'It is the concensus ... that the office is not needed'

Contention brews over treasurer's salary cut

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

The controversy over the proposed salary cut for the Aransas County Treasurer's office continued this week, as county officials prepare for the 1982-83 budget hearing scheduled Sept. 29.

Treasurer Marvin Wix is protesting the budget's reduction of the treasurer's salary to $10,000 from the 1981-82 level of $18,223. Wix maintains the salary reduction does not coincide with any reduction of duties, not is it comparable with the salaries of other elected officials. She publicly voiced her protest at the Commissioners Court meeting Sept. 13.

Wix is currently serving as treasurer of Aransas County. After her election in the primary last May, she was appointed to fill a vacancy in the office when her predecessor resigned.

According to Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell and several of the county commissioners, there is a duplication of duties between the offices of the treasurer and the county auditor. By cutting the treasurer's salary and relegating those duties which can be legally designated elsewhere, they are taking "a conservative step to save money and space in the courthouse," Wendell says.

Wix cites a 1943 attorney general's opinion which states the duties of the treasurer cannot and should not be relegated elsewhere. Judge Wendell responded by saying that the attorney general's opinion is just that — an opinion — and is in no way legally binding.

Wix maintains her duties are set out in the state constitution and are a necessary part of the system of checks and balances. She sees the attempt to cut the treasurer's salary as the first of a series of steps attempting to do away with the office of county treasurer completely, which could lead to a concentration of power in other offices — especially that of the county auditor, who is not elected but appointed by the Commissioners Court.

Judge Wendell later affirmed this belief, saying, "It is the consensus opinion of the Commissioners Court that the office is not needed." However, he stressed that it is not within the power of the court to abolish the office — only to set the salary.

To do away with the office, the issue must first go through the Texas state legislature in order to appear on a statewide ballot, where it must be approved in order to permit a referendum by the voters of Aransas County. This process is already underway in several other counties, notably Bee and Tarrant counties.

Although Wix believes it was the initiation of action by these other counties which sparked a reaction here in Aransas County, Judge Wendell says this is not the case. "We were thinking about this beforehand or at the same time they were," he stated.

The treasurer is claiming much popular support to keep the office a full-time position with full-time pay. She is currently circulating petitions which she will present at the budget hearing.

Verdict pends in suit against Holman

By TED NORMAN
Managing editor

After nearly 13 months of living under charges of a conflict of interest, Aransas County Navigation District commissioner Kirk Holman had his day in court last Friday but he will have to wait until Oct. 11 for a verdict from presiding Judge Ronald Yeager.

In the opening moments of the long trial, prosecution attorney Reese Rozzell put Holman on the witness stand and questioned him about his voting habits and participation in discussions concerning other bait stand leases with the ACND.

Rozzell asked Holman if he had abstained from voting because one ACND agenda item involved another bait stand and Holman responded saying that was not the reason that he had abstained.

"Isn't it true that the reason you abstained was because these were your competitors?" asked Rozzell.

Holman attempted to answer the question when defense attorney C. M. Henkel objected to the line of questioning.

Judge Yeager overruled and Holman answered the question saying he abstained on one vote because of the location and voted yes on another agenda concerning a bait stand lease.

Asked if he had reason to abstain on a vote concerning a bait stand in Cove Harbor Holman replied, "That's correct."

Holman said he voted for the lease of a new bait stand even though it meant competition to him in his own business, the Fulton Harbor Bait Stand.

Holman told the court he abstained in cases that might benefit himself or his friends.

Asked if he abstained in a vote during the Aug. 17 meeting, Holman replied he did. "But there is a problem of terminology there, Mr. Rozzell," said Holman.

Holman responded to Rozzell's line of questioning saying, "I don't understand what you want."

After questioning from Rozzell, Henkel said he had no further questions for Holman. But he then called for Rozzell to take the witness stand.

During his testimony Rozzell was asked

Charter commission reconsiders vote

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

Prompted by public response to their earlier action, members of Rockport's city charter commission rescinded a Sept. 13 decision and voted to write a charter based on the current number of city council members — four aldermen and a mayor.

The action came during Monday evening's, Sept. 20, meeting attended by 13 of the 15 charter commission members when J.C. Harlan — who last week made the motion in favor of a seven-member city council under home rule — said he had been contacted by Rockport residents concerned about the election of two at-large aldermen on the proposed city council.

Under the proposal adopted on Sept. 13, Rockport's council would have been composed of a mayor, two aldermen elected from each of the city's two wards (a total of four) and two aldermen elected — as the mayor — on an at-large basis.

Harlan said the people who had talked to him since that meeting were concerned that the two aldermen at-large could be elected from a "specific area" and — together with the two aldermen elected from that ward — could control the council.

Charter Commission Chairman Ed Armstrong observed that "people in Ward One are concerned with the disparity in the voter situation. It could be a problem."

Commission members noted that voters in the city's Ward Two heavily outnumber those in Ward One.

Armstrong expressed a personal preference "to go with the council as it is now (composed of four members — two from each ward — and the mayor)." He suggested, if commission members want to retain a six-member council, that three aldermen could be elected from each ward.

Marty Renfro, chairman of the subcommittee that originally proposed a seven-member city council, said, "We could avoid that (disparity) if both wards were equal in population."

"I think the wards are not equal in size," Armstrong replied. "The town is growing to the north. I feel Ward Two probably has the larger population."

Renfro subsequently noted that "Everyone I've talked to on this commission has received some calls" about the number of council members. She said the thinking of herself and members of her subcommittee — which was in consensus on a seven-member council — was that "the city is going to grow whether we want it or not, and we felt we needed to provide for that growth."

She said the subcommittee felt a seven-member council would spread the Winter Texans returning

From as near as Oklahoma, as far as Iowa ... Nebraska ... even California ... Aransas County's Winter Texans are arriving.

"My first ones came in Sept. 10," says Gary LaBerge at Travel Trailer Haven. "Since then, there's been some every week."

At Woody Acres, as of Monday morning, there were "about a half-dozen or so" Winter Texans already arrived and "a bunch more" due by the first of October, according to the report.

At Trailer Inn by the Bay, five Winter Texans had arrived and one couple, Red and Betty Kyle from Missouri, checked in for the winter at Trav-Trail-R-Inn a month ago.

Campground and recreational vehicle/motor home park owners are in general agreement that the Winter Texans are arriving earlier this year.

Although as of Monday, none of the Winter residents had arrived at Isbell's Travel Trailer Park, for example, some were due to arrive this week and others have already made their reservations. The first arrivals are due in "at least two weeks earlier than normal," according to a spokesman for the park who added, "They hope to get in some fishing."

More Winter Texans are due at Trav-Trail-R-Inn around Oct. 1. Arrivals there are about a month and a half ahead of schedule, according to Mrs. Bill Freitag.

Pat Loflin, owner of Bayshore Courts and a director of the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association, said the Winter Texans appear not to be arriving as early at area motels as

CBS Cable Division to cease operations

The CBS Cable Division, which introduced an advertiser-supported cable television programming service in October, 1981, plans to cease operations within 90 days, it was announced today by Thomas F. Leahy, executive vice president, CBS/Broadcast Group. The CBS Cable Division reports to Mr. Leahy.

"While our cable service received virtually unanimous praise for the quality of its programming, met its costs targets and attained good subscriber growth, advertising revenues were well below expectations," Mr. Leahy said.

"In light of the present and projected marketplace conditions, prudent business judgment has dictated that we discontinue the service. While we are, of course, deeply disappointed at this outcome, all of us at CBS take great pride in the creative achievements of this innovative effort, and we express our gratitude and respect to Dick Cox, President of CBS Cable, and to the men and women associated with him," Mr. Leahy continued, noting that every effort will be made to relocate the CBS Cable employees in other areas of CBS.

Mr. Leahy emphasized that this action in no way affects the efforts of either the CBS/Broadcast Group or CBS Inc. in continuing operations or developmental areas. The Group will continue to operate the recently acquired Black Hawk Cable system in the Dallas-Forth Worth area, and plans to introduce a national teletext service over the CBS Television Network. Further, CBS will continue to evaluate and explore future opportunities in all aspects of cable television as well as in other new technologies, such as the CBS/AT&T videotex field test.

Coal helps control rising fuel costs

And when fuel costs are lower, so are your electricity bills. Moreover, thanks to modern technology, coal is clean-burning: the flue gas released from CPL's coal-fired plant is 99.5% clean.

