R-F Pirates End Season As Champs

Rio Grande City Rattlers Strike Crucial Blow To Pirates, 67-63

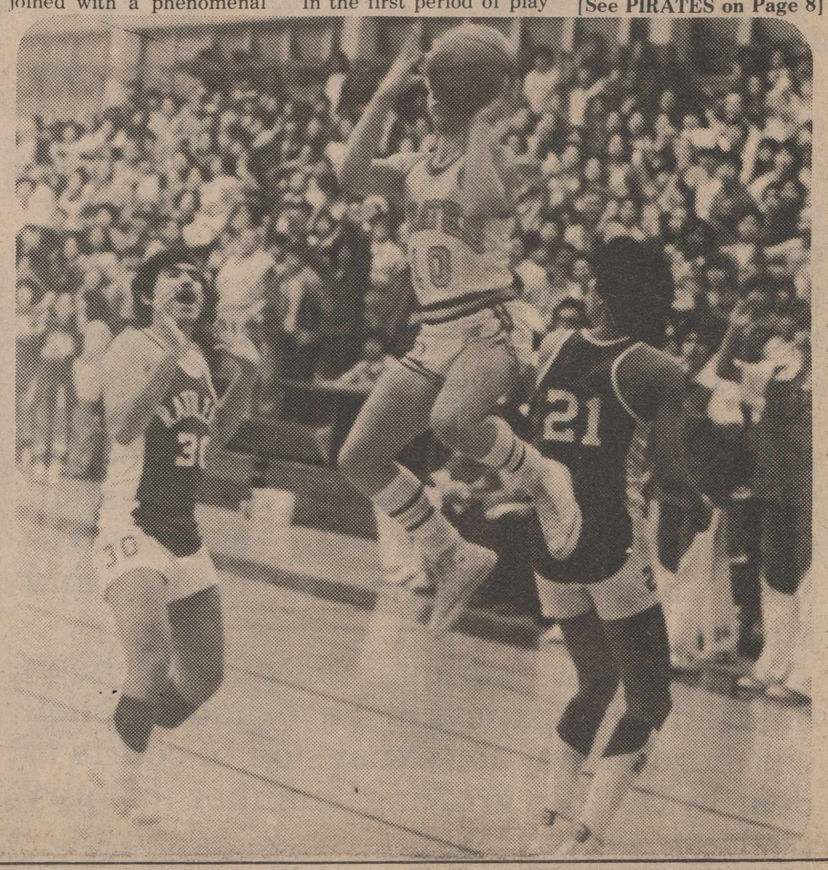

BY BOB CRAWFORD

FALFURRIAS- They say that all good things must come to an end, and so it was with the Rockport - Fulton Pirates' quest for a trip to the State Tournament, as the Rio Grande City Rattlers struck the terminating blow to the Pirates' 1979 season in Falfurrias Tuesday night.

Although the Rattlers were a small team, with only one player 6' tall, they hounded the Pirates, never letting up, and in the end, the pressure got to some of the Pirates. This fact, joined with a phenomenal Rattler shooting percentage in the second half (64), led to the Pirates' undoing.

In the first period of play the teams played even, with the lead changing hands numerous times.

Peter W. Lazidis To Run For Council

Peter W. Lazidis announces his candidacy for the position of city councilman, Ward 1. Peter is the present owner of the Yacht Basin Motel and since his arrival here two years ago has been involved in many civic and community activities.

He is presently on the Board of Directors of the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association, a member of the Rockport area Marine Advisory Committee and a Rotarian. During the summer, Peter also captains one of our private charter charter boats. This past year he was advertising chairman for the Aransas County Medical Services' benefit dinner theater production. He was also boat chairman in the large fund-raising auction ruding 1978 for the benefit of the same group.

Peter Lazidis

Being a local businessman, Peter has decided to run for city council, Ward 1, because of his concern for the direction of Rockport's future growth. He says there is a need for new faces and fresh ideas in our city government. He feels we are fortunate to have a number of younger business people returning or moving to Rockport to establish themselves and that we must allow them representation and an audience for their ideas. For these persons are the future of Rockport.

As a businessman, Peter

Frivolous Suit Bill A Good One

We strongly back legislation introduced in the Texas Legislature to limit ''frivolous lawsuits''.

Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan and Rep. Tim Von Dohlen of Goliad are sponsoring bills in their respective houses which would allow court judges - after hearing motions from a defendant—to determine if a suit is frivolous or unreasonable.

If such determination is made, attorney's fees and expenses will be awarded to the defendant.

In presenting the Senate bill for consideration, Moore said: ''Numbers and amounts of claims against businesses and professional services has risen dramatically in recent years. This bill is aimed at protecting those persons from unwarranted and expensive legal costs, which are just passed to the public.

The bill would also help cut the flow of nuisance suits into the state's courtrooms. Such suits have flooded the legal system in recent years, producing an unnecessarily heavy workload for courts and judges.

As a result, serious cases have been delayed and taxpayers have had to shell out more money for expansion of courts to deal with the growing number of jury trials.

The Moore-Von Dohlen bill would set up a process which would help week out the cranks and opportunitists who are clogging our courts with silly law suits.

At the same time, it would provide adequate judicial review for litigants with legitimate complaints.

--The San Antonio News

Senatorial blackball

Members of the U.S. Senate are not elected to appoint federal judges in their states. The Constitution did not give them any power in these appointments except to ratify the choices made by the president. And yet they have asserted de facto appointive power for years.

A senator has been allowed to exercise an automatic veto of any candidate for judicial appointment in a federal court serving his state. The other members of that exclusive club which is the upper house of the Congress have given him that "courtesy" as an exercise of personal privilege.

