conditions in flood-stricken Elba were described in a telephone interview with the Birmingham Age-Herald by Miss Allie Hughes, county home demonstration agent.

"Water submerging the tops of automobiles flowed through the courthouse square," Miss Hughes said.

"Hundreds of families had sought refuge in the courthouse when the muddy waters first began to lick at their homes, and at 5 p. m., hundreds of other families were morose on the roofs of their houses or had sought safety in the more substantially built business houses.

"We are used to floods in Elba, and when this one struck we paid little attention at first.

"The water started rising early Thursday morning and by 9:30 a. m. had risen to a height to cause school authorities to dismiss their pupils.

"By 12:30 p. m. the water was well into the residential district and families were moving to higher ground. In another hour the water poured down the business streets and continued rising rapidly, soon submerging the automobiles left parked at the curb.

"Our rescue was effected by two men who passed our home in a canoe.

"The water was so swift we thought several times we would be capsized in the brief half mile we were forced to ride.

"The negro section of the city was first hit. Within a short time, however, the rising flood had reached the higher section.

"Within view of our home we could not see whether any homes had been washed away but the water, ever rising, and every flowing more swiftly must surely have swept away many houses.

"At first residents drifted about in canoes in the shallow waters, somewhat inclined to take the flood as a joke.

"In an hour or two conditions changed, and what at first appeared to be an expensive lark grew to be a grim, serious situation, in which strong men battled to save lives and homes."

Hurlwood School Gets Dedication

Another New Modern School Building Is Added To Section's System; Local People Take Part

Another new modern brick school building was officially added to the splendid rural schools of Lubbock county last night when A. P. Ham, president of the Hurlwood Independent School District on behalf of the school board, accepted the new $50,000 school that was dedicated.

Representing the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, Judge E. L. Klett speaking on the subject, "The Spirit of Hurlwood and the South Plains," stated that years ago when he came to Lubbock the town was not large but that there was a spirit here that is not found everywhere. It is this progressive cooperative spirit that has built this section. Such a spirit exists in Hurlwood and made possible the new school.

Fincher Welcomes Visitors
In making the welcome address W. A. Fincher, superintendent of the school pointed out the fact that Hurlwood is the youngest and smallest independent school district, having been formed April 27, 1928. A total of 69 pupils, are taught ten grades by three teachers at present Fincher declared and the community has adopted the slogan, "Watch Hurlwood Grow."

Miss Mae Murfee, county superintendent presided and made the response to the welcome address. The invocation was said by Rev. E. B. Dook.

Shelley Presents Building
W. O. Shelley, president of the Lubbock County School Board presented the building to President A. P. Ham of the Hurlwood Independent School District. Shelley stated that in 1911 the first rural brick school was built in Lubbock County

Chicago Trade Building Will Tower Forty-Four Stories; Financed By $12,000,000 Bond Issue

CHICAGO, Mar. 15. — (AP) — The last vestiges of Chicago's most famous landmark, the old Board of Trade building, are fast disappearing under the picks and shovels of wrecking crews. Actual work on the new grain mart, which will tower over the La Salle street financial district, will be started shortly.

The new building when completed will be one of the tallest in the city, rising 600 feet above the pavement, and surmounted by a 30 foot statue in hammered metal.

To Have Tower
It will have 44 floors, the topmost an observation tower. The total investment of the board of trade in land and building is estimated in the neighborhood of $22,500,000.

The work is expected to be completed by May 1, 1930. The first several floors will provide for offices of the board and the trading pits, where nearly a half billion bushels of grain are bought and sold annually. Renting agents report that half the available leases have been taken up.

Costs $12,000,000
The building is being financed through a $12,000,000 first mortgage bond issue for 20 years at five per cent. The securities are being issued by the Chicago Board of Trade Safe Deposit company, a corporation organized within the board to erect the building.

In accordance with the expansion policies adopted by board members and promised by Samuel P. Arnot, president, facilities for trading in securities as well as grain will be included in the new board of trade.

SCHOOL ON WHEELS
PORT ARTHUR, Ont.—If the children can't come to the school then the school shall go to the children. That was the decision of school authorities as regards the newly settled districts in this province. So arrangements were made to convert a railway coach into a class room and living quarters for the teacher. Now the school on wheels stops for several days at designated points, while the teacher reviews home-work and lays out new lessons to be studied in his absence.

Eighty per cent of the tournament occurring in this country happen between the hours of noon and six p. m.

Chicago's old Board of Trade building is fast disappearing (left) and soon the towering skyscraper shown at the right will rise.

SUES DAUGHTER
NEW YORK.—William F. Burroughs, an attorney, recently brought suit against his 22-year-old daughter, Ruth, for $811,037. A board bill of $3,240 was included in the total. Ruth, with her sister, Loreta, 19, in a rebuttal, charged that she was due $5,280 for keeping house for her father and that he attempted to stop her from assisting the district attorney in prosecuting two indictments charging him with false guardianship.

JUST A WEE DRAP
WASHINGTON, D. C. — A full glass of whiskey is made up of only so many drops, and it's these few drops that are causing trouble in government liquor warehouses. Emptied casks always have a few drops left in the bottom and officials, in an effort to stop this little leak, have issued orders that all casks shall either be subjected to live steam pressure for 15 minutes or soaked in a boiling solution of washing soda for 24 hours.

UTILIZE WASTE COAL
LONDON.—In a lonely spot in South Wales, a carefully guarded experiment is under way in the conservation of waste coal, known as small coal or "duff." Rumors of the experiments are that the coal is being separated from the dirt and graded into sizes from small grains to "flour." The "flour" probably will be mixed with a heavy oil and used for heating.

SIX IS ENOUGH
CHICAGO.—Sam Sirelli recently was held to the grand jury on bonds of $5,000 after being identified by Mrs. Mary Eckhart as the man who attempted to kidnap her child, George, seven, Sirelli, a father of six children, denied the charges.

CREAL SPRINGS, Ill.—"And the greatest of these is Charity." When the century-old log cabin owned by Mrs. Margaret Parks, widow mother of five children, was destroyed by fire, neighbors came to her aid. While she attended the funeral of her mother shortly after the fire, 100 of her neighbors gathered together, built her a home, completely furnished it and canvassed the neighborhood for foodstuffs to stock the larder.

ONE IN A MILLION
URBANA, Ill.—Fred P. Dillon was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1906, and took with him a thorough knowledge of the science of "pharology." Graduates in this science are few. The duties of a pharologist is to take care of the running of lighthouses along the coast. Dillon takes care of about 60 lighthouses, hundreds of buoys, beacons, light vessels and lighthouse tenders in the fifth district.

SHE THOUGHT HER CASE HOPELESS

Yet ALL-BRAN Brought Relief Almost Immediately—No Trouble Since

When constipation once gets a grip on a person, it is almost impossible to relieve it, let alone prevent it with drugs and treatments. But here's a lady who was freed from her suffering—read her letter.

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation and although I had tried almost everything that was recommended to me, I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved. One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago."—Mrs. E. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Your system must have roughage or bulk daily, otherwise constipation is almost inevitable. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this bulk. It is a healthful cereal to eat every day. To use in cooked dishes or serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation and to prevent it. Far better than pills and laxatives whose doses often have to be increased to be effective. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran and is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LUBBOCK is becoming the musical center of the South Plains, and it is a thing that all of this section should feel proud, inasmuch as it brings to our city some of the best of foreign musical talent, and even international talent, which is something that not all towns can have the privilege of having.

