UNUSUAL RADIO PROGRAM FOR NEW YEAR'S NIGHT.

According to information received by H. O. Denman, local radio enthusiast, and local representative of the Radio Corporation, this great radio manufacturing concern will broadcast a special program between 7 a. m. and midnight, from the New York station, WJZ, and many other stations, such as Denver, San Francisco, and Hastings, will be linked with the New York station by wire or radio, and will re-broadcast the program so that it can be easily received from coast to coast.

Besides the special program that will be given by the New York Station and re-broadcast, an effort will be made to broadcast from London, England, through this powerful station and it is likely that listeners will be able to hear the London Chimes, i. e., "Big Ben" of the House of Parliament. Special orchestras, opera stars, and other headliners will be heard.

Mr. Denman has been designated as "official observer" here and is requested to report on the precipitation either by wire or mail at once.

Those who have radios will want to get tuned in with some of the re-broadcasting stations.

P. T. A. MEETING HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

On account of the inclement weather last Monday, the regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association meeting was postponed until Monday, January 4th. This meeting will be held at the school auditorium, as usual, and as this will be the first meeting of the New Year, all interested in the welfare of the school are urged to be present.

It is important that the parents keep in touch with the teachers and there is no better way of doing this than to attend the P. T. A. meetings regularly.

The Health Nurse who was here just before the Holidays to make a physical examination of the children, completed her work and as complete a report as is available will be given next week in the regular P. T. A. notes.

HOLIDAY DANCE.

The beautiful ranch home of Mrs. W. W. Allen was the scene of much merriment Saturday night when she so graciously entertained a large number of friends with a dance.

The spacious living room and dining room each were artistically decorated in holly, mistletoe and other Christmas decorations which made a very attractive setting.

The music for the evening was furnished by Mrs. John Phillips and Mr. Ed Allen.

At twelve o'clock a buffet luncheon, consisting of turkey, salad on lettuce leaves, cheese, crackers, pickles, hot tea and cake, was served by the hostess.

A large number of out of town visitors were among those who enjoyed Mrs. Allen's hospitality.

Oren C. Reid and family spent the past week or ten days with Mrs. Reid's father, W. H. Sheppard, who lives a mile east of town. They are enjoying their temporary residence in Brownwood, but are always glad to get back among old friends. While here they were also guests at the Weaver H. Baker home. Mrs. Baker is a sister of Mr. Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Baker and daughter, Dorothy, of Sonora, spent Christmas with home folks here.

SALE OF LOCAL PLANT SOLVES LIGHT PROBLEM.

West Texas Utilities Company To Build High Lines from Menard to Junction and On to Mason.

On Wednesday morning of this week, the West Texas Utilities Company became owner of the local light plant, when negotiations that had been under consideration for several months were completed.

Mr. E. V. Sellers, personal representative of Mr. Geo. W. Fry, vice-president and general manager of the West Texas Utilities Company, was here Tuesday and Wednesday, and upon completion of necessary transfer papers, paid the local concern, the Llano River Irrigation and Milling Company, $9,000.00 for the plant, equipment, and water right for electrical energy production.

Preparatory to building a high line from Menard to Junction, the company's engineers had been looking over the ground for several days and actual surveying had already been done.

Thursday morning a party of eleven men, including several local workers, started on the proposed route between here and Menard, and the route will be surveyed and designated as quickly as possible.

As soon as this is completed, the actual work of setting the pole and erecting the lines will begin and it is stated by those in position to know, that the high line will be delivering current in Junction by the 1st of April, or perhaps at an earlier date.

Those who are the principal users of electric current in the town, and who realize the need of this power for future development, irrespective of how efficient a local plant might be, see in this connection with the vast resources of such an organization as the West Texas Utilities Company, the greatest possibilities and believe that with an unlimited supply of electric current available at all times for both lighting and industrial purposes, the future rapid growth of the community is assured.

The West Texas Utilities Co. has spent many millions of dollars in West Texas during the past few years. It is a concern with resources more than $150,000,000, and is affiliated with a financing organization, with headquarters at San Antonio, of which Mr. Fry is the president, with a capital stock of $54,000,000.

A site for the sub-station, the business office and sales-room and for the manager's residence will be purchased shortly, and construction work begun at once.