Now Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has taken over as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and he says he will no longer allow such automatic vetoes of judicial appointments by individual senators. Instead the entire committee will consider any senator's objection.

That's good but it doesn't go far enough. The objection should never be peremptory. It should be for cause, and the cause should be stated in writing, so that the committee could consider evidence on the matter on its merits along with other evidence of the appointee's judicial qualifications or lack of them.

Wildlife Federation Endorses Government Reorganization Plan

In individual letters to all 535 voting members of Congress, the National Wildlife Federation has endorsed the ''general concept'' of a new Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in the federal government.

A new Cabinet-level department, taking over most functions of the Interior Department, plus parts of the Agriculture and Commerce Departments and the Army Corps of Engineers, would save taxpayers $150 million a year, straighten out some regulatory problems, and make the government more accountable to the people, the NWF letter said.

In the letter, Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the NWF, said his group wanted to ''put to rest the reports circulating on Capitol Hill and elsewhere that a majority of the conservation - environment movement is opposed to the creation of a DNR.''

With its 4.1 million members and supporters, Kimball said, the NWF accounts for nearly three quarters of the total membership of all national conservation and environmental groups.

While not all environmentalists endorse the DNR plan proposed by the President's Reorganization Project (PRP), ''groups representing a vast majority of all Americans who are affiliated with conservation organizations do support the DNR concept,'' he told the members of Congress.

President Carter is expected to send the PRP scheme to Congress this spring. Under the Reorganization Act, the plan would take effect within 60 days unless vetoed by a simple majority vote in either house of Congress.

In a fact sheet accompanying Kimball's letter, the NWF criticized the ''dispersed, antiquated and inefficient organization'' of the federal government's resource management agencies. It estimated that the proposed reorganization would elimanate 3,700 jobs ''while maintaining the same or a higher level of services.''

Under the plan, the new DNR would take over all of Interior but a few duties, such as the construction responsibilities of the Bureau of Reclamation--which would go to the Army Corps of Engineers. It would also assume all preconstruction and budgeting functions of the Corps of Engineers' civil works program, the nation's biggest producer of dams.

The entire National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) would be transferred from Commerce to DNR and Agriculture would lose its Forest Service and the small watershed program of its Soil Conservation Service and the small watershed program of its Soil Conservation Service to the new department. The Water Resources Council would also be telescoped into the DNR.

When the plan is submitted to Congress it is expected to be referred to the House Government Operations Committee and the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee for extensive hearings.

Letters From Our Readers

Dear Mr. Carter:

As a member of the Rockport Sailing Club I wish to express appreciation for your well documented editorial in The Pilot, February 18.

One paragraph, however, is slightly misleading. It is true that boating facilities, including two yacht clubs in Corpus Christi, are located on public property. However, neither was built at public expense. By the same token, the Rockport club has not and does not intend to ask for public funds. The sail boat harbor site has been leased since May 1978 by the club from the Aransas County Navigation District under terms similar to those made by other lessees, boat yards, bait stands, restaurants, etc.

''The value of the salt water pool as a bird watching area'' will not be diminished by RSC facilities. It may even be enhanced since the few swimmers who use the area tend mostly to congregate in the area immediately adjacent to the grassy land where birds are said to gather. The club, complying with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, is on record not to erect piers or in any way interfere with that area. In other words, the club, many of whose members are bird watchers and otherwise deeply concerned with conservation and the environment, has agreed to help better protect bird life.

Sincerely,
s/C.M. Henkel Jr. (ahab)

Take Five... President And Accounted For

By Brian Robertson

Since everyone is announcing their candidacy for the office of President of the United States, I hated to be left out. At first, I was a little worried. After all, I didn't have anything worth saying. After looking around at the announced candidates, however, I decided that hadn't stop them.

In case you're wondering how to go about running for President, I'm passing on a few hints. First, if you don't know the answer to a particular questions, never say, ''I DON'T KNOW,'' Make something up, or, if all else fails, simply attack your opponent's position. Voters wouldn't be able to handle any candidate who honestly admitted he or she was not really positive about an issue.

Secondly, make sure you don't have chapped lips which might irritate babies.

Thirdly, hold a press conference to announce your plans to run for the Oval Office.

My press conference was held just last week, but the only people who showed up were two high school newspaper editors and my wife. Still, the session went fairly well. I'd like to reprint part of the conference here:

QUESTION: Mr. Robertson, how would you deal with the Welfare System mess in our country? It costs the average American hundreds of dollars and there is so much waste through illegal and immoral cheating.

ROBERTSON: Well, I'm glad you asked that question. I sympathize with the plight of the tax payer. In fact, I can safely say I sympathize with almost any plight.

QUESTION: But what would you do to make the system better?

ROBERTSON: Well, I think I'd try replacing the entire Welfare system with a giant chain letter. Then, each American would send only $1 to the name at the top of their list. If nobody broke the chain, the average American would receive nearly $250,000,000 within the first few months of the program. Everybody would be rich and nobody would need Welfare. Next question?

QUESTION: What about our court system? Many times criminals are set free with only a slap on the wrists. Can you think of any crime that might be worth a stiff jail term?

ROBERTSON: I'd like to find those mothers who change their children's disposable diapers and then drop the diapers in parking lots where I have to walk. Twenty years behind bars would be about right in that situation, I think.

QUESTIONS: Mr. Robertson, is it true you have a new national motto which you would bring into use? If so, what is it?

ROBERTSON: I wanted something that all Americans say, something that we all can relate to. After careful consideration, I think our new motto should be, ''THE CHECK IS IN THE MAIL.''

QUESTIONS: What about a plan to reorganize the government?

ROBERTSON: I think most agencies should cut down to two full time people. Maybe somebody part time also in case one of the full time people have to leave early one afternoon.

QUESTION: What about the food stamp situation?