For many years however, there has been an unusually high class of musical talent in Lubbock, locally, and these folks have been able to bring to our city some of the very best of foreign musical talent. The fact that it is appreciated is attested by the fine attendance given meetings of this kind.

We note, with a great deal of satisfaction, that nine counties have representatives in the musical festival which closes today, and which has been a great success in every way. The present organization, the South Plains Music association, is responsible for the great success of the festivals for the past few years, and congratulations are in order to this organization in being able to obtain such talent as Silvio Sciotti, of New York and Chicago, as leading artist for this occasion.

Lubbock has long been an important point in many ways, educationally it has taken the lead, not only by reason of the location of the Texas Technological College, but in the high schools as well. It has always been the commercial center of this section, and it is but natural that it becomes the musical center of this area, too. The annual spring festivals of the South Plains are indeed one of the notable achievements of this city.

PUNISHING CRIMINALS

It would seem from the number of death penalties being dishied out to those who have committed crimes in the past few years, that there is an inclination on the part of the juries of the United States to tighten up on cold-blooded murderers and pay them back in their own medicine by taking their lives either by hanging or in the electric chair. Whether this is having the effect of decreasing the number of murders in the country we cannot say, but it is at least cut down the number of murders, and we believe it will have the effect of lessening the number of deliberate killings.

When a man commits a premeditated, cold blooded murder and he feels reasonably certain that a death penalty will be his, he will likely not be so willing to take chances as he would if he felt that the jury would likely turn him loose anyway.

At least there seems to be fewer acquittals, and more death penalties have been assessed than usual. The nation will watch with a good deal of interest the results.

FIGHTING OVER ESTATES

Every day we read about fights over the division of estates. It sometimes seems foolish for a man to work to accumulate a fortune and then have it brought into dispute after he is dead and gone. Even though, in plain English terms of a will he makes his wishes known while he is alive, often this will is contested, broken, and changed by evidence in the courts. One of the most notorious cases of recent years has been that of W. J. McDonald, a North Texas capitalist, who died two years ago leaving a large fortune, and bequeathing $1,250,000 to the University of Texas for the endowment of a school of astronomy. Relatives contested the will and undertook to break it, but the courts have so far sustained the will, and the University is still in line to receive the money. However, this may not be the end of the case and other trials may be had.

So often the large fortunes that are made by men in their lives are squandered in a few months by relatives and other beneficiaries, while on the other hand the money is judiciously spent, and serves a good purpose. However, the question often arises, is it worth the sacrifice that some people undergo to accumulate a large amount of money? It does the person no good for he cannot take a dime with him when he goes. Would it not be better for people to put their money into good use while they live, and see just how much good they can do with it? If they have been given a talent to make money they must have a talent for spending it, and it would no doubt bless the world to a greater extent than to turn it over to inexperienced people who let it get away from them in a few short months.

We believe that the reward would be greater if those who can make money would spend it according to their best ideas while yet alive.

REDUCING RAIL CASUALTIES

In 1923 the railroads of the country surveyed their employee casualty record and resolved to cut it by at least 35 per cent by 1929.

As a result, various safety campaigns were inaugurated, old hazards were eliminated, and employers and employees co-operated to take the element of danger out of the railroad worker's job.

A bulletin from the Committee on Public Relations of the Eastern Railroad shows how well the job has been done. With 1929 nearly a year away, the railroads have already saved their own goal. They have reduced employee casualties by more than 47 per cent since 1923.

Nothing that the railroad men have done in recent years is much more to their credit than this.

Now it turns out that Anne Morrow calls Lindbergh "Augustus." Wonder how long it will be after they're married before she starts calling him "Gus?"

STEWART DESCRIBES NEW PRESIDENT
AS HUMAN, MODEST, UNOSTENTATIOUS
(First of a series of interviews with President Hoover and his cabinet)
By CHARLES F. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The Avalanche

WASHINGTON, Mar. 15.—Herbert Hoover is the most unassuming, modest, individually self-effacing president Washington has seen in recent times—perhaps the most so of any president the country ever had. Certainly no president ever was freer from official airs—that would be impossible. Mr. Hoover simply is without any such ostentation whatever.

Mr. Coolidge was not a bit puffed up on his own account, but he was conscious of the deference which he evidently considered his position entitled to.

For instance, when the New Englander emerged from the seclusion of his private office into the big waiting room for visitors at the executive end of the White House, he expected the crowd which always is to be found there during business hours, to take due notice of his appearance. Until his last call, however, he was not aware of it.

Mr. Hoover appears to shrink from any form of special recognition of himself or his office. If he has occasion to mix with the throng in his ante-chamber he actually is in the midst of his guests before they are fairly aware of his presence there.

His informality is obviously trying to the White House staff's sense of the proprieties.

There was an illustration of it the very afternoon after the inauguration ceremonies. The outer office at the executive mansion was filled with callers, lounging comfortably on chairs and tables, mostly with hats on, smoking and chatting as casually as in a hotel lobby.

Suddenly, "Gentlemen, the president!" called Secretary George Akeron, excitedly.

Too late. Mr. Hoover already was on the scene, bound for the open air to have his picture shot, with a visiting delegation. A smile and a nod from him, and he was outside. A soul had risen. Not a hat was doffed. Not a cigarette puff was omitted. It was too rapid. The roomful merely stared blankly at the president, a good deal embarrassed. Presently back he came, the same way—not only implying no wish for a demonstration, but rather conspicuously trying to be quick enough to escape one.

Some people believe all this is because Mr. Hoover wants to avoid being known as a personality—wants, instead, to be regarded as an abstraction—a symbol of government.

However, he did not behave so at the first interview he granted to the Washington correspondents—this, too, was the day after his inauguration. On the contrary, he was thoroughly human again—and very likeable.

There was one while, it should be said, when Mr. Hoover astonished the correspondents, and scared them badly.

They were astonished because, as secretary of commerce, they always found him extremely approachable and friendly. Following his return from Florida, he seemed a different being. Shut up in his S street home, he was as inaccessible as the grand lama of Tibet.

The correspondents were scared because a president who is too high and mighty to meet the newspaper folk presents a grave journalistic problem.

It was this that they feared—a new Mr. Hoover. His explanation was as logical as any chronicler could have asked—maybe we should have thought of it earlier—his inability to speak for publication, as president-elect, with President Coolidge still in office, as responsible head of the government.

As president himself, Mr. Hoover is the original Mr. Hoover once more.

Indeed, his assurance that he intends not only to continue the White House "press conferences" but to amplify them, was more than the writing fraternity had hoped for.

If, on the one hand, there is nothing awe-inspiring about Mr. Hoover as president, neither, on the other hand, does he show the least sign of being bowed under the weight of responsibility. He plainly considers himself fully competent to handle the tasks ahead of him—cool and collected—at ease behind the executive desk and at home in the White House. He fits naturally into his environment.

WORD 'HEALTH' HITCHED TO MODERN DEVICES
By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Among the most popular of recent devices to which the term "health" has been assigned is the vibrating motor.

Essentially this is a machine driven by a one-sixth horsepower motor which causes a belt to vibrate. When the belt is placed around a human being at any point, the motion of the belt is imparted to the tissue.

This brings about manipulation, passive motion, mechanical massage, or any other term that one cares to assign to the activity of the tissue induced by this method.

Such devices actually do move muscles and thereby bring about some reduction in weight through making extra demands on the fuel taken into the body.

Word to Conjure With
However, it is not quite fair to call such an apparatus a "health" motor any more than it is to call any exercising apparatus a health apparatus.

