ELECTION IS SET MAY 3 FOR VOTE TO DECIDE ISSUE

 CHICAGO AND TOLEDO FIRMS GET OPTIONS ON SECURITIES INTEREST 5 PERCENT
 BIG SAVING TO BE MADE FOR LUBBOCK THROUGH THIS METHOD

A funding bond issue whereby the city government will re-finance all outstanding warrants indebtedness was sold to W. L. Slaton and company, Toledo, and Moring Mather company, Chicago, at rate of five per cent accrued and an election whereby the issue will be submitted to a vote of the people of Lubbock Tuesday, May 2, was ordered by the City Commission. In session here Thursday afternoon. The sale of the bonds is contingent upon successful culmination of the election. J. E. W. Thomas, Dallas, of the Morris Mather company, and J. T. Moss, of the W. L. Slaton company, submitted a joint bid, and the sale was made by auction with nine bond buyers represented. Sealed bids were advertised for, accepted and returned, and following refusal of one representative to submit a bid, except to be discussed in executive session of the commission, the sale was declared open for auction. Thomas and Moss bid in the issue of five per cent interest on a par value when delivered, saving the city from one to two per cent on warrants that are now outstanding. Election May 3. The election was called for May 2, and E. T. Fenney, W. E. Ballew and Walter Gillon were named election judges. The election will be held in the city hall. The bond issue is designed to decrease expenses of the city government and not to increase taxation, as the bonds will be purely a funding issue, members of the commission explained, saying that they believe the citizens of Lubbock will rally to their support in carrying the election with an overwhelming majority. The amount of the issue has not yet been definitely decided upon pending another check-up on outstanding warrants, but officials said Thursday afternoon that the total probably will be less than the $700,000 as provided for in the call for bids. W. W. McCleary, city secretary was instructed by a unanimous vote of the commission to notify holders of outstanding warrants of plans of the commission in funding the warrants, and immediate steps toward the success of the election will be taken. Options of recall on some of the outstanding warrants expire May 20, and it is the plan of the commission to have the issue carried through all legal channels pursuant to final disposition on or before this date.

Hobo King Says His Travels Are Ended

CINCINNATI, March 31 (AP)—Jeff Davis, "king" of the hobos, has been cured of wandering.

He is going to stay at home, says, and keep his wife company the rest of his days, for his only wife has left the family roof-tree to wed Jeff's friends, however, are skeptical that his wandering feet, which carried him over 150,000 miles of globe's surface in the last 26 years will remain before the streets. They are sure that he will at least continue to "smell the wheels" of "hobo" convoys, for his shining pate has been the goal of most of the major labor gatherings and disturbances of the twentieth century.

Jeff named himself "king of the hobos" many years ago, in tribute to his prowess as a brake beam rider.

When state troops fired on striking miners at Ludlow, Colo., Jeff was there. When railway shopmen walked out in 1922, Jeff went from one trouble center to another, rallying picketers and encouraging the strikers. His skull was fractured by a private detective's bullet in a New York textile strike. Coal mine disturbances in West Virginia always have brought Jeff there.

Ninety-two times Jeff has crossed the United States, he boasts, and he claims that mark for the new pretender to hobos' throne is about 41.

A classified ad in the Avalanching Journal of old wives is a cure for hobos' getting.

WAR PROPAGANDA AGAIN

The Armistice of November 11, 1918, did not put a summary stop to war propaganda. War propaganda, in the bulk, does not emanate from general staffs, but from the selfish souls of those who seek unconscionable profits on foreign soil.

It is a mistaken idea that war propaganda has always as its purpose battles and bloodshed. Battles and bloodshed are but the ultimate consequences of war propaganda carried to its limit. Nicely conducted war propaganda of this enlightened day is merely that brand which seeks by blandishment and ballyhoo and bombast to obtain special privileges under American diplomacy and the American flag.