A tentative rate schedule has been submitted to the town, but publication of same will be withheld until authorized by the company.

While the line is being built into Junction, the former owners will continue to operate the local plant.

LARGE ICE PLANT TO BE BUILT HERE.

Dallas Man to Erect Ten Ton Modern Plant That Will Be In Operation for the Coming Summer.

Another addition to Junction growing business interests will soon be a reality. E. R. Borden, of Dallas, and for some years connected with the Texas Power and Light Company, as a designer of ice making and refrigerating machinery, was here this week to look over the field. After talking with local citizens, he became strongly convinced that the demand would be such that a modern ice plant of ten ton capacity, would be justified, and accordingly began to negotiate with A. P. Urban, owner of the local plant, and on Tuesday, closed a deal whereby he becomes owner of the small local plant and the field. Mr. Urban, however, will continue to operate the plant until such time as it is necessary to begin salvaging it.

At the time of going to press, the site for the plant had not been purchased, but several lots had been tentatively selected as suitable locations and any one of these will put the plant in a convenient and desirable location along one of the main streets, and Mr. Borden says he expects to construct a building for the plant that will be a credit to his business as well as add to the many other attractive business houses that are already here.

The same machinery will be installed and the same process will be followed, as in the larger plants of the cities, and this equipment with Mr. Borden's experience, will enable the plant to produce just as high a quality of ice as can be produced anywhere.

He will return within the next two weeks and construction work will be started as soon as plans can be drawn for the plant, and material placed on the ground.

Mr. Borden expects to bring his wife and two children to Junction within the next few weeks.

SIMON STORE IMPROVED.

Arthur Simon and his clerks were very busy during the few weeks before the Holidays selling groceries, but not too busy to make some desired changes on the inside of his store building that makes it more convenient for the sales force and the customers, and adds much to his facilities for properly displaying his stock of merchandise.

The section of shelving that was in the center, running lengthwise the building, was torn out and set near the back, crosswise, allowing a customer to see the entire store, except storage place for flour, salt, feeds, etc., from any part of the building. Additional shelves have been provided on the east side and the store now has the appearance of an up-to-date grocery. Mr. Simon says he has had an excellent during the few months he has been operating the business and is expecting an even greater patronage in 1926.

While the shop was closed last week for the holidays, a letter was received from Mrs. Roger S. Parry. Dr. Parry is back at his old home town, Washington, Pa., and Mrs. Parry says they are all doing fine, especially Mary Ellen, who is in school now and doing nicely in her work. They hope to come back to Junction next fall for a visit, and in the meantime, extend best wishes to their many friends here.

JUNCTION ALL-STARS DEFEAT MENARD PICK.

On Christmas Day, all the local football enthusiasts and a good many who rarely take an interest in this sport, went to Menard to support an all-star line-up from Junction, that was to defeat the Menard all-stars by a score of 12 to 6.

This was the third engagement with Menard this year. On two previous occasions the high school teams of the two towns had played—once here and once at Menard—with a tie for one game and with Junction winning the other.

One of the largest crowds ever attending a game in this part of the country was out to this one and rooting for each team was unusually enthusiastic. The game was well played and all the more interesting by reason of the fact that there was no squabbling. Both sides, teams as well as spectators, were well satisfied with the conduct of the game.

The following composed the Junction line-up: Van Martin, Shelby Jobs, Sidney Randle, Bill Wright, Pat Beasley, Murr Hodges, Vic Urban, Bill Bissett, Ernest Randle, Dennis Wallace and Howard Blackburn. Substitute: Don Jobs; Umpire, John D. Henderson; Referee, Kirkpatrick; Head lineman, Caldwell.

EXPRESSION CLASS IS PRESENTED IN RECITAL.

The pupils of Mrs. H. O. Patterson were presented in recital at the High School Auditorium on Friday evening, December 18th, and a crowded house was on hand to enjoy the program, in which more than twenty-five pupils took part.

While the program was longer than usual, it was thoroughly enjoyed and the ability displayed by those taking part which kept the audience entertained throughout the evening.

The program closed with an Alphabetical Farce, in which six characters were represented. This served as a climax for the excellent numbers that preceded it and was enthusiastically received.

