Hoover Proposes A 'Council Of Free Nations'

Washington Has Varied Reaction To 'Council' Idea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former President Herbert Hoover's proposal for a "council of free nations" drew a mixed, and in many cases cautious, reaction from Congress today.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said it was "a very interesting statement which deserves the serious consideration of all of us who are concerned with the preservation of peace."

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., the committee's top GOP member, said the proposal "deserves real, earnest consideration. We have got to find some solution" to the problems of world peace-keeping, he said.

Other lawmakers were more outspoken.

Opinions Divided

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., another Foreign Relations Committee member, and Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, sharply disagreed over the merits of Hoover's proposal.

Gore said Hoover's idea would be a "most unfortunate step." He said it "would promote a sharp and contending division of the world into two blocs."

"True, we have such blocs now but the United Nations serves as a catalytic agent for all nations. We must preserve and maximize its usefulness."

Zablocki called it an "excellent idea" that was "worthy of consideration."

Gallagher Disagreed

Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., also a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said "I must disagree with (Hoover) that the United Nations is not serving a worthwhile purpose.

"The United Nations is serving humanity and freedom and its interests and goals coincide with the interests and purposes of the United States. To divide the world even further . . . is not the solution," he said.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "I'm not too sure that (Hoover) isn't right. I'm not quite sure I have reached the point where I want to give up on the United Nations, but we have to face the fact that it hasn't done as well as we had hoped."

Funds Request Is Turned Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee refused today to approve a penny of the $40,150,000 requested by President Kennedy to build family housing for military personnel overseas.

It said such construction should be curtailed until the United States solves the problem of its "balance of payments"—or "gold outflow."

The committee also denied funds requested for construction of 24 extra tennis courts at West Point, a swimming pool for the Marines at Futema, Okinawa, a swimming pool for the naval base at Sigeonnel, Italy, and gymnasiums at four U. S. military bases. The committee made these and other reductions in whacking $224,998,500 from the new funds requested by the administration for military construction during the fiscal year that ends next June 30. The $1,369,741,000 bill, which the committee sent to the floor for debate Tuesday, carries 14 per cent less money than the administration requested.

In a report explaining its recommendations, the committee said it had turned thumbs down on "projects that are not clearly essential to the military posture of the country at the present time or in the foreseeable future."

Estes Indicted For Misleading The US Agriculture Department

'Hysterical' Word For Little Theatre Production Here

By WANDA HUFF
Pampa News Staff Writer

Last night in Pampa High auditorium, about 500 people saw the premier performance of Pampa's Little Theater Play, "George Washington Slept Here."

The play can't be called a historical drama, but the name hysterical comedy, a play to relieve inner tension, seems to apply.

Tonight at 8 the final curtain goes up on a three - act, two-hour play with twentieth century characters in an eighteenth century house that George Washington supposedly slept in. All action happens in the living room of the old abandoned stone farmhouse, built in the revolutionary days in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

Central characters are Bob Swanson as Newton Fuller; Glenna Lea Miller as Annabelle Fuller, his wife; Jim Terrell, the pessimistic caretaker of the abandoned farm and Glen McConnell, as Uncle Stanley, the rich uncle who bores the family by repeating his old stories of "When I was a little shaver."

Mrs. Elbert Walker, director of the play, moved here from Corsicana in 1960 and teaches speech, ballroom dancing and kindergarten classes in her home.

Other characters are Jodi Hudson as Madge, the Fuller's 21-year-old daughter; Jim Douthit as Steve Eldridge, her boyfriend; Bob Hale, as Raymond, the Fuller's nephew and teenage juvenile delinquent; and Marie Jones as Mrs. Douglas, the friendly, helpful neighbor.

Two characters, John Callarman as Clayton Evans and Martha McComas as Rena Leslie, his wife, arrive seeking shelter from a cloudburst of rain, thunder and lightning. Playing the roles of a "ham" actor and his hip - swinging, actress wife, they seem to portray the perfect stereotypes of their parts, complete with exaggerated gestures, precise pronunciation and loud voices.

Don Pope, as Mr. Prescott, is the chief villian, an arrogant, tyrannical neighbor. Georgia Mack as Katie, the cook, and Odevern McConnell as Hester, the maid, give convincing performances as family servants trying to work in a house without modern conveniences, such as water, walls, pots and pans.

Minor roles as Madge's young

FINAL PERFORMANCE — The final performance of Pampa Little Theatre's three-act comedy, "George Washington Slept Here," will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight in Pampa High School auditorium. Leading roles are played by Glenna Lea Miller and Bob Swanson as Mr. and Mrs. Newton Fuller. In the supporting roles, which add to the hilarity of the plot of restoring an old delapidated farmhouse to livability, are the characters pictured here, seated left to right, Jodi Hudson and Glenn McConnell; standing, left to right, Jim Douhit, John Callarman, Odevern McConnell and Georgia Mack. Admission tickets of $1 for adults and 75 cents for students may be purchased at the high school at 7 p.m. tonight. (Daily News Photo)

Seven Teenagers Killed In Car-Train Crash Last Night

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)— The automobile loaded with "fine" teen-aged boys and girls was the last in a long caravan on the way to a church picnic in Lubbock Thursday night. The car never made the picnic.

One minute the eight young people sang or talked about the new school term as they rode along in the gathering dusk.

