Clean-up Campaign Starts Monday

All REA Lines Completed In This County

Eighty Miles Of Line Energized Last Tuesday

Two Hundred And Thirty-Four Miles Of Line Finished In Record Breaking Time

Tuesday afternoon of this week saw the partial fulfillment of a dream long cherished by many rural people of this county, when approximately eighty miles of the rural electrification lines in the county were energized, and Wednesday night saw many rural homes of the county lighted by electricity for the first time. This dream is expected to be fully realized before the week is out, when the entire two hundred and thirty-four miles will be energized.

R. S. Sprayberry, one of the first citizens of Dawson County, to take an active part in the securing of this service, was given the honor of throwing the big switch at the substation which turned the electricity to the first eighty miles. There was no fanfare or major celebration. Just a few of those who have labored long and faithfully on the proposition, together with officers of the Lynteg and engineers, attended the switch throwing. Immediately the company's line men began throwing switches on the transformers out on the lines and the current was carried directly to many homes.

It is understood that most of the wires to be served are already laid and only await the energizing before having the current in their homes.

The Waldo Construction Company, out of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who built the lines in this project, completed their contract Wednesday afternoon, in record time. They dug the first post hole on May 3, set the first post on May 11th, started stringing wire on May 16th and completed the job on June 19th. Usually a job of this size requires about ninety days to the time practically half in two. The job was accomplished without a single accident of any sort, and in recognition of this fact, company officials entertained their entire crew with a barbecue and picnic last week. They put up a total of 4,151 poles on the 234 mile project.

It is understood that Lynteg officials have asked permission from the REA at Washington to energize the entire line, and it is expected this will be granted within the next day or so. When this is allowed, the Waldo Company have completed their contract.

The Waldo Company goes from Lamesa to Seymour, where they have a line to build. They also have a contract for a line in Coleman County.

Clean-up Posters Being Sold To City Merchants

Clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign posters were sold this week to loyal merchants of Lamesa by Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts for ten cents each, original cost, with one-half the money going to the money going to the troop selling the poster and to the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign general funds.

Merchants who buy posters will be inclined to keep them for use again next year, while if they were given away, they might be discarded, meaning money wasted. They may be kept and used from year to year.

Those who do not have the placards may get them by calling members of the Boy Scout or Girl Scout committees of the chamber of commerce.

WELCH SERVICES

Aubrey White will preach at Welch Sunday, as Brother Moore is away attending a pastor's school. He will also fill Bro. Curry's appointment at Higginbotham Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Marshall spent the week end here with friends and relatives.

AMONG THE YOUNGER SET

The Courier is happy this week to present this charming brother and sister as joint rulers of the Younger Set for this week. They are James Leslie and Mary Ann Hunt, children of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hunt, of Route 4. James was born January 27, 1938. He has brown eyes and blond hair. He likes to ride horses. Mary Ann was born December 23, 1935. She has brown eyes and red hair. She likes dolls.

Pioneer Resident Claimed In Death Monday Morning

Death took another Lamesa Pioneer this week, when L. A. Smith, 70 years and 9 months of age, succumbed Monday.

Mr. Smith had lived in Lamesa for the past seventeen years, and for many years engaged in a most unique occupation. He delivered circulars for the different stores of the city for many years, and has possibly walked more on the streets of Lamesa than any other man in the history of the town. At times, some twelve to fifteen years ago, his route was so heavy that he was required to hire several men to assist him.

Funeral services were held Thursday morning at Higginbotham Funeral Home, with Elder Foster officiating. Interment was in the Lamesa Cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, a son, O. E. Smith of La Grange, Indiana, two daughters, Mrs. C. B. Johnson of Detroit, Michigan and Mrs. Kenneth De Shazo of El Paso, all of whom were present for the funeral.

Bryant-Link Co. Air Conditioned

Workmen this week completed the installation of a new oak floor in the building occupied by Bryant-Link Company, on the west side of the square.

This popular firm has also just completed the installation of two giant air conditioning units, which cool their building to a most pleasant temperature.

Lumber Yards Of City Co-operate In Clean-up

In the big clean-up and paint-up campaign, which opens in Lamesa next Monday, the lumber yards of the city are lending every co-operation to the move.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a page ad, sponsored by Cicero Smith Lumber Company, Forrest Lumber Company, Higginbotham-Bartlett Company and Randals Lumber Company.