In these days the word "health" has become one to conjure with in selling any food substance or any device that may be concerned with exercise or rest.

When a certain amount of fuel is taken into the body a portion of it is used to fill the energy requirement. Some of it constitutes waste material and disappears. The excess is stored as fat.

Some people are unable to get outdoors to walk long distances or to indulge in any form of physical activity whatever. The use of some of these vibrating devices puts an extra demand on the muscles which helps to take care of the excess fuel and thus prevents the deposit of fat.

Power for Good and Harm
Practically every apparatus, drug, or preparation used in scientific medicine is a two-edged sword; if it has power for good, it is likely also to have power

Q.—Can eyestrain cause headache?
A.—An examination of the eyes and of the use of the eyes is of the utmost importance in discovering the cause of headache of unknown origin.

For harm. The health motors have one chief use, namely, to exercise the muscles that the person, because of his occupation, environment or for other reasons, cannot undertake to exercise actively.

These machines are not a cure for disease. They will not eliminate fat from one portion of the body and put it on another. They may be dangerous to people with irritable bowels, with varicose veins or other disturbances.

LONDON LETTER

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, March 14.—Fleet street—the street of ink and the classic street of the newspaper craft—has just lost one of its strangest and most familiar figures. For Jim Connell is dead.

Everybody knew Jim. Always, rain or shine, cold or hot, he was to be seen slouching along the street, seemingly at peace with the world, with nothing but leisure on his hands, with many thoughts to keep him busy and amused.

He was tall and he always wore a rusty black suit and a weather-beaten big black sombrero hat, the kind our Kentucky colonels used to affect.

On most occasions he wore a flaming red tie. The only exception was on some great Irish festival day. Then the red tie was shelved and a flaming green tie took its place.

Nobody suspected he was as old as he was. When his death was announced and it was stated he was 76 there were gasps of astonishment. He looked 60 at the most.

Knockabout Days.
He had done many things in his life. Born in Ireland, he once wrote of himself that he was educated under a hedge for a few weeks. But he had been a sheep farmer, doctor, laborer, navy, railway worker, draughtsman, journalist, lawyer, and so on.

He had always been a boaster and that boasting was his favorite recreation. In his later years he was secretary of the Workmen's Legal Friendly society.

But he did one thing that will keep his memory alive as long as there are Socialist parties. One day he wrote a set of verses that he called "The Red Flag" and it was sung to an old tune. The song caught on.

Make It Their Hymn.
The Socialists of England made it their "Marseillaise." Since then it has been adopted by Socialists everywhere. No big fervent Socialist gathering is ever held anywhere in England, or Europe for that matter, without "The Red Flag" being sung at least once, if not often.

Connell wrote many other Socialist books and songs, but they all dropped into obscurity and forgetfulness. Only "The Red Flag" survives. But it's enough. By its authorship he has passed into the Pantheon of English Socialists.

Some day when a Socialist government is in power over here it is not beyond the probabilities that a monument will be erected to this defiant singer of a defiant song.

THE DESIRE TO BUY
E. P. Blanchard, chairman of the production division of the American Society of Automotive Engineers, figures that in this year of 1929 the American people will go down into their pockets and checkbooks and spend more than six and a half billions of dollars for cars, accessories, and replacement parts. Saturation? There can be no saturation of the motor market until a new race of men and women, created without the hurt near here today. Their automobiles held with an interurban car at Logan Stop. Both were taken to Ennis.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
"HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, is murdered some time between half-past one and four o'clock on Saturday. His body is found spattered with blood on the floor of his private office Monday morning by his pretty secretary, RUTH LESTER. Ruth is engaged to JACK HAYWARD, whose office is just across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Ruth runs to Jack's office to tell him of the tragedy. Finding him out, searches for his pistol, which he had purchased at the same time he had bought an identical weapon for her to keep in her desk. His gun is gone! Ruth then recalls his menacing behavior of the past Saturday and his angry threat against Borden.

Jack comes in and accompanies Ruth back to Borden's suite. While he phones for the police, Ruth, fearing Jack shot Borden across the airshaft, hurries into the private office to close the window. She gasps with relief, for it is already closed! Ruth tells DETECTIVE McMANN of Borden's two Saturday morning visitors: RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, and MRS. BORDEN, his wife and mother of his two children, who called for Borden's alimony check. Mrs. Borden comes in during the questioning and McMANN mercilessly accuses her of the murder. She says she left Borden alive and saw only one person near his office: MINNIE CASSIDY, the scrub woman.

NIELSON, medical examiner, arrives. When search is started for a weapon, Ruth tells of the pistol in her desk. McMANN looks for it but it, too, is gone. While McMANN is questioning MICKY MORAN, elevator operator, a black pigeon flies plump against the window pane. McMANN looks out the window and his exclamation of surprise startles his listeners.

McMANN finds the tiny footprints of a pigeon in dried blood on the window ledge and on the floor near the body, which indicates the window was open when Borden was shot. Ruth's fear for Jack increases. McMANN questions Moran, the elevator boy, who is afraid Ruth killed her employer.

Speculation fastens on Ruth until McMANN points to the office across the airshaft and asks who rents it. Jack admits it is his. Jack admits his return to the office on Saturday afternoon. He also tells of his pistol and McMANN goes to look for it. He returns to announce the pistol is gone. He is accompanied back by Bill Cowan, real estate man and friend of Jack, who says he heard Jack utter threats against Borden Saturday morning when Borden's denials attempted familiarity with Ruth. Cowan says he telephoned Jack Saturday afternoon and was plugged in on a busy line.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVIII
Jack Hayward shrugged angrily. "Then maybe Cowan can tell me who uses my phone in my absence. The bills are outrageous. I've told you before, McMANN, and Miss Lester has corroborated me, that I rejoined her in the dining room of the Chester Hotel at 10 minutes after two. It is obvious that I could not have been talking over the telephone in my office at the same moment. Central probably gave you a wrong number, as well as a busy number. Cowan, if you think you recognized my voice, you're mistaken—that's all."

"I didn't say I recognized your voice, Jack, old man," Cowan protested unhappily. "I merely told Mr. McMANN that I heard Borden giving you the devil—"

"Borden?" Ruth and Jack exclaimed simultaneously, incredulously.

"Yes—Borden!" McMANN repeated triumphantly. "From what Cowan says, there's not a doubt in the world but that you called Harry Borden on the phone and had your quarrel with him in that way, rather than across the airshaft."

"And shot him over the telephone, too, I suppose?" Jack retorted contemptuously. "Very ingenious of me, I'm sure."

"Please, Jack," Ruth begged, her voice piteous with terror. "Mr. Cowan," she asked tremulously of the embarrassed witness, "isn't it very possible that you're mistaken in thinking you recognized Mr. Borden's voice over the phone?"

"Oh, sure! Of course!" Cowan succumbed instantly to the appeal in those blue eyes.

But McMANN was of sterner stuff. "Look here, Cowan, you told me that you heard a man's voice, which you recognized as that of your friend, Harry Borden, shouting, in great anger, 'I'm not going to have you interfering in my affairs. Who are you, to tell Harry Borden what he can do and can't do? Is that the truth, Cowan? Are those substantially the words you heard before you hung up the receiver?'"

The harassed real estate man mopped his brow again. "As near as I can remember—yes."

"You distinctly heard the speaker call himself Harry Borden?" McMANN insisted.

