Four Rural Accidents Investigated Monday

A rash of minor accidents plagued the area Monday and kept Highway Patrolman Gene Sisemore busy with investigations and reports. Four occurred within a 15 1/2 hour period, three of which were on U. S. 84 northwest of town. The other was on FM 1760 off Highway 84.

The first of the day-long series of wrecks was at 1:50 a.m. when a 1955 Chevrolet being driven by James Alfred Smith, Cannon Air Force Base, hit a horse on the highway approximately 3 miles out. The impact killed the animal and VIETNAM---Red Cross recreation worker, Glenna Sheeran, adds a smile and a touch of back home to a refreshing drink for the servicemen before putting on a program of entertainment for the soldiers. Red Cross men and women are assigned with servicemen near the combat zone in hospitals and with major military organizations where American servicemen are stationed around the world. The American Red Cross receives support from the local United Fund, therefore Bailey County residents have an active part in the vital role in Vietnam.

Industrial Prospect Views City

Members of the Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation met with the second garment manufacturer prospect here Monday. The company president lunched with MAIF members then was taken on a tour of the city and to available buildings within the city.

A session with the representatives was attended by Superintendent of Schools Neal Dillman, and chairmen of four teams of MAIF. They were chairmen of transportation, labor, finance sites and buildings.

Information was supplied on request and readily available through the teams being formed by MAIF and each team knowing what their duty is and being ready to provide facts for prospects.

Buildings shown were to be used for the purpose of conducting a training program for future employees of the factory, should it locate here.

The representative came to Muleshoe from Canyon and went on to look over sites and the cities of Littlefield, Levelland and Lubbock. As is always the case, Muleshoe is one of the several towns under consideration for the factory location.

The representative said the factory would employ a small number in the beginning, but would have an employment potential of 200 women. The company is located in New Jersey and this is their first venture toward moving to Texas.

Garon, Inc., a Starkville, Miss., garment manufacturer was the first prospect to consider Muleshoe for industrial location.

Harmon Elliott, chairman of the board of MAIF said "It seems now that the chances of this prospect locating here is remote. No commitment has been received from the owners and indications are that they have abandoned the idea of moving to Texas or further west, unless they locate near the west coast."

"In working with the Industrial Foundation, we have learned that one thing that is hard, competition-wise, is some states have Indian Reservations and when industry locates near a Reservation, the government pays one-half the labor costs.

Contest Winners

Darrell Oliver and Mike Perez, Jr. tied for first place in the last Journal football contest, with each missing two games and having a 12-point spread between the Muleshoe vs Morton game.

Prize money and points will be divided between the two contestants.

Martha E. Pannell won second place with a 13-point spread on the games.

Among the runners-up were Jim Mardis and Larry Hensley. Missing three games were Jack Milburn, Owen Jones, Harrell Pruitt, Adele Thompson, Jerry Haskins, Tony Perez, Jim Small, G. S. Chapman, Hattie Ray Jones, Kenneth Hicks, Marilyn Engleking, and Bo Bryant, Dimmitt.

Banks and Saving and Loan Associations are showing a marked increase in deposits over last year. This trend is prevalent throughout the Plains area, reports show.

At the close of business October 4, a combined total of deposits from Muleshoe State Bank and First National Bank stand at $12,513,390.05 compared to a combined total of $10,486,551.05 deposited at the third quarter bank call last year. This is an increase of $2,026,839.00. For both banks, the 1967 total of loans and discounts stands at $7,272,589.57 compared to $7,316,991.93 last year, a decrease of $44,402.36. Total assets for the two Muleshoe banks are $13,889,581.25 this year compared to $12,066,385.11 which is an increase in assets of $1,823,196.14.

This general increase has been noted over a large portion of the area since the June bank call. Some bankers attribute the increase to the payment of diverted acreage which varied over the area, while Bailey County farmers received near $7 million dollars from USDA on price support and diverted acreage payments.

Sudan's First National Bank had $2,788,697.87 on deposit at the close of business October 4 and loans and discounts of $1,292,035.73 compared to the September, 1966 call showing $2,543,088.23 on deposit with loans and discounts standing at $1,532,945.71. This is an increase of $245,609.64 on deposits.

Citizen's State Bank, Earth, shows an increase of $613,590.09 at the third quarter bank call over that of the same call last year. Deposits are $3,293,507.41 as of October 4 compared to $2,678,917.32 last year. Loans and discounts are $2,473,691.71 compared to $2,146,569.98 last year.

Security State Bank, Farwell, shows an increase of $966,872.90 with the bank officials accrediting the deposit increase to a better farm year in general in the area. The September 20, 1966 call stood at $5,628,814.45 while the October 4 call this year shows $7,595,687.35.

Some 15 banks in immediately surrounding counties are showing such increases in deposits. Tri-County Savings and Loan Association here shows total assets of $4,041,633.11 compared to $3,811,633.11 last year.

