

Unemployment has seasonal change upward

Unemployment figures for Scurry County took a seasonal jump upward during the month of September as summer vacations came to an end.

The estimate of persons in the work force without jobs rose to some 4.6 percent during the month, almost a full percentage point higher than the previous month. For August, Scurry County's unemployment was estimated at 3.8 percent.

In actual numbers, the persons listed as unemployed rose some 80 individuals, from 403 in August to 484 in September. This figure is still down when compared to the same monthly reporting period in 1982. During September of that year, the county's unemployment was figured at 5.2 percent.

Scurry County's job estimate this September figured a civilian labor force of 10,483 with 9,999 of these employed.

The highest unemployment figured for 1983 to date was in March, when it was estimated at 5 percent.

The jobs figures released for other surrounding counties were:

—Mitchell County: 6.4

percent unemployment figuring a civilian labor force of 4,345 with 277 of these out of work and 4,068 employed.

—Kent County: 4.9 percent unemployment figuring a civilian labor force of 486 with 24 of these out of work and 462 employed.

—Nolan County: 8.1 percent unemployment figuring a civilian labor force of 8,308 with 676 of these out of work and 7,632 employed.

—Stonewall County: 2.6 percent unemployment figuring a civilian labor force of 1,087 with 28 of these out of work and 1,059 employed.

Prisoners get papers by mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embarrassed State Department officials, investigating a bizarre security breach, are directing the search of a nearby prison for missing top-secret documents stored in a safe mistakenly delivered to the prison.

The documents, which included highly sensitive daily intelligence reports for Secretary of State George P. Shultz, were not missed until they were discovered late last month by prison officials. But some of the documents fell into the hands of prison inmates and investigators said they were still being recovered from the prison late Wednesday.

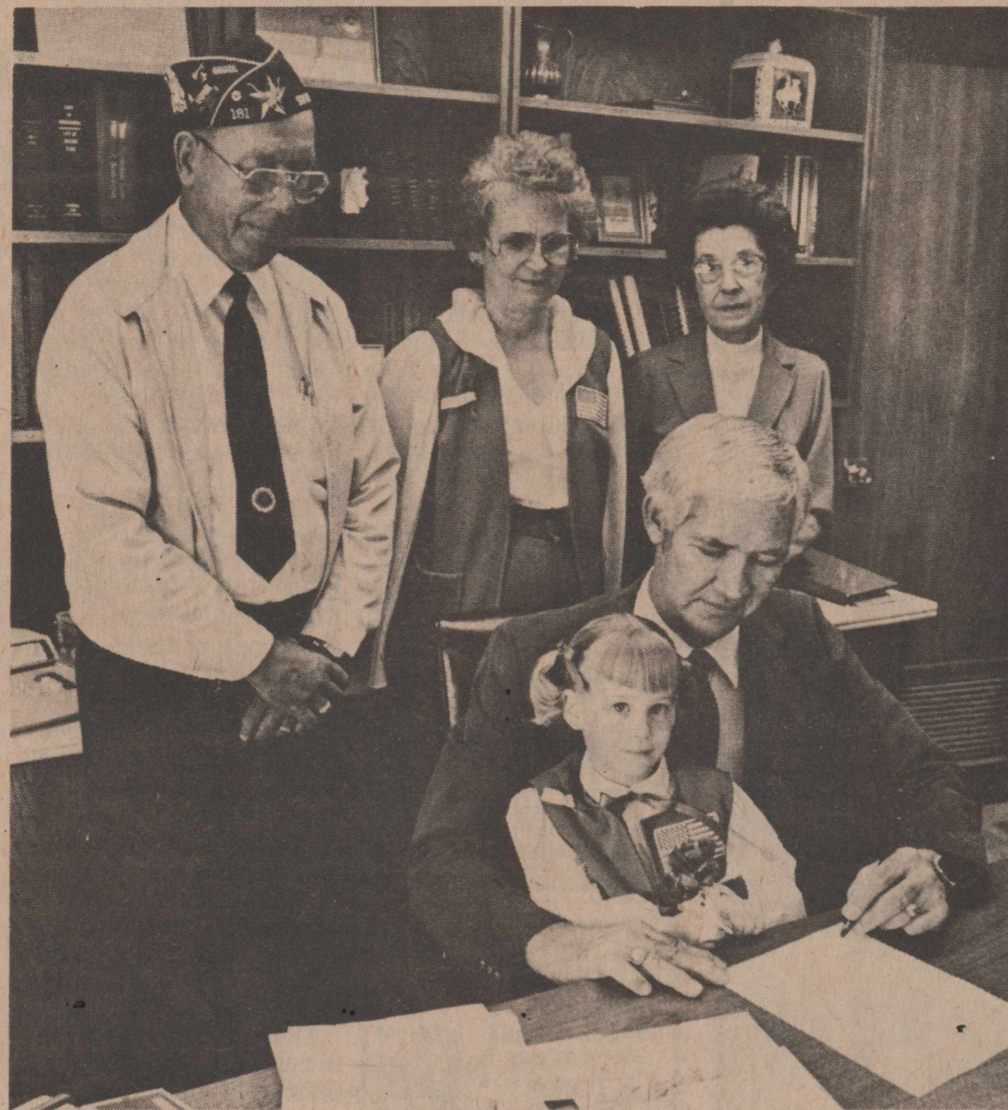

"It's possible, if not probable, that we do not" have all the documents, said a high-ranking State Department security official, who insisted on anonymity. "What we really are concerned about now is whether we have all the documents."

The papers were in a four-drawer cabinet safe mistakenly taken from a State Department office in early August along with unused filing cabinets that were to be refurbished by inmates at the Lorton prison in nearby northern Virginia.

The documents presumably included data supplied by the Central Intelligence Agency, U.S. embassies and other highly sensitive sources. But officials said there was no reliable record of all the documents and it was difficult, if not impossible, to determine all of what was in the safe.

Another classified document was found in a search of the prison late Wednesday, and officials said the search would continue.

Vet events slated

Veterans Day activities in Snyder will begin at the American Legion Hall before dawn Friday and continue through the day.

The organizations annual Veterans Day Breakfast will begin serving at 6 a.m. at the Legion Hall.

Local Post Commander Bill Anderson says other activities scheduled for the day include memorial services honoring Scurry County veterans at both local cemeteries.

Times for the services have been set at 9:30 a.m. in Hillside Memorial Gardens on the Colorado City Highway; and 10 a.m. in the Old Snyder Cemetery on North Ave. E.

The membership of both the American Legion Post and the Local Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be participating in the services and the public is encouraged to attend one or both.

