TULSA TO BE PROBED

Other Counties May Feel Walton's Iron Rule Next

By The Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 13.—Governor J. C. Walton late today issued a proclamation placing the city of Tulsa under martial law.

The city goes under the rule of the military at 6 a. m. tomorrow morning. Guard units from Oklahoma City and Okmulgee were immediately ordered to proceed to Tulsa.

Civilians Off Streets.

Hantman called at the governor's office today and was in conference with Aldrich Blake, executive counsellor. The martial law order was promulgated immediately after Hantman told his story.

All civilians must be off the streets by 11 o'clock at night and may not appear again until six a. m., without special permit from the military authorities, it was announced.

The order will not affect the courts or other departments of the civil government with the exception of the police and the sheriff's office, Counselor Blake said.

War in Europe Predicts Smoot After Long Tour

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Germany is on the brink of a revolution, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah declared today on his return from a tour of Europe, on the Leviathan. Everywhere in Germany, he added he had heard sinister rumblings.

"Unless there is an economic readjustment there will be another war," he said. "Conditions cannot exist much longer as they are. The hatred between France and Germany is intense. I think it best for the countries of Europe to get around a table and settle their affairs without American participation."

Conditions in Europe, Senator Smoot said, were worse than he had ever dreamed.

BRAKEMAN MISTAKEN FOR HOBO KILLED

By The Associated Press.

PURCELL, Okla., Aug. 13.—Mistaken for a hobo, J. D. Dixson of Cleburne, Texas, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad brakeman, was shot and killed here late last night by Harvey Hayes, special officer of the road.

The officer, police said, came upon Dixson and a fellow brakeman sitting in the darkness along the right of way near the Saanta Fe station. Thinking they were men who had failed to catch a freight train which had just pulled out, he addressed a joking remark to them whereupon Dixson was said to have drawn a revolver. Hayes fired, killing him instantly. No charges have been filed against the officer.

Lake Kemp Now One Tenth Filled

Wichita Falls is assured an ample water supply for three years for Lake Kemp is one-tenth filled. Late Tuesday afternoon a depth a little over 38 feet was registered at the dam. According to latest figures of chief engineer, R. A. Thompson, 40,000,000 acre feet are under water. This amounts to approximately 13,000,000,000 gallons. The capacity of Lake Wichita is estimated at 4,000,000,000 gallons, from which the city is now drawing its water.

Tottering Nation To Pay Later; France Not Likely to Accept British Proposal.

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Germany formally notified the reparation commission in a letter dated last Saturday and just published today, that all reparation deliveries in kind would cease after that date because of the great expense involved which it was believed might jeopardize the pending German gold loan and tax reforms.

Must Lighten Burden.

Germany announced she had no intention of permanently discontinuing these deliveries, but said her burden must be lightened to avoid a complete breakdown of the German economic and financial systems. The cessation affects principally those countries that did not participate in the occupation of the Ruhr as such deliveries to France and Belgium ceased soon after the troops entered Essen.

The letter says that the financing of these deliveries is largely responsible for the budget deficit and inflation, adding: "Deliveries undertaken up to the present and not yet paid for alone necessitate, at the present and not yet paid for alone necessitates at the present rate of the marks an expenditure at 300,000,000,000 marks."

FRANCE NOT LIKELY TO ACCEPT BRITISH PLAN

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—In spite of the extreme reserve in official circles as to the possible consequences of the British note, conversations with Premier Poincare and his collaborators at the Quai d' Orsay today made it quite clear that little hope is entertained of saving the entente.

All idea of coming to an agreement with London on the essential features of the reparations problem was long ago abandoned, but it was still thought until the receipt of the last note, that the British government would give French further opportunity to see what could be done toward forcing Germany to pay. Now, however, it appears to French officials concerned with the reparations question that Great Britain stakes the life of the entente upon condition intolerable for France.

Great Britain's activities in the reparations discussions, said a high official today, have all been in the nature of proposals for sacrifices on the part of France. There is only one more sacrifice, he said, that France is willing to make—she will abandon all claims to reparations payments on account of pensions if Great Britain will do the same. But the British cabinet, he added, has shown little disposition to take even that small part in concessions to ease the burden on Germany.

AMERICAN REACTION AWAITED BY BRITISH

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Great Britain, having drawn aside the heavy curtain of diplomatic secrecy that has shrouded the allied negotiations regarding the Ruhr and reparations question in recent months is expectantly awaiting the effect upon the world.

It is stated that mobilization of world opinion upon the European issues involved in these questions was one of the chief purposes behind the publication last night of the British Blue Book.

Downing street was obliged to endure but scant suspense in awaiting the reaction to the British note in France, for it came through press channels quickly in the form of no uncertain expressions of anger and disappointment.

However, it is the American reaction that is awaited with particular interest here. The present trend of official opinion seems to favor an independent move by the British if, after several weeks, a satisfactory reply has not been received from France.

By The Associated Press.

PUEBLO, Colo., Aug. 13.—Five men were killed and 16 injured when Colorado and Southern passenger train No. 600 and Santa Fe passenger train No. 6 collided head-on at the western outskirts of Fowler, 35 miles east of here, at 4:30 o'clock this morning. Four of the dead were killed outright. King, the baggageman, died while being rushed to the hospital at La Junta.

Owing to a washout on the Colorado and Southern tracks between Pueblo and Trinidad, the Colorado and Southern train was being detoured over Santa Fe tracks from Pueblo.

Coaches Stay On Track.

It is said that the trains were given orders to pass at Hamlet, a small place four miles west of Fowler, and that Engineer Schmanke on the Colorado and Southern train went past the meeting place. Schmanke is a Santa engineer and has been placed in charge of the Colorado and Southern train because its engineer was not familiar with the road.

Most of the seriously injured were taken to the Santa Fe hospital at La Junta, but it was reported tonight that there were only two cases that might be termed hospital cases. They are A. J. Glady and G. L. Chewning, both of Denver.

None of the steel passenger coaches left the tracks, although two baggage cars on the Santa Fe and one on the Colorado and Southern train were wrecked or overturned. Both trains were long, the Santa Fe having 11 coaches.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Standard Oil company of Indiana announced tonight that it will reduce the price of gasoline six and six-tenths cents a gallon throughout its entire territory effective tomorrow morning. Sale Below Cost Claimed

"I notified independents to reduce the price five cents," Mr. Nicholas said. "A cut of more than five cents is unfair and ruinous. A cut of 6.6 cents is as much out of line one way as the present is the other."

The new prices were characterized by the Standard Oil company of Indiana in its announcement as "far below the cost of production and distribution." The Standard said in its statement that it had no wish to injure competitors but was inspired in making the reduction to meet the competition started by Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota and now extending to other state executives.

OH, YES, BOBBED HAIR'S NOW HERE, MY DEAR!

"Don't I Look Horrible?" and "She Looks So Sweet!"

"When Grown Up Women Act Like Babies" as a song is not as popular as it was a few years ago but as fact it is still undisputed, as evidenced by the bobbed hair craze that has again hit Wichita Falls of late.

A relapse or a reaction is said to always be worse than the original malady. Hence Wichita is in the grip of a bobbed hair epidemic which is evidently contagious and is spreading like wilfire, according to barbers, husbands, jellybeans and other authorities.

At the city hall Monday three of the beautiful female attaches who have as a daily environment the mayor, chief of police and his legions of detectives and policemen, came to work with their trellises abbreviated.

At the barber shop alongside baldheaded men and others with faces beneath stubble accumulated in 36 hours absence from the razors, were found numbers of women. These after debating with themselves, their husbands, their fiances et al, for weeks and months decided Sunday to take a chance and Monday found them at the tonsorial parlors.

"Oh, I am afraid to go home looking like this. Honest, dear, don't I just look horrible," one of the brunettes who had curtailed her curls was heard to say emerging from a barber shop.

"Marjorie had hers bobbed yesterday and she looks so sweet. I just don't know whether to have mine bobbed or not but I guess I will for I'll never be satisfied until I do," said a steno whose crowning glory was soon to be a victim of woman's curosity.

Going to "Very Bottom."

Troops ordered to Tulsa by Adjutant General B. H. Markham, were companies A and D, 119th infantry, Oklahoma City and company E of Okmulgee. The Oklahoma City units are commanded by Captains C. O. Lee and E. W. Ferls. Captain Jim Sweeney will command the Okmulgee company.

"The units I am sending to Tulsa are some of the best equipped in the state. They will be armed with automatic rifles in addition to full infantry equipment," adjutant General Markham said.

The adjutant general will not go to Tulsa at once but will direct operations from his office here, it was understood.

"We intend to go to the very bottom of the Tulsa situation," Counselor Blake said following his telephone conversation with the governor. "It is clear that the law is not being enforced and even where a particular official attempts to enforce the law, obstacles are thrown in the way that absolutely prevent the maintenance of law and order.

Other Counties Threatened.

"The Hantman whipping is only one of a series that have been reported to the governor's office and Governor Walton intends to see that all citizens are given the full protection to which they are entitled under our state law and the constitution of the United States."

Other counties may be placed under martial law if reports of similar mob outrages continue to come in, it was stated. A recent whipping at Kingfisher is being rigidly investigated, it was said. It was stated, however, that there appeared to be no immediate necessity of sending troops there.

Once troops are in control at Tulsa a screening investigation will be made not only into the Hantman whipping but also into general conditions prevailing in the city, it was understood.

UNMASKED MEN GAVE TULSA MAN WHIPPING

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 13.—Governor Walton's declaration of martial law in the city of Tulsa follows the abduction and flogging of Nathan Hantman last Friday night by a party of unmasked men.

Hantman is said to be the husband of Mrs. Mabel West, proprietress of a Main street rooming house.

Direct charges were made to Governor Walton by Mrs. West that the local police took Hantman from her place to the police station for the purpose of turning him over to the mob. Hantman also charged the police with coming to his room, searching it, and then taking him to the station, where he was held. He alleged long enough to allow his abductors to identify him on the streets.

Seized Near Police Station.

Hantman was seized on the street within a block of the police station after his release, and thrown into a motor car. He cried out loudly for help after he had been placed in the car, and it circled the block coming again within half a block of the police station before it sped out of town. The police were not immediately attracted by the kidnapping. Hantman said his abductors questioned him about the sale of narcotics and whiskey and his relationship with Mrs. West, who, he said, he told them was his wife.

Then Hantman alleged he was stripped, his hands tied together over the limb of a tree and each member of the band took turn about flogging him with a blacksnake whip.

