Pope John Arrives In Boston

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Pope John Paul II arrived today in Boston, the first stop on his seven-day U.S. visit, after a pastoral tour of Ireland which was highlighted by repeated calls for an end to sectarian strife.

The crowds had begun gathering hours before the pontiff's plane was scheduled to land at Logan International Airport. By late morning, several thousand persons jammed the area of the Boston Common where the pope was to celebrate Mass.

In an airport departure statement before leaving Ireland, the pope said: "I thank all the people for the warm and loving reception in which they manifested their keen sense of humanity and their lively faith."

In a final open-air Mass in nearby Limerick, the pontiff urged Roman Catholics to resist growing pressure for the church to liberalize its stand against abortion and divorce.

Only hours before he spoke, terrorists in Northern Ireland refusing to heed the pope's call for peace, raked a British Army Land Rover with gunfire, forcing it to crash and slightly injuring two troops.

The Aer Lingus Boeing 747 carrying the papal entourage took off from Shannon Airport in the west of Ireland 19 minutes behind schedule at 1:49 p.m. - 8:49 a.m. EDT -for the 6½-hour flight.

The Boston Mass, which is expected to draw up to 1 million people, will mark the official opening of the pope's travels to Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Des Moines, Chicago and Washington.

The scheduled welcoming committee at Logan included Cardinal Humberto Medeiros; Rosalynn Carter; Robert Wagner, the former mayor of New York City and President Carter's special representative to the Vatican; Massachusetts Gov. Edward King; Boston Mayor Kevin White; House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, and U.S. Sens. Edward Kennedy and Paul Tsongas, both Democrats from Massachusetts.

The pope departed from Shannon Airport, west of Limerick across the River Shannon, where he had helicoptered after celebrating Mass in Limerick. Thousands wept openly as the papal helicopter lifted into a leaden sky, a light drizzel falling over Limerick, the multitude singing "The Rivers of Babylon."

"Pope John Paul will have no respite. America waits," said the commentator for the live coverage on the Irish television broadcast as the helicopter near Shannon Airport.

The Polish pontiff addressed an estimated 400,000 Catholics from Ireland's traditionally conservative southwest who gathered at Limerick race track.

The Mass at Limerick was cut short after communion, a priest announced, because the pope "is very tired" and "has a long journey ahead of him." A flight of pigeons was released to mark the end of the ceremony.

Less Dollars Goal Of IMF

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)-Seeking to reduce the turbulence in world money markets, the International Monetary Fund appears ready to endorse a plan to reduce the amount of dollars in the international financial system.

U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller and other finance ministers on the IMF's powerful Interim Committee are expected to approve in principle a plan to establish a so-called substitution account for dollars held by IMF member governments.

The committee meets here today, one day before the 138-nation IMF opens its four-day annual meeting. It is the first time the U.N.-sponsored financial organization is meeting in a Communist country.

Details of the substitution account would be worked out over the next several months to be ready for final approval next spring. If all goes well, the account could be in operation as early as mid-1980, IMF officials said.

Mozambique Raid Kills 500

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia (AP)-Zimbabwe Rhodesian commandos destroyed the main base of Robert Mugabe's black guerrillas and killed 500 of them during a four-day raid into Mozambique that ended today, the Argus Africa news service reported. Argus publishes several South African newspapers.

There was no immediate comment from military officials in Salisbury, who said a communique likely would be issued later today.

Mugabe's men and Joshua Nkomo's guerrillas in Zambia, joined in the Patriotic Front alliance, have been fighting a nearly seven-year long war for control of Rhodesia and are now engaged in slow-moving peace talks with Zimbabwe Rhodesian leaders in Britain.

Hard Times For Car Industry

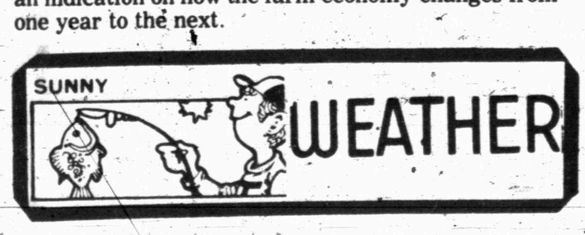

WASHINGTON (AP)-The world automobile industry is entering one of its most difficult periods and more companies, like Chrysler, will be fighting for their lives, according to a new study.

Decreased oil supplies, demands for more efficient vehicles and saturated markets are forcing auto makers into a new era that offers some of the them little hope for survival, researchers from Worldwatch Institute said in a study released this weekend.

Commodity Prices To Rise

WASHINGTON (AP)-Farm commodity prices are expected to average slightly higher this year than indicated earlier by Agriculture Department projections.

The statistics mean little to individual farmers, who are more interested in prices they get for what they actually produce. But the government figures do give an indication on how the farm economy changes from one year to the next.

Zone Requests On Council's Agenda

Two requests for zone changes are on the agenda for tonight's regular meeting of the Snyder City Council. The meeting is set for 6:30 p.m. in the council room at city hall.

Also up for consideration will be specifications for a new ambulance, specifications for 1980 police patrol cars, and the appointment of three members to the city's board of electrical examiners.

One of the zone requests would change Lots 1,2,3, and 4, Block 2, in the Snyder Oaks Addition from a multi-family residential zone to a semi-commercial zone.

The other would change part of Sec. 180, block 3, H&GN Survey, located at 2907 West 23rd St., from a general retail zone to a two-family residential zone.

The three members of the city's board of electrical examiners whose terms expire are Bill Mapes, Michael Reed and Ed Blocker.

A--It seemed that the timing of the East Highway and Ave. E traffic light was a little off to the Texas Highway Department, too. Ten seconds were recently added to the green light for cars traveling along Ave. E, said Ed Vernon, Highway Department engineer.

Carter's Cuban Speech Slated For 8 Tonight

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter cleared his schedule today to work on tonight's speech dealing with a brigade of Soviet troops in Cuba, a controversy that Cuban President Fidel Castro contends Carter invented to bolster his own political image.

So he would have more time to devote to his speech, Carter postponed until Tuesday a scheduled afternoon meeting with President William R. Tolbert, Jr., of Liberia.

Carter worked Sunday on the speech, apparently with his wife, as they wrapped up a weekend in the seclusion of Camp David, Md. The administration, meanwhile, maintained its virtual silence on the issue.

Carter returned this morning to the White House where he will make the nationally broadcast speech at 8 p.m. CDT. He made the 65-mile trip from Camp David by limousine instead of helicopter because of rainy weather.

The president's public schedule of activities today showed no meetings planned with foreign policy advisers.

He scheduled the address after negotiations with Soviet officials apparently had broken down, with the Russians refusing to budge on Carter's insistence that they change the "status quo." Those talks resumed unexpectedly Sunday.

The Soviets say the force - which U.S. officials say has 2,000 to 3,000 soldiers, 40 tanks and artillery and armored personnel carriers - has been stationed in Cuba since 1962 with the full knowledge of previous American presidents and is not a combat brigade.

White House spokesman Dale Leibach said he did not believe Carter had summoned any speech writers to the presidential retreat, indicating he was working on the speech alone with his wife.

But while Carter remained secluded, administration activity related to the Soviet brigade continued in Washington.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin held an unscheduled meeting at the State Department Sunday afternoon.

However, the administration maintained its virtual silence on the entire Cuban issue with State Department spokesman David Nall declining to give any indication of the purpose of the 84-minute meeting or even which side had instigated it.

Later, Vance met at the White House for three

Among the other cases was on involving Penny Case. She is alleged to have passed an allegedly forged check on Aug. 24. The check, investigators claim was altered from $7

no winner possible

Historians tell us that the United States has rarely known peace in its 200-plus years of existence, and they are referring only to physical combats.

Bloodless struggles constantly go on within the borders of the United States constantly. Some are inspired by religious differences, some by politics, some by those who would restore the caste system and relegate the most of us to the ranks of the Untouchables.

Many of the struggles take place in the business world, where one conglomerate or another wants to dominate sales and dictate prices.

One of the most intense struggles now going on is between the manufacturers of junk food and those consumer groups who want to limit the kid's access to it.

The food manufacturers have powerful allies - the kids themselves. They had far rather eat the junk food now and perhaps pay the piper later than listen to those parents who are conscious of their diet.

The sad fact is; most parents develop even poorer eating habits than their children and not many know anything and care even less about the fundamentals of good nutrition.

Not long ago, the Carter Administration probably didn't win any future votes by announcing regulations which would forbid the sale of low-nutrition goodies and soft drinks at public schools before the end of the last lunch period of the day.

One could almost hear the kids saying as one: "How can he do this to us?"

