Pandas Settle In Luxury

WASHINGTON AP—The two giant pandas from China, newly settled into luxury at the National Zoo, are named Hsing-Hsing and Ling-Ling.

Hsing-Hsing, the name of the male, is pronounced shing-shing. Ling-Ling is pronounced like it is spelled.

The word on the names came today from White House press secretary Constance Stuart who said she had no idea what the names meant. The pandas, a year and half old, are gifts from Communist China.

The animals arrived Sunday and were immediately swept into the seclusion of roomy air-conditioned apartments.

Zoo officials said the fuzzy, bear-like animals will undergo physical examinations today. They'll stay under wraps until official unveiling ceremonies possibly later this week.

The huggable creatures apparently were faring better than Milton and Matilda, the two musk oxen the United States gave to China. Milton is reported to be losing his hair and Matilda doesn't feel very well either.

The Japanese news service Kyodo reported Sunday that Milton "is suffering from a skin disease, portions of the fur on the sides are falling out, and the animal coughs at times. Matilda is in somewhat bad shape also."

They were reported "unresponsive to the crowds" at the Peking Zoo where they are on display.

Dr. Theodore Reed, director of the National Zoo, said the pandas will keep their Chinese names, but he wouldn't say what they are. Reed took the musk oxen to China and brought home the 18-month-old pandas, one male and one female.

The pandas' departure from the Peking Zoo was delayed so they could undergo a crash course in sex. They had to watch other pandas mate so they will know what to do when the time comes, probably in a couple of years.

In case of conjugal spats, the swank panda pad is designed to provide separate quarters, each with a private entrance to the adjoining garden.

The pandas dined on bamboo after their arrival and reportedly were adjusting easily to their new home.

"You can bet they're being handled with kid gloves," said a zoo worker.

At full growth, a panda normally stands about six feet tall and weighs about 300 pounds, but these are still in the toddler stage. The panda is mostly white with black fur on the legs, shoulders and ears and black patches around the eyes.

Pandas have not been seen in the United States for 21 years. Su-Lin, the first captive panda brought to this country died at Brookfield Zoo near Chicago in 1951 after living there 13 years.

Nixon To Visit Poland

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will visit Poland May 31 and June 1 following his trip to Russia and Iran, the White House announced today.

The official invitation to the President to visit the Polish People's Republic was extended personally to the President at the White House this morning by Polish Ambassador Witold Trampczynski.

The White House said this completes the presidential trip itinerary, with no other stops contemplated for Nixon's May-June journey, which will start in Moscow May 22.

An advance party of 25 that will make technical arrangements for President Nixon's trip left early this morning from Andrews Air Force Base.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said preparations for the Moscow trip were continuing on schedule. He said there was no indication that developments in Vietnam were affecting the plans.

John Strecker Service Set

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for John Strecker, 85, who died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Strecker, a native of London, England, had been a resident of Scurry County for the past six years. He had retired as a tax collector in Gordon, Wis.

The Rev. Jesse Dea will officiate at the funeral service and burial will be in the Ira Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Pearl A. Woods of Snyder; a son, John Strecker of Elwood, Ind.; a brother, Harry Strecker, of Albany, N.Y.; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Northern Plains Receive Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow dusted parts of the Northern Plains today while the northwest and the northeast corners of the nation were doused with thunderstorms. Most of the country enjoyed pleasantly warm, springlike weather.

Texas still looked for rain.

Stockmen's warnings were in effect for all of North Dakota and western and central portions of South Dakota. Heavy snow warnings were issued for northeastern Minnesota, where up to 4 inches were expected.

Snyder High Wins 6th Literary Title

Snyder High School overwhelmed the remainder of the field here Saturday to win its sixth District 3-3A University Interscholastic League literary contest in a row.

Scoring heavily in the speech events, the Snyder entrants rolled up 187 2-3rds points, compared to 97 for Brownfield, their nearest challenger. Other school totals showed Lubbock Estacado 72, San Angelo Lake View 68, Colorado City 59; Sweetwater 52 2-3 and Lamesa 10.

Winning first place awards for Snyder High were the boys debate team of Bob Jackson and David Cotton, the girls Debate team of Jan Bellamy and Revin Stoker, Jean Petkovsek in girls informative speaking, Donna Messimer in girls persuasive speaking, Danny Martin in boys poetry interpretation, Allana Patterson in girls poetry interpretation, Jo Ann Line in feature writing, Kathleen O'Banion in ready writing, and David Burk in number sense.

The Snyder High one-act play already had won first place in the district contest held Tuesday in the SHS auditorium.

Placing second for Snyder were Mike Dennis in boys prose reading, Dolores Lewallen in girls prose reading, Mark May in news writing, Cindy Morris in editorial writing, Danny Reynolds in ready writing and David Burk in science. Mike Edwards of SHS placed third in the slide rule contest and Billy Tate placed third in boys persuasive speaking.

Soviets Protest Bombings

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union said today four Soviet merchant ships were damaged in the U.S. bombing raids of the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong. U.S. Ambassador Jacob D. Beam was summoned to the Foreign Ministry and handed an official protest, Tass reported.

According to the official Soviet news agency, the protest said the lives of Soviet crewmen were put in jeopardy and that port workers handling cargoes on the Soviet vessels were killed or wounded.

The protest note identified the Soviet vessels as the Simferopol, the Boris Lavrenev, the Samuil Marshak and the Selmdzha. Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency reported the Simferopol was hit Sunday and said one crewman was wounded.

Pacific Gas Order Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court declined today to rescind an order it first issued in 1964 requiring the giant El Paso Natural Gas Co. to break off its Pacific Northwest Pipeline properties.

California's Pacific Gas and Electric Co. asked the court on March 28 to recall the 1964 order, and renewed order in 1967, that called for divestiture, "without delay."

The company contended "changed circumstances,"—mainly a claimed shortage of natural gas—means that a splintering of El Paso will harm the public interest, particularly gas consumers in California.

Five states, California, Wyoming, Idaho, Washington and Arizona, backed Pacific Gas. The Justice Department and Utah asked the court not to interfere with divestiture, now in the process of being implemented by a federal court in Denver.

Rogers Defends Bombing Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers said today the Nixon administration "has no intention to permit South Vietnam to be taken over by force."

Rogers said the United States will not permit the North Vietnamese offensive to succeed.

Rogers said the air offensive against Haiphong and Hanoi is in keeping with President Nixon's prior assertions that the United States would not permit North Vietnam to take advantage of the withdrawal of U.S. forces.

The secretary of State appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to defend the Administration foreign aid budget but immediately was quizzed by Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., about renewed American assaults in North Vietnam.

Fulbright said he did not think that the interest of the United States merited such a counter-reaction.

Rogers said there are three purposes primarily for the renewed air and naval strikes against North Vietnam:

1—To protect American troops still in South Vietnam.

2—To make certain that the withdrawal of American forces can continue.

3—To give South Vietnamese a chance to defend themselves against the massive invasion.

Rogers said the United States does not intend to reintroduce ground combat forces into the action in Vietnam but that the air and naval strikes should make clear to the other side that America is going to take any action necessary to support the people of South Vietnam."

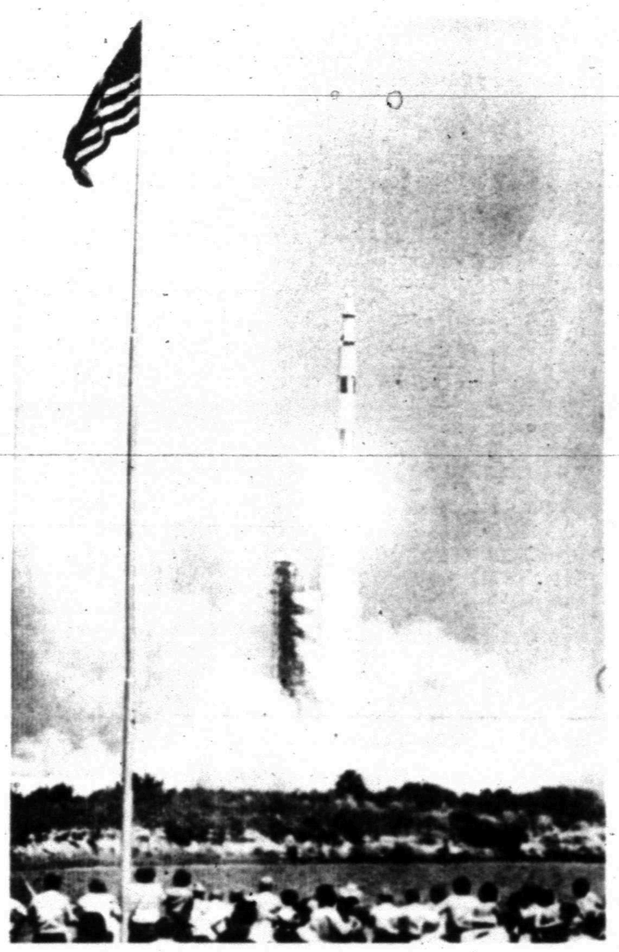

Fulbright said he could not understand how the new attacks on North Vietnamese supply bases promote the interest of the United States with Russia and China.

Rogers said that although 450,000 troops have been withdrawn from the Vietnam conflict, there still are 85,000 Americans there.

"If the Communists took over South Vietnam militarily," he asked, "what about the 85,000 still there?"

Rogers said that the new North Vietnam offensive, involving 12 of its 13 divisions, shows that the North Vietnamese were "lying in their teeth" in their claims that there were no North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam.

He said the administration was severely criticized by members of the committee for incursions into Laos and Cambodia on grounds that it would make it difficult to improve relations with China.

US Bombs Hanoi, Haiphong

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes made their biggest MIG kill in 4½ years Sunday and heavily damaged fuel depots in massive raids in the Hanoi-Haiphong heartland of North Vietnam, the U.S. Command reported today.

Three MIG21s, North Vietnam's fastest warplanes, were shot down Sunday southwest of Hanoi before they could get off a shot, the command reported. It was the first time American pilots had downed three MIGs in one day since Oct. 26, 1967.

