THIRTY-FOURTH WEEK

ODDS & ENDS

While summer won't arrive officially for another three weeks it might as well. The days are getting sleepier, the pool's open, the college crowd is coming home and the red bugs are out.

Early spring flowers along the highways and in the pastures are fading and being replaced by black-eyed susans, lupines and mountain pinks.

-oae- And in general things are humming. That stream of tourists will start soon, some of us fortunate enough to be among them. This tourist business ranks high as a source of income in Texas, whether we realize it or not.

Off and on during this summer we'll have tourists stopping in Sonora for gasoline, cold drinks, meals, sporting goods, sun glasses, hats and caps, suntan lotion, reading material or medical care.

-oae- We hear that John Eaton is feeling better but is running short on reading material. If you have any books or articles on Texas history John (and Mrs. Eaton, too) will be delighted to see them.

-oae- The way to have teeth with which you can crack nuts is to refrain from cracking nuts with your teeth, says The Transmitter, and continues:

The way to have a stomach in which you can put practically any kind of food is to refrain from putting practically any kind of food into your stomach.

The way to have eyes with which you can read fine print in a poor light is to refrain from reading fine print in a poor light.

The way to have friends who would give you the shirt off their perspicacious backs is to refrain from asking them for their shirts.

The way to make friends with a traffic cop so that he will overlook slight infractions of the traffic rules is to avoid slight infractions of the traffic rules.

Keep Little League In Business Put Something In The Pot, Boy !

An Editorial

It's just a hat-maybe a Stetson or a Panama or a felt cap-but it's a symbol. It's a symbol of summers when some 60-odd boys here in Sonora have a place to go and something to do. It's a symbol of learning fair play and teamwork. It's a very real opportunity for us to contribute to one of the most worthwhile institutions for youth today—the Little League.

According to rules governing Little League organizations, the clubs are not allowed to solicit funds and no admission may be charged. The hat, then, is the only means by which the Little League can stay in operation, offering recreation for boys and entertainment for spectators.

Tonight when you are at the game and the hat comes your way, please don't send it away without adding something to it.

For everything that goes into the hat, something wonderful is offered to a boy.

Graduaciones en la L. W. Elliott School. Viernes 18 de Mayo de 1956.

Magnifico conjunto de estudiantes almiramos toda la concurrencia del Auditorio, que presenciaron el programa Escolar de fin de año, todos los padres de los jóvenes graduados, con su corazón enchido de emoción y sus lagrimas en los ojos felicitaban a sus hijos, recogiendo con esta satisfacción todos los sacrificios depositados durante los ocho largos años de Escuela en cada uno de los estudiantes. Con todo el cariño paterno cada uno pronunciaba en su conciencia, Gracias Nuestro Señor, por habernos permitido terminar nuestra primera etapa con felicidad, y te pedimos nos des fuerzas para seguir luchando con nuestra misión hasta verla terminada, estas son estoy seguro, las palabras de todos los buenos padres que se preocupan por el oprimir de sus hijos. En esta noche tenemos un ejemplo un ejemplo digno de llevar en nuestras memorias, porque el sacrificio de sus padres no será en valde y por el contrario ha quedado correspondido con cada uno de los graduantes.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

More Than She "Bargained" For

Dad Baker retired from active dairying—seven or eight years ago—but still keeps a half-dozen pure-breds more or less as a hobby.

Dad goes all-out for these six. Temperature-controlled barn, expensive feed... the works. As a result his milk has a low bacteria count, a high butterfat content. And as a favor to neighbors, he sells it just two cents above the ordinary price.

Recently, a neighbor complained—asked if she couldn't get the milk "at cost." Dad agreed, sent her a bill for exactly what the milk cost: 75¢ a quart.

From where I sit, it's easy to misunderstand if you don't get all the facts. That's why we ought to consider the other fellow's viewpoint before we talk out. For example, you have your reasons for liking particular beverages. I have mine. And whether we're talking about buttermilk or beer...let's try to respect each other's point of view.

Looking Through The Windows Of Life

By W. H. Marshall

"Let's put a little pep into it!" That is an expression we often hear. It is a characteristic that often has much to do with human destiny. Enthusiasm is one of the first qualifications for leadership. You can't sell a thing you don't believe in and you don't push. That goes for every good cause I know anything about. I think that goes for the church and religion. Religion is not just another ordinary in life's make-up. It is the main thing. It is the force that drives a person through to victory in life. That must be a point toward which we set our goal if we are to get something out of life that satisfies the soul. Man is more than meat and drink.

Enthusiasm. What is the ONE thing in your life that you like to do above everything else? Is it to be popular? Is it to be a social leader? Is it to make money? These desires can be good and noble when directed with a useful and moral purpose. But when we make any one of them our first love; our god; then we are living fruitless lives, lives that can be hurtful rather than helpful.

I am glad that life makes demands upon every person. No man has a right to come into the world and live his life without making the world better because of his coming. On the other hand I am glad that God gave to every man his right to reject good and God. Every man born into the world must be at some time face his God in judgment. Every man's heaven will be no more than the good he has done while living in the world. To miss heaven at life's end we don't have to be mean; all we have to do is to love ourselves and the things of the world better than we love God.

And while we are getting along very well accumulating the things of material value, let us not forget to grow a soul. To sell our souls for things that do not last, is to be guilty of pulling a mean trick on ourselves; and to sell himself out is the guilt of many a man.

A man is really living when he responds to the opportunity life offers him to do good, to be helpful to his fellowman, and to honor God with the life God has given him.

The man in every community who is loved the best is the man who serves the best. And until one can make up his mind that he is something more than what he eats, what he wants, what he gets, he is pretty apt to live his life in a small way.

The one great question ETERNITY will ask each one of us is: What did you make of your life? Some of us have a much better chance to make good than other. God expects you and me to do the very best we can with what we have, and with what we are.

The Bible tells us: "All that a man hath will be give for his life." That day will surely come, it must come to every man.

Life is fair. God is fair! Every man, so our Bible tells us, must reap what he sows. That is common sense. That is to be expected. Life is made that way. It never was intended that a man escape the consequences of the life he lives. We have our lives. God gave them to us. Some day He will ask us for an accounting of our lives.