ROBERTSON: I tried food stamps and found they were hard to swallow. A little flavoring would help, I think. Seriously, if my plans to replace welfare comes into existence, we can take stamps out of the grocery store and put them back on envelopes where they belong.

QUESTIONS: If you get to the National Convention this year, but don't get enough votes to get the nomination, will you support anybody else for the office?

ROBERTSON: Sure. My neighbor Fred. He's got a really fine idea on the energy crisis. He just sleeps all the time.

Big, New Four-Colored Stamps Do Not Signal Postal Rate Hike

If you see an out-sized stamp bearing the four-color likeness of a polar bear, a desert bighorn, or a loggerhead turtle on a letter this spring, it won't mean that the Postal Service has again raised its rates.

It will mean that the National Wildlife Federation, the nation's largest nongovernment conservation organization, has--for the 41st consecutive year--issued its conservation stamps.

There are 36 different mammals, reptiles, insects, birds and fish depicted on the 1979 sheet. Contributions received for the stamps, miniature replicas of paintings by nationally-known wildlife artists, provide some of the money with which the NWF conducts its conservation education program.

Collectors buy them for their albums and other contributors paste them as ornaments on letters, books, packages, and other objects.

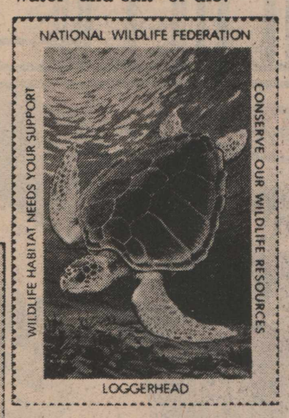

President Franklin D. Roosevelt bought the first sheet of conservation stamps at the White House on March 20, 1938, kicking off a fund-raising campaign that netted $16,000 for the then nearly - bankrupt NWF. Ten years later contributions passed the $400,000 mark and last year they reached almost $2 million.

Three animals who live in widely varying habitats are among those pictured on this year's stamps:

THE DESERT BIGHORN

This wild sheep lives in the arid mountains of the Southwest. Like other wild sheep, the desert bighorn is well-adapted to life on an incline. Its hooves have special non-skid pads, its shoulders are shock-proof, its forearms are powerful, and it has fantastic natural balance. The desert bighorn can survive long periods getting water only from the plants it eats, but eventually, it must find water--and salt--or die.

TURTLE

This turtle once shared primeval beaches with dinosaurs. The loggerhead turtle grows to be four feet long and can weigh up to 350 pounds. It swims the warm coastal waters of the western Atlantic, often following the pull of the currents as far north as New England or as far south as Argentina.

THE POLAR BEAR

One of the largest and most carnivorous of the bears, the polar bear lives in the Arctic regions of the world. Among its "equipment" to cope with a life on ice are elongated eyes insensitive to snow blindness, a thick layer of fat for buoyancy and insulation, non-skid soles for traction, and partially-webbed paws for long-distance swimming.

For information concerning the 1979 stamps and NWF stamp albums--which contain descriptions and biological data on each of the animals pictured--write the National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

The U.S. Senate on Feb. 233, 18633, authorized the suspension of the habeas corpus.

Q. We have just bought what we consider is a dream house that has everything except a dining room. There is a handkerchief sized dining area off the kitchen that probably can be made to look more attractive but I'm at a loss to know how to go about it.

There are several problems. The room has three casement windows that look out over a cement walk, across from the garage. And it is on the shady side of the house away from the garden. Any ideas will be appreciated. — E.J.

A. There's probably always more than one way to make a small, shady dinette into a dream room to match the rest of your house. One of the simpliest might be to provide the color and decorating verve through an exciting and vibrant wallcovering.

One designer did this with a charming stylized floral of tulips and primula blossoms in a sparkling green and yellow on pearl-white, a wall-covering called "Primula" by Van Luit. The light and airy feeling of the room is further stated through shining metal and glass and light colored accessories. The small-scaled furniture gives a feeling of spaciousness, particularly the brass-bound glass-topped table which eliminates the need for placemat or a cloth that would only hide the sparkle and beauty of the table.

The designer added vertical louvres to the windows to adjust the light when there is any and to shut off the outside when desired. Perhaps you could soften the cement walk to your garage by adding a pair of tubs of daisies or other hearty potted plants that would be within sight of the table and to your dining pleasure.

Q. We have a 10-foot space on one wall between two doors (one is a closet door) in our sons' room. They need space to work on models and a place to display their finished work. Do you have a fairly inexpensive solution for providing this? — W.R.

A. One fairly simple solution might be to by an 8-foot long piece of plywood. Cover it with a plastic laminate and place it on two small, inexpensive unpainted chests in which the boys can store their supplies. Paint the little chests to blend in with your room's color scheme.

Speaking Of Sports

Los Angeles — Did Ann Meyers happen 10 years too soon?

Her UCLA basketball coach says yes. Meyers says no. But both agree that Meyers helped advance women's basketball.

Meyers, honored by the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women as its top athlete for the 1977-78 season, helped put UCLA on top of the women's basketball world. Now, she must find a way to earn a living. "Right now," said Bille Moore, the UCLA coach, "only tennis and golf are sports where women can earn a living. I think in 10 or 12 years, there will be a women's pro basketball league.

"All I can say is that it's too bad that Ann Meyers did not come around 10 years later. She put us where we are."

But Meyers, the team player, took a team approach.

"I'm just happy enough to be a part of helping it grow to where in 10 or 12 years it might be there," Meyers said. "I've just got a lot of pleasure in being a part in starting it."

Meyers wants to compete on the 1980 Olympic team. In the meantime, she'll finish classes at UCLA, high jump on the women's track team and try to begin a sportscasting career.

