In Lebanon Crisis

Transports Ready For Evacuation

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States Saturday sent 18 big C124 transport planes to Europe for possible use in evacuating Americans from revolt-threatened Lebanon.

Another 18 to 22 of the 200-passenger troop transports were standing by awaiting orders to fly in a second wave to U.S. air bases in Germany for airlift use if needed.

The State Department also announced the United States is responding to an appeal by the Beirut government to expedite previously planned military aid shipments and "in some instances to augment these programs."

"In making this request, to which the United States agreed, the government of Lebanon indicated that the integrity of Lebanon was threatened by persons acting under alien influence," the statement said.

Suspect "Alien" Influence

This presumably referred to President Camille Chamoun's charges that Lebanon's neighbor, the United Arab Republic of Syria and Egypt, has inspired and supported the attempted revolt and anti-Western riots in Lebanon.

Earlier Saturday the State Department said it appears now that assistance by U.S. troops will not be needed to safeguard American lives and property in Lebanon.

A later statement praised the government's "valiant efforts" to maintain internal security.

U.S. airlift planes already are delivering rifles, gas masks and other "police type" equipment to Beirut under terms of a previous State Department announcement. Tanks are to be provided soon.

Officials indicated the increased aid would involve chiefly more of the same type of equipment.

The Air Force did not formally specify the mission of the "transport air fleet. But officials assured reporters that they would be correct in assuming the planes were to be used, if needed, in air lift operations into or out of Lebanon.

The action was taken despite a reassuring statement from the State Department that the pro-Western Lebanese government appears to be able to maintain order without requiring the assistance of U.S. troops.

However, other precautionary measures were being taken. Police type small weapons were rushed by air to Beirut Saturday, and the State Department announced that an undisclosed number of U.S. tanks will be sent to the small Middle East nation under the regular U. S. aid program.

The C-124 transports, each capable of carrying 200 combat-equipped troops, were to land at Rhein-Main Air Base, Frankfurt, Germany.

The planes carried no troops on the flight to Germany.

The Air Force first termed the movement "an increased readiness exercise." But a spokesman said, in reply to questions, that the planes would be "available if needed for possible use" to evacuate Americans from Lebanon.

US Arms Arrive In Lebanon

By LARRY COLLINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP) — Two planeloads of American rifles, ammunition and tear gas guns have arrived to help the U.S.-supported government of President Camille Chamoun put down the rioting and demonstrations that have swept the country during the past week informed sources said Saturday.

The planes, carrying "a few M-1 rifles" and helmets, in addition to the ammunition and tear gas guns, arrived secretly Friday night, they said.

The sources said a shipment of 18 M-54, 20-ton tanks was expected within two weeks. The tanks were to be delivered to the army which in turn will release its armored cars to the police for riot control.

(In Washington, the Air Force announced that 18 large C-124 troop transport planes have left for Germany for "possible use" if needed to evacuate Americans from Lebanon.)

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a secret meeting of senators Thursday evening he would recommend U.S. troops be sent to Lebanon to protect American lives if Chamoun's government asked for them.

The State Department confirmed tanks would be sent to Lebanon "in the near future" but refused to specify how many.

The U.S. arms strengthened the government's position. The capital was quiet Saturday and business returned to near-normal in some sections. Armed rebels still were reported operating in three areas in the north, but the army was moving units to block them.

The Lebanese cabinet was expected to decide whether to make an immediate charge in the United Nations against the United Arab Republic for allegedly fomenting the riots and uprisings which began last Saturday with the sacking of the U.S. Information Service library in Tripoli.

Informed sources said the cabinet already had agreed in principle to take its case to the U.N. Security Council, but that it wanted to study UAR President Gamal Abdel Nasser's statement in Cairo Friday that "we support the independence of Lebanon."

TRAFFIC SAFETY SIGN

The Pampa Kiwanis Club has erected a traffic safety sign on the Courthouse lawn. The sign, when completed, will have a green light burning when there have been no traffic fatalities in Pampa. A red light will burn for three days when a fatal traffic accident is experienced. Malcolm Hinkle, left, is shown being congratulated on the erection of the new sign by Chief of Police Jim Conner. 'Miss Pampa' Pageant Set For July 18

The Miss Pampa Beauty Pageant, sponsored by the Pampa Jaycees will be held this year on July 18.

Eldon Blumer, pageant chairman, has reported that preliminary plans for the pageant have already been made and Jaycees will be making the rounds to sell ads in the program in the near future.

This will be the second annual Miss Pampa Beauty Pageant. Last year's winner was Miss Johnnie Lee Smith.

Each girl entered in the contest will be sponsored by some Pampa firm. They are judged on beauty, poise and talent.

The Miss Pampa contest is a preliminary to the Miss America contest held each year in Atlantic City.

The winner here will compete in the contest to name Miss Texas, to be held this year at Amarillo. The Amarillo judging will be on July 31, Aug. 1 and 2. The winner of this contest will be entered in the Miss America Contest at Atlantic City. She will also compete for scholarships, benefits, etc., which go with winning the title of Miss Texas.

In the Jaycee committee setup in charge of the Pageant, Eldon Blumer, general chairman, is also chairman of the steering and staging committees; James Gallemore, program committee; John Lee Bell, entries committee; James Crouch, ticket committee; and J. C. Hopkins, set and decorations committee.

Junior High Awards Day Is Friday

Pampa Ninth Graders will bridge the gap from Junior High to High School with an Award Assembly Friday. Among the awards will be the book, "I Dare You," by William H. Danforth which is the Danforth Foundation Book Award.

The two high point students and possibly a third will receive medals from the school.

Leadership and school ability will determine the best all around boy and girl of the Ninth Grade.

The school will name the best boy and girl citizens and the Pampa Business and Professional Women's Club will present its citizenship award to a Ninth Grade girl.

Also, the Pampa Sons of the American Revolution will present the Hobart Citizenship Award to a worthy boy.

With the opening of Robert E. Lee Jr. High School, Cameron Marsh, now assistant principal of Pampa High School, will take over Key man at Robert E. Lee, north of the high school, will be north of the high School, will be Jack Nichols, once assistant principal at Pampa High and principal at Pampa Junior High this almost-past school year.

Teacher Gets Fellowship

Keith Wolfe, High School English teacher at Lefors, received a teaching fellowship in English from Texas Tech, it was reported.

He received the award for the academic year of 1958 and 1959.

The appointment was conferred by President E. M. Jones of Tech, upon the recommendation of Dr. Truman N. Camp, head of Tech Engineering department.

Threaten Broad Tax Reductions

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Key lawmakers have warned the administration that if it asks for a few selective tax cuts Congress is almost certain to respond with broad reductions, it was learned Saturday.

This appraisal of congressional sentiment—shared by both Republican and Democratic leaders—has been relayed to administration policymakers who have been considering whether the President should:

—Stand firm behind his budget message recommendation that Congress extend without change the present rates on corporation income taxes and certain excise taxes which are automatically scheduled to drop to lower levels at midnight June 30.

—Ask Congress to include selective cuts in excise taxes on freight, automobiles and possibly relief for other repressed business through liberalized depreciation allowances.

Some congressional sources believe the administration, as a result of the warning, will decide against recommending changes in the corporation-excise extension bill. The measure is relatively veto-proof since it must be signed into law by June 30 to avoid heavy loss of revenue from taxes on liquor and other consumer items.

The White House, if it has not done so already, will have to make a decision soon. The tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee plans to begin work within two weeks on the extension.

The issue is certain to be discussed when GOP leaders meet with the President Monday to discuss the legislative program.

The President told his news conference this week a decision on taxes would have to be made in June. He refused to indicate what it would be. He said it still depends on whether the recession worsens.

Water Safety Registration Starts Monday

Enrollment will begin Monday for the Red Cross Water Safety and Summer Recreation Program. All people over six may participate in some phase of swimming instruction and summer fun.

The Chamber of Commerce Conference Room will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 5 Monday and Tuesday for registration and payment of the $2 registration fee.

The Red Cross will offer instruction in Junior and Senior Life Saving as well as Beginning, Intermediate and Advanced Swimming. Ages for Junior Life Savers range from 12 to 15. The age qualification for Senior Life Savers begins at 16.

The season will start June 2 with Junior and Senior Life Saving and June 16 for other swimmers.

The instructors will be women of the community who have passed their Red Cross instruction requirements. Most of them have taught in the Red Cross Swim Program before.

Coach Clifton McNeely, program coordinator, is also making plans now for summer recreation.

Phillips Charges Widespread 'Sabotage' Of Wells, Pipelines

BORGER, Tex. (UP) — The strike-bound Phillips Petroleum Co. charged widespread sabotage of its wells and pipelines Saturday and ordered out supervisory personnel to guard them.

Twenty-seven hundred of the Borger plant's 5,000 workers went on strike last Wednesday. The company charged sabotage Saturday in a statement that said:

"Considerable damage has occurred throughout Moore, Hartley, Sherman and Hutchinson counties as a result of unauthorized persons closing gas wells, blocking gathering systems and opening gas vents on Phillips Petroleum Company's gas system since the strike was started Wednesday night."

Talks set Monday

The International Union of Operating Engineers, whose members are striking, announced that negotiations will be resumed with Phillips Monday morning.

"Ethan Walker of the U. S. Conciliation Service will be present for the negotiations," a union statement said. "A general membership meeting has been called for Monday night."

A company spokesman confirmed two blowouts, endangering lives, and said others had been narrowly averted by supervisory personnel who are patrolling the system continuously.

A six-inch natural gasoline line ruptured Friday afternoon at the Henderson Trust Plant at Sanford, 12 miles west of Borger, and caused a loss of thousands of gallons of gasoline, the company said.

A workman in the plant noticed that the pressure on a pump gauge had jumped from normal of 400 pounds to 900 pounds. He immediately started shutting valves to keep the plant from blowing up, but couldn't work them fast enough to prevent the line from exploding in a ditch along Farm Road 684 at the outskirts of Sanford.

Train Delayed

The pipeline runs from the Henderson plant to the Phillips refinery about 13 miles east.

Phillips said an investigation disclosed that an unauthorized person had turned off a valve on the line in Antelope Canyon three miles east of the Henderson plant.

The highway patrol blocked off a highway and a Rock Island train was held up for four and one-half hours.

When the line exploded, gasoline shot 35 feet into the air like a geyser. It finally boiled down to a bubble when the machinery was shut off.

Some unauthorized person shut down every well in Moore county

Pickets Temporarily Pulled From Lease; 38 Men Out Here

The strike against Phillips Petroleum Company by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 351, is now entering its fourth day with negotiations due to start tomorrow.

Some 38 men living and working in the Pampa area are effected by the strike which started Wednesday night.

The production department of Phillips in the Pampa area is represented by Local 351 in Borger and is out on strike in conjunction with the rest of the Local.

The production department in the Pampa area consists of 33 union members and five non-union members, all out on strike.

The union has temporarily pulled pickets from the Castleberry Lease here, which is headquarters for the production department in this area, but pickets could be sent out again "if it becomes necessary," union representatives said Saturday.

At the same time, pumpers are keeping a watch on the leases they ordinarily are assigned to, a union committeeman said.

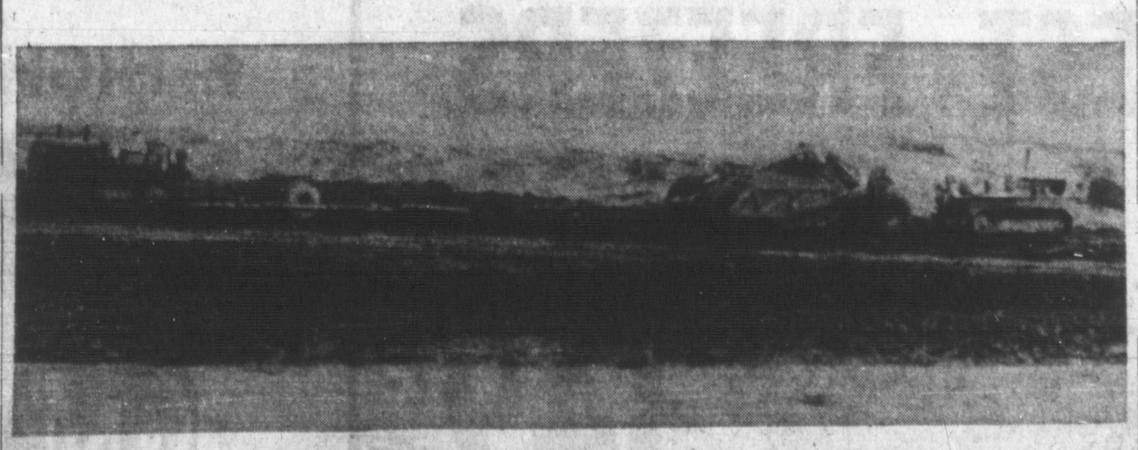

The committeeman said that the union is not striking because the company fired men in the Plains Plant in Borger as reported in Friday's paper. These men were laid off and not fired by the company, it was pointed out. The union is striking because the overall negotiations came to a standstill, the committeeman said. Also, the union felt the company had laid off so many men it became unsafe to work for those still on the job.

Some 450 to 500 wells are effected by the strike in this area, including leases from Skellytown to Kellerville.

Also out in this area are field electricians who are members of the Local.

A federal conciliator from Oklahoma City, Okla., is due in Borger to start negotiations at 10 a.m. Monday. The first group to be represented in the negotiations will be the representatives of the members working in the Phillex Plant.

A general meeting of the union has been called for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Union Hall, 111 E. Coolidge, Borger.

Both Right And Left Menace To France

PARIS (UP) — Premier Pierre Pflimlin Saturday called on "all Frenchmen" in France and Algeria to support his government against those who would "unleash violence" and the snowballing insurrection designed to bring General Charles De Gaulle to power.

In a dramatic and hastily arranged radio address to the nation, the embattled premier denounced all "who have created a situation menacing national unity" by establishment of a rival government in Algeria. He said 26 persons were arrested Friday night in central France before they were able to carry out plans to attack the prefecture of Saint Etienne.

The menace exists, "not only from the right but from the left also," he said in a reference to Communist designs on the government as well as the De Gaullist move.

There are persons in France, he said, who would "unleash violence" to have their way.

He spoke after De Gaulle's righthand man, former North African Governor-General Jacques Soustelle, escaped police surveillance in France and flew to a triumphal welcome by 100,000 persons in Algiers, where he called for a French government headed by De Gaulle.

Reshuffles High Command

To strengthen his position against the burgeoning threat of seizure by De Gaulle and the collapse of the fourth republic, Pflimin's cabinet reshuffled the army high command and decreed that all civil and military officials take orders only from his government.

The time for decision was close at hand. De Gaulle himself promised to state his position in Paris Monday.

"All Frenchmen here or in Algeria must be united around the government of the republic," Pflimlin said in his radio address.

"France at the moment is experiencing grave hours which may have a decisive influence on her destiny."

Pflimlin said he wanted to tell the country "in all frankness" exactly the state the country was in.

He said the French settlers in Algeria had been "deceived by tendentious reports" that the Algerian Moslem rebels might be given too much in a peace settlement and that the Pflimlin regime would be too soft on the rebels.

Pflimlin, in the appeal which also was televised, promised increased manpower and material support for the battle against the Algerian rebels.

"We Are Determined"

"We are determined ... to make the necessary effort to establish in Algeria a just and humane peace which will be the fruit of the courage and victory of our soldiers," he said.

The premier said the government will do "everything in its power to protect our most precious property, which is national

The usual poster campaign will be under the direction of Miss Roy Riley.

Mrs. H. W. Shotwell is chairman of the Poppy Sale.

Girl Struck By Car; Injuries Said Slight

A five-year-old Pampa girl, Sharon Kay Cockrell, was described as being in good condition by Highland General Hospital attendants last night after being struck by a car Saturday afternoon.

The car, a 1948 Chevrolet driven by Robert Carroll Fugate, 419 S. Hazel, struck Sharon as she stepped from between some cars parked in the 900 block of S. Barnes

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Cockrell.

Police reported that the car, not travelling fast, almost had time to stop before striking the girl, whose injuries were described as not serious.

Bridge Is Now Open To Traffic

The McClellan Creek bridge, seven miles north of McLean on State Highway 273, is now open to traffic according to an announcement from the State Highway maintenance department.

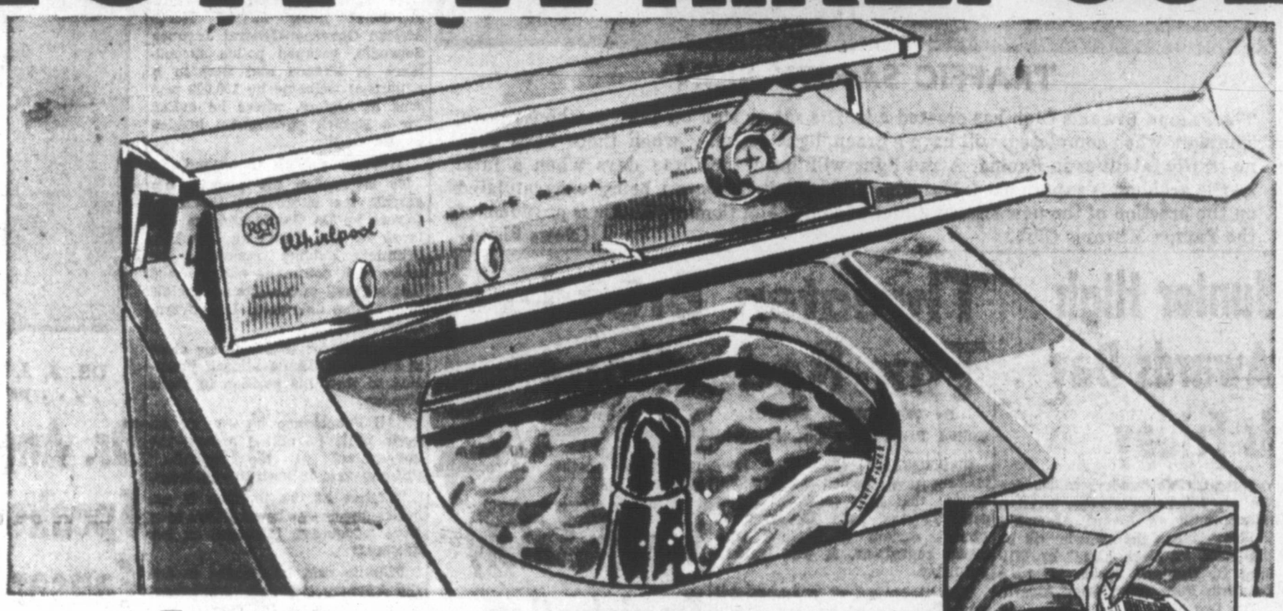

The bridge was closed last Monday night when heavy rains caused the approach to the north end of the bridge to wash out.

The bridge was opened to traffic at 5 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Morrison Dies Saturday; Rites Monday

Mrs. Nora Eleanor Morrison died at 2:45 a.m. Saturday in Amarillo. She has resided at 1609 Mary Ellen.

She was born in Lisbon on Aug. 13, 1870, and married James W. Morrison on Aug. 19, 1888. On Jan. 1, 1916, they purchased the Horse Shoe Ranch of Clarendon.

Coming to Pampa in 1954, she lived with her son, W. R. Morrison. She had been in ill health for the past few years.

