

State Expects To Rest Case In Flores Trial

The state was expected to rest its case this afternoon in the trial of Francisco Flores who is charged with murder in connection with the death last Christmas Eve of Francisco Alvarado.

Testimony started late Monday afternoon. The state had presented five witnesses at noon today.

Sgt. James Roberts, an airman, testified that he was present at the El Patio Cafe at the time of Alvarado's death. He said he had been outside the building and entered by a rear door in time to see the defendant fire a shot at the deceased. He said he heard several other shots.

W. O. Leonard, former justice of the peace, said he was called to the El Patio on the night of the shooting, that he examined the body and found several bullet holes. He also identified photographs of the state introduced as pictures made Dec. 26, some 36 hours after the trouble at the cafe.

Policeman Bill Cartwright testified he was called to the cafe on the night of the shooting, and that he found the defendant standing just inside the front door to the establishment with a gun in his hand.

"Here's the gun. I'm the one you want. I'm the one that shot that man," Cartwright said Flores told him. The officer produced a gun he said Flores gave him at that time.

Joe Bunch, mortician, said he removed the body of Alvarado from the cafe. He testified that eight bullet holes were found in the body. Leonard, on cross-examination, said he found two packages of cigarettes and a drinking glass in the left pocket of a coat Alvarado was wearing. He said nothing else of significance was found on the body.

Rolland Tullis, chemist for the Texas Department of Public Safety, also was to testify today. State's attorneys said Tullis would testify concerning distance from which the shots which killed Alvarado were fired. Howard H. Taylor, DPS ballistics expert, also was in Big Spring but was not expected to testify.

A defense motion for continuance of the trial was overruled Monday afternoon after a jury had been selected. The defendant asked continuance because of sickness of a witness he said he expected to call in the trial.

Jurors hearing the case are Nick Hale, Cecil Mason, Fred Nichols, Wayne Spears, Paul Bishop, John Hobbs, Donald Alfred, Arthur W. Franklin, Jack Grant, W. P. Hughes, Boyd Baker and Delbert Harland.

Commies Refused Air Time To Talk Back To McCarthy

NEW YORK (U)—Three major networks have turned down requests from the Communist party and its organ, the Daily Worker, for radio and television time to answer Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

CBS, ABC and NBC announced their decisions last night.

The Communists had asked for free time after McCarthy a week ago tonight made references to the Daily Worker and Reds in general during a TV-radio talk carried by major networks and some stations.

NBC, in announcing its action, said the requests from the Communist party and the Worker were turned down because "the public interest would not be served by granting time for this purpose."

Advance Planning On US 80 Okayed

Official okay for advanced planning on a Howard County segment of extensive improvements to US Highway 80 was announced today by the state highway commission.

The commission lists the project as follows: US 80 from Martin County to near Big Spring, 11 miles, advance planning authorized for construction of two more through lanes and frontage roads where required. Work to be done when funds become available.

The action represents the first step by the commission toward actual development of US 80 to "free-way" status. The proposal has been in the preliminary planning stage for several months.

At present, Big Spring and Howard County are speeding acquisition of right-of-way on Fourth Street for a divided thoroughfare to connect up with the freeway. The Fourth street project is due to be submitted for bids early in 1954.

Atrocities Debated In United Nations

Relatives and friends pass by the bodies of about 300 political prisoners killed by suffocation when the Communist-led North Korean Army forced them into caves, background, then sealed off the entrances. The scene is near Hamhung, Korea. The Department of Defense released this picture in October. At U.N. headquarters in New York, the U. S. chief delegate, Henry Cabot Lodge, said the Communists used atrocities as a policy weapon. (AP Wirephoto from Department of Defense).

Vishinsky Declares Charges Are Slanders

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky today branded U.S. charges of Red atrocities in Korea a "flagrant concocted falsification."

The fiery Soviet delegate told the 60-nation U.N. General Assembly that charges detailed yesterday by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., of the United States were brought out to "dynamite" peace negotiations in Korea.

He pulled out all stops in calling the Lodge report "cynical," "cowardly," "a maneuver to cover the worst crimes of all perpetrated by the American military circles in Korea," and "redolent of slander."

Vishinsky was the first speaker at this morning's session, called to debate the American charges that some 38,000 persons were victims of atrocities committed by Communist Chinese and North Korean soldiers.

The Soviet bloc, counting on the neutral nations to stay out of the debate and abstain from voting, apparently is determined to fight tooth and nail the whole atrocity issue.

India already has served notice that as head of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission in Korea, she will neither speak nor vote. Other neutrals, especially members of the Arab-Asian bloc, also are expected to keep silent.

There was little evidence, however, that the Soviet bloc would receive any over support in the debate.

Most delegates sat in shocked silence yesterday as Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. delivered the stark atrocity report and introduced a resolution calling on the 60-nation Assembly to:

1. Express "its grave concern at reports and information that North Korean and Chinese Communist forces have, in a large number of instances, employed inhuman practices against the heroic soldiers of forces under the United Nations Command in Korea and against the civilian population of Korea";

2. Condemn "the commission by any government or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture, and other atrocity acts against captured military personnel or civilian population, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

In his speech Lodge raised the earlier U. S. figure of nearly 30,000 atrocity victims to some 38,000. He later told newsmen it was his "personal conviction that over 35,000 of these are dead." He explained that the higher figure included estimates of losses in the notorious death marches and prison camps which had not been included in the earlier U. S. Army report.

Lodge's denunciation of the bestial slayings was echoed in yesterday's debate by representatives of Britain, Turkey and Canada. All labeled them an affront against human rights.

The Soviet bloc's position in the debate was defined by Poland's Deputy Foreign Minister Marian Naszowski, who said the United States dragged the atrocity question before the U. N. as a propaganda maneuver designed to "wash off the stains of guilt" for Korean bombings by American planes and for waging germ warfare.

ST. LOUIS (U)—St. Louis police officials today began checking a signed death row statement by kidnap-slayer Carl Austin Hall to see if any new leads could be found to the missing $303,720 Greenleaf ransom money.

After Hall and his partner in crime, Bonnie Brown Heady, were quizzed for more than four hours in their state prison cells yesterday, St. Louis Circuit Atty. Edward L. Dowd said the statements might prove to be the basis for future prosecution in the case.

Dowd and Police Chief Jeremiah O'Connell conducted the questioning at Jefferson City with the permission of federal authorities.

"The interviews," Dowd said, "were well worth the time" and could be used if the state decides later someone should be prosecuted in the mystery of the missing money. Less than $300,000 was recovered with the kidnappers' arrest here.

Hall's confession, read at his Kansas City trial, said he had about $502,000 of the $600,000 ransom when arrested here Oct. 6.

Dowd and O'Connell, when they sought permission to question the pair, said they wanted to check the confession with statements made at a police inquiry into circumstances surrounding the arrest.

They said the statement would be compared with previous testimony given by former Police Lt. Louis Shoulters and Patrolman Elmer Dolan, who made the arrest, and cab driver John Hager, whose tip led to the arrest.

charges that Texas unions were the target of a Communist-inspired infiltration plot.

Sheppard accused three unions of teaming up in the effort—the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers of America; the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the International Fur and Leather Workers. He charged the DPOWA picketing of 22 firms at Port Arthur was the testing ground for a Communist plot to take over the oil industry and key Texas ports.

Sheppard told the commission three former Communists—Harvey Matusew, Louis Budenz and Matt Cretic—have agreed to appear and tell what they know of the unions.

Matusew joined the Communist Party in 1947 on the plea of two members of Local 68, Distributive Workers Union, one of the predecessor organizations of the DPOWA, Sheppard said. He was expelled from the party after furnishing information to the FBI.

Budenz, professor of economics at Fordham University in New York, was labor editor for the Communist Daily Worker from 1940 to 1945 and since then has assisted the FBI in Communist investigations.

Cretic was a member of the Communist Party for nine years as an undercover agent for the FBI.

Sheppard told the commission it has no authority to subpoena the out-of-state officials of the three accused unions but could invite them to attend. The commission has authority to subpoena witnesses within the state. It may also compel the production of books and records, punish for contempt and take testimony in or out of the state.

Invitations went to IFLWU president Ben Gold; IUMMSW president John Clark and Secretary-Treasurer Maurice Travis; and DPOWA president Arthur Osman, Secretary-Treasurer David Livingston, and organizational Director Robert Burke.

Talks To Balking U.N. POWs Set Tomorrow

Crowds Gather For City's Big Yule Parade

Big Spring's annual Treasure Hunt was to have gotten under way this afternoon following the Christmas parade at 4:30 p.m.

Approximately 75 merchants are participating in the hunt this year, and more than 30 organizations were to have entered units in the parade.

Dealers in shopping communities about the city have joined those in the downtown area in conducting the hunt. Noticeable interest on the part of the people has nearly doubled the number of merchants participating this year. Last year they were confined largely to the downtown shopping area.

Crowds were gathering early today for the parade, and a number of children were expressing desire to "see Santa Claus." Four bands, religious floats, rolling and commercial units were scheduled to appear in the parade preceding Santa's sleigh.

The parade officially begins the Christmas shopping season here, and city decorations will be lighted tonight for the first time. The Christmas tree on the northeast corner of the courthouse square was to have been lighted by 5:30 p.m.

In addition to passing out candy among the children during the parade, Santa Claus visited various hospitals about the city before departing. He was to give hospitalized children gifts and pass on words of encouragement to them.

Judge Rice Postpones Sentencing Of Binion

WACO (U)—Federal Judge Ben Rice postponed today until 2 p.m. tomorrow sentencing of Nevada gambler Benny Binion for income tax evasion.

Binion, once of Dallas, pleaded guilty in San Antonio last September to charges of evading $420,000 in taxes for 1945-1948. For years Binion fought attempts to bring him back to Texas to face state gambling charges. He left Dallas during the war.

Citizens Committee Set Up To Eye Port Arthur Union

PORT ARTHUR (U)—A citizens committee headed by two clergymen will keep an eye on the union local which the CIO has substituted for the controversial DPOWA in a strike against 22 business houses here.

Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard has charged the Distributive, Processing and Office Workers of America, which called the strike Nov. 19, is Communist influenced. The CIO eased the DPOWA out of the local situation after Sheppard made his charges.

At a meeting with civic leaders and clergymen last night, national CIO officer Fred Pieper told of creation of the citizens "watchdog" committee. He said Msgr. J. M. Kirwin, pastor of St. James Catholic Church, and the Rev. Frederick Marsh, pastor of the First Methodist Church, have agreed to head the committee and as such members are necessary.

Pieper said representatives of the 22 department stores, taverns and cafes refused to meet with him yesterday.

Pieper called a meeting of AFL and independent unions here tonight at which all-out support would be asked. He said the "tempo of the strikes will be increased."

The new CIO-sponsored union is the Sabine Area Industrial Union Local 1814. Pieper recommended that members of the citizens committee attend all meetings of the union board and membership, study all records and inform themselves thoroughly on all activities of the local. He asked that the committee then report its findings to the newspapers and the public.

The CIO executive said several merchants have talked to him since the CIO took over the strike and that he expects to reach agreement with possibly three during the day.

Pieper said the DPOWA agreed last week to leave the local scene after what he called "smears" against it. He said this was done so that a new medium—the CIO local—could be available through which contracts could be obtained and the strikes ended. The DPOWA sought union recognition, pay raises and other benefits when it called the strikes Nov. 19.

Sheppard Says Aid Given By Unions In His Investigation

WACO (U)—Atty. Gen. John Ben Sheppard said last night other Texas labor unions are helping, his probe of alleged Communist influence in three unions.

"We have had fine assistance from members of other Texas labor unions in this fight," he said. "There are 1,525 labor union locals in Texas and only four of them are involved in this investigation. There are 2,800 labor union organizers in Texas and only three of them are involved."

Sheppard spoke to a meeting sponsored by the Waco League of Women Voters.

He said the state constitution is archaic in spots but essentially it accomplishes exactly what its framers set out to do—give Texas government by law.

Dulles Answers Sen. McCarthy

WASHINGTON (U)—Secretary of State Dulles, in an evident retort to Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), said today that President Eisenhower and he "do not propose to throw away" the assets of allied cooperation "by blustering and domineering methods."

Dulles did not mention McCarthy by name but he said he was commenting on widely publicized criticism to the effect that the United States speaks in too kindly a manner to its Allies and has sent them "perfumed notes" instead of using threats and intimidation to compel them to do our bidding."

