Mrs. Thelma Collins Dies of Gunshot Wounds Late Wednesday Afternoon at Local Hospital.

Slain Woman Was Ex-Wife of Mrs. Stevens' Son; Case Awaits Action of Recessed Grand Jury.

Charges of murder were filed in Justice W. S. Clark's court against Mrs. Nina Stevens, and Mrs. Stevens was later released on $5,000 bond to await action of grand jury immediately following the fatal shooting at about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon of Mrs. Thelma Collins, 24, of Lubbock.

Mrs. Collins was the divorced wife of Mrs. Stevens' son, and the trouble is said to have originated over custody of the children of the divorced pair.

Mrs. Collins died at the West Texas hospital shortly after the shooting, which occurred at the farm home of Mrs. Stevens, about three and one-half miles southwest of this city.

Only one shot was fired, taking effect in the abdomen, and severing the descending aorta, chest artery from the heart. Death resulted from excessive loss of blood. A .32 calibre automatic pistol was the weapon used.

According to evidence collected by officers, Mrs. Collins employed a Lubbock man to take her to the Stevens home, where Mrs. Stevens was taking care of the two children of Mr. and Mrs. Collins, given

RAIL RIGHT-OF-WAY

Deeds Completing Part in Denver Agreement Filed

Seventy-two warranty deeds, for right-of-way along the new Denver and Rio Grande branch in Lubbock county, were filed in the office of County Clerk Amos W. Howard yesterday, this practically completing Lubbock's part in the rail right-of-way agreement.

Officials of the company praised the spirit of cooperation manifested around Lubbock, saying that this section had been more eager to comply with the railroad committee than any other part along the new line.

Work of building the new line is proceeding rapidly. Fifty miles of rails have been laid out of Estelline and a tunnel is now being made through the caprock.

Work on the depot in Lubbock is expected to begin in the near future.

HUGE RANSOM ASKED

Two Million Francs Is Demanded by Moors

KASBA TADLA, Morocco, Nov. 16 (AP)—Two million francs in gold is being demanded by the Moors for the six French hostages they are holding in the middle Atlas mountains. These captives are Ives Roca, nephew of the French resident general, Theodore Steeg, General Mailliet, the Baroness Steinheil, Mme. Parle Prokoff, and two little girls of the Arnaud family.

The four adults were carried off on October 22 and the children were abducted by the Moors after their parents had been murdered. The Moors want the gold in bags because it is easier for camels and mules to carry bags than kegs. The French are reported to have the gold ready, but no bags strong enough to hold it.

Half Of Quota In Red Cross Drive Believed Raised

Teams Will Take Streets in Determined Effort to Put Campaign Over Top Today; Benson on Appeal.

With less than half of the quota of $5000 subscribed as result of the first day's drive for funds for the Red Cross, George Benson, chairman of the Red Cross roll call, declared that teams would continue working until the full quota is subscribed.

Mr. Benson issued an appeal to Lubbock citizens to respond to the call with more generous donations. He declared that he wished to correct the impression received by some that half of the money subscribed goes to national headquarters of the organization.

The chairman declared that only 50 cents from each donation goes to the national headquarters. He pointed out that due to this arrangement, the larger the donation, the greater amount the local chapter will obtain.

The team will take the streets again this morning. Some few of the teams have completed their territory, but the remainder will continue.

STRIKERS REPULSED

Machine Guns Face Wild Band Threatening Mines

DENVER, Nov. 16 (AP)—The strike of war in the Colorado coal fields has shifted to the northern fields. The only activity displayed by strikers today was at the Columbia mine at La Poyette, 15 miles north of Denver where more than a hundred picketers faced the crowning machine of the mine which menaced them, through the strands of barbed wire entanglements.

A woman, waving a large American flag, led a band of picketers who stopped at the gates but did not try to force an entrance. The hum of airplane motors overhead gave a truly warlike aspect to the scene. Guards manning the machine guns had orders to shoot at any one attempting to trespass.

In the southern field the strike is slowly losing ground.

SEARCH BLAST RUINS

Believe Death Toll Will Be Kept Within Thirty

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 16 (AP)—The death toll in the North Side district gas tank explosion probably will not mount much beyond 30, officials declared tonight after another day of intensive search had failed to reveal any additional bodies.

Virtually every corner of plant of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot company, wrecked when a huge gas tank of the Equitable Gas company let go Monday morning, was thoroughly explored today, it was announced, without increasing the number of fatalities.

Company officials said that although 25 of their employees still were dead or missing, they believed all were safe at their homes, or unidentified in hospitals.

San Angelo Jailer Bound and Gagged As Prisoners Flee

Two Alleged Bank Robbers Were Among Those Making Escape From County Jail at West Texas Town

PLUNGER FROM PUMP USED TO OPEN DOOR

Eight Prisoners Fled When Keys of Jailer Seized; Alarm Spread by Woman, Disregarding Threat.

(Special To The Avalanche)

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 16.—Eight prisoners, two of them under sentence for purchasing a bank at Bradshaw, Taylor county, escaped from the Tom Green county jail Sunday night. The prisoners had used the plunger rod from a disinfectant spray pump to release the lock of a door from a corridor to the rear.

When the jailer came to the stairs he was seized and his keys taken.

A woman who was in the jailer's office as the prisoners left the jail was warned to be quiet, but she spread the alarm when the men had left the building.

Eight prisoners, two of them under sentence for purchasing a bank at Bradshaw, Taylor county, escaped from the Tom Green county jail Sunday night.

Others who escaped were Guy Pease, charged with forgery; Ray Lindsey, under sentence from Coke county for burglary; Fred Taylor, R. A. Palmer, under five year sentence, and a woman, Mrs. A. J. Holloway, charged with robbery here and at Sterling City, and Bill Reed, held for forgery.

Kiwanis Ladies Program Tonight

Details of Program Are Not Announced Although Varied Entertainment Is Expected; Strange to Speak.

Ladies of Kiwanis will be honored tonight in a special program, which is to be held at the Peck stock exchange building commencing at 7 o'clock.

Details of the program have been kept shrouded in mystery, in order, perhaps, as one member of the program committee humorously commented, "not to jeopardize the attendance."

Runners have leaked out, however, that the program will be unique in many respects and in spite of the forebodings of the program committee, however, a rare event of entertainment is anticipated. According to reports, a quartet will appear and render all of the latest varieties of barbershop "harmony."

Then, to suit the aesthetic taste of the Kiwanis and their ladies, Mrs. Carl Seagrist will sing with Mrs. Mamie L. Neal playing the piano accompaniment.

W. I. (Tan) Strange, characterized by the program committee as a mere "local silver-tongued orator," has been prevailed upon to speak in an unannounced address.

Sam C. Arnett has donated a "fatted calf" for the affair tonight and it will be barbecued and served for the banquet.

R. Q. Pierce is chairman for the program.

Assurance was given by Mr. Shaver that all elements of the party would be represented at the dinner, and in the spectacular which is expected to deal with party affairs.

REMUS LOSES PLEA

Former Boozie King Fails in Effort to Widen Tests

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16 (AP)—Victor in the first great fight of his murder trial, George Remus today lost a battle to widen the scope of the sanity tests the jurors in his case shall prescribe. Judge Chester R. Shook ruled the three tests customarily used in Ohio courts, and some 10 or 15 others, demanded by Remus shall rule. They are:

"Was the accused a free agent in forming the purpose to kill?" "Was he at the time capable of judging whether that act was right or wrong?" "Did he know at the time it was an offense against the laws of God and man?"