Mrs. Morrison was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Clarendon.

Her survivors are two sons, G. G. and W. R. of Pampa; six daughters, Mrs. R. D. Brass of San Angelo, Mrs. Faye Montgomery of Shamrock, Mrs. Jessie Close of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. Stanley Leafgren of Greeley, Colo., Mrs. Dale Low, Amarillo and Mrs. Sam Bowen, Miami.

She is also survived by two brothers, H. H. Gracey of Dallas and Ross Gracey of Redfland, Calif., and by 21 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren.

Rev. J. V. Patterson of the Miami Methodist Church will preside at the funeral servies Monday at 2:30 p.m. in Duenkel-Carmichael Chapel. Burial will be in Clarendon Cemetery.

Grandchildren will act as pallbearers.

unity, by preventing a breach between Algeria and France."

He said that while military authorities have reestablished order in Algeria with bloodshed, "the peril has not been removed ..."

"Those who are responsible for the disturbances (in Algeria) have accomplices in metropolitan France," he said.

"It is necessary that you should know that certain misguided Frenchmen want to unleash violence in France."

The premier, who Friday was granted extraordinary powers under a state of emergency to cope with the disorders and the threatened attempt to restore De Gaulle to the leadership he held in the latter days of World War II, said the military authorities were in control in Algiers by agreement with the government to keep order.

These authorities, however, while running the country, support the De Gaulle faction.

Ragsdale Rites Are Pending

Funeral arrangements are pending in Roswell, N.M., for Mrs. Tom Ragsdale, who died in the M. D. Anderson Clinic in Houston.

Mrs. Ragsdale, the former Betty Hancock, was born on Mar. 10, 1911, in Canyon. She moved to Pampa in 1930 with her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hancock. In 1938 she married Tom Ragsdale of Pampa.

They moved to their home in Roswell in 1948 after spending several years in Washington and California.

She is survived by her husband, and daughter, Eula Jean, and her mother, Mrs. E. S. Hancock, all of Roswell.

Other survivors are a sister, Eula Summit of Del Rio; three brothers, George Hancock of Pampa, Eli Hancock of Roswell and C. R. Hancock of Happy.

She leaves one nephew and ten nieces, three of whom, Judy Hancock, Inez Branscum and Eudell Burnett live in Pampa.

'God's Trombones' Was Loudly Applauded At Friday Show

The cumulative force of the dramatic composition "God's Trombones" drew thunder claps of applause from a choice crowd at the Pampa premiere, Friday. People of the community came to the Pampa High School Theatre "like empty pitchers to a full fountain" and "overflowed" in the lobby after the performance. "How professional can they get?" asked an artist in the community.

The introduction of Johnson and Ringwold's "God's Trombones" was the crowning achievement of Thespian Troupe 1010 and the High School A Cappella Choir. Their integration of the lyric poems by James Weldon Johnson and music by Roy Ringwold showed such a togetherness of spirit that one group cannot be judged except in terms of the other.

Add to that the inspired dancing of Carmelita Hogan and you have something to overflow about.

Lighting, stage grouping and the simple setting added to the total effect of "God's Trombones." At stage left and stage right stood a Thespian Speech Choir, leaving the center span open for a view of the robed choir and for the rhythmic movements of Miss Hogan.

The silhouette of God, stepping out on space, and the dark figures of Thespians against a bright choir were visual effects that brought home a high reality. Dancing in a green mist, Miss Hogan caught the spirit of the supreme creator and destroyer of the Universe.

The soft lights on the choir and dancer and the flash lighting on the faces in the choruses gave an atmosphere of unreality to the setting that was fully in keeping with the Negro folk sermons and spirituals that were the inspiration for "God's Trombones."

Kneeling in "some lonesome valley," Pat Jones opened the sequence with an angelic appeal to the Lord to hear his people.

Leading Thespian Charlotte Riley put her voice and soul into an interpretation of "Go Down, Death" that picked up speed from the organ.

The strong voice of Heidi Schneider rang out in "The Creation" to the more subdued tones of Bobby Brown with the backing of their choirs and a measured piano and organ.

God, in the form of a dancer, moved through "The Creation," sitting on a hillside to think.

Kay Kolosha, Pat Jones, Carol Rose Miller, and others achieved a tragic majesty as soloists in "The Crucifixion." In the spotlight before the opening, Miss Miller presented a Thespian written introduction with art and feeling.

Preparing the way for "The Judgement" sermon, the choir soared into "Where Shall I Be When De First Trumpet Soun'?" With fresh soloists, the speech choirs went into action, rousing the angel in dancing shoes.

Don Darling, who has had some experience with "The Judgement" in interschool contests, gave a tough interpretation of a fire breathing minister. Meanwhile the choir sang "Rocks and Mountains Don't Fall On Me."

Strong voices proclaimed that "Time shall be no more," leaving God thinking on a hillside once more.

The choir, which had heretofore dealt with serious numbers, took up, "In dat great gittin' up mornin', Fare you well, Fare you well."

If anyone could have seen Miss Helen Schafer, who is Thespian sponsor, cueing the lights before the final dress rehearsal or Bill Hunt working with his A Cappella Choir, they would have been impressed by the devotion and cooperation that put over "God's Trombones."

The Labor Strike

The Pampa area has experienced so few disputes between organized labor and management that the striking of a handful of employees of the Phillips Petroleum Company on leases around our city is somewhat of a curiosity to many.

Almost daily in the newspaper one can find stories about strikes of considerable consequence going on over the United States but they are usually so far removed that the direct consequences are difficult to imagine. The strike of 2,700 Phillips employees in Borger and the "run-over" effecting a few employees in the Pampa area, however, brings the situation a little closer to home.

The basic philosophy behind the implications of striking are seldom given close scrutiny, so implanted has the concept of the "right to strike" become. A strike, by rational definition, is a premeditated and simultaneous stoppage of work for the purpose of achieving an end desired by the union through damage to the employer's business. An integral part of the union strike technique is to prevent others through "influence," direct intimidation and violence from taking the jobs vacated by the strikers. As can clearly be seen, the striker contends that though he doesn't desire to perform a specific job, he has a "right" to keep anyone else from performing that job.

The extent which unions exert their power, in struck plants, to keep others from taking over the jobs they have abandoned, should the employer desire to reinstitute production usually depends on the extent to which the political power of the union can make impotent the normal enforcement of law and order and the amount of sympathy in a community. This has been proven time and again and most recently in such strikes as Kohler and Perfect Circle.

No doubt a great deal of confusion concerning the "right to strike" comes from not discriminating between it and the right to quit one's job. The above explanation, however, should illustrate that the two are quite inharmonious.

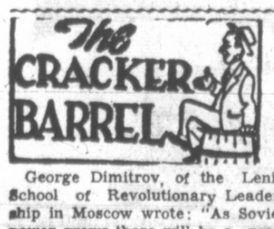

Case histories of the intimidation and violence against non-strikers crossing picket lines would fill many, many volumes and very candidly show organized labor's view of the strike as a tool. As a maximum exercise of union power, a struck plant will stay closed and rust into obsolescence if the owners do not agree to terms the union deems satisfactory. And, if the employer decides to resume operations, woe be it to those who want to work if cowardly law enforcement officers turn their backs. Mobs on the picket lines can and have become as brutal toward non-strikers as can be imagined.

In the case of the Phillips strike, there is no indication that the company plans to reopen production in any of its struck facilities so it is doubtful that we will witness the active violence phase which lies latent in every strike when the circumstances permit.

There is a strange and morbid silence among the "humanitarian" elements of our society about union inspired violence and blood-letting. The silence concerning this situation on the part of what might be called the more "humanitarian" clergy, educators and newspapers screams much louder than the wails of children as a night riding band threatens their home because father is doing his best to provide for them by working in a union struck plant. But then "humanitarians" have a strange code of compassion.

There is no way in which organized labor can raise the real wages of the American labor force. With about a third of the labor force of the United States now organized and constantly forcing higher than competitive wage rates, this cost has to be passed on to all unorganized elements only to have their real earnings diminished as a result. This establishes a rigidity in the labor market which makes this market unable to respond to economic fluctuations and this inflexibility can be counted as a very major contributor to economic depressions.

If ever there were a successful ruse sold to the American people, it is that unions through strikes and the threats of strikes are in a position to help workingmen as a whole to prosper. History shows, however, that in time, myths do have as a part of their nature the seeds of their own destruction.

George Dimitrov, of the Lenin School of Revolutionary Leadership in Moscow wrote: "As Soviet power grows there will be a greater aversion to Communist parties everywhere, So we must proceed with techniques of withdrawal. Never must be appear in the foreground. We must let our friends do the work. One sympathizer is worth a doxen militant Communists. A university professor, who without being a party member, lends himself to the interests of the Soviet Union is worth more than a hundred men with party cards." That it is — cold turkey and straight from the horse's mouth. The Reds don't expect to win by what they do for people, because what they do is enslave them. They expect to win by the use of dupes. Remember this when you hear the eggheads sound off for disarmament.

Railroad Aid Contrary To Private Enterprise

WASHINGTON — The Joint Congressional Atomic Committee is pondering an unusual compromise on President Eisenhower's stalled legislation to give nuclear weapons to our NATO allies.

Under this new proposal, such arms would be limited to 29 kilotons.

(The first atomic bombs dropped on Japan in World War II had a destructive capacity of approximately 20 kilotons — equipvalent to 20,000 tons of TNT.)

Significantly, this backstage plan is directly parallel to another compromise, being deliberated in inner Administration quarters, in connection with the stormy world-wide issue of suspending atomic tests.

This proposal would limit the size and number of weapons that could be tested.

That is, nuclear tests would not be banned outright. Instead, restrictions would be fixed on the number and the "magnitude" of the atomic and hydrogen arms and devices which can be tested in a certain period.

Such a formula has been discussed in the Atomic Energy Commission, State Department, Pentagon, and the National Security Council, headed by President Eisenhower.

Former Atomic Commissioner Thomas Murray is the author of the compromise to limit the size of nuclear weapons to be given our NATO allies to 20 kilotons. Murray is now "chief consultant" of the Joint Atomic Committee, as well as adviser of the special House Space Committee.

The President's bill, as sent to Congress in February, contains no restrictions on either the size or nature of the nuclear arms that could be "transferred to friendly nations." This measure has encountered vigorous opposition from three sources.

One is flatly against giving such weapons to any foreign country. Another group, headed by Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.) and Representative Chet Holifield (D., Calif.), vice chairman and ranking member of the Joint Committee, is strongly opposed to turning nuclear armaments over to the French.

A third forceful challenge is being raised by Representative Carl Durham (D., N.C.), Joint Committee chairman, supported by Senator John Pastore (D., R.I.), Representative Melvin Price (D., Ill.) and other members. They contend the President's bill is "angled" to give special preference to Britain, and are insisting that all the NATO allies should be treated alike in the distribution of nuclear weapons and secret technical information.

As a result of these clashing views, the President's measure has been stymied for months, and its fate this session is highly uncertain.

In an effort to dissolve this logjam, Murray submitted his size-limiting compromise — that is so remarkably similar to the test-restricting alternate being discussed in top Administration policy circles.

BASIS FOR IT — Crux of Murray's plan is to confine nuclear weapons to be given U.S. allies strictly to those of a tactical nature.

He would wholly prohibit the granting of "mass destruction" arms.

Under the former Atomic Commissioner's proposal, only nuclear weapons of direct tactical value to ground forces, and for anti-aircraft and anti-submarine warfare would be turned over to the NATO countries. They would be completely denied the so-called "annihilation" armaments, which constitute the bulk of the U.S. nuclear stockpile.

In a memorandum accompanying his compromise, Murray sharply differentiates between tactical and strategical nuclear weapons, and stresses the importance of giving only the former to our allies.

"The principles of these restrictions," explains Murray in the memorandum, "should be the essential distinction between two radically different classes of weapons: (1) weapons of indiscriminating mass destruction or annihilation, and (2) weapons for discriminating use against definite military targets . . . The legislation should be so phrased as not to permit the transfer of the first class of weapons in any form to any ally.

"It should encourage the transfer of finished small weapons within the second class, in order to give needed strength to the nuclear defense of the NATO area . . . Weapons of the order of two kilotons should satisfy the military needs of NATO ground forces. Anti-submarine and anti-aircraft weapons might well have to be of a somewhat larger order, but not beyond 20 kilotons."

Another Murray memorandum harply criticizes the Administration's lack of a "common nuclear defense plan for the NATO area."

The former Atomic Commissioner strongly urges the Joint Committee to summon Secretary Dulles for detailed interrogation on this matter. Murray contends that no legislation for giving nuclear weapons to foreign countries should be enacted until the defense plan issue has been clarified.

"Mr. Dulles has not satisfactorily answered this question," contends Murray in the second memorandum. "Neither has the Department of Defense . . . Mr. Dulles has used the word 'planning' six times, and the word 'cooperation' four times. But he nowhere gave concrete meaning to these words. The premise of this legislation is still missing.

"Mr. Dulles seems to assume that this legislation is necessary to permit common defense planning in NATO. On the contrary, a common defense plan, at least in broad outline, is necessary in order to justify this legislation. Does such a plan exist? The Committee needs to know that answer before it can make a prudent revision of the Atomic Energy Act.

"There is one special point. Mr. Dulles said that the U.S. should not seek to 'perpetuate' the 'present nuclear weapon inferiority' in the free world countries. As regards smal weapons this is true. gards small weapons this is true. As regards great megaton weapons it is not true.

"We should do everything possible to perpetuate the present inferiority of our allies, including Britain, in weapons of mass destruction. Their possession, even by Great Britain will not strengthen the NATO 'shield' in any military useful sense."

General Lauris Norstad, NATO commander, will discuss these and other points at a private meeting with the Joint Committee this week.

NOTE: The U.S. had a high-ranking observer at Britain's nuclear tests, at Christmas Island in the South Pacific, early last month. Three "shots" were planned by the British, but the first produced all the information sought, so the other two were called off.

Committee Pondering An Unusual Compromise

By Thurman Sensing

AN ANCHOR TO A DROWNING MAN

No remedy more contrary to the private enterprise philosophy could be offered the railroads of the country than that submitted by the Administration to aid them in their present financial plight.

When the Administration offers the railroads simply more Government interference and controls rather than permitting them an opportunity to help themselves, it is acting in a strange way to support the private enterprise system which it so vocally advocates.

But that is all the Administration plan proposes—to guarantee loans to the railroads for $700 million and thus, through financing, further strengthen and broaden control by Government. If the railroads are worthy of loans, they can get them from private financial sources on their own account and not through the taxpayers furnishing the money. It is the duty of the Government to release them from the sea of restrictions, regulations and red tape that prevents them from proving they can operate "on their own" and without any Government underwriting.

This is not an effort on our part to advocate anything more for the railroads than we would advocate for any other phase of our economy that is ham-strung by Government regulatory bodies and stifling labor union practices. All we are saying is that all phases of our business and industrial economy should at all times be allowed to prove their own worth. If they cannot do it, then they should at all times be allowed to prove their own worth. If they cannot do it, then they should not survive, and will not survive except by means of Government ownership and operation in a free economy.

Perhaps Government ownership and operation of the railroads is what some people want — but it is surely not what the Administration wants and it is certainly not what the people of a free nation want. We had a sample of such operation in World War 1 when the Government lost hundreds of millions of dollars operating the railroads, whereas in World War 11 they were left in private hands, served the nation more efficiently than they did in World War 1, and were not a burden on the taxpayers.

We have done many things in recent years, and are continuing to do many things, in the name of defense — and certainly no segment of our transportation economy is more essential to adequate defense than a sound railroad system. We cannot have such a system when it is bound round and about with unnecessary costs and regulations. Is it not much more sensible to cut away the dead weights that bind the legs of a drowning man rather than throw him an anchor that will pull him under still further?

And this again is just what the Administration plan does — pull the railroads still further under the sea of financial difficulties. When the $700 million loan fund is used up, the railroads will be worse off than they are now; they will simply be further under Government control and will be needing further Government money. To such a system there is no end.

What the railroads should be allowed to do is to meet other forms of transportation competition on even terms. There should be no Government favoritism in any direction. As it is now, regulation by Federal and state agencies is so restrictive that railroads are not permitted to do the things they deem necessary to put their affairs in some kind of fiscal order and meet the intense competition from other forms of transportation. They cannot change rates to meet rising costs without permission; they cannot end service on a spur line without somebody else's say-so, no matter how few people the line serves or how much money the railroad loses. For many years, it has been quite clear that the railroads are simply not their own bosses; they are not free to follow sound business principles.

There is no excuse under present conditions for continuation of the transportation excise taxes, which in the case of railroads run three per cent for freight and ten per cent for passenger fares. Why not end these right now? And at the very least, the railroads should have equal treatment with other forms of transportation. No one should object to that.

The railroads can survive and prosper — and it is very essential to our general welfare that they do so — in a free economy if given a fair and equal chance.

Adult Soap Opera! Is It Next In Line?

We have the Adult Western, the Adult Cartoon, the Adult Documentary, the Adult Late Movie, and the Adult Commercial — or so TV claims.

The next, and logical step, would be the Adult Soap Opera.

This, however, is not going to be as easy as it sound. It is going to take a bit of doing.

To start with, everyone of the characters in soap operas must learn a new way of speaking — if not like adults, at least like human beings. The characters of the present, or juvenile soap operas, talk as if they were the union of a language lesson record and a minah bird. For a reason unknown, the actors make sure that the listener understands every syllable of their conversations.

There are several characters in "This Revolving World," or some such named soap opera, who speak so deliberately that one is led to suspect that they stop by the butcher shop on the way to the studio and have their words weighed, wrapped, and the price marked.

To earn that exalted description, "Adult," the people who live in Soapland towns, cities and neighborhoods must curb their nosiness. There are nosy people everywhere, yes, but the inhabitants of Soapland all are prying busybodies.

A doctor can't stay more than ten minutes on a professional call even if the patient has just been run over by a car (and soap opera folks are notoriously slow afoot when crossing a street) without the tongues of everybody in the cast wagging furiously.

Let a man and woman, even though they be the best of friends, be seen walking together, and the soapland gossips immediately put two and two together and get five —the five being that both parties plan to leave their mates, rob a bank, slander the town librarian, or break up the romance between two of their younger friends.

It would also help soap opera's advance onward and upward to adulthood to have at least one of the characters be a man or woman who saw through the whole lot, and told them so.

Some man, say, who would get all the soapland community together and tell them, once and for all, that they were acting like children, were stupid to an almost unbelievable degree, and that beginning as of now, they were not to spread any malicious word about him, and were not to speculate aloud as to his happiness or unhappiness, or he would borrow a baseball bat from the kid next dor and whale away at them.

If not a man, then a strong-willed woman with a tongue to match, who would announce that she couldn't be bothered living in such a town and with such neighbors, and was leaving that afternoon for Saskatchewan or Bangkok, there to try peace and quiet.

She would have to make them understand, of course, that she did not plan to take away some attached male with her. Otherwise, they would all say that that was what she planned to do and would be down at the station to check up on her.

And if they did that — well, you'd have the plot for 85 more installments!

Unemployment Is Avoidable

By F. A. Harper

installment 3

Editor's Note: In the last article Mr. Harper was relating various schemes the government was proposing to cure unemployment. He continues with these theories.