How should we like to let Japan gain and keep control of our citrus fruit industry under bluffery of cracking arms and strong language? How should we enjoy Great Britain appropriating American coal control by government gab? How should we care to have Germany by insidious and flag-protected penetration seize a monopoly of our oil or railroads?

These suggestions, you say, are preposterous because Americans are too shrewd and too good at business to permit such robbery. For all that, the questions do not lose their propriety. They serve to illustrate the reactions which arise from too selfish an acquisitiveness on the part of aliens.

Mexico has a right to shape her own destinies. Respect that right and Mexico will respect our flag and honor our citizens. Let not the war propaganda flooding our country break down the boundary lines and shatter the friendly marks of neighborliness.

Mexico is not ours. Her attitude is her own. Her laws are different. Her ideals and traditions are not like Uncle Sam's. Perhaps she is less liberal. Possibly she is backward. No doubt her own great natural resources will be slow to be developed. But if this be so, Mexico has many companions on the grinning face of this globe. And it is not, apparently, Mexico's desire to "Keep up with the Joneses" or the Sams.

Legitimate business usually is greeted cordially and treated fairly.

Humanity will not starve if Mexico keeps in her tracks a thousand years, which is an unlikely prospect. And America will not suffer much from north-bound foreign aggression or even from tan-skinned legislative annoyance so long as our administrations practice a reasonably consistent policy of "Hands off."

Latin-America as a whole will be grateful for such a policy, and the principle is equally applicable clear to Cape Horn.

GANG SPIRIT IN STUDENT SUICIDES

In the past few weeks something like two dozen students of high school and college rank have committed suicide. The country is wondering just why this outbreak, and numerous reasons have been given: It is from laxity of home discipline, from shallow views of life, from poor religious training, from the nervous speed of things, from confusion in the thinking of the present time, from materialistic influences, from inability to meet hardship or disappointment, and from the demand for thrills. Yes, these, any or all, may have their part to play in the explanation. Can it be that the disposition of young people to go in gangs has anything to do with these suicides? A shining example is set, and imitators follow it.

No, this is not a sufficient explanation of these suicides. What could it be?

HIDDEN TREASURE THROUGHOUT THE SOUTHLAND

Legend relates how a mythical person, Bobtail by name, worsted His Satanic Majesty in two agricultural transactions. One year the pair raised corn, Bobtail taking what grew in the air and allotting to his partner what grew in the ground. The next season the terms were reversed—which seemed fair to the devil—and they planted potatoes! The Southland, now perplexed because of an enormous overproduction of cotton, might derive a useful lesson from that ancient tale. Heretofore the section has been principally agricultural, to the neglect of its rich mineral resources. It has cultivated things which grew above the ground—because these are visible and readily turned into money—and has paid comparatively little heed to the treasure stored beneath.

Only recently has the region showed signs of perceiving the real worth and possibilities of this unexploited wealth. All the way from Maryland to Texas, said Richard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers Record, to the American Mining Congress in Birmingham, lie hidden stores which presently will be brought to light to serve the country industrially and to enrich it.

To be sure, Texas' petroleum and sulphur, Alabama's coal and iron have figured as considerable items in the economic scheme for a long time and show no sign of becoming exhausted. Development in these fields represents but a beginning, however.

It is believed that Texas contains the world's largest stores of potash—an indispensable mineral on which Germany and Alsace now hold a monopoly. This State also has a billion tons of lignite, and probably enough quicksilver to supply all mankind's needs indefinitely. Arkansas possesses fields of bauxite and Georgia has inexhaustible kaolin strata.

THE LAWS AND THE PROFITS

Laws and more laws!—there are already so many statutory regulations on the books of the various states that a whirling dervish might become dizzy keeping track of them. Yet, individual legislators continue to pile up legal enactments, regardless of little except their own pet measures.

Not long ago, the President of the National Board of Fire Underwriters declared that because of the multitudinous regulatory acts the fire insurance companies are in the unenviable position of combat with 49 masters to serve—the District of Columbia having its own laws.