The next minute all but one were dead, crushed under a speeding passenger train that turned their car into junk.

Jimmy Lawson, 18, jumped from the car a second before the train struck. The other four boys and three girls were killed instantly.

Lawson had to be hospitalized for shock.

"My girl was in there," he kept telling A. J. Blair, a traveling salesman who picked him from where he jumped to safety and took him to Lubbock.

He sat glazed-eyed in the hospital and refused to talk to anyone.

Rev. M. B. Baldwin, pastor of the Spring Lake, Tex. First Baptist Church, was the sponsor of the picnic.

When he got to the hospital where young Lawson sat among parents of the dead, he bowed his head, as if in prayer.

His son, Everett, was one of those killed.

"They were such fine young people," he said.

Many of the youths had already assembled their food for the pic-

Rodeo Directors, Guests Are Feted In Banquet Here

Some 150 directors, honorary directors, their wives and guests attended the annual banquet of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association last night in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

Rufe Davis, billed as Hollywood's most fashionable hillbilly, flew in from a Chicago engagement and entertained the banquet guests with a half - hour of hilarious comedy. Davis was introduced by E. O. Wedgeworth, Chamber of Commerce manager.

Wiley Reynolds, president of the Rodeo Association, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced guests. Reynolds also announced that three directors who have served six years on the board were eligible for awards which automatically place them on the list of honorary directors of the association. They are Bob Andis, Guy Andis and Charles Robison.

Dinner music and accompaniment for Davis was played by Coy Palmer at the organ and "Pinky" Powell at the drums.

Tickets for the association's 18th annual rodeo, Aug. 22-25 at Recreation Park, went on sale yesterday for the first time in the lobby of the First National Bank.

The professional RCA rodeo opens on Wednesday, Aug. 22, for four days and will be preceded with The Kid Pony Show on Tuesday, Aug. 21.

Music for the show and dancing in the National Guard Armory will be played by Leon McAuliff and the Cimarron Valley Boys. Rodeo stock will be furnished by Beutler Brothers of Elk City, Okla., producers of the show.

Cowboy contestants will vie for $2,500 in prize money and entry fees during the four - day rodeo.

JFK Still Considering Tax Cut; Economic Advisers Hold Session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy called his top economic advisers to the White House today for a discussion of his decision of whether to ask for an immediate tax cut.

There were strong indications that the President would put off his tax-cutting drive until next year. Key members of Congress said they were sure he would rule against a tax reduction now.

Summoned to the White House meeting were Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon, Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges, Budget Director David E. Bell and the council of economic advisers.

They were expected to go over reports for July on the nation's economy and advise Kennedy whether they feel the stimulus of a tax cut is needed. In general the July reports show the economy held its own.

To Weigh Decision

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said the President would "take whatever material that comes from this meeting and weigh his decision."

He said "we are getting to the point where the President is about to make a decision." Some sources believed he already had decided against a tax cut and merely wanted to discuss the wording of his announcement.

Salinger said he expected Kennedy would put off until next week any public statement on his decision. The President planned to leave later today for a week end of rest on the Maine coast.

Kennedy had said that the economic indicators on which he would base his decision should be in hand by today. But Salinger said this did not mean the President would make up his mind immediately.

May Go Ahead

If he rules out a tax cut now, the President will go ahead with his plans to ask Congress later for income tax reductions next year, retroactive to Jan. 1.

In Congress the betting was heavily against any tax reduction this year. Many lawmakers feel there is no voter sentiment for a cut now despite demands from some business men, labor leaders and economists.

The House Ways & Means Committee wound up two weeks of closed hearings Thursday on the nation's economy. But the joint Senate-House Economic Committee went ahead with its public sessions on the subject.

Dallas Jury Names Amarillo Man, Too

DALLAS (UPI) — A U.S. grand jury indicted Billie Sol Estes today on charges of misrepresenting his financial condition to the Agriculture Department. It was the fourth federal and state indictment against the bankrupt Estes.

The Dallas jury, handing up the Estes indictment after a whirlwind three-day investigation, also indicted Robert Earl Clements, an Estes associate, on charges of transporting in interstate commerce fraudulently attained securities.

Clements, a co-founder of the Depression-era Townsend Plan, was an official of Superior Mfg. Co., of Amarillo, which made anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks for Estes.

The grand jury indicted Estes and Clements without hearing Dr. John Estes Jr., an Abilene dentist, and Bobby Frank Estes. They are brothers of Billie Sol Estes and were scheduled to appear before the jury at 2 p. m.

Another Indictment Possible

This caused speculation that the jury may return another indictment.

The new indictment against Estes included three counts. The one against Clements included five counts.

U. S. Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson set bail for Estes at $10,000, and for Clements at $5,000. The maximum penalty for Estes, if convicted on all counts of the new indictment, would be 15 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

For Clements, the maximum penalty on conviction would be 50 years in prison and a $50,000 fine.

Previous indictments returned against Estes included:

—A 29-count U. S. grand jury indictment at El Paso, charging fraud, interstate transportation of fraudulent documents and conspiracy. Three co-defendants pleaded guilty to five counts. Estes pleaded innocent to all 29.

—Four state indictments of four counts each at Pecos, Estes' hometown, charging swindling, theft, embezzlement and theft by bailee. Theft by bailee means theft of property entrusted to a man's care.