Look up this ad, and if you need paint or wall paper in your cleaning and painting activities, visit these yards. You will find in each a complete stock of all the things you will need.

Annual Rodeo Attracts Visitors From Over Wide Area Of West Texas

Showing before near capacity crowds, both afternoon and evenings, the Third Annual Rodeo in Lamesa, opened yesterday at the Ball Park on the Fair Grounds.

There are contestants in the city from over a wide section of West Texas, and all day Wednesday there was a milling of cowboys, cowgirls and visitors from other points, to put a very large crowd on the streets of Lamesa.

There seems to be little doubt but that this is the biggest event of this kind ever staged in Lamesa, both from interest on the part of the people, as well as the quality of the performances, and the skill of the contestants.

The afternoon show Wednesday, saw practically a sell-out, as the stores of the city closed for the affair. That night the crowd was even greater, with all seats taken and many standing.

There are two more shows scheduled for Thursday, one for the afternoon and another in the evening.

Despite a heavy shower Wednesday morning, and overcast skies throughout practically the balance of the day, it never dampened the holiday spirit of the crowds who had assembled to see the Old West revived for these two days. Merchants, professional men, clerks and bookkeepers, were togged out in gay Rodeo colors from Saturday through the event. It is surprising how many of the towns citizens can show such a drastic change, once they are togged out in cowboy regalia. There has been much friendly kidding of the "drug store" cowboys, all of which was taken in good spirit.

Although a list of the winners was not available as the Courier goes to press, and officials of the Rodeo were too busy for a statement, it is understood that the Rodeo this year was successful beyond any ever held here before.

The Courier's Big Two For One Subscription Offer Is Gaining In Momentum

With each day bringing the closer, the Courier's Big Two for One subscription offer looms larger and larger as the outstanding subscription offer in the history of the county.

With important events scheduled to come up during the next few months, it is important that every home have a newspaper which will furnish this information. It is no longer necessary for the people of this section to content themselves with getting these announcements, as well as the news of the county, only once each week. With the advent of the Courier's twice a week newspaper, it is now possible to get this information twice each week, while it is still new and fresh, and at the same time cost the reader no more than if it came only one time per week. However, this offer is good for a limited time only, when the regular price of the paper will be $2.00 per year.

If you live in Dawson or adjoining counties, you can get the Courier, twice each week, for a full year, for only $1.00. This is less than one cent per copy, as you receive one hundred and four issues each year for only one hundred pennies. Can you imagine a bigger newspaper bargain?

There is another important angle. With the world affairs in the condition they are in, it is probable that the commodity prices will make some changes. By shopping the ads in The Courier each Tuesday and Friday, you can keep up with these changes, and save many times the cost of a year's subscription, by taking advantage of the savings offered by the firms of Lamesa.

Better hurry however, as the time is short, and the papers will positively cost you $2.00 per year when the campaign is over.

Mrs. Alma Land Named Slogan Contest Winner

Another winner is announced in the Courier's slogan contest, with a chance at the big cash prizes which will be awarded at the end of the campaign. Mrs. Alma Land, 508 South Seventh Street, was declared the winner this week, after the judges had gone through a large number of excellent entries.

Remember there will be another contest staged next week, and you have a chance to win the $1.00 weekly award, as well as the grand award of $20.00 in cash and the second award of $10.00 in cash. The winning entry for this week is given below:

WHY I LIKE TO SHOP THE COURIER WAY:

I like to shop the Courier way because after reading all the ads, I can get out my list of all the things I need in the quiet of my home, and there by save time, walking and money.

Fighting Lamesa Loboes Cling To Third Place In WTNM League Standings

Winning one while dropping two since Sunday, the Loboes continue to hold on to third place in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Pampa now holds first place with Amarillo in second spot.

The Loboes play a three game series in the Helium city against the Amarillo Gold Sox, beginning Thursday night. They then come home for a three game series with the Big Spring Barons, or the Odessa Oilers or Sandgrabbers, or anyway Tony Rego's team from Big Spring now but from Odessa later on. This change was okayed by league officials this week, and after the present road trip that team will hold forth from Odessa instead of Big Spring. Lack of attendance is given as the reason for the change.