Increased Government Spending

Having the government spend more of our money which they collect by force of taxation is surely not a thing the government can do for us which we cannot do for ourselves. When the government spends more, all it is doing is to put its hands into the citizens' pockets in order to take out some money to spend for something determined by political choice rather than by the personal choice of those who no longer have it to spend for themselves.

Take, for instance, the case of Mrs. Jones and the $29.95 dress. Assuming that this dress is the next thing on Mrs. Jones' shopping list, but just high enough in price so that she has more faith in her money than in the dress, what does increased government spending really mean? It means, in effect, that Mrs. Jones gives the government permission to draw a check on her account and spend money for her. And it is the same money which she does not choose to spend right now for the best thing she can find in the market.

Under the stated assumption, the best thing government could do for Mrs. Jones, if it is to take her money by force, would be to buy that particular dress in the market and give it to her. But that is precisely what Mrs. Jones had decided was not worth the price at the moment. Yet increased government spending is far worse than this in its accomplishments. In the first place, government will probably spend Mrs. Jones' money on something she wants far less than the dress —giving her an even poorer deal than the one she has already rejected. And furthermore, the government will charge a heavy commission for handling the affair, making the cost to Mrs. Jones far more than $29.95.

If there were any merit whatsoever in the idea of the government collecting money from people by force and spending it for them, surely there is a better way to accomplish the same objective. Would it not be better to merely give us all the right to draw on each other's bank accounts, or give us claims on each other's paychecks? Is this not the essence of the scheme whereby the government spends for us what we refuse to spend for ourselves on current offerings in the market? Would it not be better to give our neighbors directly this right to spend for us what we do not want to spend for ourselves — at prevailing prices? For then we could at least get what each of us wants rather than what the politicians want, and we would be saving their heavy commission charge. We would then get more for our money for two reasons, as compared with having the government do it for us. This is not a serious proposal, of course, because even with its two advantages over government spending, it is still a poor deal for us. We would even here be engaged in forcing each other to buy things we consider to be too high in price.

Having the government enter the scene to cure the depression by any such methods, then, merely assures that the depression will be worse than otherwise it would have been. The claim that taxes can somehow be reduced without reducing government expenditures is a fraud. Increased government spending unavoidably means increased taxes, no matter what plan or pattern of "tax reduction" is used. We would be getting less for our money— far less— than if we were to spend it ourselves.

The correct diagnosis of the underlying situation in a depression is that we are not buying things which are available because we have more confidence in the money than we have in market offerings at prevailing prices. That is the only reason why things remain unsold.

Public-Supported Parochial Schools?

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Roman Catholic parochial schools are now educating about 12 per cent of America's children.

If these Catholic schools closed their doors, the already-overcrowded public school system would have to find classrooms and teachers for an additional 4,600,000 students.

Do these facts constitute a valid argument for public financial support of church-operated schools?

Many Catholics believe they do. Many non-Catholics emphatically disagree. Both sides have been expressing their views with increasing vigor in recent months. Although no immediate showdown is in sight, the controversy is clearly building up a head of steam.

Catholics contend that the parochial school school system has become an integral part of American education; that it is performing an essential public function by educating millions of children for whom there is no room in the public schools.

Save Taxpayers Money

They say parochial schools are saving U.S. taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars a year, and that it is only fair that some of this money be returned to the Catholic parents who pay for this auxiliary school system through tuition fees and contributions.

Some non-Catholics are sympathetic to this argument. But others agree with the position taken by the National Council of Churches, largest U.S. Protestant organization.

The council contends that the full cost of supporting private school systems should be borne "by those who choose to maintain them." Any direct or indirect government support of religious schools, it says, would be as repugnant to the Constitution as a federal subsidy for churches.

The Supreme Court has ruled on several occasions that the First Amendment to the Constitution—the "separation of church and state" amendment — forbids use of tax funds for direct support of church-operated schools.

But it has also ruled, in the Everson case of 1947, that the Constitution does not bar a state from providing free school bus transportation for parochial students. The court took the position that this is a service that the government renders, not to the religious school itself, but to the individual children who attend it.

'Playhouse 90' Churned Out An Odd One Thursday Night

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) —CBS-TV's "Playhouse 90" churned out an odd one Thursday night — a combination of chilling documentary and well-intentioned but uneven drama.

"Nightmare at Ground Zero" was the name of the piece and it was based on a true episode that took place after the explosion of the first hydrogen bomb in the Pacific in 1954. Its human materials were five scientists some 20 miles from the test site who were trapped for 11 hours in a "hot" bunker because the size of the blast and the direction of the fall-outs were miscalculated.

When "Nightmare at Ground Zero" stuck to a straight telling of its story, it was a gripper. One wordless scene of three or four minutes in which the scientists checked the mechanism of the bomb was a superb piece of suspense. Film clips of preparations for the bomb and the actual triggering of it were worked in to fine effect. The bomb, after all, carries its own built-in drama.

But when "Nightmare at Ground Zero" turned to the area of human conflict, it stumbled. The conflict it posed was one between two of the quintet of scientists who tussled over the moral implications of the bomb. Meaty stuff, certainly, but "Playhouse 90" handled it in clumsy fashion.

The climax of the tussle-centering as it did around an exchange of quotes from Browning, Horace etc. — was not only dramatically unbelievable, but embarassing.

As with all these "Playhouse 90" things the direction and sets and acting were slick. Jack Warden and Barry Sullivan toted the bulk of the acting load to good effect.

Look Back: CBS-TV's "Climax" mystery Thursday night, "The Disappearance of Daphne," was a run-of-the-mill affair, but it was worth watching just to catch the face of villainess Irene Pappas—a rich and majestic face that looks as if it might have been hacked out of flint.

The appearance of Edgar Bergen's daughter, Candy, and Groucho Marx' daughter, Melinda, on Groucho's NBC-TV clambake was a delightful interlude in the evening. Miss Bergen, who is "almost 12," is going to be quite a charmer in five or six years.

It seems to me that Jonathan Winters, who is currently running the NBC-TV "Jack Par Show", is getting more mellow and as a result, less funny. Winters is at his best when he competes at the sick, sick sick level. However, Winters operating at half-funniness is still funnier than most of the comics around.

The Channel Swim: "Haggis Baggis," the five-a-week afternoon quiz that NBC-TV will unveil on June 30, also will make its debut as an NBC-TV nighttime show on June 30 in the slot currently held by "The Price Is Right." Jack Linkletter, son of Art Linkletter, will emcee the evening show. Right now, Steve Dunne is the lead contender for emcee of the daytime "Haggis Baggis."

NBC-TV's "Kraft Theatre" will change its name to "Kraft Mystery Threatre" on June 11 and program whodunits for the rest of the summer. "Jody," the show that'll replace NBC-TV's Tennessee Ernie Ford for the summer beginning July 3, has had its name changed to "Buckskin"—Tommy Nolan and Sallie Brophy star.

"Keep Talking," a quizzer, is the summer replacement for the CBS-TV "Person to Person" show beginnig June 27. The state executives who attend the governors convention in Florida next month will get an advance peek at an upcoming NBC-TV fall series, "The Men from Tallahasee"—it's a cops and robbers show that will probably be used in a Saturday night spot.

Florence Henderson will set some kind of a record June 4 when she appears on three nighttime CBS-TV shows — she'll be a vocalist on Jim Lowe's "Sing Along" which makes its debut that night, she'll do a filmed commercial on "The Big Record" and she'll play a dramatic role on "U.S. Steel Hour."

Guy Williams, star of ABC-TV will do James Agee's "A Death in the Family," this year's Pulitzer Prize novel, on "Playhouse 90" next season. Adlai Stevenson is set as June 1 guest on Mike Walace's ABC-TV show.

YOUNG MAN WITH A HORN

Harvester Band leader W. R. Tregoe tries to prove that he can't play a trumpet anymore. He has given it up for teaching. Trego went to West Texas State College on a Dance Band Scholarship and laid aside the trumpet to teach. (News Photo)

Jazz Changing With Time, Says Tregoe

By WALLACE TRUESDELL
Pampa News Staff Writer

"People who are still listening to Louis Armstrong ought to be driving a 1928 car," W. R. Tregoe observed. "Stan Kenton is the man doing the most for jazz. He's making it change with the times."

On his eighth year as Pampa Harvester Bandleader, Tregoe is outspoken on jazz.

Tregoe is a long way from Baltimore, Md., where he played for dances and "jammed." What he liked least about playing dance jobs was that he didn't get to play much jazz.

Working in a Government office, Tregoe made music by night. "We got more fun from rehearsal," says Tregoe. "There we could play for ourselves. We got our fun after the dance jobs. There was always a place to jam. We'd finish at midnight or 2 a.m. and jam until 4, 5 or 6."

Tregoe's musical outlet was the trumpet but working for the government and playing for the public were dissatisfying to a young man just out of high school. Tregoe looked around Baltimore and enrolled in Peabody Conservatory.

Then on a Dance Band Scholarship he jumped to West Texas State in Canyon. Going on the jog with the Dance Band, Tregoe decided he wanted to teach. He took his degree in music education and taught at Tanoka and Iraan.

Although Tregoe likes to see big cities on his vacation, Texas is where he likes to teach. And the schools of Pampa offer more opportunities for band work than any in Baltimore.

Tregoe looks at jazz and band music with a discerning eye. "As a matter of fact," he says, "the first jazz came out of brass bands." Now that jazz has claimed a wider audience even to the exsame could be said of bands.

Tregoe sees bands going symphonic as the quality of compositions goes up. The men who are composing for symphony orchestras are doing some of their finest work for symphonic bands.

Some of the leaders in the movement, says Tregoe, are Hanson of Eastman - Rochester Symphony fame, Paul Creston who is an organist in New York, Clifton Williams from the University of Texas and Aaron Copeland, one of the most versatile modern composers.

Tregoe knows that once bands have their own music there will be no holding them down.

He has reached the point in his life where he emotional outlet is teaching. Although he stands as "a big band jazz man," he knows what a high school band can do. He explains that a jazz bands' interpretation is much different from what a symphonic band or symphony would do. All musicians observe basic rhythm patterns but the interpretation is never the same. What Tregoe does for his more interested students is to each them to read music in a less conventional way.

Tregoe has no feud with Louis Armstrong but he doesn't like "reminiscing" in music and above all he likes his jazz new. And he keeps his Hi-Fi in Stan Kenton, Woodie Herman and Les Brown records to keep up with the changing times.

WASHINGTON—Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio), on being informed actress Zsa Zsa Gabor had challenged him to repeat outside Congress his statement that she is apparently the most expensive courtesan since Madame Pompadour":

"I have nothing against Mis Gabor personally. It's just that I want those Trujillos to stop throwing their money around."

Any Good In Last Week's Stories?

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

Riot and rebellion in Venezuela, Lebanon and Algeria and a threatened political explosion in France made newspaper headlines this week.

In all four countries, anti-American outbreaks were part of the picture.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was stoned, cursed and spat upon by Communist-incited mobs in Caracas, capital of Venezuela, at the wind-up of his "good will" tour of Latin America.

President Eisenhower regarded the incident as so serious that he ordered Marines and paratroopers flown to Caribbean bases within easy reach of Caracas for use if the Venezuelan government "requested assistance" in keeping order.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, wartime leader of free France, threw the French political situation into turmoil by announcing:

"I hold myself ready to take over the powers of the Republic."

De Gaulle, "strong man" regarded by many as a potential dictator, issued his statement after French troops, demanding a fight to the finish against the rebels, took charge in Algeria and called for a De Gaulle government.

Pierre Pflimlin had been confirmed by Parliament as France's 27th postwar premier when De Gaulle made his statement.

Mobs had rioted in Paris, demanding that De Gaulle be put in power, and had tried to storm the National Assembly and the U.S. embassy.

Tough paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu led the army movement in Algeria.

Gen. Raoul Salan, commander in chief of the 400,000 French troops in Algeria, publicly proclaimed his support of Massu and hailed De Gaulle.

A French nationalist mob sacked the United States Information Service library in Algiers.

Mobs rebelling against pro-western president Camille Chamoun of Lebanon burned USIS libraries in Beirut, the capital, and Tripoli, and tried to storm the American embassy in Beirut.

The United States air-lifted small arms, ammunition, tear gas and gas masks from West Germany to Lebanon to assist police and troops in suppressing the riots.

The strength of the Marines attached to the U.S. 6th Fleet, based in the Mediterranean, was doubled.

Soviet Russia launched its third Sputnik satellite, to join the three U.S. satellites now hurtling in orbit round the globe.

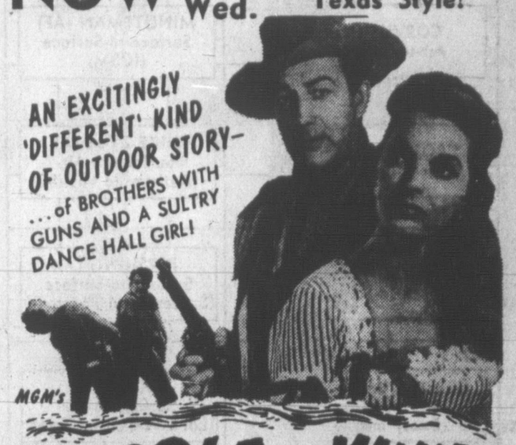

The new Sputnik is a big one—2,925.53 pounds, compared to the 31 pounds of the largest American satellite.

Russia's first two Sputniks which dramatically demonstrate its progress in the field of rockets, have expired.

Shape of things to come in military rocketry is suggested in the background of the list of missiles, above. Filling a variety of functions, all are in different stages of development within the three services. The two decoy missiles, Bull Goose and Green Quail, are interesting in that Fiberglas will be featured in their construction. The trend to solid fuel, because of its greater handling ease and readiness, is indicated in Minuteman and Pershing. Minuteman, an ICBM, is well-named. It is designed to be placed in underground installations, armed, aimed at target and pushbutton-ready. Titan, liquid-fueled, is expected to be ready in 1960, will supplement or replace Atlas.

Rule Against Coeds' Visits To Apartments Is Unpopular

By RICHARD LOFTUS
United Press Staff Correspondent

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—University of Wisconsin officials are showing no signs of easing an unpopular ban against coed visits to off-campus "apartment parties."

A poll showed the girls are all for repeal of the regulation.

Male students weren't polled.

The survey was conducted by Phillip Morrison, student chairman of the Student Life and Interest Committee. It disclosed that the parties, made up of equal parts of boys, girls and booze, were commonplace despite the school rule.

Of the 230 Wisconsin coeds interviewed, 94 per cent owned up to attending one or more of the forbidden parties. The other 6 per cent said all they were waiting for was an invitation.

Morrison said the girls were unanimous in wanting a change in the university regulation which declared men's living quarters "off limits" unless a chaperon was present.

Morrison hinted he may recommend modification of the rule on grounds "it is much better to have a rule which is enforceable rather than one which everybody breaks."

The situation was created partly by geography. Many men live off campus in rooms or bachelor apartments and inviting the girls least, a social "must."
over has become, unoffically, at

Geography or no geography, school officials know where they stand on the matter.

"The rule is that young women simply do not go to young mens' apartments unless there is a chaperon," said Dean of Women Martha E. Peterson.

Did she know of any specific violations.

"How would I know," she said, "I'm dean of women!"

In scattered interviews on the campus, one coed described the chaperon rule as "outdated and ineffective," while a male student said "all three of my roommates married girls they met at apartment parties last semester."

University authorities apparently adopted a "wait and see" attitude, and indicated they planned to continue their policy of fitting the punishment to the crime.

"Not more than a dozen" students are brought before the Student Conduct Committee in a typical year, Dean of Men Theodore Zillman said.

"The usual punishment is disciplinary probation," he said. "But if there is evidence of immorality beyond the mere breach of the regulation, then the committee must view it more seriously."

33 LETTERMEN NAMED

15 Will Be Lost For '59

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
News Sports Editor

Thirty-three Pampa High athletes who partook in three spring sports — baseball, track and golf—have been named as lettermen.

But that old graduation bugaboo riddles the ranks with 15 not returning for next year's competition.

Coach Dwaine Lyon has most cause for moaning. His track team will be hardest hit when the sheepskins are distributed. He loses nine of his 14 thinclad monogram winners, including the incredible Mr. Alton Thygerson, state sprint champ in the 100 and 220 yard-dashes.

"We'll be stronger in the weights next year," Coach Lyons allowed, "but how can we be expected to replace guys like Thygerson. He's one in a thousand. We'll definitely be weaker in the dashes."

Coack Deck Woldt loses six of his 14 baseball lettermen and Coach Weldon (Bird Dog) Trice loses one of his four golf numeral winners.

TRACK

Picking up second letters are seniors, Bill Breshears, Andy Epps and Kenneth Keith.

Seniors winning initial letters are Bobby Brown and Ray Morris while juniors getting first letters are Dickie Watkins, Rex Williams, and Paul Brown.

Lyon named nine reserve lettermen, including juniors, Mack Shirley, Bill King and Tommy Hill, and sophomores, Mert Cooper, Kent Mitchell, Jim Scott, Harold Stokes, Joe Wagner, and John Spotts.

BASEBALL

A quartet of baseballers picked up their third letters namely, Shortstop Bill Brown, Catcher-Pitcher Mike Conway, Leftfielder Larry Cruise and Thirdbaseman and Captain, Robert Langford.

Winning second letters were Second-sacker and Captain Merle Terrell, and Firstbaseman Ray Stephenson, both seniors.

Juniors getting initial letters were Catcher Clovis Shipp, Thirdbaseman Gary Wills, Pitcher Keith Yeager, and Pitcher DeWayne Glover.

Sophs earning first letters were Outfielder Terry Joe Haralson, Pitcher Kippy Williams, Outfielder Bobby Stephens and Second-sacker Ruben Strickland.

GOLF

Graduation strips just one letterman from Coach Weldon (Bird Dog) Trices 3rd place conference golf team, but "He'll be a hard kid to replace," Trice claims.

Lost for the 1959 links foursome is Melvin Chisum, who copped the district medalist title this spring at the Borger Country Club with a wind-blown 149 for 36 holes.

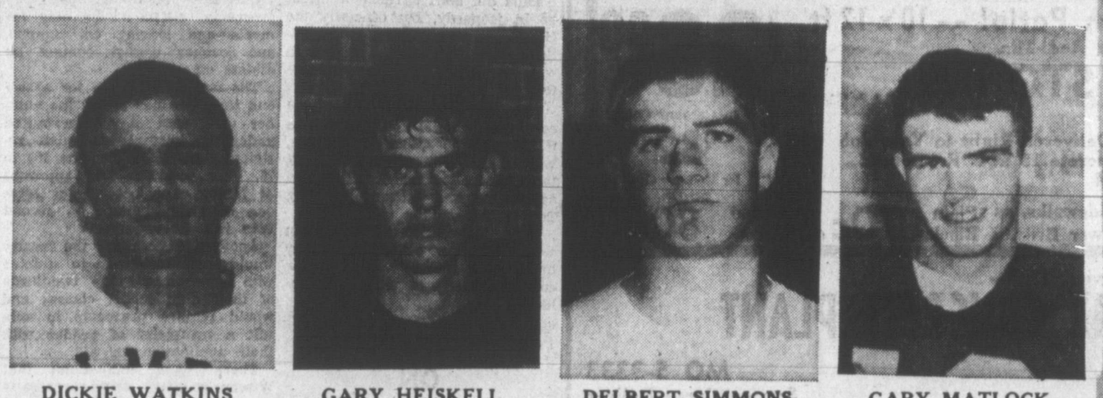

Besides Chisum's third letter, Trice has announced Larry Tarvin, Don Fox and Harold Cook as monogram winners. Others on the golf team this spring were John Ellis, Terry Richardson, Eugene Yeary, George Smith, Virgil Cummings, Kent Hicks, Paul Machowicz and Robert Sidwell.