State Indictments

—A state indictment at Amarillo, on Aug. 2, including two counts of conspiracy and two counts of restraint of trade. The Amarillo jury also indicted Clements on two charges of felony theft. And, it indicted Maynard G. Wheeler, president of Commercial Solvents Corp., a New York chemical company, on the same counts as Estes.

Estes showed up unexpectedly in the courtroom Wednesday when the jury that indicted him today was empaneled. His lawyer asked U. S. Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson to let him question prospective jurors as to possible prejudices against Estes.

Davidson turned down the request and the jury went to work, concentrating on records of Estes' transactions.

The new indictments against Estes said that on April 3, 1961, he listed his total liabilities as of Dec. 31, 1960, at 6.3 million, when actually they were more than $10.4 million.

Liabilities Under-Estimated

The indictment also charged that on March 8, 1962, he listed

$1,000 Is Taken In Safe Job

Safe robbers, believed to have been locked in the store when it closed at 6 p.m. yesterday, made off with a safe containing approximately $1,000 from the M. E. Moses store, 105 N. Cuyler St., last night.

Carl B. Caldwell, store manager, reported the robbery to police when he opened the store at 7:30 a.m. today.

Police officers, investigating the theft, said the small black safe measuring 18 inches by 28 inches, was removed from the manager's office on the balcony floor of the store.

Officers said the robbers left the store by removing a bar from the rear door and apparently unlocking the night lock from the inside.

There was no evidence anywhere of a forced entry to the building. This led police to believe that the robbers were hiding inside the store when it was closed for the day yesterday evening.

Possibility that some clues were left behind arose today when Police Chief Jim Conner said he would rather not discuss that angle of the case.

The safe contained cash, checks and change amounting to around $1,000, according to Manager Caldwell.

Several minor thefts were also reported to police yesterday afternoon and this morning.

Gary Boyd, 733 N. Dwight, said a woman's gold wrist watch, valued at $20, was taken from his home while he and his wife were away last night. Dresser drawers were ransacked, but nothing else was reported missing.

Mrs. Boyd also told police that on Wednesday night between 8 and 10 p.m. someone turned on the gas jet in the bathroom of the Boyd home.

A. B. Zahn reported the theft of a ladder from his back yard at 822 N. Somerville St.

James Cross, 1313 Garland, told police someone stole a tire from his pickup truck parked in front of his home.

Mrs. Josephine Taylor, 422 Maple, a maid at the Hillson Hotel, reported that between 1 and 1:30 p.m. yesterday someone stole her purse from Room 20 at the hotel. She said it contained a social security card, other papers, but no cash.

Italians Are Enamored With Jackie

RAVELLO, Italy (UPI) — Italians are enamored with Jacqueline Kennedy. And that goes for the "paparazzi," too.

The American First Lady, visiting this medieval village perched high over the Mediterranean, was almost mobbed Thursday night when she drove into town with her daughter, Caroline, 4.

Jittery Italian policemen assigned to guard President Kennedy's wife and daughter during their two-week vacation were caught up in the surging crowds which pushed toward their little green open car.

The good-natured Italians surrounding Mrs. Kennedy seemed to bother the police more than the First Lady. She smiled happily. The well-wishers smiled back. The police looked nervous.

The paparazzi, free-lance photographers from Rome who annoy most famous visitors to Italy, were won over earlier in the day.

Ex-President Says UN Not Able To Act

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (UPI)— Former President Herbert Hoover said today the Communists have destroyed the usefulness of the United Nations in preserving peace and proposed a "council of free nations" to step in when the United Nations fails to act for peace, or is prevented from doing so.

The council, he said, would be made up of those free nations "willing to stand up and fight for their freedom."

The United Nations not only has failed to give "even a remote hope for lasting peace," the former President said, but "it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us. The disintegrating forces in the United Nations are the Communist nations in its membership."

At his birthplace here in the Iowa plains, Hoover took the occasion of his 88th birthday anniversary to propose a "new appraisal" of the United Nations.

Dedicate Hoover Library

He spoke at the dedication of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library, a ceremony which included also an address by former President Harry S. Truman.

Recounting his long experience in foreign affairs and his work among the peoples of 50 nations, Hoover said that "now as the shadows gather around me" he was offering a new course of action.

"Leaders of mankind have for centuries sought some form of organization which would assure lasting peace," he said. "The last of many efforts is the United Nations. The time has come in our national life when we must make a new appraisal of this organization.

"But first, let me say that I have, in all my official life believed in a world organization for peace. I supported the League of Nations when it was unpopular. I went down to defeat when, as President, I urged the Senate to join the World Court. I urged the ratification of the United Nations charter by the Senate . . .

"But now we must realize that the United Nations has failed to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace . . . The Communist leaders, for 40 years, have repeatedly asserted that no peace can come to the world until they have overcome the free nations . . . They have, about 100 times, vetoed proposals in the Security Council which would have lessened international conflict. They daily threaten free nations with war and destruction.

Destroy U.N.'s Usefulness

"In sum, they have destroyed the usefulness of the United Nations to preserve peace."

Hoover said the free nations now had five regional pacts set up for mutual defense and that there were bilateral military agreements among other free nations — making a total of about 40 nations pledged to fight aggression.