"My main goal now is to get my degree at UCLA," Meyers said. "I've learned how important a college degree is, but it's as important to meet people.

"I've met a lot of influential people."

It's helped her get a job doing the color on a recent boadcast of the UCLA-Cal men's basketball game.

"I had a lot of fun," she said. "I didn't know how good I was. When I got back, some friends who heard me — and I think they were telling me the truth — said I was 'OK.'

"The more I do, the better I'll get."

Meyers said she has been approached by several men's team coaches and was drafted by one National Basketball Association team.

She knows it's strictly a publicity stunt, yet does not feel it's a cheap gimmick.

"I know I would be helping women's sports," she said. "As long as I can get publicity for women's sports, it's not cheap."

Can she compete with the men?

"Fundamentally," Meyers said, "I'm as good as any man. Physically, there's no way I could compete."

Moore agrees.

"Anatomically," she said, "it's unrealistic to think she can compete. Talent and skill-wise, she's the same.

"But things are changing. Who knows? Look at what's happened to the times in track."

Regardless, Meyers' accomplishments are impressive right now.

A 5-foot-9 forward-guard "swing-person," she averaged 17.4 points per game during four years. She was the first person to have her basketball jersey retired and it now hangs in the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

She was UCLA's athlete of the year last year and holds nearly all school women's basketball records.

When Moore was asked how she will replace Meyers, she said: "You don't."

Meyers was a member of the 1976 Olympic team that surprisingly won a silver medal. She is looking forward to the 1980 Olympics with hopes of a gold.

"We've got as good a chance as anyone else," she said. "Winning the silver makes us one of the contending countries."

What the United States must find, she said, are tall women and ball-handling guards. The favored Soviet Union, for instance, has a 7-1 center and forwards at 6-7 and 6-8.

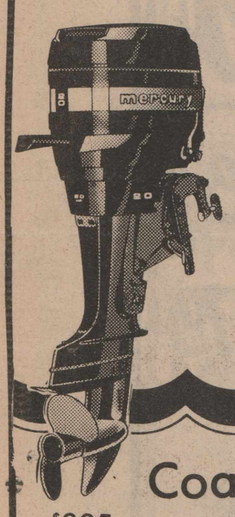

"There's no question we have better skills," Meyers said. "We play more intelligent basketball, but they are more physical. That's where they have the upper hand."

In preparation, Meyers is working out with the UCLA women's team, is on an Amateur Athletic Union team and plays some impromptu games with the men.

Pirates

But as the buzzer sounded with the Rattlers leading 17-16, a technical foul was called on Pirate leaper Joe Brooks for hanging on the rim. The shot gave the Rattlers a lead of 18-16, plus giving the ball out of bounds to them instead of a tip to open the second period. IKn that first period, the Pirates were going inside to Jimmy Cruser, and he responded with eight points.

In the second period, the Pirate big men controlled the boards, but the Rattlers never backed off, although the Pirates seemed to be rolling at the half's end as they took a four point lead of 35-31 into the locker room. Ronnie Lamb and Billy Bechtol led the rush of points scored by the Pirates in that stanza.

The third period was a repeat of the first period as the Rattlers got all over the taller Pirates and took the lead 47-45 by the quarter's end.

Then came the disastrous fourth period, where the Pirates have pulled out close games, but not this time, although they had their chances. The Pirates began to feed Joe Brooks under the basket, and he crashed in with five forth quarter baskets, but the Rattlers countered with an unheard-of 64 shooting from the field, and the Pirates could never get their foot in the door to put them away. The game was tied at 49-49, then again at 55-55 with about four minutes remaining. Rio Grande City took a 57-55 lead which lasted well over a minute before increasing their margin by another point. Ronnie Lamb began to take over, hitting some key baskets, stealing the ball, and pulling in what few rebounds there were when the Rattlers missed. But, Lamb's performance was not enough. As the Pirates made one more gallant attempt with the score 63-61, the Rattlers shook a man loose on a snowbird, and the ballgame was put on ice. The Pirates had had their chances, but mintal lapses cost them in the end. The loss closes out the Pirates as 26-5.

Bill Eliminates State Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Lloyd Bentsen on January 30 introduced a bill to prohibit state governments from receiving federal Revenue Sharing funds, the legislation would cut $2.28 billion from the federal budget for fiscal 1980.

Bentsen is a member of the Senate Finance Commitee, which will consider his legislation.

"The American people have made it quite clear that they are fed up with the rapidly growing cost and enormous deficits of an ever-expanding federal government," the Senator said in remarks accompanying his bill.

"The people want the federal government to begin to operate in a rational fashion by eliminating programs that are no longer necessary and serve no useful purpose."

"At this point in time, state participation in the federal Revenue Sharing program simply makes no sense."

Bentsen noted that, according to the National Governor's Association, the 48 states for which figures are available had an aggegate surplus of $8.9 billion at the end of fiscal 1978, while the federal deficit was $48.8 billion. The same 48 states project surpluses of $4.3 billion for fiscal 1979 while the federal budget proposed by the President projects a deficit of $37 billion.

The Senator also pointed out that, while some state governments are in better financial shape than others, not a single state is expected to have a deficit in fiscal 1980.

"The bill I am introducing would reduce one of the great growth areas of the federal budget in recent years - - aid to state and local government," Bentsen said.

"In fiscal 1970 the federal government provided $21.9 billion of aid to state and local government. In fiscal 1970 that figure would reach $82.9 billion if the President's budget proposals are adopted."

"The federal government will be the source of 23.6 percent of funds spent by state and local governments in the coming fiscal year if the President's budget is adopted," Bentsen said.

"I do not propose to cut essential federal aid to state or local governments. But unnecessary Revenue Sharing funds provided to state governments merely add to an already too high federal deficit," Senator Bentsen said.