Messrs. Ray and Olen Ridenhower of Carlton, in Hamilton County, recently purchased the O. B. Fleming ranch on the divide west of Telegraph, and expect to move to the ranch and take possession shortly after the first of the year. These young men are highly recommended by those who know them and will make a valuable addition to our citizenship. Willis Mason, local inspector for the Livestock Sanitary Commission, has known them for many years, as has M. C. Reese, who in his boyhood days, attended school in Hamilton County when the mother of these young men, was the teacher.

Joe P. Riddle and family left last week for Stanton where they will make their home in the future. Mr. Riddle has lived in this community several years and was a good farmer, and had made a fine citizen, and the many friends of the family will regret to learn of his move. He has leased about 200 acres of farming land near Stanton and expects to make a big cotton crop next year.

Miss Lela Huffman who has held a responsible position with a law firm at Crystal City, returned this week after spending the Holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Huffman.

Earl Hill and family spent the Holidays with Mr. Hill's parents and a brother and his family, whose homes are near Rising Star.

CHRISTMAS—and "GOD BLESS US EVERYONE!"

writer not long ago made the statement that the real Christmas spirit was as deceased as old Marley's ghost—dead as the proverbial doornail—or dead-er. "We are skeptical," he said in substance, "see modern men and women; even our children have become too sophisticated to believe in its milk and water myth."

A man who will deliberately and with malice aforethought sit down before his wheezy old typing machine and whack out mellowed sentiments of that kind, without a single qualifying phrase attached, is either a born moron or a shameless glutton. Either he came into the world with light mental luggage or else he wrote that article the day after the Christmas feast—three helpings of juicy, brown turkey nestling close to a sugary pyramid of cranberries, fragrant gilet and biscuits—southern style—done to a golden turn; a feast in which a steaming, raisin-studded and spice-spiked plum pudding played a stellar role.

This is a day of "movements." Suppose we start a brand new one. Suppose we go out and run to earth every sour, dyspeptic, disillusioned, kill-joy old Scrooge in the land, the ropes of popcorn, warlike ribbons and tinsel securely around each scrawny old neck and hang them high as Hannan on the biggest, brightest Christmas tree that ever made happy the hearts of tiny boys and girls. (And serve them right.) And we'll let them sneeze. "Humbug!" Humbug!" as loudly as they choose—once they are safely strung up.

This would be a sad world, indeed, were it not for the other kind of folk. Thanks be to the gods that have kept alive the beautiful, child-like, generous spirit of them—those wonderful ones, ever young, ever remembering, though their heads be as silver, who believe in Christmas; who believe in Santa Claus, in little laughing children; in friendship's vows renewed; who believe in making the eyes of the best beloved to shine like the Christmas stars themselves.

And here are three lusty cheers for the men and women who stand boldly forth and stoutly maintain that "Ole Christmas" has changed not one jot or tittle throughout the ages—that it will never change as long as childhood lasts in the world, as long as family ties bind and friendship's faith remains. Bless their loving hearts! May their Christmas wish come true, be they rich or poor, of high or low degree, and in whatever place they bless with their sweet presence.

Christmas was surely meant to be a season of joy and laughter, as well as one in which we glorify the birth of the blessed Savior. Throughout the centuries a spirit of revelry has marked the tide of Yule. The observance of an annual season of merry-making dates back even farther than the advent of Christianity. It is said that long ere the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem the ancient pagans celebrated a yearly feast near the winter solstice. Romans called this the Saturnalia. It was marked with much wine-drinking, dancing and eating.

In the ancient countries of the North huge fires were kindled and as their leaping flames shot skyward human beings were sacrificed upon the altars to Thor and Odin. The Goths and Saxons called this the festival of Yule.

The Teutons selected a huge tree which they raised amid much chanting and shouting, in honor of the god of the sun. Bright objects and lights were placed in its branches to represent the light of day, the moon and stars. Animals were fastened to the branches and it was said that the pagan gods might be propitiated in favor of their savage worshippers.

So we know that the Christmas celebrations were not in the beginning of religious significance. But with Christianity's dawn the many old customs that remained were given a religious symbolism. There are a number of our present-day customs that are picturesque and interesting because of their great antiquity.

