Ward School Purchase Is Suggested

By RANDALL ABERNETHY
Avalanche Staff Writer

A PAUL BUNYAN stride toward greater postwar Lubbock was taken Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the city commission when a group representing the Kiwanis club outlined a proposition which envisages the building of a civic center dominated by a magnitudinious, all-purpose coliseum.

A special election within the next few months to determine whether the city shall issue bonds to purchase the grounds and adjacent lots of Central Ward school loomed after the commissioners resolved to request of the board of trustees of the Lubbock Independent school district an option on the property.

To Sponsor Petition

William C. Wood, president of the Kiwanis club, and a member of the delegation, told the commissioners that the organization would sponsor the immediate circulation of a petition for the prescribed number of signatories necessary to action of the commission in putting the matter to a vote.

The school board has placed the property, including a large brick building, on sale for a purported price of $250,000.

The committee—which comprised Wood, W. G. McMillan, Parker F. Prouty and C. E. Maedgen—voiced its primary aim as a commodious, utilitarian structure which would house not only conventions and special events but provide a meeting place for service clubs, women's organizations and other civic-minded groups. It was pointed out, too, that the building could serve as a nucleus for other municipal buildings.

Called Ideal Location

The property under consideration lies between Avenues P and Q and extends from Thirteenth to a point halfway between Fourtenth and Fifteenth, with a separate segment comprising 138 feet of lots facing Avenue Q and extending east toward the school grounds for 180 feet.

McMillian opined that "it is the only remaining location for future development as a civic center."

He pictured the site as the only one available within walking distance of downtown hotels, a pertinent fact, he said, when considering conventions. Parking space would be abundant in the vicinity, he said, and its central location would put a meeting place even in

JONES ANSWERS SEN. GEORGE—Jesse Jones, strapping Texan, was slightly ired when, pictured with Senator George (D-Ga.), he said in this week's Senate hearing that Henry A. Wallace, the President's choice to succeed Jones as secretary of commerce and head of the RFC, was "unqualified" for such big business.

Ammunition Is Reemphasized

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Jan. 25 (AP) — The U. S. arsenal of democracy must treble its small arms ammunition production and double the output of medium and heavy ammunition to keep Allied armies fully equipped for the Western front battles ahead, Lt. Gen. Brehon S. Somervell declared today.

Although machine tools and other supplies will be shipped to France to transform her into a smaller arsenal, the commander of Army Service forces said the greatest pressure would have to be exerted on home production to prevent shortages in at least a dozen of the important implements of war.

French Need Ordnance

Besides the normal wear and tear of battle, Somervell presented these reasons why the arms production curve in the United States must rise sharply:

Several hundred thousand more French troops will be sent into action on the Western front, and it is largely up to the United States to supply and equip them.

Plans are in the works to arm more Belgian forces.

The constant race with the Germans to put the best equipment into the field—a race of which he asserted: "Don't get the idea we are behind the Germans in tanks or any other equipment"—places greater demands on the production front.

Disclosing that American delivery of war materials to Russia had not diminished despite more than seven months of war in Western Europe, he said that merchant ships now can go into the Black sea and discharge their cargoes at Russian ports.

Allied armies already have supplies on hand to mount a general offensive if the Russian advance in the east should make it desirable.

The Western front gets No. 1 priority over the Pacific in the matter of supply.

Somervell asserted that small arms production must be increased 200 per cent over last November's mark, medium and heavy caliber ammunition 100 per cent, heavy trucks 25 to 30 per cent, and cotton duck 40 per cent.

Wallace Urges A Probe Of Jones

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — Henry A. Wallace challenged Congress today to find out if Jesse Jones administered the government's giant lending agencies for the good of all. For himself, Wallace said he would do the job for the common man and small business.

Without naming the man President Roosevelt wants him to succeed as secretary of commerce and head of the multi-billion dollar RFC, Wallace lashed back at Jones who yesterday called him unqualified to preside over such big business matters.

Wallace did it this way—he proposed to the Senate Commerce committee that Congress investigate the administration of the lending agencies to determine if they should be stripped from the Commerce department.

To Vote Today

The committee is considering such a divorce in a proposal by Senator George (D-Ga).

The day's proceedings wound up in an executive session after which Chairman Bailey (D-NC) announced the committee would vote tomorrow afternoon on the George bill.

After that vote, he said, any committee member can move to take up the Wallace nomination itself.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), a Wallace supporter, said it looked as though a majority of the committee would vote for the George plan splitting up the commerce and lending agency posts.

Wallace said he saw for himself an opportunity to handle both tasks so as to:

1—Help provide 60,000,000 jobs at increased wages.

2—Set up new methods of financing for small business which he said has been squeezed ever since the federal reserve system

Yanks Blunt Nazi Break On Moder

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The Germans opened up in northeastern France today with what may be their last offensive in the west, but it was checked by savage U. S. Seventh army counterattacks after it had broken across the new American Moder river line at four points.

The attack rolled out at dawn along a 20-mile front, with three crack armored divisions pacing at least three others in an assault which nowhere gained as much as two miles. A front dispatch said hard fighting raged tonight with the Americans inflicting punishing losses.

All along the front, a late dispatch said, the Germans were checked or smashed back.

Counterattacks Ease Threat

The threat to American positions at Pitotal Haguenau, probably an initial German objective, was eased by doughboy countreattacks which shoved the enemy back across the Moder river east of this town, 15 miles north of Strasbourg.

Three German crossings of the Moder in considerable force from two to five miles west of Haguenau and 15 miles deep into Alsace, also were under attack and the enemy was being driven back across the river.

It was along the Moder that Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch had set up a new line after pressure forced a withdrawal farther north.

While late reports said the Germans were being "contained," there was no attempt to minimize the force of the push and a U. S. staff officer declared it was a "major effort" to try to reconquer all Alsace, which Hitler had incorporated into the Reich in 1940.

The Weather Advantage

The Germans charged under cover of thick weather as they did in the ill-fated Ardennes campaign, striking with at least one armored division brought down from the Ardennes, two other armored divisions, one parachute division and two infantry divisions.

In addition, they had other troops in reserve and also had units counterattacking in southern Alsace against the French First army to keep up the pressure all along the Alsatian front.

The Allies can afford to give ground here, and the Germans chose to attack—from Haguenau westward to the Vosges—at a time when the Allies farther north were seizing the territory they need for

Stilwell's New Job Significant

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — In a move weighted with meaning for Japan, the War department today named General Joseph W. Stilwell to command Army ground forces.

Stilwell is the American general with the longest experience in Japanese military methods. He assumes command of the ground forces at a time when the task of reorganizing and training them for a major assault against Japan—either on Japanese or Chinese soil or both—appears to be pressing for attention.

Stilwell replaces Gen. Ben Lear, who has been assigned as deputy commander in the European theater in charge of administrative matters concerning American troops.

May Lead Final Drive

The fact that both Lear and his predecessor, Gen. Leslie Monair, received important overseas assignments after heading the ground forces strengthens speculation here that Stilwell's next job is likely to be back in the field, leading American troops in the final crushing of Japan.

Secretary of War Stimson underscored the announcement of Stilwell's new job by reading a message from Lt. Gen. Dan Sultan in Burma which expressed regret that "Vinegar Joe" was not on hand for the triumphal reopening of the Burma road to China.

If Tokyo noticed the change today, it might have recalled one of Stilwell's more pithy statements: "More and more Japs are destined to assume a recumbent position in this war."

Program Of Slaton Chamber Is Tonight

SLATON, Jan. 25 (Special) — Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of Lubbock First Baptist church, will be guest speaker at the annual Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development banquet at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the County Club house here, Briggs Robertson, chamber manager, announced Thursday.

Following the program, which will include Dr. Hereford's address, vocal selections by W. R. Sewell and Jim Cherry, and piano music by Mrs. Allen Ferrell, six new directors will be elected for the year. The manager's election will also take place at that time.

Chamber President W. L. Pearson will preside and a turkey dinner will be served.

Other chamber officers are J. D. Holt, treasurer, and a vice president. Houston Spikes recently resigned that position when he moved to Amarillo.

Nominations for directors will be made Friday night, when 10 or 12 names are submitted for attention of the 15-member board when it meets next week, probably Tuesday.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25 (AP) — Actress Faye Emerson returned here today from Washington, where she attended President Roosevelt's fourth inauguration, and prepared to start work on a new motion picture next Tuesday.

The President's newest daughter-in-law posed for news photographers on her arrival, but said there would be no pictures with Blaze, the English bull mastiff sent her by her husband, Col. Elliott Roosevelt, and which traveled from England to Hollywood on Army planes.

Swiss Pressure Is Clamped On

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP) — The United States applied economic pressure to Switzerland today for its continued dealings with Nazi Germany.

The State department announced that President Roosevelt is sending one of his own administrative assistants, Lauchlin Currie, to resume negotiations with the Swiss in an effort "to shorten the war."

Currie will seek two objectives mainly:

(1) To persuade the Swiss to close their railroads to shipments of coal and other goods from Germany to northern Italy;

(2) To cut off continuing exports of some machine tools and a few strategic metals and food supplies from Switzerland into Germany.

Last October the Swiss cut off shipment of arms and ammunition to Germany. This was far short of what the Allies sought but was all the Swiss were willing to do at the time, evidently because of their need for German coal.

Two Burned To Death In Fire At Mabank

MABANK, Tex., Jan. 25 (AP)—A fire that destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Humphrey claimed the lives of two of their children and injured three others of the family last night.

Jack Wayne, 2, and James Edward, 3, died in a Dallas hospital today. Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey and their month-old daughter, Fannie Lee, were hospitalized at Terrell.

Humphrey suffered severe burns while rescuing his wife and one of the children. Mrs. Humphrey and Fannie Lee received less serious burns.

Breslau Totters; Trap Forged On 200,000 Nazis

By W. W. HERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Friday) — The Red army shattered the German upper Oder river defense line on a 125-mile front today, laid siege to the great Silesian capital of Breslau, and sealed off perhaps 200,000 enemy troops by driving a wedge to the Baltic behind beleaguered Konigsberg, East Prussian capital.

Surging on through swirling snowstorms the Russians were reported by the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star to be within 125 miles of Berlin, presumably to the southeast.

The German news agency DNB told of the Russian penetration to the Baltic at Elbing, one of the greatest encirclement operations in history. Moscow had not officially confirmed this report, but dispatches from that capital said tank spearheads had reached the Vistula delta west of Elbing.

East Prussia Isolated

Breaking into Elbing itself, 63 miles southwest of Konigsberg and 30 miles southeast of Danzig, the Russians cut the last railway serving the trapped and reeling German forces in East Prussia, which is an important food source for Berlin and northern Germany.

At the end of two weeks of lightning war the German high command announced that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army units had crossed the frozen Oder river at various points on both sides of Breslau between Steinau, 140 miles southeast of Berlin, and Cosel, 18 miles from the Moravian frontier of Czechoslovakia.

Moscow had not confirmed the crossing officially, but Soviet front dispatches did.

Cities Hopelessly Outflanked

Gleiwitz, an important industrial city of 118,000 in the southeastern corner of Germany, fell to Konev's troops who also seized Chrzanow, Polish coal center 34 miles to the southeast, Premier-Marshal Stalin announced in an order of the day. Gleiwitz is the largest German locality yet taken by the Russians.

Racing around Gleiwitz toward Czechoslovakia and also striking into the German hinterland north of the Sudeten mountains, the Russians rapidly were encircling the entire corner of the rich Silesian basin with its huge coal, zinc, and iron mines and factories

Soviets May Get Help From West

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Stiffening Nazi resistance in the Poznan sector, last defensive redoubt on Polish soil in German hands, appeared to be slowing the Russian advance on Berlin along the shortest route.

But three primary objectives of over-all Russian stategy that has guided the massive Red army sweep across the frozen Polish plains have been achieved.

The chance that organized resistance in Germany can be brought to an end within weeks instead of months cannot be ruled out by caution, nor is it possible that Allied Supreme headquarters in the west is not straining every nerve to start rolling eastward to meet the Russian flood tide attack or at least aid its advance by pinning down Nazi armies in the west.

Nazi Expects Drive

Neutral press reports from Berlin say Nazi military staffs expect it and withdrawal of the American Seventh army in the Karlsruhe corner under Nazi pressure tends to confirm that expectation.

With the Saar basin phase of the Anglo-American winter offensive abandoned when the Third army was rushed northward to aid First army comrades, operations in the Karlsruhe corner lost the strategic significance and much of their tactical importance. Strasbourg, the only Allied foothold on the German Rhine except near the Swiss border, lies now at the blunt apex of an Allied salient. A Ger-

Air Crash Kills Red Ambassador

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25 (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Constantine Oumansky, his wife and seven others were killed today in the crash of a Mexican military plane just as it took off for Costa Rica.

Of the six in the embassy party and the five in the crew, only two escaped. They are the wife of the first secretary and a heroic Mexican lieutenant, a mechanic on the plane, who pulled her from the burning wreckage although his arm was broken.

Oumansky and his party were bound for San Jose where the ambassador was to present his credentials as minister to that republic.

The plane took off shortly before 6 a. m. It rose from the runway slowly, failed to gain height and suddenly crashed and burned. Oumansky, his wife and some others were found a little distance from the wreckage, their bodies badly burned.

Nine Are Dead

The dead:

Ambassador Oumansky, Mrs. Oumansky; Leo Troyninsky, first secretary of Soviet embassy; Lt. Col. Sergei Savin-Lazarev, Soviet military attache: Yuri Vdovin, Soviet embassy clerk. Capt. Roque Velazco Ceron, Mexicon Air force pilot. Hilario Romero Martinez, co-pilot. Ludovico Sanchez Roman, radio operator. Sgt. Jose Guzman de la Vega, mechanic.

Oumansky was Soviet ambassador to the United States before coming to Mexico in 1943.