Since the flogging, Mayor Newglock and all other city officials have strenuously denied the police had any connection with the affair.

Kiwanians Hear Judge Scurry On Civil War Books

That the children of the South should be taught the true aspects of the civil war from an historical standpoint was the idea of Judge Edgar Scurry, chief speaker at the Kemp weekly Kiwanis luncheon Monday, who said this was what the members of the Sons and Daughters of the Confederacy were trying to achieve.

Judge Scurry said it was not the intention of the two organizations to further perpetuate an unfriendly feeling between the North and South but to bring about a better standings if possible.

Dr. J. H. Fletcher, in charge of the local national guard unit, explained the work that organization is trying to effect. John Kaufman, director of the community, asked the Kiwanians to sponsor the organization and the matter was referred to the board of directors.

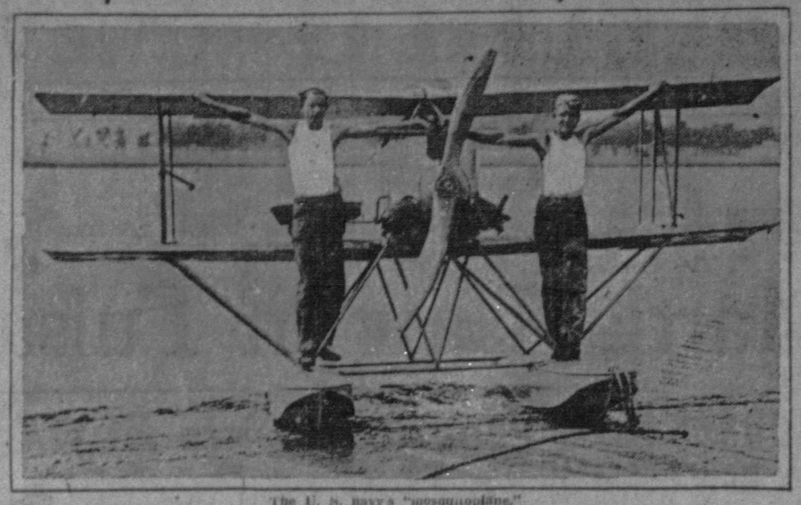

Entertainment features were popular vocal solos by Mrs. J. S. Pittman, accompanied by her husband selections by Frank S. Reid with the mandolin, and J. S. Pittman at the piano.

SPECIAL CELL FOR DELINQUENT GIRLS

A cell at the city hall police station was being equipped Monday by the Federated Missions clubs of the city and will be used to place delinquent juvenile girls in.

The need of a suitable cell for young girls held for investigation by the police has been felt for some time. The cell has linoleum on the floor, a bedstead and furnishings.

11 STATES

the entire territory in which it does business," the announcement said. "It asserts that the retail prices thus made are far below the cost of productions and distributions.

Other States Threatening.

"The governor of the state of South Dakota, buying gasoline below the cost of production, and charging against the state no adequate cost for distribution, is selling gasoline to the public in the state of South Dakota at 16 cents per gallon.

"The Standard Oil company of Indiana, operating on its established policy that the customers who purchase its goods should never be compelled to pay a higher price than that maintained and fixed by any competitor, quality and service being considered, has met this price.

"Other state executives and officers of municipalities are suggesting that the South Dakota price be made applicable in their states. Competitors in other states and communities over the territory, also buying gasoline below cost of production, have also cut the price hitherto established and maintained in substantial amounts.

Not Against Competitors.

"In establishing the above price, the Standard Oil company of Indiana is not endeavoring to injure any of its competitors in any way.

"It deprecates the stand taken by some of its competitors that the Standard Oil company of Indiana is endeavoring by reason of meeting these cuts in prices and these demands for lower prices, to put its competitors out of business.

"The Standard Oil company of Indiana does not wish to put any competitor out of business because it feels that competitors are necessary to the successful conduct of its business. It will welcome a change of attitude on the part of all parties concerned resulting in a reasonable price for gasoline which will enable not only it but all of its competitors to enjoy a reasonable profit."

ONE CENT CUT IN FIVE SOUTHERN STATES

By The Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 13.—A reduction of one cent a gallon in the retail price of gasoline in five states in the territory of the Standard Oil company of Kentucky, was announced here tonight by S. W. Koons, president of the company.

The reduction, effective Tuesday morning, will apply to Kentucky, Florida, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. The one cent cut brings the price at filling stations in Louisville to 22 cents a gallon.

BIG CUT OVER NEBRASKA

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 13.—A cut of 6 1-4 cents a gallon for gasoline will be announced for Omaha and through Nebraska tomorrow morning by gasoline dealers. This followed closely on the plan launched by N. B. Updike publisher of the Omaha Bee, for the sale of gasoline at reduced prices by the Automobile Trade association and the Omaha automobile club.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATING PRIC". CUTTING WAR

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13—The department of justice is investigating gasoline prices in various central and western states where a price "war" has developed.

The department's inquiry, it was learned today, was begun after 25 oil refineries in the midcontinent fields were alleged to have shut down for the month of August. The government, officials say, was seeking to determine whether there had been combination in restraint of trade in interstate commerce.

CITY OF OMAHA PLANS SELLING GASOLINE

By The Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 13.—City Commissioner John H. Hopkins announced here today the city of Omaha will be selling gasoline within a week, if the "gas" could be obtained by that time, and providing permission can be had from the city commission at its meeting tomorrow. He said he had already begun negotiations for equipments.

Another development in the oil "war" situation in Nebraska today was the filing in district court here of a petition by John C. Yeiser, in Omaha attorney, for an alternate writ of mandamus against the Standard Oil company of Nebraska in attempt to force the company to accept $1.12 for seven gallons of gasoline, or 16 cents a gallon "as often as required" or show cause why it does no do so.

Yieser alleges the company refused to sell him gasoline at this price at one of its filling stations and charges it has entered into unlawful combination with other Standard Oil companies in restraint of trade. The case was to be argued this afternoon.

WISCONSIN TO DETERMINE FAIR GASOLINE PRICE

By The Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 13—Machinery of the state of Wisconsin at the direction of Governor Blaine has been set in operation through the department of markets to determine and establish a fair and just price for gasoline in the state, Edward Norman, commissioner of markets, announced today.

The legislature of 1921 which passed the marketing law gave the department of markets power to determine the conditions of supply and demand of any article of commerce, whether agriculture or manufacture, and to investigate and determine whether its price is regulated by the law of supply and demand or the result of unfair practice and methods of trade.

22 CENTS IN PITTSBURG

By The Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—The Atlantic Refining company today announced a cut of one cent a gallon on motor gas and the 64-68 grade, making the retail price of the first 22 cents and the second 25 cents. Prices to dealers were three cents under these quotations.

APPEAL TO DAUGHERTY

By The Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 13. — Governor Charles W. Bryan today actively took part in the "gasoline war" started recently by Governor McMaster of South Dakota. The Nebraska executive after wiring the Standard Oil company of Indiana and other oil companies, demanding that prices for gasoline at retail filling stations be cut, and receiving no reply, then sent a message to United States Attorney General Daugherty asking federal prosecution of the oil companies, it being the governor's opinion, he said, that the oil companies are violating the anti-trust law.

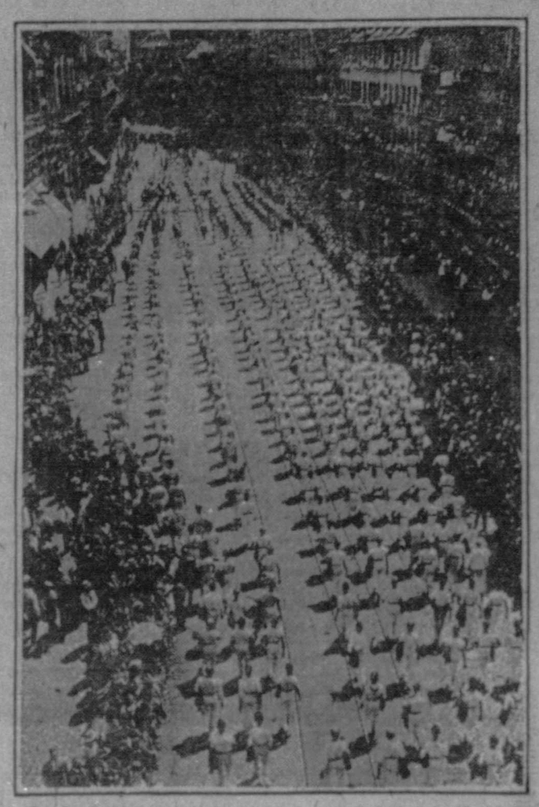

MINNESOTA ENTERS "WAR"

By The Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 13.—Minnesota will enter the gasoline "war" started by Governor McMaster of South Dakota by immediately starting an investigation into the cost of gasoline production, Governor J. A. O. Preus announced here today.

The governor declared that the investigation would be made by the state department of agriculture to the end that consumers of Minnesota may obtain gasoline at prices at least equal to those prevailing in South Dakota.

Two hundred and fifty thousand gymnasts forgot the stringency in the money market temporarily while they held their annual festival of German gymnastic clubs. WICHITA COP FINDS LOTS OF KICK

This has a kick in it.

A mule pulling a watermelon wagon across the river bridge about 9 o'clock Monday night decided to kick with both feet just as Motorcycle Officer Griffin was passing trying to catch a car without lights.

The impact from the mule's rear hoofs precipitated the officer and his machine into the bannisters of the bridge, which kept both from going into the river. Griffin exhibited a badly bruised arm and a motorcycle badly dented when he finally returned to the police station.

Here And There In The World Of Daily Interest To Women

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a boy in my "teens and have been going with a girl two years my senior. Once when I took her to a dance another girl told me she was crazy about me and that she carried on indecently with other boys. The girl who told me this has been a friend of my family and has always been truthful. I don't know much about this other girl and so have a reason to believe my friend. This other girl speaks to me, but I don't encourage it.

Don't you think the girl I have loved is innocent and the other guilty?

PUZZLED CHAP.

Your friend certainly knows how to be "catty" and to mind other people's business. Even if she told the truth I most decidedly question her wisdom in carrying tales, and am inclined to be prejudiced against her. Judge for yourself the character of the girl you have loved. If she has seemed sweet and good in her relationship to you, do not doubt her until you have better reason to do so.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am considered a very pretty girl by many people. I am 16 years old and am well liked by the girls, but it seems as if the boys do not care for me. Could you tell me why?