McCarthy used the words "perfumed notes" in criticizing administration foreign policy in his nation-wide radio-TV address of Nov. 23.

In a news conference statement, Dulles said the administration rejected "arrogant" methods and the use of demands which the United States would turn down if such demands were made upon it.

He said it is bases shared with allies which make possible the peace-keeping threat of atomic retaliation by the United States "against the vitals of Russia."

The secretary of state said he spoke with the support of the President who was aware of the statement he made.

Dulles had a conference with the President at the White House only an hour or so before his meeting with newsmen.

When talking of U.S. bases abroad, Dulles said that without them and Allied warning systems, such centers as Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and Milwaukee would be "sitting ducks" for atomic bombs in event of war.

On another aspect of McCarthy's speech, Dulles announced that career diplomat John Paton Davies whose continued employment under the Eisenhower administration was attacked by McCarthy, is undergoing a new security investigation which will be completed in about a month.

Officials under the Truman administration are reported to have explained the Davies proposal to Congress and security investigators in previous inquiries as a counter-espionage idea aimed at bringing Communist secrets to light.

Dulles also told his news conference the United States is anxious to have a Big Four foreign ministers meeting to discuss some world problems which might be solvable, notably the problems of Germany and Austria in Europe.

But, he went on, the United States does not grab at any Russian proposal without reading all the fine print.

Negro's Rape Threat May Be Clue In Case

DALLAS (U)—A Negro prowler's threat to his white victim, "I don't want to have to cut up another woman," had officers wondering today if the killer-rapist of Mrs. H. C. Parker had struck again.

The woman in today's incident was unharmed.

Her assailant ran out of the front door of the South Dallas residence when his threats aroused her sister in another room.

The attempted attack occurred a few minutes after the 26-year-old woman's husband left for work. Three small children slept in another room.

Mrs. Parker, 29, was raped and fatally stabbed Sept. 30.

South Koreans To See Woosers First

By MILO FARNETI

PANMUNJOM (U)— Allied war prisoners who haven't come home tomorrow begin considering their big choice—democracy or communism.

Plans were completed today for U. N. interviewers to start talks with 30 of the 328 South Koreans who have not returned.

After the South Koreans are finished—about 11 days of interviews—the Allied teams will face possibly the most important phase of their job—trying to win back 22 Americans and 1 Briton.

The big question is: How many? The Communists wooed back only about 3 per cent of the 2,500 Chinese and Koreans they have interviewed—a humiliating propaganda wallowing.

"We want all of the prisoners listed as pro-Communist to get freedom of choice," a U. N. Command spokesman said.

"We want people all over the world to understand that the U. N. is willing to give these prisoners a free choice—even if they choose the Communists."

An Allied officer said he believes the 30 ROKs would agree to come out for the first day's talks.

The Allied effort will open with five South Korean interviewers, one at each of the five explanation sites requested. The Communists used up to three men in each explanation tent, but the repatriation commission allows the Allies only five at any one time.

Some of the ROK prisoners are known to be dedicated Communists who will never return.

When the Communists began their own talks last Oct. 15, their explainers were screamed at, spat upon, kicked, hit with flying chairs and called every obscene word in the Chinese and Korean languages.

The Allies hope to get back a higher percentage than the Communists.

The Communist defeat is believed back of the Reds apparent withdrawal from further explanations.

If the custodian Indian command follows its old plan 10 newsmen from each side will be allowed in the Allied POWs camp at one time.

Explanations end at midnight Dec. 23. Thirty days later on Jan. 22, the armistice agreement says all war prisoners who haven't returned will be released as civilians.

The U. N. has said the explanations will be "dignified and brief." It is obviously trying to make a different impression on neutral observers than the Communists, who harangued prisoners for up to five hours at a time and then practically torpedooed their side of the explanations with an unreasonable demand after the other.

Meanwhile, Allied and Red negotiators working on plans for a Korean political conference were in recess until tomorrow mulling over new proposals for each side.

The Allies proposed yesterday that Russia be admitted as a third party rather than a belligerent or a neutral and the Reds offered another proposal for setting up the conference.

As the negotiators recessed, South Korea's government protested again about Communist occupation under the armistice of territory below the 38th Parallel which formerly was part of South Korea.

A government statement said the Reds must be "pushed out of these areas" and added:

"If our friends who asked us to support the Panmunjom talks will not help, then we shall have to do the job ourselves."

Lamesa Man Named To Canadian River Project Committee

PLAINVIEW (U)—Four men have been given the job of devising a way to finance the "multi-million dollar Canadian River-Municipal Water Authority."

Voters in 11 Panhandle and South Plains towns recently approved creation of the authority, which proposes a dam on the Canadian River to supply the cities' municipal needs.

Directors of the authority named the committee yesterday to study ways of financing the dam and to report Jan. 11 meeting.

Committee members are R. E. Mazey, Lubbock, chairman; Sam Richardson, Lamesa; R. Q. Silverthorne, Plainview, and George Finger, Borger.

Churchill Sets Bermuda Flight

LONDON (U)— Prime Minister Churchill leaves by air tonight for the Big Three conference in Bermuda determined to press for quick acceptance of Russia's bid for an East-West meeting in Berlin.

Churchill, Foreign Secretary Eden and their retinue of advisers will make the flight in the same Stratocruiser, Canopus, which last week carried Queen Elizabeth II across the Atlantic on the first leg of her Commonwealth tour.

French Premier Joseph Laniel and his party are scheduled to arrive on the Atlantic holiday island Thursday and President Eisenhower Friday.

Eden made it clear in the House of Commons yesterday that in spite of American doubts of Soviet sincerity, Britain wants to get Big Four talks under way as soon as reasonably possible.

It was believed Churchill and Eden would urge Laniel and Eisenhower to join in accepting Berlin as the site and proposing mid-January as the date.

Churchill is still thought to regard the proposed conference of Big Four foreign ministers as a possible prelude to his cherished hope of a face-to-face meeting of the top Big Three leaders with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

Before the Russian note last week agreeing to a foreign ministers' meeting, Britain had been resigned to centering the Bermuda conference on West European defense and anti-Communist strategy in the Far East, including Indonesia, Malaysia, Indonesia and Korea.

Now the Big Three will face the problem of dovetailing policy for the proposed meeting in Berlin.

Churchill and Eden also are expected to bring up Britain's current stalemate negotiations with Egypt on the Suez Canal zone and the continuing tension between Israel and Jordan. It is taken for granted also that there will be a thorough review of the situation in Trieste, since there have been increasing signs recently that Italy and Yugoslavia may be persuaded to compromise their claims on the disputed territory.

The question of the proposed European army, including German troops, undoubtedly will be a major topic of discussion. France, which first suggested the plan, is now lagging on ratification and other Western Powers are growing short of patience.

Former Michigan Governor Dies In Crash Of Own Plane

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (U)—Kim Sigler, who rocketed to the Michigan governor's chair seven years ago after a sensational grand jury expose, plummeted to his death late yesterday in a fiery plane crash. Three companions died with him. Sigler's own four-place plane, threading its way through a dense fog, snagged onto a guy wire supporting a 510-foot television tower. The impact sheared off one wing and sent the fuselage hurtling into a woods three-quarters of a mile away, where it crashed and burned. The 59-year-old Republican ex-governor presumably was at the controls. The other victims were Sigler's secretary, Mrs. Ruth Prentice, 41; her sister, Mrs. Virginia Schuyler, 28; and Mrs. Schuyler's husband Harold, 37, of Lansing.

Outdated Charities In England Have Funds They Can't Pay Out

By ROBERT F. S. JONES
LONDON (U)—There's a million-dollar nest egg available here in Britain to ransom anybody captured by Barbary Coast pirates. And there's a $9,000 fund to build a pest house and graveyard in the heart of London—in case plague breaks out. The Barbary Coast pirates went out of business more than 120 years ago and there hasn't been a plague outbreak in London for 200 years, but the money & still there waiting to be used—along with an estimated 500 million dollars locked up in 110,000 charities set up by tenderhearted Britons through the centuries. At least a quarter of these charities are more than 100 years old. Approximately 3,000 of them have annual incomes of less than $70. Nobody knows how many of their purposes are outdated now. There are funds to provide red flannel underclothes for poor old women and waistcoats for poor old men. There are funds for coal, bread and cheese to be had for the asking. There are cash grants for out-of-luck tailors, weavers and felt workers. The size of the bequests varies from tiny village charities of a few shillings—made even smaller by rising living costs—to huge million-pound trusts like the Nuffield Foundation with an income of $280,000 a year. Each trust—big or small—is hedged with legal safeguards to make sure it is properly administered. Under British law if the original purpose of a trust is outdated, the courts alone have the power to make a change. Even then the money must go for a purpose as near as possible to the original. The Barbary pirate trust, for instance, has been out of date since the French drove the pirates from the Algerian coast in 1830. When Henry Smith, rich London merchant, left his money for the redemption of pirate captives, King Charles II was on the throne of England and traders to the Mediterranean were being sold into slavery by the hundreds each year. The last time the trust was used for its original purpose was in 1857. The trustees got permission to devote the money to supporting hospitals until Britain's medical services were nationalized five years ago. They applied then to have the income given to impoverished clergymen, but the wheel turned full circle when the court directed that a proportion of the money be given to organizations fighting slavery in parts of Africa and Arabia. To sort out the tangle of these trusts the former Labor government set up a royal commission three years ago. For many months the commission tackled the confusion. It recently reported there isn't much that can be done.

Survey Indicates Americans Ignore Foreign News Report

ZURICH, Switzerland, (U)—A poll of American newspaper readers shows that 40 per cent of those questioned couldn't identify George Malenkov as Soviet Russia's premier a month after he took office. The International Press Institute disclosed last night. The average American, said IPI reads "very little" of the 4 1/2 columns of foreign news printed daily by the average American newspaper. "The level of his knowledge about important events abroad is low," the institute commented. The summary was contained in a 266-page book called "The Flow of News," published by the IPI. An organization of editors in 33 countries, its study was financed by the Ford and Rockefeller foundations. The reader poll was conducted for IPI last April and May by the American Institute for Public Opinion. Malenkov succeeded Joseph Stalin as Russian Premier March 6. The survey found 79 per cent of the Americans interviewed didn't know NATO means the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

'McCarthyism' Not Ready For Dictionary

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (U)—Dr. Philip B. Gove, general editor of the Merriam-Webster dictionary, says the word "McCarthyism" will not get into the dictionary "for a few years, perhaps even a decade." He said last night: "As long as McCarthy is a senator and is in the news, the meaning of McCarthyism may change from week to week, preventing the settling and stabilizing phase a word must go through before it gains dictionary status."

Former Mental Patient Shoots Famed Physician

DETROIT (AP)—Dr. Edward D. Spalding, 60, a noted heart specialist, left his office in Detroit's Professional Building and stepped into the busy street.

A few minutes later he lay dead on the pavement, police said, shot by a former mental patient who got the wrong man.

Barely half an hour later, two rookie patrolmen grabbed John Sherback, 51, a few blocks away. In Sherback's pocket was a list of persons he had condemned to death, they said. Spalding's name was not included.

Police said the list included "all the orderlies and one nurse in a building at Eloise," a mental hospital. Sherback looked dazed when he was told the man he had killed was Spalding.

He said that he had meant to kill Dr. William T. McAlonan, who he claimed had mistreated him. McAlonan was still in his office at the Professional Building at the time of the shooting.

McAlonan said that the last time he had treated Sherback was in 1943. He said that he had received a letter from Dr. Henry Luce asking about Sherback because he had been admitted to Eloise as a mental patient.

Dr. Luce was head of the consultation department at the hospital.

Sherback had mentioned the names of several doctors and others in the City Health Department that he intended to kill.

He said he was mad at all doctors because they "refused to give me a clean bill of health so I could get married eight years ago."

Rest Is Ordered

College Pledged Gift By Grateful American

MEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Tufts College has received a pledge of $1,086,000 from a Medford industrialist and his wife in "part payment of the debt we owe to this land of freedom."

The gift was pledged by Harry Posner, president of the Worcester Paper Box Corp. and his wife Hannah.

Posner became a U. S. citizen soon after coming from Russia at the turn of the century. His wife was born in Grand Forks, N. D.

