Hereford Man Victim

A shattering head-on collision about 3:20 p.m. Wednesday on Farm-to-Market 1072 west of Olton claimed the life of Robert James Matchett, 45, of Hereford.

Injured in the accident were Kenneth Parish, 45, and James "Sandy" Sanderson, 44, both of Springlake.

Both were taken by Parsons Funeral Home ambulance to Medical Arts Hospital in Littlefield and transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock.

Sanderson was treated and released. Parish, listed Thursday in "serious" condition, underwent surgery on his left hand and left leg. He also received severe facial lacerations.

Highway Patrolmen Santiago Robles and Harry Keyes of Littlefield and Deputy V.L. Smith Jr. investigated the accident.

According to a statement received from Sanderson, Matchett veered his 1972 Gremlin into the path of Parish's southbound vehicle to avoid a spray rig boom which had juttied onto the east lane of the road during the execution of a turn.

Matchett, who was traveling alone, was killed instantly.

The accident occurred 3.5 miles south of U.S. Highway 70.

OHS Students Travel To South America

Joining the international-minded younger generation of the city are Miss Linda Miller and Miss Eloyce Castillo who left Tuesday for South America.

Members of Lions International Youth Exchange program, the young ladies will spend six weeks as guests in Brazilian homes as representatives of the local Lions Club, Olton Community, The State of Texas and the United States of America, according to Leon Noack, chairman of exchange program.

Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Miller, will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Valera, in Para Nava, Brazil, a city of about 5000 near the new capital city of Brasilia. The host family includes seven children. Of the three girls, one is eighteen years of age.

Miss Miller's host is president of a Brazilian Export Company.

Miss Castillo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Castillo, is enroute to Goiania, Goias, where her hostess "mother" will be Antonieta Marri de Oliveira. There are five children in the family and the father is employed at the "National Bank."

Both girls have received letters of welcome from the President of Brazil Lions Clubs, who informs them that Portuguese is the spoken language. Since both girls are able to speak Spanish, they hope communication will be relatively simple.

Families of the young ladies were on hand Tuesday at Lubbock Airport to see the girls off for Dallas. There they were to board a charter flight for Rio de Janeiro. Arrival time was given as 4 p.m. Wednesday.

News Needed Early

Because of a holiday next Thursday, news items for the next issue of The Enterprise should be turned in by Wednesday if possible. The news office and studio will be closed July 4.

New Ownership Is Announced

The Hallmark Nook, located in the Mini Mall, announces a change in ownership.

Triple owners, Mrs. Garland DePrang, Mrs. Harold Mills and Mrs. W.G. Green, will continue to handle a full line of Hallmark cards, party accessories, invitations, notes and stationary.

Gift books are to be found in the Nook also. Selections may be made in the same quiet elegance established by the original owner, Mrs. George Redinger, according to the management.

Additional shoe displays have been added in the space vacated by The Garden Tea Room.

America Is Best Place

"Americans, forget Watergate! is what I would like to say to everyone," says Jaffar Zakka who just last week arrived back in Olton from an extended visit in London and his native land, Lebanon.

An "adopted American" who received his citizenship in 1972, Zakka and his wife, Hanne, lacked just one day being gone two months. Their first night away from home, April 15, and the last two before returning were spent in New York City with their son, Ramze, and in shopping for their department store.

"Everywhere people wanted to know 'What's this with Watergate?' he says. He recalls one Arabic man exclaiming "Americans elect this man president two times and then they try to cut him down."

"Watergate is putting America's name down! I wish Americans would leave Watergate alone! he says with vehemence. "America is still the best place in the world to live. And," he adds, "it is the cheapest place to live too! Clothes, living conditions - every thing. America is the cheapest."

Born in Haifa, Zakka says the Arabic people love Americans and do not share the scorn some countries have of the American tourist.

"They like the money Americans spend but they like the Americans too! Somehow-I don't know how- but some way they knew we were Americans too."

Two months weren't long enough for the two to pack in all the visiting and sight-seeing they would have liked. Visiting hosts of kin and friends, they remember the too-short, cram-filled days as a whirl of partying, eating and looking.