This year, in a change from traditional proceedings, the Annual Veterans Day Dinner will also be hosted by the American Legion. Dinner See VETERANS, page 10

Overweight man opts for stomach 'stapling'

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Bobby Davis weighs 294 pounds and can only eat six ounces of certain prescribed foods each day — but he couldn't be happier.

A few months ago he topped a freight scale at 448 pounds, ate anything and everything he wanted and was facing high blood pressure problems, obesity and prospects of a shortened lifespan.

He then had to make an important decision — perhaps the most important one of his life to date. He could continue like he was or he could consent to what has become a fairly common operation — having his stomach area surgically reduced by being "stapled."

"It really wasn't a hard decision to make after I talked to the doctor," Davis said. "I felt I had to make up my mind or I wouldn't be around."

A Lubbock surgeon performed the operation this past June. It consisted of stapling Davis' stomach so that only a very small opening was left for the digestive process.

This limits him to eating only two pieces three times daily of such foods as chicken, turkey, fish, lean pork, spinach, green beans, squash and bananas. The meat must be broiled, boiled or fried without using grease.

Davis was in the hospital for one week, then was able to return home to recuperate for six weeks (eating only baby food or blended foods) before returning to his job at the Snyder High School field house.

He did have a bout with pneumonia which put him back in the hospital for two weeks, but Davis does not blame the surgery for this illness.

The two-ounce limitation can be hard to live by, he said, especially during the summer months when two ounces of water is all he can drink at one time.

Immediately following surgery, Davis said he lost 40 pounds a month for the first three months, but now loses between 15-20 pounds each month. Recently he stopped losing weight for three weeks and then started again.

Davis' ideal weight goal is between 200-220 pounds. "I could go lower if I want to, but I don't want to look like a bean pole," he jokes.

Davis will need monthly checkups for two years, but he said as long as he follows doctor's orders and does not eat things he shouldn't (like lettuce or

Holiday closings due here

Veterans Day will be a holiday Friday for state workers, some federal employees and personnel with local financial institutions.

All banks and savings and loans in Snyder will be closed. The state and federal offices in the Agricultural Service Center, located in the Snyder Shopping Center, will close also, as will the state driver's license office in the Scurry County Jail building.

Post offices in the county will offer limited service. In Snyder, mail will be put up in post office boxes and mailed letters and packages will go out. Mail will not be distributed on the rural routes or house to house, however.

Both city and county facilities will be open.

Year's 1st freeze occurs overnight

In local, wire reports Scurry County and most of North Texas experienced winter's first Wednesday night as temperatures dipped to the 30s.

Neighbors to the north shivered also as the mercury dropped into the 40s in the wake of a front that swept through the state.

The mercury dropped the freezing mark in the Panhandle and Plains before dawn readings in the 30s the rule over West and North Texas.

Temperatures in the 40s were noted in South Central Texas, while the mercury hovered in the 40s in far southern regions.

Pre-dawn readings ranged from 27 at Amarillo to 60 at McAllen. Freezing temperatures were forecast Thursday night for the Panhandle, South Plains and Hill Country, while readings in the 30s were on tap for North and East Texas.

The forecast called for fair skies with cool days and cold nights through Friday.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Of course there was a shortfall in the summer corn crop. It was on tape last spring to run on TV this fall."

After 10 days of change from Daylight Savings Time, the most common comment we've heard is "Leave it alone."

Few things are as upsetting as a change in a man's automatic alarm system. We get conditioned to waking up, going to bed and eating by instinct, not by the clock.

We happen to be a fan of Daylight Savings Time, but there are mothers who can put up a pretty sound argument by telling horror stories about getting the kids to bed before sunset.

We happen to be an early riser, and so we go to work in the dark year around, but we sure like going home in the daylight. Starting soon after the time change each fall, we seem to find our way home by the ear headlights.

But if you think we have problems with the clock, you should have to live with Harold Denson.

Like most of us, Harold goes to bed soon after the evening news. The only difference, for Harold the evening news is the 6 o'clock edition.

To say that Harold is an early riser is an understatement. He's up and at them at 3 a.m. and sometimes before. He's followed that routine for years and claims he can get gobs of work done between 3 and 7 a.m. We suspect that's right. Not many of us are going to bother him at that hour.

What is hard for Harold is to be taken out of his Snyder routine. Last week for example, the Densons went to Austin to visit their daughter.

The first night Harold stayed up until almost 10:30 and that allowed him to "sleep in" until almost 5 a.m. The next night he says he was tossing and turning by 1:30 a.m.

Harold is known as a successful businessman, and that's probably because you won't find him napping.

Stolen plane found here

Investigators with the Scurry County sheriff's office recovered at Winston Field Wednesday a twin-engine airplane reported stolen in the Dallas area Oct. 23.

Airport staffers had reported that the plane had been parked here since Oct. 24. A computer check of statewide stolen property records indicated that the airplane, owned by Mullins Environmental Testing of Addison, was reported stolen from the Addison Airport in north Dallas County.

The aircraft, a Piper Aztec with a listed value of $60,000, was found unlocked and showed no sign of damage or theft of instrumentation.

Investigators say the theft may be linked to a pickup owned by Dalton Walton of Snyder which was parked at the airport and reported stolen the same day the airplane appeared.

Jurors convict self-confessed mass murderer

DENTON, Texas (AP) — A jury that convicted Henry Lee Lucas of murdering his teen-age common-law wife with a butcher knife will hear arguments today in the punishment phase of the first Texas trial for the drifter who claims to have killed about 165 people across the country.

Lucas was convicted Wednesday just hours after telling jurors, tears streaming down his face, that he stabbed Frieda "Becky" Powell during a quarrel and then sat next to her corpse and "talked to her about trying to figure out what to do with her body."

He faces a maximum sentence of life in prison. Lucas, 47, said he didn't mean to kill the teen-age Jacksonville, Fla., runaway with whom he had traveled in 36 states, "from Maine to California." He said he looked "onto her as a child" and said he had taken care of her since she was 11.

After realizing Ms. Powell was dead, Lucas said he dismembered her body because "it was the only thing I could think of."

The conviction was his second arising from his claim of journeying across the country in a bizarre murder spree. Earlier this year, Lucas pleaded guilty to the murder of Kate Rich, 80 of Ringgold, and received a 75-year prison term. Her bones were found in Lucas' wood-burning stove.

Court-appointed defense attorney Tom Whitlock had asked jurors to convict Lucas of voluntary manslaughter, which carries a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison.