The Pampa High golfers finished fifth in the Recreational Relays Golf Tournament at Fort Worth and in the same position at the 16-team Amarillo Relays Golf Tourney this spring. They were sixth at the West Texas Relays Golf Meet in Odessa.

VOLLEYBALL

Fifteen girls, members of the state tournament Pampa High Volleyball team which finished second, getting letters include Varsity players, Phyliss Buress, Erma Eslick, Kay Layne, Linda Wagner, Pat Weatherly Carolyn Shafte, Joy Vanderburg and all-staters Sherry Thygerson and Carolyn Dilger.

B-team letter winners were LaJohnna Ellington Marilyn Fite, Daline Kiff, Gay Vanderburg, Jean Hopkins, and manager Sandra Cotton.

DICKIE WATKINS | GARY HEISKELL | DELBERT SIMMONS | GARY MATLOCK

1958 GRID CAPTAINS ELECTED

Quad-Captains have been named to lead the 1958 Harvester football team on and off the field next fall, Coach Babe Curfman announced Saturday. Selected by teammates to head the Pampa High eleven were four seniors-to-be, Gary Heiskell, Dickie Watkins, Gary Matlock and Delbert Simmons. Heiskell is a 185-pound halfback with one year varsity experience. Watkins is a 170-pound center with two years varsity experience while Matlock is a 185-pound guard with two-years varsity experience and Simmons is a 190-pound tackle with one year varsity experience. Curfman said, "I think the boys made a wise choice, all four kids are not only good footballers but fine leaders as well."

Pampa 3rd In Hitting

The Amarillo Sandies, District 3-AAAA champs the last four years running, became the second team in loop history to finish the conference season without a blotch on their record.

Coach Sam Pecchia's Sandies accomplished their unblemished conference season Friday by scoring an unearned run in the seventh frame at Lubbock to trip Monterey, 1-0. Both clubs mustered but two singles each.

The Sandies have captured eight district titles in the last 11 years and sad to say, have beaten Pampa High 30 of 31 times, the home Harvester triumph coming in 1954 and knocking the Sandstorm from the running for the circuit chaplet. Amarillo plays Fort Worth Paschal in bi-district there, May 23-24 in a best 2-of-3 series.

Pampa finished fourth in 3-AAAA standings with a 5-5 record. Coack Deck Woldt's hustling Harvesters, who opened with a flash, winning their first three games and appearing as if they would live up to pre-season billing as favorites, slumped off towards the tail-end of the year while the Sandies picked up momentun with every swing of the bat.

Pampa 13-7 for the full season, was third best slugging team with a .252 plate average, behind Borget and Palo Duro.

The Harvesters were fourth in field at .910, behind Amarillo's torrid .950 defensive mark, Lubbock and Monterey.

Rick Pezdirtz ★ purely paydirt

With the exception of the leftfield screen in Los Angeles and the fact that parking space is disappearing from the face of the earth quickly as Detroit turns out its finheavy fancies, this has just gotta be considered the most progressive of all possible worlds.

The moon is only two whoops off the back porch. Nowadays we can blow up a city thousands of miles off in two seconds, whereas, it once took a week of bombardment by big bombers which are becoming obsolete, no thanks to missiles man, missiles.

DWAINE LYON
. . . sees 5 fall

Certainly citizens are running faster, jumping higher and farther than ever before and Pampa High track coach, Dwaine Lyon, just happens to have a little old record book to prove it.

Hitting for the hills like the dam just broke, Lyon's thinclads erased five school records during the past couple months and without crystal-balling you might watch for more of the same to be done next spring.

Bigger and better, faster and stronger. Fetch me that cane son, 'for I tan yore hide!

Alton Holds 2 All-Time Marks

Lyon bent our ear with these all-time Pampa High marks that were spiked black-and-blue the past season.

Smooth Alton Thygerson snapped the all-time 100 and 220 yard dash records much to the surprise of no one.

His timely 9.6 in the finals of the state schoolboy meet at Austin shattered the old school record posted by Harold Lewis back in 1954. State schoolboy mark for the century is 9.5 and the national mark is 9.4.

Thygerson's 20.9 220-yard dash time shattered a record he held jointly with Lewis. Both had hit 21.3 previously. The national mark is 20.7 while an unofficial 20.5 (wind-blown) time stands as the Texas 220-yard best time.

Five New Records In '58

Still picking 'em up and laying 'em down, Frank Snow shattered his own school 880-yard dash mark of 2:07.5 set in 1957, with a 2:07.1 run this season. The national mark is 1:52.3 and the state record is 1:55.4, tied this year by Richard Menchaca of San Antonio Lanier. The record was formerly held solely by R. L. Bush of Dallas Sunset, who performed way back yonder in 1933.

Snow, Robert Warren, Andy Epps and Tommy Locke smashed a 1-year-old mile relay record to smitherings with a 3:31.4 time this season. The old mark of 3.38 for the mile was set by Thygerson, Bill Breshear, Ken Keith and Dick Barrett last spring. National mark is 3:17.9 and the state's best is 3.18.

The fifth new all-time school mark was hung up in the sprint medley (a 440, two 220's, and an 880) by Snow, Warren, Epps and Buddy Rawls, who clicked off a 3.44 to better a 3.48 mark achieved in 1957.

Other Toppers At Pampa High

Scattershooting around the rest of the track, here's other all-time Pampa High marks and state and national toppers.

440-YARD DASH — held jointly by Lewis (1955) and Dickie Mauldin (1956) at 51.0. Current Texas University smoothie, Eddie Southern, holds the national and naturally state records at 46.7, set while wearing the colors of Dallas Sunset High.

MILE RUN — held here by Johnny Campbell (1945) with a 4:30.6 time. State record was busted this spring by Fort Worth North Side's John Cooper. He ran a 4:17.9 to better the 4:25.0 posted by Javler Montes of El Paso Bowie in 1947.

HIGH HURDLES — held by Ed Dudley (1954) with a 14.5 clocking. State mark is 14-flat.

LOW HURDLES — held by Dudley and John Darby (both in 1954) with 19-2 marks. State's best is 18.6 and the national schoolboy mark is 18.5.

440-YARD RELAY — held by Darby, Dudley, Lewis and Walker State and national level both stand at 42-flat.

880-YARD RELAY — held by Darby, Dudley, Lewis and Bird (1954) with a time of 1:30.8. This year Thygerson, Breshears, Epps and Locke, narrowly missed the record with a 1.31-flat race.

HIGH JUMP — held by Don Hinton (1955) with a leap of 5-10. State mark is 6-5 and national is 6-9 and ¾ths.

BROAD JUMP — held by Darby (1954) with a leap of 22-3½. State mark is 24½ and national is 25-4¼.

POLE VAULT — held by Jim Fisher (1956) with a spring of 11.4. State mark is 13.2 set this year by Amarillo's Baylus Bennett, and national is 14-3 and ½th.

DISCUS — held by Randal Clay (1946) with a heave of 159-8½ State record is 162-7 set this spring by Richard Stafford of Matador, breaking a 159-2½ throw by Jack Tayrien of Odessa in 1957.

SHOT PUT — held by Jon Cantrell (1955) with a push of 55-8¼. State mark is 59-feet even and a new national mark of 66-plus was set this year breaking the old U.S. schoolboy record of 63-9½.

So there you are, to steal a line from George Gobel. Clip out these all-time high Pampa, state and national records, hustle out and dig up a hot argument with your neighbor. Chop-chop!

'Tam Does It Again

By RAY AYRES
United Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Calumet Farm's TIM Tam, the Kentucky Derby winner, moved a step closer to turf immortality Saturday when he won the 82nd running of the $133,950 Preakness Stakes with the same devastating stretch run which carried him to glory two weeks ago at Churchill Downs.

Once again jockey Ismael Valenzuela, riding for the first time in the second jewel of turfdom's triple crown, let Tim Tam settle down into his best stride before asking the son of Tom Fool to run his heart out.

By the time the field reached the top of the stretch Valenzuela had moved Tim Tam up to third place, guided him between horses for the drive through the stretch, and then asked Tim Tam for all he had.

The colt responded with a brilliant burst of speed which once again carried him to victory over Sunny Blue Farm's Lincoln Road just as it did in the Kentucky Derby and before that, in the Florida Derby. Tim Tam won by a length and one-half.

Llangollen Farm's Gone Fishin', three and one half lengths behind Lincoln Road at the end of the mile and three-sixteenths, nosed out Edward J. Potter's Plion for third position in the field of 12 3-year-olds.

Silky Sullivan Trails

Silky Sullivan a bust in the Kentucky Derby when he finished 12th, was little better Saturday. In typical fashion, the colt from California dropped about 40 lengths behind the field in the first quarter of a mile. He started his "big run" from the rear when he reached the turn leading to the stretch.

Old Silky passed horses but he only passed the tired tailenders and was far back in eighth position when Tim Tam scampered across the finish line, the sixth Preakness winner for famed Calumet Farm.

This is the tough race for horses seeking a triple crown victory. Only one ever has won both the Kentucky Derby 'and Preakness and failed to sweep them all if given a chance to run in the Belmont Stakes, to be renewed this year on June 7.

That one failure was Pensive, another Calumeteer who was second in the Belmont. Eight went all the way.

Tim Tam, who now has won eight straight races, was pinched off as the field charged out of the starting gate but he had lady luck on his side too. For Valenzuela was able to send the colt up along the rail in the drive through the backstretch and found room between horses to make his bid in the final straightaway.

The crowd of 36,912 made Tim Tam a strong favorite and they roared their approval as he rewarded most of them with $4.20, $2.80 and $2.20 across the board. Lincoln Road paid $4.80 and $3.40 while Gone Fishin', eighth in the Kentucky Derby, returned $4.80.

This was the second richest of all Preaknesses and Tim Tam hauled in a purse worth $97,900, a winner's purse topped only by the $98,005 won by Calumet Farm's Faultless in 1954. All told, this stable now has taken $513,970 in Preakness purses through the victories of Whirlaway, Pensive, Faultless, Citation, Fabius and Tim Tam and the second-place finishes of Sun Again and Iron Liege.

"He was further back than I wanted him to be," Valenzuela said in the winner's circle where Tim Tam was draped with a blanket of blackeyed susans. "We got into a little trouble right after the start. With all those speed horses coming over on us I was a little worried but I was able to to beat 1:57 in this race.

Terrell Ace Inks A&M Intent Letter

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — (UP)—John Keller, a former Terrell high school football, basketball, and track star, signed a letter of intent with Texas A&M Saturday.

The six-foot, six-inch, 200 pound athlete averaged 23 points with the Terrell basketball squad last season and was a regular end on the Class AA state championship football team Terrell fielded last fall.

Jackson's 5-Hitter Paces Cardinals By Dodgers, 10-1

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Larry Jackson pitched a five-hitter and his teammates backed him up with their biggest inning of the season to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 10-1 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday.

The Cards, held to one hit for the first three innings by Don Newcombe, drove the big right-hander to the showers in the fourth inning, when they scored seven runs.

Here's how it went:

Don Blasingame led off with a triple and scored on Stan Musial's eighth home run. Successive singles by Irv Noren and Joe Cunningham chased Newcombe and Don Bessent took over.

Bessent walked Wally Moon to load the bases and passed Ken Boyer to force in a run. He was replaced by Sandy Koufax and Hal Smith cleared the bases with a triple.

Jackson, attempting to bunt, popped into a double play but Dick Schofield singled and scored on singles by Blasingame and Musial, their second hits of the inning.

The Dodgers counted their only run off Jackson in the sixth on Junior Gilliam's triple and Pee Wee Reese's sacrifice fly.

Cunningham's two-run homer, his first of the season, and Smith's single were the payoff hits in the Cards' three-run burst against Stan Williams in the seventh.

Phils Nip Bucs, 4-3

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Robin Roberts, surviving a pair of sixth inning homers, won his second in a row and his third of the season as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

The Phils chased rookie Bennie Daniels with four runs in the first four innings in an attack which included homers by Rip Repulski and Willie Jones and a bases-loaded bunt by Roberts for another tally as the Pirates lost their third straight.

Pittsburgh, trailing 4-0, came within striking distance in the sixth when Frank Thomas hit his 11th homer with one out. Bill Mazeroski walked with two out and then Hank Foiles slammed his first homer of the season to cut the Phils' lead to one run.

Sul Ross Slams

ALPINE, Tex. (UP) — Jerry Morris' seventh inning grand slam home run powered the Sul Ross State College Lobos to an 8-6 win over the White Sands Proving Grounds Rockets at Alpine, Tex., Saturday, giving the Lobos an enviable 20 - 4 season record.

Chisum, Howard Jr. Golf Champs

The 3rd time proved a charm alright for Melvin Chisum.

The lanky 18-year-old Pampa High golfing ace blistered the fairways and greens to claim his third straight Class A championship title in the annual Pampa Country Club Junior Golf Tournament, concluded Friday evening.

Chisum shot a gross 219 for the 54-hole meet, only three strokes above par for the three-round match.

However, the next four low net shooters will be making the trip to Corpus Christi to enter the state Junior Chamber of Commerce Tournament later this summer, Pampa CC Pro, Hart Warren points out.

The Jaycee Meet is open to youngsters 17-years-old and under, thus eliminating Chisum from the running.

Larry Travis had the low net for the meet at 221. His gross was 230. Travis and Don Roy Fox, third place finisher with a 236 gross and 218 net; John Ellis, fourth place finisher with a 247 gross and 214 net; and George Smith, fifth place finisher with a 256 gross and 211 net, are eligible for the Jaycee Meet in Corpus Christi.

In the Class B tournament, a 36-hole event, the Howard brothers, Bobby and Freddie wound up first and third respectively, sandwiched around Charlie Ferrell.

Bobby Howard fired a low gross 181 and had a net 156. Ferrell tied him in the low net competition with a 156 while Charlie Howard had a 164 net.

Competition was keen all the way down the rest of the line in the Class B division, for golfers 11 through 14-years-old.

Three boys, Leonard Hudson, Bryan Prigmore and D. Wright, deadlocked for fifth place with identical 167-net cards while John Hatcher came in 8th at 177-net.

Rounding out the lower half of the Class A tournament were Perry Richardson with a gross 267 and a net of 228 for sixth place, Robert Sidwell with a 279 gross and 255 net for seventh place, and Virgil Cummings with 277 gross and 239 net for eighth place.

Two Pampa Exes Get TCU Letters

FORT WORTH (SPL) — Two former Pampa High athletes have been announced as spring lettermen at Texas Christian University in track and basketball.

Jon Cantrell, who holds the all-time Pampa High shot-put record of 55-8¼, has been awarded a varsity track and field letter for his performances this spring with the Frog thinclads.

A frosh basketball letter has been awarded Jerry Pope, all-district and all-stater for the Harvesters during the 1956-57 season, for his play with the TCU Polywogs last winter.

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT—Bobby Howard, left, looks at the red-hot putter, Melvin Chisum, right, used to capture the Class A title of the Pampa Country Club who'll be moving up into the Class A bracket in future meets, copped the Class B Junior Golf Tournament which ended after four days Friday evening. Rose Bowl Pact Due Big 10 Discussion

CHICAGO (UP) — Big Ten officials definitely will discuss the Rose Bowl contract at the regular spring meeting at Purdue next week, but whether any action will be taken remains problematical.

The conference has not been informed officially that there are any problems in the Pacific Coast Conference, with which the Rose Bowl pact to provide a team annually was signed, but UCLA, Southern California and California have served notice they're going to leave the Pacific Coast group.

Thus the bowl agreement might be in jeopardy, but officially the Big Ten knows nothing of the difficulties. Hence the discussion will be both unofficial and uninformed.

The only way the Rose Bowl could rate official action would be if the Pacific Coast Conference, which meets next week also, takes some action on the bowl agreement and informs the Big Ten of its attitude or action.

Then it was likely discussion would become official, but any immediate action to cancel or continue the pact would be unlikely.

The conference meetings begin Thursday at a golf outing. That evening, faculty representatives will hear a report from the conference examiner on his study of member institutions.

The faculty later will consider a report recommending a rule change to permit a school to pay expenses for prospective athletes for one campus visit, in accord with the NCAA rule, and also to allow coaches to interview prospects, on invitation, off the campus.

Currently members may pay prospects' expenses only for meals and lodging on campus, and coaches cannot contact an athlete off campus.

The faculty will vote for a second time whether to cut the number of grants in aid permitted under the current aid rules, restricting aid to need, from 100 to 75. The proposal was approved in March, but because at least one member objected, a second vote will be necessary.

Another proposal for the faculty would limit assistance to athletes who were in the top two-thirds of their high school classes and would require prospects to submit a transcript of grades with their application for aid.

There were indications that Wisconsin again would propose a 10-game football schedule requiring a round - robin conference schedule of nine games beginning in 1969. The proposal would require each team to play seven league games in 1965 and 1966 and eight in 1967 and 1968.

Schedules already have been prepared through 1964.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN
Game Warden

A fishing license is required when a person fishes in any of the waters of this state with these exceptions: No person under seventeen years of age and no person over sixty-five years of age is required to possess a fishing license. No person, or member of such person's immediate family, shall be required to hold the license provided for in this act (regular fishing license) when fishing upon the property he owns or resides. No license shall be required of a person with a trotline, throw line, or ordinary pole and line having no reel or winding device attached when fishing in the county of his residence. No other fishing license shall be required of a person who holds a commercial fishing license.

The above isn't the whole statue intact but is roughly the gist of same regarding license requirements. All state Game and Fish Commission licenses expire August 31 of each year.

Commercial Fisherman License

A "Commercial Fisherman" is any person who takes fish or oysters or shrimp or other edible aquatic products from the waters of this state, for pay, or for the purpose of sale, barter or exchange. The fee for this license is $3.00.

The above is taken from the law books in part, however, the following is on the lighter side and is a story that has been making the rounds. It goes something like this.

There was a very strict Game Warden who was tipped off that a certain colored ranch cook, here in the Panhandle, was selling mud catfish. Of course, the warden knew that there would be the requirement of a commercial fisherman's license involved and he surmised that the cook was selling fish without same.

The warden approached the cook and inquired if he could buy a few fish and readily the cook-fisherman said that he had a few for sale. "How much do you want for this string of fish?" said the warden.

The reply was, "Ten dollahs Suh."

The warden pulled out his roll, peeled off ten dollars and purchased the few catfish and then said, "Now let me check your commercial fisherman license." The cook reached into his billfold and pulled out a commercial fisherman license, much to the consternation of the Game Warden.

Dog Training

There was a college boy who was hard pressed for money. On a weekend he told his father who was farming, "Say, Pop, there is a feller up at college that can teach old Rover to talk for a thousand dollars." The father thought for a few minutes and finally said, "By, golly, that would be something if old Rover could really talk. Why don't you take him back to college with you and get him trained."