Texans Spent Half Billion On Drinks

AUSTIN—State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week said more than a half-billion dollars was spent in Texas last year to buy mixed drinks.

Mixed drink sales for 1978 totaled more than $653 million with mixed drink sales for October, November and December of 1978 adding up to more than $166.8 million.

Bullock said his office has mailed checks totaling $4.8 million to 205 Texas counties and 343 cities as their share of the 10 per cent gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the taxes collected in the last quarter of 1978.

Aransas County tax revenue for the final quarter totaled $22,119.34 with $3,317.90 listed as the county's remittance.

Rockport's total tax revenue for the quarter amounted to $1,312.83 with a $196.92 remittance. Aransas Pass had total city tax revenue (Aransas County portion) of $5,567.88 and a remittance of $835.18. Aransas Pass had a total city tax revenue of $16,978.67 (in San Patricio County) with a remittance of $2,546.80.

Texas cities and counties receive a 15 per cent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks seven years ago. The state retains the remainder in the General Revenue Fund.

Bullock said mixed drink taxes generated $65.3 million in revenue for state, county and local governments last year. This is $11.2 million more than was collected in 1977.

Mixed drink sales in Texas in 1977 amounted to about $540.5 million.

Houston will receive the largest tax rebate--$645,315.80--for the last quarter of 1978. Somerville's check was the smallest, $5.65.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission and the city-county share is rebated on a quarterly basis by the Comptroller's Office.

Vast Improvements In Management

State Treasurer, Warren G. Harding, stated "It is with great pride and pleasure that I announce to the people of Texas that interest income from the investment of State's funds during my sixteen month tenure in office amounted to $185,230,502.02, an increase of $46,726,624.46 over the previous sixteen month period.

Mr. Harding also stated that improvements the office of State Treasurer has made in the area of interest earned for the State and the percentage of funds invested has resulted in increased earnings to the taxpayers of Texas.

Since being sworn in as State Treasurer on October 7, 1977, the percentage of funds invested has steadily been increased from 84.8 percent to an unprecedented average monthly percentage of 94.2 per cent during the month of January, 1979, which is an all-time historical high. During Harding's sixteen month tenure, interest rates have been increased from 6 per cent to 9 per cent, and total interest earned on the State's operating funds has amounted to $185,230,502.02, an increase of 33.7 per cent over the previous sixteen months.

During the month of January, 1979, interest earned for the State from improved management of the current operating funds amounted to $13,963,330.57, an increase of 46.1 percent over interest earned from the same source a year ago.

Mr. Harding was optimistic in his outlook for the future of Texas. "We are the most fortunate people on the face of the earth. We live in a sunbelt State and have a very healthy economy in Texas. We have low unemployment, no personal income tax, the lowest per capita indebtedness and our cities are booming.

"What Do We Do About The Pirates?"

The Rockport-Fulton Pirate basketball team, under the skilled direction of head basketball coach and athletic director Bobby Flanagan, have won a lot of ball games this year and have proved that they can play catch and throw with the best that Texas has to offer.

The fine winning season for our cage teams (our 9th grade squad also won their district championship) has helped to bring one of my fondest dreams closer to reality.

For a long time, other schools in our district have dominated. Only rarely have the students of our schools excelled enough to be "The Best."

Last year the choir won top honors and the football team fielded an excellent team, not the best in the district, but a better than average squad.

This year, so far, the football team continued the building up process and next year's prospects are excellent.

Our fine basketball team took the 15-AAA district championship with unquestioned superiority and now are set for post season match-ups with the strongest teams in the state.

The continuing "call to excellence" is being answered more and more often with our outstanding efforts and with superior results.

My dream and the dream of the majority of our students and parents will be reality when the coaches and teachers in all of the other district schools, including Gregory-Portland, can be overheard wondering. . . "What are we going to do. Rockport-Fulton will be there and I don't think they can be beaten this year."

Regardless of the activity—band, choir, basketball, track, baseball, speech, drama, welding, 4-H, or cow chip throwing—we have what it takes to be champions.

Food Stamp Benefits Can Be Restored

Manuel A. Arredondo, Regional Administrator for the Texas Department of Human Resources announced today that the new Food Stamp law which goes into effect March 1, 1979 also changes the way lost food stamp benefits can be restored.

Arredondo says that households which have been wrongfully denied food stamp benefits or which have lost benefits because of Department of Human Resources' error, are entitled to be repaid for these benefits.

Under the law, households no longer must be currently eligible or participating in the Food Stamp Program in order to receive these back benefits. Households who have been unable to receive restored benefits under the old program because they are currently ineligible, from now through November 1, 1979, may request that these benefits be restored to them.

Arredondo explained that, "you do not have to be currently eligible for food stamps in order to get benefits you lost in the past. If you think this applies to you, contact your local food stamp office for more information."

On Feb. 26, 1964, President Johnson signed a bill reducing personal and corporate income taxes.

GO BIG RED PICNIC

Nebraskans, some 60 strong, held their picnic at the Paws and Taws Building Friday noon, and got in a lot of good visiting, card playing and eating. They also worked up a rousing cheer or two for the photographer, who had not previously been exposed to "Go Big Red" yells from Cornhusker fans. (Pilot Photo by Anabel Hoit)

Nebraska Gathering Is Small But Lively

By Anabel D. Hoit

Rockport winter visitors from Nebraska gathered for their annual luncheon get-together at the Paws and Taws building last Friday, February 16, at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Art Dittberner from Rosalie, Nebraska were the hosts. Mrs. Dittberner thanked the approximately 60 Nebraskans for coming and bringing a large variety of food. Others who helped with the preparation were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fields, Mr. and Mrs. John Collins and Ann Johnson.