Survivors To Recover

The two survivors, Mrs. Leo Troyninsky and a military mechanic, Second Lt. Salvador Noble Morelos, are at the American-British hospital. Dr. W. L. Garnett, said he expected both to recover.

The bodies of the five Russians were taken to the Soviet embassy to be placed in a temporary chaped.

The plane had made many flights and mechanics worked on it yesterday to put it in condition for the flight today.

Air-Sea Assault Hits Iwo Jima In Volcanos

By CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

MANILA - BOUND American Sixth army troops captured Clark field, prize airdrome of the Philippines, and neighboring fort Stotsenburg Thursday in the drive against the Japanese on Luzon island.

After taking the airfield with its 13 flight strips and the fort, the Yanks immediately started clearing enemy troops from nearby hills and sent partols southward as far as Angeles, Pampanga province town only 45 airline miles north of Manila, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

An American naval task force teamed with Army Superfortresses and Liberator bombers Tuesday to blast Iwo Jima, enemy bastion in the Volcanos 750 miles south of Tokyo, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced.

In this third coordinated air-sea assault on Iwo Jima in the past two months, the Navy ships added their steel to 117 tons of bombs dropped by the Superforts and 70 tons contributed by the Liberators. The island, midway on the route of Marianas-based B-29s striking at Japan, has been hit almost daily by American bombers since last Dec. 1.

While American units on the central prong of MacArthur's push toward Manila were driving down the Luzon plains, other battalions on the right flank were progressing down the west coast to Santa Cruz below Dasol bay on the road leading to Bataan peninsula.

Yank units on the left flank meanwhile continued heavy pressure on the enemy around Rosario, key to the mountain road to Baguio, and farther south on that flank they drove into San Manuel against strong opposition.

Cavite, Corregidor Bombed

American air units bombed the former U. S. naval base at Cavite, on Manila bay, with 95 tons of explosives setting Japanese installations afire, hammered defenses on Corregidor rock in the bay and in Subic bay up the coast, and destroyed a 10,000 enemy tanker near Aparri on the north

Yank Troopship Sunk, Revealed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — Along with a report of 36,456 new Army casualties, Secretary Stimson revealed today the recent sinking in European waters of a ship carrying American troops, with 765 dead and missing.

No detail was given in the loss of the ship, beyond the fact that she was sunk by enemy action while carrying more than 2,200 soldiers, of whom more than 1,400 were saved. The casualties were divided: 248 dead and 517 missing.

The date of the sinking was not announced. Next of kin of casualties have been notified.

Announced loss of life has been heavy in the sinking of four other troop carrying vessels.

Casualties totalled 1,498 in the loss of two unnamed vessels in the Mediterranean last year. The precise time of those sinkings was not announced.

Other Losses Recalled

Approximately 300 Army, Navy and Marine corps men and crew members were listed as missing or lost after a submarine sank the Henry R. Mallory while she was en route to Iceland early in 1943. The Mallory presumably was one of the two ships which the Navy said had been lost in the North Atlantic with more than 850 casualties. Neither was a regular Army or Navy-operated transport.

In most other losses of troop carrying ships, circumstances have been such that most passengers could already have been landed.

Stimson said the new transport sinking was made public in accordance with the "established policy of stating all losses in regular course, even though some of the details may not yet be made available."

The overall report on Army losses, issued at the war secretary's news conference, showed 616,951 dead, wounded, captured, and missing since Pearl Harbor, up 36,456 from last week.

The Navy's newest casualty total of 84,999, up 1,635 for the week, made the overall figure for the armed services 701,950, an increase of 38,091 since last week.

Elliott's Dog Won't Figure When Nomination Is Studied

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—Col. Elliott Roosevelt was nominated by his dad today to be a brigadier general and several Senators said his dog's sky travels won't becloud the issue.

The nomination of the 34-year-old Air forces officer went automatically to the Senate Military committee on a routine list of Army promotions including 77 other colonels to one-star grade.

This is the committee which set up a subcommittee of three to inquire into Army priority practices which perimtted Blaze, young Roosevelt's big bull mastiff, to travel by transport to Hollywood after three service men were put off.

Chairman Stewart (D-Tenn), in charge of the subcommittee, said the inquiry, relating only to priority practices, did not involve in any way the right of young Roosevelt to a promotion. Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Maybank (D-SC) agreed on that score.

Senator Revercomb (R-WVa), a member of the full committee which will pass on the promotion, said that "you may be certain it will receive careful consideration, just as all the others will be."

"If he is entitled to promotion on the basis of his record, it will be confirmed. If he isn't, it will be opposed."

Jonathan Daniels, presidential aide, told White House reporters the nomination had been received in the routine way from the Army and was handled in the

No Protest Made As City Commission Hears Zoning Changes, Street Widening Proposal

By WALTER SWITZER
Avalanche Staff Writer

A PUBLIC hearing to consider a recommendation of the city zoning commission and to determine the advisability of amending the zoning ordinance to comply with it was held Friday night in the city commission room at city hall.

The recommendation was, in effect, that all property abutting on Ave. J south of Nineteenth street (excluding the first 125 feet) to Twenty-sixth street be placed in a K-zone (industrial zone), and before such K-zone is established, that Ave. J be widened to a width sufficient to provide adequate ingress and egress. That is, recommendation as to changing of zones on property abutting on Ave. J, is conditioned upon a provision for an adequately wide street.

Changing of this property to a K-zone would mean, said City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., that all property involved on that street, that is in zones C or D, which are residential zones, would be in an industrial zone. About 125 feet north of Twenty-fifth, south to Twenty-sixth on the west side of the street, and from Twenty-third to Twenty-sixth on the east side, are in zone-J, which is also an industrial zone, but buildings in this type zone must be 15 feet farthur back from the street than those in a K-zone.

All interested property owners, or their representatives, were asked to attend the hearing, but many were absent. Those attending, however, were given an opportunity to protest against the proposed amendment, or made recommendations in favor of it.

No objection was voiced. Action on the proposed amendment will be taken later.

As the street exists now, it has four different widths between Nineteenth and Twenty-sixth. The street is 25 feet wide from Nineteenth to Twentieth, then 15 to Twenty-third, 32 to Twenty-fourth, and 48 to Twenty-sixth.

After Mayor Overton W. Ribble and Smith, explained the proposal, the group entered into a discussion of the changes that would have to be made in regard to property lines, of the question as to who would pay for moving of buildings and sidewalks, and of types of industries allowed to be established in a K-zone.

Smith pointed out that most property owners on the west side of the street would have to move

COMMON COLD

IONA Trott, assistant director of Red Cross nursing service, says an appalling amount of carelessness is to be found among parents who permit their children to mingle with others in the schoolroom during the early and most contagious period of a cold. Just as one would hesitate to expose another to one of the "breaking-out" diseases such as measles or chickenpox, one should avoid exposing others to the infection of a cold.

The school child showing symptoms such as running nose and eyes should be kept at home, she says, not only for his own sake, so that he may recover more quickly, but for the sake of his schoolmates.

If fever is present and the weather is bad, the child should stay in bed for at least one day. Diet should be light but nourishing, with plenty of orange juice, lemonade or tomato juice, other juicy fruits and fresh water. If there is not fever, and the weather is pleasant, the cold sufferer may spend a moderate amount of time in the open air and sunshine, provided he is well dressed and is not exposing others.

NATIONAL SERVICE

ONE of the world's most distinguished educators, Virginia Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College in New York City, goes on record as favoring suggestions for "national service."

She says that such service would buildup morale in time of war and help solve vocational problems in time of peace. In both, it would give a sense of "belonging to the great community of the nation and owing it some service."

Education for citizenship, which in this country is to say education for democracy, appears to be a practical possibility in the not too distant future.

Business And Professional Women Hear Talk On Brazil At Dinner

Conditions and customs in Rio de Janeiro were described by Mrs. Virgil Kershner in a talk before Lubbock Business and Professional Women's club at a dinner Wednesday night in Hilton hotel.

Mrs. Kershner lives in Rio de Janeiro and is here visiting her brother, E. J. Lowrey.

Discusses Transportation

She discussed transportation in the Brazilian city, telling of discontinuing use of private automobiles there in 1942, except for those with charcoal burners, which require about an hour to prepare for use; of mixing of richer and poorer groups who had not previously mingled in such manner on buses, and of bus transportation.

Brazilians are extremely anxious to please, frequently promising things they will find impossible to do rather than refusing, she said. For instance, some have been known to give wrong directions to a motorist rather than to say they did not know a route; and to promise to deliver merchandise when impossible to do so at the time set.

More than 80 per cent of the "lower class" over 30 cannot read or write, but the children of that group are receiving better education.

Committee Plans Program

The program and banquet were planned by the legislative committee chairman, Mrs. Floe Swenson, assisted by Misses Irma Pryor, Irene Malone and Elizabeth Barnes and Mrs. Margaret Burrus.

The group sang "America, the Beautiful," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Bernice Carnahan; Miss Lottie Hilton sang two solos, accompanied by Miss Lou Ann Hardy on the violin and Mrs. Carnahan at the piano. Mrs. Burrus led reading of the club collect.

Approximately 70 persons attended. Guests were Misses May Ellen Bourland, Gladys Pryor, Hardy, Mesdames Floy Bruner, Laura Vogt of Harrisburg, Pa., Catherine Skeen, Vera Ward and C. W. Royalty.

Truth Seekers Have Luncheon Thursday

Twenty persons attended a luncheon of the First Baptist Truth Seekers class Thursday in the church annex.

Mrs. Grady Bownds gave two readings. Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor, spoke.

CLUB DANCE PLANNED

Zavlo club will entertain with a dance from 9 to 1 o'clock tonight at Lubbock hotel, with Buddy Arnett's orchestra playing. The club sweetheart will be presented by Tom Ingram, president.

James Gilmore, Jap Prisoner, Heard From

A message written last April was received this week by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gilmore of Lubbock from their son, Pfc. James C. Gilmore. The parents were informed Dec. 8 that their son had been moved from a camp in the Philippines to one in Osaka, Japan.

Pfc. Gilmore, with the coastal artillery, was captured off Corregidor May 6, 1942. All previous cards from him have come to the family's old address, Rt. 6, but the one received this week was to the present home, 1827 Texas, which indicates that he had received mail.

His typewritten card said, "Am well and hope you are the same. Received your letters. Was glad to get them. Tell the girls hello for me. Thanks for the pictures. Will close for now. Lovingly your son, James C. Gilmore."

S-S CLUB MEETS

Twenty women attended a meeting of S-S club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. P. H. Benton. The club sewed for the hostess and made cake and candy to send to two soldiers. Eleven new members were added. Next meeting will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Feb. 6 at the home of Mrs. Bill Burleson.

Housing Problem Has Writer Dizzy, His Wife Even Worse

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. — There seems to be, according to my bride who now qualifies as an expert, what the financial writers would call a peace scare in the capital real estate markets.

The Russians are getting close to Berlin, the hard-boiled babies with the houses for sale at prices that ought to include diamond studded door knobs are putting on the pressure, and the homeless Othmans are laughing in their homely faces.

There'll come a time and apparently it isn't far away when anybody who tries to get $30,000 for a three bedroom house will be locked up, either as a nut or a robber chief. That time hasn't come yet, because one of these babies tried to peddle us such a house at such a price yesterday. My bride told him she was stringing along with Stalin.

She said she'd stay put in our cubicle, no matter how many bruises she got climbing like an Alpinist over the furniture, until the war is won and the standing-room only signs come down from the District of Columbia.

Gets Worse And Worse

She's been here now since November, spending every waking hour looking for a place to live in topsy-turvy town, and now that the highbinders seems to be getting freightened over the prospects of peace, I think the time has come to make a formal report:

One apartment house still has a waiting list of 2,000; another has 500 and the only flat my bride actually saw vacant was built over a two-car garage; rent $80. She soon gave up trying to get an apartment.

She turned to houses-for-rent. She found one, or half of one, for $90, but she said she wouldn't live in it dead. (That's the way she talks when she gets excited.) She looked at another in the country, the ad said, and it certainly was. No bath. Water from the pump, but the pump was frozen the day she called. Rental: 65 a month.

There was one nice house that she liked until the man calmly mentioned the price. He said he'd let her have it on a two-year lease for $350 a month. If she'd had her umbrella along she'd have hit him between the eyes.

Buying No Better

Eventually she gave up trying to rent a house. She thought maybe she'd better buy one and by actual count, she has inspected 52. She has concluded that a $7,000 house sells for $11,000; a $10,000 number for $18,950, and a $15,000 domicile for anything up to $34,500. For reasons best known to themselves the capital realty owners like odd figures.

Our best bet, we thought, was a house belonging to a lawyer who had moved to California, about the time we left there. He said his house would cost us $18,000, which sounded steep, but we said we'd look at it when we got here.

We did look at it, but our man said he had misjudged the market. He said the price now was $26,500. He advertised it in all the papers for a week and, I regret to report, got what he asked.

The boys now are rallying around, with house after house for sale and imploring looks in their big brown eyes. We are telling 'em to read the headlines. It's fun, watching 'em cringe.

Rainey Row Cut Short In House

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP) — The University of Texas controversy flared in the House of Representatives today, then was snuffed out by a ruling from the speaker after a short, sharp parliamentary tussle.

A resolution by Rep. R. N. Grisham of Eastland calling on the attorney general to determine whether Dr. Homer P. Rainey had been lawfully dismissed as president of the university failed to come to vote when the chair sustained a point of order raised by Rep. R. C. Chambers of May. Chambers' contention was the House may not legally ask the attorney general for an opinion.

The statutes do permit committees of the House to seek such rulings, and Grisham said the resolution would be rewritten to conform and be reintroduced. It was considered likely this step also would meet objection on the point that House rules require all resolutions to be referred automatically to a committee for study before floor consideration.