Farmers Uphold Haugen Bill As Their Salvation

National Farmers' Union Strenuously Opposed to Change in Off-Disputed Legislation.

FARM CONGRESS HITS ANY SPECIFIC RELIEF

Attempt at Price Fixing Is Opposed in Vote of Latter Body; Meeting at Kansas City.

(By Associated Press)

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 16.—The unqualified stand in favor of the McNary-Haugen bill, with an insistent demand that the equalization fee principle be retained, was made today by the National Farmers' Union in its convention here.

The action of the Farmers' Union duplicates the stand taken this week by the Corn Belt committee in regard to farm relief legislation and results in three farm organizations: The Union, the Corn Belt committee and the Farm Bureau Federation—agreeing on the McNary-Haugen bill, as the first step to be taken in their fight for agricultural equality.

In pledging full support to the fight for the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill, the convention declared that no changes in the provisions of the measure would be tolerated and expressed a resolute determination to oppose any "certain business and political organizations to initiate and sponsor farm relief legislation."

CHORUS OF ANIMOSITY TO PRICE FIXING ISSUE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 16 (AP)—Specific farm relief legislation, such as advocated by some other agricultural organizations, was pushed out here today at the final session of the American Farm Congress.

An informal vote however, showed almost unanimous opposition to the measure.

CONVICT IS CAUGHT

Man Who Escaped From Prison Held in Kansas

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 16 (AP)—Within five hours after he had parked his car in front of a policeman's house and robbed a chain store grocery of $114.82, Jarvis, 35, an escaped convict from the Texas penitentiary, was arrested and lodged in the city jail here today.

The man's arrest was caused by Henry Buck, clerk, in another store of the chain company whose suspicion was aroused when Jarvis asked him to change silver money to paper.

Jarvis said he escaped from the Huntsville prison by scaling the walls two years ago. His wife was found in a tourist camp in West Wichita where they had been registered as Mr. and Mrs. George Davis. She also was held by police.

SMALL BOY IS SHOT

10-Year-Old Lad Has Narrow Escape From Death

Only by a miracle did 10-year-old Doyle Justice of Post, escape death yesterday afternoon when a pistol which he and a playmate were handling was fired accidentally.

The bullet cut a zig-zag course through young Doyle's breast, furrowing a course around the heart and lodging in the sternum, or breast bone.

Physicians who attended the lad at the West Texas hospital here, where he was rushed, said that the manner in which the bullet cut its way was nothing short of miraculous.

The lad will recover unless complications develop, according to Dr. Sam Dunn, who with Deputy Vernice Ford went to Post to bring the boy back to Lubbock.

The boy comes from a prominent family in Post.

Parliament Sees Hectic Session As Two Issues Boil

Cecil Rebukes Government for Disarmament Views; Unemployment and Coal Situation Excite.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Disorders that broke out twice during debate in the House of Commons over unemployment and the coal situation, climaxed a day of excitement in parliament today.

While Viscount Cecil in the House of Lords was accusing the government of responsibility for the breakdown of the Baldwin government, the House reached such a pitch of excitement over a vote of censure of the government on other questions that the speaker was compelled to adjourn the session twice.

The disorders arose after former Premier Ramsey MacDonald, president of the board of trade, attempted to answer for the government but the laborites contended that Premier Baldwin himself was the only person qualified to answer.

When the speaker of the House adjourned the session until 6 o'clock.

When the session reopened at 6, the scenes were repeated, government and opposition ranks facing each other.

BOTH DEFENDANT AND MOTHER SHOW STRAIN

Finis Written to Downtown Tragedy Which Ended the Life of Wm. Zatloukal, Jones' Stepfather.

Tom Jones, 38, prominent Lubbock realtor and a member of a well known Williamson county family, was late yesterday afternoon acquitted on a charge of murder, which grew out of the fatal shooting of his stepfather, William Zatloukal, 47, on a downtown street here September 4, 1927. The case was tried in 99th District court, before Hon. Clark M. Mulliken, judge, and had lasted throughout the first three days of this week.

The jury in the case had been out scarcely more than an hour when its members filed back to the jury box and H. E. Needles, local fire distributor and jury foreman, announced the verdict. Two ballots were taken in the case, the first resulting in a 9 to 2 vote for acquittal and the second being unanimous. Jones' Thanks Jurors.

When the verdict was announced both Mrs. Ollie Zatloukal, mother of the defendant, and Mrs. Jones, were visibly moved. Mrs. Zatloukal, wept and strained from her courtroom seat, and Mrs. Jones, who had been in the jury box, thanked the jurors for their action.

The rendering of the verdict brought to a close what court officials said was a most unusual case. The trial was called Monday and that day was given over entirely to the testimony of the jury and at the close of the second day all testimony had been taken. Wednesday, the third day of the case, marked the drawing and reading of the charge by Judge Mulliken, the pleas of the opposing counsel and the testimony of the jury. No conflicting testimony marked the case and lawyers on both sides kept their remarks entirely free from animosity toward defendant, witnesses and each other.

Oil Probe Furore Finally Subsides

Only Occasional Puff of Testimony Wednesday to Break Quietness Around Grand Jury Quiz.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The sales of testimony which have hitherto into the government's investigation into the charges of tampering with the Fall-Sinclair oil company trial jury subsided today with only an occasional puff to break the quietness which marked the inquiry by the grand jury.

An earlier citing Harry M. Blackmer, missing witness in the conspiracy case, to show cause on January 6 next, why he should not be adjudged in contempt for failing to appear to testify at the trial before Justice Frederick L. Siddons in the supreme court of the District of Columbia, was issued by the justice.

The order directed the United States marshal to seize any property of Blackmer to the extent of $100,000. The action was based upon a statute passed at the last session of congress.

Blackmer, who was chairman of the board of the Midwest Refining and Marketing company, was charged with tampering with the grand jury in the Fall-Sinclair case, through which it was charged, $235,500 in Liberty bonds found their way to Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior after the leasing of the Teapot oil field.

Witnesses Given Severe Questioning on Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—The House flood control committee today apparently was commencing to formulate a "yard stick" by which to gauge the element of national policy in controlling floods of the Mississippi river's tributaries.

—THE—
By Allene Sumner

Quite a to-do is made about young Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hermann of New York, who have just entered a legal partnership with "Hermann and Hermann" in black letters on the plate glass office door. We are reminded that this is almost an unprecedented move in America. After a page of news, paper and magazine space is devoted to wonderings if a marriage can succeed when the marital partners not only live together but work together, thus seeing each other at a 24-hour stretch.

MARRIAGE HERE AND THERE

This is the essential difference to a marriage here and a marriage abroad. Here, the wife runs a business together in France, Italy, Germany, Spain, or Russia, just as a matter of course. If it is a wine or tobacco shop, the madame tends the till while papa fills orders. If it's a restaurant she tends the till or cooks or waits on table while the markets and adds up bills and fills water glasses. And the divorce rate abroad is infinitely smaller than ours.

