Connally Defeats Yarborough For Top State Post; Organ, Craig Local Winners

Epperson Is Republican Commissioner Nominee

Gray County Precinct Two Republicans selected W. C. Epperson as their nominee for County Commissioner Saturday.

Epperson defeated his runoff opponent, Bill Tidwell, by a 205 to 138 margin.

Both had come out on top in three-way race in the May 5 GOP Primary when they defeated present City Commissioner L. P. Fort.

It was the only race Gray County Republicans had to vote in Saturday, as all state offices and all other local offices were decided in the voting May 5th.

Epperson, a Pampa farmer, will face Democrat Clyde Organ in the November General Election.

Here is a precinct-by-precinct breakdown in the voting by Gray County Republicans Saturday:

Absentees, Tidwell, 9; Epperson, 8.

Precinct Two, Tidwell, 30; Epperson, 17.

Precinct Seven, Tidwell, 20; Epperson, 35.

Precinct Nine, Tidwell, 21; Epperson, 33.

Precinct Ten, Tidwell, 23; Epperson, 40.

Precinct Eleven, Tidwell, 4; Epperson, 0.

Precinct Twelve, Tidwell, 9; Epperson, 32.

This was the first time in the history of Gray County that the Republican Party has had a Primary, as well as Runoff Election.

A string of GOP victories across the state in recent elections, however, caused the move for twin Primaries in the state this year. The recent election of John G. Tower as United States Senator gave added impetus to the GOP efforts to change Texas to a two-party state and this year's Primary has set the stage for a showdown of the two major parties in the November Election.

Both the Republicans and Democrats will have virtually full slates of candidates for the voters' choice this fall.

Gray County Democrats went to the polls yesterday and nominated William J. Craig for county judge and Clyde Organ for county commissioner in Pct. 2 in the only local contest of the Democratic runoff ballot.

At the same time they gave Gray County to Don Yarborough for governor by a 107 vote margin over John Connally.

The total Democratic vote in Gray County was 2,799, contrasted to nearly 4,000 in the May 5 primary election.

Craig, the incumbent in the county judge's office, had a 295 vote margin over Clyde Carruth, who was making his first bid in politics. Carruth received 1,694 votes and Carruth racked up 1,399. Carruth carried only three of the 12 county precincts. He won over Carr in Grandview, Alameda and McLean in Precincts 3, 4 and 5. The other nine precincts went to Carr.

In the county commissioner's race for the nomination in Pct. 2, Organ swept five of the six voting precincts involved. Lunsford, the incumbent commissioner, won only in Pct. 10, the Courthouse box in Pampa. He carried that by only one vote, 221 to 210. Pampa precincts 2, 9 and 12 each gave Organ wide margins and he carried the Phillips Camp box 40 to 12.

Judge Craig will face Republican Bill Watson in the contest for Gray County judge at the November general election.

In the Pct. 2 commissioner's race in November, Organ will line up against Republican W. C. Epperson.

In the state contests on the runoff ballot, Gray County gave Yarborough 1,561 votes to 1,454 for John Connally.

Voting in the other three state runoff races in Gray County was as follows:

Lieutenant governor — James Turman, 935; Preston Smith, 2,098.

Attorney general — Waggoner (See VOTERS, Page 3)

Slow, misty, pasture-soaking rain slid down Top O' Texas skies Saturday, bringing grins to ranchers' faces and refreshment to the thirsty land.

It was the second straight day of wet pleasure for area agronomists and the 42 inch of rain which fell before 7 p.m. Saturday made a total of 87 inch of moisture which sought refuge in the News' rain gauge during the cloudy visitation Friday and Saturday.

It was a crowd-pleasing rain, too, drizzling down slow enough to soak into the gaunt fields and slopes of the Pampa vicinity without racing to the nearest creek for a speedy trip to Lake Texhoma.

It dropped sweltering, early-summer temperatures to a chilly 53 degrees and caused a jump in the retail sales of chili, stew and "hot java."

In the area, Lefors reported a total of approximately three-quarters of an inch for Friday and Saturday and Perryton reported it had been soaked by about 3/4 inches in the last three days.

EDITOR HONORED

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Oscar Griffin, former editor of the weekly "Pecos, Tex. Independent," will be honored June 27 for outstanding journalistic work by the Fort Worth chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity. Griffin, now with the Houston Chronicle, will be honored for his work in uncovering the "Billie Sol Estes" agricultural scandals. The award will be for distinguished journalism.

White Deer voters gave Yarborough 95 votes and Connally 88.

Skellytown went for Yarborough with 96 votes and Connally received 30.

In the other three contests, White Deer, Lieutenant Governor, Smith, 97; Turman 84; Skellytown, Smith, 88; Turner, 37; Attorney General, White Deer, Carr, 125; Reavley, 56; Skellytown, Reavley, 63; Carr, 63; Congressman - At - Large, White Deer, Pool, 101; Bean, 75; Skellytown, Pool, 73; Bean, 50.

B. A. Williams was elected County Commissioner in Precinct 2 with 109 votes. His opponent was B. K. Bentley who received 85 votes.

Wheeler County voters supported John Connally with 467 votes to Don Yarborough's 432.

In the Lieutenant Governor's race, Preston Smith received 631 votes and Jimmie Turman, 281.

Waggoner, Carr, received 719 votes.

Venezuela Hit Again By Rebels

CARACAS (UPI)—Rebels seized Venezuela's most important naval base in a new effort to topple President Romulo Betancourt, official sources said Saturday. The government ordered 3,000 loyal troops supported by jet fighters into the area to crush the insurgents.

The rebellion, which apparently erupted sometime during the night, came only four weeks after the hatched Betancourt administration crushed a similar uprising at the eastern port city of Carupano.

As was the case at Carupano, the main corps of rebels at Puerto Cabello comprised a marine unit. But the leader was identified as Lt. Cmdr. Pedro Medina Silva, deputy commander of the base.

Capt. Jesus Carabell, commander of the installation which is Venezuela's largest and also site of its naval fleet headquarters, was reported imprisoned. The rebels were said to be in complete control.

The government declined to make any immediate formal announcements about the revolt or the measures being taken to suppress it.

But official sources provided detailed information on the fast-moving developments.

A battalion of about 400 marines apparently provided the backbone of the uprising, which failed, however, to win the support of other forces stationed in the city of Puerto Cabello, Venezuela's third most important commercial port with a population of some 80,000.

Army troops there were taking up positions around the base to seal it off, and reinforcements were being rushed in from various adjacent cities as well as from Caracas. At least five transport planes loaded with battle-ready troops were dispatched to the area from here, reliable sources said.

In all, an estimated 3,000 troops were reported converging on the base and reliable air force sources said 12 British-made Vampire jet fighters, each equipped with rockets, were ordered to the scene. The pilots were believed under instruction to fire their rockets and machinegun bullets around the beach-front area of the base in an effort to "intimidate" the rebels into surrendering. If the insurgents refuse to surrender, official sources here made it clear the troops and planes would attack.

Rangers Sent To East Texas Oil Fields In Probe

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas Rangers were sent to guard the East Texas oil field, Saturday to prevent well owners from interfering with a Railroad Commission investigation of illegal directional drilling.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson obtained restraining orders against a group of East Texas operators to keep them from interfering with the investigation.

Wilson called for 50 Rangers to enforce Railroad Commission orders not to plug any wells for the next 15 days while the investigation is being made.

If a well is plugged the Commission cannot determine if it was deviated more than the 3 per cent permitted by Texas law.

Dispatch of the Rangers into the area was reminiscent of former Gov. Ross Sterling's decision in 1931 to send the National Guard into the East Texas field and put it under martial law.

This drastic action was taken after the Railroad Commission had been enjoined from enforcing production restrictions on the field.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., chief of the Rangers, said the law enforcement officers were being sent to the state. State Highway Patrolmen also were called in to stand guard.

Garrison made it clear the area is not under martial law. Only the governor can declare martial law.

"We believe the situation is in hand," Garrison said.

Investigation of the slanted-hole drilling began several months ago.

Wilson filed a $3.4 million suit Thursday against Edwin G. Stanley and others for deviating four wells in the Clark survey in Rusk County and for plugging these wells and two others.

Continental Oil Co. has been granted a temporary restraining order against Stanley to prevent plugging wells on a Rusk County lease.

Wilson obtained restraining orders Saturday from Dist. Judge Herman Jones in Austin.

Wilson said the investigation of slanted-hole drilling has been "startling." He said he will conduct a major investigation to determine how much "hot oil" may have been taken through illegal drilling practices.

East German Reds Kidnap Two Youths

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist

of Zehlendorf at 4:30 p.m.

Police said the incident was witnessed by a third youth, a friend of the two captured boys, and a group of West Berliners. The Communist guards were not bothered by the presence of witnesses or the fact it was daylight.

Police said the Communist guards' exact number could not be determined — fired two shots at the third youth, who managed to escape.

The incident occurred in the wooded area where the Communists' barbed wire barricade is from 20 to 150 yards behind the actual boundary. The boundary itself is marked by warning signs and concrete pillars.

A kindergarten teacher told police she saw the East German guards beckon to the three youths to come up to the wire. Two of them fell into the trap while the third one followed at a distance and was able to run.

"Suddenly the guards dragged the boys through the fence and fired at the one who fled," the woman teacher-told police.

There has been no word of either the 17-year-old girl kidnaped Friday night or the two youths kidnaped Saturday afternoon. The identities of the three were not disclosed.

The Communist East German news agency ADN gave its own account of the incident involving the 16- and 17-year-old girls. It said they were on a list of "wanted criminals" and that the border guards had to use their weapons when the girls penetrated about 50 yards inside the Eastern border.

The incident occurred about 9:30 p.m. in the southern Lichterfelde area along the border between East Germany and the American sector.

The area is mostly open fields and the border is marked by lines of barbed wire. West Berlin police said Communist border guards told the girls an East German friend was about to flee to the West and that the girls entered an area where the barbed wire is several yards behind the actual border.

Once the girls crossed the border line the guards seized them. They fired two shots at the 16-year-old girl, hitting her in the hip. Her 17-year-old companion was seized and taken behind the barbed wire in what Western officials said was a "false" case of kidnapping.

Western police did not open fire on the Communists. They were several hundred yards away when the incident occurred and by the time they raced to the scene the Communists had dragged one girl into East Berlin and left the wounded girl lying at the border.

Commission In Session With Tax Board Of Equalization

The City Commission met briefly Friday night with tax officials and the city equalization board to discuss city tax questions and study the overall city tax program.

Gene Lewis, chairman of the equalization board, presided over the meeting. Other members of the board present were Bill Davis and Ed Simmons.

Mayor E. C. Sidwell expressed his concern about loan companies in the city receiving special tax rates compared with competitive businesses.

Sidwell said he was recently advised by tax experts that all companies in the money lending business should be measured in the same way as competitive operators.

Lewis, speaking for the equalization board, told the commission the board would be willing to tax the companies accordingly as long as they are using facilities of the city, and carrying their share of the tax load.

Sidwell also expressed concern about businesses outside the city limits which are using city facilities, such as the sewer system and water, and are not subject to city taxes. He said that over $3-million dollars in general obligation bonds will be needed for highway drainage, sewer systems, and main thoroughfare improvement program.

How can the commission ask Pampans for the tax bonds if everyone is not carrying their share of the tax load? the mayor asked.

Aubrey Jones, city tax assessor and collector, told the group that he and the equalization board have made a complete property evaluation survey and that every fifth year an inspection of personal property is made and if any additions have been made property owners will be taxed accordingly. Jones said many owners who neglect to report the status of their property think they are being overtaxed.

A motion was made by Simmons and seconded by Davis that City Attorney Bob Gordon prepare a brief of the loan companies' tax rates and interpret the law on this type of tax evaluation in an effort to solve the problem.

Gordon said the brief would be presented to the equalization board for study in about two weeks.

The Commission took no immediate action on Friday night's meeting, pending a report on findings of the city attorney.

Soldier Wounded In Running Gun Battle With Spies

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — An American soldier was wounded Friday in a running gun battle with three North Korean Communist spies near the truce lines, the U.S. Army announced Saturday. One spy was killed but the other two escaped.

The incident occurred about three miles south of the demilitarized zone in the area guarded by the U.S. 1st cavalry division, the spokesman said. South Korean troops and police joined American forces in searching the south bank of the Imjin River for the missing spies.

The spokesman said a large amount of U.S. and South Korean currency was found on the dead agent's body and that "radio receiver equipment, water wings, civilian clothing, two hand grenades, a Seoul civilian pass and a transistor radio were found in packs abandoned by the other two agents."

The spokesman said the three Communists dressed in brown uniforms were discovered lying in a hole Friday afternoon by American soldiers returning from their main positions along the truce line.

Lions Project To Start Tomorrow

Members of the Pampa Evening Lions Club tomorrow will begin their annual trash barrel painting campaign throughout the city.

John Locke, chairman of the campaign, said work will begin at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the Jarvis - Sone and North Crest additions, and will continue throughout the week.

Each resident of the area being worked will be asked if they wish to have their trash barrels painted. Cost for the painting will be 75 cents for each barrel.

Proceeds from the current fund drive will be used for various Lions club projects.

Members working on the project will meet at 6 p.m. at the Travis Elementary School for instructions and supplies.

CROP Week Starts Here

Today marks the beginning of C.R.O.P. week in Gray County. CROP, which stands for Christian Rural Overseas Program, distributes food to hungry and discouraged people throughout the world. It uses the mission stations of most denominations as a distribution points for the needy.

CROP also renders service to victims of war, revolution, clammy (such as Hurricane Carla), and disease.

Monday, canvassers throughout the county will begin to visit every farm and ranch. They will be seeking contributions sufficient for one car - load of wheat from Gray and Roberts counties together. Canvassing is to be completed by next Sunday.

A leaflet, which is available at most churches today, describes in some detail the work of CROP. Among the items discussed is this: "In Hong Kong, dead - end for more than a million refugees from China, CROP rice provides the basis for daily meals for 10,000 of the most undernourished school children, a fraction of the 10,000 equally hungry. Nine Hong Kong Church World Service Milk stations also dispense milk and biscuits daily to 52,000 children, using commodities donated by our government."

Miami Contest Is Over But Cows Still Mixed Up

MIAMI (Sp) — The fourteenth National Cow Calling Contest and Pioneer Roundup was held here yesterday, and is sponsored annually by the Men's Service Club. Rainy weather forced the events to be held in and around the county barn, rather than at the usual Thompson Grove.

The cow calling contest was expanded from two to four divisions this year. Winner of the Men's section was Guy Foldy. Runners up included: Leroy Belew second; and Willis Clark, third.

Winner in the Women's division was Doris Wilkins, followed by Mildred Cunningham and Lilly Dunjven.

Teenage Boys, a new division sponsored by the Home Progress Club, had Jack Evans as winner; followed by J. L. Grantham second; and Steve Guerrero third.

Teenage Girls, also new and sponsored by the Forty - nines, was won by Kathy Gil, with Mary Ellen Kivlehen, and Lee Corse runners up.

Old timers from as far away as California gathered for the Pioneer Roundup. Anyone settling in the Panhandle 40 or more years ago qualified as a pioneer. They, along with others, enjoyed remembering old times and eating a basket lunch spread in the county barn. For lunch and afterwards the Roberts County stompers provided music in their traditional "ad-lib" fashion.

A dance was held in the county barn at 9 p.m. last night with music by Carl Day and his Knights of Perryton. Sponsor was Pulaski Post No. 106.

Other contests held in connection with the festivities included: a barrel walking contest sponsored by Miami Lions Club, a sack race, a three - legged race, and a shoe scramble. Winner of the barrel race was Jim Wolfe, with Jackie Sirmans second and Kathy Gill third. The sack race was won by Steve Wolfe followed

Youths Arrive For Vacation From School

Six Pampa youths arrived home Saturday for summer vacation from St. Vincent's Preparatory Seminary, Cape Girardeau, Mo., where they are attending high school.

The boys are Andrew Supina, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Supina, 1165 Crane Rd.; John Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer, 2232 N. Sumner; Billy Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lewis, 413 Powell; Jerry Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Simpson, 1344 Hamilton; David Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Stein, 1004 Darby; and Gene Jewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jewell, 1109 Huff Rd.

The preparatory seminary is intended exclusively for boys aspiring to become priests of the Congregation of the Mission (Vincentian Fathers). The course of studies consists of four years of high school.

After completion of high school the student enters the Novitiate at St. Mary's Seminary, Perryville, Mo. The period of the Novitiate is two years, at the termination of which the student makes the vows required in the Congregation.

The student then takes his second year of college work, after which follows two years of philosophy and four years of theology.

Supina was listed on the school honor roll for the past year with a grade average of 92 per cent in all academic subjects. Palmer, who has achieved an 87 per cent grade average, was listed on the "climbers" list.

The six boys will return to classes in September.

by Charles Coffee and Bobby Brines. Winning teams in the three - legged race were: Bobby Lester and Steve Evans, Jackie Sirmans and Charles Coffee, and Kathy Gill and Debbie Thompson. Winners of the shoe scramble were Betsy Grantham, first; Barry Lester, second; and Jean Brannum, third.