Many of those present showed great enthusiasm for the Big Red state by wearing the appropriate red clothing. Everyone also seemed to enjoy spending their winter in Rockport.

Both Harry Douglas and John Collins said that they "keep coming back to Rockport for more, year after year, every winter for 10 years." However, Mr. Collins admitted the only thing wrong with Texas is that "Texans can outbrag me."

Mr. and Mrs. Art Herrmann agreed that, "Rockport is a great place! What I like best is to do nothing. I like to relax and take it in. I'm too busy to fish. You know, 18 years ago Key Allegro was a messy and dirty place but now it is one of the beauty spots in the United States."

SHUFFLEBOARD ANYONE?

The Aransas Pass Rebekahs came by for their monthly bingo game, and Faye Benge was on hand to conduct painting classes.

Father James Hamilton was at the center Saturday morning giving Holy Communion to Catholic residents, while the ladies from the Church of Christ of Aransas Pass were doing their weekly visiting. Later that afternoon the Ingleside Rebekahs came by with Valentines for the residents.

Texas Department of Agriculture-Reagan V. Brown, Commissioner

'BLUE NORTHER SPECIAL'--Nothing takes the chill out of a Texas 'Blue Norther' cold spell quite like the state's official dish, a piping hot bowl of chili, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture's home economist.

'Blue Norther' Chili

1/4 C. olive oil
1 large onion, chopped
1 T. chopped parsley
2 (6 oz.) cans tomato paste

Dash of pepper
2 cloves garlic, minced
4 stalks of celery with leaves, chopped
2 lb. Texas beef, cubed or ground coarsely
5-6 C. water
1 1/4 tsp. salt
1 C. cooked red beans (optional)

Heat olive oil in a 5 quart Dutch oven. Add garlic, onion, celery, and parsley; saute just until tender, about 5 minutes. Add ground beef, and brown, stirring occasionally.

Drain off pan drippings, reserving 3 tablespoons. Add reserved pan drippings to meat mixture. Stir in tomato paste, tomato sauce, water, chili powder, salt, and pepper. Bring to a boil; reduce heat, and simmer 1 hour. Add red beans during last 15 minutes, if desired. Serves 8-10.

Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association

Our covered dish supper on Wednesday, February 14, was a great success with many people staying to dance well into the night to the music of Lee Palmer. On Wednesday, February 21, our program following our covered dish supper will be on the subject of fishing in our local waters and will be presented by Jeff Messinger, who is our county Marine Agent. He will be bringing a group of experts with him and will also have a slide presentation. Our basic menu for Wednesday night will be salisbury steaks so bring a covered dish to accompany that basic menu. Tickets for the covered dish supper are available from members of the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association.

On Wednesday, February 28, Mrs. Velma Stuckum of Michigan, who is spending the winter at Taylor Oak Trailer Park will be presenting her annual ladies style show. This is always a very popular and amusing event and the models for the evening will be from Taylor Oak Trailer Park and Mobile Inn.

Our first group of winter visitors have completed their CPR course presented by the Heart Association. If there are any other people who wish to add their names to the list for the second course, please advise me as soon as possible.

There are only two remaining bus trips with seats still available. On Friday, March 2, we have a half day trip to the missions at Goliad and the Texas Zoo in Victoria. The cost per seat is $7 and on Friday, March 9, we have a trip to San Antonio, visiting the Alamo and Breckenridge Park which also houses the San Antonio Zoo. If anyone would like to take the San Antonio trip and take the River Walk instead of visiting the zoo then that can be arranged. The cost per ticket for this trip is $14. Tickets are avilable Monday through Thursday at the Association Building between 2:00 and 4:00 in the afternoon and on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from Bay Shore Courts on Fulton Beach Road opposite Fulton Harbor.

Each Monday we have our game night with the first game being called at 7:30 and the doors opening at 6:30 p.m.

If you have any suggestions, comments or need information, please call Anne Murphy at 729-2388 during the afternoon, Monday through Thursday.

Senate Bill To Protect Redfish, Spotted Seatrout

Senate Bill 64, by State Senator A.R. Schwartz of Galveston, prohibits retention by any person of redfish or spotted seatrout caught in inside coastal waters with a shrimp trawl during the winter period from December 16 through February 28.

The purpose of this bill is to prevent destructive harvesting of the prized fish when extreme winter cold spells strike the Texas Coast. During these times, the cold-stunned fish tend to seek protection in the deepwater holes within Texas bays, and are then extremely vulnerable to fishermen using shrimp trawls with special wide mesh nets. At other times of the year, the fish are able to dodge the slow-moving trawls, and it is unusual for a trout or redfish to be caught in a shrimp trawl.

The magnitude of the winter harvest problems was evident most recently in February 1978 when a record-setting cold spell hit the Texas Coast. According to Robert Kemp, Director of Fisheries for Texas Parks and Wildlife, during that one month, over 200,000 pounds of trout were taken in Galveston Bay alone, compared to the only 52,000 pounds taken during the previous month and 23,000 pounds taken in February 1977.

In March 1978, the month following the severe cold spell and large catch only 16,256 pounds of trout were caught commercially in Galveston Bay in comparison with the 51,639 pounds caught in March of 1977.

Prices for speckled trout fell sharply after the February 1978 haul, and commercial catches were refused by many fish houses. Thus, large amounts of dead, decaying fish were thrown out and wasted.

Reports of decline in the overall size of the fish have been received by both commercial and sportfishermen during 1978.

S.B. 64 attempts to remedy the problem of massive human-caused fish "kills" during winter cold snaps in Texas bays. No opposition to this bill has surfaced from either commercial or recreational fishermen--with both interests realizing that major population fluctuations in bay area fish can have serious consequences for future catches.