Warrior Indian Son Plans To Aid People By Learning

By JULIUS GOLDEN
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A warrior son of warriors, who spent years fighting Japanese and the Communist hordes of North Korea and China, now is preparing for the toughest battle of his life—at home.

Hampton Hapous, 26-year-old Chiricahua Apache from the San Carlos reservation in Arizona, is studying government at the University of New Mexico.

"There is a misunderstanding of the past of my people," he said. "There must not be one of our future."

Eight years in the Marines, from the time he was 16, carried young Hapous from the San Carlos to Saipan, Okinawa, the Inchon landing in Korea and countless mountain battles. In 1951, no longer a youth, he emerged from the Marines, set and determined, saying:

"I want to help my people." Yesterday he said his father, now dead, was the organizer of a parliamentary form of government on the reservation. He was one of the first to lead his people towards adjustment in a white man's world. His grandfather, still living at Ft. Sill, Okla., fought with Geronimo when the terrorist leader sought to drive the white man from the land of the Apaches. His grandfather was also among the wailing women and stoical men on the train taking the last of Geronimo's warriors to Florida as displaced persons—never again to haunt the nights of Western settlers.

He later was moved to Ft. Sill. Hapous had run away from several schools by the time he was 15. That year—1943—he persuaded his mother to let him join the Marines. When he left the Marines his mind was made up.

"I wanted to find the best way to help my people," he said. "So I turned to government."

"Already there are plans to withdraw the Indian Bureau. There will be a lot happening then and I must be ready. My people aren't prepared and the effect upon them will be bad."

"Although they will learn the white man's ways eventually," he said, "it will take time and the only way to do it is through education."

Someday Hapous will return to the land of his father. His people will look for the same strength that was in his father and grandfather.

"I'll have my strength," he said, "but I hope it will be of character. My muscles will be useless in what I must do."

Texas Drought Area For '54 FHA Loans

DALLAS (U)—Farmers who find they cannot get credit through normal channels in Texas in 1954 will be eligible to seek Farmers Home Administration loans, the Department of Agriculture said yesterday.

The department classified all of Texas as a drought disaster area for the coming year.

L. A. Macchemehl of the FHA state office here said the program "has no connection whatsoever" with the government drought disaster relief program that supplied cheap livestock feed to parts of Texas.

The emergency type of aid, the Department emphasized, can be extended only after presidential approval has been granted. The credit type of aid can be established by the Agriculture Department without presidential intervention.

To be eligible for emergency credit, a farmer must certify that he cannot get necessary financing from local private or cooperative sources. The loan funds may be used to meet normal expenses of continuing operation, the Department said.

Macchemehl said last night Texas applicants for the one-year loans should apply to their county FHA officers.

The Agriculture Department said farmers suffering from the long drought will be eligible to obtain the farm loans.

Man Watches His Wife, Daughter Die Crossing Avenue

CUPERTINO, Calif. (U)—James Abbott stood on his porch, watching his daughter Debora Lynn, 2, and his housekeeper, Mrs. Laura Perry, return from a walk last night.

Suddenly, the lights of an automobile shone on them as they crossed a street.

Mrs. Perry snatched up the child and turned back—but too late. Woman and child were hurled 50 feet and killed.

The driver, Anthony Tersigni, 33, a rancher, was freed pending an investigation.

Four Sentenced In Wheeling Robbery

WHEELING, W. Va. (U)—All four persons indicted in the $106,000 Sammons robbery—three men from Texas and a Wheeling woman—received prison sentences yesterday.

Three strong boxes of cash were taken from the fashionable suburban residence of Dr. W. P. Sammons in the Oct. 13 holdup. The bandits bound and gagged a maid and an elderly sister of the physician.

Mrs. Mary Balderson, 31, was sentenced to 1 to 10 years. She had pleaded guilty to taking $600 from the home, where she was a part-time window cleaner.

GOP Sen. Welker Sees Demos Eating Rehased Spy In Future

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Welker (R-Iowa) said today that as a result of the Harry Dexter White case the Democrats "will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

He aimed the remark at Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, and Clayton Fritchey, deputy chairman, who have been assailing Republican handling of disclosures about White's promotion in the Truman administration.

"We'll have some more revelations for the American people," Welker told newsmen as he arrived to attend Senate internal security subcommittee hearings tomorrow at which a former associate of White is to be questioned.

Welker said Fritchey had made "the silliest statement I've heard since I've been in the Senate," in alleging Sunday that Atty. Gen. Brownell had reopened the White case to divert attention from a "serious situation within the Justice Department itself."

On an MBS radio broadcast last night, Fritchey accused Brownell of putting the FBI into politics in the White case while "pulling it out of crime busting."

"It seems to me," he said, "that Brownell is interested in pulling the FBI into politics with one hand and—if two federal judges are right—pulling it out of crime busting, on the other hand."

Fritchey said he referred to (A) a Denver federal judge's criticism of the Justice Department for refusing to let the FBI help in a jury-tampering case, and (B) an appeal to Brownell, apparently unanswered, from a federal judge in St. Louis for more help from the Justice Department in a grand jury investigation of labor union racketeering.

Welker also took a verbal swing at Mitchell for having said two weeks ago that "I don't think the people will eat warmed over spy."

The senator said: "It is my prediction that Brother Mitchell will be eating 'warmed over spy' for a good time to come."

The issue of alleged communism in government has bounced back into front-page prominence since Brownell declared, in a speech Nov. 8, that former President Truman promoted White in 1946 in the face of a report from the FBI relaying accusations that White was spying for Russia.

Truman, in a nationwide radio-television address, denounced the accusations as political trickery. He said White had been retained in government service so as not to jeopardize an FBI investigation of White and others.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover subsequently testified to the internal security subcommittee, headed by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), that he never approved such a plan. Hoover also said White's promotion to the International Monetary Fund made it more difficult to keep a watch on him.

Fritchey said last night he thinks Hoover was distressed by being brought in as a witness, and he continued:

"The Democrats never once brought into partisan politics on Nov. 17 before the Jenner committee. We Democrats regret it and hope the FBI can be pulled back out of politics."

Fritchey called upon Brownell to explain why the Justice Department had not ordered the FBI to help Colorado's U. S. Dist. Atty. Charles Vigil conduct an investigation of jury tampering. Vigil, with the help of the Internal Revenue Service, won convictions against two men.

At about the same time, he was replaced by a Republican, Fritchey conceded last night the replacement may not have been connected with the case. Sen. Milikin (R-Colo.) said the change had been in the works for some time. A Justice Department spokesman said it was part of a campaign to replace Truman administration holdovers.

Fritchey also said it was "not consistent with the crusading promises" of Brownell to fail to heed a call for help in an investigation of racketeering in St. Louis. He suggested that the Senate Judiciary Committee might want to look into what he termed an unanswered call for "more help and more support" from Federal Judge

George H. Moore.

The Judiciary Committee has announced plans for hearings, starting Dec. 12, on the Denver jury-tampering case.

Vigil said at Denver last night he first called Washington on Sept. 20, was unable to get Brownell or his top assistants and talked with an aide to Warren Olney, assistant attorney general. The aide said he would not authorize FBI help.

Vigil said, so he sent a teletype request to Washington the following day.

"A few hours after the teletype was sent," Vigil said in an interview, "this assistant to Olney—the same man I had talked with the day before—informing me that in spite of my frequent requests for (FBI) help, I would not get it."

"I just let the matter drop. After all, I was simply an underling."

The internal security subcommittee on which Welker serves has scheduled public questioning tomorrow of William Ludwig Ullmann, a former aide to White.

Ullmann, testifying before the Senate investigations subcommittee in another recent inquiry, refused to answer questions about alleged Communist spy activities. He said the answers might tend to incriminate him.

An FBI report dated in November 1945 and already made public in part has named Ullmann as a suspected member of an espionage ring. Ullmann had been a Treasury Department aide to White, and also had been White's aide at the Bretton Woods international monetary conference in 1944. White died in 1948.

Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md.), who has been acting chairman of the international security subcommittee in the absence of Sen. Jenner, said the group also will meet behind closed doors tomorrow to take stock of recent developments in its moves to question Igor Gouzenko in Canada.

The Toronto Star reported yesterday that Gouzenko, the former Russian code clerk whose disclosures touched off Canada's celebrated spy trials of 1946 will refuse to let the Jenner subcommittee question him.

Safety Belts Could Save Numerous Lives

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (U)—Safety belts in automobiles could save thousands of lives in highway accidents, an American Medical Assn. exhibit suggested today.

It finds that 453 out of 633 persons killed in one year in Indiana probably could have survived by some safety changes. They were not killed by accident collapse of their cars. They died from being thrown and tossed. Safety belts, crash helmets, or safety changes within cars apparently could have given them a new ticket on life.

The exhibition is presented by Sgt. Elmer Paul, head of the auto crash injury research section, Indiana state police, and Trooper John B. Klein. It is part of a symposium on prevention of highway deaths at the AMA's mid-winter meeting opening today.

Of 633 persons killed in accidents analyzed in 1952, more than half died of skull fractures, 15 per cent from neck injuries, and 22 per cent from chest injuries. Many of the chest injuries were drivers flung against steering wheels or posts.

It is not just high speed which kills, Paul said. Two little girls were killed by being flung out the door of the back seat when their car, moving at 20 miles an hour, was hit obliquely by another machine.

A man's car skidded, struck a pole, and suffered only $150 damage. The man slid across the seat, out the opened door and died when his head hit a pole.

Safety belts, just as one means of saving lives, are being installed now by some car owners, Paul said. And 25 Indiana state police cars now are equipped with them.

A harness-type belt, holding the chest and shoulders back, is better than the airplane seat-belt type, he added.

The right front seat is one of the greatest danger spots. A study of passengers only, excluding what happened to drivers, found that 70 per cent of passengers killed were riding in the right front seat, and 23 per cent in rear seats.

Woman Shoots Deer From Her Back Porch

DEER LAKE, Pa. (U)—For 27 years Mrs. Mary Vacula had gone deer hunting on the opening day of Pennsylvania's season.

For 27 years, she had never shot a deer.

Yesterday, she stayed home while her husband Steve went out on opening day with five male friends.

While he was deep in the forest, she spotted a five-point buck from her back porch.

Mrs. Vacula got her deer, Steve got none.

Red False Checks

TAIPEH, Formosa (U)—Police said today they have arrested four men on charges of collecting $6,800 on false checks drawn on the National City Bank of Dallas. All were believed to be from the Red China mainland.

Van Fleet Denies He Has Talked Prospects

MIAMI, Fla. (U)—A report last night that President Eisenhower had urged Gen. James A. Van Fleet to become the Republican candidate for governor of Florida next year brought a quick denial from Van Fleet.

The Miami Herald said the President "indicated he strongly favored the idea" of Van Fleet running for governor.

Van Fleet, reached at Jackson, Miss., where he was on a speaking tour, said the story was news to him and that he had not discussed the subject with the President.

Japan Charged With Persecuting Koreans

SEOUL (U)—South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai today charged that Japan is persecuting its Korean residents.

Pyun said in a statement that such alleged Japanese action "does not tally with the professed Japanese readiness to resume the (deadlocked) Korean-Japan talks."

He said Japan will be "held responsible for any evil consequences that will follow an overt encouragement to fan national ill-will against Korea."

Fred R. Campbell, Sterling City agricultural agent, says the Sterling 4-H Club made just under $100 at their recent turkey shoot and another one will go forward as planned the afternoon of Dec. 20, the last Sunday before Christmas.

Again there will be classes for high-power rifles, shotguns, pistols and revolvers and .22 rimfires.

Campbell indicates that at the next shoot, in the high-power rifle class, riflemen with open sights will not be required to compete with shooters using scopes, and there will be more leeway allowed as to shooting positions.

Targets, as before, will be $1 each with a turkey given on every 10 targets in each division.

The money is being used to finance the annual Sterling County 4-H Club Livestock Show.

Dallas Detective Capt. Will Fritz, veteran manhunter, chief of the homicide squad, and one of the state's best known and most highly respected peace officers, has a badly mangled left hand as the consequence of shooting a modern high pressure shell in an old shotgun while duck hunting. The shell blew the gun up, splitting the barrel. It might have been thought that a man of Fritz's experience with firearms wouldn't have made that mistake.

Several shotguns and even big bore rifles have been blown up in the Big Spring area this fall from overloading and from letting some foreign substance get into the barrels. Nobody around here, however, has been injured as seriously as the Dallas policeman.