Would it surprise you to know that the administration's proposal offended partisans on both sides of the debate? Junk food processors -buttressed by respectable columnists like James J. Kilpatrick - argue that this is an intolerable infrigement on the individuals freedom of choice.

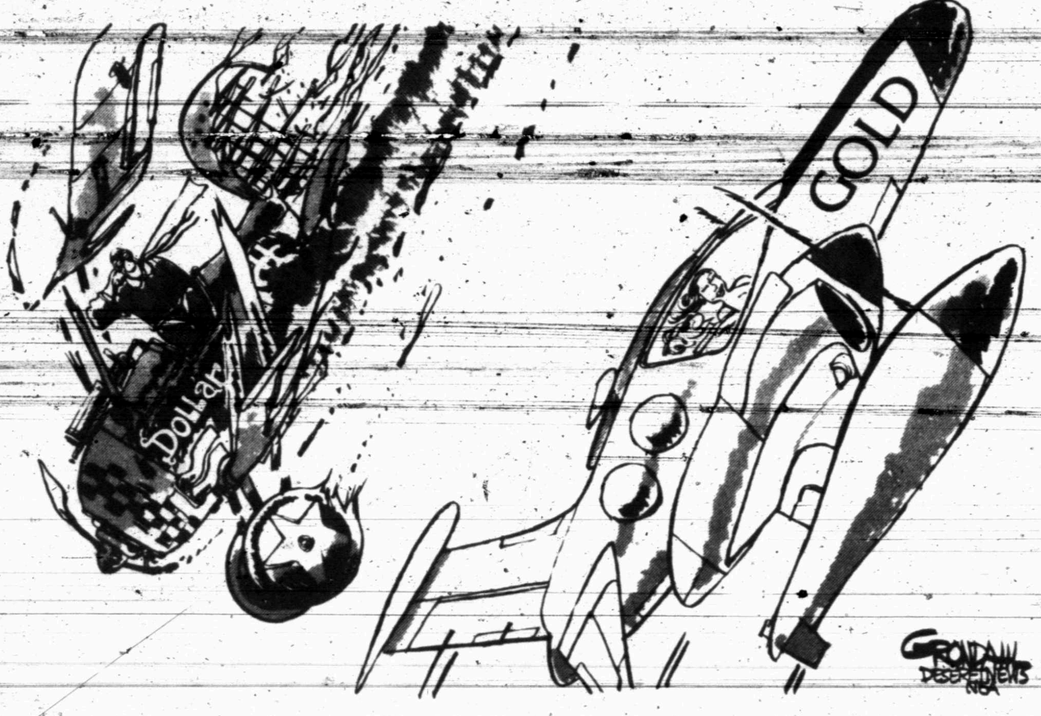

Those who would outlaw the government's edict say that it is the responsibility of parents, not the state, to develop good eating habits among the young.

The good nutrition buffs, on the other hand, maintain that the Carter group's proposal is timid. They note that the official definition of junk food under the new rules is a snack in which a 100-calorie portion offers less than five per cent of the recommended daily allowance of any one of eight basic nutrients. The consumerists complain that the junk food barons could all too easily fortify their candy and crackers with one or more of those nutrients and thus escape the ban.

Most public schools try valiantly to develop good eating habits among the children, and have their good names verbally abused at home and in the school yard as a result.

Who was it that said:

"Everything I like either is unhealthy, immoral or illegal."

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Republican presidential aspirants hoping to gain momentum from early 1980 tests in Iowa and New Hampshire could face a "small print" problem if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy goes forward with his challenge to President Carter.

This is a dilemma best illustrated by a classic anecdote from the 1968 primary campaign, when a plane carrying the late Robert F. Kennedy and dozens of reporters nearly ran off a runway following a teeth-rattling aborted takeoff.

The candidate, in typical Kennedy fashion, was the first to recover his wits -- and his voice. "With all due immodesty," he told his shaken fellow passengers, "if we don't make it this time, you fellows are going to be in the small print!"

No matter who wins, a contest between Ted Kennedy and Jimmy Carter would unquestionably receive the top media billing in both the Jan. 21 Iowa precinct caucuses and the Feb. 26 New Hampshire primary.

The Republicans who had expected to dominate the newspaper headlines and network TV reports, would wind up second best if not exactly in small print.

And that is a discouraging prospect to some of those seeking to defeat, or at least seriously threaten, front-runner Ronald Reagan in those early contests.

George Bush, in particular, has been banking heavily on the boost in name recognition and credibility he would receive from a strong showing in Iowa, where he has put together an impressive organizational effort. But if press attention is riveted on Kennedy-Carter, even an outright win in Iowa may not be worth a great deal to Bush or other Republican contestants.

Despite a superb campaign staff and support from many GOP pros, Bush continues to suffer severe name recognition problems that have kept him down near the bottom of the pack in opinion-poll rankings of Republican presidential hopefuls.

To combat this problem, the Bush campaign is already running television advertising spots on Portland, Maine, and Boston stations in an effort to reach voters in New Hampshire and other New England states with early primaries and caucuses.

Similar spots, which are "soft" ads focused on biographical details, will soon start running in Iowa media markets. An appeal for money at the end of the spots allows the Bush people to attribute part of the cost to fund-raising activities, which are exempt from the spending ceilings for each state.

Howard H. Baker Jr., who remains Bush's chief competitor for the support of GOP moderates, has picked up the endorsements of three prominent New England Republicans - all of whom happen to be his colleagues in the Senate, where Baker is GOP leader.

Sens. Robert T. Stafford of Vermont, William S. Cohen of Maine and John H. Chafee of Rhode Island have climbed on Baker's bandwagon. All are relatively liberal in Republican terms - which isn't saying much, of course.

President Carter, who has been taking it on the chin lately from hawkish critics who claim he isn't spending enough on defense, now has trouble from doves who say he has spent too much.

The national board of SANE, the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, earlier this month went on record against a second term for Carter. SANE, one of the oldest peace groups, cited the president's failure to keep his 1976 campaign pledges to reduce military spending and U.S. arms sales abroad.

Capitol Hill may be the home of big spenders, but not all members of Congress can be accused of profligacy.

Sen. J. James Exon, D-Neb., not only flies coach when he travels to and from his home state, he has instructed his staff to buy his airline tickets far enough in advance to qualify for discount fares. Now that's frugality with the taxpayers' money!

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Good news for all of you apartment dwellers who are short on space and long on imagination. I have before me a magazine article in which a decorator, faced with a dinner party, makes what she calls an "amusing transformation."

She converts her dressing room-bathroom into a dining room.

The tub is covered with an upholstered, cushioned board which serves as a buffet. She adds a folding table, extra chairs, puts the champagne into the sink to chill (thank goodness, she didn't go for the cooler with the lid) and stores her glasses on the vanity shelf.

She covers each of the walls in a different flowery fabric and for accent, sets baskets of fresh fruits about with tangerines peeled and ready to eat as "a nice surprise for hungry guests."

The peeled tangerines would be the least of the surprises. Can you imagine for a moment herding your guests to the bathroom for dinner?

I don't even want my guests to use the bathroom when we have dinner in the dining room. I cannot imagine that the idea will catch on like wildfire. Our bathroom is entirely out of the question.

1. The dressing room IS my bathroom.
2. My menus can never be adapted to harsh lighting.
3. The bathroom door has not been open, or for that matter ajar, in 15 years.
4. I couldn't eat a bite facing a full-length mirror.
5. I couldn't relax in a chair that was bolted to the floor.

To tell you the truth, I hate to see the bathroom exploited as a room for entertaining. To me, that sacred part of the house has been the last bastion of privacy for the American family.

The toddler who regards it as Disneyland with faucets; the teenager who barricades himself in there until puberty has passed; the father who seeks peace in his reading room.

But mostly, it is needed by the woman of the household as a haven from havoc...a port for postnatal depression...a refuge from reality...a retreat to regroup...a chapel in which to pray...a cloister in which to cry.

It's no place for peeled tangerines.

Waste no laughing matter

Lou Cottin

Everybody laughed when I did or said something foolish as a little boy. My father would say with embarrassment, "If it wasn't my fool, I'd laugh, too."

On a personal level, nonsense and folly can be tolerated. On a national level, however, many people can be hurt by nonsense — especially if it costs money.

In the interest of a tight budget, President Carter is seeking to reduce social services.

For example, he has proposed maintaining the 1978 level of spending for seniors despite inflation. He has even proposed some cuts in Social Security programs.