Last year, Coletto Creek Power Station generated about one-quarter of the electricity used by our customers. The cost of the coal burned at Coletto Creek was two-thirds the cost of the natural gas used at our other plants.

In the years ahead, coal will assume an even bigger role in providing power for South Texas as CPL builds and shares in additional coal-fired units. By relying on this dependable and cost-efficient fuel, we make sure you will continue to have an adequate supply of electricity at the lowest possible cost.

Pirates win over West Oso, 21-6

Michelangelo and Rodin might have been more artistic in their efforts, but the Rockport-Fulton Pirates used the means they had and carved out a 21-6 victory over the West Oso Bears in Rockport Friday night.

Fighting an injury-prone week, the Pirates went into the contest with players slowed from problems, especially tailback Dwayne Walls. Walls sat out the entire game, and although dressed for action, Coach Brian Connolly saved Walls to eliminate any chance of furthering the extent of the ankle injury which plagued Walls.

It was the Pirate defense which made the first move for Pirate progress. West Oso had moved the football to near the Pirate 40-yard line. On a fourth down play, Ramon Romero and Peter Nichols combined to stop the Bear runner and give the Pirates possession.

That good defensive effort paid off as the Pirates took the ball and traveled 61 yards in nine plays before quarterback Mark Cory blazed into the end zone from the 2-yard line after Steve Arkell and Romero had moved the ball close. The Pirates lined up to go for the placement, but the snap was high and Cory, who holds for the kick, picked up the ball and scrambled with it to take the 2 points. The Pirates got a lead of 8-0.

Trinelle Walls was the next defensive star for the Pirates when he stopped a Bear player short of a first down to force a punting situation. The result was a short punt to midfield. The Pirates carved out another drive for a score, helped along by a good catch by tight end James Thomas. Cory capped off that drive with a bootleg run of 6 yards for 6 points. Another errant snap forced Cory to try for the run for 2 points, but it failed. The Pirates did hold the lead 14-0.

Joe Lara drilled the Bear kickoff return man at the Bears 13-yard line to give the Pirate defense some leverage. Nichols then gave the Pirates the ball when he recovered a fumble by the Bears. The Pirates tried to get 6 points in a hurry, but Cory threw an interception to the Bears, so the ball changed hands twice in six seconds.

Oso was held by the Pirate defense and forced to punt. The ball was kicked short, but as it bounced, it hit a Pirate, and the Bears recovered, giving them great field position at midfield.

Joe Cantu snuffed out West Oso's threat when he recovered a fumble just before the half.

Cold from the layoff period at the half, the Pirates were flat on defense, and West Oso caught them by surprise and broke Vance Ellison for a 50-yard run before Nichols made a saving tackle from behind. That run excited the Bears and they cashed in and scored on a run of 8 yards on a delay play. The kick for the extra point was no good, and the Pirates held the narrow 14-6 lead.

West Oso fell victim of their own mistakes in the second half when the snaps to the punter were low, then high, then low again. The Pirates' Tom Weaver led the Pirate rush for the football as the Bears either lost the ball or were caught for long losses three times in the second half.

Following one of those plays where Weaver forced the ball loose, Joe Cantu recovered his second fumble of the night to give the Pirates a "Cheap Shot" at the Bear 20-yard line. The Bears, however, stood tough and stopped the Pirates, taking over the ball at their own 18-yard line.

Desperately trying to get back in the contest, Oso went to their bag of tricks, putting two quarterbacks in the lineup, and trying a pass. Weaver caught the passer just as he was turning loose of the ball, and Mark Cory, in on defense on that series of plays, stepped in front of the ball at the 15-yard line and coasted into the end zone for an easy score. Bobby Dingenary topped off the scoring with a point-after kick for the Pirates' 21st point.

The game was costly in that the Pirates lost the services of fullback and linebacker Ramon Romero for most of the second half with a knee injury. Before going out of the game, Romero had collected 87 yards in 12 tries. Steve Arkell, filling in for Walls, ran for 51 yards on 17 trips.

With Weaver leading the defense with his relentless punt and pass rush, the Pirates got key efforts from a host of players. Cantu had 10 hits on defense to go with his two recoveries. Matt Logan, James Tumlinson and Mark Pruitt had good supporting efforts.

JV muzzles the Bears

Rockport-Fulton's JV scored early to take the lead and then had to come from behind to win last week's contest against West Oso, 12-7 in Corpus.

The victory, the second of the year for the JV, was a team effort between the defense and the offense. The Pirates started off with a bang as Rodney Simmons came out of the gate high-stepping, running seven of the first eight plays for 59 yards before going down with a knee injury. With the ball inside the Bear 10-yard line, Charlie Soliz came in to tote the ball in for the six points, putting the Pirates on top.

The Bears came back, moving the ball down the field deep into Pirate territory, but a good shot on defense shook the ball loose, and Bill Mott pulled the ball in with help by Armando Martinez. On defense, the Pirates had some super individual efforts in the first half by Brian King, Demetrius Lewis and Mott, each responsible for sacking the Bear quarterback. West Oso got inside of the Pirate

10-yard line with first down and goal-to-go from the Pirate 9-yard line. Lewis stopped the Bears on a big first down plan as he dumped the ball carrier for a 3-yard loss. When fourth down came up, Mott blitzed from his linebacker position and dropped the quarterback before he could hand off the ball. The Pirates ran out most of the time remaining in the half before punting the ball away.

The Bears made things rough on the Pirates by coming out after the half and marching the ball 65 yards for a touchdown, and then capped off the touchdown with a 2-point conversion to take the lead 8-6.

Rockport coughed up the ball on their first possession of the second half and dug themselves a big hole near midfield. That error was erased just three plays later when Mott recovered another fumble to stop the Bears.

The Pirates got the ball moving on the running efforts of quarterback Rudy Soliz and tailback Shawn Johnson. With Soliz gaining 12 yards to the Bear 5-yard line, Johnson cut through a good hole opened by the Pirate line and sped the final 5 yards for the go-ahead touchdown that proved to be the winning score.

The Pirate defense had to hand tough, especially after the Pirate offense got them in trouble when Johnson was called for a personal foul and backed the Pirates back to their own 20-yard line. Only a great diving catch by wide receiver David Cochran got the Pirates to near midfield before they had to give up the ball.

As the Bears tried to move the ball again, the Pirate defense, led by Johnson Josh Jones, Bill Schmidt and Lewis held the Bears away from the Pirate goal line. Lewis made a key sack as did Johnson, and then great pressure on the quarterback caused him to misfire, and Armando Martinez picked off the pass to end any Bear hopes.

Running the ball well along with Simmons was Soliz with 40 yards in 10 tries, and Johnson with 32 yards on eight carries. On defense, Mike Dupnik was the leading hitter with 12 tackles, but Mott, Lewis and Johnson each had 11 tackles.

Thursday, the Pirates will go after their third win when they meet Refugio in Rockport.

Bears nip R-F frosh

A pair of long runs, one early and one late, gave the West Oso Bear Freshmen the cushion they needed to run past the Rockport-Fulton Freshmen 22-0 last Thursday night in Corpus.

After playing the Bears dead even in the first quarter, the Pirates broke down on defense as the Bears worked an option play good for a 26-yard scoring play. A run for 2 points made the score 8-0 for the Bears.

The Pirates got two big breaks early in the second quarter, but could not take advantage of the situations. On a fourth down punt attempt, Pirate punter Brent Boone was roughed after the punt, and the Pirates retained possession. Then on the next fourth down play when Boone did punt, the Bears fumbled the ball away and Pirate end Ross Potter, setting the Pirates up at the West Oso 28-yard line. The Pirates got as close as the 12-yard line, but the Bears stopped the Pirate threat.

West Oso scored again in the second quarter when they intercepted one of their seven pass interceptions suffered by the Pirates, and the Bear defender returned the ball to the Pirate 15-yard line, a play covering 73 yards. The returner was caught by Hattenbach and David Cantu. After the Bears worked the ball in for the 6 points, John Hattenbach, Terry Palmer and Dennis Jenkins teamed to stop the 2-point effort by the Bears to keep the Pirates to within 14 points.