Healthful Hints

Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition

Q. What in the world is pantothenic acid? And is it good for allergies, as I have heard?

A. Pantothenic acid is one of the B vitamins. And, yes, nutritionists say that a lack of pantothenic acid appears to be a principal cause of allergies, and that allergies readily disappear when an adequate diet especially high in vitamin C and pantothenic acid is carefully followed.

Pantothenic acid is also very helpful in correcting low blood sugar, arthritis, problems of menopause, infections, and many other ailments.

The amount of pantothenic acid needed daily varies with the individual and the severity of their illness. (This vitamin, however, has never been found to be toxic.) Investigators have suggested that 30 to 50 milligrams daily is adequate for a healthy adult, but as much as 600 milligrams (taken in six 100 mg. doses) daily is needed when an illness has been caused by a deficiency of this vitamin.

Q. Is it really true that lecithin will redistribute your weight--moving it from where you don't want it to where you do want it?

A. Every nutrition expert that I have ever read says that lecithin does this. Seems incredible doesn't it?

Lecithin does a lot of other things, too, such as lowering blood cholesterol, acting as a brain food, acting as a tranquilizer, and softening aging skin, just to name a few!

Until next week, Folks, stay happy and healthy. It's a beautiful world!

To choose cheese when you are grocery shopping results in foods that bring happy smiles to other members as well as the shopper who has brought home a protein food rich in vitamin A, riboflavin and calcium.

Cheese has been a favored part of international diet for centuries. It has been enough to know that it tastes good. So now, with our added emphasis on better nutrition, it's comforting to know that it is a very fine food, good for you.

Vitamin A, for instance, is essential for growth and maintenance of body tissue, strong bones and teeeth and good eyesight. Vitamin A also helps to form and maintain healthy function of eyes, skin, hair, teeth, gums, various glands and mucous membranes.

Riboflavin, part of the vitamin B complex, is essential for good vision and healthy skin, nails and hair. It functions with other substances to break down and utilize carbohydrates, fats and proteins.

Calcium is needed for strong bones and teeth, growth of muscles, the functioning of glands and nerves.

In cheesemaking, the composition of the original milk is redistributed by the separation of the curd from the whey. The removal of the whey concentrates many of the water-soluble components of milk including protein, fat, calcium, phosphorous and vitamin A. The water-soluble compounds remaining in the whey include lactose, soluble proteins, and certain vitamins and minerals. Ripening of cheese has been reported to increase the B-vitamin content of the finished product.

Cheese stars in many of the world's favorite foods. Consider the savory goodness of onion soup, favored by the French. It's noted for its rich brown broth, replete with sliced onions cooked in butter, and topped with rounds of toast, Swiss and Parmesan cheeses.

Here are some of the most mouth-watering of recipies:

grated Mozzarella cheese

In a heavy skillet, brown pork steaks in butter. Season with salt and pepper. Mix basil and onion salt into ricotta (or cottage cheese). Spoon cheese mixture into oiled baking dish. Place browned steaks on top of cheese. Mix tomato sauce, seasonings and water until blended. Spoon ⅔ of the mixture over pork steaks. Cover and bake for 45 minutes. Then top each steak with remaining tomato sauce, pepper slice, and Mozzarella cheese. Continue baking 30 minutes or until tender. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese before serving, if desired.

Editor's note: As with all recipes calling for raw pork, observe strict sanitary precautions. Scrub all utensils and surfaces which have come into contact with raw pork, hands and fingernails, with hot water and soap.

ONION SOUP WITH MELTED CHEESE

¼ cup (½ stick) butter
2 pounds onions, peeled and thinly sliced (about 7 cups)
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
Dash pepper
3 tbsps. all-purpose flour
2 quarts brown beef stock (recipe follows)
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
6 slices French bread, about 1 inch thick
3 tbsps. butter
1 clove garlic
12 slices Swiss cheese, about 1 ounce each
Grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in heavy 4- to 5-quart saucepan or soup kettle. Stir in onions, salt, sugar and pepper. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, for 30 to 40 minutes, until onions are a deep, golden brown. Sprinkle on flour; cook and stir two to three minutes. Remove from heat. Bring stock to a boil in separate saucepan. Blend hot stock into onions, Stirring constantly. Add Worcestershire sauce. Return soup to low heat and simmer, partially covered, 30 to 40 minutes. While soup simmers, preheat oven to 325 degrees. Melt butter with garlic; let stand a few minutes for flavor. Toast bread in oven 10 to 15 minutes or until dry. Brush lightly with garlic butter. To serve, ladle hot soup into six ovenproof soup bowls; top each with a slice of toasted French bread. Lay 2 Swiss cheese slices atop toast, sprinkle with a teaspoon of Parmesan cheese. Place in 375-degree oven for three to five minutes or until cheese is melted.

The Phrenologist And The Free-Thinker

Texas Recollected

Compiled by Kent Keeth
Director, The Texas Collection
Baylor University
Illustrated by Pam Watson

Phrenology, the pseudo-science which claims that a subject's character can be judged by the shape of his skull, originated in Europe in the late eighteenth century. It enjoyed spasms of popularity in America throughout the nineteenth century, when its practitioners often traveled on lecture tours across the country. Typically, a phrenologist on such a tour first lectured to his audience on the theory of his art, and then called upon volunteers from the audience to submit to a practical demonstration of phrenological character-reading.

During the 1880's the Central Texas city of Waco was more than once the scene of such a phrenological gathering. Dr. J.B. Cranfill, a leading Baptist editor and writer, later recounted the surprising outcome of an encounter which took place between a popular touring phrenologist and the highly-respected pastor of Waco's leading Methodist church.