"Yes, I did, for a fact," Cowan admitted unhappily. "I said to myself that there'd be trouble yet before those two, but I never dreamed—"

"Please listen to me for a minute, Mr. McMANN," Ruth pleaded. "I know you're only trying to be fair. But you must remember that you're engaged to be married to Jack Hayward, and I believe he killed the man who insulted and mistreated you. I'm mighty sorry—"

"Please listen to me for a minute, Mr. McMANN," Ruth pleaded. "I know you're only trying to be fair. But you must remember that you're engaged to be married to Jack Hayward, and I believe he killed the man who insulted and mistreated you. I'm mighty sorry—"

"I admit that I was afraid Mr. Borden would like my appearance too well if he saw me without my glasses. I know he liked pretty girls and other men made my business life rather hard for me, before I made myself as plain as possible. But that is absolutely all that happened between Mr. Borden and myself. I did not see him when I returned for my bank book, and I was able to convince Mr. Hayward that Mr. Borden was not responsible for my bruised lip."

The detective shifted in his chair. "I'm the stupid old man getting us anywhere, Miss Lester—"

"Please!" the girl begged. "The second important fact that you're ignoring is that my automobile is missing, too!"

"I'm not exactly ignoring that fact, Miss Lester," McMANN answered, not unkindly, "but I didn't like to drag Colby Lester's daughter into this case as an accessory before or after the fact."

"I—I don't know what you mean," she said.

"See BLACK PIGEON Page 9"

"Well, I guess my case is pretty clear," McMANN broke in, smiling with grim satisfaction. "Saturday morning, Hayward, you see the girl you're engaged to struggling in Borden's arms. You threaten to kill Borden if he lays hands on her again. Cowan has to hold you by main strength to keep you from trying to jump across the airshaft to get at your man. You meet Miss Lester at 1:20; she comes back to her office for her forgotten bank book. She has another struggle with Borden, who bruises her lip in kissing her—"

"I've told you that it not true," Ruth cried.

McMANN went on as if she had not spoken. "You find her at the elevator with tears in her eyes and her strength and threats of breaking the engagement to keep you from killing Borden then. You two go to lunch together, she confesses that Borden had manhandled her—"

"That also is not true!" Ruth interrupted furiously.

McMANN ploughed on imperturbably. "You're so sure of your facts, Hayward, that you leave the hotel dining room in the midst of your luncheon and hurry back to the Starbridge Building, determined to have it out with him, possibly with your mind already made up to kill him. You call him on the phone—"

Jack laughed contemptuously. "That's likely, isn't it? If I had wanted to telephone Harry Borden I could have done so from the Chester Hotel without making a trip to the Starbridge Building."

"But you couldn't have shot him from the Chester Hotel," McMANN retorted angrily. "Maybe you did forget your theater tickets, as you say you did, and had to come back to them. Maybe you didn't intend to kill Borden until after you quarreled with him over the phone."

"It's not up to me to fix Borden, it's up to you to fix Borden before you shot him. All I'm concerned with is that Harry Borden was shot as he stood in front of that window, that he had been heard shouting your threats over the telephone, that you had a gun, which is missing now, and that the window of your private office is directly opposite the window at which Borden was standing when he was killed. That's enough for me."

"But not for me, Mr. McMANN," Ruth cried, her eyes flashing as she shook off Jack's restraining hand. "And I know enough about criminal law and criminal court procedure to know that it will not be enough to warrant Mr. Hayward's arrest. Remember I'm Colby Lester's daughter."

"You had a good teacher—the best in the world," McMANN answered with surprising gentleness. "But I'm also remembering that you're engaged to be married to Jack Hayward, and I believe he killed the man who insulted and mistreated you. I'm mighty sorry—"

"Please listen to me for a minute, Mr. McMANN," Ruth pleaded. "I know you're only trying to be fair. But you must remember that you're engaged to be married to Jack Hayward, and I believe he killed the man who insulted and mistreated you. I'm mighty sorry—"

WEST POINT ACADEMY
On March 16, 1892, the United States Military Academy at West Point was founded. Long before, in fact, in the first days of the American Revolution, West point played an important part in the military affairs of the nation. There was a time, at the beginning of that war, when its capture by the British would have been fatal to the American cause.

At various times, between 1773 and 1780, West Point was fortified, at a total cost of $3,000,000. This comparatively huge amount indicates the value at which the location was held by America. The Polish patriot Kosciuszko served for some time as chief engineer of the fortifications. A unique part of the defense works was a massive iron chain stretched across the channel from West Point to Constitution Island to prevent the approach of hostile ships.

Constitution Island is now a part of the academy reservation. It was given to the government in 1908 by Mrs. Russell Sage and friends. The total area of the grounds up to 3,574 acres.

mean," Ruth gasped. "No, please, Jack," she pleaded, as the young man sprang toward McMann's desk. "Better try to control that temper of yours, Hayward," McMann advised firmly. "I'm afraid it's already got you into enough trouble. . . . What I meant, Miss Lester, was that a frantic girl may hit upon strange ways to confuse evidence when she fears for the life of the man she loves. I'm not saying that you hid that pistol of yours this morning after you discovered that your employer had been killed and that your sweetheart's gun was missing."

Ruth went very pale, but her voice was steady as she challenged the detective: "What makes you think I knew his gun was missing?"

McMann smiled. "You betrayed yourself when Hayward mentioned his automatic. He has better control of his expression than you have, child, but he should have warned you that he was going to admit ownership of the gun."

"But I didn't rely entirely on reading your expression. Miss Barnes told me that you were alone in Mr. Hayward's office for two or three minutes this morning, when you went there to tell him what you had found in here. It was easy to deduce how you had spent those minutes. . . . and why. You were afraid your sweetheart had killed your employer, and you looked for his pistol, to make sure. You didn't find it—and came to the same conclusion that I did."

"You're wrong there, at least," Ruth blazed. "I did find that his gun was gone, but I know Jack Hayward did not kill Harry Borden."

"And how do you know that, Miss Lester?" McMann asked quietly.

"Because the person who killed Borden was in this office, not in the one across the airshaft. Oh, I know a shot could have been fired from one window through the other, but there are two excellent, irrefutable proofs that the person who killed him was in this office either during or after the murder. First—the body was robbed of $500."

"Just a minute," McMann interrupted. "We have no proof that Borden was robbed, beyond the fact that the money is missing. How do you know that he did not give the money to someone before his death?"

"He gave Mrs. Borden a check," Ruth flashed. "And he had no other visitor except Mrs. Borden until Rita Dubois came, according to the evidence of the elevator operator, Micky Moran. . . . Oh, yes, Benny Smith was here, too, about half-past one, but surely you can't imagine Borden's making his office boy a present of $500. Can't you see that it isn't fair to Jack to convict him in your own mind until you've talked with Rita Dubois? We know she was here."

"And that she didn't see Borden in all probability. If we're to put the natural interpretation on what she said to Moran the elevator operator, about Borden's having 'stood her up,' McMann pointed out patiently.

"That's ridiculous," Ruth cried, forgetting tact in her anger. "The natural supposition is that she was referring to Borden's having failed to meet her at the station, to take her away on the week-end trip to Winter Haven, as they had planned."

"Why give her the benefit of the doubt when you've been so ruthless with Mrs. Borden, Jack an myself? Oh, please be fair. Don't you see how likely it is that it was Rita Dubois who—who last saw Mr. Borden alive? Since for some reason he failed to keep his appointment with her, he would be expecting her here."