While the command said no U.S. planes were downed by the enemy fighters, it reported a Navy A7 and an Air Force F105 lost during the raids. The pilot of the A7 was rescued at sea, and the two crewmen of the F105 were reported missing.

Three other American aircraft were lost in South Vietnam, the command said.

ENGINEERS PONDER PEELING

Apollo Hurtles To Moon Landing

By BILL STOCKTON
Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 16 hurtled onward today toward a Thursday landing on the moon's mountainous rooftop while engineers on earth wrestled with the mysterious peeling of protective skin of the lunar lander Orion.

Particles of the outer aluminum foil and mylar thermal blanket were observed Sunday flaking away from an area several square feet in size near Orion's reaction control system fuel tanks.

Navy Capt. John W. Young and Air Force Lt. Col. Charles M. Duke entered the lunar lander Sunday night a day ahead of schedule, turned on its power and conducted a one-hour inspection.

Nothing appeared amiss in the spacecraft's systems and there were no plans to alter the mission.

At Grumman Aircraft in Bethpage, N.Y., engineers worked with a lunar lander mockup seeking an explanation.

While engineers pondered the problem, the astronauts slept. They retired shortly before 4 a.m. and weren't scheduled to awaken until noon.

Nothing appeared amiss in the spacecraft's systems and there were no plans to alter the mission.

"At this time there is no undue concern about it," Mission Control said after the inspection apparently ruled out troubles with major spacecraft systems.

The skin problem was the first flaw in an otherwise perfect mission that began at 12:54 p.m. EST Sunday when a towering Saturn 5 rocket thundered the astronauts into space.

Apollo 16 was so precisely on course Sunday night that a planned midcourse correction was canceled. The astronauts will have an opportunity to perform a course correction tonight and again Tuesday and Wednesday before firing their spacecraft engine at 3:23 p.m. Wednesday to slip into lunar orbit.

Young and Duke are to land Orion on an undulating plateau between two mountain peaks in the lunar highlands near one of the highest points on the moon. Navy Lt. Cmdr. Thomas K. Mattingly will orbit the moon in Casper, the command ship, conducting remote surveillance of the lunar terrain with scientific instruments.

Venus Puts On A Show

It wasn't Apollo 16. And neither was it an alien spacecraft. It was merely the planet Venus that sent people to their almanacs and telephones Sunday evening as they noted a very bright object almost riding the top of a half-moon.

Several Snyder residents inquired about it, while the press services reported telephone calls were numerous to McDonald observatory in Southwest Texas and to the North American Air Defense Command.

"There is no threat to North America," said a NORAD spokesman after receiving calls from people who claimed they had seen antennas on the star.

The McDonald observatory spokesman said that the reason the planet was so striking Sunday night was the extreme clearness of the atmosphere.

He added that Venus will be in the same position for the next two weeks, so the spectacle may be visible again.

Congress Nears Shuttle Decision

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Apollo 16 reaches for the moon, Congress nears a decision on whether to commit the nation to a multibillion-dollar shuttle course that could prompt a space-flight revolution.

With the first test of President Nixon's space-shuttle project due in the House this week, opponents say privately the program for the first reusable space vehicle is gaining such momentum that they see a call for deferment and more study—instead of a move for rejection—as their best plan of attack.

However, powerful backing for the shuttle comes from the House Space Committee, which says the vehicle—taking off like a rocket, flying in orbit like a spaceship, landing like an airplane—is "the key to future space applications and exploration."

The committee voted 22 to 0 for a bill authorizing $3.428 billion to run National Aeronautics and Space Administration programs during the year starting in July, including $200 million for detailed design and development work on the shuttle. In addition, there is $27.9 million for construction of space-shuttle facilities.

Over six years, developmental costs are estimated at $5.15 billion, with the first manned orbital flight planned for 1978.

"Its versatility will open up vast new opportunities to realize the promise of space for practical applications on earth and for expanding the frontiers of science," the committee said in its report to the House.

A leading opponent of the shuttle, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said he plans to urge the House to delay development "before committing ourselves to a vague and undefined program." Congress "has yet to hear from NASA a definite and straightforward presentation of the military role of the space shuttle," Aspin said.

TV View Clearer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The public and scientists likely will see the clearest televised view ever of the lunar surface this week because of a high-speed transmission relay system developed here.

Live telecasts from the moon will be relayed at the speed of light through equipment of Image Transform, Inc., established in North Hollywood three months ago to convert taped television shows into film.

The equipment is designed to rid television screens of visible horizontal lines by eliminating a factor known as "noise interference."

The process worked Sunday, bringing television viewers a clear picture of the earth transmitted from the Apollo 16 spacecraft 7,000 miles in space.

Signals from Apollo 16 are received in digital form at the Goldstone, Calif., tracking station in the Mojave Desert. Traveling at the speed of light, the signals are relayed to the space center in Houston, where they are first converted to picture signals and then fed through the equipment here. The relays are nearly instantaneous.

Drought Costing Farmers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A spring drought has cost Texas farmers and ranchers hundreds of thousands of dollars and could lead to higher food prices, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said today.

White said this year's drought is similar to the dry spell of 1971.

"A lot of people don't realize this, but the drought of last year is one of the reason meat prices are higher this year," White said.

"Last year, Texas livestock producers were forced to liquidate their herds. This caused a shortage of cattle which resulted in higher meat prices.

"If the present drought hangs on much longer, cattlemen again are going to have to reduce their herds. If this happens, meat prices should come down, but this will be only temporary. After those cattle are sold, there again will be a shortage of livestock which will result again in higher meat prices."

Pope Speaks Out On Pesticides

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI says farmers should avoid polluting the waters of the world by abusive use of pesticides and exhausting the soil by uncontrolled use of fertilizers.

The Pope on Saturday told the Pontifical Academy of Science that its members should teach the farmer "to seek quality rather than quantity since they are dealing with the nutrition of men."

Hijacker Arrested In Rome

ROME (AP) — Mario Victor Maimone, a penniless Italian-American who has passed himself off twice in the past five months as a big spender, was arrested today after he hijacked a Swiss airliner.

The 30-year-old native of New York took over a Swissair DC9 with 20 persons aboard shortly after it took off from Geneva for Rome. He demanded to see Pope Paul VI and the U.S. Ambassador to Italy and told the pilot to land at Rome's military airport instead of the civilian field "because it is nearer to the United States Embassy and the Vatican."

Maimone brandished a package which he said contained a bomb, and the pilot complied.

Police surrounded the plane when it landed, and a plainclothesman got aboard posing as the American ambassador. Other officers slipped aboard and took Maimone into custody.

Nobody was hurt. The bomb turned out to be a box of cigars.

The police took Maimone to a psychiatric hospital first, but when they found out who he was the party went on to Rome's Regina Coeli-Queen of Heaven—jail. There he was charged with sequestering persons and threatening violence.

Maimone, born in New York of Italian parents, appeared last December in the Val d'Aosta and announced plans to bring prosperity to the poor, mountainous region by investing several million dollars to build a winter resort there. He told newsmen he had inherited a big box of diamonds from his father, a Cosa Nostra boss in New York.

Mayors of several mountain towns received him with full civic honors and high hopes. These evaporated when Italian relatives described him as a penniless exhibitionist.

LBJ Still Doing Fine

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson remains secluded in his penthouse hospital suite as he continues to recover from a major heart attack, officials report.

Spokesmen said Sunday that he was still "getting along fine" at the Army's Brooke General Hospital.

Messages of good will have been arriving steadily, including some from children at Stonewall, Tex., near his LBJ Ranch.

Janet Smith, teacher at a kindergarten established there by the former president, said her youngsters worked for hours last week on get-well cards for him.

Their messages included one that advised him: "We miss your jelly beans." Another echoed the thoughts of many well-wishers: "We want you to feel good, Mr. President."

One of the children, Tyree Burns, 4, keeps asking when the former chief executive will bring more of his bags of jelly beans to the school, the teacher said.

Johnson flew to Brooke last Wednesday after he was stricken on April 7 in Charlottesville, Va. Doctors described his condition as "quite good" in the only medical bulletin released since his arrival here.

Dr. Baxter New ABA President

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Charles R. Baxter, professor of surgery at University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, has been installed as president of the American Burn Association.

The association is composed of doctors, nurses and other health care workers committed to full time burn research and care. Its object is to bring together the disciplines involved in total burn care—from the surgeon who treats the burn itself to the psychiatrist or social worker who assists adjustment or rehabilitation of the patient.