The Tatemen go to Lubbock for three games opening Wednesday of next week and return to Lamesa opening a three game series with Borger Saturday, June 29th.

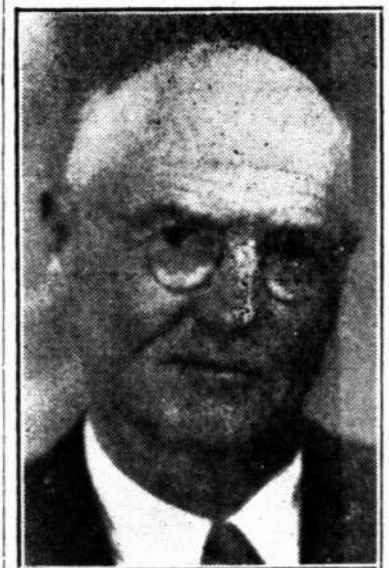

Although attendance at the last

Civic Leaders Are Backing Clean-Up

"The city of Lamesa is only too glad to cooperate in the clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign June 24 through July 3," said Mayor W. L. Marr, this week. "We will have trucks start Monday morning, July 1, to haul away trash, rubbish and debris which we ask you please to pile in your alleys. We will haul all there is as long as there is any. Please clean-up June 24 through July 3 and help make Lamesa the brightest spot on the South Plains."

"I, as ex-chairman of Lamesa's clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign, heartily endorse the movement this week," said Elmer Barren, "I should like to express our appreciation to citizens of Lamesa for your cooperation in the past drives, and earnestly solicit your renewed interest this year that we may make Lamesa the cleanest city in Texas."

Morris Pharmacy Adds Delivery Service In City

Announcement is made this week by Morris Pharmacy of the inauguration of a free delivery service to their customers in Lamesa.

"We feel that this additional service will prove most convenient to our patrons, and we urge that they take advantage of it." B. F. Morris, owner and manager of the store, stated this week.

Your attention is called to their ad in this issue of the Courier.

The Courier Still Wants Pictures Of Washington Regardless Of Condition

The Courier is still in need of some pictures of George Washington, even though scores have already brought theirs in and traded them for a year's subscription to Dawson County's only semi-weekly.

Look around the house and see if you can't find some pictures of the old boy, and bring one of them in for the biggest newspaper bargain of the year. We don't care whether they are a little frayed at the edges, or wrinkled or even torn, if all the pieces are there — in fact we don't care what kind of shape those pictures are in, the only thing we care about is that the pictures are printed on a dollar bill — any old bill will do.

You will never find an easier bunch to trade with than the boys around the Courier office. They've all had their instructions from the boss, to take any old picture of George Washington in trade for a year's subscription to the Courier, if it's on a dollar bill. We wouldn't be at all surprised if you couldn't get the paper for two half dollars, four quarters, ten dimes, twenty nickles, or any old combination that adds up to a dollar. But come on in before the bargain days are over.

Hundred Pipe Line Men Are Scheduled To Arrive In Lamesa During Next Week

Chamber of Commerce officials this week made another appeal to citizens of Lamesa to list all their vacant apartments, houses and rooms for rent with the Chamber of Commerce housing bureau.

"The people are coming into our city faster than we can find houses and apartments for them," an official said. "There is more demand for furnished apartments than for any other type living quarters."

Members of the working crew employed by the Waldo Construction Company, Tulsa, which is just completing 234 miles of Rural Electrification lines with headquarters in Lamesa will be leaving within a few days to supply a few more apartments. Word has been received here that more than 100 crew workers

Rodeo Parade Wednesday Among Grandest Staged In The History Of Lamesa

Wednesday afternoon at 1 p. m., possibly the largest parade in the history of Lamesa formed at the old Band Hall on North Houston street, to herald the opening of the Third Annual Rodeo in this city.

Lead by Chief of Police Jack Phinizy, there were probably more saddle horses assembled than there has been in Lamesa for twenty or more years.

There were high stepping, spirited horses, ridden by gallant cowboys, beautiful horses, mounted by beautiful girls, Shetland ponies by the kiddies, as well as one lone mule.

The parade was lead by Chief Phinizy, followed by the color bearers and the Lamesa High School Band. Then came the horses, as well as church wagons and other vehicles, Dickles Cowtown Band, Floyd Moore's musical aggregation, and others.