POIRET, OPINION

Paul Poiret, famous designer, is a host at the American girls' display of lace and their clinging to one style for five years at a time. He reminds us that we have maintained just about the same skirt length for the last five years, and that it's too short for beauty. Poiret recalls that when he came to this country in 1912 he brought pictures of gowns which Parisians were then wearing. Gowns with skirts just above the ankles, which were seized by customs authorities as "immoral." Then came these words of wisdom from Monsieur Poiret: "American women seem to think that if they dressed uniquely and individually it would lessen their standing as mothers and homemakers. A woman, after all, is a wife before she is a mother. Her duty as a wife is greater than as a mother. In her home she should attract herself attractively, seductively, to please and hold her husband when he comes from his work. That's a woman's big duty." To which I rejoin, "Applesauce!"

BOUNCING BABY

A 17-pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross of Cleveland, O. Pictures were taken of the proud parents and the new infant. Punny how parental pride thrives on each extra ounce a newborn baby has when it is proven again that baby size has positively nothing to do with future ability of the child in any way. It's probably just a sample of eternal justice striving to accomplish something out of the ordinary.

TRUE STORY

A doughty marine stepped into a trinket shop in Shanghai and, smug into the arms of his sweetheart whom he hadn't seen for years and whom he supposed dead or lost to him forever. Sergeant James Miches was engaged to Millie Dingley when he went to war. When he came back he couldn't find the girl he left behind him, so he enlisted in the Marines to "forget." She began working her way around the world to "forget" too. Now they'll live happily ever after.

You wouldn't believe this in a story book. Authors are criticized whenever they let coincidence untangle raveled plots. But in life it's nearly always coincidence that does that very thing.

High School Conference Teams Face Busy Week-End

Wichita Falls And Amarillo Seem To Be District's Best

Plainview Vs. Coyotes; Sandies Vs. Tigers and West-corn-Quannah Are Conference Tilts.

As the days are numbered now until the curtain is drawn over the season's Class A gridiron classics, the teams that have hopes and ambitions for a chance for the title are bustling through strenuous work. This week brings the Wichita Falls and Amarillo Sandies together on the Sandies lot, the Plainview Bulldogs will go on an invasion on the Coyotes lair, while the Chiefs will whop it up in Lubbock with the Westerners. Should the Sandies and the Coyotes combat successfully in their respective tilts, which they are expected to do, the title race will be decided on Tuesday night when the classic between the Amarillo Sandies and the Wichita Falls Coyotes. In the Lubbock-Quannah game the locals are expected to have an easy encounter. As the conference statistics look the present time the Amarillo even appears to have the best chances for a clean conference slate for the Panhandle championship. Hugh Butler, handler of the Amarillo machine, will attempt to sack away the Electra game without exciting any special effort as he desires to unleash every possible attack against the Coyotes on Tuesday.

The Vernon Lions, one of the strongest Class A teams of the district, will not meet with a loop organization this week but are battling with the Hollis, Oklahoma team. This is being watched with intense interest, especially by the local coaches.

Aggies Open Work For Game Against Texas Turkey-Day

Predictions Are Risky for Crucial Tilt Though Dope Points in Favor of the Farmer Aggregation.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 16.—Following a brief rest of three days the Texas Aggies Tuesday settled down to intensive drilling for their annual Thanksgiving Day game with the University of Texas Longhorns to be played this year on Kyle Field.

With a single exception, the Aggies are in perfect physical condition as Coach who has been out for over a week with a broken hand, is the only Aggie suffering from an injury. It is possible that he will recover before the season is over, for it is remembered that it was a similar injury which forced Coach Dieterich, stellar Aggie tackle and captain, out of the lineup just over two weeks before the Texas game but he was sufficiently recovered in time to play in the Longhorn contest.

The Aggies have the advantage over the Longhorns in the games won and lost volume this year and are favored by most dopers to win but the uncertainty of football as a whole, and especially the uncertainty as to the outcome of Aggie-Longhorn games make predictions in favor of either team risky.

Title At Stake.
The Aggies will be fighting for a conference championship as well as a victory over their most ancient rivals and they will be playing on their own stamping grounds, in Kyle Field, and there is little doubt that the Steers will have to play great football to hold them in check.

The conditions surrounding this game bear a close resemblance to those under which the 1925 game was played. In that year, as will be the case this year, a victory over Texas meant another championship for the Aggies and in that year the game was played on Kyle Field, the Aggies winning by a 28 to 0 score. The Aggies had been defeated only once that year, T. C. U. turning the trick, and this year the Horned Frog eleven is the only team which has been able to stop the driving Aggie offense although the game with T. C. U. this year resulted in a scoreless tie. In 1925 however, the Longhorns, too, were fighting for a championship and all they needed to clinch the pennant was a tie game. This year the Texas team does not stand a shot at the championship.

There will be three counts of criminal trial proceedings in the November session of the court, beginning December 5.

Slaton Game With Spur Is Cancelled

Failure of Latter Team to Fulfill Eligibility Rules Cause for Halt to Friday Contest.

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Nov. 16.—The Slaton high school Tigers, so far without defeat in their race for the honors in Class B, district two, high school football, will not meet Spur Friday, November 18, as was scheduled at the opening of the season. This announcement was made here by Supt. C. L. Sone and Coach Odus Mitchell of the Slaton school. Superintendent Sone is chairman of the executive committee of the district conference and gives as the reason for not having Friday's game the fact that Spur has not accepted the football plan for this district and has failed to turn in the required eligibility blanks properly signed for players on the Spur team. The Slaton Tigers have therefore, will have no game this week-end, but will meet Floydada here Thanksgiving Day to determine the championship of district two. Floydada is scheduled to meet Lockney Friday of this week.

Interest Growing In Quannah Battle

Westerners Will Unleash Powerful Offensive in Friday Tilt, Is Word of Lubbock Coaches.

Interest is growing daily in Lubbock for the Friday game of the Lubbock Westerners against the Quannah Chiefs on the Texas Tech athletic field, and the greater part of the high school enrollment will assemble for the last game of the local machine on the home lot. The Chiefs, the only Indian tribe in the Panhandle Class A conference, will be here strong to attempt their first victory in the loop.

The game will be a historical event for several of the members of the Westerner outfit as they will be performing in their last high school game on the Lubbock field. Among these are listed the most valuable men of the team. Coaches Harry Franks and Del Morgan are urging a strictly offensive game for the Quannah Chiefs and plan to open up a driving, running and passing attack.

Work and plenty of it has been given to the lads this week so that the mentors hope and desire for a colorful offensive attack may be realized. The backfield, which will likely consist of Les Smith, Williams, Dullahite, and Dowell will exhibit a brilliant offense for the Quannah Chiefs and plan to open up a driving, running and passing attack.

(Special To The Avalanche)
COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 16.—Although the attendance at the Texas Aggie-Longhorn game on Kyle Field Thanksgiving Day will be the largest in the history of A. & M. athletics, no difficulty is expected by the athletic department in taking care of the large crowd, according to James Sullivan, business manager of athletics.

Much care has been taken in planning every possible convenience for the visitors and an effort is going to be made to get every person to his seat as quickly and with as little trouble as possible.

Defense Players Dissecting Grid Rules Can Catch Passes

By E. J. O'BRIEN

Famous Football Referee

Any player of the side which put the ball in play from a scrimmage may throw the ball any distance toward his opponents' goal line. The player of the side which did not put the ball in play from the scrimmage may not make a forward pass.