'Battle Of Midway' Turning Point In Pacific War

EDITOR'S NOTE — Twenty years ago, America was at war in the months after Pearl Harbor, the news was grim. On June 3, 1942, a mighty Japanese armada was closing on Midway Island, a little blot of sand and coral about 1,000 miles from Honolulu. The Imperial navy planned to launch an amphibious invasion, mop up the tiny Marine detachment at Midway, and move on toward Pearl Harbor for a final showdown with the U.S. Pacific Fleet. But two American task forces lay in wait off Midway and World War II's most decisive naval battle followed.

By FREDERICK H. TRESH
United Press International

On Dec. 7, 1941, when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Japanese planes also stormed another American base, a little known sand and coral atoll 1,000 miles northwest of Pearl.

Midway Island, a seaplane base and way station for trans-Pacific airliners, was presumed lost when, for three weeks, no word was received from its Marine garrison. Then, on Christmas Day, a message got through from the beleaguered outpost: "We're still here. Merry Christmas."

Lying in a direct path between Japan and Pearl Harbor, Midway was a logical stepping stone for an expected Japanese thrust toward Hawaii. Its fortifications were hastily reinforced.

On the morning of June 3, 1942, a Japanese striking force moving on Midway was sighted by a Navy patrol plane. Land-based B-17's bombed the fleet from high altitude in the afternoon without success. The U.S. fleet was off Midway but its presence was not known to the Japanese. The Japanese force, under command of Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, steamed on under the assumption that Midway was sparsely defended.

Early on June 4, Japanese planes, from four carriers in the advance striking force launched a bomb attack on Midway. But a Navy PBY patrol plane, shadowing the fleet, radioed a warning. Every plane at Midway was airborne when the Japanese attack came and it was inconsequential. Thirty attacking planes were shot down. American losses included 17 planes destroyed and seven damaged.

Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, U.S. task force commander, ordered his carrier pilots to throw the book at the Japanese fleet, especially the carriers. Torpedo planes, dive bombers and fighters swept off the carriers Yorktown, Enterprise and Hornet.

At about noon, planes from the Yorktown and Enterprise sighted three Japanese carriers—the huge Akagi and Kaga and the medium-sized Soryu—in a tight cluster.

The Yorktown planes planned a coordinated attack with the older, slower-flying torpedo planes coming in low under a fighter cover while the dive bombers attacked from overhead. But the timing was off, and the torpedo planes, despite fighter protection, were annihilated by about 30 Japanese Zero interceptors. Only one of the 12 U.S. torpedo pilots survived.

Vice Adm. John Smith Thatch, now commander of the Anti-Submarine Command in the Pacific, was in command of the six fighters which flew with the torpedo planes that day.

"We kept trying to protect our torpedo planes," he said in a recent interview with a UPI correspondent at his Pearl Harbor headquarters. "We could see that some would never get out again, but they kept right on. Not a single pilot turned away."

(Lt. Cmr.) Len Massey, leading the torpedo planes, went down in flames in the first pass, but one of his planes pulled in to take his place and lead the formation. On the fighters were burning a few Zeros and they were chewing up our torpedo planes. "I'm convinced I saw one of our Yorktown torpedo planes get a hit on the carriers, even though it was never recorded in the official records."

While the torpedo planes were drawing withering fire, the dive bombers launched their assault virtually unopposed.

Rear Adm. Maxwell F. Leslie (Ret.), then a lieutenant commander and in command of the dive bomber squadron from the Yorktown, personally led the dive on the huge carrier Kaga.

"I maneuvered my squadron into a position which would enable us to make our dive out of the sun," Leslie told a UPI reporter at his Coconado, Calif., home.

"I gave the attack signal... and started my dive from 14,500 feet. The target was about the biggest carrier I have ever seen."

Leslie said he dived straight at the 27,000-ton Kaga and sprayed its flight deck and bridge structure with 300 or 400 rounds of 50-caliber machine gun fire. His bomb had been lost prematurely because of a malfunction in a recently installed electronic release system.

Leslie said his wingman, then Lt. (j.g.) Paul A. Holmberg, had scored a direct hit on the Kaga's flight deck.

"As history will record," Leslie said, "Holmberg delivered the first effective blow in the battle. His bomb caused the most terrifying holocaust I could possibly imagine."

"In fairly quick succession, I observed three or four similar explosions on the same carrier. This was a remarkable performance.

The Kaga was moving about 25 knots and taking evasive action. Hitting a target like this is about as difficult as dropping a marble from eye-height on a fast-moving cockroach."

Dive bombers from the Yorktown and Enterprise dropped a rain of hell on the Akagi (flagship of the Japanese carrier division) and the Soryu, leaving them like the Kaga, fiercely burning and doomed to a watery grave. The U.S. planes also heavily damaged a Japanese battleship and cruiser.

Two hours after the torpedo attack on the Yorktown, planes from the Enterprise — some of them from the original Yorktown squadron — found the Japanese carrier Hiryo and left it in flames. Planes from the Hornet attacked and damaged a battleship and cruiser escorting the Hiryo.

The next day, planes from the Hornet and Enterprise attacked two Japanese cruisers, and planes based at Midway attacked two other cruisers, crippling one. Poor visibility then curtailed air operation.

On June 6, planes from the Hornet located two more Japanese heavy cruisers and three destroyers. Planes from the Enterprise struck the cruisers a second blow and Hornet aircraft, on a second sortie, attacked two additional cruisers.

The Japanese fleet was in full retirement.

The U.S. destroyer Hamman took the severely crippled Yorktown in tow and a salvage party was placed aboard. But in a third Japanese attack, two more plane-launched torpedoes ripped the Yorktown and one hit the Hamman. The destroyer sank within four minutes and the Yorktown went down the next morning.

The battle of Midway was over. The Japanese lost four of their finest carriers and one heavy cruiser. But the most serious loss to the Imperial navy was its fighter pilots. Never again, was Japan able to send such skillful, well-trained flyers against U.S. forces. In all, Japan lost 250 carrier planes.

The U.S. Navy lost the carrier Yorktown, and the destroyer Hamman. In addition, 50 carrier pilots and 40 Army, Navy and Marine pilots from Midway were killed. Another 50 air crewmen (non-pilots) also died. A total of 151 aircraft was lost.

"The battle of Midway was without question the turning point in the Pacific war," wrote Rear Adm. Nobutaka Kondo, one of the highest ranking Japanese survivors at Midway who chronicled the engagement years later.

He Thinks Church Should Work Toward Solving Social Problems

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

There are millions of laymen in America today who feel strongly that the church should stick to its spiritual knitting and not get involved in controversial public issues. They raise vigorous protests whenever a religious body takes a stand on capital punishment, segregation, slum housing, or some other social problem. By what right, they ask, does the church "meddle" in such affairs?

They got an answer this week from the white-haired, soft-voiced presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger.

Speaking at a church luncheon in New York, Bishop Lichtenberger recalled one of his teachers in theological school who used to say that Robinson Crusoe could not be a Christian until he had found his man Friday.

"What he meant," said the bishop, "is that when one is a Christian, one is thereby involved with other people. The world for the Christian is not God and himself, but God, his neighbor and himself. And his neighbor is anyone anywhere in need."

Bishop Lichtenberger said he has received dozens of letters in recent months from people who seem to feel that the Christian faith has to do with purely spiritual matters.

But, he noted, Jesus was "quite definite" in saying that "the way we show our love for God is to love our neighbors." And Jesus also made clear that love for neighbor is to be expressed in everyday, physical acts of mercy—such as providing bread for the hungry, a roof for the homeless, justice for the dispossessed, fellowship for the lonely, freedom for the enslaved.

"But see where that leads us," the bishop said. "If the church is to serve her Lord, she must do what she can to help meet human needs. This means, I am convinced, that the church in her concern for the welfare of people will necessarily be engaged in social education and social action."

"This also means that the church will be engaged on many fronts, since problems such as racial discrimination, poverty and homelessness are interdependent."

The church's primary mission, he said, is to bear witness to the fact that "God so loved the world that he gave Himself for us in Christ." It can hardly demonstrate God's love for the world by turning its back on the world, and refusing to dirty its hands with the mundane problems of human society.

The Bishop quoted some words written by Dietrich Bonhoeffer, the heroic young German theologian who was executed by the Nazis:

"If the hungry man does not attain to faith, then the guilt falls on those who refused him bread. To provide the hungry man with bread is to prepare the way for the coming of grace."

"We cannot prepare the way for the coming of grace simply by doing what we can to change the minds and hearts of individuals, and then hope for the best," Bishop Lichtenberger concluded. "Some of the obstacles and hindrances to the coming of grace in our day are found in the political and social and economic structures of the nation. It is the

It's The Law In Texas

WATER ATTRACTS CHILDREN

Owning a swimming pool is becoming rather common in Texas and it places some legal duties on the owner. Your main duty hinges on the "doctrine of attractive nuisance" under which you become legally responsible to young children who trespass on your land. As a rule you owe no duty to trespassers. They must take your property as they find it; if dangerous, that is their tough luck. Not so for children who wander on your land. The attractive nuisance doctrine says that if you have some man-made things on your land which entice youngsters you have a legal duty to make your land safe for them.

A high tension line, an old mineshaft, a railroad turntable, a pool of clear acid may be irresistible to children. If they are likely to be attracted and unable to grasp the dangers, you have an "attractive nuisance," and you must make your premises safe.

Recently a court held that a swimming pool may be an attractive nuisance. In this case a toddler drowned in Jones' pool. Jones and the boy's parents lived across the street from each other. About 30 feet from the street, from each other. About 30 feet from the street, the pool was fenced but with openings through which children could enter. On weekends the Jones were not home, only the Jones' children. Animals often played near the pool.

The pool and the animals could attract a youngster; he could not grasp the water's danger. The Joneses could have had a locked gate. A jury properly held Jones responsible for the drowning.

How young is the child? Can he appreciate the dangers? How easy is it for the owner to make the place safe for children?

There are times when an older child should appreciate dangers. An older child playing on a scaffold should appreciate the dangers of height. In another case a twelve year old boy tried to jump on a train which was moving along a public street. When he fell he could not get damages for his injury. He should have seen his danger. Besides how could one put a barrier along a public street which could keep out twelve year old boys.

A land owner may have other duties to trespassers. He cannot set a "trap" on his land, create hazards on his land on purpose; he cannot put a pit on his land where people frequently trespass, put in spring guns, or other traps to harm trespassers.

Sometimes a condition on your land may be a trap to children but not one for adults. The adult may grasp the danger of slippery algae growing in a partially drained pool, but not a child. But even with a trap on your land the attractive nuisance doctrine will not apply without some some allurements or enticement to bring children to trespass on your land. Such attractions are, in effect, an implied invitation to enter. Check your place for such attractions, and in any event consider measures, such as insurance, to cover harm that may come from things on your land. And above all, keep your place safe. For all the money may not undo the harm.

(This newfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas business held strong in April after 100 months of slight decline, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas said Saturday.

After declines in February and March, the April seasonally adjusted index of Texas Business activity held at 128.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

The 128.2 per cent index was 17 per cent above its April 1961 level and only 2.5 per cent below the all-time high of 132.9 per cent reached in January.

Crude Petroleum Production was up 4 per cent in April over March, but down 7 per cent from April of 1961.

Other comparisons of April to March and April of 1961:

- Electric power consumption up 3 and 13 per cent.
- Industrial power consumption up 3 and 10 per cent.
- Bank deposits steady and up 17 per cent.
- Ordinary life insurance sales steady and up 5 per cent.
- Total retail sales down 1 per cent and up 10 per cent.
- Urban building permits issued down 12 per cent and up 18 per cent.
- Earnings in manufacturing up 5 and 5 per cent.

The Bureau reported $19.3 billion was earned by Texans in 1961 and only five states showed higher earnings—New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, and California. Increased industrialization can carry Texas higher in the state standings and per capita earnings this year, the bureau said.

Texas' chemical industry continues to grow with 45,800 people now employed in positions below the higher supervisory levels in April. This is a gain of 3,600 employees over April of 1961.

Total manufacturing employment in the state in April was up 10,300 from April 1961 and non-agricultural employment was increased 37,600 from last year.

Khrushchev Asks 'Understanding' In Wake Of Food Price Increases

By ROBERT J. KORENGOLD
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev appealed Saturday night to the Soviet people for understanding in the government's decision to raise prices sharply on meat and butter.

"There was no other way out," he said in a speech broadcast to the nation over Radio Moscow. He said there was a shortage of meat and butter and that drastic measures were necessary to supply the country's needs.

Khrushchev said funds could not be diverted from defense and that only a raise in prices could provide the money necessary to boost the nation's agricultural production to required levels.

"Not a single Communist will agree that we should lessen expenditures on the nation's defense," he said. "We know how our enemies are trying to wipe us off the face of the earth, but we say: 'You won't manage to do that.'"

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union's strength was in its bulwark against imperialism and "to prevent war we have to work and be very economical in expenditure, in distribution, and all."

12 Oil Wells, 23 Gas Wells Brought In

AUSTIN (UPI) — Drillers found 12 new oil wells and 23 gas wells in Texas during the last week, the Railroad Commission said Saturday.

New finds brought the oil total to 21 and the gas total to 541 for the year compared with 195 oil finds and 226 gas finds a year ago. Dusters during the week totaled 55, for a total so far of 1,064 compared with 1,292.

Three oil finds were made in the Midland district, two each in the Houston, Abilene and Pampa districts and single finds in the Corpus Christi, Kilgore, and San Angelo districts.

Eight of the gas finds were in the Refugio district, five in the Palestine district and three each in the Houston and Pampa districts.

The commission said there were 185 oil well completions and 53 gas well completions. There were 294 drilling applications during the week for an annual total of 6,517 so far.

Commissioners said the allowable decreased 9,950 barrels daily to 2,741,876, and there was a total of 203,434 producing wells.

ways show solicitude about defense.

He reassured the nation the increase in food prices was a necessary but "temporary" measure, the same promise made earlier by the official Communist Party newspaper Pravda.

Khrushchev addressed a Soviet-Cuban friendship meeting in the Kremlin but most of his words were clearly aimed at the Russian people.

He said the "enemies of socialism" would like the Soviet Union to have cut down expenditures on defense and pour the funds into agriculture "and thus create conditions for which the enemies have been waiting a long time...but this will never be."

Khrushchev addressed a friendship rally for 1,000 Cuban farm students who have just completed courses in agriculture in the Soviet Union and are returning home. Also attending the meeting were 5,000 young Russians and space men Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov.

"Not a single politically conscious worker, not a single politically conscious farmer or intellectual would agree to the Soviet Union's defense curtailment in the present conditions," Khrushchev said in a speech reported by the Tass news agency.

The Central Committee of the Soviet Communist Party Friday announced a 30 per cent average increase in the retail price of

A MESSAGE FROM YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD PHARMACY

JUNE, 1962

FATHER'S DAY IS ON JUNE 17th.

Fathers are easily spotted in our pharmacy. We can see the love in their eyes when they purchase perfume for their beloved wives. We notice their pride when they secure their son's first shaving equipment. And we observe the serious consideration they give when getting anything for children.

IF ONE OF THE FAMILY IS SICK —

Father can never hide their deep concern, particularly when waiting impatiently for us to compound a prescription. Nothing is more important to them than their loved ones' health and happiness.

DAD — IS REALLY A WONDERFUL GUY.

We are proud we are given the opportunity to serve him so often. He is the symbol of the community life which has made our country a happy place to live in.

WE SALUTE ALL FATHERS.

May every one of you enjoy many more Father's Days in the years to come. Depend on us for any service or courtesy we can perform for we appreciate you greatly.

'LAD A DOG' — The young girl's governess rushes to attack Lad, the collie, whom she believes has injured Angela Cartwright in this scene from "Lad, a Dog." Albert Payson Terhune's classic dog story. Presented in the Disney-Like tradition the film is photographed in color and will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Capri theatre.

50 Collie Pups To Be Given Away In Movie Contest

Would you like a collie pup like the famous Lad?

Warner Bros. Pictures is offering 50 beautiful collie pups as grand prizes in a national contest for youngsters being conducted in connection with the release of "Lad, a Dog," the Technicolor movie version of Albert Payson Terhune's all-time all-age best-seller.

The little collies will be among 1,600 prizes in the competition for the best letters of 50 words or less, completing the statement, "I'd like a puppy of my own just like Lad because..."

Fifty Zenith AM-FM clock radios also will be awarded to the 50 grand prize winners for their families, with 500 colorful miniature statues of Lad as runner-up prizes, and 1,000 recordings of Johnny Marks' "There Never Was a Dog Like Lad" as honorable mention prizes, according to Paul West, manager of the Capri theatre, where the picture will play in Pampa.

Manager West, in announcing the contest, said the new movie, "Lad, a Dog," will open a three-day engagement at the Capri on Thursday-June 7.

