Awards Given At C-C Farm, Ranch Event

An estimated 225 persons attended the second annual Chamber of Commerce Farm and Ranch Recognition Day banquet at the Towle Park barn Tuesday night.

Dolph Briscoe, Uvalde rancher, businessman, and politician was the principal speaker. Other activities included the presentation of awards, and the "Chinese auction" of Scurry County's first bale of cotton.

In Briscoe's address he told the crowd that agriculture in America had gotten a bad name because of all the unsuccessful programs which had been tried to solve agriculture's problems. But, he said, our problems are caused by excess production, and not by shortages.

"Agriculture is still the basic industry of this country," Briscoe said, and noted that agriculture contributes to the strength of a nation, and that a strong agricultural industry is essential to our American way of life.

Briscoe contrasted American agriculture to that of the Soviet Union. "The Russian's greatest goal is to close the gap between their productivity and ours," he said. In the U. S. less than 10 per cent of the population produces an excess of food and fiber, while in Russia even though 40 per cent of the population is engaged in agriculture, they have a problem of shortages, he said.

"Just think what the Russian economy would be if they had our agriculture," Briscoe said. In Russia they have increased their cultivated acreage 50 per cent, but have only increased their output 30 per cent while in America we have reduced our acreages 12 per cent but increased production 35 per cent, he said.

Speaking of the "land reform" program advocated by some "do-gooders" Briscoe said he hopes we will never see the day when the size of farms is dictated by the government in this country. In foreign countries where economically-sized farms have been broken up the productivity has always suffered, he said.

Concerning the screwworm eradication program in Texas, Briscoe said he was proud of the way the livestock industry had privately financed the program from which they would benefit. He noted that $1.8 million had already been contributed, and $3 million more would probably be privately donated toward the program.

A need cited by Briscoe was for research to find new uses for agricultural products and to increase output. He said a step in the right direction was the 110 per cent increase in the feeding of livestock in Texas in the past six years. The state now has 2.5 million feeder calves, he said.

On the economic side Briscoe showed that while the farmer's gross income is up since 1947, his net income is down. This farm price squeeze is the result of an 18 per cent increase in his costs, while farm products have lost 14 per cent in selling price. The gross income is up only because of increased productivity, he said.

Fifty years ago, Briscoe said, 50 cents of the wage-earner's pay went for food. Today the figure is down to 20 cents he said.

Briscoe was introduced at the banquet by C. T. McLaughlin, Scurry County rancher and oil operator.

Gerald Johnson, soil conservationist and member of the Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee, served as master of ceremonies.

Among the awards given were the Jaycees award to the outstanding young farmer, Max von Roeder, last year's winner presented the award to Ray Herring, Fluvanna farmer and rancher. He had been selected from a list of nominees which also included Jimmy Beck, Donald Tate, Leroy Key, Billy Huddleston, and Grady Gafford, Jr.

Milam Fowler, member of the Chamber of Commerce, presented the award to H. H. Cary, as the speaker of the evening, Dolph Briscoe looks on.

12 Perish In New York Boiler Blast

NEW YORK (AP)—A basement boiler explosion "of great magnitude" ripped a swarming black smoke, telephone, and gas pipes from a Manhattan building today, killing at least 12 persons and injured 35 others according to police reports.

An hour after the blast near Times Square, some persons were reported still trapped in the basement of the one-story structure. Emergency and disaster units of all kinds raced to the scene, at Broadway and 213th St. in the Inwood section at the northern tip of Manhattan.

The building housed about 500 persons, mostly women clerks employed in accounting work. Firemen quickly assisted a great many of the employees from the building and sent for more aid in the rescue work.

A fire which broke out after the blast was quickly extinguished. First word came in a terse fire department announcement at 12:20 p.m. It said: "A boiler explosion of great magnitude has occurred in the basement. Many persons have been trapped."

A subsequent police report said "many" were injured. At 12:25 the fire department said fire which followed the explosion was not appreciable but that firemen were busy attempting to rescue injured persons and to get others out of the building. A second alarm of fire was sounded to get more rescue workers to the scene.

At 12:40 p.m. came another message over the fire department radio: "Quite a few fatalities and an unaccountable number of injured."

Joining in the dash to the site were ambulances and police disaster and emergency units.

Effigy Hangings Mar Scene At Ole Miss

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—A pair of effigy hangings disturbed the returning calm on the University of Mississippi campus today as a dwindling federal force maintained the peace.

Between midnight and dawn, some 35 students gathered in front of the apartment of James H. Meredith, the university's first known Negro student, set fire to an effigy and exploded fireworks. The alert military quickly stratified. There were no arrests. Shortly after daybreak, a dummy clad in a blue, pink and white uniform dangled from the second-floor window of a building near the Meredith apartment building.

A sign hanging from the neck of the dummy said to "Go back to Africa where you belong."

Attendance at the university dropped after the enrollment of Meredith a 29-year-old Negro, from Kosciusko. Many students had returned to their homes after the weekend riots in which two men died.

University chancellor J. D. Williams appealed to the students to return. He said he had been informed the Ole Miss campus is now secure, and that parents can be assured of the complete safety of sons and daughters.

Meredith spent his second day as a student Tuesday, accompanied to classes by federal marshals. There were no demonstrations.

In another development over Mississippi's defiance of federal court orders to enroll Meredith, the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans gave Gov. Ross Barnett a form of probation until Oct. 12 on the contempt citation against him. This apparently was a move designed to test Barnett's willingness to accept Meredith's entry into the university.

Barnett, who was not in court, had no comment on the decision. He could be subject to $10,000 fine daily and imprisonment.

Army authorities announced a curfew in the 12,000-man federal force Tuesday night. Lt. Col. Roger Whiting, public information officer for the Army field command in Oxford, said two battle groups—about 2,400 men—left Oxford for Memphis while a third group of 1,200 was redeployed to Columbus, Miss. All were from the 101st Airborne Division, the famed "Screaming Eagles" of World War II.

The situation at Oxford slowly returned to normal. Shopkeepers reopened their stores.

Astronaut In Full Control

BULLETIN

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Walter M. Schirra Jr. set a space-flight record for American astronauts today when he completed a third orbit of the earth at 11:57 a.m. (EST). His Sigma 7 capsule zipped on in a "go condition" for the planned six orbit mission.

He was in complete command of his Sigma 7 spacecraft as he passed over Cape Canaveral at 10:23 a.m. (EST) at the end of the second orbit and swung into the third. There was all evidence that pilot and spacecraft were in condition to complete the full six-orbit mission.

His exuberant description of the flight came down from the sky a few minutes earlier in a discussion with Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., monitoring the flight at the Point Arguello, Calif., tracking station.

"It's hard to describe things up here," Schirra told the man who had pioneered U.S. orbital flight earlier this year.

Schirra said he had a delightful report to make to Glenn: "I, too, see fireflies." He referred to the luminous particles which Glenn saw flying outside his spacecraft each time he went through a sunrise. At the end of the first orbit, Schirra also reported seeing the bright particles. He told of them in a talk with Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, who was at the Guaymas, Mexico, station.

Carpenter, on his flight last May, also saw the particles and was able to create them by pounding on the side of his capsule. This led scientists to believe that the fireflies—or snowflakes, as Carpenter called them—were pieces of frost breaking off the capsule and being illuminated by the rising sun.

As Schirra zipped above Cape Canaveral to begin orbit three, he commenced drifting flight for the first time. He shut off all controls and electrical power and allowed the craft to move freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes.

In this phase, the vehicle rotates slowly, making about one revolution every 30 minutes if control is not reestablished by the pilot. In drifting flight, the capsule does not float off course because it is flying an orbital path determined by the laws of nature, much like a bullet fired by a rifle.

Purpose of the drifting is to conserve control fuel and electrical power. Just how well Schirra did this was important to an 18 orbit, 24 hour flight—the next U.S. man-in-space shot set for 1963.

Schirra's flight, if it went six orbits, would nearly double the time spent by astronauts Glenn and Carpenter earlier this year. But it would be far short of Russia's manned orbital flight time.

Near the completion of the second orbit, Project Mercury chief director Walter C. Williams reported that the mission was proceeding very satisfactorily and he saw no reason why it shouldn't be continued.

Early in the flight, Schirra literally sweated out a problem with the spacecraft temperature-control system. But as he neared the end of the second orbit, he said the problem had diminished to a point where it wasn't worth discussion.

About the end of orbit two, Schirra still had 90 per cent of his fuel supply remaining and Mercury-Control reported he was managing it very well. The hydrogen peroxide fuel is used to fire small jets located on the capsule surface to help maintain the capsule's desired position in flight.

The flight plan called for Schirra to complete six orbits. See SCHIRRA Page 2

FOOTBALL CONTEST IN THREE-WAY DEADLOCK

A three-way tie for top honors in the past week's Snyder News Football Contest developed after the smoke of the weekend grid play had cleared.

With four incorrect choices apiece, the winners are Lana Brown of 3810 Highland Drive, Dan Cotton of 3774 Dalton Drive, and Ronald Z. Bratton of 802 Twenty-seventh Street.

Due to a carry-over of $2.50 from the contest of a week prior, the total jackpot of $15 will be split evenly among those three individuals.