"Today the menace of communism has become worldwide," he said. "The time is here when, if the free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger worldwide organization. For purposes of this discussion I may call it the 'Council of Free Nations.' It should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight for their freedom.

"The foundations for this organization have already been laid by the 40 nations . . . and there are others who should join.

"I do not suggest that the Council of Free Nations replace the United Nations. When the United Nations is prevented from taking action, or if it fails to act to preserve peace, then the Council of Free Nations should step in."

Hoover suggested that Geneva might serve as a headquarters site.

"Although the analogy of the Concert of Europe formed in 1814 is not perfect," he said, "yet, with much less unity and authority, it fended off world war for a hundred years.

"Some organized council of free

Television In Review

By DOC QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Today we give you "Tonight."

This estimable effort by NBC-TV has been with us since, let's see, around 1954, in one format or another. But circumstances beyond my control (a strong drive to get at least six hours of sleep) prevent my watching it except when duty calls in a short stretch on a temporary reviewing job such as this.

A watching of "Tonight" this week has proved a delight — it could be a newcomer's delight that would pall with constant exposure — and I suspect a prime reason has been the dexterity with which Merv Griffin has handled his temporary job as host. He is somewhat reminiscent in mannerism and goading ability of the acknowledged supreme master Paar.

Some of the things I heard — or thought I heard—were:

From Henry Youngman: "My mother-in-law's not with us this year — She's in the Congo teaching them how to fight dirty. . .My wife went to the beauty parlor and got a mud pack and for two days she looked great — And then the mud fell off. When I'd go to bed at night, I'd say: 'Goodnight, swamp.'. . .

Putter Developed Hernia

Gale Storm: "This man gave Sam Snead: "What happened to me his card. It reads: 'Henny Youngman, twist consultant.'" me in the Open? My putter developed hernia." Charles Manna: "How does a witch doctor tell time? With a witch watch."

Dr. Joyce Brothers., the psychologist, said real babies are not fooled by baby talk; they know it's baby talk. And at this Abbe Lane bristled: "Well," how d'ya talk to newborn babies? "Howya, Charlie'?"

Dr. Brothers said the least anxiety-producing topic you can pick to start conversation at a party is the childhood experience syndrome. Dan Dailey: "Don't you think about four good belts of gin is a lot bettter?

Merriman Smith, UPI White House reporter, on how to get close to the Kennedys: "The Secret Service accepts the basic goodness of a person on water skis. .No assassin would come up on water skies." And on status symbols: "There are more people that have gone into various Kennedy swimming pools than there are Indian maidens in Lake Minnetonka. Aspiring men in Washington now put on their dinner jackets and jump in the bathtub — and next morning their wives hang the jacket out on the line as a status symbol."

Escorts Visitors To Door

Smith said that "Kennedy has... a very warm thing — frequently he escorts visitors to the front door of the White House, and that's never been done before." Said Kamen: "And it also makes sure they go out."

I thought the ability of George Kirby, the mimic, as demonstrated Wednesday night approached genius in that field. And I hope you saw the Tuesday night films brought by the Army parachute captain of the new sport of free-fall drops from airplanes — Fantastic closeup shots of human beings maneuvering like gliding birds while plummeting earthward.

Thursday night, Griffin said to Hugh Downs: "That's the last time you'll ever sit in that chair as an announcer. An era in television is ending."

Downs said: "Yes, it's over five years — five years July 9. At that time I gave this whole idea about four weeks — I and some other pundits."

Downs will move on next month as host of the "Today" show.

As a compulsive non-gambler, I enjoyed John Ciardi's inspection of Harold's Club in Reno when CBS's accent presented "The Gambling Americans" Thursday night. This club, which begins its highway advertising signs somewhere east of Indianapolis, has some customers who spend 14 to 16 hours a day gambling there, having their meals sent in. Who said all Americans wasted their leisure hours glued to their television sets?

And I was pleasantly diverted by Vic Damone's "Lively Ones" and its music on NBC, but I must say that the way they're singing "When The Saints Come Marching In" nowadays is not the way we used to sing it in the Christian Church in Boonville, Mo., when I was a moppet. We didn't have anybody wiggling her hips.

BRIDGE FINALLY FITS

SUMNER, Iowa (UPI) — Bremer County has a bridge across Buck Creek today — one that fits.

County engineer, Earl Welshons got the pre-cast bridge he ordered last month but it was one foot too long. A replacement was installed Wednesday.

"I haven't been able to get out of the house without someone saying something about that other bridge," Welshons said. One helpful resident suggested he widen the creek.

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Just about the time officials were snipping a ribbon at the entrance to the new $400,000 wing at Hartford Hospital Wednesday a woman gave birth to a baby in an ambulance in the parking lot.

nations is the remaining hope for peace in the world."

The Iowa farm boy who became 31st President of the United States then spoke out strongly on a subject which he said "lies heavily on American minds."

"People Deeply Concerned"

"Our people are deeply troubled," he said, not only about the turbulent world around us but also with internal problems which haunt our days and nights. There are many undertones of discouragement. The press headlines imply that corruption, crime, divorce, youthful delinquency and Hollywood love trysts are our national occupations.

"And amid all these voices there is a cry that the American way of life is on its way to decline and fall.

"I do not believe it.

