Season's First Freeze Strikes At Altus As Northwest Texas Is Threatened

TEMPERATURES LOWERED BY BITING WINDS

Hints of Snow Prevail Over Both Oklahoma and Texas Areas

MORE FROST DUE

Mercury Hoovers Around 40 Degree Mark; Further Drop Expected

The first freeze of the year for Southwestern Oklahoma was reported at Altus Tuesday night, as other portions of that state and Northwest Texas cringed resignedly as a similar drop in temperature threatened.

Altus, with a temperature of 32 degrees, the freezing point, was the coldest city in the area, it was reported. Skies there were heavily overcast Tuesday and all indications were that the temperature would go lower.

High Winds Prevail

In other sections of this region temperatures throughout the day bolted down headlong before the charge of a chilling wind that assumed the proportions of a miniature gale.

Temperatures in Northwest Texas hovered around 40 degrees, threatening to reach the freezing point before the night was over. Memphis, with this temperature recorded, was experiencing the coldest spell of the year Tuesday night and a hint of snow was in the air.

This condition also prevailed over the region adjacent Memphis, and at Lawton, Okla. Frederick, Okla., however, was undisturbed, the temperature there still riding comfortably at 51 degrees.

36-Degree Drop Here

At Wichita Falls the temperature at midnight was 37 degrees, having indicated a steady drop from the day's peak temperature of 73 degrees. At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the mercury stood at 43, at 8 p. m. it had dropped to 41 and by 10 p. m. it had gone down to 38, the 37-degree mark being recorded at midnight, indicating a drop of two degrees about every two hours. A further drop appeared likely during the early hours Wednesday.

After having touched 27, a new low for the season, Amarillo, farthest northwest point reporting, looked forward to 20 degrees above zero Tuesday night. Just east at Pampa flurries of snow were falling, and the temperatures prevailed across Southern Oklahoma to Altus, which suffered its first freeze of the year, an Associated Press review of the Texas weather situation said.

Abilene's coldest spell was relieved only by the absence of rain. Fort Worth and Dallas suffered under both cold and rain and a misting rain apparently prevailed as far south as Galveston, where temperatures of 62 degrees were expected to be lower Wednesday.

Archbishop Observes Queer Pilgrimage Of Thousands To Grave For Healing Benefits

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 12. (AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, today visited the grave in Holy Cross cemetery of Rev. Patrick J. Power, which for two weeks past has been the shrine of pilgrims from New England and Canada seeking relief from bodily ills.

The cardinal arrived unannounced after the little crowd of several hundred which gathered outside the cemetery gates before dawn had swollen to many thousands. He stood silently aside watching the crippled, maimed and blind file to the grave in a seemingly endless line, pray for a moment, snatch a handful of earth and depart. He said he had come merely to observe and that his visit had no official significance.

30,000 in Crowd

Before noon the crowd that had visited the cemetery was estimated as being more than 30,000 and thousands of others continued to come until caretakers finally closed the gates for the night.

Cemetery officials first became aware of extraordinary interest in Father Powers' grave several weeks ago. Small groups began visiting the grave and scooping rain water from a chalice carved in the gravestone. Rumors of miraculous cures became widespread and the crowds of pilgrims increased in size, until two weeks ago, it was necessary for the cemetery officials to enlist police aid in keeping the line in order. Over the week-end it was estimated that more than 200,000 persons had visited the shrine.

Little Known of Priest

Father Power died at the age of 25 years and was buried about 60 years ago. Until the pilgrimages became popular, little was known of his life and no one has advanced an explanation as to why his particular grave should have been chosen from among those of scores of priests buried in the cemetery.

Several of those who visited the shrine today claimed to have been cured of illnesses, as have others each day since the pilgrimages were started. Some left crutches and canes behind them in the cemetery chapel.

METEOR STOPS

Baby Born Aboard Fast Frisco Train Which Is Delayed

VINITA, Okla., Nov. 12. (UP) Through the division dispatchers office of the Frisco railroad today came a message saying, in substance:

"Frisco Meteor delayed hour and half, Afton. Baby Born aboard."

Time schedules, maintained through ordinary difficulties, were forgotten when a son was born on the crack passenger train to Mr. and Mrs. Mark Short of Fort Worth, Texas. The conductor simply signaled a stop at Afton and the engineer lounged in his cab until word came that "it's a boy. The mother and child are doing well and we've sent them to a hospital. Let's go."

JUNIOR C.-C. PICKS SLOGAN

Members of the industrial committee of the Junior chamber of commerce Tuesday night announced the above line as the winner of the contest for the best slogan for the "buy it in Wichita Falls" week Nov. 18-23.

The winning slogan was submitted by Mrs. Paul Seeds, 1501 Monroe street, and was selected from more than 2,000 submitted. One contestant offered 84 suggestions. Mrs. Seeds will receive the $25 prize offered in the contest.

Interpretation of the slogan covers the local merchandising field, committee members said, pointing out that the "prices are right, the styles are right and the merchandise is right in Wichita Falls."

The buy-in-Wichita-Falls campaign is not designed to attract trade away from other towns in this territory if the merchandise can be secured there, it was stated.

"We want the people of the Wichita Falls area to shop at home when they can secure their merchandise at home. If they cannot fill their needs from their own merchants, then we invite them to patronize the stores and industries of Wichita Falls," a committee member declared.

Adkinson Death Suspect Jailed

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Nov. 12.—Tillman county authorities announced here at 2 p. m. today that they had arrested a suspect in the slaying last Friday night of L. C. Adkinson, filling station proprietor here.

Authorities declined to divulge the name of the suspect as no charges had been filed.

Adkinson was shot to death about 7 p. m. last Friday by a hijacker, appearing to be a negro, who fired when Adkinson resisted his assailant's attempts to rob him. Adkinson had been called from his home by a man who said he wished to purchase some gasoline.

While reticent about the case, officers said clues they have worked on concern the theory that Adkinson was killed by a white man disguised as a negro. On the face and in the hair of the suspect arrested today, they said, streaks of blackening were found.

The suspect, officers announced, is to be taken before Adkinson's widow and her grandson, Calvin Hurley, 11, Wednesday after funeral services are conducted for Adkinson at Chattanooga, near here. An effort at identification will be made, it was announced, both Mrs. Adkinson and her grandson having seen indistinctly the man who came to their doorway Friday night.

Woman Acquitted When Judge Instructs Verdict

Ann Houser was acquitted on a charge of driving while intoxicated by a jury in the 30th district court Tuesday afternoon when Judge P. A. Martin instructed a verdict of not guilty after I. N. Stubblefield, city officer, had testified that she "might not have been drunk but probably had had a few drinks."

The officer was told that the court would suggest the grand jury take his next statement in writing instead of verbally in order to avoid an alteration of his statements.

Stubblefield had told the grand jury that Ann Houser was intoxicated, but under fire of questioning Tuesday afternoon, he admitted she might not have been drunk. Mr. Anglin said.

Travis Grand Jury Called To Air 'Certain Violations Of the Law'

INSANITY TO BE PLEA

Stenographer's Fatal Stabbing Laid to Heavy Drinking

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—The Travis county grand jury will be reconvened Thursday to investigate the fatal stabbing of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28, capitol stenographer, Saturday night.

John W. Brady, former judge of the third court of civil appeals here and long prominent in Texas politics is in jail on a murder charge as a result of the stabbing.

The grand jury recessed last Friday only a little more than 24 hours before the fatal stabbing. The call stated that "certain violations of the law" had been committed since the recess which made it necessary for the grand jury to resume its deliberations. Besides the stabbing the only criminal cases pending were said to be two or three robbery cases.

Jail Near Capitol

Chafing at his inability to procure bond, Brady remained in his jail cell in the shadow of the capitol dome today. F. R. Tannehill, justice of the peace, said that his examining trial on the question of bail probably would be held Friday or Saturday. The hearing was continued from yesterday on motion of state's attorneys.

Brady cannot see the state house where he served for many years as a jurist, an assistant attorney general, and an attorney for the banking department, nor can he see the nearby courthouse where he occupied the office of county attorney from his cell, which is on the opposite side of the jail from those structures.

Defense movements indicated that Brady would offer a defense of temporary insanity occasioned by excessive drinking.

Principals Silent

Officers said that Brady told them Sunday that he did not remember anything that happened after he attended a drinking party

Former Kaiser's Heart Softens As Death Threatens Disowned Sister

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

BERLIN, Nov. 12. (US)—All hope of saving the life of Frau Victoria Zoubkoff, sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm II, was abandoned tonight by her physicians.

But in the shadow of death, the former imperial princess, who dared to marry a commoner, Alexander Zoubkoff, young Russian adventurer, who broke her heart and stripped her of her fortunes, has won a reconciliation with the former kaiser.

Friendless and penniless, lying fever-tossed and nerve-wracked in Franciscus hospital, Bonn, Germany, the former Princess Victoria Zu Schaumburg-Lippe fought her battle against death alone until today, when the former German emperor ordered the condition of his sister wired to him twice daily at his exile castle at Doorn, Holland.

The kaiser also ordered that his other sister, the Princess von Hessen, go to the bedside of the dying Princess Victoria.

Frau Zoubkoff became ill of a lung infection shortly after her imperial castle on the Rhine was auctioned to meet the debts incurred by her young Russian husband, who is now a waiter in a Luxembourg cafe.

A few days ago she brought suit for divorce, though unshamedly confessing she still loved the man who brought her low to disaster.

KAISER SUES NEWSPAPER FOE

BERLIN, Nov. 12. (US)—Eleven years and a day after his abdication, former Kaiser Wilhelm II emerged from his moody, silent exile to return an attack made upon him by the Berlin Daily Morgenpost.

The kaiser's silence toward his critics was broken with the announcement by a Berlin lawyer that the former emperor is instituting a libel suit against the newspaper for an article in which the kaiser is charged with favoring the Krupp Munitions factories during the war and enriching himself "at the expense of German national property and the blood of Germany's best sons." No monetary damages are sought, but the kaiser wants a retraction and the responsible editor jailed.

Princess Victoria Is Ill

AKERS GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Attorneys May Seek Sanity Hearing

Defense attorneys for Otis Akers, found guilty of robbery by assault by a jury in the 89th district court Tuesday morning and sentenced to life imprisonment, indicated Tuesday night they were contemplating the filing of a petition for a sanity hearing in county court.

A decision as to whether a motion for a new trial should be filed would rest largely upon the outcome of the move toward establishing Akers' mental condition, David Covington, defense attorney appointed by the court, pointed out. Two days are allowed in which to file the proposed petition.

The testimony of two mental experts as to the sanity of Akers Tuesday morning were points in the decision of the jury, which deliberated less than 30 minutes. The sentence of life imprisonment was fixed automatically when it was pointed out to the jury that Akers had been convicted previously in Dallas county on a robbery charge, as alleged in the indictment.

Akers was brought to trial here on an indictment charging him specifically with the taking of a diamond ring from Mrs. Maple Groves, who was in the Rosnell lunch room on the Iowa Park road at the time of the holdup in July, 1928. She, and three others in the place at the time identified Akers as the robber, while he denied connection with the case, stating he was in an Oklahoma town at the time. He maintained he was sane.

The leading issue in the trial before the case was rested with the jury shortly before noon Tuesday became that of deciding whether

First District Women Take Lead In Federated Clubs Convention

Wichita Falls Woman Presides at Dinner; Governor Moody And Other Notables Attend Affair

By MRS. L. N. CASON
The Record News Staff

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 12.—Tuesday was first district day at the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. From the 7 o'clock breakfast through the day the members of the first district were reporting. The work they have achieved is outstanding. Eight representatives of this district made interesting reports at the morning session and the much looked for event of the evening was the first "Texas dinner" which was inaugurated as a future annual affair and at which Mrs. Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls presided.

Gov. Dan Moody was an honor guest at the dinner, giving a brief address reviewing the efforts for prison reform, and expressing appreciation for the efforts of the federation toward the same end. Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt made the chief address of the evening, in which he declared the general tendency of the state is to move forward in all things.

"There is, however, too much side-stepping and cowardice on the part of the people as well as of officers of the government," he declared.

The morning session closed with a remarkable address by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, "September at Geneva." Recognized for her leadership Mrs. Pennybacker announced that she indulged in all the privilege of being elderly, though her voice is as clear and melodious as in first womanhood and she speaks with expression in gesture and eye.

Praise for MacDonald

Her talk was on her stay in Geneva during the time the cornerstone was laid for the new league of nations buildings. While meetings were held in the dark, damp gloom of the Hall of the Reformation 8,000 Americans registered to hear the conference, much to the surprise of the other nationals. All eyes, she said, were on the change in the English delegation. She complimented Ramsay MacDonald, the canny but kindly Scot who, speaking for England said, "We go on the adventure of peace." Only two languages are spoken in Geneva, French and English but not more than one-third of the body were able to follow McDonald.

She spoke of Briand as the idol of the league and of how at his coming, they cheered repeatedly. And in the close of the address she paid tribute to Herr Stresseman that brought tears to the eyes of her hearers.

When he entered slowly, a big reporter in front of her said: "Poor fellow, you know he has had his death sentence. I heard the doctor

Under Pressure, Arnold Admits Plan To 'Blacken' Demo Party in South

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Promotion of a plan to run negroes for congress in the North, as Democrats, in order "to hold in line" the southern states which favored Herbert Hoover in the last election was attributed to J. A. Arnold, manager of the southern tariff association, today by the senate lobby committee.

Arnold acknowledged correspondence and documents which disclosed the program for "blackening the Democratic party." The correspondence said Arnold had taken proposal up with Vice President Curtis, who it added referred the scheme along to President Hoover.

Again accused by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee of having a "bad case of failing memory," Arnold after some hesitation acknowledged his handwriting on some of the mass of additional correspondence produced.

As for the "blackening of the

FARMERS TOLD NOT TO HEED PRICE CRASH

Relief Board Issues Statement After Price of Staple Drops

SUPPLY-DEMAND RULE

Loan of $2,000,000 to Texas Farm Bureau Given Approval

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. (UP)—Cotton and wheat farmers were advised today not to be disturbed by the fall in price of futures contracts in an optimistic statement issued here by members of the federal farm board.

"The board realizes," the statement said, "that the demoralized condition of the stock exchanges has caused the drop in the price of cotton. But the board has full faith in the real supply and demand value of cotton and wheat.

PRICES RANGE LOWER

A much lower range of price for cotton over Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma Tuesday was attributed by Record News correspondents to the lower quality of staple as well as to the lower quotations on the New York and New Orleans markets. Unseasonable weather prevailing for the last few days was said to have materially reduced the value of cotton over this section. Tuesday's sales, the first in any volume since late last week, reflected the loss in quality, although the prices for the best quality cotton continued fairly steady.

"The board is lending to cotton cooperatives at the rate of 16 cents a pound, basis middling ⅞ staple at the 10 designated spot markets, with proper differentials off and on for grade and staple.

"In spite of the decline in price on futures markets, and regardless of the depth to which stock exchange disturbances may carry that price, the board will continue to lend, as above stated and will not call for margins on loans."