DeGaulle's Family Files Damage Suit

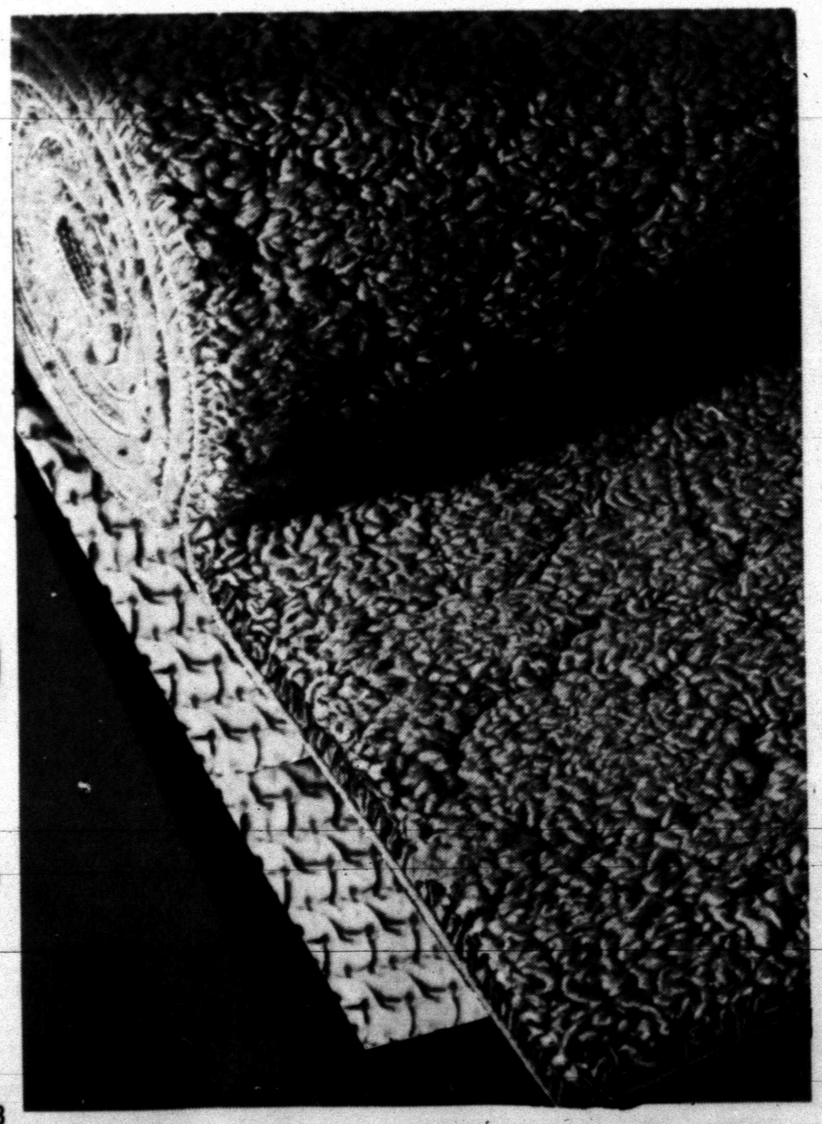

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle's children have filed a $20,000 damage suit demanding seizure of a book containing quotations from the late president's work.

The family, backed by the Plon publishing house in suing journalist Andre Passeron, said Saturday it had the right to keep royalties on De Gaulle's work to itself.

Passeron has published a book on the president titled "De Gaulle 1958-69" of which 85 of 320 pages contain quotes and extracts from De Gaulle's speeches.

BRIDAL SHOWER—A bridal shower honoring Miss Becky Mebane, bride-elect of Mark York, was held April 14 in the Union Community Center. Pictured are from left) Mrs. T.A. Chicken Is Answer To Budget Crisis

"Thank heaven for chicken. It's the only meat I feel I can really afford!", and, "These days our family eats chicken at least three or four times a week. . . it's by far the best meat buy," were comments recently overheard in the supermarket. Shoppers concerned about the high cost of protein foods are turning more and more to chicken to balance the food budget.

Chicken, whose price has stayed down at a remarkably modest level is one of the most practical solutions to the growing food budget crisis. According to a recent survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of whole or cut-up chicken averaged 40c a pound, while the cost of hamburger averaged 70c a pound, and a boneless rump roast averaged $1.36 a pound. One serving of chicken (½ pound of raw meat with bone in) costs about 25c. The National Broiler Council points out that even in this period of high prices, chicken actually costs less today than it did twenty years ago!

Not only does chicken compare favorably with red meat price-wise, but it's protein content is equal to, or better than, popular red meats. According to Dr. Jean Meyer, leading Harvard University nutritionist, the chicken industry has "the great advantage of producing a source of excellent protein which is low in fat, low in saturated fatty acids, low in calories."

With all this good information in mind, consider serving chicken more often. There are so many excellent possibilities—luncheon, lunchbox, dinner and snack.

Youngsters love finger foods. Inexpensive chicken drumsticks are a special favorite with children, according to the National Broiler Council, and make fine after-school snacks. Try them this easy way: Sprinkle 6 drumsticks with salt and paprika. Line a baking sheet with aluminum foil and combine 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine with 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ½ teaspoon dried leaf tarragon. Place drumsticks on baking sheet, brush with half the butter mixture, and bake in a 375 degree oven for 30 minutes. Turn, brush with remaining butter and bake 15 minutes longer.

Fried chicken turns up often in most homes — and here's an unusual version from the National Broiler Council: Pour one-third cup soy sauce into a shallow dish. Combine ½ cup flour with 1½ teaspoons ginger. Dip chicken pieces from 1 broiler-fryer chicken in soy sauce, roll in seasoned flour, and fry as usual. It's a great money-saving version for company meals and family dinners.

MORE ZING. . . Zippiest new thrifty way with chicken is boned thighs, says the National Broiler Council. To bone, cut along thinner side of thigh, scrape flesh away and remove bone. Place chicken between 2 pieces of foil; pound to flatten. For Lemon-Herb Thighs, prepare 8 thighs, sprinkle with salt. Melt butter in large skillet and add chicken, skin side down. Cook 10 minutes, turn and sprinkle with 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped chives, and ¼ teaspoon marjoram. Cook 10 minutes longer, serve on toast, garnish with thin lemon slices. Makes 4 servings.

Cancer In Childhood Difficult To Detect

Cancer in children is rare, but it is a parent's duty to be informed so that early symptoms aren't ignored.

"Cancer strikes about one out of every 7,000 American children. Nonetheless, with the great advances in the treatment of other childhood diseases, cancer deaths among school children exceed those from any other disease.

"Practically everyone knows about the threat leukemia presents to the young. Today, thanks to great laboratory advances, the lives of young leukemia patients are greatly extended although a cure has not yet been achieved."

Luekemia is not the only cancer threat to the young. Bone cancer, cancer of the nervous system, lymph nodes, eye and kidney are diagnosed each year. For many of these cancers there are excellent forms of treatment.

Cancer in childhood is as difficult to detect as cancer in adults because the symptoms are so often vague. Should a parent be afraid of bothering a busy pediatrician or be afraid of being labelled a "cancer hysteric?" Absolutely not.

As one specialist in childhood cancer said, "Regular examinations and prompt investigation by a doctor of any suspicious conditions — these constitute the cornerstone of detecting and treating cancer in children."

Swellings, lumps or masses in any part of the body.

Pains, or the persistent crying of a baby or child, for which no reason can be found.

Any change in the size or appearance of outward growths, such as moles or birthmarks.

Nausea and vomiting, for which there is no apparent cause.

A marked change in bowel or bladder habits.

Bloody discharge of any sort; blood in the urine; heavy spontaneous nosebleeds or other type of hemorrhage; failure of bleeding to stop in the usual time after a cut or injury.

Unexplained stumbling in a child who has been walking well.

A general "run-down" condition.

Lettuce Stains Blamed On Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department research scientists have concluded that brown stains occur on heads of lettuce because of gas in refrigerated rail cars.

Little Dribblers Win Regional

BROWNFIELD — After dropping their first match here Friday night, the Snyder All-Stars won 3 straight games to capture the Regional Little Dribblers Basketball Tourney and qualify for the National Tourney to be held Apr. 27, 28, 29 at the Texas Dome in Levelland.

Snyder lost the first match, 45-37, to Hobbs, N.M. Then, they beat Brownfield 46-17, put down Seminole 58-48, and tripped Hobbs in the finals 43-40.

The local lads took a 13-9 lead in the first quarter and held a narrow margin throughout the contest. The second period was an 11-11 standoff, but Hobbs cut the count to 31-33 in the third period. But Snyder closed with a 10-9 advantage in the last quarter to wrap it up.

Tony Cobb and Richard Crayton sparked the attack with 16 and 15 points respectively. Randy Courtney and Alan Robertson each contributed five, and Lucious Jeffery added two. For Hobbs, Tom Parkhurst was high point man with 12 points.

A strong second quarter paved the way for victory over Seminole in the semifinals tilt. Trailing 10-11 after one period, Snyder took a 26-15 lead at halftime and the second half was fought on about equal terms. Tony Cobb, Richard Crayton and Randy Courtney all hit in twin figures with 18, 12, and 10 points respectively. Every boy on the team scored. Dannie Ucrenn was outstanding for Seminole, pacing 25 points.

After leading only 15-11 after the first half of the second round game with Brownfield, the Snyder lads posted 17-5 and 14-1 advantages in each of the last two periods respectively to win with ease. Cobb and Courtney roped 20 and 10 points respectively while Stanley Leech led Brownfield with eight points.

Snyder got off to a slow start in the opener against Hobbs and trailed 11-5 after one period, and were never able to catch the New Mexico team. Cobb posted 14 points, but Hobbs' Steve Smith won individual scoring laurels with 16 points.

The box scores:

9-B Track Meet Set In Snyder

The District 9-B girls track meet will be held tomorrow on the Tiger track. Prelims begin at 10:30 a.m. with finals due to get underway at 4:15 p.m.

Teams entered are Aspermont, Albany, Baird, Jim Ned, Wylie of Abilene, McCaulley, Loraine, Highland, Westbrook, Hobbs, Roby and Ira.

Ira has competed in meets at Robert Lee, Rochelle, Dayton, Borden County and Big Spring, but injuries have hurt two of their top three performers.

Yale Applicants Back To Normal

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University's drawing power—at least among male applicants for the freshman class—has dropped back to about what it was before coeducational three years ago.

Tiger Girls Win Regional Tourney

LUBBOCK — For the first time in 14 years, the Snyder High School varsity girls volleyball team is going to the state tournament. The Tiger girls won the Region One Tournament in the women's gym at Texas Tech Saturday.

Snyder bested Graham in the first round 15-1, 15-2. Penny Jones scored 24 points, Janice McMullan tallied four, and Vicki Linshaw made 2.

In the finals game against an outstanding team from Fort Stockton, Snyder prevailed 15-7, 5-15, and 11-8 with time running out in the last match.

Coach Pam Hess' girls were down 1-7 in the third game of the finals with only four minutes remaining, but they made a great rally to win the championship.

Exhibiting great balance, the Tigers benefitted from scoring plays by every girl. Penny Jones led with 11 points, Marcia Shields scored 7, Patti Sims 5, Christy Suttle 4, and Sue Jane Sullivan and Janice McMullan 2 each.

"Every girl that played was outstanding," said Coach Pam Hess.