The son took Rover back to school together with the thousand dollars and after a few weeks wrote home that old Rover wasn't doing too good in school and that it would take another five hundred to really have him talking like he should. The anxious father wired him the five hundred.

When school was out the son and old Rover boarded the train and headed home. After a few miles journey the son began to think that it would be foolish for him and Rover to arrive and the dog not be able to speak a word, so he tossed the canine out the window of the train. When he arrived the father was there to greet him and said "Where is old Rover?"

"Well, Pop, it's something like this. Do you remember the time that you got arrested for hunting out of season and that people here at home don't know about it? "Yes, too," said the father. "Well, you also remember the time that you was arrested for killing too many quail?" "Yes, I remember that, too," sais the father. "Well, you know that old Rover always went with you, even the times you came in late at night, so on the way over her, since he talked so much I just tossed him from the train window and he was killed."

The father seriously thought for a few minutes and then spoke up, "Son, are you danged sure that that dog was killed?"

Aussie, Elliott Runs World's 2nd Fastest Mile At 3:57.9

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Herb Elliott of Australia today had southern California track fans convinced he was even better than his advance notices as he turned in the second fastest mile in history Friday night in the Coliseum Relays.

Racing on a hard-packed grass course, like those he became accustomed to in his native land, clipping two-tenths of a second off Elliott ran the mile in 3:57.8, the recognized world record of 3:58 set by John Landy, another Aussie, in 1954.

Although Derek Ibbotson of England has a mark of 3:58.2, Coliseum Relays referee Larry Houston announced that Elliott's time would be submitted as a new world's record because the International Athletic Federation had questioned the pacing in Ibbotson's race.

"I would like to do better," the smiling 20-year-old Elliott said after his victory. "I think perhaps with the proper conditions I could do 3:55."

Elliott scored his fourth straight victory over his countryman, Merv Lincoln, who was second, about 20 yards back.

Elliott's performance, however, was not the only record witnessed by the crowd of 34,656 track fans. The University of California two-mile relay team, anchored by Don Bowden, only American to break world mark of 7:22.8 set in the mile, set a world mark of 7:20.9. The Michigan State team's time of 7:21.4 also eclipsed the old world makr of 7:22.8 set in the Coliseum Relays last year by Occidental College of Los Angeles.

Another Aussie, Alex Handerson, who competes for Arizona State, set a new American record for the two-mile event of 8:47.9, breaking the mark of 8.49.6 established by Horace Ashenfelter, inz 55.

Giants Clobber Cubs By 9-2

CHICAGO (UP) — Two home runs by Orlando Cepeda and one each by Daryl Spencer and Willie Mays Saturday powered the San Francisco Giants to a 9-4 victory Francisco Giants to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Circuit blows bringing the Giants' team total to 50 accounted for six of the total runs, starting off with Spencer's three-run blast off starter and loser Glen Hobbie.

Mays' homer, a 430-foot blow into the left-center field bleachers, was his 11th of the season, all but one of them hit in the last eight games. The Giants' center fielder brought his eight-day hitting spree to 17 hits in 33 trips for a fat .512 average.

A's Dump Detroit, 4-3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP) — Relief outfielder Bob Martyn singled in the winning run in the bottom of the ninth Saturday as Kansas City's Jack Urban bested Detroit's Frank Lary 4-3 in a battle of seven-hitters.

Martyn had entered the contest in the eighth inning when Athletic leftfielder Bob Cerv suffered a possible fractured jaw in a collision at home plate. Lary yielded his only walk of the night to open the ninth and after a sacrifice Martyn struck his game-winning hit to left to score Hector Lopez easily.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead in the third when Bob Wilson and Frank Bolling rapped doubles around a sacrifice but Kansas City jumped ahead in the fourth on back-to-back homers by Lopez and Vic Power on consecutive pitches.

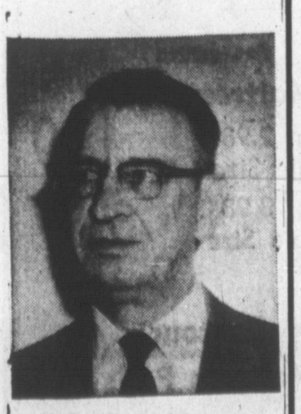

Braves Bop Redlegs, 5-1

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP) — The Milwaukee Braves backed up the three-hit pitching of Bob Rush with a salvo of home runs by Johnny Logan, Del Crandall, and Eddie Mathews Saturday night to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 5-1.

It was the Braves' ninth win in the last 10 games and their fifth in six starts against the Redlegs—a club they beat 18 times in 22 meetings last season.

Rush, the former Chicago Cubs' fire-baller, notched his third win of the season and second over Cincinnati. He yielded a run in the fourth inning on singles by Dee Fondy and Gus Bell and a sacrifice fly by Ed Bailey, but the only other hit he allowed was a second-inning triple by Frank Robinson.

Four-Way Battle In Big Ten Golf Tourney Expected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P) — A tight four-way battle for the title was expected next Friday and Saturday when Ohio State University hosts the Big Ten golf tournament.

Defending champion Wisconsin was expected to meet stiff opposition in the 72-hole affair from Indiana, Purdue and Ohio State.

The fight for individual honors will feature Ohio State's big Ted Katula, Indiana's Ron Royer, and Purdue's John Konsek who was runner-up on the same course last year for U.S. Jaycee honors.

Boston Nips Orioles, 5-3

BOSTON (UP)—Four Baltimore pitchers held the Red Sox to eight hits Saturday night as the Orioles banged out 13 safeties of their own to take a 5-3 decision over Boston in the nightcap of a day-nite twin bill. The Red Sox took the first game, 7-4.

Right-hander Arnold Portocarrero pitched brilliantly over the first seven innings for the Orioles, giving up only two singles but the strapping New York City lad ran into trouble in the eighth when Lou Berberet singled and Jimmy Piersall homered into the center field bleachers.

Shatters Record In Time Trials

Rathmann In Pole Position For '500'

By KURT FREUDENTHAL
United Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP) — Daring Dick Rathmann, a baldish speedster from Trenton, N.J., captured the pole position for the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race Saturday with a record-shattering performance in the opening time trials before about 120,000 fans.

Ed Elisian, Oakland, Calif., a protege of the late two-time "500" winner Bill Vukovich, roared to a new single mark standard.

As the fastest of 18 qualifiers, Rathmann will hold down the inside spot of the first row when the 33 fastest roadsters start off in pursuit of a $300,000 jackpot in the 42nd annual gasoline derby May 30.

The 18 qualifiers averaged 143.853 miles per hour, more than three miles an hour faster than the first 18 last year.

Better Previous Records

Rathmann, who finished fifth in the 1956 race, drove his new car around the course at an average speed of 145.974 miles per hour for the four laps only a short time after the curly-haired Elisian also records with an average of 145.926.

Elisian was clocked at better than 148 mph late Friday.

Pat Flaherty of Chicago, the 1956 race winner, averaged 145.596, also two years ago, for the previous record.

Although Rathmann did not better Flaherty's single-lap record of 146.056, Elisian did it twice. He hit 146.341 on his first lap and 146.508 on his third.

However, Rathmann was the more consistent of the two, topping 146 mph on three of his four laps to nail down the No. 1 position.

It also was a smashing triumph for A. J. Watson, a 34-year-old race car builder from Glendale, Calif., who created the three fastest mounts.

Zink Cars Qualify

Watson also built two cars that won the "500."

Jimmy Reece, Indianapolis completed the first row race-day lineup with an average of 145.513. His car and Elisian's are owned by John Zink, Tulsa, Okla.

Other qualifiers, in order of their speeds:

Rodger Ward, Los Angeles, 143.268; rookie A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., 143.130; Don Freeland, Indianapolis, 143.033; Paul Russo, Webster Groves, Mo., 142.959; Billy Garrett, Los Angeles, 142.778; rookie Paul Goldsmith, St. Clair Shores, Mich., 142.744; Gene Hartley, Indianapolis, 142.231, and rookie Dempsey Wilson, Hawthorne, Calif., 142.029.

Only one mishap marred the trials. Mike Magill, 33, Haddonfield, N.J., escaped injury when his car hit the wall three times in the northeast turn during practice.

The car previously assigned to withdrawn Argentine ace Juan Fangio was not damaged badly.

Qualifications Sunday open at noon c.d.t. with the possibility that a full field will be assured by nightfall. Then, slowest cars will be "bumped." The trials end May 25.

White Sox In 3-2 Victory Over Indians

CLEVELAND (UP) — Ray Moore hammered a home run and combined with Gerry Staley to pitch a four-hitter that gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Staley relieved Moore at the start of the seventh inning after the veteran right hander injured his shoulder lining out to shortstop to end the White Sox sixth Staley shut out the Indians the rest of the way but Moore received credit for the victory, his first of the year.

Moore hit his homer off Cleveland starter Cal McLish in the fourth. First baseman Ron Jackson also homered in that frame as the Sox overcame a 2-1 Cleveland lead.

Chicago scored its first run in the first inning on a walk to Lou Aparicio, a stolen base and Al Smith's double.

The Indians scored their runs in the third when McLish walked and Gary Geiger doubled. Both moved around on consecutive sacrifice flies by Bob Avila and Roger Maris.

The victory was the second straight for the White Sox over the Indians. Chicago has won seven of its last 10 games.

Yankees Clip Senators, 6-5

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mickey Mantle's great catch of Julio Bacquers line drive in the ninth cut off the potential tying run and helped the New York Yankees beat the Washington Senators, 6-5, Saturday.

The Yankee margin of victory was a two-run homer by Andy Carey, his second of the year, but it took Mantle's great catch to insure the victory after Roy Sievers slammed a three-run homer in the eighth.

Ryne Duren, who had relieved faltering Bobby Shantz in the eighth, gave up a single to Albie Pearson in the ninth and then a two-out walk to Clint Courtney. bacquer batted for Eddie Yost and slammed a drive which looked good for extra bases. Mantle came speeding over, stabbed the ball with his glove, and held on for the out.

Anti-US 'Explosion' Grew For Long Time

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correcpondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The elements of an anti-United States explosion have been building up in Latin America for a long time. Vice President Richard M. Nixon's visit was merely the spark that ignited them.

According to the best information available here, there were two principal ingredients in the combustible mixture which erupted in mob violence against the Vice President.

One was deliberate instigation by the Communist Party, which has made substantial advances in Latin America in the past two years, and which now has a disturbing degree of influence in several key countries.

The other was widespread popular resentment of U.S. policies, particularly trade and foreign aid policies which many Latin Americans blame for their current economic difficulties.

It can be stated authoritatively that U.S. intelligence foresaw the likelihood that these two ingredients would unite noisily during Nixon's trip. Warnings to that effect were weighed, before Nixon's departure, against the possible good will to be won by the Vice President's appearance in eight neighbor nations.

Communist Foothold

It was not a surprise to informed officials here — although it may have been to the general U.S. public — that the Communists have enough of a foothold in Latin America to stir up considerable mischief.

Communist strength in South America is now estimated at 200,000 card-carrying party members, plus about 500,000 active sympathizers or fellow-travelers.

The most rapid Communist gains have been made in Argentina.

Venezuela, where the worst rioting against Nixon took place, has 9,000 known Communists. A Communist weekly newspaper published in Caracas, Tribuna Popular, has a circulation of 100,000. The Communist Party has recently gained both prestige and influence in Venezuela because of its participation in the four-party "Popular Front" supporting the military junta that ousted dictator Perez Jiminez last January.

The hard fact is, Latin Americans don't feel that Uncle Sam has been doing very well by them. They are keenly aware that of all the billions the United States has spent on foreign aid since World War II, only two per cent has gone to nations in this hemisphere. And most of that has been in the form of repayable, interest-bearing loans.

An even greater grievance is the conviction held by many Latin Americans that U.S. trade policy is undependable, short-sighted and often disastrous to nations which must depend for their livelihood on exports of raw materials.

Clamor for Oil Quotas

Venezuela, for example, relies heavily on oil exports. When U.S. purchases of Venezuelan oil are limited by "voluntary" quotas — as they are at present — and when domestic producers clamor for even stricter curbs, Venezuelans feel that the knife is being applied to their economic throat.

Similar examples can be cited for every South American country.

Chile, which once sold most of its copper to the United States, is upset about the administration's proposal to impose a two per cent duty on copper imports. Chile recently accepted a Russian order for 18,000 tons of copper — a normal year's output of its mines.

U.S. purchases of Uruguayan wool have dropped from 100 million dollars a year to 13 million dollars a year in the past six years.

Colombia and Brazil are suffering from a drop in coffee prices —and smarting from U.S. refusal to enter into a stabilization agreement.

Argentina and Uruguay resent the absolute ban on exports of their meat into the United States —a ban which is officially based on sanitary reasons.

Peru is distressed about its declining shipments of lead and zinc — and particularly about the drive now under way in Congress to amend the U.S. trade law to impose import quotas on those metals.

Underlying all of these is a factor that President Eisenhower mentioned at his news conference Wednesday.

Latin Americans inevitably feel toward the United States some of the envy, the instinctive dislike, which neighbors throughout the world harbor for the richest family in the block.

These are the feelings, skillfully exploited by Communist agitators, that blew up in Nixon's face.

Speed, Liquor Villians Of Traffic Deaths

CHICAGO (UP) — Speed and liquor are the biggest villains in the nation's holiday traffic death toll, the National Safety Council cautioned today in advance of the Memorial Day weekend.

The council based its findings on a study of 224 highway fatalities that occurred during last year's one day Christmas holiday period.

Speed was the cause in more than 7 out of 19 fatal holiday accidents, the council said, and in 55 per cent of the accidents the drivers had been drinking.

It was the same percentage in the 1955 Christmas holiday period the council said.

The council said the toll of 224 deaths for the Wednesday Christmas holiday was twice as great as the toll for a non-holiday Wednesday in December.

It said that more fatal accidents occurred in the first 60 minutes of the holiday than at any other hour.

"This probably can be attributed to the office party and to the fact that even sober people drive like crazy trying to get a head start home," the council said.

The council also revealed that motorists died twice as fast Christmas Eve as Christmas Day.

Despite all the emphasis on the dangers of drinking and speeding, the council said the two factors continue to be the leading killers of motorists during the holiday periods.

"Memorial Day would be a fine time to change this," the council said.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, in turning down a photographer's suggestion he kiss Mrs. Nixon as she returned from Latin America:

"I don't think I'd better. Dick still packs a good wallop."

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE .... 'tis time again for the flowing robes, tasseled mortar boards to be donned for the presentation of ye olde sheepskin that denotes, "Well done, Good and Faithful Servant" .... and a new crop of graduates are sprouting up all-around town .... just to name of few of the 224 seniors, who are now in their last weeks of traversing the hallowed halls of Harvester High, Heidi Schneider, who has been selected to attend All-States Girl Scout Camp in California this summer to pursue one of her first loves, dramatics .... there are only four girls selected from the Big State of Texas and Heidi is one of 'em .... Gail Harris, who walked away with lish Award, Quill and Scroll .... Key for creative writing lish Award, Quill and Skroll .... Key for creative writing, award for editorship of the Little Harvester .... she is Altrusa Girl-Of-The-Month for May and winner of the Inez Carter-Altrusa Scholarship .... with all of her writing ability, we hear she wants to study medicine .... Karla Jo Cox, who is just about to bid adieu to high school days, won the Altrusa Scholarship .... and Nancy Beale, who was awarded the Business and Professional Women's Club Nurses' scholarship .... John Mead, valedictorian and Pat Jones, salutatorian, will speak for the class at graduation .... we know of no other music that has as much connotation as the march, "Pomp and Circumstance," unless, of course, it is the Wedding Marches .... speaking of music, we enjoyed so very much the Band Concert presented just recently by the elementary, junior high and high school bands .... it was interesting to see the various stages each band passes through as it winds its way from the elementary level through to high school .... they were all fine .... we thought the elementary band, composed of band students from all schools around town presented such a pretty picture seated on the stage in their red, blue and gold uniforms.

THIS WAS THE INSTALLINGEST TOWN last week and the week before .... presidents' gavels were changing hands in every club .... Adrienne Foster presented her Twentieth Century Gavel to Jean Duncan at a lovely one o'clock luncheon in the home of Esther Culberson .... and she did it in such a clever way .... she used a graduation theme to express appreciation to out-going officers .... a diploma of thanks tied with a red and green ribbon, the club's colors, with a red rose-bud inserted in the bow .... and in addition, she gave a personal expression of each officers' and members' contribution to the club .... just real soon, she will present Lena Pearl Hobbs with the Autrusa Club's prexy gavel .... but this week on Friday, at the President's Reception in the City Club Room, she will get a gavel back .... that of president of the Council of Clubs .... Sunny Jane Branson Ward was a guest of the club .... she is visiting from Midland with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Branson .... while her husband is on a business trip for the Gulf Oil Co. .... in Cuba, we do believe .... Varietas Study Club had luncheon in the Pampa Hotel Dining Room and then adjourned to the home of Mrs. W. A. Wagoner to install Mrs. Dow King as its new president .... Twentieth Century Culture had a charming Morning Coffee in the home of Laura Donaldson .... where Kathryn Steele presided attractively at the coffee service prior to receiving the cedar-wood symbol from Beth Edminster .... they used a western motif in their installation ceremony .... El Progresso bid a fond adieu to Ida Perkins as president and greeted Louise Fisher at a one o'clock luncheon in the Colonial Inn .... Twentieth Century Forum installed Mrs. Calvin Jones as president at a one o'clock luncheon in the home of Louise McCrery .... and of course, last week Twentieth Century Cotillion greeted Helen Thut as its new president, at an installation held in the home of Marge Brauchle, following a one o'clock luncheon in the home of Ann Heskew .... all of this is leading up to a new honor to be bestowed this week .... a President's Reception will be given on Friday evening honoring all the presidents, whose clubs are members of the Council of Clubs .... the affair is to be given in the City Club Room at 8:00 p.m. .... and in the words of a very nice president we know, "all members should show up to back up their own president" .... "It gets mighty lonely standing in the receiving line with none of your club members there to say "hello" to" ....

JUST AROUND TOWN .... we saw a pleasant threesome having lunch together Thursday in the Pampa Hotel dining room .... Van Vanderberg, Jay Flanagan, and Floy Heath .... also saw Mary Graham and Fern Dawson out around Stephen F. Austin School intent on some Girl Scout business .... we know a very, very funny story about this pair .... seems they will go far above and beyond the call to duty to accomplish deeds for the Girl Scouts .... we spied Mattie Crowson coming out of the First National Bank in the cutest (how we dislike that word, but it does describe the dress perfectly) black and white chemise .... we know of two parties that were given this week for Ernie and Betty Babitzke, who are leaving this week for a new home in Fort Worth .... nearly everytime we have passed City Park this week, it has been filled with school children having their end-of-the-year picnics .... when you stop to think about it, aren't we lucky to have some such an attractive, convenient, and safe spot to picnic .... every inch of the park is utilized for fun and relaxation .... we have heard a rumor that the Myles A. Kelly's will be moving to Fort Worth sometime this early summer .... we hate to see them go, too .... Katie Beverly has the prettiest spirea bush .... she says when the sun shines on it in the mornings it is dazzling .... and Nita Luna's iris garden this year is really something to see, too .... we saw the lovely Spring floral arrangement, Mary Boynton made for the El Progresso luncheon .... we like Mary's philosophy towards flowers when she likens them to children and needing tender and loving care.