In order for a forward pass to be legal it must be thrown from a point at least five yards back of the spot from which it was put in play, and only one such pass may be made in each scrimmage. The question has been asked several times "Just who is eligible to receive a forward pass?" Usually, six men on the team making the pass are eligible to receive it, and all of the players on the defense.

The eligible offense players are those players who were on the end of the line of scrimmage or more than one yard back of the line of scrimmage at the moment the ball was put in play.

It might also be added that after a forward pass has been made, if it touches any of the eligible men of the side making the pass, he alone of his side is eligible to recover that ball, unless it strikes an opponent.

Any player of the defensive side has full right to touch or attempt to secure the ball up to the time it touches the ground.

NUT CRACKER

by Joe Williams

Couch Hanley explains a recent Northwestern defeat by saying his boys were saving their plays for a junior prom.

They probably did not choose to run on that day.

Prom-Trotter O'Goofy volunteers to play in that game. He doesn't fear being penalized for holding.

The lads would have to be more than halfbacks to draw much attention.

Such a game would be merely a matter of lines.

Yet he can't see why the plays are saved for the dance hall when there are so many other plays to be used there.

The Northwestern boys can't be of Scotch blood, or they would never make a saving that drew no interest.

Every coach, however, can't blame a defeat on that reason. A lot of teams have no plays worth saving.

EDICT TO SLATTERY
Ordered to Fight Lomski or Forfeit Championship

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., must defend his light heavyweight crown against Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., within 30 days or forfeit the title, according to an edict by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the national boxing association today.

Slattery is the champion of the National Boxing association, which embraces a membership in 24 states whereas Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia is recognized as standard bearer of his class by the New York and Pennsylvania boxing authorities.

Efforts had been made to match Slattery against Loughran but since such a bout does not appear likely at this time, the National Boxing association has ordered Slattery to go through with the Lomski affair. Lomski is considered one of the foremost candidates for light heavyweight honors.

Honors About Even in First Day of Litigation Between Ex-Champion and One Time Manager at N. Y.

(By Associated Press)
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 16.—Honors were described as even by spectators who filled the tiny court room today in which the legal battle between Jack Dempsey and his former manager, Jack Kearns, staged its first round. It was a day filled with an amount of excitement, including a nine story "drop" of an elevator carrying Dempsey, Tex Rickard, Arthur Driscoll, of the boxer's counsel and about 20 others. There was no element of danger in the "fall" however.

Kearns is suing the former champion for $233,333.33, alleging breach of a contract, signed on September 22, 1923.

The trial got under way at noon with the selection of the jury and ran smoothly enough until after the drop of the elevator, when Driscoll returned to court and began his opening address to the jury, declaring the alleged contract was "merely a scrap of paper designed to deceive the New York state a licit commission." He explained that it was all right with Dempsey and that Kearns signed his name to the paper, realizing it was "only a scrap of paper."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—Eastern trunk lines which combined last February in the purchase of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, may jettison a tentative check in their project at the hands of the interstate commerce commission experts.

Further, the commission was given the recommendation that three trunk lines combining in the purchase should be required to retrace their steps in such manner as to secure the continued management and operation of the Wheeling as independent carriers.

BANKERS ARE FOR FUND

Plan to Curb Bank Robbers by "Head Bonus" Okeyed

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16. (AP)—Without a single objection, 143 members of the Texas Bankers association had notified President William Massey Wednesday of their willingness to contribute $5 each to maintain a fund from which to pay a reward of $5000 for each dead bank robber. Each mail, Massey said, is bringing additional pledges.

Some of the letters received with pledges Wednesday suggested that a reward also be paid for the arrest and conviction of a bank robber, but Massey continued to maintain that a reward for "dead bank robbers" will do more to stop holdups.

COLLEGE GREENHOUSE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Workmen are putting the finishing work to the first unit of the college greenhouse which is being built just north of the stock judging pavilion and a few weeks will find the unit complete and ready for occupancy. Officials of the college said yesterday afternoon. Practically all of the frame work of the building has been placed and the glass installed. The boiler room is being built now.

The greenhouse, when completed, will house laboratory specimens for the horticulture and agronomy classes of the school of agriculture. Placing phases of their study into practice, members of the Pre-Law club held a mock trial in their meeting last night. A freshman member of the club was arraigned before the court and charged with bribery. A hour filled with many humorous events followed.

CAMBRIDGE DEBATORS DRAW BIG CROWDS ON U. S. TOUR

The Cambridge University debate team of England which will appear at the Tech this Saturday night is attracting much attention in the debates of their tour of the U. S. this fall. Press reports from the other schools say. Crowds of between 1,000 and 1,500 people have heard the debaters in many of the schools they have visited, the word says.

Of the thirty odd contests in which the boys are appearing while in the United States, the Tech team has the youngest boys they will meet and the debate Saturday will be a contest of brains and experience versus youth and determination. Officials of the college said yesterday.

Another thing which adds to the interest of the Cambridge debaters is the method of voting. The audience votes on the winners of the debate.

The Tech team of Hutson, Whitesides and Lacy are spending all of their time in preparation for the contest and plan to present a well balanced argument on the question, "The Power of the Press has increased, is increasing and should be diminished."

Trial Ends

that District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley was called upon to prosecute a personal friend and colleague of the state concerning the reprehensible reputation of the defendant and the extraordinary strength of Mr. Zatloukal. The latter point was especially a strong one in the evidence produced by the defense.

Mr. Zatloukal, a Bohemian born in Arabia was unknown here, but had been master mechanic in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway shops at St. Louis for more than two years prior to his death. Mr. Jones has resided in Lubbock for more than two years and since coming here has been engaged in the land business. He was born and raised in his family's home county, Williamson, and during the war was a captain of the company in which Governor Dan Moody served as a second lieutenant.

Sensor W. H. Bledsoe, who has figured in over four West Texas murder trials, and his partner, Charles C. Crenshaw, were attorneys for Mr. Jones. Mr. Bradley conducted the state's case unassisted.

Wednesday Morning Session The morning session of the court got under way at eleven o'clock yesterday, the third day of the trial. Judge Mulliken had spent the morning writing his charge to the jury and studying objections filed by the defense. The charge being written in compliance with the new state law which during the meeting of the last legislature did away with the manslaughter charge entirely.

In reading his charge to the jurors Judge Mulliken told them that in their deliberations they might consider the relative sizes of Messrs. Jones and Zatloukal and to take cognizance, if they so saw fit, of the fact that the law gives a man who is in fear of attack to arm and then go about his lawful business. In the charge was also the explanation that under the laws of the state a man who has reason to believe his life is in danger has the right to shoot and to continue to shoot until the danger of attack is over.

Bradley Talks to Jury

At 11:15 o'clock State's Attorney Bradley addressed the jury in his first of two pleas made before that body. He thanked the tallmen for their interest during all times of the trial and for their co-operation with the court. He then told them that his task of prosecution in the case was most unpleasant to him because of the fact that he and the defendant were not only personal friends but members of the same college fraternity.

He reminded them that his oath as an officer and his promise to the voters when he made his campaign for the office of district attorney made it necessary that he prosecute all cases which came before the district court and that he would continue to act without fear or favor as long as he held the office. He also reminded the jury that he did not make the facts in the case that they were made by the defendant and Mr. Zatloukal.