"Christie Suttle was outstanding on defense, and Hollye Crenshaw, our No. 1 substitute, can be put in at any position and does a good job — both as a set and a spiker."

Snyder will play its first game at the state tournament at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in Gregory Gym at Austin. The opponent will be Dulles of Stafford. If the SHS girls win their first game, then they play in the finals at 2:45 p.m. against the winner of the Berkner of Richardson-Gregory Portland game, which is set for 9:00 a.m.

Jersey Gets Boat Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers will sponsor the first International Water Boat Show in Atlantic Highlands, N.J., instead of the earlier announced site at Flushing, N.Y. It will run from Oct. 4 through Oct. 9.

"This gives us a much better facility in which to show boats," says Peter M. Wilson, managing director of the show. "We will have a sheltered marina with slips for over 250 boats in the water, with sufficient land area for many more smaller boats, plus engines, outboard motors and accessories under canvas."

The 1972 senior women's amateur golf championship will be held Sept. 27-29 at the Manufacturer's Golf and Country Club, Oreland, Pa.

Dunbar Takes Sr. Net Title

BROWNFIELD — Lubbock Dunbar, Sweetwater and Brownfield won the top trophies at the District 3-AAA Tennis Tournament here Saturday, but Snyder's Larry Price and Randy Potts reached the finals in boys doubles before being eliminated.

Dunbar won first place, Brownfield and Sweetwater tied for runnerup honors, Snyder was fourth, Estacado fifth, and Colorado City sixth.

Fred Scott and Mike Boles of Sweetwater defeated Price and Pott in the finals of boys doubles, 6-0, 6-0. Price and Potts had beaten Kuss and Morrison of Sweetwater in the semifinals 7-5, 6-3 and Bond and Liddell of Brownfield 1-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the second round after drawing a first round bye. Scott and Boles defeated Jimmy Brandon and David Poe of Snyder in the semifinals 6-1, 6-1 after taking out Hill and Ellis of Colorado City in the second round. They drew a first round bye.

Brandon and Poe beat Beaver and Liddell of Brownfield in the second round 7-6, 6-4, after taking out Lawrence and Keele of Estacado, 6-1, 6-0, in the first round.

Herbert Stephens of Dunbar won boys singles with a 6-4, 7-6 triumph over David Sissom of Sweetwater in the finals. In earlier matches, Stephens beat Bob Christian of Snyder in the semifinals 6-4, 6-4, and Calton Roach of Brownfield 7-5, 6-1 in the second round after drawing a first round bye.

Debbie Fields of Snyder defeated Debbie Spriggs of Colorado City in the first round, then lost to Keitha Vandivere 6-1, 6-4 in the second round.

Hooton Fires No Hitter

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Never mind Apollo 16, there's an unidentified flying object loose in the National League.

It dips, it darts, it spins. Most of all, it has an adversity to being struck by wood.

It's known as "the thing" and opposing hitters are rapidly learning to shorten its appellation from five letters to four, all of them unprintable.

All right, enough suspense. It's really Burt Hooton's knuckle curve and it helped the 22-year-old rookie right-hander of the Chicago Cubs pitch a no-hitter Sunday in his fourth major league start, blanking the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0.

He walked seven and struck out the same number in hurling the earliest no-hitter in the majors since Cleveland's Bob Feller stopped the Chicago White Sox 32 years ago to the day in the Indians' 1940 opener.

SETS RECORD—Travis Junior High's Welton Cobb set a new record in the broad jump with a leap of 21-7½ in the junior division of the district track meet here Saturday. He also tied the standard in the century with a 10.1 clocking, and he won the shot put with a heave of 51-1½. He also anchored both relay teams that set new records. Travis won the division and Lamar was runnerup.

Matadors Win Track Meet; Travis, Lamar Place 1, 2

Lubbock Estacado edged Lubbock Dunbar, 112½ points to 107½, on a windy, dusty day here Saturday to win the District 3-AAA track championship. Brownfield placed third with 84 points, and Snyder was fourth with 75. Scores of other teams: Sweetwater 61, Lake View 23, Lamesa 18, and Colorado City 15.

Travis Junior High captured the junior division with 149½ points and Lamar Junior High was runnerup with 132. Scores of other teams: Brownfield 90½, Sweetwater 67, Lamesa 22, Colorado City 18, Lake View 17.

Despite less than ideal conditions, four new records were established in the senior division while five records were broken and another one tied in the junior division.

Snyder High School's Freddy Murphy turned in one of the most impressive performances of the day, erasing the 880 standard which had been on the books 10 years. He sped to a 1:56 flat clocking to best Gene Westmoreland's record of 1:58.4. A native of Lamesa, Westmoreland is a former Snyder coach.

The Tigers won another blue ribbon in the intermediate hurdles as Gary Patterson raced to a 39.7 clocking, only two-tenths of a second off Rockie Woods' record which the Lake View athlete set in 1967. Gary placed second behind Dunbar's Thomas Howard in the high hurdles. Thomas won with a time of 14.2 and Patterson was clocked in 14.4 — six-tenths of a second off his best time in this event this year.

Two other Tigers qualified for the regional meet with Troy Hall taking second in the pole vault by clearing 12-3 and Jimmy Don Dyess finishing as runnerup in the high jump by going over 6-2.

Brownfield's Van Garner erased the old 6-5¼ standard in the high jump by clearing 6-6. The previous record was set by another Brownfield lad — John Brown — a couple of years ago.

Sweetwater's Bruce Foreman shattered the standard in the mile run with a 4:37.7 clocking. The old record was 4:40.8 set by Freddie Benitez of Snyder in 1967.

Dunbar won more first places than Estacado — five to two — but the Matadors had great depth, picking up points in every event except the discus and the pole vault. They placed three men each in the century and 220 events.

Dunbar's Garner Jordan surprised his teammate, Olda Lewis, by winning the long jump with a distance of 23-8¼. Lewis was taped in 23-7½. Both efforts bettered the old record of 22-5½ set by John Brown of Brownfield in 1970.

Other blue ribbons won by the Panthers included George Smith in the 440 yard dash with a 50.2 effort, Gary High in the 220 yard dash with a 22.7 clocking, and the mile relay team with a 3:23.6.

Estacado got its blue ribbons in the sprint relay with a time of 42.7 and in the 100 yard dash on a 9.9 effort by Kenneth Yates.

Other first place winners in the senior division included Mike Ellis of Sweetwater in the discus with a 148-8; Chuck Avants of Lake View in the shot put with a 53-4½, and Steve Smith of Brownfield in the pole vault with a 13-0.

Travis Junior High swept to victory in eight events with Chester Cobb winning three of them. The 190-pound 9th grader set a new record in the long jump with a distance of 21-7½ and he tied the 100 yard dash mark with a 10.1. The previous long jump record has been on the books since 1964 and was established by Lamar's Billy Noel with a distance of 20-7. Cobb shares the century record with Gary Shields of Snyder and David Golightly of Levelland, both of whom were timed at 10.1 in 1968.

Both of Travis' relay teams set new records with the same boys — Danny Brumley, Levi Hill, Alvin Neely and Welton Cobb — running on both units. They were clocked at 45.3 in the sprint relay and 2:37.5 in the 1320 relay. The shorter relay record had been set at 45.7 by Lake View in 1965 while Lamesa had posted the distance record of 2:35.1 in 1967.

The other record to fall in the junior division occurred when Sweetwater's Hodges raced to a 3:28.5 clocking in the 1320 yard run to rub out the old standard of 3:34 set by Snyder's Freddie Benitez in 1966.

Travis' Larry Johns took blue ribbons in the 220 intermediate hurdles and in the 220 yard dash with 29.6 and 24.6 timings respectively.

Alvin Neely, also of Travis, placed first in the 330 yard dash with a time of 38.1.

Lamar captured the two blue ribbons with Ronny Payne taking the high jump by clearing 5-5 and Phil Robinson winning the pole vault by going over at 11 feet even.

Other first places were registered in the 70 yard high hurdles by Keese of Brownfield with a 9.5 and in the discus by J. Brown of Sweetwater with a 156-6.

In the senior division, Snyder's sprint relay team of Sammie Harrison, Hubert Crayton, Billy Giles and Johnny Spears surprised a few people by taking third with a 43.8 clocking. The mile relay unit comprised of Johnny Spears, Jackie Hartsfield, Gary Patterson and Freddy Murphy finished fifth with a time of 3:32.2.

Spears and John Miller captured third places. Spears was taped at 21-10 in the long jump and Miller cleared 11-6 in the pole vault.

Gary Wittie cleared 5-10 to take fifth in the high jump and Mike Line threw the shot 49-6 for sixth place.

Lamar Junior High produced several surprises, beating out Brownfield for second place and taking second place in both relays. The sprint relay foursome of Sammy Harrell, Tim Flynn, Charles Greenfield and Jeff Pippen was timed in 46.8 and the 1320 relay quartet of Tim Flynn, Bobby Wall, Eric Schrader and Charles Greenfield posted a 2:38.4.

Lamar was strong in the field events, picking up 18 points each in the high jump and pole vault and 23 points in the other three field events.

Lamar picked up six second places overall with James Newby heaving the shot 50-8, Loyd Bachus clearing 10-6 in the pole vault, and Jeff Pippen going 19-3 in the long jump and 10.9 in the 100 yard dash.

Travis' Alvin Neely also took second in the high jump by clearing 5-4 while Larry Johns took second in the 70 yard high hurdles with a 9.6, and Levi Hill placed second in the 220 yard dash with a 24.9.

Five Lamar boys collected third place points. David Mayes cleared 5-3 in the high jump, Eric Schrader ran the century in 11.1, Tim Flynn turned in a 39.5 clocking in the 330 yard dash, Sammie Harrell was timed in 30.7 in the 230 intermediate hurdles, and Charles Greenfield was clocked at 25 flat in the 220 yard dash finishes. Levi Hill cleared 5-3 in the high jump, Robert Ramirez ran a 1:34.6 in the 660, Jimmy Taylor posted a 10.2 in the 70 yard hurdles, and Greg Gafford turned in a 3:30.4 in the 1320 yard run. Lamar's Roy Lee Carter was fourth in the discus with a 133-1, and Jeff Pippen took fourth in the 220 yard dash with a 25.1.