The statement came from Carl Williams, cotton expert of the board, shortly after he learned that the price of December cotton futures at New York dropped today to the low of 16.17.

"All that any Southern farmer has to do to get the benefit of these loans, less proper deductions at his country market, is to join the cotton cooperative in his own home state and deliver his cotton to its seasonal pool," the statement added.

$4,000,000 COTTON LOANS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—The federal farm board today approved loans of $4,000,000 to Southern cotton cooperative associations in two supplemental commodity loans.

The board approved one loan of not exceeding $2,000,000 to the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association of Dallas, Texas, supplementing loans from commercial banks. This fund was made available to enable the association to make advances to its grower members, the board announced, in line with the cotton loan policy it announced recently.

The remaining $2,000,000 loan was for the Alabama Farm Bureau Cotton association of Montgomery, also supplementing loans from commercial banks and enabling the organization to make advances to its grower members.

CLUE FOUND TO MISSING GIRL

New Mexico Woman Gets Letter From Miss Eaton

SILVER CITY, N. M., Nov. 12. (AP)—Isabel Eaton, Silver City girl, today told Chief of Police John Casey that she had been corresponding with Anna Koziner, missing New York girl, for more than a year, but she does not now know where the girl is.

Miss Eaton told the Grant county officers she made a contact with Miss Koziner originally through an anonymous "Cupid's column" in some magazine and they had written to each other regularly.

Several days ago Miss Eaton received a letter from the Koziner girl dated New York, Nov. 1. It was sent from 567 Eleventh avenue, New York, and Miss Eaton was to reply to that address. The address is that of a delicatessen.

The New York girl opened the letter with an apology for not having written sooner, but said she was injured in a motorcycle wreck and had been in a hospital.

The letter said the Koziner girl had met Carl McClurg, rodeo star from Hachita, N. M., Red McCain of Elko, Nev., and Blackie Russell of Vega, Texas, two other rodeo performers.

The letter did not give any future plans for Miss Koziner.

Houston Deep Sea Diver Wins Battle With Huge Octopus 98 Feet Down

HOUSTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Still bearing the marks of a struggle with an octopus 98 feet under water in the Gulf of Mexico, Jack Jordan, 32, a diver of Houston, has been released from a hospital.

Jordan bears "air bumps" occasioned him because his mates, fearing he was dead after he had been hauled from the water ripped off his diving suit too quickly.

The octopus weighed 75 pounds and had tentacles 14 feet long.

The diver, employed by a steamship concern, was salvaging a sunken vessel when he was attacked.

"I was being let down at the end of a long wire rope and was almost at the bottom," Jordan said. "The octopus was sitting on a rock, and sprang to attack me."

"He first threw one arm around me. I began to struggle and then he wrapped me with another. I gave the distress signal and they began pulling me up.

"One of his arms had me caught so tightly it was with difficulty I was able to get hold of my acid gun. I finally did, however, and pierced its body with a needle of the gun, and then squeezed the bulb containing acid. The effect was instantaneous. The octopus was relaxed when I reached the surface.

"The octopus had not hurt me, but everyone thought it had, and they tore my diving suit off me, thinking I was drowned. This is what hurt me. I had been under 45 pounds of air pressure and to have this pressure instantly released paralyzed me. I was unconscious four hours."

Jordan, married, said he thought his employment "as safe as any other" due to present-day methods.

FRUIT GROWERS WANT BAN KEPT

Texas Valley Citrus Men Oppose Shipments

SAN BENITO, Texas, Nov. 12. (AP)—Backed by Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell, fruit growers of this section have expressed a determination to take every step possible to prevent the shipping into this state of Florida citrus fruit, the ban against which will be lifted Dec. 1, according to word received here by J. E. Bell from the Texas commissioner.

The communication said Terrell was informed of the pending move in a telegram from Dr. C. L. Marlatt, head of the federal bureau of plant quarantine.

Scores of telegrams, it was said, were sent from this section yesterday to Dr. Marlatt urging that Florida fruit be kept out of this state because of the danger of infestation by the Mediterranean fruit fly.

NO CHANGES MADE IN REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—It was said at the department of agriculture today that no changes in the fruit fly regulations have been made recently, but an announcement regarding the situation was expected to be made soon.

Sentencing of Jarrett Is Delayed by Judge

NEWKIRK, Okla., Nov. 12. (UP)—Sentencing of Floyd Jarrett, who was convicted of bank robbery last Saturday by a district court jury that gave him a 25-year sentence in the state penitentiary, today was deferred until Wednesday by Judge Asa Walden.

At that time a new trial will be asked and if denied, notice of an appeal will be filed, defense attorneys said today.

SPECIAL TERM ENDS NOV. 23

Congress to Adjourn With Unfinished Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. (INS)—The special session of congress, called by President Hoover last April for the enactment of farm relief and tariff revision, will be adjourned Saturday, Nov. 23, under a tentative accord reached today by leaders of opposing factions.

This adjournment will find the tariff bill still pending in the senate unless a political miracle brings about its passage within the next 10 days. Its final enactment in either event will be postponed until the regular session, starting Dec. 2, since the bill must go to conference after it passes the senate and a long battle between the two branches of congress is anticipated.

The Nov. 23 date for adjourning the special session was proposed by Democrats and immediately approved by Western senators of both parties, who hope to spend Thanksgiving day at their homes.

Murderess Given Prison Sentence

COLUMBUS, Kan., Nov. 12. (INS)—Mrs. Ethel Brotherton of Baxter Springs, Kan., convicted of murdering 17-year-old Bonnie Davis, was sentenced to serve ten years at the industrial farm at Lansing by Judge John W. Hamilton in district court this morning after he had overruled a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Brotherton's attorneys immediately gave notice of appeal to the Kansas supreme court and filed an appeal bond of $10,000.

In sentnecing Mrs. Brotherton, Judge Hamilton said he is convinced that she is a woman of low mentality and that on account of extenuating circumstances in the case he would sentence her to the minimum term.

Mrs. Brotherton is the daughter of Harry Crawfish, wealthy Quapay Indian. She was convicted Oct. 26 by a jury which deliberated 18 hours.

Overstudy Blamed For Aerial Suicide

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Nov. 12. (INS)—The "philosophical suicide" of pretty 18-year-old Ruth Rockwell who leaped out of a plane 2,000 feet in the air, today was attributed to overstudy.

The girl's father, over the telephone, said that he thought too much study caused the action by his daughter. Mrs. Rockwell said she believed eye-strain caused her to become moody.

The girl leaped to death only a few hours after sending a birthday gift "with love" to her mother.

Authorities here today believed Miss Rockwell was suffering from a suicide complex.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Temperature Drop due Tonight!

protect your car NOW

BR-R-R! LOOKS COLD, DOESN'T IT? And this is just a sample of the freezing weather just around the corner. "Snow and Colder" will be forecast soon . . . and that means trouble for motorists who forget to fill their radiators with Denatured Alcohol . . . the universally approved anti-freeze.

WISER MAN NOW . . . He thought that he was protected, but his substitute anti-freeze had leaked away. Now a frosen motor right when he wanted the car badly. He'll take no more unnecessary chances he says. A dollar or two buys all the Denatured Alcohol you'll need all season. Look for the orange and green sign at the first indication of colder weather. That's the place to buy.

ALL THERE IS TO IT! Just pour in Denatured Alcohol. The Alco-Tester shows you the strength of your solution.

Here's how to protect your car against "freeze-ups" in less than 2 minutes with Denatured Alcohol

TONIGHT, car owners! That's what the weather man says! Winter's due . . . with a sharp drop in temperature!

Maybe you think your car is protected . . . but just to be sure drive now to the nearest garage or filling station. Tell the man you want Denatured Alcohol.

He'll look at a chart that tells him how much your car requires. Then put in that amount. As an extra check, he tests the solution . . . and you drive away, knowing your power plant is fully protected . . . and less than 2 minutes required!

Think how simple it is! Far less bother than changing oil . . . no more time than filling the gas tank!

And you've followed the procedure most automobile engineers recommend . . . used the only anti-freeze with a backing of 20 years of successful use!

Safe, Sure, Economical!

Denatured Alcohol is fully tried. It protects your car against cold weather . . . without the danger of damage to the motor. No corrosion of metal parts. No rotted hose. No damaged pumps. No risk of shorted electrical circuits.

You use it as you need it . . . a little or more as the climate calls for. You pay only for what you need. You have no needless servicing charges to meet, no inconvenience from unnecessary lay-ups.

More . . . your cooling system requires no more attention than you normally give it. Your service man will check your solution any time . . . and tell you as often as you wish to know just how much you are protected.

As for cost, Denatured Alcohol is by far the cheapest anti-freeze on the market. In the severest climates, a full winter's supply will cost you only a fraction as much as certain other anti-freezes.

Remember . . . Denatured Alcohol is the universally accepted anti-freeze for motor cars. Use it . . . and you are following the experience of 20,000,000 motorists who know how safe and sure it is.

Look for the orange and green sign.

The Industrial Alcohol Institute, Inc., Graybar Building, New York City.

SIX INDISPUTABLE FACTS

You've heard a lot about anti-freezes. Here are the real facts in the case . . . the indisputable reasons why more motorists use Denatured Alcohol than all other anti-freezes combined.

1. An entire season's supply of Denatured Alcohol usually costs less than half as much as one filling of some preparations.
2. Denatured Alcohol is harmless to radiators, engines and electrical systems. It will not corrode metal parts or attack rubber hose and does not cause leaks.
3. No special service is required to make your car ready for winter. Just put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator as it is.
4. Every car manufacturer approves Denatured Alcohol, and the firm that made your radiator is also emphatic in its endorsement.
5. If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with some preparations.
6. You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

JURY TO PROBE BRADY'S CASE

Fatal Knifing of Girl Goes Before Body

Saturday night further than that he had "a difficulty with several persons."

The case today continued muffled in the silence which practically all of its principals, have maintained.

F. R. McNaughton, who lived at the rooming house where Miss Highsmith resided, said he heard sounds of a quarrel and screams, rushed outside, and found the young woman cut and bleeding. He said that he wrested a long bladed knife from Brady.

Frank Graham Jr., University of Texas student who was working his way through school by selling radios, was thought to have been the only eye-witness of the killing. He either accompanied Miss Highsmith to her home, where Brady was waiting, or arrived on the scene at about the same moment she did. He referred all interviewers to Roy Archer, county attorney, who was believed to have obtained a statement from him, but who was noncommittal.

Long Friendship

It was considered possible that the proposed examining trial for Brady might be abandoned in view of the scheduled grand jury action. If any bail should be fixed after an examining trial it would apply only until the grand jury acted on the case.

Brady's friendship with Miss Highsmith was said to be of long standing. Friends said that the silver-haired jurist had used his influence to obtain her the place as stenographer in the supreme court commission of appeals, which she had occupied for several years at the time of her death.

Youth Given 2-Year Term

Boys' Parents Give His Age More Than 17

Difficulties which arose Tuesday in the case of a youth who pleaded guilty at his own request to a charge of forgery in the 89th district court and who told the court he was not yet 17 years of age were removed Tuesday afternoon when affdavits from the parents and school authorities were presented to show the boy was more than 17.

The boy, Marvin Monroe, was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary after his plea had been made and his age proved. The sentence will run concurrently with another two-year sentence given him a few weeks ago by a Cottle county jury on a charge of automobile theft.

Judge P. A. Martin pointed out to the youth after the trial that he now stood convicted of two felonies and was eligible for a life sentence if convicted on a third charge. The court was lenient in allowing the sentence to run concurrently with the previous sentence, the judge said, but a third offense would not be so lightly disposed of.

The charge here grew out of the alleged giving of a check bearing a fictitious signature to an automobile rental agency in Electra. Monroe had not raised the question of age in his trial in Cottle county and was convicted.

Testimony Completed In $40,000 Damage Suit

Testimony was completed Tuesday afternoon in the 78th district court before Judge W. W. Cook in the retrial of the suit brought by Mr. and Mrs. John Maunders against Russell Morgan and others on a claim of $40,000 damages growing out of an automobile collision here last June 22, in which Mrs. Maunders is alleged to have suffered permanent injuries. The jury will be charged Wednesday morning.

Two Injured as Block Of Terra Cotta Falls

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A half-ton block of terra cotta broke loose from a hoisting crane today and fell to the street through three floors of the 70-story bank of Manhattan building, under construction in Wall street.

Two persons, neither of whom was hit directly by the block, received injuries from falling debris.

HARD TO BREATHE AT NIGHT

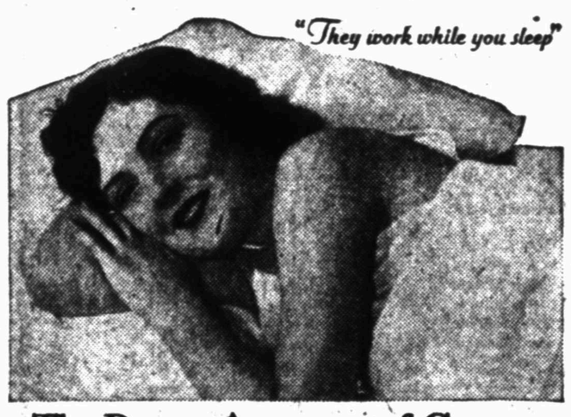

It's foolish to run chances with those sweezing, gasping spells associated with Asthma and nasal irritations at night when you can get prompt relief in just a few minutes time. How? Go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes right now. That's the first step.

Next, smoke a few during the day and one just before you go to bed—and the chances are you won't lose sleep tonight. But in any case, you can be sure if you are attacked that just a few puffs of one Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes will quickly relieve you.

Thousands of men and women keep Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes handy at night. One Atlanta, Ga., woman says she knows if she has a bad breathing spell, she will be able to get to sleep in a few minutes after smoking one of these medical cigarettes. No tobacco or cubebs in Dr. Blosser's—just a special combination of herbs, berries and flowers whose soothing vapor has a clearing action that opens up air passages as nothing else can.

"They work while you sleep"

The Doctor Approves of Cascara

When you're out of sorts because liver and bowels are not functioning properly, don't take a violent purgative that will upset your whole system and make you feel all the worse. A candy Cascaret will soon have you feeling fine again—and there'll be no unpleasant after effects.

Cascarets are as pleasing to the palate as candy. Their action is gentle, but thorough. They work while you sleep; cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system clean and sweet. They help restore normal bowel action and are not habit-forming.

Cascarets are made of cascara, long recognized by the medical profession as one of the most beneficial laxatives, and one that actually strengthens the bowel muscles. Cascarets are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. That's why children love them—and grown folks find them so easy to take.

Physicians say by far the great majority of human ills are caused by constipation. If a coated tongue, dull headaches, disordered stomach or general listless feeling warn you of faulty elimination, don't take a chance on real sickness. Take a Cascaret every day or two until your system seems normal. You'll be amazed at the effectiveness of this simple measure. The use of 20 million packages of Cascarets a year proves their worth.