When I go out with a boy I am quite independent, for I will hardly let a boy touch me. I always try to be lady-like and polite to them, but it all seems in vain.

The rest of the girls are going to dances, and why am I not? Is it because I try to do what is right too much?

Mother gets very angry because I am not asked to places as my other friends are. I go around with girls one, two and three years my senior. Please tell me what I can do to make myself popular with boys? I am a very neat dresser, also.

DOWN-HEARTED.

We all have a fault of regarding ourselves with tender prejudice. Instead of looking for bad points, we admire our good ones and feel decidedly satisfied with ourselves. Since we all have faults, it would be quite an advantage to be able to see them ourselves.

As assets, you say you are good-looking and a very neat dresser. Are you intelligent? Have you a loving heart? Probably you can truthfully answer "yes" to both of these questions, and yet you are not popular.

Sometimes girls are loved because they are good and sweet. Other times they are not so good and yet they are just as deeply loved. There is a magnetism which attracts men and it is neither possessed by the good nor the bad of the earth.

It is a fine thing to be independent, but do not be so much so that you are cold and unsympathetic and at times rude. A loving heart, and a desire to shield others from hurts are qualities which are invaluable in making friends.

My advice is to forget yourself for a while and make a study of other people. Try to understand and sympathize with the people you meet. I do not mean that you should sympathize audibly, but when you get the other person's point of view you will be more attractive to that person. It is not hopeless because you are not popular. There are very few girls who can claim popularity, and yet most girls are deeply loved by some one sooner or later.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 18 years old, and I am going with a man 28 years of age. My parents do not object to my going with him, but his parents think I am too young. What would you advise me to do? I love him dearly.

FLAPPER.

The man is old enough to make his choice of a girl without assistance from his parents. Never mention their distaste for on and continue to go with him as if it did not exist.

LONGING

Clare Dillon Holt

O! ask all else but that I stay
Apart from you.
My longing soul is crushed today
In pain for you.

Hear me, dear heart, the mountain air
Is part of you.
It whispers soft in the sunshine rare
The warmth of you.

As dawn comes up, the morning mist
Wafts dreams of you.
And the morning dew has coral-kissed
My love for you.

I try to smile but my soul today
In tears for you
Like gentle rain is misting away
To envelop you.

All day I dream and the setting sun
Brings hope of you,
For rays of gold as day is done
Aureoles you.

The Other Side of the Street.

The little town has two blocks of shops, called stores. These summer afternoons the weltering sun blazes down those two blocks, and awnings and sprinkling cans are powerless. Shoppers desert, and the street is forlorn and torrid. For the last hour of a hot afternoon, business is dead. The town seems dead.

Commercial travelers coming in at 5:15 (on the 4:30) and rattling over the bricks to the little brick hotel, say to one another with that humor which is their force more than their grace: "Is it a town at all? Or is it an oven with nothing to bake?" No one knows.

On such an afternoon, a woman, brave enough to be there, entered the little "boot shop"—which until recently, has been the "shoe store." It looked modern and fit, and the young woman who came forward was also modern and fit, the daughter of the shop's proprietor.

"I want," said the patron," some dressing for gray kid shoes."

It was forthcoming, a gray dressing, at a moderate price, and it was acceptable. The woman congratulated herself on having found what she wanted—it was a boot shop and no longer a shoe store. But with her hand on the wrapping-paper, the daughter of the proprietor observed:

"Have you tried soap and water?"

The patron hadn't.

"You know," the young woman proceeded, "the best thing for gray shoes is soap and water. We always recommend that. Suppose you try that first. If you don't like it, this stuff is always here."

A boot shop. Perhaps it was even a "bootery." But it held to the old neighborly habits of a shoe store in a little town.

"Once before," says the woman to whom it happened, "I took my watch to the one jeweler in this town, and asked for some repairing. He looked the watch over, saw a name o its August New York maker and handed it back to me. 'I could fix it,' he said,' but you'd get better satisfaction if you sent it right back to those New York folks.' I protested that I'd gladly trust him with it, but he was firm. Then he had an after thought. 'Here,' said he, 'You don't want to take that home again. Let me do it up for you so's you can mail it while your down town.' He left the repair work he was doing, found a box packed in cotton and carefully wrapped and tied the watch to go back to 'those New York folks, who had sent it out.

"And," adds the woman, "an incident like that sends you out to the street with a warmth in you which has nothing to do with the blazing heat of late afternoon in a little town.

One of the best and truest books ever to come out of America is "Main Street," but, as William Allen White said, the street has two sides.

SARTIN BREAKS ROAD DEADLOCK

Precinct 1 Pays Most Of Money for Seymour Concrete Road

Although it was necessary for County Judge Sartin to break a deadlock between the county commissioners Monday when they had up the question of signing the agreement between Wichita county and the state for funds to the amount of $107,500 to match twice this amount of state and federal aid, the matater was setled and the 10 miles of concrete in Wichita county on the Seymour road assured.

Haynes and Knauth Oppose.

It was known early in the week there would probably be a fight made against the apropriation of county funds for the completion of the Seymour road project, which lies in precinct 1. When the matter came up for discussion an agreement was presented whereby Precinct 1 would pay $80,500 of the amount and three remaining precincts $9,000 each. Commissioner Haynes and Knauth voted against it. County Judge Sartin broke the tie by a vote favoring the measure and the agreement with the state was then signed by all.

County Engineer Isbell is already surveying the Seymour road district and work is to be started in a short time. The amount of county, state, and federal aid now assured totals $322,500 and the cost per mile is estimated at $32,242.98.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

On the death of her father, president of the Germantown State bank, South German town, Wis., Mrs. Emma Duerrwaechter was made president of the institution. She has been notary public for the bank ever since its organization in 1910, and had as she says, "been practically raised in the mercantile world." She is by no means lacking in the domestic virtues, however, and can plan her housework and prepare the meals as well as manage the bank.

Mrs. Emma Duerrwaechter

"Women are in business to stay," Mrs. Ruerrwaechter says. "And they usually give as great, if not greater satisfaction than men, especially in detail work. Women are making their way in the banking field with wonderful rapidity and they have proven themselves well fitted for the work. Wisconsin has a large number of women working in banks. There are over one hundred assistant cashiers, over thirty directors, several cashiers and vice presidents and two presidents.

"The turnover is less among women than men for the latter are forever seeking to improve their positions while women, if they find congenial work will stay until they marry. I believe fewer unhappy marriages will result from this condition as a woman does not feel the need of marrying for a home."

Odd Bits About Women

Mrs. Frank M. Jones active president of a large lumber company in Tacoma, Wash., has just passed her seventy-eighth birthday.

A failure on the stage, Miss Mary E. Jones of Norwich, Conn., is winning huge success in the cake baking business.

At the age of 53, Miss Marie Van Vorst, noted novelist, has just taken up an artistic career. She pursues her artistic studies during the daylight hours and dictates her novels to a stenographer at night.

Mrs. Sarah Turner of Washington, D. C., has taken up a very unusual occupation for women, that of practical locksmith. In a few years she has built up a successful business as a key maker and expert in locks.

SUGGESTIONS

The appropriateness of mint with roast lamb is so obvious to every one that we are apt to think of mint as not being suitable at any other time than when we dine upon that meat. Very often, of course, when you have the roast lamb you cannot get the mint, as not all grocers or vegetable dealers find it worth while to carry it on hand all the time. For this reason every housewife who can possibly do so should grow her own mint, and this she can do if she has only space a foot square that receives sunshine.

As a variation from the regular mint sauce, you might make mint jelly the next time you have roast lamb. To do this you will need a scant cup of mint leaves. Chop them fine. Soften a half package of gelatin in a half cup of cold water and add to a cup of granulated sugar that has been boiled with a cup of vinegar for five minutes; also add a shake of salt, and if you desire, a little green coloring matter, which can be bought at the grocer's and is perfectly harmless. However, the jelly tastes the same without it. Having added the chopped mint, let the mixture cool, stirring occasionally so that the mint does not settle. When it starts to set, turn into a fancy mold and set near the ice until it becomes firm. Turn out on a dish and garnish with small mint leaves.

A Handy Linen Chest—One of the problems arising from living in a small flat is where to keep company bedclothes. Cover a shirtwaist box with cretonne to match the hangings and in that keep sheets, pillowcases, blankets and towels.

WHEN TO WOO

"To wit, to woo!" Perhaps the wise old owl is giving three cheers for the man who has the wit, where to woo. For if the lover be a wise wooer he will carefully select the place where to woo his sweetheart.

You can't "pop the question," just when the notion strikes you. All lovers should remember this.

Many a suitor has been rejected by his lady love in a street car, when perhaps if he had waited and asked her to be his bride to the soft strains of a dreamy waltz she would have accepted him.

A "no" said in the moonlight to the music of a babling brook is not nearly so definite as the "no" said in a brilliant restaurant.

A man does not lose heart when he hears the voices of nature and a lady may be lulled into saying "yes" to his love making like a sleepy child who cannot resist the sandman-so-falling into his arms.

Never propose to a girl where fall-

How Do You Like Your Cakes—Hot or Cold?

When you walk into a restaurant and order a "stack" of wheat cakes, you mean "hot cakes," don't you?

If they come to you and are as clammy as a wet overshoe and about as tough, you feel you haven't got your money's worth. You have a perfect right to feel that way about it.

How about your newspaper? If you subscribe for a newspaper and find that it is a "pre-dated" newspaper—that is, that it is actually printed previous to the date it bears, haven't you very much the same feeling that you had about the cakes that disappointed you? Most newspaper readers have begun to figure the thing out for themselves. They know that Sunday papers which reach a point many miles from the place of publication, on the Thursday before the Sunday date they bear, that they are Sunday papers in name only and that the news in them is "stale." They know the same thing applies to week-day papers.

And as the reader thinks, so should the merchant in the newspaper's home town think, for if the folks in his trade territory don't like "pre-dated" newspapers, their advertising value is largely lost to him.

The growing popularity of THE RECORD NEWS is due in a large measure to the fact that it reaches every point in its territory the morning of the same day on which it is printed.

The value is to the reader and the merchants alike. If you want your news and advertising cakes HOT. THE RECORD NEWS gives that kind of service.

PAYING THE PRICE

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious draft evader, now in Germany, is heard from again. After a sensational series of escapades, which grew out of his evasion of the draft during the world war, Bergdoll shot one man to death and wounded another when men concealed in his apartment attempted to kidnap him.

