Tropic Storm Swirls On Narrow Path Over South Florida Today

Little Damage Is Seen; No Deaths Have Been Listed

(By The United Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 6.—A tropical hurricane swirled on a narrow path across south Florida today, cutting inland from the Atlantic slightly south of Miami and emerging in the Gulf of Mexico just north of Everglades City. It left little material damage in its wake, and no casualties were reported.

The peak of the storm apparently passed by Everglades City with 60-mile winds. The barometer recorded a low of 29.38 inches before beginning a gradual rise.

Very Little Rain

There was very little rain in the storm which veteran meteorologists said was one of the "driest hurricanes" in their experience.

The federal hurricane warning system ordered northeast storm warnings hoisted at 8.45 a. m. (CST) from Carrabelle, Fla., to Grand Isle, La., and warned gulf shipping to exercise caution.

Followed Narrow Path

Absence of casualties was attributed to the fact that hurricane winds were concentrated in a very small center which followed a narrow path across Florida through thinly populated sections of each coast—but just missing Miami—and across the virtually uninhabited Florida everglades.

Nassau, Bahamas, where the wind reached a velocity of 102 miles an hour at 7:30 o'clock last night, bore the brunt of the storm which apparently had decreased by the time it reached the Florida coast, 190 miles away.

Fifty power company crews were at work on electric circuits, repairing hospital facilities first. Six babies were born in Dade county hospitals before the storm struck. All were delivered just before the institutions and most of the area were plunged into darkness by the power failure. Fort Lauderdale also experienced a power failure and two of West Palm Beach's 10 feeder lines broke, darkening a part of that city.

Few Deaths Expected

Authorities having been warned well in advance by the federal hurricane warning service, had taken every precaution and it was believed that few lives would be lost.

This section is hurricane wise. On Sept. 18, 1926, a hurricane killed 373 persons in the Miami area. In September, 1935, a hurricane killed 450 persons in the Florida keys.

Many key residents had taken refuge in concrete storm shelters erected by the federal government since the last "big blow."

Miami Beach Deserted

Miami Beach, which bore the brunt of the 1926 storm was virtually deserted, its residents having their homes as secure as possible and then taken refuge here.

The weather bureau reported the maximum sustained wind ve-

Vessels Clash Near Brazil

(By The United Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 6.—A battle between two unidentified vessels, fighting in the moonlight within sight of the Brazilian coast, was described today by travelers from Maragogy, near Pernambuco.

The battle was fought in the same general area where United States warships were reported to be seeking the vessel, presumably an Axis submarine, which torpedoed and sank the American-owned Panamanian tanker I. C. White within the American neutrality zone.

Nationalities Unknown

One vessel was said to have been sunk in the battle and its opponent fled behind a smokescreen after a 30-minute engagement. The battle was fought late Friday night and was witnessed by residents of Maragogy, which is on the coast between Pernambuco and Maceio, capital of the state of Algoas. The cannonading shook houses in the city.

NEW YORK—The more The Plainsman notes goings-on in this town, where everything is supposed to be super-colossal, the more he is wont to appreciate Lubbock and our own people.

The idea that everybody and everything in New York are bigger, better and smarter than anywhere else under the sun—and especially in the smaller cities of the "hinterlands"—is just so much baloney and we expect here and now to present some examples to prove the point.

It is probably true that everything is done here on a bigger scale, but when you say that you've told the whole story. Things aren't always done better—not by a long shot.

The other night, The Plainsman and the Little Woman dropped in to see a musical comedy about which the critics have had much favorable to say. You've heard a lot about the show if you keep up with such things. It's called "Pal Joey," and for seats at the two hour performance the management gets all the way from $2.20 to $3.30 per each—including the tax.

The show features a flock of "name" performers, headed by Miss Vivienne Segal, and it is presented in the famed Shubert theater on Forty-fourth street just west of Broadway. But if the occasional amateur revues staged by Lubbock's Junior Welfare league weren't better in every regard, the folks in Lubbock would never support another. And that's the truth if The Plainsman ever told it.

Miss Segal, who has been on the musical comedy boards here for 10 or 15 years—and at least a half dozen years too long—ought to be in an old ladies home knitting for Britain and caressing her third chin. About 99.44 per cent of the show's lines should be sent to the dry cleaners, while the songs should be tossed into the nearest ash can.

To be definite about it, we wouldn't say that the show is lousy.

We'd simply say it stinks.

LAST Monday night, together with something like 60,000 other suckers, The Plainsman battered his way into the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants—to see what had been widely advertised as a prize fight. Participants in the main event were a dead-pan colored boy named Joseph Louis, of Detroit, Mich., and a craggy-jawed white boy from California named Louis Nova.

For a gate of $583,821—one of the 10 biggest "takes" in the history of the questionable game of fisticuffs—these young men gently pushed and slapped at each other for a total of eight minutes and 59 seconds when Joe Louis apparently decided he wanted a cup of coffee. Then he unlimbered his famed right hand, smacked his opponent silly—and it was all over but the shouting.

If you told Pup Thomas a year or so ago that his Max Baer-Babe Ritchie set-to was a gyp—as The Plainsman did, you ought to go right down and tell Mr. Thomas you're sorry for what you said, as The Plainsman's going to do when he gets home.

The Louis-Nova thing was worse—a "big time" fight in the "big

Edge Murder Trial Given Continuance

CROSBYTON, Oct. 6 (Special)—Because of a state witness' inability to be here before Wednesday and since Lloyd Wicks of Ralls, a defense attorney, was ill, the murder case of Mrs. Lucille Edge was continued this morning in 72nd district court until Wednesday morning.

Ninety-seven men of a 100 member special venire reported to Judge Daniel A. Blair, said W. V. Hames, district clerk.

Mrs. Edge, about 50, was indicted on a charge of murdering her husband, Dr. Clyde Edge, by causing poison to be mixed in medicine he took last June.

Touchdown Club To Meet At 8 Tonight

Touchdown club fans will replay last week's Texas-Tech and Lubbock High contests and look over this week's foes when the weekly Monday night football session gets under way at 8 o'clock in the Hotel Lubbock ballroom.

Coaches Dell Morgan and Berl Huffman of Tech and Coach Goober Keyes of Lubbock High will be on hand with their own views of the games.

Moving pictures of the Red Raider-Oklahoma A. & M. tussle, which Tech won, 16 to 6, may be available, it was announced.

Wyatt Defeated In Finale As Dodgers Crumble In Clutch

(By The Associated Press)

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 6.—The New York Yankees won the World series today, four games to one, as they defeated the luckless Dodgers, 3 to 1, in a tense struggle marked by a near free-for-all fight between the rival players in the fifth inning.

"Tiny" Bonham, 200-pound Yankee mound star, subdued the Dodgers with four hits to best Whitlow Wyatt in a stirring pitching duel before the largest crowd of the three games here—34,072. Wyatt allowed only six safeties and struck out nine batters, but lost the battle in the second inning when he issued a walk to Charley Keller and was solved for singles by Bill Dickey and Joe Gordon.

Lone Run In Third

The Dodgers gained their lone run in the third, which Wyatt opened with a double to left, reached third on an infield hit and scored on Pete Reiser's outfield fly. From there on until the final out of the series in the ninth inning they got only one more blow off Bonham, a single by Walker in the eighth.

FIRST INNING

YANKEES: Sturm singled to left center, Rolfe forced Sturm at second, Henrich walked. After waiting out a foul ruling, DiMaggio fanned and Gordon struck out. Riggs to catch Rolfe sliding into third for a double play. No runs, one hit, no errors.

DODGERS: Walker flied out to Keller, Riggs grounded out to Gordon, Reiser singled to center field, Camilli flied to Rizzuto. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

YANKEES: Keller walked, Dickey singled into right center, Keller reaching third. Wyatt made a wild pitch, Owen's head and Keller scored, Dickey went to second, Gordon drove a single to Coscarart's glove and Dickey scored. Rizzuto bounced to Riggs who passed to Coscarart forcing Gordon, Bonham struck out. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

DODGERS: Medwick walked, Reese flied high to DiMaggio, Owen caused a ball to hit Keller, Coscarart bounced to Bonham who threw to Sturm for the out. Medwick taking third. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING

YANKEES: Rolfe walked, Henrich flied deep to Reiser and Rolfe held first, DiMaggio fanned, Keller grounded to Coscarart and was thrown out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

DODGERS: Wyatt lined a double into left field, Walker lined to DiMaggio, Wyatt holding second. Riggs hit a liner that struck Bonham on the right leg and rolled toward third base for a single, Wyatt reaching third, Reiser drove a high fly to Henrich, Wyatt scoring after the catch. Camilli struck out. One run, two hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

YANKEES: Dickey knocked the first ball over the left field barrier for a home run. Gordon walked, Rizzuto was hit by a pitched ball, Bonham sacrificed, Coscarart to Camilli, Gordon taking second and Rizzuto third. Keller fanned, Owen grounded out to Camilli. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

DODGERS: Medwick lined to DiMaggio, Reese singled to left center, which Keller fought off, the ball in left center, Owen lofted a high foul to Rolfe. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

YANKEES: Rolfe rolled to Camilli back of first and he threw to Wyatt for the putout, Henrich hit a home run over the right field fence 40 feet high and 365 feet from the plate, DiMaggio flied out to Reiser, Keller struck out. One run, one hit, no errors.

DODGERS: Coscarart flied to DiMaggio, Wyatt flied to DiMaggio, Walker drew a walk, Riggs raised a high foul which

Germany Launches Vast New Thrust

Moscow May Be Nazis' Objective; London Admits Peril; Russian Ships Said Sunk

(By The Associated Press)

A vast new German offensive, with Moscow perhaps as its principal goal and the siege of Leningrad subordinated, appeared to be emerging today on the long eastern front.

Authoritative sources in London which have been calling the turn of the gigantic struggle, now in its 16th week, said the offensive "on a very considerable scale" had been launched all along the front, with the possible exception of the Leningrad area where German activity seemed to have dwindled.

The offensive may be the "gigantic" operation of which Adolf Hitler hinted in his sportspalast speech last Friday. At least that was the line taken by German commentators.

"New Campaign" Hinted

Berlin, however, gave no indication of the goal of the new drive, but Dienst aus Deutschland, a commentary close to official circles, said the operations were so great as to be "similar to the opening of a new campaign."

There was speculation in London that the major objective was the Russian capital with the attack developing especially from the area of Roslavl about 230 miles southwest of Moscow.

The German high command, holding its counsel in customary fashion, devoted most of its communique to the Leningrad action, saying that Russian attempts to land strong forces west of that second largest Russian city had been crushed.

"Offensive operations in the east yielded additional successes yesterday," said the communique.

Matrimony Is Hinted Again For La Garbo

RENO, Nev., Oct. 6. (U.P.)—Greta Garbo and her constant companion, Dr. Bengamin Gayelord Hauser, diet expert, were in Nevada today but if they were bent on matrimony, they kept the fact well to themselves.

They were in a night club here last night and the stock question was put to them.

"Marriage?"

"I have nothing to say," said Hauser.

Garbo took refuge behind an immense straw hat and refused even to peek beneath its brim.

Eight Skilled Climbers Seek To Rescue Daredevil 'Chutist

(By The United Press)

DEVIL'S TOWER, Wyo., Oct. 6.—Wyoming skies cleared today and a party of eight skilled mountain climbers started up the almost perpendicular sides of Devil's Tower hoping to rescue George Hopkins by nightfall.

Rain and snow, which had lashed the daredevil parachutist's island in the sky during the night, stopped and temperatures rose melting the coating of ice on the 857-foot granite monolith. The rescue party started at 8 a. m.

They carried steel spikes which they will drive into the stone walls to form a ladder to the top where Hopkins has been waiting cheerfully for rescue since last Wednesday morning when he parachuted to the tiny plateau from an airplane to win a $50 bet and get publicity for his forthcoming attempt to break the world parachute record.

In the party of eight were Jack Durrance, graduate medical student from Dartmouth

New Records Seen Provided Weather Doesn't Interfere

BY H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

The 28th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair opened this morning under threatening skies after a week end of near perfect weather.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

7 p. m. — Concert by Lubbock Senior High school band in bandstand in front of Merchants building.

8 p. m.—First performance of Panhandle-South Plains rodeo in front of grandstand.

9:30 p. m.—Fireworks in front of grandstand.

Until midnight — Beckmann & Gerety carnival midway.

TUESDAY'S PROGRAM

Lubbock day, Idalou and Shallowater Day.

8 a. m. — Grounds and exhibit buildings open.

9 a. m. — Judging of milking shorthorn cattle and Duroc and Poland China swine.

Noon — Schools, most business houses and many offerial offices close for day.

1 p. m. — Beckmann & Gerety midway in operation.

2 p. m. — Band concert and free program of vaudeville and circus acts in front of grandstand.

3 p. m. — Concert in bandstand in front of Merchants building.

3:30 p. m. — Second performance of Panhandle-South Plains rodeo in front of grandstand.

9:30 p. m. — Fireworks in front of grandstand.

Only a very light shower had fallen, and that shortly after dawn. But officials of the fair association were frankly worried. Only the weather, they believe, can prevent a fair which will be a record-breaker in almost every particular.

Preparations for this afternoon's expected crowd, weather permitting, were further advanced this morning than on any first morning of any fair in history.

Assurance was given that everything will be operating "full blast" this afternoon and tonight, giving

Exchange For Prisoners Set

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 6—Great Britain today advised Germany of her willingness to effect a mutual repatriation of all British and German civilian war prisoners except men of fighting age, and proposed that the United States act as intermediary "in order that repatriation of civilians may be carried out with the least possible delay."

This announcement was made as the way was paved—by radio broadcast from government to government across the English channel—for an exchange tomorrow of wounded war prisoners who have been ready to sail for several days from the English port of Newhaven to Dieppe. Wounded Britons are to be brought back.

Truce Is Arranged

Trips across the channel will begin at 5:30 a. m. (11:30 a. m., C. S. T.) tomorrow and continue through Oct. 14. The war will be stopped in the channel areas involved until the exchange of wounded prisoners is completed.

"The British government reaffirms its readiness to agree to a mutual repatriation of all British and German civilian internees other than men between 18 and 60.

"The British government will be glad to negotiate arrangements

Deadly Onslaught Of U-Boats Is Renewed In North Atlantic

(By The Associated Press)

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Sept. 28—(Delayed)—The battle of the Atlantic is entering a crucial period.

A great onslaught of German U-boats against the North Atlantic supply line equal in scope to that of March and April is well under way, informed persons say.

A vast amount of war material, much of it the product of American industry, is the objective of a campaign calculated to cripple the British war effort.

There was some complacency in high political circles in London this summer over the battle of the Atlantic.

But this is not reflected in the minds of British and United States naval officers or merchant captains here. They regard the situation as critical.

The actual figures of tonnage losses are secret.

The popular estimate in London of the German U-boat strength last spring was 600 submarines of all types operating in the Atlantic plus a third as many Focke Wulfe

Reds' Downfall Would Be Big Talking Point

Offer May Be Made Soon; Will Likely Be Turned Down

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Oct. 6.—Adolf Hitler will make a new peace offer to Britain and the United States as well before the year's end, according to information reaching here.

Hitler, according to one American recently arrived from German-controlled territory, expects to be able within this time to announce that Russia has been put out of the war and to state that he is going ahead with his "new order" on the continent and ignore England except to carry out reprisals against her for any bombing done to Germany.

Likely To Be Rejected

The Germans expect that England after a period of such a stalemate would accept a peace, this informant said.

The peace offer forecast is given considerable credence in both British and American diplomatic quarters here, but both are certain that the offer will be rejected and that the war will go on.

The information comes from various sources. The American arriving from German territory said that high Nazi officials whom he had known for years indicated that the olive branch dangled again before the British people would this time be backed up with arguments which the Germans thought would make them consider accepting it.