Losses have been to Littlefield, 28-12; Olton, 18-0 and Denver City, 31-0.

Last week, Dumas had an open week but have only suffered one loss this year and that was a 33-14 game with Amarillo.

Blossoms In October

Although this story is not from the ever famous Ripley's Believe-it-or-Not, it could fall in that category.

However, it comes from a farm in southern Bailey County. For those of you who think Friday 13 is filled with all sorts of strange things from the land of superstition, what would your reaction have been to finding plum and peach trees budding and several blooms on them this Friday, October 13.

Mrs. J. D. Bayless went out that morning to water the fruit trees and looked up to see a bloom on the plum tree. She plucked the blossom for a closer examination, to make sure she was not just seeing things. Then she began to examine the other trees on the farm. She found the peach trees to be budding and blooming, too. So, still in doubt, she carefully wrapped the 'evidence' and mailed it to the Journal.

Another farm product which caught her eye was an oversized carrot. It measures 10 inches around and is 9 1/2 inches in length.

Reading Conference Set For South Plains

Two noted lecturers and authorities in reading and children's literature will be featured at the Lubbock Area Reading Conference in Lubbock on October 20-21.

Dr. Robert Karlin, Coordinator of the Graduate English, Language Arts, and Reading Program at Queens College, Flushing, New York, will present the keynote addresses related to the teaching of reading. Dr. Alice Brooks McGuire, librarian at Casis School in Austin will present the noon luncheon address on Saturday, October 21.

Dr. Karlin's wide background of training and experience has distinguished him as an authority at both the elementary and secondary levels of reading instruction. He received his B.A. Degree at City College of New York and his M.A. and Ph. D. Degrees at New York University. Dr. Karlin has taught in the New York City Public schools at both the elementary and secondary levels and has been on the faculties of New York, Hofstra, and Southern Illinois Universities. While at Southern Illinois, he was the director of the University's reading center.

Dr. Karlin's published works include college textbooks and numerous articles in professional journals and periodicals. His most recognized work is a college text for potential teachers, Teaching Reading in High School published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company. In addition to these activities, he has received many professional honors. He was recently selected as a Fulbright Scholar serving as Consultant to Uruguay, and he is a member of the Publications Committee of the International Reading Association.

Dr. McGuire has been librarian at Casis School, a center for curriculum development and library demonstration, since its inception in 1946. She has served as a leader of this exemplary project and was primarily responsible for its selection as the recipient of the Knapp School Libraries Award in 1963. Casis School was one of eight libraries selected to share the Knapp Foundation grant of $1,130,000, for the further development of demonstration libraries.

Dr. McGuire has written numerous articles for professional journals, and in addition to her library responsibilities is presently teaching library science courses at the University of Texas.

Dr. Karlin will address school administrators at the Friday afternoon session at 3:00 p.m. For the evening session at 7:30 p.m., his address will be "Reading, Learning, and Teaching", and Saturday morning at 9:00 a.m., he will discuss "Materials for Teaching Reading". Following the general session on Saturday, interest groups have been arranged for participants to discuss problems in reading which are their particular concern.

Registration will begin at 1:00 p.m. Friday, October 20, at Coronado High School, 3331 Vicksburg in Lubbock. Registration fee for the two-day conference is $3.00 or $2.00 for one day.

Those planning to attend from Muleshoe should supply the principal of Schools, either R. E. Everett, Junior High School; Milton Oyler, Richland Hills, Tom Jinks, High School; Bill Taylor, Mary DeShazo or superintendent Neal Dillman with the information before Friday, October 13 so that the pre-registration blanks may be sent in.

If there is a sufficient number to go, a bus will be available for Saturday morning, October 20.

Teachers are urged to attend this first reading conference held for the South Plains area, according to local school officials.

Veterans Should Obtain Release When Selling Home

Veterans who sell their homes and permit the buyer to assume their GI loan should get a release of liability from the Veterans Administration. The VA warned that those who do not get such a release remain liable in case of subsequent foreclosure.

VA will issue a release provided the new buyer is approved as a good credit risk. The VA said, however, that a release from liability does not restore the veteran's eligibility for another GI loan. Eligibility is restored only when the VA is no longer liable to the lender on the guaranty and if the veteran:

(a) is forced to sell his home through no fault of his own (for reasons of health, employment, etc.),

(b) suffers property destruction by a natural hazard, or (c) if while still in service must dispose of his home because of a military transfer.

Richland Hills P-TA Hears Panel Of Wayland Students

The Richland Hills P-TA met Monday, October 14, in the school cafeteria and heard a group of students from Wayland Baptist College. These students were of different ethnic groups, Negro, Oriental, Indian and Latin, but were all American born.

Mr. Askew, Negro, from New York is studying to be a research chemist; Susie Ozuna, Latin, from Haskell, Texas, a senior, will be a missionary in the Rio Grande Valley; Lillian Hernandez, Indian, from Rapid City, South Dakota will do mission work in Latin America. Recently Miss Hernandez was chosen "Miss Black Hills" and will represent her tribe at the United States National Miss Indian Contest to be held in Wyoming. Nelson Hayashida, Oriental, from Los Angeles is a sophomore ministerial student in Wayland.