Memories of the trip will be re-lived time again through the many pictures shot by Zakka, a camera bug, and the numerous reels of movie films which run at least two hours.

An overnight flight from New York City to London launched the whirlwind trip. In London for 12 days, they were guests in the home of a nephew and attended the wedding of yet another nephew.

During their stay in London they re-visited the famed tourist attractions including Buckingham Palace and the Changing of the Guard, Windsor Castle, Tower of London, Piccadilly Circus and many more.

They especially enjoyed seeing again Madame Tousseaud's Wax Museum. A new Grand Hall and "Heroes" exhibition have been added to the famed museum which was begun more than 200 years ago. Among the heroes are US astronauts and Mohammed Ali.

Packing the hours with activities, Hanne says they never got to bed before 3 or perhaps 4 a.m.

From London to Beirut, the Zakkas arrived to a welcoming party at the airport of some 60 relatives and friends. Again staying in the home of a nephew, they "headquartered" there 18 days with trips to nearby sites for visiting and sight-seeing.

Side trips were made to Tripoli, Jeita and Halles. It was during their stay in Beirut, too, that Hanne's vacation was interrupted by a four-day stay in the hospital.

"It was from eating all the time," she laughs. The travelers were treated to "parties and dinners and eating all the time." Jaffar adds, "except for me, I couldn't eat for taking pictures."

One particular day in Jordan, they were scheduled for five dinners and made three of them. Typical dinners begin with "arac."

Wash Would Reach Around World

If the clothes washed by Ruby and Ollie Smith at Easy Way Laundry were hung on a line, they'd "probably reach around the world." That's the opinion expressed by Ollie as he recalls the many loads of dirty clothes that have been made clean since they purchased the business March 13, 1950.

The Smiths had a one-year respite from the laundry in 1964 when they sold their equipment and rented the building. Ollie began working at the U.S. Post Office and, when their "renter's decided to leave Olton, they bought the equipment back and Ruby has operated it since that time.

A centrifugal extractor, still used by the Smiths, is the only piece of equipment the Smiths have from their 1950 purchase. It has been repaired numbers of times but still does an efficient job of removing every possible bit of water from clothes before they are placed in the dryer.

Equipped with wringer type machines when they purchased the laundry, they also had the only dryer in town. The extra large dryer was kept in almost constant use and Ruby recalls one spell of bad weather when customers brought their wet clothes from home and from the town's other laundry. Baskets of wet clothes were lined from the front of the laundry to the back and the laundry kept open all night in order to get all the clothes dried.

One other occasion the laundry was kept open all through the night. When Olton was struck by a tornado in May 1957, Ollie and Ruby opened the laundry for those who had been able to salvage clothes, linens and such from their storm damaged homes. No charge was made for the use of the washers and the soap barrel was open to all. The Smiths stayed to lend helping hands and Ruby recalls the Church of Christ minister bringing hot coffee to the people during the night.

During their early days in the laundry business, the charge for drying clothes was four cents per pound and they folded the clothes when they were dry. Ruby laughs when she remembers a complaint by Ollie while folding diapers.

"You can fold forever and they still don't weigh anything," he objected.

Sixty-five cents per hour was the charge for washing when Ollie and Ruby bought the laundry. According to the increase of other items through the years, the one dollar per hour charged now is still relatively small.

Ruby and Ollie had no

A LOT OF WATER DOWN THE DRAIN has been spun from clothes with this extractor which is the only "original" equipment the Smiths have from their 1950 purchase of Easy Way Laundry. Shown with the "old reliable" machine are Ollie and Ruby Smith.

"WASH HOUSE" IN DAYS GONE BY - This early day photo of Easy Way Laundry, believed to have been made in the summer of 1940, shows the building as it was before the Smiths added a ceiling. Note socks and other small items, left in washers, hung over washers to be claimed by owners their next wash day. In the left foreground is Mrs. R.F. Green, owner. At right is the late Mrs. Dick Thomas. Fourth from right is Mrs. Tom McGill and with her is the late Mrs. Don Bryant.