Owners proudly fondle old guns and remark: "They don't make steel like that any more."

No they don't, and it's a mighty good thing they don't or we'd have more cripples because of modern high power, high pressure, high velocity loads. If you're shooting an older shotgun or rifle be sure you use ammunition adapted to it and that will function safely in it.

The finest and safest firearms the world has ever known are those that are being manufactured in America today, and the place for most of the old guns, especially old double-barrel shotguns with Damascus barrels is in museums.

James C. Cauble Jr., of Big Spring has been elected to membership in the American Hereford Association.

One hundred and 18 Hereford breeders were added to the Association's membership roster in October to boost the total membership to an all-time high of 23,160 life members and 70,000 active accounts. Membership represents every state in the nation.

Last year the Hereford Association recorded a new world's record of 560,794 purebred calves, an increase of 12,378 over the record established during the previous fiscal year.

Members of the Country Gentleman staff have observed that the American Farm Bureau Federation has approved the closing of the regional Soil Conservation Service offices . . . That Congress will authorize higher cotton quotas with most of the increase going to the Western States . . . That mechanical pickers harvested 75 per cent of California's cotton crop this year and that almost 50 per cent of it had been chemically defoliated . . . That the Forest Service doesn't have any authority to say what breeds of bulls shall be allowed to graze the public domain.

In one Western State Hereford breeders had tried to keep Short-horn bulls off the government-owned range . . . That cotton quotas will be approved in the December referendum . . . That soon the fastest selling turkey will be the four-to-eight pound fryer-roaster. That some cattlemen don't want "handouts" in a cattle price support program but that they're willing to take income tax credits in an equivalent amount . . .

Reports from the Clovis (N.M.) cattle market say the week's market on cattle for Panhandle, New Mexico, Colorado, Oklahoma and Kansas wheat pastures was good, and that this situation is expected to prevail for another two or three weeks or until all the wheat pasture has been stocked.

J. T. Middleton of Midland sold 16 Whiteface steers averaging 300 pounds at $18.40 and Tobe Foster of Lubbock sold 66 Hereford steers averaging 239 pounds at $21.90 on the Clovis market during the week.

Thompson Honored By Oil Group

LOS ANGELES (U)—Ernest Thompson says the small petroleum operator has equal opportunity for success along with the biggest company under sound conservation laws.

Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, spoke last night at a dinner given by the Western Oil & Gas Assn., in honor of the general and his wife.

Thompson and Mrs. Myda Thompson arrived yesterday after a wedding trip to Tokyo and Honolulu.

"After rather intimate observation for more than 21 years as an administrator of oil and gas conservation laws," said the general, "I am convinced that, given a sound state oil and gas conservation law, honestly and fairly administered, the good little operator is equal to and can operate with equal success right beside the biggest good man or the biggest company in the oil and gas producing business."

"Both large and small operate under the same laws, rules and regulations. The spacing is the same for all. The takes are rateable. There can be no hide-drilling and forced sales. The little operator can obtain funds as cheaply as, or cheaper than, the largest company. He generally operates more economically. He is protected."

"The smallest independent under protection of a good state conservation law has all the opportunity of the largest corporation to fairly develop his property and to get his fair share of oil and gas."

A Bible Thought For Today —

"Let a man examine himself." — I Cor. 11:28. If we judged ourselves as searchingly as we judge others we might wake up to the fact that we fall far short of our own ideals.

Needs For System As Well As For New Buildings Should Be Analyzed

Sunday a group of legislators and citizens made an inspection of facilities and operations at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Though we can't speak for them, off hand comments indicated that most were impressed with the amount being accomplished with limitations of buildings, equipment and staff. Dr. Roy Sloan disclosed that the hospital currently is carrying 563 patients, which is substantially above the 544 fixed as an "emergency" capacity. This compares with the rated capacity of 512.

This overloading with patients is a commendable gesture to receive these wards who otherwise might be cooped up in jails, but it creates problems of care and therapy. This is especially so in that while capacity figures are constantly raised, staff allowances remain fairly static. Even in the face of this, as Dr. Sloan reported, there are eight vacancies on the staff—four of them in professional grade.

State Sen. J. T. Rutherford, who made the tour along with Rep. Obie Bristow, Rep. Houston Brown and Rep. W. G. Kirklin, pointed out that when the two ward buildings, now up for bids, are complete, information should be made available on what is needed to properly utilize them. This certainly is good advice and doubtless will be heeded.

And while in the process, recommendations ought to be made to legislators on other needs of the eleemosynary system. Like so many things, it gets back to money, for money will get more and better staff. Unfortunately, the unfortunate people in the state hospitals have had no one to lobby for them on this point.

Charges By Lodge Should Unmask Russian Masquerade As A Neutral

Henry Cabot Lodge made a forthright charge, in addition to that of deliberate atrocities in the Korean War, that Russian officers directed North Korean prison camps which became death traps to thousands.

Until now, the atrocities were seemingly left to the door of the North Koreans. Although not excused in any degree, there was an implication that such might be the result of some heathen barbarism.

Now, the allegation of our representative is that the diabolical treatment of prisoners by the Chinese Reds and North Koreans was not only Soviet inspired but was actually Soviet directed. He establishes the premise that moreover the atrocities are not something which got out of hand when hot-headed partisans took things over, but rather that they are part and parcel of a world communism policy for systematic brutality and terror.

In making his indictment before the United Nations, he listed 9,000 more persons as victims of the atrocities than were shown in previous information furnished by U.N. members. This boosted the total to 38,000, an amazing and appalling figure.

If the U.N. censures not only North Korea and Red China but Russia as well, this will in no wise restore any of the victims of this brutality. But it will fix the finger of guilt in the eye of world opinion, and it will deal a death blow to the masquerade of Russia that the Soviet role in the peace conference should be that of a neutral.

Gen. Li Mi's Army Gives Vivid Insight Into Trail Of Trouble

LAMPONG — In the cold hours before dawn this morning, they stumbled from the trucks that brought them out of Burma at the airstrip of this peaceful, prosperous little northern Siamese country town. Looking at these weary men and their still wearier women and children, it was hard to believe that this was a contingent of Gen. Li Mi's army.

The gravest international tensions have been caused by the presence of this Chinese Nationalist force in the wild north Burma mountains, close to the Chinese and Siamese borders. After complex negotiations, the tensions are now being somewhat eased by airlifting the hard core of the Li Mi army from Thailand to Formosa. One knew these facts, with all their portentous diplomatic meanings. But in that chilly and confused moment of the convoy's arrival, one only saw people as people.

There were perhaps a hundred soldiers, looking smart and military in the new uniforms they had got at the border. There were about fifty wives and children, looking infinitely bedraggled. But even in such a crowd, in the flickering light of the mess shed reception center, individuality quickly asserted itself.

There was the young private Chu who happily exhibited two fat and healthy sons, aged seven and four. He had reared them himself in the hills, after the Chinese Communists killed their mother with the youngest at her breast. Or there was old mother Yang, an aged bandfoot woman. Mother Yang had fled across the Chinese border after the Communists tortured her because young Yang was with Li Mi. The search for her son in the mountain country had left her unable to walk and young Yang — here she proudly pointed to him — had carried her out of Burma on his back.

From such as these — and there were many — one gained a sudden vivid insight into the grim trail of human suffering that the convulsion in Asia is leaving in its wake. But somehow there was an even larger meaning in the quiet, unemotional story of young Mai Chang. Mai Chang, a slender, brisk, soldierly little officer, who came into the mess shed for a cigarette after he had got his men settled for a couple of hours rest before the dawn breakfast and takeoff for Taipei.

All his more remote past — his youth in a Chinese country town, his first years in the Chinese army — seemed to have lost meaning and color for Major Chang. For him, the beginning of the story was the moment when the Chinese Communists entered Yunnan Province and drove Gen. Li Mi's defending army southwards, down the Indo-Chinese railway to Mon Tzu.

Same Old Grind

The World Today — James Marlow

Both Communists And Western Powers Yielded Something In Notes Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP)—Use a magnifying glass to examine the fine print in the exchange of notes between the Big Four—the United States, Britain, France and Russia—on a foreign ministers meeting.

Then, after translating the diplomatic talk, you find this result: The West didn't get all it wanted; neither did Russia. Both sides yielded something.

Summed up and simplified, this is what they said, demanded, won, and surrendered:

The West—in inviting Russia to a Big Four foreign ministers talk, the West laid down strict conditions: (1) firm arrangements for free elections in all Germany, opening the way for a free all-German, unified government and treaty; and (2) Western-Russian agreement on an Austrian peace treaty.

Russia—Condemning the West for having decided beforehand what must be discussed, Russia insisted (1) first there must be a Big Five conference, which would include Red China, on general world tensions and (2) only after that could there be a Big Four meeting, without China, on Germany.

In the end the West became less precise on what the Russians would have to discuss on Germany and Austria, although insisting they must be discussed first, and refused to let Red China sit in with the Big Four on that problem.

And in the end Russia agreed to meet first with the West, although declaring that at that first meeting it would talk about a second meeting to include China.

Next question: Will the meeting between Russia and the West be held at all? Or will there be more note exchanging? The answer may not come for some days.

When Russia's latest note arrived Nov. 26, agreeing to let Red China wait for another conference, the State Department's first reaction, which has been its reaction to previous Russian notes, was: "Disappointing."

Almost at the same moment Britain's Foreign Minister Anthony Eden was talking confidently of a meeting now between the West and Russia. Whether this had any effect on Secretary of State Dulles is not known.

But yesterday Dulles began to sound like a man more or less reconciled to meeting with the Russians. He didn't, however, say so positively.

Any decision probably will have to wait until after the five-day Bermuda conference, starting Dec. 4, where President Eisenhower, Sir Winston Churchill, France's Premier Joseph Laniel, France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, Dulles and Eden will gather to discuss their problems and strategy.

The Western foreign ministers suggested a meeting with Russia and laid down the conditions in a note July 15. Moscow replied Aug. 4, agreeing to talk on Germany, but wanting Red China in. The West replied Sept. 2, refusing to open the door to Red China and restricting the talks to Germany and Austria. Russia replied to this Sept. 28, repeating its demands for a conference seat for Red China, wanting to talk about world problems, agreeing to talk on the German problem, but excluding the subject of all-German elections.

On Oct. 18 the West said there might be a chance to talk on wider problems if, first, the Big Four talks on Germany succeeded. At this point the West practically gave Moscow a blank check on Germany by saying Russia's Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov could talk on "any aspect" of the question.

Moscow's Nov. 3 reply was harsh: a rambling, 18-page note which scorched the West for turning up its nose at the idea of meeting first with Red China, was very vague on Germany, and tore into the United States for having overseas bases and general defense preparations which Russia called "aggressive."

Russia stubbed its toe with that note. World reaction was bad. The West called it a flat Soviet rejection. Russia had put itself in the position of not wanting to talk peace.

Nevertheless, on Nov. 13 Molotov told a news conference in Moscow Red China had to be included in a conference with the West on general world trouble, a conference which would have to precede Russian talks with the West on Germany.

Then Russia backed down in a note Nov. 26, agreeing to a meeting with Russia and the West first, but warning it wanted China in on a later conference.

Churchill Is Best Known Artist At Living Of Age

NEW YORK (AP)—All who want to live into their 80th year should take a few tips from Winston Churchill.

He is the best known artist of living in our time. Why? It can be put into one word—gusto.

"All babies look like me," he quipped once. And he has retained the qualities that mark all healthy children—imagination, curiosity, enthusiasm, and the desire to keep on growing up.

Churchill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, saw it change to brass, and by his own efforts turned it into gold.

The human race may number many in its long history who outlived him, but none who crowded so many hours with so much zest, none who had a greater appetite for living. American football brags about its 60-minute player, but in the tremendous battlefield of life Churchill has seen nearly 60 years of continuous action—and at 79 is still going at a gallop.

How has he been able to do it? His own words and a study of his career give the answer. He has been able to take everything in stride.

Most men are afraid of death, defeat and responsibility. Churchill has never been afraid to be greatly right—or greatly wrong. He has never run from death or hesitated to outface fear. He has undertaken mighty responsibilities, not as larksome duties but as welcome adventures.

"Power, for the sake of lordship, is overlordship," he said in a personal paper, "is rightly judged base," he wrote. "But power in a national crisis, when a man believes he knows what orders should be given, is a blessing."