Bergdoll, who was one of those in this country who passed as perfectly good Americans until the world war broke out and the government needed him, has thus far escaped this country's justice. But with all that, he is paying the price as a traitor to the country that should have been his.

Both this kidnapping attempt and one which occured previously, apparently had no connections with the operations of the United States government in attempting to bring him back to this country. They evidently were planned by persons who knew the value in putting Bergdoll where he could be reached by Uncle Sam. But that is neither here nor there.

The thing is that a man who bears the name of one of our presidents, has given up everything worth while, has become a man without a country; a fugitive from justice, merely because he was not willing to make a sacrifice for the nation in which his parents found the freedom they sought, and accumulated untold wealth. As a result he is an international outlaw, who can live only in Germany; a hunted animal, and now he has added murder to his notorious record.

Whether he is ever brought to justice here, he is paying the price that every traitor and coward must pay.

COTTON AND ITS FUTURE.

Just now the farmers of Texas are more interested in the price of cotton than they are in politics or politicians. There is a carry-over from the last world cotton crop of only 2,573,000 bales. This compares with a carry-over of 4,879,000 bales a year ago and 9,364,000 bales two years ago.

Should the world's consumption of American cotton be no larger than last season, or 12,681,000 bales, the carry over at the end of July next will be even smaller than it is today. Those who are in a position to know, say the American crop will not go beyond 11,500,000 bales this year and that the Texas crop will not go beyond 3,500,000 bales and may fall to 3,200,000 bales.

American and foreign millers are getting ready to advance the prices of cotton goods. Some say there will be an advance of 25 per cent. This shows that the world is facing a near famine of raw cotton and should there be any decided increase in consumption the coming year over last year, there will be mighty little cotton in evidence in the warehouses of the world or on the cotton farms in the month of July, 1924.

Cotton should sell for a good price this year, but why should the bulk of the selling be done between now and the 1st of December? Why should the growers of America hurl the fleecy staple upon the market? Why shouldn't they market sloyly which would be wisely? Business is business. A glutted market is a depressed market.

COOLIDGE SAYS NO COAL STRIKE.

President Coolidge says he will not permit a coal strike. The first question that occurs is. "How can he keep the miners from striking if they decide to do so?" Everyone knows the attitude of Coolidge in regard to strikes which involve the public. He holds, as he did in the strike of policemen in Boston, that the rights of the public are paramount to the interests of the two warring sides in the controversy.

One thing is certain. Strikes are expensive, both for capital and labor. No one ever made any money out of a strike, and money is the basis of most of them. A thing that can be settled by arbitration after the damage is done, could just as well be settled before hand. The getting together should be done in the beginning.

Perhaps Coolidge sees an opportunity to settle this possible strike before it becomes a reality. It is a matter of give and take. Let us hope the contending factions will get together and that the settlement will be satisfactory, first of all, to the American public, which believes in fair play to all concerned.

GASOLINE.

According to the bureau of mines, American refineries on July 1st, had on hand 60 days supply of gasoline at the June rate of consumption. Notwithstanding the existence of large stocks at this time, supplies are relatively only 22 per cent greater than on the same date in 1922 when the factor of greatly increased demand is considered. More than a million motor vihicles and tractors will be manufactured and placed on the market this year. The demand for gasoline is increasing all the time. With the demand growing there is little prospect of cheaper gasoline. The law of supply and demand always rules.

LLOYD GEORGE.

David Lloyd George is coming to America in October. He will visit Canada first and then tour the United States. His visit to Canada will be purely social as he is making no olitical campaign. David Lloyd George is one of the wonders of the world. Responsibility never weighs on him. Work never weakens him. Age does not lessen his ambition. He carried an empire through the greatest war of history. Now he is ready to carry the same empire through another war, should one be declared.

Our Gold Brick Twins

THE SOUL - SCAR

By HELEN DUFF

"That's not a matter I care to discuss. All I can say is that you mustn't let your curiosity get the better of you. Keep away from the top floor. Stay out of this!".

Hurt, bewildered, she gave her word.

"There's just a chance," Natalie said, "that Sammy put the earrings back under the rock. Let's go and look."

"Us?" Jones looked down at her, a whimsical sparkle in his gray eyes. "Did you hear the order? No one is to leave the house. I'll go alone."

"But—I can't tell you the spot. I'll have to show you. What difference would it make to those men? We won't be gone a minute?"

A sporting instinct of fair play was driving her on this expedition. Had any other human being's reputation been at stake, she would have done the same.

She was swept by a desire to feel the touch of his hand, the shelter of his arms. The conventions behind which her mind had always hedged itself were torn away and with them the last vestige of pretense.

Let others sit in the judgment! No matter what he had been, no matter what he had done, it could make no difference. She would not turn against him.

Dazed by the primitiveness of her emotions, the girl turned to the tall figure by her side, a dark blot against the dark sky. This monstrous crime could not be laid at his door! She could not doubt him again.

She stopped and indicated the cache where Sammy Todd had burrowed for his hidden treasure that afternoon, but the ruby earrings were not there.

"I'll go to his house," said Jones. "You turn back. Any moment they may miss you."

"Sammy won't give them to you. Besides"—she looked up at him wistfully—"I'm afraid to go back alone."

He made one of his abrupt, jerky movements and, turning, indicated that she was to follow him.

At the Todd house, Jones knocked. From within came a startled shifting of chairs, the low buzz of whispered conversation. At last the door opened grudgingly, and a woman, holding a lamp above her head, thrust her face into the opening—a face incredibly old and wrinkled. She drooled in a crecking, toothless whine:

"Who's there?" And, as the light fell on her visitors' faces, "What you want?"

"Sammy," Jones snapped.

"He ain't yere. He's gone a-huntin' woodchuck. He ain't yere." The swaying rhythm of the gnarled old body, the meaningless iteration, the little ratlike eyes were all weirdly reminiscent of the weak-witted Sammy.

Half way to the gate, Jones paused.

"Hark!"

The grating of a bolt hurriedly flung into place, the grinding of chains.

"That's to protect the boy. He was there. I saw him through the window."

CHAPTER XX—"THEY'RE KILLING HIM."

They turned back. Not until the bowling-alley was reached did Jones again speak.

"Almost moonup"—pointing to the silver haze over the tree-tops. "This jaunt has taken longer than I thought it would. I was a fool to let you risk—" He stopped. (The snapping of a twig, crackingly clear in the sharp night air. "Who's there?"

No answer.

The clerk, motioning Natalie back, leaped forward.

Natalie flattened herself against the trunk of a tree as a crouching form gathered itself together and plunged headlong, diving for the clerk's knees. Jones wavered. Together they crashed to the ground.

Natalie would no more have thought of running away than if the fight had been her own. Dropping on all fours, she felt about the roots of the tree until her hands touched a thick pine knot—a formidable weapon.

Those deep, sobbing breaths terrified her. If they would only shout, cry out, do anything to let off some of that bottled-up ferocity! She ran round and round them in narrowing circles, prodding first one and then the other with her stick. Jones was underneath, fighting desperately.

Fearing to strike the wrong one, she flung aside the pine knot and ran toward the inn. A hoarse bellow, the roar of a maddened animal, stayed her.

As she looked back, the struggling mass rose, top-heavy, swaying, one pair of legs, wide-spread, supporting the whole. For a moment the prowler struggled, like a giant sea-spider, then was catapulted through space to strike, head on, with a resounding crash.

Jones had come through!

And then some instinct, the animal sense that warns of danger, pulled her in the opposite direction, and she saw a third figure stealing from the barn. It was already half way across the open space.

Her cry and the bark of an automatic sounded as one. Jones swayed, pitched headlong. The automatic barked again: the figure wheeled and made for the woods.

The last of her courage was drained

She sank to the ground as an excited crowd surrounded her. The sounds of the battle had roused the inn.

"They're killing him! They're killing him!" she reiterated. "He's not armed." And then, because her wits had for the moment forsaken her, she could not tell them who "he" was.

It was Jones himself who settled their doubts. His shirt, half torn from his back, his chest scratched and bleeding, he walked uncertainly towards the group. There was a dazed expression on his face.

"Got away," he said jerkily.

"Who—where—what direction?"

Two policemen from Manchester jostled him like hounds posing a game-bag.

Jones pulled himself together.

"Only Sammy Todd. No use hunting. Moon's made him loco. We—" Of a sudden, he flung them to right and left. "Good God, the other one! I tell you there is something in the woods that can fight like hell!" Searching parties hunted in vain—no "wild man" such as, it was believed, attack Jones, could be found. And Jones refused to make any guess at explaining the pistol shots.

CHAPTER XXI—JONES ADMITS: "IT'S TRUE!"

An interval, half waking, half dozing—then voices, steps on the porch. A racket in the hall below. Going to the head of the stairs, Natalie leaned far over.

The searching party had returned. She saw Jones just beneath the hanging lamp, his face drawn, speaking to someone on the porch outside.

A moment later, the two policemen entered, dragging between them, a small, stocky man with a black mustache. It was the foreigner who had come to the One Pine Inn with the princess-woman.

She looked at her wrist watch. The search had taken all night. Judging by the white faces she looked down upon, there had been little sleep in the One Pine Inn that night for anyone.

And yet Aunt Merilda had not been roused!

It was high time now that someone did call her. There would be a row when she found all she had missed! With a determined hand, Natalie turned the knob and walked into the room.

In the soft gray light, the girl could see the chair with its neatly folded pile of clothes, the merino stockings, the bed with its——

She pulled back the curtains at the window. The bed was empty!

Miss Merilda had disappeared as completely as though she had been translated to another world.

"Oh!" she cried. My aunt! Has anyone seen her?"

But no one even heard her question. Every eye was fixed on a drama that was being enacted beneath the swinging lamp.

Lips set, fists clenched, the clerk of the One Pine Inn towered over the man with the black mustache—the prisoner whose capture was to have cleared up all this harrowing doubt and suspicion.

"You skunk!" The clerk's voice was low—vibrant.

The foreigner shrank back against the two officers.

Coroner Burby staggered on the scene.

"What's all this? What's all this?" And, catching sight of the prisoner: "Oh, so you've caught him, have you? Well, about time—killing women and throwing their bodies in dirty horse troughs!"