What is compulsory in one state is prohibited in a neighboring commonwealth, so that underwriting organizations have to "Stop, look and Listen" every time they arrive at a border line.

Taxes for all conceivable purposes are levied, and there are calls for minutely classified statistics and voluminous records, the compilation of which necessarily costs money. By adding to the operating expenses of the companies, legislators and state officials increase the cost of insurance protection to the public and also help to curtail profits from underwriting. The word "possible" is used because the stock fire insurance companies, as a class, have shown underwriting deficits for the past six or seven years, due, in some measure, to the excessive legal restrictions that have to be observed.

SHOULD WORK TOGETHER

There has been a constant attempt to stir up class strife between farming and industrial interests.

Since the vetoing of the McNary-Haugen bill, statements have appeared to the effect that the farmers were seeking class legislation because they believed themselves omitted from the present tariff schedules.

It is doubtful if such sentiment ever emanated from actual farmers. One has only to read over the tariff figures applying to our agricultural products to see the error in such a statement.

Anyone who will take the trouble to go through the lists of protected farm products will see that practically everything the farmer raises is covered by a good duty, while everything he buys for farm use comes into the United States duty free.

The farmers and industry should not permit themselves to be placed at cross purposes with each other, as a method of making political capital for any faction or party. Their interests are common and they should work together.

TAXATION FALLS TO ALL

Showing how the burden of taxation falls upon everyone, rich and poor alike, Professor William B. Munro, Chairman of the Division of History, Government and Economics, at Harvard, says:

"Everybody who pays rent pays taxes. The landlord is merely a middleman who collects the taxes from his tenants and passes the lump sum to the city collector.

"Everybody who buys merchandise pays taxes. The retail merchant passes his burden along to his customers in the price of his goods. So with everyone who travels on a street car, or goes to the theater, or smokes a cigar. They all pay taxes, whether they realize it or not.

When the gas company or telephone company raises its rates, even slightly, there is a great hue and cry, with meetings of protest and fiery speeches. Every householder realizes who's who when it comes to paying gas or telephone bills. But when the city tax rate goes up, it leaves the great masses unmoved.