PLAN TO ELECT BLACKS BARED

Arnold Hoped to Wreck Demo Party

Democratic party," Arnold ascribed that scheme to Vance Muse, a field representative of the southern tariff association, saying he had told Muse to "go ahead" but that he thought "it was too much of a dream and impossible of application."

A document showing that the idea was to organize the southern Republican council and get negro candidates in the race as Democrats for congress in St. Louis, Chicago and New York, was produced by the committee.

"Nothing came of the organization," Arnold asserted.

A letter from Arnold to Muse was read by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee which said "Arnold went with the darkey today to see Vice President Curtis and he thought well of our negro congressman idea, but said it was a matter that should be taken up with Mr. Hoover and that he would talk with Hoover about it."

The "darkey" was not identified.

"Curtis said he thought of getting a better grade of negroes to lead in the South," the letter continued, "but I told him that would not be the complete remedy."

Another letter written by Arnold to Muse said, in regard to the council, that "it all seems to swing around Hoover."

"He seems to have given the impression among his associates that he is personally interested in the South and wants to handle it," the letter added. "I have no doubt he will welcome any aid or assistance but the only thing to do is to go ahead with it."

Later the letter said the "crux of it all is the negro question which the regular Republican party cannot solve; they have tried it for 50 years and made no progress."

Akers, if found guilty of the robbery, was sane enough to know right from wrong. Both defense and prosecuting attorneys had introduced ttestimony bearing on Akers' mental condition. Three fellow prisoners of the defendant were called to the stand by the defense Monday afternoon after Akers had insisted to the jury he was sane, and they testified that he was apparently not normal in his actions. Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent of the Wichita Falls State hospital, and Dr. J. A. Little of Wichita Falls were called in Tuesday morning by the prosecution in rebuttal.

Two Dances Close Frolic of Oldtimers

Special to The Record News

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Nov. 12.—Old fiddlers strummed farewell tunes that recalled barn dances of another decade tonight, and between strains scores of Archer county's pioneers, here for the 50th anniversary celebration and homecoming, clasped hands and silently hoped to see their friends at such a reunion once more.

The scene was the ballroom at the Ben Hulls residence here, where the pioneers were given a final entertainment that closed Archer City's two-day program.

Dance for Youngsters

Another dance, at the American legion hall, was attended by younger ones. The two occasions brought to an end a day well packed with fun, though robbed of some scheduled features that were cancelled by falling temperatures, and a light rain that fell here in the afternoon.

A parade by the Paul Seeds concert band of Wichita Falls opened the festivities this morning, replacing the appearance of the school children's historical parade, cancelled on account of the cold weather.

Chuck Wagon Dinner

At noon came a chuck wagon dinner for the old timers at the Will Andrews ranch near here. Around an old time chuck wagon clambering for their food as cowboys of the prairies did a generation ago grouped such well known West Texas pioneers as Dayton Moses of Fort Worth, Bob Hardy of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hudson of Hale Center, M. A. Lee and family of Spur, Gordon Brennan of Wichita Falls, J. C. Hazelwood, Mineral Wells, and his son, Jerry Hazelwood, of Newcastle, Mrs. Lillian Kerr, Mrs. J. Henry of Graham, Henry and Nellie Prideaux of Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Steen of Loving, Roy Spradling of Oklahoma, Mrs. Bycus of Fort Worth, Rube Loftin and Will Neville of Henrietta, Tom Hart of Lockney and John Fore of Wichita Falls, and scores of others.

After the chuck wagon feed the crowd massed into the grandstands here for a roedo, which occupied the rest of the afternoon. Tonight the two dances got under way, bringing the celebration to a close.

tell him that if he attended another conference, it would use his reserve strength and hasten his death and he said, 'what matters if I had God's summons 12 months earlier. I would be a coward and a traitor to the cause if I did not do everything possible for my country, for others and for the cause of peace'." He poured his heart out to the assembly, making a magnificent plea for justice, justice to each nation, justice in the heart as well as in action.

"When Stresseman died, there went out of the world a great spirit," Mrs. Pennybacker said; "but oh how I did wish the great man who conceived the idea of the league could have been spared to sit with that conference."

Elaborate Favors

An international relationship and social and industrial relations luncheon took place at 12:15 with such decorations and favors as only Mineral Wells can put over. Masses of chrysanthemums banked the tables. A miniature goddess of liberty stood before Mrs. J. E. King of San Antonio, who presided with Mrs. O. L. McKnight, chairman of international relations. Favors were vari-colored hour glasses, the sand in which measured the time different speakers were given on the program. Mrs. George Welch of Mineral Wells was hostess. An interesting report was given on work with the Indians in Texas, telling of 250 Indians in Polk county for whom the secretary of the interior bought lands and stock, the government giving them a $40,000 cash donation and the state $37,500.

Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, incoming state federation president made an address outlining some of the features she wished to stress in her regime. Among these, she hopes to eliminate the annual chattel mortgage of the tenant farmer, a health program will be observed, underprivileged mothers in Texas will be given better opportunities, with the state education department, the federation will strive to have a dean of women in every high school, special attention will be given to the narcotic trouble, and the securing of a permanent home for the federation in Austin will be worked out as agreed when the charter was granted to the organization 20 years ago.

Closing the luncheon was the address of John Erhard who spoke on "Parting the Curtains of Diplomacy." Mr. Erhard enumerated the things war had done. It put America before the nations of the world in her importance, he said. She went in for no territorial rights, no gain. She financed the other nations and the war was a terrible financial loss to America. She lost the flower of her young manhood. America, he stated, had caused other nations to know that the United States, though not a military nation, could cope with other nations. The war took people who talked peace out of the class of idiots, fools and agnostics, he declared.

Marquis and Barker Speak

At the afternoon session, the state president's report was given and Mrs. Potter's recommendation that Texas join in the general federation endowment policy was voted on by the general assembly and passed.

A committee of five was suggested to plan this work, two of whom, Mrs. R. F. Lindsey and Mrs. Homer D. Wade, Mrs. Porter appointed. The other three will be appointed by Mrs. Lindsey after she assumes office. The committee will present a program at the January meeting of the board. Reports of committees and chairmen's reports took much of the afternoon. The two principal speakers of the afternoon were Dr. R. L. Marquis, president of North Texas Sttae Teachers college, who spoke on "The Paradox in Public Education at Public Expense." And Judge Owen Barker of Galveston whose address was on "The Younger Generation." Doctor Marquis said the public schools were the greatest single business in the country; they were first intended as a machine to make man equal but had proven a machine that finds man's talent. He spoke of the evolution of education, from the three "R's, to language, to science and then to vocational training where "we stand only on the border."

Judge Barker said that the leisure class was much to blame for the change in youth; when people worked, the children were more often an asset than the liability they so often prove now. He questioned if the nation is neglecting the morals of the child and said that was a problem for the women's clubs. The reason, he stated that morals were not stressed in school was because morals and religion had always been connected. But as the church had not sucessfully coped with this subject, the school must do it. He suggested the establishment of numerous studies tending toward a moral foundation.

Notables at Dinner

The main dining room in the Baker hotel was not large enough for the Texas dinner. A platform was erected across the length of the large lobby on which the speaker's table was placed. From this ran eight other tables. Texas under six flags was the theme of the dinner. Flags were used on the programs and in the decorations and miniature Alamos were favors. Place cards were hand painted with a cowboy throwing the lariat into each name. Individual bluebonnet favors were also used.

The speaker's table was massed with bluebonnets, and autumn leaves and flowers in profusion were used everywhere. The Texas Lone Star shone in color above the speaker's table and when the audience sang "Texas, My Texas," the lights were turned off and a spotlight turned on the flag.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal presided and many notables were seated with her at the speaker's table. Governor Dan Moody and R. E. Bobbitt, the speakers of the evening, were there and Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, national chairman of rural cooperation, called lovingly, "The little brown wren of Texas."

Others occupying places of honor Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, Mrs. Homer D. Wade, J. J. Lovejoy, M. P. Bewley, Maggie W. Barry, A. H. Bailey, W. J. Miles, W. R. Potter, Guy Rogers, Frank Friend, Ollie Coon, Walter Robertson, R. T. Skiles, R. F. Lindsey, R. E. Buchanan, G. B. Smedley, J. U. Fields, J. L. Young, C. W. Connery, David Warren, M. T. "Mother Rotan" Howard

Late arrivals at the Texas dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rotan of Waco. Mrs. Rotan is known lovingly to the federation as "Mother Rotan." She was the first president of the state federation and Wednesday's star entertainment is the unveiling of her portrait. Mr. and Mrs. Rotan were seated with honor at the speaker's table and introduced to the conference. Mrs. Oneal introduced in turn, Miss Tippora English, Mrs. W. R. Potter, and Miss Rebecca Smith, who, with the presiding speaker, touched on the different points in Texas' history under the flags of Mexico, the republic, the confederacy and the union. Mrs. J. R. Creighton of Mineral Wells, singing in Spanish costume, represented the Spanish flag and Mrs. W. J. Miles of Mineral Wells, sponsored the French flag in French costume with two French vocal numbers.

R. L. Bobbitt, state attorney general, was the principal speaker of the evening. The young attorney discussed modern tendencies in Texas and gave a most optimistic view of the entire situation from finances to future government. The educational interests, he said, was a thing that anyone could well be proud of and the tendencies of the social life was worthy of the inheritance of the great state. But, he said, some of the older ones who had been reared in a different atmosphere were apprehensive of the hip-pocket flask and the number of gold tipped cigarets sold. At the present time, but he thought the fine inheritance of the youth of today would soon bring this tendency back to normal. As a suggestion of political tendencies he said there was entirely too much side-stepping and cowardice on the part of the people as well as officers. He declared the present tendency to better the penitentiary system of Texas was good, and gave much credit to the federation for their work in first starting the present reform in the work.

The tendency to preserve some of the historical and natural scenery of the state, as now being carried out by the state park commission, was another step forward, he said. In conclusion he named the tendency of the state as a whole in looking toward peace as one of the best of the modern tendencies for a forward movement.

Governor Moody addressed the open meeting later on the present movement for prison reform in the state. He outlined the work done and told of what the present commission hoped to accomplish "Texas, our Texas" with the composer, W. J. Marsh at the piano, was sung as the closing number by the choral department of the Mineral Wells Music club, Mrs. Edna Bock White director. During the singing, all lights were turned off and the spotlight played on the flag, making an ending to be remembered in the largest and most elaborate of the federation functions to date.

MARES' ADDRESS OUTSTANDING EVENT

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 12.—"Educational Progress in Texas," was the subject of an outstanding address Monday evening at the opening session of the Texas federation of women's clubs, given by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction.

Sixty years ago, he said the first woman's club was organized, the Sorosis. Fifty years ago, or 10 years after the organization of a woman's club, saw the birth of the electric light. Since those days, there has been a great change in education. In the early days, it was intrusted to public officers, who gave it what spare time they had. Now, educational boards function over the state.

The age limit has been extended from 6 to 18 years, effective September, 1930. Before this bill came before the house, Mr. Marrs said he read in the paper of a 6-year-old boy who picked 200 pounds of cotton in one day. The argument that six was too young to put a child in school was met with what a 6-year-old could do in labor.

There has been a decided improvement in the requirements of teachers in the state, Mr. Marrs said. Each must be trained specially in what she teaches. A primary teacher must have special primary training, and all up the line—special training for special work. Where formerly 54 per cent of Texas' teachers had examinations and had certificates to teach, 95 per cent now are college graduates.

A point stressed was the need of changing the method of securing county superintendents. They should be chosen or elected by a county board so that the best qualified men would serve in this office.

Mr. Marrs spoke of the criticism prevalent among schools and read a clipping telling of the college professor who said the high school graduate did not come to him properly trained; the high school teacher complained of the junior hi training; the junior high knew the grade school work was not properly done and on down to where the kindergarten laid it to the mother and the mother said "Poor child, he's not to blame; his father's parents were just the same."

A new definition was given for "Education." Mr. Marrs defined education as the transformation of capacity into ability.

Rural schools were particularly mentioned in the address. The need for consolidated districts for high school children was stressed and the statement was made that when a rural student wishes to go to high school in town and is not able, his tuition will be paid; if the county is unable to do this, the state will. College entrance examinations are offered now to rural district pupils. High school diplomas are issued to those who can stand the tests.

Another marked step in education is the night school system, employers often cooperating in an employe's education.

Constitution Studied

Mr. Marrs stated that just as the federal government rehabilitates a war veteran, so will the federal government cooperate with the state to rehabilitate a citizen. For instance, if a carpenter loses a hand, he is paid enough to live while he is taught another trade.

Texas now ranks 34th in the educational line. Ten years ago she was 39th. This low rate is due to the large group of underprivileged children. New Mexico, Arizona and West Virginia are three of the states Texas has passed in the last 10 years.

Texas spent last year $56,000,000 for education. Yet one out of every four children was absent each school day, while all the cost of education went on.

Robert Crocker, retiring master councilor, will be presented with the master councilor's jewel at the close of the ceremony. A large number of appointive officers will also be installed.

Three Papers Read At Medical Society Meet

Three scientific papers were read at the regular monthly meeting of the Wichita County Medical society at the Wichita club Tuesday evening.

The first, on "The Treatment of Fractures," which was illustrated by moving pictures, was read by Dr. E. D. McBride, prominent orthopedic surgeon of Oklahoma City. The second, on "The Use of Drugs in Treating Heart Diseases," was read by Dr. W. B. Whiting. The third paper, read by Dr. W. B. Adams, dealt with "Local Infection From Para Nasal Sinuses."

Fifty members of the society attended the meeting. Dr. W. N. Dean of Iowa Park was elected a member of the society, and the transfer of Dr. D. R. Venable from the Tulsa, Okla., society to the local organization was accepted.

PAMPA CHURCH MEET OPENS

Northwest Texas M. E. Conference Opens

By HAMILTON WRIGHT

PAMPA, Texas, Nov. 12.—Several hundred delegates had arrived by dusk today for the 20th session of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference which convenes here tomorrow morning for a five-day meet. The delegates arrived simultaneously with a frigid northern gale that occasionally spat snow.

Bishop John Moore, presiding, held two conferences this afternoon with his cabinet of eight presiding elders arranging for placement of about 300 preachers for another year.

Tonight Dr. E. V. Cole, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate preached to a large congregation. Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of Murry college, presented a motion picture show of McMurry college for the delectation of many. He says approximately $300,000 of the $350,000 promised by this conference has been raised for the endowment of that institution.

THE NEW SERIES

PACKARD EIGHTS

the finest cars the world affords

IN DEVELOPING the new series Standard, Custom and De Luxe Eights, Packard had one definite object—to make the cars in each line the most luxurious in the world at their prices.

Now that the new Packard Eights are on display the public agrees that nothing which could add to the comfort, convenience and enjoyment of owners has been overlooked. It is literally true that Packard designers and engineers can think of no way in which the new series cars could be made either better or more beautiful. And record-breaking sales reflect unusual public appreciation.

