CHRISTMAS BUYING HEAVIEST IN YEARS HERE

MERCURY DROPS TO NEW LOW

Fifteen and One-half Degrees Last Night Registered in Chillicothe

MIDWEST IN GRIP OF ZERO WEATHER

Rising Temperature Forecast For Northwest Texas Today and Tomorrow

Chillicothe experienced the coldest weather of the winter season Christmas day and last night when the mercury dropped to a new low of 15 1/2 degrees here, resulting in frozen pipes in many homes, and making it uncomfortable in general.

First touch of the cold spell was felt at about 5:30 a. m. Wednesday when a norther struck. The weather gradually became colder, reaching the low during the night.

Further north and in the eastern states snow and sleet fell, bringing joy to people celebrating Christmas. No moisture fell in this section of the country.

In several states deaths resulted from the weather. Snow was heaviest in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Kentucky but the frigid wave that accompanied it moved to encompass most of the northern states and to penetrate some of their southern neighbors. The storm deposited three inches of snow in Michigan, four or more in Wisconsin, and Illinois, five in Minnesota and twin cities, six in central Indiana.

Record seasonal lows were established on Christmas at many points. Devil's Lake, N. D., had the nation's nadir, 22 below.

Warmer weather is forecast for northwest Texas today and Friday.

UNFORTUNATE ARE REMEMBERED HERE

FFA Boys Bring Gladness to Hearts of 30 Families

Christmas brought gladness to many Chillicothe people, both those able to afford buying and to the less fortunate. Members of the Chillicothe Future Farmers of America chapter, with J. W. Hulse, as director, distributed 205 toys to 30 families last Monday.

The boys took old toys, of no further use to the owners, repaired and repainted them to give the kiddies who would have had no visit from Santa Claus otherwise.

The ladies auxiliary of the American Legion were active, also, and besides doing work here among the people, the soldiers who are patients in the hospital at Legion were also remembered. Very few went through Christmas here without old St. Nick bringing them happiness.

Folks went back to work this morning, cheerful over the fact that Christmas has been one of the most enjoyable had for several years, and are looking forward with renewed hope for the coming year, confident of even better times than 1935 afforded.

Back From Plains

George Morrison has returned from a visit with his son, Fred Morrison of Sudan. He stated Fred has fine farm crops, and he had never before seen as much feed-tuff as has been grown on the Plains this year.

Miss Frances Graham, a teacher in the Chillicothe schools, is spending this week in Big Spring with friends.

20,850 POUNDS OF COTTON USED FOR MATTRESSES

RECORD OF HARDEMAN CLUB WOMEN SINCE BEGINNING IN 1932

In November, 1932, a demonstration on making mattresses was given to the home demonstration clubs of Hardeman county by Elsie Phillips, home demonstration agent. Since that time more mattresses are made every year. Up to the present time according to reports turned in to the home demonstration agent 20,850 pounds of cotton and 4,170 yards of ticking have been used in making the 417 mattresses. Eleven factory made mattresses have also been added.

With the factory made mattresses and the home made mattresses the home demonstration club women lack 26 mattresses averaging 1 1/2 new mattresses to the home since 1932.

Hardeman county is using her part of the cotton and are becoming more conscious of the quality of good bedding.

An average of 50 pounds of cotton and 10 yards of ticking is used in making a mattress. Round bale cotton is preferred to the square bale.

1,115 pounds of cotton have been used in making 446 quilts and comforts and 754 pieces of bed linen have been added. 34 wool blankets and 20 wool comforts have also been added.