The parade drove down North Second to Austin, south to North First, west to Houston, south to South First, east to Austin and north around the square, and thence to the Rodeo grounds at the Ball Park.

Cox Variety Is Now On West Side

Cox Variety store have completed their removal to the west side of the square in the building formerly occupied by the Brown Motor Parts.

This store formerly occupied a location in the Kelly building on South First Street.

Your attention is called to their ad elsewhere in this issue of the Courier.

Gigantic Drive Will Be Started To Clean City

The Earnest Co-Operation Of Every Citizen Of Town Is Solicited In Big Drive

Lamesa's annual Clean-up, Paint-up and Fix-up Campaign, sponsored by the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, officially gets underway Monday, June 24, with the distribution by Boy and Girl Scouts of the city of clean-up, paint-up and fix-up inspection sheets and prety-lawn contest blanks in the residential districts of the city.

Bands will play and citizens of Lamesa will march, when Tuesday, June 25, 5 o'clock in the afternoon marks the highlight of the opening of the extensive campaign to last from June 24 through July 3. Lamesa High School band under the capable direction of Conway King, will get set to march just north of the postoffice at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon. Housewives of the city and others interested in doing so are invited to bring their brooms and join the parade, prepared by virtue of the symbols they shall carry with them to perform the mightiest blitzkrieg on dirt Lamesa has ever known.

The gigantic parade will start at 4:30, march east one block, then march south and around the courthouse square back to the point of origin, from whence it will march north to the corner of North Main and North Third streets, where two Boy Scout halls will be given some immediate and serious attention by Lamesa's civic minded painters who will be congregated here with paint and brushes to give the two buildings a genuine "smearing" in record time. Names of painters who will donate their time and of lumber dealers who will furnish the paint will be given next week thru the newspapers.

Business men are reminded that as the parade passes their stores, one to two persons, clerks or proprietors, are expected to join the clean-up march to the Boy Scout halls.

When a signal familiar to every citizen of Lamesa is sounded at exactly 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the band will play a snappy march as paint brushes begin to fly at the corner of North Main and North Third Streets. It is expected that these two buildings, one of them nine by thirty-six feet in size and the other about twenty-two by twenty-eight feet in size,

In the division for back yards will be a class for first-year back yards and for old or yards over one year old, with three ribbons to be given in each class.

Blanks will be gathered up July 3, Wednesday, by the Girl Scouts, and the Girl Scout troop returning the greatest number of entries in this contest, who remain in the contest until final judging in August or September, will receive a cash award of $2.50. How One Woman Lost 26 lbs. of Fat

Fat Girls—Here's a Tip
 NEW YORK—(Special) In 40 Mrs. Helga Blaug reduced 26 lbs. Took 4 inches off hips, 3 inches off bust and 7½ inches off waist. Writes: "I feel fine and look 10 years younger."

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose 15 pounds of fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent hips and abdomen and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your caloric intake. Eat wisely and satisfactorily. Then after 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Refuse imitations. Demand and get the genuine Kruschen made right here in the U. S. A. A jar last 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

The New America . . .

EDITORS NOTE: The following is an address by R. L. Thornton, President of the Merchants National Bank, Dallas, Texas, at the 56th Annual Convention of the Texas Bankers' Association, Galveston, Texas.

Mr. Adams, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have enjoyed very much the talks we have had, and I know that you, too, have enjoyed them. But the thought comes to me that we might well pause from the duties of economics and routine and think just a little bit about this Country of yours and mine—the Country of your boy and my boy—the Country of your daughter and my daughter, because of all of us it is a matter of great moment. Yes, we are deeply interested in the future. For my part, I never live for today, but always for tomorrow. That is the real fun of living—not living for today—living for tomorrow.

It has been said that we lost our geographical frontiers in the nineties and that the day then was a dark one; that America could never again proceed and progress as she had in the past because we had lost our geographical frontier. Let us analyze for just a moment . . . more than half of the people who are employed by industry today are working in industries that were very, very young at the time of the Chicago World's Fair in 1893, or in industries that have sprung up since then, in this new America.

We have so many things to be proud of in this Country, and particularly in this chaotic and tragic day, that I think we should pause and say: "God Bless America."