These students stressed the importance of getting an education; noted the satisfaction of being an individual instead of a number and showed they were glad to be Americans. The program topic was "The Varied Cultural Strengths of Texas." Each culture has made a definite contribution to make Texas and America great.

Mrs. John Watson introduced the group.

Mrs. James Macha, president, presided and introduced the committee chairmen. Mrs. Tacha and Mrs. Haney Poyner were appointed as delegates to the State Convention in Fort Worth, November 14-17.

Mrs. Lena Hawkins fifth grade room won the attendance award.

During hospitality time Mrs. Ronnie Shafer and Mrs. Darrel Kennemer served punch and cookies to approximately 150 people.

Mayor Rogers of Lubbock will be the featured speaker at the November 20 meeting. He will discuss "Youth Responsibilities for Better Neighborhoods."

New Bathing Beauty

BATHS RELAX and cleanse, but they can also beautify. Egyptian women, the first connoisseurs of smooth, soft skin, spent long hours luxuriating in tubs of scented oil.

Softer Skin

Today's woman can achieve the same results speedily. Just add bath oil to water to soften skin all over, especially rough elbows, upper arms and chapped legs. A new Silk'n Satin Bath Oil has a frankly feminine scent that lingers long after you're out of the tub.

After bathing, apply creamy pink Silk'n Satin Lotion to prevent drying of skin from indoor heat or inclement weather.

More Good Business News

Signs pointing to good business ahead continue to mount and the latest report from the nation's automobile manufacturers is one of the surest signs of a pick-up in business generally. General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors have all experienced increased sales of new cars despite price increases this fall, compared with 1966 sales figures. (Ford sales are also up.)

Prices are rising in most areas and inflation warnings are being sounded almost daily in Washington. Thus the public is anticipating another price spiral and this, with good business prospects, is being translated into a bullish, buying mood across the nation.

The insistence by Congress that the President cut spending substantially before new taxes are enacted has delayed a tax increase. Some political observers are now predicting higher taxes won't take effect until January 1st, and that tax legislation authorizing the hike won't be passed by this session but by the next, in 1968. This brightens 1967 profit possibilities for many firms.

Taking all indications and developments into account, there is the immediate prospect we are entering a period of increased business activity and increased profits, expected to extend well into 1968 if not through the entire election year.

Attack on Depletion

A FUNDAMENTAL law involving thousands of businessmen and farmers in Texas and other states is under attack. Charging that it is a "tax loophole" which should be "plugged," a few members of Congress are trying to remove the depletion allowance of the oil industry.

As Rep. Graham Purcell of Texas says in a recent newsletter, opponents single out the oil industry and largely ignore more than 100 other minerals that are involved. It's easy to draw vivid, if unfair, word pictures of Texas oil men with 10-gallon hats and big boots spending their "ill-gotten tax gains."

But what about the depletion allowance on coal from Pennsylvania, on New York's titanium? Why criticize petroleum but say little about iron ore, zinc, lead, copper, and other minerals? At this time 10,000 or more owners of irrigated farms in Northwest Texas and New Mexico have filed claims for income tax credits for water depletion, dated back to 1962, because their nonrepletable underground water is being depleted.