Entries for the contest must be submitted to "Lad, a Dog" Contest Editor, Warner Bros. Pictures, 665 Fifth Avenue, New York 19, New York, postmarked before midnight, September 15, 1962, and all entries are to indicate clearly name, address and age of child.

Each participant also must have a parent or guardian sign the letter indicating permission for the child to keep the puppy, if it is won.

West urged that local boys and girls interested in entering the contest should get their entries to the contest editor in New York as soon as possible.

"Lad, a Dog," introduces a new collie performer, Lad, and stars Peter Breck and Peggy McCay with Angela Cartwright, who plays the little daughter role on the Danny Thomas TV show.

On the same program with "Lad" is a new featurette cartoon, "The Adventures of the Road Runner," a hilarious piece of screen entertainment rounding out this movie bill for the entire family.

Actress Turning Down Television Offers For Films

HOLLYWOOD

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ann-Margret, one of filmland's most sought after new performers, is turning down television offers to concentrate on her movie career.

The attractive and talented performer now is appearing in "Bye Bye Birdie," the movie version of that popular Broadway musical. Before that, her short film career consisted of only two other pictures, "State Fair" and "Pocketful of Miracles."

She has done three major television shows, but her video career received its biggest boost when Ann-Margret appeared on the recent Academy Awards show.

People who never heard of the Swedish-born singer went a way from their television sets that night with a favorable impression of a budding new talent.

She followed that performance with an appearance on Andy Williams' television special. After that, Ann-Margret's career advisers decreed that more movies and less television would be more beneficial to her for the time being.

There's an old saying in show business, "leave 'em asking for more," and right now that's the

'Music Man' May Be One Of Best Musicals Made

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Preston marches into the nation's movie theaters next month portraying the larcenous "Music Man" in a movie which could be one of Hollywood's "greatest" musicals.

That accolade for a Warner Bros. film version of the Meredith Willson musical is not unlike boasts for other pictures in a town which uses words like "stupendous," "tremendous" and "colossal" as most folks say "fair."

However, this time movieland's cheer leaders come close to being right. "Music Man" is a foot-tapping story which swings along with the best filmed since sound movies were invented.

There's not a message in the whole 18 reels which show "Professor Harold Hill," a fake music teacher, dancing and singing his way through Mason City, Ia., peddling band instruments and uniforms to gullible natives.

If there is a message, it's "be careful from whom you buy your next trombone. Nobody can argue with that."

"Music Man" was credited long ago with taking Preston's acting career out of horse opera low gear. For years, Bob was a favorite Western villain often seen dressed in black and riding a dark horse.

Preston created "Professor Hill's" role on Broadway, played it for more than two years on stage. Then he landed the movie part, a job sought by many stars.

Bob was back in town the other day from his New York home to rehearse for NBC-TV's Sunday night Dinah Shore Show. He'll sing such famous "Music Man" numbers as "76," as "76 s," "Good-bye famous 'Music Man' numbers as '76 Trombones,' "Good-night My Someone" and "Trouble."

just a towel. That's all she's wearing in the hilarious steam bath sequence with Jimmy.

IRMA RETURNS—Marie Wilson, better known as "Irma, the dumb blonde," is back on the screen after a seven-year absence. She teams with Jimmy Stewart in "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation." Here, the two are trapped in a bath, one of the film's hilarious scenes and, once again, Irma proves she's tops as a lame brain—for entertainment only.

About "Irma," however, Marie Wilson wasn't so smart.

She made "Irma" famous but "Irma" didn't make Marie filthy rich, as it should have done. The hit television show ran in those days when television thought about film only in toothpaste commercials. The "My Friend Irma" television shows — more than 100 — were all live and not even taped. That's the way the network wanted it and now it is a classic memory of why television series went to tape.

In today's market, those 100 "Irma" shows on tape would be worth a couple of million to Marie, who says, "It's something I don't think about any more because every time I do I look around for a wall to beat my head on for not demanding film at the time."

But if anyone gets the bright idea of returning "Irma" to television, on film, the loot will bring her running. "I can't go around Hollywood in a low-cut dress to prove I'm in shape," she laughs, "but I always wear a good tight belt and it's almost as good."

The low-cut dress and some of Irma's chatter remain in her last name is Bolton, was born in Sweden and came to this country with her parents when she was six years old. The family settled in Illinois.

Before arriving in Hollywood, the young performer worked with a trio in California and Nevada.

New-Fashioned Spy Never Wore Cloak Or Dagger

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One recent enchanted evening a lady at the canape table pointed across the crowded room to a bearded stranger standing by the bar.

"There's someone you ought to meet," said she.

"How so?" said I.

"He used to be a spy," she said, "and he has written a book about his experiences. I understand that he's a fine writer but a lousy spy."

Mother always told me to beware of bearded strangers, but curiosity overcame me. I picked my way through the milling herd and shortly was talking with Peter Tompkins, who introduced himself as the author of "A Spy In Rome."

He explained that he was once a newspaper correspondent in Italy and that during the war he spent five months behind the lines as an intelligence agent for the Office of Strategic Services (OSS).

As tactfully as possible, I mentioned what the lady had said about his being a better writer than a spy.

"Actually I was a very good spy," Tompkins said. "This criticism comes from people who have never been spies themselves. They have fixed notions about how a spy should operate."

"If a spy doesn't behave in the traditional manner the non-spies sneer at him even if he had excellent results."

I asked Tompkins what he was supposed to have done wrong.

"For one thing, I kept a diary," he said. "That is considered bad form. Traditionally, a spy writes everything on a tiny slip of paper so that if he gets caught he can swallow it."

"What else did you do?" I asked.

"I kept copies of the daily intelligence reports," he said. "Couldn't have managed without them. A spy who destroys everything is likely to get hopelessly confused."

"Anything else?" I said.

"There was a feeling back in headquarters that spies should get their information from the people who had been fighting against," Tompkins said.

"I took the position that the people who had been fighting on our side were likely to be more reliable."

Tompkins insisted that his unorthodox methods paid off, and for all I know they did. But he certainly shattered my illusions about spying.

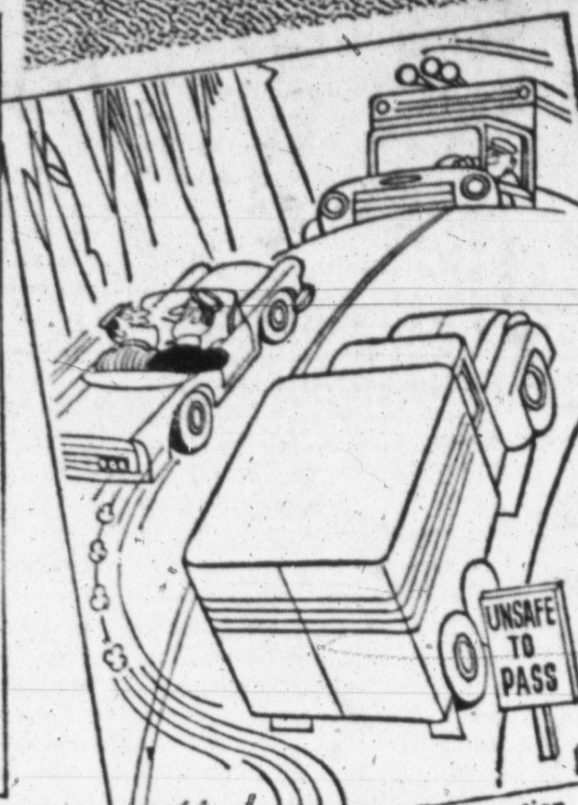

During the entire five months, he never once wore a cloak or carried a dagger.

It's Easy To See Why Reds Want Thailand

UPI Foreign News Analyst

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—To reach the first battle group of the American 27th "Wolfhound" regiment you drive an axle-cracking 60 miles north from Bangkok and then turn eastward for nearly 100 miles along Freedom Highway.

Along the way, men, women and children in conical straw hats resting high off their heads struggle with baskets of earth, laboring side by side with great earth-moving machines building a new military road which will bypass Bangkok.

Water buffalo graze alongside, and in nearby paddies other men and women bend knee-deep in muddy water planting a new rice crop.

For other crops it is harvest time and in the tiny village market places farmers squat beside stacks of bananas, pineapples, mangoes and corn. Naked children stare curiously from the shadows of thatched-roof shops or tall coconut palms.

This is a leisurely land, yet even in the blazing sun few are idle.

It is also rich land where almost any crop pushed into the ground grows, and it is easy to see why it is coveted by Red China where millions are hungry.

Teen-Ager Shoots 3 In Family He Worked For

CHESTERFIELD, Va. (UPI)—A teen-ager who was taken out of school and put to work on a farm because he was too "lazy" to keep up his grades told police in emotionless tones Saturday how he killed the farm family of three because they nagged him about chores.

"He appears as a boy who was talking about killing two or three squirrels or rabbits instead of people," a police officer said in describing the confession of 16-year-old Hubert Templeman III.

The victims of the crime were Fred Hofer, 52, his wife, Lucille, 59, and their 16-year-old daughter, Christie Sue. They were shot to death Friday when they returned home from a shopping trip to nearby Richmond.

Templeman, son of a Richmond furniture store owner, said he had been planning the ambush for two days. He told detective John Phillips that Mrs. Hofer had been nagging him about not doing his farm chores properly.

Templeman, once a member of his high school rifle team, said he lay in wait in an upstairs bedroom until the Hofers drove into the yard, located about a quarter mile off a rural highway.

He said he killed Hofer, who weighed 280 pounds, with a hunting rifle and shot down Mrs. Hofer with a shotgun.

Their daughter ran screaming into the house, he said, and tried to call police.

The youth said he considered tying her up, but shot her in the stomach with a .22-caliber rifle when she rushed past him toward the door. She staggered into the yard, he said, and he fired four more shots until she collapsed.

Templeman said he took Hofer's check book and the car, which still contained groceries from the shopping trip, and drove West. He said he planned to hide out in a shack he knew about in the mountains of Grayson County.

He was about 50 miles shy of his destination when state police stopped him in Hofer's car in mountainous Floyd County, more than 150 miles southwest of here. He had three rifles and a shotgun in the car but gave up without a struggle.

He was charged with "murder and held without bond pending a Juvenile Court hearing next week.

The youth had been working on the Hofer's modest dairy farm for $610 a month and room and board since last January. Police said he had been taken out of school because he was "lazy" and a clergyman aided in placing him on the farm in an effort to help him. He had attended several private and public schools.

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—"I do not believe that our economy is going to collapse," says Roger E. Spear, head of Spear & Staff, Inc., the big investment advisory service.

"Should business begin to falter, it may be expected that the government will use every means at its command to head off a possible recession, or if one develops, to make it a shallow one."

Spear says "It is now the time when investors should forget about the Dow (averages) and start looking for bargains."

Technical probabilities over the next six months are favorable for the market, says James F. Hughes of Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath — but if they cannot do more for the average than cancel a fraction of the recent decline, "the market may be faced with its first major threat since 1937."

Goodbody & Co. says "We have been saying for some weeks now that we may have a fairly dull market over the next two or three months, and an absence of any major price movement. However, the market has now gone into such a broadly oversold condition that it may merit a significant upside correction."

NEW YORK (UPI) — John A. Kemper Co. says the difference, historically, between the present bone-crusher and the other modern major reactions in 1953, 1957, and 1960, is that it has retraced more than 50 per cent of the previous upward movement.

Historically, when this happens, it says, the "grand cycle" is broken and the long-term bull market is dead. In the past, it adds, such action has not only closed out the bull market it was correcting; it has predicted and led into recession or depression in general business.

These conclusions, however, are based on the Dow theory, "which has often been wrong, or late, so that few sophisticated Wall Streeters follow it religiously," Kemper notes.

New York Boasts Of Plush Track

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI)—A dream came true today for three kids from the sidewalks of New York in the Seneca country of the Iroquois nation.

Three years ago they stood in the middle of a corn field in this lush green and gently rolling country. Then it could have been as if time stood still and Walter Butler still was sending his Indian allies down through the valleys to harass the upper New York state settlers.

Today, on those same fields, they opened a glistening $5 million race track, the first new franchise in the Empire State since 1903.

Three guys who sued to play handball in the playgrounds of New York and dream of the time when they might hit it big. Which all of them did. For now Arnold Krakower is an attorney who represents many Hollywood personalities. Duke Manacher is a big man in the retail coal and fuel oil business. And the third, Leonard Tuttmann, is a man with hotel interests in New York and Puerto Rico.

Three kids off the sidewalks, who hit it big. And who will hit it even bigger here in the fertile Genesee Valley which brags that it is finer bay country for horses than the blue grass of Kentucky or any other part of the nation.

It is a provocative region, rich in history, and in scenic splendor. Five miles from this new race track is the first of the six "Finger Lakes" which long have been a tourist attraction. There are 10 state parks where the last of the Mohicans became a legend, historic old homes whose charm is cherished in treasured furnishings and authentic architecture, summer theaters and scenic cruises.

The horse was here long ago, and again there is a connection between the past and the present. Because shortly after the turn of the century a landed lady named Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth here developed a stallion station for the benefit of the Army's cavalry remount service.

She was, in passing, a cousin to Senator James Wadsworth, whose son succeeded Henry Cabot Lodge as the U.S. representative to the United Nations. A gentleman, it might be added, who was referred to by the Soviet's Nikita Khrushchev as "that big fat potato."

Family pride aside, the Wadsworth family started the Genesee Valley trend toward breeding of the Thoroughbred mare. In this connection, the Finger Lakes race track feels that it is one of the few—if any—in the nation which really believes in the old racing hierarchy line about "improvement of the breed."

Because since this track has been in the making, the number of foals raised in this area has increased 67 per cent and already this year is up 30 per cent again.

They aren't going to let it drop there. This new track is situated—200 acres. There are 300 additional acres where the management plans a luxurious motel complete with Olympic-sized swimming pool as well as a pitch-and-putt golf course to cater to those who attend the track's 100-day meeting as well as the casual to this area by its scenic wonders.

The three kids from the sidewalks apparently have it made. Their plant is within whispering distance of the New York Thoroughbred in the heart of an ideal vacation land and somewhat midway between the thriving cities of Rochester and Syracuse.

"I can't believe it yet that we've really got it going," says Krakower, the handball kid who became one of the nation's top attorneys.

Neither would the Indians.

Mohawk, Dixie Parts Win In Little Loop

David Schaub tossed a three-hitter Thursday night as Mohawk downed One Bull, 11-2 in a Western little league contest.

Donney Snapp was the losing pitcher.

Schaub had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning when Charlie Price slapped a single out over second base. Schaub struck out 13 and walked three.

Schaub, with a single, double and triple and Fortin with two doubles led the winners at the plate.

In an Eastern league game, Dixie Parts won over Duncan Insurance, 7-3.

Bill Davis was the winning pitcher, allowing but three hits. Darrell Smith was the losing pitcher.

Don Carlton lead the winners with the timber with two home runs while Smith helped his own cause with a home run.

Smith gave up seven hits.

In a Pony league game, Ideal won over Cree Drilling, 9-2.

Daniels was the winning pitcher while Crossland was the loser.

Brumfield, with two for two and Harper and Bray led the winners at the plate while Abbott and Largent picked up the two hits for Cree.

In a minor league farm tilt, Tom Rose swamped Elks, 21-6.

Johnny Moore was the winning pitcher while Mike Hargus was the loser.

Leading hitters were Moore with four for five, including one home run and eight runs batted in; Charlie Buzzard with five for five and scoring five runs; Douglas Davis, four for five, including two doubles, two singles and scoring three runs.

Berle Brister had five for five, including two triples, two doubles and a single; Steve Hall had four for four and scored three runs; Also, Ray Stewart had one for five; Phillip Johnson had two for four; Steve Scarbrough had one for four and Tim Jones had two for four.

Hudson Wins Senior Class Golf Tournament Title

Leonard Hudson fired a two-round total of 147 Thursday to cop the Jaycee Golf tournament at the Pampa country club course.

Jim Deaton copped the junior division title with a two-round total of 83.

Hudson had a 75 for the first round last Tuesday and then fired a 72 Thursday to win the two-day tournament.

Results in the senior division included Hudson, 147; Thuck Worley, 161; Allen Neece, 166; Michael Adams, 169; Freddie Howard, 170; Skip Warren, 172; Phillip Pendleton, 181; Eddie Joe Windom, 186; Marvin Branson, 187; Phil Hall, 197.

The Pepsi Cola Bottling Company of Amarillo co-sponsored the Senior title in the tournament.