"Probably she telephoned him and he asked her to come, or she simply came to see why he had 'stood her up' at the station. He would admit Rita, would unlock the door for her, but not for Jack Hayward. And don't forget—someone closed that window after Harry Borden was murdered. Jack could not have done so. He couldn't have got in. He has no key to this office, of course."

The girl's passionate outburst was interrupted by Birdwell. "Phillips, the waiter from the Chester Hotel, sir."

The waiter's testimony is even more damaging to Hayward. He tells about a key.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR MARCH 17, 1929

General Topic: The Christian Sabbath.

Scripture Lesson: Exod. 20:8-11; Matt. 12:1-8; John 10:19; Rev. 1:10.

Exod. 20:8. Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work.

10. But the seventh day is a Sabbath unto Jehovah thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates.

11. For in six days Jehovah made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore Jehovah blessed the Sabbath day, and hallowed it.

Matt. 12:1. At that season Jesus went on the Sabbath day through the grain fields; and his disciples were hungry and began to pluck ears and to eat.

2. But the Pharisees, when they saw it, said unto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which it is not lawful to do upon the Sabbath.

3. But he said unto them, Have ye not read what David did, when he was hungry, and they that were with him?

4. How he entered into the house of God, and ate the shewbread, which it was not lawful for him to eat, neither for them that were with him, but only for the priests?

5. Or have ye not read in the law, that on the Sabbath day the priests in the temple profane the Sabbath, and are guiltless?

6. But I say unto you, that one greater than the temple is here.

7. But if ye had known what this meaneth, I desire mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not have condemned the guiltless.

8. For the Son of man is Lord of the Sabbath.

John 20:19. When therefore it was evening, on the first day of the week, and when the doors were shut where the disciples were, for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you. Rev. 1:10. I was in the Spirit, on the Lord's day, and I heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet.

Golden Text: For the Son of man is Lord of the Sabbath.—Matt. 12:8.

Introduction.

What we shall do Sunday is not a new question. It is as old as the commandment for Sabbath observance. It was a perplexing question for the ancient leaders of the Hebrews, and still a vital issue when Jesus came to lead mankind into the abundant life. Nor did the question remain settled after his wise pronouncements. It has vexed conscientious followers of Jesus even until this day. What can I right-fully do on the Sabbath? The answer to this question has varied greatly with the centuries and with different groups. A study of all the answers is beyond the scope of this lesson. However we want to think frankly about the real purpose of the day of rest as set forth by the Master, and then ask ourselves if that purpose can be realized in these modern days, to make it truly a "Sabbath for the modern man."

The Basic Purposes of the Sabbath.

To honor God was one of the basic purposes of the Hebrew Sabbath. The ancient worshiper of Jehovah recognized in him his leader as well as his creator. The hardness of his nomadic life made him constantly conscious of his dependence upon God. He was not overwhelmed with an abundance of things. He was free to think a great deal and the more he thought the deeper was his sense of dependence upon his Maker. Therefore it would be perfectly natural for the believer to express his gratitude to God in observing faithfully the day set aside for worship and rest from the usual duties of life.

To meet the needs of man was another basic purpose of the Sabbath. We cannot think of God demanding honor and worship of his followers merely to gratify a desire for homage. He saw in the Sabbath an institution that would meet some of the basic needs of the human heart. These were rest from usual tasks, expression of gratitude, worship, social and individual, and fellowship.

The Sabbath a Benefit to Man.

Jesus replaced the emphasis upon the value of the Sabbath to man. He healed on the Sabbath; he did not criticize his disciples for plucking grain on the sacred day. When he was assailed by his critics for allowing his disciples to do that which was unlawful on the Sabbath, he answered them by saying that the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath. Is answer did not please his enemies, for they went out to take counsel against him. They could not see beyond the ceremony real spiritual values.

Modern Hinderances of Sabbath Observance.

Industry and commerce make it impossible for many to observe the Sabbath day properly. There are manufacturing processes that make it imperative for certain workmen to be on hand at all times. There are power plants that must be attended to, telephone switchboards which must be operated—in some cases to summon the doctor—there are horses to be fed, cows to be milked, trains to be run—some carrying human beings and others hauling food, medicine, mail and other necessities of life. To stop all these processes and activities Saturday night and renew them Monday morning would disrupt, if not destroy, our industry and commerce.

The Automobile.

The automobile has become both a help and a hindrance. It is used to bring many to church services, to renew contacts in the old home town, to perform deeds of mercy and healing. On the other hand, it takes many far afield, it compels traffic officers to work overtime, it makes necessary the opening of gasoline stations on the Sabbath. It jeopardizes many lives. Should we leave the cars in the garages on that it is the only time they have to drive, and that they can see no harm whatever in a Sunday ride.

The Sunday Paper.

The Sunday paper, and more recently the radio, are numbered by many as hindrances to Sabbath observance. The Sunday paper is so big that one does not finish it in time for church. It is so enticing to sit at home and listen to a sermon over the radio! Many yield, and save their consciences with the assertion that the preacher on the air is anyhow a better sermonizer than their pastor. This list attempts by no means to exhaust the hindrances to Sabbath observance. It merely suggests some of the more serious conditions with which observance of the Lord's Day is faced in these modern times.

Unchanging Values of the Sabbath.

Sabbath observance in the old days possessed certain religious, Christian values. It met certain deep human needs, such as worship in groups, rest from monotonous labors, fellowship, expression of gratitude, definite service in giving money, aid and self. While the conditions of life have changed with the passing of the years, yet these basic needs remain in the human life. And the Sabbath must still, in spite of all hindrances, minister to the needs of mankind.

Worship.

Yes, man can worship anywhere, at any time, but he can worship more readily in his right kind of church, where others are worshipping, than under any other circumstances. The churches need to study the needs of man and discover the best methods for serving these needs. This will give power to at least one service each Sunday. Such a service would tone up a life for the entire day and ward off many excesses now so prevalent.

Rest.

Man needs real rest. Growing specialization makes it more imperative than ever that workmen—all of us—should have at least one day of real rest. Now that the five-day week is being adopted so widely, workmen may take Saturday for sports and strenuous activities and devote Sunday to real rest.

Fellowship.

Individuals are strengthened by the group and the group prospers as the individual members prosper. The speed of modern work makes fellowship difficult. Sunday should be a day of fellowship, in the church service and in family and friendly groups. The stimulation from such fellowship is always needed and can never be measured.

Expression of Gratitude.

There is something noble in every human heart that grows with gratitude, and diminishes with extreme self-concern. The Sabbath custom gives large opportunities for this expression of gratitude; and all leaders should strive to embody in their Sabbath programs not only giving of money, but also other means for showing deep appreciation to God and our fellow men.

Unselfish service befits Sunday.

The Sabbath.

Welcome, delightful morn!

Sweet day of sacred rest!

We hail thy kind return.

Lord, make these moments blest.

Second TAT Line

Opened Up Today

(Special To The Avalanche)

FORT WORTH, Mar. 15.—The second of eight passenger lines to be inaugurated by the Texas Air Transport, Inc., will go into operation Saturday when Homer Rader and Howard Woodall, veteran air mail pilots, fly the first ships on the Dallas and Fort Worth to El Paso route. The first line from San Antonio to Brownsville, went into operation last Saturday.

Ships to be used on the Dallas and Fort Worth to El Paso line are Fokker Super-Universal, six-passenger cabin monoplanes. Woodall left Fort Worth Friday morning on a path-finding flight, making all the stops on the route. He arrived in El Paso Friday and will pilot the first ship leaving El Paso on the passenger line at 9:30 Saturday.