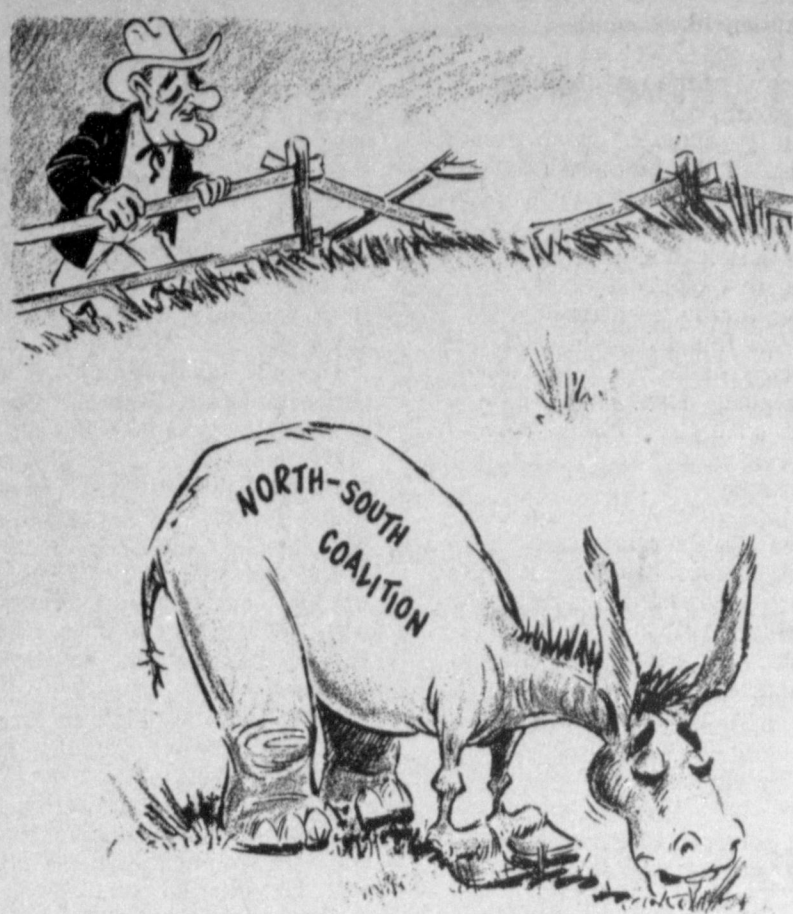

The depletion allowance is no tax gimmick. As Rep. Purcell reminds, it is one of the means Congress carefully worked out to avoid taxing capital while taxing income. In the case of most business, this is done by allowing depreciation deductions on such capital assets as machinery and equipment.

In the case of extractive minerals, an early effort to develop a "discovery value depletion" proved complicated and unworkable. The present depletion allowance was substituted, at the suggestion of the U. S. Treasury Department. It worked so well that it has been broadened to include many minerals.

Certainly the man who exhausts his capital, whether it is oil or water, machines or some other asset, should be given an allowance in a law which is designed to tax income. From the standpoint of law and justice, maintenance of this principle is sound. From an economic standpoint, it is essential for many different industries in many different states.

Its greatest benefit, of course, has been the incentive feature. It encourages risk, which in turn results in new exploration. The allowance has made the American petroleum industry the most productive and stable in the world.

"HOW'D THAT GET IN MY PASTURE?"

Some Just Won't Listen

Patiently and in almost elementary fashion, President Johnson once again explained Friday night why we are fighting in Vietnam. He was speaking at San Antonio to 1,600 members of the National Legislative Conference, to the nation at large, and to anyone who would listen -- including Hanoi.

He enumerated the same reasons and used much the same language he had used before. He re-emphasized the readiness of the United States to talk peace with North Vietnam leaders at any time. Some saw in his language an implied softening of the conditions for such talks.

It is doubtful that he succeeded in changing any minds. Only hours before the speech, Hanoi had rejected out of hand any basis for talks other than complete abandonment of the war by the United States. In this country, it is probable that those who previously were convinced we must carry on with what we have started in Vietnam remained convinced, and those who are "doves" for political, philosophic or other reasons were not any more open to change than Hanoi.

President Johnson and other spokesmen for the administration have said time and again why we are in Vietnam and what we are trying to do there. Yet those who choose to close their ears keep saying: "The administration has never told us."

John Tower

All Americans continue to be deeply concerned about Vietnam. No end of that war is in sight. There must be a better way.

I have from the very beginning supported what the President has stated as to his goals for Southeast Asia. I have supported his announced intention to arrest the spread of communist aggression. I have supported his stated objectives of insuring the freedom and territorial integrity of South Vietnam.

But, along with my support of these long range goals, I have made observations and suggestions to the Administration about ways in which our Vietnam effort might be improved. The Administration, however, has remained tied to a single, inflexible policy.

As a result, I can no longer be satisfied with the Administration's present conduct of the war. The Administration has committed us to an open-ended, no-win policy of "gradualism," frittering away the early advantages our massive power afforded us.

We simply must have a new policy to shorten the war.

I believe it is important that we confront and defeat communist aggression in Vietnam and promote creation of a series of Asian buffer states around Red China, but I cannot justify nor support further committing of U. S. lives and resources to a no-win policy.

The Administration's policy has now been clearly laid out in the open for all Americans to appraise. It amounts to a policy of restricted gradualism. A policy which discounts the professional judgment of our top military men and substitutes civilian judgment for the smallest details of target selection and timing.

It should be nothing less than astounding to Americans that throughout all of 1966 our air men were allowed to strike less than one percent of the militarily significant targets in North Vietnam. Only in very recent weeks have some of the restrictions on our air effort been lifted, and there still remain about 50 key targets recommended for attack by the Joint Chiefs of Staff but placed off-limits by Administration civilians.

Our enemies in Vietnam know the Administration is committed to gradualism. They know with certainty that no matter how they move against us the Administration will not deliver any quick and major response, but will respond only bit by bit. That sort of bit-by-bit response gives the enemy ample time to absorb our bits of pressure, readjust his operations and keep on fighting. Worse than that, viewed in a strategic sense, gradualism actually gives the enemy an incentive to challenge us, because he knows we will act decisively to counter him. He knows he can keep on pulling us in deeper and deeper until at last we have on the table far more stakes than we even intended to commit.

It is important for us to remember what circumstances have led the Administration to its mistaken Vietnam policy. What we are seeing in Vietnam is the ultimate perversion of the so-called "escalation theory."