Two misfires were common to all three winners—the 38-20 Hobbs (Tex.) victory over St. Joseph and the 6-6 tie resulting from the Rice-LSU encounter. All three figured LSU to win that particular one.

Three more contestants were close behind the winning trio with a total of five misses each. They are George Kay, 509 Twenty-fifth Street; Haney Atiya, 3102 Avenue U; and LeRoy Brown, 3810 Highland Drive.

A new contest, with a chance to win new cash prizes, may be found in today's edition.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE president Harold Lack presents the Chamber's $100 prize to Jim Stirling, producer of Scurry County's first bale of cotton. The award is presented annually.

Olds '63 Display Slated Thursday

Galloway-Falls Motor Co. will put the new Oldsmobile for 1963 on display here today, as the new Olds fleet is presented to the public throughout the country.

Oldsmobile has designed its 1963 models for broader appeal through fresh, youthful styling, stronger model identification, many improvements for customer comfort and important engineering advances. These advances include a new adjustable tilt-type steering wheel and another first for Oldsmobile—an exclusive positive crankcase ventilation system.

Jack F. Wolfram, Oldsmobile's general manager and a vice president of General Motors, announced that the 1963 Oldsmobiles will be shown publicly at dealer showrooms across the nation on Thursday, October 10.

"To meet the varied wants and needs of today's individual buyers," Wolfram said, "Oldsmobile

Mild Autumn Spell Endures

All of Texas enjoyed mild autumn weather Wednesday, and it is expected to stay that way the rest of the week.

New long range forecasts called for slowly rising temperatures until Saturday or Sunday, when a return of cooler air may bring a few showers.

There was no rain anywhere in the state. Skies were partly cloudy over Northwest Texas and along the lower coast. It was clear elsewhere.

Top temperatures Tuesday afternoon ranged from 70 degrees at Amarillo and Dalhart up to 88 at Presidio.

Readings early Wednesday varied from 51 at Dalhart, Junction and Lufkin to 71 at Brownsville.

Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, presented that organization's award for the outstanding conservationist farmer to Grady Williams. He presented their outstanding conservationist rancher award to James Beck.

Lions Club president Dr. John Hamblen presented that club's conservation award. Raul Robas, who farms north of Union received the farmer award, and Hoyte Cary who operates a ranch west of Ira received the rancher award.

A special award for informational services was presented to the Snyder Daily News.

E. E. Wallace acted as auctioneer for the "Chinese auction" of the first bale of cotton which was produced by Jim Strling. Starting at the base price of 30 cents, the bale was bid up to 80 cents in the spirited bidding. This will mean a premium of $50 to the producer. Members of the Snyder Jaycees and Jayceeettes assisted with the auction.

Insurrection Law Used Many Times

By LOUIS G. PANOS
WASHINGTON (AP)—The law under which former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker was charged with sedition during the Civil War, but it has been used in times of peace.

A feature of the law is that conspiring to incite an insurrection—sedition—carries a maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and a $20,000 fine, twice the maximum for inciting insurrection.

This has been true only since 1956, when the conspiracy penalty was increased from six years and $5,000.

One of the first uses of the law came in 1863, when the government seized a schooner in San Francisco harbor on suspicion it was operating for the Confederacy.

Several men aboard were convicted of insurrection, but President Lincoln pardoned one and the others were released after posting bond for future good behavior.

Justice Department records show there also were many prosecutions for sedition during the Civil War, but the peace-time use of the law included prosecutions during anti-Chinese riots on the West Coast in the 1880s and outbreaks in an 1894 railroad strike in California.

It was again invoked during World War I, usually against draft obstructionists.

One case involved a John W. Phipps, committed at Big Stone Gap, Va., for "enlisting and pledging men under oath for the enterprise of resisting military authorities by blowing up bridges and seizing arms in the possession of its soldiers."

There was also an 1863 case of a Montgomery County, Md., farmer charged with insurrection for telling some Confederate soldiers that Union soldiers had hidden cattle earmarked for Union mess kits as steaks.

Justice Department records failed to disclose the outcome of that case.

Dub Edwards Is Cubmaster For New Pack

Dub Edwards has taken up the post as new Cubmaster for the Stanfield Elementary pack, and will work with the group this coming fall.

Dan Cotton will be his assistant. The pack is sponsored by the Stanfield P-T-A.

Two dens have been organized, and den mothers named to oversee them. They are Mrs. Barbara Jean Welborn and Mrs. Matt Allen. Composing Mrs. Welborn's group are Ricky Golden, Alton A. Thompson, Allen Adams, David Cotton, Michael Lange, Allen Tramel, Gene Welborn, Larry Welborn, and Steven Weyel.

Making up Mrs. Allen's den are Larry M. Allen, Calvin Eugene Anne, Joe Cliff Bullard, Mike Huddleston, Bobby Wayne Price, Mike Line, Bryan Jones, William Martin Wade, and James M. Edwards.

Dr. Robert Clinton, district organizational leader, announces that any other boys interested in joining the pack in the Stanfield area should contact Edwards at 3709 Highland Drive or HI 3-3312.

Bohlen Takes Oath Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Bohlen, President Kennedy's new envoy to France, was sworn in today in an unusual private ceremony at the State Department.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk administered the oath in his private office shortly after 9 a.m., with only Bohlen's wife and an officer of the protocol section present.

Such ceremonies traditionally are held in the State Department reception room in the presence of reporters, photographers, and a crowd of foreign service officers—their number depending on the new envoy's popularity.

CRAB, Cheddar cheese, pimiento and toasted almonds blend flavorfully to make this noodle casserole dish extra good.

Crab And Cheese Pair Up In Tasty Casserole

The better the ingredients, the better the casserole. Here's a fine dish that starts with succulent crab and robust cheddar cheese.

Add golden noodles, bright pimiento, crunchy toasted almonds and plenty of mushrooms... and it's easy to see why this casserole will be a sure winner with family and guests.

Besides shredded cheese in the casserole, there's a sprinkling of golden cheddar over the top. When you bring the casserole to the table, this bright note gives promise of good things to come.

A ready-made casserole waiting in the refrigerator is the answer to quick family meals whenever Mom has a busy afternoon. You can easily keep the ingredients for this dish on hand so it's a blessing when unexpected company arrives.

Once the casserole is in the oven, there'll be plenty of time to make a vegetable salad and heat some ready-baked rolls. With a minimum of last minute effort, you'll serve a meal that's really tops.

CRAB AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

8 servings
Buttered casserole, 2 1/2 quart
Preheated 350 degree oven
1 8-ounce package medium-cut noodles
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 cups (2 7/8-oz. cans) crab meat, flaked
2 cups (1/2-lb.) shredded cheddar cheese
1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, drained
1 1/2 cup chopped pimiento
1/3 cup slivered almonds, toasted

Mary Greene's Fried Chicken

1 broiler-fryer (about 2 pounds ready-to-cook weight)
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons margarine
Have chicken cut in 10 pieces; wash and dry. Mix flour, salt, pepper, paprika and garlic salt; coat chicken with mixture. Heat oil and margarine and add chicken; cover and cook at moderate heat (350 degrees if using a regular electric skillet) four about 15 minutes or until chicken is browned and tender. (Chicken will brown well with cover on skillet.) Makes 4 servings.

Snyder Senior 4-H Make Plans For Halloween Party

The Snyder Senior 4-H Club was called to order at their recent meeting by Connie Ellington, the new president. The motto, pledge and prayer was said.

Present were Mary Ainsworth, Nancy Medor, Terry Chester, Linda Green, Dian Holman, Linda England, Karen Mirick, Ann Pitts, Deborah Ellington and one visitor.

The group discussed the Halloween party to be held Oct. 27 at 7:30 p.m. A demonstration on quick refreshments was given by Linda England and Karen Mirick.

A demonstration on money management will be given next week by Miss Bette.

Italian Style Salad

1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) white kidney beans
1 can (7 ounces) solid white-meat tuna
3 tablespoons olive oil
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
4 scallions (green onions) finely chopped with tops included
Salad greens and sliced tomatoes
Drain kidney beans into a strainer; rinse well with cold water and drain again; turn into a shallow container. Drain tuna lightly and add to kidney beans, separating into rather large pieces. At one side of container, beat together with a fork the oil, vinegar, salt and pepper; mix gently with beans and tuna. Cover and refrigerate for a few hours to allow flavors to blend. Serve on salad greens; sprinkle with scallions and garnish with tomatoes. Makes 4 large servings.

Altruists Program On Americanism

Fourteen members of the Altruists Club met at the Martha Ann Woman's Club for their regular meeting, with Mrs. W. R. Bell acting hostess, in the absence of Mrs. R. L. Gray.

Mrs. Arthur Blanchard Jr. was program leader, and spoke on the subject "Americanism." She gave a talk on immigration and the place it has had upon our progress, and way of life in America.

Roll calls were most interesting in their diverse bearing upon an approach of the speaker. The subjects ranged through fashions, highways, a poem, patriotism, mottoes, all reflecting some phase of American life and culture.