Design and colors are more distinguished—appointments, fittings and upholstery more luxurious than ever before. Performance—always an outstanding Packard luxury—has been enhanced by many mechanical improvements and refinements.

Advanced Engineering Features

The famous Packard straight-eight motor has been provided with new carburetion which effects greater flexibility with surprising quietness. The new Packard-designed-and-built four-speed transmission permits easier, quieter gear shifting—increases riding comfort by maintaining a better relationship between motor speed and car momentum, and by eliminating power jerks.

Springs of new specifications combine with the advanced Packard Shock Absorbing System—with its mechanism to eliminate front wheel shimmy and steering wheel whip—to achieve new driving and riding ease. The "instant" chassis lubricating system now oils 43 points at the pull of a plunger.

Other refinements include improved-vision body pillars, adjustable sun visors, newly perfected shatter-proof glass, adjustable steering gear and driver's seat, dashboard lockers and many incidental conveniences.

Packard cars today, built in three complete lines and at three distinct ranges of price, cover the fine car field—and dominate it! There is a Packard Eight available at the lowest price for which a truly fine car can be sold. And there are Packard Eights on up to the most luxurious custom creations attainable anywhere.

Prices at the factory range from $2375 to $2775 for the Standard Eight; from $3190 to $3885 for the Custom Eight; and from $4585 to $5350 for the De Luxe Eight. Individual custom cars are also available to order up to $10,000.

Why Not Own a Packard?

We cordially invite you to come in and see the new series Packard cars. We will gladly place the model of your choice in your hands for any sort of a demonstration drive you may desire.

We are confident that you will find the luxury of Packard transportation greater than you ever thought possible—and that you will be pleasantly surprised when we point out in actual figures how you can enjoy it at no greater expense than your present motoring involves.

Members of the executive board of the Federated Missionary society met in their regular monthly business session at the day nursery Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. G. R. Ellis, president, after which Mrs. C. G. Watson led in prayer. Mrs. W. H. Downing, chairman of the social service committee, reported that a new loud speaker for the radio at the juvenile jail has been secured and that another was being donated for the boys' section.

Mrs. Jack Giesberg reported that two new churches, the Grant Street Methodist and the Lamar Avenue Baptist, had been added to the affiliation. Mrs. L. E. Cowling presented a check for $25 from the Susanna Wesley class of the Floral Heights Methodist church to be used for several necessities.

Plans were discussed to hold services at the county farm once each week. The day for the service has not been designated. Mrs. F. T. PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 12—Looking out from the 12th floor of the Baker hotel in Mineral Wells, one sees lights twinkling up the sides of the hills, making it look like a city of skyscrapers.

◇ ◇ ◇

But on Monday night, not many people looked out for there was so much to be seen inside. Mineral Wells put on evening attire to welcome the federation and in the enormous ball room, sport, afternoon, dinner dresses and full evening gowns sat side by side.

◇ ◇ ◇

Little boys of the city are going to be reared with the proper admiration for club mothers. More than a dozen very small Americans wriggled through a long program.

◇ ◇ ◇

And old men, too; it was surprising to us to see so many old men interested in women's activities. Or perhaps, they came to hear Mr. Marrs.

◇ ◇ ◇

At the executive luncheon, where a precious wee girl, wearing a beautiful costume almost nil, a young George and Martha Washington marched up the aisle; where a rainbow ceremonial and a graceful dancer added beauty to a beautiful dining room, the high iron grills that border the sides of the splendid room were full of men's heads, seeing all they could. They make no secret of it in Mineral Wells.

◇ ◇ ◇

Another thing noted Monday was the variety in haircuts. There were country cut bobs and sophisticated bobs; there were "crowns of glory" (mostly white), in heavy coils. One head had been "crimped." How long since we have seen the effect of that martyrdom!

◇ ◇ ◇

In the pavilion, we saw women from Wichita and several adjoining counties standing at the bar. A white coated darkey presided before a row of gleaming faucets. He imparted the information that 'number three had "mo iron," number "fo' mo' sulph'h," while number five came from way over the hill. Number one and two were not working.

◇ ◇ ◇

Electricity went off in the Baker hotel elevators at a critical time Monday; just after a late executive board adjournment and before dinner, evening program and reception.

◇ ◇ ◇

Women thronged the halls wanting to go up or down and seeing the elevators flash by. The only way to go up, if one were near the lower floor, was to walk to the basement and go; all elevators filled there or on the main floor and as the lights did not flash inside, no elevator stopped.

◇ ◇ ◇

One elevator stuck on the third floor and Mrs. G. B. Smedley was one of the number in it. She arrived in Mineral Wells just in time for excitement.

◇ ◇ ◇

The first district breakfast was at 7 o'clock and that seemed to be the first thing complained of in Mineral Wells. "Seven o'clock!" one heard in horrified undertones.

◇ ◇ ◇

Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta did complain about having no coat hangers in her closet (too many women arrived before her), but when she went to a drug store to buy some, (everything else being closed on Armistice day), the druggist took his own coat off a hanger and gave it to her.

Dix Tells Youth How to Succeed As Married Man

Any Man Can Make a Success of Marriage by Giving His Wife a Square Deal in Money, Affection and Good Times, and by Never, Never Taking Her for Granted, Declares Dorothy Dix.

I have a letter from a young man who says: "I am about to be married, and while I do not aspire to be the ideal husband, I do want to be a tolerably good one. So will you list those faults and shortcomings into which husbands ordinarily fall in order that I may avoid them?"

Glory be, that there is at least one prospective bridegroom who realizes that a man's success in marriage, like his success in business, depends upon the intelligence he brings to bear upon its problems, and whether he puts his back and his heart into it, instead of relying just upon bull luck.

And thanks be that there is one young man with sense enough to perceive that the way to be happy though married is to keep his wife so much in love with him that she will always be on her tiptoes trying to please him. For the reason there are so many peevish, fretful, complaining wives, who are bad cooks and poor managers, is because so many women are so disappointed and disillusioned in marriage that they don't care whether they keep their jobs or lose them.

Of course, practically every man who gets married is in love with the woman he marries. Else he would not burden himself with the expense of a family. Also, practically every man goes into matrimony with the desire to make the woman he marries happy and when he fails he is amazed and bewildered and doesn't know how come. He has fed her heart and clothed her and she has had the felicity of being married to him. What more could any sane woman desire?

So if you would avoid the mistakes of these dumb brothers, begin first by giving your wife a square deal. Don't treat her as a doll to dress up, or a plaything to amuse yourself with in your idle hours, or a drudge to do your cooking and cleaning, but as a partner who has put everything she is and has into the matrimonial firm just as you have.

Talk over your business with her. Let her have her part in helping on with your plans and ambitions. Make her realize that your success or failure depends just as much upon her efforts as it does upon yours. Hold her responsible for her part of the work. Make her realize from the first that you are going ahead and that if she doesn't keep up with you she will be left behind. Nine times out of ten when a wife fails to be a helpmate and a companion to her husband it is because he didn't take the trouble to develop her into being one.

Give your wife a square deal about money. Don't humiliate her by making her come to you like a beggar for the money she has earned by her own labor. Give her a definite allowance for the house and for her own personal needs, and don't ask her what she did with it any more than you would ask your partner what he did with his money.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. Templin Is Honoree at Party

Complimenting Mrs. G. H. Templin of Amarillo who is the house guest of Mrs. J. H. Marion, Mrs. J. L. Dashner entertained with a bridge luncheon at her home, 1810 Tilden, at 1 o'clock Tuesday.

The guests were seated at one long table which was covered with an Italian cut lace cloth. The centerpiece, a bowl of yellow and orchid chrysanthemums, added to the charm of the table. Thanksgiving place cards were used to mark the places.

In the games Mrs. C. S. Carlisle was presented with the favor for high score and Mrs. Templin was awarded the prize for second high score.

Guests included Mesdames J. M. O'Gorman, C. S. Carlisle, George Dashner Jr., J. H. Marion, Tom Andrews, G. H. Templin and W. G. Bentley.

Durant Names 10 Greatest Thinkers In Address Here

Confucius — Spinoza
Plato (and Socrates) — Isaac Newton
Aristotle — Voltaire
Copernicus — Emanuel Kant
Francis Bacon — Charles Darwin

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

Almost 400 persons were held in rapt attention during a short 90-minutes' at the Woman's Forum Tuesday night when Will Durant, philosopher, author and lecturer presented his interpretation of the world's 10 greatest thinkers.

Prefacing his enumeration of "the human beads on his rosary of genius," Mr. Durant stressed the fact that greatness must be measured by the depth, range, and permanence of influence upon mankind. He also defined a thinker as a man to whom thinking is the essential industry in life, not one whose thinking is a means to some end other than thought.

"Despite the fact that religious leaders have had perhaps greater influence on mankind than any other group of individuals," the speaker said, "they will not be included in this list of thinkers because their influence has been effected not through intellect, but through something far more profound than intellect. That something is a quality which the scientists have not yet begun to understand."

Confucius First

Confucius, who was born in 558 B. C., was named first both in point of time and influence. His teachings, the speaker declared, comprised half the Chinese youth's education as late as 1912, and have their place among the world's greatest thought because of "the unrivalled profundity of spirit which comes to every Chinese lad through his absorption of Confucius' truths." Finally becoming ruler of one 57th of China through his amazing conquest for high morality, Confucius founded all his theory of government upon the principle that "one ounce of example is worth a ton of precept," Mr. Durant said.

Plato of ancient Athens was named as the second of Doctor Durant's list of thinkers, with Socrates included with Plato "because Socrates is so largely a myth, the creation of the dramatist Plato's mind." Plato's greatest contribution to the world's thought was the introduction of true philosophy, the speaker said.

"While I do not like Aristotle, because his writings are dull, and his gospel is one of mediocrity," said the speaker, "he is the next ranking thinker, and advanced philosophy materially with popular sets of philosophic dialogs. His claims to wisdom are supported by the fact that he was the best dressed man in Athens, and married the second richest girl in Greece."

Copernicus, who with his astronomical research opened up an entirely new vista of human thought, the significance of which was brought to light later when Galileo's telescopes came into play, did more than any other mind of the middle ages to further civilization, Mr. Durant said.

Francis Bacon, whose keystone thought was "knowledge is power," replaced Aristotle as first among the philosophers as regarded by his age, the speaker said, but "we now are beginning to understand that knowledge which is power can kill as well as build."

Cline Introduces Speaker

Spinoza, who died at the age of 44 in Holland in 1677, and who sought knowledge for understanding and peace as avenues to forgiveness for his enemies; Isaac Newton, the greatest of those whose knowledge of mathematics and mechanics brought power to mankind; Voltaire, "the most brilliant intellect of all history," and the emancipator of human thought; Emanuel Kant, who was horrified at materialism, and devoted his tremendous intellectual enterprise to its defeat; and Charles Darwin, "whose idea of evolution has had more influence on men for good or evil than any other thought of our time" were named as the last five of the great thinkers evaluated by the lecturer.

Mr. Durant speaks with apparent ease, is gifted with excellent diction, and possesses a voice of unusually pleasing quality which was easily heard in all parts of the auditorium. His lecture was pointed by frequent sallies of subtle humor, which were quietly woven into his speech unexpectedly, to be followed by quiet laughter.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by Walter D. Cline, who had been presented by Mrs. T. M. Conrey, of the Woman's Forum.

COUNTY BUYS ROAD TRACTOR

Commissioners Order Other Equipment

Three tractors, two road maintainers and a rock crusher were purchased for the county at a cost of about $20,000 Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners court in weekly session.

The county auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for 15 dozen blankets to be used during the winter at the county farm and the county jail. Action on these bids will be taken the first Monday in December.

The October reports of the two justice courts were presented to the commissioners by Judge R. V. Gwinn and Judge O. L. Gibbs. J. B. Fitts, county highway officer, gave a report on the condition of the roads in the county, pointing out that they were in good condition and were being kept clear of rubbish and trash.

Guy C. Raley, county tax collector, appeared before the court to point out a number of disadvantages which would be incurred by use of the new type form receipts for automobile licenses sent the county by the state. The new forms are smaller, do not provide for the same type of receipt as used formerly and require three carbon copies in addition to the disadvantages of filing and keeping complete records, Mr. Raley said. Several other large counties are contemplating discarding the forms sent by the state and having license receipts printed on the same lines as those used in the past, he stated.

The matter was brought up for the information of the court and not for action at the present time, he said. Cost of having the receipts printed by the county would be about $175.

Officers Hold Man in $75,000 Gem Robbery

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12. (UP)—Jay Burnes, 36, was held in the county jail today as a suspect in a $75,000 diamond robbery at Okmulgee Friday. He was arrested in an apartment house on a charge of disposing of a mortgaged auto.

Members of the jewelry firm that were robbed and special detectives arrived here from Tulsa by airplane in an effort to identify Burnes and check his movements. Charles Mednikow, Memphis, Tenn., the salesman who was robbed while calling on customers, was to arrive late today.

Mednikow and R. A. Zononed left two handbags containing $75,000 in gems in their parked auto Monday. When they returned the lock on their car door had been picked and the bags were gone. Burnes denied part in the robbery and has given an alibi, officers said.

Fay Fisher Honoree At Pretty Luncheon

One of the most attractive affairs given for Miss Fay Fisher whose marriage to J. Warren Zimmer will be an event of Nov. 20 was the prettily appointed luncheon given by Mrs. John Thomas at her home on Grant street at 1 o'clock Tuesday.

Using the bride elect's color scheme of green, combined with pink, the center piece was formed with chrysanthemums tinted in these pastel shades. The flowers were arranged in a green dresden bowl. Tall green lighted tapers in dresden candle holders and lovely dresden compotes filled with green candy completed the artistic table decorations.

Appointments were miniature bridesmaids for the guests while that for Miss Fisher was a dainty little bride. Favors were green chiffon rose leaf sachets. The hostess presented her guest of honor with a handsome set of crystal goblets.

Seated with the hostess and her honoree were Mesdames J. A. Fisher, W. M. Priddy, Jonette Bonner, George Collum, Clyde Strauss, J. W. Stringer, Ray Arnhold, and Misses Thelma Fisher, Alice Graham of Graham, Mary Jo Kell, Marguerite McDonald, Katherine Marcus of Abilene, Gene Nelson, Anabel Couper, Adelle Jarrell and Helen Grisham.

On Wednesday Miss Anabel Couper and Mrs. Ray Arnhold will compliment Miss Fisher with a breakfast at the home of Mrs. Arnhold's mother, Mrs. T. P. Duncan.

BREAKFAST SHOWER HONORS BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. George Collum and Miss Marguerite McDonald were hostesses at a breakfast and kitchen shower at the Wichita club for Miss Fisher Tuesday morning.

Novel place cards, attached to a miniature knife, fork and spoon were attractively arranged at the long table. White chrysanthemums and green foliage formed the centerpiece.

Gifts for the bride-to-be were presented in a quaint manner, when Master Jimmie Straus, dressed in the costume of a pilot, came flying in the airplane with "air mail for Mrs. Z." He presented the honoree with a letter on which was inscribed, "Every good and perfect gift cometh from above."