Flurry Highlights Day

Such a point of order against Grisham's resolution was already in the making before debate was shut off by the speaker's ruling.

The resolution caught many House members by surprise. A clerk droned through a first reading of it and many members apparently were not listening. There were quick cries of "Vote" from others and a rush to the floor microphone. A second reading was called for.

The flurry highlighted today's session of both Houses. The senate voted to meet tomorrow to consider the bill by Grover C. Morris of Greenville and others to raise the pay of rural school teachers, but the house knocked off until Monday. Considerable preliminary committee work on organization and consideration of bills was scheduled.

The House also saw introduction of its first bill revising the powers of the board of regents, and another was in immediate prospect.

Would Limit Duties

Rep. R. L. Proffer of Denton offered a bill specifying that the primary function of the board of regents be to handle the endowment and fiscal policies of the university, and giving the president, the board of regents and the faculty joint responsibility for educational policies. Proffer said he had prepared for early introduction another bill specifically designating powers of the board and directing that it enact rules "including adequate protection of the rights and tenure of the faculty and other personnel." It was somewhat similar to a bill introduced in the Senate by A. M. Aikin, jr., of Paris, limiting the activities of governing boards of state colleges to policy making.

These proposed laws are outgrowths of some of the issues that arose between Dr. Rainey and the board of regents, leading to his dismissal as president after many disagreements over administrative matters. Dr. Rainey has charged the board encroached on his administrative functions, and the board replied it was only discharging its duties under the present statutes giving it broad administrative control of the university.

German and American Swap "Dirty Looks"

WITH THE U. S. ARMY, France, Jan. 25. (AP)—Pfc. Walter Scribner was repairing communications lines at the front when he noticed a movement on a hill 800 yards away and quickly scanned it with his binoculars.

Scribner, a 100th Division rifleman from 601 North Pulaski street, Baltimore, Md., saw a German soldier, who, in turn, picked up his field glasses and trained them on Scribner.

Scribner laid his glasses down, stuck his thumbs in his ears and waved his hands. Then, picking up his glasses again, he saw the German put his down, stick his thumbs in his ears and wave back.

Western Front

the supreme assault on Germany from the west.

The British Second army, engulfing eight more towns as deep as 11 miles into Germany, was within a mile of the Roer river, barrier to the Cologne plain, and sending patrols stabbing toward the river. The Tommies were three miles from the enemy's Holland stronghold of Roermond, and had flattened the German salient on that front north of Aachen.

Withdraw Toward Siegfried

The Germans were falling back to the Roer, from where they have speculated the next big Allied drive will come.

In the shattered remnant of the Ardennes salient, the U. S. Third army was hounding the Germans back into the Siegfried line, not more than five and a half miles away in northern Luxembourg.

The Third fought into Clervaux, a town of 1,000 population and the last of any size still held by the enemy in Luxembourg, after breaking across the Clerve river at a number of points.

The U. S. First army attacked in near zero weather and pushed more than a mile east and south of St. Vith, where the Americans were less than three miles from the German border. Nowhere did the First have more than seven miles to go in Belgium before reaching the frontier.

Fighterbombers, pounding home the attack on the retreating enemy for the third day, destroyed 52 tanks and armored vehicles and damaged 58 others, and knocked out 679 motor vehicles and damaged 515 others.

"Private Invasion" Continues

The U. S. First army, pressing two miles northwest of St. Vith, had no more than seven miles to go anywhere in Belgium before it too stood at the frontier.

The U. S. Third army's private invasion of Germany in the Moselle river valley 11 miles south-east of the city of Luxembourg, met some success and the Germans were cleared from the towns of Wies, Bork and Nannig, from two to five miles inside the Reich.

The German offensive in northeastern France, launched behind a heavy artillery barrage, climaxed 25 days of probing assaults which achieved the deepest penetration south of the Maginot fortress of Bitche.

This morning the enemy attacked in earnest. On the west the Germans drove the Americans back north of Reiperswiller, seven miles south of Bitche.

Five miles to the east, another attack developed in the early morning and achieved the greatest penetration at Schillersdorf, 15 miles south of the German border and a dozen miles from the Saverne gap.

More menacing was fighting eigth miles or so farther east, where the Germans gained their all-important crossing of the Moder river on a three-mile front between Schweighouse and Neubourg.

The Germans had succeeded in cutting the Haguenau-Sarreguemines highway as they had once before, and were threatening the main north-south supply route from the bridgehead on the Moder.

A front dispatch said the German assault had nowhere gained more than two miles, and they were suffering heavy losses, but there was no disposition to minimize the scope of the attack.

Already identified in action were the 21st Panzer, 25th Panzer Grenadier, the 7th Parachute and the 10th SS Panzer divisions. The latter was one of the authors of the Ardennes breakthrough.

On the northern edge of the Colmar pocket in southern Alsace, the Germans lunged out against Ostheim, east of the river Illmain north-south riverd barrier on the west side of the Rhine—five miles northeast of Colmar.

The French First army, repulsing counterattacks, scored limited gains however along the southern rim of the pocket.

Airmen Still At It

Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British Second army had virtually wiped out the Sittard salient thrust down through the Holland appendix north of Aachen and the Germans were in retreat to the Roer and the Siegfried line.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army pushed forward up to a mile and a half through hilly northern Luxembourg, and had cut the main north-south road, known as "Skyline" drive, between Diekirch and St. Vith, in at least two places.

The road runs from two to three miles west of the Our river, which forms the Luxembourg-German border.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army was badly hampered by deep snow, which made the bringing up of food and ammunition difficult.

An arc was pushed out from St. Vith an average of a mile and a half, with the best progress made to the northeast, where fighting was in progress around Wallerode, two miles northeast of St. Vith.

Fighterbombers, stalking the enemy for the third day in a row, claimed by mid-afternoon the destruction or damaging of 496 motor transports, 37 armored vehicles, 160 railroad cars and 40 miscellaneous vehicles.

Bronze Star Award Names Lubbock Man

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — The War department today announced Bronze Star awards to these Texans, personnel of infantry training units:

Antoine Pellerin, Staff Sgt., infantry, Port Arthur.

James W. Kennedy, Pvt., infantry, Lubbock.

Policy Of Scorched Earth Is Demanded

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Adolf Hitler tonight categorically ordered German commanders on the Eastern front to scorch every inch of German soil they abandon, while Germany was forced to clamp a state of siege on populations of Prague and eastern Czechoslovakia cities rebelling as the Red army approaches, the Moscow radio said.

The "scorched earth" order and other signs indicated the Nazis may be despairing of stemming the Russian tide, now reported only 125 miles from Berlin—or of making an early return to the yielded territory.

O'Mara Reelected As Red Cross Chairman

W. C. O'Mara business man of 3005 Twenty-first, was reelected chairman of the Lubbock county Red Cross chapter at the group's annual meeting Thursday night at Hilton hotel.

Other officers elected were George P. Kuykendall, vice-chairman; Morley Jennings, secretary; and Ruel Martin, treasurer.

One new member, Tom Duggan, was named to the board of directors; and three men, Dr. Allen Stewart, Rev. H. G. Gantz, and J. Ray Dickey, were reelected.

Marvin Tainter of St. Louis, regional director of the midwestern area for the Red Cross, was the featured speaker of the program.

Reconsideration Of Labor Law Is Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — Texas today asked the supreme court to reconsider its 5 to 4 decision invalidating the state's law requiring union organizers to register before soliciting members.

The petition, signed by Attorney General Grover Sellers and Asst. Atty Gen. Fagan Dixon, termed the decision "strange" and continued:

"The majority decision seems to have been concurred in by some members of the court because of a misapprehension of the facts . . . Pronouncements based on false impressions are neither justice nor law. They certainly do not conform to the American ideal of 'equal justice under law.' "

News Briefs

Coy Fowler Fielder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fowler Fielder of 2214 Thirtieth, who was listed as missing in action by the Eighth Naval district Wednesday, has been killed in action, according to a later report received by the family.

A Bible conference will be held at the Tabernacle Baptist church next week with various speakers addressing the congregation at 10 o'clock each morning. Lunch will be served every day at the church and at night there will be two speakers. The night meetings will begin at 7:30 o'clock and the crowd will be dismissed at 9:30 o'clock. A revival is now in progress at the church with Rev. L. E. Miller leading the singing and Ben D. Johnson preaching.

Funeral services will be held in Los Angeles, Calif., today for C. D. Lamb, 79, father of Bill Lamb of 802 Ave. K, police patrolman. The elder Lamb died Wednesday afternoon at his Los Angeles home.

A special board of naval officers and enlisted personnel, headed by Lt. Commander O. H. Swayze, will be in Lubbock today and Saturday to interview and qualify a limited number of men interested in appointment to commissions in the U. S. Naval reserve. Interviews and examinations will be given from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. at the postoffice building.

Transfer Of Susan Peters Is Planned

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 25 (AP) —Mercy hospital attendants reported that Susan Peters, film actress accidentally shot during a hunting trip near Cuyamaca lake Jan. 1, would leave today by Navy ambulance for Hollywood.

The actress, wife of Richard H. Quine, a member of the Coast guard, will be taken to Cedars of Lebanon in Hollywood for observation. She was paralyzed from the waist down, but her physicians said this condition was temporary.

De Gaulle Insists On Buffer Defense

PARIS, Jan. 25. (AP) — Gen. de Gaulle told a press conference today that "France does not intend to finish this war without the assurance that the French army will be installed permanently along the length of the Rhine from one end to the other."

The head of the provisional French government said regretfully that France had not been invited to the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference. He also explained that France does not intend to recognize the Lublin committee as the provisional government of Poland — at least, not immediately.

Scuffle Causes The Death Of War Vet

COLEMAN, Jan. 25 (AP) — A scuffle following an automobile accident last Saturday brought death today to a Coleman war veteran and murder charges against a Rockwood farmer.

D. F. Sanders, 24, died early today of injuries which the sheriff's office said were suffered in a scuffle following the car accident. L. T. Watson, Rockwood, was charged with murder before Justice of Peace Barclay Martin.

Vet Really Knows Of Cigaret Shortages

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 25 (AP)—The cigarette shortage doesn't impress M/Sgt. Calvin R. Graef of Silver City, N. M., recently returned from the Philippines.

"You ought to try native leaf tobacco rolled in newspaper," says he.

That was the brand Graef had during more than a year in a Japanese prison camp.

Wallace Appointment Arouses Misgivings

DALLAS Jan. 25. (AP)—Ralph G. Bray of Texas City, active in Roosevelt state headquarters here during the fall campaign, said the appointment of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce may cause a break in the ranks of the Texas Democratic organization.

Bray, in a wire to state Democratic Chairman Harry L. Seay, now in Washington, said "your statement scoring Wallace appointment and declaring for Jones used by O'Daniel crowd to foment strife and is threatening party schism."

He said it might throw the party into O'Daniel's hands.

Seay replied he had given no statement opposing the Wallace appointment.

Paratroopers Of 82nd Airborne Division Find Time For Farming

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BELGIAN FRONT, Jan. 21 (Delayed)—Despite the fierce fighting which has been waged on this front ever since von Rundstedt's breakthrough, a few paractute troopers of the 82nd Airborne division have found time to do a little farming.

Their motives have not been entirely unselfish, but even so guys like Sgt. Charles E. Heyser, Gettysburg, Pa., can turn their badges right side up as far as good turns are concerned.

Kenneth Dixon

Charles loves farms and farming, but in the last two years there hasn't been much time for such interests as his 504th Parachute Infantry regiment fought through four invasions in six areas.

There were plenty of farms in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France and Holland but they usually were well tended by their owners or else too ravaged by war. But here in Belgium, it's been different.

Many farms—well stocked with cows, chickens and sheep—have been left untended as civilians fled before the German panzer push. Charlie found such a farm and it at least will be in good order when its Belgian owner returns.

Weather Inclement

It's still dark and cold these mornings when Charles gets out of his bedroll and goes over to his farm. Before the sun peeks over the Western front, the Belgian cows have been milked, chickens fed and the barns cleaned out. The stock is watered and turned out to pasture.

Once in a while combat duties get too heavy and Charlie's chores are delayed, but as soon as possible he rushes back to see that everything is taken care of—just as it would be back on his little Pennsylvania farm.

Charlie's isn't the only farm on these Belgian hillsides where cows were left locked in stalls, milk souring in pails, and chickens abandoned to their fate by fleeing owners. A military police platoon set up a prisoner of war cage in just such a site. But before the prisoners could be herded into the barn, a bunch of cows had to be herded out, and they didn't cooperate too much.

A rush call went out for a farmer, and Pfc. Tom Neverdahl of Menomonie, Wis., a motorcyclist, arrived. He sized up the situation.

"These cows need to be milked," said Tom. "Then if we are going to keep them around we'll have to clean up a place for them."

Helps With Milking

Tom got Steve Debrow, Bridgeport, Pa., to help with the milking, but other tasks fell on the shoulders of some boys whose previous farming connections consisted solely of seeing newsreel shots of political candidates pitching hay.

Pfc. George Apen of Brooklyn, drew what might be referred to as a bovine latrine detail. Pfc. Louis Mikrut of Chicago, was assigned the job of driving the cows 200 yards down the road to a water trough every day.

Not taking any chances, Louie herded them along with his submachine gun. Also, he and George kept the cows covered each morning while Archie Stringer, Hauma, La., let them out of their stalls.

At first, barnyard details were not very popular. But when fresh milk and eggs began to show up in the chow, even city-born paratroopers began to decide that farm life had its good points.

Big Bend National Park Has Fossil Remains Aplenty

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Geologists have found fossil claims, three feet in diameter, and four feet long in the Big Bend National park in Texas, the Interior department said today.

In addition bones of dicosaurs and giant turtles have been uncovered, the department reported.

It explained that an open sea once covered the semi arid plateau and that petrified trees indicate that forests abounded later.