Whitlock said he was "very dissatisfied I think there was ample evidence before them to find Henry ... at least guilty of voluntary manslaughter."

He said an appeal would probably depend on what punishment Lucas is assessed.

Denton County District Attorney Jerry Cobb said he "felt very good about the verdict," and would ask for a life sentence today.

Lucas also has been charged in eight other

Texas murders. Four are capital murder charges, which carry a possible penalty of death by injection.

Cobb said he believes Lucas next will be tried in Georgetown, Texas, where he is charged in the strangling death of a young, unidentified woman whose body was found near Interstate 35 in 1979.

In 1960, Lucas was convicted of killing his mother in Michigan. In 1971, after his parole, he was returned to prison for attempting to kidnap two young girls in Michigan.

In 1975, he was paroled again and began what authorities say was a nationwide murder spree. Most of the crimes described by Lucas were sexually oriented, investigators say, and many of the victims were mutilated.

Ms. Powell's bones were discovered earlier, this year after Lucas led authorities to a field near the intersection of U.S. highway 380 and Interstate 35 in Denton. He had been arrested on a weapons charge.

Dallas County Medical Examiner Mary Gilliland testified Wednesday that the bones were of a 15-year-old female who had been dismembered by a knife.

Lucas said that on Aug. 24, 1982, he and Ms. Powell were lying in the field quarreling over whether to hitchhike back to Florida, where he was wanted for parole violation.

He said she struck him in the face and he instinctively retaliated with a knife. He said they carried the knife at all times for protection and sometimes used it to shave.

"I'm not going to deny I'm responsible for taking her life," said Lucas, wiping tears from his eyes. "There's just things that happened in my life that I can't explain."

"I was in love with Becky," Lucas said. "If I could give my life for her I'd do it. I'd give everything I had for her."

The 7-man, 5-woman jury took about 1 1/4 hours to arrive at a guilty verdict.

Earlier, Lucas sobbed while Whitlock asked for a voluntary manslaughter verdict. Voluntary manslaughter is basically defined as a killing in the heat of emotion.

"It happened suddenly, it happened immediately and it happened involuntarily," Whitlock said. "I think it happened in such a way that it was strictly an accident."

Lucas denied that he had sex with Ms. Powell's corpse, even though he admitted in a videotaped interview with Denton police that he committed necrophilia.

"I did not have sex with her after she was dead," Lucas said, adding that he lied to Denton police because "nobody would believe the truth. They wanted everything their way."

Texas Ranger Phil Ryan testified that Lucas first mentioned committing necrophilia with Ms. Powell to him in a June 15 interview and that he made the statement voluntarily.

December execution date will keep pressure on high court

BELTON, Texas (AP) — A prosecutor who won a Dec. 14 execution date for an oilfield roughneck convicted of killing a police officer says the early date will "keep the heat on" the Supreme Court to decide whether Texas' death penalty statute is constitutional.

State District Judge William Black set the execution date Wednesday for 38-year-old Thomas Andy Barefoot after turning down a defense motion for an evidentiary hearing.

Defense attorney Will Gray said he will appeal the ruling to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. Bell County District Attorney Arthur "Cappy" Eads vowed to fight the appeal again.

"They really want the evidentiary hearing so they can retry the case," Eads said. "We will continue to answer each and every one of their allegations until the Xerox machine breaks down."

The district attorney said he had considered asking for an execution day in February or March, but decided against it.

"We're going to continue to keep the heat on until he (Barefoot) is either executed or the death penalty is declared unconstitutional," Eads said. "The U.S. Supreme Court is currently considering a California case that may affect the Texas death penalty statutes. At issue is a principle called

"proportionality."

The California case contends that before a death sentence is given, there should be a review of the sentences given for similar crimes. Another Texas inmate, James Autry, received a last-minute stay from Supreme Court Justice Byron White last month on the proportionality issue.

Eads said he asked for a December execution date for Barefoot, even though the California case may not be decided by then.

"If we don't press the issue, then this case will just be allowed to drift along," he said. "Delay is the only weapon that they've got left. We're going to go full steam ahead and force the Supreme Court to rule on the proportionality issue. And if the Supreme Court justices decide that he should be given a stay while they consider proportionality, then so be it."

Eads added, "Frankly, we're tired of fooling with it. I feel obliged to pursue this case. Whether they like it or not, we're together (with this case) until death do us part."

Barefoot was saved from death just 12 hours before his scheduled execution last January.

Barefoot, a former oilfield roughneck from New Iberia, La., was convicted of the Aug. 7, 1978, killing of a Harker Heights police officer.

Tiger foe Friday...

Chiefs are double-threat

For Snyder, Friday night's game is for little more than pride, but achieving that will be anything but easy against the Chiefs, who boast the No. 1 offensive unit in the district.

Lake View as sewn up the District 2-4A runnerup slot. They could still tie for the championship or runner-up, depending on other outcomes Friday, but by virtue of a loss to Monahans and a win over Pecos, they will be the 2-4A runnerup.

Monahans has clinched the 2-4A first representation rights, regardless of other outcomes Friday.

"They do everything well offensively and play defense to boot," said Snyder Coach George Byerly of Lake View, which beat the Tigers 21-7 in non-district play this season. "They have a tremendous rusher, a tremendous quarterback and good receivers. You can't concentrate on one individual. I think effort will be a key ingredient. I don't think anything is impossible. We're a 35-point underdog (according to the Harris rating) and by all the scores and records we should be. But it's not impossible for us to win. We've got to have great effort from everybody, though."

Led by quarterback Scott Frasier and runner John Rodgers, the Chiefs are averaging 334.3 yards an outing. Furthermore, it's the most balanced attack in the conference, and easy to see why when it's pointed out that Rodgers leads the loop in rushing and Frasier in passing.

Rodgers, a 153-pound senior, is averaging 134.6 yards a game, 5.3 yards a carry, and has 13 touchdowns for the season. He is 2-4A's most prolific scorer. Batterymate Frasier, 170-junior, has completed almost 50 percent of his passes, 80 of 164, for 1,050 yards and 14 touchdowns. He has five interceptions. In addition, the Lake View quarterback has run for 181 yards and three more touchdowns.

Broken down, the Lake View attack is averaging 213.9 yards rushing and 120.5 passing per game.

While Tim Allen (157-senior) compliments Rodgers with 383 yards and six touchdowns from the backfield, Frazier has plenty of help from his receiving corps, too. Thomas Campbell leads the Chiefs and is the third leading catcher in the district with 323 yards and four TDs on 18 grabs. Gary Sartain has 255 yards and six TDs on 14 catches, while Dean Rosser has 168 yards on 15 receptions. Six other Chief receivers have at least two catches apiece.