"Perhaps amid this din of voices and headlines of gloom, I may say something about the inner forces from which come the strengths of America. They assure its future and its continued service to mankind.

"The mightiest assurances of our future are the intangible spiritual and intellectual forces in our people, which we express, not by the words of the United States but by the word America. That word America carries meanings which lie deep in the soul of our people. It reaches far beyond the size of cities and factories. It springs from our religious faith, our ideals of individual freedom and equal opportunity, which have come in the centuries since we landed on these shores.

Has Guided Us

"It rises from our pride in great accomplishments of our nation and from the sacrifices and devotion of those who have passed on. It lifts us above the ugliness of the day. It has guided us through even greater crises in our past. And from these forces, solutions will come again.

"This representative government, with its 186 years of life, has lasted longer than any other republic in history.

"If you look about, you will see the steeples of tens of thousands of places of worship. Each week a hundred million people come to reaffirm their faith.

"If you will look, you will find that the Bill of Rights is an enforced law of the land; that the dignity of man and equality of opportunity more nearly survive in this land than in any other on earth.

"If you look, you will also find that from our educational system there comes every year a host of stimulated minds. They bring new scientific discoveries, new inventions, and new ideas. It is true that they revolutionize our daily lives. But we can readily adjust ourselves and our government to them without the assistance of Karl Marx.

"I could go on and on reciting the mighty forces in American life, which assures its progress and its durability.

Cites Own Life

"Perhaps on this occasion it would not be immodest or inappropriate for me to cite my own life as proof of what America brings to her children.

"As a boy of ten, I was taken from this village to the Far West 78 years ago. My only material assets were two dimes in my pocket, the suit of clothes I wore. I had some extra underpinnings provided by loving aunts.

"But I carried from here some thing more precious.

"I had a certificate of the fourth or fifth grade of higher learning.

"I had a stern grounding of religious faith.

"I carried with me recollections of a joyous childhood, where the winter snows and the growing crops of Iowa were an especial provision for kids.

"And I carried with me the family disciplines of hard work. That included picking potato bugs at ten cents a hundred. Incidentally, that money was used for the serious purpose of buying firecrackers to applaud the Founding Fathers on each Fourth of July.

"And in conclusion, may I say to the boys and girls of America that the doors of opportunity are still open to you. Today the durability of freedom is more secure in America than in any place in the world.

"May God bring you even more great blessings."

● PLT Play

friends are played by Chleo Worley as Miss Wilcox; Jerry Douthit as Sue Barrington; Homer West as Tommy Hughes and Dale Walker as Leggett Frazier.

"George Washington Slept Here," is the story of a man who sells the city apartment and moves his family in spite of his wife's distress and protest.

Located in the country on a road guarded by Mr. Prescott, the house was built before inside plumbing and is slowly falling apart because of old age.

But, because it is in the country and George Washington was supposed to have slept here, Newton Fuller bought it. Throughout the play, he remains blissfully unconcerned about the house's devastated condition.

To Fuller, the place is a nature lover's paradise. All it needs is to remove the rusty old plow, garden hose and oil can from the living room, sweep and wash two centuries of dirt from the floors and windows and fix the hole in the roof and floor.

To Annabelle, the place is only an old, dusty house she wouldn't pay more than a dollar for. When she learns Fuller has bought it, she explodes in righteous indignation.

As the play progresses, her rage cools into a quiet, humorous sarcasm with each new difficulty and additional cost, always announced by Mr. Kimber in his slow, drawn - out, dry wit.

In act two, the living room is transformed into a tastefully furnished, neat, attractive, livable room. The family still has no water in the house, but they have cleared the cobwebs. In act three, the major family crisis is possible eviction from the country home.

A green, countryside mural, used as background scenery, and seen through the set's front door, was painted by Mrs. Raymond Harrah, a Pampa artist.

Before the curtain rises and during intermissions tonight, the Modern Aires, a 10 - piece band, will play instrumental selections. Band members present last night were Dr. Frank Hatcher, leader and saxaphone player; Sonny Dunn, piano; Terry Neimeyer, drums; John Carson and Milton Saltzman, trumpets; Van Ragsdale, trombone; Richard Rath and Bobby Garrett, saxaphones.

nic when news of the tragedy reached them.

The picnic was forgotten. Everyone rushed to Methodist Hospital.

The Santa Fe Railway train was going 80 miles an hour when it struck the car. The car was fused to the train by the impact.

Police identified the dead as: Diane Smith, 16; Carolyn Carson, 17; Barbara Fancher, 16; James Loveless, 17; Sharon Miller, 16, all of Olton, and Everett 18, of Spring Lake, Tex. Baldwin, 18, and Billy Sherry, 18, of Spring Lake, Texas.

Four of the teen - agers were members of the Olton Baptist Church. Two belonged to the Spring Lake Baptist Church and one attended the Olton Church of Christ.