Concentrate On Russia

According to this information, Hitler will concentrate Germany's full war-waging power against Russia in the next six weeks in the hope of making sufficient gains to tell the world he has put the Soviet union out of the combat and crushed Bolshevism.

Attacks on Britain and the Near East would be held to a bare minimum, while all strength possible would be turned on Russia.

Hitler would then say that he has fulfilled his mission and es-

Plane Crashes At Seagraves

(Special To The Journal)

SEAGRAVES, Oct. 6 — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Matthews escaped serious injuries when an airplane piloted by Matthews crashed into a silo as he was taking off from Seagraves airport Sunday morning.

Treatment for head and back injuries were received at a hospital here by Mrs. Matthews, but she did not remain in the hospital.

Plane Severely Damaged

Taking off from a muddy field, Matthews was at a low altitude when the plane crashed into the feed pits adjoining the airport property. Cause of the mishap was not explained.

The light plane was considerably damaged and had been removed for repairs this morning.

Matthews, driller's helper for the Alaco Oil company, was a flying student of Burton Holley.

Mrs. Stevenson Given Another Transfusion

AUSTIN, Oct. 6 (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson of Texas today furnished the pint of blood for a transfusion for Mrs. Stevenson who has been ill for several months.

It was the third transfusion given Mrs. Stevenson in three days. Coke Stevenson, jr. furnished the blood for the two previous transfusions.

After the transfusion which was made at a local hospital Mrs. Stevenson's condition was so satisfactory that the governor was able to leave for Lufkin, Texas, where he is to deliver an impromptu address at the Lufkin Forest festival.

BY RUTH MILLETT

We The Women

Mrs. Jones has lost her maid to a factory whose business has been boomed by defense orders. Mrs. Jones is upset.

"That's gratitude for you," she says. "Give a girl a good home. Treat her with consideration. And what does she do? She walks out and leaves you flat the minute she gets a chance to make a little more money."

Yes, they're a pretty ungrateful, undependable class, these servant girls, according to Mrs. Jones and her bridge-playing friends.

And yet a few months ago when Mrs. Jones' own daughter, who had been secretary to the same employer for three years, had a chance to get a better-paying position, Mrs. Jones thought it was wonderful. When the daughter confessed she kind of hated to leave her job, since her boss had always been so nice to her, her mother said quite practically, "Well, if he wants to keep you he'll just have to pay you what you can get elsewhere."

But Mrs. Jones didn't reason that way when her maid came to her to give notice. She didn't see the situation in a business-like light at all.

She resented the fact that Hilda, a creature of little spirit in poor times, had suddenly gained self-confidence in her own worth and was out to get as much for her labor as she could.

THE UNGRATEFUL WRETCH TOOK A BETTER JOB

Mrs. Jones called her new attitude "cocky" — and perhaps it was, but no more so than her own daughter's self-assured air when she found that there were other jobs to be had than the one she had worked so hard to hold on to for three years.

Mrs. Jones didn't see that Hilda was just a worker who would have been a complete sap not to exchange a job long on hours and short on pay for one with shorter hours and better wages.

She saw only that she had always been "good" to Hilda, according to her own ideas of being "good" and that Hilda was an ungrateful wretch for daring to think of bettering herself.

The trouble with Mrs. Jones is she has never held down a job herself. So she's down on Hilda—and on servants as a class—and she doesn't know what the world is coming to.

Holly-Brewster Wedding Is Read In Sudan Home

Flood Waters Recede Throughout Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 6 (U.P.) — Rain-swollen streams were receding throughout Missouri today after sending six feet of water rolling through the village of Tuscumbia; blocking rail and highway travel for hours in many sections, and gushing through scores of farm and city homes.

Tuscumbia, which lies below the lake of the Ozarks and Bagnell dam, was still flooded but the crest had passed and the stormy Osage river was dropping as Bagnell's flood gates were being closed. The town of Bagnell near the dam was isolated by road and partly flooded.

So hard are the seeds of a South American palm that they are carved into buttons.

INHERITS MILLION — Virginia Hansen, 21-year-old social worker, inherited a million-dollar photographic service in California. But she said she was more concerned over a summer cold than what to do with her fortune. She lives in Detroit.

Begin Farm Measurment—Several crews of reporters were to begin work this morning on the measurement of farm land in the county for the 1941 Agricultural Adjustment administration program, said Walter Y. Wells, administrator. All but 60 of the 2,550 farms in the county have been measured once, and there are several hundred that are yet to be checked for final measurement of cotton plowup. An average of one out of three farms with cotton had exceeded its cotton allotment, it was said.

Hart Reports Rain—The Fort Worth & Denver City railway agent at Hart this morning reported during the night a total of 1.12 inches of rain had fallen there. No other points on the line reported rain. Sunday's maximum temperature at the state experiment sub-station here was 77 degrees, with a minimum of 46 degrees Sunday morning and 64 this morning. No moisture was recorded. A heavy dew fell this morning.

Cotton Stamp Report—Up to Saturday night the county Agricultural Adjustment administration office had issued $17,369 in cotton stamps under the U. S. D. A. supplemental cotton program, Walter Y. Wells, administrator, said this morning. There has been a slight, gradual reduction in the number of stamps issued daily, for several weeks.

Nearly Reach Goal—Rally day attendance at First Presbyterian Church school Sunday was 536, a little short of the goal of 550 in attendance set by the committee, headed by Mrs. W. B. Price. Most of the departments attained their goals. At the morning service quarterly communion was observed, a part of the world-wide communion program.

Gets Special Appointment—Garland Smith, Texas Technological college government major who was graduated in 1934 and who received a degree three years later from the University of Texas law school, has been named by Shell Petroleum corporation to take a six-months period of instruction in the New York City office of the company's crude oil department. It has been announced from Houston, where he was employed by Shell. Smith was a student assistant in government at Tech, said Lloyd Croslin, president of the Alumni and Ex-Students association of Tech.

Accepts Appointment — Marcus Orlando, jr., of Lubbock, has accepted appointment as a second lieutenant in the air reserve, it was announced by the war department this morning in Washington, according to the Associated Press.

Enlist For Navy—Three men for the regular navy and one for the naval reserve, are to leave tonight for Dallas to take a physical examination, J. E. Dewey's Foresight Brought U. S. Navy Easy Victory At Manila Bay

Spanish Fleet Easily Blasted

As the 19th century neared its end, the U. S. navy could look back on a tradition of victory that many an older nation might envy. But still another test loomed — that of fighting the Spanish navy on two fronts, in Cuba and in the Philippines, over 6000 miles from the United States. The navy won at Manila, largely through the foresight and planning of Commodore George Dewey. How he "boned up" on the Philippines long before war was declared is described in the story, below, of the battle of Manila bay. It is the fifth in the series, "Our Navy Fights . . . and Wins."

BY TOM WOLF
NEA Service Staff Writer

Commodore George Dewey stood at the door of the Navy department building in Washington, thinking. He had just received orders to proceed to Japan to take command of the Asiatic squadron of the United States navy.

What should he do before he left? What would he need? Everything looked peaceful on the Far Eastern horizon in this fall of 1897.

Dewey hesitated, stroking his long white mustachios thoughtfully. Then he strode quickly out into the cool October afternoon. He turned and headed for the Library of Congress. "I want to study," he told the librarian, "every available map and book about Spain's possessions in the Far East, the Philippines."

Com. Dewey drew a sigh of relief as he watched the U. S. S. Brooklyn steam into Hong Kong harbor, where the U. S. Asiatic squadron was now stationed in the spring of 1898. The cruiser had raced across the Pacific under forced draught, bringing Dewey's squadron ammunition from the nearest U. S. naval base — San Francisco.

Dewey had been worried that the Brooklyn might not arrive before the start of the now-inevitable war with Spain — the war which he had foreseen the year before; the war for which he had studied every available book and map about Spain's Philippine islands possessions.

The Brooklyn arrived none too soon. There was just time to cover her white paint with dull battle green, from truck to waterline, before the order was flashed across the Pacific: "Proceed to the Philippine islands; commence operations at once against the Spanish fleet; capture vessels or destroy."

At two o'clock on the afternoon of April 17, Com. Dewey led his squadron of four cruisers and two gunboats out of Hong Kong harbor and headed for Manila, 600 miles away.

The sea was smooth, the weather clear. Dewey did not waste a minute. He used the trip to put his crews through final drills, to make a last-minute review of his plans. He had two main worries.

First, there was the matter of supplies. The nearest base at which coal or ammunition could be replenished was over 6000 miles off — in the continental United States. Secondly, there was the problem of getting into Manila bay. Dewey was not so much concerned about the guns of the Spanish fleet as he was about the land batteries guarding the bay. His ships, like the Spanish, were unarmored. The forts' heavy shells might do irreparable damage.

Dewey expected trouble twice on this score. First, at the entrance to the bay. Then in front of the city, itself, 25 miles down the eastern shore. He supposed that the Spanish admiral would harbor his fleet under the protecting guns of the city's forts, thereby doubling his fire power.

Well, he would solve the problems as they arose.

Under Cover Of Night

The American squadron arrived outside Manila bay on April 30. Dewey called his commanding officers aboard the flagship Olympia, for final instructions. "We shall enter Manila bay tonight," he said. "You will follow the motions and movements of the flagship, which will lead. That's all. Good luck."

Good luck was with the Americans from the start. The night was dark, moonless. Shortly before midnight the Olympia slid quietly towards the extrance of the bay. To her anxious crew, standing ready at her guns, the waters slapping softly against her sides seemed to crack like gunshots in the silent night.

Then it was over. The Olympia was safely past the fort! No shots had been fired. The next ship, guided only by a speck of light on the Olympia's stern, now slipped past the point, which loomed black in the night. Now the third.

Maybe there would be no shots. Maybe the Spanish were asleep at their guns. Maybe they thought no one so foolhardy as to try to force passage in strange waters at midnight. But these waters were not strange to George Dewey. He had been studying their every fathom for nearly a year.

Then, as the fifth American ship approached the bay's entrance, a tongue of flame spat from the heights. The fort's cannon shattered the still of the night.

The cruiser's guns barked in reply. As suddenly, as inexplicably, as they had started, the fort's batteries ceased. Now lights on the hills around the bay silently stuttered warnings. But the expected gunfire never came. And now all the American ships had slipped safely into the bay.

Battle With Spanish

Once inside, Dewey anchored. "Tell the men to try to get some sleep. But no one is to leave his gun." Then at 4 a. m. he ordered coffee served at the guns. Then anchors were raised.

Now, peering towards Manila through the dawn mists, Dewey got a shock. There was no Spanish fleet. Where was it, then? Had it set a trap? He raised his glasses, breathed easier. There were the Spanish, lying off Cavite Point, five miles down the bay. The Spanish admiral, hoping to spare Manila the scars of battle, had left the protection of its sheltering batteries.

Up went a flag on the Olympia's masthead: "Prepare for general action." Dewey turned his line toward Cavite. Then he spoke to his captain: "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."

Ammunition Scarce

Guns roared down the line of American cruisers. Broadsides answered from the Spanish fleet. Dewey led his squadron on a two-mile run past Cavite, then circled back. The cannonading shook the surrounding hills. The smoke of battle, unruffled in the still dawn air, lay in a thick blanket over the bay. Often it was impossible to see the enemy. Many shots were falling short. Dewey tartly remarked about his gunners' accuracy.

By the third run, the men had lost their nervousness. Their aim improved. Now the Spanish flagship broke formation and bore down on the American line, trying to ram. The American gunners get the range quickly, drove her back under a hail of shell.

At the end of the fifth run, after two hours of battle, Dewey got bad news. "Ammunition crew reports only 15 rounds per gun left for the five-inch battery, sir." Fifteen rounds could be shot away in five minutes. Dewey's heart sank.

He led his squadron back out of range. No more ammunition within 6000 miles. What to do? His captain returned. The message had been twisted. Now the ammunition crew reports that only 15 rounds have been fired. There's plenty of powder left. Dewey breathed easier.

The American gunners gulped their coffee nervously, anxiously waiting for the smoke to lift. A breath of air blew a hole in the haze. The gunners burst into cheers. One of the Spaniards was afire. Another's funnel and turret were blown off. The flagship struck her colors.

But the rest of the Spanish ships fought on. Dewey sent two of his cruisers in to end the battle. It was over by noon.

The Spanish fleet had been smashed in one morning. America's losses: 0 killed, 6 wounded.

North Texas Teachers Library Adds Volumes

DENTON, Oct. 6.—The collection of books in the North Texas State Teachers college library increased 9,353 volumes during the college year ending Aug. 31, Dr. William Stanley Hoole, college librarian, announced this week in an annual report which showed 111,453 volumes in the library to date.

In the two years since Hoole became head librarian at the college, the school library has grown 23,657 volumes, comparison with previous reports showed.

The administrative set-up has been reorganized to include, besides the main library, a music library which now has 5,061 books and sheet music and 2,311 phonograph records, a Demonstration school library, a teacher-training library, and a historical museum library.

Other new collections begun by the library under Hoole's administration include a glass slide collection of approximately 1,000, a microfilm collection of 400, a map collection of 175, and a pamphlet collection of 5,500.

Farm Silos To Be Well Filled

(By Staff Correspondent)

ROPESVILLE, Oct. 6 — The 76 clients on the Ropesville farms project of Farm Security administration northeast of here, expect to fill their silos with four times as much grain sorghums as they did last year, according to Thomas G. Moore, manager.

While not all of the farms have a trench silo, there are a number that have more than one.

Expect 10,000 Tons

"We expect to get 10,000 tons of ensilage this year in the silos," said Moore. "Last year we had but 2,000 tons.

"Ensilage is being cut now and the 10,000 acres or more in feed will average seven or eight to ten tons per acre. All of the clients have increased their livestock program and many of them have enlarged their silos."

Robert N. Sullivan, Moore reported, has put up 110 tons of red top cane that he cut from nine acres. The yield was exceptional, but there are some that are doing nearly as well.

Galen Dalton, who dug one silo several years by hand, because he could not afford to hire the work done, and who later added another, also by hand, enlarged both this year. He has 200 tons of ensilage.

Dalton has added sheep to his livestock program and has increased his other livestock.

Low Cost Steam Heat---
Without a Furnace, Boiler or Basement

Keep your family comfortably and safely warm with Clow Gasteam Radiators—the radiators that make their own steam heat with gas. There is nothing like radiant heat for warming your floors—children can play on them without catching cold. Radiant heat is the kind of heat you get from the sun, and a good part of the heat delivered by a Gasteam Radiator is radiant heat. Another advantage is that Gasteam Radiators never exceed safe surface temperatures.

For store or office heating, Gasteam Radiators supply uniform heat without drafts, and are the most durable individual heating units on the market. Gasteam Radiators are put under windows or near doors where they warm cold air as it enters room, and prevent cold floor drafts.

There are Gasteam sizes to meet every use. They are easy to install, easy to use, and quickly available in your locality. See your Gasteam Representative Today and get an estimate.

Monday's Dope Bucket

By Collier Parris

MUCH AS WE ADORE the Brooklyn Bums (and little as we bet on 'em) we do wish they wouldn't take "Brooklyn" baseball quite so far.

It's one thing to steal second with the bases loaded—that comes under the head of good, clean Brooklyn baseball fun; it's entirely different, and somewhat complicated, when the Brooklyn pitcher has whoofed the "last batsman" in the last inning to protect his lead and square the World Series. Only to see said batsman take first base safely because the catcher lost the ball and thus set up the rally that put the damnyankees ahead.

The series probably will be over and all but forgotten before some of you read these lines, since the same column appears in both the early and late editions.

It goes without saying that the Yankees of the American League comprise the better baseball unit in major league baseball. They were supposed to win the World Series, mainly because they're the Yankees. It's a habit, only once interrupted these last half dozen years. Or something like that.