We can never quite understand, individually, family-wise or nationwide, just how fortunate and fine we are, until some great tragic thing stares us in the face and we have the opportunity of making a comparison: then, we understand.

Im am going to give you just a few things to think about—things that impress me a great deal, particularly in this tragic hour.

America is young—a youth compared with the nations of the world—and yet we possess two-thirds of the gold and banking resources of the world! Isn't it wonderful that a "youth" should control so much wealth? To me it is the finest thing I know of.

We produce seventy percent of the world's oil, sixty percent of the world's wheat and cotton, fifty percent of its copper and tin. We have only seven percent of the world's population, but we have sixty percent of the world's telephones, eighty-five percent of the world's radios and ninety-five percent of the bath tubs in the world. There's a fine moral, my friends. We are not only the cleanest people in the world bodily; we are the cleanest people in the world mentally. There, within itself, is a fine philosophy. The mere fact that we may possess ninety-five percent of the world's bath tubs isn't the philosophy of the thing, nor the fineness of the thing. It does mean that we are the cleanest and finest people in the world, both physically and mentally. So it means more than a bath tub.

Just at the turn of the century, forty years ago when I was young and some of you were young, there was only one automobile to every ninety-five hundred people. Today there is one automobile to every four or five people. In the General Motors Parade of Progress, a vision of the new city of tomorrow, they estimate that by 1960 there will be twice as many automobiles on the highways as there are today. The new "Dream City of 1960" is a fabulous thing to look at. If you haven't seen it, go see it by all means.

In less than ten years, in this great New America of ours, we have reduced the average cost per horsepower per car from about twenty-two and a half to about seven and a half dollars.

At the beginning of the century we had about a million and a half telephones in this Country. Now, we have nineteen million. Wonderful! No country in the world but this young, New America could make such scientific and economic strides.

Two-thirds of our houses are wired for electricity; forty-two percent have electric clocks; thirty to forty percent have electric refrigeration—no more lowering of the buttermilk into the well; now they put it in the electric refrigerator. It has been said that with all this luxury we are raising a generation of spendthrifts. That challenges my thought, because as a previous speaker on this program said, there is no substitute for some of the basic fundamentals.

But let's see if we are raising a nation of spendthrifts. Notwithstanding that we have laid aside the old clock—notwithstanding that we no longer lower the buttermilk into the well to cool it—let's see if we really are raising a nation of spendthrifts. Out of the 132,000,000 people in this Country, we have 41,000,000 savings accounts—nearly a third of the population of the United States has a savings account. The true fundamental test of frugality is the will and the ability to save. And the United States has 41,000,000 savings depositors—more than all the countries of Europe combined! Yet, I sometimes think of my children, and you may sometimes say to yours, "You are just growing up to spend money." Occasionally I think that way too, but these figures refute the thought. 41,000,000 savings accounts, I say, is something that is a challenge not only to the New America, but a challenge to all mankind and womankind in every country of the world.

In this country of ours we have between eighty and ninety billions of ordinary life insurance in force—a fabulous sum for the mind to comprehend. What does it mean? It does not necessarily mean a new wealth, but it does mean a per capita distribution of wealth which will maintain the American family with the highest per capita purchasing power. The thing that challenges me is the fact that these policies are held by 33,000,000 Americans. And here is the thing that challenges the world—this eighty to ninety billion in ordinary life insurance, sixty percent is held by persons with incomes of less than five thousand dollars a year. These are startling figures and a startling statement that can be made by only one country in all the world. Imagine sixty percent of this eighty or ninety billion in ordinary life insurance that goes to your family and mine and your children and mine, held by people with an annual income of less than five thousand dollars. I had exactly on opposite opinion. I marvel at the facts and I marvel at the statement. All of which means simply this again . . . that we sit down into the great masses of the people a higher per capita wealth and a higher per capita purchasing power. It means more than the economic aspects of the thing . . . it means that we sit down to these same women, these same men and these same fine children the one greatest thing in the land—happiness—happiness—happiness.

American business is spending two hundred million annually for various research in applied sciences and other discoveries. Think of that. We lost our geographical frontiers in the nineties and yet American business is doing what? Spending two hundred million annually in creating the greatest frontier that ever was created in the history of the world—the frontier of applied science.