Brooks To Play For Houston Team

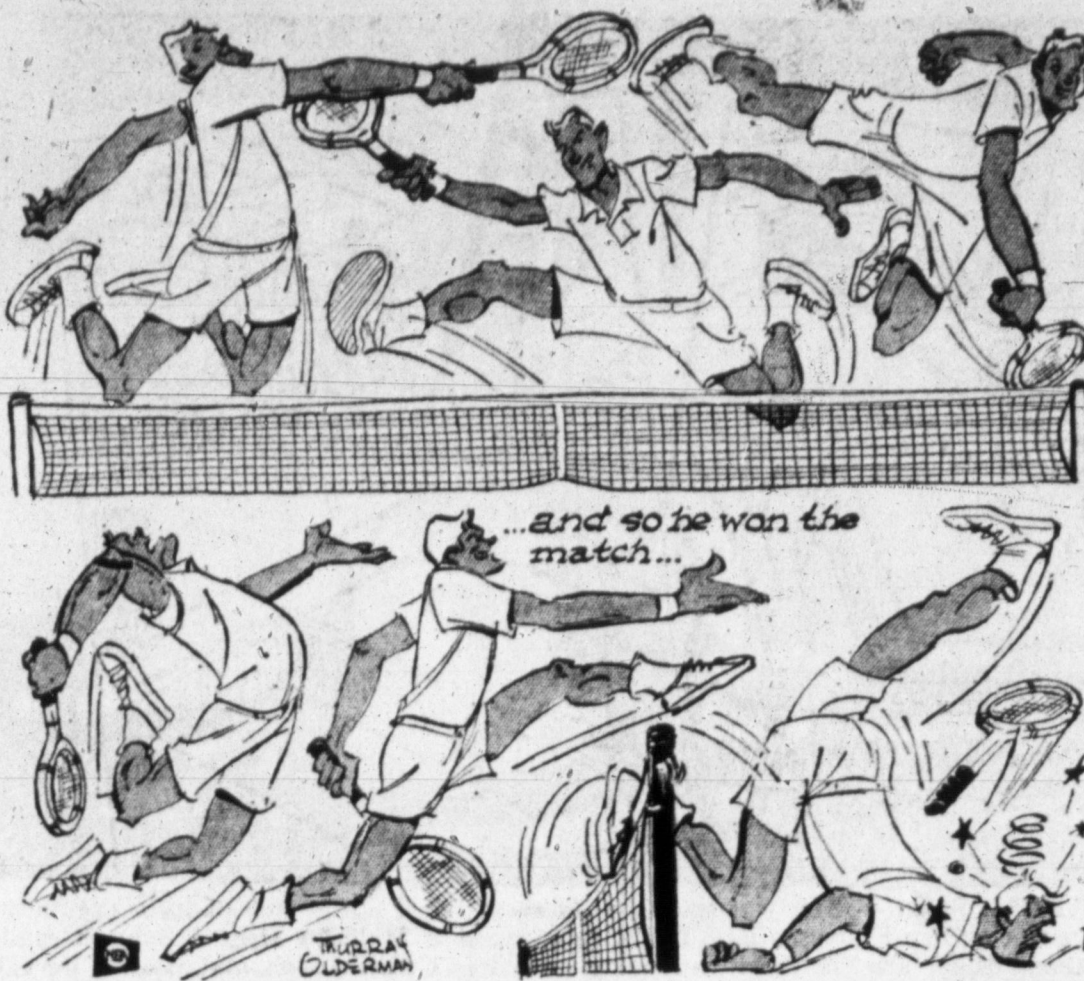

HOUSTON (UPI)—Joe Brooks, 230-pound Paul's Valley, Okla., High School all-state tackle and honor student, announced Saturday he plans to enroll at the University of Houston in September to study engineering.

Brooks told former University of Oklahoma star J. D. Roberts, now an assistant coach at Houston, he chose the school over scholarship offers from Kansas, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and the Air Force Academy.

He was graduated last week from Paul's Valley with a near-A average for four years' work. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks of Miami, Ariz.

FRACTURED FINALE

Stan Musial Out For More Records

NEW YORK (UPI)—Notes from the baseball beat:

Outfielder John Callison of the Phils credits his 300-plus batting average to a spring training tip from Rogers Hornsby, coach of the Mets.

"Don't squeeze the bat handle as though you were trying to crush it to splinters," the Rajah told Callison. "That locks your wrist and forearm muscles and impedes your swing. Hold the bat with a relaxed grip."

Here's a baseball question that could win you a bet in your office, shop or barroom. There are nine brother combinations in the major leagues. How many can you name?

They are: Ken and Clete Boyer; Hank and Tommy Aaron; Felipe and Matty Alou; Larry and Norm Sherry; Jim and Gaylord Perry; Frank and Joe Torre; Ken and Bob Aponte; Dick (coach) and Dave Sisler and Bob and Ed Sadowski.

In retrospect, the Houston Colts guessed far better than the New York Mets on the four $125,000 "premium" players each team selected last October. Dick Farrell has a 4-4 pitching record for the Colts. Joe Amalfitano and Hal Smith play regularly and Al Spangler is platooned in the outfield. For the Mets, Jay Hook is 3-5 and Bob Miller 0-2, while Don Zimmer was traded and Lee Walls sent to the Dodgers in the Charlie Neal deal.

Manager Bob Scheffing of the Tigers says: "If we can just stay two games behind the league lead by July 4, I'll be tickled to death. We should have Al Kaline back a week later."

Camilo Pascual of the Minnesota Twins says he's a better pitcher, because he has learned to pace himself in the early innings and save some good stuff for late in the game. Yankee manager Ralph Houk says Pascual is the best pitcher in the American League right now.

Next two milestones on Stan (The Man) Musial's record-breaking list are Mel Ott's National League record of 1,880 RBIs and Ty Cobb's major league mark of 5,883 total bases. As of Thursday night, he was 26 short of Ott's mark and 31 bases away from Cobb's.

Bass Are Ornerly In Habitat

United Press International

Fishing from your boat is always fun, but where do you start looking if the fish are not biting?

The Evinnude Boating Foundation has some new angles for anglers to locate fish and catch them even if they are not feeding.

If you are in a bass area, first remember they are ornerly enough to strike a lure whether or not they are hungry.

To locate fish, remember most game fish tend to school in deep holes or sanctuaries and go to shallows to feed. They always follow the same migration route, usually a bar or ledge.

Fish spend about 95 per cent of their time in the sanctuary and migration route, only about 5 per cent feeding.

A point of land jutting out into the water usually continues as an underwater bar and may well be a migration route. This is the point to start your search.

Working out from the point of land, try a bottom-bumping spoon plug and troll back and forth over the area with your outboard motor set at a fairly high speed.

If this doesn't work, continue to deeper water, changing to heavier lures to keep them on the bottom. Troll at varying but faster degrees of speed and cover a wide area from the point of land.

A strike may mean you have located the fish. Remember the spot, cast again, and if you get a second strike, anchor and keep on casting.

The system of fast trolling with bottom-bumping lures is more than a theory—those using it have been getting bigger catches. If locating fish is your problem, give it a try.

State Sen. William T. Moore of Bryan announced in Austin Thursday he will introduce legislation at the next session of the Legislature to end fishing and boating licenses or permits on public lakes.

"The use of water by these people (boating and fishing) does not reduce the supply nor does recreational use render it unfit for other purposes," Moore said.

"Sportsmen already pay taxes that amount to 12 per cent of the cost on fishing tackle, firearms and ammunition plus a $2.15 fishing license and $3.15 hunting license," Moore said.

Javelinas Should Be Respected

United Press International

Some hazy facts about javelina habits on the range and in captivity still puzzle Texans.

Although the Texas Game and Fish Commission handbook says they rarely attack man, javelinas (technically collared peccaries) sometimes surprise.

Last week in Houston, a veteran zoo keeper sustained a bad wound from a young boar while the man was cleaning pens. The javelina charged out of his chute and slashed open a gash in the attendant's leg that required 20 stitches.

Most sportsmen believe javelinas will not attack unless provoked or wounded. But what amounts to provocation?

This hunter once saw two hunters get in a tight situation while deer hunting near Cotulla.

The hunters had given up the day as lost at noon and were walking leisurely back to their car through brush when they ambled into the midst of a pack of javelinas rooting for food.

Before the hunters could fire, a sow charged them. It took four hits from a .22 long rifle hollow point shells to bring the enraged animal down.

The hunters saw a few moments later why mama javelina wanted them out of her territory. They had been between the sow and her pigs, causing the frenzied charge.

"That can be real trouble," Cecil Reid, executive secretary of the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas said. "Although they are by nature shy animals, you have to be careful sometimes."

Reid says there is no better eating than a young javelina, roasted on an open fire. "It is very tasty and much like a lean pork roast."

After a javelina gets over half grown the meat is usually tough and tends to keep a musk smell which is part of the animal's defense mechanism.

Giants Are On Top Once Again

NEW YORK (UPI)—The homecoming San Francisco Giants extended the New York Mets' losing streak to 14 games Saturday by sweeping a doubleheader, winning the opener, 10-1, with the help of home runs by Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda, and the nightcap, 6-4, on Harvey Kuenn's eighth inning homer.

A crowd of 41,001, once again dividing its cheers between the Giants and the struggling Mets, watched San Francisco regain sole possession of first place in the National League with their 10th victory in the last 11 games.

The Mets battled back from a four-run deficit to tie the score in the second game, but Kuenn's homer off loser Craig Anderson with a man on base decided the outcome.

Spahn Notches Up 315th Major League Victory

CHICAGO (UPI)—Pinch-hitter Wally Post slugged a home run into the leftfield stands Saturday to round out a three-run rally with two outs in the ninth and give the Cincinnati Reds a 3-2 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Post's blow came on the third pitch by reliever Dick Ellsworth with pinch runner Joe Gaines on base. Ellsworth took over from starter Glen Hobbie after Gerry Lynch doubled to score Marty Keough, on with a single, for the Reds' first run.

The blast gave the Reds their fourth straight win, their ninth victory in the last 10 games, and their 22nd in the last 28 games. It extended the Cubs' losing streak to five games and eighth losses in their last nine starts.

is Mike Welch with 317 victories. The Braves' amazing 41-year-old left-hander also shot a couple of days ahead of last year's pace with his 6-5 mark. His sixth victory last year came on June 4.

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Rookie Joe Bonkowski scattered nine hits Saturday to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 9-2 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lenny Green highlighted an 11-hit Minnesota attack with a three-run homer in the seventh off reliever Ed Hobaugh. The homer was Green's sixth.

The Twins blasted Washington starter Pete Burnside for four runs in the opening frame.

test. With two out, Bob Skinner walked, Stuart singled, and Clemente hit his fifth homer into the right field stands. Smoky Burgess followed with a single and Hoak tripled off the right field wall.

DETROIT (UPI)—Homers by Charley Maxwell, Billy Bruton and Rocky Colavito Saturday gave the Detroit Tigers a 5-3 victory over the first-place Cleveland Indians and Dick Donovan, who failed in his second bid for his ninth win.

It was the second straight loss for the hawk-nosed Cleveland right-hander, who had reeled off eight straight victories.

Maxwell hit his first homer of the season with the bases empty in the first inning off Donovan but John Romano off starter Jim Bunning tied it 1-all for the Tribe in the second with his eighth circuit-clout.

Maxwell then singled off Donovan with the bases loaded in the third jumping the Tigers lead to 3-1. Bruton's eighth home run off the facing of the third deck in right field in the fifth put the Tigers out in front, 4-1.

MILWAUKEE (UPI) Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, baseball's winningest active pitcher, posted his 315th victory Saturday by subduing the floundering Cardinals, 4-1, on a six-hitter.

It was the St. Louis club's seventh consecutive defeat and its 10th loss in 11 games.

Spahn, who won his sixth of the year, thus came within two triumphs of 10th place among the all-time winners. His next target

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates parlayed longball power with Vernon Law's 10-hit pitching Saturday to defeat the Houston Colts, 9-2, for their seventh straight victory.

Law Ordered Dismissed Because Of Picketing

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI)—A Savannah baseball club official Saturday demanded the dismissal of W. W. Law, controversial Negro mail carrier, for picketing the segregated ball park here.

Law, head of the Georgia NAACP, was identified in a photograph as being among a group of Negroes picketing the ball park because it segregates both Negro players and spectators.

Julius Fine, vice president of the Savannah White Sox of the Class A South Atlantic League, asked Savannah postmaster Randall Zitttrouer to investigate whether Law violated postal regulations.

Zitttrouer declined public comment but a spokesman for the U. S. Post Office Department in Washington told United Press International that picketing would not violate postal regulations.

Law was fired last year on charges of violating several other regulations and later was reinstated under circumstances that Hebert's brother, Lionel, supplied the low round of the day with a sizzling 64. His 29 on the par 36 backside followed a one-over-par 35 on the front nine.

Young Bruce Crampton of Sidney, Australia, who shot the lowest round of the tourney with a 63 Friday, stayed in a three-way tie for fourth place with National Champion Gene Littler and Tommy Jacobs.

Littler, Jacobs and Crampton tallied 68's to remain in contention for first place cash of $6,400. Julius Boros and first-round leader Gay Brewer Jr. were two strokes back at 70.

Arnold Palmer, golf's leading money winner with $59,308, started his famed finishing kick with a four-under-par 68.

Two Tied In Golf Meet

BEAUMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Kathy Cornelius shot an even par 73 Saturday to move into a second-round tie with Betsy Rawls at 146 in the 10th annual $7,500 Babe Zaharias Women's Open golf tournament, four strokes ahead of the field.

Miss Rawls paced the field after Friday's first round with a one-under-par 72 but she slipped to 74 Saturday. Miss Rawls, of Spartanburg, S. C., three-putted the 10th green for a bogey five to put her one over par.

A birdie on the 17th hole spelled the difference from Miss Cornelius, of Phoenix, Ariz.

The two leaders were four strokes ahead of a threesome at 150 — Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Betty Jameson of San Antonio and Ruth Jensen of Seattle, Wash., after 36 holes.

Saturday's best round over the 6,219-yard Beaumont Country Club layout was a 71 undered by Kathy Whitworth of Jai, N.M. She toured the course in 34-37, two under par.

Miss Rawls had trouble with her irons, and used 30 putts in her one-over-par round. Miss Cornelius had 29 putts, and had five birdies to offset five bogeys to make her par.

Overcast Is New Miami Cage Coach

CANADIAN (Sp) — Lawrence Overcast, basketball coach in Canadian high school for the past three seasons, has resigned his post here to take a similar position in the Miami schools.

Coach Overcast will succeed John Turner at Miami. Turner resigned last week.

His resignation here leaves open both basketball and assistant football coaching jobs. Ned Jolly was appointed to the dual job of head football coach and athletic director this spring, after the resignation of grid coach Red Cleveland, who left at mid-term to take an assistant coaching assignment with the Amarillo high school Sandies.

Overcast is a graduate of Sanbornwood high school, where he made the all-state team in 1952, and played with the West Texas State College Buffaloes.

After graduating from college, he coached at Vega and Quail before coming to Canadian three years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Overcast left Canadian after the close of school last week, and will live in Canyon this summer where Overcast will work on a Master's degree at West Texas State College before moving to Miami in September for the opening of the fall term of school.

Paul Brown Is On The Spot As Brown's Coach

NEW YORK (UPI)—It won't come as any surprise to Paul Brown, although it may secretly aggravate the coach of the Cleveland Browns, that he is being readied today for his annual spot on the spot.

Apparently it was inevitable, in view of the fact that Cleveland obtained Syracuse's Ernie Davis to go with crumpling Jim Brown. Anyhow, all of the pre-season grid magazines will pick the Browns to roll right over everything.

They seemingly overlook a little matter named defense, even though it long has been proved in pro football that you can score all you want but you'll go under if the other team scores more because of your weak defense.

Possibly it's the price of success, but Brown hasn't made the playoffs the last four years. It has resulted in growing rumbles as to whether he has "slipped." Nothing was ever siller.

Brown can stand on his record completely unabashed, even his record of the last four years when—as the favorite of the gridiron soothsayers—he finished tied for first only to lose a playoff, twice second and a photo finish third last time out.

He'll have his troubles this year too, because, defensively, the Browns are on the thin side. He has two experienced linebackers in Galen Fiss and Vince Costello. But Walt Michaels retired and Brown had to give up Dave Lloyd to Detroit as part of the deal which got him quarterback Jim Nowinski for Milt Plum.

If he can't deal for a frontline linebacker, he has to be in difficulty because in the pro leagues you don't make it with rookies.

One item on Brown's side is that the remainder of the league is jumbled, too. The Giants are a question mark after their 37-0 playoff loss to Green Bay. Their problem is development of an offensive line. Philadelphia is in the same unprogressive ship.

St. Louis had a heap of injuries. Pittsburgh lacks the offensive power it seemingly will need. Dallas is too young to make a big bid and Washington faces another rough season despite a good backfield.

Brown's problem has been in finishing so high for so long that he has to sit on his hands during the annual draft until the cream has been skimmed off the top. That's because the lowest teams get the first draft choices.

Another unconsidered item is that coaching has reached dizzying levels. Instead of Brown "slipping" it's merely a case of the rest having built up to where they can compete with him. His record proves what a chore that has been.

Brown started in pro ball by winning four straight championships, all there were, in the now defunct All-America Conference. Stepping into the National League he took six straight division titles and three championships. He finished fourth in 1956 and won the division title again in 1957.