When we tramp into the winter woods and bring home loads of scarlet-berried holly and mistletoe we are merely following in the footsteps of our pagan ancestors. When we wreath our doorways and windows with the beautiful, waxy white clusters of mistletoe, when we ornament the mantel above the bright fire with its dark-green clusters we are but unconsciously repeating the pagan custom of old when the Druids, the ancient priests, performed their mystical rites upon their forest altars.

The cutting and burning of the Yule log is, today, as important as a feature of the Christmas celebrations of the native homes of "Merry England" as it was before the world knew the meaning of a true Christian observance of the season. The cheery, heartening salutation "Merry Christmas" originated in England. This greeting has never been known to fall in bringing a smile to even the most woe-begone countenance.

And an English Christmas is, indeed, a wonderful thing to experience. Even the very tales of the Englishman's Yuletide make our hearts beat faster and our imaginations run riot. The time has not yet arrived when Dickens' "Christmas Carol" with its descriptions of the Christmas market stalls with their long rows of hanging geese decorated with bunches of sage and onions, of tarts, puddings and sweetmeats will lose its delicious charm and mouthwatering powers.

And who can write about Christmas without thinking of the humble, though none the less delectable dinner presided over by waits who went from house to house.

ed over by proud Bob Cratchet—and Tiny Tim seated at the board with his frail, small fingers clasping his spoon and repeating honest Bob's blessing as he gazed upon his adoring family—"God bless us, every one!" Poor little Tiny with his crutch across his knee!

Some authorities state that the Christmas tree as we know it originated in Scandinavia. Others claim that the Germans first made use of it. Certain it is that we, in our own land, did not have our brightly decorated trees until after the German immigrant arrived.

Christmas carols are sung in many lands; in England, in France where they are called "noels," in Wales, Ireland and Italy and in many other countries. In Italy, at the season of Advent, the "Calatran" shepherds troop down from their hills and chant their unusual mountain songs in the cities. The word "carol" is derived from "cantare," meaning to sing and "rola," an interjection of joy; therefore it is not a musical form peculiarly belonging to Christmas, although it is usually associated with this season. One of the most ancient, if not the very oldest carol of a religious nature is the exquisite, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night." It was written by Nahum Tate, England's poet laureate in 1692.

Quaint old English carols that are still sung are: "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen," "Good King Wenceslas" and "The Holly and Ivy." These were sung by the waits who went from house to house in the old days. A whole book could be made interesting by recounting the customs of the ancient carol singers of the different lands.

In connection with the Christmas candle which has been used as a beautiful symbol in many countries from ancient days to the present it is interesting to know that even the gypsies, those wandering, mysterious vagabonds of unknown origin and self-confessed paganism, have a legend about a burning candle that was set at a certain season to light the way of a mother and child across the darkness of a desert land. This legend is to be found somewhere in an old book—perhaps it was recounted by George Borrow—but the writer of these lines has been unable to locate it again.

After all, it is the spirit of any observance that truly counts.

AT The close of the old year we are glad to extend a greeting to our many customers, whom we have done our best to serve pleasantly and well during the past twelve months—and even for many years before this one.

WE Have made mistakes, as have you; we have sometimes, or perhaps more often, failed to measure up to your expectations; but we have always met you cheerfully and have constantly tried to do all within our power to give you satisfaction. Our dealings with our customers have been pleasant, and from the experiences of the past, we take renewed energy for the task that lays ahead of us.

AT The beginning of this New Year, we extend a cordial invitation to our old friends to continue to make our store and garage, their headquarters. WE Are interested in your problems. We are working for the upbuilding of the community, and in 1926 we want to become more closely associated with all the people of Junction's trade territory than ever before.

Salter Brothers, owners of the Mountain Sun at Kerrville, are to be congratulated on the excellent Christmas Shoppers' edition which they put out week before last. The edition consisted of forty-two pages well filled with advertising and good reading matter, and is very much out of the ordinary for a town even the size of Kerrville, but when we stop to think Kerrville is an extraordinary town, and the people down that way do extraordinary things. During the past five or six years the town has more than doubled in population, and the Mountain Sun, under the ownership of C. E. and W. A. Salter, has kept ahead of the town.