The fact that a lot of persons, cash customers and otherwise, were pulling for a Brooklyn series victory doesn't alter the more solid fact that the Yanks have what it takes when it needs taking. Our guess is that the world's biggest baseball show runs out this afternoon, and this is written of a late Sunday night.

That horrible break of yesterday, or Sunday, when the Brooklyns had a 4-3 lead and had the Yanks out in the ninth, so far as the pitching and fielding (leave out the catcher) were concerned, that bad break probably broke the Dodger morale. The Dodgers might win today, but if they do they're pretty sure to lose tomorrow.

You can't take chances

With them darn Yankees.

Personally, the Dodgers have pleased us very much by winning the National League pennant. They had to do some tall scrapping to put the deal over, but they came through and they deserve all the credit.

Brooklyn baseball will "out," however, and the Dodgers have kicked two World Series games away. Loss of Billy Herman at second base, and the substituting of Coscarart cost the Saturday game. One little lapse by a catcher cost the Sunday game.

But what a series! And who wouldn't give a ton to see the windup!

A FEW OTHER ATHLETIC organizations come in for a bit of spleen venting today.

How is it, for instance, that Alabama allows itself to be defeated by Mississippi State? California by Washington State? Georgetown by V. P. I.? Hardin-Simmons by North Texas State Teachers? Pittsburgh by Purdue? Southern Methodist by Fordham (clip off the last 38 seconds and we won)? Virginia by Yale (Virginia led 19-0 at halftime and we'd picked the Cavaliers to win by 17 points)? and Wisconsin by Marquette? That was a tragedy, for Wisconsin and a major blow for recognition by Marquette's new coach, Tom Stidham.

The bookmakers and the "card" sharps really got well last week.

As for the Parris Pigskin Picks, we had 57 games called correctly out of a possible 72. There were two tie games, and it's downright robbery. The average of .803 isn't as good as we'd hoped for, but it elevated the total for the season to up around .800.

PERSONAL NOTE to six sarcastic and anonymous (but totally within their rights) "regular readers" (they said) and several who were not so sarcastic and less anonymous:

Owing to the "budget" and other things, we were not able to have a sports staff correspondent at the recent Texas Tech-Oklahoma Aggie football game. We agree that this looked right "pitiful" in view of the fact that the Fort Worth Star Telegram sent a man to Oklahoma City a day in advance, for an "advance" story, and who remained to "cover" the game for that paper, and who wrote at least two additional stories concerning the Red Raiders. (We are glad the assignment was given to Frank Tolbert, a former Texas Tech pupil who "broke in" as a journalist in our department, and who has successfully peddled a story to Collier's magazine, which will appear in an early issue. The story concerns Masonic Home's Mighty Mites, who aren't such mites this year).

We hope to "staff" the remainder of Texas Tech's out of town games, beginning with this week's contest in Los Angeles with Loyola, but circumstances beyond the sports editor's control prohibited personal coverage of last week's game at Oklahoma City. The Star Telegram Sunday edition coming to these parts carried prominent photographic, as well as verbal, displays highly favorable to Texas Tech, and for these favors we are grateful.

The Red Raiders, hardly the worse for wear after the clash with the Oklahoma Aggies, have two days at home before taking off for Los Angeles and the fourth tilt on the West Coast with the Loyola Lions. They leave Wednesday.

If you or you or you, a Tech fan, plan to make the trip, you'd better give Ray Forbes a call right away at the Santa Fe office. This is the deadline. In fact, unless you see this in the noon edition, the deadline is past, so far as a special rate is concerned.

Jenkins Meets Fred Cochrane

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Promoter Mike Jacoks, having tried almost everything else, tonight presents a boxing card at Madison Square Garden on which two champions meet each other in the main event with neither title at stake.

Lew Jenkins, the frail looking power puncher from Sweetwater, Texas, who is the world lightweight boss, mixes for 10 rounds or less with Freddie Cochrane, the newly enthroned king of all the welterweights.

Trained This Time

Although Cochrane will weigh about eight pounds more than the 135-pound Texan, Jenkins is the 5 to 8 choice of the betting fraternity.

Jenkins is favored primarily because he gave up his motorcycles and kept out of the bright spots during the training period. Also, because he has signed with Jacobs to defend his New York recognized title against Sammy Angott, the NBA champion, soon.

In the past, a serious Jenkins always has meant a tough Jenkins.

Another Big Week End Of Grid Classics On Deck

Major Elevens Stopped Early

Texas And Sooners To Clash Saturday

BY HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 — From the returns to date, the only safe bet this dizzy football season is that there is no safe bet.

Favorites topple like so many trees before the woodsman's axe, and form has no meaning because it changes so rapidly from week to week.

Never before have so many top-ranking teams been beaten so early in the campaign — Tennessee, Albama, Georgetown, North Carolina, Mississippi, Southern California, California, Boston College, Wisconsin, to mention only a few. And it looks like things will get worse before they get better.

Irish Meet Georgia Tech

This week's program stresses intersectional competition all along the line except in the Far West where upset after upset last week struck down all the favorites except Stanford's Rose Bowl champions.

Notre Dame, which scored its second victory in a row with Indiana as the victim 19-6, and Dippy Evans as the scoring start, clashes next with Georgia Tech's light and clever array at Atlanta. Florida plays host to Villanova's Wildcats who rolled over Centre, 38-3. Fordham's Rams, paced to a sensational 16-10 conquest of Southern Methodist by Steve Filipowicz, invade Chapel Hill to battle North Carolina, 20-0 victor over Davidson.

Texas, Oklahoma Clash

In the Midwest, Indiana, already beaten twice, faces another testing opponent in Texas Christian's Horned Frogs who captured the opening game of the Southwest conference season from Arkansas, 9-0.

Leading an invasion of the East will be Texas A. and M. and Clemson's Tigers, Southern conference champions. Texas A. and M., a power in the Southwest for several years, meets New York university which barely got past Lafayette, 6-0, while Clemson tackles Boston College.

Rounding out the intersectional attractions, Tulane's Green Wave, which swamped Auburn, 32-0, in another convincing display of sheer power, tackles Rice at Houston; Texas, which rolled over Louisiana State, 34-0, and may be the team of the year, collides with Oklahoma of the Big Six conference. Southern Methodist will play College of Pacific at Tyler, Texas.

Crain To Lead Texas Against Oklahomans

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Walton Crain, hipper-dipper hip-shaker for the marauding Texas Longhorns, has a date Saturday in Dallas at the state fair with his country cousins.

The Cowboy from Nocona plans to look over the cattle and about 2:30 in the afternoon fill an engagement with the Oklahoma Sooners against whom in two years he has scored three touchdowns and missed another by 36 inches.

Headlines Grid Program

The Cowboy halfback with a compass on his feet reached his peak against O. U. in 1939 when as a sophomore — his team trailing 17-0—he entered the game late and on the first play raced 82 yards for a touchdown. Two minutes later he did the same. Texas lost 24-12.

Last year he took a lateral, sped down the west sideline for 68 yards and was knocked out of bounds on the one-yard line (pictures showed he went over). Then in the final minutes he brought Texas a breath-taking 19-16 victory with a dash around left end.

The traditional Texas-O. U. battle headlines the Southwest picture this weekend. The Sooners are operating under their new coach, tricky Snorter Luster, and are packed with poison.

The Steers, a favorite for the Southwest conference title, Saturday blasted Louisiana State whom they hadn't beaten since 1910 by 34-0.

Using old-fashioned, bone-chilling blocking, Texas time and again shook loose Crain, Captain Pete Layden, Spec Sanders and that brilliant spindly-legged sophomore, Walton Roberts.

Pat Comiskey Hurt In Motorcycle Accident

It Couldn't Happen—But It Did!

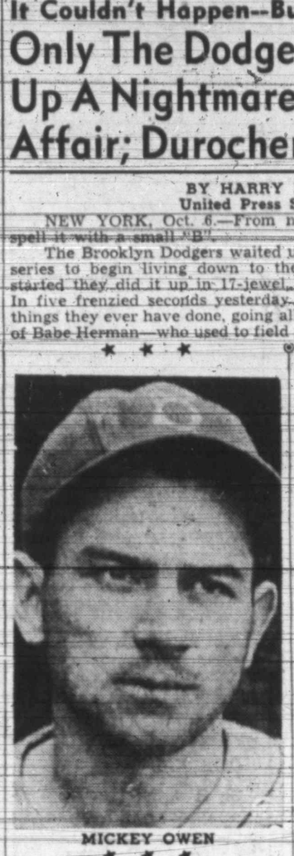

Only The Dodgers Could Dream Up A Nightmare Like Sunday's Affair; Durocher Blames Cops

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—From now on when you call 'em bums spell it with a small "B".

The Brooklyn Dodgers waited until the fourth game of the World series to begin living down to their reputation, but once they got started they did it up in 17-jewel, straight eight, a la carte fashion. In five frenzied seconds yesterday they surpassed all the incredible things they ever have done, going all the way back to the glorious days of Babe Herman—who used to field flies by letting them hit him on top of the head.

The Dodgers may lose the World series—in fact, they have just about as much chance to win it as Mickey Owen has to get a raise—but their fame is secure in the annals of baseball. No one ever will equal their feat of yesterday.

Had It Won

They became the only team to win and lose a World series game on one pitch.

For a fragment of a second the Dodgers had defeated the Yankees, 4 to 3, and evened the series at two games each. They were victors long enough for a yell of triumph to go up from the Flatbush faithful and for police to swarm onto the field to protect the bums from their frenzied adherents.

There were two out in the Yankees' half of the ninth, the Dodgers were leading by one run and the count on the batter—Tommy Henrich—was three and two. Hugh Casey, Brooklyn pitcher, was one pitch away from victory. He reared back and gave it all he had. The ball came up like a bullet, broke low and inside to the left-handed Henrich and the batter took a mighty swipe. He missed. It was the third strike and the third out. Or rather it would have been the third out if any other team except the Dodgers had been playing.

Even Henrich Convinced

The crowd thought Henrich was out. The police thought he was out. In fact, as he revealed later, Henrich himself thought he was out. But he looked down the first base line and saw Coach Earl Combs frantically waving at him to run. So Henrich ran, and when he got to first base he turned and saw a strange sight.

He saw Mickey Owen, Dodger catcher, clear back by the grandstand just completing a throw to first base. Then he knew why Combs had been so busily wigwagging him to run. The ball had plunked against Owen's glove and gone bouncing back to the wall. Tucked away in the rules of baseball is a provision that the batter may run if the catcher fails to hold a third strike.

It Was A Nightmare—

By now, of course, you know what happened next. Yankees hit singles. Yankees hit doubles. Yankees received intentional passes and unintentional passes. Yankees poured across the plate with four runs before Casey got the side out.

About a half hour later reporters entered the Dodger dressing room and asked Owen if he would like to make the opening statement for the defense.

"It was like this," he said, sitting on the edge of a rubbing table. "I went after it, but the ball hit the edge of my glove and spun away. By the time I got fairly started after it Henrich was on first and there were policemen all over the place. I don't know what else I can say except that it was just one of those things."

Manager Leo Durocher had a briefer, more pungent explanation:

"It was all the fault of them —— —— —— cops," he said, remaining faithful to the Brooklyn idiom in his hour of gravest trial.

Sports Roundup—

Owen Now Has Place In Game

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Warning: Don't go around today to ask Mickey Owen about those pictures that prove a baseball won't curve . . . When Mickey couldn't hang onto that jughandle curve Hugh Casey threw to fan Henrich, there were enough open mouths in Ebbets field to hold all the herring in Brownsville . . . It wasn't all Mickey's fault, but that one play put him among the historic goats, like Charley Schmidt, who did exactly the same thing back in 1907. Fred Snodgrass' muff in 1912, Heinie Zimmerman's foot-race with Eddie Collins across the plate in 1917, and Miljus' wild pitch that lost a game in 1927 are some of the other plays they still remember . . . They used to say a ball game wasn't over until the last out. Now it isn't over even then. . . . It all goes to prove that you can't afford to make any mistakes against a club like the Yankees. . . The Dodgers made at least two. The second was to put a pitch where Keller could reach it after he had nearly broken his back missing the first two . . . In fact, so many strange things happened in that game that it was surprising to find that Red Frizzell was not the umpire.

IT HAPPENED IN BROOKLYN

Larry French had a chance to become the winning pitcher by throwing one wild pitch . . . When he heaved it into the dirt it spelled the end of a Yank rally. Sturm and Rizzuto were caught off base and Reese outsprinted the scooter to put him out. The only trouble for Larry was that too many things happened after he left . . . The funny business started in the first inning when Coscarat had to detour around an umpire while he was chasing a high foul . . . When Higbe started to get into trouble, someone remarked: "He had too much rest—nine days." . . . And when Casey turned up as the fourth Dodger flinger, the same guy asked if they would get Fitz out of the hospital next . . . The maddest guys in town today (except the Dodgers) probably are the fans who left in the eighth inning. The ones who were left didn't have much to say at the finish. They started hollering for each

Big Week End Set For District Play

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Favorites stood out in the Texas schoolboy football face today like handprints on wet paint.

Few blows have been struck in conference play but sectional struggles have served as the gauge to push such powers as Masonic Home, Paris, Temple, Sunset (Dallas), Lufkin and Corpus Christi to the fore with Amarillo, Sweetwater, Reagan (Houston), Jeff Davis (Houston) and Goose Creek getting their share of the votes.

Busy Schedule Set

These eleven teams, along with 22 others, are unbeaten in three full weeks of play and all except Jeff Davis are undefeated and untied. Davis' tie came last week but it was against a worthy foe, the powerful Austin Maroons who lost to Temple but looked like a million while so doing.

Other teams without blemish on their records are Pampa, Denison, Cisco, Hillsboro, Waco, Gladewater, Lamar (Houston), Conroe, McAllen and Harlingen.

A busy schedule comes up this week-end with conference games, for the first time, outnumbering all others. There are 28 of them, involving twelve districts, and bringing all but two districts—the Panhandle and North Texas—into conference play.

"Perfect" Records On Line

Two games involving undefeated, untied teams are carded and both are conference affairs, Gladewater clashing with Marshall in District 11 and John Reagan tangling with Lamar in the Houston sector.

Then in Central Texas Waco meets Waxahachie, an unbeaten team once tied.

Stock of the Amarillo Sandies, long rated one of the state's top outfits, fell somewhat last week when Brackenridge (San Antonio) held the Panhandle team to a 6-0 margin. Brackenridge had lost to San Jacinto of Houston, an eleven swamped by Lufkin.

Lubbock, ranked by some as stronger than Amarillo, didn't help its cause much by playing an unsatisfactory scoreless tie with Vernon, a team Amarillo beat by a touchdown.

Wichita Falls plays Vernon this week in a game that might well be the title affair in District 2.

The so-called Big Six had little trouble last week, Masonic Home beating tough Highland Park 18-6, Paris crushing Sulphur Springs 32-0, Sunset running over Brownwood 47-7, Lufkin smashing Forest (Dallas) 39-0 and Corpus Christi downing Greenville 32-0. Temple rested.

Columbus Cops Third Little World Series

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 6. (U.P.)—The Columbus Redbirds of the American association today had Outfielder Harry Walker to thank for their third little World series championship.

The Red Bird center fielder slammed a three-run homer in the last of the ninth inning yesterday that gave Columbus a 9 to 8 win over the Montreal Royals of the International league.

The winning hit came off 19-year-old Chet Kehn, the fourth Montreal hurler who had tried to stem the 14-hit attack of the Redbirds.

"Destiny's Dopes" Given A Roasting

BY MARTIN KANE,
United Press Sports Writer

FANTASY FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 6.—This is a dizzy, Disneyesque land where nothing is real. The third strike for the third out in the ninth inning doesn't end the ball game here. The Wizard of Oz? This is his home.