For the remainder of the game, the Pirates seemed snake-bitten as the Bears kept coming up with interceptions to stop the Pirates. The Pirate defense played well, led by Hattenbach's 14 tackles. The Pirates came up with a number of turnovers to help the offense, but the offense just couldn't make it go. Potter came up with two recoveries and Boone found a loose ball as well. Adam Pina created most of the excitement for the Pirates with an interception return.

On offense, the Pirates were led by Cantu's 42 yards in 12 tries.

The Pirates will play at home this week against Refugio.

Pirates hunt Bobcats Friday

Rockport-Fulton's Pirates will go hunting Bobcats this Friday night as they travel to Refugio to tangle in the last warm-up game before district play opens next week.

The Pirates, hopefully, will be healthy as they enter the contest after taking a 21-6 victory over the West Oso Bears without the services of Dwayne Walls who sat out the game with an ankle injury. The Pirates also lost starting fullback Ramon Romero for most of the second half with a knee injury, and the Pirates will be looking forward to having both backs this week. Steve Arkell came into last Friday's contest with the huge task of replacing Walls, and he responded with 51 yards in 17 carries.

Quarterback Mark Cory blossomed in the West Oso game as he scored two touchdowns on offense, and then Cory intercepted a pass and waltzed into the end zone for another.

Perhaps the most noticeable difference in the game was that the defensive scheme of the Pirates held down the Bears as the Pirates varied their alignment from the first two games of the year.

Going into the contest with the Refugio team, the Pirates meet an old nemesis in Bobcat quarterback Kent Harris, a former standout at Gregory Portland who transferred to Refugio this season when his father, George Harris, took the Head Track job for the Bobcats. The younger Harris has been working himself into shape and has played in the Bobcats' last two contests. Before last week's loss to Hallettsville, the Bobcats had been ranked in the top 10 in Class 3-A, but the Cats were on the short end of a 15-7 score. In the weeks before the Hallettsville game, the Cats struggled to beat St. Gerards of San Antonio 20-7, and in the season's opener the Cats narrowly escaped destruction in a 7-0 win over Sinton.

The Cats have speed to burn, and they run a wide-open offense. Last week Refugio threw the ball for 25 attempts, completing 10 for 95 yards. The rushing offense of the Bobcats has yet to get on track, so the Pirates will be facing an angry team. The Pirate defenders made some big breaks in last week's game, and they will have to do the same if the Pirate offense is to control the game.

Ticket cost noted

According to a spokesman from the Rockport-Fulton High School, anyone planning on going to the Pirates football game Friday, Sept. 24, in Refugio, should purchase their ticket at the Rockport-

Fulton High School.

Tickets purchased here will be $1 while the same seat will cost $3 if purchased at the stadium in Refugio. Reserved tickets will still be $3.

Nugent describes gas market

HOUSTON — Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent described today's distorted natural gas market as "turning itself inside out with changing production, distribution and marketing conditions" in remarks to oil and gas industry representatives in Houston recently.

Chairman Nugent and Commissioners Mack Wallace and Buddy Temple were in Houston to conduct the Commission's monthly statewide oil and gas hearing.

"Today we have gas surpluses, both interstate and intrastate, starkly reduced takes from producing wells and new wells awaiting connections, prices bumping the ceiling, conversions to alternate fuels, pipelines marketing out, take-or-pay obligations accruing and a host of other happenings foreign to us just a year ago," Nugent said.

But Nugent cautioned the audience of oilmen that the natural gas excesses causing the problems do not indicate increasing gas production. "Our ability to produce is declining, not increasing," he said.

Commission statistics show the average annual production of gas wells in Texas is less than half of what it was in 1972 and total delivery capacity of those wells has dropped by three billion cubic feet per day since February, 1977.

Nugent attributed the current excess gas delivery capability to reduced demand brought about by the economic recession, fuel switching, and conservation by gas consumers. That surplus, he said, poses big problems for producers.

"Many producing companies have already closed their doors," said Nugent. "Many more will do so as reduced gas takes curtail the cash flow needed to service debt and maintain operations. Over 40 percent of the nation's drilling rigs have been stacked, and budgets for drilling gas wells have been reduced by 50 to 80 percent."

Producers aren't the only ones being hurt. According to Nugent, pipelines are facing severe problems, too. In the interstate market, take-or-pay clauses in gas contracts have forced some pipelines to shut in cheap gas sources to honor obligations on expensive gas. He said the irony of that situation was brought about by the artificial pricing categories created by the federal Natural Gas Policy Act.

Nugent said Railroad Commission rules have prevented such inequities from happening in Texas because they require the reduced natural gas demand to be spread equitably among wells and fields. But as interstate pipelines scramble to find markets for their gas, new problems have arisen, he said.

Under approvals granted by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, interstate pipelines are seeking off-system sales to customers traditionally served by intrastate pipelines. Nugent summarized a recent hearing called by the Commission to examine the impact of off-system sales in Texas by saying, "It seems reasonably clear that unrestrained 'dumping' of interstate gas into a Texas market with surpluses of its own only transfers take-or-pay liabilities from them to us and aggravates the problem of supplies already shut in."

Looking into the future, Nugent told the industry representatives that the Railroad Commission is studying problems "from the drill bit to the burner tip" and expects to make constructive recommendations and adjustments.

He called upon Congress to decontrol natural gas which would help producers readily seek gas, help pipelines compete fairly for gas without federally maintained disadvantages, and help consumers benefit from the cheapest and best fuels in the marketplace.

"Senseless regulations restraining initiative and flexibility, distorting the market, and especially those market, and especially those operating to give competitive advantage to one group over another, must be eliminated," Nugent said.

Rockport was named county seat of Refugio County on March 15, 1871. On Sept. 18 of that year, the Texas Legislature divided Refugio County, creating Aransas County with Rockport as its county seat.

Gift is earmarked for scholarship

KINGSVILLE — A gift earmarked to become part of a larger overall athletic scholarship endowment fund at Texas A&I University was announced here today.

The contribution by former longtime Texas A&I Engineering Dean Frank H. Dotterweich was in the form of a block of Houston Natural Gas stock constituting a memorial scholarship in the name of June Smith Dotterweich.

Dr. Dotterweich gave it, he said, in fulfillment of a plan with his late wife, June, that the couple would help establish such a fund at Texas A&I.

Dotterweich, who still teaches at Texas A&I and is presently at work on a book, characterized the gift as "seed money."

Both Dotterweich and his wife were athletes, he as a crack lacrosse player at Johns Hopkins University and later a member of the 1928 U.S. Olympics team and she as a nationally recognized marksman and all-around athlete.

"We both had a long-standing interest in athletics," he commented, "and it was mutually understood that we would do this."

Texas A&I University President Bill Franklin hailed the gift, adding that "such generosity and abiding commitment to the University are hallmarks of Doc."

Texas A&I, he added, will soon unveil plans for a fund to raise money to underwrite scholarships for students who show promise of both athletic and academic strength.

Former Texas A&I President Duane M. Leach, now Chancellor of the University System of South Texas, said the gift stemmed from "a strong belief in Dotterweich's part that academic and athletic distinction need not be incompatible, but indeed, are in every way possible."

CRIME: IT'S THE VICTIMS WHO ARE LOCKED UP

I want to talk to you this week about an issue that troubles me greatly and which I know is of great concern to Texans. It seems that whenever I have spoken about crime in the past 12 months I have gotten a strong and troubled response. No matter where I am—Jewett, Roma or Dalhart—people tell me they are angry and afraid about crime in our state.

This anger and fear concerns me for two reasons. First, because this kind of anger and fear serves as a sort of "jail" for innocent people. They are the ones locked in their homes at night while criminals go free. The second reason I am concerned is because unless something is done to stop the crime epidemic, people will be ripe for the kind of politician who will play on citizens' fears. The result could be that Texans lose their liberty in return for their "safety". In that sense, the crime problem is like a cancer gnawing at democracy.

The incumbent Lt. Governor's response to the crime issue has been shameful. While he has been in office the crime rate has risen 131%. He has done nothing to attack crime in a substantial way. In fact, he has fought stronger anti-crime measures. He openly opposed the new wiretapping law designed to catch drug dealers. He openly opposed the Governor's anti-crime package by putting it in a legislative committee run by a hostile Senator, who promptly bottled it up. Much of the package passed anyway and now Mr. Hobby has the gall to go around the state taking credit for it!