"The Big Bend region is at once the paradise and the despair of the geologist," the department said, "a paradise in the variety of formations; a despair because of the difficulty of classifying them and of explaining to the layman how they came to be there."

Churchmen Suggest Referendum Delay

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 25. (AP)—The Allied Church League, Inc., of North Carolina, which has fought for a state-wide liquor referendum, told Gov. R. Gregg Cherry that if the general assembly ordered the referendum it should be held six months after the war is over so that servicemen and women would have a voice in the decision.

North Carolina at present is dry except for 25 counties which have local option package stores.

Letter From Prison Camp Reaches Mother

Mrs. D. M. King of route 5, Lubbock, who had not heard from her son, Pfc. Ray W. King, prisoner of war of the Japanese in Burma, since Dec. 5, 1943, received a card from him this week.

Pfc. King is in the same camp from which he wrote in 1943. He was a member of the "Lost Battalion" of Java.

He wrote that his health was good. He said he was cooking at the prisoner of war camp.

Hunger Claiming Many Filipinos

BAMBAN, Luzon Island, P. I., Jan. 23. (Delayed) (AP)—Refugees from Manila reported today hundreds of Filipinos are dying of starvation daily in the Philippines capital where many emaciated bodies can be seen lying in the shabby, unkept streets.

Stories of starvation within the city and the Santo Tomas internment camp were brought through American lines by both Filipinos and neutrals who left Manila in recent weeks.

All said the Japanese stripped Manila of foodstuffs before moving their major forces northward and severed all communication between the capital and outlying districts.

It is impossible to verify the stories but there is sufficient evidence to indicate the situation is black.

Goebbels Tries To Scare Allies

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels declared today that Germany, "left in the lurch by her allies, stands at a lonely outpost" all alone against Russian masses of men and material surpassing all previous imagination.

"If we lose," Goebbels said, "the end of the Occident has come."

His comment, published in the Berlin weekly Das Reich, was broadcast by the Berlin radio.

Germany's eastern armies, he said, are "defending the lives of the whole civilized world." This enemy official said the Germans were even defending Allied armies in the west and the Atlantic Charter.

Bogey Description

"The Russians, according to a British estimate, have thrown into battle 200 divisions," Goebbels said. "The British and American have about 80 in the west. What would happen to them if the German divisions in the east suddenly would no longer exist? What if, as may happen, Stalin would go back to his old aims of Bolshevist revolution in Europe and throw the scraps of the Atlantic Charter at Roosevelt's and Churchill's feet?

"Then no help probably would be forthcoming for the plutocrats on this continent. The whole of eastern, southeastern and central Europe would be destroyed by the flames of a Bolshevist revolution."

Field Called "Corrupt, Without Future"

Most U. S. Parents Don't Want Sons In Politics

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 25.—The great majority of people in the American voting population apparently do not think much of politics as a life profession: they wouldn't want a son of theirs to enter politics as a life's work.

GALLUP

This is based on a nation-wide survey in which a cross-section of voters was asked:

"If you had a son would you like to see him go into politics as a life's work when he gets out of school?"

The replies:

YES	21%
NO	68
NO OPINION	11

In Britain, when a somewhat similar question was asked, less than a majority — 48 per cent — answered no, but more than a quarter — 27 per cent — were undecided. Twenty-five per cent, slightly more than in U. S., said they would like to see a son or daughter take up politics as a life's work.

WHAT is the basis of the strong opposition to politics as a career in this country? Seven out of ten among those who said they wouldn't like to see their son enter politics gave one of the following reasons:

1. Politics are too crooked, unethical, corrupt.
2. Temptations are too great for even a good man.
3. Not much future in it; better jobs elsewhere.
4. Too precarious a way of earning a living.

Some of the comments as given to field reporters: "Too much graft . . . Life is not your own . . . It's a miserable life, always at the mercy of the people . . . He'd be hated by everyone . . . Too much mud slinging."

And then one to which many a congressman might want to add a fervent Amen—"Politics? It's just headches, heartaches and disillusionment."

MANY persons gave replies indicating that their opposition to their sons' entering politics was based upon economic or security considerations; they felt their sons should enter politics only after establishing themselves in the business or professional world.

The one in five willing to see their sons enter politics have their reasons, too. The two most often mentioned reasons:

1. There is great need for good and honest men in politics today.
2. Politics presents an opportunity to serve, to help mold future national and world policies.

Some of the comment: "Politics is not all corrupt; it needs people with intelligence and tact . . . Honest men should supplant the crooks . . . Politics is as clean as the people in it . . . Unless good men enter politics, democracy will die."

Statistical sidelights:

Women are slightly more opposed than me nto having a son enter politics.

Younger persons are more opposed than men to having a son than middle-aged or older persons.

The persons with high school education like the idea of their sons' entering politics less than either the college educated or those with a grammar school education.

Would Give Gray Vets More Money

AUSTIN, Jan. 25 (U.P.)—A bill to raise pensions for Confederate war veterans to $100 a month and their widows to $50 was introduced today in the Texas House of Representatives by Rep. J. E. Winfree of Houston.

If veterans are married, they will receive $150 a month under the Winfree proposal. Veterans receive $50 a month and widows $30.

There are less than 40 veterans living now and more than 1,100 widows, Winfree said, while the pension fund has a balance of about $3,000,000.

Also introduced in the House was a proposed constitutional amendment providing physically handicapped persons under 65 and not eligible for old age pensions or blind aid receive pensions of $20 a month.

Other bills provided:

Armed forces personnel shall be exempt from renewing drivers' licenses.

Appropriation of an additional $70,000 a month for blind aid.

Expectant mothers shall take serologic blood tests.

Serologic blood tests shall be required for men and women applying for marriage licenses.

All livestock medicine must be labeled and registered with the state health officer.

The Senate received a bill to let all counties retain the amount of state ad valorem tax collected in them for the next five years and use the money for county purposes.

Other principal bill offered in the Senate would permit department heads to make up state payrolls before the end of the month. Waiting until month end now delays payment in some departments until mid-month.

Stevenson Appeals For Paralysis Fund

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Coincident with Gov. Coke R. Stevenson's request that Texans give liberally of their time and means to sustain the fight against infantile paralysis, the state health department reported that 283 fell victim to the disease in Texas in 1944. Of this number 43 proved fatal, during the first ten months.

The governor in his proclamation called attention to the observance of the President's birthday ball on Jan. 30 and said "this disease presents a continuing threat to the well being of our people and especially our children. This is vividly evidenced by the number of its victims in our state during 1944.

"I commend to the people of Texas the current campaign for funds to support this worthy philanthropy and urge them to give liberally of their time and means to assure its success."

Meatless Spaghetti Sauce Recipe Given By Scionti

HOUSEWIVES who are genuinely concerned with the wifficulties of obtaining meat now-a-days will welcome this recipe for meatless spaghetti sauce that is from the files of Silvio Scionti, musician who appeared in concert here last night with his wife, Isabel Scionti.

Scionti's favorite hobby is cooking. His wife says it's a fine thing for a woman whose domestic education never progressed far beyond a can opener to have an expert cook for a husband.

Here's spaghetti sauce "Scionti" style:

- 1 can No. 2 tomatoes
- 1 small can Italian tomato paste
- 2 pounds onions
- 1 head garlic
- 1 large green pepper
- 1 large eggplant
- 1 small can mushrooms
- 1 pint olive oil or combination olive and peanut oil
- ¼ pound butter
- 1 pound long spaghetti

Fry the onions and garlic, chopped very fine one cup olive oil or combination of olive and peanut oil over medium fire until onions are golden brown. Stir and scrape often to insure even color and fragrant taste. Dilute canned tomatoes and Italian tomato paste with water and cook very slowly while onions are frying. Then add onions.

Fry eggplant sliced evenly not more than one and one-half inches thick, in oil over medium fire, frying until golden brown and replacing oil as often as necessary. Squeeze some of the oil out after eggplant is fried and cut the eggplant into small pieces. Add to tomatoes which are now well simmered down. Add salt and cayenne peper to taste.

Mushrooms, fried in small pieces in butter, may be added if you wish—or a green pepper cut in long narrow pieces, fried slowly in oil until golden brown and cut into small pieces.

The sauce may be served with a pound of long spaghetti salted and cooked until tender in four quarts of boiling water. spaghetti should be drained before sauce is added and mixed with butter. Serves from four to eight.

Meat Ring With Vegetables Will Present Tasty Dish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

WHEN you can get ground beef, make it go as far as possible. Combine it with some other protein food such as eggs, and pick up the flavor and vitamin in value with vegetables.

Remember this: when you can't get enough of the kind of food you like, cooking imagination and following the rule of "Eat the Basic Seven" foods will keep your plate happy and your health good.

Ground Meat Ring
(Serves 8)

Two pounds ground beef, 1 medium onion, ¾ cup diced celery, ¼ cup lard, 1/3 cup diced green pepper, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 eggs, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, ½ cup water, ½ cup tomato juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter or fortified margarine.

Chop onion. Brown onion and celery in lard. Combine with green pepper, salt, eggs, bread crumbs and water to make a dressing. Add half of the dressing (1½ cups) to the meat, mixing well. Pat out half the meat mixture in ring mold. Cover with remaining dressing, then top with remaining meat mixture. Bake in a moderate (350 deg. F.) 1¼ hours. Baste twice with tomato juice and fat to keep ring moist.

To add more protein to your meal, begin with split pea or black bean soup. Serve wholewheat or wholegrain rye bread also.

Celery, Egg and Onion Salad

1 cup minced celery
2 cups shredded lettuce
¼ cup minced onion
4 hard cooked eggs
½ cup well seasoned French dressing
½ teaspoon chili powder
2 well-shaped tomatoes
1 green pepper
Paprika

Cut the hard cooked eggs in half, mince the whites and reserve the yolks. Mix the egg whites, celery, lettuce and onion together. Mix the chili powder with the French dressing and stir into the lettuce mixture. Allow to chill thoroughly, then arrange in mounds on the center of the plates. Cut each tomato into eight thin slices; arrange four slices flat on the plate around each mound. Cut the stem from the green pepper and slice it thinly lengthwise. Put a green pepper slice around each piece of tomato. Press the egg yolks through a sieve and sprinkle them carefully over each mound, completely covering the lettuce mixture. Add a dash of paprika as a final garnish. Serves 4.

Use Eggs Often In Making Desserts

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Eggs are a source of first-class protein. When meat and fowl are scarce, use eggs more frequently to keep up normal protein requirements in your family meals. Try more desserts made with eggs.

Apple Charlotte with Golden Custard
(Serves 6)

One tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 3 cups sweetened applesauce, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 egg whites.

Soften gelatine in cold water. Heat applesauce. Add softened gelatine and cinnamon, stirring thoroughly. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Fold stiffly beaten egg whites into applesauce mixture. Pour into individual molds ad chill until firm. Serve with golden custard.

Golden Custard

Two egg yolks, 1 whole egg, 1½ cups milk, ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Beat egg yolks and whole egg thoroughly; add milk and mix. Combine sugar, flour and salt; add egg and milk mixture slowly. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon and is slightly thickened. Remove from heat immediately and add vanilla. Chill before serving.

Golden custard, with its eggs and milk (sources of protein) makes a delicious dessert spread on sliced stale cake, moistened with a little sherry or fruit juice. Try it on baked apples or pears, or on dried cooked prunes or apricots.

Put in a shaker equal parts of ground allspice, cloves, mace and nutmeg and use to season baked apples, puddings, pies, coffee cakes.

Creamed green bell peppers make an unusual vegetable. Steam sliced peppers lightly, add cream sauce and garnish with paprika.

To ripen pears, let them stand at room temperature until they yield to slight thumb pressure.

Sub-Zero Wave Hits East Coast

(By The Associated Press)

The winter's coldest weather struck the Eastern seaboard north of the Carolinas today setting seasonal sub-zero records and, in some cases, sending the thermometer down to all-time low readings.

New York bore the brunt of the severe cold wave, with temperatures as low as -32, while its fringes extended south into Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The Weather Bureau said it would be at least another 24 hours before the cold snap would break.

Following on the heels of a near-blizzard in northern New York state, the cold front moved in with gale-like winds which whipped the snow into drifts, blocking many secondary roads and disrupting transportation services.

Four deaths were attributed to weather conditions in the upper part of the state.

Transportation Crippled

Bus schedules were cancelled in Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse. Hundreds of thousands of workers were late for their jobs in New York City where the cold blast crippled subway operation.

Below zero readings ranged throughout Connecticut while Boston residents shivered in a biting 4 below temperature. Montpelier, Vt., record a -15 and Portland, Me., a -12, lowest official reading for the date since 1888. Three deaths were attributed to the cold in New England.

High winds, ranging from 60 to 35 miles an hour, accompanied a 6-inch snowstorm and cold wave which swept Pennsylvania. Zero temperatures were reported throughout the state, the lowest at St. Mary's, -20.

Also engulfed by cold weather were Ohio and Michigan. In Pelston, Mich., the mercury stood at -26 and in Toledo, Ohio, it was one below. There was little or no precipitation.

Natives Outdo Army In Weather Forecast

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Lieut. H. F. Smith, Army meteorologist from the Pacific area, told members of the American Meteorological Society he found weather forecasting in that section of the globe discouraging at times.

He told of a "good flying" forecast he made on Guadalcanal. An admiral questioned the forecast.

"The natives say 'no,'" the admiral told Smith.

"I gave the admiral a tolerant smile," Smith related. "I had heard of the native saying that a full moon brings good weather and the dark moon, bad weather.

"But the admiral had more faith in the natives than he did in me. And as it turned out, the natives were right.

"Not only that, but subsequent experience showed that the full moon always brought good weather and the dark, bad."

"I never found out why, but it did."