Let us see what has been done. In the Parade of Progress I noticed the other day, Nath—old Nath and myself, you know, we are good friends—we are about the same age and we have a lot in common. Haven't we Nath?

Mr. Adams: "That is right."

Anyhow, at the Parade of Progress we had a skein of yarn made out of skimmed milk.

All my life we have been throwing away the skimmed milk, trying to save the cream. Well, there was a tie made of skimmed milk, and a coat made of skimmed milk, and a dress for your wife and another for your darling daughter, all made of skimmed milk in that new world—this Country, truly my friends, has just begun. With this great field of science just opening up—when they can take skimmed milk and clothe a family with something that would hardly support a family with something that would hardly support a pig in the old days, why should we worry?

I want to tell you another little story. While I was riding along a highway in Mississippi, not long ago, we passed wagon after wagon loaded with pine stumps. All my life I had tried to get pine stumps out of the way because to me they were utterly worthless. I turned to my host and said, "Where are they taking all those stumps?" "Why," he replied, "they are taking them to market to sell. Pine stumps are one of the biggest crops we have. I'll show you what happens in a moment." Then he drove me to the Hercules Powder Company where they were taking these old pine stumps, four or five years old, and turing them out in four or five different products. That's the New America. And just a short while ago, all through our country, I think you will agree that an old pine stump four or five years old was just about the sorriest asset you could own. But in this new field of science, in the new frontier of America, it is a valuable crop.

Here's another one right in line: A man came into my office the other day and wanted to borrow some money. "For what?" I asked. "I am in the cactus business," he said. "In the cactus business?" I exclaimed. "As a boy I put in half my time cutting them down!" And then he told me this story: "My wife got the idea and started the business. I brought a lot of cactus to Dallas and wanted to sell Woolworth's, but they wouldn't buy them. I finally persuaded their buyer to accept the cactus on consignment and send me the money after they were sold. The very next day Woolworth sent for another lot." That's New America! And for a hundred years in this country you wouldn't have given five cents for all the cactus in the West. Now they put them in a little red pot and folks all over the world buy them. New America.

Another incident that impressed me a lot, happened the other day. A certain man came in to see me and said, "I made two resolutions on the first of the year." "That's so" said I, "what are they?" "To work less and to spend more of my money he answered. That interested me, so I asked what business he was in. "Fried Chicken," he replied, "Well," I said, "I see nothing so wonderful about that. My mother did that a long, long time ago." "Yes, I know," he countered, "but I fry chickens—a lot of chickens. Last year I fried 785,000 and this year I'll fry a million." "What!" I exclaimed, "you fried 785,000 chickens?" "That's right," he said, "I'll fry a million chickens, and I will make a hundred thousand dollars a year frying chickens, and I started in the business with $280.00." That is New America. But the remarkable thing is that it was actually true. Fried chicken had been a prime dish in Texas ever since I can remember. I couldn't see any thing so unusual or wonderful about frying a chicken—but frying a million of them—that was something! So I asked this man to tell me more of his business. "Well," he said, "there is the big idea: I don't fry them any better, but I fry a better chicken." New America! "It must be fed a certain way," he went on, "it must only live a certain number of days before I fry it." That belongs to then science in New America. A business that we wouldn't think would make anybody a lot of money makes a hundred thousand dollars for a man who made two resolutions on the first of the year—to spend more of what he made and to work less. How would you like to go into the fried chicken business, boys? But that is New America—that is New America! It is here, it is yonder; it is something that didn't happen yesterday, but is happening today. We are a progressive people and all progressive people are restless. We are always moving and pushing forward whether on the dance floor or in the office, because this is the life of New America.

In TEN YEARS of depression we've come to think of business as idling, private enterprise stymied, progress retarded. Yet here are some of the things we take for granted today that we didn't have or hadn't begun to use, as short a time ago as 1929:

Streamlined trains. Television. Transoceanic passenger air service. Synthetic rubber. Fluorescent lighting. Colored home movies. New plywood, stronger than steel. Half a dozen new plastics and rasins. Polarized glass. Glass building blocks. Fiber glass for insulation and textiles. Synthetic hosiery replacing silk. Synthetic vitamins and hormones. Sulfanilamide and sulphyridine, drugs that kill deadly body germs.