His sympathies in the fight against crime are evident. Not long ago he allowed the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) to hold a fundraiser in his Houston mansion and he proudly defends it. The ACLU has consistently opposed laws that would make it easier to deal with the crime problem.

I think such two-faced maneuvering is disgraceful. It is obvious that if we are going to attack the crime problem, if we are ever going to give law officers, judges and prison guards the tools they need to make us safer, Bill Hobby will have to go.

If you have thoughts about this, I'd like to hear from you. Please write me at 1213 W. 34th, Austin, 78705.

Rockport history cited at ACMSI women's meeting

Christmas Bazaar and the Seafair food booth were two key items discussed during the Aransas County Medical Services Inc. Women's Committee luncheon and business meeting at 11 a.m. Friday, Sept. 17, at Sandollar Restaurant.

Guest speaker Raulie Irwin spoke on the "History of Rockport." He began his talk by asking the audience how many people were born in Rockport. Not one native Rockportian was in the ACMSI audience. When he asked, "How many people here have lived in Rockport 10 years or longer?" approximately one-fourth of the group raised their hands. About one-half of the audience were native born Texans. Joyce Thornton, president of ACMSI and co-chairman — along with Juanita Wharton — of the Seafair Food Booth, reported the price of shrimp has gone up $500 over last year. "For the food booth to make money this year, bushels more will have to be sold," she stated. A minimum of 48 people are needed to man the popcorn shrimp booth for the two-day Seafair on Oct. 9 and 10 and work shifts are three hours. Volunteers are asked to get in touch with her or Wharton.

Thornton reported the new paramedics building is finished at Enterprise Medical Center and extended an invitation to all members to see the new facility which the ACMSI organization helps to support.

Skip Dinkler thanked the many people who worked so hard to make the Aug. 6 boat cruise a success. Sara Bates, treasurer, reported this cruise netted $1,914.89 for the Ambulance Fund. She added that gross sales for the Handcraft Shop for August were $1,276.95, an amount Mary Casey, store manager, felt was "quite good." Memorials and donations for July and August totalled $1,229.25.

Beginning 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, Rose

Taylor will be at the Workshop to teach any interested members how to make tin pin wood chimes.

Casey and Wharton are co-chairwomen of this year's Christmas Bazaar set for Saturday, Nov. 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 21, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Paws and Taws Building.

Rosa's Italian Kitchen, headed by Taylor, will feature a spaghetti plate with tossed salad and garlic bread on Saturday. Ravioli with tossed salad and garlic bread is Sunday's special. Both dishes will be made with Rosa's homemade pasta. Other foods include chicken soup, sandwiches, sweets and drinks.

Trim-a-Tree Booth is chaired by Thyra Russell.

She said this booth especially needs small "stocking stuffers" of all sorts as well as people to make Christmas stockings. She encouraged Women's Committee members to make ornaments at home to contribute.

The Baked Goods booth is co-chaired by Lois Harrington and Ima Jean Sloan. They need donations of jams, jellies, candies, cookies, cakes, breads, pies and other "goodies."

The Linen Closet will be run by Babs Muecke who said she can use any "lovely old linens" members wish to donate.

Ella Anderson and Ann Callahan are in charge of the Gift Boutique which features a wide variety of handcrafted items.

The White Elephant Booth is manned by Helen Statesir who asked members to donate "almost anything just as long as it is in good condition." She will collect contributions if called at 729-0745, or donations may be taken to Johnnie Vermillion's house at 4th and Henderson in Fulton.

Mary Coudy in charge of the Children's Center said light stuffed toys are needed and urged those making anything at home for children to please tell her.

A new booth this year, Santa Sacks, will be a grab bag. Dinkler and Vermillion, co-chairwomen, are asking members to donate either $2 to buy gifts or to bring a new item all gift-wrapped to them or to the workshop for this booth. All wrapped items should indicate whether the gift is for a child or an adult, a male or a female, and its approximate value.

The Fashion Boutique, under charge of Jane Morin, will feature handmade, handpainted items such as skirts, handbags, hats and robes.

Casey reminded members they all need to contribute work, time, items and money to make this Christmas Bazaar a success. "This is our single biggest money-raising event during the year for keeping the ambulances of Aransas County rolling. Everyone in the County needs to get behind us and help," she finished.

Swedish student living with Norrells

Doug and Nancy Norrell and their family have a special houseguest during the 1982-83 year. Per Renstrom of Stockholm, Sweden, is staying with the Norrells while he attends Rockport-Fulton High School, where he is a junior.

Although this is not Per's first visit to the United States, it is the first time he has visited Texas. He has been to the U.S. five times previously and attended a winter skiing school in Florida. He has been in Rockport six weeks.

Per is one of 12 students staying in South Texas as part of the American Inter-cultural Student Exchange, which includes students from Sweden, Spain, the Philippines, Norway, Finland and West Germany. Ten AISE students are staying in Corpus Christi and one in Portland. Students must be 15 to 17 years of age to participate in the program.

Per says school in the U.S. is harder than in Sweden, both because of the language barrier as well as the work. He also says teachers are more strict here than in Stockholm. In Sweden, he says, students get more breaks and don't follow the same schedule of classes every day.

According to Per, it's easier to make friends here than in Sweden. "It's more open here," he explains.

Rules and regulations are the hardest things to get used to, he says. Per helps with the chores at the Norrells' — this includes mowing half the lawn — a job he doesn't care for. A 10 p.m. curfew is another thing he finds hard to get used to.

Per has two friends from Stockholm currently in the United States. One is in Arizona and the other somewhere in New York.

They keep in touch through letters.

When asked about his favorite activities, Per said listening to music, water skiing, reading books and jumping on a trampoline are at the top of his list.

Three things he doesn't like about living down here are the saltwater, the humidity and the long distances between places. Public transportation is one of the things he misses about Stockholm.

"I don't think having him here has changed us any," Nancy Norrell says of Per's visit. "He's changed more than we have."

Nancy noted that the AISE program is looking for local families to host students over the summer and next fall. More information may be obtained from the AISE representative in Corpus Christi.

Eighty-two students tried out for the fall production of "Grease" according to David Rice, speech and drama instructor at Rockport-Fulton High School. The production is slated for Nov. 19 and 20 in the new auditorium.

"I've been looking for something extra special, something that had wide appeal to young people," Rice noted. "Grease" has the appeal and "will be a very enjoyable show, not only to watch, but also to perform."

Assisting Rice are his wife, Janis, who does the choreography, and Jimmie Sue Jones, who directs the musical performances. Jones is the music teacher at Live Oak Elementary School.

Mr. Rice and performers are looking forward to the new auditorium. "It is going to be fabulous. It won't be embarrassing for other schools to come to our auditorium," he said.

Students were selected for the cast after singing a song from "Grease", reading a part of the script and learning a piece of the choreography. Rehearsals began Sept. 14.

HERO added to future homemakers

By Shana Griffin
Contributing writer

Future Homemakers of America have added something new — it has added H.E.R.O. to become FHA/HERO, which stands for Home Economics Related Occupations. It was added because of a new class called Home Economics Cooperative Education.

Students enrolled in the HERO class work two hours each day at a home economics related job such as care and guidance of children, food service, floristry, or apparel and accessories.

Advisors for FHA, Cindy Eschenburg, Betsy Burton and Janice Spears, are hoping a large number of students will join this fall and plan to have a membership drive sometime this year. Twenty students joined FHA last year.

Students have to meet several requirements to join, including current or past enrollment in homemaking. Dues are $3 and members must memorize and recite the FHA creed.

The usual bake sales and the annual banquets which take place on Valentine's Day and at the end of the year are also planned this year. The organization will also be involved in community projects on the local, state and national levels. Group projects include helping the March of Dimes and the American Cancer Society. An area meeting is scheduled in Corpus Christi this spring.

Last year FHA members elected their officers for this year. Their names and ranks are listed as follows: Richard Nava, president; Carla Perkins, historian; Rhonda Allen, treasurer; Tony Simpson, first vice president; Rachel Flores, second vice president; Kathy Appleyard, HERO representative.

Meetings of the FHA/HERO are held the first and third Monday of each month.

During the month of October, the American College Test (ACT) and the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) will be given to high school seniors. The ACT and SAT tests are two important exams required for entrance by colleges and universities.

"Although these same tests will be given later in the year, it is best to take them as soon as possible and get them out of your way," advises Miss Nelson, high school counselor.