Texas U. Board To Meet Today

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Minus a secretary and with the status of some newly-appointed members up in the air, the board of regents of the University of Texas meets here tomorrow.

Definitely eligible to attend the two-day session—the first since late in November—are three members whose terms have not expired; two whose terms have expired but for whom no successor has qualified; and two who were recess appointees of the governor.

In the first category were Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls, W. Scott Schreiner of Kerrville and D. F. Strickland of Mission. In the second group were Mrs. I. D. Fairchild of Lufkin and H. J. Lutcher Stark of Orange. In the third were David M. Warre nof Panhandle and Dudley K. Woodward, jr., of Dallas.

Dr. C. O. Terrell of Fort Worth was originally appointed to fill the place of the late Dr. K. H. Aynesworth of Waco. This term expired Jan. 10 and Terrell was re-appointed by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson. He has already attended one meeting.

Muddle Is Unusual

This unusual muddle in the affairs of the board was brought about by a delay in Senate confirmation of regents appointed since the start of the 49th regular session of the Legislature. Leo C. Haynes, secretary of the board for many years, recently resigned to take another job and thus the regents are without a secretary.

The regents are faced with a mounting agenda of important business, including the naming of a president. This post has been filled on a temporary basis since Nov. 1 by Dr. T. S. Painter. Pending are such matters as the proposed establishment of a university press and setting up a patent policy.

Coincident with the regents meeting here was an investigation by a committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools into University of Texas affairs. The committee will remain here until Saturday.

Schoolmen Call Off March 16 Conclave

West Texas Teachers association will not hold an annual spring meeting originally scheduled for March 16, R. W. Matthews, superintenden tof Lubbock schools announced here Thursday.

The conclave has been called off, Mr. Matthews said, in keeping with the "no convention" rule laid down recently by War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, in order that excessive or unnecessary travel might be avoided.

The West Texas Teachers association covers 18 counties in this general area.

Whale Falls In Love With U. S. Submarine

SEATTLE, Jan. 25. (AP)—When the chroniclers war compile the final vodume on this insane period, we hope they won't forget to add a line about the U. S. submarine service and the lovesick whale.

Security regulations prevented today the discussion by Lt. Gilson Rohrback of the time he spent at sea in the subs or of the successful missions completed.

But, the security code says nothing about being "nuzzled" by a love-making giant beneath the sea, and Rohrback, at home on leave, is willing, even anxious, to talk about his "strangest experience."

"We first saw this whale when we surfaced," he explained. "He was swimming around and around, spouting and cutting all sorts of capers—making a regular showoff of himself.

"We couldn't figure out what it was all about at first. When we submerged, we could hear him on our sounding device coming closer and closer and making funny noises.

"Then we decided the whale was making love to us. He'd come right up alongside and affectionately nuzzle the ship.

"This went on for days and days before the whale was finally disillusioned and gave it up for a bad job.

"But it really was a noble experiment."

Wife Informed Pvt. Johnny Day Missing

The War department informed Irene Day of 2124 Sixth that her husband, Pvt. Johnny Day, 22, has been missing in action in France since Jan. 10.

Pvt. Day, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Day of 2124 Sixth, was inducted into the infantry last June and was sent overseas in November. He was graduated from Lubbock High school and was working in Kansas City prior to his induction.

The Days have two daughters, ages 3 and 1½. Mrs. Day is the former Miss Irene House of Lubbock.

Pvt. Herman Day, a brother, is also in the European theater of war.

Proven Reserves Of Oil Increase

TULSA, Okla, Jan. 25 (AP) — Proven reserves of crude oil in the United States totaled 20,514,739,000 barrels on Jan. 1, a net increase of 467,834,000 barrels in the past year, the Oil and Gas Journal estimates in its annual number today.

Higher reserves resulted from the past year's operations despite record production of 1,680,148,000 barrels.

Most substantial upward revisions, the Journal survey shows, were made in California, Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Mississippi.

Proven reserves in new fields discovered in 1944 aggregated only 204,650,000 barrels, less than 12.2 per cent of total withdrawals from the nation's petroleum reservoirs. Extensions to previously discovered fields and revised estimates on their recoverable reserve account for an increase of 1,943,332,000 barrels.

The modest figure on reserves in new fields is subject to upward readjustment as warranted by developments.

Plans to drill 28,406 new wells in 1945, including 4,587 wildcats, are reported by the Journal in an independent survey. Most of the drilling commitments were qualified on availability of equipment.

Much of the increased drilling program is expected to take place in Pennsylvania, indicating plans for great expansion of waterflooding and other secondary recovery operations.

Well completions in 1944 totaled 25,262, including 2,156 service wells in the eastern district. Most substantial increases in completions were in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Wyoming, California and Texas.

Mexican Airline Is Granted Two Planes

DALLAS, Jan. 25 (AP)—Aerovias Braniff, S. A., Mexican airline associate of Braniff airways, has been allocated two DC-3 airplanes with which to begin operations by the Surplus War Property administration, T. E. Braniff, president of both companies, announced here.

Braniff said these two ships are part of an initial order of eight placed by Aerovias Braniff. Built for Army Air Transport service, the planes will be adapted in the Braniff shops for passenger service.

Panair Company In Mexico Reorganized

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25 (AP) — Pan-American airways' subsidiary Compania Mexicana de Aviacion, has been reorganized and "Mexicanized".

Panair announced that it had sold a block of stock to Mexican interests and named some of the new stockholders to the board of directors.

It was confirmed today by Panair officials that there had been a change in the capital structure.

Panair, it was explained, formerly owned the subsidiary entirely and held all the stock with no par value. Dec. 27, the board approved a new financial structure with 125,000 shares of 100 pesos value making a capitalization of 12,500,000 pesos ($2,500,000).

Panair retains control, selling 47 per cent of the new stock to a group of 30 Mexicans headed by Eduardo Villasenor and nine other Mexicans were elected to the board. There are two American directors, Wilbur L. Morrison, vice president of Panair, in charge of the Latin American division, and George Rihl, one of the founders of the Mexican company in 1924.

Cotton Production Drop In Mexico Seen

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25. (AP) — The agriculture department announced today that Mexico's cotton production for the present year will doubtless be much less than that of 1944.

In the rich laguna region, around Torreon, inundations are frequent, the department said, and the indecision of cotton growers regarding the area to be planted will reduce the total production.

RECIPE... for WASHING LINGERIE & HOSIERY

1. Sprinkle Rain Drops and a dash of soap into basin and fill with warm water. Use enough Rain Drops to make water a beautiful sky-blue.
2. Swish lingerie and hosiery through the billowy blue suds quickly, yet gently, never rubbing. Rain Drops dissolves perspiration oils and soap curd.
3. Rinse in warm water. Notice how colors are clearer and fresher. Squeeze out water and pat between towels to remove excess moisture.
4. Hang lingerie and hosiery over towel to dry in shady place, preferably indoors. Do not dry in sunlight. Use barely warm iron while still damp.

Rain Drops is gentle to delicate fabrics and leaves hands soft and smooth.
Rain Drops softens water and saves soap, time and work!

Junior Tourney Set Feb. 23-24

Junior High school basketball star will take to the floor at the Westerner gym on Feb. 23 and 24 to battle for the honors in the first annual Junior High school basketball tournament, sponsored by the Lubbock schools, it was anounced last night by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of the local schools.

The tournament was planned by Lowrey recently, and feelers were sent out to a number of area schools where junior basketball is being played, and met with instant response.

Nine Teams Assured

With the setting of the dates, the tournament is assured of nine entries, with the field expected to swell into a full bracket of 16 teams by the start of the tournament play.

Included in the nine teams assured the meet will be the three from Lubbock Junior High school, Coach Curtis Barrett's Blues, Coach Russell Wimberley's Whites and Coach Bob Parker's Reds.

Bula Club Enters

The latest response to the tournament came yesterday from Supt. Carl Macon of the Bula school, endorsing the idea of the tournament, and listing his junior team as an entry.

Idalou, Shallowater, Cooper and Sundown had already assured Lowrey of entries, and this week, Supt. W. T. Hanes of Tahoka assured Lubbock officials that the junior team from that sports hotbed would be ready to play "on any date."

Junior basketball has needed a tournament of this nature to offer the teams someting to play for, and to make the big event of the season. The tournament is a fine plan for creating a new interest in junior basketball, and to encourage the younger boys to take part in the sport.

Every junior team in this area is invited to enter the meet, and any interested are urged to contact E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey at Lubbock Senior High school.

Golden Glove Entry List Grows Slowly

With the Avalanche-Journal sponsored district Golden Gloves show at the Texas Tech gym only a week away, entries for the major mid-winter sports event have been coming in slowly, Moreley Jennings, tournament director said Thursday night.

Entries from Tahoka, Petersburg and Lubbock Army Air field have not been received to date, however, and large teams are expected to come into the meet from each of these three.

Coach Leo Jackson of Tahoka has already assured tournament officials that the list of champions from the Tahoka tournament early this week will be in the tournament here, along with a number of other boys who fought there, but failed to win titles.

Jennings stated that ten entries have been received at his office at Texas Tech, but expects to get many more entries in the next few days with a large, and colorful, field due in by weighing-in time next week.

STAR MANAGERS NAMED

Texas Open Has Big Entry List

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 25. (AP)—One hundred and seventy start firing tomorrow at the tight par on Brackenridge course in the initial 18 holes of the Texas Open—one of the largest entries in the 18 years of this top golf event.

Officials try to hold the list down to 140 but do not refuse entry to players who travel to get here. More showed up this year than were expected.

Among the big field that tees off around dawn tomorrow will be 66 professioals, 22 of them comprising the star-spangled group following the winter tournament trail that started in November at Portland.

The pros paired with the amateurs today in the pro-amateur event. There were a total of 229 entering this feature, with play not being finished until after dark.

The bulky field hits the fairways tomorrow with Byron Nelson, the Toledo, O., star who got his golfing start in Texas, as the outstanding favorite.

Nelson was the leading money-winner last year, earning over $40,00 in tournaments and probably $30,00 more from other sources, and is still up to his old tricks along this year's tournament trail.

Nelson may not have earned as much on the current tour as Sam Snead, who has won three tournaments to Nelson's two; but after the Texas Open Lord Byron should be in the lead. Snead is not playing any more, having quit because of a back injury.

Also, it was revealed today, the field will be cut by another after this week because Bob Hamilton of Chicago, National P.G.A. champion, is reporting for Army duty. Hamilton, 29, had been 2-A but recently was reclassified.

Otherwise, there appears few changes due in the field that will go to Corpus Christi next week, then to New Orleans and on for a swing through the Deep South.

Eighteen holes tomorrow and eighteen more Saturday will cut the contestants for the Texas Open title to 60—50 pros and 10 amateurs—for the final 36 holes scheduled Sunday. Two starting tees will be used for the last 36 holes, Tournament Manager Sam Goldfarb said.

The sun was shining today, putting Brackenridge course in fine shape. It had been heavy from recent rains. Indications were that the open would start tomorrow under ideal weather conditions.

Texas Woman Golfer Wants To Play Babe

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 25 (AP) — Betty Jameson, twice national woman's golf champion who has been virtually out of competition for several years, said today she would like to meet Babe Didrikson Zaharias in a match played for war charities.

Miss Jameson has not participated in a national or sectional tournament in two years. Her only competitive appearance was last season when she went to the finals of the San Antonio women's tournament. But she says with a few weeks practice she will be ready to take on the long-driving Babe, who has been playing golf along the winter tournament trail but who returned to Los Angeles last week-end after an appearance at Tucson, Ariz.

Brooklyn Dodgers To Run Fort Worth Club

FORT WORTH, Jan. 25. (AP) — The Fort Worth baseball club has been sold to the Brooklyn club of the National League, it was announced here today by Stanley Thompson, who has been president of the locally owned Fort Worth franchise and park for the last five years.

The transfer was an outright cash deal that gave the National League team 100 percent ownership of both the franchise and all the LaGrave field property which will go to the new owners debt free. The price was not announced, but it is believed to have been about $75,000.

John B. Reeves, who has been secretary-treasurer of the Fort Worth club, has been retained as the official representative and spokesman for Brooklyn. He arranged the sale and will operate the property until a permanent arrangement is made.

Neyland Praised For Burma Job

DALLAS, Jan. 25 (AP)—Brigadier General Robert Neyland, a Texan who as head coach at Tennessee university handled all-American stars, himself has been termed an "All American."

The commanding general, Army Service forces, of the Burma-India theater, singled out General Neyland and three other officers as members of a "great "All-American" team that got the equipment and supplies and built the Ledo-Burma road against almost unbelievable obstacles.

The announcement was made here today by Brigadier General Edwin H. Marks who succeeded General Neyland as division engineer, Southwestern division, U. S. Army engineers, in Dallas.

The other three officers are Brigadier General Joseph Oranston, former Olympic boxing champion, Col. Joe Green, former blocking back for Red Grange at Illinois, and Brigadier General Louis Pick.

General Marks said the construction for which these officers had been commended consisted of 1200 miles of road from Ledo, India to Kunming, China, and that the road was now almost completed.

"Shortly," General Marks said, "a truck convoy will form at Ledo as the first American convoy in two years to carry vital war supplies to American and Chinese troops in China. Hitherto, supplies in much smaller quantities have been flown into China over the hump."

"Frequently," General Marks said, "the operators of this equipment have worked under Japanese artillery fire."

General Neyland is a native of Greenville, Texas, a former student of Texas A&M, and a 1916 West Point graduate. He was an outstanding athlete at West Point, and was head football coach at the University of Tennessee for some 13 years, during which his teams gained national renown.

Blues Shade Whites In Junior High Tilt

Coach Curtis Barrett's Cowboys Blue piled up an early lead, then coasted through the last half to defeat Coach Russell Wimberley's Whites, 17-12, Thursday afternoon at the junior high gym.