Dear Editor

Thanks, Y'All

Dear Editor,

We, the Olton Cowbelles, would like to express our sincere appreciation to the people of Olton for the way they supported our Little Buckaroo Rodeo. The turnout was wonderful and we had more than 100 contestants participating in this family affair. If everyone enjoyed it as much as we did, it was a huge success. Thanks also for being so neat. There was little mess for the clean-up crew.

We would like to especially thank the following people for the terrific amount of work and time they contributed: Bub Holt, you were great and several out of town people asked where we got the professional Rodeo Announcer. Rodger Johnson, Jim Walters, Shannon Thomas, and Frances Redinger and Lisa Brimhall provided many laughs with their jokes and stunts which added so much to the fun. Elmer Moore, Durwood Copeland and John Norfleet were our timers and they did an excellent job. Dave Koontz and W.B. Dickenson, as head arena man and flag man, helped to keep the show at a fast pace.

To all the other men who worked in the arena and the names we did not get, thank you very much. Janie Townsend and Sandy Koontz from Earth worked along side our Cowbelle members in the concession stand. A special thanks to the Rev. Wyatt of the First Methodist Church and Greg Burgess for contributing to our opening ceremonies. Karen McGill, Carla Clark, Jay and Robert Harrell, Brian Muller, and Bonecia Nicholson also worked hard and were much appreciated. Indispensable to the back stage crew were "right hand man" Delmer Givens and "Girl Friday" Rachel Ruthart.

The following people and businesses loaned equipment or donated in some manner without which our Rodeo would have been impossible, and we would like to give them a very special thanks: Elmer McGill, Western Auto, Jack Straw Gin Co., Joe Harrell, Olton Enterprise, Southwest- ern Public Service, Harold Mills, Olton Feed Yard, Inc., Delmer Givens, Dennis Givens, Lions Club, Bill Langford, Olton State Bank, Earth Rodeo Club, Gerald James and Wayne Cole.

Also, we owe a great deal to the Olton Enterprise for the really great publicity they gave us.

Once again, on behalf of the Olton Cowbelles, Thank You.

experience in the laundry business when they purchased Easy Way Laundry but, Ruby says, "We learned real quick!" They had farmed near Hart Camp before going into business.

The late Mrs. E.R. Morris, Ruby's mother, helped at the laundry until rheumatoid arthritis forced her to stop.

In 1960, Ollie began a switch-over to automatic washers. A line of coin-operated automatics had been installed down the north wall of the laundry and plumbing and wiring had been finished along the south wall when customers persuaded him not to get rid of the conventional wringer machines.

"Some women said if we weren't going to have any wringer machines then they'd just buy themselves one that was their choice so I decided to just leave those alone."

The wringer machines are still chosen by a number of persons, especially those with clothes heavily imbedded with dirt or grease.

Quite a few customers still bring their laundry to be done despite the increased ownership of home laundry equipment. Ruby has ironed "many miles" since becoming a laundress.

"Wash and wear" and "Sta-prest" fabrics have eliminated a lot of demand for starches but there are still customers who chose to stiffen their freshly laundered wash, Ruby says.

Easy Way Laundry's beginning is uncertain. A small frame building located where the present building is began as a wagon and coal yard before being turned into a laundry.

The late Mr. and Mrs. R.F. Green purchased the laundry equipment in 1937, renting the building from "Grandpa" Erb. The building burned in December 1940. Without insurance, Green did not plan to rebuild but customers urged him to build back.

Water for the original laundry was heated by coal but the re-built one was modernized with a large underground butane storage.

Sparkling new white Maytags were installed in the new laundry. Eight or perhaps 10 machines equipped the enlarged business housed in a quonset building.

Cost of using the machines in those days is uncertain but is recalled by some early day customers as less than 50 cents per hour.

Green's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Pauline "Kate" Alexander of Plainview, recalls the tiring hours turned in by Green and his son, the late Floyd Green. Clothes lines were placed on vacant lots across from the laundry and the "Custom laundry" was hung there to dry.