Newsman Has Close View Of Rioting

Editor's Note: Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, a key figure in weekend rioting over admission of a Negro to the University of Mississippi, was eating dinner Sunday night when he says he was told there was a "scene of considerable disturbance" on the University of Mississippi campus. He went there. Here is the story of Van Savell, 31, Associated Press newsman, who was on the scene and saw what happened.

By VAN SAVELL
OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Utilizing my youth to the fullest extent, I dressed as any college student would and easily milled among several thousand rioters on the University of Mississippi campus Sunday night.

This allowed me to follow the crowd—a few students and many outsiders—as they charged federal marshals surrounding the century-old Lyceum building. It also brought me into direct contact with former Army Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who is now under arrest on charges of inciting insurrection and seditious conspiracy.

Walker first appeared in the riot area at 8:45 p.m. Sunday near the University Avenue entrance about 300 yards from the Ole Miss administration building.

He was nattily dressed in a black suit, tie and shoes and wore a light tan hat.

The crowd welcomed Walker, although this was the man who commanded the 101st Airborne Battalion during the 1957 school integration riots at Little Rock, Ark.

One unidentified man queried Walker as he approached the group.

"General, will you lead us to the steps?"

I observed Walker as he loosened his tie and shirt and nodded "yes" without speaking. He then conferred with a group of about 15 persons who appeared to be the riot leaders.

The crowd took full advantage of nearby construction work. They broke new bricks, into several pieces, took survey sticks and broken soft drink bottles.

Walker assumed command of the crowd, which I estimated at 1,000, but was delayed for several minutes when a neatly dressed, portly man of about 45 approached the group. He conferred with Walker for several minutes and then joined a group near the front.

Two men took Walker by the arms and they headed for the Lyceum and the federal marshals. Throughout this time, I was less than six feet from Walker.

This march toward tear gas and some 200 marshals was more effective than the previous attempts. Although Walker was unarmed, the crowd said this was the moral support they needed. We were met with a heavy barrage of tear gas about 75 yards from the Lyceum steps and went a few feet further when we had to turn back.

Before doing so, many of the rioters hurled their weapons—the bricks, the bottles, rocks and wooden stakes—toward the clustered marshals.

We fled the tear gas and the charging marshals—the crowd racing back to a Confederate soldier's statue near the grove—strange below the Lyceum.

I went to a telephone. A few minutes later I returned and found Walker talking with several students. Shortly thereafter, Walker climbed halfway up the Confederate monument and addressed the crowd.

I heard Walker say that Gov. Ross Barnett had betrayed the people of Mississippi.

"But don't let up now," he said. "You may lose this battle but you will have been heard."

He continued:

"This is a dangerous situation. You must be prepared for possible death. If you are not, go home now."

There were cheers. It was apparent that Walker had complete command over the group.

By this time, it was nearly 11 p.m. and I raced to the telephone again. Upon my return, Walker was calmly explaining the "New Frontier" government to several bystanders. He remained away from the rioting throughout the next few hours, but advised on several tactics.

One Ole Miss student queried the former general.

"What we use to make the tear gas bombs ineffective? Do you know of any way that we can attack and do some damage to those damn marshals?"

Walker suggested the use of sand to snuff out the tear gas.

"This stuff works real well, but where can you get it?" he asked.

At this time the rioters were using a university fire truck and five portable fire extinguishers in an attempt to make the tear gas bombs ineffective.

I left Walker and walked about 100 yards away where Molotov cocktails—gasoline in bottles with cotton wicks—were being made.

Again I left the area for a telephone. As I walked toward a dormitory with George Bartsch of the Little Rock Associated Press bureau, we were attacked by marshals who mistook us for students.

We were deluged by tear gas, manhandled, handcuffed and beaten with clubs during a 200-yard walk back to the Lyceum building.

Thanks to recognition from Chief Marshal James P. McShane, we were quickly released and given freedom in the marshals' headquarters.

Within minutes rifle and shotgun fire erupted from the rioting crowd and two men—one a French newsman—were killed. We considered ourselves lucky to have been arrested and glad to be behind closed, heavily guarded doors.

Student Elections Held At Fluvanna

FLUVANNA—Student elections held the spotlight at the Fluvanna School recently, with Charles Berryhill being chosen Student Council president for the coming year.

Assisting him as vice-president will be Bobby Stansell. Elected secretary was Denny Belew. Class representatives to the Council include Laveta Boulware (senior), Billie Sue Herring (junior), Dennis Ball (sophomore), Debbie Mathis (freshman), Henry Contreras (8th grade), and Sandra Stansell (7th).

Following is the list of class officers named as a result of the elections:

Senior class: Robyn Beaver, president; Laveta Boulware, vice-president; La Rue Reeder, secretary-treasurer.

Junior class: Bobby Stansell, president; Gwen Landrum, vice-president; Janie Gleghorn, secretary; Charlotte Batten, treasurer.

Series Helps To Change Tensions

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—If ever Americans really needed a World Series, the fracas opening Thursday is the one.

They shouldn't and can't close their minds to a host of worries pressing in on them now. But for a few days at least they can find welcome hours of relief in submerging themselves in the battle royal between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts for the baseball championship.

The change in tensions should be healthy. For just now the other tensions all around seem to be rising—maybe just a passing illusion, but millions of harried Americans must feel that way.

If it isn't Mississippi, it's Berlin. If it isn't Cuba, it's the Congo. The stock market has many biting their nails—both those who actually are losing money and those who can't figure out what's happening—or, more important, why it's happening and what the future holds.

The closing days of any congressional session aren't soothing to the nerves. This year the many issues being batted back and forth or deliberately being shoved aside till after the election seem more touchy than usual. Congress seems to be raising about as many questions as it is settling.

Nor can you lull yourself to sleep these nights by counting the economic statistics. Too many point up and too many point down, and most just seem to be not pointing at all.

So businessmen can watch the World Series for awhile and stop worrying about profits. Are earnings being squeezed dangerously? Are they orphans in a hostile government climate? Can they be pepped up by more efficiency? Let's talk about that next week.

Bankers and the nation's money managers can take a brief respite from fretting over the trend of interest rates—especially in the uncertain economic future. Maybe even the debate over whether our dikes against the loss of more treasury gold—how high enough can be adjourned temporarily.

What to do about the European Common Market, supposing we can do anything, can wait for a few days surely. Then we can start worrying again. Will the new freer trade bill work out into actual tariff bargains with Western Europe that will increase American export opportunities? Or will the competition from Europe grow more critical as the Common Market grows even stronger? Should we fight it, or join it, or seek a mutually profitable compromise?

And still farther out are all the imponderables about the space race. Worrying about the Soviet Union beating us to the moon or about its orbiting nuclear payloads over our heads can't be really shelved. But for a few days baseball will do its best to soothe our nerves.

Bostick Lauds Team Effort

"I think it was as good a team effort as I've ever seen in my life," Tiger coach Horace Bostick informed Quarterback Club members Tuesday night in reference to his team's come-from-behind 14-8 victory over favored Big Spring.

"Every one of our kids wanted into the game," he continued. "And we did manage to get 31 of our 32 boys suited up into it. We missed one boy by mistake," he admitted with a smile.

He also added that the discipline of the team is very good, and that the players all carry out their assignments without complaining or asking why.

"We thought we could beat Big Spring," he concluded. "And sure enough we did."

Sophomore halfback Leslie Brown continues to lead Snyder Tiger rushers after three games, two of which have resulted in victories.

Texans Take To The Road

Now you see 'em, now you don't. That's the way things stand on the Junior high football front hereabouts. In contrast to the first three Thursdays of the season in which there were three home games, a night, an absence in scheduling finds now slated to be played here tomorrow.

All three Lamar teams will be busy with road games, however, while Travis takes a rest from the grid wars.

Lamar 9th, with a 1-2 mark for the campaign, will be trying to even up its record and at the same time gain some measure of revenge in Big Spring against Goliad beginning at 7:30 that evening. It was Goliad that spoiled the Texan opener by a 34-0 count.

Just prior to that contest the Texas 8th graders are to take on Goliad 8th on the same site. Kick-off time for that one is 6 o'clock. The Texans may boast of a 2-1 record for the year, with their first victim being tomorrow night's foe by 14-0.

Lamar 7th will place its unbeaten, undefeated record upon record on the line in Colorado City at 5 o'clock in the other scheduled encounter of the evening. It will be the only meeting of the year between the two schools.

The Texas 11th graders are 2-0 following triumphs of 35-0 and 22-0 over Lamesa and Sweetwater, Colorado City, of the other hand, gave Travis 7th a fit last week before going down, 16-14, and could pose as the most serious threat of the year to the Texans on the strength of that showing.

Letter Of Intent May Be Adopted By Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A letter of intent rule, working in conjunction with the Southwest Conference, likely will be adopted by the Big Eight Conference at its quarterly meeting, which starts today.

Under the likely rule, once a high school athlete signed a letter of intent, signifying he would attend a certain school, he couldn't change his mind, go to another school and still compete in conference athletics.

It's likely the Big Eight letter of intent will work together with a Southwest Conference rule, so both conferences will recognize a letter signed by an athlete at any school in the two leagues.