The Blues piled up an 11-5 lead in the first half, then played even with the Whites through the last half to coast in with the victory Jackie Davis set the pace for the winners with six points, while Omer Castor was high point man for the Whites with four points.

The Whites tangle with the Shallowater juniors this afternoon at the junior high gym, Coach Wimberley announced. The game will start at 3:45 o'clock. The Shallowater club holds a decision over the Blues, in a game played earlier in the week at Shallowater.

Finance Cagers Trip Up Section C Hanger

Finance Department cagers upset the undefeated Section C Hanger club Thursday night in the Lubbock Army Air field squadron league play, and moved into first place in the standing with a 23-16 victory.

Edward McNelly won the scoring honors of the night in leading the Finance five to victory with an 11 point scoring spree.

Section F nosed out Section A, 14-13, in a defensive duel. Flying Officers romped to a 27-18 win over the Section B five, and Section I came from behind to defeat Section C Line, 30-23.

Meadow, New Home, Ropes Win Openers In Tournament

MEADOW, Jan. 25. (Special).—Ropesville, New Home and two Meadow teams swept into the quarter-finals of the Meadow invitation basketball tournament here tonight with wins on the opening card of the three day basketball show that will last through Saturday night.

In the opening game of the card, Ropesville's fast boys team were paced by Hewlett to a 41 to 20 victory over Union in a game that stamped the winners as one of the powerful teams of the tournament.

Hewlett Top Scorer

Hewlett poured 18 points through the meshes for the best scoring feat of the night, while Williams and Benton paced the losers with six points each.

Ropes will play Tahoka Friday afternoon in the quarter-finals.

New Home nosed out the Wellman boys in the second game of the night, and moved into the quarterfinals, and will play Brownfield Friday afternoon.

New Home gained an 18-15 victory in a defensive battle that found the Timmons brothers pacing the winners with five points each. But scoring honors of the game went to Welcher of Wellman with six points.

The high scoring Meadow boys moved into the quarterfinals with a 39-17 win over Plains, and will tangle with Cooper Friday.

Barnes set the scoring pace for the Meadow five, matching the Plains score singlehanged, while Terry tossed in another 11 points for a comfortable margin as the two stars accounted for 28 points. Plains' Albright stood out for the losers and accounted for 13 of his team's points.

Meadow Girls Win

The Meadow girls club extended its winning record for the year to 17 wins in 18 games by nosing out the Wellman girls, 36-30, in the only girls game on the opening card.

Meadow will move into the girls quarterfinals Friday afternoon with the strong Wilson club, holder of the lone victory over Meadow this season, a one pointer a week ago.

Scoring in the girls game was a four-way show with Pat Walker and Freda Walker of Meadow accounting for 28 points with 16 for the former and 12 for the latter. Wellman's sharpshooting pair of Wade and Lindsey accounted for 27 of the Wellman points with 14 and 13, respectively.

All losers move into the consolation brackets, the Wellman girls into semi-finals and the boys losers in consolation quarter-finals.

Play will be resumed Friday morning at 10 o'clock, with the championship semi-finalists being named at the end of the busy day.

ARMY WINS AGAIN

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 25 (U.P.) Army's perfect record basketball team, retarded by the skillful sliding zone defense of Penn State's Nittany Lions, kept its three-year-old victory string intact today, but the 33 to 28 triumph over Penn State provided it with the best test to date.

Arkansas-Rice Tilt Is Sellout

HOUSTON, Jan. 25 (AP) — The heralded crucial series between the basketball teams of Rice and Arkansas will open Friday night before an expected sellout crowd.

"Experts" opined that the series would decide the Southwest Conference title. Interest in the game is such that Weldon Cabaniess, business manager of the Owls, estimated he could have sold 5,000 tickets.

The Owls, unbeaten in 13 conference tilts since they lost to Arkansas last January, can lose their league leadership only by dropping both games. The Arkansans, who resemble giraffes more than razorbacks, are in third place behind Texas Christian as the result of a stunning 49-40 reverse suffered at the hands of the University of Texas at Austin last week.

Auto Engineers Busy

Plan Future Improvements

ON the theory, no doubt, that it does no harm to be forhanded, the Society of Automotive Engineers is studying a survey of what American motorists want in their postwar cars. The survey, prepared by four newspapers in the East, South and Midwest, presents some interesting findings.

Until the war stopped the production of the new car models, American automobiles had been progressively lower, more streamlined and more plastered with chrome. But according to the SAE survey, the people who have to drive the cars do not always see eye-to-eye with the designers. In fact, if the designing trend is carried much further, it would be hard for a motorist from behind the wheel to see eye-to-eye with anybody.

What the American motorist seems to want in his postwar car is more comfort and more safety, less emphasis on streamlining and chromium trimmings. Particularly the motorist wants much greater vision from the driver's seat. It has been years since the man behind the wheel could see his right front fender—and see, rather than guess, how close he was coming to objects to his right.

The survey shows that many drivers want bumpers of a standard height in order to prevent interlocking. They also want to be able to get at things more easily. For exemple, they want to be able to change a tire without lying down on the ground and engaging in contortions to place the jack properly.

The last are desirable details, but the important thing is that apparently the American motorist has learned that safety in the construction of his car is far more important than its silhouette or its ornamentation.

It can only be hoped that the designers are sufficiently impressed.

Why "There'll Always" Etc.

THE government in England, like ours here, is neck-deep in the job of winning a global war. Yet it is not too busy to consider ridding Scotland of "midges" an undertaking of major importance; of such importance, in fact, that it is being studied by five scientists who know all about "midges," and the extermination program will begin before the war is won.

The trans-Atlantic edition of the London Mail, which gives Americans "boiled down" items of England's top news weekly, thinks the fight on "midges" is important, too. In fast, the "midges extermination" story drew a double column head in the small, 8-page, letter-head size paper.

In case you don't know what a "midge" is, (the Editor didn't until he looked it up) a "midge" is a kind of fly and its greatest crime seems to be that it ruined several Scottish vacation spots.

Nowhere except in England could a blight of "midges" be considered important in times like these. But maybe that illustrates the truth of the saying, "there'll always be an England." Our allies simply refuse to become so excited over anything that they overlook performing small duties!

Establish Real Peace

WEANING the world from war—which should be the No. 1 goal of all civilized people after the United Nations victory in the current conflict—would appear to be a simple matter. Yet history shows us that if and when permanent peace becomes a part of human existence it will mean that life will be entirely different from what it has been throughout all the years of which man has any record.

Since before the days of Jesus Christ, the world has spent more time fighting than it has in peaceful pursuits; in fact, there has been no considerable known period of time in which opposing forces have not been killing each other. Thus world-wide peace, if and when it is achieved, will represent a direct "about-face" in life on this sphere.

It would be the worst sort of defeatism to say that war cannot be wiped out; that men simply cannot live together peacefully.

But the fact remains that if and when they do, they will have to conduct themselves as they have never done before.

Establishment of real and permanent peace is a bigger, more epochal task than it would first appear on the surface.

A married woman keeps herself supplied with two or more handbags so that she will have at least one to leave at home with her money in it when she goes out with her husband.

The Way Our People Lived

A PURITAN VILLAGE IN 1680

III

By W. E. Woodward

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

AFTER Oliver Hillman had departed Captain Walling stood musing for a moment. The young man's desire to keep company with Harriet had not surprised him: he had noticed Oliver's bashful, sheepish expression whenever he was in the girl's presence. The Captain hoped it would turn out well, and he thought it might if young Hillman could ever overcome his bashfulness to the point of asking her to marry him.

Harriet was 17, he reflected, and it was about time to think of marrying. In the Puritan scheme of things there was no place for old maids or bachelors. Waitstill Walling's niece Prudence had never married, and now at the age of 28 she was for all time on the shelf. She had no home of her own, but lived with various relatives, taking care of the children and helping with the housework.

In Sudbury there was one man classified as a bachelor, Enoch Frale, who had reached the age of 30 without marrying. Under the law he had to report to the local magistrate—who was Captain Walling — from time to time to give an account of his doing. Walling permitted him to live as a boarder with Jonathan Bradbury and his family, and the Bradburys had to keep Magistrate Walling informed of his goings and comings and various activities.

On one occasion Walling, with the best of intentions, tried to arrange a match between this foot-loose male and his niece Prudence. His efforts came to nothing. Enoch appeared to be a woman-hater. He said emphatically that he never intended to marry. Prudence merely turned up her nose and sniffed disdainfully when the matter was brought to her attention.

Walling then thought of his pretty and charming daughter. No, he reflected, she will never be an old maid, and I hope Oliver Hillman will be my son-in-law. Then he said, "Tut, tut, no sense in counting sheep so far ahead."

SOMETIMES Walling rode around the farm, but on this clear, sunlit day he decided to walk, so he started out afoot. He was a tall man with broad shoullers and a ruddy complexion. His costume was that of a prosperous colonial of the period — knee breeches and boots which came up to the knees, a waistcoat of scarlet velvet, and a dark-brown coat of fustian with silver buttons. He did not wear a belt or suspenders; his knee breeches were tied to the lining of his waistcoat by points, which were pieces of tape made usually of silk. His shirt was of white linen, to which there was attached a linen collar with "falling bands." The bands took the place of a necktie. On his head he wore a felt hat with a wide brim and a high crown. His scarlet vest, or waistcoat, was very long; it reached nearly to his knees.

Captain Walling crossed the barnyard and the vegetable garden that lay just beyond it. A large and tattered scarescrow stood in the garden, but it was ineffectual in warding off the flock of black-coated birds. In the spring and early summer, until the corn and the vegetables were well-grown, Walling had to keep one of the farm hands as a watcher over the crop. This man was armed with a musket which he fired into the air now and then.

Plowing and corn planting were going on and Captain Walling, as he looked across the fields, could see several plow gangs at work. Colonial farming was crude, inefficient and slovenly. The farmers of that day knew nothing of crop rotation, and their tendency was to work the soil to exhaustion. They threw away their stable manure instead of using it to enrich the soil. They let their hogs run wild in the woods on the theory that a diligent pig could pick up enough acrons, or one thing or another, to sustain himself. The pigs did keep alive, but when they were rounded up for slaughter there was seldom enough pork on oneof them to furnish more than three or four meals for a farmer's hearty family.

The colonial plow was a primitive, awkward implement, crude in design and ill-adapted to the work at hand.

The agricultural methods of the 17th century werealmost precisely the same as those of the seventh century. For 1000 years—or, better say, 2000 years—there had been no improvement of any importance in the cultivation of the soil. The modern plow, the use of fertilizer, the reaper, the mechanical thresher, the cotton gin—all these originated in the 19th century.

Corn was the chief food crop for many years in the New England colonies. Indigenous to America, corn was unknown in Europe. The Indians taught the settlers how to plant it, harvest it, and turn it into food.

It is an interesting and curious fact that the North American continent lacked so many fruits and vegetables that are now grown in profusion. Corn was American, but wheat and oats were unknown until brought by settlers from Europe. Grapes grew wild and in great profusion, but there were no apples or peaches or pears until the seed was brought across the ocean and planted on American soil. Apples were not eaten, however, in large quantities; most of the crop was used to make cider, which was an immensely popular beverage in the 17th and 18th centuries. Persimmons, cherries and strawberries were well known to the Indians.

Unloaded Shotgun Sends Man To Jail

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 25. (AP)—Police cars sirened to a service station which an armed man was reported to have entered. Officers swarmed over the suspect, wrested a shotgun from him and hustled him to jail.

Next morning the man finally managed to convince them he merely was leaving the unloaded shotgun as security for gasoline while he went home for forgotten ration coupons.

Public Hearing Dates In Legislature Set

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Senate committees, swinging into action, set dates for public hearings on several measures.

Dates for hearings were set as follows:

Insurance and banking committee:

By Vick, covering life insurance investments in foreign countries, Jan. 31.

By Chadwick, providing insurance protection for occupational diseases, Feb. 7.

By Stanford, placing war clause in life insurance policy, referred to sub-committee.

Highway and motor traffic committee:

By Moffett, authorizing highway department to employ aeronautical engineer, Feb. 6.

By Martin, permitting hauling by trucks of bulk cement in excess of 38,000 pounds by trucks, Feb. 6.

By Bullock, permitting cities to retain 40 per cent of motor registration fees for street improvements, Feb. 13.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

"ANY suggestion that the race track mob will enlist its energies in the war effort is laughed off."

That is a paragraph in a column on Travel and Resorts in which the writer speaks of the effect of the horse racing ban on Florida.

In my opinion such a statement is very narrow-minded.

No one should condemn a whole group just because that particular group happens to be engaged in a business of which he does not approve.

BRANDEIS

I am not going to give you my idea about horse-racing.

All I know is that when I was a youngster I used to bet on the races and I found out pretty early in life that it is a game you cannot beat.

And yet, aren't there others in the horse racing business besides bookmakers

Aren't there the breeders and the grooms and the jockeys and the many others whose functions in the business are perfectly legitimate?

I agree that horse-racing is non-essential during a war. I agree that many of the men in it should be at the front or in war industry and that the space taken up by them and the hangers-on on trains and in hotels should be used for more urgent needs.

But why say the "horse-racing mob" won't do anything for the war effort?

When you come right down to it, what do many of us do for the war effort?

I believe that a man can be a patriot no matter in what business he is engaged.

I have said it before and I say it again—the great majority of us don't select our vocation but drift into it.

So many people seem to think that certain jobs are easy.

I think every one of them has its worries, its work, its heart aches. Would you like to be a gambler, never knowing how you will be fixed tomorrow? Would you like to be a night club proprietor always on the alert for a brawl or for a run-in with the police?

Do you think the buglar has an easy job, or the hold-up man? Would you like to be in his shoes?

WE all know what WE THINK is right or wrong. But what right have we to judge everyone else by our own standards?