Goss Over Testimony

Mr. Bradley next went over the testimony of state's witnesses, Alton Hutson, Tech student; J. M. Marshall, local attorney; Harry Meyers, Lubbock merchant; J. T. Immon, police sergeant; Dr. J. W. Rollo, city physician; and Mrs. A. T. Block, floral shop employee. He then discussed the defense testimony of Mrs. Ollie Zatloukal, mother of the defendant and widow of the deceased and at 11:45 completed his address. Judge Mulliken then recessed the trial until 1:30 p. m.

Court reconvened shortly after 1:30 yesterday afternoon and Charles C. Crenshaw made his talk to the jury—the first of two made by the defense. Mr. Crenshaw told the jury that the defense counsel wanted no favor and no sympathy from the jury, that all it wanted was justice. He said flights of or-ary had no place in addresses of this type and he was merely going to discuss facts of the case just as he would with a friend on his own door-step. He complimented the spirit and intelligence of West Texas juries and then reminded the jurymen that the defense had no quarrel with State's Attorney Bradley. He complimented Mr. Bradley's handling of a difficult situation, called attention to the fact that the case was most unusual due to the fact that there had been no conflicting testimony. He then called the jury's attention to the speed with which the trial had proceeded.

Brings Up Evidence

He then pointed out that there had been no spite in the killing and that there was no evidence produced to show that the killing was unlawful. He stressed the right of self-defense as provided in Texas law, attacked several points of the evidence, and then attacked the deceased for cruelty to his wife, which had been previously introduced by testimony. He pointed out the devotion of the defendant to his mother and asked the jury why Mr. Zatloukal went to Mr. Jones' office if he was not looking for trouble.

He also stressed Mr. Zatloukal's alleged motion to his hip pocket, which the defense contended caused the defendant to fire and then told the jury that the defense had it felt Mr. Jones had been guilty of murder as charged, would have been permitted under the law to ask the court for a suspended sentence. This suspended sentence would have been possible, he said, due to the fact that there was no stain on the character of Mr. Jones and that Mrs. Bradley would probably have recommended to the jury hearing the case that a suspended sentence be passed. He closed his talk with an appeal to the jury for even-handed justice, based upon the testimony and through no sympathy for a good fellow.

Bledsoe Addresses Jury

After a few minutes recess Senator W. H. Bledsoe, chief counsel for the defense, went before the jury with his plea. Senator Bledsoe opened his remarks at 2:35 and promised the jury, after completing the judgment of its members, that his speech would not take up much time—no as much as he would be allowed by the court and an agreement with the prosecution.

He pointed out to the tallmen that there had been no conflicting evidence and then commended Mr. Bradley for his conduct of the state's case, which the Senator characterized as capable and brilliant. He said the defense had no quarrel with Mr. Bradley or state's witnesses and he said he was sure that the friendship between Mr. Jones and Mr. Bradley would not be terminated by the trial but would go on down the years.

Turns To State's Testimony

Senator Bledsoe then turned to the testimony of state's witnesses, taking up with the jury points brought out under questioning by Alton Hutson and Dr. J. W. Rollo. He also stressed the motion, which testimony of the defendant brought out had been made by Mr. Zatloukal, toward his hip pocket as he approached Mr. Jones at the time of the killing. The Senator then discussed the motive for the shooting and said that the tragedy was a calamity to the community.

Senator Bledsoe then spoke of a speech upon American womanhood, which he heard delivered by Rev. L. G. H. Williams, Episcopal church rector, at the Rotary club luncheon Wednesday at noon. Using Mr. Williams' speech he praised Mrs. Zatloukal for taking the stand in her son's behalf, even when the situation was an ordeal for her.

The defense asked only justice from the jury. The Senator said, and the application of the golden rule to the case.

Bradley Speaks Again

Mr. Bradley came before the jury for his second time at 2:15. He read the indictment returned by the grand jury and then asked the jury to decide whether or not the killing was justified and whether or not it was prompted by any malice or forethought. He next went over the court's charge to the jury and discussed the events leading up to the tragedy. He took the stand that to him it was unlikely that a man of Mr. Zatloukal's admitted strength would reach for a pistol which he didn't have, when he could have almost reached out and seized the defendant. He discussed the testimony of Alton Hutson and in discussing the two wounds suffered by the deceased told the stand that the second bullet had been fired while the deceased was attempting to leave the scene.

Mr. Bradley corrected Mr. Crenshaw's statement in regard to his (Mr. Bledsoe's) probability of agreeing to a suspended sentence had one been requested, and told the jury he didn't favor suspended sentences in cases of this nature. He left the case to the jury at 4 o'clock.

Judge Mulliken furnished the jury with a copy of the original indictment and the court's charge, told them to deliberate fully upon the case, and to choose from their num-

Amendments Are Adopted By P. T. A.

Austin Woman Elected as President; Mrs. A. F. Wood of Athens Wins Office in Close Contest.

(By Associated Press) HOUSTON, Nov. 16.—The entire administration ticket as amended by by-laws intended to reorganize the administration, and finances was carried by good majorities at the convention here Wednesday of the Texas congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers association.

The result was a decided victory for the administration which had sponsored the amendment and had urged the selection of the slate prepared by the committee on nominations for office.

In the only two real contests for official positions, Mrs. A. F. Wood, Athens, defeated Mrs. Olin Culbertson, Hillsboro, who was nominated from the convention floor by a vote of 368 to 229 for first vice-president, and Mrs. George Francisco defeated Mrs. W. C. Emerson, the other so-called insurgent candidate in the race for recording secretary by a vote of 343 to 248. Both women are from Dallas. The financial reorganization amendment carried 255 to 188. Many delegates had opposed one of its provisions which made it mandatory to place the entire 25 cents per capita tax to the state organization for distribution instead of the districts retaining a part of it as formerly.

The ballot, however, made no provision for separating the items and merely left spaces to vote for or against the amendments approved by the board of managers.

Some of the delegates termed it "real politics" and grudgingly, yet admiringly paid tribute to the keenness of one of their leaders to whom they attributed the fact that they had been "outsmarted."

Mrs. Noyes-Darling-Smith, Austin, the administrative candidate for president, was elected 892 to 3, for Mrs. Todd, whose name was written in the ballot. Other officers, aside from those contested, were without opposition, except, perhaps for a single vote here and there for a favored sister.

The other officials were: Second vice-president, Mrs. Charles H. Woodson, San Antonio; fourth vice-president, Mrs. J. I. Kendrick, Amarillo; fifth vice-president, Miss Mary Jo Dwyer, well, Fort Worth; sixth vice-president, Mrs. P. C. McElashan, San Angelo; seventh vice-president, Mrs. L. E. Ladbetter, Austin; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Lovine, Austin; corresponding-secretary, Mrs. Duke Burgess, Fort Worth; historian, Mrs. H. B. Chamberlain, Henderson.

OIL CLAIM DISPUTED

Texas Oil Men Indignant Over Boasts for Well

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16. (AP)—Oil men here are indignant at the boasting of the Number 2 C. Yates, a mid-Kansas and trans-Continental oil company in the Yates pool as a 65,000 barrel well and the "second largest ever completed." In news dispatches emanating from Tulsa, the Record Telegram will say tomorrow.