The Big Eight has been holding off action on the letter of intent for two years in hopes the plan would be adopted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Antidote Offered For Saggling Net Fortunes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Edward Turville of St. Petersburg, Fla., president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, urges colleges to produce more players to help the United States to regain tennis prestige.

Turville spoke at a banquet Tuesday night honoring seven of the top U.S. players, among them Chuck McKinley, member of the Davis Cup team, and Mrs. Karen Susman, Wimbledon winner.

"It is up to the college boys to regain the prestige," he declared. He said a recently completed survey of college facilities around the country revealed that tennis wasn't being promoted as it should be if the U.S. was to score in international competition. In Florida, for example, there is not a tennis coach at any state university, he said.

Detroit Tiger outfielder Rocky Colavito pitched three innings for the Cleveland Indians in 1958, walking three, allowing no hits and striking out one.

Ladies Golf Association Has Meeting

The Ladies Golf Association of the Snyder Country Club met Tuesday morning for their regular round of golf and a business luncheon afterwards.

A total of 11 members were present. President Rachel Rosser presided over the business meeting. Business included the electing of Isabel Wilson as handicap chairman and the appointing of Verdie Kinbrop to contact a board member about getting the green fees adjusted for the benefit of non-members who wish to belong to the Association.

Helen Morgan and Vendell King were "events of the day" winners in the golfing competition.

Frogs, Colts Struggle To Scoreless Tie

The first blemish—and it wasn't a full-fledged one—on the Boys' Club Colts record was applied here Tuesday, as the Frogs held the league leaders to a scoreless tie.

The Colts continue to cruise along at the top of the standings, however, with a pair of victories to go along with their one tie.

The Colts had a touchdown called back by a backfield-in-motion penalty, and were hampered throughout the game by penalties, with 45 yards stepped off against them due to infractions.

Raymond Rios led the Colts in rushing, netting 20 yards on just one carry. Behind him were Jodi Williamson and George Kay with 15 yards each. That trio accounted for all but 14 of the Colts' 60 yards gained.

Billy Blythe paced the 36-yard rushing attack of the Frogs with 20 total yards.

Each team notched two first downs, and the Colts lost one fumble.

The Bears and Hotshots get together Thursday at 4:45 on the Central Elementary Field in a game that will wind up first round league play. Both of those teams stand 1-1 for the campaign.

Teams from the Big Ten Conference own the best win-loss record of any conference in NCAA basketball tournament play. Big Ten teams have appeared in 22 tournaments and have compiled a 44-21 mark.

Southeastern Conference basketball teams have appeared in 15 NCAA basketball tournaments and own a 25-13 win-loss record in the annual classic.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The batting average in pickup picking here last week was almost as bad as that of the Los Angeles Dodgers in trying to save the National League pennant. The Dodgers went 35 innings without a run. The average here was 45 right and 9 wrong for 287.

This week's winners: Ohio State over UCLA: This game pits two great backs; Paul Warfield of Ohio State and Kermit Alexander of UCLA; against each other but look at the size of Warfield's playmates!!

Alabama over Vanderbilt: A year ago "Bama smothered Vanderbilt 35-6. It should be about the same this time around.

Texas over Tulane: Is there a better fullback in the country than Texas' Ray Poage?

Penn State over Rice: The Texas Owls are weak at tackle and you can't be weak anywhere and expect to "derail Penn State's powerhouse."

Georgia Tech over Louisiana State: Billy Lottridge and the home field give Tech a slight edge.

Iowa over Southern California: Matt Seykora and the Hawkeyes' new "Hooter T" formation to outscore Willie (the Wisp) Brown.

Mississippi over Houston: Ole Miss has had its problems this week but they were not permitted to interfere with the footballers.

Miami over Florida State: State has a horde of returning lettermen and ambitions to go big time but Miami has George Mira and that is a big difference.

Michigan over Army: A week ago Michigan was to win easily. Army was picked to lose. Turned out just the opposite. This is for real, however.

Elsewhere in the week's top games: Washington over Kansas State, Nebraska over Iowa State, Oregon State over Stanford, New Mexico over Texas Western, Missouri over Arizona, Purdue over Notre Dame, Arkansas over Texas Christian.

Friday night
Michigan over New Mexico State, George Washington over Furman.

Saturday

Between You And Me

BY JERRY JACKSON

As the Slippery Rock Rockets go, so goes the nation. Yep, a Slippery Rock game mysteriously appeared in this weekly football contest about a year ago, and it just as mysteriously popped up again this week.

As Joey Bishop would say, son-of-a-gun.

So me would have you believe that Slippery Rock State College is a fictitious or legendary institution dreamed up by a brand X sportswriter. On the contrary, the school lives and breathes and will continue to delight the hearts of sports fans for time immemorial.

Where is it, you ask? As chance would have it, its location is Slippery Rock, Pennsylvania. Please don't ask me what part of the state it's in, since I'm even a little vague on the whereabouts of Pennsylvania. Anywhere east of East Texas is a little too far east to fathom for this homegrown product.

Ask me something easier, like which end of the map is north, or...

Anyway, as a public service, I feel compelled to fill in all accused contestants on the snatches of information which I have been able to dig up on the Rockets.

Last week they defeated Edinboro State College, 34 by much, but they did win the game. Much to the joy of their homecoming crowd, I'm sure. They tackle Westminster October 20, and all I can say is—look out, Westminster! That's Parents Day at Slippery Rock, and those Rockets'll be keyed up higher than the national debt.

But that's looking pretty far ahead. We play 'em one at a time at dear ol' Slippery Rock, and the business of hard-to-shippenburg State this Saturday. Yessir.

Then next week we go to California to take on California State. By the way, California's in Pennsylvania, so don't get confused on that point.

We had a pretty good season here at Slippery Rock in 1961. Won six out of nine games. Our coach, Dr. Charles A. Goddasky, is starting his fourth year here and before the season started had a record of 13 wins, nine losses and a couple of ties.

And like that.

UCLA basketball coach John Wooden, who coached the Bruins to a fourth place finish in the 1962 NCAA basketball tournament, is a 1952 graduate of Purdue.

Strategists Ponder Giant Dodger Moves

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Why did Los Angeles manager Alvin Dark—4th pitcher Jack Sanford after he had pitched five scoreless innings and had given up only one walk in the sixth?

Why did pitcher Gaylord Perry throw to first base instead of third in the ninth inning, thereby putting Maury Wills in a position to score the winning run?

These were the big questions of the second playoff game for the National League championship that the Los Angeles Dodgers won 8-7, making today's game the deciding one.

The answer to the first is that Dark reported Sanford "had a cold and pitched on Saturday. He told me he was tired."

Sanford said he "didn't really know," but at any event he came and the Giants, leading at the time 5-0, soon were trailing 7-5. They managed to tie it later, but in the end Wills dashed home on a ninth inning sacrifice fly and it was all over.

The answer to the second question lies in the shrewd psychology of Leo Durocher, Dodger third base coach and former manager of the Giants.

Wills and Jim Gilliam walked to start the ninth, Bob Bolin giving up the first and Dick Lemaay the second. When Darby Spencer came up to pitch hit for Duke Snider, Gaylord Perry came in to pitch—the third Giant pitcher of the inning.

Spencer laid down a pretty bunt to the box, as Jim Davenport charged in and Jose Pagan went from his shortstop position to cover third.

It appeared to many that Perry, a rookie who played most of the season in the Pacific Coast League, could have caught Wills in plenty of time at third.

Instead Durocher yelled: "First base, first base."

And Perry turned and threw to first. Durocher's advice was legal but of much more help to the Dodgers than to the Giants.

Perry got the runner at first but the stage was set for Ron Fairly to send a fly to Willie Mays in shallow center. Wills, who has stolen 101 bases for a major league record, dashed home with the winning run.

That was all for the Giants.

Rocky Marciano, who held the world's heavyweight boxing title from 1952 until he retired in 1955, had 49 fights. He was 43 by knockout; six by decision.

Byron (Whizzer) White, the newly appointed Supreme Court justice, was an all-pro halfback in 1940 with the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

Today—Wide-Track Pontiac '63

Obvious, isn't it, that Pontiac's come up with another beauty this year. Fresh over-and-under headlights, clean profile—but you can see that. There's a wider Wide-Track too, and a full line of Trophy V-6's. (That ought to be enough to make these other cars turn green.) And we haven't mentioned such happy touches as self-adjusting

'Failure To Communicate' Is Big Phrase In Day's Excuses

BY INEZ ROBB

Speaking of the care and in-breeding of the American language, as we were only about 10 days ago, have you finally analyzed what is basically wrong with today's world? That is, have you discovered the root problem of all our manifold discontents?

Ponder but a moment and you, too, will plainly see that the world is at sixes and sevens because of "a failure to communicate." That phrase today is the handy-dandy all-purpose explanation of such acute and diverse problems as freedom and liberty vs. communism; the younger generation vs. the older generation (or kids vs. parents); the right vs. the left; the President vs. big business, or even the Dodgers vs. the Yankees.

The only world-shaking problem in which the phrase has not been used recently was the Liston-Patterson fiasco. There appears to be a general agreement that Liston communicated definitely, just as Richard Nixon and Pat Brown aren't communicating at all, even with smoke signals.