Allen is one of those, having pulled down 12 for 105 yards. Rodgers, who also threatens via the air, has nine for 84 yards.

Defensively, the Chiefs rank sixth, allowing 261.0 yards; 169.8 via the ground and another 91.2 through the air. The Chiefs, who average 28.8 points, are giving up about 12 defensively.

Snyder, which has been allowing an average of 326.3 yards and 29.5 points a game, will be without safety Charles Bollinger, who suffered a broken ankle in last week's game with Andrews. Jimmy Cain, Tiger quarterback, will start at the position, though Byerly said others, including Norman Malone, will see action there.

2-1A roundup

In District 2-1A, the games Friday are for pride and little else, though an upset in one contest could cause a conference co-champ situation. The major question - who will advance in the playoffs - was decided over a week ago.

Defending state champion Highland, the only unbeaten team in the league, is in the playoffs, as is Trent, which finished regular season play last week.

Trent handled Ira 38-16 to conclude its slate at 9-1, 7-1. The Gorillas have an outside shot at trying for the loop championship - but only if Highland stumbles to Grady on Friday. The Hornets continued toward a second unbeaten season a week ago by drubbing Hermleigh, 66-30.

The Highland-Grady encounter is the only game that could affect the district race. All others are for pride.

"Henderson County will be tough. They do some things different than the people we've played to date and we've been working on that. They run a 1-3-

"Personnel-wise I think we'll match up with all three teams, but we'll just have to wait and see. We had two good workouts and the young ladies are not looking ahead or behind. They are taking it one at a time."

Laredo Classic: 1. Tuesday- (6) Lon Morris vs Hill JC, (8) Western Texas vs Laredo; Friday- (6) Western Texas vs Lon Morris, (8) Hill JC vs Laredo; Saturday- (6) Western Texas vs Hill JC, (8) Lon Morris vs Laredo.

LAREDO -- Western Texas College Westerner Coach Barry Davis called tonight's game with Laredo "the ultimate test" for so early in the season. Laredo was ranked No. 1 in the NJCAA for almost three quarters of the 1982-83 season.

"We're looking forward to challenging one of the top junior college teams in the country," said Davis. "We don't know a lot about Lon Morris and Hill, but we expect a tough classic. It will be good experience for us."

Davis was expected to start regulars Larry Banks, Richie Fells, Fred Johnson and Robert Mitchell. At guard will be either Anthony Smith, Billy Chambers, or Victor Spencer.

Western goes into the classic with a 2-0 record.

Bill to pay farmers to curb production okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has approved a plan that would, for the first time ever on a national scale, begin paying dairy farmers not to produce milk.

The House endorsed the plan, backed by the major dairy cooperatives, on a 325-91 vote Wednesday after rejecting an alternative that would have simply cut the government price support level by about 11 percent.

A similar measure already had been approved by the Senate, and the matter is to be sent to a House-Senate negotiating committee to work out differences between the two versions. Those include a fine-tuning of the tobacco program which the Senate passed but was not in the House bill.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, the House Agriculture Committee chairman, called Wednesday's vote "a welcome step toward reducing surpluses and helping the nation's milk producers move toward a better economic balance."

But Rep. Barber Con-

able, R-N.Y., likened the action to piracy and predicted that President Reagan ultimately will veto the industry-backed dairy measure. Conable had proposed his own alternative that would simply have cut the price support. That idea was rejected 250-174.

Consumer and food industry groups supported

Conable's proposal as a way to cut the price of dairy products.

Under the approved legislation, the government would begin next year to pay nearly 80 percent of full price to milk producers who agree to cut their production by 5 to 30 percent below normal. The payments of $10 for each hundred pounds not produced would continue for 15 months.

Farmers would help pay for the so-called "paid diversion" program through an assessment of 50 cents for each hundred pounds of milk they produce. A hundred pounds is roughly equivalent to 11 gallons.

In addition, the support price — the price farmers are guaranteed they will receive for their milk — would be trimmed from $13.10 per hundred pounds to $12.60. Additional cuts would be possible in future months if production is insufficiently curbed.

And the bill would set up a national milk promotion and marketing campaign to boost consumption. That would be financed with a 15-cents-per-hundred-pounds assessment.

To keep milk prices up to the federally guaranteed minimum, the government buys up and stores surplus cheese, butter and dried milk. The government bought about one of every 10 pounds of U.S. production in the year ended Sept. 30, at a cost of $2.6 billion.

Mood swings

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wonder if you could give me some information regarding depression. I am one of one children and my husband and I have seven children. We also have many nieces and nephews. We are now in our 50s. So many of these children and parents have defeatist attitudes. Suicide has taken the lives of my uncle and grandfather.

I feel inadequate in spurts, two or three times a year. I am not talking about deep depression; it's just that we all seem to get discouraged easily and don't know how to help each other.

Could there be something lacking in our bodies? Could these feelings be our physical makeup or environment, or manner of bringing up the children? Maybe a certain vitamin is missing. I would appreciate any information you could give me.

DEAR READER — Perhaps the best thing I can do for you is to help you understand what depression is. Just feeling inadequate is not necessarily depression.

To start with, everyone has mood swings. That is what you may experience two or three times a year. The degree of the swing, or how depressed a person is, makes the difference between normal feelings and something that could need professional help.

Then some people are depressed and they don't recognize the problem and others around them may not recognize it either. That can be the person who has insomnia, or the man who becomes impotent, or the person with no energy.

Change in life may be the cause of depression. That is why a young person who has not been away from home gets depressed when he does leave home.

I'm sending you The Health Letter 10-10, Depression: The Ups and Downs of Life, to help you sort this out. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You can help control those normal swings by your lifestyle. Having goals, being sure to enjoy life and following habits that promote your health all help. But for the more serious depression a person really needs professional help. A lot can be done today with medicines and counseling.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I noticed your column of a person asking for a cure for hiccups. We have one that has been in our family as long as I can remember, and it works every time.

Just a teaspoon of lemon juice or a slice of lemon gets rid of them. Now that bottled lemon juice is available we are never without it in the refrigerator. We have used it on our friends and they just marvel at how it works. I don't know why it works.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your cure. Many people have their favorite cure for hiccups. And a good many of them work for them, at least part of the time.

There is probably a zone in the back of the throat that allows a reflex mechanism to induce hiccups in some people. That kind of hiccup may be helped with some acid substance such as vinegar or lemon juice. A physician friend of mine dips a spoon in vinegar and then touches it to the uvula, the teardrop-shaped structure at the back of the throat.