They say that on Walpurgis eve the ghosts of old Dodgers come out on Ebbets field and play a game of ball backwards. The pitcher stands at home plate and the batter on the pitcher's mound, they run the bases from third to first, the umpires are always right and the third strike for the third out always starts a batting rally.

There is something sinister about it. What are they trying to do to baseball? Was that a spectre stirring up the dust around first base or just the breeze from Leo Durocher's coaching box? What phantom rules this plot of land, this earth, this realm, this Brooklyn? What goes on here?

No Reason In It

Look, it stands to reason that when a guy has three strikes on him he's out.

Reason has nothing to do with it, sonny. I can remember back to Sunday afternoon when two and two made four. Beyond that it's kind of hazy. I've heard talk about three terms for president. And prohibition. When are they going to enforce it? I'm an old man now. Old before my time, and my memory isn't so good any more. Things are all mixed up. So Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins across home plate eh? That doesn't seem so long ago. Just like yesterday.

What baseball needs is fiber helmets for ball players, only they should get them when they are babies to protect their heads when they fall out of high chairs.

And root up all this marijuana weed that grows around here.

If you would loosen this straitjacket I could breathe easier.

We were talking about the Dodgers, weren't we? A great ball team. They always come through in the clutch. A ball game isn't over till the third out in the ninth, they always say.

They said that Salvadore Dali is a great painter. He never painted nothing like this. Let him come out to this ball park, sonny, and we will show him stuff to curdle his color scheme. And if Groucho Marx means it when he says he is quitting the movies, well, here is his chance. I have been scouting him for some time now and he is about ripe. When he gets overripe we will send for him.

Has New Name

What's Roy Riegels doing these days? Of course, he was a football player but he had the makin's. He was brought up wrong, is all. Many a good boy goes wrong and ends up playing the pinball machines when the Dodgers are just starving for material. If it was a pinball machine yesterday all the lights would have flashed, the bells would have rung and then the damn thing would have tilted.

Bingo. Take two and hit to right. Old Dodgers never die, they only fade away. Don't call them bums anymore. I like to think of them as "destiny's dopes."-Don't tell me those men in white coats are selling hot dogs. I know what they're here for.

Vast Anti-German Plot Bared In Czechoslovakia

High Officials Are Involved

(By The United Press)

BERLIN, Oct. 6 — Press dispatches from Prague today, giving details of the trial of Gen. Alois Elias, premier of the Czech areas, purported to disclose a vast espionage, terrorist and propaganda plot in which hundreds of the most prominent men of former Czechoslovakia were active.

Highest government officials, former army generals, civil servants, municipal officials and others, it was alleged, were bound in a plot of enormous scope. Former Czechoslovak army intelligence officers, ostensibly kept together to "watch public opinion," actually obtained military information.

Czech Secret Society

It was alleged that there was a Czech secret society of widest ramifications, aimed at "liquidating" German sympathizers and helping Czechs escape abroad.

It was alleged that Czech officials who pretended to be cooperating with the Germans had for two years been actively opposing the Germans by all means.

First details of the trial of Elias, who was condemned to death, came in a Prague dispatch to the newspaper Neue Tag. It said that Elias was charged with:

Charges Are Listed

Taking part in a conspiracy organized by generals named Inger and Neumann.

Taking part in an espionage organization organized by M. Schmoranz, chief of the Czech cabinet press department.

Taking part in an illegal organization created by Mayor Otokar Klapka of Prague.

Assisting well known Czech personalities, especially one Gen. Cihka and two ministers, to escape abroad.

Possessing knowledge of numerous other "illegal" activities, including the increasing of the influence of "enemy" propaganda among the Czech people "without fulfilling his duty as premier by taking steps himself of informing German authorities."

Assured Of Loyalty

The dispatch said the prosecutor accused Elias of repeatedly assuring German authorities of his loyalty, and that thus he was further guilty of "double dealing in that the went behind the back" of the Germans.

It was asserted that immediately after the German dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, Press Chief Schmoranz organized a "press supervision service" in which he included all former intelligence officers of the Czechoslovak army. These officers, under the pretense of "watching public opinion," actually obtained military information, it was alleged.

The dispatch said Elias admitted he had had knowledge of this activity and had received information of German troop movements and the construction of strategic highways.

Escape Was Made

The dispatch quoted testimony that as one of the activities of this military organization, one General Inger directed the escape of Czechs abroad and that General Neumann headed a terrorist group "aimed at liquidating German sympathizers."

It was said that Elais pleaded "partly" guilty to charges but denied that he had taken part in the terrorist-escape organization.

Mayor Klapka was said to have testified that he had created from "public monies" a big secret fund to support the families of Czech patriots who escaped abroad.

Klapka was quoted that he had attempted to work loyally with the Germans but had been induced by Elias to take part in "illegal" activities. It was alleged that Klapka said Elias had assured him that German rule in Czechoslovakia was only temporary and independence would be restored soon.

According to the Nazi dispatches, Elias denied this and then he and Klapka engaged in a "dramatic duel on the witness stand, confronting each other, glaring with hatred as deadly enemies."

Members of the German court took 45 minutes to sentence Elias to death, it was said.

Texas Hog Shipments Gain During August

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (Special)—With the total number of carloads of Texas livestock shipped in 1941 to date approximately the same as those of 1940, hog shipments alone have increased, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

The January 1-September 1, 1941, figure for hog shipments is 27.7 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago, the report shows, while cattle, calves, and sheep movements have dropped 2.8, 10.4 and 5.3 per cent, respectively.

Total shipments have declined 5.6 per cent from August, 1940, with a 16 per cent slump in calves offset by a 9.7 per cent increase in hog shipments.

Surveying Course Is Offered At NTSTC

DENTON, Oct. 6.—A surveying course which will serve as a background for students wishing to enter national defense work in that field is being offered by the mathematics department of the North Texas State Teachers college this term.

The surveying course, which was taught for the first time during the summer, includes plane surveying, the use and care of surveying instruments, and elementary map making. The surveying area includes the campus, the city of Denton, and surrounding territory.

Monday's Dope Bucket

By Collier Parris

MUCH AS WE ADORE the Brooklyn Bums (and little as we bet on 'em) we do wish they wouldn't take "Brooklyn" baseball quite so far.

It's one thing to steal second with the bases loaded—that comes under the head of good, clean Brooklyn baseball fun; it's entirely different, and somewhat complicated, when the Brooklyn pitcher has whooped the "last batsman" in the last inning to protect his lead and square the World Series. Only to see said batsman take first base safely because the catcher lost the ball and thus set up the rally that put the damnyankees ahead.

The series probably will be over and all but forgotten before some of you read these lines, since the same column appears in both the early and late editions.

It goes without saying that the Yankees of the American League comprise the better baseball unit in major league baseball. They were supposed to win the World Series, mainly because they're the Yankees. It's a habit, only once interrupted these last half dozen years. Or something like that.

The fact that a lot of persons, cash customers and otherwise, were pulling for a Brooklyn series victory doesn't alter the more solid fact that the Yanks have what it takes when it needs taking. Our guess is that the world's biggest baseball show runs out this afternoon, and this is written of a late Sunday night.

That horrible break of yesterday, or Sunday, when the Brooklyns had a 4-3 lead and had the Yanks out in the ninth, so far as the pitching and fielding (leave out the catcher) were concerned, that bad break probably broke the Dodger morale. The Dodgers might win today, but if they do they're pretty sure to lose tomorrow.

You can't take chances

With them darn Yankees.

Personally, the Dodgers have pleased us very much by winning the National League pennant. They had to do some tall scrapping to put the deal over, but they came through and they deserve all the credit.

Brooklyn baseball will "out," however, and the Dodgers have kicked two World Series games away. Loss of Billy Herman at second base, and the substituting of Coscarart cost the Saturday game. One little lapse by a catcher cost the Sunday game.

But what a series! And who wouldn't give a ton to see the windup!

A FEW OTHER ATHLETIC organizations come in for a bit of spleen venting today.

How is it, for instance, that Alabama allows itself to be defeated by Mississippi State? California by Washington State? Georgetown by V. P. I.? Hardin-Simmons by North Texas State Teachers? Pittsburgh by Purdue? Southern Methodist by Fordham (clip off the last 38 seconds and we won)? Virginia by Yale (Virginia led 19-0 at halftime and we'd picked the Cavaliers to win by 17 points)? and Wisconsin by Marquette? That was a tragedy, for Wisconsin and a major blow for recognition by Marquette's new coach, Tom Stidham.

The bookmakers and the "card" sharps really got well last week.

As for the Parris Pigskin Picks, we had 57 games called correctly out of a possible 72. There were two tie games, and it's downright robbery. The average of .803 isn't as good as we'd hoped for, but it elevated the total for the season to up around .800.

PERSONAL NOTE to six sarcastic and anonymous (but totally within their rights) "regular readers" (they said) and several who were not so sarcastic and less anonymous:

Owing to the "budget" and other things, we were not able to have a sports staff correspondent at the recent Texas Tech-Oklahoma Aggie football game. We agree that this looked right "pitiful" in view of the fact that the Fort Worth Star Telegram sent a man to Oklahoma City a day in advance, for an "advance" story, and who remained to "cover" the game for that paper, and who wrote at least two additional stories concerning the Red Raiders. (We are glad the assignment was given to Frank Tolbert, a former Texas Tech pupil who "broke in" as a journalist in our department, and who has successfully peddled a story to Collier's magazine, which will appear in an early issue. The story concerns Masonic Home's Mighty Mites, who aren't such mites this year).

We hope to "staff" the remainder of Texas Tech's out of town games, beginning with this week's contest in Los Angeles with Loyola, but circumstances beyond the sports editor's control prohibited personal coverage of last week's game at Oklahoma City. The Star Telegram Sunday edition coming to these parts carried prominent photographic, as well as verbal, displays highly favorable to Texas Tech, and for these favors we are grateful.

The Red Raiders, hardly the worse for wear after the clash with the Oklahoma Aggies, have two days at home before taking off for Los Angeles and the fourth tilt on the West Coast with the Loyola Lions. They leave Wednesday.

If you or you or you, a Tech fan, plan to make the trip, you'd better give Ray Forbes a call right away at the Santa Fe office. This is the deadline. In fact, unless you see this in the noon edition, the deadline is past, so far as a special rate is concerned.

are confident that Lee will end the series.

Jenkins Meets Fred Cochrane

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Promoter Mike Jacoks, having tried almost everything else, tonight presents a boxing card at Madison Square Garden on which two champions meet each other in the main event with neither title at stake.

Lew Jenkins, the frail looking power puncher from Sweetwater, Texas, who is the world lightweight boss, mixes for 10 rounds or less with Freddie Cochrane, the newly enthroned king of all the welterweights.

Trained This Time

Although Cochrane will weigh about eight pounds more than the 135-pound Texan, Jenkins is the 5 to 8 choice of the betting fraternity.

Jenkins is favored primarily because he gave up his motorcycles and kept out of the bright spots during the training period. Also, because he has signed with Jacobs to defend his New York recognized title against Sammy Angott, the NBA champion, soon.

In the past, a serious Jenkins always has meant a tough Jenkins.

Another Big Week End Of Grid Classics On Deck

Major Elevens Stopped Early

Texas And Sooners To Clash Saturday

BY HERB BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 — From the returns to date, the only safe bet this dizzy football season is that there is no safe bet.

Favorites topple like so many trees before the woodsman's axe, and form has no meaning because it changes so rapidly from week to week.

Never before have so many top-ranking teams been beaten so early in the campaign — Tennessee, Albama, Georgetown, North Carolina, Mississippi, Southern California, California, Boston College, Wisconsin, to mention only a few. And it looks like things will get worse before they get better.

Irish Meet Georgia Tech

This week's program stresses intersectional competition all along the line except in the Far West where upset after upset last week struck down all the favorites except Stanford's Rose Bowl champions.

Notre Dame, which scored its second victory in a row with Indiana as the victim 19-6, and Dippy Evans as the scoring start, clashes next with Georgia Tech's light and clever array at Atlanta. Florida plays host to Villanova's Wildcats who rolled over Centre, 38-3. Fordham's Rams, paced to a sensational 16-10 conquest of Southern Methodist by Steve Filipowicz, invade Chapel Hill to battle North Carolina, 20-0 victor over Davidson.

Texas, Oklahoma Clash

In the Midwest, Indiana, already beaten twice, faces another testing opponent in Texas Christian's Horned Frogs who captured the opening game of the Southwest conference season from Arkansas, 9-0.

Leading an invasion of the East will be Texas A. and M. and Clemson's Tigers, Southern conference champions. Texas A. and M., a power in the Southwest for several years, meets New York university which barely got past Lafayette, 6-0, while Clemson tackles Boston College.

Rounding out the intersectional attractions, Tulane's Green Wave, which swamped Auburn, 32-0, in another convincing display of sheer power, tackles Rice at Houston; Texas, which rolled over Louisiana State, 34-0, and may be the team of the year, collides with Oklahoma of the Big Six conference. Southern Methodist will play College of Pacific at Tyler, Texas.

Crain To Lead Texas Against Oklahomans

(By The Associated Press)

Jack Walton Crain, hipper-dipper hip-shaker for the marauding Texas Longhorns, has a date Saturday in Dallas at the state fair with his country cousins.

The Cowboy from Nocona plans to look over the cattle and about 2:30 in the afternoon fill an engagement with the Oklahoma Sooners against whom in two years he has scored three touchdowns and missed another by 36 inches.

Headlines Grid Program

The Cowboy halfback with a compass on his feet reached his peak against O. U. in 1939 when as a sophomore — his team trailing 17-0—he entered the game late and on the first play raced 82 yards for a touchdown. Two minutes later he did the same. Texas lost 24-12.

Last year he took a lateral, sped down the west sideline for 68 yards and was knocked out of bounds on the one-yard line (pictures showed he went over). Then in the final minutes he brought Texas a breath-taking 19-16 victory with a dash around left end.

The traditional Texas-O. U. battle headlines the Southwest picture this weekend. The Sooners are operating under their new coach, tricky Snorter Luster, and are packed with poison.

The Steers, a favorite for the Southwest conference title, Saturday blasted Louisiana State whom they hadn't beaten since 1910 by 34-0.

Using old-fashioned, bone-chilling blocking, Texas time and again shook loose Crain, Captain Pete Layden, Spec Sanders and that brilliant spindly-legged sophomore, Walton Roberts.

Pat Comiskey Hurt In Motorcycle Accident

It Couldn't Happen--But It Did!

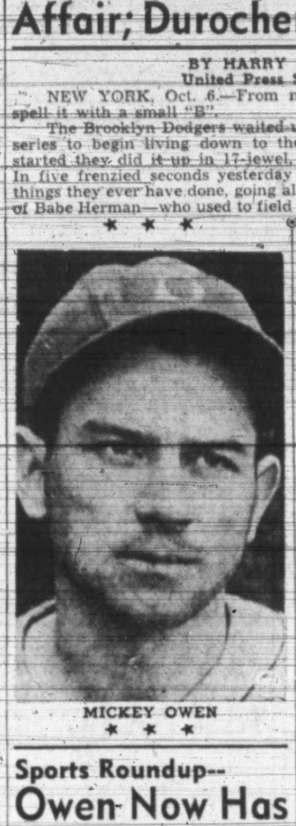

Only The Dodgers Could Dream Up A Nightmare Like Sunday's Affair; Durocher Blames Cops

BY HARRY FERGUSON
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—From now on when you call 'em bums spell it with a small "B".

The Brooklyn Dodgers waited until the fourth game of the World series to begin living down to their reputation, but once they got started they did it up in 17-jewel, straight eight, a la carte fashion. In five frenzied seconds yesterday they surpassed all the incredible things they ever have done, going all the way back to the glorious days of Babe Herman—who used to field flies by letting them hit him on top of the head.