Churchill has never lost faith in himself, in victory or defeat. He never took his goals too lightly or himself too seriously. He has never lost his sense of humor.

"If Hitler invaded Hell," he said once, "I would make at least a favorable reference to the Devil in the House of Commons."

Churchill would have been completely at home in any age—from the dawn of the caveman to the dawn of the next century, which he is currently trying to redesign. Perhaps the nearest man America has produced like him were Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson, although neither went at quite his pace.

He is an actor, a painter, an orator, a statesman, philosopher, warrior, and literary genius. He wrote fine history, and he made fine history—with both his words and his deeds.

So if you want to live a rich full life like Churchill's all you have to do is savor both the sour and sweet of this world; don't be afraid, enjoy your work as much as you play—and get that afternoon nap.

Nothing else to it. Except ability.

Person-To-Person Calls To Be Hiked

After Christmas, person-to-person calls will cost you more.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has announced that the differential between station-to-station and person-to-person calls will be increased from the present 50 to 60 per cent.

Thus, if a call costing $1 on a station-to-station basis will be $1.60 on a person-to-person basis rather than the $1.50 under current rates. The change takes effect Dec. 26. Local phone officials do not have figures available to show the average ratio between the two types of calls.

Johnson Says Record Shows His Approach

AUSTIN (AP)—Senator Lyndon Johnson said yesterday his record shows he supported 11 major proposals of the Republican administration and opposed six during the last session of Congress.

That record, Johnson asserted, is proof he has not been guided by partisan considerations.

Johnson said he would follow the same policy in the next session, making the "test of conscience" his sole guide.

Around The Rim — The Herald Staff

Recent Cooke County Incident Brings Sheriff Garrett To Mind

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

It must have been very embarrassing to Sheriff O. E. Wisnand of Cooke County when an autopsy last week revealed that he had not shot and killed a Negro rapist, as he had claimed, but that apparently the fugitive had shot and killed himself.

Friday morning there were six-column headlines across the front page of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram:

"NEGRO SOUGHT FOR ATTACK SLAIN IN GUNFIGHT WITH COOKE SHERIFF. FUGITIVE'S BULLET GRAZES NECK OF COUNTY OFFICER."

Accompanying the headlines and the story was a picture of the "Straight-Shooting Sheriff" caressing "his .44 calibre revolver from which he fired a single fatal shot into Henry Perry Denson near Sanger Thursday."

Let's review that portion of the Star-Telegram story, straight from the sheriff's mouth, with which we are concerned here: "Wisnand shouted to the man, 'Get your hands up there, fellow, you're under arrest.'"

"Wisnand shouted his order again, Denson wheeled, spotted him, yanked his automatic from his coat pocket and fired."

"Wisnand ducked below the protecting shoulder of the cut but not before the bullet had seared across the left side of his neck."

The sheriff, whose gun had been drawn from the outset, then fired back, the slug striking Denson in the center of his forehead about the hairline.

"I just made a quick shot and a lucky one," said Wisnand.

The Negro fired at the sheriff with a .32 calibre automatic. An autopsy revealed the bullet in the Negro's head to be of this calibre and not a .44 such as was the calibre of the sheriff's gun.

Sheriff Wisnand must have been a quite excited man, not to have seen the Negro raise the automatic and shoot himself "in the center of his forehead about the hairline."

In a way this just goes to prove that many a thing can happen, about which a witness to a happening can be so certain and yet so wrong. Here was a man with 10 years experience in law enforcement, who was not only a witness to an event but a participant in that event, who assumed the responsibility for a killing that he was certain he did, that he saw himself do, that, in his judgment, there couldn't be any doubt but that he had done, and yet the facts prove he not only didn't do it, but couldn't have done it.

There he was shooting at another man in self defense, and he could see it was self defense, because he was watching the other man, and could see that other man, and knew by that other man's movements that the other fellow was about to inflict death or great bodily harm on him (the sheriff) — and yet he didn't see that other fellow raise his own pistol and shoot himself down.

It's most amazing, Gentlemen! Most amazing!

We have every right to assume, of course, that the sheriff was looking at the other man, else how could he have been aiming his gun?

Nothing like it has ever happened in the history of Texas, Gentlemen. Nothing like it in the history of Texas.

Which raises the point? Where did the sheriff's bullet go?

And this recalls another unusual story. The night that Pat Garrett killed Billy the Kid in Pete Maxwell's sleeping room in Old Fort Sumner, Garrett fired two shots. The first of these went squarely through the Kid's heart, killing him instantly, and the other went... Well, that's the story.

Pete Maxwell said two shots were fired, Garrett said he fired two shots. Deputies Tip McKinney and John W. Poe, who were just outside the door, said two shots were fired. The Kid's gun was examined. It was fully loaded. He couldn't have fired the second shot. Everybody searched everywhere in that room for the second bullet hole. They moved the furniture around and examined it and everything else, and that second bullet hole couldn't be found. Garrett was certain he wasn't shooting blank cartridges. The bullet couldn't have gone out a door or window. Other residents of the little village said they heard two shots. The mystery deepened.

Years later, after Pete Maxwell had died, the mystery was solved. As Garrett fired the second shot he dropped to the floor. The bullet, missing the Kid at least 10 feet, had hit just back of, and just under the lower edge of the top of a wash stand and had buried itself there.

Nobody had thought to turn the furniture up-side-down to look for the bullet.

Maybe Wisnand's bullet will be found yet. Maybe they need to turn the sheriff and the deceased up-side-down and look again.

'Pitdown Man' Proves That We Shouldn't Believe All We See

The archeologists, anthropologists and other specialists have long labored to discover the origin of man, avoiding, of course, the hypothesis that he was created by God in His image. These scientific folk have dug in the debris of the past for skulls and bones and stones and potteries, hoping eventually to come upon the first ancestor of us all.

They have found some bones in Heidelberg, Germany, in Java, in the south of France, in the vicinity of Peking in China, and in Pitdown in Sussex, England. And out of these bones, they reconstructed frightening caricatures of manhood to which they gave various names, such as pithecanthropus erectus and cro-magnons, etc., all of which at school we had to memorize and believe, just as the theological students in the middle ages were required to know the details of the lives of angels.

No sceptic dared to raise even an eyebrow because science is infallible and each scientist stands above the normal errors of man until another scientist proves that the contrary of any hypothesis can be correct as the original. Thus, we poor mortals, knowing only the facts of life, can never tell whether Einstein's correction of Newton is perfection itself until someone in this intellectual elite corrects Einstein, which may or may not happen while we are alive, for such geniuses do not often beset the human race.

At any rate, the Pitdown man, of whose existence I was required to believe nearly 40 years ago, is no more. He has been undone by chemistry, which wore away his patina and proved him to be a fraud perpetrated by a humorist, who while unknown has achieved immortality.

Of Pitdown, that popularizer of science and history, H. G. Wells, wrote:

"... The bony remains discovered at Pitdown in Sussex display a creature still ascending only very gradually from the sub-human."

"The first scraps of this skull were found in an excavation for road gravel in Sussex. Bit by bit other fragments of this skull were hunted out from the quarry heaps until most of it could be pieced together. It is a thick skull, thicker than that of any living race of men, and it has a brain capacity intermediate between that of pithecanthropus and man. This creature has been named eoanthropus, the dawn man."

"There was moreover a jaw-bone among these scattered remains, which was at first assumed naturally enough to belong to eoanthropus, but which it was afterwards suggested was probably that of a chimpanzee. It is extraordinarily like that of a chimpanzee, but Dr. Keith, one of the greatest authorities in these questions, assigns it, after an exhaustive analysis in his 'Antiquity of Man' (1915), to the skull with which it is found. It is, as a jaw-bone, far less human in character than the jaw of the much more ancient homo heidelbergensis, but the teeth are in some respects more like those of living men."

Well, it apparently was not so. It is now assumed that some fellow, with artistry and skill, pasted a lot of odds and ends together and did a job on the scientist.

Now, we who know nothing — not having Ph.D.s — ought not to badger the scientific elite, because one error does not prove that they are all wrong. We should recognize their sincerity in believing what they see even if the thing was put there for them to see.

My complaint is that they ridicule those who believe what they do not see or hear or smell or touch because some concepts are not measurable by instruments or by knowledge but only by faith. The scientists reject our faith but insist upon their own as infallible. They really do not know for a fact that the Pitdown gravel pit is 100,000 years old, although they are willing to believe that, just as they believed, up to this week, that the Pitdown man was somewhere between 50,000 and 100,000 years old. He turns out to have been manufactured like a toy in one of Woolworth's stores but with greater competence.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Charcoal Threatened Forests

When wood is heated or burned in a certain way, it can be turned into "charcoal." There is a great deal of fuel value left in the charcoal, and it has been a common fuel for thousands of years.

During many centuries of iron-making, charcoal was the most common fuel used to heat the ore so as to obtain the iron. As the industry grew, this meant that great numbers of trees had to be cut down to supply wood for charcoal.

In England people became alarmed because forests were being laid waste to produce charcoal. During the time of the first Queen Elizabeth, laws were made to save the forests, and the next monarch, King James I, added new laws for the same purpose. These laws almost brought an end to England's iron industry. The production of iron fell yearly from 180,000 tons to 17,000 tons, by the year 1740.

Long ago in Germany certain men who lived on tree-covered mountains knew a great deal about smelting iron and making iron tools. They kept their work as secret as they could, and it seems that their skill in iron-working gave rise to old tales about "elves and dwarfs."

The furnaces of those German ironworkers were cone-shaped, and were made from clay and stone. They rose to a height of 10 or 12 feet, and there was an opening at the top of each one for smoke to go out. Layers of iron ore and charcoal were placed in the furnace, and the fire was started.

"One man," we are told, "always stayed on duty before the furnace. When 'slag' appeared, he would pull it out with a hook, and then would poke up the fire. At last he would pull out a red-hot cake of iron, and would forge it into bars."

Iron-making was an important industry in Catalonia, a section of northeastern Spain. Iron workers in Catalonia seem to have invented a special kind of forge several centuries ago. It came to be known as the "Catalan forge" and was better than any forage which had been used before.

Mrs. Philips Installed President Of Council

Mrs. Shine Philips was installed president of the Big Spring United Council of Church Women at a meeting Monday at the First Methodist Church. The Rev. E. O. Moore, pastor of the St. Paul Presbyterian Church, was installing officer.

Other new officers are Mrs. C. R. Moda, program chairman; Mrs. Bernard Fisher, treasurer; and Mrs. G. C. Graves, Christian social relations chairman.

Linen collected at the World Community Day program to be sent abroad totaled 117 pounds, Mrs. W. A. Laswell reported. Thirty-six duffel bags and two boxes of clothing were also collected.

Mrs. Fred Whitaker, retiring president, presided at the meeting. Mrs. D. C. Sadler and Mrs. Charles Koberg were appointed to the auditing committee. Mrs. D. T. Evans reported on "The Church Woman," a publication.

Mrs. Laswell led opening and closing hymns and Mrs. Orion Carter gave the devotion. Don Lovelace sang "The Holy City." Mrs. J. Hodges and Mrs. H. H. Stephens took the offering.

A tea in honor of the new officers was held following the ceremony.

Mary Margaret McBRIDE SAYS

Coming up in the elevator all five passengers sniffed rapturously. That woman in 13B was cooking pot roast with garlic again. I don't know about the other four, but I rushed from the elevator and straight to my kitchen where I soon had a fine spaghetti with garlic-spiked meat sauce under way for dinner.

I discovered garlic late in life, but I've joined the cult—and that's just what it is. Former Cinderella of seasoning, garlic is now queen of the kitchen. Maybe the advent of chlorophyll has had something to do with this rise in the world. Anyway, it's a big change, like moving from the lower East Side to Park Avenue.

Just five years ago Ruth Chatterton actually left a swanky apartment hotel that wanted to restrain her cooking with garlic. About the same time Vincent Sardi, whose famous restaurant has entertained more theatrical people than all the others put together, removed Katharine Cornell Salad from his bill of fare, because salad-lovers, attracted by the name, ordered and then complained there was too much garlic.

"We're putting it back on the menu though," said Vincent Sardi Jr., the other day. "The attitude toward garlic has changed a lot." Though garlic is in favor, there are still definite factions. Some advocates violently oppose use of their pet in beef and veal. When it comes to salads many believe in merely rubbing the bowl; others prefer crouton-frying; the garlic press has its adherents, all very vocal.