Others claim success by swallowing dry table sugar. Evidently the gritty feeling of the sugar granules stimulates the spot and may stop the hiccups.

There is more than one cause for hiccups which helps to explain why one treatment works in some instances but not in others. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

New security systems

HOUSTON (AP) — Computer-controlled locks and sensors, spawned from space age electronics to protect the nation's most sensitive complexes, are replacing the traditional uniformed night watchman in scores of office buildings in Dallas and Houston.

Major office buildings in the two Texas cities are wired to a computer system that can detect opened doors or windows, monitor elevator movements and record which offices are occupied and by whom.

The unsleeping, electronic brains also can detect fire, control air conditioning and lights, and even keep a record of when, where and how long a person works.

And in most cases, the computers monitoring the buildings are miles away, sometimes even in another city.

These are all elements of a new age in building security, an era that is demanding tougher, more dependable protection against an increasingly dangerous world.

A Houston company, Kastle Security Systems Inc., currently is monitoring the security in 10 buildings in Dallas, 38 in Houston and one in Denver from a computer-filled room on Houston's west side. Each of the buildings is wired to the customers' specifications and then hooked to a telecommunications system connected to the Kastle computers.

Other security companies are using similar computer-monitored systems. All use techniques that were first developed to protect the White House, government libraries and sensitive office complexes.

"The secret is making security innocuous for people who are supposed to be there and a deterrent for people who aren't supposed to be there," says Hunter Knight, vice president of operations for Kastle.

Under the Kastle plan, buildings are custom equipped to provide concentric circles of security, each circle protected by increasingly tougher and more sophisticated electronic elements.

Knight refuses to give details of specific buildings but outlines a general system. Access to the buildings' public areas, such as the lobby, is controlled during selected hours by magnetic locks that can be opened or closed automatically by the computer, he says.

Plastic cards, resembling credit cards, are the electronic keys to the doors. These cards are embedded with bits of copper wire that create an identification pattern when the cards are electronically scanned. The pattern for each card holder is stored in the computer. The computer also is told where in the building a card holder will be permitted to go.

A person requesting admission to the building puts his card through a scanner beside the outside door. If the computer program shows that the card is valid, then it sends a signal which opens the magnetic lock and the cardholder is admitted into the building lobby.

If the card holder wants to go, for instance, to the 12th floor, he must put his card through a scanner at the elevator bank. If his code permits him to go to the 12th floor, the elevator will go there, but no where else.

Once he has gained access to the 12th floor, the person must use the card to open a door to the specific suite where he is entitled to go. And once inside the suite, his access may be limited to the specific office or even to a specific file cabinet or drawer.

The system also has to allow for human error.

Weight problem leads to stomach operation orange juice) he should have no problems.

At one time, he said he was eating just one two ounce meal a day "because that was all I wanted." He said he now adheres to the three meal pattern because he needs to keep himself built up.

Davis has fought obesity all of his life, trying "every kind of diet there was." He would lose weight, only to gain it back "and more." He says the operation was clearly a last resort as far as he was concerned, but he has no regrets about having it done and is optimistic about his future.

"In the first grade I weighed 84 pounds and looked like a tank," he said.

Davis said his parents are heavy set but his two brothers weigh 190 and 142 pounds.

"My parents left the decision to me and they are glad I did it," he said.

Each candidate for the surgery is carefully screened and tested. Some people can have the surgery while others cannot, Davis said. Good general health is a definite prerequisite.

He said he cannot feel the inside staples and is not restricted in anything he does other than eating or drinking.

Asked what advice he might have for someone in a similar situation, Davis said, "Have it done if you can. It's worth it."

Debate textbooks

AUSTIN (AP) — What a Baptist theology professor referred to as the "war between science and scripture" apparently has broken out again.

Dr. Bob Patterson of Baylor University said if a religious doctrine known as "scientific creationism" should prevail in the classroom, it could "undercut all branches of science" and make the United States dependent on other countries for technical information.

"Hardliners" who follow the doctrine, Patterson stated, "say the earth is only about 6,000 years old."

Patterson, churchmen, scientists and science teachers met Wednesday on the eve of a State Board of Education hearing on what should be included in science and biology textbooks that will be adopted by the board next year for use in Texas classrooms for the next six to eight years.

The meeting was sponsored by the Texas office of People for the American Way, a national anti-censorship group.

American Way contends a 1974 amendment to the state textbook code weakens science education in Texas, and throughout the nation, by demanding that textbooks treat evolution as "only one of several explanations of the origin of humankind."

The group contends the rule is the work of "scientific creationists" who would undermine the teaching of evolution by introducing "biblical creationism" in the public schools.

American Way and others say textbook rules in Texas have national impact, because Texas is the nation's single largest purchaser of textbooks — the issue as a "battefield."

Tompkins said one reason the conflict has broken out again is the resurgence of fundamentalists who have a "sense of relative powerlessness in society, and feel more and more depressed, alienated and disenfranchised."

Dallas Sen. Oscar Mauzy recently questioned whether the evolution rule was constitutional and asked the state attorney general to issue an opinion on it.

Patterson said scientific creationism "denies biological evolution, and its primary attack is directed at evolution."

"I feel scientific creationism is poor theology," Patterson said. "It both takes away from and adds to biblical material."

Also, he said, it "starts anew the old war between science and scripture."

The Rev. Jerry Tompkins, a Presbyterian minister from Austin, joined Patterson in describing

Obituaries

Clarkson

Services for Harry Clarkson, 75, of Snyder were held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Bell-Seale Chapel with the Rev. Larry Rogers, pastor of Union Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by Clarence Minton. Burial was in Snyder Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale.

He had resided in the area since 1922 and was a retired farmer.

He died Tuesday.

He was born Nov. 13, 1907 in Lamar County, Tex.

He married Lillian Rosson Dec. 31, 1935 in Sweetwater.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church and had lived in Snyder since 1972.

He is survived by his wife of the home; a son, Kelly Clarkson of Snyder; four sisters, Margaret Jones of Odessa, Willie Cox of Paris, Mildred Massey of Tyler and Joyce Smith of Snyder; two brothers, Everett Clarkson of Snyder and Davis Clarkson of Lake Charles, La.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Belinda Jo, in 1939.

Wednesday wreck noted

A single minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder Wednesday evening.

Involved in the 6:30 p.m. accident in the 500 Block of East Highway were a 1983 Pontiac driven by Larry Nyle Myers of 127 Milburn Ave. and a 1979 Ford driven by Wesley Eugene Hall of Tulsa, Okla.