The Dodgers may lose the World series—in fact, they have just about as much chance to win it as Mickey Owen has to get a raise—but their fame is secure in the annals of baseball. No one ever will equal their feat of yesterday.

Had It Won

They became the only team to win and lose a World series game on one pitch.

For a fragment of a second the Dodgers had defeated the Yankees, 4 to 3, and evened the series at two games each. They were victors long enough for a yell of triumph to go up from the Flatbush faithful and for police to swarm onto the field to protect the bums from their frenzied adherents.

There were two out in the Yankees' half of the ninth, the Dodgers were leading by one run and the count on the batter—Tommy Henrich—was three and two. Hugh Casey, Brooklyn pitcher, was one pitch away from victory. He reared back and gave it all he had. The ball came up like a bullet, broke low and inside to the left-handed Henrich and the batter took a mighty swipe. He missed. It was the third strike and the third out. Or rather it would have been the third out if any other team except the Dodgers had been playing.

Even Henrich Convinced

The crowd thought Henrich was out. The police thought he was out. In fact, as he revealed later, Henrich himself thought he was out. But he looked down the first base line and saw Coach Earl Combs frantically waving at him to run. So Henrich ran, and when he got to first base he turned and saw a strange sight.

He saw Mickey Owen, Dodger catcher, clear back by the grandstand just completing a throw to first base. Then he knew why Combs had been so busily wigwagging him to run. The ball had plunked against Owen's glove and gone bouncing back to the wall. Tucked away in the rules of baseball is a provision that the batter may run if the catcher fails to hold a third strike.

It Was A Nightmare

By now, of course, you know what happened next. Yankees hit singles. Yankees hit doubles. Yankees received intentional passes and unintentional passes. Yankees poured across the plate with four runs before Casey got the side out.

About a half hour later reporters entered the Dodger dressing room and asked Owen if he would like to make the opening statement for the defense.

"It was like this," he said, sitting on the edge of a rubbing table. "I went after it, but the ball hit the edge of my glove and spun away. By the time I got fairly started after it Henrich was on first and there were policemen all over the place. I don't know what else I can say except that it was just one of those things."

Manager Leo Durocher had a briefer, more pungent explanation:

"It was all the fault of them —— —— —— cops," he said, remaining faithful to the Brooklyn idiom in his hour of gravest trial.

Sports Roundup--

Owen Now Has Place In Game

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Warning: Don't go around today to ask Mickey Owen about those pictures that prove a baseball won't curve . . . When Mickey couldn't hang onto that jughandle curve Hugh Casey threw to fan Henrich, there were enough open mouths in Ebbets field to hold all the herring in Brownsville . . . It wasn't all Mickey's fault, but that one play put him among the historic goats, like Charley Schmidt, who did exactly the same thing back in 1907. Fred Snodgrass' muff in 1912, Heinie Zimmerman's foot-race with Eddie Collins across the plate in 1917, and Miljus' wild pitch that lost a game in 1927 are some of the other plays they still remember . . . They used to say a ball game wasn't over until the last out. Now it isn't over even then. . . . It all goes to prove that you can't afford to make any mistakes against a club like the Yankees. . . The Dodgers made at least two. The second was to put a pitch where Keller could reach it after he had nearly broken his back missing the first two . . . In fact, so many strange things happened in that game that it was surprising to find that Red Friesell was not the umpire.

IT HAPPENED IN BROOKLYN

Larry French had a chance to become the winning pitcher by throwing one wild pitch . . . When he heaved it into the dirt it spelled the end of a Yank rally. Sturm and Rizzuto were caught off base and Reese outsprinted the scooter to put him out. The only trouble for Larry was that too many things happened after he left . . . The funny business started in the first inning when Coscarat had to detour around an umpire while he was chasing a high foul . . . When Higbe started to get into trouble, someone remarked: "He had too much rest—nine days." . . . And when Casey turned up as the fourth Dodger flinger, the same guy asked if they would get Fitz out of the hospital next . . . The maddest guys in town today (except the Dodgers) probably are the fans who left in the eighth inning. The ones who were left didn't have much to say at the finish. They started hollering for each

Big Week End Set For District Play

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Favorites stood out in the Texas schoolboy football race today like handprints on wet paint.

Few blows have been struck in conference play but sectional struggles have served as the gauge to push such powers as Masonic Home, Paris, Temple, Sunset (Dallas), Lufkin and Corpus Christi to the fore with Amarillo, Sweetwater, Reagan (Houston), Jeff Davis (Houston) and Goose Creek getting their share of the votes.

Busy Schedule Set

These eleven teams, along with 22 others, are unbeaten in three full weeks of play and all except Jeff Davis are undefeated and untied. Davis' tie came last week but it was against a worthy foe, the powerful Austin Maroons who lost to Temple but looked like a million while so doing.

Other teams without blemish on their records are Pampa, Denison, Cisco, Hillsboro, Waco, Gladewater, Lamar (Houston), Conroe, McAllen and Harlingen.

A busy schedule comes up this week-end with conference games, for the first time, outnumbering all others. There are 28 of them, involving twelve districts, and bringing all but two districts—the Panhandle and North Texas—into conference play.

"Perfect" Records On Line

Two games involving undefeated, untied teams are carded and both are conference affairs, Gladewater clashing with Marshall in District 11 and John Reagan tangling with Lamar in the Houston sector.

Then in Central, Texas Waco meets Waxahachie, an unbeaten team once tied.

Stock of the Amarillo Sandies, long rated one of the state's top outfits, fell somewhat last week when Brackenridge (San Antonio) held the Panhandle team to a 6-0 margin. Brackenridge had lost to San Jacinto of Houston, an eleven swamped by Lufkin.

Lubbock, ranked by some as stronger than Amarillo, didn't help its cause much by playing an unsatisfactory scoreless tie with Vernon, a team Amarillo beat by a touchdown.

Wichita Falls plays Vernon this week in a game that might well be the title affair in District 2.

The so-called Big Six had little trouble last week, Masonic Home beating tough Highland Park 18-6, Paris crushing Sulphur Springs 32-0, Sunset running over Brownwood 47-7, Lufkin smashing Forest (Dallas) 39-0 and Corpus Christi downing Greenville 32-0. Temple rested.

Columbus Cops Third Little World Series

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 6. (U.P.)—The Columbus Redbirds of the American association today had Outfielder Harry Walker to thank for their third little World series championship.

The Red Bird center fielder slammed a three-run homer in the last of the ninth inning yesterday that gave Columbus a 9 to 6 win over the Montreal Royals of the International league.

The winning hit came off 19-year-old Chet Kehn, the fourth Montreal hurler who had tried to stem the 14-hit attack of the Redbirds.

"Destiny's Dopes" Given A Roasting

BY MARTIN KANE,
United Press Sports Writer

FANTASY FIELD, Brooklyn, Oct. 6.—This is a dizzy, Disnayesque land where nothing is real. The third strike for the third out in the ninth inning doesn't end the ball game here. The Wizard of Oz? This is his home.

They say that on Walpurgis eve the ghosts of old Dodgers come out on Ebbets field and play a game of ball backwards. The pitcher stands at home plate and the batter on the pitcher's mound, they run the bases from third to first, the umpires are always right and the third strike for the third out always starts a batting rally.

There is something sinister about it. What are they trying to do to baseball? Was that a spectre stirring up the dust around first base or just the breeze from Leo Durocher's coaching box? What phantom rules this plot of land, this earth, this realm, this Brooklyn? What goes on here?

No Reason In It

Look, it stands to reason that when a guy has three strikes on him he's out.

Reason has nothing to do with it, sonny. I can remember back to Sunday afternoon when two and two made four. Beyond that it's kind of hazy. I've heard talk about three terms for president. And prohibition. When are they going to enforce it? I'm an old man now. Old before my time, and my memory isn't so good any more. Things are all mixed up. So Heinie Zimmerman chased Eddie Collins across home plate eh? That doesn't seem so long ago. Just like yesterday.

What baseball needs is fiber helmets for ball players, only they should get them when they are babies to protect their heads when they fall out of high chairs.

And root up all this marijuana weed that grows around here.

If you would loosen this straitjacket I could breathe easier.

We were talking about the Dodgers, weren't we? A great ball team. They always come through in the clutch. A ball game isn't over till the third out in the ninth, they always say.

They said that Salvadore Dali is a great painter. He never painted nothing like this. Let him come out to this ball park, sonny, and we will show him stuff to curdle his color scheme. And if Groucho Marx means it when he says he is quitting the movies, well, here is his chance. I have been scouting him for some time now and he is about ripe. When he gets overripe we will send for him.

Has New Name

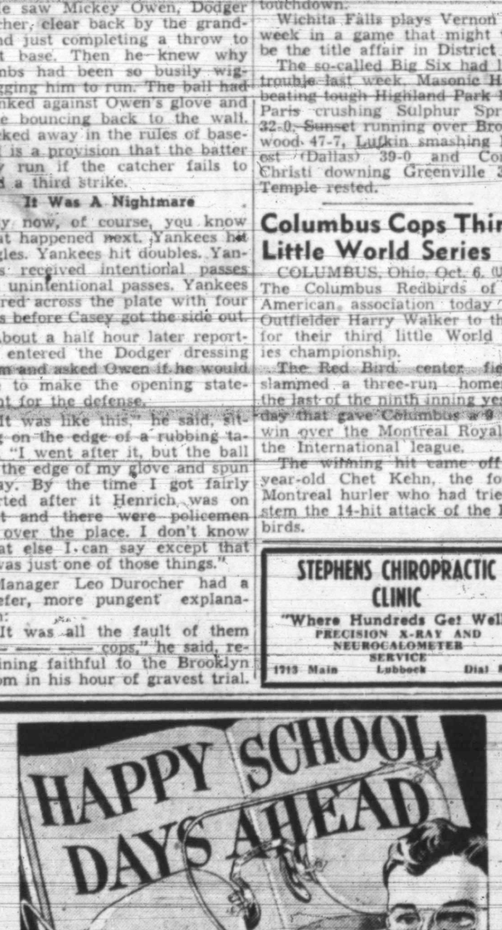

What's Roy Riegels doing these days? Of course, he was a football player but he had the makin's. He was brought up wrong, is all. Many a good boy goes wrong and ends up playing the pinball machines when the Dodgers are just starving for material. If it was a pinball machine yesterday all the lights would have flashed, the bells would have rung and then the damn thing would have tilted.

Bingo. Take two and hit to right. Old Dodgers never die, they only fade away. Don't call them bums anymore. I like to think of them as "destiny's dopes." Don't tell me those men in white coats are selling hot dogs. I know what they're here for.

Vast Anti-German Plot Bared In Czechoslovakia

High Officials Are Involved

(By The United Press)

BERLIN, Oct. 6 — Press dispatches from Prague today, giving details of the trial of Gen. Alois Elias, premier of the Czech areas, purported to disclose a vast espionage, terrorist and propaganda plot in which hundreds of the most prominent men of former Czechoslovakia were active.

Highest government officials, former army generals, civil servants, municipal officials and others, it was alleged, were bound in a plot of enormous scope. Former Czechoslovak army intelligence officers, ostensibly kept together to "watch public opinion," actually obtained military information.

Czech Secret Society

It was alleged that there was a Czech secret society of widest ramifications, aimed at "liquidating" German sympathizers and helping Czechs escape abroad.

It was alleged that Czech officials who pretended to be cooperating with the Germans had for two years been actively opposing the Germans by all means.

First details of the trial of Elias, who was condemned to death, came in a Prague dispatch to the newspaper Neue Tag. It said that Elias was charged with:

Charges Are Listed

Taking part in a conspiracy organized by generals named Inger and Neumann.

Taking part in an espionage organization organized by M. Schmoranz, chief of the Czech cabinet press department.

Taking part in an illegal organization created by Mayor Otokar Klapka of Prague.

Assisting well known Czech personalities, especially one Gen. Cihka and two ministers, to escape abroad.

Possessing knowledge of numerous other "illegal" activities, including the increasing of the influence of "enemy" propaganda among the Czech people "without fulfilling his duty as premier by taking steps himself of informing German authorities."

Assured Of Loyalty

The dispatch said the prosecutor accused Elias of repeatedly assuring German authorities of his loyalty, and that thus he was further guilty of "double dealing in that the went behind the back" of the Germans.

It was asserted that immediately after the German dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, Press Chief Schmoranz organized a "press supervision service" in which he included all former intelligence officers of the Czechoslovak army. These officers, under the pretense of "watching public opinion," actually obtained military information, it was alleged.

The dispatch said Elias admitted he had had knowledge of this activity and had received information of German troop movements and the construction of strategic highways.

Escape Was Made

The dispatch quoted testimony that as one of the activities of this military organization, one General Inger directed the escape of Czechs abroad and that General Neumann headed a terrorist group "aimed at liquidating German sympathizers."

It was said that Elais pleaded "partly" guilty to charges but denied that he had taken part in the terrorist-escape organization.

Mayor Klapka was said to have testified that he had created from "public monies" a big secret fund to support the families of Czech patriots who escaped abroad.

Klapka was quoted that he had attempted to work loyally with the Germans but had been induced by Elias to take part in "illegal" activities. It was alleged that Klapka said Elias had assured him that German rule in Czechoslovakia was only temporary and independence would be restored soon.

According to the Nazi dispatches, Elias denied this and then he and Klapka engaged in a "dramatic duel on the witness stand, confronting each other, glaring with hatred as deadly enemies."

Members of the German court took 45 minutes to sentence Elias to death, it was said.

Texas Hog Shipments Gain During August

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (Special)—With the total number of carloads of Texas livestock shipped in 1941 to date approximately the same as those of 1940, hog shipments alone have increased, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

The January 1-September 1, 1941, figure for hog shipments is 27.7 per cent ahead of the same period a year ago, the report shows, while cattle, calves, and sheep movements have dropped 2.8, 10.4 and 5.3 per cent, respectively.

Total shipments have declined 5.6 per cent from August, 1940, with a 16 per cent slump in calves offset by a 9.7 per cent increase in hog shipments.

Surveying Course Is Offered At NTSTC

DENTON, Oct. 6.—A surveying course which will serve as a background for students wishing to enter national defense work in that field is being offered by the mathematics department of the North Texas State Teachers college this term.

The surveying course, which was taught for the first time during the summer, includes plane surveying, the use and care of surveying instruments, and elementary map making. The surveying area includes the campus, the city of Denton, and surrounding territory.

NEW FLOYD TEACHERS

FLOYDADA—Ernest Kelly, assistant high school coach, is now head coach succeeding W. V. Hale, resigned to accept a similar post at Phillips, near Borger. Miss Mary Lucy Shannon of Levelland, is the Spanish and English teacher succeeding Miss Bert Ione Smith, resigned. Miss Shannon graduated from Texas Technological college and has taught at Clovis, N. M., the past five years. She is working on her M. A. degree.

Wreckage Of Missing Bomber Believed Seen Amidst Lofty Mountains

Snow Peaks In Posse's Path

(By The Associated Press)

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Oct. 6.—Captain Dysart Murphy of the Arizona highway patrol reported today he believed he had seen wreckage of the missing B-18 army bomber high on the snowy slopes of San Francisco peaks.

Murphy examined a spot on the east slope of the peaks, north of Flagstaff, through binoculars as the rising sun's rays hit the lofty mountains.

Lost Last Thursday

Deputy Sheriff Dan Williams said Murphy told him he saw what appeared to be gleaming metal and windows of a plane. The bomber became lost Thursday night in a violent storm.

Murphy then joined a posse which left to scale the peaks, highest of which has an elevation of 12,500 feet.

With the posse of sheriff's deputies, forest rangers and volunteers went E. C. Slipper, astronomer at Lowell observatory. He took a powerful telescope which he planned to train on the supposed wreckage when he reaches the foot of the peaks.

Face Long, Hard Climb

Members of the posse, directed by Sheriff Peery Francis, were equipped with snowshoes.