"No—no—no! A thousand times, no!" The Italian waved his hands in passionate expostulation. "When I leave this house last night, cara mia—she is alive and with him. He is the man! He say, if she leave with me, he keel——"

"You hear him, Jones?" The coroner's tone sharpened. "You realize what he is accusing you of? What have you got to say?"

Jones' lips drew back in that crooked, mirthless grin. "What can I say? It's true!"

CHAPTER XXVII—MISS MERILDA'S STORY.

When Miss Merilda was once more tucked into bed and Natallie rubbing cologne on her forehead while O'Meara concocted a mixture that required hot water, sliced lemon and half the contents of a pocket flask, the story of the night's imprisonment came out.

The elderly adventurer in her first visit to the unnumbered room had listened to an outburst of fear and rage. It was clear that Lucy Painter was consumed by hatred of the One Pine Inn and all its inmates.

"She told me," Miss Merilda continued, "that Jones, the Italian and the woman had a quarrel in the living room—a quarrel that grew so bitter it frightened her back to bed. After waiting a long time, she decided to listen some more, but the voices in the living room had ceased.

"The hall door was open. She was sure about that, because the wind banged it so constantly she decided to go all the way down and turn the key in the lock.

"Bill's unexpected appearance held her where she was. He waited to be sure no one was watching him and then went to the office. When he came out, he had something that looked like rugs over his arm.

"And that," concluded Miss Merilda, "was what put it into my head to go and question Bill."

"And what did Bill have to say for himself?" O'Meara refilled the empty glass.

Of course, the fish part of it is just a foolish flash of a thought which gave promise of a paragraph, but some folks are unreasonable enough to do that very sort of thing.

One Mother Says:

My four-year-old boy was confined to the house with a bad case of mumps. He wanted so much to play outdoors with his friends, so I helped him amuse himself by putting a big sponge and some clean pebbles in a pretty blue bowl, half-filled with water. I provided him with some flax seeds, and an assortment of leaves and grasses brought in fresh from outdoors. He spent many afternoons planting seeds and making things grow in his own garden just as he wished it.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE

LEO

The Moon in Virgo, ruled by Mercury, governs the digestive organs. The best part of today is in the early morning, too early to be of any real good. After which bad aspects appear, bringing about anxiety and mis judgment. Love can never thrive on a day like this; therefore don't be surprised or disappointed if the evening ends in turmoil.

A child born today will be original and versatile.

Yours is a nature rich in the finer human traits of character, if today is your birthday, and one that is not without its spark of genius. Although you may never set the world afire you might achieve some enviable distinction in any one of a number of ways, and no matter what your achievements, you will have such a host of friends that your life should be thoroughly joyous one, regardless of wealth and station.

You are generous and sympathetic, a "hail fellor well met" and a true friend. Again this is a trait you must make the most of for your powers of friendship are simple and direct, and you need the contract of many different personalities for your own development.

In disposition you are genial and entertaining, but at the same time haughty and independent if anyone attempts to patronize you. In fact you can be enraged by certain kind of slights which less sensitive people would scarcely notice.

You are affectionate and responsive in temperament, and you are just as strongly attracted to the opposite sex as they are to you. You have, however, nothing of the flirt in you, as you are too fond of the quiet comfort of home life. You are decidedly the matrimonial type and will always be contemplating it or actually in the throes.

Sunday is the most fortunate day of the week for you and if your marriage takes place on that day you will never know the woes and worries of some of your unfortunate sisters. The most important thing which you must guard against is your sensitiveness. This one weakness can make or mare your entire happiness.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE NIGHT BRINGS COUNSEL

Out in the west, where the mountains are,
And the bears are a savage lot,
It is joy to watch from a peak afar
For a chance for a deadly shot!
What a thrill there is in the long drawn wail
Of the wolves in the forest deep,
And in threading the turning, tangled trail
To the lair where the panther sleeps!

Then it's up and off to the open west,
With never a halt nor stay,
To meet the dawn on the mountain's crest
And follow the game all day.
To cook our meals by the firelight's glow
And on hemlock to rest our heads,
While the peaks that are clothed in eternal snow
Look down on our peaceful beds.

But out in the west there are bandits, too,
That lurk on the mountain's crown,
And sometimes the Indian tribes pursue
The hunter and shoot him down.
And supposing a bear, in the dead of night,
Should come with a stealthy trend
And hurriedly snatch a greedy bite
At the slumbering hunter's head?

Then it's ho! for home from the shadowed park
For it's supper time and it's getting dark,
And home, after all, is best.
And it's nice to lie in a snug warm room,
As soon as one's prayers are said;
There is nothing to fear from the deepest gloom
When he's tucked in his trundle bed!

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

Into What Sized Farms Should the Surplus Lands on the Irrigation Project be Divided?

APRICOT GROWING.

The commercial production of apricots is limited largely to the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast states.

The apricot is a fruit related closely to the peach and bloom even earlier in the spring. On account of its early blooming habits it is particularly subject to damage by spring frosts.

The apricot crop is mostly taken by the canneries and evaporators. Only a comparatively small part of the crop is put on the market in the form of fresh fruit.

In the year 1919, 37,143,824 pounds of dried apricots were exported from the United States to foreign countries. Only one other fruit exceeded apricots as an export fruit, 108,208,257 pounds of prunes were shipped in 1919.

Statistics do not show any commercial production of apricots in Wichita county or the state of Texas.

It would seem from the above that the production of apricots on a money basis would require the building of canneries and evaporators. There is but little chance of such plants being built for some time yet. Certainly not until it has been proven beyond question that this is a fruit country.

Therefore the growing of apricots should be deferred until other similar fruits, such as peaches have been tried out here.

Of course every farm orchard should contain a few trees, but from a commercial standpoint we cannot consider apricot growing as of sufficient importance to have any influence on the size of the economic irrigated farm unit here.

RUSSIA A REPUDIATOR

Finance Commissioner Krassin of Soviet Russia has reversed himself. He asserts that Russia's economic condition has improved so much that she no longer needs to purchase international recognition at a heavy price of reassuming the burden of the Czarist debt. Soviet Russia repudiated eight billion dollars that has been loaned to the Romanoff government by Great Britain and France in the long ago.

These vast sums were advanced from the pockets of Englishmen who had saved their earnings and had money to loan.

Soviet Russia is the boss repudiator of the civilized world. If all the other nations of Europe would repudiate their foreign loans then what would happen to the civilized world? Confidence would be destroyed, credit would disappear, chaos would rule supreme and the slogan would be, "every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost."

HOME OF THE FORD and LINCOLN AUTOMOBILES

The Langford Motor Supply company, authorized Ford dealer in this territory, holds an enviable place in the North Texas Automobile circles. It has earned that place.

W. S. Langford, owner and manager of the establishment, came to Wichita Falls in 1916 from Newberry, South Carolina. With his coming, he purchased the Ford agency, then known as The Motor Supply company, from J. R. McMullen. The business has grown and expanded until three of the town's principal corners are now occupied by this automobile concern. At Sixth street and Indiana avenue one corner is occupied by the Lincoln Automobile mechanical department. This building is a one-story brick and has dimensions of 100 feet by 150 feet. Across the street stands a two story brick, 100 by 150 feet which houses the Ford salesrooms, mechanical and parts department; the third corner is a tractor lot 150 by 150 feet where demonstration of Fordson tractors are given and sales made.

In 1917—the year following the purchase of the business by Mr. Langford, a branch was established at Burkburnett, known as the Caro Motor Co., and another at Electra, known as the Lina Motor Co., the name of his home state being divided in the naming of these new concerns. In May of this year, another branch was established at Iowa Park. Last year the three first sold 2,063 Ford cars.

In the beginning the contracts for shipment from the Ford factory called for 72 cars for the branches and 330 cars for the original concern located here. The contracts now call for the following: Iowa Park, 250 cars; Burkburnett, 720 cars; Electra, 720 cars, and Wichita Falls, 1,200.

The first six months of this year the Wichita Falls agency sold 1,060; Burkburnett, 334; Electra, 392 and Iowa Park, 48. This represented a volume of over one million dollars in business. Aside from what the business itself means to this community, Mr. Langford also takes a prominent place as an employer of men, one hundred and twenty-eight being employed by the parent house and its branches. Fifty-five of these are employed in Mr. Langford's plant in Wichita Falls.

While the automobile industry is of first importance in Mr. Langford's affairs, he is known as an oil operator, being the owner of several hundred barrels of production. He is a nephew of P. P. Langford, of the City National Bank.

Ripper Wheeler Wins Seventeenth Victory of Season With Ease; Al Simmons Presents Spudders With Several Scores; Denver Grigsby Puts On Celebration.

By BILLIE SMITH

It's a grand and glorious feeling says Buddy Tanner as he sent his seventeenth four base blow of the season over the left field wall at Spudder park yesterday, helping the Spudders to romp on the Gassers by the huge score of 12 to 5. This series marks the last appearance of the Gassers in Wichita Falls this season.

Buddy Tanner and Rip Wheeler were the two gents responsible for the Spudder victory and the Gasser defeat. Buddy supplied the offensive punch with his big stick, while Wheeler on the defensive side had little trouble holding the Gassers in check.

Scrap Iron Bud Good

Old Scrap Iron Archibald Bud went to the bat five times, secured a homer, a double, two singles and a walk. But Scrap Iron not only handled a mean swat stick. He made his sensational stops and throws.

Floyd Wheeler, the Ripper from Tennessee chalked up his seventeenth win for the season against the Gassers. George didn't pitch such a great game, but why work so hard in this kind of weather says the Ripper. At that Rip struckout four Gasser batsmen and did not walk any.

Ira Thomas went scouting for much-needed baseball talent, so sent his club to Wichita Falls in charge of Bobby Stow, the veteran shortstop. Evidently "Sheik Al" Simmons had an idea he could let up with his boss away.

"Sheik Al" made three glaring errors that figured in scoring runs on each occasion. Another time Simmons muffed a fly ball but saved his fielding average by forcing a runner at second. By so doing a runner on third was allowed to score.

Outfielder Eichrodt also let a ball get through his legs in center field which allowed a runner to score.

Denver Grigsby put on a celebration, using a big stick to have all the fun. Denver went to the bat five times and cracked three singles and scored three runs.

Young "Slim" Harris, who once had a brother to star in the Texas league and is now trying to help Connie Mack to keep out of the cellar was Bobby Stow's choice to win yesterday's game from the Spudders.

Harris Wise at That.