Anything that goes wrong in the world today, any untidy neighborhood dispute or family squabble can be explained away by this convenient catch-all phrase, "a failure to communicate." If Junior his Sonny over the head with a character-building play toy, depend on it, this nursery violence stems from a failure to communicate, even as Khrushchev's hitting the free world over the head with West Berlin.

Only a few years ago there were times when individuals and nations didn't "understand" each other. Or, they even misunderstood each other. In that simpler age it was possible to say, "speak plainer." "I don't dig it," or "Whaddya mean?" or even, "Huh?"

Why, I can remember "way back when" people and nations merely requested, "Say that again, please." But since the advent of the classic phrase, "a failure to communicate," people and nations tend to give up, sit on the sidelines and wring their hands. Instead of saying, "Come again!" or, "I don't getcha," we subside and say, "What's the use?"

One paramount reason for the above situation is that people—and nations, which are extensions of people—don't talk to each other any more. Have you noticed lately that everyone, from ditchdigger to diplomat, is engaged in a "dialogue"?

People no longer converse, or swap ideas, or chew the fat. It's all dialogue, which has a much-tonier ring than just plain talking. One of the most imposing "dialogues" going on in the modern world is that between the "Scientific community" and laymen, who are worried that fallout isn't good for humanity.

Also, note that word "community." It's very big at the moment. Heptsters don't say, for example, "scientists" or "educators." Today, it's the "scientific community" or the "academic community." Or, when Philharmonic Hall in Lincoln Center opened recently, I read not that music lovers attended but that the "musical community" was out in force.

The most imposing "dialogue" in progress today is that between the free world and communism. And if the dialogue seems endless, windy and largely futile, that impasse can be directly traced to "a failure to communicate." That phrase covers the hard reality: neither of us gets or wants the other's message, that we are at sword's points and waiting, under cover of words (that is, dialogue), for the next attempt at a flying mare.

Language is lovely, living entity. But, as was said long ago, words were meant to conceal, not reveal. However, despite the popularity of "dialogue" and "failure to communicate," might it not be a good idea occasionally to hang up and dial again?

Here's Some Advice For Speakers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—It happens to everyone.

Sooner or later, the president of some organization you belong to comes up to you and says:

"George, I want you to give the main address at our dinner meeting next month."

Well, you point out that you're a man of few words, never made a speech in your life, and the prospect scares you to death.

But the president cuts into your pretty protests with an unflinching ultimatum.

"You have to do it, George. everybody else I can think of is out of town."

"But what'll I talk about?" you ask lamely.

"Talk about anything," he replies brutally. "Don't worry—we'll lock the doors so they can't get away. But don't make it too long. Not over an hour."

An hour? That seems like an eternity.

But you buckle down gamely to the task of writing your speech. For a solid month your boss at the office doesn't get a dime's worth of real work out of you. At home you growl like a bear at every disturbing sound as you scribble page after page of your speech. Genius is in labor.

Rehearsing your speech before the morning mirror, you gesture with your razor—and slash off the tip of your nose and part of one ear.

The evening before the meeting you rise at the family dinner table and give your speech its final tryout. The cat falls asleep first, then your kids, then your wife. She wakes up and looks at the clock as you finish.

"It's wonderful," she says and smiles tactfully. "But it ran an hour and 55 minutes. Is that as long as they wanted?"

You sigh and throw away every other page of your manuscript.

Comes the big night. Well, the minister praises the food in a 20-minute invocation. The preliminary speakers drone on, and on. Then they introduce the distinguished persons in the audience and it turns out everybody is distinguished—and has an equally distinguished speech.

Then they give awards for an hour. Then they announce the election of officers and the 35-member board of directors, each of whom must be presented individually.

At last it is your turn. The president gets up, gives you a 17-minute introduction, taking you from birth to the present moment.

As you arise he whispers: "We're running terribly late. Better cut your talk to five minutes. I don't think they can stand any more."

You feel like crying, but what can you do? You give a couple of feeble wisecracks and then skip the rest of your speech and close with your peroration:

"Remember, as goes motherhood and the federal highway program, so goes America!"

Well, everybody likes the idea of his mother riding on a comfortable highway. The audience is also so grateful for being spared further boredom that all rise and give you a standing ovation. You are the hit of the evening.

Moral: The best way for a public speaker to make lifelong friends is to tell a joke, give a one-sentence constructive message—and then sit down as fast as he can.

Not a single steam locomotive has been built for American railroads since 1953.

Mercury, Venus and Pluto have no discernible satellites.

Junior Editors Quiz on DOLLS

QUESTION: When did dolls first originate?

ANSWER: We can't answer this exactly because the children of the earliest man may have made dolls of sticks and bits of grass, and left no record of them. We do know that the Egyptians of 3000 years ago made a great many dolls. They put them in graves with the idea that the people who had died might have company in the after life. Greek and Roman children had dolls, often made of clay. These they would keep until just before they were married, when they would leave them on the altars of certain temples. The Chinese and Japanese have made wonderful dolls for a long time. A Japanese girl is given a pair of dolls when she is born and many more after that, and she treats them with the greatest care and takes them to her husband's house when she gets married. We illustrate one of the oldest American dolls, Letitia Penn, brought over by William Penn in 1680. Less elegant dolls, but ones we believe the children loved even better, were the dolls made of rags in the houses of our earliest settlers. We show a rag doll of the Pilgrim period. The faces would be drawn with charcoal or painted with pokeberry juice. Each country has its own dolls dressed in its own costumes. We'd like to show them all to you, if only we had the room.

FOR YOU TO DO: It's fun to make new dolls out of the materials you find around home. Make pioneer doll, for instance. The Indians used corn husks, tied together. An old stocking, cut up and sewed together, makes a wonderful doll. Other dolls can be made by stringing cotton. Make paper dolls, then head so they sit down and lift their arms.

Bircher Distressed By Walker's Action

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A congressman who belongs to the John Birch Society says he is deeply distressed by the actions in Mississippi of fellow member, ex-Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker.

Rep. John H. Roussell, R-Calif., said Tuesday that if it is established that Walker incites insurrection, "as charged," his membership in the John Birch Society should be revoked.

TWO NEW CONVERTIBLES have joined the Mercury Comet line for 1963. The power-operated soft-tops are available in the custom series and in the bucket seat S-22 series.

Mercury For '63 Showing Thursday

New Mercury automobiles for 1963, including the big Monterey, the Comet and the Meteor, will go on display tomorrow at Wilson Motors here.

Two convertibles and numerous cost-reducing maintenance improvements have been added to the 1963 Mercury Comet model offerings.

The convertibles, with power operated tops, are available in the custom series and the S-22 series, which is the bucket seat version of the Comet.

Engineering advances developed originally for the big car field have been incorporated into the new Comet and substantially reduce the time and cost of auto maintenance.

Service-saving maintenance features include: an increase in the major lubrication cycle from 1,000 miles to 3,000 miles with minor oil changes at 1,000 mile intervals; a replaceable fuel filter element sufficient for 36,000 miles; new front wheel bearings that require cleaning and packing only after 24,000 miles, compared to 12,000 miles in 1962; and new self-adjusting brakes that are designed to last longer.

A highly successful first year for the Mercury Meteor has led Lincoln-Mercury Division to expand the car to a full line for 1963. Five new models—two hardtops and three station wagons—have been added.

"While we offered the Meteor initially in only two styles, a two-door sedan and a four-door sedan, its sales success proved there is a solid place in the market for a quality car of the Meteor size," said Ben D. Miller, Ford Motor Company vice president and Division general manager.

The 1963 Meteors will feature refined styling with more luxurious interior appointments, reduced maintenance, new or improved options and accessories, and better engine-transmission characteristics.

The new hardtops—in the Meteor Custom and S22 bucket seat series—are two-door models with a fleet-appearing low silhouette and a long rear deck. Both hardtops provide even more trunk space than the Meteor sedans.

The three new station wagons are four-door models. They are in the Meteor and Meteor Custom series, plus a top-of-the-line Meteor Custom Country Cruiser which features simulated mahogany side paneling.

Dramatic new styling features plus increased power and performance highlight the changes for the 1963 Mercury Monterey.

The completely restyled Monterey, the big car entry in the Mercury line, includes a unique reverse-sloped rear window and roof line that sets the car apart from all other American cars.

The new rear window, which goes up and down, has important functional advantages as well as styling appeal. The window slants inward and virtually eliminates visibility problems caused by rain, snow, frost or ice. The window, which is power operated, provides excellent ventilation when opened.

The new roof also allows more than half an inch of additional rear seat headroom.

In addition to the new roof line, the exterior of the Monterey has been completely restyled. All major sheet metal and ornamentation has been changed. The front features a new bumper and concave grille. The rear of the car has new quarter panels, new bumper, and triple tail lights. Canted blade-type fenders extending the length of the car, add crispness to the styling.

Say Leaders Hurt Program For Latins

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A formal report to the Inter-American Economic and Social Council asserted Tuesday that Latin American leaders are to blame for failure of the Alliance for Progress to gain popular support in their countries.

Opponents of the U.S. program have been distorting its true meaning and aims, a group named to appraise the program advised the council.