No one can blame the president for wanting to save a few million dollars. Plaintively he asks Congress to show him where to make the cuts if it does not like the ones he has suggested.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has been doing so since 1975, when he began giving his Golden Fleece Award monthly to "the biggest, most ridiculous, most ironic example of government spending or waste."

Thus, the senator chided the National Science Foundation in March 1975 for squandering $84,000 to find out why people fall in love.

In April 1975, Proxmire reported that the same foundation spent $500,000 to determine under which conditions rats, monkeys and humans bite and clench their teeth.

The Golden Fleece for January 1977 went to the Agriculture Department, which spent $46,000 to find out how long it takes to cook breakfst. Proxmire commented: "USDA did more than lay an egg on this one. They also spent the taxpayer's money to figure out how long it takes to cook one."

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration won the Golden Fleece for February 1977. It spent nearly $27,000 to determine why inmates want to escape from prison.

Winner of the Golden Fleece for October 1977 was a project funded by the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. On a grant of $384,948, 101 persons were hired to do a door-to-door count of dogs, cats and horses at the 160,000 houses and apartments in Ventura County, Calif.

You're not going to believe this! In April 1978, the Golden Fleece went to the National Institute of Mental Health for its $97,000 study of ethnic and class relationships among Indians of Peru's Andes — including an investigation of behavior and social relationships in a Peruvian brothel.

And in April of this year, Proxmire announced a Golden Fleece Award to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Economic Development Administration.

HUD paid $100,000 for construction of a community center in rural Merrill Township, Mich. EDA spent $179,000 on a never-completed road to the center.

The center, probably useless to begin with, could not be reached because it was built deep in the woods. It collapsed but no one knew for days.

Add up the costs of these nonsensical government programs. Then stop to figure that Proxmire has been awarding Golden Fleeces for nearly five years.

The waste boggles the mind. And what troubles me the most is that boondoggles like these are still going on.

What Proxmire has accomplished with his Golden Fleece Awards is to tip us off to government waste. We should be asking our representatives in Congress to look for ways to expose and eliminate federal boondoggles of every kind.

And we should expect the same budgetary common sense from our city, county and state officials.

JOE GRAHAM, CUSTOM CARE CLEANERS

Lovely Ginger Rogers told Beauty Digest Magazine she has been able to maintain her fantstic figure all these years by simply saying to herself these words: "What I eat will stay in my mouth for seconds, and on my hips forever."

Bedside Manners

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the newlywed signed FRUSTRATED, who couldn't wait for her husband to be released from the hospital to have sex, reminded me of a similar incident.

Years ago, when I was on night duty at a hospital, a woman patient rang her bell and asked if I'd mind standing guard.

RETIRED RN, MILWAUKEE

DEAR RETIRED: At least she asked.

DEAR ABBY: I was once in the same predicament as FRUSTRATED, and my husband and I were ready to climb the walls. Then we spoke to his doctor, who wrote my husband a "prescription" and gave it to the head nurse. (We still have the "prescription" in our scrapbook.)

One nurse entered our room out of curiosity, but we felt justified in telling her to stay out—that it was doctor's orders that we were not to be disturbed for two hours.

There were no more problems once the word got around the nurses' station.

SAVED BY UNUSUAL PRESCRIPTION

DEAR ABBY: As an RN in a Houston hospital I have seen some mighty strange goings-on. I recall a complaint from a woman who was sharing a double room with a pretty young girl who had broken both legs in a skiing accident. It seems that the girl (with both legs in casts, yet!) had frequent visits from her husband, during which time they carried on as though they were in a private room. When I confronted the young girl with her roommate's complaint, she said, "If she's such a prude, she can turn the other way."

TRUE STORY

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the frustrated newlywed reminded me of my days as a young intern at St. Joseph's Hospital in Syracuse, N.Y.

I'll never forget the 82-year-old patient who had a young woman visiting him. I went into his room to tell him that visiting hours were over. At first it appeared that he was alone, then I discovered that they were BOTH in his bed! (I was more embarrassed than they were.)

NEW YORK M.D.

DEAR ABBY: In my 16 years of private nursing, I cannot count the number of times I've been embarrassed when I've walked into private, semi-private and ward rooms to find people with the same views as FRUSTRATED.

I am not totally without sympathy, but I think the patient's health should be cared for at the hospital, and his romantic needs elsewhere. A hospital is not a hotel. If a patient is well enough for marital relations, and wants to get his $98-a-day's worth, perhaps he should be transferred to the nearest Hilton.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "Most declarers would wind up one trick short at the five-diamond contract. At some stage of the play they would lose the heart finesse. East would shoot back a spade and West would take his ace and queen."

Alan: "A really alert declarer would give himself an extra chance. At trick two he would cash dummy's ace of hearts. Then he would lead a low heart. East would be almost certain to duck, whereupon South would score his jack and wind up with his contract."

Oswald: "This swindle is a good example of the 'extra chance' play. Suppose that West holds the king of hearts. He will score a surprise trick with it, but won't be able to get two spade tricks. South will get to discard one spade on the queen of hearts and lose just one spade trick."

Alan: "The play would have cost South an overtrick in the event that East held the ace of spades or West the king of hearts, but what's an overtrick when compared with making a game contract."

Families Plan 16th Reunion

The Gilmore and Freeman families have slated their 16th reunion at Maypearl Community Hall Oct. 6-7. These families traditionally have a time of singing together. There are a number of trained musicians among them and some are professional musicians.

The Gilmores are descendants of John Parks and Susannah Stephenson Gilmore who came to Ellis County in the 1850's. John McKnight and Sarah Murphree Freeman settled about the same time and the families intermarried. Related families include Claunch, Slaughter, Jones, Singleton, Edwards and Bynum.

Dear Customer and Friend,

This past year has been at best a very interesting year for us at Raun Stoltz Photography. Many things have happened that have truly proven to be a challenge for people who are in business, particularly if it is a luxury business such as ours. Inflation has cut to the bone, wages are out of sight if you're on the paying end, and the cost of doing business has risen far more rapidly than prices or volume. We have been faced with only one solution and that was to close this studio in Snyder and work out of our Midland Studio. By doing this we will be able to immediately cut $49,000 off of our overhead.

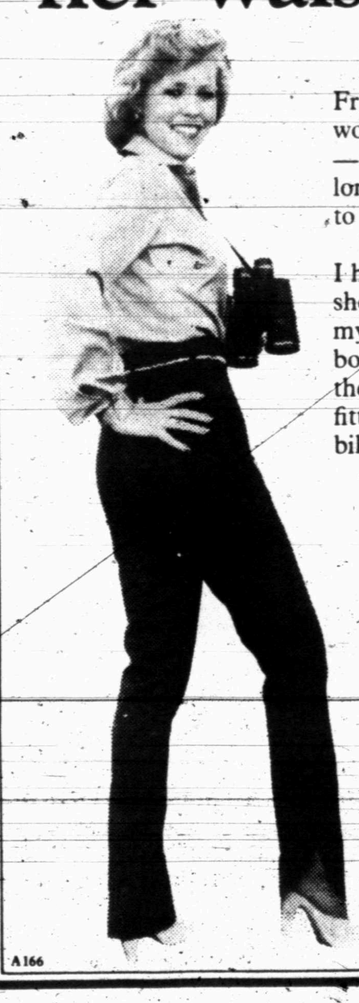

We realize that no doubt we will lose some of our business, we're sorry to say, but this is to be expected. We have had ten great years in Snyder and we are ever so thankful for the way you have supported us and our work. We owe many words of thanks to so many people. Snyder will hold a warm place in our hearts for a long time to come.

We will continue to come to Snyder to do portraits outdoors and in the home. Please feel free to call us collect at (915-684-8970). We will be happy as ever to work with you on this basis. If you have work in progress we will notify you as it is completed.

With all our appreciation,
Raun & Roseann Stoltz

Pat Walker's presents: the Splendor of being Slender

Obviously, Frances Lewis solved her waistline problem!

Stunning as she is today, Frances Lewis used to worry about her waistline—and habitually wore long blouses and coverups to hide her large abdomen.

"I never liked to admit I had a weight problem," she writes, "so I attributed my 33-inch waist to a large bone structure. I envied all the girls who could wear fitted clothes—especially bikinis."

When she dieted, she simply lost weight in the wrong places. But at Pat Walker's she achieved a beautifully proportioned figure, reducing from size 14 to size 7 and losing a total of 20 pounds and 29¾ inches (including 9 inches off the waist).

You also can reach your ideal weight on our proven program of weight correction—pleasantly, privately, without stringent diets or strenuous exercises. Among the numerous amenities you'll enjoy are safe passive exercise, a personalized program, luxurious surroundings and the guidance of trained professional counselors.