During the new year, the citizens of Junction, especially the business interests, can greatly benefit Kerrville, and Kerrville

This cut represents an old adage, "In unity there is strength." Unity, as a word, has given way, in recent years, to the word, "co-operation." This latter word may have been overworked. It has been applied to marketing, buying, pioneering, developments of all kinds, and in fact, most every kind of movement that expected results, but even though greatly overworked, it is still bristling with a new meaning and nothing worthwhile can be done without it.

Junction has as progressive a bunch of business and professional men as can be found anywhere. It has as substantial a citizenship and the country is unlimited in its advantages for future development.

Junction, in the next five years, ought to be a town of two to three thousand people. That is a very conservative estimate, too. It has experienced no recent boom, and we hope that it has none in the future, but that it will continue to grow gradually and rapidly, is the opinion of those who know its people and its resources, and see its possibilities.

Kimble County ought to produce ten times as much cotton and feed stuff as at present. It ought to produce two or three times as many pecans as at present, and at least one-fourth of this quantity should be fancy budded varieties. It ought to produce more fruits and vegetables. Its irrigation possibilities should be developed. The Llano valleys should be made to make a veritable garden, and will be if capital can be interested in providing irrigation facilities.

Of course, all things cannot be done at once. They must come about gradually; but we, as citizens, by having a vision of greater things, and continually striving to attract more people, more capital and more industries, can do wonders in increasing the rate of development.

We ought to start the year off with a determination to co-operate with our fellow citizens in every worthy effort. We ought to decide that we are going to do our share—that we are going to get things going "our way" if we can show the other fellow; or that we will help him get things his way if he shows us. We may be wrong or we may be right, but what we, as citizens of Junction, should do, and must do, if we accomplish worthwhile things—is to work together—let the majority decide and then help the majority put it over.

How many will do this in 1926?

Ozona, a live little county seat town in Crockett County, with less population than Junction, and with perhaps less than one-tenth the need of a hotel, from the standpoint of the increasing number of tourists and vacationists, has organized a hotel company with $50,000, have sold the stock and will let the contract for a three-story hotel of about 50 rooms on March first. The hotel is to have a steel skeleton, completed with hollow tile and concrete, and finished in rough texture stucco. The guests' rooms will be 12x12 feet and will be furnished with either private or connecting bath.

can greatly benefit us, if we work together for our mutual advantage, which The Eagle is proud to say, both towns have done in the past, and we feel sure will continue to do in the future.

No town succeeds without the help of a live newspaper, and no newspaper, no matter how live he desires to be, can succeed without the support of the town's business concerns. Salter Brothers have given Kerrville one of the best country newspapers in Texas, and the business men of Kerrville have appreciated the paper's efforts and have patronized it liberally.

No less authority than Lynch Davidson, a successful business man, is credited with the statement that it takes a great deal more brains to spend $20,000,000 judiciously than it does to make it. There is much food for thought in that statement and it is a good standard to be applied to men we elect to office to transact the State's business. Hal Moseley himself, new chairman of the State Highway Commission, is credited with the statement that Texas has available each year the sum of $27,000,000 for road construction purposes. This is a lot of money and it is up to the Highway Commission to spend it and to spend it wisely. Texas cannot be accused of not furnishing funds for building of highways for in the past two years they have furnished more than $50,000,000 for highways. But where are the highways? That is what we want to know.—Bryan Eagle.

Speaker Satterwhite said he would call a special session of the Legislature, then he didn't know, then he said he would do it if Ma didn't, and Ma didn't, and now the Speaker don't know what he is going to do. The fact is the Speaker has just talked too much. —San Saba News.

MORE POWER THAN ANY CAR IN ITS PRICE CLASS:

MORE POWER PER CUBIC INCH OF PISTON DISPLACEMENT:

MORE POWER PER POUND OF AUTOMOBILE WEIGHT.

In all hill climbing contests staged in New York, in Maryland, in Utah, in California, in New Mexico, in West Virginia, in Illinois, and at Camp Wood, the Star Car consistently out-pulled all cars in its class and some out of its class.

Measured by every test that determines driving power the Star develops more power.