Deputy Williams said they faced a long, hard climb. Snow on the mountains is one to three feet deep.

The hunt was prompted by reports of ranchers on the east side of the peak who Thursday night or early Friday morning heard the exhausts of a plane.

Saw Something Unusual

"Since the reports of the missing bomber," Undersheriff Pete Michelbach reported, "these people have been more and more certain that was what they heard.

Michelbach expressed the belief "we'll clear up this ship's disappearance today."

Missing Men Listed

The bomber, en route from McLellan field, Sacramento, Calif., to Albuquerque, N. M., was last heard from at the Needles, Calif., CAA station at 8:20 p. m. (Mountain standard time) Thursday.

Aboard were Lt. A. T. King, Laramie, Wyo., pilot; Lt. R. H. Conway, Wilbur, W. Va., co-pilot; Lt. W. W. Crim and Lt. D. C. Boyd, both of Pendleton, Ore., air base, who were passengers; Corp. L. E. Gillem, Spokane, Wash., and Pvt. L. T. Morefield, Springerville, Ariz. Boyd's home is in Palestine, Tex.

WRECKAGE SIGHTED

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 6 (AP)—Wreckage of the twin-motored B-18 army bomber missing since Thursday night with six officers and men aboard was sighted today on San Francisco peaks, north of Flagstaff, Ariz., the Tucson air base reported.

The lost bomber was sighted by an army plane from the Tucson base, piloted by Lt. J. C. Cochran, who radioed the information here.

Cochran's ship was one of five which left early this morning to circle the lofty San Francisco peaks, on which ranchers had reported seeing a strange object.

Sea Battle

type of the fighting ships was identified, and the informants did not know whether survivors of the battle reached shore.

(At Washington, navy department sources had no knowledge of a battle).

Rescue Ship Silent

The American embassy and naval and shipping sources had no new information concerning the sinking of the I. C. White.

The American steamers West Nilus and Del Norte, due to dock tomorrow with 35 survivors of the sunken tanker, remained silent. The master of the West Nilus radioed laconically that it was "not possible" to give facts concerning the sinking.

Capt. William Mello of Everett, Mass., master of the I. C. White, who was rescued by the Del Norte, had announced that four members of his crew still were missing. It was believed they might be drifting on a raft.

The Del Norte, which docks at 4 a. m. tomorrow, is bringing 17 survivors. Eighteen others are aboard the West Nilus, which docks tomorrow at noon.

Hitler Peace Plan

tablished Germany supreme on the continent, and that he can not be dislodged.

To Give Argument

The American quoted the Nazis as saying that the peace offer is likely to be backed up with an argument like this:

"As far as Germany is concerned, the war is over and we are going ahead with organization of the continent. From now on our only war activity will be reprisals.

"For every plane the British send over, Germany will send at least one over England. For every bomb dropped, Germany will drop at least one on England. For every German killed, we will kill at least one Englishman. We can hold out indefinitely!"

The American said that the Nazis told him that the British and Americans probably would spurn the offer when it is first made, but that they might feel different after six months of such a stalemate.

He quoted them as saying that Hitler would stress that he had given up any idea of taking British territory after he had found it impossible to take Gibraltar, Malta and Syprus, and upon finding he had been hulted in Africa at the Egyptian frontier.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP) — After an early spurt that carried soybeans prices up about 3 cents, wheat ½ cent and other grains fractionally, buying subsided today. All gains were reduced and wheat at times fell slightly below Saturday's close while corn declined fractionally.

Continued showery weather over the heart of the soybean belt, delaying harvest, was the principal bullish factor.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ higher compared with Saturday, December $1.21⅛, May $1.25⅝-1.26; corn ⅛-¼ lower, December 80¾; oats unchanged to ⅛ off; soybeans 2½-2¾ higher, rye ⅛ off. Late short covering lifted beans prices again just before the close, with final quotations at the day's best level.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 6 (AP) — Moderate demand for grain was reported as the new week got under way.

Wheat No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing 1.25½-27½.

Barley No. 2 nom 58-60.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo per 100 lbs. nom 1.30-32.

Corn shelled, No. 2 white 85-87.

Oats No. 2 red 52-54.

Stock Market

MARKET CALM

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — Stock market trade winds today were favorable to a few rails and specialties but left the rest of the list becalmed.

Transactions failed to develop any real breadth although they were a bit above the slower days of last week at approximately 500,000 shares for the five-hour stretch.

Stocks on the soft side most of the day included U. S. Steel, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical and Johns-Manville. Accorded support were Santa Fe, Southern Railway and Great Northern, pfd preferred. Warren Brothers preferred registered a 1941 high. Electric Power & Light preferreds edged up 1 to around 2.

Bonds were irregular, commodities for a time were uniformly higher but some slid off near the close. Chicago wheat finished unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher. Corn was down ⅛ to ½. Cotton in late trades was unchanged to 30 cents a bushel lower.

Annual Fair Is Opened Today

opportunity to iron out the inevitable first day rough spots in time for Tuesday's Lubbock Day, which invariably is one of the biggest days of the fair.

Fair association officials called attention to an erroneous statement Sunday that Wednesday is to be Lubbock Day. They emphasized that Lubbock Day is Tuesday, and will be followed Wednesday by the first of the two Children's Days.

Schools, member firms of Lubbock Retail Merchants association, most of the other business establishments and most official offices in the city will be closed Tuesday afternoon for Lubbock day. Schools also are to shut down at noon Wednesday for the first of the Children's days, according to Dr. W. B. Irvin, city school superintendent.

Aside from the lowering skies, President Homer D. Grant of the fair association declared this morning that the outlook for a fair of record-breaking success during the week "could not be better." Especially does that outlook apply to the rodeo which is to be the night grandstand attraction each of the six nights of the fair, he said.

So numerous were the entries in the competition for the approximately $2,700 in cash prizes offered in the rodeo that all could not be received Sunday, as had been scheduled, Grant announced. The job had to be finished this morning, and the list of contestants will include more than 60 contenders, among them being some of the nation's top flight rodeo stars.

Midway Set Up

The first performance of the rodeo is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock tonight, with contests in bronc riding, bull dogging, calf roping and steer riding scheduled. The Monte Reger family of trick riders, ropers and fun-makers will be an added attraction each night of the rodeo.

The 50-car special train of the Beckmann & Gerety shows arrived on schedule Sunday afternoon, and the setting up of this midway attraction started immediately. The carnival was nearer ready this morning than at any corresponding period of any previous fair. Assurance was given that all the rides and tent attractions would be ready for this afternoon and tonight.

The midway and the rodeo grounds are in good condition despite the heavy rains of last week. Approaches to all the exhibit buildings, the grandstand and its grounds and the midway area were free of mud this morning. Only occasional mud spots were apparent in the parking areas.

Judging Under Way

Officials of Lubbock City Bus company announced that the usual 5-cent service will be maintained from the business district to the grounds during the week. They said that the buses will be operated on a 20-minute schedule during the mornings, and 10-minute service from noon until the rush subsides at night.

The prevailing taxicab charge this morning and early this afternoon was 15 cents to the grounds. Operators of Bryant and Yellow cab companies announced, however, that they will put a charge of 10 cents between the fairgrounds and the business district into effect Tuesday.

C. C. Jobson, superintendent of the agricultural department for the eighth consecutive year, reported that the exhibits in that department are the equal, if they do not surpass, those of any previous fair. All were in place this morning and judging was started by George (Scotty) Sansom of Post and Earl Duke, member of the Texas Technological college faculty.

Nine counties are represented in the county department. They are Haskell, Collingsworth, Castro, Bailey, Lynn, Lamb, Maverick, Terry and Crosby. Several other counties wouuld have competed here if dates of the fair here did not conflict with those of the state fair in Dallas, Jobson said.

Tech Livestock Exhibited

The following schools have exhibits in the vocational agriculture department, of which T. L. Leach of Texas Tech is superintendent. They are New Home, Frenship, Olton, Seminole, Spur, Hale Center, Meadow, Idalou, Cooper, Shallowater, Cotton Center, Brownfield, Littlefield, Floydada, Levelland and Lubbock.

Competing in the community exhibit department are New Deal, Frenship, Shallowater and Cooper.

All the available pens are filled in the swine building and only a few spaces were unoccupied this morning in the cattle department. An added attraction in the huge cattle barn this year is the exhibit of Texas Tech livestock. It was one of the first to be put in readiness.

Plans this morning were to go ahead with the schedule for the day exactly as planned, including the free program of vaudeville and circus acts which is to be repeated each afternoon in front of the grandstand. That program will last about one and one-half hours, and will consist of eight to 10 acts featuring the Aerial Lerays, the Freeborn trio of high-balancers and acrobats, George and Bessie Gedis, aerialists and jugglers and the Vance animal act.

TAHOKA MAN FIRST

The first person to enter the grounds with a purchased ticket this morning was Ernest Holcomb of Tahoka, route 4.

TICKET SALES HIGH

Officials said that reports still are incomplete as to the number of strip tickets sold last week. Estimates were, however, that final figures will show sales of between $4,000 and $5,000. The tickets, which were sold in strips of four for $1, were taken off sale Saturday night. Ten per cent of those sales go to Lubbock Boy's club, which is sponsored by service luncheon clubs of the city.

PRICES ANNOUNCED

Ticket prices prevailing during the remainder of the fair are: 50 cents for adult admission to the grounds; 25 cents for children's admission; 25 cents for an automobile; and 45 cents for the rodeo. Season tickets also are available. All the quoted prices include tax.

ATTENDANCE COMPARED

First day attendance at last year's fair was 9,950. The year before it was 12,882. Officials were confident that both figures will be broken if the weather should clear.

News Briefs

Blood Transfusion Given—Zealand Willingham, 16, of near Tahoka, injured early Friday when en route with Neal, 18-year-old brother, and Zelma, 13, a sister, when their car was in a collision 14 miles from Tahoka, was in "serious but not critical" condition this afternoon in St. Mary's hospital. She had been admitted Saturday night for treatment and removal of a sliver of glass that had penetrated her back and collapsed one lung. A blood transfusion was given her this morning. No one else was injured in the mishap. Hemorrhaging of the wound had ceased.

Held On Charge—Lester Ward, 28, a negro, was held in jail early this afternoon after a charge of violating the state liquor laws.

None Hurt In Wrecks—Police said none was injured in weekend wrecks at Tenth street and Avenue L, Avenue O and Nineteenth street, Main street and Avenue O and Ninth street and College avenue. Damage was slight, as well, it was said. None was injured in a collision this morning at Avenue U and Eighth street, investigators said.

Brotherhood To Meet — Two reels of European war motion pictures are to be shown by A. H. Maas at the meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of Central Baptist church, 1311 Eighteenth street, tonight at 7:30 o'clock, according to Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor.

Aviation Cadet Here—C. R. Cook of Littlefield, graduate of the division of agriculture at Texas Technological college and formerly assistant rural rehabilitation supervisor of Farm Security administration, was spending the day in Lubbock. He recently completed his preliminary training as an army aviation cadet in a private school at Stamford and is to report to Ellington field, Galveston, the last of the week. Cook's home is in Littlefield.

Rains At Olton—Olton received a four-inch rain Sunday night, following a five inch rain there Friday night, James P. Williams, district water facilities supervisor said this morning after his arrival from Plainview, his home. During the night, the said, Plainview also had a good rain, which extended as far south as Abernathy.

Campaign Progressing—Progress is being made in the Salvation army financial drive said Major R. E. Clevett, of Dallas, who is here supervising the work. Up to this morning approximately $2,700 had been pledged, $400 of which is from persons who have not previously contributed. Major Clevett said that last week's bad weather had delayed the campaign and that solicitors still had many persons to see about pledges.

Returns From Amarillo — Sgt. Jack N. Costello, of the district recruiting office, who spent last week at the Tri-State fair in Amarillo, returned Sunday. He said that in spite of rain, fair officials reported record crowds. On the night of the anti-aircraft demonstration a "regular flood," came just as the demonstration began. Costello had charge of the exhibition of some films showing army life.

New Nazi Thrust

Soviet forces west of Leningrad, supported by the fire of the entire Kronstadt fortress, ships and coastal artillery, was completely crushed yesterday through the determined action of German troops."

The Russian move on the outside of the Leningrad siege lines apparently was timed with a thrust from the inside, but the Germans said that it, too, was shattered with "heavy and bloody losses" for the Russians.

Ships Said Sunk

"Troops which were landed were wiped out or taken prisoner," the communique went on. "Several fully laden ships were sunk and 22 tanks, including seven of super-heavy types were destroyed."

On Germany's air fronts, the high command announced a Russian port on the sea of Azov was bombed, along with an important traffic junction west of Moscow and military objectives in Leningrad, a 2,500-ton British vessel was sunk 250 miles west of Brest, and British military emplacements were bombed in the Shetland islands.

In North Africa German bombers assailed Tobruk two nights ago and struck again at the Suez roadstead, the high command said. So far as Germany and Britain themselves were directly concerned, the rival air forces were inactive or only reconnoitering last night.

Wage Ceiling Is Opposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—President Philip Murray of CIO took the position today that there was no necessity for federal control of wages but tha tsome kind of price control legislation apparently was "immediately necessary."

Ralph Hetzel, jr., head of the economic division of the CIO, read a statement of Murray's views to the House banking committee. Murray, who is recuperating from a long illness, sent word that his doctors would not let him appear.

Seek Labor Destruction

The CIO head contended that wage increases were not responsible for current price increases, adding that this argument was "being used as a new touchstone to justify attack upon organized labor by those who have always sought labor's destruction."

Price control legislation pending before the committee contains no wage fixing provisions but a number of witnesses have argued that inflation could not be controlled without control of inflationay wages.

Meanwhile, an all-out price control measure which would impose ceilings on virtually everything from wages to defense profits and agricultural products was offered to Congress by Rep. Gore (D-Tenn), prominent young member of the banking committee.

Bill Is Condemned

Gore, in offering his own measure, used the opportunity to condemn the administration bill as "weak-kneed and piece-meal legislation."

The price-ceilings, under the Gore proposal, would follow generally the prices in effect during the current week — the Oct. 6-12 period being recommended as the "base period."

Under legislation endorsed by Leon Henderson, administrator of the Office of Price Administration, the fixing of ceilings would be left to the administrator's discretion and would not cover either wages or profits from defense contracts.

who climbed Devil's Tower in 1938; Merrill McClain, and Henry Coulter, also of Dartmouth who flew here from New York with Durrance; Ernest Field, Warren Gorrell and Paul Petzhold, veteran Rocky mountain party climbers; and Chappel Crammer and Harold Rapp, Denver climbers.

Another rescue scheme was advanced by A. C. McInnis, operator of a South St. Paul, Minn., flying service. He was en route here in a ski equipped plane and said that if all other attempts fail he would try to set his ship down on the tiny peak. Such a stunt, fliers agreed, would be even riskier than Hopkins' jump.

Hopkins leaped by parachute from a plane to the 100 by 300 foot tower top last Wednesday as a publicity stunt for a forthcoming attempt to break the world consecutive jump record.

Apparently he was in no immediate discomfort. Planes circling over the peak have dropped him plentiful supplies of food and fuel. He was living in a tent, also dropped by planes.

His messages to the ground —cut off since last night by the howling winds—were cheery, much more so than were the comments of forest rangers and Hopkins' friends who admitted concern.

Earl Brockelsby of Rapid City, S. D., with whom Hopkins made a $50 bet in connection with the stunt and who is now directing the provisioning of the parachutist, was sleepless and haggard.

"I made this bet with George as a publicity stunt," he said, "but it backfired and then it wildfired and now I'm worried about him."

Rumors Of Filibuster In Senate Are Heard

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Talk of a Senate filibuster against any change in the neutrality act arose today even before President Roosevelt reached a final decision on what modifications to recommend.

The talk was general. Anti-administration forces debated use of such strategy.