"This large figure was reached by extending on a 24 hour basis the production in the well made the first 45 minutes when it was opened up after a two day shut down, it was pointed out. During the two days when it was practically shut in a 'head' gathered and when opened up for a few minutes the oil came with a big rush. Such a phenomenon is well known in all oil fields and the production for the short time is a far different matter than production at the end of 24 hours or 48 hours, at the end of a week," oil men here said.

LOCKE CASE TO JURY

Motives Cited Not Enough to Justify Homicide

ANTLEIGH, Okla., Nov. 16. (AP)—Major Victor M. Locke was in his right mind at the time he killed Abner Bartlett, Choctaw Indian, the motives offered for the deed by witnesses were not sufficient to justify homicide, Judge Earl Welch instructed the jury in Locke's murder case late today.

A verdict of acquittal might be brought in, the judge said, if the jury finds that the former superintendent of the Five-Civilized Tribes was insane at the time of the shooting in September. The defense offered its case after the introduction of expert testimony regarding Locke's mental state. Dr. J. M. Fuller, neurologist, of El Paso, testified that on the stand that in his opinion the defendant was "temporarily insane" when he killed Bartlett.

How Many Merchants do This Same Thing?

A newspaper an in Central Texas was discussing advertising appropriations with a merchant friend of his.

The monthly advertising appropriation, it appears, had been overdrawn. Examination of the various items disclosed some very strange expenditures.

When pressed for an explanation, the merchant had to admit that he had "bit" on every "fly-by-night" advertising stunt presented to him whether or not it had merit.

This merchant was a shrewd buyer—of merchandise. But to him anything CALLED advertising WAS advertising. He never analyzed such purchases at all.

Now he has "tumbled to himself." He has cut out the waste and foolishness.

He concentrates his appropriation in the standard, recognized, tried-and-proved medium—the daily newspapers.

In Lubbock and on the South Plains, there is complete coverage through—

Schedule Change Of Santa Fe Will Benefit Section

New Program, Effective November 27, Links Up Dallas and Fort Worth by Closer Time.

(Special To The Avalanche) SLATON, Nov. 16.—Changes in the time card for passenger trains on the Santa Fe railway, which changes will make Fort Worth and Dallas a full half-day nearer to the South Plains country, have been announced from the division superintendent's office here, and will become effective November 27.

Train No. 94, now arriving in Slaton from Amarillo at 12:25 p. m. and reaching Sweetwater at about 4 p. m., will arrive here at the same time as usual, but will proceed no farther. About 6:20 p. m., a train making up here will run to Lubbock, doubling back from Lubbock and departing from Slaton about 8:15 p. m. for Sweetwater, arriving there at about 11:30 p. m. This train will connect with the T. and P. eastbound passenger at Sweetwater, which reaches Fort Worth the next morning at 7:15 a. m. and Dallas at 8:15 a. m. Pullman accommodations all the way through to Fort Worth will be available for South Plains passengers.

On the return trip, one will leave Fort Worth at Dallas late in the evening, arriving at Sweetwater, early the next morning. Santa Fe passenger number 93 will not depart from Sweetwater until about 7:45 a. m., thus allowing passengers time to get breakfast in Sweetwater. Station will be reached at about 10:25 a. m. and Amarillo about 3 p. m. Lubbock will be reached about 11 a. m. This involves a very slight variation from the present schedule of this same train. Or, instead of passengers having breakfast at Sweetwater, no stop will be made at Slaton for lunch at the Harvey House.

Advantage To Region.
Summed up, the advantage for South Plains people will be in the fact that they will be home at the close of the business day, reach Fort Worth or Dallas at the opening of the next business day, spend a full day shopping or attending to other business and return home by noon or before the second day's absence. Changes of the schedule by the new schedule include Lubbock, Slaton, Post, Snyder and others. At the present, it is necessary for people of these towns to leave home at noon on Monday after one day and be gone until the morning of the second day. The saving effected for travelers will be equivalent to an approximate half-day. The train leaving Lubbock at 7:45 p. m. and Slaton at 8:15 p. m. makes it ideal for those wishing to go directly to Dallas or Fort Worth markets. Inhabitants of Lubbock people wishing to spend a full half day in Slaton may arrive here at 12:25 p. m. and return home at about 7 p. m. Also, Slaton people wishing to spend the evening in Lubbock may reach there at 7 p. m. and return home about midnight on another train.

ENLARGE HOSPITAL $10,000 Addition for Lamesa Sanitarium

(Special To The Avalanche) LAMESA, Nov. 16.—Plans have been broken on the new $10,000 addition to the Lamesa sanitarium of this city and work is rapidly going forward to its completion. According to Dr. Dunn the addition will not only be a thing of beauty to this section but will be equipped throughout with the most modern surgical and medical equipment.

Other buildings both in the residential and business district are going forward at the average rate. New business buildings are now being planned and are to start within the next 30 days. Local carpenters, contractors and lumbermen are plenty able to take care of the situation at present.

PLACE STREET SIGNS Travelers In Lamesa May Now Find Directions

(By Associated Press) LAMESA, Nov. 16.—The city has almost finished the creation of street signs throughout the city limits. The signs stand seven feet above the grade line and are of heavy steel uprights with enamel street names. The signs are set in concrete and form a grade line for sidewalk building throughout the city.

The city has received all house numbers and will place them as soon as the street signs are all in. An effort will be made to get free city mail delivery as soon as this work is complete.

The city officials have recently placed stop signs on all important street crossings in the business section, the traffic being stopped with change of phase on the busied thoroughfares.

FRANCHISE GOOD Favorable Gas Rate Is Secured in Big Spring

(Special To The Avalanche) BIG SPRING, Nov. 16.—The city of Big Spring was indeed fortunate in obtaining a franchise quite unique in its character, in fact one of the best franchises ever rendered to any city in the United States. The franchise embodies proposition wherein the city becomes co-partner in the profits of the sale of gas to its inhabitants. For the first five years the city will receive three per cent profit. After five years the profits will increase to five per cent. There is also a fee of 25 cents per meter payable to the city monthly. The city has a right of purchase of the distribution system at any time up until March 15, 1931, at the actual cost of the distribution system plus 10 per cent. After 1931 the city has the first option to purchase the plant.

GATHER COTTON Brownfield Labor Supply Adequate First Time

(Special To The Avalanche) BROWNFIELD, Nov. 16.—All signs in the county are running double shift in order to care for the cotton that is coming in and if open weather prevails for the next few weeks, the crop will be gathered before Christmas. For the first time since cotton has been grown in this county, the labor supply has been adequate and the country is full of pickers. A considerable amount of corn and grain sorghums will be placed on the market as soon as cotton is out of the way and advance inquiries indicate that a fair price will be secured. A large number of turkeys is being received by the local produce houses and being shipped out by truck, but the main turkey movement will be centered around Christmas.

No increased expense will be borne by the city government as a result of the 22 additions. The office to install them was voluntarily made by Judge L. R. Kline, president of the Texas Utilities, and their installation will be equivalent to a reduction of approximately 30 per cent in the cost of upkeep. The city commission will designate the locations for the lights and the material will be ordered and installed immediately thereafter, according to J. A. Ballou, local manager of the Utilities corporation.

Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher, is swindled out of $45,000 by a gang headed by Joe Furey and he resolves to break up the ring. Various clues lead him on exciting chases back and forth across the continent. He located Furey's home in Glendale. Hearing that Furey is soon to be home he stations two officers to watch the place. After some time he gets a tip that Furey has gone to Florida and picks up his young son at the ranch. He follows to Jacksonville where they find Furey in a restaurant. After a bloody fight they capture their man and to avoid local complications start to drive to the Georgia line. A deputy sheriff suggests that they stop at a flag station a few miles away and flag a limited train. Furey begs for a chance to reimburse Norfleet and gives Norfleet's son a note to the secretary of the fake exchange in Jacksonville, ordering him to pay the young man $20,000 "on account." Pete returns to Jacksonville and Norfleet and Furey wait in the woods near the flag station. Furey confesses that the two Los Angeles officers captured him at his home in Glendale and he bought his freedom for $20,000. As they talk there is a rustle in the brush nearby and Norfleet discovers several men with sawed-off shotguns evidently sent here by the deputy in an effort to release Furey. Norfleet places a gun at Furey's head and the man screams frantically for the men to not start anything and to go back. After the exciting time in the woods, Furey returns and they go over to the flag station where they learn that the limited will not stop.

Chapter Thirty-four
"Pardner, my son and I are officers from Texas. The man in the car is our prisoner. We've gone through hell to get him. A Jacksonville deputy advised us to come out here to catch the train. See those seven men down the road there—the fellows with the riot guns. Well, they followed us out here to take our man away from us. That Jacksonville deputy was the only man in the town who knew where we were coming."

"We're going to hold our prisoner now, if we have to shoot a path down the road. If anything happens to us, I want you to inform the Governor of Florida."

The man wished us well and I got into the car. The chauffeur said we could get another train out of Jacksonville if we hurried. I tried to get him to take us across the Georgia line but he declared the road was impassable, so we circled and started back to Jacksonville. The gunmen had got into their cars, three in one and four in the other. Their automobiles were headed toward Jacksonville, but they saw there, one car to each side of the road, where we must pass directly between them.

We gripped our guns the soon stepped on the gas and we dashed between the cars. They immediately took in after us and a race was on. "How fast can this bus go?" I asked.

"I don't know, sah, boss man. But this sho' is a good time 't fix' out!" The Cadillac seemed to leap forward. I looked back and the two pursuing cars were rocking with speed. We were gaining on them. I glanced at the speedometer. Seventy-eight! I dreaded to think what might happen if we struck a rut. Another mile or so clicked by in what seemed a brief instant. We were outdistancing the other cars and I settled down in my seat feeling much more at ease than I had during the last few hours. It was fine to be able to relax and rest for a few minutes.

My head dropped and I must have nodded sleepily for a moment, but I came to with a start when I felt the car lurch and saw Furey's rear end on the wheel. He had jumped up quickly and plunged over the front seat, grasping the steering wheel with his mangled hands. With a mighty yank he plunged the steering wheel into the woods to the right of the pike. By this time, Pete was in action and he crashed the barrel of his gun into Furey's head, and he fell in a limp heap in the tannum of the car. The chauffeur was making a desperate effort to keep the car on its wheels, dodging stumps and brush piles with the car still going at a terrific speed. One big stump loomed up just ahead and it seemed that we must strike it. The coach gave the wheel a mighty jerk to the left, the car struck a rut which threw the front wheels into the air. It came down and, with its wheels twisted, it veered wildly, its two left wheels in the air, threatening a mean spill. The husky coach's quick thinking was a credit to him. He threw his weight toward the racing side, gave the wheel a strengthening twist and the car settled. Then, by adroit dodging we crashed through small brush to the road again and the driver stepped on the gas. We were again speeding down the smooth highway, and I glanced backward. The pursuing cars had gained some ground during the short interval of our wild detour, but we were now leading ahead and each instant lengthened the distance between us.

Furey lay, a limp, helpless bulky mass in the bottom of the car and Pete was trying to shake him into consciousness.

long sigh of relief and sank into the soft cushions to enjoy the first respite of many weary hours. I felt so contented, so entirely satisfied that we were now safe that I had great difficulty keeping my mind alert and my eyes open. Pete settled Furey as comfortably as possible. It was here that he told me of his experience when he had gone back to Jacksonville to look for Furey's men at the Mason Hotel.

When he reached that part of his story where he told of how the men had slipped away, one by one, Furey, earnestly, charging his partners in crime with having double-crossed him. He paced back and forth, wringing his hands. We watched him closely. The hand-wringing gestures were largely affected and we could see that he was manufacturing to get the whole thing bound his hands into a twist so that he might snap it with a quick jerk.

"Dad, don't you think we'd better put an extra pair of bracelets on him?" Pete suggested.

I nodded that we should and started to open a grip to get the handcuffs. Furey was watching me like a trapped animal. It occurred to me that we should chain him to the arm of a seat, but I felt that he was under as great a strain as we were and I did not want to deprive him of the bit of exercise he might get jolting back and forth in the small room.

As I started to pick up the extra bracelets, Furey sidestepped through the door which led into the side of the car and cried out in a winning voice.

"Wimmen! Men! Oh, my God! Help me!" he begged, his voice trembling in agony.

I watched his face distort and twitch and I would have been moved to compassion myself had I not known that the man was pretending. Every person in the car had looked up.

"Why don't you help me? These men have abused me! I am suffering. They are starving me. For God's sake help a dying man."

His voice rose dramatically and broke into a splendid sob of appeal. He had to admire his acting ability.

Two dear old ladies ran to his side, showering him with questions which he answered in a pitiful voice.

I glanced down the aisle of the car and saw my old friend, Mrs. Street, seated at the far end. Another coincidence. It also seemed strange that she did not rush to pour out her sympathy upon Furey, for she was a dear, sympathetic soul. Perhaps she had her orders for she did not look up and I did not feel, at the moment, like running to greet her. I was beginning to be suspicious of her.

"Furey caught a switch

"Oh, you poor man!" cried the female Samaritans, as they stroked Furey's hands with motherly care and shot contemptuous glances at Pete and me. It made Pete angry to see such sweet sympathy misdirected and he gave the prisoner a jerk which landed him in a seat within the room. Then he sat down beside him, next in the door. I stood in the doorway, holding back the women who would have rushed inside to another Furey with their well-meant attentions.

The news-butcher came through with a basket, which was heaped with fruit and the sympathizers began to eat. Furey sat back from the door and the women could not reach him, so they began piling fruit into my hands until it was necessary for me to hold my arms tight together to keep the heap from spilling over the floor of the car. All the time they kept up a barrage of rebukes to Pete and myself for our inhuman treatment of the man. Indeed, my hands filled with fruit, rather nonplussed by the scathing remarks of the women. I could never contend with an indignant woman. Pete looked up at me and smirked; the sentimental rush of the women amused him and he was enjoying the humor of the situation. I must have looked rather funny, now that I think of it. We allowed our attention to be drawn to the sympathizers when we were suddenly jolted back to earth by a crash of glass. I looked around quickly and saw Furey's feet disappearing through the shattered pane. I dropped the fruit and it rolled in all directions. Women screamed and I reached the window barely in time to throw my gun at Furey who had dived through the jagged hole after our ex-prisoner.

The conductor pulled the bellcord and the train jolted to a sudden stop. I sped through the rear Pullmans and leaped from the platform of the last one. A porter threw our cases off after me and the train puffed away. We had rounded a curve and I could see neither Pete nor Furey. I stacked the cases near a pile of ties and ran back down the track. In another moment I saw Pete and he beckoned to me to hurry.