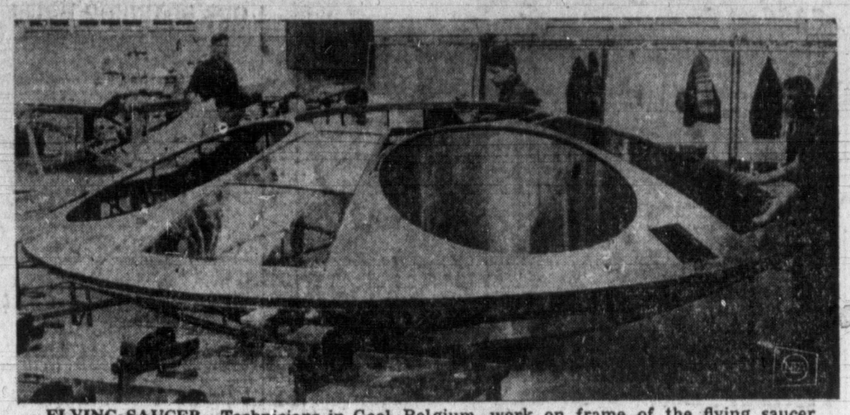

Thomas Norman Bickers, Slayton, Tex., engineer of the eastbound Los Angeles to Houston train, said, "The kids had plenty of time to get out of the way. They probably froze."

He said the car stopped on the tracks and dipped down suddenly as though the brakes had been slammed on. He said he saw Lawson jump clear.

"Then I saw the driver reach over and put his arm around his girl friend and pull her head down," Bickers said. "We were going 75 to 80 miles an hour. There was no chance to stop."

Halaby Is Unpopular Man In Dallas Today

DALLAS (UPI)— Najeeb Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, was the object of pointed criticism in Dallas civic circles today for his criticism of the city and its Love Field airport.

In Washington Halaby told a Senate appropriations subcommittee that Dallas Love Field will get no more federal aid. He accused Dallas of "childish civic pride" for making exclusive use of Love Field and leaving Fort Worth's Amon Carter Field to go to waste.

Halaby told the subcommittee Wednesday that Love Field was developed as a "pure unadulterated case of childish civic pride, costing the federal taxpayer many millions of dollars, and we are not going to duplicate it so long as I am doing this."

Reaction of Dallas civil leaders to the Halaby statement bore out Halaby's remark that, "my reputation in Texas is not very good as a native son, but I say again we are not trying to get popular."

"He is either abysmally ignorant of the facts or, if he is not ignorant, he is guilty of preconceived prejudices against Love Field," Dallas Mayor Earle Cabell said.

The mayor hinted that a link might exist between the FAA action and lawsuits by property owners in the Love Field area seeking to stall the field's new proposed runway. The Supreme Court ruled against the property owners.

"This is a clear case of abuse of bureaucratic authority," said Avery Mays, president of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

In his Senate testimony, Halaby, formerly of Dallas, said Carter Field was a perfectly good airport halfway between Dallas and Fort Worth which was especially suited for jet plane traffic.

An FAA official said Love Field has less runway space than Carter Field. He said the Love Field runways are barely long enough to accomodate jets and that the planes must make their landing approaches by flying over extensive housing developments on all rims of the field.

Plans For Ranch Tour Are To Be Finalized Here

The Ranch Tour committee of the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Association will hold a luncheon meeting at Coronado Inn Saturday noon to finalize plans for the Ranch Tour scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 18.

The tour will begin at 7:45 a.m. with registration on the ranch of J. P. Calliham, six miles south of Panhandle or three miles north of Conway on Hwy. 15.

Five ranches will be visited in the forenoon with a noonday stop at City Park in McLean for a barbecue lunch.

Five more ranches will be visited in the afternoon with the windup scheduled for 4:30 p.m. on the Maddox Ranch, five miles west of Miami on FM Road 282, where ice cold water melon will be served to end the tour.

Members of the Tour committee are Paul Dauer, J. P. Calliham, Gus Carruth and Wayne Maddox.

News Editorial Is In Congressional Record

An editorial titled "Everything A-OK In Pampa, But Some New Industry Would Help" which appeared in the July 29 issue of The Pampa News, also was published in the Aug. 6 issue of the Congressional Record.

It was placed there by Rep. Walter Rogers of Pampa who arose on the floor of the House of Representatives, read the editorial, and asked that it be placed in the Record.

Rep. Rogers made the following comment with his request:

"Mr. Speaker:

"Pampa, Texas, is my hometown and I am very proud of it. It is populated by a fiercely independent group of people who believe in the United States of America and our Constitution. They strive daily to live up to their full responsibilities as individual citizens and free people and are highly successful. Like all other cities they believe in growing and they want that growth to be a sound and healthy growth on a permanent basis.

"In keeping with their general feelings on the subject, a splendid editorial was printed in the Pampa Daily News of Sunday, July 29, 1962. I place that editorial in the Record today so that our people in other sections of this great country may have an opportunity to read about our city to interest themselves in doing business with it."

The editorial was then reproduced in full in the Congressional Record.

McRae Services Are Pending Here

Funeral rites are pending for Helen Louise McRae, 418 N. Yeager, who died at 1:15 a.m. today in a local hospital.

She was born July 23, 1898, in Enid, Okla.

Survivors are three sisters, Mrs. Jean Dalziell of Salem, Ore., Mrs. Annie Brame of Port Orchard, Wash., Mrs. Catherine Kertson of San Diego, Calif.; two brothers, Angus of Salem and George of El Reno, Okla.

Arrangements will be announced later by Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

All-Over Loveliness Required In Summer

By ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A well-cared for complexion might carry you through the winter, but with swimsuit time here, more than just your face and neck must face the light of day.

All-year care of the rough areas on your arms, legs and feet should be a regular part of good grooming. But if you've been neglectful, now's the time to get going.