I never even learned about garlic until I lived in the Italian section of Manhattan, long before chlorophyll, that was. So you had to know about it in self-defense. My conversion was fairly easy since I came of a family who were addicted to onions, from the tender young spring ones to big red Bermudas, though come to think about it, one of the best cooks in our family considered onions vulgar as seasoning. I don't know what she'd have thought of garlic.

The creative man or woman, according to Vincent Sardi, is likely to be firm if not actually cranky about seasoning anyway. Thus, Melville Cooper, the English actor, likes peas for lunch every day but only if they are cooked with a pinch of sugar and a dash of fresh mint. Danny Kaye claims to have inherited a taste for fresh orange juice and a dried rosemary leaf to season his lamb chop.

I was one of those who eagerly tried the actor Alfred Lunt's recipe for leg of lamb basted with a cup of coffee to which cream and sugar had been added. The response of the first guest to whom I served it reminds me of a story the late Lew Lehr used to tell about a dinner cooked by gourmets and eaten on the air in the early days of radio.

Lew said one of the greatest men in modern English literature created the salad. He had to have a butcher's block and he shredded and chopped for hours, ordering fresh herbs and seasoning of every sort. When his masterpiece was brought on, there was a breathless hush as everybody tasted. Then the silence was shattered as Rube Goldberg, cartoonist, muttered into an open microphone:

"Heck, it tastes like just salad to me!"

Mrs. Coker Leads First Baptist WMU

First Baptist WMU began the Little Moon Week of Prayer with a program presented by the Lucille Reagan Circle at the church. Mrs. Leonard Coker served as leader.

The week's theme is "We Have Seen His Star" and the topic for the day was "His Star Illuminating Pagan Darkness." The program dealt with mission work in the Orient and Africa.

The devotion was given by Mrs. Norman Read. She closed with a prayer.

Parts were given by Mrs. Coker, Mrs. Lonnie Coker, Mrs. J. A. Coffey, Mrs. W. B. Younger, Mrs. Dick R. Lane and Mrs. P. D. O'Brien. Each closed with a prayer for the phase of work on which she talked.

Mrs. C. O. Hitt offered a prayer and Mrs. Theo Andrews closed the meeting with a prayer.

Thirty-two were present.

Answers Two Letters

Dear Beverly Bandow:

I have two boy friends who may give me Christmas gifts. We haven't been friends during any other gift-giving season so I'm not sure. Should I make the first move and give them presents just in case, or should I risk waiting for them to make the first move and perhaps get caught without something for them?

IN DOUBT

You'll have to anticipate their actions, of course, but just be extra careful not to stick your neck out too far. Go ahead and buy a couple of extra presents, wrap them pretty, and attach an unaddressed card to each. If one or both of your boy friends turn up with something fancy hidden behind their backs, all you'll need to do is say "Thank you. Excuse me while I get yours." Quickly address the tag and return—equal to the occasion.

In purchasing these gifts, remember that there is a possibility that you'll be stuck with them, so buy something you'll like which could also be appropriate for them. Two suggestions to get your brain turning over are a set of canasta, or a good novel.

Dear Beverly Bandow:

What is your opinion of night clubs? Most of my friends go to them, but my parents won't let me because they say decent people don't go there. My best friend is having a birthday party at one of them and has invited me. There will be dinner and dancing which I hate to miss. What can I do?

UPSET

You might just as well have asked what I think of people as to ask my opinion of night clubs. It varies greatly according to the place. Certainly there are some nice places to dance where no one need be ashamed of going.

You are very lucky to have two such conscientious parents who are genuinely interested in your welfare, and in keeping your reputation good. It stands to reason they'll be fair and open minded about this, especially when your fun stands in the balance.

Explain to them how important this party is to you and ask them if they will please accompany you to the selected night club some night before you have to answer the invitation. If the place is nice, I'm sure they'll let you go. If it doesn't come up to their standards, don't feel ashamed and babyish. Be proud you have such wonderful parents and stand firm when you announce you're not going because you've been there and don't approve of the place. You may hear a few jeers but you'll have the respect of most because you have the courage of your convictions.

(Got a problem? Want a prompt personal answer? Write Beverly Bandow in care of The Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

New Book Gives Tips On Home Modernization

How to modernize a house is a subject that is becoming more and more popular because we are living differently than we used to. Shorter work weeks, more leisure time, hobbies, gardenizing and radio, the organized babyhood, home ownership—and many other factors are making people much more home conscious.

But modernizing a home is a complicated problem. It raises such questions as "what house?" and "what is modern?" Many books have been written—close to a small library of them—trying to give us some common denominators to work with.

One of the most ambitious of recent volumes we have seen is "The Complete Book of Home Modernizing" by Samuel Paul, architect, and one of his colleagues, Robert B. Stone. It has just been published by the H. S. Stittman Co.

This is a sort of an omnibus book, drawing on various trade contributions by way of illustrations, but the authors tackle the subject of modernization on the practical basis of how you and your family live.

"The home belongs to both the parents and the children," they keep that in mind.

"Space is the first requisite for an atmosphere of comfort and graciousness in which your family and guests will always feel at ease." You can agree with that, but space is the most expensive commodity home builders have for sale.

"Two children of widely different ages should not share the same bedroom," the authors continue. "Such enforced intimacy can create behavior problems."

"A play area where the small child can express himself as an individual avoids frustrating conflicts with older members of the family. An efficient kitchen, laundry and up-to-date bathroom are mandatory to facilitate mother's work. Space where father can retreat to his favorite hobby or occasional business homework will ease another potential strain."

The organization of space in a home is analyzed. "An otherwise ample house is still overcrowded if there is a lack of space for a particular function," these writers observe. "For example, only one bathroom for three children and two parents can result in bedlam every morning. Such a family can surely list an extra bathroom as a must, plus a second lavatory in the existing bathroom."

Plans, diagrams, sketches and photos show just about every kind of a bathroom you'd like to have—from the half-bath to the double bath, solarium bath, health room, etc. Other rooms are handled accordingly.

Of course, there are some houses that just can't be modernized—beyond a coat of paint and other routine renovations. Paul and Stone admit this.

But their theme, which is obviously true, is that "There is probably no house standing that could not be improved—in its materials, in its structure, and in the way it reflects and encourages the changing, modern American way of life."

The moral seems to be that we can't "sanely modernize" our homes without giving the problem as much serious thought and investigation as we'd give the planning of a new house.

Solon Asserts Benson Can Up Cotton Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Whitten (D-Miss.) said today he hopes for a decision soon from Secretary of Agriculture Benson on Whitten's proposal that Benson use emergency powers and hike the 1954 cotton acreage allotment.

"There is no question but that under the law he has the authority to act," Whitten said. Benson, calling for cotton acreage allotments and marketing quotas in 1954, set the national acreage at 17,910,000 acres. He said that under the law he was required to arrive at this figure. He indicated he would favor a reasonable increase in the total and suggested Congress take action to raise the allotment.

Whitten, who along with many Southerners favors a national allotment of 22½ million acres, undertook to prove to Benson that he was not required to establish the lower figure since a national emergency exists.

Whitten's contents (1) that the allotment act permits the secretary to increase quotas in case of a national emergency; (2) that a national emergency was proclaimed by former President Truman at the outbreak of the Korean War and still exists; (3) that numerous official actions were taken under this emergency and still are in effect so, therefore, (4) the secretary of his own volition can make an increase in the cotton acreage. "He isn't even required to state his reasons for increasing the acreage if he doesn't wish to," Whitten asserted.

Whitten said Benson showed interest in his contentions and only yesterday asked for copies of Whitten's brief.

Benson Says Deep Cut In Farm Crop Output Harmful

CHICAGO (AP)—An over-all reduction in farm output, says Secretary of Agriculture Benson, "can have terrific repercussions in our entire economy."

The effects of reduced agricultural output, Benson said last night in criticizing current federal farm programs, do not stop with the producer.

"Actually," Benson said, "the number of people who earn all or part of their daily living through transporting, processing, packaging and merchandising of products of our farms exceed those actually engaged in agriculture itself."

Speaking to the National 4-H Club Congress, Benson promised the Eisenhower administration will offer to Congress proposals for an improved farm program. These, he said, "will help farmers gain full parity of price and income in our market places—rather than some fraction of parity in a government warehouse," as well as enlarged markets.

The administration's goal is a constantly increasing and more efficient production of farm goods, Benson said.

Cold Front Heads For State Today

A Pacific cold front, blowing across the snow-heaped Rocky Mountains, sped toward Texas Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau said the front was unlikely to produce very cold weather but could cause "well developed thunderstorm activity."

The forecasters said the front offered a "chance of severe weather," however.

Late Tuesday night or early Wednesday, the new cold front was expected to make itself known across West Texas and through central Oklahoma.

Weather 76 sub grade 5 and 6: Low overcast, drizzle and fog shrouded all Texas except west of Big Spring, the Weather Bureau reported. Drizzle fell at Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Austin and San Antonio.

The bureau reported these rainfall totals for 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m.: Austin .16 inch, San Antonio .02, Corpus Christi .48, Del Rio .03 and traces at Dallas, Fort Worth, College Station, Midland and Houston.

Morning minimum temperatures ranged from 32° at Salt Flat to 65° at Corpus Christi.

Wet and cool weather appeared the outlook for wide areas from the far Northwest to New England. The cool air also dipped into parts of the South.

Light snow fell in the eastern Great Lakes region and snow mixed with rain hit areas in New York state and into south New England.

Showers fell in the Pacific Northwest. Rain and snow was in prospect for Midwest areas.

The northern Great Lakes and upper Mississippi Valley were the cold spots with readings in some areas between 10 and 15.

Temperatures were in the 30s along the East Coast as far south as South Carolina and Georgia. Readings generally were in the 30s across northern and central sections from the Rockies to the Appalachians and in the 50s in the Southern Plains and along the Mississippi Coast and Central Florida. Temperatures were near or slightly above normal west of the Rockies.

CONCEALED WEAPONS

DALLAS (AP)—Two Dallas detectives sheepishly admitted they didn't make a complete investigation.

J. M. Souter and G. D. Gandy, picked up a woman, 30, last night, hauled her off to jail and booked her for carrying a concealed revolver—in her coat pocket.

That was just the half of it, they soon learned.

Fifteen minutes later a jail matron sent down a second pistol to the desk sergeant. This one had been concealed in the prisoner's brassiere.

Odessa Chased From A&M Happy At College There

ODESSA (AP)—The youth who said he was chased out of Texas A&M has enrolled in Odessa College and says he's happy.

"As far as I am concerned the feud between A&M and me is over," said John Clark, 20, of Odessa.

He isn't going back to A&M and says he plans to go to Oklahoma University.

Clark came home Nov. 21 and said a group of about 35 military students had come to his room, packed his belongings, given him gasoline money and sent him scotching out of College Station.

Clark said the students didn't like the letter he had written to the college newspaper, "the Battalion, criticizing Aggie cadet corps actions. Clark was a non-military student."

He said he enrolled in Odessa College Nov. 23 and plans to enroll at Oklahoma next semester.

A&M officials are investigating the reported chase-away. They said they would use proper disciplinary action against the students responsible when they are found.

Non-Struck New York Paper Is Closed Down

NEW YORK (AP)—A union official indicated today New York's newspaper strike will continue at least another 24 hours.

Denis M. Burke, president of striking Local 1 of the AFL International Photo Engravers Union, said a membership meeting of the union to consider publishers' proposals has been set for 11 a.m. (EST) tomorrow.

Burke said no agreement between union negotiators and the publishers can be effective until it is ratified by the union membership.

The shutdown of all the principal newspapers was the first in the city's publishing history.

Representatives of the AFL Photo Engravers Union and of the publishers of the six struck newspapers scheduled resumption of negotiations today.

When negotiations were recessed last night, a federal mediator said there was no change in efforts to settle the dispute over wages and other issues. Union and publisher representatives had no comment on the course of the talks.

Photo engravers on the six newspapers walked out early Saturday, but the Herald Tribune was not struck because it has its photo engraving done by a commercial plant. The six dailies were closed down because members of other newspaper unions honored the picket lines of the 400 photo engravers. More than 20,000 employees were idled.

The Herald Tribune, which published a streamlined eight-page edition yesterday, announced last night it was suspending until further notice.