Deadlines for registration are Sept. 24 for the SAT, and Oct. 1 for the ACT. The SAT is scheduled for Oct. 16 and the ACT for Oct. 30.

Later test dates are posted in various locations throughout the school. College-bound seniors interested in taking these two tests, should drop by Miss Nelson's office for more information.

Pet hair loss has many causes.

Dr. Hap Lutz
Dr. Lutz is a former instructor of diseases of dogs and cats in the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M University.

Alopecia is a partial or complete hair loss. Veterinarians can arrive at a diagnosis using a complete history from the client, clinical observation, skin scrapings to eliminate ectoparasites or dermatophyte arthrospores and the use of cultures of the hair or skin. In addition, a biopsy of a typical area of alopecia is used, if other laboratory tests have not indicated a diagnosis.

Localized ringworm is one of the more common causes of hair loss; with lesions occurring most frequently around the face, ears or the extremities. Local preparations and oral medication is available to eliminate this condition.

Psychogenic alopecia and dermatitis is a cause of solitary patches of hair loss. This condition is associated with a high-strung and nervous animal. Successful regrowth of hair is contingent upon resolution of the animal's psychogenic problem or the long term maintenance and use of anti-anxiety drugs.

Generalized alopecia, which causes an excessive physiological shedding, is common in outdoor cats in localities where there is excessive heat — such as Rockport. This condition is differentiated from other causes, in that most of the hair lost is undercoat hair, and the primary hair does not epilate easily. Daily grooming with a fine toothed comb is always indicated in such cases.

Flea collar dermatitis is a cause of hair loss — especially around the neck. The cat is allergic to the collar or the ingredients in the collar.

Feline endocrine alopecia is common in domestic, short-haired cats. Over 90 percent of the time castrated males are subject to this. This condition will respond by replacement of sex hormones by injection.

Contact dermatitis is caused by a cat contacting liquids or plants that irritates the skin or hair coat. In these cases, scaling, follicular plugging, pustules and pigmentary changes in the skin are common symptoms.

Treatment consists of eliminating further contact with the irritant and oral sedative medication.

Noetodric mange will also cause an alopecia, especially around the head, neck and ears. If not treated promptly, it will become generalized over the entire body.

Your veterinarian, with a complete history, can correct this condition on your cat. However, there are some instances of cases that seem to defy correction. If so, as in human medicine, veterinarians may find it necessary to refer the case to a colleague, who is a board certified veterinary dermatologist, who practices only on skin cases.

Hope remains for farm outlook

COLLEGE STATION — Texas farmers are suffering from a siege of economic setbacks that are the most serious since the depression of the '30s. But despite the catastrophic situation, there is some glimmer of hope as farmers forge ahead and plan for 1983.

"Both weather and the marketplace have devastated the hopes of many producers this year," said Dr. Carl Anderson, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "It's been a year filled with widespread crop losses due to hail, wind, floods and drought, and now at harvest time, huge stockpiles of most crops coupled with a sagging demand are driving prices below production costs."

And delinquent loans are running rampant, with almost half of the 25,000 Texas farmers with Farmers Home Administration loans behind in their payments. To make matters worse, most have nowhere else to turn for financial backing, said Anderson.

Many farm prices have been driven through the floor by huge crops the past two years, noted the economist. During the first half of 1982, prices for cotton, cottonseed, rice and hay dropped more than 30 percent below the same period last year and grain sorghum averaged about 20 percent less.

Texas livestock producers are faring a little better than crop growers. Hog prices are up 21 percent and beef cattle prices are holding even compared to the first half of 1981 while milk prices are off slightly. Prices for calves, sheep, turkeys and eggs are averaging 5 to 10 percent less while wool prices are off 20 percent.

Along with poor prices, farmers continue to face high interest rates when compared to returns to investments generated from their operations, and high exchange rates have destroyed growth in the export market, Anderson said.

With this overall dismal situation, how can there be hope for farmers?

"Economic health can return from either lower supplies or increased demand that will boost market prices or through more favorable farm program prices," said Anderson. "Either adjustment may take up to three years to develop fully."

Currently, Texas farmers are looking to Commodity Credit Corporation loan rates, farmer-held reserve loan rates and target prices as their main hope for surviving the most severe financial pressure in half a century," he said. "Unfortunately, earlier this year many of them did not recognize the benefits of support prices and the looming financial dangers."

According to Anderson, failure of more than half of the sorghum farmers to take part in the farm program has caused grain prices to fall sharply below the CCC loan rate. This resulted because nonparticipants were ineligible to put their grain into the loan program and thus had to dump large amounts on the open market, driving prices down.

Now farmers must look ahead to the 1983 farm program. Specifics of the program are being developed, said Anderson, and should be available soon for planning next year's crops.

However, farmers can use expected target prices and loan rates for various crops in their early planning. Expected target prices are $4.30 per bu. for wheat, $2.86 per bu. for corn, $4.91 per cwt. for grain sorghum, 76 cents a lb. for cotton and $11.40 per cwt. for rice. Regular CCC loan rates will be close to $3.65 per bu. for wheat, $2.65 per bu. for corn, $4.50 per cwt. for grain sorghum, 55 cents per lb. for cotton and $8.55 per cwt. for rice. Anticipated farmer-held reserve loan rates are $4 per bu. for wheat, $2.90 per bu. for corn, and $4.91 per cwt. for grain sorghum. There is no reserve loan for cotton and rice.

Using these anticipated figures, maximum deficiency payments (difference between target price and CCC loan rate) that farmers could expect are 65 cents per bu. for wheat, 21 cents per bu. for corn, 41 cents per cwt. for grain sorghum, 21 cents a lb. for cotton and $2.85 per cwt. for rice.

"Since reduced production will be a major goal of next year's farm program, it will likely call for laying out 15 to 25 percent of the base acreage for each eligible crop," said Anderson. "Farmers should take this into consideration as they begin land preparation and fertilizer and herbicide applications for next year's crops."

1983 farm income could improve some with increased participation in the farm program since reduced production would help the supply situation and allow loan rates to be more effective in setting price floors. On the demand side, lower interest rates should give a boost to the marketplace. And an improved economic climate could spur the demand for farm products, said the economist.

Meanwhile, farmers will be looking at controlling or minimizing operating expenses, evaluating alternative crops for highest returns while taking as little price risk as possible, foregoing capital purchases and taking a hard look at full participation in the government farm program, Anderson said.

EPA prohibits third incineration of toxic substances in the gulf

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has decided not to permit a third research burn of toxic polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) aboard the incinerator vessel, the Vulcanus, in the Gulf of Mexico.

Frederic A. Eidsness Jr., EPA Assistant Administrator for Water, said that sufficient data should be available when the results of two previous research burns have been received and evaluated for the Agency to make a determination of whether the Vulcanus can safely burn PCBs.

EPA requires that incinerators approved for PCB disposal have a destruction efficiency of at least 99.9 percent.

The Vulcanus, operating under a research permit granted to Chemical Waste Management Inc. of Oak Brook, Ill., and Ocean Combustion Service of Rotterdam, The Netherlands, previously conducted research burns in the Gulf last December and last August.

The burns were conducted in an EPA-approved disposal area approximately 370 nautical miles southwest of Mobile, Ala., the departure point for the Vulcanus, and 170 nautical miles east of Brownsville.

Eidsness said that authorization to burn additional PCBs on the Vulcanus would be considered along with the pending application by Chemical Waste Management for permits to dispose of mixed organohalogen wastes and stocks of liquid DDT.

The applications for the additional burns in the Gulf were the subject of a public hearing in Brownsville on Aug. 31.

PCBs, whose new use and manufacture were banned as a health hazard by EPA in 1979, are persistent compounds once widely used to cool and insulate heavy duty electrical equipment.

Urban cost of living higher than rural

A survey earlier this year revealed that it cost 50 percent more for a family of four to live in New York City than in Fayetteville, Ark.

But in determining whether the family fell under the poverty line, the U.S. Census Bureau makes no distinction. In 1980, the poverty threshold for an urban family of four was $8,414. Obviously, a family in Fayetteville could live much more comfortably with that income than a family in New York.

"The poverty figure is misleading since it does not take into account differences in the cost of living in different parts of the country," says the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. "Ignoring the difference in living costs can lead to designating many parts of the country, which have lower living costs and lower incomes, as areas of high poverty."