This unusual power is made possible by a high speed motor, correct distribution of weight, a hot-spot manifold, and correct lubrication, cooling and carburetion systems.

A single ride will enable you to decide. If you think of buying a car competing with the Star, get a demonstration; if you still want the other car we will give you $5.00 to help pay for it.

POLITICAL APPOINTEES RULE.

Citizens who think, and who are accepting their responsibility in Government, are sending out a warning cry against centralized Government and rule by politicians. By politicians we do not mean the man who runs for local office or even for governor, but the 500,000 men in Federal employ who receive their power and authority thru the appointive power of the President and delegated by him to department and bureau heads. These men are out of your control. You do not elect them nor can you dispose of them except through political influence. They are everywhere, either making their own rules, which are law to you, or giving their own interpretation to rules made by the bureau chiefs under whom they work. Go where you will, you will find Government agents, inspectors, and sleuths. They are not out enforcing the laws made by Congress, but are enforcing rules and regulations—the laws of bureaus and commissions—which may be changed, repealed or revised at the stroke of the pen without consulting your wishes.

Out of 500,000 enforcement officers, agents, and inspectors and others with whom the people come into contact, directly and indirectly, the President of the United States is the only one elected by the people, and his election is indirect, and not always the result of majority vote. The other 499,999 officers, or thereabouts, are supposed to be under the direction of the President, but he probably could count those whom he knows or even heard of on the fingers of his hands. It is humanly impossible for any man or any collection of men to keep in touch with the ramifications of the Government, so complicated has it become, and so Congress votes appropriations for this bureau or that commission almost blindly, and the political appointees go about making rules and imposing their will upon the people in a promiscuous manner. The worst of it is that unless one is rich or influential, he must accept the interpretation of these rules made by one Government agent who knows but little about the matter or else suffer the penalty. It takes more money than the average citizen has at his command to make an appeal to Washington, and so most of them accept the ruling no matter how unjust.

Washington is the headquarters for numerous "kitchen cabinets," lobby rings, and propaganda organizations. Individuals and so-called reform organizations have found it much easier to frighten Congress into accepting their point of view than it is to win the favor of all of the State Legislatures. Therefore, they concentrate in the Capitol city, and by making much noise they make our Congressmen and Senators believe that there are millions of voters behind them, and what some members of Congress would do for the favor of some alleged Nation-wide organization is beyond even the matter of speculation.

Organized propaganda put out by the "kitchen cabinet" is responsible for the Sheppard-Towner Act, otherwise known as the Maternity Bill. This law, on its face, had a good appearance. Much sentiment was attached to it. The saving of mothers and babies by appropriating Federal money on the fifty-fifty plan seemed as important as the saving of the farmer's hogs or his crops by the Government through the same means, but on final analysis the two cases are not parallel. Thus far the Maternity bill has not proved to be practical. The Child-Labor Amendment was put over Congress in the same manner, and should enough States finally ratify the amendment, it means a great enlargement of the present Child Welfare Bureau, or the creation of another bureau with thousands of new appointees and the expenditure of many millions of dollars annually. It means that inspectors will visit homes and enforce their interpretation of the law and the rulings of the bureau as they are now doing in other matters, and people will accept because the average citizen still holds Federal laws and Federal officers in more or less fear and respect. A local officer they might argue with because he holds office by the will of the voter, but a Federal officer is not responsible to them, and most of them are "hardboiled."

State and local self-Government is becoming a thing of the past. We cannot build railroads without the permission of a Government commission; we can't regulate our own rates in interstate shipments. There are mighty few things we can do for ourselves without first appealing to Washington. In a few years, unless we awaken to our own responsibility in Government, we might as well wipe out our State lines and let the Nation be divided up into administration districts under the control of Washington. It would be cheaper and probably just as satisfactory as our present weak effort to govern ourselves. Then we will have an inspector in every home and our children will be brought up without any direct parental responsibility. — Farm and Ranch.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends of the family and all others, who were so considerate of us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father. Our loss has been a great one, and your kind words of sympathy, and many favors shown, will always be remembered by us and we pray God's richest blessings upon you.