The committee is composed of Hernando Agudelo Villa of Colombia, Ernesto Malacort of Argentina, Manuel Noriega Morales of Guatemala, Felipe Pazos of Cuba, Harvey Perloff of the United States, Paul Rosenstein-Rodan of England and Raul Siles of Chile.

"The Alliance for Progress has not yet had the political and psychological impact it should have provoked," the group said, but there has been some exaggeration, "artificial and selfish," in talk of an alliance crisis. It added:

"The Alliance for Progress harms powerful political and economic interests which have become aware of the transforming principles and purposes of the program long before the large popular masses, who are generally badly informed."

"These interests defend themselves by attacking the alliance."

Some of these attacks come from ultra-nationalists and extreme leftist groups which oppose the participation of the United States in the development of the hemisphere.

Other attacks originate among conservative groups which in addition to seeing in the program a threat to their situations of privilege, consider that a policy of structural reforms brings with it grave disturbances for economic development and that its more announcement will cause a reaction in national and foreign investment in the countries of the area.

Mrs. Schirra Is Happy After Liftoff

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—"It was a beautiful liftoff—I'm very glad everything went okay," Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Jr. said shortly after her husband went rocketing into orbit around the earth today.

Her brief comment was relayed to waiting newsmen by space agency official Roy Wallack, who told of watching the takeoff on television with the astronaut's family.

There were no audible sighs or other signs of tension, Wallack said. Except for a NASA security agent, he said only Mrs. Schirra, her son and daughter and her mother were keeping vigil at the Schirra home.

Mrs. Schirra wouldn't talk to reporters Tuesday about her husband's mission, but her young son said he was excited.

Newsmen who went to the home were asked to state their business via a speaker system. A voice from inside said:

"I am Mrs. Schirra's mother. Mrs. Schirra will not see anyone right now."

Newsmen asked if they could return.

"Just a minute. I will see if she is awake," the voice said.

"There was a brief wait."

"Mrs. Schirra says she will not have any comment until after her husband is recovered."

Mrs. Schirra's mother is Mrs. James L. Holloway.

Walter Marty Schirra III, 12, was more talkative.

"I'm real excited about it," the seventh-grader exclaimed. "The principal of Clear Creek Junior High School is going to let me stay home to watch. My mother, sister and grandmother will be there too."

His sister is Susanne, 5.

Architect Edward Durrell Stone will design the National Cultural Center for Washington, D. C.

Says Actions To Maintain Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Searches and seizures by federal officers in Mississippi are carried out under President Kennedy's proclamation directing them to maintain law and order, says a Justice Department spokesman.

There has been no declaration of martial law, according to Jack Rosenthal, assistant information officer. "The people down there"—U.S. marshals and Army troops—"are carrying out an order to maintain law and order," he said.

Polio Victim Dies Following Surgery

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—Mary Jane Needham, who spent 13 years in an iron lung after being stricken by polio, died Tuesday of complications following a gall bladder operation.

The 42-year-old mother of three spent five years at the Santa Clara County Hospital before going home in her iron lung in 1964 to be with her children.

In 1959 she collaborated on a book, "Looking Up," relating a good-humored account of her experience.

HERE ARE THE RULES OF THE CONTEST

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played in the country this week-end. Get an entry blank from one of the merchants who are helping sponsor this contest and whose message is on this page. Fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only ... opposite the name of the firm on the entry blank. Then send your complete blank to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie score must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

If there is a tie for first place the winners will divide the cash money of $12.50 and no second prize will be given. If there is a first place winner and a tie for second place, the second prize winners will divide the money for the place. If more than two persons tie for second place, no second prize money will be awarded and the cash will be added to next week's prize. Tie for perfect score will split $25.00. There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted from any one person. More than one will disqualify all of the person's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing on the choice of the winner. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number — and watch for the story on next Wednesday's front page for the winners. Hurry now, and get your entry blank from one of the merchants on this page. The contest blank must be in your own handwriting. Employees of The Snyder Daily News and their families are not eligible to enter.

Buick's New Line Ready For Display

Buick's new line of cars for 1963, with all series distinctively styled in a completely new design, will go on display here tomorrow at Pat Buick-Pontiac.

All regular-size Buicks maintain approximately the same dimensions as last year, but the Special series models will be four inches longer.

The entire line, including the new Riviera sports coupe announced previously, will go on display in dealer showrooms Thursday. The Wildcat, introduced last spring, has been expanded into a complete series for 1963 with three models offered in a two-door and four-door hardtop and a convertible. A four-speed, floor-mounted transmission is available as an option on all Wildcat models. Front bucket seats, with center console housing the transmission control, are standard on the Wildcat convertible and two-door hardtop, and optional on the four-door hardtop.

Illness Is Not Smallpox

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A smallpox scare at the 13,500-student university of British Columbia subsided Tuesday after 750 had been vaccinated.

The scare developed Monday when Kanewang Watanachai, 26, a graduate student from Bangkok, Thailand, became ill. He was found to have a skin infection resembling a modified form of smallpox.

Watanachai was put in isolation and the 750 students in the campus residence where he had been living since Sept. 27 were vaccinated.

Free inoculations were offered to other students. But doctors said Watanachai appeared to have only a skin infection, and in the event it turned out to be smallpox it was only a mild case. Blood samples were sent to Ottawa for analysis.

"This is the first time Buick has ever offered its complete line with distinctive styling for each series," said Edward D. Rollert, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors.

"From the Special right up through the Riviera and Electra 225, each series has a completely different appearance."

The Electra 225 can be identified by its long, straight rear fenders that extend beyond the body panel, by its unique, concave taillights and by the four ventipoints on the front fender.

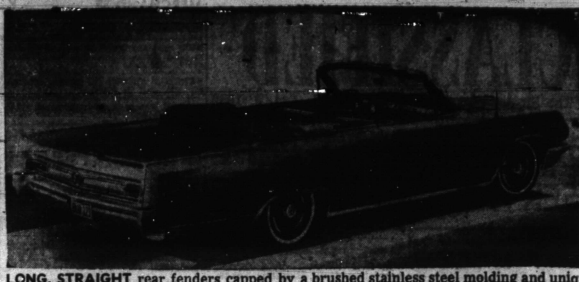

The Wildcat has its own grille design with brushed stainless steel moldings extending down the sides from the headlight to the middle of the front door. A similar molding runs across the back, between the taillights, identifies the Wildcat from the rear.

The new Special, top selling car in its class, has been increased in length from 158.4 to 162.1 inches. The additional length is in the rear fenders which extend beyond the body panel, and bumpers, both front and rear, have been made deeper, giving the Special a more massive look.

Smart new interiors, luxuriously done in a wide choice of nylon, leather and vinyl fabrics, add to the overall decor of both the Special and regular line. All-vinyl interiors are available in two-door and four-door models of LeSabre series for the first time.

Engineering refinements include self-adjusting brakes, the new Delcotron alternator generator which charges the battery while the engine is idling, and an adjustable steering wheel that can be set in seven different positions to suit the individual driver. This is offered as optional equipment on the regular line only.

Another new option on the regular line is a cruise-control for turnpike driving. The cruise-control can be set for any legal speed above 30 miles an hour and the car will maintain that speed. A touch of the brake pedal releases the cruise-control when a change in speed is desired.

LONG, STRAIGHT rear fenders capped by a brushed stainless steel molding and unique concave taillights mark the distinctive styling of Buick's Electra 225 series for 1963.

Sadler Assertion Disputed

AUSTIN (AP) — Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler asserted Tuesday and promptly drew disagreement from oil men operating on the coast—that Texas already is suffering ill effects from the Padre Island seashore park act.

Sadler favors a state park on Padre Island instead of the federal seashore area.

Guy Warren of Corpus Christi, past president of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Assn., said the federal park "wouldn't matter a great deal" if an oilman considered property in the submerged land area worth bidding on.

Jeff Carr, president of Carr Oil in Corpus Christi, was a successful bidder on two tracts totaling 1,129 acres in the Laguna Madre adjacent to Padre Island. He said the fact that these leases are in the seashore area "didn't affect my bidding in any way."

Hagan Farmley, division land manager for Tennessee Eastern Transmission Corp. in Corpus Christi, said: "It is our position that regardless of the seashore, it would not affect any bids Texas Eastern might have made on the land offered for sale."

Texas Eastern did not bid Tuesday "because we determined there would be no financial gain to it," Farmley said.

Nueces County Judge Noah Kennedy of Corpus Christi, who with Warren and Sadler is a member of the Padre Island Study Committee, said:

paid $100,500 each for two other submerged tracts, each of 1,440 acres.

"The state of Texas started paying for this proposed wasteland today, even before the area is created," Sadler said.

Sadler favors a state park on Padre Island instead of the federal seashore area.

Suit Under Advisement

HOUSTON (AP) — U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham took under advisement Tuesday an injunction suit by seven rice farmers against government officials and recessed a hearing until today.