Don't ever believe the country's future lies behind it. Inventive genius and business enterprise never stand still.

Let me say to you again, my friends, in this, perhaps the world's most tragic day, as you and I sit here, our families are back home and our investments are in this Country, although we all may not be happy with the way it is run (and John Shary will agree with me in this statement), but be that as it may, our families are safer under the American Flag and our investments are safer under the American Flag than any country in the world. And it will be that way as long as we continue as we have with the blood of Americans in our veins. In America we possess a heritage in many ways, but our heritage that no nation, no dictator and no power can take—and that's the blood of the true America, I thank you.

KEY HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET JUNE 14

Cooperation is necessary in any movement in order that it may function smoothly, said Mrs. Sprabury, president of the Key Home Demonstration Club, Friday, June 14, in the home of Mrs. E. J. Smith. She gave out list of foods to be furnished by each member for use at the banquet to be held soon for the home demonstration club members and their families.

Miss Phenix was unable to be present for her regular program. A business meeting was held.

Mrs. R. H. Weeks was appointed reporter, and articles needed for the equipment of a center for making mattresses were collected.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. J. S. Allen. Mrs. Allen is sponsor for the girls so it will be necessary that this meeting be held Thursday, June 27, in order that it may not conflict with the Girls Clothing Rally which is to be held June 28th. All members are urged to be present and bring visitors.—Reporter.

Texans Should Look To Highway Improvements

Texans are thinking too much about guns and planes for defense and not enough about adequate and durable highways. Lynn Shaw, manager of the Texas Motor Transportation Association declared today.

With the state of Texas situated as it is beside the only foreign neighbor which conceivably could be a base for hostilities against this country, roads for defense are absolutely necessary, he said, pointing out that the war department recently designated 5,700 miles of Texas highways as important military roads.

With the trucker rapidly becoming the backbone of army supply, roads, which have always been determining factors in military victory, are becoming increasingly important.

From Texas, if not actually the center of conflict, must come much of the supplies for the war machine of the United States, and in peace or war, roads are necessary for preparedness and united effort, whether it be directed toward economic improvement or a common enemy.

Clean-Up—

Continued from Page One will be painted in record time of between twenty and forty minutes. In a similar clean-up, paint-up and fix-up campaign in another city a few years ago, thirty-four painters completely painted a two-story house in twenty-two minutes. IT CAN BE DONE IN LAMESA!

Activities each day of the campaign are listed below:

Monday, June 24
Distribution of Inspection sheets and Pretty-Lawn Contest Blanks. Boy Scout troops of Lamesa will flood the residential districts with clean-up, paint-up and fix-up inspection sheets. These sheets will be distributed equally between the three troops through their scoutmasters and on Wednesday, July 3, the blanks will be gathered up by the boys. Each troop will be expected to keep a list of the names of the housewives where blanks are delivered and will pick up only those they deliver Monday, June 24. The troop which returns to their scoutmaster the most completed inspection sheets, showing the best results, will receive a cash award of $2.50.

Tuesday, June 25
Special Paint-Up Day. Folks, Paint-Up! Join the big parade at 4:30 Tuesday evening.

Wednesday, June 26
Nail Pick-Up Day!! To the boy or girl who brings the most pounds of nails to the northwest corner of the court-house square between the hours of ten and eleven a. m. will go a $2 cash prize. The nails must have been gathered from streets, yards, driveways and other places where they might cause damage, and must be rusty or bent to show they have not come from lumber yards unused. Please bring them in packs containing not more than 20 pounds each so they may be weighed on hand-scales. Someone will be stationed at the northwest corner of the courthouse square between the hours of ten and eleven a. m. Wednesday, June 26, to weigh nails brought there by boys and girls.

Thursday, June 27
Fire Inspection Day. A committee composed of firemen and insurance men will inspect business houses of the city for fire hazards that possibly exist. Merchants and others whose places may be inspected for fire hazards or for unsafe staircases or awnings are asked to cooperate fully. Statements by James Sumpter, fire chief and chairman of the fire prevention and safety committee, and by Jack Phinizy, fire marshal, may be found in another part of this paper.

Friday, June 28
Tin Can Roundup Day. Kids of the city are asked to round up all stray tin-cans. Possible details of this day's activities will appear in the newspapers early next week, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, July 1, 2, 3.