Stated in laymen's terms the "escalation theory" goes like this: Nuclear disaster impends in the world; the only way to avoid a nuclear confrontation between the U. S. and the USSR is for the U. S. to make no sudden moves that might upset the enemy or be misinterpreted by the enemy. Therefore, the U. S. will publicly announce that it has adopted a policy of "gradualism" and will move to meet enemy pressures only in tiny power-increments--each of which the Communist enemy will be advised about.

Now, this escalation theory was all very well when it was implemented by policies of determination. In the Cuban Missile Crisis President Kennedy took a series of increasingly severe steps which were fully understood by the Soviet Union. Taken in a controlled but quick and determined fashion, these steps enabled President Kennedy to achieve his policy objectives in short order. But in Vietnam "escalation with determination" has been replaced by "escalation with gradualism."

Not only has this aimless gradualism failed, it is actually inhibiting us from moving soon enough and decisively enough to achieve American objectives. A policy of gradualism is too much obsessed with short-term risks and too blind to long-term risks. The gradualist worries too much about the risks he sees in steps needed to shorten the war; and he fails to give proper weight to the far more dangerous risks of letting the war drag on and on while Red China moves nearer and nearer to an inevitable nuclear missile capability.

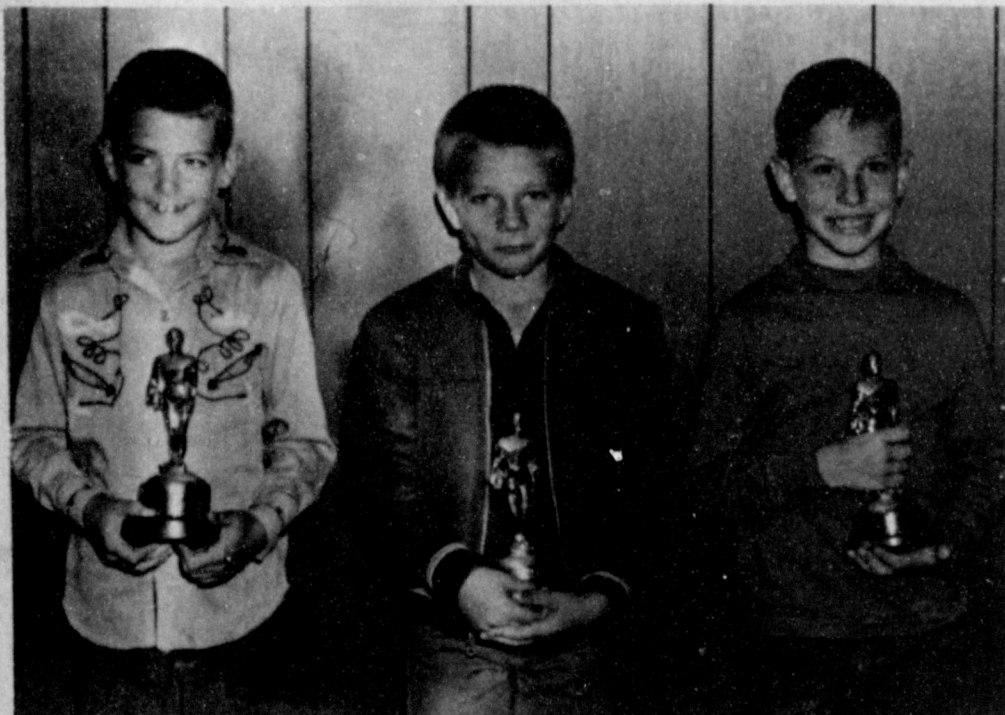

Gradualism is the greatest risk of all. Instead of gradualism we need decisiveness.

Instead of procrastination we need pressure. Instead of vacillation we must have victory.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK--Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., has announced that PCG's eleventh annual meeting will be held October 20 in Lubbock's Koko Palace, 5201 Avenue Q, Lubbock, beginning at 10 a.m. Congressman Bob Price of Pampa, the area's only member of the House Committee on Agriculture, will be principal speaker. His address will be delivered at about 11 o'clock. The meeting will be open to all cotton producers, ginners and others interested in the future welfare of cotton on the High Plains. A buffet lunch will be served at noon.

An all-cotton style show featuring some 30 cotton ensembles and introduced by a modern jazz go-go dance will follow Congressman Price on the program. The style show, with Mrs. Leland White of New Home as general chairman, is being arranged by six women's cotton clubs from Lynn, Crosby, Hale, Yoakum, and Lubbock counties.

The dance introducing the show will be done by Miss Lubbock of 1967, Jan Glenn. Coordinating the style show will be Mrs. Milton Peeples, well known Lubbock model and charm school instructor.

Price's address will center around cotton legislation and the administrative aspects of current and future cotton programs.

In addition the meeting will feature the President's report, by J. D. Smith of Littlefield, and Johnson's annual report to the membership.