Call today for your complimentary treatment and figure analysis. There's no obligation; just call to reserve a time for your free appointment.

Blast Bengals, 38-13...

Cowboys Ride Taller Now

IRVING (AP)—Although the Cincinnati Bengals can't be confused with the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Dallas Cowboys will take Sunday's 38-13 pounding of the Bengals as a sign they are back on the Super Bowl track.

There was an honest-to-goodness pass rush, which had been missing, three interceptions that led to touchdowns, and a tough-running (Tony) Dorsett, who gained 119 yards.

"This game gives us confidence," said Cowboy Coach Tom Landry. "We were losing some confidence after that Monday night game."

Dallas took a 26-7 thumping from Cleveland Monday night and hadn't played particularly well in three victories, resorting to fourth-quarter Roger Staubach come-from-behind passes for victory.

Rookie cornerback Aaron Mitchell, safety Randy Hughes, and rookie lineman Bruce Thornton intercepted passes and the Cowboys cashed them for touchdowns.

Hughes ran his interceptions back 68 yards to set up the first of two Scott Laidlaw touchdown runs, and Mitchell lugged his 36 yards to put Dallas in position for the second of two Staubach touchdown passes.

Hughes said, "The defense as a whole didn't play as well as we're capable, but we'll get better."

Mitchell said, "It was like a dream ... I wanted to score bad, to take the pressure from the offense and for my own sake too."

Defensive end Larry Cole said the Cowboys, "talked all week" about improving the pass rush. Dallas got to Ken Anderson three times and rookie Jack Thompson once.

"We worked on our techniques and got back to the fundamentals," said Cole. "We feel we'll beat anybody if we don't beat ourselves."

Dorsett, who had been booed because of his fumbling, said "I feel like I'm back where I was last year when the season ended. I haven't been concentrating on not fumbling because that takes away from my running — that's not what they pay me for."

Dallas built up a 21-6 half-time lead on touchdown runs of 3 and 1 yards by Laidlaw and a three-yard Staubach-to-tight end Billy Joe DuPree TD connection.

The Bengals, who only had two Chris Bahr field goals as an offensive punch in the first half, got back into the game on a 10-yard scoring pass from Anderson to Don Bass.

Then Mitchell made his interception, Staubach hit Tony Hill on a nine-yard TD pass and the rout was on.

Cats Entertain Seminole Here

Snyder volleyball squads return to action here tonight after taking the weekend off.

Snyder's freshmen open a three-match show at the high school gym, hosting Colorado City at 5 p.m.

At 6, Snyder junior varsity will entertain always-tough Seminole. A varsity match, featuring an ironic twist, will follow between the Tigers and Indians at 7.

Coaching Seminole this year is last year's Snyder assistant, Lynda Jackson. The Indians have always fielded one of the top volleyball teams in the state, and are expected to be strong again this year.

Tuesday, Snyder continues court action, traveling to Lubbock with matches against Dunbar at 6:30 and 7:30. Snyder eighth grade Black will be at Colorado City at 6, while Snyder eighth Gold hosts the Wolves at 5.

Then There Was One: Bucs Remain Unbeaten

By The Associated Press

The game plan, Coach John McKay admits, wasn't exactly to go out and win the first five games of the season.

That, in fact, is as many games as the Tampa Bay Buccaneers won all last year with basically the same team.

At this stage, however, the Bucs look like the giant-killers of the National Football League.

They are the only unbeaten team. They beat the Chicago Bears 17-13 Sunday, while the other previously unbeatens - the Cleveland Browns, Pittsburgh Steelers and Miami Dolphins - were losing.

But McKay shouldn't forget what happened to the Washington Redskins last year, though. The Redskins got off to a 6-0 start and couldn't hold on long enough to make the playoffs.

Young quarterback Doug Williams engineered Tampa Bay's latest victory, throwing an eight-yard touchdown pass to Issac Hagins with 5:08 left in the game, erasing a 13-10 deficit.

The Bears had gone ahead when Vince Evans connected with Walter Payton on a screen pass that covered 65 yards for a touchdown.

The victory kept the Bucs atop the National Football Conference's Central Division.

Cleveland, meanwhile, found itself in a three way tie with the Steelers and the Houston Oilers for the AFC Central lead after losing 31-10 to Houston. Pittsburgh lost its first game in five to the Philadelphia Eagles, 17-14, and the Dolphins got whipped by the New York Jets 33-27.

Tonight, New England plays at Green Bay.

Eagles 17, Steelers 14

Philadelphia moved to a 17-7 lead on 1-yard TD runs by Leroy Harris and Wilbert Mongtomery and a 40-yard field goal by barefoot kicker Tony Franklin, then held on to hand Pittsburgh its first loss.

The Steelers had gone ahead in the first quarter on a 7-yard scoring run by Sidney Thornton, but two Terry Bradshaw interceptions and a pair of lost fumbles helped keep Pittsburgh off the scoreboard again until late in the game.

Bradshaw capped an 80-yard, six-play drive with a 37-yard scoring toss to John Stallworth with just 1:12 left.

Jets 33, Dolphins 27

Richard Todd threw a 71-yard scoring bomb to Wesley Walker with 2:21 left to play that gave the Jets the cushion they needed to beat previously unbeaten Miami. Walker's only reception of the day gave New York a 33-20 lead, and Miami cut the final margin to six points when Bob Griese found Nat Moore in the end zone from 6 yards out on the final play of the game.

Limelight Hoped To Give Packers Some Incentive

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)-The New England Patriots, a team Bart Starr says may have the best talent in the National Football League, will showcase their skills on national television for the second time this season tonight.

Perhaps unfortunately for Starr, the Patriots' opposition will be Starr's team, the Green Bay Packers, 1-3 and in their worst physical shape of the season.

Criticism of Starr, in his fifth year as Packer coach and general manager, has been building. The club had been expected to challenge for the National Conference Central Division title.

The Patriots lost 16-13 in overtime to defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh in ABC's first Monday night NFL telecast this season, and since then have beaten the New York Jets 56-4, Cincinnati 20-14 and San Diego 27-21.

The Patriots rank third among the NFL's 28 teams in offense and second on defense. The Packers are 27th and 23rd, respectively, although Starr is hopeful the national exposure will motive his players to perform at a peak.

"Anytime you're featured in the Monday night game before a national television audience it's an honor, and it's an honor to be playing the Patriots," Starr said. "They're right up there with the real elite."

"But we feel we're up to that challenge, and we feel our players will respond accordingly," he said.

To stay with the Patriots, the Packers will have to compensate for a wave of injuries that have sidelined several of their best players for varying periods since training camp started.

Their nine-member injured reserve list includes Terry Jones, a regular defensive tackle; John Anderson, all-rookie linebacker last season, and running back Eddie Lee Ivery, their top draft pick last spring.

High Road Rugged For Some Collegians

By The Associated Press

Three of the weekend's most publicized shootouts turned out to be little more than target practice for Texas, Nebraska and Notre Dame.

While top-rated Southern California and No. 14 Ohio State had to rally for last-minute triumphs over No. 20 Louisiana State (USC 17-12) and No. 17 (UCLA (Ohio State 17-13), the other matchups between members of The Associated Press Top Twenty were really mismatchups.

Fourth-ranked Texas put the clamps on Missouri's offense, holding the fifth ranked Tigers to 164 yards in a 21-0 triumph. Sixth-ranked Nebraska trailed No. 18 Penn State 14-0 after one period but erupted for a 28-14 halftime bulge and pasted the Nittany Lions 42-17, the most points against a Joe Paterno team since 1966, his first year as head coach.

And No. 15 Notre Dame, facing its third straight Big Ten power, crunched seventh-ranked Michigan State 27-3 as Vagas Ferguson rushed for 169 yards and moved past the legendary George Gipp into second place on the school's all-time rushing chart.

Meanwhile, runnerup Alabama walloped Vanderbilt 66-3, third-ranked Oklahoma pasted Rice 63-21 - Oklahoma's offense meets Texas' defense in two weeks - No. 8 Houston trounced West Texas State 49-10 and No. 9 Washington buried Fresno State 49-14.

The only other Top Twenty team to have it easy was No. 13 Arkansas, a 33-8 winner over Tulsa. Tenth-ranked Purdue was hard-pressed to turn back Oregon 13-7, No. 11 Michigan shaded California 14-10, No. 12 Florida State downed Virginia Tech 17-10, No. 16 North Carolina State edged Wake Forest 17-14 and No. 19 Southern Methodist was knocked off by Tulane 24-17.