U. S. Atty. Woodrow Seals argued the court should deny the request for a temporary injunction after lawyers for the farmers had rested their case. Seals charged some of the rice farmers who filed the suit were penalized because they bought allotments. "They are asking for relief from a situation they brought on themselves," Seals said. "They were buying allotments and this is illegal, and they know it's illegal." The farmers are trying to prevent federal agriculture officials from assessing penalties for allegedly excessive acreage which the farmers claim they did not plant. One of the lawyers for the farmers, Leon Jewerski, contended federal officials in charge of the rice allotment program had exceeded their powers under the law. He said the law does not give them power to impose penalties on a retroactive basis.

Construction Worker Is Killed In Cave-In

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP) — A cave-in at a sewer construction project killed a New Mexico workman and injured two companions from Texas Tuesday.

The collapsing earth covered Melaguas Aragon, about 55, of Las Vegas. Rescuers reached him in about 10 minutes but were unable to revive him.

Frank Chavez, 21, of Odessa, Tex., and Pete Chavez, 28, of Valmore, Tex., were buried up to their chests but escaped serious injury. The men were working for Brown-McKee, a Lubbock, Tex. contractor.

Border Patrolmen Is Hit By Pellets

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Three or four shotgun pellets struck a vest over the heart of Border patrolman Thomas O'Donnell during Sunday night's rioting at the University of Mississippi, a U.S. marshal said Tuesday.

He described it as a close call for O'Donnell, who is stationed at Laredo, Tex. None of the pellets penetrated the patrolman's clothing.

Sen. Byrd Claims Collusion In Racial Issue At Ole Miss

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., has charged collusion between the White House and the federal courts in breaking the racial barrier at the University of Mississippi.

He denounced President Kennedy's action Tuesday in a Senate speech.

"Where, and under what circumstances, will the government of the United States next use military force against our own people to enforce federal court orders?" Byrd asked.

"The use of military force for such purposes," said the Virginian, "is even more offensive to our form of government when elements of the judicial branch are obviously acting—not independently of—but in collusion with the executive branch which commands the military force."

Byrd declared collusion was clear "by the nature of Department of Justice activity before federal courts and judges involved which is being reflected in the detail of an increasing number of orders and decrees they issue."

He said adherence to "checks and balances, and division of power on which our system of government rests" may have spared bloodshed.

Asked for a comment on the "Ole Miss" situation, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said "our government cannot long endure unless responsible Americans abide by the decisions of our courts."

The real issue, he said, was stated by the President Sunday night "when he called upon the people to comply with the decision without violence."

Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., announced he has invited Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., to take part in a Senate Judiciary Committee investigation of "all events at the University of Mississippi since U.S. marshals and Army troops moved in."

Stennis, not a committee member, said he was pleased indeed to accept.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a committee member, told newsmen he thought it would require committee action to bring a non-member into the investigation.

Dirksen joined Republican leaders in voicing support of the President's action in sending in troops and added he was withholding decision on Republican participation in Eastland's proposed investigation.

The planned investigation drew a protest from Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

In a telegram to Dirksen and other members of the Judiciary Committee, Mitchell urged that Eastland be blocked from using the committee "as a propaganda weapon to promote or defend unconstitutional conduct."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk says Soviet Premier Khrushchev holds the power to "completely change the life of humanity" with a simple decision to live at peace in the world.

Rusk also says that the strength of the United States is pledged to the defense of the Western Hemisphere in the great world struggle now going on.

Rusk expressed these views at a dinner he gave Tuesday for Latin-American foreign ministers and other delegates attending the 20-nation inter-American conference here.

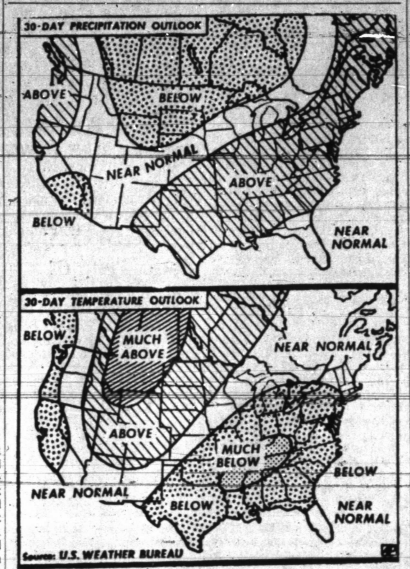

The guest list totaled about 100, including Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Foreign Aid Director Fowler Hamilton.

"The world about us," Rusk said, "is involved in a great historical struggle between, on the one hand, the great majority of the people that want to build a better world on the basis of the principles outlined in the United Nations charter of free peoples and individual nations cooperating among themselves for their mutual interest."

"On the other side are those who are seeking an entirely different world in which freedom has no place."

"Khrushchev speaks a great deal about revolution and yet he holds in his hands the most powerful revolutionary force that the history of mankind could comprehend, which is a simple decision to live at peace with the world. This simple decision could completely change the life of humanity."

els have their own special trim of nylon fabric and are available in the Ventura custom option. Convertible coupes have interiors of solid Morrokide and there is a choice of six top colors. Like all Catalina models, full floor carpeting is found in the passenger compartment and cow panels are solid plastic.

New Pontiacs On Display Tomorrow

The new 1963 Pontiacs will go on display tomorrow in dealer showrooms throughout the country, including Pat Buick-Pontiac in Snyder.

Styling and engineering developments found in the new 1963 Pontiacs are more impressive than ever before. The wide-track models in the three all-new Pontiac series, reflect the highest standards in body styling, performance, ride and handling, dependability and serviceability.

In announcing his Division's new 1963 models, E. M. Estes, General Motors vice president and general manager of Pontiac Motor Division, said the new roof lines and clean front and rear end styling "create a fresh visual image of quiet elegance." The new styling looks graceful, massive and substantial, yet definitely Pontiac, he said.

Pontiac's high volume production series, the Catalina, is available in seven models: two and four-door sedans, two and four-door hardtops, six and nine passenger Safaris and a convertible. The Star Chief is offered in a four-door hardtop Vista and four-door sedan models. The luxurious Bonneville is available in four models: two and four-door hardtops, a six-passenger Safari and a convertible.

Retaining a strong Pontiac identity, the 1963 cars have a split grille that features sunken air scoops flanked by an exclusive "over and under" vertical headlight arrangement which vividly extends the wide track theme. Rear end styling is expansively wide, and once again distinctively Pontiac. The special identification applied to each series, as in the case of side trim treatment. Gracefully formed rear bumpers sweep upward at the ends to blend smoothly with sculptured side panels and tail lamps, thus enhancing the long, low, wide appearance.

Traditionally luxurious, Pontiac's new interiors are tastefully fashioned in the latest luxury fabrics of nylon, vinyl and leather. Color combinations have been expanded to satisfy customer demand and solid nylon blend carpet floor covering adds to interior decor.

Bonneville sports coupe and four-door Vista interiors are offered in trim combinations of rich textured cloth combined with Jewellone or solid Morrokide. Deeply padded doors with a carpet covered lower area, deep pile door to door carpeting, custom hardware and star studded head lining are other Bonneville features. Bonneville convertible seats, including the optional bucket seats, are finished in genuine leather or prime surface areas. All Bonneville models have walnut wood inlays in the instrument panel and horn ring.

Bonneville Safari interiors are trimmed in a solid Morrokide. Load areas are richly carpeted and have bright skid strips over the carpet for added durability and high quality appearance.

Star Chief models have traditionally rich interiors and, like the Bonneville, have many standard equipment features including distinctive instrument panel with electric clock, custom steering wheel and deluxe wheel discs. Seats are trimmed in either a combination of nylon face yarn (fabric and Morrokide, or in all Morrokide. Floor areas are fully carpeted.

Catalina interiors have added appeal with the 1963 models. The special identification applied to each series, as in the case of side trim treatment. Gracefully formed rear bumpers sweep upward at the ends to blend smoothly with sculptured side panels and tail lamps, thus enhancing the long, low, wide appearance.

Pat Buick-Pontiac-GMC Co. is located at 312 East Highway, Snyder, Texas. The company is offering a special display of the new 1963 Pontiacs starting tomorrow, October 4, 1962, from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

PONTIAC TEMPEST TO BE SHOWN—Pictured is the Le Mans model of the compact Pontiac Tempest line to be shown tomorrow at Pat Buick-Pontiac-GMC on the East Highway. The Tempest is available in either the 4-cylinder economy engine or V-8 with up to 260 horsepower. The model shown sports the famous Pontiac Wide-Track design.

Quadros Is Back For A Fresh Start

By FRANK BRUTTO
SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The familiar mustachioed figure with disheveled hair, horn-rimmed glasses and rumpled suit roams Brazil's richest state campaigning for governor. He doesn't talk like a candidate. He speaks at rallies as "your governor."

This is Janio Quadros, who turned the nation upside down 13 months ago by abruptly resigning as president. At 45, he is trying for a comeback in the place where his fabulous political career started as a Sao Paulo city alderman.

Quadros is confident of victory in Sunday's election and is assured he has an eye on the presidency again.

His confidence is not shared by everyone. His battle against two other major candidates is rated so close that hot sun or rain on election day could affect the outcome.

"Janio is so sure of election," goes an opposition joke, "that he has already set the date for his resignation."