Brownwood Slim probably had an idea that his mates didn't intend to help him, so didn't put as much on the ball as he could have. Whatever his thoughts were in regard to this, one thing is sure, and that is he had a heluva time keeping the ball away from the Spudders' bats.

Salm's crew of bat slingers jumped on Harris in the opening stanza for four runs and five hits. However, the Spuds were aided on errors by Simmons and Eichrodt. They added one more in the second, and with Tanner's home run in the fourth Harris was derricked in favor of one Slim Brewer.

Brewer ushered himself into the battle in the fourth and pitched a nice article of baseball for the remainder of the game, regardless of the fact that he allowed three additional scores to be chalked up. Brewer was also the victim of errors by Simmons.

The Gassers also started off as though they didn't have much respect for Rip Wheeler's curves and fast balls. They touched the Ripper for four hits and a pair of runs in the first inning, while in the second they added another.

Gassers Started It.

Wight started the Gassers toward their first run with a pop fly which Berger misjudged, the blow going for a hit. Riley, Simmons and Shirling followed in succession with singles, scoring two runs. Bobby Stow soothed Wheeler's feelings by hitting into a double play, which was started by Buddy Tanner. Only fast work by Tanner and Barrett could have perfected the double killing.

The Spudders came back in their half of the round with a deadly determination. Grigsby opened up with a clean single to center. Bescher rolled out to second, advancing Grigsby to the middle cushion. Tanner singled to right. Simmons let the ball go through his legs, allowing Grigsby to score and Tanner to reach second. Cotter singled to center, scoring Tanner. Eichrodt let the ball get away from him and Cotter pulled up at third. Cotter scored on Weiss' double to centre.

Eichrodt opened the second with a clean single to left. After Burns had been retired Harris doubled down the third base line, scoring Eichrodt. Bescher loafed after the ball, as had he fielded it rapidly Eichrodt could have been held at third.

In the Spudders' half of the second inning, Bescher doubled to left. Coombs ran for Bescher. Tanner singled to left, but Simmons botted the ball, allowing Coombs to score, and Tanner to go to second.

"Bubber" Can Hit.

With Cotter's walk Harris was jerked and Brewer sent in. Brewer held the Spudders easily till the sixth inning. Grigsby singled and Coombs sent a pop foul to Burns. Tanner and Cotter walked. Weiss forced Cotter at second, Tanner scoring. On a double steal Weiss stole second and Tanner home.

Shreveport put over their final markers in the seventh. Eichrodt doubled out and went to third on Brewer's infield out. Skinner scored Eichrodt with a single. He advanced a peg on Barrett's error of Wight's grounder and scored on Riley's single.

The last local scores came in the eighth. With two out Tanner doubled against the center field fence. A lucky rebound into Eichrodt's hands was all that kept Tanner from getting another base. Cotter walked and Weiss singled to left. Simmons muffed the ball long enough to allow Tanner to score and Weiss to go to second.

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLY SMITH.

Spudders and Gassers again today. This series will be the last one between the Gassers and Spudders this season, marking the Gassers' last appearance here.

* * *

Ira Thomas suddenly realized that his ball club needed replenishing so he starts out to see if he can't find a ball player or too to help out. He also hopes to unearth a star for either himself or Connie Mack. Took him a long time to decide that he needed more strength.

* * *

Thomas sent his ball club to Wichita Falls in charge of his veteran infielder Bobby Stow. From the way the Gassers moved around yesterday one wouldn't know whether they ever had a manager or not.

* * *

On the Gassers previous trip to Spudderville Al Simmons the "Shiek of Shreveport" put himself in the lime light by making nine putouts in one game. Yesterday he couldn't catch 'em for missing 'em. He made three errors which figured in the scoring and dropped another fly ball, and was only saved by forcing a runner at second. At that he allowed a runner to score.

* * *

This guy who Pantherville scribes style "Big Boy" had better start making four base blows at the rate of one per day or Buddy Tanner will grab the honor that has usually gone to the Panther star.

* * *

Kraft may beat out Tanner in home runs for the season, but when it comes to real value Tanner has it all over the Panther player. Tanner has a better batting average than Kraft, and on top of that he plays a much better fielding game than does his home run rival.

* * *

This fellow Shirling who the Gassers have playing outfiled has all the appearances of a ball player. He didn't do anything yesterday that fans would censor him for and so far he has maintained a respectable batting average. Shirling is a product of Alabama Polytech. He was a noted football star during his four years in college and was a nominee for an All-Southern berth. He was a halfback, playing under the famous Southern mentor Mike Donohue. Moon Ducote a former Mobile player was also a product of Auburn or Alabama Polytech.

* * *

Besides getting four hits in four official times at bat Buddy Tanner put himself into the limelight yesterday by pulling off two sensational plays. He went over to second base to take in Burn's slow roller in the fourth inning, and in the fifth he came in at full speed to scoop Stow's roller with one hand threw him out at first.

* * *

Rip Wheeler registered his seventeenth victory of the season yesterday, which puts him up next to the leaders in the matter of wins and losses.

* * *

Scrappy Moore, who is out of the line-up with a sprained back took it on himself to entertain the kiddies in the left field bleachers yesterday. For a while the Gassers' comedian had the youngsters in an uproar. Scrappy can earn his bread as an entertainer on the coaching lines.

* * *

George Steuland was seen in civilian clothes in a box seat at the game yesterday. Just how long George intends to be with us is not known, but he will probably depart when Pitcher Kunz makes his appearance.

SPORTS through Edgren's EYES

By Robert Edgren

Jimmy De Forest, veteran trainer of heavyweights says Luis Firpo has a chance to win the world's title from Jack Dempsey next month. De Forest, however, is inclined to use a telescope to see the South American's chances of victory.

"You can't ignore Firpo's size," argues Jimmy. "He'll be about 30 pounds heavier than Jack. Despite his great bulk Firpo isn't slow. We all know his tremendous hitting power. If Firpo ever connects on the button with his right swing Jack will feel the jar all the way to his heels.

The South American's chances to win will depend on getting over that right hand early in the bout."

Lots of white paper is being consumed these days telling how Firpo is showing marked ring form. De Forest doubts that the South American will ever know much more about the science of boxing than he now shows. De Forest rather figures Firpo is too set in his ways to change much and that no matter how much is taught him he will quickly drop into the swinging style he knows best during the excitement of a big bout.

Firpo's troubles assimilating and using boxing instruction recalls to me the predicament of a Yale crew a few years ago.

To bolster the slipping rowing prestige the New Haven authorities appointed a new coach almost every season. Each coach naturally had his own system. Finally a famous English coach was specially imported to pull the bulldog from his slump.

The newcomer had a veteran squad to work with. The oarsmen already had been drilled by two other mentors.

There was keen interest just how the blue eight would perform with its new English-taught stroke in the important race with Harvard on the Thames river.

In company with Coach James Rice of Columbia I watched the Yale boat practice one afternoon, its last long paddle before the race. The shell cut through the water with considerable power, the youngsters all pulling the oars with precision and snap.

"What do you think of them?" I asked Rice.

"Well, answered the Columbia veteran, "they look pretty good in practice but the minute they get a little rattled in the race they'll quickly forget all this new stuff and use the first stroke they ever learned."

Which was exactly what the New Haven oarsmen did when they tried to overhaul the crimson shell.

It's almost time for Tilden and Johnston to settle their annual tennis controversy. With the seeded draw in operation the hundred odd hopefuls entered in the national singles championship at Germantown next month could safely save time by withdrawing and letting the two Bills settle the tournament.

In no other sport are two leaders so evenly matched as are Tilden and Johnston. Nor are there types so interesting for their extremes.

Maurice McLaughlin tells me that in his opinion Johnston is the greatest player the game ever produced.

Several Australian and English experts concur in their sizing up of the Californian. For perfection of stroke and form Johnston undoubtedly has made more progress than any other star.

But Little Bill is handicapped by nature for strenuous competition. He seldom weighs over 120 pounds, a serious drawback when the high-power play of tournaments require a great deal of physical stamina. Given 20 pounds more and an inch or two in heigth Little Bill would just about be invincible.

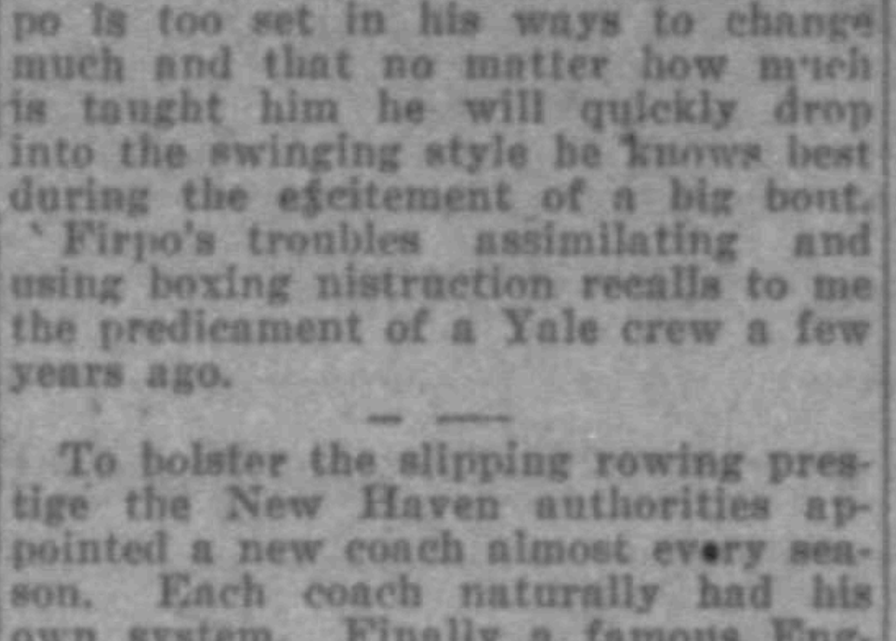

Tilden, in contrast to Johnston, has an ideal build for the game. In action he seems all legs and arms. Because of his size Tilden often makes shots that Johnston could not handle. Moreover, Big Bill has plenty of reserve strength. After three sets Johnston tires rapidly.

Tilden wisely knows he can afford to loaf a little and then catch Little Bill toward the finish. This was Tilden's plan in the 1922 national championship finals.

This season Johnston, winning premier honors abroad, is playing in top form. Tilden's real game is somewhat of a mystery, due to the loss of half a finger on his playing hand last winter.

So once again it is a 50-50 choice between Tilden and Johnston.

How may a beginner overcome fear of the water?