Three Lamar lads and one Travis athlete picked up fifth places. Lamar's Eric Schrader was timed in 40.5 in the 330 yard dash, Win Bunch high jumped 5-2, and Sonnier heaved the shot 46-2½. Travis' Alvin Neely long jumped 17-8.

Lamar had four sixth places and Travis collected one and shared another one. Lamar's Randy Gresett long jumped 17-7¼, Roy Lee Carter was timed in 11 flat in the 70 yard high hurdles, Bobby Wall was timed in 40.9 in the 330 yard dash, and Carter registered a 31 flat clocking in the 230 yard intermediate hurdles. Travis' Danny Brumley cleared 9-0 in the pole vault, and Chester Cobb cleared 5-0 in the high jump.

Snyder Baseball Team Wins, 12-6

BROWNFIELD — The host Cubs led for three innings, but the Snyder Tigers went ahead in the fourth frame and closed out strong for a 12-6 victory in the first District 3-AAA baseball contest of the season for both teams here Saturday.

Tim Holder registered his seventh straight triumph for the Tigers, striking out 11. However, he got off to a shaky start as Brownfield took a 4-0 lead in the 1st inning on five walks combined with singles by Jim Chance and David Murphy.

Snyder cut the margin to 4-2 in the top of the 2nd on singles by David Thompson and Albert Hernandez combined with an error by the catcher.

The Tigers pulled within one run, at 3-4, in the 3rd. Charles Anderson took an Annie Oakley and advanced all the way around on successive free passes to James Hood, Butch Buchanan and Hernandez.

Snyder went ahead 5-4 in the 4th. Louis Loyd was hit by a pitched ball and went to second on a sacrifice by Holder. The throw to first was wide and Loyd took another base and scored on a wild pitch. Successive singles by Anderson and Hood left the sacks loaded, and Holder tagged up and scored after a fly to left by David Thompson.

Three more Tiger runs in the 6th resulted from successive singles by Anderson, Hood and Tommy Washington followed by sacrifices by Thompson and Buchanan and a double by Hernandez.

Brownfield cut the margin to 8-6 with two runs in the bottom of the 6th. They got them on singles by Gary Willis and Jim Chance combined with a wild pitch and another single by Eddie Ryburn.

Snyder sacked it up in the 7th with a 4-run outburst. Scotty Sullivan singled and was forced at second with Holder reaching first safely. Nicky Neeves came in as a pinch runner for Holder, then Anderson stroked a single to right. Both runners came in on a home run over the left-centerfield fence by Tommy Washington. David Thompson walked, stole second, and scored on a single by Buchanan.

The Tigers are now 17-2 for the season and they host Lamesa here Saturday at 2 p.m.

Holder was tagged for six hits. Billy Blankenship opened on the hill for Brownfield and gave way in relief to Miller. Blankenship was charged with the loss. They gave up a total of 12 hits. Blankenship was very effective in the first three innings, however, as he struck out a total of nine.

Golf Team Qualifies For Region

BROWNFIELD—The Snyder High School golf team won the third and concluding District 3-AAA golf match here Saturday with a 323 on a windy, dusty afternoon under conditions that were anything but ideal.

The Tigers shaved six strokes off Sweetwater's lead, but the Mustangs closed with a 329 to win the overall championship 931 to 941. Sweetwater and Snyder both will compete in the regional tournament at the Odessa Country Club Friday and Saturday. Tee off will be at 9 a.m. both days.

Snyder's Steve Talbott shot a closing round 84 to win medalist honors with an overall 73-72-84—230. Sweetwater's Scott Morgan was runnerup with a 74-75-82—231.

Scores of other Tiger individuals Saturday: Mark Hargrove 78, Jeff Richardson 85, Fred Liner 86, and Marty Pate 86.

Scores of other teams in the last round: Brownfield 347, Lamesa 357, Sweetwater B 362, and Colorado City 393.

The Snyder B team didn't compete Saturday after firing a 356 in the first match and a 339 in the second match.

Final standings:

El Paso Leads Texas League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

El Paso stands today at the top of the standings of the Western Division of the Texas League, thanks to its third consecutive victory over Amarillo Sunday night.

In the Eastern division, Alexandria moved away from the other teams by posting its second consecutive win, a 6-0 victory over Shreveport.

Outfielder Lee Robinson highlighted a four-run El Paso rally in the third inning with a two-run homer as the local team went on to take the game 5-4.

Jeff Zahn, who received relief assistance from Larry McDowell in the eight inning, got credit for the victory.

Horns, Frogs In Showdown

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Faltering Texas Christian and onrushing defending champion Texas collide in Fort Worth Friday and Saturday in a showdown for the Southwest Conference baseball leadership.

The Horned Frogs carry a shaky one-game edge into the three-game weekend series after dropping two out of three games to Baylor over the weekend. TCU is 9-3 in SWC play.

Decisions Are Easier To Criticize Than Make

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the men you are accustomed to seeing quoted in the newspaper wish to remind you that it is easier to criticize the decision than to make it. Could you do any better, they ask?

The rules of the game say that, for no reason whatever, can you dodge the issue. You must make your choice even though the alternatives aren't clear or even understood. And then you must live with your decision.

No. 1. You are a member of the Federal Reserve Board, which largely determines U.S. monetary policy; that is, you have a direct impact on the size of the nation's money supply, or interest rates and related items.

European bankers are yelling in your ear that the international monetary system is endangered if the United States doesn't begin sopping up the billions of dollars in U.S. currency circulating abroad.

Those dollars are being used abroad just as if they were the foreign currency, and they are contributing to inflation. Foreign central banks would like to convert them for gold, but convertibility has been suspended. The United States won't let them trade in their dollars.

The answer, you are told, is to exert pressure for higher U.S. interest rates. Those dollars then would be attracted back to the United States in search of higher yields. The pressure would be off. World trade would survive.

At the same time, however, you have a mass of Americans clamoring for low interest rates so that they can afford mortgages and expand their plants and, in general, move the economy ahead.

In fact, you are told that, with unemployment relatively high, it is imperative to forcefully expand the economy. Otherwise there is no hope of accommodating an ever-growing labor force.

Which course would you choose, foreign or domestic? The Fed has tilted in favor of the domestic concern, but lately it has shown some indications of trying to appease foreign governments—a straddle, to some extent.

Would you handle it any differently were you in their spot?

No. 2. You are a mutual fund portfolio manager with a dismal record, mainly because your solid blue chips haven't moved. You are coming to the close of the quarter, and that means you must report to shareholders.

You believe in the stocks you own, but you're not sure others do. After all, they are what are called fundamentally strong stocks, and such stocks seldom bolt ahead like the glamors. Still, when the glamors are tarnished, those blue chips will still be shining.

You consider again. Some of the other funds are going to show those fast-moving issues in their portfolios and they're going to look like geniuses. You, by contrast, will seem like a poke.

You decide to "dress up" your portfolio so the shareholders will think you're with it. They'll never know you bought them at extravagant prices because you don't have to tell them the date of purchase.

Would you have chosen to face the wrath of shareholders instead?

No. 3. You are a member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and you are asked by Congress to comment on the state of the economy. Prices are up; jobs are down, and retail sales are "sluggish."

In fact, the very latest figures released a few hours ago show inflation still above 4 per cent and the jobless rate actually higher than a month ago.

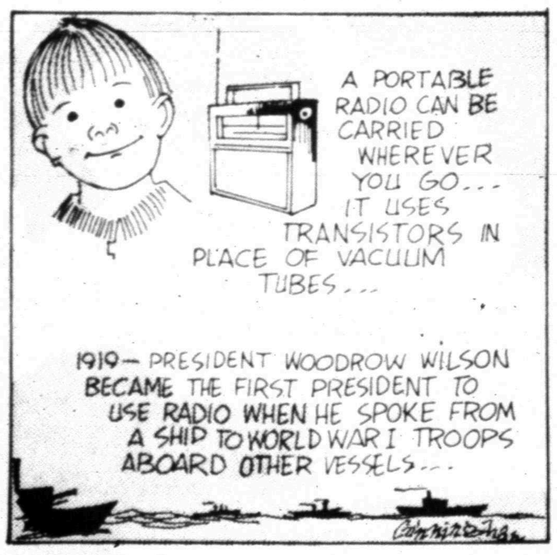

You, an economist, know that, when you read the figures in the privacy of your office, you hurled a volume of Keynes against the wall. But now your reaction will be closely watched by the entire nation.

The congressman and his aides shift impatiently in their seats and so you begin:

"I am greatly encouraged...."

What would you have said?

Junior Editors Quiz on RADIOS

QUESTION: How do radios work without wires?

* * *

ANSWER: Radio is the transmission of messages through space by means of electric waves rather than wires. Light is a form of radiation which travels in waves from the stars and planets. Radio waves are sent out and collected on earth by radio receivers which magnify them.

Marconi, an Italian working in England, was the founder of radio communication. In 1896 he took out a patent. In 1901 he succeeded in sending and receiving messages across the Atlantic ocean. He sent dots and dashes, but not a spoken message.

Broadcasting the voice was made possible by the vacuum tube, first made by an Englishman, John Fleming, an electrical engineer and improved by Lee de Forest, an American inventor. The first radio broadcast was heard on Christmas Eve, 1906. As time went on, more and more uses for radio transmission were found and ways to improve radio transmission were developed. In 1926, a Westinghouse Company engineer started a series of broadcasts which were enthusiastically received. Out of this developed KDKA, Pittsburgh, Pa., the first radio station licensed by the government.

Cowboys Men Of Few Words

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Persons who judge a cowboy's articulateness by the "nope" and "yep" of the movies' Western hero just don't understand the situation.