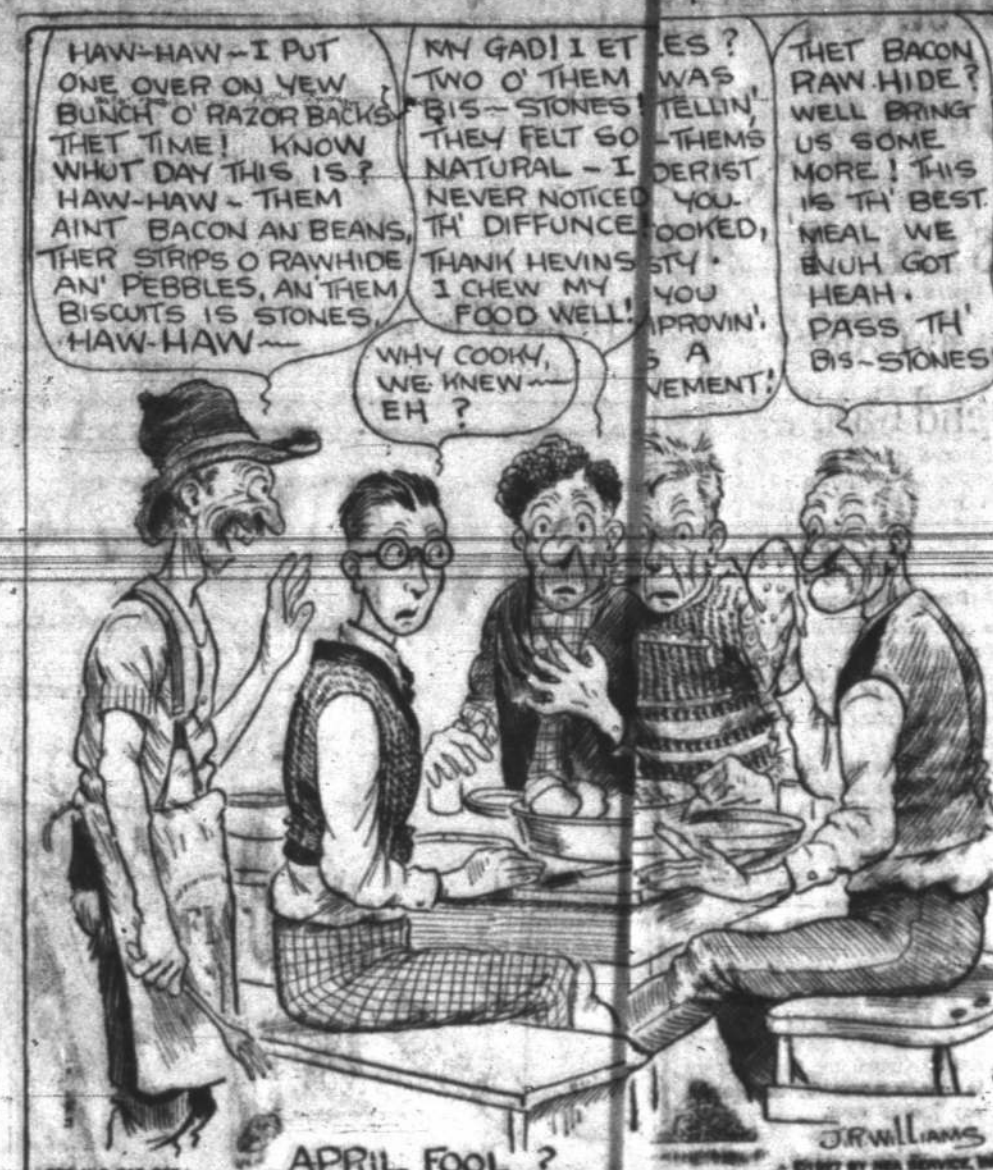

"That is why we have so much extravagance in government. People condone this extravagance because they feel that their own pocket-books are not affected by it in any way.

"Extravagance and waste bear more heavily upon the poor than on the rich. If we can drive into the public mind this simple, simple fact we shall make democracy compatible with economy—and we can accomplish it in no other way."

All men may be born free and equal, but it doesn't take long for the equality to be dissipated and we have our doubts about the freedom part.

Times certainly do change. When Robert Lockhart, of Dunfermline, Scotland, tried to play golf in the Central Park, New York, in 1888, he was arrested.

OUT OUR WAY

SO THINK WE

We think that memory is a delightful thing when you give it pleasant pictures to hold it, and it is a disagreeable thing when you give it unpleasant pictures.

We think that it won't be long now until the sport page of the daily papers will regain its popularity with the thousands and thousands of interested baseball fans by the certain raising games for the 1927 season will be lifted on April 12.

We think that Major H. O. D. Seagrave did not only make remarkable speed in his four-ton Sunbeam racing car at Daytona Beach last Tuesday in making over 200 miles an hour but also achieved three world's records at the same time. It will be a fast car that will pass Seagrave records in race car driving.

That there is one man in Lubbock who is so broke that he says he can't buy out for a nightmar.

We think that every highway traveler should look and listen, and where it is obligatory to stop before passing over railroad tracks, there should be no equivocation, an actual stop together with observation.

We think that the people who have the time to spare should attend the literary events of the Lubbock county intercollegiate meet which is being conducted today at the local high school. The boys and girls entered in these events have devoted much time in the past few weeks and are entitled to a good attendance.

We think it is a problem for the modern motorist to keep in style with the new motor cars. The new motor car will make the fourth payment on your car, and it looks swell the manufacturer turn out a later model that will make your car take to the bushes.

We think that the gate receipts of the baseball clubs in the big cities will fall this year. Every club has a star. Through the winter slump and deals many a veteran diamond performer was shifted to new surroundings.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that an Oklahoma school has traded tuition to some 200 boys and girls, taking tuition in payment of twenty cents a piece, for that the case at Texas Technological college—great would be the enrollment.