Places were arranged for Misses Faye Fisher, Thelma Fisher, Alice Graham, Helen Grisham, Mary Jo Kell, Mary Allison, Adelle Jarrell, Anabel Couper, Gene Nelson, Lucille Smith, Elizabeth Carrigan, Helen Knotts, Dorothy Nolen, Retta Barnard, Katherine Marcus of Midland, Leah Belle Duff of Topeka, Mesdames J. Judge Denies Jury's Clemency Plea On Second Conviction of Youth

Convicted for the second time on a felony charge, R. C. Kent, 20-year-old Oklahoma youth, was given a two-year sentence in the state penitentiary on a charge of automobile theft Tuesday afternoon by a jury in the 89th district court which reached an instructed verdict only after its desire to show leniency had proved futile.

As Judge P. A. Martin was preparing to deliver his formal charge, one of the jurors interrupted with a request for permission to question the defendant. The request was granted and in answer to the questions, Kent told the jury he had usually worked and her regularly sent money to his mother when employed. After the jury had retired with instructions to find Kent guilty and to fix his sentence at not less than two years, a note was sent out to Judge Martin asking whether a suspended sentence could be recommended.

Judge Martin replied such a recommendation could not be considered and soon after the jury returned the verdict of guilty. Before discharging the jury, the judge explained a previous conviction in Colorado prevented consideration of a suspended sentence.

Kent pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen an automobile belonging to Rev. Miles Hayes of Burkburnett. He was arrested a few hours after the theft in Cotton county, Okla.

Several weeks ago Waterman sought to terminate the treaty through an amendment to the tariff bill, but it was defeated, 60 to 14.

Girl Battles Big Handicap

Snubbed in School, Heartbroken in College, but wins through to Success and Happy Marriage.

MANY a girl would give up in despair when she found herself snubbed in school and unpopular in college, but not so Mrs. Norma Kussel Jones of 1567 Cramer Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"There is no heartache worse than being snubbed in school," says Mrs. Jones. "When I was seventeen I went away to college. Freda, my room-mate, was a very popular girl. I think she meant to be friendly. But soon she asked to have her room changed. It seems I kept her awake at night, I slept so restlessly—and—I snored!

"No one knows the misery I suffered. Freda and her friends made life miserable for me. I soon lost weight and appetite.

"One day Miss Dickinson, the physical education teacher, found me sobbing in the locker room; I told her my story. 'Why', she said, 'sometimes sluggish circulation causes snoring and restless sleep. Why don't you try Nujol?' She said she used it herself.

"In two weeks Nujol had begun clearing out the poisons in my body (Miss Dickinson said we all have them), my skin had a clear healthy appearance, and everything looked brighter. 'What have you been doing to yourself?' asked my room-mate. 'You are a different girl. Everybody notices it!'

"The days and years that followed were filled with every activity. I was editor-in-chief of the college annual, coxswain of the winning crew—and not long ago Freda was maid of honor at my wedding. That's what Nujol did for me!"

Brave American Girls like this one never say die!

Such a simple way to health and happiness! Your doctor will tell you that Nujol contains no medicines or drugs—it is simply bodily lubrication—harmless, normal, and it works easily so you will be regular as clock work. an interval of CLOSED STORES and OPEN MINDS . . . .

A lot of shopping will be done TODAY . . . . in the pages of the Sunday Times!

The Sunday newspaper is welcomed into the home and carries your advertising message under most favorable circumstances.

Of course the stores are closed today, but, peculiarly enough, many thoughtful merchants will profit by that fact!

For, today is an interval of open minds . . . an "impression interval" . . . between six helter-skelter busy days and six other days of work and routine. It is, indeed, probably the very first time in six days that you haven't been rushing around with one eye on your watch—and a half-dozen or so tasks and errands on your mind!

Today you have more time for yourself . . . for your family . . . for reading . . . and for planning. Indeed, you will seek out new ideas and new impressions. And that, of course, means that you will pick up the Sunday Times and leisurely, interestedly, browse through it.

An advertisement here will cause you to look, critically, at your hat . . . and another will remind you that you need a new suit. The matter of a new heater . . . or a new radio . . . things that you haven't time to discuss during the week, will be called to mind by the advertisements and thoroughly talked over in family council.

You will gather a wealth of new impressions . . . and, more than likely, reach at least one important buying decision today.

And, tomorrow—or maybe not until Wednesday or Thursday—the advertiser who addressed his message to you today . . . in the pages of the Sunday Times . . . will welcome you into his store.

For both you and the advertiser, the Sunday Times performs a double service. To you it brings the news of the day and the very best special features obtainable . . . and, at the same time, delivers shopping messages that help you plan your purchases. While, to the advertiser, the Sunday Times presents the opportunity of selling both his institution and his merchandise . . . to establish good will, as well as to secure immediate sales!

Daily Editorial

THE MILLS of the gods are still working. But even this electrically sped age can't teach them to grind faster.

The more deliberate centuries were quite satisfied to let destiny amble along at leisure, confident that cause would ripen into effect at the pre-established hour.

Without such assurance in adjusted balances, yesterday would have had nothing on which to pin faith in retributive justice, or the correction of prevalent social wrongs.

Moralities are after-thoughts of nature. Evolution is the transcendant miracle.

Radio, television and aviation are trumpery and inconsequent performances compared with the transformation of tiny ooze inhabiting animals—with the vaguest rudiments of the five senses—into philosophers, architects, chemists, printers, surgeons, steel forgers, mechanics and Edison.

The instincts came first, then the expediences and finally the decencies.

Experience, not divinity, shaped our moral, legal and sanitary codes.

History is nothing but a vast experimental laboratory, in which we have tested the quality of right and wrong, conducted researches in ethics as well as dynamics in politics, and determined the rules under which we seem most likely to derive comfort, happiness, longevity and stability.

We have concluded that whatever is best for the majority must regulate the behavior of the individual.

In no other way may progress be ordered and systems maintained.

◆ ◆ ◆

EACH GENERATION, profiting by the record of its predecessors, adds nips and tucks to inherited practice and rejects manifest error, corrects incompetent method and increases the instrumentalities of mutual benefaction and protection.

Whenever emergency requires it, we resort to the scalpels of revolution and repudiation.

But we advance faster along the routes of reflection and conference.

As time accumulates, special privileges tend to diminish and the presumptions of wealth and power are canceled by common consent.

Thus monarchies yield to democracies—the gulfs between noble and peasant slowly, but inexorably disappear—and the influence of money and menealogy is correspondingly demoted.

There isn't enough gold on earth today to bribe aside the lash of scorn and the knout of punishment from rascality and felony.

Lust, corruption, treason and predacity have begun to discover that jails and ostracism play no favorites—regardless of the criminal's antecedents, political entrenchment or financial rating.

The assortment of bankers, congressmen, governors and Blue Book notables occupying state and federal penitentiary cells together with Messrs. Sinclair, Fall and the especially affluent Pantages, offer testimony that not even the biggest bird can escape the fowler's net.

It took a great many aeons to bring it all about. But considering what little sense man had to start with, you couldn't expect it very much sooner.

SLAYER ON TRIAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12. (UP)—George Western, 50, charged with murdering R. D. Freeman, went on trial today in district court here. Western is charged with shooting Freeman after a quarrel said to have resulted from Freeman's children throwing rocks against Western's house.

America is said to have spent $140,000,000 on chewing gum last year. The figure must be low, for we've picked up that much on our shoes.

Little Willie may have to hang up a gunnysack this Christmas; there probably won't be a stocking on the place.

Not Quite Contented

WHY IS IT that modern America, so fiercely proud of its present, should be so desperately homesick for its past? Nothing stirs the blood of the American as much as a revival of old time scenes, customs and events. Pageants that recall the pioneer days are dear to our hearts; we devote an absurd amount of time to the study of our forefathers' habits, diversions and conditions of life.

In Tombstone, Ariz., the other day they held a great celebration they called "Helldorado Week." For seven days they brought back to Tombstone all of its old time glory. They kept all automobiles off of the streets, resurrecting creeky old stagecoaches and buckboards instead. They opened all of the old time bars and dance halls, shot off revolvers at all hours of the day and night, put on a replica of the famous old Earp-Clanton feud, and arranged a repetition, bloodless but exciting, of the great Modoc stagecoach holdup, which startled the West 50 years ago.

The affair drew huge crowds. Old timers from all over the West went to Tombstone to see it. Some of them, gray haired and stooped, had known Tombstone in the days when Arizona was young, bad and unrestrained. They had prospected for riches in its canyons and ledges surrounding the town; and some of them had become rich and some of them had got nothing but experience out of it.

But they came back, impatient to see the revival of the old days—and hundreds of the present generation came with them, to see for themselves what a western mining town was like in the boom times when the only law was the law that could be found in the muzzle of a revolver.

The thing makes interesting reading. It is a safe bet that every one of us, reading about it, felt stirred, felt wistfully regretful, somehow, that the old West had vanished so utterly.

But why? The old West was flaming and picturesque, but it was also bad and brutal. If it was exciting it was also crude and harsh. It was not, in a way, civilized at all. It had the ethics of the stone age, in modern dress. Why should we want it back?

Well, perhaps it is partly because we're not quite as well satisfied with the present as we let on. We know that we're very prosperous and very busy and very "advanced"—but we can't help feeling that life hasn't quite got the savor that it might have. The men of the old West may have missed some of the things that we have; but, at any rate, they really lived. Their lives had color. They were never drab, never uninteresting.

Modern America is inspiring, busy, efficient—and, it may be, just the least bit monotonous.

Talking About Peace

THERE is altogether too much talk, says Benito Mussolini, about peace these days. The Italian premier, beetling his brows in the true strong man tradition, is vexed. He tells his subjects that it is idle to talk about peace; that there are crises in international affairs when there is no way out but war, and that only folls will suppose that talking will remedy matters.

It is quite true that more has been said and written about peace in the last year than in the whole decade preceding it. You cannot pick up any newspaper or magazine without reading some appeal for peace. It has actually become possible for an American to urge a reduction in the size of the navy without being branded as a second Benedict Arnold.

The question, however, is this—just how much good is all of this talking and writing going to do? Are we really bringing world peace nearer? Or is Mussolini right? Will there presently come a time when all of our fair words will be blown away and we shall plunge frantically into another war, as we have in the past?

The answer, of course, is—it's up to us. We can have continued peace if we really want it. War is never "inevitable." It is never, as Mussolini says, the only practical way out of a difficulty.

Consider, for instance, the situation in 1914.

Looking back, it seems almost incredible that the war should have begun as it did. Nobody wanted it. Surely, no one will contend that the murder of an Austrian archduke by a Serbian fanatic made it necessary for all of Europe to go to war.

The foreign offices of the nations involved, however, were cursed with the presence of a number of gentlemen who had Mussolini's idea—the idea that war is the only way of settling a dispute between nations. So war came; and the world paid, for the blindness of those statesmen, some 5,000,000 young lives.

Now, 11 years after the close of that war, the world is talking about peace. And die-hards of the old school, like Mussolini, are resentful. They are trying to tell us that we are doomed, forever, to go on blundering from one catastrophe to another.

If we are wise, we will go on talking about peace; talking about it in season and out of season, until the closed minds of the Mussolinis of this world are cracked open and a little daylight seeps in to enlighten them.

We can have everlasting peace if we want it. And the only way to prove that we want it is to keep talking about it.

Our Untruthful Drivers

AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS as a class are fearfully untruthful people, if figures collected by George A. Parker, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, can be believed.

Registrar Parker declares that out of more than 30,000 persons who were questioned by his office last year after they had figured in motor accidents, only six were truthful enough to admit that they had been driving faster than 20 miles an hour when the accident happened.

Furthermore, he added, only one man in the 30,000 admitted that he had been at fault.

We don't know just what these figures prove, except that the average motorist always believes he is right. And that's not so hard to believe, either.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXVII

"Hello, Ann Marie! It's Janet," said the gay voice at the other end of the wire. "I'm coming in to town to do some shopping tomorrow, and I wondered if you'd have time to meet me at lunch time. I want you to do me a favor."

"All right," answered Ann Marie, wondering what favor she could possibly do for Janet who seemed to have everything that a girl could wish for.

"How would it be if I picked you up at 12?" Janet asked, "I'm going to buy some organdy for my summer dresses, and I want you to paint flowers and things on them . . . Remember, you told me you knew how to do it?"

"Yes, I do," said Ann Marie. "I'll love to do it for you, Janet!"

"But there's just one thing—I won't let you do it for me unless you charge me just what you've charged other people," the light voice ran on. "And, Ann Marie, I know some other girls who'll be sure to want you to do some dresses for them, after they've seen mine—and that reminds me, I'm having a card party a week from Saturday. So please keep that afternoon open for me."

Ann Marie ran up the stairs, glowing with happiness . . . How different Janet's treatment of her was from the way Mrs. Lawler had left her out of parties when she went to work in earnest! Janet didn't act as if she were an outcast just because she had to earn her own living. Janet was kindness and friendship personified.

"I'm going to paint some dresses for Janet Goodwin!" she told Alice and Jeanie when she went back into the cluttered crowded flat.

"But where am I going to do it?" she wondered, looking around the room with its two beds, its three trunks, its half dozen bags and hatboxes.

There was the big table in the middle of the room, of course.

But that was always set for a meal or loaded with magazines and sewing baskets and cigaret trays these days.

And Neal was always running in and out, making himself thoroughly at home.

He came lounging in now, with a cigaret in his mouth and his hands in the pockets of his smoking-jacket.

"Let's go out and push over a movie," he suggested lazily, and Alice and Jeanie were all agog in a second.

"Let's!" they cried and jumped up from the day-bed where they had been sitting.

But Ann Marie shook her head. "Not me, thanks," she said. "Neal, when do you do any work?—You haven't done a single thing since I've been here."

He laughed. "That's why I haven't done anything—because you're here. It keeps me all stirred up," he answered.. "I'll settle down pretty soon."

"Well, I'm settling down tomorrow night." Ann Marie announced. "I'm going to do some work here at home, and I warn you all that I'm not going to be interrupted. So make all your plans with me counted out."

A heavenly peace seemed to descend on the flat as soon as they were all out of it. She heard them pounding down the stairs, and gave a long sigh of relief.

Then she set to work to make a place for herself in the untidy room.

There was a space against the wall between the windows, and there she set up a folding cardtable that she bought from the janitor for a dollar. It was old and a bit wobbly, but still it was a table.

On it she laid out the wooden box in which she kept all of her tubes of paint and her little brushes and tin mixing-cups.

"Now, when I get home tomorrow night I can go right to work," she thought. "I'll bring home some sandwiches and things from the delicatessen and we can all have supper in Neal's flat."

But when she came home the next evening with the package of Janet's organdy under one arm and a bag full of sandwiches and dill pickles under the other, the little work table was gone.

And so was the wooden box full of her painting materials!