VOCATIONALLY SPEAKING

Timely Topics as Viewed by Local Instructor of Vocational Agriculture

Ben Hibbs, under the title "Him of the Future" in Country Gentleman (December) describes research work of the department. He says in closing: "It is worth noting in passing, that industry does not abandon research when the world seems to have a surplus of its products. Compare the automobile, the radio, the electric refrigerator of 1935 with the models of 1925. Consider the long list of innovations which have emerged from the chemical laboratories during those lean years. Industry doesn't stand at pause. When progress stops, retrogression sets in. The only way to hold our own in agriculture is to push on. I have dwelt thus far on the tangible results of research, but the quest for new things has another consequence which should not be overlooked. Whenever Country Gentleman announces an agricultural innovation, letters stream in from all over the continent. The prospect of financial gain alone doesn't prompt all these communications. Between the lines one reads of a deeper urge. Human nature hungers for new adventures, for some thing different, for some new activity which lifts daily interest far above the daily routine. Farm folks can't explore the stratosphere or the faraway mountains of Tibet, but they can find adventure in the very soil which gives them sustenance. Growing some new plant is a satisfying experience—the sort of thing that keeps us from growing old before our time. It is fun, not only to view but actually to cross the bar, inviting rim of the future."

...Here was the dilemma: If enough foreign goods were imported to permit the continued exportation of all of agriculture's surplus beyond domestic needs, the effects on our industrial and economic structure would be highly disturbing. On the other hand, complete retreat by farmers from the foreign market would place the shock of readjustment entirely on them and leave the permanent problem of what to do with 50 to 100 million surplus acres. There was no way to avoid these extremes each of which would be unfairly harsh to

STATE LAW ON PENSION WAS COPIED

Taken from Laws Previously Existing or From Social Security Act

AUSTIN.—"Many provisions of the Texas Old Age Assistance Law were taken directly from laws previously existing in other states or from the Social Security Act, which President Roosevelt sponsored," State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter, appointed pension chief, said this week.

"Major provisions are the following: 1. Income of applicants must be 65 years of age and a citizen of the United States.

2. He must have lived in Texas five out of the last nine years, and have lived in the State continuously one year preceding application.

3. He must not at time of receiving aid be an inmate of a public or private institution.

4. He must not have made a voluntary transfer or assignment of property to qualify for aid.

5. He must not be habitual criminal or habitual drunkard.

6. He or she is not eligible if he or she has husband or wife able to furnish him or her adequate support.

"The property restriction," Mr. Carpenter continued, "as well as that of cash or security ownership, must be clearly understood."

"A qualified old-age pension applicant—

"Does not own property, real, personal, or mixed, the fair value of which, taking into consideration assessed valuations for State and county tax purposes less all incumbrances and liens, exceeds, if the applicant is single $5,000, or if married, $7,500.

"Does not have or owe cash or marketable securities, the fair value of which exceeds $500 if the applicant is single, or if married, $1,000," Mr. Carpenter stated.

"An important restriction concerns incomes of qualified applicants. Incomes of applicants must not exceed, from any and all sources, $350 yearly, if single; and the combined incomes of both spouses, from any and all sources must not exceed $720 yearly, if applicant is married," Mr. Carpenter explained. "A sworn statement of all income during the preceding two years must accompany the application."

"All applications will be handled through local agents after the new law goes into effect February 14," he added.

A YOUNG PIONEER

When several hundred families were sent to Alaska from the Middle West to settle the Matanuska Valley, the Red Cross sent a nurse, Madeleine de Foras, to remain with them for a year to help protect their health. Among the first friends she made were the little pioneer, Arthur Hack, 4 years old, and "Prince," the pup who went with his young master to Alaska.

Men or Machines?

First of a series of four articles dealing with rural life.

By Carl C. Taylor.

If my topic were—"What kind of rural life ought we to look forward to in the United States?" my task would be easy. Then I would need only to visit the good things of life and declare that such ought to be rural America. But I have not set myself the task of painting a Rural Utopia but rather the task of predicting what actually will come to pass.

Will rural life in the United States two, three or a half dozen generations hence be using mechanical production almost as completely as industry? Have settled the problems of physical and economic distribution? Captured a material standard of living equal to that of the upper middle class of the cities? Or will it follow more clearly the rural life patterns of older civilizations? He satisfied with less mechanization than industry? Somewhat side step the difficult problem of distribution by "live-at-home farming?" He satisfied with a lower material standard of living than in other business enterprises?