Stomach Troubles

Headache and

Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength, get nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac has restored to health and activity many thousands who suffered just as you do.

Mr. John Robertson, of 822 Spring St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "I couldn't eat anything, couldn't sleep, and working was almost an impossibility. After 3 bottles of Tanlac I could eat a bull's horn and sleep like a log!"

Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer. It corrects the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. It restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Lubbock Carpenter Says He Has Taken New Lease On Life

"Orgatone has simply given me a new lease on life," said J. C. M. Barnes, of 602 Avenue S, Lubbock, Texas. Mr. Barnes has been a carpenter, here, for the past six or seven years.

"Before I commenced taking Orgatone," he continued, "I was so run down and miserable, a half hours job would tire me as much as a whole days work does now. I suffered with sharp, intense pains in my stomach, and sides, from my kidney trouble. I suffered also, with indigestion, and my nerves were so unstrung that I was irritable and out of sorts all the time. I would get up in the mornings feeling as tired and worn out as when I went to bed and my work got to be a punishment to me. I had no appetite at all, and what little I did eat, disagreed with me, and gas would form on my stomach, and I would have bilious, dizzy spells. I would blot up so, until I would feel as if I would burst. My kidneys were in a terrible condition and I had a bad case of constipation. I was nervous and restless and got very little sleep during the night."

"I had reached the point where it was necessary for me to do something, and Orgatone was recommended so highly I decided to try it. I am getting wonderful results, and feel fine after taking one bottle. I now sleep sound, eat hearty and can do a hard days work without feeling it. Orgatone has relieved all my troubles. I recommend Orgatone to everybody with those miserable tired, nervous feelings, like I had, for it certainly has straightened me out in fine shape. Orgatone has restored my health and a years suffering which every thing else failed to do."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price one bottle $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25. Adv.

City Starts Tree Planting In Park

Eight Hundred Trees And Shrubs To Be Put Out In Park; Beautification Program Started

The beginning of transplanting nearly 800 trees and shrubs in the city park on block 36 of the Overton addition, was witnessed yesterday when workmen for the city were placed in charge of this work.

There have been 72 blue spruce and 108 Chinese elm trees planted in this park, already, and with this additional number the park will soon be one of the most beautiful of West Texas. Following is a list of the various plants and the number to be planted:

Western yellow pines, 29, Arizona cypress, 46, Compact Arbor vitae, 25, Dwarf Golden Arbor vitae, 27, Cedrus Decidua, 2, Russian olives, 27, Red cedar, 4, Bridal wreaths, 72, Gladioli, mixed, 48, Oregon holly-grape, 20, Abelia 64, Spirea Anthony Waters, 51, Salvia Greggii, (for desert sage), 29, Waxy leaf shrub, 10, German Iris 96, Hardy Aster 36, Low Dense privet 85, Golden Enonymus 26, Japanese privet 45.

CONDITION SERIOUS

Foch's Physicians Refuse To Give Out Statement

PARIS, Mar. 15. (AP)—For the first time in more than a fortnight physicians attending Marshal Ferdinand Foch were so concerned over his condition tonight that they declined to give newspapermen official authorization to report for the night. "Perhaps you might stay overnight," one of them suggested to the correspondent.

When the physicians visited the former generalissimo this morning they found him "very tired in heart and body and mind."

JUST ABOUT TIME

LONDON.—Preachers work for the glory of God, but even they can't live on it, Rev. F. J. Montgomery, rector of a church at Halse, complained recently: "I think it is quite time the rectors of Halse got something more to eat than in the past. For twenty years I served this church for $15 a week—just sufficient to pay a gardener."

Floating Seadrome First of Trans-Atlantic Chain

Soon, if you're sufficiently "air-minded," you can fly the Atlantic ocean in short hops. The first of a series of trans-Atlantic "floating airports" like the one pictured above is to be built immediately and anchored 300 miles at sea, half way between New York and Bermuda. This fantastic landing field will be manned by a crew of 43 men and will contain a machine shop, hotel and restaurant and a radio beacon to guide approaching planes. It will be a steel platform 1200 feet long, 600 feet wide and normally will ride about 100 feet above the water. Chains 21,150 feet long attached to specially designed sea anchors will hold this floating island in place. Experimental flights will be made between the mainland and Bermuda this year, using the seadrome as a stopping place, according to Joseph A. MacDonald, right, who will be in charge of actual construction. He is president of Henry J. Gielow, Inc., of New York, the builders. If the first venture is successful, construction of a string of other floats across the Atlantic will be pushed as soon as possible. Engineers say the seadrome will ride any waves up to 180 feet in height with practically no motion. For the giant platform will not float on the top of the sea; it will rest on buoys submerged in the ocean depths, where the water always is still. Anchored only at one end, the seadrome will turn with the wind, thus always offering its full length for the landing and taking-off of planes.

"Brick" Owens At The Plate

Ray Didn't Care For Umpire's Sympathy

BY "BRICK" OWENS
American League Umpire and Writer for Central Press and Avalanche

It will be interesting to watch the progress of Ray Schalk as a member of the New York Giants this year. It was supposed that he was through with the game when he resigned as manager of the Chicago White Sox last year. However, an attractive offer drew him back to the parent loop where it is expected he may occasionally work behind the bat.

While a veteran in point of service, Schalk is comparatively young in years. Diminutive in size, fortunately he is endowed with the courage of a giant. He was never daunted by size, though it was feared he was too light to work behind the bat as a regular. It is told that Big Ed Walsh feared to pitch to him when he joined the White Sox in 1912, at the time the Big Moose was at the peak of his form.

Having served a season with the Milwaukee club, Schalk was sold to Chicago in the fall of 1912. During the city series of that year, the Cubs were riding rough shod over the White Sox. Three games had been won, with but one more victory to proclaim them champions of Chicago in what was supposed to be the final game. Schalk was sent behind the bat in place of Billy Sullivan. The mile of a catcher worked the ace of the Sox staff to perfection, though Walsh had said that he was too small to hold his speed. The Cubs were repulsed in that game, and by winning the next three, the White Sox won the series. The substitution of Schalk was the turning point, and incidentally marked the sunset of Sullivan's reign as first-string catcher of the White Sox.

When Comiskey decided on a change of managers in the winter of 1926, he looked no further than Ray Schalk. His cleverness in handling the team from behind the bat gave the Old Roman much confidence in his selection. The initial game for Schalk in professional baseball was played in Milwaukee. His first day in town found him behind the bat, being rushed into action because of injuries to the other receivers. The writer was struck with sympathy for the newcomer through the disparaging comparison in size to the rest of the players. Undaunted, he took his place behind the bat and began his steady chatter. Feeling that he was nervous and over anxious, I took it upon myself to encourage him with a few cheerful words. In so doing it is possible that I allowed my work to suffer a bit. After making a decision which seemingly did not meet with the approval of the recruit, he turned to me and said: "If you will pay attention to your work and let me alone, we will both get along all right." Though somewhat repulsed by his remarks, the writer allowed him to do his own work, which was considered "pretty good" by most baseball experts.

TOPEKA, Kan.—For the first time in more than 30 years a Kansas governor has failed to grant a single pardon during an entire administration. The record is held by Governor Ben S. Paulen, who took office following the scandals over paroles and pardons in the administration of Jonathan M. Davis.