As a pro coach, he has won 160 against 47 losses and seven ties. His overall mark, including games at Severn Prep (16-1-1), Massillon, Ohio High School (81-7-2), Ohio State (18-8-1) and Great Lakes (15-5-2) is 290 victories against 6 defeats and 13 ties.

It's apparent that he's really slipping—right into the football history books.

YMCA Offering Swim Lessons

PERRYTON (Sp) — Applications are now being taken at the Young Men's Christian Association for swimming instruction classes to begin Monday, June 11.

The YMCA is offering swim classes to boys and girls ages 5 and above as well as beginning and advanced ladies swim classes. Courses range from beginners to junior and senior life saving. Those completing the life saving course will receive both a YMCA and Red Cross certification.

The swim classes are presented on a YMCA membership basis. An individual membership fee is $10.00 and a family membership fee is $25.00. Applications are now being accepted at the YMCA office, 8 SW 4th or call 435-3691.

Wills Is Stealing Everything He Can

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stop that thief! If that man Maury Wills isn't arrested soon, he'll steal Ty Cobb's record.

Wills stole three more bases Thursday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the hapless New York Mets, 6-1, for their 11th straight victory, and he now has 27 thefts in 10 attempts.

Project that phenomenal pace through a 162-game scheduled and the figure comes out slightly more than 89. Which is not too far behind the immortal Cobb's 96 in 1915.

Little Maury laughed, though, when someone pointed that out to him. To the modern ballplayer, Cobb's base-stealing record is even farther out of reach than Nuth's 60 homers.

"I don't think I can keep up this pace," Wills said. "As the season wears on and the weather becomes hotter, I won't be able to steal this much. It takes too much out of you."

Someone chimed in, "And you won't be running against the Mets all season long, either."

Wills has stolen seven of his bases against the Mets, whose catchers have thrown out only 11 runners in 44 base-stealing attempts this season.

To the Dodgers' mercurial, 163-pound shortstop, once rejected by the Detroit Tigers, base stealing is an art and a joy.

Wills is fully aware of the old baseball adage that "home run hitters ride in Cadillacs," but he's serious about raising base stealing to the level of where it could earn him enough to buy a fancy car too.

"I'd like to make it sufficiently worth while so that I might mention it around contract time," he said with a smile.

Wills has a lot in his favor this season. The Dodgers are not a power hitting team. Their new home ball park is not tailored for long ball hitting. They have to score runs one at a time, on singles, bunts and stolen bases.

And Wills has been given the okay by manager Walt Alston to steal when he feels like it.

"They're playing my type of game," grinned the wiry, 29-year-old infielder.

Wills emphasized, however, that "I've never stolen a base unless it had an important bearing on the game. I've never tried to steal when we were far out in front or far behind."

Little Loop Baseball To Start Soon

LEFORS (Sp) — Girls Summer recreation softball will begin Thursday and last through July 26th. Games will be played each Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Little League baseball will be played each week on Monday, Tuesday and Friday, beginning Monday through July 26th, with a double header each night at 6 p.m. and the second game promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Tennis is scheduled for each Tuesday and Friday of each week beginning June 12 and continuing through July 27th, between 9 and 11 a.m.

Teen Age Baseball is scheduled today through Aug. 5th.

Workouts scheduled for the baseball teams for the summer are Mondays for the Cards; Tuesdays for the Cubs; Thursdays for the Giants; Fridays for the Yanks, all in the afternoon. Girls softball will work out in the mornings.

Wynn Is Rough In League Play

NEW YORK (UPI)—Burly Gus Wynn is a mean old cuss, meanest man in baseball.

That's the legend surrounding Early (Gus) Wynn of the Chicago White Sox and he does nothing to discourage it. When he's pitching but that's only a means to an end, he means business — the current goal being 300 major league victories. He just reached 295.

For more than 25 years, Early's business has been pitching and he believes it's good for business to let the hitters think he's mean enough to fire at their heads if necessary.

"He'd throw at his own grandmother," Frank Lane said once.

And Early did admit he once threw a "duster" at his son during a batting practice session because junior was looking the other way instead of concentrating on his work. Early insists on "business only" during working hours.

Thus, the legend is preserved though there's no record of his having disabled any of the enemy.

At 42, Wynn is the oldest, big leaguer as far as can be determined from official records and it took more than just being around a long time to approach the 300-victory total achieved by only 13 other pitchers in all of baseball history.

For one thing, he was sentenced right from the start of his major league career to spend eight frustrating seasons with the old Washington Senators. The Nats finished sixth, seventh or eighth in all but one of the years Early was around for a full season. Clubs like those weren't much help to a pitcher shooting for the moon.

Further, every week or so there were rumors Wynn would be traded to greener pastures. It's tough for a guy to do his best under such circumstances but Wynn just seemed to get meaner and tougher and to be a harder loser every time he lost—which was often. He was 74-87 for his Washington career.

The trades came later and he went to contenders both times, to Cleveland for nine years and then to Chicago where he is in his fifth campaign. He had four seasons at 20 or better for Cleveland and as the White Sox won the 1959 pennant he finished with 22-10, the top pitcher in baseball.

A year ago, Wynn and Warren Spahn of the Braves looked like shoo-ins to join the 300-club but only Spahn made it. Early came down with an arm ailment in mid-season, didn't pitch again, and finished with an 8-2 record—eight victories short of 300.

The trouble was traced to an attack of gout, the "rich man's" disease of the good old days, for which the well-paid Wynn took his share of ribbing.

After a long session of medication, Early began to regain form this spring and while he hasn't been exactly overpowering all the time he sure has had his moments.

One big one came Monday when he stopped the Indians on three hits for his 29th victory and 47th shutout. That put in record at 3-3 for the year.

Five more, and he's in with the greatest winners of all time.

BY JIMENEZ — Maury Jimenez is about to be congratulated by Gino Cimoli after the Kansas City recruit outfielder hit a two-run home run at Fenway Park in Boston. The catcher is John Tiltman; Jimenez is making an early bid for the A.L. championship with a batting average of .383.

Mejias Is Pride Of Colts With Early Season Hits

HOUSTON (UPI) — With Major League baseball less than two months old in Houston—a little Cuban named Roman Mejias has emerged as this newest of National League cities' first hero of the game called the national pastime.

The 21-year-old Mejias started with two home runs against the Chicago Cubs on opening day and steadily has moved into position as the Colts' most valuable player.

Through 46 games, he is Houston's leading hitter at just under the 300 mark and leads in home runs with 12, runs batted in with 30, hits with 55, and runs 25.

At his present home run pace, Mejias should wind up the season with about 40. But he says he would be happy to get 25 and "if I get 30, it will be a great year for me."

The six-foot, 175-pound right fielder went virtually unappreciated for six seasons with the Pittsburgh Pirates, picking up only 17 home runs over that period while playing infrequently.

Mejias believes his opportunity to play steady with the Colts has for the first time given him a chance to really see what he can do.

But the fact that he is Houston's best long-ball hitter by far "surprises me more than anyone else," he said.

"In spring I worked hard just to be patient and wait for the ball," he said. "I hit with my wrists and arms only. Before, I was a line drive hitter, not a home run hitter."

"The fences were a thousand miles away," Mejias said. "To day, none of the fences are too far away. I think of the home run more because I know I can hit the ball far."

Nostalgia Lurks At Polo Grounds

NEW YORK (UPI) — The old lady was really smiling, a painted dowager consigned to impoverished loneliness whose friends suddenly appeared just as if they hadn't been away five years.

For more than a half century she had been the salon of baseball greatness. Then they deserted her to the pigeons and the lowly company of occasional minor events.

But they turned back the clock for the ancient Polo Grounds Wednesday.

It was as if they had never been away. For it was New York against the Dodgers and it didn't matter that the home forces were called the "Mets" nor that those who once trekked in from across the river now had commuted all the way from a city called Los Angeles.

It was just like old times. There were 55,704 in the crowd, the old lady embraced with memorable fondness—the eighth largest she ever entertained and one so obviously divided with its thunderous cheers and lustily belated roars of disdain for both sides.

"Go back home, you bums," they shouted when those Dodgers clattered down the cleat-pitted narrow steps from the antique clubhouse in centerfield.

"Yeah, you Dodgers," their deserted but still loyal legions clamored in the counter-balance which hadn't been heard since they went away the last time in 1957.

There were only seven of them still active with the Dodgers who remembered when Duke Snider, Don Drysdale, Johnny Podres, Sandy Koufax, Jim Gilliam, John Roseboro, and Ed Roebuck. And along with them, manager Walter Alton and Leo Durocher, the coach they call "The Lip."

There were others among the home forces — Gil Hodges, Char-

Wheeler Hoping For Pro Golf Success

DALLAS (UPI) — Saucy Sherry Wheeler has always been sort of a "worry wart" and she hopes she can be one to the established veterans among the nation's touring lady golf professionals.

The attractive young Kentuckian, less than a week out of college with a teaching degree in elementary education, makes her debut Friday as a feminine pro in the opening round of the Babe Zaharias Open at Beaumont, Tex.

Miss Wheeler has never cut a wide swath in leading amateur circles, but she's been runnerup in such recognized tournaments as the Trans-Miss, Southern and U. S. Golf Association Junior Championships. And she won the Western Junior title.

Since one does not usually get that far up the ladder without clearing some pretty tough hurdles, her amateur background is not to be ignored.

It was during one of her sorties in the Southern Amateur at the age of 18 that Miss Wheeler first attained a measure of national fame.

In an interview after she had proceeded to upset a top-ranking favorite in the 1958 Southern in Dallas, Miss Wheeler was asked what she was thinking about as the pressure mounted in the match.

"Nothing much," she replied. "I just kept singing the words to 'The Purple People Eater' over and over."

Her quote received nationwide circulation in newspapers and a national magazine.

"I'm still singing, but not the same tune," she said.

To Miss Wheeler golf is "sort of a disease." She has been playing it since given a set of clubs at the age of 13 by friends of her family who mainly had in mind "to shut me up," she explained.

As for turning pro, Miss Wheeler said she felt she would "never really be happy until I tried it."

She doesn't know how long she will keep at the play-for-pay side of the game.

"I plan to play with the pros through the summer and early fall," she said, "and then try again next spring. It depends on how well I do, but I have my heart set on teaching, whether it's two, five or 10 years from now."

"In fact, when I'm not playing the tour I hope to do some substitute teaching."

Miss Wheeler received her degree last Friday from Arizona State University, where she attended on an athletic scholarship.

A neatly turned 5-5½, Miss Wheeler boasts one of the game's bigger backswings and figures she can hit "about as far and straight as any of the other girls."

"I realize, however, tournaments are won on the greens," she said. "I may be teaching sooner than I expect if I can't improve my putting."

Dome Funds Will Cover Cost Of Houston Park

HOUSTON (UPI) — Engineer Weldon F. Appelt says he can build Houston's domed stadium with the $12.4 million left in dome funds.

Architects told commissioners court Monday that the proposed domed, air-conditioned stadium could not be built for even as much as $15 million — the original bond issue to construct the stadium.

Appelt said Thursday he was sure he could build the stadium with the remaining funds. He said he was willing to accept the difference between the cost and the budget as his fee.

His plan is to build an arched, sliding-roofed sports stadium from the ground up. He would use nine escalators to get spectators half way up from where they could walk up or down to their designated seats.

"The parabolic arch which I propose is the best possible type as far as acoustics are concerned," Appelt said. "I have already been employed to do the design work for a similar all-year-round recreational center in Canada."

Commissioner W. Kyle Chapman said he felt the new proposal was not what the county residents wanted when they approved the domed stadium bond issue.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we can build a domed stadium for the money we have," Chapman said. "We should build the best. The people all over the world are looking to Houston to build a great domed stadium. If we fail them it would give us a black eye."

Colts Slate Tryout Camp

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Colt 45s announced today that the tryout camp in Rockdale, originally scheduled for June 6, 7, and 8 has been rescheduled for July 5, 6, and 7. The other tryout camps will be held in Alice on June 14, 15, and 16, and in Tyler on June 28, 29 and 30.

Youngsters attending the camps must be between the ages of 15 and 25. American Legion ball players are required to have a letter of permission from their Legion Post commander.

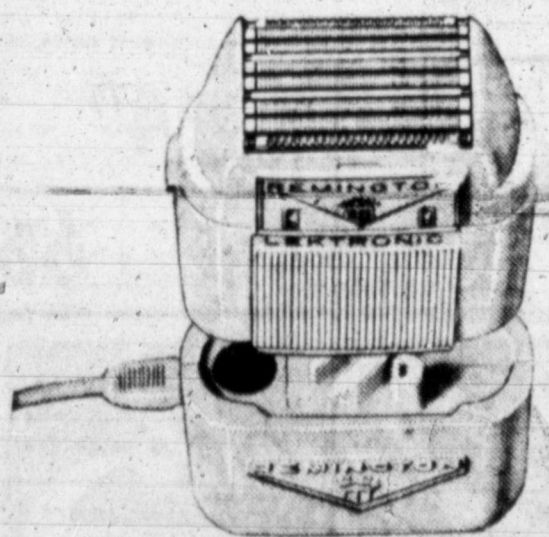

Each youngster will furnish his own glove, baseball shoes and uniform, in addition to paying his own expenses. Any player signed out of the tryout camps by the Colt 45s will be reimbursed for his expenses.

The Lighter Side On Washington Jazz Festival

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—We are having here this week an internal jazz festival sponsored by the President's music committee of the people-to-people program.

I use the pronoun "we" because this is the first administration cultural promotion that I have felt qualified to participate in.

I offer my services not as a musician but as a long-time student of jazz trends and directions, some knowledge of which is essential to the development of a well-rounded personality.

Many people have said to me that they like jazz but it makes them nervous. The reason is that they lack the background to appreciate its nuances and finer points.

As my contribution to the festival, I have prepared some notes on the inner meaning of jazz in the hope that it will help create a broader base of understanding, people-to-people-wise.

In order to grasp what is happening in the jazz world, it must first be understood that jazz moves in cycles, as opposed, for example, to the stock market, which moves in circles.

Each jazz cycle lasts until the musicians begin to suspect that other people are enjoying what they are playing. Then they move on to another cycle. There is nothing more distressing to a jazz musician than the thought that someone, other than himself, enjoys what he is playing.

This is a sure sign that he is slipping and is likely to wind up with Lawrence Welk.

Several years ago, as a desperation measure, jazz moved into the "progressive" cycle in which new sounds were introduced to counteract the "pop" cycle, which was becoming alarmingly enjoyable.

The emphasis was on esoteric arrangements for incompatible instruments, as in "Juke for two flutes and a pneumatic drill."

Jazz audiences, however, are extremely obstinate and before long they were enjoying that, too. The musicians, therefore, were forced to move into the current cycle, known as "third stream."

The third streamers abandoned entirely such nuisances as rhythm, scale and tonal patterns, which were just barely hanging on anyway.

So now we have formless jazz, and thus far it has succeeded admirably in curtailing enjoyment.

Some authorities believe that if the current cycle ever becomes enjoyable, jazz will have no place left to hide. That would be a pity for I have forgotten how to waltz.

Perryton Girl In Posture Contest

AUSTIN (Spl) — Twelve district posture queens, representing all parts of Texas, will compete in Fort Worth Thursday night, June 8 at the annual convention of the Texas State Chiropractic Association for the title of "Miss Correct Posture of Texas for 1962." It was announced here today.

The 12 finalists include Lois Carol Williams of Perryton. The 1961 posture queen, Beth Lollar of San Angelo, will crown the 1962 winner. The state winner will receive $50.00 cash and an expense-paid trip to Detroit to compete in the world posture contest later in June.

Chiropractors To Attend Meeting

Five Pampa chiropractors are expected to be among the 700 Texas practitioners planning to attend the annual convention of the Texas State Chiropractic Association in Fort Worth, June 7-9, it was announced today.

The Pampa chiropractors planning to attend include: Dr. Kathryn W. Hullings, Dr. Harry J. Loveless, Dr. Robert H. Rutledge, Dr. R. E. Thompson and Dr. Talmadge Wright.

During the next decade, some $50 billion will be spent on civilian and military space programs in the United States.

NEW ROAD ALERTS DRIVERS—Paving surfaces which "talk back" to the driver are helping to cut accidents along old U.S. 40 in California. SPELL IT, PLEASE

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon might have to start making bigger marriage licenses if they get any more couples like the Iranian college student and the Oregon City girl who took out a license Thursday. The student's name is Manoucher Pourmanafzadehardabili.

One appliance — an electric combination refrigerator-freezer — does both jobs — freezing and refrigerating . . . for those who are without the space for two separate units. It's a most useable electric appliance, giving the homemaker immediate, convenient storage for frozen foods and providing adequate cooling space for non-frozen foods, too. This appliance disproves the old adage that you "can't have your cake and eat it, too." And, the new models with their efficient new insulation give you more space, in the same-size cabinet than many older models.