"Oh, my Aunt Hetty!" Ann Marie groaned aloud, gazing at the empty wall-space between the windows with tragic eyes.

From behind Neal's door came a shout of muffled laughter and high voices. . . . The girls were in there, busy with their favorite pastime—"making whoopee," evidently.

Ann Marie unlocked the door, rapped on it, and went in.

The wobbly little work table stood in the middle of the room. And around it sat Alice and Jeanie and Neal, playing cards. All three of them were shrieking with laughter.

"We're playing cut-throat bridge!" Jeanie announced, choking with mirth. "And—we're just knocking Neal into the middle of next week. He owes us every cent he's got, I guess."

They were playing for money.

On the floor beside Neal's chair was a try with three glasses and Neal's green glass cocktail shaker standing on it. Ann Marie had begun to hate the very sight of that green shaker.

"That's my work table!" she said impatiently. "And I've just got to have it! I'm sorry, but you'll have to give it to me."

Neal leaned back in his chair, took a long drag at his cigaret and shook his head.

"Aw, don't break up the game, sweetheart!" he begged her. "You won't start working until we've had something to eat, will you? Come here and sit on the arm of my chair and bring me luck!"

But Ann Marie stood stock still. "Where's my wooden box, girls?" she asked, her eyes going from Alice to Janie. "The one that was on that table, I left it there this morning."

"Oh, that box full of old dried-up paint?" Alice looked up questioningly. "Why, it's on the window sill beside that basket of pansies. I put it there, myself. You didn't touch it, did you, Jeanie?"

Janie shook her head and led an ace.

"Let's see, somebody still has a spade," she murmured vaguely.

The game went on.

The wooden box was not on the window sill. It was not in the room at all. Ann Marie looked behind every chair for it, and under the day beds, disguised to look like couches at this time of day.

She moved out the three trunks and peered down behind them.

Suddenly a dreadful thought came to her.

"I'll bet it's fallen out into the alley!"

But it was too dark to see.

She opened the door and ran down to the street. There was a narrow walk at the side of Susquehanna hall that led to the alley at the rear of the building.

And in that alley, just below her windows, lay the wooden box smashed. Tubes of paint and paintbrushes of various sizes were scattered all over the ground. Most of the tubes were flat and all of the paint had been squeezed out of them. . . . Ann Marie knew that the wheels of some automobile, passing through the alley, had gone over them.

No use trying to work tonight. . . . She picked up the few little paint tubes that were left and walked slowly upstairs with them in her hand.

She spent the evening making an all-over pattern of buttercups for the yellow organdy that Janet wanted to have made up first.

"No use trying to work here," she decided late in the evening while Jeanie and Alice rushed around the room "doing" their nails, brushing their hair, and chattering like squirrels while they got ready for bed.

Alice bumped the table as she passed it, making Ann Marie spoil one of the buttercups she was making.

"Oh, I'm sorry," she said carelessly and hopped into bed. "You got quite a lot of work done, after all, didn't you?"

"Nothing at all, really," answered Ann Marie, and began to put away the tube of yellow paint and the one brush she had been able to save.

She spread the piece of pale yellow organdy out upon the table in the middle of the room to dry.

"I hope to goodness that nothing happens to that before morning," she said with a sigh and went into the hall to knock on Neal's door and kiss him goodnight.

He drew her just inside the door, and put his arms around her. And she put up her face for his kiss, feeling herself grow weak and shaky with the thrilling weakness that always ran over her when he held her close like this—when he bent her head back and kissed her.

"How long are the girls going to be here?" he wanted to know presently.

Ann Marie let out a long sighing breath. "Oh, I do wish they'd go home where they belong!" she said. "I love them—but they've just spoiled everything, haven't they?"

He said they had.

There was a dead silence when Ann Marie went back into her own flat. And Jeanie and Alice, wide-eyed and solemn-looking for once, were staring at each other . . . Something terrible must have happened!

And then suddenly Ann Marie saw what had happened! Jeanie was standing beside the work table, an ink bottle in one hand, the cork of it in the other. Ink was running down her arm, and there was a great stain of it on Janet Goodwin's yellow organdy as it lay on the table before her.

"I pulled the cork out of this bottle," Jeanie explained miserably, "and the darned thing came out with a jerk—and just look! I was just going to sit down and write to Brookie. Oh, dear, what'll I do?"

"Soak it in milk," replied Alice helpfully, "and by morning it will look as good as new. The stain will be all gone."

The stain did not come out, though.

The next noon Ann Marie spent eight dollars for some more yellow organdy, and ten dollars for some more little tubes of paint.

That night she did not leave the office at half past five.

She waited until everyone was gone and the place was quiet.

Then she took out the new organdy and the paints and went to work . . . Here was peace at last, and a place to work!

Blue Law Straw Vote Halted by Injunction

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 12. (INS)—The straw vote on commercialized Sunday amusement which was to be taken today was prevented by an injunction issued last night in the circuit court against holding the unofficial election.

Although one of the councilmen indicated that the ordinance forbidding Sunday movies perhaps could be passed without a special election the members of the council made it plain that there was a possibility of taking the vote at a later date.

Health and Diet Advice

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

Filling the Hollows

There are probably more people with a natural inclination to be skinny than there are with a tendency to be fat. This is fortunate, as it is fashionable to be thin now, and it is much more difficult to gain than to lose weight. The difficulty of the underweights is that no matter how hard they have tried and are still trying to gain a few more pounds, the adiposity always seems to elude them. Rarely are they able to gain, and if they do, they lose soon again, whereupon they often become discouraged and quit trying.

Gaining is not merely a problem of eating more food unless, of course, one has been through a definite food famine or starving period. Malnutrition may often occur, even though one is eating heartily, by not including the right foods.

The normal person has a pleasing amount of flesh over the bony frame. The most attractive contour is that of nicely developed muscle covered with old Mother Nature's cleverly laid thin layer of fat. Exercises do not spoil the contours, as it is well known that most dancers have very shapely legs, since the exercises put on a natural curve along the calf and thigh and take off offensive fat by increasing the circulation.

There are many factors responsible for a perfect body weight. One must have a wholesome, nutritious diet, the right amount of exercise, fresh air, sleep, water, and a contented or happy mental condition. Any of these may prove to be the key that unlocks the golden chest yielding the correct amount of weight.

One should take enough of the body building exercises, the kind that makes the heart pump the blood around in an enthusiastic manner, strengthening the abdominal muscles, and stretching the muscles along the sides and down the back which you had forgotten were on the job. Such exercises stimulate the muscles of respiration so that you breathe in large quantities of the oxygen cocktail called fresh air. In other words, to gain weight one should indulge in the sort of exercises one gloried in as a child—exercises that make you feel like shouting and laughing, all intoxicated with the marvelous well being that surges over you from top to toe. There are thousands of people who find out that they only gain when they exercise and play in the open air. This is the reason why many people gain during the summer vacation, when they have been out in the great open spaces filling up their lungs with fresh air.

Most city dwellers are oxygen starved from one year's end to the other. The blood is never properly or efficiently aerated. As far as they can see over their heads they gaze into a perfect ocean of fresh air, and yet they are literally hungry for lack of it. Without the air in their lungs their bodies fail to use and oxidize the food they eat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rubber Heels

Question—H. R. asks: "Can you tell me if metal heel and toe protectors are injurious to sight and hearing? Do you recommend rubber heels?"

Answer—Metal heel and toe protectors would have no effect on the sight or hearing. Rubber heels are useful because they absorb some of the jar of the walking.

Children's Diet

Question—H. G. W. asks: "Should not cheese and raw carrots and other raw foods be fed children three years of age?"

Answer—Children of three years can be fed any foods suitable for adults. The foods you have mentioned may often be used to advantage when the child is only two years old, but the proportions and combinations of foods must be carefully watched. Send for my special article on "Feeding Baby After Weaning."

Lump in Throat

Question—Mrs. L. W. writes: "My trouble is constriction of the esophagus. I had this trouble a year ago and this time it came on with a slight hoarseness and I always have that lump or fullness in my throat, and the sensation makes me frantic. Have been examined by several doctors and none find anything wrong with throat or tonsils, no adenoids, etc."

Answer—The constriction of your esophagus probably remains because of some local irritation, as you suggested it came on with a slight hoarseness. The best thing to do would be to follow the dieting regime similar to that used in bronchitis, which I will be glad to send you. You must endeavor to build up your nervous system as much as possible by sleeping at least eight hours a night and avoiding needless mental strains and emotional excitement. Osteopathic treatments may also be helpful.

Two Main Towers

Two of the best teams in football bump into a pair of Saturday matinees that should test them to the limit.

The two teams are Notre Dame and Pittsburgh, that might be better described as "teams with eleven halfbacks." The speed of their lines is about equal to the speed of their backs.

Notre Dame stands up in front of Howard Jones's powerful Southern California contingent at Chicago. Pittsburgh will have to drive its fast, strong defense through Carnegie Tech, a hard team to score against. Notre Dame has the harder battle ahead, but neither will have any chance to loaf. This Southern California contest is the one game that Rockne and his staff fear more than any other their team will have to play.

The Far Westerners are coming to Chicago with two big squads that carry a flock of big, fast forwards and big, fast backs. They have all the manpower any team could want and most of this manpower is also fast and experienced.

The defensive strength of Carnegie Tech will be almost as hard to crack as Southern California's. Its offensive strength isn't as good. But there is power enough to put up a fairly ever war against Pittsburgh's fast charging line and to give Uansa and Parkinson plenty of trouble. Only two strong teams, unusually strong, are going to upset Southern California and Carnegie Tech at Chicago and Pittsburgh, where nearly 200,000 spectators are expected. The final results may have quite a lot to do with any final national ranking. Notre Dame now has Southern California, Northwestern and the Army to face on the next three Saturday's, which is asking a large chunk from a team that has already plowed through four or five hard games.

Cornell at Hanover

Cornell has scrapped along through one of its best seasons in several years, but it now comes to the hardest Saturday the Big Red team has tackled to date. Dartmouth isn't the same with Marsters missing, but even without the big Green star, Dartmouth has a world of football talent left. Cornell will find an afternoon of serious trouble in trying to break through the Green defense. It took a penalty, a fumble and a wide, flat pass, intercepted, for Harvard and Yale to cross the line against this team. Neither could pass or rush for a touchdown. And there are good backs at Dartmouth left—although none of them is a Marsters. Cornell will give the Hanover delegation more trouble than it might be looking for. There are few tackles any where as good as Wakeman, and Cornell has better backs at work than she had last fall.

Tennessee's Test

Tennessee's strong team with a backfield that has Dodd, Hackman and McEever, now has a chance to prove itself. It meets Vanderbilt on Saturday and Kentucky later on, and both can play football. Vanderbilt was good enough to give Minnesota a stout fight and to beat Alabama by two touchdowns. Dan McGugin is a great strategist and he can be counted on to give Vanderbilt every possible weapon in this coming game.

Almost every coach admits that McEever is the best back in the South. The Tennessee star is big, strong and fast. Weighing 190 pounds or more, he can punish a line or weave his way through broken country. He has a good running mate in Hackman, who hasn't been on a losing team in prepartory school or college for five years.

Vanderbilt was called on to face Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee in a row. This is asking an armful from a squad that isn't any too rich in reserves. Whether Vanderbilt can step at its fastest pace on Saturday is something yet to be seen. If she can the game will be a toss up.

Columbia has had to face Marsters and the Blue and White will run against another fine all-around back, wherein the "r" is either dropped or silent. The young man's name is Masters. He hasn't quite the brilliancy of a Booth or a Marsters, but he can do about as many things well as any one now in football. He can do everything demanded of a halfback in the running, passing, kicking and defensive game. Penn will meet a hard fighting outfit in this battle, a team that has come a long way since the Dartmouth game.

"There has never been a Princeton team that did not have at least one good game in its system," writes Old Nassau "and I believe this 1929 Tiger outfit will prove this statement against Yale. The Tiger may not win, but it will be a much closer argument than the football world is now looking for."

SQUAD ON EDGE FOR HARD GAME

Victory Means Much to Holtonites

Twenty-two snapping and snappy members of the Coyote Pack will embark tonight at 11:30 with Coach Barry Holton for Lubbock, where they will engage in what is considered the crucial game of their 1929 football schedule. The game with the Westerners is the hurdle that the Coyotes must make if they wish to continue in the district championship race if they can successfully negotiate the dangerous sailing against the strong Panhandle eleven the Coyotes will be considered a threatening menace to the Amarillo title aspirations.

Holton Aware of Import

Cognizant of the vast import of the impending contest Coach Barry Holton has sent his men through a thorough and comprehensive training period this week. The mentor has not included any new plays in the Pack repertoire but he has done a world of polishing up and strengthening of his forces in anticipation of the greatest struggle the Wichitans have yet met with during the season.

Long Skull Session

Tuesday afternoon after a full hour on the practice field in which the boys ran the gamut of their full array of plays, the coach took the gridsters inside for a long session at the blackboard. Here he outlined the plans of the coming battle and sketched some of the plays which he expects his charges to have to cope with in the battle with the Westerners. The Lubbock team has been well scouted by the Coyote coaching staff and they know about what they will have to face when they square off.

The entire squad came through the battle last Saturday with the Bulldogs without a single serious injury and the team will enter the fray in tip top physical condition. The ineligibilities which threatened to seriously handicap the team's chances at the middle of the season seems to have been remedied and the outfit has nothing to fear from this source just at this time.

SPECIAL ASSURED

Special Train Will Carry Fans From Here To Game

According to announcements early last night by officials in charge of the project, the special train to Lubbock has been assured and will be run to that city for the game on Friday. Interest in the Lubbock-Wichita Falls game is mounting by the proverbial leaps and bounds and is being manifested by fans and supporters in a way that is fine to see.

Another announcement is that the railroad will attach a Pullman to the Lubbock special for the convenience of those who wish to travel this way.

Tickets for the special are being sold now and may be bought from the chamber of commerce halls, committeemen, and from the railroad station. The regular railroad ticket to Lubbock cost around $16 but the special rates may be had for $4.95.

Forty Trojans On Way to Battle The Notre Dame Eleven

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12. (UP)—Forty players of the University of South California football team left here by train tonight for Chicago, where they will play Notre Dame Saturday.

The final workout held this afternoon was much lighter than the strenuous scrimmage of Monday. The team will stop for an hour and a half at McPherson, Kan., for a brief practice en route.

Replaces Marsters

T. M. Longnecker, quarterback, will step into the shoes of Al Marsters, Dartmouth's ace, who is lost to the team for the rest of the season because of an injury.

Maimed Sherman Hi Grid Star Is Now In Wichita Falls

Though football is the great American college and high school sport, the game is not without its tragedies. This was most forcefully brought to our attention Monday afternoon when we met and talked with Cecil Bivins, former Sherman high school football star and later player on the Burleson college eleven.

On November 8, 10 years ago, Bivins was playing football with the Burleson college team at Sherman and received a hard tackle which sent him down with a terrible injury. He was carried from the field, unconscious. Today he is a paralyzed victim of that tragedy which happened on a Sherman football field. He has not walked since that day. His spinal column was injured by the tackle which twisted his neck and he has remained a sufferer ever since.