MORE SAD NEWS FOR THE MALES .... the chemise is to invade beach-wear .... the latest fashion release from Rose Marie Reid has applied the liberated silhouette of 1958 to swimsuits .... do we hear groans?

WE'VE HAD SOME sneak-previews of Jeanne Willingham's Dance Recital to be given this year on May 31 .... and sponsored again by the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority .... and we do believe that it will be the prettiest one ever! .... The costumes and program theme will approach the professional .... Helene Madiera School of Dancing will present its recital on May 23 in the Episcopal Parish House .... we have run out of space but not of things to talk about, so until we are again allotted this precious space, we'll sign

B&PW Presents Nurse Scholarship

Granger McIlhaney of Wheeler, state representative from this district, was guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club in the City Club Room. His topic was "State Legislation," emphasizing the ninth amendment to be voted on in the November election. He was introduced by Mrs. Noel Thompson, legislation chairman.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Mattie Crowson, president, Miss Nancy Beale was awarded the three-year nurses' scholarship, which is given annually by the club. Miss Beale, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel and Mrs. W. J. Beale, 2131 N. Faulkner, was recently graduated from Muskingum College in Concord, Ohio, where she majored in sociology, and plans to enter St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

B&PW members also voted to donate $100 to the Pampa Youth and Community Center.

Announcement was made of the Presidents' Reception to be given Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Club Room, sponsored by the Council of Clubs, to honor the newly-elected presidents of local women's clubs. B&PW members are invited to attend in support of their newly-elected president, Mrs. Faye Eaton, who will be in the receiving line.

The Presidents' Reception was voted by the members to take the place of the regular meeting date of May 27, so all members are urged to be present.

Twenty-eight business and professional women answered roll call.

Twentieth Century Officers Installed With Graduation Theme By Mrs. Foster

New officers for the Twentieth Century Club were installed following a one o'clock luncheon held in the home of Mrs. F. M. Culberson, 2005 Charles.

A salad luncheon with a dessert course was served on individual tables covered with white cloths and centered with Garden Pansies. Assisting Mrs. Culberson with hostess duties was Mrs. Lorene Locke.

Special guests were Mrs. Robert Ward, Midland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Branson, who is visiting in their home, and Mrs. Doris Wilson.

Mrs. Jack P. Foster, outgoing president, led in the opening Pledge to the Flag, folowing by unison repetition of the Club Collect led by Mrs. Raymond Harrah. Reports were given by Mrs. Robert Sanford, secretary and Mrs. Ronald Hubbard, treasurer. Jack P. Foster was appointed by the members to audit the club's treasury report at the close of the year.

Council of Clubs report was given by Mrs. V. J. Jamieson, representative, who announced that the Presidents' Reception, sponsored by the Council of Clubs, to honor presidents of women's club would be held Friday evening at 7:30 in the City Club Room. Mrs. Foster urged members to attend in support of their club's presidnet.

Mrs. Sanford, chairman, reported on the Senior Center party, which the club recently gave. She reported that as much pleasure was derived by the hostesses as by the guests. For the program, Mrs. W. R. Campbell showed movie taken on their ranch. A "Goodies Table" was provided by the members, holding a gift for each of the Senior Citizens, thus enabling each member to participate actively in the party. May Baskets were given to each guest.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mmes: Campbell, Sanford, J. Kirk Duncan, E. L. Campbell, Ronald Hubard, Bob Andis, H. R. Thompson, Lloyd Hicks, G. F. Branson, Roy McKernan, Walter Pung, Lorene Locke, and V. J. Jamieson. Mrs. Andis took pictures during the party.

During the installation of new officers, Mrs. Foster using a "Graduation Theme" commended each out-going officer and chairman for her service during the past year and presented her with a Certificate of Thanks tied with a red and green ribbon with a red rose-bud inserted in the bow.

New officers installed were Mmes. J. Kirk Duncan, president; Robert Sanford, vice president; Ronald Hubbard, secretary; Walter Pung, treasurer; G. F. Branson, reporter; Lorene Locke, critic; and Raymond Harrah, parliamentarian.

Faith Class Has .. Social Meeting

Faith Class of the Central Baptist Church met in the home of Mrs. Dale Pylant, 312 N. Gillespie, on Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Mrs. Wayne Cobb gave the devotional.

Refreshments served during the social hour.

Mrs. Reeves Has Sorority Meeting

Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held its annual Steak and Beans Dinner Tuesday evening in Poole's Steak House. The dinner, given at the conclusion of an attendance contest, permitted the winners to eat steak and the losers to eat beans.

Following dinner, the group adjourned to reconvene in the home of Mrs. Ken Reeves, 2106 N. Russell, for installation of officers.

Newly-installed officers are Mrs. Byron Hilbun, president; Mrs. Jack White, vice president; Miss Virginia Vaughn, secretary; Mrs. C. G. Goodwin Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Roy McKee, city council representative with Mrs. Fred Myers, as alternate.

Refreshments of cake and coffee were served during the social hour from a table appointed with Spring flowers and a cake decorated with yellow rose-buds, the sorority flower. Mrs. Reeves was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. Jeff Truly.

The club will meet next with Mrs. Bill Bridges, 1335 Hamilton, on May 26 at 8 p.m.

Pledges And Transferees Welcomed At Rho Eta Chapter Of BSP Meeting

Mrs. Charles Duenkel conducted the business meeting of the Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Chapter, when it met Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Jim Terrell, 2201 N. Sumner.

Secretary's report was given by Mrs. Hart Warren.

Mrs. Duenkel welcomed pledges for the coming year and two members, who were transferred to Rho Eta. They are Mrs. Bruce Cox from Eta Lambda Chapter in Fort Worth and Mrs. James M. Linch from Gamma Mu Chapter in Nevada, Mo.

Mrs. Elmer Wilson gave a report from the city council and announced that July 26 is the deadline for yearbook material.

A vote was taken to determine the project Beta Sigma Phi will have to replace the table setting contest this year, as this will not be held until 1959.

It was announced that Mrs. Inez Carter will be the sponsor for Rho Eta Chapter during the coming year.

Pie and coffee were served during the social hour by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Bill Terry.

Pledges attending were Mmes. James Deaton, Bill Tarpley, Bill Duncan, C. A. Huff Jr., Jim Wallace, Ray Jordan and Miss Lilith Martin.

Mrs. Jim Terrell and Mrs. Floyd Lassister were in charge of the program and gave ideas and recipes for "Outdoor Cookery."

The next meeting for the chapter will be installation of officers and pledge ritual to be held in the home of Mrs. Earl Luther, 2245 Christine on May 20 at eight o'clock.

The primary rule for moth damage prevention is cleanliness of the articles to be stored. Larvae feed on dirt and grease in the fabric. Have the garments perfectly clean and then seal them in bags or packages.

'The Theater' Depicts Installation Rites For Twentieth Century Forum Officers

Twentieth Century Forum entertained with a twelve - thirty luncheon in the home of Mrs. John B. McCrery, 1311 Christine, on Friday afternoon. Assistant hostesses were members of the social committee composed of Mmes. William L. Ellis, J. R. Holloway and Joe Daniels.

The buffet table was laid with a white linen cloth, centered with an arrangement of yellow and white Shasta daisies. Individual tables were covered with yellow and white linen cloths. Placecards each members' program during the year.

Mrs. Ellis gave a resume of the year's activities in rhyme patterned after Edgar Allen Poe's poem, "The Raven."

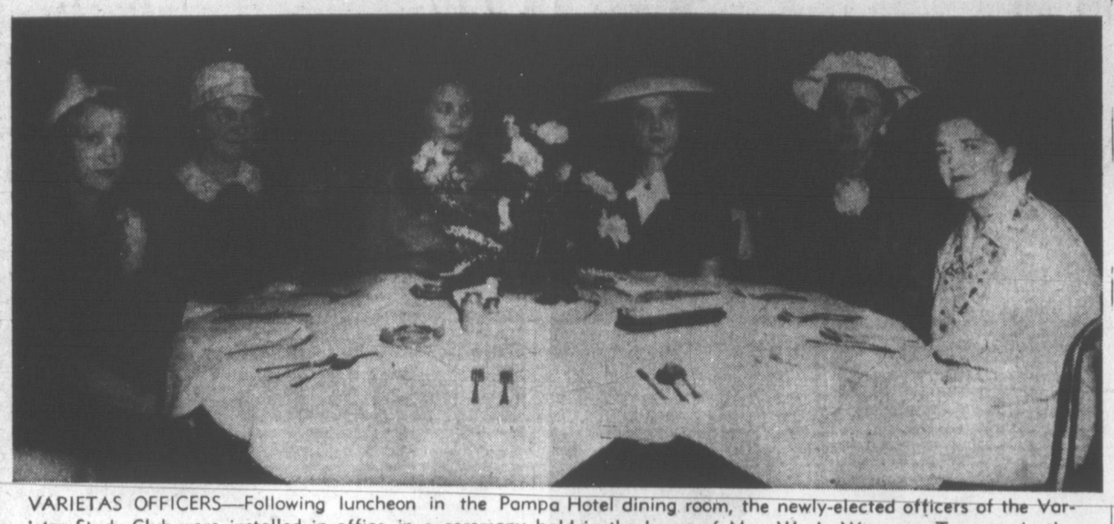

Following a brief business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Henry Rose, she conducted the installation of officers using the theme, "The Theater." She compared the club to an artiistic production, "which is being brilliantly, carefully written, produced and acted by its members. The members, creators of the bit, are giving the production its ideas, its story, its moods, its continuity and achievements."

The following officers were installed for the ensuing club year, Mmes. Calvin Jones, president; Henry Rose, vice president; William L. Ellis, secretary; R. W. Curry, treasurer; Vivian Wilkinson, parliamentarian, and J. R. Holloway, reporter.

The meeting was closed with the singing of the state federation song, "Hail, Federation" written by Mrs. H. J. House, state federation president.

Special guests for the luncheon were Miss LaVeda Naylor, recipient of the club's annual scholarship fund award; Miss Vivian Ann Williams, the alternate; Miss Evelyn Milan, high school counselor, and Mrs. Henry Duer, of Baltimore, Md., mother of Mrs. Henry Rose.

Members answering roll call were Mmes. Roy Bourland, Bob Curry, E. J. Dunigan Jr., H. C. Federer Jr., Joe Daniels, William L. Ellis, William T. Fraser, J. R. Holloway, Homer D. Johnson, Calvin W. Jones, Frank Kelley, M. McDaniel, Henry J. Rose, Arthur M. Teed, and the hostess, Mrs. John B. McCrery.

VARIETAS OFFICERS—Following luncheon in the Pampa Hotel dining room, the newly-elected officers of the Varietas Study Club were installed in office in a ceremony held in the home of Mrs. W. A. Wagoner. To serve in the ensuing year are, left to right, Mmes. Dow King, president; Joe Z. Weaver, vice president; Cecil Dalton, treasurer; Hubert Bratcher, secretary; H. G. Hampton, librarian; and James Hopkins, parliamentarian. Not pictured is Mrs. J. R. Spearman, reporter. (News Photo)

Ward-Lemley Say Marriage Vows

Nuptial vows were exchanged by daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ward, 508 E. Woodson and Lieutenant William Delbert Lemley, White Deer, at nine o'clock on May 12. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lemley of White Deer.

The Rev. Thomas H. Raper officiated the the double-ring ceremony in the home of the bride's parents with members of the immediate families present.

Mr. Ward gave his daughter in marriage. She was attired in a light-blue suit with a small white hat and white accessories. Her bouquet was of white narcissus. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. F. Dickerson, served as matron of honor and the bridegroom's father was best man.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Waco, where Lieutenant Lemley, who is serving with the Air Force, is temporarily stationed.

Varietas Study Club Installs Officers Following Luncheon In Pampa Hotel

Varietas Study Club met Tuesday for luncheon in the Pampa Hotel with Mmes. J. C. Vollmert, R. W. Lane, Price Dosier and J. E. Kirchman as hostesses.

Following luncheon, the club adjourned to the home of Mrs. W. A. Wagoner for a brief business meeting and installation of officers.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Lee Harrah, Council of Clubs representative, reported that the President's Reception, honoring the presidents of local women's clubs, will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Club Room.

The club with Mrs. H. H. Butler as chairman, made plans for the Senior Citizens Program to be given on May 22 in Lovett Memorial Library.

Mrs. J. R. Spearman was elected club reporter for the coming year.

Mrs. Wagoner, installation officer, illustrated the ceremony with beautifully-dressed dolls and used the theme, "The New Look," with each small article of wearing apparel as a symbol of the new office.

To Mrs. Dow King, incoming president, she said, "To you, I give this little coat, which symbolizes warmth and protection; to Mrs. Joe Z. Weaver, vice president, "I give these glasses. May they help you to see the many little things that can be done to help the president"; to Mrs. H. H. Bratcher, secretary, Mrs. Wagoner gave a new dress saying, "This is a plain and simple dress, but it is a symbol that records must be kept, but should be concise. Many times, the coat lining is the same as the dress, which exemplies how very much the president depends on her secretary"; to the treasurer, Mrs. Cecil Dalton, she gave a small purse, which she said is a symbol of receiving and spending club funds.

The new shoes Mrs. Wagoner presented to the reporter, Mrs. Spearman, were to help her make the necessary steps in getting the report to the Pampa Daily News.

"What is more important than the appropriate hat to wear with our new costume?" asked Mrs. Wagoner, as she charged Mrs. Hampton with her duties as library chairman in supplying material for programs.

"The little extras that add to a costume, jewelry, gloves, etc., we give to the parliamentarian, Mrs. James Hopkins. These are symbols of how much the right parliamentary procedure can add to a meeting."

In conclusion, she told the officers that their ensemble was complete and that she was sending them forth with a New Look to serve Varietas Study Club and the community next year.

Club Collect was given by Mmes. H. H. Butler, Cecil W. Dalton, J. G. Doggett, H. P. Dosier, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, J. A. Hopkins, Dow King, J. E. Kirchman, R. W. Lane, C. L. McKinney, Otis Nace, Luther Pierson, J. R. Spearman, Ralph Thomas, J. C. Volmert, W. A. Wagoner, Sherman White, and H. H. Bratcher.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical as ⅓ gallon of concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

'Ecumenical Movement' Discussion For WSCS Of St. Paul Methodist Church

St. Paul Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service met Wednesday morning at 10 in Fellowship Hall for the first session of group study entitled, "The Social Witness of the Local Church in the Ecumenical Movement" with text, "In Every Place a Voice," by Walter G. Muelder.

Mrs. Jack O. Miller, study leader, presented the program. In her opening remarks, she defined the word, "ecumenical" as coming from the Greek with the literal translation of "the inhabited earth." She said, "As you know, the title of this particular study sounds very impressive and a little frightening. However, as women in a church strive to be informed on the problems of the world today, this is a study which should be of vital interest to us all. Not too many years ago, a study of this sort would not have been suggested by the leaders in the Methodist Church. The primary reason being that it was thought most unlikely that so many different denominations could even unite together in one great council."

Mrs. Miller gave a brief history of the formation of the World Council of Churches, which had its first assembly in Amsterdam in 1948; the second in Evanston, Ill. in August, 1954.

She outlined the attempts to reunite East and West after the Great Schism; the efforts in the 17th century to bring on a union of reformed churches, which also failed. "It was not until the 20th Century that a real movement to draw the churches together on a world scale began."

"You may say," Mrs. Miller continued, "well, that is all very interesting, but how does it affect me and my church? If you have read the study text, you have seen the great revolution that is going on all over the world. Not only on a political level, but on a social and economic level as well. As a church, do you think we have any responsibility to this changing world or should we be content to sit back and concern ourselves only with our own affairs?"

A question and answer session concluded the study.

Mrs. Danny Smith was welcomed as a visitor.

Attending besides those mentioned above were Mmes. James Scholl, S. T. Holding, C. M. Simmons, Don Stephens, Bill Sargent, Harry Whisenhunt, Valton Martin, Sam Steadman, W. F. Gaines and Bill Matejowsky.

The group will meet again on Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall for a continued study.

ROOM "PICK-UP"

A new color scheme, a different furniture arrangement, and a litttle imagination and ingenuity are often all that's needed to give an old room a complete pick-up, change its mood and even its style.

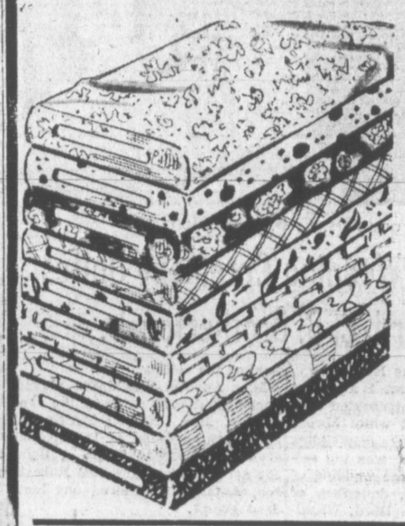

The results will be more successful if you approach the pick-up project with much the same attitude you would have if you were beginning from scratch. First things to be considered are the activities that will be carried on in the room, its location in the house, the existing furnishings you intend to use plus necessary additions and replacements.

Sketched above is a prime example of a room which has been Old-fashioned mantel was torn out changed in character and mood. and a metal hood installed to inject a more modern feeling. Chalk white embossed-brick wallpaper gives the effect of organic walls. Fireplace hood was painted dull black. The entire scheme has been made to come alive by using a nasturtium-colored carpet. Black-and-white tweed upholstery fabric is effective on sofa and chairs. Here is a room that has been given a color pickup, a new arrangement, and a bright personality and yet kept smartly simple.

(Special to The News)

WHEELER — First Baptist Church in Wheeler, decorated with baskets of blue and white Majestic daisies flanked by candelabra holding white tapers, was the setting on May 2, for the wedding of Miss Maurine Herd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Herd, Wheeler, and C. B. Brotherton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Claudy Brotherton, Gageby.

Rev. M. B. Smith, pastor of the Highland Baptist Church, Pampa, performed the impressive double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Harold L. Lee, organist, played the pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Don Alexander, Perryton, sang "Because" and "Always," accompanied by Mrs. Lee.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of blue acetate shantung, fashioned with full skirt and fitted bodice. The brief jacket was fastened with rhinestone studs; the collar was accented with rhinestones. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of white daisies. Her rhinestone bracelet and earclips were a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white Bible topped with a white lace handkerchief.

Mrs. Billy Clay, the bride's only attendant, wore a pink two-piece dress with white accessories and carried a white handkerchief. She wore a corsage of white daisies.

Orrell Vise, Canyon, served the bridegroom as best man. The candles were lighted at the altar by the ushers, Bill Hampton and Jack Finsterwald.

Mrs. Herd, mother of the bride, chose a navy shantung dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a baby-blue shantung dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony. A lace cloth over blue covered the bride's table which was centered with a bouquet of blue and white daisies. The three-tiered cake was decorated with blue roses, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. White tapers flanked the setting.

The couple left immediately following the reception for a brief trip to points of interest in New Mexico. They will be at home on their farm southwest of Wheeler.

Mrs. Brotherton is a graduate of Wheeler High School and was employed, until recently, with the Southwestern Public Service. Mr. Brotherton graduated from Briscoe High School and is engaged in farming.