WONDER IF everyone, who was supposed to, found Spud's party on Monday afternoon... driving down 23rd on that sultry, windy afternoon, our eyes caught a large sign made from boards and painted in red with "Spud's Party" with a red arrow pointing north down Mary Ellen... looked so hospitable, we almost went!

IT'S PARTY TIME in the teenage set for the next few weeks... as Kit Kat Klub... Las Cresas Club... and the Sub Deb Club begin their Spring Rush parties, clever and colorful invitations have found their way this week to the homes of freshman girls... who will be sophomores next week in high school... and it was indeed Chinese and Dragon Week in town these last few days... Las Cresas invited their guests with invitations shaped as large orange Dragons tipped with gold (we didn't know... though we are sure that everyone else did... that dragons to the Chinese are a symbol for good)... Kit Kat Klub also went oriental with Chinese letters in bold black, decorating the front of their invitations... and the important details of the party were written vertically up and down on the inside... Sub Deb Club set a different mood with their Colonial Majdens invitations... from blue paper glittered with silver.

NOTED WHERE the Top o' Texas Kiwanis Club is starting a much needed service for our young people... a Youth Employment Service, which is equipped to furnish boys or girls with any type of job that can be done by junior high or high school students... everything from farm work to baby-sitting... Paul Musgrave, who is the adult counselor for the Kiwanis Club, is in charge of the project... and it sounds like a worthy one.

HEARD THAT Clark Federer wore the brightest yellow sweater to his graduation exercises... it was one he proudly told his teacher that he had received on Mothers' Day... Clark graduated from kindergarten last week... saw Cathy Parr downtown this week with her mother wearing the most adorable pair of white booties trimmed with organza ruffles... she's the pride and joy of the Charles E. Parrs, who live on Prairie Drive... and we can see why!

A BIT OF philosophy we picked up this week from a lovely young lady from Bombay, India, who name is Rosham Kalapesi (yes, we can spell it but it doesn't come off the tongue easily)... was "remember, when you point a finger at someone else, three fingers are pointing back at you"... Rosham is a member of the Moral Re-Armament group, who were guests in our city this week... it was a memorable four days for those closely associated with it.

LOCAL CITIZENRY who are going "world fair-ing" in Seattle this summer... and there are scads of them... just might run into a local lad, who is selling tickets on the monorail, which zooms passengers from downtown Seattle out to the World's Fair in a matter of seconds... hear that Dwight Hobart, son of the Fred Hobarts is so engaged this summer... wouldn't you know it?... where there is something interesting going on... there you will find a Pampant!... it's nice to see the college students back in town... even so briefly for some of them... it is nice to see the sunny smile of Marilyn Fite home from Southern Methodist... and the sweetly shy smile of Karen Capps, who is vacationing from a year of studies at Texas Tech... and the handsome grin of Don Curry, who is now leaving "freshman" status at the University of Texas to assume the more mature status of a sophomore... between now and then, though, he will be "summering". In a rugged vigorous manner with the Explorer Scouts in Canada... as he has done in summers past... his mother Alleith, zoomed down to Austin last Sunday and picked him up bag and baggage... but not before she had seen that all of the Moral Re-Armament group had bed and board, while they were in town... speaking of the MRA Group, most of Pampans were having a bit of trouble pronouncing names this week... never again shall we titter at the name John Smith or Jane Jones... our tongue and teeth are just not fluid enough to roll off with ease some of the names we have heard this week!

AND THE WEDDING BELLS continued to toll out their happy tidings... things are mad and merry at the D. A. Finkelstein home on North Russell... and they become merrier the nearer the calendar rolls toward June 16, when Gail and Stanley Brown of Denver, Colo., exchange vows in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn... one of Gail's high school and grade school "best friends," the former Gail Franks, daughter of the Garland Franks (he is a former Pampa city manager) who is now married to a prominent attorney will be the vocalist at the wedding... and there was a beautiful Announcement Tea yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, when the betrothal of their daughter, Cynthia, to Bill West was made... Cynthia has chosen a pink and white bridal theme... the tea table at her Announcement Party was all-white with arrangements of pink roses appointing the entertaining rooms... two dozen white roses accented with a silver bow centered the oval table, which was covered with a floor-length white organza cloth edged deep with lace... Gail and Cynthia both fairly radiate their happiness!

HAD THE PLEASURE of meeting Mrs. Harold Schmitzer, wife of the new city manager this week... and she is a charming person... they are in the process of getting settled in their home in the 2100 block on Chestnut... the curtain is down on Jeanne Willingham's dance revue for 1962... but not before many proud parents beamed with pride while their offspring danced on the stage... enjoyed Mahunta Hills and her four daughters' pantomiming of "tourists abroad"... they almost stole the show... in fact they were the second best part... the first being, of course, either your son or daughter, as the case might be... Johnny Daniels certainly looked cool and refreshing... in a rather warm auditorium... she was dressed in all-white.

SAW MEMBERS of the Top o' Texas Garden Club out working Thursday in their two city gardens on Duncan Street and on the Perryton Parkway... so what if we've had barely enough rain this spring to fill a thimble... there'll be flowers there or they will know the reason why... heard that the Bill Taylors and the Hardy Pitts were hosts for a buffet last Saturday in the Pampa Country Club... good food and good fellowship!... from all appearances, Joan Osborne may give the impression that she is just having fun this summer... but there is an idea buzzing around in her head... has something to do with a large and fabulous Charity Ball the Parent Education Club will sponsor next fall for their pet project, the Exceptional Children's Association... there'll be a "name" orchestra... gorgeous gowns and formal dress for the men!... sounds wonderful... we imagine there will be more details on this early next fall... well in time to make plans... now that we have finished with this task... over which we have labored long and hotly... we're going to grab our swimming suit and head for the nearest pool... wanna come along?... the water's fine... the last one in is an "Old Maid"... regardless!... Love, Peg.

Sprinkle-Burkhart Say Vows In Morning Rites

Miss Betty Sprinkle became the bride of Bradley Burkhardt with wedding vows solemnized on June 2 at ten o'clock in the First Christian Church with the Rev. Roy King of Lubbock performing the double-ring service assisted by the Rev. Glyn B. Adsit, pastor of the church.

Miss Sprinkle is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Sprinkle, 518 N. Somerville and Homer A. Sprinkle of Ardmore. Mr. Burkhardt's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Burkhardt of Lubbock.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an informal gown of Chantilly lace designed with a Sabrina neckline and long, tapering sleeves, which ended in petal points over the hands. The elongated bodice was enjoined to a bouffant skirt scalloped along the hemline. A bouffant veil of Imported French Illusion draped away from a single rose of white organza.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Kay Cobb, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor, the bride wore an informal gown of Chantilly lace designed with a Sabrina neckline and long, tapering sleeves, which ended in petal points over the hands. The elongated bodice was enjoined to a bouffant skirt scalloped along the hemline. A bouffant veil of Imported French Illusion draped away from a single rose of white organza.

BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

Miss Heidi Schneider

Miss Heidi Schneider, daughter of Mrs. Christine Jackson Schneider, 1225 Williston and Paul Alex Schneider of Houston, will be married to David Kent Roupp, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roupp of Denver, Colo., and Sarasota, Fla. Vows will be solemnized on July 8 in the First Presbyterian Church. The betrothed couple attended Wyoming University, where the bride-elect is a member of Gamma Phi Beta Sorority and her fiancé is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

JoAnn Thompson Bride Of Richard Wm. Jones

Wedding vows of Miss JoAnn Thompson and Richard William Jones were solemnized in a double-ring service performed on May 31 at four o'clock in the University Methodist Chapel in Austin by Dr. Madison V. Scott, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Miss Thompson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, 1115 Christine. Mr. Jones' parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard William Jones of San Antonio, Peru and Chile.

Vows were repeated in a setting of floor baskets of white blossoms banked with a background of green foliage.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was gowned in a white silk organza sheath designed with a scoop neckline and cap sleeves. The pencil-slip sheath featured an overskirt of bouffant organza. Short white mitts of silk organza over tulle complemented her gown. She wore a pillbox hat of white bridal illusion encircled with a shoulder-length veil scalloped illusion. Her bridal bouquet was fashioned from small garlands of forrest green foliage centered with white camellias.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Anne Triplehorn served the bride as maid of honor. She wore a white silk linen sheath with modified neckline, cap sleeves, fitted bodice with back panels edged with blue. She carried a nosegay of white blossoms.

Dane C. Camburn of Pampa was best man. Seating the wedding guests were James Fred Thompson, brother of the bride and Richard Fatheree, both of Pampa.

For her daughter's wedding,

Mrs. Richard Wm. Jones
... nee JoAnn Thompson
Mrs. Thompson chose a beige silk costume suit with a corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Jones, wore a gold silk

Betrothal Of Miss Cynthia Duncan To William Deen West Announced At Tea

The betrothal of Miss Cynthia Duncan to William Deen West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Deen Erwin West of Rozet, Wyo., was made at an Announcement Tea held yesterday afternoon in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, 1022 Mary Ellen.

An August 9th wedding is being planned in the First Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. with Dr. W. W. Adcock of Abilene, former pastor of the church, officiating.

Friends called between the "come and go" hours of two and five o'clock and were received by Mrs. Duncan, Miss Duncan, Mrs. Jack Simick of Wichita Falls, sister of the bride-elect, and by Mrs. Marvin Stone of Pampa, aunt of the bridegroom-elect.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. John Spearman and directed to Mrs. Frank D. Smith Jr., guest registrar.

Mrs. Bill Duncan, sister-in-law of the honoree, presided at the silver tea and coffee service with Mrs. Roy Kay Thompson, cousin of Miss Duncan, serving from the all-white sheet cake.

Other members of the house-party were Miss Sarah Harnly.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was appointed with an arrangement of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums. Miss Jimmie Kay Mack provided background music during the reception.

Miss Jane Cheney presided at the punch service with Mrs. Jarvis Johnson at the coffee service. Miss Joan Hagaman served from the tiered wedding cake. Other members of the houseparty were Misses Linda Warden and Kayleen Layne.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left on a wedding trip to Colorado. For travel, the bride wore a yellow linen suit with white accessories complemented with a red rose and gardenia corsage from the center of her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Burkhardt was graduated from Pampa High School in 1960 and attended Abilene Christian College. She is employed by the First National Bank.

Mr. Burkhardt was graduated from Allen Military Academy in 1959 and attended Abilene Christian College. He is employed by the Burkhardt-Harris Plumbing and Heating Co. in Portales, N.M.

The couple will make their home at 910 W. Third in Portales upon their return from Colorado.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Colonial Room of the Driskill Hotel. A white wedding cake centered the serving table and was flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra encircled with garlands of greenery.

Misses Deanna Allemen and Zara Bannister, college roommates of the bride, presided at the punch service. Miss Norma Jean Fatheree and Miss Sara Gordon, both of Pampa, served from the tiered wedding cake. Miss Dorothy Thompson, cousin of the bride, was guest registrar.

For a wedding trip, the bride traveled in a beige suit with matching accessories and wore the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a Plan II Major at the University of Texas, where she is a member of Delta Zeta Sorority; served as house-manager her junior year; secretary of Young Republicans Club and was employed in the office of the Texas Municipal League. The bridegroom attended the University of Southern California and University of Texas. He is employed by Zachry International of San Antonio.

Fiel-Litchfield Are Wed In May Rites

CANADIAN (Spl) — Miss Dell Fiel of Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bertram of Higgins, and Don Litchfield were united in marriage Friday, May 18, at four o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Litchfield is the son of Mrs. Leila Litchfield of Higgins.

The single-ring ceremony was read in the Baptist parsonage in Higgins by the Rev. James Bryant.

The bride chose a beige two-piece dress and wore an orchid corsage. She was attended by her sister, Miss Dell Fiel.

Serving the bridegroom as best man was Gene Lauban of Amarillo.

The ceremony was witnessed by the families and close friends of the young couple.

Following a trip to Wichita, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. Litchfield are at home at the Poinexter Apartments. Mr. Litchfield is employed by Western Auto.

Those present were Mmes. Warren Pickens, John Ball, Joe Cul-lener, Don Schaefer, W. C. Houch-lin, Lawrence Overcast, Del Roth, Coy Holman and Dwayne Dallas.

Model Wrecks Image Of Anthropologist

Woman's View
By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mention woman anthropologist and the mind usually imagines a sturdy, tailored type digging in the ruins of an ancient civilization.

Then comes along Dr. Mariam Slater to wreck that image.

Anthropologist Slater has red-brown hair, large brown eyes and the figure of the fashion model which she once was. She's five feet, six inches barefoot and weighs 115 pounds.

A former reporter and sometimes actress and short story writer, Dr. Slater is an instructor in anthropology at Queens College of the City University of New York.

On June 30, the 28-year-old anthropologist will shed her city slicker shell complete with "little nothing" sheath dresses and head for Africa and 15 months in the bush country where khaki pants, tent and snakebite kit will be part of standard equipment.

Purpose of the trip: to study the customs of a tribe called the Nyha, which lives in an isolated area of the Nyasa-Tanganyika corridor in the southeastern coastal area of Africa.

According to the anthropologist, little first-hand knowledge of the Nyha exists in research literature. The pioneering studies were done by Dr. Monica Wilson, whom Dr. Slater plans to visit at the University of Capetown.

She does know that the tribe, believed to number about 60,000, is seminomadic, and that its members are cultivators who depend on millet and on milk from their cattle as their food staples. Various groups of Nyha, Dr. Slater said, follow their herds within a 70-mile radius of the village of Myeba; a territory ranging from the cold mountain ranges to the stifling lakeshore plains of southwestern Tanganyika.

She feels that because isolation has preserved the tribe from cultural changes the outside world knows of, it offers an excellent "laboratory" for study of the processes of social change.

Dr. Slater, a native of Washington, D.C., is the daughter of a physician and research specialist in oxygen therapy. Her parents now are retired and live in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The anthropologist was graduated from Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa., in 1944 and came to New York planning to go on the stage. She worked as a reporter for Life magazine for a while, for the Conover modeling agency, did some short stories and finally decided that "if I were going to 'do any serious writing it needed more studying of people.'"

"That," she said in an interview at her modernistically furnished apartment in the fashionable Washington Square area of New York, "is one way of saying that I wasn't very good at what I'd already attempted."

She enrolled in Columbia University's Anthropology Department where one of her instructors was the famous Dr. Margaret Mead. She researched for her doctor's dissertation by living for five months with native peoples of northeast Martinique, the French colonial island in the Caribbean.

Since 1958 she has been on the Queens College staff.

She'll fly to Mombasa where she will line up her crew — a houseboy and two interpreters, Nyha dialect into Swahili and the other to translate Swahili into English.

Take It From Kathy

Dear Kathy: I am an only child who is lonely. I have friends, but it isn't like having brothers and sisters. Lately I have found that I like my teacher no as a teacher, but as a sister. At night I pretend she is there and I tell her all my joys and troubles.

My parents are nice but they have lots of problems. My father is having a nervous breakdown and my mother is not very strong. They love me but there isn't anyone to listen. Could I show my teacher I like her without it being too visible? I am so afraid my friends will notice that I have been cold and inconsiderate towards her. I don't want to be her pet, only a friend.—P. S.

Dear P. S.: When you say your friends aren't like brothers and sisters, I think you mean that you don't confide your troubles to them. Your instincts are right. Girls in their teens aren't experienced enough to give the answers you need and they may not be mature enough to keep your secrets. Temporarily, it might feel better to get things off your chest but personal problems belong within the family unless shared by a responsible adult who can offer sound advice.

The problems coming your way would be difficult for someone much older to cope with alone. It does help just to have someone to listen. You pretend because you'd like a friendly adult to discuss things and give you direction—but you're afraid to impose by asking for help.

Acting inconsiderate will make your teacher assume you are antagonistic. She isn't a mind reader. Make the first move, even though it's a small gesture. You'll probably find her friendly. You could offer to take care of some classroom chores. Even a smile once in a while will show good will.

A teacher could not become a buddy, but I'm sure she would want to help you in any way possible. Stay after school to discuss improving your marks, or to ask advice about a career. Since these things aren't deeply disturbing to you, they should be easy to talk about. This first conversation would make it easier to approach her a second time.

Dear Abby.... Perhaps Marriage Not Answer For Teen Couple

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am heartsick. Our 17-year-old son got a 17-year-old girl in trouble. We know her parents well. This girl has been boy-crazy since she was 14 and has given her parents lots of heartaches. Since this girl claims our son is responsible for her condition, our son proposed marriage, but she turned him down. Then her father called my husband and suggested they get together and talk things over. My husband met with him and agreed there should be a wedding. Our son asked her twice again and was refused. Her father said okay, no wedding, but we must pay the hospital bill, which we agreed to.

In the meantime, the girl said she was marrying an old sweetheart of hers. Well, that marriage never took place and now, all of a sudden, in her eighth month, she is begging her son to marry her to save her from disgrace. He wants to, but his father won't let him. I say let them marry, even if it ends in divorce. Please, Abby, what should be done about this mess?