In the last two years he has regained partial control of his arms and hands but he still is confined to a cot. He may recover full use of his legs and again walk.

Bivins is now in Wichita Falls carrying on a business in which he has engaged for the last year and from which he hopes to derive sufficient funds to continue a medical treatment that will give him back his former health and physical well being. He is now acting as the manager of a reputable magazine subscription agency. From this he has made money enough to secure much of the helpful medical treatment he has received during the last year.

Cecil Bivins will work during the remainder of this year and into the next securing the money with which he intends to take treatment from a great specialist in the city of Philadelphia. Physicians in Dallas have done about all they are able to do for him and advise his engagement with the famous Philadelphia medical specialist.

He does not ask alms. No, the once great Sherman high school football star is too proud for that. But he does solicit the public patronage in his legitimate business. He will take your subscription for almost any magazine that is published. His company is one of the largest and best known in the country and handle over one hundred different publications and periodicals.

Mr. Bivins will be in Wichita Falls some 10 days or two weeks and would appreciate the business of the reading public. His worthy cause is deserving of support.

OIL BELT GRID RACE IS RUN

Buckaroos Have Perfect Season Record

Special to The Record News.

RANGER, Texas, Nov. 12.—Only one team is undefeated in oil belt district. Breckenridge Buckaroos, who smothered Abilene Eagles, last year's state champions, 26 to 0, loom up as one of the most powerful teams in the history of the district, with two clever ends, Strong Lone and veteran backfield, built around Magness, greatest triple threat man in West Texas. Breckenridge is almost in. Abilene, with one loss, is virtually out of the race unless it should come through the remainder of the season undefeated and either San Angelo Bobcats, who meet Breckenridge this week, or Ranger Bulldogs, who meet Buckaroos on Thanksgiving, should come through with astonishing upset. However, the Bobcats, in every game until their last one, have shown themselves to be as great a group of fighters as this section has ever known and Ranger certainly looked capable in its 14 to 12 victory over its historic rivals, the Cisco Loboes, Armistice day, of giving even Breckenridge a battle.

That loss to Ranger put Cisco entirely out of running as they had previously lost 21 to 0 to Buckaroos.

Eastland Mavericks are conceded a fighting chance to topple the once proud Eagles this week. Mavericks defeated San Angelo 12 to 6, putting over both touchdowns in the second half after Cheatham had gone into the game and led off with a 71-yard gallop.

Sweetwater Mustangs have almost cinched the cellar position as they lost to Big Spring, 14 to 0. It was Big Spring's first victory but the Steers were given credit for half a win by virtue of tie with Mineral Wells, who has not yet won a conference game. Brownwood Lions defeated old time rivals, Comanche Indians, 19 to 0, and Mineral Wells won from the traditional enemy, Weatherford, 39 to 7, in non-conference games.

BOWIE WINS GAME

Bowie Jackrabbits Down Steers by 26-25 Count

(Editor's explanatory note: Owing to an error in our correspondent's report the Armistice day game between the Graham eleven and the Bowie grid team was reported on this page as having been won by the Graham Steers, by 26 to 25. The correction on this follows).

GRAHAM, Texas, Nov. 12.—The Graham Steers, playing their sixth game of the season, engaged and lost a hotly contested struggle to the Bowie Jackrabbits by the close count of 25 to 26.

Huntley and Murphey played a brilliant game for the Bowie eleven, while Harley, Price, Street and Lislee were the outstanding performers for the home boys. The game was attended by a large Armistice day crowd which got a big run for their money, as the contest was bitterly contested from the beginning until the end, as indicated by the closeness of the scores.

PONIES DRILL HARD FOR GAME

Weldon Mason Is Now on Squad Again

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Back at full strength and pepped up by their victory over the Aggies last week, the Southern Methodist Mustangs drilled hard today in preparation for Saturday's game with the Baylor Bears.

Weldon Mason, crack halfback, and Malcolm Powell, all-conference center, who were out last week from injuries received in the Texas game, joined the squad in a stiff practice session today and appeared to be in shape.

Satisfied that his line will stop Baylor's running attack, Morrison devoted most of his time to polishing the Mustangs' defense against an air raid and perfecting his own defense.

GRID RULES TO REMAIN 'FIXED'

Minimum of Tinkering in Coming Year

By TED VOSBURGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Convinced that the present football code, new fumble rule and all, is proving generally satisfactory, Edward K. Hall, chairman of the national football rules committee, reported today that a minimum of tinkering with the laws of the game can be expected for 1930.

Only here and there, Mr. Hall pointed out, has an occasional voice been raised against the provision making a fumble ball dead at the point of recovery by the defensive side and indications are that this rule is here to stay.

"Some of the fellows I have talked with have said they didn't like the fumble rule, but all they had to say against it was that they thought it had taken out one of the thrills of the game," Hall said.

"Pshaw! It has given the game a good many more thrills than it has taken out. This season has been more open play, more handling of the ball behind the line and hence a more varied intricate and deceptive attack then any other season, and the development shrdlutacata and the development along this line has only begun."

Rosenbloom Is Favorite To Win Over J. Braddock

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York light-heavyweight has been established as a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat James J. Braddock, Jersey City heavyweight in their 10-round bout at Madison Square garden Friday night.

Braddock, who was defeated by Tommy Loughran in the latter's final defense of his 175-pound title, has outgrown the light-heavyweight class and Friday's fight marks his debut as a full-fledged heavyweight.

Rosenbloom is the leading claimant to the light-heavyweight championship and a victory over Braddock will further his claims.

Camels are for knowing smokers!

It's just too bad if any smoker because of misinformation denies himself or herself the pleasure of CAMELS.

New smokers are not always in a position to have a real preference in cigarettes. But when they acquaint themselves with Camels they develop that sense of discrimination that leads to real smoking pleasure. Camels are made so carefully and of so good a blend of choicest cigarette tobaccos that even those with inexperienced smoking taste quickly recognize their superiority. They are for those who appreciate the taste of choice tobaccos, the fragrance of a perfect blend and the soothing mellowness of a really satisfying cigarette.

ROCKNE BACK ON SIDELINES

Micks' Coach Partially Recovered

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12. (UP)—Thrilled by the re-appearance on the sidelines of Coach Rockne, Notre Dame's fighting Irish went through a hard drill in fundamentals in the gymnasium this afternoon.

Bad weather prompted Rockne to decide to keep the men indoors. Kept at home with an injured leg, which has had him laid up for weeks, Rockne had only pictures from which to judge the Irish play against Drake last week.

True to his customary bluntness, the Notre Dame coach let it be known that he thought the Irish blocking and tackling was not what it should have been and the Notre Dame team got a hard drill along those lines today.

City National In Three Straight To Retain Leadership

The City National bank took three straight games from the W. B. McClurkan company bowlers Tuesday night at the Spudder alleys and retained their league leadership of the Commercial players. Texas Electric company also took three games in a row off the Fox Chevrolet company. Sherwin-Williams was not as successful as the first two winning teams and only managed to take two out of three from Montgomery company.

Davis of the City National bank was high three-game man with a grand total of 576 points and also had the high single game with 217.

Texas Aggie-Rice Owl Clash at Houston Promises Hard Go

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 12.—With each team battling to break its losing jinx in the Southwest conference grid race at the expense of the other, the clash between Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies and Jack Meagher's Rice Owls at Houston Saturday promises to be a bitterly fought contest.

Long Standing Rivalry

Rivalry between the Aggies and Owls is keen and of long standing, and a glance at the results of previous games between the two teams indicates that the Aggies should always list the Owls among their most dangerous opponents regardless of the relative strength of the two teams on paper. A striking example of the inspired play of the Owls against the Aggies is found in the grid contest of 1927 when the Aggie eleven, championship-bound and with a record of overwhelming victories over virtually all opponents behind them, journeyed to Houston to be held to the meager margin of two touchdowns by the Rice gridsters.

16th Meeting

Saturday's game at Houston will be the 16th meeting of the Aggies and Owls on the gridiron since 1914. The Aggies have won nine of the 13 preceding contests while the Owls took three and held A. & M. to a 7-7 tie in the other. Only twice in the entire list of 13 games has the margin of victory been wider than three touchdowns and in a majority of the games the difference in the scores of the victors and the vanquished was even less.

Following is a record of A. & M.-Rice games since 1914:

1914—Aggies 32, Rice 7.
1915—Aggies 0, Rice 7.
1916—Aggies 0, Rice 20.
1917—Aggies 10, Rice 0.
1918—No game.
1919—No game.
1920—Aggies 7, Rice 0.
1921—Aggies 7, Rice 7.
1922—Aggies 24, Rice 0.
1923—Aggies 6, Rice 7.
1924—Aggies 13, Rice 6.
1925—Aggies 17, Rice 0.
1926—Aggies 20, Rice 0.
1927—Aggies 14, Rice 0.
1928—Aggies 19, Rice 0.

BOXING CROP IN NEW YORK

Madison Has Corner on Mitt Pushers

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Only a few minor details stood out tonight against Madison Square garden's complete corner of the present day crop of prominent heavyweight cauliflower.

Having purchased from Humbert J. Fugazy the only contract under which Max Schmeling, the Teuton boxer, can box in New York state, the garden completed arrangements with Victorio Campolo, the mauler from the Argentine, for four fights in the United States. The garden now has under contract Jack Sharkey, Otto von Porat, Phil Scott, Johnny Risko, Tuffy Griffiths and Jimmy Braddock in addition to Schmeling and Campolo.

Although no word has been received from Schmeling, Bruen believes that the German schlager, due to return to the United States within a few weeks, must fight here in the future for the garden or not at all.

Bruen indicated that Schmeling will box in the garden's new outdoor stadium at Miami, this winter, probably against Phil Scott, while Sharkey who, already has signed for a match in Florida, will be paired with Campolo in another major attraction.

PONY FIGURED SMALL CHANCE

Dallas Horse Finishes in Great Spurt

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Nov. 12. (AP)—A cold north wind, carrying a spit of rain, whipped the track here Tuesday afternoon as Gold Mint won the Blackstone hotel feature race. Figured to have little if any chance, the Dallas-owned horse took an early lead and nosed out Quick Return in a driving finish. Zacawelsta, Three-D favorite was a close third.

Ethel Sherlock, a 4-year-old bay filly, was booted home first in the opening race by G. May just a nose ahead of the favorite, Witch Mount. Bride O'The Wind was third.

By Product walked away with the second race, a five and one-half furlong dash for 3-years-olds. Red Mountain was second and Ruddy Sir third. Texas Queen, the Three-D favored 2-year-old, failed in the third race and Thelma L., second choice came in as an easy winner. Texas Queen finished sixth. Natal Hills beat out Lady Seth for second place.

The Three-D stables failed again in the fourth race when Triese got up to nose out Calf Roper who was another nose ahead of the other Three-D entry, Prince Pat.

Baritone won final race a neck ahead of Clyde C. in a hard race over a mile and 70 yards. Laundry Man the favorite came in third.

Baylor Bears Prepare to Invade S. M. U. Mustangs at Dallas Nov. 16

WACO, Texas, Nov. 12.—After outplaying and outfighting the Texas Longhorns the Golden Bears are back at home and are getting ready for the S. M. U. Mustangs. Though conceded only and outside chance against the big Texas team on account of the wet field the Bears proceeded to show the Steers just what football really is. Each and every one of the Longhorns are no doubt glad that the Baylor game is a thing of the past for they were indeed glad to get a tie with the Golden Bears even on a wet field.

Stars on Team

Wilson, Witcher, Koch, Paradeaux and Morris are the nominations that Baylor will put forward when the all conference eleven is being picked and it is likely that they all will find berths waiting for them if their work continues to be of the grade that it was in the Steer game. Wilson outshone the big Shelley like a sun in a cloudless sky. He outkicked, outpassed and outran him all over the field. His kicking average was 10 yards better and Jake gained more ground from scrimmage than any of the Texas backs during the entire day. Witcher, Paradeaux and Koch form one of the strongest and greatest combinations in the center of the line that Baylor or any other team in this conference has ever seen. Koch is a prominent candidate for all American and Witcher is practically as good. Paradeaux showed MacBurnett plenty of football tricks Saturday for his passing was the peak of perfection. While the Texas backs had to go to both side for the ball the giant Bear center was shoving the ball back like clockwork to the Bear backs. It is going to be next to impossible to keep these five men off the mythical eleven.

We wonder just what words or alibis the really "Punk" Stacey is going to offer in defense of the miserable showing of his stellar guard, Beatty, in the game against Koch. He is almost as rotten in a football way as is Stacey in writing sports and that is far down.

Powerful Killer

LONDON.—Prof. Leonard Hill recently told the sanitary inspectors' association of a powerful powder, produced by a baccillus, a mere pinch of which would kill a million men. "The toxin produced by this baccillus is powerful enough that one gram of the dry toxin would suffice to kill a million," Hill said.

BOARDMAN ANNOUNCES
A Real Winter Gasoline

Specifications of Boardman Winter Gasoline offer conclusive proof that we are ahead of the field. Our foremost thought in the manufacture of Boardman Winter Gasoline has been to make a product that will give the motorist quick starting, rapid acceleration and more miles per gallon. This WINTER GASOLINE contains no casinghead and is made only from pure sweet crude oil which is produced in Wichita Falls territory. The refinery making this gasoline is located in Wichita Falls and has an investment approximating two million dollars in our city. The superintendent at this plant and his assistants are men of long experience and know just exactly the kind of gasoline to manufacture for the kind of automobiles now being built.

We are also distributors of Ethyl Gasoline, a nationally known product which needs no introduction. Boardman Winter Gasoline is better as the Tetra Ethyl lead has been added to the high quality of BOARDMAN WINTER GASOLINE.

RECEIPTS OF TURKEYS GAIN

Wichita to Ship Half Dozen Cars Today

Approximately a half-dozen carloads of dressed turkeys will be on the way to eastern markets from Wichita Falls Wednesday, according to reports given by local dealers Tuesday evening. Three of these shipments will be from the Peoples' Produce company, and three from the Armour Creameries plant, it was said.

Deliveries have increased appreciably during the past two days, although a great many birds have been turned back because of underweight. Turkeys which fall of No. 1 grading only because of lack of weight generally are being held back for the Christmas market, it was reported.

Besides large receipts from all parts of the territory immediately surrounding this city, large numbers of birds are coming in from Grandfield, Graham, Nocona, Memphis, Henrietta, and Iowa Park. One lot of about 500 turkeys was secured at Iowa Park by one of the local dealers, it was stated Tuesday.

Birds which have the weight required for No. 1 classification have proven generally to be of unusually good quality, dealers said. Buyers of one of the carlots shipped by the Peoples' Produce company were quoted as saying the stock was equal to the choicest they ever had purchased.