Texas rolled to an 18-0 halftime lead over Missouri on three of John Goodson's four field goals and a 1-yard run by Jam Jones, who finished with 142. Missouri has been a second-half team all season, but Texas Coach Fred Akers explained that "we're a second-half ballclub, too, and we pride ourselves on that fact."

Tim Hager, getting his first start, rallied Nebraska from a two-touchdown deficit with scoring passes of 11 and 70 yards to Junior Miller in the second quarter. Before the period ended, Kenny Brown dashed 16 yards to put the Cornhuskers ahead and Andra Franklin added a 5-yard touchdown run. "We can explode any time," said Miller.

Notre Dame's Ferguson rushed for 167 yards, including touchdowns of 24 and 48 yards in the third period.

Lopez Will Try For More Bucks

DALLAS (AP)-Nancy Lopez Melton says she wants to boost her year's earnings to $200,000, but she is giving herself only one more chance to do it.

After winning the $15,000 Dallas Open with a 274, the 22-year-old pro queen said she would play only one more Ladies Professional Golf Association event out of four remaining tournaments this year.

"I won't say which, but I definitely will not play at Wheeling, W.Va., this coming week. After that there is the Portsmouth, Va., the Manilla and Far East in Japan. I've not determined which two I will miss."

Melton shot a final round 2-under-par 70 on the tough Bent Tree course here to go 14 under par in the four-day tournament and take the first place check of $19,500. It boosted her 1979 earnings to $193,752, erasing her previous LPGA season total high.

"I'd like to win $200,000 this year," said Melton.

Houston Begins Title Defense

By The Associated Press

The University of Houston opens defense of its Southwest Conference title Saturday night in the Astrodome against the Baylor Bears, who only seem to be able to play when it's against league brethren.

Baylor has upset Texas A&M and Texas Tech in the young SWC football flag chase to earn a tie with Southern Methodist atop the league ladder.

Texas, the team picked by preseason forecasters to succeed Texas, also starts its title run at home against the shell-shocked Rice Owls.

In other SWC games this week, Texas A&M and Texas Tech meet in the "elimination bowl" in Lubbock and unbeaten Arkansas travels to Fort Worth to play winless Texas Christian.

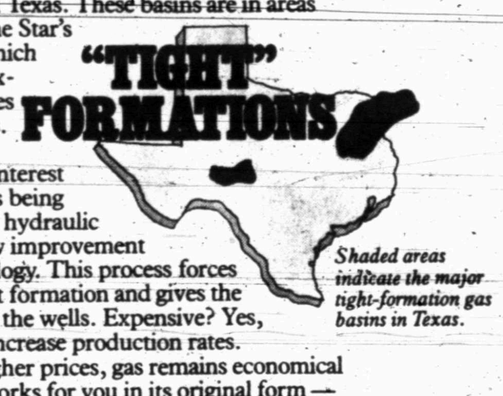

Houston Coach Bill Yeoman was pleased with fullback David Barrett but not that happy with his team in a 49-10 rout of

Tight-Formation Basins:

NOW ANOTHER MAJOR SOURCE OF NATURAL GAS IN TEXAS!

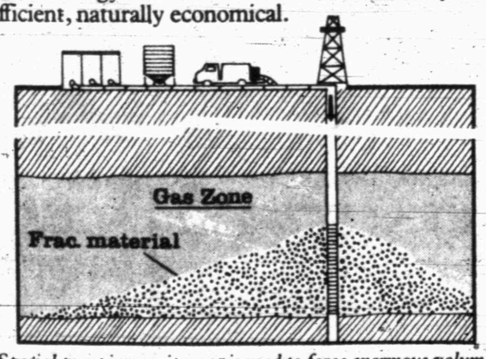

Tight-formation reservoirs are now among the industry's hottest new gas prospects. Good, because there are thousands of square miles of these gas-rich formations beneath Texas. These basins are in areas crisscrossed by Lone Star's pipeline system, which means we'll have excellent opportunities to buy this new gas.

Shaded areas indicate the major tight-formation gas basins in Texas.

The excitement, the sudden interest in these reserves, is being created by massive hydraulic fracturing — a new improvement in a proven technology. This process forces crevices into a tight formation and gives the gas faster routes to the wells. Expensive? Yes, but it can greatly increase production rates.

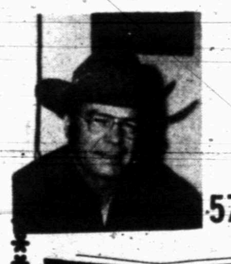

Even at higher prices, gas remains economical to use because it works for you in its original form — free of energy conversion costs. Gas is naturally efficient, naturally economical.

Special pumping equipment is used to force enormous volumes of sand-bearing fluid down the well and into the tight formation under extreme pressure. The fractures created by this force are propped open by the sand. These fractures, which can extend for up to a half-mile on either side of the well, give the gas faster flow routes through the formation.

Gas. It's plentiful, efficient and right for the times.

Pirates Sew Up NL East Title

By The Associated Press

Pittsburgh's veterans and Philadelphia's cagiest pitcher sent the Pirates to the National League East Division title and eliminated the youthful Montreal Expos after a marvelous chase on the final day of the regular season.

The Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 5-3 on the heroics of 38-year-old Willie Stargell and 36-year-old Bill Robinson Sunday, but needed the three-hit magic of Steve Carlton of the Phillies to finally force Montreal to call it a season.

"Hey, we voted Carlton a full playoff share, didn't we?" kidded Pirate catcher Steve Nicosia after he learned that Carlton and his Philadelphia mates had blanked the Expos 2-0.

"This is a thing of beauty. I'm so proud of these guys," said Stargell, who slammed his 32nd homer of the season and added a sacrifice fly one day after making a costly throwing error and striking out three times in a tough loss to the Cubs.

Pittsburgh begins its NL championship series Tuesday night against the Cincinnati Reds.

The last time the Pirates won the NL East, in 1975, they succumbed to the Reds in three straight games.

"I'm very happy. I thank the good Lord. But now our work really starts," said Robinson, whose two-run single cemented the Pirates' 98th triumph of the season.

"We're good. Cincinnati is good...If we get the pitching, we'll win it," said Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner.

Astros 3, Dodgers 2

Joe Niekro, 21-11, kept pace with his older brother when rookie Dan Heep's sacrifice fly in the eighth scored Jeff Leonard and broke a 2-2 tie.

Houston ended the season in second place with a 89-73 record, best in the club's history. Los Angeles, 79-83, suffered its first losing season since.

CUTS AROUND--Snyder's Bryan Vincent shoots past a would-be tackler during varsity football action between Snyder and Andrews here Friday. Snyder, now 2-2 on the season, lost the contest despite a good overall effort, but couldn't hang on to the ball - a problem the Tigers have had all season. They'll try to iron out those mistakes before traveling to Levelland this weekend. (SDN Staff Photo by John Long).

Hinkle Holds On To Snare 'World Series' Championship

AKRON, Ohio (AP)-Last year Lon Hinkle made his first appearance in the World Series of Golf and shot 292.

"I thought about it lot afterwards," he said, "and I really couldn't see a lot of ways I could have improve on that score."

But Hinkle-who planned, played and successfully executed one shot off the surface of a pond, skipping the ball off the water to the green - cut that score by 20 strokes for a 1-stroke victory Sunday that Hinkle said will "do more for me than anything I've done. It's the most important thing I could do at this stage of my career.

"It (his career) can go either way. That's for sure. But this is very important.

"Believe it or not, I've been pointing for this for the last six weeks. I thought I had a chance of winning, if I could make some putts."

But going into the last four holes of double-round, 36-hole windup, Hinkle appeared to be out of it. He was 3 shots back and steady little Larry Nelson, the leader, was playing with methodical precision and had a 2-shot lead over Lee Trevino and Tom Watson, his playing partners. They appeared the only logical challengers.

But Nelson drove poorly and bogeyed the 15th. Hinkle, playing in front of him, rammed in a 35-foot birdie putt on the 17th and suddenly was a single shot back.

Nelson then buried his second shot under the lip of a bunker on the 17th and made double bogey 6. Suddenly Hinkle was the leader.

But he missed an eight-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole and said, "I thought I'd blown it."

Watson, Nelson and Trevino went to the 18th tee tied for second a single shot back. If any one of the three birdied, it would be a playoff.

But Watson hooked his drive into the woods and eventually made bogey. Nelson drove into a bunker and came up some 75 feet short of the pin in 2.

Oilers Easily Handle Browns

HOUSTON (AP)-The Houston Oilers threw away their old come-from-behind script, rested Earl Campbell and unleashed rookie defensive end Jesse Baker Sunday.