1917 Incident Recalled

The threat caused several senators to recall the historic filibuster of March, 1917, when a band of 12 senators talked to death the legislation which President Wilson sought for the arming of American merchantmen. That bill, incidentally, was known popularly as "the armed neutrality bill."

President Roosevelt has arranged to discuss possible changes in the neutrality act with congressional leaders of both parties tomorrow before deciding what to request. Capitol Hill reports, meanwhile, were that the chief executive had tentatively decided to ask only such modification as would authorize the arming of American merchant shipping. Despite this, however, a majority of the Senate leaders at tomorrow's conference were expected to urge that virtual repeal of the act be sought.

This group of leaders, which includes Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the influential Senate foreign relations committee, wants both arms and freedom of the seas for vessels flying the United States flag. The law, as it stands, prevents the arming of ships and forbids merchantmen to travel to belligerent ports or through waters designed as "combat areas" under the act.

Correction: Midway Also Entertainment Bright Spot In City

Two errors appeared inadvertently in Sunday's Avalanche-Journal which should be brought to the attention of our readers.

The Midway theater was not listed in an article pertaining to Lubbock's theaters and in another article its seating capacity was listed at 201 when the figure should have been 532 seats, the Midway's capacity.

The editors of the Avalanche-Journal are glad to make these corrections in fairness to Joe H. Bryant, owner-manager of the Midway, whose theater is located at 1805 Broadway.

Brandeis Dies Sunday Night

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Death has ended the career of Louis Dembritz Brandeis, noted liberal jurist and first Jew ever named to the supreme court.

The former associate justice, long a sufferer from a heart ailment, died shortly after 7 o'clock last night. It was heart trouble which prompted his retirement from the supreme court on February 13, 1939, and a severe attack at his home here Wednesday led to his death. He was 84.

The family announced that the funeral, for which arrangements were incomplete, would be strictly private and requested that no flowers be sent. Memorial services would be held later, the announcement said.

Brandeis, who summed up his own philosophy of life as "high thinking and simple living," had no experience as a judge when President Wilson nominated him for associate justice in 1916. But he was nationally known for his activity in and out of court on behalf of labor unions and against "high finance."

with the German government through the intermediary (SIC) of the United States government immediately in order that the repatriation of civilians may be carried out with the least possible delay."

Rudolf Hess, former No. 3 Nazi whose spectacular landing by airplane in Scotland in May provided one of the greatest sensations of the war, is now in the age bracket not covered by the British proposal. There had been conjecture that his status may have caused the delay in the exchange of prisoners, although this was denied.

Baby Killed By Stray Slug From Cop's Gun

ORANGE, Oct. 6 (U.P) — A baby was dead from a bullet wound today as result of a chase between policemen and a speeder.

Patrolmen Zan Cormier and J. M. Morgan pursued the speeding automobile across the Texas border into Louisiana yesterday.

The car turned around at a club five miles from here and Cormier fired three shots at it.

A bullet ricocheted into a passing car and killed the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Guidry of Port Arthur.

Police Chief J. B. Hudson of Orange said that Louisiana authorities held that Cormier was "without criminal intent" in the accident.

Big Financial Deal Made In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (U.P) — One of Hollywood's biggest financial deals was concluded today, bringing David O. Selznick into the United Artists Corporation as a full partner under an agreement to make $20,000,000 worth of pictures.

Selznick paid $1,200,000 for a quarter interest and becomes a partner with Charles Chaplin, Alexander Korda and Mary Pickford.

He replaces Samuel Goldwyn as a partner in United Artists. Goldwyn sold his interest some time ago to the other three owners.

Increase In Payroll Taxes Is Forecast

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP) — It appeared likely today that the administration's program for overhauling the social security system would include a sharp increase in payroll taxes as a brake on inflation.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Senate finance committee said he had heard that Congress might be asked to double the present levy of 1 per cent each on employers and employes, both as a means of holding down inflationary spending and to provide a "cushion" for a post-war slump in business and employment.

STEAMERS TORPEDOED

VICHY, Oct. 6 (U.P)—The French admiralty reported tonight that two French steamers have been torpedoed and sunk in the Mediterranean, one with a possible loss of 20 lives.

Week End In City Is Quiet

Lay it to malicious mischief or youth, in absence of other explanation, police suggested.

They referred to smashing of a neon sign identifying the Silver Key fraternity house at 2121 Broadway.

Someone took a ladder and a stick, climbed a wall and wrecked the sign over the weekend, reported Homer York of that address.

Police said the weekend was rather drab.

Minor Complaints Made

A man chasing a 14-year-old girl in an alley at 2:44 o'clock Sunday morning told police she was his daughter and that she had run away. He was attempting to get her to "stay in," he said.

Three fellows were arrested for creating a disturbance in a theater. One, 17, was fined $5 and costs in the court of Walter Davies, justice of peace, said Ed Butler, clerk. The other two, 16, were lectured by juvenile officials.

Boys shoved away a model T car without permission of a garageman after having taken it there for repair work, a complaint alleged.

Fines Assessed

H. H. Ratliff, 26, charged with prohibition law violation, paid $100 fine Sunday and a 39-year-old man booked here as R. M. Palmer was surrendered to Roby officials on a felony warrant charging swindling of bank stock, the sheriff's department said.

Judge G. V. Pardue of county court said Hugh Garcia had pleaded guilty this morning of liquor law violation and been fined $25 and costs, retroactive as of Sept. 20; Beatrice Noble, negro woman, was fined $100 and costs on a similar charge, and, upon recommendation of the county attorney, Ralph Brock, two aggravated assault complaints were dismissed.

Walt Fraley of Wolfforth reported a suit of clothing had been taken from his automobile parked in 1700-block Thirteenth street.

Welfare Problem To Be Worked Out Here

In a joint session this morning of county commissioners court and representatives of the city commission, a committee was named to meet at 2 o'clock this afternoon and draft a contract whereby Texas Department of Public Welfare would begin administering relief heretofore handled through City-County Welfare association.

The committee of County Judge G. V. Pardue, City Manager W. H. Rodgers, County Attorney Ralph Brock, W. D. Wilson, representing his law partner, City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, and Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, will report its contractual form to the city and the county commission at next regular meeting of those bodies.

The city commission will meet Thursday, the county commission next Monday. Action on the contract would be taken at those meetings, it was inferred.

All county commissioners were present, Ben Mansker, G. K. Horton, Newton Stokes and Edgar E. Gray. Representing the city commission were Rodgers, Mayor Carl Slaton, Wilson and Commissioner W. B. Price.

Brock and Louie F. Moore, clerk to the court, also attended the morning session, as did Garth Daniel, assistant director of the state welfare department, of Austin. Daniel will confer with the joint committee this afternoon, it was announced.

Final Divorce Papers Granted To Actress

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6. (U.P)—The six-month marriage of actress Lana Turner and band leader Artie Shaw, came to a legal end today.

The interlocutory divorce decree which Miss Turner obtained Sept. 27, 1940, became final with signing of papers by Superior Judge William S. Baird.

Two Women Killed As Auto Overturns

HUGO, Okla., Oct. 6. (AP)—Highway Patrolman Jess Faulkner said Mrs. John Pritchard, 32, Paris, Texas, and Mrs. Louis Henderson, 34, Hugo, were killed yesterday when an automobile overturned 10 miles southeast of here on a side road off U. S. highway 271. Their necks were broken.

Britain's Ark Royal Claimed Torpedoed

ROME, Oct. 6 (AP) — The British aircraft carrier Ark Royal was damaged seriously by a torpedo from an Italian submarine after the air attack Sept. 27 on a British Mediterranean convoy and has returned to Gibraltar at slow speed, a special Italian communique announced today.

FINES ARE ASSESSED

LONGVIEW, Oct. 6 (U.P) — The Gilliland Pipe Line company and others today were assessed fines totalling $95,000 by the eastern federal district court of Texas at Tyler on charges of filing incorrect or false reports covering production in the East Texas field nearly seven years ago.

STRIKE IS REPORTED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6 (U.P) — A general strike of 3,500 workmen at the Red river ordnance depot at Texarkana, Tex., was reported today by the office of Labor Conciliator Bryce P. Holcombe here.

And here's another example to support our claim that just because an event is highly publicized and staged in the famous New York setting is ng reason to assume it is nothing short of perfect and marvelous.

On last Wednesday your humble servant was out at Yankee stadium when Mr. Leo Durocher and his charges, the Brooklyn Daffiness Boys, presented the New York Yankees with the opening game of the World Series slap, dab on a silver platter. And we're ready, honestly, to testify that if Charlie Engle and 1941's hapless Hubbers pulled the tactical blunders unreeled by Mr. Durocher and his lads they would be run out of town.

Brooklyn should have won the ball game.

And Brooklyn would have won had Mr. Durocher elected to play the game as even Bill Dean's little Yankees in the Lubbock Junior League would have elected to play it.

Instead, Mr. Durocher violated all the rules of common baseball sense on four separate and distinct occasions while his players— lovingly referred to on the other side of the East River as "dem wonderful Bums"—missed signals and ran bases like a lot of refugees from a mental hospital.

The event was big, all right.

It was in the biggest park in the land; it drew the biggest crowd in baseball history; its participants, collectively draw down the biggest salaries for playing baseball.

But it was not a marvelous ball game. As a matter of actual fact, it was poorly played in several spots.

THE trouble with us people who live in small cities and towns around and about the interior of this land of ours is that we suffer from an inferiority complex.

Because New York is so big, and so rich, and so well press agented, we have innocently fallen into the habit of thinking that everything in and about New York is definitely superior to events staged elsewhere.

T'ain't so, McGee. T'ain't so.

And please take our word for it!

The same inferiority complex which causes us "hinterlanders" to stand in awe before New York also causes a lot of us to think that all the smart people in the country live here and all the dumb ones in the smaller places around the map.

But the fact is that there are more suckers to the square inch in New York than there are to the square mile anywhere else. And here are some examples to prove this statement.

The Louis-Nova fight was promoted by a wily, old fisticuff impressario named Michael Jacobs.

The championship affair was widely advertised; the fighters were given a tremendous build-up. The ballyhoo caused thousands to fall victim to a burning desire to see the fight which, of course, was what it was supposed to do.

Thousands rushed for tickets which were advertised as selling for $5.50 to $30, depending upon the location of seats.

After a few days it was discovered that there weren't any more tickets to be had from legitimate sources—which made those desirous of seeing the event all the more bound to do so.

It then was discovered that tickets were available—not through the regular box office channels—but from a big, downtown ticket agency.

Of course, the downtown ticket agency had bought the tickets at the regular advertised rates, hence must have a "bonus" to make a profit. Thirty dollar tickets went for $40; the others went for increased prices right on down the line.

And what ticket agency do you suppose had the corner on the fight ducats?

It was a ticket agency controlled by Mr. Michael Jacobs!

Thus Mr. Jacobs "took" the prize fight suckers both going and coming!

PRACTICALLY the same thing was true about World Series tickets.

Judge Landis was in town and everything was as pure as the snow on a convent roof.

There must be no racketeering in baseball and there isn't, as far as the Yankee and Brooklyn baseball companies are concerned. They did none.

But with a "subway series" causing baseball temperatures to run high and rampant, the ticket agencies got ahold of great blocks of the valuable pasteboards and what happened?

Box tickets which were supposed to sell at $16.60 for a brace of three games, went for $40 or better (The Plainsman knows of some which brought at least that much). And single opening game box tickets were peddled by "scalpers" all the way from $17.50 to $25.

New Yorkers put up with gyps like these two explained—and they put up with them for year after year.

That's why we say this important trading post on the Hudson is the home of more suckers than any other city under the sun.

These examples of gyps are simply outstanding examples. There are hundreds of others, including the tipping gyp, the hatcheck racket, outrageous prices in the gilded bars and restaurants, etc., and etc., and a jolly, old etc.

The Plainsman may be mistaken, but he doesn't believe South Plains people would put up with the system.

But just as everything here isn't perfect, neither is everything bad, or reprehensible.

Among the 7,000,000 people who occupy Great New York's five boroughs and adjacent territory the greater percentage are decent and honest.

Unquestionably the finest city in the world, New York boasts the biggest and best buildings, the greatest of all transportation systems, the finest layouts of parks, schools and churches.

No other city, anywhere, offers the variety of entertainment, culture, food, housing facilities and opportunity for free worship that this roaring, sprawling metropolis presents for the edification of all comers.

In short, New York, while bigger, is like every other place inhabited and controlled by human beings.

It consists of the good, the bad, the honest, the dishonest—and the in-betweens.

And that same thing can be said of the smallest community in Texas.

Secret Voyage

BY JOSEPH L. CHADWICK

(Copyright, 1941, For The Journal)

YESTERDAY: Jeffery Hammond returns home and tells Jim that an S O S has been picked up from another of his ships. He also doubts that Jim can salvage the Sonora because it is in 80 fathoms of water. Jim denies this, says he has already seen the boat. After Hammond retires, Mary Larsen, who has heard the conversation, accuses Jim of trying to get Hammond to pay him for not salvaging the boat. She lets out that Hammond doesn't want it salvaged. Eric Forbes, young general manager of the Hammond Lines, arrives and offers Jim $2000 for the Sonora's location and a quit-claim for his salvage intentions. Jim refuses and tells them a boat out of Havana is also searching for the Sonora. It acts as a bombshell.

MARY IN DANGER

CHAPTER V

Jim Mallory wished he could see Mary Larsen's face in that moment. But he couldn't deliberately turn and stare at her. However, he saw alarm in Jeffery Hammond's eyes and looking at Eric Forbes he saw a frown cloud his handsome face.

Hammond said unsteadily, "You sure of that, Mallory? That some boat out of Havana is searching for the Sonora?"

"I'm sure of it, yes. I haven't been able to find who chartered the boat, for the owner, a Cuban, must have been paid to keep it quiet."

"Perhaps we should consider Mallory's offer, J. H.," Forbes said.

"Yes, Eric. We'll have to talk this over."

Jim Mallory rose from his chair, smiling. "I'll leave you gentlemen, while you discuss the matter," he said. "There is, by the way, something else that might interest you. I was offered a thousand dollars for the Sonora's location two weeks ago by a man who approached me at my office. Two days ago, he phoned and doubled the offer—and added that something might happen to me if I didn't accept."

Hammond and Forbes exchanged a glance. Behind Jim Mallory, at the secretary's desk, the phone rang. Mary said, "For you, Mr. Mallory."

Jim said, "Excuse me," and walked to her desk. He smiled at Mary as he lifted the instrument. She gave him a frigid look. He said, "Mallory speaking." The careful voice that replied was that of the man who had offered him the bribe.

The careful voice said, "Mallory, perhaps I didn't make myself clear. I told you you could expect trouble if you didn't deal with me."

"That was clear enough," Jim said.

"However," the voice went on, "I've reconsidered. I'll make you a new offer. Double the cut Jeffery Hammond offers—in cash."

"I'll think it over. How did you know I was here at Hammond's?"

The careful voice chuckled. "Mallory, I know every move you make." The phone went dead.

Jim put it back on its base, gave Mary Larsen a long, suspicious look. She returned his stare steadily, but the honesty of her eyes could be faked. He turned back to Hammond and Forbes.

"That was my friend," he said. "He'll double any offer you, Mr. Hammond, make me."

Eric Forbes was lighting a cigaret. He said, "How do we know, Mallory, that you're not faking all this?"

"You don't know, do you?" Jim said, and left the room.

He drifted out to the veranda, looking for Lois Hammond but not seeing her. He sat down and lighted a cigaret, and then Mary appeared. She sat down at the far end of the veranda, ignoring him, so he rose and went to her. He was very much aware of her beauty just then.

He said, "Wouldn't they let you in the room during the discussion?"

"If you must know, no." She looked at him, then away. "But you'll get your blackmail. They'll have to pay it. They're afraid to have the Sonora's location publicly known."