No injuries were reported in the mishap but the Hall vehicle had to be towed from the scene.

Lucas, Toole charged in Big Spring death

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas and onetime traveling companion Ottis Toole have been charged with capital murder in the 1982 bludgeoning death of an Odessa shoe salesman.

Toole, who is serving a 20-year prison sentence for arson, also was charged here with murder in the death of a 36-year-old male hitchhiker.

On Wednesday, Lucas was convicted in the second case in which he has been tried. He claims to have killed 165 people during cross-country ramblings that sometimes included Toole.

Lucas was convicted in Denton on Wednesday in the stabbing death of 15-year-old Freida Powell, a Florida runaway who lived with Lucas. In September, he was sentenced to 75 years in prison after pleading guilty in the slaying of 80-year-old Kate Rich of Ringgold.

Lucas has been charged in 10 Texas murder cases, four of them capital cases carrying a possible penalty of death by injection.

Toole and Lucas were both accused in criminal complaints filed with Howard County Peace Justice Lewis Heflin on Tuesday of beating Happy Howry, 66, with a tire iron "while in the course of committing robbery."

According to the complaints, Lucas and Toole; in recent interviews, gave law enforcement officials "probable cause" to file the charges.

Howry, the shoe department manager at a JC Penney store, disappeared from Odessa on April 25, 1982. His abandoned car was found in Big Spring three days later, and his body was discovered in a field near there a week after that.

Investigators had suspected robbery in the death because Howry's wallet was missing.

Big Spring authorities refused to elaborate on the charges against Lucas and Toole, citing a gag order issued by a federal judge in Florida.

Toole was also charged Tuesday in the June 1, 1982, shooting death of William Boyd Hite, a hitchhiker whose body was found near Big Spring.

At Wit's End

by erma bombeck

If you could die from over-communication, this country would be a graveyard.

There is no other nation on the face of this earth that disseminates more information to its people than we do.

America has the highest literacy rate in the world... over 98 percent. In 1977, the percentage of high school graduates increased to 80 percent and is still climbing. We have more 15-to-18-year-olds enrolled in school than any other nation in the world.

By the time our kids leave school they have been taught how to read, write, cook, work a computer, climb ropes, drive a car, type, do math, build a birdhouse, speak Italian, make sulphur, stop bleeding, identify a cumulus cloud, know that Thomas Jefferson invented the folding chair, write a resume, and play a musical instrument. So, what am I setting you up for?

They know nothing about money.

From the time a child is born, no one talks to him about how much things cost. He rarely knows the price of a house or a car until he is ready to buy one. The only thing we tell them about money is that it doesn't grow on trees. They figured that out the first time they tried to spend leaves.

Then, somewhere between puberty and bankruptcy, they get an answer to their financial prayers... a plastic credit card. A few months later Never-Never Land turns into small claims court and then they are told about money.

I'm exaggerating, but only a little. There are kids roaming the earth today whose first words to a contemporary are, "Do you remember where you were and what you were doing the day you found out your shampoo cost $1.85 a tube?"

There are families, of course, who talk about nothing else but money, but generally how much Daddy makes and what things cost are a well-kept confidence right up there with cousin Elmora who had a six-month baby that weighed in at ten pounds, four ounces.

Education is supposed to prepare young people for life here on this planet. The arts, the sciences, the jobs skills are a part of it.

How about a required class on Money for both male and female? How to budget it, how to make it last, how to live on it, how much interest costs should be the basic premise.

Somewhere in a young person's life they should know that a box of breakfast cereal costs $1.99. If they work for minimum wage, it will take them 36 minutes to buy a box of cereal.

Telescope discovers comets, rings

WASHINGTON (AP) — An orbiting telescope is rewriting astronomy books with its discovery of new comets, giant rings of dust, interstellar clouds and direct evidence ours is not the only solar system in the universe.

Three new findings were revealed Wednesday as astronomers reported on the first 10 months operation of the Infrared Astronomical Satellite (IRAS), a joint venture of the United States, The Netherlands and Great Britain.

"Man has always wanted to learn his place in the universe; IRAS is our first road map," said Nancy Boggess, program scientist for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Newly found are three giant rings of dust in the solar system, huge dust shells around the star Betelgeuse and a mysterious object — possibly an asteroid or a dead comet — that passes nearer to the sun than any planet or known asteroid.

These are not as exciting as some earlier discoveries by the heat-sensing telescope, but are significant nevertheless as astronomers try to piece together the history of the universe. Project officials reported earlier this year that the satellite had produced the first direct evidence of what may be another solar system besides ours — a vast cloud of particles circling Vega, one of the brightest stars in the sky. Astronomers said Wednesday the satellite's telescope, which detects infrared radiation from an object, may have located as many as 50 such systems in the heavens. Other earlier findings: The detection of five comets, infrared clouds in interstellar space and large amounts of infrared radiation emitted by galaxies that are only smudges to Earth telescopes.

Graham found guilty in case of cop's death

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — An 18-year-old man, blinded in a shootout after his father gunned down a deputy sheriff during a burglary, has been convicted of murder in the lawman's death.

Prosecutors argued that Thomas Graham conspired with his father, Richard, to burglarize a hardware store on July 15, and therefore was just as responsible for the death of 45-year-old Upton County Sheriff's deputy Charles A. Renfro.

Jurors deliberated 1½ hours Wednesday before returning the guilty verdict. The punishment phase of Graham's trial was set to begin today. He faces a prison term of 5 to 99 years or life.

Richard Graham, 40, was killed and Thomas

Graham blinded by blasts from a gun wielded by a supervisor at a pipeline company they tried to rob the day after Renfro was shot.

Renfro was killed when he answered an alarm at the Red Bluff TV Lumber and Hardware store in McCamey, about 50 miles south of Odessa.

Lawmen from throughout West Texas conducted a manhunt for Graham and his father after the shooting.

Thomas Graham testified that he acted as lookout while his father stole guns from the store, one of which was used to kill Renfro.

The younger Graham said the two had taken two firearms — a sawed-off shotgun and a .25-caliber pistol with them, but that he had the two guns on the roof.

"It's kind of spooky in what way the parents can influence a child," Barber told jurors.

"The World Bank says no money, Mr. President, but how would we like some free toasters?"

Parents wait for 'miracle' to save child

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Although her heart still beats, doctors say a 6-week-old infant has been "legally, morally" dead for a week and should be allowed to rest in peace. But her grieving parents, waiting for a "miracle," have vowed to keep her on life-support.