The newspaper's announcement, saying in effect that it would not let itself be used as an instrument to force a strike settlement on the other newspapers, read in part:

"We take this action because it is clear that the continued publication of the Herald Tribune is being used as an instrument to obstruct normal collective bargaining."

Unions, Management Agree On Opposition To Labor Drafting

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (U)—Union and management officials have agreed to oppose any form of conscription of labor in wartime but government agencies are reported still toying with the idea.

Details of the agreement of organized labor and management men were outlined today by AFL President George Meany in the AFL's monthly magazine, and were confirmed by a governmental source familiar with the situation. Meany said representatives of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U. S. Chamber of Commerce have agreed with the AFL, CIO and railroad labor organizations that, in case of all-out war, the government should not have authority to order workers to take particular jobs.

It was reported that Defense Department and Selective Service officials are not sure, however, that manpower requirements in certain industries can be satisfied in the event of war without some such power.

The matter is being thrashed out quietly. The labor-management committee's report, marked "restricted" and advising against any form of wartime labor conscription, has been filed with Defense Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming.

Defense Department and Selective Service views are being aired before a separate group made up of representatives of interested government agencies. Flemming is expected ultimately to reconcile any conflicts. The interagency group has not yet reported to Flemming, however.

AFL President Meany, in reporting the labor-management agreement in the AFL's American Federationist, says: "On this issue, committee members had before them the clear evidence developed during World War II. In the conflict with the totalitarian states, it was clearly shown that free labor can easily outproduce compulsory labor. 'The individual working on a job he has freely chosen is a far more productive worker than the individual who is forced to accept a particular job under government direction."

Meany said the labor-management group felt however, that neither the worker nor the employer, in all-out war, could be left "to do exactly as he wishes."

'INDUSTRY FOUNDATION'

Movie Studio Boss Says Star System Not Folding

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (U)—The star system fold up? Not on your life, assures MGM boss Dore Schary. There has been a lot of speculation about Hollywood's star system going to pot. When a doll like Betty Grable is allowed to free lance, what else can you believe? And with a studio like Warners down to four players!

For advice on the situation I went to MGM, which has long been an almost feudal stronghold of the star system. Schary scoffed at the notion that the studio was scuttling the stars.

"The star system may be undergoing a period of transition at the present time," he said, "but it will always be the foundation of the movie industry."

"Metro since its inception has always held to that theory. We have built more stars and made them last longer than any other studio. And when they leave here most of them still have that great aura of being a star."

"At present we have more stars under contract than all the other studios put together. And we intend to continue our star policy. 'Of course, we have fewer players under contract than we did 5 or 10 years ago. We found that it was not economically sound to maintain the huge list we had in the past. At present there are about 40 names under exclusive contract—and we prefer exclusive picture deals because we can build and control careers that way."

"We cannot carry as many stars because we are making 22 pictures a year, compared to 46 in the past. But I think the size of our star list now is economically sound. We will make enough pictures to keep them busy, and we can also lend them to other studios."

To prove his point, Schary rattled off most of the names on the MGM roster: Tracy, Turner, Gardner, Garson, Liz Taylor, Robert Taylor, Kelly, Williams, Charles, Caron, Angeli, Eleanor Parker, Calhern, Blyth, Keel, Jane Powell, Lionel Barrymore, etc., etc. What about Clark Gable?

"He is a question mark. He is now making his last or next-to-last picture under his contract. We hope he will sign again. The same is true of Van Johnson, whose contract is also up soon."

Nixon Pays 20-Minute Call On India's Leader Nehru

By HAROLD K. MILLS
NEW DELHI (U)—U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon paid a formal 20-minute call on Prime Minister Nehru at the Foreign Office today. The American leader said he would get down to the brass tacks of American-Indian problems at another meeting with Nehru tomorrow.

Nixon told newsmen on his arrival yesterday from Madras that he had no specific diplomatic assignments for his five-day visit to India but expected to discuss all problems affecting both the United States and India.

The vice president began his first full day in New Delhi today with a trip to the site of the cremation of famed Indian leader Mohandas K. Gandhi. Nixon laid a wreath there as President Eisenhower's representative. Later he visited his Indian counterpart, Vice President Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan. They had met in Washington earlier this year.

Authoritative sources here indicated Nixon would recommend to Washington that the United States remain in the background if any anti-Communist pact resulted from the call by South Korean President Syngman Rhee and Chinese Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for a united Asiatic front against the Reds.

Nixon himself declined specific comment on the recent Formosa talks between the two that resulted in the appeal. But it was understood he felt the United States should remain in the background to avoid giving Nehru and other Asians the chance to say any possible agreement was formulated at American instigation.

Texas Young Demo Tizzy May Get Straightened Out

DALLAS (U)—Texas Democratic leaders may get together to straighten out the tangled affairs of the Texas Young Democrats.

There are now two groups of Young Democrats, each of which has held a state convention. Both were denied recognition at the Young Democrats' recent national convention in St. Paul. One has been labeled pro-Shivers, the other anti-Shivers.

A committee of Young Democrats associated with the pro-Shivers faction yesterday asked State Chairman Wallace Savage of Dallas and National Committeewoman Mrs. H. H. Weinert of Seguin for guidance.

Savage promised to confer with other party officials on the committee's request for clarification of the pre-requisites for Young Democrats charters and the manner in which a legal state convention may be held.

The committee of Young Democrats was comprised of W. B. Williams, Dallas; Frank Oltorf, Marylin; Claud Fleet, Fort Worth; Mrs. Polly Ferrell, Houston, and Max Triplett, Hillsboro. They said in a statement: "It is our unanimous opinion that since all authorities have made it plainly evident x x x that only those Young Democrat Clubs which are jointly certified by the national committeewoman and the chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee can legally function, the best interests of the entire Democratic Party will be better served if we all look solely to those officials for guidance in the orderly reactivation of Young Democrat Clubs of Texas."

"We therefore recommend that those two officers exercise their unquestioned authority to determine and publicly announce the pre-requisites for issuance of local charters and the manner in which a legal state convention can be held."

Daughter, Not Speed, Reason Man Stopped

ROME, Mich. (AP)—When state police stopped Russell L. Gokel in Rome, he couldn't imagine what was wrong.

"Aren't you missing something?" they said.

He looked around and saw that his 11-year-old daughter, who had been asleep in the back seat, was gone. The officers told him she had gotten out 17 miles back when Gokel stopped for gas. He returned to the filling station and picked her up.

Longshoremen Refuse To Work As Protest Upon Clean-Up Law

NEW YORK (AP)—Longshoremen refused to work along a 15-block pier area today in protest against the bi-state waterfront commission law which went into effect to clean up the waterfront.

Pickets were at each pier in the area. Police identified them as men who had been refused work cards by the waterfront commission. Men who had received work cards and had been certified to work honored the picket lines.

Longshoremen were refusing to work in Brooklyn, too.

This was the first reaction to the new law designed to rid the piers of criminal abuses.

First indication of the work stoppage came at one of the employment centers set up by the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Control Commission.

About 200 baggage handlers had been slated to be hired for work on the United States, due in at 9 a.m. (EST). None, however, signed on.

Under the new law, which went into effect at midnight, extra dock workers must be signed on in the employment center, after first being licensed by the commission.

The midtown piers where most transatlantic luxury liners dock have been regarded as a stronghold of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn., ousted last September from the American Federation of Labor because of racketeering.

The bi-state commission's task of taking over supervision of all harbor activities has been complicated by a jurisdictional dispute between the old ILA and a new AFL dock union.

Among lines whose ships dock in the area are Cunard, American Export, French and United States Lines.

Most of the longshoremen who work the mile-long sector are members of the ILA's Local 824, the so-called "pistol" local of the union's hectic career.

Police had special orders to watch for trouble at the employment centers, which were opposed without success in a federal court battle by the independent International Longshoremen's Assn.

All longshoremen must have work permits, and their employers must be licensed. Many former criminals faded exile from the piers.

It was the start of a new waterfront era under laws enacted by New York and New Jersey after state and federal probes uncovered widespread crime and corruption on Port of New York piers.

The move was aimed at rackets which allegedly milked the seven-billion-dollar shipping industry here of 350 millions yearly.

A chief target of the reform laws was the shape-up system of hiring which required longshoremen to line up each day for jobs while hiring bosses selected the men they wanted.

The system was open to kick-back payments and gave loan sharks a chance to extract heavy fees.

Patience he watched the fight for 10 minutes and then got a shot at the young buck.

Defense Gets Chance In Waco Case

WACO (AP)—The defense got its chance today after testimony yesterday that a building which collapsed during the May 11 tornado condition never had been corrected.

Witnesses testified the five-story R. J. Dennis Building, in which 22 persons died, was found unsafe at least twice but that recommendations for strengthening it were never carried out.

The floors shook when people walked on them, and part of the fourth floor collapsed several years ago, according to testimony.

The testimony was in a jury hearing before Federal Judge Ben Rice Sr. to determine whether the firm that insured the building was liable for damages. Twenty suits are on file against the National Automobile and Casualty Co. The damage suits will be tried later if the company is held liable.

The State Industrial Accident Board has ruled that the tornado, which killed 114 people, was an act of God and that the insurance company was not liable. Families of the victims claim the building was unsound.

STEP UP BEDROOM LIGHTING WITH ATTRACTIVE

wall lamps

Do your bedrooms need more light? Then just pin a lamp on the wall to get the light you need for better seeing, and a handsome decorative effect as well. These easily installed lamps add the proper light for the personal make up, letter writing or reading that you do in your bedroom. And with your light pinned on the wall in attractive lamps, just think of the space atop desks, vanities and dressers that you can use for other purposes. Give your bedroom the better lighting it deserves, and add to the decorative scheme with room-brightening, pin-to-the-wall lamps.

For best results when using wall lamps be sure lamps are placed 30" apart and 15" from top of desk, vanity or dresser.

Maryland Is Winner Of '53 National Football Crown

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Maryland, the only college football team to go through a major schedule without a defeat or a tie, won the 1953 national collegiate football championship from undefeated but once-tied Notre Dame.

Maryland, winner of 10 games and headed for a New Year's Day engagement with Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, earned the coveted O'Donnell Trophy in the final Associated Press ranking poll of the season.

The O'Donnell Trophy, donated by the Notre Dame Monogram Club in honor of the late Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, former Notre Dame football player who became president of that institution, is awarded annually as a national championship emblem on the basis of the Associated Press poll.

Maryland succeeds Michigan State as holder of the trophy, which will be awarded outright to the first team to win it three times.

The final 1953 poll brought out a record number of 376 votes and even Maryland's idleness last Saturday while Notre Dame was thumping Southern California, 48-14, failed to change the opinion of the sports writers and broadcasters who voted the Terps into first place last week.

Notre Dame has one more game to play—against Southern Methodist next Saturday—but nearly all the other major college teams have ended their seasons. Notre Dame, the preseason favorite, had been first in every poll until tied by Iowa Nov. 21.

In the showdown vote, Maryland received 187 first-place ballots and 3,365 points to 141 firsts and 3,149 points for Notre Dame. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc.

These two teams dominated the voting. Michigan State, last year's champion, which lost one of nine games this year en route to its first Big Ten championship, finished third with 2,756 points, followed by Oklahoma, UCLA, Rice, Illinois, Georgia Tech, Iowa and West Virginia.

Nine of the first 10 teams were ranked in the topmost group a week ago. West Virginia returned to 10th place in the final call-over, replacing Texas, which dropped from seventh to 11th after a close call in its final game. Rice, the Cotton Bowl nominee, moved up from eighth place to sixth, shoving Illinois down a notch, and Georgia Tech from 10th to eighth.

Five of the first 10 teams also were ranked in the preseason Associated Press poll. Maryland, rated only ninth in the preseason rankings, moved to the top on a series of remarkably one-sided victories. The Terps seldom had to use their full strength and frequently relied on substitutes through the greater part of the game.

Only 31 points were scored against Maryland in 10 games, six opponents were shut out and only one, Georgia, made two touchdowns.

The first 10 teams (first-place votes in parentheses):
1. Maryland (187) 3,365
2. Notre Dame (141) 3,149
3. Michigan State (8) 2,756
4. Oklahoma (10) 2,591
5. UCLA (1) 2,007
6. Rice (2) 1,988
7. Illinois 1,248
8. Georgia Tech 839

If you're a person who likes to see new faces, you'll enjoy watching the HCJC Jayhawks in their opening basketball game tonight against the HSU Butters in the local gym.