Calluses on your feet, pump bumps on your heels and scaly, dry elbows can mar the effect of your new swimsuit, play clothes, and sandals.

First use a damp pumice stone, in a circular motion, on all the rough spots. And then apply a good body lotion from head to toes.

One such is a fragrant ultramarine liquid that is claimed to soften and smooth the skin and guard against dryness. It's not sticky or greasy and is immediately absorbed.

If you are one of the many women who find that their golden tan fades all too soon, frequent application of body lotion will prove helpful.

Dry skin is the major enemy of a smooth sun tan, for it's the sloughing off of dead skin that makes a tan mottle and disappear before its time. Keep your skin moist and your tan will last longer.

For all-over loveliness at the beach, this girl uses a fragrant body lotion to smooth out rough elbows, knees and heels.

Take It From Kathy

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: Last year our school had a student council for the first time and I was elected president. Instead of letting us operate independently, the principal expected me to push his ideas while he stayed in the background. I went along reluctantly, but it became pretty obvious that I was supposed to be a carbon copy. The kids resented this, and thought I should stick up for their rights instead of being bossed.

I worry about what will happen when school resumes. I will be in office, and at this point no one else would take the job. How far should I go to back up the kids who elected me?—J. L.

Dear J. L.: Making the rules for a game as you went along would be pretty confusing. Guide lines should be set for student organizations, too.

Your principal's superiors and the public get an impression of how well he does his job through you. He won't let you take over his job, nor will he take the blame, while you learn by making mistakes. Do you blame him?

The principal has the right to share as much or as little authority as he chooses. In your case the students feel gypped because they assumed this would be THEIR government. It's up to you to talk to the principal and determine the areas you control.

When you know what rights you have, you should carry out the wishes of your classmates as their elected representative. However, no student body has the right to assume general authority and intrude on the principal's job.

Dear Abby....

Well-Meaning Mother Doesn't Help Son

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our 12-year-old boy was born with a harelip (cleft palate) and a club foot, too. It cost us up in the thousands to make him normal and, in our eyes, he IS normal. He has a nice personality. He joined a Little League baseball club and was thrilled when he made the first team.

The other boys made so much fun of him it broke my heart, so I made him quit the team and returned the suit. Did I do wrong?

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. If there are traces of your son's handicaps perhaps he must learn to live with them. Protecting him from unpleasant situations in not helping him to adjust. You meant well, but you should have let him slug it out.

DEAR ABBY: Never did I think that a syndicated columnist would put me in second place with my boy friend. He had the nerve to tell me not to fog up his glasses until he finished reading DEAR ABBY.

DEAR MISS: You're being framed! And HE needs contacts.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please warn kind-hearted truck drivers and other drivers NOT to pick up elderly people unless they KNOW the hitch-hiker is in full command of his mind? My father is almost 80 and walks with a cane. Once, on his way to the grocery store (which is half a mile down the road), he hitched a ride with a truck driver who drove him 200 miles. It took us five days to locate him. Another time he hitched a ride with a man who took him to Chicago. We had the police looking for him for two weeks. Old folks are sometimes forgetful. It is better to let them walk.

LOOKING FOR DAD AGAIN

CONFIDENTIAL TO IRMA: You are mistaken (and so was I until Dr. Raper straightened me out!) —dentures, no matter how expertly fitted, do not come close to doing the job as well as one's natural teeth. So do yourself a favor and take good care of the teeth you have.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Archers Honored On Anniversary

LEFORS (Spl) — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallis were host and hostess to a surprise anniversary event honoring Mr. and Mrs. Joe Archer, Friday night, in their home.

The couples attending brought their children, who turned in at regular time, and made it possible for the adults to play table games throughout the evening till the wee hours of the morning, and enjoy refreshments of dips, cake, coffee, punch, etc.

The next morning the group grilled ham and eggs, and had breakfast outside with their children.

Attending other than the hosts and honorees, were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fort of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Teel, and their families.

Jewelry Should Enhance Looks

ALICIA HART
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

No matter how costly the items in your clothing and jewelry wardrobe, you can look badly dressed if they're not properly co-ordinated when you wear them.

A friend of mine, who hasn't an inexpensive item in her closet, made me very much aware of this fact. She visited me one afternoon, wearing a summer dress of pink linen. Around her neck was an elaborate diamond pendant, one I knew to be very valuable.

On her fingers were three diamond rings. And with all this, she was wearing gold earrings, set with rhinestones. The earrings were beautifully made, but they created the general effect that all her jewelry was costume jewelry, and not good costume jewelry at that. To top it off, none of her jewelry, fine or fake, was right for her casual dress.

So there she was, a young fortune on her back, and looking like something out of a grab bag. Be careful to accessorize your clothing properly or you won't be well turned out.

Keep Cool

When you're trying to get to work on a hot summer morning, nothing seems to take longer than getting into a girdle after your shower.

More than any other time of year, summer is the season for lavish use of dusting powder. Use it not only on your body, but on your girdle, too. It will make the chore a lot simpler. It's wise, too, to spray light cologne over your body before you use the bath powder. It will make you feel cooler and will combat heat rash during the day.

For another cooling trick, put your lingerie into the refrigerator until you're ready to dress. Your cologne, too, will be more refreshing if you keep it "on ice."