I hasten to repeat that these are not the only two alternatives. It is much more likely that some middle position will develop. Because they do mark the extremes of possibility, I want to purpose the patterns of each with two questions in mind: First, which should we choose if we could? and second, which are we most likely to develop, with or without our conscious choice?

Civilizations have not chosen, but rather drifted, into their destinies. Whether they can ever do otherwise may be an open question. But that does not alter the fact that American rural life will probably be very different one hundred years hence from what it is now. The question is, will we attempt to understand and attempt to guide, or will we continue to indulge in wishful thinking, imagine Utopias, and, as in the past, drift into destinies which we had not contemplated?

I can easily conceive that we might dream one kind of rural life and our grand children be compelled to live another kind, chiefly because we failed to understand history or judge the trends of our own times.

One school of thought believes that our children can, should and will inherit the good rural life only by subjecting American agriculture to complete commercialization and other urban techniques.

Mrs. Robert Salvatierra of San Antonio is here for a visit with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Golden; also with Mrs. Floyd Newberry, and other relatives and friends during the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Tucker and children of Wortham are here for a visit with Mrs. Tucker's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Phipps.

ALL STORES BENEFIT IN GIFT TRADE

Last Four Days Business District Congested By Big Crowds

OPTIMISM REIGNS FOR COMING YEAR

Building Activity Planned in Chillicothe to Keep Business Going

Chillicothe business houses were thronged with holiday shoppers Friday and Saturday, and then Monday and Tuesday of this week, with sales jumping to a new high mark for the past few years.

Crowds and traffic were so congested the city found it necessary to use the street signal at the corner of Wortham and Elgin, and with the noise and bustle of gift buyers it presented an old time appearance. At night with lights of many different colored hues strung overhead the business streets, flashing sign lights of some stores, Chillicothe was turned more into a city than has been the case for some time.

Attractions of last Tuesday tended to increase the crowd of visitors, and merchants were able to finally check up on sales and give a good, long, satisfying sigh to know people are beginning to at last buy better grades of merchandise.

After the hub-bub Christmas morning came to find the business section rather quiet, many Chillicothe people skipped out of the city for visits elsewhere, others remaining to eat a big turkey dinner and call it a day of real rejoicing. Everywhere people were enjoying the festival of gladness, without that fear of what the New Year would bring forth, as has been faced in the last few years, thus being able to celebrate with greater enthusiasm. And, as for the New Year Chillicothe people are taking it as a continuation of improvements, and that usual "black" in business is not going to be near so noticeable. Merchants look into the coming year as if it will be entirely free from the depression period, basking in the thought better times have come to stay.

An Era of Building

With the several building projects scheduled for construction in this city, thus affording employment for the majority of men, conditions will be greatly helped financially. Contract for the new building to house the vocational agriculture and home economics classes of the high school, and also a gymnasium will be let in all probability when bids are opened December 30. A swimming pool as a city project, new city hall building, extension of the waterworks system, as well as the sewer system, along with improved roads being community, all these would prove of great help toward keeping the recovery program going in Chillicothe.

Therefore, with a greater co-operative spirit among citizens here, all working for each other's welfare, it is difficult to see how this city can be held back from the goal of prosperity.

W. E. Hancock, city superintendent of schools, departed Monday morning for O'Donnell for a visit with his parents during the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Williams and daughter, Miss Anna Ruth Williams, and son, Vernon, Jr., together with Dan Cooper Wilson, were Christmas day visitors with relatives in Weatherford.

C. W. Underwood and Mr. Low were business visitors in Vernon Monday.

GOOD WILL ON THE ROAD

The Holiday season is a peculiarly fitting time to emphasize the obligations of every motorist. It is of more than passive interest that the Yuletide closes that quarter of the year when automobile accidents, deaths and injuries are at an annual peak, according to the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. How horrible is the thought that as we approach the days when the sentiment, "Good Will to All," is glorified throughout the land, the carnage of wrecks and broken bodies is strewn more than ever over the face of our country.