"Dad," he gasped, as I reached his side, "Furey caught a switch engine back to town." He pointed down the track in the direction the engine had taken. It had rounded another curve and was out of sight.

We were standing almost beneath a tall "signal tower" and I saw a "switch" but a widow watching us called to him.

"Do you have a telegraph wire here?" He nodded that he had. "All right," I shouted. "Wire W. B. Cahoon, of the City Detective Bureau, Jacksonville, that Furey—Joe Furey—has headed his way. He jumped our train and caught a switch engine that's headed toward town. Tell him Norfleet said to meet it. Norfleet—new kid."

The man nodded, pulled his head back and closed the window. I wasn't sure that he had understood me so that he would do as I had asked, but it was a chance. It was growing dark and we must think fast.

A little way down the track we saw another engine snorting and steaming like an impetuous race horse. We ran to it and I explained our problem to the engineer.

"Do you think you could catch him?" I asked challengingly.

The engineer squinted at me for a moment, looked at the signal tower then nodded.

"You bet your life I can catch him," he answered.

He hoisted the engine from two coupled cars and returned down to the tower, calling out to the tower-man to open the way back to Jacksonville. In another moment his throttle was wide open and we were speeding after the fugitive engine.

We swung around the curve and sighted our quarry some distance ahead. Our engine signaled to his fireman to give her all he had and the iron monster plunged down the track, the steel rails disappearing beneath her as if the great wheels bore us on a very swiftness them.

Forecast Causes Giles To Postpone His Hop

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—After reconsidering the forecast given him by the United States weather bureau, Captain Frederick A. Giles, British aviator, told Mills Field officials today he would not attempt to fly to Hawaii tomorrow. He announced earlier in the day he would go at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow, regardless of the weather.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—The cotton market was generally quiet today. Prices moved within a range of 15 or 18 points. January sold off from 19.90 to 19.75, closing at the lowest, the general market closing barely steady at a net decline of 11 to 14 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points, and active months sold about 4 to 5 points net lower in the early trading when there was probably some buying on the unfavorable weather news.

The comparative light demand was soon supplied, however, and prices eased under a renewal of liquidation or reselling by recent buyers and a little selling supposed to be for Southern account. The failure of bullish features in the weather news to stimulate more general buying, disappointed holders of contracts which probably accounted for some of the selling.

December contracts eased off to 19.67 and March to 19.93, net losses of 11 to 14 points. The close was at the lowest figures of the day.

A large proportion of the comparatively small business in evidence was said to represent further stepping up of December contracts. Spot interest continued to buy December against sales of the later months, at a difference of about 26 to 27 points between December and March, but near month selling seemed to be a check on advances.

At the close December was 26 points under March, compared with a difference of 24 points at the close of the previous day. Business was a little more active toward the close, when there appeared to be some selling here by New Orleans presumably on straddle accounts.

The falling off in the volume of trading was regarded by some local brokers as indicating a fairly well stepped up position with operators inclined to wait the further progress of December lines or the showing of the ginning report expected at the opening Monday.

Private cables reported some continental buying and trade, calling supplied by hedging and liquidation in Liverpool. Port receipts today 41,484. U. S. 2,479,675. Exports 87,531, making 2,756,231 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 16. (AP)—Fear of large ginnings in the coming report due Monday resulted in a decline of 12 to 15 points in the cotton market here today. The market was very quiet and fluctuations were narrow during the entire session. Soon after the opening January advanced to 26.15, due to winter weather in the belt, but this was followed by a decline which sent January down to 25.92 at the close, or 23 points below the high and 14 points net lower. Liverpool was two to four penny points lower than due, but first trades here showed gains of two to eight points.

Cold weather advanced December to 26.04 and March to 26.24 or 6 to 8 points above yesterday's close.

Liquidation induced by fears of the ginnings report then caused the market to become easier and December dropped to 25.93 and March to 26.10. After rallying 5 to 6 points in the early afternoon the market turned easy again near the end and December sold at 25.95 and March at 26.01.

The close was easier at the bottom. Exports for the day were 87,531 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 16. (AP)—Active selling and lower prices in the wheat market today followed receipt of an Argentine government report describing the Argentine crop situation as favorable. Opposite advice from a Chicago crop expert in Argentine failed to act as an offset. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1-8 to 7-8c net lower, with corn unchanged to 1-8c up, oats showing 1-8c to 1-4c advance and provisions unchanged to 19 to 12c down.

Corn displayed power to rally from price set backs, but had to contend with liberal selling done to realize profits. Special attention was given to word from Omaha that corn export bids were at 10 higher basis than a week ago. Besides, Texas and Oklahoma reports indicated smaller yields of corn than expected and some advice said the corn movement was about over in that quarter. Oats were firm independent of corn. Good buying of oats appeared on all dips.

Provisions weakened at the last on account of selling from cash interests.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Nov. 16. (AP)—The hog market here today was steady to 10c higher. Steady to strong tones were recorded in the cattle trade. The sheep market was steady.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was more active and lower following a loss of 3 to 10 points. Trading reflected the decline in London and cotton as well as the continued unsettledness of substitute markets. Sales 18,800 barrels. Prime crude 9.00; prime sunflower yellow spot 10.60; December 10.75; January 10.80; March 10.90; May 11.10 June 11.20.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON, Nov. 16. (AP)—Trading in domestic wool continues good and prices firm. All grades of fine and half blood territory were taken most freely. Exports from foreign markets continued favorable and many holders of domestic wool are therefore inclined to be indifferent sellers.

CLOTH MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 16. (AP)—The gray cloth market was strong and quiet today on carded construction.

December contracts eased off to 19.67 and March to 19.93, net losses of 11 to 14 points. The close was at the lowest figures of the day. A large proportion of the comparatively small business in evidence was said to represent further stepping up of December contracts. Spot interest continued to buy December against sales of the later months, at a difference of about 26 to 27 points between December and March, but near month selling seemed to be a check on advances.

At the close December was 26 points under March, compared with a difference of 24 points at the close of the previous day. Business was a little more active toward the close, when there appeared to be some selling here by New Orleans presumably on straddle accounts.

The falling off in the volume of trading was regarded by some local brokers as indicating a fairly well stepped up position with operators inclined to wait the further progress of December lines or the showing of the ginning report expected at the opening Monday.

Private cables reported some continental buying and trade, calling supplied by hedging and liquidation in Liverpool. Port receipts today 41,484. U. S. 2,479,675. Exports 87,531, making 2,756,231 so far this season.

Look, Daddy!
Just like our new house

TRUE to child instinct, he has caught their pride in the new home... caught the spirit of it all in that tiny house he has built so laboriously with his blocks. What joyous pride in providing for that little son a real home to grow up in!

A woman's ability to compare had helped in choosing a home for a lifetime. Comparison is helpful in every day purchases also. This is true in buying coffee.

Taste-tempting... palate-pleasing, there's cheer in each steaming cupful of Folger's Coffee. It has this inimitable flavor because each grain of coffee in Folger's is the highest grade, highest type and highest priced coffee that the world produces in its respective countries of growth. Compare Folger's by making the famous Folger Coffee Test.

The Folger Coffee Test: Drink Folger's Coffee tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee Wins. That's fair, isn't it?