Sharp Group Meets With Mrs. Haner

The Sharp Group of the First Christian Church met Monday evening with Mrs. E. K. Haner, 405 Lowry.

The meeting opened with prayer offered by Mrs. K. L. Green. Mrs. Lloyd Laramore gave the devotional, "How Should We Pray."

"Is Nipponese Religion Adequate?" was the program topic presented by Mrs. C. N. Gage.

During the business meeting, members were reminded of the Fellowship Dinner, which was held on Friday evening in the church. The Chi Rho Group planned a Slave Auction, which would enable church members to bid on a young person for summer work; proceeds from this auction will be donated to the Christian World Fellowship Fund.

Mrs. Laramore reported on the district workshop which was held in the church on May 8.

Members were reminded to visit shut-ins and of the CWF program to be given on May 28 at 9:15 a.m. Mrs. Earl Cleveland of Phillips will speak on Japan. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

The group held a discussion on articles to be sent to the Hazel Green Academy in Kentucky, the groups' project for this year. Members also discussed the possibility of furnishing the church kitchen with stainless steel flatware. Discussion was tabled until a later date.

The meeting closed with the unison repetition of the CWF benediction.

Refreshments of coffee, fruit salad and crackers were served to one new member, Mrs. L. L. Lockhart and to Mmes. E. B. Jackson, Walton Bailey, John Gill, Lloyd Laramore, E. K. Haner, C. N. Gage, Bill Ridgeway and K. L. Green.

The next meeting for the group will be in the Educational Building of the church on June 9 at 7:30 p.m. with Mmes. Jackson and Pearl Thurman as hostesses.

Washable window shades should be spread out flat to wash. Use dry, meringue-like soap lather and a cloth or brush. Clean a small area at a time, overlapping strokes. Rinse with clean, damp cloth, not letting shade get too wet. Hang full length to dry.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Before Dot left for school she asked her mother to dye red a faded pink skirt of hers she wanted to wear with a new red-striped blouse.

Her mother couldn't get at it. First a charity drive solicitor called, delaying her housework. Then something went wrong with her vacum cleaner. As the repairman was too busy to come and get it, she had to drive it downtown. When Dot got home, she had just finished applying her ancient carpet sweeper to the downstairs rugs.

Dot said, "My red skirt isn't hanging on the clothesline, Mother. You dyed it, didn't you. I told you I had to have it to wear to school tomorrow."

"I haven't had time to dye it," her mother said. "But you can make me the time right now if you want to. If you'll prepare the supper vegetables for me, I'll dye the skirt for you so it will be dry in time to iron and wear tomorrow morning.

The resentful anxiety left Dot's face. "O.K.," she said. "What vegetables are we having?"

We do not always have the time to perform the services the young demand of us. Instead of apologizing to them for our failures to lengthen hems and iron special skirts, it is sensible to meet their reproaches with a request that they make us the time to render these services by rendering us some service in exchange.

Because children are so used to depending on us, it doesn't occur to them that they can make us the extra time we need to do special services for them. So when we have to admit we've been unable to do something they've asked, they feel very badly used. They experience the same resentment at us that a man with a broken leg in a plaster cast feel toward the leg for denying him the service he is used to getting from it.

So are the children who reproach us for failing to perform the expected service.

We release them from their sense of angry helplessness by asking them to do something for us that will make it possible to do the extra thing for them. We ask them to earn what they want.

Rush Party plans were discussed by members of the Kit Kat Klub at a meeting held recently in the home of Misses Pat and Carol Faukenstein. Members of the invitation committee are to meet on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Misses Rita and Nita Cartwright.

Cokes and cookies were served during the business session.

Funds derived from the recent bake sale held by the club were turned in.

Plans were discussed by the junior and sophomore members for the annual Graduation Dance to be held on May 29 in the Country Club. Tickets are now available for the dance and were distributed to members.

Miss Huffhines Is Feted With Shower

Co-hostesses were Mmes, H. L. Crump, H. E. Beaty, C. C. Stark, B. Lewter, D. D. Robbins, S. B. Batteas, E. R. Gower, R. E. Warren Sr., R. E. Warren Jr., D. White, D. D. Higginbotham, Kate Thomas, Helen Lunsford, A. L. Taylor, E. B. Davis, H. P. Taylor, C. R. Williams, L. C. Yeager, F. W. Williams, R. E. Mitchell, Harold Beckham, and E. A. Baldwin.

The bride's chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in the decorations. The serving table was covered with a cloth of white taffeta with an over-skirt of blue net and centered with a bride-doll dressed in white satin and net seated within a large golden wedding ring. Blue-tinted daisies and fern served as backdrop for the centerpiece. Blue candles in crystal candelabra flanked the arrangement.

White cake trimmed in blue wedding bells and bows was served by Miss Gayla Gray. Punch from a crystal service was presided over by Mrs. B. B. Higginbotham.

Mrs. Harold Beckham presided at the guest registrar, where approximately 85 guests attended or sent gifts.

RUTH MILLETT

The child psychologist ought to have his own head examined who first thought up the idea that small children should be encouraged to make decisions for themselves by being offered choices.

The only thing that offering a choice does to most small fry is to make them stubborn.

During years of shopping at supermarkets I have watched conscientious young mothers offering their toddlers choices.

"You can have either a candy bar or an ice cream cone at the drugstore," Mama says in a reasonable tone of vocie. And then she asks hopefully, "Now which would you rather have. Hurry and make up you mind because Mama has to get back home."

In all dozens of times I have heard a mother offer a young one such a choice, I have never seen a kid do what the psychology books and Mama hopefully expect him to do.

Never have I heard a small child, faced with the prospect of choosing between two good things, make a happy selection of one of them.

Some kids demand both, and if they don't get them they're dragged away kicking and screaming.

Some decide that, given a choice of a candy bar or an ice cream cone, they'll push their luck and demand a soda. So they introduce the third choice — which for some reason or other is never one Mama considers suitable.

Some simply stand and stare and say they don't know what they want, until Mama is forced to make the decision the child is supposed to make.

But the usual ending of the little episode is unpleasant — and Junior is likely to come out of it with a couple of licks for throwing a temper tantrum.

Altrusa Club Names Miss Gail Harris, Miss Karla Cox Scholarship Winners

Miss Gale Harris

Altrusa Club met in the Pampa Hotel dining room on Monday evening for its monthly dinner meeting. Dining tables were arranged with bouquets of Spring Flowers Pansies, Begonias, Petunias, and at each guest's place was a small colorful pot planted with Coleus. 1898 — newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kettlewell photographed following the ceremony, which united them in marriage on May 11, 1898. Wedding vows were exchanged in the home of the bride's parents near Strathroy, Canada. The Kettlewells moved to Pampa from Denton in May, 1948.

1958—Sixty years later, May 11, 1958, Mr. and Mrs. Kettlewell celebrate their Diamond Anniversary at an Open House given last Sunday afternoon in the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Hutchinson, 1128 Garland.

Robert E. Lee, Pampa Junior High PTA Officers Installed In Impressive Rites

Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer presided at the final meeting for the current year of the Junior High PTA held Thursday night in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Ott Shewmaker opened the meeting with a devotional based on the Proberbs text, "As he thinketh within himself, so he is."

During the business meeting, Mrs. B. E. Tidwell gave the historian's report of the past year, citing the varity of programs offered and the activities and accomplishments of the organization.

Mrs. James Lewis explained the division of the two Junior High Schools and how the PTA for the new Robert E. Lee Junior High was being organized.

Mrs. Shewmaker presented the nominating committee's report and the following officers were elected by acclamation.

To preside at the nerly-organized Robert E. Lee PTA are Mmes. Bob Andis, president; Carlton Nance, vice president; Weldon Trice, secretary; James Evans, treasurer; J. R. Holloway, parliamentarian; Harold Craddock, historian; James Baird and Bill Leonard, city council representatives.

Officers for Pampa Junior High are Mmes. J. H. Trotter, president; Elmer Darnell, vice president; O. C. Gist, secretary; Shirley Nichols, treasurer; R. A. Mack, parliamentarian; A. McCartney, historian; Arthur Clark and John Thompson, city council representatives.

Mrs. Carlton Nance introduced Mrs. Kenneth Walter, seventh grade instructor, who gave the program, "What To Expect in Junior High School." Mrs. Walters opened her remarks by explaining the need for Junior High schools; "that they are special places for special people."

"Junior High School is a child's first introduction to social and political democracy. They learn to take part in government, to vote, and to live and work with people of all kinds."

Mrs. Walters explained to the future seventh grade students, the subjects their home-room teacher would teach and that they would have different teachers for art, music, physical education and for other outside activities, such as band and choir.

Mrs. Walters outlined what teachers expect of seventh grade students. "They expect them to have respect for property, both private and public; they expect healthy bodies and minds, willingness to work, respect for authority. In addition, they expect regular attendance, proper sleep and parents who are understanding."

She urged parents to get acquainted early in the year with their child's teacher so that they could work together to help the child. "Above all, a child of Junior High age needs love and understanding because he has difficulty understanding himself at that age."

Mrs. Nance introduced Diane and Michael Phillips, students from Horace Mann School and the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Phillips, who entertained with two musical numbers. Diane at the piano and Michael on the guitar sang, "The Little Blue Man" and "Teen-Age Queen."

Mrs. R. A. Mack, City Council president, conducted an impressive installation service using the Oak Tree Emblem and installed the above-mentioned officers for both schools.

"The oak tree, emblem of the parent-teacher organization, was adopted in 1920." Mrs. Mack said "The trunk represents the National Congress. The main branches are the state branches. The smaller branches are for the districts and councils. The twiggs represent the many local associations, and the leaves typify the many thousands of members. Last and most significant of all, the acorns represent the fruits of accomplishments of our work from which future developments will arise. Each in turn draws its life from the parent stem. Parent - teacher members should ask themselves this question: What kind of a tree would this oak be if every leaf were just like me? The oak tree symbolizes strength, durability, growth, and productiveness."

Mrs. Mack likened each office to a part of the oak tree as she installed each officer. She closed by saying, "This thought I always wish, This prayer I always pray; Lord, let my life bless other lives, it touches on the way."

Mr. Cameron Marsh was introduced as the new pricipal of Pampa Junior High School and Mr. Jack Nichols, as principal of Robert E. Lee Junior High School. Mr. Nichols presented Mrs. E. E. Shelhammer with a life membership and president's pin. Mrs. Shelhammer thanked the teachers, officers, and members for their cooperation and help during the year. Mrs. J. H. Trotter, the new president, adjourned the meeting.

Refreshments of cold drinks and cookies were served following the meeting.

60th Nuptial Date Observed By Pair

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kettlewell observed their 60th Diamond Wedding Anniversary with an Open House held last Sunday afternoon in the H. M. Hutchinson home, 1128 Garland, from three o'clock until five. Forty-three friends called during the day and many others sent cards, gifts, and telegrams.

Hosts for the occasion were Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Kettlewell, Mr. and Mrs. John Blue. Mrs. Kettlewell was presented with a white carnation corsage; Mr. Kettlewell with a white carnation bouttoniere.

The serving table was covered with a cloth crocheted by the honoree and centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a bird swinging in a wreath carrying two wedding rings in its bill. The cake was decorated in white scroll and inscribed with the silver numerals, 60.

Mrs. D. L. Tucker presided at the coffee service assisted by Mrs. Glenn Berry of Amarillo. Mrs. W. B. Mitchell and Mrs. Velma Grantham served cake.

Special guest was John Kettlewell, brother of Mr. Kettlewell, who flew down for the occasion from Windsor, Ontario Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Kettlewell were born and reared on nearby farms in Caradoc and Ekfrid Counties near Strathroy, Ontario Canada. They were married May 11, 1898 and established a farm there. They later moved to Windsor, Ontario and later to Detroit, Mich. Mr. Kettlewell was a carpenter until his retirement.

They have one son, Vernon, who lives at 541 S. Barnes; one daughter, Mrs. H. M. Hutchinson, 1128 Garland; and one granddaughter, Mrs. John Blue, 1137 N. Starkweather.

High Protein Meals Now Joining List Of Baby Foods

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

From April 26 to May 3 is National Baby Week, focusing our attention on what's best for babies. In each of the past four years over four million of them were born. That's quite a crop of high chair gourmets.

For growing babies, as well as grownups, no one food is essential to health. We need some 60 specific nutrients, which are obtained from a varied diet, according to Dr. Fredrick J. Stare, professor of nutrition at the Harvard School of Public Health. Each food makes a significant contribution, but it is the combination of different food groups that provides all the required nutritive factors. Each day's food must do a building job, especially in childhood when growth is rapid and the intake measured in spoonfuls.

Today more high protein foods are used on doctors' recommendation, for during infancy and early childhood, protein needs are higher—in proportion to body weight—than at any other time of life. Joining the strained and junior "straight" meats and strained egg yolks are high protein dinners, in strained and junior textures, planned around beef, chicken, veal.

Ietms developed "just for baby" now number close to 90. Tiny beginners often start semi-solids with cereal "quads," handy packages that group minatures of four ready - to - stir cereals — rice, barley, oatmeal, and mixed cereal.

(8 servings, ½ cup each)

sauce and apricots, 1 egg yolk, well beaten; 1 envelope (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1-3 cup water, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1-2 cup instant nonfat dry milk powder, 1 egg white.

Combine applesauce and apricots and egg yolk; heat just to boiling point. Soften gealtin in cold water; add to fruit mixture. Stir until dissolved. Chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Combine water, lemon juice, nonfat dry milk and egg white in deep, 1-quart bowl. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, 8-10 minutes. Fold in gelatin mixture. Rinse 8 individual ½ cup molds with cold water. Pour mixture into molds. Chill until firm, about 2 hours.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Broiled lamb chops, whipped potatoes, buttered new carrots, enriched bread, butter or margarine, tossed green slad, oil and lemon juice, rhubarb pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 19 and is engaged to a fine young man of 21. They've been engaged a year. They want to marry this summer, but his mother said if they did, it would have to be without her consent, so they plan to elope. My daughter wants me and her Dad to go with them to see her married, but I've never heard of a couple eloping with her parents along. Have you? If we go, his parents will think We arranged the whole thing, but that's not true. The kids would elope anyway. We'd like to see our daughter married, but don't know if we should go or not. Should we go?

MRS. UNCERTAIN

Dear Mrs.: Try to get his parents to go along. If they refuse, you have a right to see your daughter married. (This is an elopement?)

DEAR ABBY: I am kind of fat and my husband is very thin. I cook real good because I want to put some weight on my husband but instead I put on the weight myself and he stays thin. What should I do?

FAT

Dear Fat: Don't eat the fattening foods you cook for your husband. Get a diet from your doctor and stick with it.

DEAR ABBY: This fellow I go with is considered a jerk by everybody including me. He brags, is conceited, and I have caught him in many lies. But I can't get him out of my mind. He is going into boot training and tells me if I want to write to him okay — but not to expect any letters from him. I am considered a very good looking girl and could have many other dates but I still prefer this lunkhead. What should I do?

TINA

Dear Tina: Give this guy the boot before he goes into boot training.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, age 45, and my husband has been dead six years. I have two children who are 10 and 21. I met a nice, respectable, single man who is a common laborer. My children say if he comes to this house they will walk out so I have to meet him out somewhere. Please advise me if I should stop seeing this man or let him come to my home in spite of my children? I think I should have some companionship at my age.

UNDECIDED

Dear Undecided: Let him come to your home. If your children walk out, let them walk out. They are old enough to make lives of their own and you deserve some companionship.

CONFIDENTIAL To "Done Wrong:" Don't worry. The label "Illegitimate" is no longer used on birth certificates.

Mexican Theme At WMU Meeting

The WMU executive board of the Central Baptist Church met recently for business and discussion with Mrs. Charley Thomas in charge. Mrs. Jim Conner opened the meeting with prayer.

The board recommended that ten members be sent to Waco in August for the houseparty. It was also recommended that the monthly luncheon be discontinued during the summer months and replaced with light refreshments.

The program presented was in the form of a tourist's visit with Spanish friends. Mrs. G. C. Miller gave the devotional. Those taking part on the program were Mmes. Charles Broxson, M. O. Burns, Paul Howard, and James Baird. Souvenirs were presented to each member present.

During the business meeting, reports were given by Mrs. Ralph Prock, secretary and Mrs. Sam Batteas, treasurer.

The recommendations of the board were approved by the general membership.

Mrs. Batteas read a portion of a letter from Richard Lunsford in which he requested that anyone having spools, paste, or any other article for a vacation Bible School, he would appreciate receiving them. Articles may be turned in to Mrs. Batteas, 428 Hughes.

Meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Thomas.

A Mexican luncheon was held folowing the meeting in the Fellowship Hall with the Sara Beth Short Circle as hostess.

Breakfast Plans Made By WOM

Women of the Moose met Wednesday night with Senior Regent Nadine Morris presiding as plans were made to serve a breakfast Monday morning, May 26, beginning at 6:30 a.m. open to the public.

It was announced that the Loyal Order of the Moose has resumed its monthly "Family Night" and each member is asked to bring a covered-dish on that evening.

Following a discussion regarding the decorating of the Moose Hall, chapter was closed to reconvene next Wednesday night at 8:15 p.m. at which time nomination of new officers for the ensuing year will be held. New candidates will also be initiated.

WMU Presents Church Playlet

Women's Missionary Union of the Hobart Street Baptist Church presented a playlet entitled, "It Is Not Ye That Speak," on Wednesday night in the church. The enlistment play was written by Mrs. W. C. Gunter of Elton.

Characters were portrayed by Mmes. A. V. Hale, R. B. Hedrick, Bill Wright, E. Foran, W. D. Pate.

Music was furnished by the church pianist, Mrs. Dick Grigsby.

Body Weight Topic For Goodwill Club

"Maintaining Body Weight" was the program topic discussed by Miss Helen Dunlap, county Home Demonstration agent, at the Goodwill Home Demonstration Club meeting held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Tom Haggard, 533 Davis.

Miss Dunlap stated that food essential for maintaining body weight provided three main functions; 1) building the body and repairing tissue, which is obtained from protain, minerals and waters; 2) regulates body processes provided from vitamins, minerals and protain; 3) fuel for energy and warmth supplied from fats and carbohydrates. These basic functions of food are provided by eating a well-balanced diet by following the Texas Food Standard."

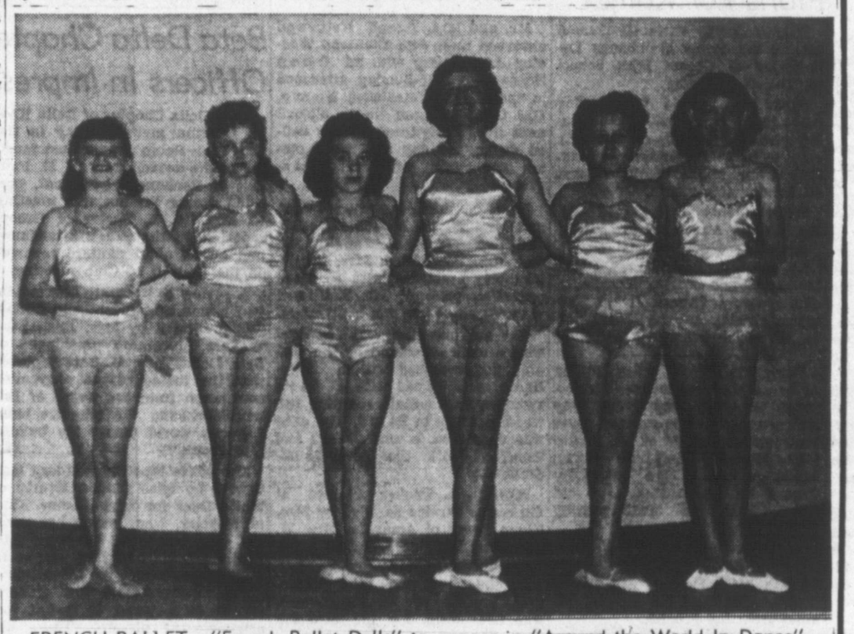

"If one desires to gain weight, use larger portions and if one desires to lose weight, use smaller portions, but in either case, be sure the diet is well-balanced."