MOTHER IN THE MIDDLE
DEAR MOTHER: The purpose of a marriage is not to "save people from disgrace." It is a serious lifetime contract. These 17-year-olds appear ill-prepared for such responsibilities. Unless a clergyman can give them a crash course in what is expected of the holy sacrament of marriage, which I doubt, I would not push too hard for a wedding. Furthermore, your boy offered to do "the right thing" when it made sense.

DEAR ABBY: There is a lady who lives in our neighborhood who is a real problem. She doesn't know how to drive and she can't park a car. Either her back end is sticking out in the street or else her front wheels are up on the sidewalk, and I'm not kidding. I swear I don't know how she got a driver's license. When people see her driving down the street, they pull over and give her the whole road. Shouldn't someone tell her to learn how to drive or to stop driving? I think she is a menace.

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: I'm surprised the local police haven't offered to give her a few lessons. Tip her off in the name of friendship and public safety.

DEAR ABBY: What on earth is wrong with a person who either has to monopolize the entire conversation or else stays completely out of it? She also breaks into the conversation when others are talking and changes the subject to suit herself.

F. S.
DEAR F. S.: The behavior you describe is typical of a person with defective hearing. Unless she does all the talking, she feels "out of it" because she can't hear what's going on. Encourage your friend to have her hearing tested.

Paul Gwaltney Notes Birthday With Party

CANADIAN (Spl)—Paul Gwaltney, six-year-old son of the Pascual Gwaltneys, was honored at a birthday party Monday afternoon. Guests were Tommy Joe Massey, Scotty Hand, Mark Fry, Doug Givhan, David Wilson, Keith Popham, Steve Cook, Terry Mayhew and Gina Lee Gwaltney. The group enjoyed a hot dog supper complete with birthday cake. Favors of badges and cowboy hat pencil sharpeners and bubble gum were given to those present.

RUTH MILLETT

The proposal of organizing a Mature Woman's Clinic was suggested at the dinner meeting of the Altrusa Club of Pampa held Monday evening in the Coronado Inn.

In a program given by Miss Evelyn Mason, Vocational Committee member, she stated that "our International president, Ernestine Milner, hopes that every Altrusa Club will organize a Mature Women's Clinic."

"She states," Mrs. Mason continued, "that such a project is designed as a service to the older woman and will shift the emphasis from statistics to activity. The needs of the mature woman become more and more evident with our increasing awareness of the challenge for 'service.'"

"Mrs. Milner proposes a one-day clinic whereby the 'woman-power' of the older women attending the clinic will be organized into new productivity. The major concern of such a clinic is to first determine what services are needed... health, education and recreation."

"The clinic would serve as a Placement Bureau for the community and would give the mature woman confidence to go out and earn a living for herself and family," Mrs. Mason pointed out.

The speaker stated "The Altrusa Club of Pampa is helping elderly citizens through Senior Center and the younger girls through the Self Improvement Clinic" and suggested that the local club work toward organizing the Mature Woman's Clinic during the coming year.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. L. L. Harkins, president, announcement was made of the new Altrusa Club in Hollywood, Fla.

Letters of appreciation were read from Jan Blanton for the Inez Carter - Altrusa Club scholarship and from Anna Jo Watson for the Altrusa Club's Scholarship.

Mrs. Harkins announced that the meetings in June will be evening meetings on the regular days. Door prize was won by Mrs. Floyd Yeager. International News Flash was given by members.

Birthday Luncheon Fetes Mrs. Spiller

CANADIAN (Spl)—Mrs. Grace Spiller was honored at a birthday luncheon Saturday. Hostesses for the affair, which was held in the Tepe home, were Miss Vera Tepe, Mrs. George Carver and Mrs. T. J. Mitchell of Pampa. Guests in addition to the honoree were Mmes. Laura McSpedden of Waynoka, Okla., Mable Bowen of Perryton, Clarence Wine and daughter Darlene of Yokley, Helen Tepe, Willia Ayers Amarillo, Charles Teas, Gladie Yokley, Helen Tepe, Willia Ayers and Tom Hext.

LEG SUPPORT

If you have the kind of job that makes your legs tire, try nylon support stockings. They are not just for those with medical problems, they will relieve strain for any woman who stands or walks a great deal.

PLANS JULY VOWS

Miss Patricia Gay Foster

Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Foster, 711 N. Somerville, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Gay, to Randall Kent Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cross, 737 E. Malone. Wedding vows will be solemnized on July 5 in the First Methodist Chapel.

Wedding Shower For Bride-Elect

LEFORS (Spl)—Miss Barbara Halley, bride-elect of Billy Jack Rash, was honored with a pre-nuptial bridal shower in fellowship hall of the Baptist Church on Tuesday night.

Mrs. Philip Earhart registered the guests. Hostesses were Mmes. J. M. Boucher, Alton Finchum, J. V. Guthrie, C. H. Earhart, B. T. Smith, U. S. Whiteley, W. E. Du-mas, Tom Florence, Jake Leggett, Jeff Bradley, Ruby Howard, Pearl Tillman, Frank Cooksey, J. M. McPherson, W. B. Minter, Bess Cole, Howard Marlar and Joe Wallis.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. J. D. Halley and her mother-in-law to be, Mrs. Lloyd R. Rash, were given corsages of blue split carnations.

The serving table was covered in blue, and overlaid with a crocheted cloth of white. The centerpiece depicted a bridal scene of a bride and bridegroom standing beneath a rice bag tree. The white tree was filled with blue dried rice tied in white net with blue satin ribbons.

The cake, white with blue flowers, and inscribed, "Barbara and Billy," was served by Mrs. Alton Finchum as Mrs. Gordon Rutledge served the punch.

Guests were Mmes. J. R. Sparkman, Sarah Jane Smith, Katie Barnett, Phillip Earhart, R. C. Shirley, Phil Boucher, L. R. Spence, Lee Airington, Joe K. Clarke, Bob Heston, E. D. Ross, Bud Cumberland, Gordon Rutledge, Billy Keith, Knox Nichols, Lloyd Rash, J. D. Halley, Misses Sharon McLaughlin, Doris Halley, Glenda Shirley, Jo Ann Roash, Glenda Shirley, Jo Ann Rash.

Take It From Kathy

by Kathy Peterson

Dear Kathy: What can I do about a casual friend who doesn't mind her own business? She is the cousin of a girl in my group, so it would be hard to keep from seeing her.

If I have something new, she doesn't hesitate to ask how much it cost. She even asked about the time I got home from a date and whether or not I allowed a certain boy to kiss me good night.

I can't bring myself to be rude enough to tell her to mind her own business. When she asks a question, I get mixed up and too often blurt out what she wants to know. Whenever this girl finds out about even the tiniest thing, she broadcasts it.

I have tried to avoid her, but she phones to give me the third degree. The whole thing makes me furious because I feel so helpless. — Roberta H.

Dear Roberta: You have good reason for not satisfying her curiosity. Her questions invade your private territory. Rude, unwell, come prying can be handled in several ways.

You could give an answer so fantastic that it's completely unbelievable, and therefore wouldn't be considered a fib. To questions about last night's date you might respond jokingly with, "Oh, I didn't go out with him. I changed my mind and dated Rock Hudson. Hadn't you heard?"

The answer to how much a dress cost could be, "Dad's mortgaging the family mansion to pay for it." If she pursues the subject, you can continue with the fiction until she gives up.

A second approach could be to give a noncommittal answer. "What time did you get home last night?" might call for "The usual time;" or "I don't remember exactly."

B&PW Members Plan Meet In San Antonio

FORT WORTH — San Antonio will be the host city to the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Texas when the annual convention is held there on June 8, 9, and 10.

Attending the convention from Pampa will be the following Mrs. G. E. Tinnin, Mrs. Mack Harmon, Mrs. Helen Knox, Mrs. Marguerite Nash.

Miss Elizabeth Tandy, Fort Worth, state president, will call the convention to order on Friday evening following an afternoon of sightseeing over the Alamo City. A special Mexican dinner at La Villita precedes the first session. Dr. Sally Gearhart, who is on the faculty of Texas Lutheran College, Sequim, will give the opening address on "The Paradox of 'The Modern Woman.'" Her topic foretells the convention theme of "The Future is Yours."

Dr. Gearhart will be introduced by Dr. Jean Smith, San Marcos, Director of District Six.

Dr. Lois Frazier, Raleigh, North Carolina, will be the National Federation representative to the 1962 Texas B&PW Club convention and addresses the group Saturday evening. She holds the office of national treasurer.

Three special workshop luncheons will be held Saturday noon. They include personal development, civic participation and world affairs. Legislation and membership workshops will run simultaneously Saturday afternoon, 3 to 5 p.m.

The 1961-1962 executive committee for the Texas Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs headed by Miss Tandy also has the following officers: Mrs. Willie L. Meyer, San Antonio, president-elect; Mrs. Hope Conroe, Lubbock, first vice-president; Mrs. Modell Scruggs, Houston, second vice-president; Mrs. Cordia Jarvis, Brownwood, third vice-president; Thelma Jarrott, Marshall, recording secretary, and Mrs. Odessa Clark, Fort Comfort, Fort Worth, is executive secretary.

Opposing the officers in the Saturday afternoon elections will be Doris Embry, Denison, president-elect; Dorothy L. Anderson, Taylor, first vice-president; Gerda Morris, Dallas, second vice-president, and Francis Fannin, Waco, third vice-president.

Thelma Jarrott is running for the third vice presidency. Competing for her post of recording secretary next year will be Betty Bailey, San Benito and Frances Dare, Robstown. Mrs. Clark is unopposed for state treasurer.

The Texas Federation will entertain the National Federation convention in 1963 at Dallas and first plans for this task will be made at the San Antonio meeting.

Mrs. Carol R. Haberman is president of the San Antonio B&PW Club with Mrs. Noelle K. Dunsmore serving as convention chairman in this club.

Quivira Girl Scout Council Sets Dates For Eight Day Camps Planned In June

The Quivira Girl Scout Council will hold eight Day Camps during the first three weeks of June.

Each camp is five days in length, and the girls will leave town at 8:00 a.m. and return at 4:30 p.m. The camp program will include camping skills, nature study, outdoor crafts, conservation and weather study, outdoor cooking and lots of fun and fellowship. On Thursday evening of each camp the campers will present a program for their parents and other interested parties.

Each camp is directed and staffed by volunteer workers. The sites, buses, and some equipment is donated by ranchers, Boy Scout troops, churches and various businesses in the local communities. These camps would not be possible without the cooperation of the many who lend a helping hand. There still is a need for women to help as Unit leaders. Surely there are some ladies who have free time on their hands that would be willing to give a few hours to give these girls a wonderful week in the outdoors. Mrs. Marian Osborne, executive director stated, "Some, perhaps who do not have the opportunity to experience any other sort of vacation. It will be a week of fun for you as well as the little girl that will long be remembered by both of you."

"If you are willing to share some of your time, call the Girl Scout office, MO 4-6862 and they will give you information about the orientation course of one day in preparation for working at the camp. We must have help if we are to offer the girls this camping experience."

Skellytown and White Deer girls will attend camp at the John Allen Ranch, 11 miles north of Skellytown, June 4-8. Mrs. R. C. Heaton Jr. will direct the camp.

Pampa and Lefors girls will attend camp at Girl Scout Camp Mel Davis which is located 8 miles east of Lefors. The three camps on this site will be directed by Mrs. H. M. Brown, Pampa, June 4-8; and Mrs. Louise Coffman, Shamrock June 11-15 and 18-22.

Miss Ashby Feted By Friends With Bachelorette Party

Miss Myke Asby, who became the bride of Fred Brown on May 20 with a wedding service performed in the First Presbyterian Church, was honored with a Bachelorette Luncheon on Wednesday at one o'clock in the Terrace Room of the Coronado Inn. Mrs. L. L. Sone was hostess for the luncheon. Guests were Mrs. Charles Ashby, Mrs. Gary Neal, who attended the bride as matron of honor, Misses Dianne Tidwell, Shirley, Banner, Jan Joyce and Ginger Jolly.

NEW WAY TO BE SUDDENLY SLIM

Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. A startling innovation is the sheer front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A featherstitched panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem. The girdle itself is of "wonder" Lycra spandex fiber. It feels like nothing on but has such slimming strength it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation.

"Suddenly Slim" is the peak achievement of the designer-genius, Olga.

Credit Women's Club Takes Honors At Meet

AWARD—Mrs. H. F. McDonald Jr., right, president of the Pampa Women's Club is pictured presenting the blue ribbon and first place award won by the local club at the recent state meeting for 100% membership participation in the examination on the manual "Career Advancement in the Rocket Age" to Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, vice president.

BETROTHED

Miss Doline Kiff

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pugh of Vernon, former residents of Pampa, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Doline Kiff, to Bill McWaters of Denton. The wedding is planned for June 15 in Denton. The bride-elect attended North Texas State University and is presently employed by Moser Co. of Dallas. Her fiancé is a student at NTSU. The couple plan to make their home in Denton. Miss Kiff is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Whitsell, 1812 N. Faulkner.

Mrs. H. F. McDonald Jr., president of the Pampa Credit Women's Club and director on the Lone Star Council of Credit Women's executive board, and Mrs. Ethel Stilwell, recording and corresponding secretary of the Pampa Credit Women's Club, recently attended the District Eight Lone Star Council of Credit Women's 24th annual meeting in Houston.

During the workshop seminar, the duties of officers were outlined and defined in a leadership course that stressed "Look At Yourself."

Pointers stressed were "things each can do to serve; ability to work; discover opportunities; be yourself; love for others; enthusiasm; sacrifices; humor; responsibility; reach out to the world; be alert to opportunities."

A demonstration of reading a club's minutes the right and wrong way was followed by a question and answer period including attendance, membership, honoring a Boss each year; fundraising ideas; naming a Credit Woman of the Year and promoting Credit Week.

A reception was held Saturday evening for all the TCC members, which included the National Retail Credit Bureaus and the Lone Star Credit Women's clubs.

The conference theme followed "United Toward New Horizons."

The executive board met for breakfast on Sunday morning with Miss Karl K. Arendal, president of the Lone Star Council, of Waco presiding. Reports and recommendations were presented and voted upon at this time. An inspirational service followed the board meeting.

The annual luncheon was held at 12:30 p.m. with President Arendal presiding. Welcome address

Summer Luncheon Cool As A Breeze

A summer luncheon should be this is why we've chosen Chicken Salad Orleans to serve with dainty cups of coffee. The salad is a blend of light flavors — generous chunks of chicken mingled with pungent white and red grapes and the tang of lemon juice.

Serve the salad on beds of fresh water cress, crowning each serving with slivered almonds and a ripe strawberry. Just before you place the salad bowls on your luncheon table, brew a pot of rich, fragrant coffee — always a welcome guest at any mealtime get-together.

CHICKEN SALAD ORLEANS
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 cups diced cooked chicken
1/4 cup thinly sliced celery
1/2 cup halved white grapes
1/2 cup halved red grapes
Water cress
2 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds

Add lemon juice, salt and pepper to mayonnaise. Mix well. Combine chicken, celery and grapes. Add mayonnaise mixture. Toss lightly. Chill until ready to serve. Arrange in individual salad bowls on water cress. Sprinkle with almonds. Garnish with whole strawberries if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Improve Conversational Climate Of Your Home

By KAY SHERWOOD
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

How is the "conversational climate" in your home? Clear or cloudy? An English teacher at our parent-teacher conference was lamenting the murky quality of much family conversation as help to children in enlarging vocabularies and expressing themselves clearly and correctly.

I listened sympathetically but smugly, certain the criticism didn't fit our household. The smile faded when I consciously tuned in on some of the family talk. Great Scott! The verbal shorthand we use, the slang, the Midwestern nasal quality of tone, the mumbled and imprecise words, the rapid-fire interruptions and sloppy errors in grammar are enough to make me blush.

Here is a typical example of the foggy conversational winds that blow at our house:

The time, any night at 8:30 p.m. The head of the house: "Are the children up and down?" (meaning upstairs and down in bed).

Me: "They're up but not down."

Her: "Well, I'll go up and put them down."

Me: "No, you stay down and I'll go up."

When you get off that escalator clause, you're too groggy to recognize an adverb from a preposition. I might add that the same conversation serves in reverse. In the morning, only this time we mean up out of bed and down stairs. I am beginning to get the teacher's point.

Just for fun, try tuning in on your own family talk. Better yet, if you have, or can borrow, a tape recorder, tape a family dinner conversation. Don't try to conceal the microphone, park it where it will pick up some of the conversation. Let everyone speak several sentences directly into it so that the sound of the voice is accurately recorded. When you play it back, everyone will be both entertained and enlightened by the results.

The sound of one's voice is usually a shock. If it sounds shrill, flat, grating or to nasal, you may decide privately as I did, to work for improvement. If you have a nasal twang, humming is a way to remedy it, so voice teachers say.

The faster you talk, the more high-pitched your voice becomes. You can tell your daughter a dozen times she is talking too fast but the message really gets across when she hears herself racing along so rapidly she can't understand her own words.