County directors, elected over the past few months in county meetings throughout the area, will be certified by the membership.

Johnson said the general meeting will be adjourned by about 2:30 p.m. and will be followed immediately by a meeting of the newly certified directors for the election of 1967-68 officers. All PCG members will be welcome to remain for the Board meeting.

Current officers of the 23-county cotton producer organization are Smith, President; L. D. (Don) Anderson, Vice-President, and W. L. (Preach) Edelman, Secretary-Treasurer.

Ed Smith, Director of Field Service for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., returned to his home at 5206 16th Street in Lubbock October 4 from West Texas Hospital after having suffered a brain hemorrhage on September 24.

Doctors report that he should recover from the stroke without serious after effects but will require complete rest in his home for the next three to four weeks.

Dean has been with PCG since 1960 and PCG officials expect he will return to duty about the first of November.

The October 1 estimate of the cotton crop on the Plains jumped to 1,230,500 bales, 5,500 above the previous month's estimate.

The estimate is made jointly each month by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. It covers the 23 High Plains counties represented by PCG.

Two factors accounted for the increase. First, the county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service were able this month to provide a more accurate picture of total standing acreage and that figure was raised from 1,161,500 to 1,189,000.

In addition, weather conditions across most of the area have ranged from favorable to semi-favorable, and observers have noted more rapid development of crops that would normally be expected.

Accuracy of the estimate, plus the crop's quality characteristics, is still much dependent on the frost date. The latest 30-day weather forecast has placed the frost date for Lubbock at November 3 and this fact has led to greater optimism than was previously in evidence.

Essentials of the 1968 cotton program, as announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture October 11, are these:

1. National allotment of 16.1 million acres (same as in 1967);

2. Domestic allotment at 65 percent of total allotment (same as in 1967);

3. Price support loan at 20.25 cents per pound, basis middling inch (same as 1967);

4. Price support payment of 12.24 cents per pound (compared to 11.53 cents this year);

5. Mandatory diversion of five percent of allotments (12.5 percent in 1967), with a payment of 10.76 cents per pound times projected yield (10.78 cent payment in 1967);

6. Option to voluntarily divert an additional 30 percent with a payment of six cents per pound times projected yield (compared to 10.78 cents in 1967), and

7. Skip-row rules as they were in the years 1962-65, permitting two in, one out and two in, two out plantings without penalty.

Other major program provisions remain the same as this year.

Producers on the Plains generally are applauding the Secretary's decision on skip-row planting. Their immediate reaction to the rest of the program can probably be summed up as "not too bad."

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., said: "We are happy to see a return to the 1965 skip-row regulations as this will be of substantial benefit to many of our members. And, considering the alternatives open to the Secretary under present law, I have to agree that the program doesn't look bad at all."

Initial calculations reveal that the producer who still elects to divert the maximum 35 percent of his allotment will get a blended payment (payment per pound based on projected yield from his entire allotment) of about 10.29 cents. This year's payment rates yielded about 11.27 cents on the same basis.

Applied to a 100 acre allotment with a projected yield of 500 pounds per acre a producer's income from government payments alone in 1968 will be approximately $490 less than in 1967 if he diverts the maximum 35 percent.

To compensate for that loss of payments, producers will have the opportunity to plant skip-row cotton without penalty, or if they figure the market price of cotton will justify it, to plant up to 95 percent of allotments.

In many instances the revised skip-row regulations along with increase production and improve quality from planted acreage enough to more than make up for the loss.

For the grower who plants only the domestic portion of a 100 acre allotment, only an additional three to five bales of cotton from 65 acres will make up the difference, or a slight improvement in average grade, micronaire or staple will do the same thing.

Growers whose conditions render them capable of growing the premium priced cottons will likely choose to plant either the maximum 95 percent of allotments or some percentage between there and the minimum.

And if this season's market prices prevail in 1968 a significant boost to the income of these producers will occur.

Each farmer will need to apply his own cost figures and price expectations to the program to determine which route is economically best under his particular circumstances.

From a strict dollar and cents standpoint it will be a matter of deciding whether cotton grown on 30 percent of an allotment will sell for enough to cover the six cents per pound payment that will be forfeited, plus production costs and enough profit to offset the additional risk.

For example, taking out of the air a figure of $65 per acre extra cost (above the cost of working a diverted acre) of growing an acre of irrigated cotton on the Plains, planted acreage would have to yield a gross of $95 per acre, assuming a 500 pound projected yield.

If actual yield equals projected yield this would mean the cotton would have to bring at least 19 cents per pound. For each $5 per acre increase in cost, an additional cent per pound would be needed to prevent loss of income.

One big question in everyone's mind is "Will this program produce enough cotton to supply the demand and protect U. S. cotton markets against foreign growths and synthetics?"

The answer is not evident. No amount of intricate computations can determine (1) what weather conditions will be during 1968, (2) to what extent growers will react to the reduced voluntary diversion payment.

ment and market conditions by planting more acres to cotton, or (3) the effect on total production of the revised skip-row regulations.