The result was an early lead the Oilers never lost, three touchdowns by Campbell, one and one-half sacks by Baker and a 31-10 victory over Cleveland.

The Browns' loss and Philadelphia's 17-14 victory over Pittsburgh knotted the Browns, Oilers and Steelers in a tie for the American Football Conference Central Division lead, all with 4-1 records.

"We forced them early to play catchup and you are talking to one who knows what that means," Oiler Coach Bum Phillips said. "I mean to tell you, that's a hard way to play a football game."

A week earlier, the Oilers had to rally from a 24-0 deficit against Cincinnati before earning a 30-27 overtime victory.

The Oilers introduced a new act Sunday, taking a 24-3 lead in the second quarter on a pair of two-yard touchdown runs by Campbell, a 34-yard interception return by cornerback J.C. Wilson and Toni Fritsch's 11th consecutive field goal, a 28-yarder.

Campbell, suffering from a foot bruise, scored his third touchdown on a one-yard run early in the third quarter and retired for the rest of the after noon with "only" 76 yard rushing on 18 carries and three touchdowns.

The Oiler defense, which entered the game with 19 quarterback sacks, pilfered Browns' backfield five times for 52 yards losses. Baker got one sack outright and shared another with middle guard Curly Culp.

The rookie from Jacksonville Ala. State now has eight sacks to lead the Oilers in that category. Elvin Bethea led the Oilers eight sacks for the entire 1978 season.

Cleveland got on the scoreboard with a 46-yard field goal by Don Cockroft in the second quarter and the Browns trailed 24-10 at the half on a 46-yard pass from quarterback Brian Sipe to Dave Logan to set up one-yard touchdown run by Sipe 34 seconds before intermissions.

"We had a lot of things go our way," said Oiler center Carl Mauck, who recovered two Oiler fumbles. "Maybe they were looking ahead to Pittsburgh but I don't see how they could do that since we were in the playoffs last year."

West Texas State Saturday night.

"When Barrett catches on to a few things people are going to get tired tackling him," said Yeoman of Barrett, who came into the game in the second quarter and scored three touchdowns and finished with 90 yards on 12 carries. "But we'll have to play better football than that overall."

Baylor whipped Texas Tech 27-10 behind quarterback Mickey Elam, who gained over 100 yards rushing, a first for a Bear signal caller.

"We're a long way from being as good as the team (Houston) we will play this week but I don't think we're going to finish seventh like everybody picked us," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "We're a million miles from the Cotton Bowl but a lot closer than some people.

"We don't have a lot of depth but we may have more talent than the 1974 team that made it to the Cotton Bowl. I still think it might be possible to get to the Cotton Bowl with one loss."

Texas whipped Missouri 21-0, eighth-ranked Houston mauled West Texas Sate 49-10, and fourteenth ranked Arkansas downed Tulsa 33-8 as three SWC teams remained unbeaten.

SMU fell from unbeaten grace 24-17 to Tulane, Oklahoma beat Rice 63-21, Texas Christian was upset 21-14 by Texas-Arlington, and the Texas Aggies downed Memphis State 17-7 in other games involving SWC teams.

The SWC is now 14-8-1 against outside competition.

Texas A&M may have an injury problem against Tech. Tailback Curtis Dickey has a broken thumb and quarterback Mike Moseley has a bruised arm.

Both Tech and A&M have sustained one SWC loss and another defeat would burn out any championship hopes.

TCU hasn't whipped Arkansas in some 20 years. Coach F.A. Dry said of the loss to UTA: "This is the biggest disappointment I have ever had. I don't think this team played at all for two quarters."

Prepare For Playoffs...

Angels Finish Texas

ARLINGTON (AP)—Recess is over for the California Angels, who head for Baltimore and a best-of-five series for the American League pennant.

"I think it's going to be a tough series, and that pitching will make the difference," said California Manager Jim Fregosi, whose team wrapped up the regular season with an 11-5 victory over Texas Sunday afternoon.

After clinching the Western Division title Tuesday night, the Angels had scored only three runs and were winless going into Sunday's game, but Fregosi added:

"I wasn't worried about it. That's something that only sports writers worry about."

Chris Knapp, who evened his record at 5-5 with Sunday's win, agreed.

"When we clinched it at home, which is what we wanted to do, we just said let's go to Texas and relax. We dropped the first couple of games in the series, but in the back of our minds we knew we might even lose all three," Knapp said.

"We were able to give some guys who hadn't played much some playing time and let others relax and then go on to Baltimore healthy. That's the important games. These at Texas didn't mean a thing."

The Angels went with their first-team starting lineup for the first time in four days, and they came out with their bats slashing against Texas starter and loser Steve Comer, 17-12.

U.S. Officially Turns Canal Over To Panama

By TOM FENTON
Associated Press Writer

BALBOA, Panama (AP) — The United States turned over the Panama Canal Zone to Panama early today amid the clamor of church bells and a shower of fireworks as hundreds of thousands of Panamanians prepared to march into the territory.

The bells began pealing at midnight Sunday as the 646-square-mile zone officially became Panamanian property after 76 years of U.S. jurisdiction. The fireworks erupted from atop 650-foot Ancon Hill, where a 150-foot flagpole was erected for the hoisting of a giant Panamanian flag today.

The flag, which will be floodlit at night, will be visible for miles, including from ships waiting in Panama Bay to enter the canal.

Thousands of Panamanians spent Sunday night partying in the downtown area of the capital. They included busloads brought in from the provinces for the symbolic march of possession into the zone today.

The country's 1.8 million people were told it was their "patriotic duty" to participate in the march. The capital's streets were decorated with posters exhorting "everyone to the Zone." About 250,000 marchers were expected.

Many of the American civilians in the zone, known locally as Zonians, were worried about the march.

"My dad said we should stay inside today and that we should get everything off the patio," said 10-year-old Matthew Haught.

Canal pilot Jack Waters, who lives near the marchers' route, said he wasn't sure whether he would go to work today.

"I'm supposed to take a ship through today. I'm worried about my family. There's no way you can control a crowd like that," Waters said.

The marchers were to enter the zone along Fourth of July Avenue, which the Panamanians call Aveune of the Martyrs because 24 Panamanians died in battles with U.S. troops during anti-American riots in 1964.

The rioting, triggered by Panamanian unhappiness over the 1903 treaty that gave the United States the canal zone "in perpetuity," led President Johnson later in 1964 to commit the United States to negotiating new pacts with Gen. Omar Torrijos, the Panamanian strongman.

Under the new treaties which President Carter and Torrijos signed in 1977, the Canal Zone government went out of existence at midnight Sunday and the 35,000 Americans living in the zone are subject to Panamanian laws. Panama takes over most basic services in the area, along with the operation of the ports and railroads and becomes landlord for 996 houses in which canal company employees live.

A new U.S. government agency, the Panama Canal Commission, will operate the canal until the year 2000.

The United States also retains five military bases occupying 109 square miles of the zone and manned by 10,000 troops until the year 2000, and the headquarters of the U.S. Southern Command will continue to be located there.

Violence Mars Hot Rod Rally

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP)-A hot rod rally in this mountain resort town erupted into a bottle-throwing melee after traffic stalled at a downtown intersection, and 250 persons were arrested, police said.

"It wasn't a riot," Police Chief James Kelly said Sunday. "Most of them are good people, but you get them drinking and they get excited and you have problems."

Kelly said traffic in the town was at a standstill when tempers flared and a few persons started throwing bottles.

FIRST LADY Rosalynn Carter is her husband's latest weapon in seeking support from a balky Congress. The president has warned uncooperative representatives against expecting campaign help from Mrs. Carter and other White House favors.

To Probe Crash Of Helicopter

CINCINNATI (AP)-The wreckage of a giant Army skycrane helicopter that crashed and killed four people was being prepared today for reasembly to determine what caused the accident.

Army Maj. Roy Hoffman, officer in charge of the crash investigation, said the $2 million, 60-foot aircraft would be reassembled

Poll Shows...

Public Has Positive View Of Pope's Visit

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— Americans have high hopes from Pope John Paul II's visit to this country, even if they are not happy with the spending of public funds in connection with his visit, a special Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

The public in general has a very positive view of the pontiff, although there is substantial disagreement with several official church positions.

The poll found 58 percent of those interviewed said the pope's seven-day visit to United States will have a positive impact on religion in this country. Five percent predicted a negative impact and 37 percent said it would have no impact or were not sure.

Among Catholics, 74 percent foresaw benefits from the visit; 3 percent foresaw problems and 23 percent either saw no benefits nor problems or could not say.