For Pete's sake, don't think I am advising you to let your boy be a burglar or a racetrack tout or a night club proprietor.

But I do say that each human being is responsible for his own errors and his own shortcomings.

You have a right to be your brother's keeper when he is in need, but you have no right to be his judge. There is a greater power than yours who will attend to that.

Of all the letters I get none made me so mad as the one I received from a woman the other day who wrote:

"I do not believe in condemning people but in teaching them." And then she used up three pages to tell me what is wrong with me.

I do not believe in condemning people nor in teaching them.

All I want is to understand them.

How Labor Is Wasted

Unions, Management At Fault

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WAR MOBILIZER James F. Byrnes might solve the nation's manpower problem without drafting farm or factory workers if he could find a way to abolish unions' restrictions on members' per diem production and curb management's insistence on extracting the last dime of profiit from the workers. With their eyes on the post-war period when supply may exceed demand, the two groups are dueling to the detriment of the national war effort.

The vast industrial establishment built since the outbreak of the European war in 1939 could produce 25 per cent more weapons but for these artificial interferences, and without adding another man or piece of machinery.

Army-Navy investigators have filed voluminous reports on this situation, but they dare not reveal the facts for fear of disciplinary action. They are not supposed to discuss questions involving economics or politics, even though they affect our fighting men overseas and the training of those now in domestiic camps.

TUCKER

The most convincing proof that labor slowdowns and management penny-pinching damage the war task is found in letters from the employes themselves.

Members of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations have flooded their congressmen's offices, the Army, Navy and the War Production board with complaints about working conditions. They hint at practices which might be characterized as "sabotage" in these graves times.

The men who make these indictments, as well as the vast majority of their associates, want to do a good job. They have sons in Europe and the Orient whom they wish to back up at their machines. They are not shirkers, as their communications reveal. But they cannot do the work of which they are capable without jeopardizing their union standing, perhaps their livelihood, and lowering their income.

MAD: Here, in condensed form, are excerpts from a letter which describes conditions prevalent in many key industries, and thousands of similar communications reach the capital every day. Although this one is typical, it is selected because of its simplicity, its understanding and its lack of a holier-than-thou spirit:

"I am a piece worker at the ——— factory in ———. I worked up to a job on the best lathe here. I am a hustler and I tried to find quicker and easier ways to turn out a piece of work without endangering myself or damaging the machine. I became the highest paid man on all three shifts.

"I kept on cutting corners and making more stuff. Then men came to me, not at union meetings but at my machine, and warned me that I would hurt the piece rate if I didn't slow down. There is a union law that an old rate cannt be cut after it has been fixed for a certain piece of work.

"But I soon found that the companies get around that provision. They simply change some little thing in the operation and rerate the wage per piece downward, of course. Then the unions get mad at the fast operator whose extra production brought about the rerating.

"Here is a good example of what I mean. The rate on turning out a certain kind of shaft was 17 cents each. When I started, 50 to 60 made a good night's work. I got so that I could rig 100 in eight hours. But it would have been worth my life or my job to have turned out that many.

"The union men told me that I must fool around, take it easy and not hurt the rate by working too hard. Or else I was supposed to throw away or destroy my extra production so the foremen wouldn't know about it.

"But don't blame the slowdown all on the unions. The time-study men are walking around every minute, checking production and changing rate schedules so a man can't make what he is worth. The rate should be an incentive to make a man work at his full capacity, not below it. Both sides are to blame, and I ought to know after five years at the game."

JAPS: The Australians' specially trained bush-whacking force has received few headlines at home or abroad, but it is performing one of the most dangerous and difficult tasks in military annals. It is engaged on mopping-up operations that cover vast expanses of the Pacific Ocean.

When General Duoglas MacArthur abandoned island-hopping tactics for wide flanking sweeps and by-passings, he left several hundred thousand Jap soldiers marooned on the larger units of the archipelago to his rear. They fled to the interior and thousands are still there. They have built huts, planted rice paddies, vegetable gardens. Fish is the bulk of their food. It is reported that they have taken native women as mates, and are settling down for a more or less permanent stay.

The fact is that they are establishing minute Japanese colonies in this key area. For a vanquished homeland they would always be islands of strength in future years, unless cleaned out. As Americans who have fought with them overseas know, the hard-boiled and ruthless "Aussies" are especially equipped to do this job.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE Russian advance means that more American weapons and men must be rushed overseas.

There can be no lull on the western front; despite the weather, the campaign must be stepped up. For the secret of the pincers strategy is that pressure must be intensified at each prong to prevent the enemy from shifting troops.

LEMAN

Yet, according to Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of U. S. Army Engineers, "For the first time there is a real threat that American production may fail our fighting forces."

Perhaps the Army-Navy demands for work-or-fight laws to fill manpower gaps would not have jolted the public and politicians to such a degree had the administration told the whole truth during the presidential contest about our difficulties. It was not until last week that FDR called upon General Marshall and Admiral King to reveal that we have a major ship-repair problem on our hands, too.

REPAIRS: Japanese fliers, in groups of 10 or so, scatter over the target, making it difficult for our gunners to draw bead on all of them at once. In spite of our curtain of anticraft fire, a pilot often succeeds in damaging one of our ships.

Our repair craft, floating dry docks and base machine shops in the Pacific are doing a fine job. But the cyclone season and enemy action have taken their toll.

Lack of harbor breakwaters makes many ships drag anchor. The ocean is dotted with coral reefs —small specks on the chart—which are menaces to navigation in a storm. A sudden shift in the weather can wreak havoc on shipping. Old mariners still talk about the hurricane that sank several American and German men-of-war in the Samoan disaster of 1889.

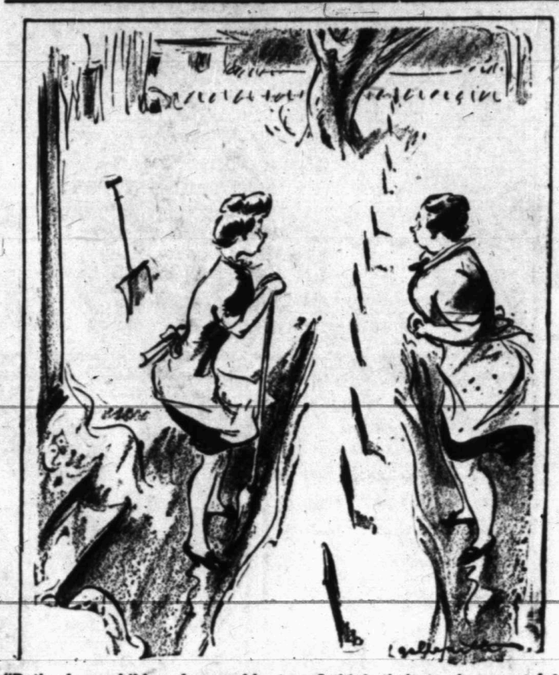

If we could ever catch up with our work, we'd try to invent a way to make a living without working.

"I am being led by my conscience," declares a Congressman. It is no wonder he isn't getting anywhere.

We can't understand how even an optimist can contend these days that the world is in pretty good shape for the fix it's in.

"Zoot Suit a Casualty of War."—Headline. The war isn't 100 per cent bad.

Here And There In Texas

Caverns Discoverer To Retire

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

A TEXAN who gave New Mexico its greatest wonder — the Carlsbad Caverns—wants to come back home to Mason county.

He is Jim White, a tall, thin, former cowboy who says he is the world's worst salesman.

"It took me 20 years to persuade anybody outside of a Mexican boy to go through that cave,' he explains. "Now, in a good year, more than 200,000 people see it."

"I'm getting old and my health isn't so good, but I think just one more look at Mason county would put me back in good shape again," he says.

People Just Grinned

Jim White's story is a strange tale of one man's two-decade struggle against public indifference. Here was a man who had found a wonder of the world—an attraction so far beyond description that he received only good natured smiles when he attempted to describe it.

"People just grinned when Jim would come around talking about his cave," Ted H. Pate, Carlsbad, N. M., soft-drink bottler, recalls. "After the turn of the century he did get a few people to go down into the front part of it. I remember that my mother was among those."

JIM lowered in a big bucket to a point near the cave entrance. But no one would go deeper into the caverns where nature had really put on her show and Jim just couldn't convince people that there was something there to see. He is living proof that the world doesn't beat its way to the home of a man with a mousetrap. He had the world's best mousetrap and nobody gave a darn."

Jim was born in 1882 in Mason county and began riding the range when he was 10 years old. He was only 10, in fact, when he moved to Southeastern New Mexico and got a job on the X-X-X ranch, three miles from the cave opening. He was 18 when he happened to see a tremendous flight of bats from the cavern.

"Like other ranchmen I knew of the cave opening," he says, "but like them I had felt no urge to see what was hidden in the darkness of that great hole. Then I saw this funnel shaped cloud of bats. At first I thought it was a volcano. Then I got closer and watched those millions of bats coming out of the cave and I realized then that it must be a whale of a big cave."

Recognized World Wonder

Two days later Jim began his explorations alone. Carrying a lantern, he lowered himself into the opening.

"The darkness ahead of me," he remembers, "seemed solid. I started walking and with each step the tunnel grew larger. I felt like I was wandering into the very core of the Guadalupe mountains. Then I found myself in a wilderness of mighty stalagmites. This was the first cave I had ever been in, but I knew there wasn't anything else like it, anywhere."

JIM forgot time and walked for hours. Suddenly he began to fear he was lost. He had broken off Stalactites as he had gone along with the smaller ends pointing the way to the entrance but now he was afraid he would be unable to find them.

He had crept across ledges and past tremendous openings but despite these dangers he lost his head and began to run.

Says he: "I charged like a crazy bull and ran my head into a mass of stalactites. That cooled me off and I found my way out."

Five days later he persuaded a Mexican boy to help him explore the caverns. Together they walked miles into the black depths and stayed for three days.

Nearly Lost Life

On the afternoon of the third day, White, carrying a gallon can of oil, was making his way across a precarious ledge. The kid was following. The can had been leaking and White's clothing was saturated. The kid's torch came too close.

"I found myself hanging onto a narrow shelf of stone, my clothing ablaze and a gallon can of oil on my back," Jim says. "If I hung there on the ledge I knew I'd burn to death and if I let go I knew I'd be killed on the rocks far below. If I threw away the can it would leave us without oil and we had not enough in our torches to light our way out. We were three miles from the entrance at the time.

"Well, I went scooting across that ledge like a cat after a bird. When I reached a level spot I threw down the can and slapped my sombrero over it. The kid threw his coat over my shoulders. We soon had the fire out and that saved the hide of my back."

DURING the next 20 years, White explored the caverns to depths greater than any other man has since penetrated. The level which visitors see goes to 750 feet. There is another vast subterranean apartment at 900 feet and still another at 1,320 feet. Jim says he has gotten down to 1,500 feet.

When he wasn't exploring, White built trails and tried to tell people what he had found.

"I talked bats and cave until word went around that Jim White's cave was in his head—and so were the bats."

Jim took his first party through the cavern in 1922 and after that his shack at the cave intrance didn't lack for visitors. In 1928 the government declared the caverns a national monument and later the national park service took them over. Jim was given a job as chief ranger. He retired on a pension in 1929.

"My work here is through," he says. "Now I'd like to go home to Mason county."

MARKET REVERSES COURSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP) — The stock market reversed its course today and, for the first time since Jan. 17, negotiated an average advance although on one of the smallest 5-hour turnovers of the past two months.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .4 of a point at 58.2. Of 886 issues registering, 567 were in the plus column. Transfers of 973,890 shares compared with 1,012,460 Wednesday and were the lowest for a full stretch since Dec. 21.

In front were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, International Telephone, Radio Corp., Curtis Publishing, Real Silk Hosiery, Certain-Teed, Sears Roebuck, Studebaker, Continental Motors, Anaconda, Standard Oil (NJ), Du Pont, General Electric, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, American Telephone, and National Power and Light.

Bonds tilted higher.

Among curb gainers were Cities Service, Solar Aircraft, Diana Stores and Equity Corp. Sales were 369,730 versus 353,815 yesterday.

Cotton..

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—The cotton futures market marked time today pending further developments in the war situation. Prices backed away from earlier highs of the day on light hedging and nervous liquidation. Spot cotton markets were quiet.

Mill buying and local covering in the final hour lifted values to the best levels of the day.

Futures closed 40 to 95 cents a bale higher.

Grain..

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (AP) — Profit taking and hedging erased early gains made by grain futures markets today but the setback was not severe and most prices were within minor fractions of yesterday's finish.

Pressure was centered on the May contracts while the off options at times made minor gains that were attributed to short covering. Favorable war news accounted for some of the selling.

At the finish wheat was ⅛ lower to 1 higher than yesterday's close, May $1.60-1.59 ⅞. Corn was up ¼ to ½, May $1.11 ⅝. Oats were unchanged to 1 ¼ higher, May 65 ⅞-66. Rye was up ⅞ to 1 ¾, May $1.11 ⅝-¾. Barley was unchanged to ⅛ higher, May $1.09 ½.

Zoning Suggested

existing buildings back from five to 20 feet if the street should be widened to a width of 70 feet, which present plans of the city commission, if carried out, call for. This would mean, he said, that the actual paving would be 50 feet wide, allowing 10 feet between the curb and property line on each side of the street.

As to the question of who would pay for moving of buildings and sidewalks, no definite answer could be given, but it was the opinion of Mayor Ribble and city commissioners that if property owners would give the hight-of-way the city would stand the expense of moving buildings and sidewalks.

Yank Pulls Slippery Trick; Downs Planes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. (UP)—The story of an American pilot and a Japanese airman on separate occasions pretending they were members of an enemy flight and how the American passed the test but the Jap failed was related today by the Navy.

Lt. Thomas J. Rennemo of Whitewater, Wis., ran into six enemy Army fighters off Formosa recently and shot down two Jap planes after wiggling his wings and making the other fliers believe he was one of them.