It is apparent however that most of the increased planting in 1968 will be done by those growers who expect to produce the longer staple cotton now in shortest supply and selling at a premium in the market.

And this fact will help Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman toward his elusive but highly desirable goal of balancing cotton supplies with demands.

In his October 11 announcement the Secretary said "Barring unusual weather, it is my best judgment that a year from now we will at long last have cotton in supply and demand balance with adequate supplies of good quality cotton and good prospects for the future."

We hope his judgment is correct.

Winter Wheat Tests Made By Foundation

Efficient irrigation, or practical utilization of water, should be a major concern of all High Plains farmers. For this reason, an irrigation-fertilizer test on winter wheat has been conducted at the High Plains Research Foundation for the past three years, under the direction of James Valliant, Soil Scientist, and Loyd Langford, Associate Agronomist.

Research has shown that a winter irrigation on non-grazed wheat is neither practical nor profitable. If the winter wheat is to be grazed, an irrigation in January is probably necessary.

The Tascosa variety of wheat is used in the study, and two irrigation methods were utilized.

Girl Scouts Take Afternoon Hike

Girl Scout Troop 89 enjoyed a one-and-one-half mile hike to the Muleshoe Area Public Library Monday afternoon. They participated in area clean-up activities by picking up paper and litter around the library grounds.

Refreshments were served. Librarian Anne Camp told the story "The Soup Stone."

A short business meeting was held prior to the hike at the Girl Scout Little House.

Medicaid Program Approval Announced

Approval of the Texas Medicaid program was announced today by the Social and Rehabilitation Service (SRS) of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Formal approval was given by SRS Administrator Mary E. Switzer and was effective September 1. Medicaid is the Federal - State program of medical care for low-income people.

Texas, the 27th state to operate a federally approved medical assistance program, plans to provide payments for skilled nursing home care for adults; inpatient and outpatient hospital care; physicians' services; and a number of other benefits for an estimated 379,000 State residents. The U. S. Government will pay approximately 80 percent of the costs, bringing the estimated Federal share to almost $99 million for the first year.

Each state makes its own decision on the number of services it will offer in excess of the minimum Federal requirements. The Texas program offers more than those required by the Medicaid law.

The state estimated that approximately 379,000 persons, or 3.53 percent of the total population, will be served under the state plan during the first 12 months of operation.

Animal-shaped boxes double as evening bags.

Is it true that the best cooks cook by the weather? Yes, there is scientific basis for cooking by the weather. Experienced chefs know that there are certain cakes and icings which cannot be satisfactorily made in rainy weather. Cakes fall and icings turn out too grainy. Certain candies, like pralines, do not become creamy. This is due to the great amount of moisture in the air, which is picked up by the ingredients.

Because moisture has such a great effect on certain kitchen products many recipes are varied... are slightly different in the dry western states from those recommended in the other states.

Veterans Q's and A's

Q--I have just received my dividend check on my National Service Life Insurance policy. This surprised me because I have not paid premiums on this policy for the past nine months because a waiver of premiums has been in force. This waiver was granted because I am considered to be totally disabled and unemployed. Has a mistake been made? Will I have to refund the dividend?

A--No. The payment of this dividend to you is proper. Dividends on participating government life insurance policies are payable even though the policy is on a waiver of premiums.

Q--Under what conditions can a peacetime veteran be admitted to a Veterans Administration hospital for treatment for a non-service connected disability?

A--Veterans who were discharged or retired for disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty, or have a service connected disability, may be admitted to VA hospitals for disease or injury not related to their military service, if beds are available. Peacetime service, after January 31, 1955, is considered the same as wartime service for purposes of hospitalization and domiciliary care.

Washington Report

From Congressmen

BOB PRICE WYTH DISTRICT, TEXAS

1323 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D.C. 205-3706

Congressman Bob Price on Wednesday introduced a bill to bring foreign cotton yarn under the raw cotton import quota.

The bill also proposes effective negotiations with other nations on limitations for foreign textiles imported into the United States.

"The American market is being swamped with cheaply produced foreign textiles," Price said. "American cotton producers have been forced to cut back production under the present farm program and the jobs of thousands of U.S. workers are threatened with this flood of cotton materials from abroad," the Panhandle Congressman continued.

"The present quota on raw cotton amounts to 32,000 bales a year but cotton imported in the form of yarn has reached the staggering total of 200,000 cotton bales equivalent," Price said.

The Congressman stated that under his bill, yarn would be classified as raw cotton subject to the overall raw cotton import quota of 32,000 bales.

"Unless quotas are imposed on yarn and other textile imports, the new reduction in tariffs under the 'Kennedy Round' agreements made at Geneva will open the door still wider to cheap foreign goods," Price said.

Last week I introduced two more Veterans bills. One of them would prevent cuts in benefits which were raised by the recently enacted Veterans Pension and Readjustment Act of 1967.