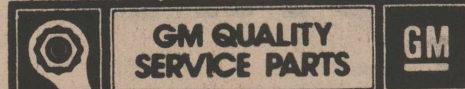

The survey was made by the American Chamber of Commerce Researchers Association, and illustrates one reason why the U.S. Chamber in Washington, D.C., believes the poverty definitions based on statistics need to be revised.

Even more importantly, points out Martin Lefkowitz, director of economic trends and statistics for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the census poverty surveys count only cash income in determining whether a family falls below the poverty line.

Yet, since the 1960s, when welfare payments were mostly paid in cash, the value of in-kind benefits have expanded by 3,300 percent, from $2.2 billion in 1965 to $72.5 billion in 1980. These include food stamps, subsidized school lunches, free medical care and housing subsidies.

"If you counted these," Lefkowitz reports, "the number of people living in poverty would be sharply reduced, by as much as 42 percent."

Davis is army TV Specialist

FRANKFURT, West Germany — One of the most popular radio stations in Germany — and in much of Europe — is American. While many people in the U.S. might immediately think of the "Voice of America," the station in question is the American Forces Network (AFN) in Europe.

Staffed and operated by civilian specialists and active duty military personnel of the U.S. Army, Air Force and Navy, AFN brings the sounds and news of America to U.S. military people stationed in Europe.

Army Staff Sgt. William J. Davis, 33, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Davis of Rockport, is one of the specialists keeping American voices filling the airways of Europe. In addition to U.S. military personnel, many Europeans tune in to AFN broadcasts to keep up with the latest in American music and to tune up their comprehension of the English language.

"The best part of the job," noted Davis, a television production specialist, "is knowing that there is an audience of almost half a million people out there watching you do your job. We at AFN have a mission to serve the military and their dependents with the best TV station in Europe, and we work hard at it."

AFN Frankfurt is the headquarters and main station for the European network, which covers West Germany and portions of adjoining countries as well.

A 1967 graduate of Permian High School, Davis joined the Army that year and is planning to stay for a full career. "I enjoy the work," he said, "and I like Germany; it's a beautiful country, with plenty to see and do." During his 15 years in the Army, Davis has served in Vietnam 1969-1970, Johnson Island (a small atoll some 800 miles southwest of Hawaii) 1976-1977, and is scheduled to report to a new assignment at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver later this year.

STAFF SGT. WILLIAM J. DAVIS

From the candidate

To the voter

"Texas and the United States have the most productive food producers on earth. Through their efficient efforts we have the greatest variety of reasonably priced food of any nation. To assure a continuation of abundant food supplies, it is essential that we protect our agricultural producers during periods of low farm prices.

The Texas property tax code exempts agricultural machinery and equipment from personal property taxes. This has helped consumers and farmers alike by holding down costs of food production.

However, a recent, controversial ruling by Attorney General Mark White severely and unfairly limited this exemption. It is important that Texans eliminate this inequity. A vote for Proposition 3 on Nov. 2 will mean fair treatment for all producers.

Proposition 3 will:

Correct the exemption for implements of husbandry by removing limitations.

Assure fair, uniform tax treatment for all Texas food and fiber producers.

Encourage a healthy food and fiber industry in Texas, which will contribute to increasing vitality of the state's overall economy, thus increasing overall tax revenues from many other sources.

Be a positive step in helping hold down rising grocery costs.

I congratulate Representatives John Sharp (D-Placedo) and Robert Saunders (D-LaGrange) for their co-sponsorship of the Amendment in the House of Representatives, and Senator John Wilson (D-LaGrange) for his chairmanship of the Vote for 3 Committee. I encourage all Texans to vote for Proposition 3 on Nov. 2."

By any other name it's still a weed

by Ted Brice
The Garden Editor
A weed is any unwanted plant. Therefore, a weed could be a rose in your tomato patch. But that's not our typical notion of a weed.

Conventional wisdom holds that a weed grows so fast and in such profusion that it crowds out a desired plant, crop or lawn.

But weeds are not always what they seem. Some are beautiful — like orange day lilies, and daisies and purple thistles. And all types of weeds are used in fresh and dried floral arrangements.

Often what one person considers a weed is a welcome addition to another's garden. Many homeowners delight in the morning glory and its blooms. But the same morning glory is nothing but trouble for the farmer who calls it bindweed. And the crabgrass that drives every homeowner crazy is often used by strawberry growers, instead of hay, to mulch between rows.

There is agreement on one point, though, and that is that weeds grow and develop at a much faster rate than do many cultivated plants — thereby crowding out wanted plants.

Lawn weeds are especially troublesome to homeowners. A thick, healthy turf is the best way to prevent lawn weeds. Weeds, like every other plant, need moisture and nutrients to survive. If they can't find a place to take hold, they will not survive. Regular mowing, watering, proper fertilization and pest management will keep your lawn in tip top shape so weeds won't stand a chance. But even the healthiest and best cared for lawns have spot weed problems.

Some weeds can be controlled during July and August but because grass grows at a slower rate during these hot months, bare spots left by dying weeds will most likely be filled by new summer annual weeds—such as crabgrass—rather than grass. These summer, annual weeds are even tougher to get rid of, and for some, there is no control.

It is best to wait for cooler fall weather to attack big weed problems. If weeds are a scattered problem, try spot treatment now.

Good gardening until next week from your garden editor, Ted Brice.

Astroworld to host largest Oktoberfest

HOUSTON — With summer ending and fall quickly approaching, festival lovers will again have the opportunity to celebrate the change of season in a truly traditional way as AstroWorld hosts its second annual Oktoberfest for five consecutive weekends beginning Sept. 24.

Mouthwatering scents of shishkebab, strudel, funnel cakes and homemade cinnamon bread will permeate the air and mingle with the gay polka music of strolling oompah bands as park patrons make their way to the central gathering area of all Oktoberfests, the Festhalle.

At the Festhalle, nestled among the castles of Nottingham Village, the entertainment never stops. Slapdancers perform traditional folk dances and often get the audience involved; yodlers sing, brass bands play lively polkas and just as the fast pace seems too much, the melancholy beauty of the alpenhorn peal from the stage and spread a momentary hush across the room.

The authentic German foods served at the Festhalle encourage hearty appetites. Heaping platters of bratwurst, knockwurst, sauerbraten, smoked sausage, wiener schnitzel and seasoned pork chops are available with a choice of Bavarian side dishes — red cabbage, sauerkraut, German potato salad and potato pancakes — and traditional desserts like strudel, tortes and funnel cakes.

And in true European style, guests may want to hoist a brimming stein of imported or domestic beer and propose a toast of good health to everyone at their table.

A festival atmosphere will prevail through AstroWorld as strolling musicians and jugglers entertain visitors walking through streets adorned with hundreds of golden mums and beautiful flowers. Handmade arts and crafts such as wood carvings, sewing and blown glass will be on display in European Village.

As a bonus, for those who enjoy the flavor of Germany but still prefer the more popular music of today Chicago and Air Supply will hold special concerts Sept. 24 and Oct. 2, respectively.

Chicago, holding the No. 1 spot on the charts with the single "Hard to Say I'm Sorry," will kick off Oktoberfest with a special Friday night, 6 p.m. — midnight, opening. Their disciplined, jazzy rock sound can be heard in one concert at the outdoor concert arena behind Greezed Lightnin'.

Air Supply, performing one concert on Oct. 2, continues to score high with songs focused on love. The Australian group topped the charts with three consecutive singles in 1980 and is back now with a new hit, "The One That You Love."

12 new pipeline permits granted

AUSTIN — Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent has announced 12 permits to operate new pipelines in Texas were granted by the RRC in August.

Through the first eight months of this year, the Commission has issued 114 permits to operate new lines. For the same period last year, 113 permits were approved.

Seven of the permits in August were for gathering pipelines, five were for trunk transmission lines. Gathering lines bring oil and gas from production leases, while a trunk transmission line is a larger diameter line into which smaller lines connect.

All of the newly-permitted lines will transport gas.

Private pipelines accounted for 11 permits last month, while one was for a gas utility.

In August, three permits were granted for lines in Southeast Texas, two each in East Texas, deep South Texas and the Refugio area, and one each in East Central Texas, West Central Texas and the San Antonio area.