Mrs. Alexander remembers Green putting on rubber gloves and then clean white gloves to hang the wash the cold wintery days when laundry froze stiff before the clothes pins could be fastened.

Prior to the time when a sewer system was set up, ditches were made along the vacant lots south of the laundry for the water to drain into.

Soap, bleach and starch has been available at the laundry from its beginning, the cost varying on the amount needed.

Detergent when Ruby and Ollie bought the laundry in 1950 cost them $9 for 125-lb. sacks. Today's cost, Ruby says, is $19.35 for 50-lb. boxes.

Regular hours have been adopted since those early days. Mondays were the "big day" when the Greens operated the laundry and when the Smiths first began. Today, Ruby says, Friday is the busy day.

"It's a good thing there is just one Friday a week," she says in thinking of the busy day. The laundry is closed Saturdays, another change of the years.

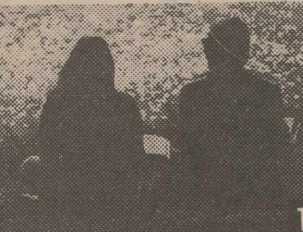

During their early years, Ruby recalls, hours were especially long and grueling during the cotton harvest season. Often closing hours would come with customers still lined up outside the doors turning the workday into a 6:30 a.m. to 10 or 11 p.m. marathon.

"There've been a lot of laughs," she says in remembering - some were to keep from crying. There have been happenings, too, that will always be remembered.

A frightening experience can be remembered now with a laugh, even by Patsy Garza Sandoval although she was only about two years old at the time. Playing in front of the laundry while her mother washed, Patsy climbed into the opened car trunk and an older child closed the lid. Frantic moments were spent looking for the little girl before she was discovered quietly waiting "to be found."

It is rewarding to see dirty garments turned clean but it is one that brings bone-weariness. Ruby Smith is one wife whose husband will never ask, "What have you done today?" He already knows the answer.

Keeping The FAITH

"I love you,
Not only for what you are,
But for what I am
When I am with you..."
Roy Croft

This poetic sentiment speaks movingly of true friendship which is the real basis for every good marriage. Even with the current popularity of alternative lifestyles - communes, trial marriages and the like, in the minds of most young people, marriage still means two persons making a long range commitment. However, in an age of uncertainty in social, political, economic, and moral questions, couples who are contemplating union in marriage should investigate the realities involved.

The words of Emanuel Swedenborg - 18th century scientist, philosopher, and theologian - on the subject of marriage are as relevant today as when first written. In the Rev. Wm. Wunsch's compilation Marriage (Ideals And Realizations) he quotes Swedenborg's statement: "The states of marriage love are innocence, peace, tranquility, inmost friendship, full confidence; and from all these come blessedness, happiness, joy, pleasure..."

Marriage (Ideals And Realizations), a 155 page white cloth volume, covers a wide variety of passages which will offer stimulating insights on marriage. The concepts are illuminating as well as inspiring and cannot help but enlarge one's views on the wonderful institution of marriage.

An excellent companion booklet Marriage Realities covers such topics as communication, marriage dynamics, false images, and true love.

These would be an ideal gift for either a couple planning a wedding or for the couple who would like to freshen the cherished ideals of their original vows. To obtain both copies, send $2.00 to Swedenborg Foundation, Dept. MM, 139 East 23rd St., New York, N.Y. 10010.

Little Buckaroo Rodeo Proclaimed Big Success

Olton's first Little Buckaroo Rodeo, sponsored by Olton Cowbelles, was well attended and highly lauded by performance spectators. Led by the Grand Entry at 10:30 a.m. the show moved efficiently through the well planned series of events for young Buckaroos mounted on active stick horses and older contestants on lively mounts. More than 100 contestants were involved.

Dave Koontz, head arena man, and W.B. Dickenson Jr., flag man, controlled activities. Elmer Moore, Derwood Copeland and John Norfleet served as time keepers.

Officials and other VIPs were seated in an improvised grandstand overlooking the improvised arena. From this vantage point Rodeo emcee Bub Holt kept pertinent information flowing to spectators and contestants alike.