Two of my first bills which I introduced last February were to increase benefits for veterans and their widows and to increase educational allowance for veterans. I was happy to see my bills incorporated into the Act as it was passed and signed by the President.

However, the Act has certain limitations which would be affected in many cases by increased Social Security benefits. This would exclude some veterans from the program so it will be necessary to make adjustments in the veterans' pension program.

The Veterans Affairs Committee of the House has, in fact, already begun hearings on the legislation but will not be able to complete action until the Senate agrees on the amount of Social Security increases.

The other bill I introduced would allow the Veterans Ad-

Educational Aid Age Limit Hiked

generally applies, a young person may begin school before age 18 and, in certain instances, continue after age 26.

Marriage is not a bar to this benefit.

Generally, benefits under this program are for students enrolling in colleges, universities and technical schools. Below college-level courses may be taken only in schools which offer specialized training that will fit a student for a vocational goal.

A person entitled to assistance under this program who is handicapped by a physical or mental disability may receive specialized training.

Specific information on eligibility, how to apply, specialized training, schools, educational costs and related matters may be obtained from a VA office.

Effective October 1, the maximum age limit for sons and daughters of veterans entitled to Veterans Administration educational financial assistance was raised from 23 to 26. The liberalization is provided in a new law signed by the President last August 31.

Eligible for this help under the War Orphans Educational Assistance program are the sons and daughters of veterans who died or were permanently and totally disabled as the result of a service-connected injury or illness.

They may receive grants from the VA up to $130 a month for 36 months of approved, full-time college or vocational training. Lesser grants are paid for three-quarters or half-time training.

While an 18 to 26 age limit ministration to contract with community nursing homes in order to alleviate crowded conditions in V. A. hospitals. This would reimburse nursing homes up to 45 percent of the cost of care furnished by the V. A. in hospitals under direct and exclusive jurisdiction of the V. A.

The new Veterans Assistance Act that went into effect October 1, will benefit not only veterans and their widows and children with a cost-of-living increase in pensions but will also offer educational benefits to all veterans who have served in the military since 1955 and grants certain war time benefits not previously provided to veterans serving in the Armed Forces on or after August 5, 1964.

Higher benefits will include: $130 a month for an unmarried veteran in school full-time, $155 a month for married veterans in school full-time, $175 a month for veterans with two dependents, in school full-time, and $10 extra per child.

Veterans may choose on-the-job or apprentice training and receive payments from $30 to $100 a month for the first of 4 six-month periods with payment reduced in each succeeding six-month period.

The law also included on-the-job farm training while attending agricultural courses and flight training.

A veteran may also complete high school without losing eligibility for college training. Time spent in completing high school will not be charged against a veteran's basic entitlement period.

The Act also increases the period of time during which training may be taken by extending the age limit from 23 to 26 years.

It extends the over-all de-limiting date for entitlement of WWII veterans to a guaranteed, direct loan, or business loan from July 25, 1967 to July 25, 1970. And the V. A. may now increase maximum allowable direct - housing loan from $17,500 to $25,000 in areas where it is found that cost levels so require.

A summary of the bill and its provisions may be obtained from local Veterans Service officers or by requesting one from my office.

Properly Used Credit Vital To Economy

COLLEGE STATION--More than half the families in the United States currently have some form of personal debt, not including mortgage payments, considered to be the same as rent.

This use of credit plays a vital role in the country's economy. Properly used, it enables many people to get necessary home equipment, cars, make vital home repairs and pay the costs of education, when they would be unable to pay cash, says Joy Arrington, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

Each family must decide how much debt it can afford if it wants to take out loans, buy on installment plans or use revolving charge accounts. Most authorities generally advise that a family should not use more than 15 percent of its after tax (disposable) income to pay installment debts (excluding mortgage payments).

Some families manage more effectively than others and never permit themselves to get into trouble with excessive borrowing. They usually have become familiar with the facts on credit costs and know where the lowest interest rates can be found. In addition, they maintain good credit ratings so that they can use these sources when necessary.

The key to wise credit-buying is to find out the true cost of the money borrowed, Miss Arrington says. Sales and loan contracts should be read carefully and questions asked if there is any doubt about the terms or charges.

The cost of a loan can be figured in dollar costs, the actual amount you spend for the loan, or in true annual interest. To get dollar costs, simply add the down payment, any trade-in allowance and monthly payments, according to the Extension specialist. The difference between this total and the selling price of the item is the amount paid in borrowing charges.

True annual interest is the rate charged on money in your possession for a full year. If you borrow $100 at 6 percent true interest, after one year you would pay back $106.

SOMETHING NEW FOR MARTIN AND PRESTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Mary Martin and Robert Preston both expanded their musical versatility for "I Do, I Do."

Besides singing, each is playing a newly-learned instrument, she the violin and he the saxophone. A show spokesman said special material for them to perform was written in as the result of a reminiscent-swapping session during which the two stars disclosed youthful ambition to play those instruments.