Very few of the Hawks were around the local scene this time a year ago. Don Stevens is the only regular who was with the team at the start of last season. Jerold Farmer, captain of the club didn't join the Hawks until midweek, when he came here from Wayland College.

Boys like Jim Knotts, Tommy Patterson, Paschal Wickard and P. D. Fletcher have come on to take the place of such Jayhawk greats as Casey Jones, Charley Warren, Dallas Williams, Bobby Malmes and Ricketts Gilmore.

It will probably be a few years before a Jayhawk team achieves the fabulous success the 1952-53 team had but this is a ball club you'll probably like. Though young and, for that reason, inexperienced in college ball, it's deep in talent and bids fair to become a colorful club.

9. Iowa (10)	876	Auburn 119; 18. Duke 102; 19.
10. West Virginia (14)	452	Sanford 41; 20. Michigan (1) 35.
The second ten: 11. Texas 375;		Others receiving more than ten
12. Texas Tech 264; 13. Alabama		points: Cincinnati, Minnesota,

SMU Needs Little Prompting To Get Ready For Next Go

By BARD LINDEMAN

DALLAS (AP)—How is it with a football team the week it plays Notre Dame? What do the boys think about it? Especially what's the attitude of Southern Methodist, which in four meetings with the mighty Irish have given them the toughest ball game they ever played?

Hal O'Brien, an Irishman from Port Arthur, was talking about Notre Dame. He's a power-running halfback in the Mustang lineup.

"Oh, you don't have to talk about the game," he said. "You can tell when the fellows have it on their minds."

Someone asked him how it would feel to score a touchdown against the Fighting Irish. He smiled.

"It doesn't really matter, just so we can score on them a couple of times," he said.

O'Brien's grandparents were born in Ireland. He said that his folks in Port Arthur were "kinda enthusiastic" about the game. His father had written him to do well.

That's the way it is with all the Mustangs this week. They're talking it up under the stadium where they dress and in the frat houses. They know they'll have to play plenty of football or get run out of the ball park in South Bend Saturday.

SMU Coach Woody Woodard said he thought Notre Dame was "the toughest team in the nation."

He said the outcome of the game depended on "how the kids want to buckle down and work."

They were making television movies at one end of the practice field and Woodard was answering questions for the camera. He said he wouldn't have any big star, like Fred Benner or Kyle Rote, to carry the load in this game. Benner threw four touchdowns passes when SMU defeated the Irish, 27-20, in 1951. Rote scored three times in the 1949 classic which Notre Dame won, 27-20.

Woodward answered the questions in a flat voice. He looks like a man who was worried. He had just heard his scout report.

Red McClain of the SMU staff scouted the Notre Dame-Jowa game. He said, "They (Notre Dame) show you more football in 10 minutes than most clubs do all day. They're not gonna be beat, that's their attitude and that's the way they play," he said.

Notre Dame, unbeaten, once-tied, will go in as a heavy favorite over this young Southern Methodist club that has lost four of its nine games. There will be some doubt that this game can follow the sharp competitive pattern.

Talking about the comparative records of the two teams a Dallas newsman said: "No, it won't matter to those kids. Nothing makes any difference in this game. Why Notre Dame was four touchdowns better the last time they played. 'Show me a boy who doesn't want to play with or against Notre Dame and I'll show you a rare lad. That's why they all play so good against Notre Dame.'"

O'Brien, a sophomore whom the Methodists must count on heavily this week said, "It's like playing in the World Series."

That's how it is the week before you go in against Notre Dame.

Cincy All Through

CINCINNATI (AP)—The University of Cincinnati has rejected bids to three minor bowl games, the Sun, Tangerine and Refrigerator. Coach Sid Gillman said yesterday the offers were not accepted because "10 games is a good enough season."

VINCENT NEW BOSS—At Vincent will manage the Fort Worth Cats in the Texas League next season, President Spencer Harris said today.

In Season's Debut Here Tonight

The 1953-54 edition of the HCJC Jayhawks, which will have to go some to equal the feats of the 1952-53 club, is pictured above. The cagers open their home season against the HSU Butters tonight. Left to right, back row, they are, Coach Harold Davis, Jim Knotts, Doyle, La.; Jerold Farmer, Levelland; Arlen White, Forsan;

HERE TONIGHT

HSU Is Threat To HC Records

The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks' record of never having lost an opening basketball game, as well as Coach Harold Davis' extended home winning string, are in serious danger of being broken tonight.

The Jayhawks, fielding practically an entirely new lineup, launch their 1953-54 play against the tall and talented Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys at 8 p.m. in the Jayhawk field house.

Not since the Big Springers dropped a 67-51 decision to Amarillo JC back in January, 1950, has a Hawk team coached by Davis lost a game here.

San Angelo JC nudged a fine HCJC team in the local gymnasium during the 1951-52 campaign but the club was being coached by Bennie Rutherford, now head mentor at Sweetwater High School. Davis had taken leave of his duties to serve a tour of duty with the United States Marine Corps, in which he holds a captain's commission.

Last year under Davis, the Hawks had their greatest season. They won 34 decisions in 40 starts, copped the West Zone title, were finalists in the Texas Junior College Conference Tournament, were crowned champions of their own meet, the first annual Howard College Tournament, reigned as kings of the Region V Meet in Amarillo and advanced as far as the semi-finals in the National JC Meet at Hutchinson, Kan., before losing to Arkansas City, Kan.

In 12 games with the Butters down through the years, the Jayhawks have won six times.

Davis has prospects for another fine team. However, the Butters from Abilene may give them as rugged a test as they have all season.

For one thing, the visitors will have a height advantage on the local collegians. For another, the HSU coaches have assembled one of their better freshmen squads in years.

The Jayhawks won't be at full strength. The fact became assured Monday when it was learned Tommy Patterson, regular from Roswell, N. M., jammed his hand again (for the third time) and was told he would be out of action for at least ten days.

Jim Knotts and Don Stevens, other regulars, have blisters on their feet but they will play tonight.

Patterson's temporary retirement means that Davis will go with a line-up consisting of Knotts, Captain Jerold Farmer, P. D. Fletcher, Paschal Wickard and Stevens.

Knotts is a high-scoring freshman from Doyle, La. Farmer hails from Levelland. Fletcher from Dumas, Wickard from Clovis, N. M., and Stevens from Lamesa. Between them, those five lads scored a total of 1,917 points in competition last season. Knotts himself collected 854 and was named to seven all-tournament teams.

Tommy Boyd, Throckmorton; Gene (Chick) Lewis, Hawley; Ray Stipa, Chicago, Ill.; Ben Benton, Deming, N.M.; and Bob (Cowboy) Carlson, Fort Worth, will probably start for HSU. The first four

SEASON DUCATS SOLD AT GATE

Persons who have planned to purchase season tickets for home basketball games of the HCJC Jayhawks but who have not had the time to do so can take care of that matter at the box office at the HCJC Gym tonight.

The ducats, good for 13 home games, sell for $7 and represent a saving of $2.10.

Regular price of admission for games is 70 cents adult and 40 cents student.

Those who have already purchased tickets should pick them up at Dibrell's Sporting Goods, if they have not already done so.

Nino Valdes Is Top Contender

NEW YORK (AP)—Nino Valdes, the lanky Cuban who holds the Central American and Cuban heavyweight crown, has taken over the No. 1 position of heavyweight contender in Ring magazine's world ratings announced today.

Valdes, the first foreign heavyweight in years to become No. 1 contender, proved his right to a shot at Rocky Marciano's title by knocking out European titleholder Heinz Neuhaus in the fourth round at Dortmund, Germany, according to Ring.

JACK OWENS MAY MISS REGIONAL PLAYOFFS

COAHOMA (SC) — Fred Salling, coach of the Coahoma Bulldogs, said Monday night that Jack Owens, regular offensive end, re-injured his bad knee in the Grand falls game in Big Spring last weekend and may not be ready to play against Rochester in Haskell Thursday.

In event Owens has to sit this one out, Dudley Arnett and Jack Morrison will probably be called upon for iron-man chores.

The Bulldogs will carry a perfect record into the game, having copped 11 straight decisions. Rochester lost an early season practice game to Clyde 34-14, but since has shown much improvement.

Longhorns Show Spirit In Drill

If 'football games are won on Monday' as has often been theorized, the Big Spring Steers 'beat' Brownwood yesterday.

In reporting back for workouts, the Steers showed good spirit and a grim determination as they began final preparations for their all-important clash on Saturday with the Lions in Brownwood.

Wayne Medlin and Tiny Ellison, who suffered almost identical injuries in last week's game with Sweetwater, suited out but took it relatively easy.

Medlin, star defensive end, took part in some of the rough stuff but re-injured his side slightly and was told to confine himself to lapping the field.

Don Swinney and Jerry Hughes, defensive backs, took part in the heavy workouts and, from all indications, both will be ready for Brownwood.

The Steers spent much of the afternoon working to defense Brownwood plays.

More of the same was scheduled for this afternoon.

Quick Results

When Slim Warren was promoted to the job of head coach at Brownwood High School the past year, he didn't wait long to produce. He emerged with a football champion his first year. His Lions host Big Spring in bi-district play Saturday afternoon.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Local football fans can do their good turns and perhaps cheer up a young man who has been incapacitated since early September by sending "get well" notes to Bill Mimms, c/o Harris Memorial Hospital, Fort Worth.

Who is Bill Mimms, you ask? Well, Billy is a strapping Midland youngster who, no doubt, would have made his mark on the football field the past season had he not been unfortunate enough to suffer a back injury in a pre-season Big Spring-Midland scrimmage.

Billy has not only missed playing the entire football season, he's had to spend all his time in hospitals, since then.

The Big Spring team has been criticized by some Midland people for putting Mimms out of action. Those critics should know better. The Steers and their coaches felt as badly about the incident as anyone.

Big Spring certainly had nothing to gain through Mimms' injury, since the two teams did not meet on the gridiron in regular play. Even had they been scheduled, the suggestion that members of one of the teams would deliberately foul a player on the other club is ridiculous. Football is rough enough as it is, without adding the roughing tactics.

At any rate, local fans can help to dispel some of the boredom that must accompany long stays in hospital beds by writing to young Mimms. He's a deserving young man and, no doubt, would appreciate hearing from you.

The winner of the Big Spring-Brownwood football fandango this weekend can truly identify itself as the champion of West Texas AAA football circles.

Districts 1-AAA and 2-AAA are the only leagues in that classification located west of Fort Worth. Districts 3 and 4 are situated in East Texas, District 5 in Central Texas and the others in South Texas.

If you're a person who likes to see new faces, you'll enjoy watching the HCJC Jayhawks in their opening basketball game tonight against the HSU Butters in the local gym.

Very few of the Hawks were around the local scene this time a year ago. Don Stevens is the only regular who was with the team at the start of last season. Jerold Farmer, captain of the club didn't join the Hawks until midweek, when he came here from Wayland College.

Stovall Will Play In Game

KNOTT (SC) — Though he failed to rate the first All-District Six-man football team, Phillip Stovall of Knott was named by the coaches to represent the conference in the all-star football game next summer.

The game is held annually in conjunction with the Texas Six-man Coaching School, which has been held for the past several years at San Angelo.

Charles Nance, Flower Grove, was runnerup in the voting.

Stovall was a star passer for the Knott team and also glistened on defense.

Dawson To Visit Knott Tonight

KNOTT (SC) — The Knott High School boys' and girls' basketball teams launch their 1953-54 seasons here this evening in games with Dawson.

The girls play at 7 p.m., the boys at 8.

Probable starters for the Billies will be Phillip Stovall, Woody Long, Charles Burks, Roosevelt Shaw and either Richard Parker or Toby Metcalf.

Stovall and Burks have been named co-captains of the A team. Co-captains of the reserves or B team are Donnie Roman and John Shanks.

First Wife Seeks To Annul Marriage Of Negro To White

The Bruce woman contends her husband obtained a divorce, unknown to her, in Lynchburg, Va., in 1948 and that she didn't know about his second marriage until a month ago.

She told the court in her suit that the Virginia decree jeopardized her rights, including the "right to remarry and right to bring children into the world without the stigma of illegitimacy."

She said she first learned of the Bruce-Field marriage in newspaper accounts that the heiress was seeking court permission to take her daughter, 9, by a previous marriage to England.