Testimony Closes In Garnett Trial

Wife Of Defendant Describes Killing Of Robert Calhoun, Mt. Sharp Farmer Last Year

(By Associated Press)
SAN MARCOS, Mar. 15.—Submission of testimony in the case of Percy Garnett, on trial for murder of Robert Calhoun, Mount Sharp farmer, in July, 1928, was concluded in district court today.

Judge M. C. Jeffery announced that he would deliver the jury charge tomorrow and indications were the case would go to the jury late tomorrow.

The defense today called Mrs. Garnett to the stand. She described the killing.

Most of her testimony corroborated that given by the defendant yesterday when he testified that he fired when he saw Calhoun, who was riding on a load of cane, reach for something which he believed was a pistol.

Bill Calhoun and Miss Emma Calhoun, children of Robert Calhoun, testified they were working in the cane field with their father, and that when Calhoun left on the cane wagon, there were no weapons, either in the wagon or on Calhoun's person.

The Simmons Cowboys Call On President Hoover

NEA Washington Bureau

The Hoovers had plenty of callers during the first day in their new home. The clamor of a crowd that arrived outside the White House doors with a multitude of hands, songs and cheers did not subside until President Hoover himself appeared to greet the well-wishers. The scene is pictured above as a cowboy band from Abilene, serenaded him. At the right is Mrs. Hoover as she appeared on the threshold of her new home before the insistent crowd.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
The State of Texas, to the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Joe Mitchell by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 99th district court of Lubbock county, to be held at the court house thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the 2nd Monday in April A. D. 1929, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 8th day of March A. D. 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court as No. 3021, wherein Estell Mitchell, is plaintiff, and Joe Mitchell, is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff and defendant were married in Archer County, Texas, on the 27th day of November, 1926 and were separated on the 25th day of October, 1927, when by reason of cruel and harsh treatment and improper conduct of defendant toward plaintiff, she was forced and compelled to permanently abandon him.

Further that the conduct and actions of defendant toward plaintiff are of such a nature as to render their living together inhuman and intolerable.

Wherefore plaintiff prays for judgment dissolving said relation, and for such other and further relief, general and special, in law and in equity that she may be justly entitled to.

Herein fail not, and have you before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Lubbock, Texas, this 8th day of March A. D. 1929.

Radio And General Motors Lead Stock Market Rampage

Failure Of Federal Reserve To Increase Rediscount Rate And Mid-Month Turnover Aid Sales

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Mar. 15. (AP)—Bullish operations swelled to the largest proportions since the "pre-inaugural" celebration of March 1 on the stock market today, with radio and General Motors leading the advance, reminiscent of last spring.

The accomplishment of the mid-month turnover of about $2,000,000,000 at the banks without causing a flurry in the call money market, together with the failure of the federal reserve bank to increase its rediscount rate and the moderate drop in call loans, set the market boiling with bullish enthusiasm. A total of 5,853,170 shares changed hands during the day, and the Associated Press price index of 50 industrial was lifted more than four points to another new high at 223.

Operators were not generally disposed to regard the upswing as the beginning of any sustained movement, however, and profit-taking was heavy. U. S. Steel, which sold up about three points at one time closed practically lower. Although call money renewed at 7 per cent and held at that rate all day, time money was appreciably scarcer, and little was available under 8 per cent even for the 90-day maturity.

Bankers pointed out that the comparative ease in call money may be attributed to the temporary overdraft at the reserve banks of the U. S. treasury, estimated at $100,000,000, the major part of which is in effect, into the money market. This overdraft is customary at the quarterly income tax settlement periods. As it is paid off next week, money is expected to tighten up considerably.

The days news was marked by still another 1-2 cent point jump in copper metal prices, carrying the domestic price to 21-1/2 cents. The general and regional committees of the American Petroleum Institute met in Houston to tackle the problem of controlling crude production. Vacuum and Standard of Kansas reported marked gains in earnings in 1928. The weekly trade and business reviews were again highly optimistic.

Market Sells Off In New York But Recovers Partly

NEW YORK, Mar. 15. (AP)—Early advances on unfavorable weather reports from the south and firm Liverpool cables were followed by reactions under renewed realizing in cotton today. But after selling off from 21.30 to 21.15, for many contracts, the market recovered part of the loss, with that delivery closing at 21.24. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 9 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 15 points. March sold up to 21.32 and the new October contract to 20.63 on covering or rebuying by recent sellers. This rally carried the price of May back to within 17 points of the high price touched last week and evidently attracted renewed realizing or liquidation as well as some southern and local selling.

The census report showing domestic consumption of 598,096 bales for February against 572,875 last year was regarded in line with bullish views as to the season's consumption in this country, and judging from current comment the reaction in prices has not reflected any particular revision of sentiment as to the probable world's carryover at the end of the season. It is supposed, however, that the recent buying reflected a reduction in both the trade and speculative short interest and that this had left the market in an easier technical position.

Some cotton continues to arrive here from the south for delivery this month and it is estimated in some quarters that the movement here for the whole of March will aggregate in the neighborhood of 35,000 bales.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Mar. 15. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a reaction on hogs, with price gains of 15 to 40 cents. Light receipts and a broad shipping demand were the strengthening factors. The day's extreme top of 12.10 at St. Louis equalled the previous high mark of the year. Total offerings were around 32,700 a decrease of 32,700 from last Friday and 50,000 short of the same day a year ago.

Cattle trade at most centers consisted of the usual Friday cleanup with no material price changes registered. Packers this week were bearish on weighty fed steers but met with little success in reducing their cost. Other killing classes and replacement cattle are closing the week unevenly higher. Demand at eastern dressed beef markets remained narrow but should expand somewhat as the lenten period nears an end. Colorado fed steers are expected to arrive in more liberal numbers the next few weeks, shipments to date of this origin having been relatively light. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 9,500 against 9,471 a week ago and 6,265 the same day last year.

Fat lambs found a slow outlet at prices steady to unevenly lower as compared with Thursday's dull close. Several of the river markets reported losses of 25 to 50 cents. Chicago had a top of 17.60 while at Omaha the best mark of 16.75 was 1.00 under Wednesday's. Aged stock registered no change. The supply approximated 28,600 a decrease of 4,000 from a week ago but 14,000 heavier than a year ago.

Oil Notes

DALLAS, Mar. 15. (AP)—McGinley Zieley Oil company of Fort Worth, it is announced, has leased the east half of section 37, McCulloch county, from R. G. Scott. Drilling operations on the lease will soon be started.

FAMPA, Mar. 15. (AP)—The Operator's Oil company well number three, Jackson section 8, block B-2, Gray county, blew in yesterday with an estimated daily flow of 4,000 barrels of high grade crude oil from top pay at 2,845 feet. It had 29,000,000 cubic feet of gas at 2,830 feet. The well is the south offset to the Texas company's number one Bowers in section 89 when came in a year ago in December. Until yesterday it flowed at 2,230 barrels daily. The flow yesterday was 2,380 barrels.

Cotton Advances But Sells Down Later In Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 15. (AP)—The cotton market was erratic today and price fluctuations were two-sided. After advancing about 50s a bale in early trading prices weakened later under a renewal of long liquidation and profit taking active positions selling to levels one point under yesterday's close. There was a slight recovery during the afternoon and May contracts rallied from 20.52@20.57 and closed at the latter figure, net 4 points up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

Liverpool cables were much higher than expected and first traders here showed advances of 9 to 10 points in response. Prices continued to advance after the start under a demand stimulated by man indications of further rains in the eastern belt which traders feared would add to overflows in that section. May sold up to 20.60, July 20.65 and October 20.43, or 10 to 13 points above the previous close.