It is reported that today the thirtieth annual Lubbock county intercollegiate meet will convene at the local high school. Some sixteen county schools are represented in the meet which is by far the largest gathering of students ever to take part in the Lubbock county meet.

That more than 20 millions of automobiles are registered in the United States and the local tax collector states that some more than 1,000 cars are still unregistered in Lubbock county.

It is reported that Plainview is having a problem in reviving the Little Theatre in that city, which is an organization of some three years of age. Every city has it up and down it seems.

That the whole world produces three million barrels of oil daily of which two million are produced in the U. S. presently this old world is certainly well creased.

That it will soon be time for the women to purchase their new Easter bonnets. There is a hat for every season, holiday, and event.

That the supreme court has upheld the verdict of the state in that they decided that New York ticket scalpers have a right to rob any poor saps who want to pay $100 to see a theatrical performance usually worse than

ONE YEAR AGO

Sup. M. H. Duncanson, the successor of L. J. Ford, who had been conducting with Lubbock high schools for the year.

Skipper Sled Allen, of the Lubbock Hubbers, called work-out for the Hubbers, the second workout for the year.

J. E. Alley, Lubbock farmer, died suddenly at his home at two o'clock Monday morning of acute indigestion.

Mrs. Roy Starnes, Lubbock Wednesday for America she will join her husband at Lubbock several weeks they will make their home in the where Mr. Starnes will practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank returned yesterday from a long trip to Dallas, Ft. Worth, and other cities. They visited Mr. Jones in Valley View, while they stay.

A pre-Easter revival at the Mexican Methodist church is under way, with Rev. C. G. Patton, pastor of the church at Ft. Worth, the local pastor, and Tom Tom with the preaching.

SOME IMPOR. AD. DITIONS OF T. LAWS

Among the 24 bills introduced in the Legislature which Governor Moore has signed are several measures of importance. For example, non-statutory appropriation $1,500,000 for the fiscal year 1927-28, thereby establishing a new policy.

This is a step toward economy and efficiency in government, and therefore should be welcome. The long-controversial non-reorganizing program is also approved. The bill will be taken up in the special session. This should be made to yield out at each annual accounting, a result hardly may be expected as it remains on a purely statutory basis, however. Any similar reorganizing plan must first be made in mind.

The new motor car license fee bill—companion measure to the gasoline tax—will increase counties highway revenues, besides that it will increase the tax on up to $10,000—herefore tied to the State Highway Commission—shall be retained where collection of this arrangement will release funds for building highways—but the population centers still will bear the disproportionate share to the highway.

Most common-sense employing this system tax assessed on the basis of weight alone among the counties to keep all the taxes thus collected. That plan worked satisfactorily and has had the objection to the present. Future legislation may perfect a satisfactory system of readjustment along this line.

The regular session of the Legislature will be held at the present time a constitutional amendment providing for the election of judges and justices of the peace, and the elimination of the numerous abuses which have sprung up around it. These abuses are occasioned by many complaints, especially from the farming public.

This move is timely as the United States Supreme Court recently decided that judicial officers may not sit in cases in which they financially interest. Some legal authorities interpreted that decision, namely, in the Texas law system, judges should be removed to the jurisdiction of the proposition, which was passed upon in a special election next August.

Sneezes and $s Can't Make The Briton Steam Heat

The universal ailment is "cold." But this has brought heating—central heating!

Get it, the scene is a hotel, one of those queer tations, a sort of half-way tween a plain boarding house and a hotel.
Some thirty English of all such sects are huddled as they can get to the grate fire. There is a great excretion with pocket handkerchiefs. There is much sniffing and sniffing and sneezing and coughing.

The lone American in the crowd has learned something about the habits of people here.

At this place were steam heated rooms wouldn't go from a fairly comfortable lounge through cold halls into bedrooms and bathrooms and din-ing rooms. Every place in the hotel would be the same temperature. Every place would be comfortable.