Answered by
BILL BACHRACH

Illinois Athletic club; most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Sybil Bauer, Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner, Arthur Raithel, Bob Skelton, and Mike McDermott.

Learn breath control. Fear of the water is the fear of strangulation which occurs when a drop of water attempts to enter the windpipe. By learning to prevent this occurrence, a sense of security is established. Strangulation can be avoided by inhaling exclusively through the mouth. Water entering the mouth can be expelled or swallowed. If you inhale through the nose you create suction which draws water into the nose and down to the windpipe. This causes the lid of the windpipe in the throat to clap shut, resulting in strangulation. An understanding of this process forms the basis of breath control and the overcoming of fear.

Dedaker Shaner, known of course as "Skinny" Shaner hereby announces that he'll be back in the big show next season. He made good with that outfit right off the bat proving the star of a double-header after his first day in the lineup.

JESTER RETAINS TENNIS TITLE

Wins Southwestern Championship in Singles From Jap Player

DALLAS, Aug. 13.—Leven Jester, of Dallas, retained the southwestern tennis singles championship, when he defeated F. Richard Mizukami, also of Dallas, late today, 2-6, 7-9, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Jester staged a remarkable comeback in the face of the loss of the first two sets, and played Mizukami, a native son of Japan who is making his home here, off his feet.

It was Jester's placement game that the wiry little Mizukami scurring from corner to corner and eventually wore him down in the finals today. Mizukami's first two sets were won more on Jester's errors than his successfully passing shots.

The two players frequently won on their opponent's serves. Jester won twelve games on Mizukami's serve and the latter ten on the champion's.

No Fooling Says Doak Roberts On Cat-Steer Games

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 13.—Another ultimatum was announced today by President Doak Roberts of the Texas league just before the Fort Worth Cats and Dallas Steers lined up for another clash, this time with three games here (one today and two Tuesday) and three in Dallas (one Wednesday and two Thursday). Roberts told his umpire to bear down on any players who "act up." In a way, Roberts' latest note was a repetition of his famous "don't push, pull or step on my umpires" edict issued 10 days ago on the eve of an important stretch of games between the two clubs.

Umpires Kane, Weir and O'Toole were assigned to work the games here and at Dallas between now and Friday.

Stoner Hurls One-Hit Game While Only Two Steers Reach First

FORT WORTH, Aug. 13.—Stoner pitched a one-hit game against Dallas today while Conley was hit hard, Fort Worth increasing its lead over the Steers by winning 7 to 0. Hamilton, first man up for Dallas was safe when Kraft dropped a throw from Stoner. Wano singled through the box. These were the only Steers to reach first. Sears and Calvo hit home runs with one man on base, while Stoner doubled with two on scoring positions for the six runs made off Conley. Fielding of Rapp and Tavener was sensational. Score:

U. S. TENNIS WOMEN WALLOP BRITISHERS

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—American women tenis players scored one of the most decisive victories in the history of American tennis when they won the four remaining matches in their contest with ranking women players of England of the trophy donated by Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss, Wightman of Boston. Their performance today made the score: America 7; England 0. America's victory was all the more sensational in that many leading experts had predicted that the British players would win easily.

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

THERE are thousands of women who wonder why their complexions do not improve in spite of all the face treatments they use. They should not continue to wonder. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S. S. S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood cleansers known. S. S. S. builds new blood-cells. This is why S. S. S. routs out of your system the impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. S. S. S. is a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pep."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Prices Move Narrowly In Market's Dullest Day This Year

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Prices moved within a narrow and irregular range in today's stock market, one of the dullest full days sessions this year. Trading was almost entirely a professional affair with little disposition to extend commitments shown by either the bear or bull operators.

The unfavorable week end political developments in Europe had no effect on stock prices but resulted in French francs dropping to a new low record for all time and brought about some sharp recessions in the French and Belgian bonds.

Oil Investors Frightened.

French francs were quoted as low as 5.53 1-4 cents. Demand sterling held steady around 4.56 3-4 and Belgian francs advanced nearly 10 points on reports of a 500,000,000 franc loan from France to Belgium. German marks dropped from 35 to 27 cents a million and then recovered to 33 cents. Widespread agitation for lower gasoline prices, which has resulted in state intervention in South Dakota was held responsible for the liquidation of oil shares by frightened investors, the recessions in active issues were held to a point or less, however.

U. S. Steel was in fairly good demand during the morning, touching 89 5-8, but it dropped back later to 88 3-4, where it was up 3-8 on the day. Rubbers again yielded to pressure, U. S. Rubber common dropping 1 5-8 and the first preferred breaking three points to a new low record for the year. Kelly Springfield yielded 1-4 on the day.

Time Money Dull.

The coppers were firm, Utah closing a point higher. July copper shipments, foreign and domestic, by American producers approximated 167,500,000 pounds as against 185,000,000 in June and 105,000,000 in May. Total shipments for the first seven months of the year approximated 1,335,000,000 pounds, the highest for any similar peace time shipments in the history of the industry.

Rails showed little change on the day. Call money held at 4 3-4 per cent all day. The time money market was dull with plenty offered at 5 1-4 per cent for all maturities.

Fort Worth Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Aug. 13.—Cattle buyers were late in reaching the yards Monday and up to noon hardly enough trading had developed to find a real line on market conditions. Receipts were estimated at 5,500 head of cattle and 2,000 calves, the supply of cattle including 500 head that were on through billing. Heavy receipts all around the market horizon brought about more or less anxiety here as to the outcome of the decline, and the early slowness here was attributed to the decline elsewhere.

Striking an average, the loss seemed to be around 15 to 25 cents on steers, cows and yearlings. Bulls were weak to 15 cents lower. Good light calves which were limited to a few odd drafts remained steady. Common and medium calves suffered a decline of 25 to 50 cents and the trade was very slow.

Steers sold at 7.25 for a high range. Around 10 cars of feed cattle and 20 loads grassers were on offer, most of the run being in the native yards.

Fat cows and canners came in for a downward revision and the market was slow at the decline. A good many canners were going at 1.50@1.60, and some fairly decent cows ranged around 3.00@3.25. Heifers and yearlings displayed the usual run and nothing toppy was here. Bulls went at a general range of 2.00@3.00. Some small drafts of light calves sold at 6.00 but the top was 5.75. Plain to good calves went at 2.50@5.50 and common calves around 1.50@2.25.

Some desirable stocker yearlings brought 5.95. Most of the stocker supply was trashy, however.

Very draggy trading featured the day in the hog yards, where receipts amounted to 2,000 head. A large part of the supply ran to poor quality, a poor average, in fact, buyers contended that the run as a whole was the least desirable here recently, total receipts considered. Around 16 cars came from the Panhandle. The market was uneven, but opened around 10@15c higher than Saturday's packer market, or steady with the shipper trade of Saturday. Several cars sold at 7.80 and the best hogs brought around 7.85@7.90. Bulk sales made a spread of 7.65@7.80. Pigs averaged 25c lower, good stockers going at 4.75@5.00.

Steady prices were paid for sheep, lamb receipts being close to 500 heads. Good wethers sold freely at 7.25. Lambs ranged around 11.00@11.50.

Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, former congresswoman from Illinois, was known in the house as an anti-militarist, but this did not prevent her from obtaining an appointment to Annapolis naval academy for her son, Wallace M. Huck. It was necessary to waive regulations to permit his entrance because he did not measure up to the required height.

COTTON LOSES EARLY GAINS

Demand Slackens After Prices Are Driven Up 375 Points

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Increasing alarm over southwestern crop prospects was reflected by a further rapid advance of 50 to 60 points in the cotton market during today's early trading. The demand slackened around the 24½-cent level, however, and after selling at 24.55 for October, or 375 points above the low price touched late last month, the market reacted under heavy realizing or liquidation. October sold off to 23.84, or 71 points from the best, and closed at 23.89, with the general market closing barely steady at net decline of 1 to 21 points.

Crop Deteriorating

The market opened firm at an advance of 16 to 34 points on the relatively firm showing of the cables and reports of continued dry weather in the southwest over Sunday with rising temperatures. The firm showing of Liverpool evidently offset the effect of unfavorable European political advices and there was active buying right after the call, which sent the market up to 24.52 for December and 24.25 for January. These prices represented recovery of 368 to 384 points above the low levels reached just before the publication of the last government crop report and the advance was evidently sufficient to attract a good deal of realizing. December broke to 23.87 and January to 23.60, or about 65 points from the best and the close was within a few points of the lowest. A private report published early indicated deterioration of six points in crop condition for the first half of this period, with a loss of 10 points in Texas.

Exports today were 7,918 bales making 60,401 so far this season. Port receipts today 7,044, U. S. port stocks 171,120.

WHEAT HIGHEST SINCE JULY 15

Active Buying By Eastern Trader Drives Price Upward

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. — Highest prices the wheat market has touched since the middle of July were brought about today, chiefly through active buying ascribed to a big eastern trader. The close was unsettled at 1 to 1½ cent net advance, with September 1.01@1.01 1-8 and December 1.04 3-8@1.04½. Corn gained 1-8@1-4 cent, to 1 cent, oats finished at a shade off to 1-4 cent up, and provisions at a rise of 15 cents to 35 cents.

Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat. Improved crop prospects for corn were more or less offset by predictions of large feeding this season.

Provisions reflected a decided upturn in hog values.

100° in the Shade or 10° below Zero!

One hundred degrees in the shade or ten below zero, meat deliveries to your retailer go steadily on, so that you may be assured of just the kind and quality of meat that you desire.

No city is so far removed from live stock production that it cannot receive its regular supply of fresh meats.

Compare this with the meat supply of thirty or forty years ago. Summer weather then meant salt or pickled meats in the country, and a limited variety of fresh meats in most cities.

Refrigeration, developed by scientists, has made it possible for Swift & Company, and other packers, to prepare fresh meats and ship them long distances in refrigerator cars, so that today, without regard to heat or cold, meat reaches your dealer fresh, clean, and wholesome.

In addition to the fresh meats thus available, Swift & Company prepares a variety of tempting meats for hot weather:

In addition to these, a score of other Summer Specialties are made available by Swift & Company's research and development work.

CITY COUNCIL BARS NEGROES

Not Allowed To Conduct Business Houses In White Sections

Negroes will not be allowed under any circumstances to conduct places of businesses in sections of the city where white people are in the majority the city council decided Monday night.