Do You Know Texas?

A reader of this newspaper can get the answer to any question of fact by writing A. Garland Adair, Curator of Patriotic Exhibits, Texas Memorial Museum, Austin, Texas.

Q. What is the most unique reason given by an appraiser for the value placed upon land which is of record in the General Land Office?

A. Most of the grants in Texas made by Spain in 1810 contained some interesting reasons for the values placed upon the lands. Probably the most unique is the one given for a valuation in the Augustine San Miguel Grant (1810) of 2,479 acres in Nacogdoches County. The appraiser said: "Having noted well the condition of the lands and the epidemic, which is almost general in this jurisdiction, of ticks, horse flies, screw worms, and tumble bugs, I have decided that the most it could be worth is five dollars for the entire tract." Commissioner Bascom Giles invites interested persons to inspect these Spanish Archives.

Q. How did Weslaco derive its name?

A. Raymond M. Gilmore, publisher of the Weslaco News answers as follows: "The W. E. Stewart Land Company promoted the town and land sales surrounding. They decided to build a town, and the name was taken from letters in the company name, like this: W. E. Stewart Land Company. W e s t w a c o. METAPHOR: "The thorny tree of Feudalism bore its fruit in the milk white blossoms of chivalry, which shed its perfume upon the history and traditions of a country, whose unwritten law of courtesy and honor have become the heritage of mankind."—Dudley G. Wooten. (Metaphor printed as recalled by his brother, Dr. Joe S. Wooten.)

Q. How many courses are offered in the University of Texas?

A. Forty-four subjects and 1,241 classes.

Q. How many nations were on the side of the allies in the World War of 1914-1918?

A. There were twenty-three nations on the side of the allies, including the United States which was the thirteenth to enter. Twenty-three years after the Armistice there is on display in the Texas Memorial Museum at Austin, 23 flags, representing the allied powers. The central powers in that war numbered seven.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Guano, one of the richest of fertilizers, is being tested by the Texas Game Department's chief aquatic biologist, as a fertilizer for hatchery ponds.

Wild house cats can attain immense size. One killed recently in Pennsylvania weighed 26 pounds and had a full grown rabbit in its mouth.

The gestation period of deer is about seven months.

Twenty more game wardens were recently hired by California, making a total of 210 Texas has eighty.

The front half of a female Rio Grande perch, natives of South Texas, changes from a grayish color with bluish dots to a pure white during the spawning season.

Deer are ruminant, and chew their cud the same as a cow. Swallows unlike most birds, travel by day when migrating due to the fact that they feed on the wing.

Eagles often build nests six feet across. Many of these have been found by Texas Game Wardens biologists.

Sponges, believe it or not, are classes as animals.

The emu is one species of birds in which the male hatches the eggs. There is no restriction upon the length of time venison may be kept in possession in Texas.

An ounce of sulphur, mixed with a little alcohol and rubbed on the body and legs will help keep chiggers away. Hyposulfite of soda, applied the same way, is also said to be effective.

GAR RODEOS LATEST SPORT
The campaign of the State Game Department to get sportsmen to fishing for gar is bearing fruit. In fact, it is catching on at such a surprising rate that several cities are now planning gar rodeos, believe it or not!

And gar fishing with a simple noose of No. 30 hair wire is guaranteed to be as sporting a proposition as you will find in Texas waters. Veteran bass fishermen have been known to desert that sport and go in for gar angling almost exclusively. Fishing with a light tackle adds to the sport, but any kind of line and pole, from a flyrod to a bamboo pole, can be used.

The sport is not as simple as it sounds. The first time or two out the fisherman misses about five times as many gar as he catches, but when he gets the knack of jerking the noose closed around the gar's snout then he is really having fun. When you find a concentration of gar it isn't many minutes between bites, whether you catch gar or not.

The Game Department is urging anglers to fish for gar, not only for the thrilling sport that is in it, but because every gar taken out of the water saves many game fish.

A request to the Game Department Austin, will bring a free leaflet detailing how to make the noose and how to fish for gar.

Only four copies of one of the earliest books printed in America, Fray Juan de Zumarraga's "Regla Christiana," are known. A perfect copy is in the Latin-American Collection in the University of Texas library.