Comedy was furnished by clowns Rodger Johnson, Jim Walters, Shannon Thomas, Frances Redinger and Lisa Brimhall as "Ethel streaked" and others "engaged in a shoot-out that necessitated the service of an ambulance."

In a lucky ticket drawing little Miss Shelli Struve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Struve, was winner of the gentle saddle horse donated by Joe Harrell.

Concessionaires, newly organized Cowbelles, sold bar-b-que beef sandwiches and cold drinks throughout performance hours.

BILLY GETS DE-RIBBONED -- Kauli Paige Burrus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie T. Burrus, removes the ribbon from the goat's tail in the 4 and 5 year old division of the goat ribbon race in Saturday's Little Buckaroo Rodeo.

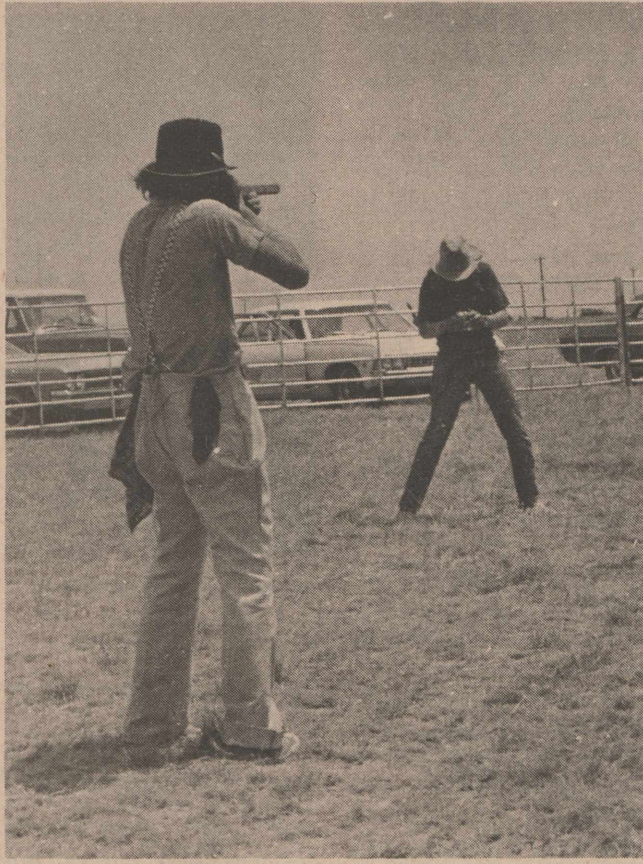

SMILING BEAUTY Adding a bit of femininity to the rodeo scene Saturday was Frances Redinger who's caught by the camera in a quieter, calmer moment than Saturday's fun and festivities.

Little Buckaroo Rodeo

MEANWHILE* OUT ON THE RANGE - Shannon Thomas and Rodger Johnson stop for a brief chat during action Saturday in the Little Buckaroo Rodeo. The two, along with Jim Walters and Frances Redinger, added color and fun to the big event which is expected to become an annual affair.

SHOOT-OUT AT THE BUCKAROO CORRAL - Jim "Hot Dog" Walters fires a bullet into the chest of Shannon Thomas in a shoot-out at the Buckaroo Rodeo Saturday. Thomas, however, got the last shot and Walters, too, suffered "lead poisoning."

Safety Courses

Available

Never go out in a small boat, says the Texas Safety Association. Unless you are thoroughly acquainted with the craft and can handle it in a sudden squall or storm.

Emphasizing the "Safe Boating is No Accident" theme of this year's National Boating Safety Week, beginning June 30, the safety group advised the novice to learn to handle a boat by practicing near shore in shallow, smooth water.

An experienced teacher is recommended. Boating safety courses are offered by the U.S. Coast Guard auxiliary, Power Squadron and Red Cross.

TIE A (YELLOW) RIBBON THE THE POOR GOAT'S TAIL - Shannon Thomas turned in a better performance as youth clown at the Little Buckaroo Rodeo, than he did in the goat ribbon race events Saturday. Shannon's bow-tying netted a fifth place finish.

the national drink. With it "at least" 60 different kinds of appetizers are served including different salads, cucumbers, atrichokes, olives, shrimp, fried chicken and raw liver.