"We feel it's up to God to take her life, not the doctors," said Adrian Roberts, 31, father of Starla Roberts. "We don't feel it's the doctors' or the judge's decision."

"We're believing in God for a miracle," said Ginger Roberts, 20, the infant's mother. "My response to the doctors who believe in their tests is: Why can't they accept our faith as Christians? ... Why can't they accept someone who is stronger than all of us?"

Starla remained hooked up to life-support equipment Wednesday at Memorial Medical Center where doctors said no decision had been made as to when it should be shut off.

"There's no question, morally, legally, that the child is brain-dead," said Dr. Carlos Maggi, associate director of the pediatric intensive care unit of Memorial Medical Center.

People predict an upturn for drilling work

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the world's largest manufacturer of oilfield drilling and production equipment says stability of oil prices and drilling activity makes him think the industry has hit the bottom and will rebound next year.

J. Rob Walker, president and chief operating officer of the National Supply Co., said Wednesday a study by his company shows "it's time for us to be encouraged about what the future holds for the petroleum industry."

"I'm not wildly or deliriously optimistic," Walker said. "We must be brutally realistic for the short term. But in the last 30 to 90 days, I have seen more reason for encouragement than I've seen in the last 18 months or two years."

Among those good omens, he said, are:

- The stability of oil prices. "Nothing is on the horizon that should disturb the current $29-a-barrel price," he said.
- The decline in drilling has halted "after an 18-month free-fall."
- "It appears that we have bottomed out," said Walker. "That's a significant factor."

Walker acknowledged the industry "has been through hell" but predicted a recovery which would be "nothing spectacular, but a whole lot better than 1983."

The domestic oil and gas drilling industry experienced one of its most spectacular booms from 1979 to 1981, then went through a catastrophic bust. The National Supply annual study is watched closely by industry experts as a clue to the drilling future.

Walker said the severe decline in the oil business caused a "shake out" which drove many inefficient firms out of the oilfield supply industry.

"The oilfield industry will never be the same again," he said. "It will be leaner, tighter and strong, and sure as hell meaner."

Robert E. Harris, chief executive officer of National Supply, said the company expects that active drilling rigs will average about 2,600 weekly during 1984, up from the 1983 average of about 2,200. Footage drilled is expected to increase to 330 million, up about 10 million from 1983, and total wells completed is expected to increase by about 600, to 76,600, in 1984.

Harris said the gains are not significant, and certainly not a boom, but they do represent a turnaround.

Internationally, Harris predicted that drilling would remain at a stable level, with increased activity in only a few areas, such as Canada's East Coast, the British sector of the North Sea, and offshore China.

Harris and Walker made their comments during a luncheon for oil industry figures here Wednesday.

Dear Abby

Girl's Heart Beats 'Dangerous' Rhythm

By Abigail Van Buren
 © 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who is seriously in love with a boy who will be 14 soon. I will call him "Matthew." He is gorgeous, sweet, kind, polite and a lot of fun. My problem is that I can never get him alone. Matthew always comes over with another kid or several other boys, but he never comes over all by himself.

I would like a close and loving relationship with him, but how do I get into one the way things are going? He knows how I feel about him because I told him. (Was that a mistake?)

When I asked Matthew how come he never comes to see me alone, he said his mother told him it was "dangerous." Abby, where is the danger? I'm not going to hurt him.

Answer soon because I want this guy to like me so bad I am going crazy.

POUNGING HEART IN DENVER

DEAR POUNDING: Slow down, honey. Girls mature earlier than boys, and you are moving too fast for Matthew. And yes, it was a mistake to tell him how you feel about him. (Boys, and girls too, know when someone "likes" them—they don't have to be told.) Matthew sounds like a normal boy his age. Don't try to get him alone or you may never see him at all.

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired Chicago policeman now living in Arizona. I am constantly amazed at these retired people who open their wallets in public and expose large sums of money and a string of credit cards. Don't they realize that they are asking for trouble? I see this done at every checkout counter.

After the victim was robbed, this is what we used to suggest:

- 1) Carry only as much money as you can afford to lose.
- 2) Carry only the credit card you will be using. Leave the rest at home, and be sure the cards and a list of their numbers are in separate places.
- 3) Keep your house keys and your ID in different places on your person. If a purse snatcher or a pickpocket gets both, he can rob your home anytime. If you do happen to lose both, have your locks changed immediately—I mean the same day!

Almost none of the victims had obeyed any of the above rules.

C.R. HALEY, PHOENIX, ARIZ.

DEAR MR. H.: Your rules are helpful for everyone—not only retired people. Thanks for reminding us.

DEAR ABBY: A man from Toronto was visiting friends in Florida last winter. Being handy around the house, he offered to repair a loose shelf for his friends. The shelf was lined with an old newspaper, and when the Toronto visitor looked at it he noticed that it was The Toronto Sun!

Face up was a "Dear Abby" column he knew he had never read, and being a fan of yours, he promptly scanned it right there on the shelf.

That column had a special meaning for him because he was a transsexual who had never had any help with his problem. In your column was a letter from Christine Jorgensen, suggesting that you publish addresses of places around the country where transsexuals could find help. Our friend quietly pocketed the column before he fixed the shelf.

Today he is a patient of "Confide," a personal counseling service in New York, one of the places you named, and he is well on his way to fulfilling a lifelong dream—to become a woman.

I thought you would like to know that you helped a very desperate man who was afflicted with the feeling of having been born into the wrong sex.

NO NAME, PLEASE

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

San Francisco passes stiff anti-smoking law

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the nation's toughest bills championing the rights of non-smokers narrowly won approval from city voters, officials said Wednesday night after a final count of absentee ballots.

However, a controversial plan to control urban growth was defeated, said Registrar of Voters Jay Patterson following a check of more than 12,000 absentee ballots.

The anti-smoking measure was passed 80,740 to 79,481, according to the final tally. The urban growth plan was defeated 78,529 to 76,610.

Those were the two most hotly contested issues among many propositions on Tuesday's ballot.

Information about your changing telephone service from Jim West, Community Relations Manager

Let's talk.

Countdown to divestiture

It's now less than two months away... "it" being the break-up of the Bell System. On Jan. 1, 1984, Southwestern Bell and 19 other Bell operating companies will formally sever ties with AT&T in the largest separation in American corporate history.

No longer will Southwestern Bell and its 19 sister companies be affiliated with AT&T. No longer will the oft-used term "one Bell System" be applicable.

Instead, the Bell operating companies will be reorganized into seven independent regions (with Southwestern Bell making up one of those seven).

What this means to you is that beginning Jan. 1, the various telecommunications services you've previously received under one roof will come from two or more companies.