The traditional and constitutional division between church and state is reflected in the public opposition to spending public money in connection with the papal visit. While most of the cost of the visit is being defrayed by private donations or church funds, government money is paying for police protection and some facilities. Lawsuits have been filed in several cities challenging such uses of funds.

Overall, 24 percent approved of spending government money on visit, while 69 percent disapproved. Seven percent were not sure.

Even Catholics opposed such spending, by a 58-36 margin.

The special AP NBC News poll is based on telephone interviews with 1,600 adults across the country Sept. 24 and 25. Twenty-eight percent of those interviewed - 449 respondents - said they were members of the Roman Catholic Church.

Fifty-six persent of all those questioned said they approved of John Paul II's stewardship as leader of the Roman Catholic Church. Only 7 percent disapproved and 37 percent were not sure.

Seventy-nine percent of the Catholics approved of the pope's work in his first year in office; 6 percent disapproved and 15 percent were not sure.

Among non-Catholics, 46 percent approved of his work and 46 percent were not sure. Eight percent disapproved.

Both Catholic and non-Catholic Americans tended to disagree with several official Roman Catholic Church positions.

Pope, Corn Crop Present Dilemma For Busy Farmer

NAZARETH (AP)—A bumper corn crop and an invitation to receive communion from Pope John Paul II made for a dilemma for farmer Jerome Brockman, a church deacon in this West Texas town.

Should he help his brother with the harvest? Or should he kneel before Pope John Paul II, one of 10 farmers selected to receive communion from the Polish prelate at a rural mass in Iowa during the Pope's forth-coming visit to the United States?

The dilemma was solved by a little prodding from Brockman's wife.

"I just told him that I'd kill him if we didn't go; that's all," said Margaret Brockman.

Brockman, along with nine other American farmers whose number includes a Southern Baptist, was selected by the National Catholic Rural Life Conference to receive communion from the pope at an outdoor mass Thursday near Des Moines.

"To be perfectly honest, I wasn't going to go at first," Brockman said. "I even called some other people I thought might be interested in taking my place. My brother and I have about 500 acres of corn this year, and it looks pretty good. I just didn't think it would be fair to leave him here to do it all."

Brockman has no intention of turning the trip into a vacation.

"Yeah, we're going, but we'll be coming right back to finish the harvest," he said Saturday. "From what I've heard about this outdoor mass, I'm figuring that one day might be about all the excitement we can handle."

Brockman's life in his town and his service to his church span nearly 50 years, and the Iowa celebration will make his second anniversary as a deacon.

Nazareth is a predominantly Catholic community, and Brockman says it's likely to stay that way. "Nazareth doesn't change too much," he said.

"Most of the farms are fairly small, and most of the families are fairly large, so there's not too much of an influx of people to work here..."

Nor is there any religious controversy.

There was a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the radio and watching TV?

There's a big depression.

The foreign situation is terrible.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought, "Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads and no longer bothered to stand out on the highway to sell his hot dogs.

And his hot dog sales fell almost overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great depression."

How Informed A Shopper Are You?

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Information can be a shopper's best weapon in the battle against inflation. How well-armed are you?

Here are some of the questions in a recent survey on economics and consumerism conducted by the National Assessment of Educational Progress among 17-year-old high school students. The answers are below, along with the teen-agers' responses. See how you measure up.

1. It is legal: (a) To advertise a $4,000 car at $90 per month without including credit terms. (b) To keep, without obligation, unordered merchandise you get in the mail? (c) For a chain store to charge different prices in different neighborhoods? (d) For supermarkets to raise prices on the day welfare checks are issued?

2. Which of the following statements are true? (a) Advertising may help increase sales and lower prices for a new product. (b) Companies that advertise more always produce better products. (c) Production costs are less than advertising costs for some items.

3. Which is the best buy: (a) A four-ounce bag of potato chips at 22 cents? (b) a Six-ounce bag at 28 cents? (c) An eight-ounce bag at 48 cents? (d) A 20-ounce bag at $1?

4. Which is the biggest deduction from the average pay check? (a) Federal income tax. (b) State tax. (c) Social Security. (d) Sales tax.

5. Who is most likely to benefit financially during a period of rapidly rising prices? (a) A person on a fixed salary. (b) A homeowner with a long-term mortgage. (c) An individual on a fixed retirement income. (d) A person who has loaned $10,000 at today's loan rates. (e) Someone who owns a paid-up life insurance policy.

6. What is the cost of a bottle of soda if a six-pack costs $1.20 including a five-cent deposit on each bottle:

Now the answers.

1. Only (a) - advertising the car at $90 month without giving credit terms - is illegal. Forty-three percent of the 17-year-olds mistakenly thought the practice was legal; 41.1 percent knew it was illegal; 15.4 percent said they didn't know the answer and the rest didn't reply. More than half the youngsters thought it was illegal for supermarkets to raise prices the day welfare checks come out; 30 percent thought different prices in different neighborhoods were illegal; and just under 50 per cent thought that they had some obligation if they kept unordered merchandise they got in the mail.

2. Both (a) and (c) are true. A majority of the 17-year-olds got the right answers. But about one in five erroneously said that companies that advertise more always produce better products.

3. The answer is (b). Only 40 percent of the teen-agers were right.

4. Federal income tax - a takes the biggest bite. Just under half the youngsters answered correctly.

5. The answer is (b). The homeowner will be repaying his or her debt with "cheaper" dollars, worth less than when they were borrowed. Only 14 percent of the 17-year-olds got the right answer.

6. Each bottle costs 15 cents. More than half of the students - 55 percent - either gave the wrong answer, didn't know or didn't reply.

Removal of cataracts

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My eyes were checked by the ophthamologist and he says I have bilateral cataracts. I was fitted with driving glasses. The cataract is the hard kind. I asked about removal and he said when I wasn't able to get a driver's license, he would talk to me. I see to read, thread a needle and have no headaches. What could be done about my eyes now? Will this affect my nearsight later on? What type of operation will I need?

DEAR READER — Cataracts are a very common problem. Basically, they are simply opacities that develop in the lens in the eye.

The lens itself is a small globular structure of jell-like material and it's quite elastic in youth.

The cells of the lens regenerate just like the cells in your skin do. The problem is that old cells are not shed like those on the surface of your skin. Rather the new cells form at the surface of the lens and the old ones move to the center. Eventually these old hard cells are compacted in the middle of the lens. That's why if a person lives long enough, the likelihood is that he will develop some changes in the lens.

We don't know all the factors related to cataracts but I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-6, Your Cataracts Are Coming. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

At the beginning a cataract may involve areas of the lens that don't really interfere much with vision. At this stage the doctor may not feel like subjecting his patient to an operation. As the opacities increase and begin to affect sight, the decision has to be made on the basis of how much the sight is affected and what can be done to correct it without an operation. Some people who do not read and don't thread needles don't really need as accurate eyesight as others. Still another person who needs excellent eyesight in both eyes may require an operation sooner.

When the cataract is opaque enough that it won't transmit light and you can't see through it, it's said to be mature. At that point it's usually necessary to take it out. Despite some claims to the contrary, the only real cure for cataracts is removing them surgically.

These operations are relatively simple today and in many instances the hospital stay is of short duration. The only way to determine when you need a cataract operation is from a competent eye examination. There's no reason to take them out if they don't significantly interfere with vision. And, on the other hand, if you have serious disease of the rest of the eye that compromises vision anyway, removing the cataract may not improve the vision.

There's not much that can be done to prevent cataracts.

Demos Likely To Have Presidential Primary

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Right now it seems sure that Texas Democratic leaders will join with Republicans in letting Texas voters have a say who will be the next U.S. president.

Recent reports that Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., is on the threshold of a presidential race apparently will cause Democratic leaders to change previous plans against a presidential poll.

"Yes, sir, it sure looks like we will have a presidential primary," says State Democratic Chairman Billy Goldberg. "It is my feeling that if Kennedy gets in the race, the state committee will order a non-binding primary at its March meeting."

"You bet we want a primary if everything goes as we believe it will," says Billie Carr, National Democratic committee member and a prominent Kennedy booster. "It will really give Kennedy a hand to have a primary."

Texas Republicans already have a presidential preferential poll scheduled May 3, which is the same date the party will choose local and state candidates for the general election. The poll will be binding in that the presidential candidate getting the most votes will get the most delegates to the 198 national convention to select the presidential nominee.

The Texas Democratic Executive Committee decided in July to choose its national convention delegates by state convention as it has been done in the past, except in 1976 when there was a one-time-only presidential primary. The committee vetoed proposals for a presidential primary tied to delegate selection but postponed a decision on a non-binding primary until March.