"The man who pays you is certainly eager to throw big money around."

"No one but Mr. Hammond pays me."

"Beautiful, I don't believe a word you say."

"I'm sure I don't care."

Jim puffed at his cigaret, studying her. She didn't like him because he had not told her, yesterday on the Ajax tug, that he was the man she was seeking. She didn't trust him because, for some puzzling reason, she thought he was blackmailing Jeffery Hammond.

He said, "Why are your employers afraid to have the Sonora's location publicly known?" For a moment he thought she would tell him. Her lips parted to speak. Then she pressed them tightly together and shook her head. She went into the house.

Eric Forbes left the house at 3 o'clock in the Hammond town car. A few minutes later Jeffery Hammond had Jim into the study. He said, "Forbes thinks the Sonora a gamble, Mallory, and he doesn't want to put any of the company's money into the venture. Since he's our general manager I shan't go against his judgment. However, being a gambler myself, I'll go into this as a private investment."

"That's agreeable to me," Jim said. "If we can work out suitable arrangements."

"We'll find an equitable basis, as regards expenses and profit. Since you will be here tomorrow yet, we can take our time to work out the details."

"Yes, there's no hurry, sir."

Hammond said something about an appointment with his doctor, glanced at his watch, and rose. "There's one condition I must ask, Mallory, he said. "This whole enterprise must be kept strictly secret. I have an important reason for asking that."

"Of course, Mr. Hammond," Jim said. "I'm asking no questions." But he meant to keep his ears and eyes open. . . .

Mary came into the study after Hammond left, going directly to her desk. Jim went over, put his hands flat on the desk top and leaned toward her.

"Beautiful," he said, "I'm in on this now, so watch your step. I don't like to be double-crossed."

"Maybe," she shot back at him, "you had better watch your step."

Jeffery Hammond kept to his rooms all that afternoon, and at dinner sent word down that he felt a bit under the weather. Not really ill, yet not well. He apologized to Mr. Mallory, and he hoped his daughter would entertain Mr. Mallory. Lois was quite willing to do the entertaining.

Jim and Lois went over to Miami after dinner to an informal party. It was a pleasant evening, and Lois was good company. He danced with her a lot, as she seemed to expect. He was very much alive to her dark patrician beauty. He kissed her once, and kissing her was all that he had expected. The strange thing was that after he had kissed her he thought of Mary Larsen. He wondered what she would be like to kiss.

They returned to the house at 1. At the foot of the curved hanging staircase Jim kissed Lois a second time. She clung to him, her dark eyes sparkling behind long lashes.

"It's funny," she said softly, "I was bored for a long time before you came along. "You'll go tomorrow, but this isn't going to end here—is it, Jim?"

"I'll be about," he said, and watched her go up the stairs.

He was a little rattled. He wasn't in love with her, but a little coaxing might cause him to fall. The realization of that jolted him, and he didn't feel like sleeping with it on his mind. He lighted a cigaret and strolled out to the veranda and sank into a chair in the darkness. He was there but a moment when he heard voices, in the patio.

One voice was Eric Forbes', and it said, "The girl isn't to be trusted. She may talk to Mallory. I'll get Hammond to send her to New York."

AN EXCELLENT IDEA, MR. GOVERNOR!

Gov. Stevenson's suggestion that Texas and Oklahoma conduct a joint celeration next year of their most important state anniversaries seems an excellent one.

The dates fall on successive days. April 21 is the anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto, which guaranteed Texas independence. April 22 is the anniversary of the opening of Oklahoma to settlement.

A joint celebration would seem to offer an opportunity for both states to stage something of great mutual benefit at relatively small cost. It would seem the opportunity to further strengthen the already strong ties of friendship between Texans and Oklahomans, and to work together to bring more visitors from other parts of the nations to the two states which have so much in common.

Let's hope that this idea will be one that materializes into the tremendous reality that is possible for it.

An Echo Answers---

Problem Potpourri For OPM Purchasers

Program Baffling To Quite A Few People

BY PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Just how they got there, Director Douglass C. MacKeachie isn't sure, but in the Division of Purchases of the Office of Production Management are half a dozen related and unrelated programs, including management of the Plant Site Board, control over nearly a dozen commodity sections, organization of all the accounting and distribution methods to eliminate paper work in the Army, and control over the production and distribution of new fire engines.

EDSON

This multiplicity of functions is something that baffles a good many people but it all traces back to the fact that some problem arises which needs to be cleared or managed or looked into, and unless there is a definite appropriation for handling it, the task is shoved into some convenient department, there to stay until the specific appropriation is set up for an organization to handle it.

Take fire-fighting equipment. With all the new cantonments being built and all the new factories going up, there was a shortage of new fire engines. Then the Office of Civilian Defense, under Mayor La Guardia, came through with suggestions that every community get at least a couple more fire engines as a safeguard against incendiary bombs.

DEGLAMORIZE FIRE TRUCKS

FIRE engines weren't tanks and they weren't automobiles and they weren't trucks and they weren't boats. There wasn't any specific bureau or division to take over the control and production of fire engines, but they involved definite priorities and supply problems of rubber for the hose, nickel and copper and chrome trim and all that. So the control job was given to the purchasing division and its sad duty has been to take a lot of the glamor out of fire engines.

They may still allocate red paint for them, but all the stuff to polish and shine will be missing. If Mayor La Guardia gets his federal appropriation to buy a lot of cities some extra equipment, what they'll probably get is a one-ton truck with a tank of chemical, a hose reel and a pump. All the sex appeal will be sacrificed to defense.

Fire engines make up just one of the commodity sections which OPM's purchasing division has to look after. Some of the others are textiles, clothing, hides and leather, equipage (tents and such stuff), drugs and medical supplies, containers for everything containable in cans, jugs, bottles, boxes, bags, drums—what have you.

These commodity sections are really just getting down to business now. They're made up of representatives of the industry who confer with the government agencies and help work out programs of allocation so that the military will get everything they want, and the nonmilitary won't be given too raw a real. A lot of the conservation, substitution and allocation work of these commodity sections will be creeping up on you gradually from here on in. The matter of clothing simplification, for instance, won't be handled as the silk stocking thing was, with a lot of fanfare.

In the case of silk, it couldn't be helped. The embargo on imports of raw silk from Japan was big news which couldn't help sending a lot of women—and men—into the market to do a lot of unnecessary buying. With other items of clothing, and textiles and shoes, the effort will be made to have the simplification of lines made by the trade without getting everyone all excited. But when you go in to buy, along about six months or a year from now, you'll find the number of models and styles to choose from greatly reduced.

NO ARMY POST PROFITEERING

IT was General Marshall himself who got the purchasing division interested in overhauling the machinery of the Army post exchanges. These camp canteens supply soldiers with things the Army doesn't furnish, and get about half the $21 a month the average soldier earns. In the last war there was a good bit of dissatisfaction with the way they were handled. Profits, if any, were supposed to go to the company funds for recreation equipment. Most of the exchanges were run on a high price schedule, and soldiers got soaked.

Rounding up a staff of experienced merchandizers, a survey was made of soldiers' demands, and the camp stores were started off on a new sales policy. It was found the total business of the post exchanges for the new Army would run $250 million a year. A loan of $200 million was made from RFC, and the canteens were stocked with stuff that would sell, priced right for a $21 monthly income.

One of the worst headaches which the OPM purchasing division has tackled is a complete revision of the Army accounting and distribution methods, aimed at eliminating or reducing paper work.

It has always been a snarl of red tape, and the inventory control of company, battalion and regimental supply officers has caused almost as much mental anguish as shell shock. Now a staff of some of the best accountants in the country is trying out new methods and they hope eventually to balance the books and lick their problem—"for the honor," they say, "of the accounting profession."

Because of a great medley of tongues, the artificial language Esperanto is much used in the Russian city of Odessa.

VENTAHOOD
KITCHEN VENTILATOR

. . It's new!
. . It's Beautiful!
. . It Pays for itself.

ON DISPLAY!

This wonderful Kitchen Ventilator keeps the kitchen cool. It has an electric fan to force the heat and cooking odors out of the kitchen.

It pays for its self in many ways. it keeps the wall paper in the kitchen clean and bright, and also protects the house from cooking odors. Every home should have one, for just one wall paper job to remove greasy shadows on walls will more than justify the first cost.

Easy to keep clean. Porcelain finish, adds beauty to the kitchen.

FAIR WEEK - - - THIS WEEK! BUT COLD WEATHER AHEAD

It is important this year to have your car checked for winter driving. Anti-freeze supply is limited, therefore you should have your car checked to see that radiator hose and heater hose are in first class condition. Don't lose your anti-freeze because of faulty connections. The manufacturers say . . . "check your anti-freeze and your car early . . . if you wait you may be disappointed."

Canning Pineapple Is Inexpensive Way Of Providing Sweets

Home canned pineapple gives the family opportunity to enjoy this fruit more often because it is less expensive, Mrs. C. A. Putman, a member of the Arnett-Benson home demonstration club has found.

The pineapple may be canned in slices or ground. It is a good idea to can some both ways for the small pieces can be put through the food chopper. Ripe orange-colored fruit should be selected for canning. Slice crosswise and peel each slice. The core end and the outer trimmings of the meat of the fruit are simmered in water until the fruit is clear. The juice is strained and a syrup is made of one cup of sugar to two cups of juice.

The slices of fruit are cooked in the syrup eight minutes and packed in jars and sealed and then processed in the water bath 32 minutes for pints and 37 minutes for quarts.

Mrs. Putman cooked the chopped pineapple only five minutes before sealing and then processed it the same as the sliced. She cooled the jars as quickly as possible to save the flavor and color from overheating.

Private Carries His Underwear With Him

CHESTER, N. C., Oct. 6. (AP)—A private, participating in the army maneuvers here, was short three suits of heavy woolen underwear when he spread out his wardrobe on the bunk for inspection.

An explanation was demanded, it was quickly given. The private had on the three suits "It was kind of cold this morning, sir," he explained.

At one time, miners and prospectors paid $100 to have a ton of ore samples analyzed; now they get it done for $2.50.

Lamesa Man Aided In "Breaking In" Area

LAMESA, Oct. 6. (Special)—Homer D. Beal, long time resident here, was the first man to put a plow into Borden county soil, back in 1882.

In that year, Beal said, he helped fence off 50 acres for a farm for what is now known as the Thad Hood place.

"With a yoke of oxen we broke up all the land we could that year, using a small turning plow," Beal explained. "We planted corn and sorghum by hand, and what cultivation we did was done with the turning plow. We cut the feed with butcher knives and pocket knives."

Texas Rose Festival Will Open Thursday

TYLER, Oct. 6. (Special)— A photographer's paradise . . . that aptly describes the ninth annual Texas Rose Festival to be held in Tyler on Oct. 9 through Oct. 12.

Amateur and professional picture makers will find a hearty welcome, and adequate provision will be made for them to have vantage points for their art during the rose celebration. Colorful rose displays and parade floats and a procession of gaily-costumed bands and other groups, including costumed rose princesses and the 1941 Texas Rose Queen, are among the pictorial subjects awaiting cameramen at the Tyler celebration. These always carry particular appeal to photographers who work in color.

Rose field tours and garden pilgrimages, continuous each day of the festival, offer other opportunities for the photographers.

Action "shots" will be of first preference at the annual grid classic at the festival on the afternoon of Oct. 11. At that time Southern Methodist university's Mustangs clash with Coach Alonzo Stagg's team from the College of the Pacific of Stockton, Calif.

Many other opportunities await the camera enthusiasts at the Tyler celebration next month.

Prizes distributed by Cuba's National Lottery in the first six months of this year totaled $6,993,075.

Hitler Keeping Foes Guessing

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Journal War Analyst

There is food for reflection in the fact that Herr Hitler has even the most cynical observers guessing as to the significance of his tall claim last week that he already had Russia broken and that fresh operations of gigantic dimensions (presumably the pay-off) were in progress.

Apparently a suspicious world hasn't been sure whether the Nazi chief is just trying out a piece of psychological propaganda or whether he really believes he has the Reds beaten.

Claims Gain Support

Having studied his works for a long time, and having seen him in action at close range on many occasions, it strikes me that it is unwise to pooh-pooh his statements without examination, even though they appear flamboyant to his critics. He would seem to have support for this view in the report from London today that the Germans have indeed launched a big scale offensive along the Russian front.

The information in England indicates that the Nazis are attacking heavily along much of the 1,100 mile front between the Baltic and the Black seas. The pressure is said to be particularly intense in the central sector opposite Moscow, and on the southern flank in the Ukraine, but Moscow reports that the invaders also are flinging themselves with unabating fierceness against the defenses of Leningrad.

Is Colossal Gambler

From the meager information available in London it appears that the Nazis are making some progress in their assault. However, the Bolshevists are said to be resisting stubbornly.

So Hitler was right, though a bit ahead of events, when he said big operations were commencing. He wasn't right when he said the Muscovites were crushed, because they continue to put up the epic resistance which they admit has cost them 1,128,000 men in killed, wounded and missing since the start of this bloody conflict.

What has the Nazi leader in mind when he proclaims the Russian collapse? Hitler is a colossal gambler and it's quite likely he is gambling now that this new offensive of his may deliver the knockout blow to an admittedly hard-pressed foe. He figures the Reds have been weakened enough so that they may crack.

Just Like Baseball

That's always possible, and the same thing might happen to the Germans. One lucky break may change the course of a war. The New York Yankees beat the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday when a catcher dropped the ball on the "final out" which would have given the game to the Dodgers. War is like that, too.

This new German drive has as its supreme objective the quick and utter defeat of the Bolshevists, and is an effort to capitalize on Russia's serious lack of equipment, especially tanks and airplanes. Undoubtedly the invaders hope to capture Leningrad and Moscow, and complete their conquest of the Ukraine so that they can swing south into the Caucasus where the oil is.

Orange Shipyards Are To Be Free Of Trouble

BEAUMONT, Oct. 6 (U.P.) — Amicable relations between labor and management at the Orange shipyards apparently have been cinched for several years to come.

Eleven craft unions have signed new contracts with Consolidated Steel, Inc., shipyards operators, J. F. Schmidt, St. Petersburg, Fla., international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America, said the agreements cover working conditions, wages, hours and "everything else."

Many Laxatives, but few are Leaders!

Of the hundreds of laxatives sold in the Southwest, only a few are best-sellers year in and year out.

One is BLACK-DRAUGHT, that spicy herbal compound known to four generations as the "family laxative." Reasons for its great and lasting popularity are not hard to find.

It's agreeable and easy to take. But more important, it usually is both punctual and thorough, when taken as directed, and helps relieve constipation's bad breath, coated tongue, and other distresses.

And the "tonic-laxative" element in BLACK-DRAUGHT helps to tone lazy intestinal muscles!

Bedraggled Kitten Is Grateful For Kindness

KILGORE, Oct. 6 (U.P.)—The pity Mrs. Jennie Garig felt for a bedraggled yellow kitten has been rewarded.

The kitten appeared at her farm home near Kilgore a year ago, so weak it could hardly stand. She took it in.

Recently, Mrs. Garig's small granddaughter went into the yard to play. Soon she was sobbing.

"I went to her," Mrs. Garig said, "and there lay a large snake. The cat was between the snake and the baby, slapping and biting the snake."

The baby was unharmed. Although bitten, the cat recovered.

All but three boys on the TCU football team are Texans.

FIRST LAMB BALE

LITTLEFIELD.—The first Lamb county bale of cotton was brought here about 30 days late by Alvin E. Teinert, who resides three and a half miles southwest of Anton, and ginned at the Lamb County Farmers Cooperative gin. V. S. Cassell, gin manager bought the cotton paying 16 cents a pound. The 2,000 pounds of seed cotton made a bale of 580 pounds; seed brought $22. Teinert planted the cotton May 2 and 3. He has 72 acres.