Cotton ginning showed signs of permanently slacking off in the county, with each community's ginnings showing reductions which could not be attributed entirely to recent wet weather. A total of 124 bales was turned out Tuesday to bring the county's total for the season to 16,820. Electra lead in ginning Tuesday with 32 bales.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Nov. 12. (AP)—Early offers of cross breds from South America are quoted at prices lower than the figures at which the few spot offerings of last year's clip are held. This tends to slow up trading on domestic wools of corresponding quality and to create some uncertainty over values of the domestic medium and low wools. Receipts of domestic wools during the week ended Nov. 9, amounted to 909,800 pounds as compared with 1,938,400 pounds the previous week.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. (AP)—A decline of approximately $1.50 per bale resulted in cotton market today from a continuation of the recent selling movement. Prices for all positions broke into new low ground for the movement with January declining to 16.91 and closing at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 20 to 33 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 3 to 14 points, with active months soon showing net losses of 13 to 18 points under liquidation. The moderate demand attracted by the opening decline was readily supplied with the market showing renewed weakness later in the day under continued liquidation of old long accounts. December broke to 16.77 and May to 17.46. The active months showed net declines of about 21 to 32 points in the late trading.

Trade buying was more or less in evidence during the day and the demand increased somewhat around 17¼c for March and 17¼c for May, but was evidently supplied by the selling movement, as the demand tapered off somewhat in the late trading. And closing prices were the lowest of the day.

Liverpool cables reported that continental buying had been supplied by hedge selling in that market. Exports today $1,121, making 2,630,000 bales for this season. Port receipts 102,233. U. S. port stocks, 2,475,274.

Futures closed barely steady, 20@32 points lower. Spot quiet; middling 17.00.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Cotton prices today sagged approximately $2.50 a bale into new low ground for the season. The weakness in stocks together with the necessary readjustment with the decline in New York yesterday when the local market was closed were the contributing factors to the decline. January contracts traded off to 16.83 and closed one point above that figure for a net loss of 53 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 44 to 53 points.

Liverpool cables were lower than due and the market here opened easy in sympathy. First trades showed losses of 24 to 28 points and the market continued to ease under selling induced by the bearish October textile statistics and the readjustment process. By the end of the first hour active positions showed losses of 39 to 42 points compared with Saturday's close.

Continued weakness in stocks kept prices on the downgrade for the remainder of the morning, December dropping to 16.72, January to 16.86 and March 17.15, or 49 to 53 points net down. Some support entered the market at this point and prices rallied 11 points but the improvement met renewed liquidation and some hedge selling which carried values off to new lows for the day and for the season. At the bottom December traded at 16.70, January 16.83 and March 17.11, losses of 51 to 53 points net down. Final prices were 1 to 3 points above the lowest.

B. T. Williams Funeral Will Be at Childress

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Nov. 12.—Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for B. T. Williams, 65, prominent stockman-banker who died here after a short illness Sunday afternoon. Heart trouble was said to have been the cause of his death.

Mr. Williams came to Childress county in 1886 and settled near the city of Childress. He was engaged in construction work several years ago and erected the Childress county courthouse and the West Ward school building. The deceased is survived by his wife, eight children and one sister.

HAMER THINKS ABOUT CHANGE

Veteran Ranger Reluctant To Leave Service

AUSTIN, Nov. 12. (AP)—"Well, I won't be happy, but there are other things——," Capt. Frank Hamer of the Texas rangers mused.

He was talking about taking one of the many "comfortable" situations that have been offered him in the 26 years he has given to his state in working up evidence in running down criminals.

He has under serious consideration acceptance of a place that will pay him much more money and afford him a less hazardous occupation.

But, Frank Hamer does not like to think about not being a Texas ranger. He is still young despite his more than a quarter of a century's service in the saddle, out of the saddle—shooting and being shot at. He has never been known to shoot except when shot at first.

This big man who has worn a six-shooter almost since he discarded his swaddling clothes and who can puncture a bull's eye without half trying is tender-hearted in spite of the many frigid hearts he has dealt with.

As a rule he runs down criminals and after he gets the goods on them he becomes an "influence." They generally trust him above everybody else and give into his keeping confidences that they know he will regard as sacred.

Then, after the ball is wound up and they are about to walk across the divide—into the electric chair—they send for Captain Hamer for a last chat. Then, as a rule he obeys their last injunction of friendship: "Frank, don't look on while they give me the juice."

Hamer has never been known to "look on," when he has been asked not to. He usually stands out in the window of the little room whence no convicted criminal returneth.

Now Captain Hamer is thinking of "other things,"—Mrs. Hamer and their interesting children. He has about made up his mind to take one of these numerous "positions" offered him from many sources.

Perhaps he is thinking of that little boy of his—just now starting to school—who had his long golden curls that reached almost to his shoulders recently cut.

Speed, Not Congestion, Is Cause of Automobile Fatalities

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. (UP)—An unusual conference of Chicago university professors and policemen from 45 cities decided here today that speed, not congestion, is the thing that is causing auto deaths in America.

"We have the theories; you have the practice. Let's get together!" President Hutchins of the university said in welcoming the policemen to the meeting, called several weeks ago by the university and labeled as "a conference on crime and traffic and how to control both."

CROUCH CASE CAUSES STIR

New Zealand Town Shocked by Texan's Arrest

TEMPLE, Texas, Nov. 12. (AP)—Consternation aroused in a small New Zealand town, thousands of miles from Temple, by the arrest of one of the town's leading citizens on charges of forgery in Temple, Texas, U. S. A., has been disclosed here with the arrival of month-old papers from the country.

The man arrested was A. B. Crouch, living in Helensville, New Zealand, under the name of John Grey. His apprehension ended a 13-year search made by one of the men whom Crouch is charged with defrauding by means of forging bills of lading for grain in 1916.

Grey, or Crouch had lived in Helensville for 12 years. When he was arrested, a correspondent for an Auckland, New Zealand paper, sent an article to his paper which started as follows:

"Helensville, this day. The quiet little riverside township of Helensville was metaphorically shaken to its foundations last Tuesday when Auckland detectives in the company of a sheriff from far away Texas arrested John Grey, one of the most prominent citizens. News of the arrest came as a thunderbolt to the residents. Grey has associated himself with many local activities . . . he is known as honest John."

The correspondent interviewed a number of other leading citizens. One said that if Grey were to run for mayor, the citizens would "put him in." Another said "We have lost one of our best citizens."

No less newspaper space was accorded Sheriff "Mr. Bingham" who went for Crouch. He was called "the Texas sheriff who got his man," and his picture adorned the front page of one of Auckland's leading journals.

Crouch's arrest was brought about through efforts of J. Goddard, a private detective of Auckland.

Sheriff Bingham told the Auckland newspapers that when Crouch was returned to Temple he would be charged with drawing $100,000 on two banks with forged bills of lading.

The extradition papers for Crouch were signed Oct. 30.

Tecumseh Officers Get Suspect in Slaying

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 12. (UP)—Delmar J. Hull, arrested here for investigation, was released today to Tecumseh officers who want him as a suspect in a slaying there two years ago. A warrant was received from Midland, Texas, charging R. A. Hull and Gladys Evens, two of Hull's three companions, with forgery, police said. Frank Lang, Hull's third companion, was said to have escaped from a LaCrosse, Kan., jail.

CRITICS PRAISE RUSSIAN CHOIR

Noted Group One of Finest In World

Authentic criticisms by many of the outstanding musical reviewers in the East indicate that in the Russian Symphonic choir, which is to sing at the Memorial auditorium on the evening of Nov. 21, Wichita Falls will be afforded not only the greatest choral singing ever heard here, but probably the equal of any in the world today.

Basile Kibalchich, director, and the score of highly trained artists who compose the choir, come from a country whose people have for several centuries reflected an amazing capacity for musical production, particularly with the voice. It is not surprising that such genius as that of Tchaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and Rachmaninoff should emerge from a race of which even the lowest peasant classes evolve masterful expression in music, regardless of the conditions under which they exist.

It is common knowledge that during the years in which thousands of Russians were isolated in the solitudes of northern Siberia, groups of prisoners improvised musical instruments from the meager, crude materials to be found in that arctic wilderness, and thus provided not only instrumental outlet of their innate musical natures, but accompaniment for extensive singing of ballads, folk-songs, and new melodies deeply colored by their pitiful surroundings.

With a body of 20 solo artists selected widely from the provinces of southern Russia, it is not surprising that Kibalchich presents a concert which called the following expression from a critic in Birmingham, Ala.: "Like a sweep of the wind through wide forests, or the rumble of a distant surf under the moonlight is the music of the Russian Symphonic choir. There is nothing quite like it in all music."

This organization, like others of its kind, will use much of closed-lip singing, which with artistic blending outranks in richness of feeling even the finest instrumental ensemble effects. Its hearers invariably are impressed with the complete subordination of personalities in choral performances. Every element of the singer save his voice is effectively dropped into the background, the score of widely varied voices being given entirely into the control of the director.

Members of the numerous choral organizations in the city will have the opportunity of hearing an ensemble which comes close to reaching perfection in its endeavors, and programs given thus far in this country have contained a variety of compositions with wide public appeal.

Tickets for the Russian Symphonic choir concert, which is being brought to Wichita Falls by H. C. Cheshire, may be obtained at the Memorial auditorium, or at the Renfro Drug store.

Excerpts shown recently of "The Hollywood Revue" create a definite impression that this heralded production will prove to be one of the most interesting of the year. Regardless of the varying attitudes which different theater patrons may hold toward the galaxy of stars which it will present, the extravagance and beauty of settings promise to make the revue pre-eminent among screen attractions.

◇ ◇ ◇

Much of the film will be in techni-color—which, by the way, seems to be gaining some favor with producers. One of the scenes included in the advance excerpts was the choral presentation of "Singing in the Rain," rehearsals for which were viewed at Hollywood last summer by different Wichita Falls vacationists. The set used for a succeeding movement is elaborate to the last degree, both from the standpoint of dimension, number of persons accommodated, and the color effects obtained. Gorgeously costumed members of the chorus apparently are reflected by a mirrored floor, creating a symphony of color which was delightfully reproduced.

◇ ◇ ◇

John McCormack, whose beautiful lyric tenor in ballads has made him one of the world's most favored musicians during the past quarter-century, has arrived in Hollywood for the completion of his first singing and talking picture—title for which has not yet been concocted. That fact in itself is quite indicative of the near-frenzy with which producers have rushed into the market with talking-films during these first two years of the new industry's childhood. There has been a scramble for established public favorites, with the evolution of working vehicles as secondary considerations. Many of them have looked like that, too.

◇ ◇ ◇

Why not call the picture "Mother Machree?" At least that would suggest to most billboard readers the identity of the leading actor, which is a greater accomplishment than most film titles can boast. And the name doubtless would tell as much about the story—if there is a story—as the name they will select. Anyway, John and Mrs. McCormack and daughter Gwendolyn arrived in Hollywood last week, and were guests of honor at a dinner in Beverly Hills last Thursday night with 300 of screenland's possible 400 present.

◇ ◇ ◇

First portions of the yet-anonymous talking-picture are said to have been filmed in Ireland, in order to authenticate the atmosphere of Blarney stones, shamrocks, and star-dust lakes. After all, there is really no reason why much attention should be given to story or title, for the show is intended to be, and will be, the portly Irish tenor projecting his magnificent voice to millions who have heard it before, and other millions who will thrill to its sweetness for the first time.

◇ ◇ ◇

Anent techni-color, double-width films, and other innovations which are obtaining toe-holds in film production centers, Jesse L. Lasky releases the following comment. "With the arrival of talking pictures, the spirit of adventure has taken hold of the screen industry. Every unit is developing the mechanical possibilities to the last degree, and the next 10 years will be years of advancement and progress far beyond our dreams. This spirit will extend itself to the speaking stage, for the talking screen will reach out and stimulate its age-old forerunner.

◇ ◇ ◇

"Evidently, the dramatic stage will be subsidized by the motion picture industry. Certain dire predictions that the stage will disappear as the result of the sound-screen are wrong. The stage will remain because the public wants it. This is fortunate, for it will be a training ground and proving field for the sound films of the future."

◇ ◇ ◇

Illustrating the truth of whicl statement, which applies to the field of music as well as dramatic art, many persons who have Fritz Kreisler's best performances on records will drive to Dallas on Nov. 14 to hear the master violinist in person—because it is in person.

LYNCH TALKS TO AD CLUB

Three Addresses Heard at Weekly Luncheon

Preliminary discussion of plans for the "Buy it in Wichita Falls" week being sponsored soon by the Junior chamber of commerce, pleas for aggressive support for the deep oil drilling project, and a short talk on advertising by Nathan Lynch comprised the program given at the weekly meeting of the Wichita Falls Ad club at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Plans for putting on an intensive home-patronage campaign for one week were outlined by Jerry Vinson, a director of the Junior chamber of commerce. Harry Hines, chairman of the finance committee of the Deep Oil Development company, urged that advertising of the deep oil project by daily talk in its favor will prove of material help to those charged with its completion.

Mr. Lynch, who is owner and manager of the Nathan Lynch Stores, Inc., emphasized the need for accuracy and honesty in advertising. The purpose of advertising, he said, is to aid people in procuring what they want, and to advertise goods which are not available, or which are not as advertised, constitutes a breach of faith.

The speech will be broadcast through the NBC chain and will be available through stations WFAA and WBAP, it was said.

NEW OIL TOWN CHOKES CRIME

'Lone Wolf' Gonzaullus Is Surprised at Van

DALLAS, Nov. 12. (AP)—Much praise for the way Van Zandt county officials have handled the situation arising out of the discovery of oil near Van was given here today by Ranger Sergeant M. T. (Lone Wolf) Gonzaullas, who has made a survey of conditions there.

"Van is the cleanest and most law abiding oil town I have ever been in," the sergeant said. "That this is so is due largely to local officers. They will not tolerate crookedness in any form."

The ranger said about 50 "tough eggs" from the Panhandle showed up in Van, but "sun down" orders were issued and they hurried out of town.

Waco Farmer Had Almost Given Up Hope When He Tried Orgatone, Trouble Now Gone

"Honestly, I've been trying for four years to get the relief three weeks' treatment of this Orgatone has given me," declared M. L. Warrick, a well known farmer living at 207 Bagby street, Waco, Texas.

"Yes, four years ago," he continued, "I started having trouble with my stomach and bowels. I kept taking medicine, thinking I would get over the trouble, but I just kept on suffering. My appetite was no good and I had an awful burning and pains in and about stomach. I got to where I was disgusted with medicines because nothing helped me. I was blue and despondent, had no ambition and was just getting clean down and out.

"I was so miserable I just felt like I must get some relief, some how, and when I saw so much in the papers about Orgatone, I decided to see if it would do me any good. Well, it's fine. My awful pain and distress went away after the first treatment. My appetite is good now. I eat hearty and sleep like a log. I have gained some in weight, too. I don't know about that, but I do know that I feel like a new man, and Orgatone is the cause of it. If anyone will inquire I certainly will tell them what this medicine will do. I'm satisfied there's nothing equal to it."