Cowboys were great talkers in their own way, although a dozen words or less were all they needed to make their point.

In concise expressions, they could describe something so that no one ever forgot it.

But the cowboy was not to be accorded literary fame.

For one thing, there usually weren't any writers around.

Yet, out around the rim of the campfire, where there were only flickers of light, a fellow named Ramon F. Adams was busily noting the language.

His scribbles cover somewhere near 80 years; and he has just finished a book, "The Cowman Says It Salty," published by the University of Arizona Press at Tucson.

Why this ability of cowboys to paint a sharp picture in few words?

Well, for one thing they tried. Pithy comments set a man apart, made him a figure in the region.

And there was plenty of time to compose a sentence just right when riding a fence line or circling all night around a herd of sleeping cattle.

The cowboy could make a verb out of anything and always spoke in the present tense. His use of the double negative was beautiful.

As in this one, combining negatives and present tense:

"A cow with a fresh-branded calf might be a mother, but she shore ain't no lady."

Their humor was grotesque, rough, sly and startling, as Adams relates it:

"One cowboy was telling me about his bunkie coming home drunk.

"'And you know,' he said, 'that son-of-a-gun piled into bed just like a rooster.'

"Not being sure if he meant merely 'cock-eyed;' I asked: 'How's that?'

"'With his spurs on,' he answered as if astonished I did not comprehend his meaning without question."

Or a cryptic explanation of human motives: "I came out here because it's a country where a man can switch his tail."

On drinking to forget your troubles: "A corkscrew never pulled nobody out of a hole."

Probably nothing is as violent in range work as breaking a bronc. Thus it spawned a gold mine of language.

One universal phrase was too graphic and desperate to become any one man's propergy.

The scene is a just-thrown cowboy jumping up and down "like an empty barrel boundin' downhill."

The calf ropers were proud of their cutting horses. One declared his "can turn on a biscuit and never bust the crust." Cowboys used few words which would offend the morality of the early West.

Just about as far as they would go was a cowboy, alone, far from camp, thrown from his horse and forced to walk back, who commented, "There's more of hell above ground than I thought."

He may not have had a Ph.D. in English, but the old cowboy certain had a love of language.

Nudists Give Clothes Away

BERNALILLO, N.M. (AP) — Nudists, of course, don't wear clothes.

But the nature worshippers in New Mexico's only nudist camp go even farther—they give away clothes.

Briscoe Spices Texas Political Front Sunday

By ELOY AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer

Democratic gubernatorial nomination candidate Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde spiced on otherwise quiet Texas political front Sunday with an attack on what he called the "cookie jar gang" in Austin.

It was another of Briscoe's volleys at what he calims is widespread corruption in Austin among government leaders and politicians.

"If the incumbent leadership is returned to office," Briscoe said in a speech at a rally in Hermann Park in Houston, "we will find ourselves with a state government that is just as bankrupt financially as it is morally."

Most of his audience was made up of youths, so Briscoe reminded them that "the youth vote can help our state government become a people oriented government that is responsible to the needs of the people."

Briscoe also said that an urgent need in Texas is the construction of rapid transit systems in the state's large cities.

In Austin, the president of the Texas AFL-CIO, Roy Evans, said in a television program that apprently Democratic gubernatorial candidate Frances Farenthold has the support of most of Texas' labor leaders.

"Most of the state's labor leaders," Evans said on "Capital Eye," "are pretty well hooked up on Sissy Farenthold's campaign."

Evans also said that labor probably would back Dolph Briscoe in a runoff with Barnes.

In Dallas, Ramsey Muniz, leader of the Raza Unida Mexican-American party, charged that Mrs. Farenthold has "fattened her children's wallets at the expense of Mexican-Americans."

Muniz, who intends to run as a candidate for governor in the November general elections, extended his attack to cover Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes. He said both Barnes and Mrs. Farenthold candidates "are now trying to attract the Mexican-American vote when they have done nothing for Mexican-Americans in the past."

In a speech before the Chicano Political Conference at Southern Methodist University, Muniz said that "all the Democratic party is going to give the Mexican-Americans and the rest of the state's electorate is John Dowdys, Preston Smiths, Gus Mutschers and Ben Barnes."

Tom Cartlidge, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate while walking 350 miles across Texas, said at a point between West and Waco that his opponents are "liberal boring." He was referring to former senator Ralph Yarborough and Barefoot Sanders.

Cartlidge, "a conservative Vietnam veteran, also said that "too much attention is being given to the governor's race and not enough to the races for the state legislature.

He said that the legislature and the lieutenant governor are more powerful than the governor himself and that "it is important to elect legislators who will bring about the changes that people want."

Demand For FPEs Warming

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: Why don't you write about fire protection engineers -- a unique and practically unknown specialty in engineering, and one that is in short supply of qualified personnel? -- E.F.V., Chicago

A fire protection engineer (FPE) is not a manual fire-fighter, but a college graduate engineer. The FPE's job is to curb the rising death toll and property destruction caused by fire, explosion and related hazards.

DEMAND IS HEATING UP for FPEs these days after a half-century of smoldering nonrecognition. Crackling with good job opportunities, this career field seems destined to spread rapidly throughout the 70s. Why?

For one thing, the public is increasingly fire-minded, after the rash of fires in recent years, including the high-rise building disasters. Federal safety legislation passed last year is sparking demand for FPEs. Insurance rates and building codes are important factors. Overall, there's a growing awareness on the part of architects, builders, city planners, government officials and others that a flaming holocaust should not be considered an unpreventable "act of God."

FIRE PROTECTION AUTHORITIES say that fires can, in large part, be scientifically predicted and prevented – such as structural collapse in a poorly constructed building can be anticipated. There are an estimated 2-3,000 FPEs, and only about 30 are being graduated yearly from the 2 schools offering degree programs in fire protection engineering – Illinois Institute of Technology (IIT) and University of Maryland.

Earnings are comparable to other types of engineers: examples: $12-15,000 for 3 years' experience; $14-20,000 for 10 years' experience.

Professor Rolf Jensen, chairman of IIT's fire protection program briefly describes the . . .

NATURE OF THE WORK. "Fire protection engineers work in 3 broad areas – application engineering, research and product design, or sales and insurance.

* An application engineer is part of a team that designs buildings, factories and processes to give the most economic fire protection within building code requirements. He or she designs systems that can detect and control fire – and alert building occupants. He also evaluates or prepares municipal fire defenses for large cities.

* The fire protection engineer in research and product design works for solutions to new kinds of fire problems – such as a system that will extinguish a fire in a modern super building, for example, a highly automated warehouse.

* The FPE is involved in almost every facet of the insurance industry. Opportunities also exist for the FPE in sales for organizations that manufacture and install fire protection and extinguishing equipment and systems."

FIRE PROTECTION ENGINEERS work for fire insurance companies, large industrial concerns (especially the heavy manufacturing, petroleum and chemical fields), government, and serve as consultants. Backgrounds other than specialized fire protection engineering often are: mechanical, civil, electrical and chemical engineering.

A FINAL POINT: Fire protection engineering is one career where you can't take offense if the boss tells you to go to the blazes.

FOR ADDITIONAL INFORMATION. Career literature is available from: Fire Protection Curriculum, U. of Maryland, Box 85, College Park, Md.; Fire Protection Engineering Dept., Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, Ill. 60616. Librarians Set Session

Librarians from a wide area will meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Snyder Savings and Loan Community Room for sharpening their skills in planning special projects for their libraries.

Conducting the session will be Vanita Rothel, field consultant for the Texas State Library.

The session here will be one of a series of workshops being held throughout the state for librarians in the state's 380 public libraries. Since adequate pre-planning is an essential ingredient of successful implementation of projects carried out under federal Library Services and Construction Act programs, the workshop is particularly important for librarians in libraries which meet criteria of local support to qualify for Title I grants.

Lunar Buggy Cost Millions

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — It cost millions to build the lunar buggy scheduled to explore the moon on Apollo 16, but a man who helped to develop it says the price doesn't begin to compare with its advantages.

And besides, says Frank J. Musil of Huntsville, Ala., it costs plenty to build a regular earth bound car.

He said one of the major automobile manufacturers in Detroit recently reported that it cost $400 million to develop a new model. "And that's not counting the engine," he said.

Musil, the Boeing Co. program manager for the lunar rover, said the total contract for the vehicle amounted to about $38 million, including $30-$32 million for designing and developing it.

"In terms of actual hardware sitting there, it's not all that much," Musil said, noting there are no plans to return any lunar rovers to earth.

"It probably amounts to $100,000 or so, but it served its purpose," he said. "It covered more than 10 times the area covered by any previous walking missions."

The rover was first used on Apollo 15. Plans call for it to make both the Apollo 16 and 17 flights.

He said the only change he could recommend was redesigning the seatbelts, which has been done. "I can't think of a better way to do it," he said of the little buggy.

Scott said man may benefit from concepts developed for the lunar rover, such as the vehicle's hand control "stick" that incorporates all features of driving, including turning and stopping.

He predicted the public will continue to support the space program because people are beginning to learn there are valuable returns from it.

"Technology is what keeps this country going," he said. "It's our best product."

Musil said the lunar rover was not the only type of transportation considered for the moon. Pogo sticks and back pack rockets were among possibilities discussed, he said, adding:

"But it just turned out that the good old American automobile was the best way to do it."

Musil and Scott discussed the rover at a meeting sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Board Elects At Hermleigh

HERMELIGH — Jackie Nachlinger has been elected president of the Hermleigh Independent School District Board of Trustess.

Other officers of the board are Donald Tate, vice president, and Jimmy Roemisch, secretary.

The Canvass of election returns showed Terry J. Nachlinger and Jim Bridges elected to fill the posts formerly held by Jimmy Beck and Bud Coonrod who did not seek re-election. Other members of the board of trustees are Doyle Wemken and T. C. Herrera.

Dale Hess, C. W. Feaster and Harry McHaney were appointed to serve on the board of tax equalization for 1972. The equalization board will hold its first meeting at 2 p.m. on July 24. The board indicated that no change in the district's tax structure is expected for the 1972-73 school year.