Also included in the appetizers are "kibby" and "tabbule." Kibby is made from cracked wheat and raw, red meat of fresh lamb. Prepared with cooked meat, the dish is used as an entree. Tabbule is also made with cracked wheat and parsley. Dinner courses will include fish, barbecued chicken dipped in olive oil with garlic, sesame seed salads and sish-ka-bob (unlike the U.S. version, the meat is pounded thin and rolled tightly before cooking).

The meal is topped off with "baklawa," a rich pastry dessert. The dish is prepared with ten paper-thin layers of pastry, filling made of chopped nuts, sugar and spices, and another 10 layers of pastry. It is baked and served in squares or bars.

One evening after dinner in Jeita, Jaffar and Hanne drove to Halles, about 35 winding kilometers up a mountain to Christ's Church. The beautiful church is topped with a very tall tower with spiral steps leading to the top and a breath-taking scene of beauty below.

Leaving Lebanon, they traveled to Israel via Cyprus. Their first visit was in Beitjale, near Bethlehem, where they visited Hanne's father. Jaffar went on the next day to Jerusalem to rent a car for their stay in Israel.

Highlighting their stay in the Holy Land were return visits to Jacob's Well in Samaria and Mary's Well Church in Nazareth and a huge new church, Church of Annunciation, which had been built since their last visit.

They stayed in Haifa, Jaffar's hometown which is just a half-hour's drive from Nazareth. They saw Mount Carmel, the Holy Sepulcher in Jerusalem and visited Telaviv.

In Bethlehem, they once again visited the Church of the Nativity which is built over the site of Christ's birth. They again saw Mount Olive and Gethsemane and, in every site, observed hundreds of tourists, including many Americans.

Jaffar compares the roads from Haifa to Telaviv as "just like Los Angeles." "They are crowded with people - bad drivers - people hurrying madly about."

At Hebron they visited

HAIFA ON THE MEDITERRANEAN SEA - This view of his hometown was photographed by Jaffar Zakka during a two-months' visit the Zakkas made to London and the Holy Land.

JUST AN APPETIZER - This personal photo belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Jaffar Zakka was made at a dinner they attended during their recent visit in Jordan. Note: food on the table is not the main course, but is, instead, the appetizers.

the Mosque of Abraham and saw the Weeping Wall in Jerusalem. They saw once more the many churches and famed sites of the Bible land.

It was in Cyprus, on the first leg of their return, that the Zakkas spent the only night in their two-months trip in a hotel.

In Beirut for another week it was "more dinners and more relatives-- those who were mad at me for not visiting them the first time," Zakka says. Two nights were spent in London with his nephew and then it was back to the States.

Zakka's son, Ramze, is employed with the American-Arab Chamber of Commerce in New York City and is responsible for helping welcome and entertain foreign ambassadors who come to New York. During the Zakkas' visit with him on their return home, Jaffar dined with Ramze and 20 ambassadors of Arab countries.

"And now we are home and it's good to be here," they say.

National Safe Boating Week

The Texas Safety Association urges power boat owners to kick off National Safe Boating Week, beginning June 30, with a thorough fuel tank inspection.

The U.S. Coast Guard warns that self-contained, soft soldered, sheet metal fuel tanks may be prone to dangerous fuel leaks. According to the Coast Guard, a number of fires and explosions may have been caused by gasoline fires where fuel leaked directly into the bilges from the tank.

Possible sources of fuel leaks are the soft-soldered seams and "buttons" or spots of solder over the heads of sheet metal screws that are used to hold the tank baffles in place.

Fuel tanks should be inspected at least once a year by the owner or by a competent repairman. If a leak is discovered, remove to disconnect all sources of ignition, and keep people away from the boat. Disconnect shore power; turn off main battery disconnect switches; extinguish fires and pilot lights; open all hatches.

Small quantities of fuel in the bilges can be removed with a sponge. A hand operated bilge pump will be necessary for larger quantities. The soft-soldered leaky fuel tank should be replaced.