A great deal has been said about the necessity of courtesy in driving as an accident preventive measure. Driving at speeds reasonable for conditions, sharing the road, passing properly, using correct hand signals, avoiding all those actions which make driving dangerous and uncomfortable for the other fellow, are the dictates of courtesy and manners. So, too, are they dictates of the principle of the good neighbor. Good driving, with a real desire to safeguard the lives of those exposed to the consequences of that driving, is practical Christianity. It is a kind of practical Christianity that followers of all creeds can subscribe to as they join in the common rejoicing at this Christmas season.

The first concern of the churches of America is the saving of souls. By entering with whole-hearted activity into the automobile safety movement, they can extend their activity to the saving of lives, without violating their first purpose. The blot upon a soul as a result of killing or maiming another through careless or heedless action, is one not easily erased. The churches have the advantages of being able to appeal to a great section of the drivers of the country on occasions when they are most receptive to the idea of good will as a driving maxim. The good neighbor on the road could well serve as a theme for a sermon in every church at this time of the year.

So long as selfishness and stupid recklessness, so long as death and destruction exist on our streets and highways, the ideal of peace on earth, good will toward men, will command little more than lip service.

HEALTH TALK

By John W. Brown, M. D.
(State Health Officer)

The State Department of Health reports show that several sections of the State have reported many cases of mumps, and in some instances epidemics are expected.

While we do not ordinarily think of mumps as a particularly serious disease, it is a condition fraught with some real danger through its complications. The disease is usually spread by direct contact, rarely if ever by a third person. The period of incubation, that is from the time of exposure to the onset of the disease, may be placed at twenty-one days. Mumps is contagious before the symptoms appear and for some time after the symptoms have disappeared. As long as the patient has any symptoms isolation should be enforced.

Remember it is a mistake to think that children should have the so-called children's diseases. Everyone of these diseases is full of great danger for the very young children, especially children under school age.

To prevent complications one should remain in bed until the swelling has entirely subsided.

Former county judge, Joe Magee, and son, L. J. Magee of Littlefield, who is visiting his father in Quanah during the Christmas holidays, were in the city Monday.

Mrs. Paye Ford is in Tenaha for a visit with her two sons, and her mother, this week.

Miss Maurine Stevens of Fort Worth spent Christmas day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stevens.

Miss Dot Turner departed Wednesday for a visit in Wichita Falls. She will return Sunday.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pain, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unwell and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

Strand to Show
Starting Sunday

Lovely Marion Davies is back—this time in "Page Miss Glory"—and will be seen at Chillicothe's new theatre, the Strand, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, December 29-30-31.

Miss Davies is supported by three other stars, Pat O'Brien and Dick Powell. This picture is claimed to be her best in all her screen career.

The Strand offers a full week's program of better pictures, and one that will be a half-raiser is scheduled for a Saturday midnite show—Frankenstein back again to talk this time to his bride-to-be in "The Bride of Frankenstein." Spooky? most certainly, and the management cautions anyone with a weak heart to remain away. There will be no advance in prices.

AN UNEQUAL RECORD

TWO HUNDRED FORTY-SEVEN
GRADUATES ACCEPTED POSITIONS

At the beginning of 1935 Byrne College adopted the slogan "A position for every 1935 graduate." On December 20th, 247 positions had been filled and our employment register showed only two girls and two boys to be placed during the remaining ten days of the year. These four graduates should be placed and provided they do not take too much "time out" for Christmas and we hope they won't for if they are placed it will perhaps be the first time in the history of commercial schools that its entire list of graduates received diplomas and complying with the employment regulations of the placement department have all been placed by the time the year closed. We doubt seriously if any other commercial college in the Southwest has devoted time and money to this important end of their business* to have placed half this number of fine young men and women holding diplomas.

We are planning our 1936 employment work with a view of placing 400 graduates. We realize that 99 percent of the young men and women as well as those of middle age who attend Byrne College do so to increase their cash earnings and to do this they must have placement service. We also realize there is nothing that will do as much to increase our attendance and enable us to build a large and better college than to help our graduates secure good employment that they may make a success in life.