In another instance, a Jap Judy approached a formation of American Hellcats and rocked his wings, but the Americans were not fooled. Lt. Jimmie E. Savage of Howe, Tex., sent the Jap plane down in flames.

Rocket-Vomiting Ship Jap Terror

SOMEWHERE IN THE MARIANAS, Jan. 13 (Delayed) (AP) — Black and stealthy and possessed of the power to vomit fiery death, the PBJ within two months has become the night terror of Japanese shipping north of the Marianas.

The PBJ is like no other plane in the world. It is flown by a Marine unit.

To the Marine fliers at this base was assigned the experiment of the low-altitude rocket-firing PBJ. At the end of their first two months of operation, the unit's skipper, Lt. Col. Jack R. Cram of Seattle—a hero of Guadalcanal—says the planes have proved their worth in the sinking or damaging of at least 12 Japanese ships.

The PBJ is a B-25—Mitchell medium bomber — painted black for its night duty and armed under each wing.

A bombardier-navigator controls the plane on its run. In addition to the pilot and co-pilot, the crew includes a photographer —for pictures of the rocket damage are an important part of the work.

Capt. Jack C. McDermott of Fort Worth, Tex., former Lufkin and Nacogdoches, Tex., newspaper publisher, and a headquarters officer for the unit, says the missions to date have been chiefly against Japanese merchant ships sneaking down from Japan into the Bonin and Volcano islands at night.

Special Election

walking distance of a large section of the city.

Would Not Limit Usage

Both the commission and the delegation took cognizance of the probability that the lots fronting on Avenue Q might not have a place in the scheme for the suggested enterprise. However, the commissioners were informed that the school board admittedly prefers to dispose of the property in one transaction. It was suggested that the city might sell the Avenue Q lots if no use were foreseen for them.

The school grounds run for 345 feet west on Thirteenth and 422 feet north and south.

Although vigorously endorsing the idea of a civic center, the delegation made it plain to the commissioners that, in the event of purchase, the city "could use the property as it deems fit."

The resolution was phrased to provide that the city, if given the option, could exercise it until the commission looked into all phases of the proposal.

Kiwanis Keynotes Action

Hub Jones made the motion for the resolution and it was seconded by Fred Childress. It was unanimously approved.

The school district, it is understood, would desire to reserve use of the property "for the duration," or until it could go ahead with its announced expansion program.

The development came a few hours after Clark M. Mullican, former judge of the 99th district court, put a coliseum first on the list of needed improvements for Lubbock in a talk at a meeting of the Kiwanis club in Lubbock hotel.

Kiwanis club officials moved swiftly to engineer a city bid for the property to take the initiative from several private concerns which, it is reported, have put out "feelers" for the site.

The commission passed on final reading an ordinance calling for the payment of a two per cent gross receipts tax by the City bus company.

Other Business Considered

The body referred to the consideration of City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., and Arch L. King, city engineer, a request by Bryan Walker to extend the city limits to include the Phillips addition southwest of the city.

Discussion of a proposed ordinance regulating the storage, transportation and other handling of gasoline and liquefied petroleum gases was postponed until the next meeting, which probably will be in the form of a called session next week.

The commission decided that the war effort could not be benefitted by local compliance with a War Production board order asking a "brown-out" for the purpose of conserving coal and other sources of power; and moved to apply to the WPB for an exemption for the city.

Present at the regular meeting were Mayor Overton Ribble, Smith, Commissioners Jones, Childress, J. Ray Dickey, and W. D. Wilson, substituting in the absence of City Attorney Durwood Bradley, and City Secretary Lavenia Williams.

Judge Says Cheyenne Men Are Better Shots

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 25. (AP)—A woman seeking a divorce told superior Judge Louis A. Bunge that her husband whom she married in Cheyenne, Wyo., threw kitchen utensils at her and once shot at her but missed.

"Your husband from Cheyenne?" asked the judge.

"No, he came from Kansas."

"Ah, that explains it," said the judge. Those from Cheyenne are usually better shots."

Wallace On Stand

was established in 1913.

Wallace spent a large part of the morning on prepared testimony, but some questions were interjected by committeemen in that session, and he was examined even more closely after a brief luncheon recess.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) recalled President Roosevelt's letter dismissing Jones and frankly conceding the Wallace appointment was a reward for political services. He wondered aloud if Wallace would make loans to "deserving Democrats."

Wallace said he could "assure" Brewster that he would not operate on such a basis, declaring he would function as he did when he was secretary of agriculture. Then not even James A. Farley, former Democratic national chairman, "ever forced me" to accept a political appointee who did not possess the merit for the job, Wallace said.

Wallace asserted that he wouldn't want to take over the RFC until there has been an audit "to discover" its exact financial status.

Short Criticism Implied

As to specific changes he might make in RFC policy, Wallace said that question from Senator McClellan (D-Ark) was one that President Roosevelt would described as "very iffy."

The questioning session ended at 4:15 p. m. and the committee immediately went into executive session.

Wallace implied sharp criticism of Jones when he said the "real issue" of the controversy over his nomination is whether the powers of the RFC and its subsidiaries "are to be used only to help big business or whether these powers are also to be used to help little business and to carry out the President's commitment of 60,000,000 jobs."

While Wallace was testifying, Jones disclosed that he has dropped his duties and asked Undersecretary Wayne Chatfield Taylor to carry on. At the same time the CIO urged all its members to bombard their Senators with demands that Wallace be confirmed. President Philip Murray said opposition to Wallace stems from "poll tax Democrats in combination with reactionary Republicans."

GOP To Give Support

Senator Aiken (R-Vt) forecast, however, that at least 10 Republican senators will vote for Wallace's confirmation. Earlier in the day, Senator Ball (R-Minn) announced his support of the nomination.

Wallace said he was willing to serve as secretary of commerce whether the lending agencies are retained in that department or removed form it. However if the legislation to separate them is approved, Wallace said he would hold the cabinet job only until the war ends.

Help From West

man trans-Rhine pincer attack threatens it closely from north and south.

To meet that threat the Seventh army has been pulled back to shortened and more easily defended positions out of the tip of the former Karlsruhe corner. There is no indication that it has been reinforced in any considerable strength by American troops released from the Belgian bulge theater.

Signs Are Present

That is a significant circumstance. It implies that General Eisenhower was marshalling his forces elsewhere for major offensive operation seven before the Russian steam-roller started across Poland. He was prepared to give ground at need in the Rhine-Saar salient rather than be diverted from his offensive purposes somewhere else, presumably in the north where British elimination of the enemy from the Roer-Maas triangle was paving the way for greater events.

If that was true even before the Russian attack in Poland, it is doubly important now that Eisenhower's armies strike without delay to exploit deepening Nazi disasters in the east. Weather conditions in the west impede troop movements over snow clogged roads, but do not forbid mass transfers. The chance to put an end to organized resistance in Germany and reduce the heavy casualties pitched battle involves is too certain to doubt that Eisenhower's orders and the directives flowing to that front from the Anglo-American joint chiefs of staff committee in Washington are centered on putting the final breaking strain on Germany and doing it now, not at some future time.

coast of Luzon.

Other Yank fliers from Philippine fields continued their nightly attacks on the Japanese naval base at Takao on the southwest coast of Formosa, setting off fires and explosions.

MacArthur's communique made no mention of additional American land and sea operations in the Philippines, as reported by Tokyo radio in the following unsupported claims:

1. United States troops made new landings on Luzon island north of the Lingayen gulf beachhead established Jan. 9 for the Manila drive.

Claims Unsupported

2. Other thousands of Yanks came ashore on the northeast coast of Mindoro island, off the south coast of Luzon, and were advancing on the town of Calapan. (The Americans already have possession of the town of Paluan on the northwest coast of Mindoro, and also of Marinduque island east of Mindoro, and likewise near the South Luzon coast.)

3. Japanese planes caught a U. S. convoy in Mindanao sea in the central Philippines, inflicting heavy damage.

4. More than 120 British carrier planes attacked the Palembang petroleum center on Sumatra Wednesday, and the imperial communique said 78 of the raiders were shot down, with only 14 Japanese planes lost.

which make it the "Ruhr of the east."

Hindenburg and Beuthen, big German industrial cities, and Katowice, Chrozow, Sosnowice and Dabrowa, not only were menaced frontally but were hopelessly outflanked from the rear by the Russians pouring across the Oder.

Breslau Is Shelled

In another order of the day Stalin announced capture of Oels, a nine-way road hub 14 miles northeast of besieged Breslau, and also Ostrow, German fortress in Poland 35 miles northeast of Oels.

The crossing of the Oder at Steinau, 31 miles northwest of Breslau, put the Russians within 118 miles northeast of Dresden and 125 miles northeast of Prague, Czechoslovak capital which Moscow radio said was under a German "state of siege" and the scene of rioting because of the Red army's sensational advances.

The Nazi high command told of other Soviet crossings farther upstream between Cosel and Brieg on a 55-mile front south of Breslau.

Moscow dispatches said Soviet artillery already was shelling Breslau, greatest German homeland prize yet within reach of any Allied army. Breslau, a great manufacturing center and transit center, is the Reich's ninth city.

Turn Guns On Ice

One target of the Soviet shelling was Lessing bridge, which spans the Oder in the southern part of Breslau, and front dispatches said that when German Home army troops failed to halt the Russian surge to the eastern banks of the river Nazi artillerymen began hurling shells into the river in an effort to break up the ice which gave the Red army units footing.

Berlin reprted fierce fighting at Cosel, 23 miles west of captured Gleiwitz, just north of the Moravian gap which leads into Czechoslovakian Silesia — part of the German-operated arsenal so vital to the Reich's survival.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said that Soviet spearheads were a little more than "200 kilometers" (124 miles) from Berlin, but did not give the area. Presumably the dispatch referred to the Steinau area, 20 miles west of Trachenberg, taken Wednesday by the Russians.

German Defense Stiffening

Other Soviet forces were battling at the gates of Poznan, 137 miles due east of Berlin on the highway from Warsaw. These units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army have been engaged in a three-day battle with heavy German tank reinforcements thrown in around that big fortress city in western Poland.

Although it was obvious that German resistance was stiffening in this area and farther north at the entrance to the Polish corridor, a Moscow dispatch said Zhukov's army packed enough power to cause a partial evacuation of Berlin and hurry the end of the war.

Moscow radio spoke of the "beginning of the end" for Germany, and "Berlin before spring," and the Germans said Zhukov and other Soviet commanders on a front between the Baltic and the Carpathians still were bringing up reserves and hurling them directly into battle in an effort to break through to Berlin's eastern approaches before the German high command can deploy "new German shock troops."

Berlin said the combined forces of the Third and Second White Russian armies under Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky and Marshal K. K. Rokossovsky which are steadily overrunning East Prussia totalled more than 2,325,000 men, including 155 infantry divisions and eight tank corps. Three days ago Berlin had placed the Russian strength on this front at only 1,000,000 men.

Hearing On Oil Line Slated For Jan. 29

AUSTIN, Jan. 25. (AP)—Members of the Texas Railroad commission will sit as a joint board with the Federal Power commission in Washington Jan. 29 to hear the application of the Reynosa Pipeline Co., to export gas from Texas to Mexico, Olin Culberson, chairman said.

The Reynosa company has filed an application to construct a pipeline from the La Blanca field to Monterrey, Mexico, for the delivery of a maximum of 60,000,000 cubic feet daily.

The Tennessee Gas and Transmission company has withdrawn its application to construct feeder lines in Texas the commission was advised by the FPC today.

Navy Training Shows Up In Young Seaman

DAVIS, Okla., Jan. 25. (AP) — Navy training is strong in Seaman Ray Chambless, who came through Pearl Harbor unscathed.

Mighty Russian Drive Is Chief Subject On The Western Front

ST. VITH, Belgium, Jan. 25. (AP)—The battle of Belgium is over and the Germans are trying to fend off the Allied forces on the western front with one hand while trying to cope with the new Russian offensive with their other hand.

At least two German divisions recently on this front have been rushed eastward to try and stem the Russians.

The No. 1 subject of interest among GI's even in this communications heart of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's western front drive is "how far did the Russians make today?" What is going on along the western front is secondary.

GI's and officers alike on this front, out of contact as they are with radios and the newspaper Stars and Stripes, interview correspondents about the latest word from the eastern front instead of the correspondents interviewing them about what is happening here.

For the moment the big battles on the western front are over.

Even the capture of St. Vith was an anti-climax to the men who took it. The Germans were fighting only rear guard actions with a second rate conglomeration of troops. The bulk of their forces have disappeared into the Eifel hills, under air attack, to appear again only von Rundstedt knows where.

Even the fighting in Alsace is a minor battle in comparison. Many American officers here are of the opinion von Rundstedt is simply committing divisions in the Alsatian sector to keep them from being transferred to the eastern front and leave him completely stripped.

All other statements from sources far removed from the fighting to the contrary, the Germans are not being forced to defend their long western wall with all they have. Von Rundstedt is fending off the Americans with his rearguard only and aggressive action is on a small scale.

Tech Registration Now Totals 1,603

A total of 1,603 students, 453 men and 1,152 women, have registered for the spring semester at Texas Tech which is to begin at 8 a. m. today, W. P. Clement, registrar, said.

Students will be permitted to register through Feb. 2, but a late registration fee will be charged after Jan. 29. Clement said a number of students had not completed registration late Thursday afternoon, and several are expected to enroll Monday.

"The decrease in enrollment is not so great as we expected," Clement commented. With-drawals have to a great extent been offset by a large number of mid-term high school graduates enrolling as freshmen.

A decrease of 242 students was recorded in last spring's enrollment figures, making a total of 1,454 students as compared to the fall semester enrollment of 1,696. There were 308 more women students than men in the first semester and 412 more women the second semester.