Recover Body From Trinity

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The body of a Grapevine real estate developer, missing since Nov. 30, has been recovered from the waters of the Trinity River.

Police said Carey G. Lavender was murdered. An autopsy revealed he was shot twice in the chest and once in the chest. Three .22-caliber slugs were recovered.

Sheriff Wylie Barnes and a deputy, removed the body from the water Sunday after two fishermen discovered it. One of the fishermen had hooked a rope that was tied around the body at the waist.

Lavender was last seen on Nov. 30 after cashing a check for $9,000 and reportedly telling a business associate he was going on a trip to Kansas.

His 1972 Lincoln sedan was found a few days later in a parking lot at Dallas Love Field. The trunk area of the car had been burned and officers said traces of blood were found.

Barnes said identification was made through a watch, a belt buckle, boots, a pocket knife and other articles Lavender usually carried.

The sheriff said no arrests have been made.

New Beer Tax

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Delegate Isaiah Dixon has introduced a bill to raise the state's beer tax from 3 cents to 11 cents a gallon.

"The cliche, 'beer is a poor man's champagne,' went out with the nickel beer," Dixon told the legislature.

"It's been a long time since you could buy a bottle of beer for a nickel, but we have not raised the beer tax since those days."

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

Earn big money right in your own home - home workers wanted! Make extra $$$ working at home.

The work-at-home scheme, usually heralded in junk mail or newspaper want-ads similar to those above, have particular appeal to pensioned older folks with time on their hands and to mothers with young children. Here's a chance to pick up a little extra cash to buy that new furniture or appliance, to take the dreamed-of vacation or just to help meet the everyday cost of living. At least that's the appearance given by the company making the offer - but don't bet on it.

My Consumer Protection Division gets numerous complaints each year concerning these work-at-home gimmicks. Experience shows that far too often consumers who bite on the work-at-home pitch wind up spending money instead of making money.

The swindles range from addressing envelopes to making some article in the home for the company to sell. The work involved varies greatly but there is one common theme which runs throughout all of these plans. The person, in order to secure the home employment, must first part with some money. The amount of money typically small. We have had instances reported to us of companies asking for as little as 25c but generally the cost runs from $2 to $10. This purchase by the consumer is what the company is interested in and not in providing employment.

Often the consumer who gets nothing for his money is luckier than the consumer who gets a kit to make a product which is to be sold to the company. The finished product is rarely bought back by the company because it is not "up to standards" or the handwriting on the envelopes is "not legible and neat." Probably worse than the loss of ths small amount of money involved, the victim has wasted his time and is left with the feeling of humiliation and failure at his inability to produce "quality merchandise." Unknown to him, however, is the fact that no one produces merchandise which meets the "standards" set by the company.

Be an informed consumer. Don't be victimized by the home employment racket. Think before you part with your money for a home employment opportunity.

Livestock Records Established

WASHINGTON (AP) — The otal live weight and sale value f the nation's cattle, hogs and heep set new records last ear, according to the Agricul- ure Department.

Farm production of meat ani- nals totaled 64.6 billion pounds, ompared with 62.5 billion in 970. Cattle and calves account- d for 63 per cent; hogs and igs 35 per cent; and sheep and ambs two per cent. Those hares were unchanged from 970, officials said.

The estimated value of pro- uction of all types last year as $16.2 billion, up slightly om $970. More cattle and ogs, coupled with higher aver- ge prices for cattle and alves, were mostly offset by wer prices for hogs and heep.

Estimated "value of produc- on" relates to the actual ounds of meat animals turned t during a year, including ew calves, pigs and lambs, us weight gains on animals rried over from the previous ar.

That is different from "cash ceipts" producers get for sale livestock, estimated in 1971 a record $19.3 billion, up four r cent from 1970. Much of at value was from stock car- d over into the 1971 feeding ar.

Receipts for 1971 marketings cattle and calves totaled arly $15 billion, up nine per nt from a year earlier. The erage price for cattle was $29 r hundredweight, compared th $27.10 in 1970, the Crop Re- rting Board said.

Cattle and calf product- totaled 40.6 billion pounds, five per cent from 1970.

Hog output last year was put 22.9 billion pounds, up five cent from 1970. Cash eipts were $4 billion, down per cent as a result of aver- market prices dropping to 50 per hundredweight from 70 in 1970, officials said.

uit Ordered On Empire Life

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — he State Insurance Depart- ent will file a receivership it against the Empire Life In- rance Co. of America today the order of Gov. George C. allace.

The chief executive ordered e suit Sunday after a state In- rance Department counsel d an audit of the firm owed an impairment of $7.4 illion. However, during a aring April 10, the company oduced evidence that the im- irement was actually about million, a department lawyer id.

Headquartered in Houston, x., Empire Life was char- ed in Alabama and Insur- ce Commissioner John Book- t said about 50 per cent of its licy holders are in this state. He said Arkansas and Texas ve taken similar action and at Texas has the firm under supervision order.

Project Is New At Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A project aimed at minimizing problems presented by various architectural barriers to handicapped persons has been launched at Texas Tech University.

Targets are such things as a simple flight of stairs, a narrow doorway or an inconveniently located telephone which present little problem to most persons but which may become complete and absolute barriers to those who must contend with them in wheelchairs, on crutches or without the ability to see.

The project in the area of architectural barriers has been begun by Tech's chapter of Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity and the university's Institute for Development of Family Resources.

Train Hijack Attempt Halted

EARLE, Ark. (AP) — Daniel Deoca, 38, of Memphis had jumped from one freight car to another and was within two cars of the train's engine when he was arrested Sunday, halting an apparent attempt to highjack the train.

Deputy Sheriff Don Smithson of Crittenden County said that after Deoca was arrested he said he was "going to take the train to California."

"This is the first time I ever heard of a freight train being hijacked," said Smithson. "They've quit the airplanes and started on the trains now."

Smithson said when the Missouri-Pacific train was stopped at Earle, Deoca pointed a .22-caliber pistol at the four waiting law enforcement officers, hesitated, then stuck the gun back in his waistband before jumping off the train.

Smithson said that Deoca was charged with public drunkeness after registering .20 in a breath test—.13 is considered intoxicated.

He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

The deputy said that the engineer and the conductor on the train said that Deoca had signaled to them with three flares several times.

However, Smithson said that each time an engineer stuck his head out the window, Deoca would point the gun at him and wave to either speed up the train or to slow down.

Smithson said the law officers took the weapon from Deoca but found no dynamite, but he said that Deoca later told them he was using them to light cigarettes because he was out of matches.

"I was scared to death, I'm not going to lie to you," Smithson said.

Deoca's odyssey apparently began when he received a call Saturday from his grandmother in California telling him that his former wife had died in January.

He told arresting officers he decided to go to California to bring his five children back to Memphis, where he works in a glass factory.

Harry Hammer, public relations director for Missouri-Pacific, said the train crew radioed at about 2 p.m. that a man had climbed on the train as it passed over the bridge in the Mississippi River.

Smithson said that Deoca, a Mexican-American, did not appear to be sorry for what he had done at first.

"But after talking to him an hour and a half, he said he was awful sorry it happened," Smithson said. "He started crying and said he wanted to get out to California."

Deoca was then fed dinner and was put in jail.

He said Deoca has not been charged with highjacking the train, but the deputy said train detectives want to talk to him Monday.

Agent Orange Release Urged

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is under pressure to turn loose the powerful Agent Orange, a chemical defoliant banned for use in the Vietnam war, for widespread application on American ranch lands.

Government sources say ranchers have urged that the chemical be released by the military and sold to them at cut rates for use in killing sagebrush on millions of acres of livestock grazing land.

Some members of Congress also have asked that the chemical be made available to ranchers, according to a spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency.

But the EPA says it is unlikely government stockpiles of the chemical will be declared surplus.

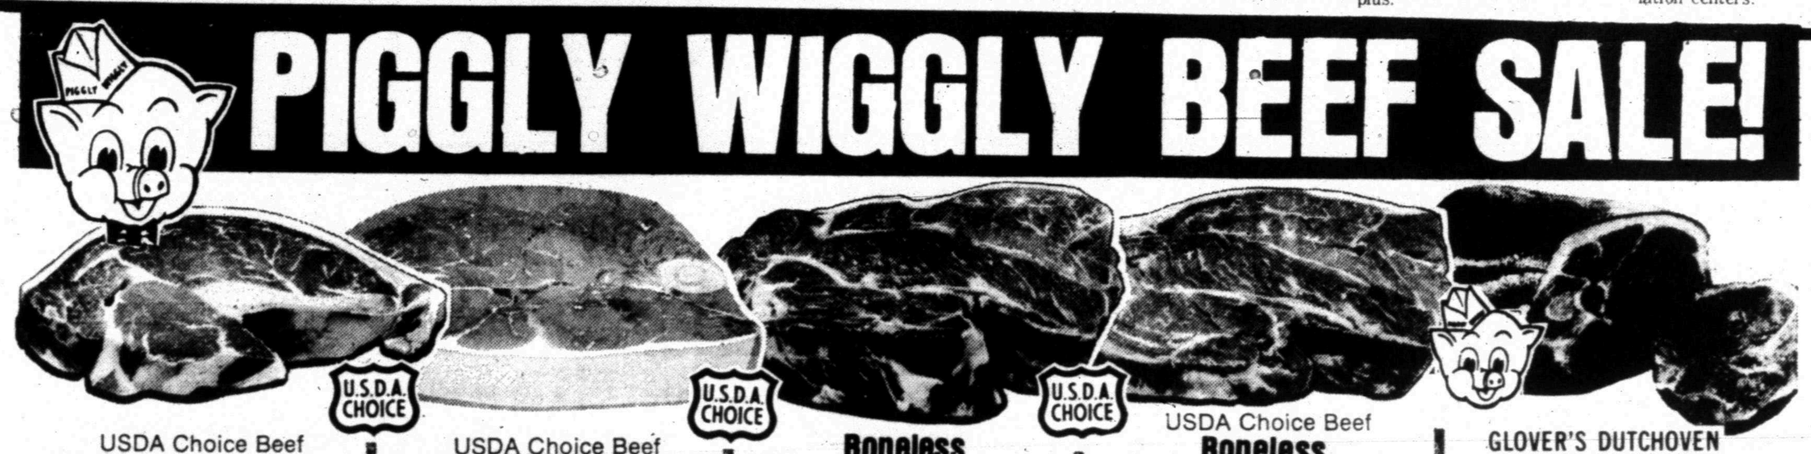

Agent Orange was used for years by the Air Force to denude Vietnam jungles before the Defense Department halted the practice in 1970. Laboratory tests showed the chemical retarded growth and caused birth defects in rodents.