A magnetic tape recording is a more certain aid but you can train your ear to pick up the areas where family talk could aim for greater clarity of speech and content. When Charlie starts mumbling about the injustices of school, we encourage him to speak up and tell the entire story behind the grade on his spelling test. Obvious errors in grammar should be noted, too.

Greater awareness of how we talk and what we talk about has resulted in more use of dictionary and reference books. When the meaning of a word is obscure or a fact is questioned, someone looks it up and reports the finding. When practical, the reference or dictionary is consulted at once while interest is high, instead of waiting until after dinner or the next day.

Green Shoots Have Deft Flavor Accent

As heartening as the sight of first tender shoots of spring plants is the knowing use of a deft flavor accent in spring meals. This sprightly touch can easily be given by the judicious use of two deceptively innocent-looking green shoots — chives and green onions.

Crown your favorite casserole with a perky topping using chopped chives. Toss them with corn flake crumbs, salt and butter. Then sprinkle this crisp and savory mixture over macaroni and cheese, a creamy tuna noodle bake or any other complementary casserole.

CHIVE-CRUMB CASEROLE TOPPING
2 cups corn flakes or 1/2 cup packaged corn flake crumbs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chopped chives
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Mix corn flake crumbs, salt and chives. Add melted butter; toss lightly. Use as topping for any favorite casserole dish. Bake according to recipe directions.

HAIR CARE HINT

If your hair tends to be dry, don't dream of going to the beach this summer without beach hat or scarf. The sun dries your hair just as it dries your skin.

Mayonnaise was introduced into American cuisine by the French chefs who were brought here by the famous American millionaires of the 1880's.

Foreign News Commentary

UPI Foreign News Analyst
BANGKOK, Thailand — The little village of Nong Thong lies on either side of Freedom Highway in northeast Thailand, about 10 miles from where the American 1st Battle Group is stationed. Lam Keow is a farmer who lives in the village with his wife and two children and several relatives.

Lam Keow is a wispy man in his mid-thirties who is important in this story for a number of reasons. He is among the 70 per cent of Thais who can read. He lives in the northeast, which is a particular target area for communism.

He lives on Freedom Road, into which the United States has put about $20 million, and he is now having an opportunity to observe Americans close up.

On this day he had two sets of callers.

One was a group of international revenueurs who were on a periodic check against the manufacture of illegal liquor or opium, outlawed about three years ago.

Lam Keow was given a clean slate by the revenueurs and then received this visitor.

Lam Keow was asked if he knew about communism. He said no. What did he think about American troops in Thailand? He thought it was a good idea because he had read that the Thai border was threatened and Americans were there to protect him and his family.

Had the Freedom Highway made things better for him?

Yes. These answers were significant because they confirmed what this correspondent had noted and what a longtime American resident here also said: "Thais like the United States and Americans."

By the end of this year the United States will have poured more than $300 million into Thailand.

Climate and terrain in this area are generally unsuited to rice and before construction of the highway there was no way to get the crops to the Bangkok market.

Freedom Road has brought new prosperity and the introduction of the highly successful Guatemalan corn has given the area a new crop which now ranks third among Thailand's exports.

Now underground water deposits and irrigation projects are planned in a determined effort to lift living standards and halt the admitted Communist inroads.

Summer Library Program Slated

LEFORS (Sp) — The Lefors High School Library Program will be carried out again this year. Miss Doris Halley has been named summer librarian again this summer.

The opening date is June 4 and closing date will be Aug. 10. The Library will be open on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 8 a.m. until 12 noon. Everyone in the community is invited to use the library as books are available for all age groups.

Each Monday and Friday from 9 a.m. until 10 a.m. a story hour for children who will start to school next year or soon thereafter will be held. Students in the second and third grades are to be included in these story hours. Miss Halley will read and discuss stories. Other reading groups will be set up if the need arises.

Each student in school is encouraged to meet the requirements for a summer reading certificate. The requirements are, to read 15 or more books on the reading level, or above the reading level, designated by the student's teacher. Miss Halley will also be in charge of keeping records concerning the reading certificates.

Library Rules are:
There will be fines of five cents a day for all over due books; books may be checked out for a two week period; only two books may be checked out at a time; lost, misplaced, or damaged books will have to be paid for; books may be rechecked only once; no one is to be admitted to the library if the librarian is not on duty; no one will be allowed to take library books on vacation; the library may be used as a reading room during the hours it is open.

Magazine Says Five Russian Cosmonauts Dead

CHICAGO (UPI)—At least five Soviet cosmonauts have died in space flights, a television commentator says in a copyright magazine article.

The article by newsmen and commentator Frank Edwards of Indianapolis station WTTV appears in the current issue of Fate Magazine, a popular science journal.

"The five known Russian astronauts who have lost their lives in the Soviet space program...do not constitute the complete list,

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The stop, look and listen sign is up against a developing nationwide movement to deprive courts of authority to keep criminals in jail once they are convicted of crime.

This developing movement is for the general acceptance of the so-called indeterminate sentence. Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation estimates that the nation's annual crime bill is $22 billion. He cites police records revealing that a murder, forcible rape or assault of that we can be sure," Edwards wrote.

He listed the lost Russians as Terenty Shubin, in 1959; Piotr Dolgov, in 1960; Massikevich Zavadsky, in 1961; and a man-and-woman moon exploration team which disappeared in May 1961.

"Missing and unaccounted for are two other graduates of the (Soviet) space training center, Gennady Mikolov and Alexey Belokonev," he said.

to kill is committed every three minutes in the United States.

Every six minutes there is a robbery. Nearly 150 burglaries and larcenies are reported every hour. Serious crime in the United States has accelerated during the past decade at a rate exceeding the population growth by approximately five to one.

Such statistics are cited in support of the demand of enforcement officers for stern, realistic action designed to teach criminals, old and young, that society will hold them responsible for their acts.

Some officers charged with enforcing the law regard the indeterminate sentence as a dangerous and impractical system advanced by a clique of theorists who steadily are asserting increasing influence over such matters as the sentencing and rehabilitation of criminals. These matters, of course, are vital to the public safety and general welfare.

The indeterminate sentence is a system for handling convicted offenders in which authority to fix the actual length of imprisonment is shifted from the courts to another official body. Under an absolute system of indeterminate sentencing, the courts would have virtually no authority to fix the term of imprisonment.

This would become the authority of a parole board or other special group, often to be composed of political appointees or sentimentalists whose judgments could be correspondingly affected.

The indeterminate system exists in one form or another in a vast majority of legal jurisdictions. Congress enacted in 1958 a modified indeterminate sentencing law. This act enables federal courts to (1) set both the minimum and maximum years of imprisonment with a provision that the Federal Parole Board may grant parole any time after the minimum has been served; or (2) to set the maximum term of imprisonment with a proviso that the board may fix and sue for the prisoner's parole eligibility.

Prior to this act, federal prisoners were sentenced to maximum terms and became eligible for parole only after one-third had been served. Federal judges have not stampeded to the use of the new act but the trend is notable. Under it, 114 persons were sentenced in fiscal 1959; 723 in 1960; and 1,005 in 1961.

Pampa Group To Attend Kiwanis Club Convention

Dr. Weldon B. Adair, president, Rev. William E. West, secretary, Arthur Rankin, and Malcolm Denson, all members of the Pampa Kiwanis Club of Pampa, will attend the 47th annual convention of Kiwanis International in Denver, Colorado, June 10-14.

The Pampa Kiwanians will join some 15,000 other Kiwanians, their wives and families in a return visit to Denver — by Kiwanis — after an absence of 38 years. Kiwanis last met in the Rocky Mountain capital in 1924, at which time the organization's constitution was adopted and its widely-publicized "Six Constitutional Objectives" were framed. Convention sessions will be held in Denver's City Auditorium.

Work to be accomplished at the convention will include election of officers for 1962-63 — a president, a president-elect, a treasurer, and six trustees — recognition of top clubs and top Kiwanis districts throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico for contributions to their individual communities, and the adoption of resolutions upon which the organization's 1962-63 community service program will be based. I. R. Withuhn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin businessman and president of Kiwanis International, will preside.

Principal speakers on the four and a half day program in addition to President Withuhn will be The Honorable John G. Tower, United States Senator from Texas; Actor-Producer Robert Montgomery, special representative of the National Cultural Center, Washington, D.C.; Sidney Katz, Associate Editor of Maclean's Magazine, Toronto, Ontario; The Reverend Arthur L. Miller, D. D., Pastor of the Montview Boulevard Presbyterian Church, Denver; and the leaders of Kiwanis' two youth organizations, H. Andru Turk, president of Key Club International for high school boys, and John W. Melton III, president of Circle K International for college men.

Just A Little Bit Better

HONOR STUDENTS — Shown here are honor students at Pampa High School. The students were feted at a banquet recently which will become an annual event. Some 90 students were guests at the event.

Honor Students Are Feted By Banquet

Four students from Pampa High School won honors in the science competition sponsored by the Future Scientists of America, an organization for high school students affiliated with the National Science Teachers' Association.

Students submit a report on their science project and the best 200 each of the seven regions in the United States receives awards.

Students from Pampa receiving certificates in the competition are: Linda Belmont, Roger Merrill, Keith Swanson and Edwin Albers.

The announcement of the awards came too late to be made in the annual awards assembly, but certificates were presented to the four students by Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, Head of the Science Department, and teacher of the students.

The science club at Pampa High School, Tri-Sci, is a chapter member of Future Scientists of America. Bill Don Eads has served as president of the club this year. Vince Johnson was vice-president and Anna Jo Watson was secretary. The club annually serves as official hosts at the Pampa Science Fair.

Keith Swanson, member of the club and winner of one of the regional awards, was recently selected to attend a course for gifted students in biology at the University of Texas for the summer. This program is sponsored by the National Science Foundation. Keith will spend eight weeks on the University campus taking special training in biology, will hear nationally-known scientists speak on various phases of biology and will take field trips to points of interest throughout the state. He is the student of Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter.

At a banquet recently, Pampa High School honored some ninety students who had completed honors courses during the school year. Accelerated or honors courses are offered in science, English, mathematics and Spanish. If a student receives a grade of 90 or above in any of the designated honors courses, he receives five extra points on his semester grade and is eligible to attend the honors banquet.

To graduate with honors a student must have completed at least eight semesters of such courses with the grade of 90 or above. This year's graduating class had eight honor graduates who were entitled to wear a golden tassel and cord on their cap and gown. These students were: Bill Don Eads, valedictorian; Susan Quible, salutatorian; John Arthur, John Johnson, Vince Johnson, Suzanne Paden, Dirk Stiggins, and James Webb.

Dr. David R. Matthis, associate professor of government, West Texas State College, Canyon, was guest speaker for the banquet. Miss Virginia Vaughn, head of the language department, explained the honors program. Music was provided by Sue Price and Kay Harkins. Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, head of the science department, was mistress of ceremonies.

The banquet honoring students who excel in academic work will be an annual affair.

At last! From Arkla-Servel comes a GAS heating and air conditioning unit that's really new... converts an ounce of GAS into more than enough heating and cooling to slug it out with Summer heat and Winter cold and never yield a degree... laughs at repair and utility bills, because it has NO MOVING PARTS in the heating and cooling cycle... wrings out, sifts and cools or heats to just the temperature that suits you... leaves dust and pollen outside to irritate the bees... operates like a coffee percolator and who ever heard of a coffee percolator wearing out?

If spending a penny to get 2c worth of heating and cooling makes sense to you, then call us for further information about the Arkla-Servel Sun Valley* All-Year* GAS air conditioner.

OIL WELL, ANYONE?—So you've always wanted to strike oil in the back yard? Gathered above, in one of the most unusual field photographs ever taken, is just about everything you'd need to bring a typical oil well into being. Assembled in southern Mississippi is McCormick Field Unit 26-1 of the Sun Oil Co.—88 men and almost $1.5 million in materials and equipment. The "hardware" includes drill bits and assorted tools in front, drill pipe and casing on trucks in rear and huge drilling rig with its mast lowered, plus various utility vehicles. The men include foremen, toolpushers, drilling crews, roustabout crew, petroleum engineers, lawyer, civil engineer, geologists and drivers.

Efforts Against Oil Pit Pollution Sources Continuing In Panhandle

C. O. Glenn, chief enforcement officer of the Red River Authority of Texas, Pollution Division, Wichita Falls, was in the Panhandle area this week, continuing the fight against salt water pollution.

Glenn and O. W. Ross, deputy pollution officer, have been making a detailed survey over the past several months in Gray, Wheeler, Collingworth, Carson, and Hemphill counties of the open oil pits and checking oil leases for violation of salt water disposal.

Glenn said that all oil companies, large or small, must cooperate in the salt water efforts on oil field pollution.

"If they do not comply with our rules and regulations, we are filing injunction or restraining orders on them," Glenn said.

Glenn said operators are given 10 days following the injunction order to cover open pits at producing oil wells. If there is no response, they are subject to fine of no more than $1,000 or confinement in the county jail for not more than 30 days.

Wells which are causing the damage are those which have fallen off on production and are producing more water than oil, he said.

During the month of April, officers checked 391 new leases and re-checked 438 leases in the five-county area as a follow-up to eliminate the last pits and get them leveled, thus ending their pollution of streams and underground water sands.

Officers reported that, during April, 433 such pits were filled and leveled.

Ross said open pits which are located near the wells are left open and the salt water is forced down into the ground where it contaminates the fresh water supply. There are some residents in the counties under study who, at this time are hauling water from distant sources since the water near them is unsafe for drinking because of the high salt content.

Glenn said within another two years the complete elimination of man-made pollution will be a reality rather than a hope. "We are ever thankful for the continued help and cooperation of the Railroad Commission, the Game and Fish Commission, Texas State Water Commission and the State Health Department. We are grateful to the major oil companies and most other operators for their cooperation in our fight to clean up the Red River Watershed of salt and any and all other forms of pollution," Glenn concluded.

New Mexico Man Honored At Oil Meet

HOUSTON — For his effectiveness in improving government-industry understanding, Texas oilmen honored Jack M. Campbell, speaker of the New Mexico House of Representatives.

The Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association, holding its Sixteenth Annual Meeting in Houston, presented Campbell with the Association's annual "Hat's Off" award. The 18-inch bronze trophy symbolizes an outstanding contribution to the American petroleum industry.

The citation accompanying the recognition award reads as follows:

"Hat's Off to Jack M. Campbell, whose background as both a public official and a representative of the oil industry has enabled him to prove particularly effective in the often neglected objectives of improving government-industry understanding, and of obtaining greater cooperation between state and federal governments. As secretary of the Liaison Committee of Cooperating Oil and Gas Producer Associations he has come to symbolize the unity among independent oilmen which is increasingly necessary to survival of this important industry segment. His role with the Interstate Oil Compact Commission and other conservation forums has earned him the respect and admiration of all who are genuinely concerned with promoting the highest traditions of natural resource conservation."

GIRL CHANGES MIND
MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—Freshman coed Marcy Silber exercised her woman's prerogative and got into trouble.

Miss Silber got her arm caught in the letter slot of a mailbox when she changed her mind about some letters she deposited. It took firemen 15 minutes to free her. Then she had to convince postal inspectors she was not trying to tamper with the mail.

Cities Service Honors Area Employees

Seventeen area employees are among the 825 Cities Service Petroleum and Cities Service Pipe Line Company employees receiving service awards this year at ceremonies throughout the United States and Canada.

The Pampa-area employees were honored at a reception dinner at Pampa last week attended by representatives from district division and headquarters offices of the companies. The 825 service awards being presented by Cities Service represent almost 15,500 man-years of service to the company, for a per-award average of almost 17 years. Of the total awards, three recognize 45 years of service, 26 are for 40 years, 11 are for 35 years and 56 are for 30 years of service.

Ranking awards among the Pampa-area employees are the diamond-studded 35-year emblems presented to E. S. Cantrell, A. N. King and Alden E. Myler of Pampa.

Included in the group from Bartlesville headquarters of the company were J. F. Sisright, general superintendent of production; J. C. McClure, assistant general superintendent; C. R. Smith, manager of production; Frank Allen, area superintendent of gasoline plant operations; and Perry Barhart, development geologist.

Recipient of the 30-year award was L. F. Batson of Pampa. The 26-year award was presented to E. E. Leland of Pampa. Fifteen-year awards were given to Percy R. Britton and William C. Newlin of Pampa.

The 10-year awards were presented to M. G. Christenson and Harold S. Taylor of Amarillo. Five-year awards were presented to Robert I. West Jr., James J. Wilson, George H. Elmore, Gene M. Locke, Ray N. Rose, all from Pampa; David A. Bash, David W. Culwell and C. Taylor Yeakam — all from Amarillo.

Halliburton Man Gets Promotion

Halliburton Company has announced promotion of E. D. McCabe of Pampa from field engineer to district engineer.

McCabe, 35, is a graduate of the University of Oklahoma with a degree in geology. He also attended the University of Tulsa, taking courses in materials and physics. He joined Halliburton in 1949 and has served in various engineering capacities in Oklahoma and Utah before coming to Pampa.