"In the early 1880's Reverend J.D. Shaw, D.D. was pastor of the Fifth Street Methodist Church of Waco, the leading congregation of that fine denomination in Central Texas.

"In 1883, Professor O.S. Fowler, the eminent phrenologist, advertised a course in phrenological lectures at Waco and, at his first meeting, the hall was crowded. He delivered his lecture, which was a vivid portrayal of the beauties and value of phrenology as a mental science, following which he called for volunteers for examination. One was Rev. Shaw.

"Professor Fowler had never seen Mr. Shaw and had no idea who or what he was, but in the course of his phrenological examination he both stunned and startled the audience by the statement that 'This man is a skeptic on the subject of religion.'

"Some of the audience hissed the phrenologist, others were sullenly silent, while others, both insulted and aggrieved, quietly arose and left the hall. The great phrenologist saw that something terrible had happened, but did not know until afterward that he had characterized as a skeptic of religion the leading Methodist pastor of Waco.

"As a matter of fact, that ended the prospects of the great phrenologist on that tour, so sensing the situation, he folded his tent and quietly stole away to other fields, still maintaining that his reading of Mr. Shaw was correct, though nobody in the town believed it.

It was some months after the visit of Professor Fowler to Waco that Mr. Shaw began preaching sermons along the line of what would now be called 'modernism.' At first his congregations were nonplussed, but the sermons became more and more adverse to the generally accepted views of his congregation until at last, on inquiry, he frankly told the stewards that he no longer accepted the Bible as formerly—that he did not believe in the miracles and that, in fact, he was no longer willing to continue as the pastor of a church the doctrines of which he did not believe.

"Mr. Shaw soon organized a congregation of free-thinkers under the name of the Religious and Benevolent Association of Waco. A building was constructed in which their meetings were held and not long thereafter Mr. Shaw launched the Independent Pulpit, a monthly publication, which he maintained for many years. The Independent Pulpit waged a relentless warfare on the Bible and revealed religion as long as it was published.

"In 1885 Professor Fowler made another tour through Texas and again advertised a course of lectures at Waco. Meantime, his first visit in which he had examined Mr. Shaw's head and characterized him as a skeptic had not been forgotten, so when he came for his second course of lectures, throngs flocked to hear him. While he had lost his standing on his first visit, his scientific prowess had been so thoroughly validated and vindicated meanwhile, that on his second tour he scored tremendously."

YOU CAN'T GET THERE FROM HERE

Rains continue to foul up efforts by county crews to get rural roads in shape. This section of road illustrates what one resident did to try making the area passable. Royce Davies is building a new home three miles west of Cove Harbor, and dug ditches to help drainage so he could get to his home (far left background). A small bulldozer (center) has seen plenty of action, as Davis frequently has to pull visitors from the mire.

Police Report

Rockport police investigated two accidents over the weekend involving Keith Cannon and Robert Louis Stevens, and Robert Aleman and Ruth Magner, all Rockport residents.

The first accident occurred at 10:41 p.m. on Saturday. A 1976 Chevrolet truck driven by Keith Dennis Cannon stopped at the south stop sign on North Pearl Street. Cannon's truck was hit in the rear by a 1974 AMC Hornet driven by Robert Louis Stevens, who was also proceeding south on North Pearl.

Both drivers suffered minor cuts and bruises. Cannon was charged with public intoxication and having too many passengers, and Stevens was charged with failure to control speed and being a minor in possession of alcohol.

The second accident occurred at 7:15 p.m. on Sunday. Ruth Hoit Magner had backed her 1975 Ford out of the Gospel Lighthouse Church parking lot and was traveling north on Hwy. 35. She was sideswiped by a 1970 Chevrolet Custom driven by Robert Ortega Aleman, also traveling north on Hwy. 35.

Mrs. Magner had some minor bruises, and Aleman was charged with driving while intoxicated and failure to control speed.

Heart attacks and strokes led the list of reasons for emergency runs. There were 28 calls relating to heart attacks and four for strokes. The life-pak heart machine was used in 39 cases, and one patient was defibrilated.

There were 16 auto accidents requiring emergency responses, nine falls, four drunks, two assaults, and one each of industrial accidents, recreational accidents, and a nuisance call. There were 20 miscellaneous calls.

A total of 50 patients were transported, and were taken to a total of 11 different medical facilities. POLICE CAR WRECKED

An accident involving a Rockport Police car and a pickup occurred on Hwy. 881, at the intersection of Oak Street, 3:40 p.m. Saturday, February 17. Driver of the police car, Lt. Joe Hinojosa, was pulling away from a stop sign on Oak Street, northbound, and was struck in the rear by a westbound pickup truck driven by Bonnie Lou Helms of Seadrift. There were no injuries, and no charges were filed by the investigating officer. The car was a 1967 model, the oldest in the department fleet.

United Savings Loans In '78 Are $486 Million

United Savings Association of Texas closed real estate mortgage loans totaling $486,000,000 during 1978, it was announced today in Houston by C.E. Bentley, president of the statewide savings and loan association, and Robert M. Dawson, executive vice president—Mortgage Lending.

Approximately $150,000,000 of this total volume includes apartment, commercial and construction financing.

In addition, 1978 year-end figures reflected $442,000,000 in mortgages being serviced for other investors nationwide including other savings and loans, mutual savings banks, life insurance companies and pension funds.

Dawson predicted that, "With the rapid growth of real estate activity overall in Texas, and an increased emphasis in commercial lending including shopping centers, office buildings, office/warehouse facilities, motels and hotels, medical facilities and industrial facilities, 1979 should result in an even higher level of commercial sales for United."

United Savings Association of Texas, with assets of one billion dollars, has administrative offices in Houston with 46 branch offices in the Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, Abilene, Brownsville, and Corpus Christi areas, including one in Rockport.