Southwestern Bell will provide local phone service, limited long distance service and various other offerings such as Custom Calling services, public telephones, mobile phone service and white and yellow page directories.

AT&T, on the other hand, will offer long distance service and terminal products, will retain its manufacturing and research arms (Western Electric and Bell Labs), and will assume ownership of all Bell-owned equipment presently being leased to customers on a monthly basis.

In preparation for the break-up, we at Southwestern Bell Telephone will be making changes in certain operational procedures before the end of the year so that "all systems will be go" come Jan. 1.

This phase-in will give you an opportunity to learn about, understand and ask questions concerning new procedures before they're permanently in place.

Here's one example of how we're preparing for a post-divestiture environment: Between now and the end of the year, you'll start being referred to AT&T Information Systems when you call Southwestern Bell Telephone to inquire about leased equipment.

Also, by the end of the year, all Southwestern Bell Telephone customers will notice a change in the way their monthly telephone charges are listed. Since different Bell companies will provide different services beginning in January, your monthly bill will be broken out accordingly — with each supplier's charges listed on separate pages.

We want you to know

As always, if you have questions about these or other matters related to your telephone service, feel free to contact me. Or, you can call Southwestern Bell Telephone's toll-free number for divestiture information — 1 800 555-5000 — anytime between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

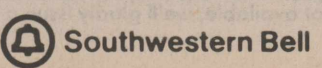

In addition, complete details about various divestiture-related issues can be found in the insert which accompanies your monthly telephone bill.

At Southwestern Bell Telephone, we believe the more you know about what will and won't change with divestiture, the easier this transition to a new era in telecommunications will be for you.

One of the questions I get from time to time is, "What options are available to me on the installation of inside wiring?" Good question. Right now there are three options available to the residence customer. First, a customer can provide his own wiring. Second, a customer can have a contractor install the wiring. Third, we'll be glad to provide and maintain the wiring and bill you accordingly.

Remember, if you have something to talk about, don't hesitate to drop me a line.

Verdict secret in case of young girl

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — A 15-year-old girl told a jury she killed her father because he frequently raped and beat her, but jurors and attorneys refused to reveal the verdict they reached during a closed court session.

Jurors deliberated the fate of Pamela Christine "Christie" Martin, for less than an hour before returning with their verdict at 7 p.m. Wednesday. The girl was also accused of killing her stepmother in the Sept. 26 shootings at their home in Guy, about 60 miles southwest of Houston.

Fort Bend County Court-at-Law Judge Thomas Culver III closed the hearing Wednesday following the appearance of news reports of the first day's proceedings.

Court-appointed lawyer Fred Felcman and Assistant District Attorney John Healy refused to reveal the six-member jury's verdict. Jurors declined to talk about the verdict or their deliberations.

If she was found guilty, the girl could be placed in custody of the Texas Youth Council until she is 18.

Miss Martin, who was 14 when the killings occurred, testified Tuesday that her father repeatedly raped and beat her for more than a year. She said Martin raped her as often as five times a week and frequently beat her with a leather strap to which a handle had been attached.

The girl testified that she killed her stepmother, 27-year-old Connie Jean Martin, and her father, Middle Emory Martin, 36, after the factory foreman attempted to rape her.

Miss Martin testified Tuesday she managed to discourage her father's advances late the night of Sept. 25, but was afraid he would attack her the next day.

"I felt I had to protect myself because I knew I could not overpower him and if I didn't do something he would force me when I got home from school," she said.

Miss Martin testified she was unable to sleep because she was upset about an argument she had with her father. Martin slapped her twice the afternoon of Sept. 25, saying she was giving too much medicine to a pet rabbit, Miss Martin told jurors.

The girl testified she shot Martin and her stepmother with a .38-caliber pistol as they lay sleeping about 2 a.m. She said she had tried twice to tell Mrs. Martin about the sexual abuse, but the woman slapped her and refused to listen.

The girl also said she killed Mrs. Martin because she was afraid the woman

Adolf Hitler became Reichsfuehrer of Germany in 1934 and began a campaign against all opposition, even within his own party. Hundreds of influential Nazis were murdered, and Hitler was soon arming troops for the European invasions which would eventually bring about World War II.

would kill her.

The girl fled in her parents' car and was stopped by West Columbia police for a traffic violation. A juvenile probation officer who took her home found the bodies.

Miss Martin had been living with her father since May 1982. Her mother, Alice Crowell, 38, a Crosby plant worker, testified she had sent her daughter to live with Martin because the child had repeatedly run away.

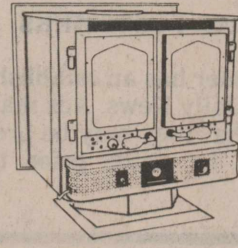

Mrs. Crowell testified Tuesday she divorced Martin in 1977 after learning he had sexually abused her three daughters by a former marriage. She said she did not think Martin would abuse the girl because she "did not think he would mess with his own daughter."

Mrs. Crowell said

Wednesday that the girl was a problem child and said she had asked the girl to plead guilty.

"I don't believe anyone should kill someone and walk away," Mrs. Crowell said.

Four elderly patients hurt at nursing home

DALLAS (AP) — Four elderly nursing home residents were stabbed, one seriously, by a nurse's aide who earlier had tried to poison a younger man she was caring for at his home, police said.

Administrators at Doctors Nursing Center in northeast Dallas said the 34-year-old woman had been employed there for about two weeks, but declined to give out any other information after the Wednesday incidents.

Joe Oliva, 27, who suffers from muscular dystrophy, said he had employed the woman for about three days as a visiting nurse. He said about 10 minutes after she arrived at his house

Wednesday morning, she served him tea laced with rubbing alcohol.

Oliva said he refused to drink the tea and that his stepfather arrived shortly afterward and told the woman to leave.

Nursing home administrators said the woman arrived about 45 minutes before she was due to go on duty at 3 p.m. and stabbed a woman in the parking lot of the home.

The aide then went inside the home and stabbed three more residents in their beds.

Beverly Holt, administrator at the nursing center, said the three "were calm and unaware that they had even been stabbed."

"There was no crying or yelling by the patients or the other residents," Mrs. Holt said. "There was supposed to be a knife on (the suspect), but I don't think anyone saw it."

Peggy Browne, the daughter of one of the victims, said her mother told her in the hospital that the person had a butcher knife.

"She has cataracts on her eyes and can't see very well, but she said that a person came over to her bed and at that time, she felt something stinging her," Ms. Browne said.

She said her mother is "scared to death of nursing homes."