His resignation from the presidency stunned the nation. Political opponents now charge he let the country down and set off the serious economic and financial crisis that has sent the value of the national currency—the cruzeiro—plunging from 260 to one U.S. dollar to 750 in a year's time. Janio, as everyone calls him, denies it.

"I did not provoke it," he says. "I revealed it. I denounced it. I diagnosed it. If a doctor identified a malignant tumor, can he be held responsible for the ailment?"

Virtually boycotted by the Brazilian press, Quadros is campaigning at the grass-roots level. He makes promises of revolutionary economic and social reforms but has not bothered to spell out a program. Nevertheless, he attracts good crowds. He is adept at the game of politicking.

His chief opponents are Jose Bonifacio Coutinho Nogueira, 39, a farmer-banker and descendant of an 1822 Brazilian independence fighter, and Adhemar Pereira de Barros, 61, wealthy former Sao Paulo mayor and ex-governor, who has built up a strong following despite charges of corruption against his old administrations.

A fourth candidate in the race is a socialist who is given no chance of winning.

Bonifacio is strongly backed by incumbent Governor Carlos Carvalho Pinto, conservative Christian Democrat who supported Quadros' rise to the presidency but has since turned on him. Bonifacio pledges to continue Carvalho Pinto's long-range "plan of action" that has helped Sao Paulo pull far ahead of its sister states in development. He calls himself a nationalist, Christian, and Democrat.

De Barros, with a quarter-century of political experience behind him, is campaigning on a nationalist, anti-Communist platform, although he once allied himself closely with Brazilian leftists. He is a Social Progressive.

Quadros, a loner, is running under no particular banner—only on his own name.

Sao Paulo's estimated 200,000 Communists oppose all three major candidates and are urging voters to cast blank ballots in the election, which coincides with the voting for a new federal parliament.

The governorship of Sao Paulo is one of Brazil's most respected elective offices. Because its 13 million people have the highest literacy rate in the nation, Sao Paulo polls a quarter of the national vote. Because of illiteracy, only about 16 million persons in a national population of 75 million are eligible to vote.

Thus a victory for Quadros could rocket him back into the national scene, where he became a controversial figure because he steered Brazil toward a neutralist course in sympathy with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Because he resigned as president, the constitution forbids him from running in the 1965 presidential election. There is talk of a constitutional amendment to alter that. Then the prospect, for 1965 would be a contest of the three Js: former President Juscelino Kubitschek, President Joao (Jango) Goulart and Janio Quadros.

Couple Teams To Rob Manufacturer

FORT WORTH (AP)—A man and a woman teamed to rob E. O. (Soapy) Gilliam, 78, a bomb shelter manufacturer, of $13,300 and a $3,500 diamond ring at his home Tuesday night.

They left the former soap maker bound and gagged, but set pills to ward off a possible heart attack close at hand. Both indicated they knew him well.

Gilliam, sponsor of women's champion volleyball teams, is a widower who lives alone. He related these details:

The woman rang his doorbell about 7 p.m. and introduced herself as a volleyball player from Florida.

"We've heard all about you in Florida," she said, "and some of the girls asked me to stop by and tell you hello."

While he was mixing her a drink, she made a phone call. "Let my parents know where I am."

The two discussed volleyball ball about 10 minutes and "she knew all about the game."

She sprang to the front door as the bell rang and a man "came running by her with a gun in his hand."

"He yelled: 'This is a stickup. You've got a secret safe and a lot of money in it...I'm gonna have it or I'm gonna blow your head off.'"

The gunman directed his victim upstairs.

Gilliam, slowed recently by a heart ailment and fading vision, asked to ride his electrical chairlift. The request was denied.

The intruders bound Gilliam's hands and feet with bandage gauze and covered his mouth with another strip.

"I've known you a long time, Soapy," the gunman informed his victim. "If your sight was worth a damn, you might recognize me."

Unable to find the safe, the gunman hit Gilliam three times with his fist. Gilliam said he'd take them to the safe if they would untie him.

He led the pair halfway down a winding staircase, took a pot of flowers off a post, lifted a board and disclosed the safe, then unlocked it with a key.

The gunman reached inside and grabbed the ring and 133 hundred-dollar bills.

Gilliam was escorted back to his bed and bound again. His heart began to flutter.

The woman heeded his muffled pleas and slipped a pill under his tongue. The robbers put the pills near him on the bed, pushed an oxygen tank up to the bed and departed.

Gilliam summoned help through his "heart attack alarm." It consists of a direct telephone link to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Ticknor.

The phone rings in the Ticknor home the moment Gilliam's receiver is lifted. He managed to kick off the receiver and the Ticknors soon arrived.

Course Required In Negro History

LOS ANGELES (AP)—By court decree, four young white men will take an adult school course in Negro history.

The unusual sentence was given Tuesday by Superior Court Judge Richard F. C. Hayden. The four were accused of firing a dart from a homemade blowgun at a group of Negroes standing on a corner.

Judge Hayden specified that each defendant must maintain a "C" average or better in the course at Dorsey adult school this semester.

Typewriter Turns Into Federal Case

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—They've made a federal case out of a missing typewriter at the University of Mississippi.

The typewriter disappeared from the university's Lyceum building while federal agents were using a room there for questioning prisoners in the wake of Sunday's rioting. The FBI promises to supply a new typewriter if it isn't found.

Students Supported

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—A group of leading students at Pretoria University, in this capital of racially segregated South Africa, sent a telegram today to the mayor and students at Oxford, Miss., assuring them "of our unwavering moral support in your battle to uphold white civilization."

British Aircraft

Is Given Test
CRANFIELD, England (AP)—Britain test-flew an aircraft with a "shark's fin" wing Tuesday. Purpose of the extra wing, which sits vertically on top of the fuselage, is to reduce drag and fuel consumption.

The Handley-Page Corp. manufactures the device, said "it could have results as far-reaching as any event since the turbo-jet engine."

FORMER AIRLINE STEWARDESSES AT HEARING—Margaret Mary Donofry, center, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., and Marie Louise Hurley, right, Arlington, Va., talk to Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Tex., of a House subcommittee probing reports of flying regulations violations on commercial airlines. Miss Donofry testified she was allowed to fly a four-engine plane and Miss Hurley told of seeing a third officer board a plane for a passenger flight after an all-night drinking bout. (AP Wirephoto)

Russians Told Of Schirra's Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States formally notified the Soviet Union Tuesday of the impending rocket flight of astronaut

Walter M. Schirra Jr. and indicated hope that the Russians will avoid high-altitude nuclear explosions which might hamper the operation.

The U.S. action was similar to one the Soviet government took in mid-August when two Soviet spacemen were orbited and Moscow notified Washington of a suggestion that the United States be careful about where it fired its nuclear test shots while the men were up.

Something Less Than Full Probe Of Riots Is Planned

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. James O. Eastland, Democrat and segregationist from Mississippi, plans something much less than a full investigation of the riots at the University of Mississippi.

He has announced the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which he is chairman, will look into "all events" at Ole Miss "since the U.S. marshals and Army troops moved in."

But he already is convinced he knows the cause of the riots. He and Mississippi's Gov. Ross R. Barnett blame them on the Kennedy administration and U.S. marshals.

touch the main issue at all: why Mississippi took it on itself to defy the government, and why it thought it could get away with it, if it did.

Except now for Ole Miss, no school in Mississippi, Alabama or South Carolina has been desegregated after eight years. The entire Alabama congressional delegation gave its support to the Mississippians to proceed with its defiance.

After what happened at Ole Miss, Alabama and South Carolina, by this time, probably have come to the realization they can't defy the court either.

Typist's Errors Delay Executions

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—A typist's mistakes have cancelled out the San Quentin gas chamber's first scheduled execution of four men in a single day—Nov. 16.

Warden Fred H. Dickson said Tuesday the execution of three men convicted in an Anaheim ambush slaying had been postponed until Nov. 30 because the typed warrant of execution contained several errors, including a dropped line.

The law requires the warrant must be perfect.

Legend holds that Columbus landed on the island of Martinique because all the inhabitants were said to be women.

BURSTING WITH NEWS... '63 MERCURYS

NEWS-MAKING ROOF FROM MONTEREY. The advantages of Monterey's distinctive styling go far beyond its beauty. This is elegance that works. See how the recessed rear window slants inward? It stays clearer in rain or snow. On hot days, it opens for breezeaway ventilation. The overhanging roof shades rear-seat passengers from the sun, gives more headroom, keeps glare off the rear window for better rearview visibility. More good news: a Mercury Marauder 390 V-8 is Monterey's standard engine.

SPARKLING NEW MODELS FROM METEOR. For 1963, Meteor is the hot brand. Meteor is the sparkler with a whole new line of models in the low-price field—sleek new low-to-the-road hardtops, sedans, and three new station wagons. Feel sporty?

THE LID'S OFF COMET. Now a jaunty new convertible joins Comet's all-fun line. This sleek, rakish beauty comes in two models: the Custom and the dashing S-22, with bucket seats and optional stick shift. All Comets now have a complete package of service-savers like self-adjusting brakes. And Comet still heads its class with the largest trunk, longest wheelbase, and best resale value record. See Comet's whole happy '63 line-up: convertibles, sedans, station wagons. Fun-test your favorite Comet now!