The government has about 1.6 million gallons of Agent Orange in South Vietnam and another 800,000 gallons in U.S. storage it would like to destroy.

"We're being besieged on both sides," the EPA spokesman said. "From ranchers who want us to get it for them, and from environmentalists who object to plans for burning it."

The EPA says burning Agent Orange in high-intensity furnaces which have antipollution safeguards is an acceptable method of disposal as long as it is done away from major population centers.

Waitress unravels restaurant mystery

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Someone wanted to know why some people come into a restaurant and sit at a dirty table when there are clean tables they could just as easily sit at.

Well, I'm a waitress, and I think I know.

- Some folks like to have a table that is NOT near the rest rooms. [And some want one NEAR the rest rooms.]
- Some like to sit near the music. [Others sit as far away from the music as they can get.]
- They don't want to be near the kitchen. [Too noisy and too much hustling and bustling of the help.]
- Some like to sit where they can watch the door to see who comes in.
- Some want a table where they can be seen.
- Others prefer an out-of-the-way table where they're less conspicuous.
- Some like to sit near the window so they can look out.
- Some like to sit where they can keep their eye on the clock.
- Some like to sit near the exit in case of fire?

I'm sure there are other reasons, but I've got to go now because I'm on duty and must clear a certain table. It's the favorite with many customers because [if you'll forgive me for bragging], it's my station. LOVE, LOIS

DEAR LOIS: It's easy to understand why customers like you. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: If after years of hard work, your husband finally had an opportunity to do what he has always wanted to do: to run his own business and be his own boss, but it meant that you would have to leave your lifelong friends and part of your family, and your lovely, comfortable home and move to another state where you knew no one and would have to practically start all over again, what would you do? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Are you kidding? I would go with him and never look back. And I have done it three times!

DEAR ABBY: My husband prefers long hair, so I let mine grow long. Recently, I decided to get a little trimmed off the ends to get a permanent.

I called a beauty shop and made an appointment. The owner of the shop told the operator what I wanted done, and then I told the operator that I wanted only a little trimmed off the ends.

I then took off my glasses so they wouldn't be in the way. The operator then proceeded to chop off my hair, and it ended up VERY short. I was upset, but said nothing, thinking if the end result looked nice it would be all right.

When I tried to tell the operator what style I wanted for my hair, she said they didn't do that there, and then she gave me an awful, childish hairdo.

When I complained to the owner, all she said was, "I'm sorry." What recourse do I have? Can an operator in a beauty shop just chop off hair without any responsibility to the customer? I'd appreciate any help you can give me.

LOOKS AWFUL

DEAR LOOKS: Customers have been known to sue beauty parlors for damages. But in order to collect, the customer must prove that she has suffered a financial loss, physical pain, or disfigurement, or mental anguish as a result of their services. This will be difficult for you to establish, unless your husband cuts off your allowance because you've cut off your hair.

DEAR ABBY: Put this on your list of reasons why people come into a restaurant and sit at a dirty table. They know the waitress will have to come and clear it off immediately, and that's when they nab her fast to take their orders!

Prison To Have Ombudsman

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — State Corrections Commissioner David Fogel says an ombudsman for the corrections system will soon be appointed by Gov. Wendell Anderson.

"He'll be able to look over anyone's shoulder and have complete access to the system," Fogel said Sunday in describing plans for the intermediary between inmates and officials.

Miss Texas Due At Fiesta

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—One of the state's most beautiful girls, Miss Texas Universe, will be taking her share of bows here this week as a special guest of the city's annual fiesta.

Susan Peters, 21, a Houston native who now calls Austin home, is scheduled to appear before thousands of residents and visitors in Fiesta Week's traditional parades.

The blue-eyed brunette also will be looking forward to next month, when she represents Texas in the Miss USA Pageant in Puerto Rico. The winner of that contest goes to the Miss Universe Pageant.

Susan, representing Stephen F. Austin State University of Nacogdoches, won the Miss Texas Universe crown here Saturday night. She succeeded Brenda Box of Amarillo.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Peters Jr. of Austin, she is the second girl in her family to win a beauty pageant. Her sister, Barbara, 19, was crowned Miss Junior Achievement of Texas in 1970.

Miss Peters, who has a 36-24-35 figure, moved with her family from Houston to Austin last summer.

Runnersup in the pageant, which will be permanently headquartered here, included Miss Huntsville, Susie Howard of Cuero; Miss Alamo City, Jackie Behrendt of San Antonio; Miss UT-Austin, Debra Ploch of Richardson, and Miss Edinburg, Cindy Roberts of Edinburg.

Named Miss Photogenic from the field of 39 entrants in this year's pageant was Jane Little, Miss El Paso. Chosen Miss Amity by the girls themselves was Candy Jinnette of Corpus Christi.

Say Heath Needs Official Hostess

LONDON (AP) — Edward Heath, Britain's bachelor prime minister, should have an official hostess, an opposition member of Parliament says.

"I am even willing to offer him the services of my address book," MP Leslie Huckfield said Sunday.

Huckfield, also a bachelor and 25 years younger than the 55-year-old prime minister, said he would raise the hostess idea in the House of Commons.

He noted that Heath has been holding dinner parties at No. 10 Downing Street since his election in June 1970 without an official hostess.

Black Center Of Methodist Dispute

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — United Methodists, meeting for the first time in the deep South since the healing in 1939 of a rift between northern and southern branches, today were caught in a new furor over a black minister.

But there was disagreement over whether racial connotations figured in the dispute.

The case took on added drama when Georgia's Methodist bishop overruled Atlanta's biggest, oldest Methodist church in refusing to admit the minister to its pulpit and ordered it to do so.

"We have no alternative but to yeild," said the Rev. Dr. Robert V. Ozment, pastor of the 2,400-member First Methodist Church here. "But it is over the protest of me and my congregation."

The controversy blew up just as 1,000 churches delegates from across the country convened here for their quadrennial governing convention.

The dispute centers on the Rev. Cecil Williams, the black pastor of San Francisco's Glide Memorial Church.

He is booked to appear Thursday as part of a series of preaching services held in connection with the convention.

"We've heard enough to conclude he is not the sort of man we want in our pulpit," said Dr. Ozment. "But race is not involved in this at all."

However, the Rev. Cain Felder, head of Black Methodists for Church Renewal, said, "This very clearly is a racial thing along with Cecil Williams, hip type of ministry."

After First Church ruled him unwelcome, the services were shifted to Trinity Church a mile further away, but it also turned him down.

Then in a last-hour decision, after Georgia's bishop John Owen Smith overrode the objections of First Church, a program committee moved the services back there.

Dr. Ozment said he and his church board had decided to refuse the appearance of the Rev. Mr. Williams after he failed to reply to a letter asking about various allegations, including:

That he had officiated at a homosexual marriage; that his church had sponsored activities at which alcoholic beverages were served; and that nudity had occurred in his worship services.

"Anyone who says race is involved is absolutely wrong," said Dr. Ozment.

Hoagy Awarded Doctorate Of Music

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Hoagy Carmichael, who is reputed to have composed the famous "Stardust" while hunched over an old piano at a student hangout here, has been awarded a doctorate of music by Indiana University.

Carmichael, an IU graduate, was one of six musicians awarded honorary doctorates over the weekend at the dedication of IU's new Musical Arts Center.

Australia Gains In Fruit Trade

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Australia, noted as a U.S. competitor in world grain markets, now is emerging as a giant in international fruit trade, an Agriculture Department report said today.

Huge increases in the production of pears, peaches, apricots and other tree fruit have occurred in recent years, the Foreign Agricultural Service said. Canned fruit exports have risen sharply, making Australia the leader on the world market.

Britain is the major market, taking 63 per cent of Australian canned fruit exports last year, but officials say "significant" gains have been made in Canada, West Germany and the United States.

The fruit trade by Australia is expected to have important long range effects on U.S. growers and their export volume.

Other USDA reports show U.S. fuit exports totaled $34.1 million in 1970 and are expected to change little for the year ending June 30. The value represents a sizeable portion of total U.S. farm exports, last year a record $7.8 billion.

Imports of canned pears from Australia have increased rapidly on U.S. markets as a result of larger production in that country, officials say.

Shipments of all types of fruits, nuts and vegetables from Australia were valued at more than $6.4 million last year, compared with $2.6 million in 1970 and only $1.5 million five years earlier, according to government records.

Australian pears imported for the U.S. market totaled about 345,000 cases last year out of a total of 531,000 from all countries. Italy is the next largest foreign provider.

That represented a sharp increase from 1970 when Australia sold about 106,000 cases to the United States out of a total import level of 147,000 cases.

Henry O. Wagley Jr., author of the report, said 1971 Australian exports of all canned fruit totaled about 7.03 million cases last year, compared with 5.2 million in 1969.

Wagley told a reporter the recent boost in Australian tree fruit output resulted from a massive replanting venture.

Jelly Beans Are Missed

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's jelly beans are being missed by the school kids.

"We miss your jelly beans," said a letter to Johnson, who is recuperating at the Army's Brooke General Hospital from a heart attack. Spokesmen said Sunday that the former president was still "getting along fine."

The former president often brings jelly beans when he visits the school, sources said.