If you are ambitious and desire to be one of the 400 Byrne graduates to be holding a good office position before the close of 1936, fill in and mail for particulars.

Our congregation will join in the fifth Sunday evening service at the Baptist church.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH Ira L. Parrack, Pastor

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. Preaching by the pastor, 11 a. m.

Training service: 6:15 p. m. Community service: 7 p. m.

You will find a hearty welcome at these services.

At the community service Brother Phinps will preside and Brother Nichols will preach. It is a fitting thing that we meet together in these Fifth Sunday evening services and we hope to see a fine attendance at this last public service of the year.

On this last Sunday of 1935 may your hearts join with others in thanking the Lord for the blessings of the year gone and invoking His blessings on the year to come.

Miss Mary Catherine Barlow, student of North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, came in Sunday morning for a visit with her father, R. L. Barlow and family.

Miss Mary Anna McGee of Vernon is here this week working at the Northern Texas Utilities Company office as relief manager during the absence of Mrs. Faye Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Fomby left Monday afternoon to visit their children—and Bill—in Amarillo during the Christmas holidays.

WHAT FARM FOLKS ARE NOW DOING

Timely Tips on What Farm Folks are Doing in Texas

Eldorado: With the expenditure of $30.14 which she made thru the sale of pecans, pears and vegetables, Miss Pat Talbot, pantry demonstrator for the River-side home demonstration club in Schleicher county, has remedied and filled a pantry with 1,372 containers of canned foods of 92 varieties, according to Miss Lora Farnsworth, home demonstration agent. In addition to the canned foods, Miss Talbot has provided 1181 pounds of cured products.

In order to secure a larger variety of products, she traded pears, pecans, and tomatoes for apricots, seafood, peanut butter, plums, figs, mulberry juice, red-jaw jelly and simentones.

To enlarge the original pantry, 20 feet of shelving and four cupboard doors over the lower shelves were added. Also a low cupboard was built even with the window sill on which to keep the milk cooler.

Brownsville: The soft cotton thread with which sacks are sewed makes good turting yarn for candlewick spreads. Mrs. J. H. Owen of the Santa Rosa home demonstration club in Cameron county has found. She has recently completed a spread of unbleached sheeting using this thread at a cost of $1.25. A small all-over pattern was used. When the turting was completed the spread was washed, and when half dry it was rubbed on the right side with a stiff brush. It was then hung until quite dry and the turts were fluffy. It is used without ironing.

Bryan: "I have canned more than 1900 containers of food this year for my 4-H pantry," Mrs. G. C. Hempling of Brazos county reported to Mrs. Alma Metcalf, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Hempling was pantry demonstrator for her home demonstration club last year, at which time she built a canning room equipped with pressure cookers, stoves, tables, pots for searing meat, and storage in order to make her canning work as easy and as pleasant as possible.

Mrs. Hempling has standardized her tomato juice for sale.

Vernon: A marked increase in wheat yields due to summer following has been reported by M. B. Rhoads of Wilbarger county to R. E. L. Pattillo, former county agent. Thirty-two acres of land summer fallowed in 1934 produced 24 bushels per acre in comparison with 15 bushels per acre produced on 25 acres of land on which wheat followed cotton.

Emory: By preparing his soil early, planting pedigreed cotton seed, and clean cultivation, Grady Hunt, Rains county 4-H club boy, made 1240 pounds of seed cotton on an acre of land, according to W. T. Posey, county agent. He received five cents a pound in the seed. Grady paid the rent on the land and the use of the team and tools by working on his father's farm.

Tahoka: T. J. and Harry Poin-dexter, Lynn county 4-H club boys, have produced an average daily gain of 2.9 pounds per day in the last 43 day feeding period on two club calves they are feeding, according to V. F. Jones, county agent.