CHURCH NOTICE

The Church of Christ at this place was very anxious to have Bro. Lyle Price hold a protracted meeting here in Junction sometime during the summer of 1926. When we heard from Bro. Price, the only available time he had remaining for us, was from June 26 to July 14, inclusive; therefore, we have procured his services for a meeting covering said dates.

We do not wish to hold a meeting at a time that will interfere with the meetings of the other churches in our town, and we presume there is a reciprocal feeling upon their part. Therefore, this notice of the time our meeting will be held.

PROSPERITY.

The year just drawing to its close will probably show the greatest total profit for all forms of business of any peace time year in America's history, according to Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland Trust Company vice president and one of the country's foremost economists.

Further, he adds, 1926 will show a continuance of that prosperity, at least throughout its first part. Then something of a business slump will come, the exact extent of which cannot be fully foreseen now.

This has indeed been a prosperous year. One has heard occasionally a wail from the agricultural districts; but on the whole the farmers seem to have done pretty well. And the business men—the New York Stock exchange's repeated flurries of frantic buying orries testify sufficiently to the generally healthy condition of the stocks. All in all, we can look back with satisfaction.

And about this slump that's ahead of us; from all indications there is no great cause for alarm.

For it seems to be an American habit, of late years, to take slumps "in its stride," as a sprinter would say. Let industry slide down for a while and presently we find it rising higher than before. A business depression at the end of next year would probably be merely a prelude to a new ear of glowing prosperity in the year following.

Given American brains and American natural resources, industrial prosperity is the normal condition. Real "panic years" are things of the past for us. General good times are in sight for a long way ahead.—San Angelo Standard.

KERR COUNTY TO BUILD NEW COURT HOUSE.

In the county-wide election Tuesday to decide whether Kerr County should vote bonds in the amount of $110,000 for the purpose of constructing a new court house and jail at the county seat, the bonds were voted by a majority of 227 votes (unofficially) over the county.

Owing to the extremely cold weather and the indifference of a majority of the voters, a very light vote was cast.

Taken as a whole, less than half the voting strength of the county was represented at the polls Tuesday.

The rural sections turned out to vote far better than did the city. Kerrville people apparently being too busy with Christmas shopping to devote time to an election.

The result was as follows:

For 596; against 369.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

OBITUARY

Edwin Otto Bode was born October 30, 1862, in Mason County, Texas, where he lived and grew to manhood. Later moved to Kimble County and settled on Copperas, where he continued in his profession as farmer and ranchman, till death called him, on December 17, 1925, being 63 years, 1 month and 17 days old.

He was married to Miss Marcia Ottillie Winkel August 15, 1884, who was in every sense of the word, a true help-meet devoted companion to her husband through their journey of more than 40 years on earth together. God blessed their home with seven children to make happy their lives, all of whom survive, except one that died when only 10 months old. The survivors are: Lee of San Angelo; Wesley of New Braunfels; Mrs. Karbach also of New Braunfels; Mrs. Elmer Harrison, Ernest and Eddie Bode, all of Junction.

Brother Bode was converted in early life and united with the Methodist Church, in which faith he continued a faithful member until his call from the earthly walk of life, to enter the new life sublime and join the glads host above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. He was a member of the fraternity known as "The Woodmen of the World," loved and honored by the members of his brotherhood. He was an ideal husband, father and friend and his children rise up and call him blessed.

Besides his good wife, broken in body and spirit, and his six sorrowing sons and daughters, he leaves a number of brothers, an only sister, a very large number of nephews, who were the pall bearers of their uncle so much loved, neices, and relatives, and a host of friends to mourn his loss, whose vacancy will long be recognized, not only by his home, to which he was much devoted, but also his neighbors, his friends and his church. J. Virgil Davis.

Where are all those Congressmen, and others, who were lambasting the government cotton reports along in September? You said the government couldn't possibly be right. There couldn't possibly be as much cotton gathered as the estimates. The actual ginnings are now going beyond the government estimates. To December first there had been 13,857,686 bales actually ginned and wrapped. Sun-of-a-Gun guessed then that there were a lot of politicians and would-be advisers to the farmers making an ass of themselves. Facts are stubborn sometimes, but facts are facts and the free advice the farmers got along in September and October hasn't been worth the time it took to listen.—San Saba News.