What, central heating! It's dead,
-tooth!
I've never been to America and I've never experienced your central heating, but they tell me everybody has a cold!

Then she started sneezing and at once there was an echo of sneezes and sneezes from all the crowded circle.
And they wondered why the lone
American sneezed so ardently and un-
-sympathetically at their sneezing.
They will always wonder. They will never get it. Only the English who have lived abroad, and have learned to like a little plain creature, comfort, will understand.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folsom's swimming companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CAMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichan, an Oriental knife and that it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fanatic collector of antique weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichan.

ANASTASIA engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case, DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folsom had been blackmailing him and he had lied at the inquest but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE, and begins uctively to work. In Folsom's room, Stone asks Pelton to produce the dead man's papers, and it comes to light that Carmelita Valdon had stolen some letters from them. Suspicion immediately falls on Carmelita.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

"It isn't ridiculous, except that it's not wise to jump at conclusions so rapidly," said Riggs. "I have felt all along that Mrs. Valdon knows more than she has admitted, and that she is a woman of—"

"Of murderous impulses and of desperate passions and capable of any crime!" Miss Folsom ranted on. "I knew her best the moment I set eyes on her, and that was seven years ago. She made a deal for my brother, and they had an affair, which she thought would end in Garret's marrying her—but it didn't. Garret was just a little too smart for that! But there was a scandal and somehow or other Garret kept the whip hand. Since then Garret and I have been friends outwardly, and she and Garret were"

seemingly friends, but she was afraid of him."

"Not afraid of him," amended Pelton, "but he had some letters of hers which were perhaps a bit indiscreet. These she naturally wanted to get back after his death. No woman wants her letters flung to the public. So, not unnaturally, she tried to get them. She knew it would be useless to appeal to the police, and she doubted the wisdom of asking my aunt for them, so—"

"You know a lot about it, Dan," said his aunt, with an inquiring glance.

"I do, Aunt Stone, and I'm telling all I know, because—well, because Mr. Stone's interest in that opening was the best way out."

"I'm not sure I implied all that," Stone said, and his face was grave. "Much depends on the nature of those letters, if they were merely indiscreet love letters, they might bring no suspicion on Mrs. Valdon. But if they were of a threatening nature, or proved a real intent for revenge—"

"They couldn't be as bad as that," Pelton said, and was stopped by his aunt.

"Shut up, Dan," she advised. "You've fallen for that woman, as you do for every specimen of that stren type. Given a low, wailing voice and a pair of dark, love-hungry eyes, and any woman can vamp you! Now drop her before you get in too deep. Before you get the word from your Uncle Garret, I suppose she begged you for that packet of letters. By the way, where has it been all the time? I haven't seen it."

"I took care of it," Pelton said, obstinately.

"I know you did, but where did you find it? In the suitcase?"

"Yes. And I just hid it aside for the moment. I knew she never killed Uncle. How could she?"

"Why couldn't she?" retorted his aunt. "She stood next him at the time that we knew. Stood at his right-hand side. So she had motive and opportunity. As to the weapon, we've no real reason to assume it might have been one of those antique things. It may have been a hotel carving knife. Any woman clever enough to plan and carry out such a scheme of murder would be quite clever enough to manage the weapon part of the business. Now, Mr. Stone, there's your criminal, go and get her!"

Had the case been less serious, Fleming Stone would have been amused at the emphatic declarations of Miss Folsom.

She was striding up and down the room, her bobbed hair, escaped from the influence of brilliantine, waving in quivering tufts. Her black lace evening gown was short and the great red rose at her shoulder shook on its stem as she postulated with her bare arm, which was held now aloft like the statue of Liberty, and now straight out, as she pointed in emphasis at one or another of her hearers.

Interested—hearers, too, for Titus Riggs was giving a new light on the beautiful Carmelita. "Croydon Sears was attempting to see a way out for himself, and Fleming Stone was hoarding and weighing this information, so freely given and rapidly assigning it to its true place in his collection of evidence."