These calves have been on a feed of oats, milo, cotton seed meal, and have had access to Sudan pasture and a nurse cow. Seven calves are on food by 4-H ing to Mr. and Mrs. daughters visited re. Duke, Okla., Christmas day.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By Minnie Flaher Cunningham
Extension Service Editor

J. M. Sandusky of Floyd county harvested 900 bundles of red top sorghum per acre from land that was tilled last winter. Sandusky states that there is no other field of red top sorghum in his community which is making more than 500 bundles per acre.

Billie Dotson, West Camp, Bailey county 4-H club boy, purchased a calf weighing 150 pounds on June 1. At the end of 90 days it weighed 450 pounds, a gain of 310 pounds in 90 days.

Charles Stoenken of Donahewen in Wilson county has carried on pasture improvement for 30 years. He used to mow weeds in his pasture; now sheep perform that service at a profit. He has two mosquito grass pastures. Last year he planted 19 acres of cultivated land to Dallas grass, Burr clover and yellow sweet clover. In spite of heavy frosts there is a perfect stand of Dallas grass about knee-high. Some clover is beginning to come up.

Two years ago Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Parker of Hardin county put out 530 feet of bush blackberry vines. This year they had plenty of berries while they were in season, canned 70 quarts and gave 15 gallons to friends and neighbors.

Joan's Unexpected Guest

Was Her Yuletide Love

NINA had gone with her Donald to Chicago. Vera to her Grandmother's home to meet her fiancé and Dora, she had gone up to Lowell for Bob's fraternity dance. Joan wondered if any girl had ever had such a lonely Christmas holiday in prospect.

"Gee, there's that little cripple boy down there in that rooming house on the corner that might help me out," she said. She went at him every morning for the last six weeks. I guess we know each other well enough and they do say his mother takes that early bus into town to scrub floors, every day in the week," she told herself as she was about to drop off to sleep, Christmas eve.

It was scarcely daylight when Joan had gone to the little corner rooming house slipped a little note of invitation under the door of the cripple boy's door, and was on her way to the store for a supply of everything that belongs in a traditional Christmas feast, plus a few gifts for the lad.

There was barely time to exchange her house dress for a street frock so she might run down to the corner to push the youngster's wheel chair to her house as she had promised. But at the very moment she stepped forth into the hall, she met not only her guest-to-be but a splendid, handsome young man.

"You see, miss, I got the invitation—the note was tucked under my door, but I gathered at once who you meant it for so I delivered it to Jimmy and made friends with him—we've been together the past two hours, taking a short ride and now I'm turning him over to you, Miss—Miss—"

"Joan Burke, and you are—?"

"Larry King, Miss Burke, and this is Jimmy Jordan. With your permission, then, I'll return for my charge later in the day. What hour do you say follow?"

Joan interrupted, "If I may be so bold as to ask—running along to where?"

"To the lunch wagon, if you must know," Larry acknowledged.

"You are not, if you don't stay to have Christmas dinner with us. I'm going right out into the street and hail the first stranger I see. You see I don't want any turkey left over for turkey hash, tomorrow."

Three part-acts of Joan's royal feast but the fourth guest, though unseen, was present, too. Love was invited. But that fourth remained forever a day, upon invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Larry King who never forgot to include little Jimmy Jordan at their special occasion celebrations the year around.—Loretta R. Lyons.

Why Christmas Day Comes on the 25th of December

CHRISTMAS, which seems to have been first officially instituted as a church feast day by a decree of Pope Telesphorus, between 142 A. D. and 154 A. D., was a movable feast. Indeed, it was the most movable of all the Christian festivals. It was usually celebrated by the eastern branches of the Christian church in April or May, while in the western part of Europe days in January or other months were observed as Christmas.

In A. D. 337 St. Cyril, bishop of Jerusalem, obtained from Pope Julius I authority to appoint a commission to determine, if possible, the precise day of Christ's nativity. From the chronological archives of the Roman emperors, establishing the times of occurrence of certain events of the same period of the Roman government of Palestine, the theologians of the eastern and western divisions of the Christian church agreed upon December 25 as the date of the birth of Jesus, and thereupon this became the officially decreed and generally accepted Christmas day.

CHRISTMAS SMOKES

Alice—They say a woman can't select Christmas cigars.