Gathering lines approved: Labrador Energy Inc., Houston, Anderson County; Energy Development Corp., Houston, Shelby County; H & M Intrastate Gas Transmission Inc., Houston, Calhoun County; Endevo Pipeline Co., Dallas, (two lines — one in Montgomery County and one in Henderson County); Strigine Gas Co., Houston, Coleman County; and Daniel Oil Co., Houston, Fort Bend County.

Trunk transmission lines approved: Liberty Natural Gas Co., Dallas, Goliad County; Esperanza Transmission Co., Corpus Christi, (two lines — one in Wharton County and one in Jim Wells County); Hajecate Oil Co., Houston, Zavala County; Paisano Transmission Co., George West, Nueces County.

Index shows decline

Preliminary estimates in June indicate the Texas industrial production index declined by an 8.0 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate at a declining level of 5.1 percent from the previous year. The mining industry was greatly responsible for this decline with a 21.8 percent overall decline in the industry, as well as with manufacturing resulting in a 4.9 decline.

With a 95.7 drastic drop in drilling and a 21.4 decline in metal, stone and earth minerals, there are definite declining results for the mining industry.

Even with an 85.7 increase in the stone, clay and glass products, it did not offset the total durable goods results which fell by 10.6 percent. The nondurable goods total reflected a small increase of .8 percent from the previous month.

Reflecting the drop in factory output, the manufacturing capacity utilization index fell in June to 94.3 percent of the 1972 base year.

August sales boost city tax revenues

August proved a good month for sales in Rockport, bringing the city sales tax revenues of $18,977.61 (compared to $7,275.72 for August, 1981), according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock recently mailed the September sales tax rebate checks — representing taxes collected on August sales — to some 967 Texas cities that collect the optional one-percent city tax.

The recent check brings Rockport's total sales tax revenues for 1982 to date to $235,915.16, an overall increase of 8.63 percent over collections for the same period last year.

In Fulton, the city sales tax collections for August amounted to $2,355.92 (compared to $2,171.47 in August, 1981) and a year-to-date total collection of $30,636.29 — 17.22 percent higher than in '81.

Other area cities also did well in August sales tax collections. In Aransas Pass, $27,027.65 was collected during the month, up from $19,422.84 for August a year ago. Total collections so far for Aransas Pass amounted to $306,286.33, a 20.71 percent increase.

Portland collected $24,659.79 for August, 1982, up from $18,945.87 last year. Year-to-date totals came to $323,571.61, a 20.36 percent increase.

Other cities, however, showed a drop in August sales, including Ingleside where sales tax revenues of $4,317.02 were about $1,600 less than in August, 1981. Ingleside's year-to-date revenues of $90,629.08 are about 1.14 percent less than for 1981.

Gregory showed a 17.25 percent loss for the year so far, $17,809.56 this year compared to $21,523.11 in 1981 although August sales tax collections were down only slightly this year — $1,227.40 compared to $1,598.13 in August, 1981.

In Sinton, sales tax collections for August this year amounted to $8,091.16 — a $3,000 drop from last year. Year-to-date collections totalled $323,571.61, an increase overall of about 1.85 percent.

Bayside showed a considerable gain in August and year-to-date collections this year. August collections totalled $1,105.13 compared to zero in August, 1981, and collections so far for the year were $6,505.02, an increase of 199.31 percent over last year's $2,173.37.

Bullock said statewide, sales tax returns for August totalled $49.2 million, up 20 percent over last year's payment of $41 million for the month.

Cut

County Commissioner J.M. Spriegel believes that Wix is combining two separate issues — the cut and any possible attempt to abolish the office. "I supported the salary cut," says Spriegel, "on the grounds that the duplication at the courthouse doesn't justify this type of salary. If it were utilized according to the book it may deserve a higher salary but it doesn't now."

As for the eventual abolition of the office, Spriegel says there is a possibility that it may happen, but doesn't know that the salary cut is a step in that direction. What it is, he says, "is a step in the direction of a economical government."

As for the effectiveness of the petitions, neither Spriegel nor Judge Wendell could say how much they would be taken into consideration, but that they would be considered. Spriegel believes the petitions are biased, since they present only one side of the story. Judge Wendell agreed, saying the only true indication of public opinion could be gained through a plebiscite on the issue. "We've had a lot of people who have called to ask us not to raise the salary," he said.

County Commissioner John Lee said he would take the petitions into consideration at the budget hearing. "I consider everything," he said. "I support how she feels about it and I hope she gets what she's trying to get," he said of Wix's protest.

Although Lee feels there is a duplication of duties to a certain extent, Wix "deserves to keep her job and her salary."

Lee said he did not see the salary cut as an indication the office would eventually be abolished. "Aransas County has always had a treasurer and I don't see that now or at any time in the future the county won't have a treasurer."

The issue will probably be decided, at least temporarily, at the county budget hearing 9 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the courthouse. If the commissioners decide to go ahead with the salary cut, Wix will have no recourse until after she is elected in November and takes office Jan. 1, 1983. If by then she still disagrees, she may be heard by the county grievance board who will decide the case once and for all.

Verdict

if anyone had contacted him before the election concerning a possible conflict of interest if Holman were to be elected. Rozzell said L. E. Casterline had contacted him.

Rozzell said Casterline discussed Holman's eligibility as a candidate for the office of ACND commissioner because of his lease with the ACND.

Rozzell said, "Mr. Casterline thought that some action should be taken to remove him (Holman) from the ballot."

Rozzell said he discussed the matter with Holman at that time and didn't think any action should be taken to remove Holman from the ballot.

Rozzell said he didn't believe there would be any conflict until Holman was elected. "I certainly didn't want to involve the navigation district in litigation at that time," said Rozzell.

Rozzell continued, "The lease didn't preclude him from being an elected official."

Henkel asked if ACND commissioner Dave Maguglin is a Texaco dealer and does he sell petroleum products in the harbors controlled by the Aransas County Navigation District. Rozzell responded saying, "I have no idea. I have no idea who Mr. Maguglin sells gas to."

Henkel then asked ACND commissioner Hal B. McKnight to take the witness stand and began pursuing a line of questioning concerning McKnight's allegedly being consulting engineer for the city of Fulton, but Rozzell objected and the objection was sustained.

Henkel in closing statements said because no action was taken between the time Holman was elected and the time he was sworn in and because no action was taken for the past 13 months there is not a conflict of interest and the commissioners are simply trying to get Holman removed from the ACND board. "There is no conflict of interest," said Henkel.

Henkel said a conflict of interest exists when a commissioner receives money. He said Holman is not only not receiving money from the district, he is in fact paying money to the district for rent on his bait stand.

Henkel said that because the ACND chose not to do anything for 13 months they have waived their right to do anything.

After reading some sample cases from law books concerning a delay in such matters, Henkel said, "The delay, if there is one must be reasonable." He said that the 13-month delay in bringing Holman to trial was unreasonable.

Holman chose not to have a trial by jury and Yeager told the attorneys to have their final arguments in his office by Oct. 4 and he would have a decision in the case by Oct. 11.

have limited a council member to no more than three consecutive terms on the council.

Commission members observed this provision as written would mean that a council member who served two terms as alderman then chose to run for mayor would, if elected, be a "lame-duck" mayor because he would be limited to only one term in office.

A motion to leave this provision as originally proposed was defeated in a vote of the commission and Griffith said he would like to see the provision rewritten to avoid a "lame-duck" mayor situation.

Commission member Ralph Winkelman suggested a four-term maximum and Beattie proposed a maximum council tenure of eight years (four terms), with no more than six years (three terms) in any one position.

Commission members discussed the question of compensation for council members and appeared in agreement that the council members should be compensated but the compensation should be set by ordinance.

The next charter commission meeting will be at 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 27.

Texans

they are at the motor home/RV parks.

"I don't have any (Winter Texans) in yet," she said. "But mine will be coming an average of two weeks earlier than in past years. And I've had more inquiries than ever before."

LaBerge anticipates a good year in terms of the number of winter residents to Aransas County. "We're practically full right now for the winter," he said of his own park. "They haven't all arrived yet, but they've reserved the spaces. It looks like there's going to be a shortage of spaces."

LaBerge believes one reason at least for this year's early arrivals was last year's bad winter — and the prediction that this year's winter is going to be just as bad. "Some people that planned to come here in November last year got snowed in until January or February," he said.