"Dearly, gently Miss Folsom," he said, looking at her kindly. "I know you think you have discovered the one who killed your brother, and it excites your sense of justice, but remember we haven't proved anything and, indeed, have little to bank on. A packet of love letters and a position next to Mr. Folsom on the rope in the ocean, I'm sure no more than that, and that, dear lady, is not enough."

"It's enough for me!" Anastasia Folsom's eyes snapped. She snatched up one of the dolls that was perched on the mantel.

"That's the type she is!" she exclaimed as she waved the puppet in the very face of Fleming Stone. "That's the type of Carmelita Valdon; a woman with a serpent's soul!"

The doll, a superior specimen of French art, did indeed look like Carmelita, so much so that it was surprising. But it had a soft, even smile, expression beneath the burning smile, and the exquisite features, while fascinating, were those of a wicked, designing nature.

"Fleming Stone was interested.

"It does look like Mrs. Valdon," he declared.

"Of course it does," Miss Folsom said.

Which side of the bed is the wrong side

That's a riddle most of us never trouble to answer. All we know is whether we hop out of bed feeling tip-top or crawl out feeling "low." But, even so, there's breakfast, and that's the time to let those "fumes" go up in smoke—that fragrant wisp of smoke that curls up from your pot of M-J-B.

For M-J-B has a rousing good-morning flavor—a cheery flavor that sets you right with the world. And it is this flavor that has made M-J-B stand for contentment—no matter how you make your coffee or how you drink it strong, mild or in-between!

J. C. Penny Company Store Decorates To Celebrate 25th Year of Big Chain

Instead of the usual red, white and blue bunting employed for decorative purposes at the time of sales and anniversary celebrations, the local store of the J. C. Penny company, at Broadway and Texas Avenue, in recognition of reaching the 25th or silver year in the history of the Nation-wide institution, is showing a decorative idea on the front of the store, and the interior of its show windows, quite different from anything heretofore attempted in town. The whole scheme has a silver-finish basis in keeping with the company's silver anniversary.

Farmer Dictator Is Hero To Russians

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., March 31.—Among Russia's Communist dictators the most human and picturesque figure is Michael Kalinin, the farmer-President of the republic.

During the civil wars when there were peasant risings all over Russia, Kalinin was specially selected by the government to form a link between the designated president of the Republic. Whenever trouble develops in any part of the Soviet Union, Kalinin is selected to smooth over the difficulties. His personal popularity among all classes is enormous.

CONDENSED OPPORTUNITIES

The way that opportunities are condensed and filed for quick reading in the Avalanche and Journal classified sections, is comparable to a pantry shelf filled with tinned foods. Those foods don't take up much room—but there's a lot of nutrition there. You can get a whole meal out of one little tin. You know the "just add hot water and serve" kind.

These classified opportunities are never at a loss to know which is which.

It's the same with Avalanche and Journal classified offers—they're all plainly labeled with classification headings. And these offers don't take up much room but you just add a little hot interest and see how they serve you.

DAILY MARKET

COTTON CLOSES FIRM

NEW ORLEANS, March 31 (AP)—Short covering in the last hour of trading brought cotton prices out of a slump induced by an estimate of a small acreage reduction and brought them to near the day's high marks before closing with net gains of 7 to 11 points.

The opening was up on the strength of Liverpool cables and an unfavorable weather forecast. The early trading, despite a moderate reaction, carried price levels 9 to 10 points above the previous close, with July leading for 14 1/2 and October for 14 1/2.

Shortly afterward, however, the influence of a private report that the acreage reduction would not be more than 87 per cent, was reflected in a decline which carried July to 14 1/2 and October to 14 1/2, 8 to 10 points below the high, but still 2 to 5 points above the previous close.

In the last hour shorts covered freely and under the buying spurt, all active months again climbed to near the top before the close.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGH

Futures buying of hard, together with strength of hog values, helped to sustain the provision market.