May—Nonsense. I have been smoking my husband and he says he likes light cigars. All you have to do is to match the shade.

Mistletoe, a Tree Parasite

Despite its title as a Christmas green, there is little worry about conserving the country's supply of mistletoe. For this attractive plant, with its shiny, dark leaves and waxy white berries, grows as a parasite high on the branches of trees and does considerable damage to its host tree. Science has revealed that the mistletoe seeds are carried from tree to tree by birds.

Tabby Brought Kittens Into Christmas Manger

THE celebration with the Christmas tree that touched the ceiling and had a manger beneath it, was over, and a row of little stockings were hanging for Santa Claus. Mother had just tucked the happy children into bed and by the soft glow of the nursery Christmas tree was singing Christmas carols to them.

Father was about to turn off the lights below and lock the door for the evening when he heard a faint "mew" from the cold darkness without. Upon opening the door he saw a forlorn, bedraggled tabby cat almost frozen in the Christmas snow.

"Why, you poor creature," spoke father tenderly, "come in this very minute." For some moments father was busy making tabby comfortable. He found some milk which he warmed, and plenty of holiday food. He served kitty with generous portions of Christmas repast and then provided a soft bed in the corner, with a cushion from the own easy chair. Tabby showed her appreciation by purring and purring loudly after father had ever heard a cat purr before.

Satisfied and delighted with his Christmas guest, father retired, and went to bed. At the very next morning the happy family entered the living room—the children rushing ahead, bearing their bulging stockings and shouting with laughter.

"Oh, look at the manger!" cried mother with surprise.

"Merry Christmas!" related father, trying to keep from bursting out laughing.

Tabby had selected the soft straw of the manger as a fitting birth place for her litter of Christmas kittens—Alice B. Palmer.

Her Christmas Present Was a Lovely Daughter

MRS. BURKE wept a little as she trimmed the Christmas tree. "This will be the last time," she thought. "Next Christmas I'll be all alone in the world."

Her son whistled as he shaved. "Getting dolled up," his mother thought. "All for that girl?"

She had a bright, bold, and as though she must dash it to the floor, thought better of it, and hung it on the tree.

"Ready, mother? I'll drop you at church on the way over to Dorothy's."

"In a minute, son." Oh, my son, my son, why must you leave me? Your first Christmas seems only yesterday.

The beautiful old anthems filled the church. "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten son—" The text: "More blessed to give than to receive."

Sacrifice, I must give up my son. His happiness means more than mine.

They were waiting for her in front of the church, young and happy. "Say, mother, Dorothy—" "I couldn't have you spending Christmas alone, Mrs. Burke. We're all going out and celebrate. You see—my brother got married last summer, and I know just how we felt; that we were losing him, and so forth. But I really gained a dear sister, and so I want you to be just my other mother, and think of us both as your children."

Joy swept back into Mrs. Burke's heart.

"Such a wonderful Christmas present!" she cried. "A daughter!" —Helen Galsford.

TOYS CHILDREN LIKE

A COMPREHENSIVE survey leads to the conclusion that building blocks are the favorite toy for children up to the age of seven. Drawing and painting materials rank high. With little girls, dolls and housekeeping equipment are favorites. Sand and clay for modeling retain the interest of most children. Mechanical toys, on the other hand, are soon discarded. Adults usually enjoy the mechanical toys more than the children for whom they are purchased.

Carver's Language

Few people are aware that such a pleasant Yuletide task as carving has a language of its own, which has nothing to do with exasperation. Forgetting for a moment the ubiquitous turkey, which apparently is only "carved" as an expert cites the following terms as appropriate to the occasion: Allay a pheasant, China a salmon, Mince a plover, Barb a lobster, Lift a swan, Split a hen, Embrace a duck, Disfigure a peacock, Dismember a heron, Thigh a woodcock, and Tame a crab. In the Middle Ages, when most of these picturesque terms were evolved, carving was as easy as man as starting today, were a favorite Christmas dish amongst the poor; while the rich granted the peacock the place of honor at their banquets.—London Tit-Bits Magazine.