Loflin agrees that cold winters and "the high price of heating oil" probably bring a lot of the Winter Texans in early.

But whatever their reasons for coming,

Winter Texans can be assured of a welcome from the motel and RV park owners, most of whom seem to view the annual influx of winter visitors as a kind of homecoming.

Many of the Winter Texans, RV park owners observe, leave their motor homes and RVs in the same parks on a year-round basis, even during the months when they aren't living here — and a number of those same "Winter" Texans may actually spend nine or 10 months in their Aransas County homes.

Even those who take their motor homes with them — or who stay in area motels — often come back to the same motels, the same RV parks year after year.

"I've got some coming back this year who've stayed with me 12 or 13 years," said Loflin, voicing a comment heard frequently from motel and park owners.

And then she voiced another sentiment also heard frequently, not only from the motel and park owners but from Winter Texans themselves:

"It's kind of like family . . ."

Lawns need fall fertilization

COLLEGE STATION —

If you haven't fertilized your lawn lately, it's not too late to do so, says a turfgrass specialist. In fact, fall fertilization can boost a lawn while minimizing energy requirements for mowing and removal of grass clippings.

"A fall application of fertilizer not only prolongs green color in lawns but also stimulates root growth, reduces winter injury and promotes early spring recovery," points out Dr. Richard L. Doble with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "Fall fertilization also increases turf density and reduces weeds."

Warm fall days and cool nights provide conditions favorable for grass to accumulate carbohydrates that promote root growth and help winter survival, says Doble. And, since leaf growth is also less during the shorter fall days, delaying lawn fertilization until mid-Sept. or Oct. helps reduce mowing requirements and energy use.

The specialist recommends applying a fertilizer high in nitrogen and potassium and low in phosphorus.

"Both nitrogen and potassium are important to leaf growth and color and root growth," notes Doble. "Potassium is also important to winter survival, disease resistance and drought tolerance. Phosphorus is essential but is required in much lesser amounts than the other nutrients."

He suggests a fertilizer with a 15-5-10, 12-4-8 or similar analysis for the fall application.

Base the rate of application on the nitrogen content, the first number in the fertilizer analysis, says the specialist.

"Lawns can be fertilized through October in most areas of the state," points out Doble. "In South Texas lawns can still be fertilized in November without adverse effects."

"For the homeowner interested in an attractive lawn this fall and early recovery next spring, fall fertilization is a must," emphasizes Doble.

Shoreline Construction promises completion

Fred Orosco says the name Shoreline Construc- tion explains all. "The name of the company tells you just about everything," he says. Orosco heads Shore- line Construction Com- pany, which specializes in marine work - bulkheads, piers, boatramps and docks.

Although Shoreline has only existed for three weeks, Orosco has been in the bulkhead business for 19 years. He has done work on Key Allegro and Harbor Oaks. He spent 10 years as a superintendent for Isles Construction and has worked on water and sewer projects in Goose Island.

Orosco believes his vast quantity of experience qualifies Shoreline's entry into the business. "There's so many piers and damaged bulkheads that private owners can't afford to pay for a big contractor - all we charge for is what we do," he says.

Orosco is currently doing some concrete work and carpentry for a house on FM 1781. Marine work, he explains, has been hit by the recession as have so many other industries. The concrete work and carpentry are just temporary - until marine work again picks up.

Orosco currently em- ploys four men and hopes to end up with a main crew of about 25 when business picks up. "We'll be going after the big jobs too. The contractors around here will have a little competi- tion from now on," he promises.

Shoreline is in the process of building a permanent office. The temporary office is located at 106 E. Cornwall.

The phone number is 729-0488.

SW Bell launches consumer information program

Citing rapid changes in the telephone industry, Southwestern Bell has launched a new consumer information program, called "Let's Talk," to give its customers answers to questions they may have about telephone service and the industry. On Sept. 15, the company established a toll free number, 1-800-555-5000, to answer questions from its customers.

The telephone hotline is part of a program which includes newspaper and television advertisements discussing changes taking place in the telecommunications industry. The toll-free number will be answered Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. The program is being conducted nationwide by the local Bell companies and AT&T.

"Customers may call this number with questions about such subjects as the consent decree agreement, rulings by the Federal Communications Commission, and any other matters that affect their telephone service," said Dutch Koppenhaver, customer services supervisor for residence installation and maintenance in Rockport for Southwestern Bell. "We want to provide any information we can to be as helpful as we can."

Customers should continue to call their local business office with specific questions about their individual telephone bills and service, he added. "The Bell System's structure is changing as a result of recent regulatory and judicial rulings," Koppenhaver said. "The most recent of these was the approval by U.S. District Judge Harold Greene of the consent agreement signed by the Department of Justice and AT&T. The agreement, originally proposed in January, ends an eight-year antitrust suit and separates the 22 Bell operating companies — including Southwestern Bell — from AT&T." But Koppenhaver added, Southwestern Bell's commitment to communities and to providing good service will not change as a result of divestiture. "We've always been a grassroots-type company. Out top priority is providing good service to all our customers," he explained. "Our customers can continue to count on us to provide the best in telecommunications equipment and services at a fair price. The 'Let's Talk' campaign is designed to help get that message to our customers."

Pistol taken in burglary

A .22 caliber pistol valued at $150 was taken when someone broke into the residence of Don Woods on Star Rt. 1. Nothing else was reported missing in the burglary which occurred sometime Thursday, Sept. 2.

COLLEGE STATION — More than 65 million Americans said in a recent survey that they would volunteer to assist with projects they considered to be "worthwhile" if they were asked to do so. "These willing workers should be made aware of the need for their help and the satisfaction which follows as a by-product of volunteerism," says June Cline, organization specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service,

Texas A&M University System. Cline notes that "enthusiasm is the all-essential human jet propeller which elevates workers and creates endless energy, the source of accomplishment." It can help motivate volunteers and also carry over into their orientation to do their jobs to the best of their abilities and skills, she says. "Pressure volunteerism" is still the most used method for recruiting volunteers. Instead of using that method, Cline suggests that people seeking help from volunteers might want to try the "Ten Commandments of Human Relations" for motivational purposes.

nts' for volunteers

Put simply, the 10 principles include: speaking to people, calling people by name, smiling at people, being friendly, being cordial, being interested in people, being thoughtful of the feelings of others, being generous with praise, being thoughtful of opinions of others, and being alert to give service.

"Some of the most capable and successful supervisors of volunteers keep charts to show increased knowledge and skills and to challenge performance and influence attitudes. Make the job an interesting one, and the volunteer will like it and derive satisfaction. In this instance, satisfaction is the pay check," Cline reminds.

Sales can offer big savings on family wardrobe

COLLEGE STATION — Clothing sales provide an opportunity to save money on family wardrobes.

"Sales are used by retail stores to increase sales volume and reduce surplus inventory," says Nancy Brown, clothing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Some types of sales offer better prices than others, she says.

Clearance sales usually provide the greatest price reduction, ranging from 20 to 50 percent off regular price. "These sales are used by retailers to move discontinued merchandise or other fashion merchandise out of the store's inventory and make room for the next season's stock," Brown says.

Special purchase sales are pre-season or post-season sales of goods which the retail store has purchased at reduced prices. These sales may not offer as much price reduction as others, but they are more frequent and generally provide a full size selection that is more timely. Special purchase sales normally offer reductions of 15 to 20 percent, Brown says.

Annual sales — regular stock or department manager's sales — feature regular merchandise reduced 10 to 15 percent. These sales are of short duration and merchandise returns to the regular price when the sale ends, she adds.

Anniversary sales are storewide in scope. Every department marks down items and the sale may occur any time during the year, Brown says.

Seasonal sales are repeated regularly each year. Coat sales in August and January are examples.

Stimulative sales are designed to stimulate business during dull periods. These may be called "midnight sales," "back-to-school," or "two-for-the-price-of-one" sales.

Sales are an excellent time to buy staple clothing items such as underwear and lingerie. Stores usually offer sales on these items at fixed times during the year.

"A family that anticipates clothing needs in advance can save from one-third to one-half by shopping during sales," Brown says.

"Don't forget to compare prices. Retailers sometimes mark up the initial price, making the reduction seem greater. Shop around to find the garment's true value so you will know how much you are really saving," she says.

"Always study the label and examine the garment to ensure that you know what you are getting. An unused bargain is not a wise shopping decision," Brown warns.