The decision was reached at the instance of a negro before the council asking permission to operate an automobile shop on a block in the city where white people live.

"We had just as well draw a line on this thing now and let the negroes know they are to keep their business houses in negro town and not come in among the white people," Health Commissioner Patton said.

POUND NOW LAW ABIDING

Technically the operation of the city pound has not been according to the city constitution, City Attorney W. E. George has discovered and submitted a new ordinance creating a pound which was passed on its first reading by the city council Monday night.

The pound ordinance was passed in 1894 but was never given official publication, necessitating the passing of a new ordinance.

STAYTON ALLOWED TRUCK

Permission for the city water department to purchase another Ford truck was granted by the city council Monday night on recommendation of Burton Stayton, public utilities commissioner.

Stayton said the work being done by the city department at the diversion dam necessitated another truck to expedite hauling.

JAIL PLUMBING ALLOWED

The city council Monday night allowed and ordered paid a plumbing bill submitted by C. A. Kaufman for repair work done on cells in the city jail.

The council also considered the request of Stanley Hirsch, a high school boy, who wants to put in a hamburger and lunch stand at 1407 Twelfth street. The boy brought a statement signed by a number of persons in the neighborhood where he desires to establish his business, giving him their permission. The council instructed the boy to confer with the school board and then report back for final decision.

MAYOR GETS TAX AUTHORITY

Mayor Collier was given authority by the city council to approve after due investigation the signing of a redemption tax receipt on a block of property in the city on which taxes have not been paid since 1894.

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

Trice Dunbar of Fort Worth was in Wichita Monday.

Mrs. W. E. Carter, deputy in the office of Sheriff Murphy is on her vacation this week.

The reports of County Judge B. D. Saxon for June and July and of Miss Georgia Lunsford, county demonstration agent, for July, were approved by the county commissioners.

A bid of $1,989.40 from the Martin Printing and Stationery company for the installation of $1,989.40 worth of steel shelving and filing systems for some of the courthouse offices was accepted by the county commissioners Monday.

Our sporting sports editor, who is also a cynic, says there's one thing about bobbed hair that is encouraging. That is that the dears are going to have to let their crowning beauty stay put for a few months at least.

The bow-legged girls report they are now getting their fellows back again which the flappers, whose plump appendages of locomotion were not bowed, took away from them during the short skirt regime.

Grandmother says she did not mind having her hair bobbed as that was easy, but this business of cigarette smoking is something that requires lots of attention.

Ten new index sets for the filing of chattel mortgages were ordered placed by the county commissioners Monday for use in the county clerk's office. The index sets are to cost $77 each.

Miss Velcina Rice of the city tax collector's office, spent the week-end at Fort Worth.

A Ford touring car was stolen Sunday night late at the corner of Fourth and Lamar streets and the theft reported to the police.

Those few women who for the past six months have been debating about bobbing their hair seemed to have all decided to not wait any longer. The star reporter says he has to get acquainted all over again every day with the sleuths on his run.

FIRST MOVE IN GAS FIGHT ON

Denison Injunction On Gas Company Granted To Abney

An injunction to restrain the municipal gas company of the city of Denison from collecting a ready to serve charge on each gas meter per month was granted to Hamp Abney, Sherman attorney, by District Judge Pierman of Gainesville, last Saturday, thereby creating the first legal move in the fight of Wichita Falls and 20 other cities in a fight against the gas companies.

Gas Companies to Protest

Information of the granting of the injunction was received here Monday by W. E. George, city attorney, from Abney. Abney states in the letter he anticipated the gas companies to within the next few days present a motion for a dissolution of the injunction granted Saturday. When this is done Wichita Falls and the 20 other cities will intervene in the suit and the war, legally speaking, will be on.

The city of Denison was made the test case in the fight because about two years ago that city got a judgment from the gas company on meter charges. The case was appealed and has been in the higher courts ever since. The present fight is the virtual taking up of the Denison Gas company fight where that city left off and will be a time saver, it is hoped. Whatever decision is handed down in the Denison case will apply to Wichita Falls and the other cities and will save each of them making a separate fight.

Seek Cox Law Repeal

The repeal of the Cox legislative enactment, which puts the municipal gas appeals measure before the state railway commission, is being sought in effort to put such matters under the control of the municipal governments.

The request for an injunction was brought before the Gainesville district court rather than the Denison court because the attorney for the 21 cities thought possibly a Denison judge would be disqualified on the grounds that he used gas supplied by the defendant company.

SHERIFF MURPHY SUED BY WOMAN

$35,000 Damages Asked On Claim of Unlawful Detention

Resenting that she had been "branded as a felon" because she is said to have been placed in the county jail by Sheriff Pat Murphy unlawfully and not allowed to make bond or confer with her counsel, Mrs. W. H. Anchor asks $25,000 actual and $10,000 exemplary damages in a suit filed Monday against the sheriff and his bonding company.

Deputies Attacked.

Mrs. Anchor in her petition, in which she is joined by her husband, declares that she was arrested on an Easter Sunday morning last April by the sheriff's department while her husband was away in another state. She declares the deputies would not allow her to dress properly but hurried her to the county jail and she had time to put only one of her stockings.

The plaintiff says the warrant for her arrest entitled her to an immediate hearing before Justice Gibbs but that she was denied this and forced to stay in jail, being denied the privilege of conferring with a lawyer so she could make bond. She further states in the petition that an employe on her farm came to town, finally located her in jail and in this manner she was able to get in touch with her attorneys and make bond. The petition states that the plaintiff has suffered great mental anguish and humiliation as a result of her incarceration and asks damages from the sheriff.

Intensive Publicity Work For Wichita T.-O. Fair

The Texas-Oklahoma Fair association officers and directors are starting early this year to make the fair one of the greatest ever held in North west Texas. Pamphlets, booklets and circulars are being sent out to all towns and cities in Wichita Falls trade territory.

Much publicity will be given the fair and nothing will be left undone to make it the greatest of events in this section. The exposition will attract from all parts of Oklahoma and Texas, according to R. E. Sheppard, assistant secretary.

DR. YOUNGBLOOD CONFERS TODAY

Experiment Station Meeting At Chamber of Commerce This Morning

"Wonderful soil, wonderful valley, truly an ideal place for an experimental farm for irrigation," said Dr. B. Youngblood, director of experimental stations of A. & M. college, after an inspection tour Monday to select a proposed site for the proposed experimental farm.

Dr. Youngblood will confer with chamber of commerce directors and officials at 9 o'clock this morning. It is quite probable that a site will be selected during the meeting.

Several Sites Attractive

According to members of the chamber of commerce and others who accompanied Dr. Youngblood on the tour the day was well spent, practically all parts of the valley being inspected. Several possible sites were unusually attractive and members of the party could not say just which one would be chosen.

Those accompanying Dr. Youngblood were: W. L. Carter, in charge of A. & M. land survey, for this district; C. H. Clark and Hubert M. Harrison, representing Wichita Falls chamber of commerce; Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent; Roy Arnold and T. J. Pace, of the Iowa Park chamber of commerce.

Soil Nature Deciding Factor

In selection of the site for the experimental farm the nature of the soil will be the deciding factor. A soil composed of a naturally mixed clay and sand with a sufficient amount of peet will be the most prolific for experimental purposes.

Dr. Youngblood was loud in praise for the excellent facilities accorded him during the tour.

The experimental station will be of untold benefit and of great assistance to truck growers and farmers in the valley. Each fee owner will benefit by keeping in touch with the station. It is quite probable that this community will undergo an evolution in the raising of truck. Wheat, cotton, corn and feed crops can be depended upon once the water is turned into the ditches and farmers can readily secure all information desired from the station.

MILLIONAIRESS WEDS FIRST LOVE

Drug Clerk Marries Old Sweetheart

DETROIT—Eudore Guibord, 25-year-old drug clerk, as long as he can remember has had two ambitions in life.

One was to marry his childhood sweetheart, Monice Mousseau; the other was to own his own drug store.

Already he has achieved the first and the second is about to be gratified.

Guibord and Miss Mousseau are on their honey moon now. When it is over he's coming back to resume his place behind the counter of McCormick's drug store in Ford City—temporarily.

For just before her marriage Miss Mousseau inherited a tidy fortune of something like one million five hundred thousand good American dollars from her aunt, Mrs. Irene Barnharte Wilson, deceased widow of George Wilson, one-time oil and cattle king of Mexico.

But the fact that she was wealthy only hastened the wedding.

Her ambition, before she received her inheritance, was to embark on a joint pharmaceutical career with her husband-to-be.

It hasn't changed.

Now according to the bride's intentions the ambition is to be achieved. With her husband she will start a drug store in Ford City or somewhere else.

Young Guibord comes of a family prominent in Canadian political circles.

HAD YOUR TOOTHACHE TODAY?

If So, Stay Away From the Bluecoats

Alcohol alibis are numerous but there is one man who will have to present a new one when he appears before City Judge Joe Carrigan this morning.

Toothache was the reason, according to the man's story in police court Monday morning, that he was acting so funny that the police had picked him up and charged him with drunkenness. The judge heard the man's story and let him off with a light fine of $5 with the warning to stay away from the cops when his tooth gave him trouble again.

The prisoner was turned out of the city jail at 10 o'clock Monday morning. At 1 o'clock the same man was brought back and this time it looked like every tooth in his head must have had an abscess.

"You sure won't get away with that toothache stall before the judge in the morning," Desk Sergeant McConnell said.

Record Speed In Embankment Of Lake Kemp Dam

J. C. Greely, superintendent Puget Sound Bridge and Ddredging company, announced Tuesday afternoon that the embankment of the Lake Kemp dam is practically completed after 17 months of work. The embankment is 1,500,000 yards in length, approximately 4,000 yards of the embankment being completed daily. There's a Reason Why the Chevrolet Leads The List

The factory turnout reacts to the public demand. CHEVROLETS are selling everywhere; that is why our factory is turning out about as many CHEVROLET cars every day as the factories of five other popular makes of cars all combined. Below are the most accurate and recent figures:

CHEVROLET about 2,000 cars a day.

Buick over 700 cars a day.

Dodge Brothers over 700 a day.

Durant and Star over 500 a day.

Overland and Willys-Knight close to 400 a day.

The public knows an economical car when they try it; hence the growing demand for the CHEVROLET. Let our salesman call and demonstrate the CHEVROLET for you; it will be a pleasure to us and put you under no obligation. All we ask is a chance to demonstrate the CHEVROLET before you purchase your car.