JUST THINGS GOSSIPY

'Tis the night after Christmas, all things were quite around, until up bobbed the boss wanting to know what's it all about. So I says to him, in a most pleading way, "Just remember this, old dear, my headache is still bearing down; my head is splitting, my stomach is turned out, it's tough on a feller, who is not quite out." He raves and he raves this boss of the tribe, and declares he will fire me or else he is a liar. "I'm sorry, so sorry, but you'll have to go ahead, I couldn't work now if I was paid all in lead, cause you'll have to remember, as in days of yore, that Christmas is for celebratin' and not for getting sore."

The Intertype operator on this newspaper, I have found, is hitting the wrong keys today. He looks as though he "went just a little tetchy in the head."

I shared this one from Bill Shipp's barber shop:

Doctor: "Has the patient in your room made any progress?" Nurse: "None of your business."

I am concerned considerably over the future of the Crowell Wildcats football team. The main factor is leaving Crowell. You, sir, going to leave and hibernating in Vernon where he will be just as strong a booster for the Vernon Lions. Mack Boswell is the young man I have in mind. Mack sure loved his case and would die on a bloody battlefield for 'em. Now Mack will work on the Vernon Record.

An Eastern girl went to clerk in a general store in the middle west. A farmer came in and said: "I want some shorts for my hogs."

City girl: "Oh, yeah! You're one of those smart guys—next you'll be wanting brassiers for your cows."

"Stunny about some of these store clerks—the women—always popping up with the question when you are wanting to buy something suitable as a gift for your cows."

All these young ladies home from college are certainly a credit to the weaker sex. "Who is it for—your wife? Well, I at least told her it was for the wife."

TO TRADE: A cow that is about to stop producing the wherewith for coffee, for one that is: don't want a kicking heifer like the one Charley Rutledge had, else will have to trade her to Bill Emerson and give boot. The one you have to swap need not be too old, either or I will have to sell her to Charley Emerson. If she will give three or four gallons of milk per day that will be all right.

See an automobile driver outside running his car backwards—and since this is written a day before Christmas, I am wondering if most everyone will be doing that.

Montague's will be the vogue for leap year as a means of combatting the beautiful young things from making advances toward matrimony. Red Davis, Pat Davis, and some of these young fellows have been trying to grow a moustache for a long spell, but with little success.

Mother: "John, why do you call the little girl posterity?" John: "Cause her name is Adeline Moore."

Joe Magee of Quannah was in town Monday. You remember him as the always smiling Irish county judge. He is no different today—still carries that broad grin, looks as healthy as ever, and just as good about as ever. Joe likes to make everybody happy, tells 'em a joke now and then, and they're usually funny.

Was his face red? Two pretty young ladies called on our Intertype operator—pardon us, please, Missus—and brought forth all their persuasive powers to have him perform before a goodly size audience as old St. Nicholas. However, his excuse for not serving was blamed upon all of things—a callous on his foot, claiming it caused him to limp.

Dewey Marsh was all smiles Monday morning, accommodating, and just as nice as you please. I certainly wish this Christmas spirit would pervade indefinitely.

All these young ladies home from college are certainly a credit to the weaker sex.

it to their home town. Just about as pretty a bunch of girls as can be found anywhere. As for the boys back from college they are the same good old boys, learned a whole lot about football, basketball, and what not, that is some of 'em.

Now I wonder why a certain young lady addressed me as 'Jack' last Sunday evening in the post-office? And, moreover, John P. Heilbecker is still trying to figure out what a young lady meant the other day when answering to a compliment he had just passed.

Or, am I suppose to tell you, Mr. Heilbecker?

Oh, well, maybe she won't get hold of the paper and read this!

I was accused the other day of seeing all, knowing all. I deny the charge. Only things I can print are the things I see; so, go ahead and do your best.

It was a jolly old Christmas, though.

Lee Simon, the negro shine boy, went before Judge Stokes at Quannah the other day and was granted the privilege of being a free man.