Later in the morning early buyers took profits and longs liquidated on the official forecast for more favorable weather in the belt and in advance of the census bureau's final ginnings estimate which some traders feared would prove larger than the government final crop report issued last December. On the subsequent decline May sold off to 20.46, July 20.52 and October 20.32, or 11 to 14 points down from the highs and one point below yesterday's close.

During the afternoon business tapered off and short covering developed to carry prices up 5 to 6 points from the lows. July closed at 20.57 and October 20.35, or 2 to 4 points net up. March showed the maximum advance for the day closing at 20.35, or 7 points net up.

Receipts 34,733; for week 126,120; for year 8,602,545; last year 7,240,842. Exports 10,940; for week 133,549; for year 6,370,839; last year 5,412,247. Stock 1,831,427; last year 1,827,269. Stock on shipboard 121,284; last year 121,191. Spot sales 12,564; last year 17,821.

TOO MODERN

LONDON.—Because they felt that their rector, Rev. Leonard Short, was "ultra-modern" in introducing sex subjects into his sermons, the congregation of the High Street Unitarian church have dismissed him. "My ideas are too advanced for a backward place like Shrewsbury," Rev. Short said.

Texas Livestock Receipts Dwindle

FORT WORTH, March 15. (AP)—Receipts of cattle on the livestock market here today dwindled to very small volume, the yard's estimate calling for only 11,000 head. Calf supplies limited to about 300 head. The cattle run brought in only one carload of slaughter steers, 2 or 3 cars of yearlings and the rest of the cattle supplies consisted largely of mixed butcher classes; no straight carlots of cows received and the better grades of calves of heaves practically lacking.

Trade in all divisions of the cattle and calf markets very poorly tested, owing to the unusually light supply. A fairly active demand existed for available supplies of all classes and the market as a whole appeared steady to strong. One load of slaughter steers sold at 11.15 and some small lots of fat yearling reported up to 12.25. One load of fat and feeder yearlings also sold at 12.25, this caliber clearing on trader account. No business of consequence transacted in fat cows above $3.00, but a few sorts of butchers sold around 7.00@7.25. Low cutters sold at 5.00@5.50, the same as on previous days this week. Slaughter bulls in demand at 7.50@8.25, but very few sales of this class reported. A few package lots of good heavy slaughter calves purchased by packers at 11.00@11.50 and some cull sorts around 7.00@8.00.

Desirable stock cattle wanted by country buyers but the day's business limited to the sale of a 2-car shipment of choice stock steer yearlings at 13.00.

A fair sized run of hogs were here today, the total head running 18,000. Trade was featured by a fairly active demand but proved uneven, showing an average advance of about a quarter. Smooth butchers in carlots up to 10.85, this price paid for good to good choice 220-230 pound hogs. Bulk of the desirable 180-220 pound carlot hogs at 10.50 to 10.60, a few medium to good hogs in the lighter weights sold on down to 10.35 and less. Truck hogs topped at 10.90. Packing hogs ruled steady to a quarter higher, mostly at 8.50@9.25. Feeder pigs at 7.50@8.25, appeared steady.

Conservation Of Oil Discussed By Officials Friday

Approximately 100 Attend Meeting In Houston To Devise Relief For Oil Situation Of World

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, March 15. — R. C. Holmes, president of the Texas corporation and general chairman of the American Petroleum Institute committee on world production and consumption of petroleum and its products, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the committee here today. To work out a plan for conservation of oil.

Approximately 100 oil executives heard Mr. Holmes' address. "We should be quite as much concerned, as an industry, as a nation and as a people, about the supply of crude petroleum and its products in the future as now, while the immediate welfare of the industry itself is of no great interest to the public, it may not be considered of sufficient importance in itself to give support to a comprehensive and satisfactory plan," Mr. Holmes said.

The subjects outlined by Holmes for discussion at the two-day meeting included:

The oil situation over the world and its possible effects on any plan that might be adopted for the Western Hemisphere.

To determine the extent to which crude production as a whole should be reduced to constitute substantial conservation and preferably not in excess of 1928 production.

To determine the probable recoverable oil from present known or producing fields as well as estimates of oil as yet undiscovered that may possibly be made available in the future.

To determine manner in which control over production can be attained and how to avoid waste.

ATTORNEYS TO FIGHT

Efforts Will Be Made To Prevent Hoobler's Death

WICHITA FALLS, March 15. (AP)—Attorneys for D. J. Hoobler prepared today for a fight to the finish to save their client from the death penalty imposed by the jury which yesterday found him guilty of murdering his employer and benefactor, Arthur Pendergraft, Cotton county, Okla., January 27. The attorneys announced motion for a new trial would be filed.

The verdict was read after the jury had deliberated five hours and 20 minutes.

Death Claims W. F. Colquitt Friday

CORSICANA, March 15. (AP)—Funeral services for W. F. Colquitt, 65, veteran newspaper man who died today of heart disease, will be held here tomorrow. He was a brother of O. B. Colquitt, former governor of Texas.

These brothers drilled the fourth producing oil well completed in the Corsicana field in 1896. W. F. Colquitt was in the newspaper business here for 20 years, and published the Corsicana Democrat from 1885 to 1905. After that he engaged in the banking, loan, real estate and oil business.

Regulation Of Order To Be Attempted In Spain

MADRID, March 15. (AP)—Official announcement was made today that the cabinet would meet later and adopt fresh measures for the maintenance of order throughout the country. The announcement followed renewal of students rioting in the center of Madrid last night. The announcement referred to "the agitators persisting in their unpatriotic attitude and forgetting all considerations of national interest." It adds that while the government does not consider the situation grave it regards it as one both unpleasant and intolerable.

Attempt Is Made To Release Dumas

Habeas Corpus Hearing Is Requested Of Judge G. Calhoun In Austin; Man Held For Deaths

(Special To The Avalanche)

AUSTIN, March 15.—An attempt to secure the release of J. H. Dumas, in jail here under a murder indictment in connection with the killing of two men in an alleged robbery effort of a Rankin bank last year, is being made by attorneys representing Dumas. They seek to get his release from jail before his trial is called.

A habeas corpus hearing was requested of Judge George Calhoun, for Dumas. The judge is undecided as to whether his court has the right to grant such a bond as the case was transferred back to Upton county on a sustained motion challenging the jurisdiction of the Travis county district court.

Carl P. (Red) Woods, and Dumas, are jointly indicted in connection with the double killing. They have both been in the Travis county jail for the past several months, the cases being sent here on changes of venue, later being sent back to Upton county, when it developed that Dumas was not under arrest and had not been arraigned when the transfer was made. Woods is at liberty on bond.

A recent agreement fixed the start of the astronomical day at midnight it formerly started at 12:00.

Impeachment Trial Verdict Is Expected

Possibility Of Early Ruling Of Testimony Of Trial Is Seen For Next Week; Special Session Predicted

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 15.—Possibility that a vote on the 11 impeachment charges against Henry S. Johnston, suspended governor, would be taken by the state senate court early next week was seen today when his defense counsel indicated they were near the end of their case and the court voted to hold a Saturday session.

The regular legislature period of sixty days, provided by the state constitution, will end Monday, and the salaries of members of the legislature will be reduced from $6 to $2 a day after that date.

Comparatively little legislation has been passed in the regular session, and members are expecting a special session, regardless of the outcome of the governor's trial, for the purpose of passing appropriation bills and other legislation.

Clark Mandigo, state highway engineer, resumed the stand in the senate court this morning as a defense witness for Johnston.