White cake iced in pink whipped cream, strawberries, and coffee were served by the hostess.

Mrs. A. P. Coombes, presidnet, conducted a short business meeting.

The next meeting for the club will be with Mrs. Ray Frazier, 512 Doyle on June 3 at 9:30 a.m.

Those presented were Mmes. Lewis Epps, Tom Haggard, James Smathers, Ray Frazier, A. P. Coombers, Miss Dunlap and a visitor, Mrs. Bill Autry.

VISITOR FROM CANADA

Canadian Compares His Home, Pampa

By RONNIE CROSS
Pampa News Staff Writer

John Kettlewell, 89, who is visiting in Pampa from Canada, says he finds that Canada and Pampa are much the same in many ways. He owns a farm 100 miles from Windsor, Canada, which grows "nearly everything" as he put it although he has it rented out at the time since he feels he is a little up in the years to manage it himself. In his long life he not only has done farming but also, among other things, barn-building and cement laying.

Kettlewell whose wife died in 1945, has six children, five boys and one girl, all of whom are married and the eldest of whom has deceased. He and his family have lived all of their lives in Canada. Proving he is a true Canadian at heart, Kettlewell plans to return there as soon as his visit in Pampa is finisned. He said that about the only difference he had found between Canada and Pampa was the climate, Canada being cooler. The temperature there is sometimes as cold as 28 degree below and he said jokingly, "and that didn't seem to cold."

Telling of dangerous events in his life, he said the one he remembered most was the time he fell onto the running belt of a threshing machine and as a result was unconscious for more than two hours. It is easy to see why that would be remembered.

His host and hostess in Pampa are his brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kettlewell, 1004 Duncan, who incidentally have just celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. They were married in 1898 in Caradock Township, Canada, and lived there until about 20 years ago when they moved to Detroit Mich., and later to Louisiana. Approximately 10 years ago they moved to Pampa and settled here.

The Joe Kettlewells are members of the Bible Baptist Church in Pampa and John Kettlewell is a member of the United Church in Canada. He explained that the United was a combination of nearly all of the faiths in Canada.

Kettlewell said he was enjoying his visit in Pampa and he can understand why it is known as the "Top o' Texas." That's not just because of its georgraphical location.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

Recent heavy rains made many Gray County farm fishponds muddy. Several in the Gray County Soil Conservation District, however, remained clear. The silt-colored ponds attest to costly erosion, while the clear waters reflect better soil and water conservation. A good fishpond can be protected against muddiness.

The most common sources of erosion are pastures which were grazed too closely, unpaved roads, and bare roadsides, field borders, and cropland. A better sod, with more grass cover not grazed too close, will stop the erosion in a pasture. Strip-cropping and more crop residue turned into field soils will reduce (and sometimes stop completely) the washing of topsoil from these valuable lands. Field borders can be planted with vegetation for wildlife. A pond can be protected from roadside erosion if grass cover is planted in roadway drainageways.

Muddy ponds produce a poor poundage of fish. The life-length of the pond itself it shortened rapidly by silt. A pond is a barometer of erosion versus good water. Most cooperators in the Gray County District are trying to keep it reading "clear".

Dollar Value Of Construction Shows Increase

AUSTIN (UP) — Dollar value of construction in Texas during April topped March by three per cent, and exceeded the same month last year by 22 per cent, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported Saturday.

Most of the gain was attributed to a whopping 11 per cent jump in residential construction from March to April. Compared with April, 1957, construction in this category was up 40 per cent, and in sharp contrast to a customary normal seasonal decline.

An improved agricultural outlook was also credited with attributing to part of the upturn in construction, particularly in Texas cities of less than 10,000 population.

Stocks In Decline During Past Week

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks declined on reduced volume during the past week.

Sales volume concentrated on the low-priced issues. The top four in turnover made up 11 per cent of the volume and averaged 8⅜ a share. Two of them were in the $5 class.

To find a recognized market leader one had to go to 11th place in volume. The top ten produced a sales aggregate of 2,228,200 shares or 17 per cent of the 13,308,453 shares traded. The latter figure compared with the previous week's 14,103,810 shares.

Most of the actives gained. Royal Dutch, an exception,' lost 1⅞ and Shell Transport lost nearly a point on the MidEast muddle. American Motors in second place touched a new high at 14⅞ and then eased to 13¼ off ¼ for the week on profit-taking.

Big Industry Down

Studebaker-Packard topped the market in turnover and ran up 1¼ points to 5¼, a gain for the week of more than 29 per cent. Continental Motors, in third place, gained 1¼ points.

General Motors drew up in 11th place with a loss of a point. Bethlehem and U.S. Steel were in 12th and 13th places respectively and each dipped nearly a point. Jersey Standard, in 14th position, was down 1⅜ on the week.

There were a few dividend casualties during the week and in each case of a cut or omission stocks involved fell more than a point. Kennecott ran up 2 points on Friday when its directors declared the usual dividend. It lost ⅝ point on the week.

The market was at its worst on Wednesday when malcontents of South American nations were insulting Vice President Nixon, Lebanon was in turmoil and France was reported on the verge of civil war.

On Thursday the market rallied when the Middle East calmed, Nixon got a big welcome on his return from a "good will" tour, and Russia sent a new satellite into orbit. Wall Street recalled how the first satellite shook the market. This one went unnoticed.

The business news contained some favorable items such as weekly gains in automobile output, carloadings, steel output, electricity output, and construction.

Position Now Difficult

Trading was heavy—more than 3,000,000 shares—when the market was weakest but a large part of it concentrated on the low-priced issues. Volume fell when prices recovered light again on Friday market slipped a bit.

Market experts said the in a difficult position just They hold that if it can nego the 470 level in the industri average it would have the back ground for a substantial extension of the advance.

At the week's close the industrial average stood at 457.10 off

SHRINKING WORLD?—According to the sign post it's only a short ride from New York to Boston, but here's the catch, the picture was made in England. This New York is a tiny hamlet situated some 10 miles from a slightly larger hamlet, Boston.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT—Father's Day, on June 15, will climax a special Father-Child month beginning May 15. But the list of commandments above, suggested by the National Father's Day Committee, might well be observed by fathers—and all adults—the year 'round.

Most Of Us Are 'Hicks' At Heart

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)— Most of us are hicks at heart. That's why all the Westerns on television and the boom in the dude ranch business, says Miss Gladys Jaques.

Miss Jaques (pronounced Jakes), a one-time stenographer from Brooklyn, is the boss of a 1,000 acre ranch near New Boston, Mass., in the Berkshire Mountains. She believes she may be the only woman in the country in sole charge of a dude ranch operation.

"Most of the ranches are run by husband and wife teams," she said. Miss Jaques is married to a New York sales executive, but said she is the sole boss back at the ranch.

"I cater to city slickers from the New York and Boston area," she said in an interview at the couple's Manhattan apartment. "But our cowboys are genuine; we bring them in from the West. They summer with us and winter in Arizona."

She is affiliated with the Eastern Dude Ranchers Assn., which has members in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

"As a kid I milked cows and rode horseback to school," she said, "so ranching isn't exactly new to me." When she was 15, her father died and the family moved back to Brooklyn. The store had been sold so she became the bradwinner, going to work as a stenographer for what is now the Chase Manhattan Bank.

As she pounded a typewriter, she planned how she could return to the country she loved. A dude ranch sounded like the solution.

Gary Against All The Special Days

NEW YORK (UP)— The governor of the great state of Oklahoma has wound up and struck what I would call a real gasser of a blow for freedom. What he is trying to free is the calendar. He claims it is bowed by the weight of useless special days, weeks and months.

To that end, his last weekly newsletter began forthrightly:

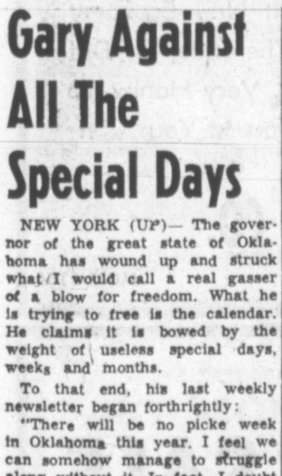

"There will be no picke week in Oklahoma this year. I feel we can somehow manage to struggle along without it. In fact, I doubt if any one except a Chicago public relations firm will be even mildly disappointed."

The governor's name is Raymond Gary. He has nothing against pickes, as such, so long as they keep out of proclamations he has to sign. Last year, he says, he issued 270 proclamations. Looking back on it, he can't find any reason for such as "Clown Week" and "Golf Day."

Matter of fact, he says, the whole publicity stunt business is in a sad state of decline. He recalls fondly the imaginative days when pancakes were publicized by frying them on the sidewalk on a hot July day.

"Now", he laments, "They ask for a high-sounding proclamation instead. Even the lowly pickle seeks to shroud itself in dignified whereases, and tie in with public welfare by urging additional outdoor recreation facilities. This seems a bit ridiculous to me."

HONOR MAN—Memorial Day this year will see the interment at Arlington National Cemetery of two new Unknown Soldiers—one from World War II and one from the Korean War. The former will be chosen by Navy Hospital Corpsman William R. Charlotte, of Ludington, Mich., a Navy Medal of Honor winner. He will choose between two bodies, one from the European-African theater, the other from the Pacific theater. The ceremony will take place aboard the guided missile cruiser Canberra, 25 miles off Chesapeake Bay. Charette is a veteran of the Korean War.

● Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Today's hand is taken from Marshall Miles' excellent new book, "How to Win at Duplicate Bridge."

It illustrates one of the main differences between rubber and duplicate play. You, South, arrive at a perfectly normal three no-trump contract and the four of hearts is opened. East wins with the king and returns the seven. West plays the deuce and you are in the lead.

Obviously, West is waiting with three heart tricks if his side can get the lead and if you try to set up the diamonds you will be down one trick. You also note that if you can gather in four spade and four club tricks you can make your contract without bothering with the diamonds.

At rubber bridge you try both black suits. You need two finesses and a club break but all you are risking is an extra 50-point loss against a possible game.

At duplicate you settle for down one. Everyone else will be in three no-trump and if you lose an extra trick you will wind up with a bad score. The odds against success in both suits are too much to warrant the gamble for game.

Oil Firms Opposing Union Demands Solidly This Year

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The business recession has become hard reality for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (AFL—CIO).

Wage increase drives launched this spring have run into stone-wall opposition in both the United States and Canada. Union President O. A. Knight had expected this because of the slump. But it apparently is more formidable than even he anticipated.

The union does not stand alone. Standard Oil of Ohio and Standard of Indiana are bucking demands of their independent unions. Ohio Standard offered 8 cents an hour to some marketing employes to cover the increased cost of living. Indiana Standard refused any raise at all to its refinery workers.

In Canada where many Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (OCAW) contracts are being reopened, management is so adamant against wage hikes that strike talk is going the rounds.

The OCAW set out to win cost-of-living boosts, plus annual 3 1-2 per cent raises to compensate for increased production; long - term contracts intended to stabilize wage rates; and a fringe benefit package with severance pay guarantees.

The current issue of the OCAW Union News reported that "thus far there have been few concrete developments in negotiations."

"In most cases," it said, "the companies have received union proposals without comment except to say they would study them." It went on to say that "it must be borne in mind" that, because of different opening dates for contracts, "several months time normally must elapse before negotiations are underway on a widespread basis."

But the union said there appears to be no doubt that the industry is putting up solid-front opposition. This seems especially true in Canada where some contracts have been settled on the basis of the 1957 pattern.

Cities Service Employees Are Honored

Sixteen Cities Service Oil Co. employees in the Pampa, Texas area were presented service awards at a dinner last night in recognition of their years of service with the company.

Presentation of awards, the highlight of the affair, was witnessed by the recipients' wives, who were honored guests. Present to present the awards and help the veteran employees celebrate the occasion were Don Kastner, C. R. Smith, L. T. Botts, R. M. Bradley, M. J. Wells and M. D. Poteet of the Bartlesville headquarters.

A total of 1,054 employees of Cities Service Oil and Cities Service Pipe Line companies are to receive service awards this year. Individual work periods range from five to 45 years with almost 50 per cent of the recipients having more than 15 years of service with the company.

Those receiving awards in Pampa include Dennis Stillwell, 35 year award; Millard L. Cox, R. P. Dawson, L. C. Isom, Marvin Sillyman, R. H. Walker, O. V. Batson, Earl Griffin and S. W. Jones, 25 year awards.

H. O. Hightower, F. O. Tucker, and Earl H. Wallin, 15 year awards; Eugene D. Bentley, Max A. Bolick, James R. Moore, Jr., and Harley W. Wallin, ten year awards.

Petroleum Engineer To Meet Tuesday

RED ROCKET PATROL—According to information received by Western sources in Vienna, the Soviet Union has established a line of rocket launching sites from the Baltic to the Black Sea. The report said the rocket bases have existed in Eastern Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria (see Newsmap) for at least six months. Five of the 12 bases are located in Czechoslovakia. An armament center is under construction in the Slovak village of Sniny, which is to produce the most modern and advanced weapons. Soviet officers have also been reported training Hungarian soldiers in atomic warfare.

TRADE FAIR—Shown in sketch above is the permanent pavilion being completed in Poznan, Poland, to house the U.S. exhibit at the 27th International Trade Fair to be held there June 8-22. The display will be based on the theme "Technology in the Service of Mankind." The Commerce Department will erect the $175,000 glass and aluminum building, designed by Reino Aarnio of New York, plus a TV studio and four smaller buildings. The government will spend $524,000 in all. This year is the second U.S. appearance at the fair. Last year over one million people visited the American display behind the Iron Curtain.

Enthusiasm Jumped For Nixon Welcome

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — There was in the beginning more foot-dragging than enthusiasm among administration big shots for the whoop-te-doo welcome home arranged for Vice President Richard M. Nixon and his charming wife, Pat. President Eisenhower fixed that in a hurry.

The chill attitude of small interest persisted until the late afternoon hours of Tuesday, May 13. By that time there had been told the shocking story of a vice president of the United States assailed, insulted and, finally, with his party, practically barricaded in the U.S. embassy at Caracas, Venezuela.

The White House was getting its own running report of events in Caracas by telephone and the story was not pretty. There have been some hot tempered presidents in the White House since your correspondent has been looking them over. That is a matter of more than 30 years now, and the memories even of Cal Coolidge's quick rages have not faded.

Ike's Explosion Echoed

Herbert Hoover, a Quaker, was a placid man. FDR had a temper, however, hot and explosive. Harry S. Truman had the hot head of a gun slinger of the Old West. Tough and good men all. When Dwight D. Eisenhower explodes the detonation is considerable. He exploded during the afternoon hours of Tuesday, May 13, as the nasty Caracas story unwound.

That explosion echoed in the Caribbean where paratroopers and Marines shortly were winging to strategic spots from which they could move to Nixon's aid if necessary. A sharp summons brought before Secretary of State John Foster Dulles a representative of the Venezuelan embassy who got first-hand word that the United States would not gently accept such affronts to the Nixon party. That, of course, was more of Eisenhower's doing.

Whole Staff Goes

The President told his advisers there ought to be a grand welcome home for Richard Nixon and, by golly, he would go out to the airport to lead it. No such thing, his State Department advisers ruled. For the President to go to the airport would set a bad precedent—couldn't be done, or, anyway, shouldn't be.

Okay, said Eisenhower. If he couldn't go, the entire White House staff barring a single clerk would keep store during the welcome ceremonies. That was Tuesday afternoon. On Wednesday, the President decided to go, himself.

So it was that a lot of steam suddenly was generated behind the welcome home project. Less prodding was required to fire up some enthusiasm on Capitol Hill. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland got the fever and went to work.

It was a bipartisan welcome they planned and which Nixon got. It would'nt have been much, however, had not the President become suddenly angered by the treatment accorded his young friend. He still waned to be in the welcome party, himself and said as much at Wednesday's White House news conference.

Alert and sensitive Washington is casting up the political account of all this. It casts up high in Nixons favor. His ennimes well know that Nixon can dish it out. Now they are fully aware that he can take, too; a quality much admired in these United States.

Nixon's South American swing was tough while it lasted, but the young man stood up to it well and, probably, moved thereby a mite closer to his goal, the presidency of the U.S.

Graham Says Pride Special American Sin

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Billy Graham told a crowd of 15,500 at the Cow Palace Friday night that pride is a "special American sin."

"We don't treat others as equals," the evangelist said.

"There's too much snobbishness found when Americans travel abroad."

Graham said the people of other countries aren't against us because they are pro-Communist or because we're rich and they're poor. "It's because we throw our weight around."

Citing the story of the publican and the pharisee in Luke 18:9-14, Graham said, "Pride does more to defile a man and harden the mind of man toward God than anything else. God will punish the proud."

Southern Baptist Convention

HOUSTON (UP) — More than 15,000 delegates to the Southern Baptist convention were to complete registration here Saturday for the convention and its related meetings.

Registration for the convention, the largest in the history of the Southern Baptist organization, began last Friday night. The convention will begin business sessions Sunday and will run throughout the week.

The previous attendance record for the convention, the 101st of the Baptist group, was 12,976 when the meeting was held here in 1953. A total of near 17,000 is expected this year.

BRUSSELS SPROUT—After doing 121 consecutive "Lassie" telefilms, Jan Clayton's sprouting out in a new field. Or really a retread of an old one. She's going to the Brussels Fair as the singing star of a State Department-sponsored production of "Carousel." Having viewed her as Lassie's "mother" for so long, you didn't know she was a top singer? Well, it was just 14 years ago that she won stardom in the original Broadway production of "Carousel."

1 Card of Thanks 1

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for Thou are with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever. —23rd Psalm.

Annie Belle Clark

May we take this means to express our most grateful appreciation to our many friends and neighbors who came to us in our time of sorrow in the loss of our dear mother and sister, Annie B. Clark, who passed away May 12. We especially wish to thank Dr. Kelley and the entire staff of Highland General Hospital for their untiring efforts and tender care given during her long illness. To Bro. Ennis Hill of Calvary Baptist Church and Bro. Oland Butler of Harrah Methodist Church for their comforting messages and the singers for the beautiful songs. To the Order of the Eastern Star for the beautiful services performed at the cemetery. We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their comforting words of sorrow and are indeed grateful to all those who prepared food and the ladies of Harrah Methodist Church and the Order of the Eastern Star for serving in our home. To all those who were so thoughtful to send the many many beautiful flowers we say thank you. We would like to express our gratitude to Duenkel-Carmichael for their impressive last rites. May God bless each of you.