"However," Goldberg said, "we think that the sentiment expressed by voters in the presidential primary will be pretty much the same as that shown by delegates at the state convention. I think the convention will follow through with the presidential choices made in the primary."

The 1980 Republican state convention will be held June 21 in Houston, where the party faithful will choose 80 delegates to the Detroit convention according to the outcome of the presidential popularity poll. Each congressional district gets three delegates with eight at-large delegates selected statewide.

The state Democratic convention is June 20-21 in San Antonio, where 104 national delegates for New York will be chosen in senatorial district caucuses, plus another 48 chosen at-large.

A presidential poll in both primaries May 3 should increase turnouts for both parties.

In 1976, Democrats had 4.2 million voting in the presidential primary poll although only 1.52 million voted in the U.S. Senate race.

Texas Republicans had 375,000 voting in their 1976 primary but some GOP leaders are predicting a million vote turnout in 1980.

Strong Texas sentiment for Ronald Reagan. John Connally and George Bush has been expected to attract many conservative Democrats to the GOP primary.

Now, with the probable hot Democratic presidential primary featuring President Jimmy Carter, Kennedy and California Gov. Jerry Brown, the Democrats are reporting renewed interest in their election.

"Competition has not destroyed the Democratic Party in the past and it won't this time," Goldberg said. "We thrive on competition."

"We've noticed a funny thing," Mrs. Carr said. "Some of the conservatives who were cold on Carter and were talking about voting for Connally are having second thoughts. Some of them are deciding they better stay in the Democratic Party and support Carter against Kennedy ... I think the Democratic turnout would be significantly different if Kennedy is not on the ballot."

Drilling Pace Off Slightly

Drilling activity in Permian Basin oil fields declined slightly last week, although the pace continued ahead of this time last year, according to Reed Rock Bit Company's weekly survey.

The count last week showed 282 rigs running in the Basin, compared to 284 the week before. For the corresponding week last year, the total stood at 263.

Lee County N.M., with 40 active rigs, was the leader. Pecos County was the West Texas leader with 26.

Scurry County had two rigs in operation last week, same as the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 3 and 3; Dawson 3 and 2; Garza 8 and 6 Howard 11 and 10; Kent 2 and 3; Mitchell 3 and 2.

Local Church Announces New Minister

Doug Allee, presently minister of the Candlelight Church of Christ in Houston, has been selected to become minister of the East Side Church of Christ. He will replace Sam Kitching, the former minister of the church, who moved to Bay City two months ago.

Allee is expected to come to Snyder about Nov. 1, said church secretary Judy Lockhart.

Coming with Allee, 36, will be his wife, Linda, and children, Daren 11, and Kitrina, 6.

Allee attended Houston schools in his youth, but graduated from Austin High School in 1962. He attended Freed-Hardman College in Henderson, Tenn., and Harding College in Searcy, Ark.

"We're anxiously looking forward to him coming," said Mrs. Lockhart.

Firemen Called Three Times

Three fires were doused this weekend by Snyder firefighters.

The first, a grass fire, was extinguished about 1 p.m. Saturday in the 100 block of 26th St.

The second, also a grass fire, was put out about 7:05 p.m. Saturday, approximately one-quarter mile west of the city on West 30th St.

The third, a truck fire, was reported at 3:40 p.m. Sunday, approximately 17 miles north of town on Highway 84. Firefighters reported a carnival truck leaving the South Plains Fair in Lubbock caught on fire. Damage was believed to be extensive.

Carter's Speech

hours with other top administration officials including Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and presidential national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Leibach said that meeting had been scheduled previously to discuss the president's speech and was not specifically related to the Vance-Dobrynin meeting.

As Carter and administration officials worked on their response to what U.S. officials insist are Soviet combat troops in Cuba, Castro "challenged" Carter to tell the truth about what the Cuban leader portrayed as "an invented crisis" and "a comedy."

Carter scheduled tonight's address to the nation after negotiations with Soviet officials apparently had broken down, with the Russians refusing to budge on Carter's insistence that they change the "status quo."

Soviet Foreign Mnister Andrei Gromyko returned to Moscow last week after meeting in New York with Vance, giving no indication that the Soviets would soften their position.

The Vance-Dobrynin meeting Sunday came as a surprise since no U.S.-Soviet meetings had been scheduled after Gromyko's departure. News agencies were notified of the meeting only after it had begun.

The Soviets have said that the brigade - which U.S. officials say has 2,000 to 3,000 soldiers, 40 tanks and artillery and armored personnel carriers - has been stationed in Cuba since the 1962 missile crisis with the full knowledge of previous American presidents and is not a combat brigade.

One Charged In Marijuana Case Here

An 18-year-old man was arrested by city police early this morning in a routine traffic check and booked on a charge of possession of marijuana.

The arrest was made about 12:10 a.m. at the intersection of 7th St. and College Ave. Approximately two ounces of marijuana were seized. Making the arrest was Sgt. Wade Norris.

Three minor traffic accidents were worked during the weekend.

The first was at 8:25 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of 37th St. and College Ave. Involved in it were a 1978 Oldsmobile driven by Linden Hodges of Cypress and a 1973 Chevrolet driven by John Smylie. That accident was investigated by Dale Whittenburg.

The next wreck was at the Handy Hut at 9:39 p.m. Saturday and it was worked by officer Greg Patterson. Involved in it were a 1978 Ford owned by Continental Emsco and a 1977 Ford driven by Mallapur Pro.

The final accident of the weekend was at 6:25 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of 37th St. and East Highway and involved a 1975 Mercury driven by Austin O. Davis and a 1977 Ford driven by Elsie V. Creighton of O'Donnell. Investigating the wreck was Rick Freeman.

To Make 36 Percent Of Oilseed

WASHINGTON (AP)- Just on the basis of this year's record soybean crop alone, the United States is accounting for about 36 percent of the world's total oilseed output, according to recent Agriculture Department reports.

World production of six major oilseeds - soybeans, cotton-seed, peanuts, sunflower seed, rapeseed the flaxseed - is expected to total about 166.4 million metric tons in 1979-80. The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said that would be up about 11.5 percent from 149.2 million metric tons last year.

Should doctors advertise?

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — It was bad enough when lawyers started to advertise their services. But last week I saw something even worse.

Two doctors opened an office in our town and bought advertising in the daily paper. Most people were very offended and decided not to give them any business.

Don't you agree that advertising takes away from a professional's stature?

DEAR READER — No. And that's the majority opinion, according to a survey by Prevention magazine.

Readers of the magazine were asked their reaction to this make-believe radio commercial from a new physician in town:

"This is Dr. John Doe. A little more than a year ago, I finished my residency in family practice, which means I'm an old-fashioned G.P. with a modern education.

"During the last year, I was attending physician at John Doe College and also attended patients at two nursing homes.

"How good a doctor am I? There's no way anything I say here can help you decide. You can only make that decision after seeing me — just as with any other doctor.

"But I will say this about my approach to medicine: I like to think twice before prescribing drugs because it's too easy to do that for a condition that will go away by itself in a week or two. If you do need a prescription, chances are it will be given generically, which means you may save substantial money at the pharmacy.

"Because I'm new in town and trying to get started, my office-visit fee is only $8. If you pay at the office instead of making me bill you, the fee is just $7.

"For the convenience of working people, my office is open until 11 p.m. every Monday and Thursday night. I'm located at 000 Main Street. My office is fully equipped with everything — except patients."

Ninety-five percent of the magazine's readers found this ad interesting and useful, while 1 percent was not impressed and another 1 percent found it offensive.

Those who approved said they thought such advertising would help them evaluate a doctor's credentials and experience. They could find out about his of her area of expertise and could compare prices and office hours with those of the competition.

One respondent said that advertising might help her better determine how broad-minded an obstetrician was about natural childbirth, fathers in delivery rooms and home birth. She would have to pay $30 to find out on a first visit.

All in all, the study shows there is great hunger for more information about the availability of physicians with special interests as well as information about doctors' experience and credentials.

Kick the television habit. Write for Dr. Blaker's newsletter "Taming the TV Beast." Send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Write to Dr. Blaker at the above address. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

to read $73.

At least one forgery by passing case was expected to be presented to the grand jury involving Sheri Parrish. She is reported to have passed a $110 check on Aug. 28 that was allegedly forged.

Several drunken driving charges were also to be considered this morning. In them were named Rodger Wayne Gattis and Armando Martinez, two cases.

When their regular stadium was occupied by an ice show, the Detroit Pistons played a 1960 NBA playoff game at Grosse Pointe, Mich., High School.