Don't wear tight-fitting clothing. Even your shoes should have some ventilation. These precautions won't keep you from feeling the heat entirely, but they will make you a bit more comfortable.

Wash Powder Puff

A clean powder puff is one of your most important beauty tools. And knowing how to keep it clean will pay off in beauty dividends.

Make a solution of warm water and suds and gently squeeze it through your puffs until they are clean.

Rinse by swishing them through clear warm water until all traces of suds disappear. Do not squeeze them dry, but grasp the edges with thumb and forefinger and shake the dripping water out so that the pile stands up like new.

Then lay the puffs on a towel in the sun to dry, or toss them in an automatic dryer with your lingerie. When finished, you'll think they are brand new.

20-30 Club Plans For Bake Sale

LEFORS (Spl) — The 20-30 Club met last Friday night in the home of Mrs. Ray Dickerson, in a called meeting to discuss having a bake sale.

It was decided to have it Saturday at Gatlin's Grocery beginning at 9 a.m. All products are to be home-made with no mixes used.

The yearbooks were passed out for approval and necessary changes. They will have covers put on and be distributed at the installation of new officers in September.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to members present: Mmes. J. M. McPherson, Joe Archr, Bill Kindle, Robert Parsons, Chestine Dunn, E. L. Foshee, and Ray Dickerson. One guest was present, Mrs. Richard Kysar, Mrs. Dickerson's sister-in-law, of Houston.

Work Summer Magic With Young People

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

I don't recall the title of the child guidance book you mentioned sometime last winter. Please send me its name. My two youngsters have joined a local play group this summer, and I have time to do some reading on several of the problems they have been presenting. My older girl has suddenly developed a stubbornness about anything she is told to do that I do not understand and . . .

ANSWER: I can't send you information on a book I mentioned because I don't know which one you're talking about.

But perhaps it is just as well.

Because summertime, you know, is not a time to read about other people's experiences with children we have never met but for enjoying our own experiences with those we live with.

It's the time to say to a child we live with, "See if you can find some of those tiny stars the fireflies are dropping all over the lawn tonight," or to involve him in the universe of speculation contained in the seaweed he found on the beach.

It's the time for instruction in the making of maple leaf coronets and for close inspection of the minute flowerets that comprise a golden rod blossom. It's a time for a mutual sniffing of wind blowing across a field of daisies.

In short, if all the children's time isn't spent in a play group, summertime is the time for such awakened uses of our own five senses that children's wake up and join ours to stand in a hand-in-hand reverence before matters that are mightier than we are; bigger than problems like "stubbornness" and other difficulties that arise between people who won't move out of the narrowed space of their self-importance.

I hope you'll free the children from the play group before school begins.

I am sorry you want to read books on child guidance in a season where guidance of appreciation of the world you live in is one of the most productive leaderships available to parents whose eyes, ears and noses are in working order.

Three Sancta Maria Convent Sisters Celebrate Golden, Silver Anniversary

PANHANDLE (Spl) — A double jubilee was celebrated at Sancta Maria Convent in Panhandle Aug. 2. This was the golden anniversary of Sister M. Borberta and the silver anniversary of Sisters M. Hildegardis and M. Valentina.

The ceremonies were followed by Solemn High Mass offered by Monsignor John A. Steinlage, pastor of St. Theresa Catholic Church, and director of the Catholic Children's Home, and St. Anne's Home for the Aged, now under construction in Panhandle. The Rev. Stanley Crocchiola of St. Francis gave the sermon and Bishop John L. Morkovsky of the vAmarillo Diocese, attended.

Sister M. Norberta was among the first School Sisters of St. Francis to come to the United States from her native Austria. She entered a community in 1910 and pronounced her first vows in 1912. She was active in the Mother House in Vienna and in several Austrian missions.

In the U.S., she cooked in the mission houses of the Society of the Divine Word and after her arrival in Panhandle was in charge of the kitchen on Sancta Maria Convent until ill health forced her retirement. She now assists when her health permits. The only surviving member of her immediate family, two other sisters were in the same community.

Sister M. Hildegardis and Sister M. Valentina came to the United States together, one year after their religious profession. After studying together at St. Albertus College in Racine, Wis., Sister Hildegardis continued to work for her B.S. at Viterbo College, La Crosse, Wis., majoring in chemistry. Before coming to Texas, she taught at Our Lady's School in Trenton, N.J. She is a teacher in St. John's School in Borger.

Sister Hildegardis is the youngest of eight children, seven of whom are still living. She has two sisters in the same community, Sister M. Philomena, Vicaress General in Vienna, and Mother M. Feliciana of Sancta Maria Convent.

Sister M. Valentina is best known for her work at the Catholic Children's Home in Panhandle, of which she was placed in charge in 1955. She received her nursing degree from St. Francis School of Nursing, La Crosse, and her B.S. from Incarnate Word College, San Antonio. Teaching and child care has always been her work. She is the second youngest of seven living children. On her recent trip to Austria, where she went to aid in selecting a Mother Superior General of the General Chapter of School Sisters of St. Francis, she enjoyed a family reunion with her mother, brothers, sisters and their families. This was her first return trip since coming over 25 years ago.

Girls' Slumber Party Ends With Hunt

LEFORS (Spl) — Miss Sue Martin was hostess to a slumber party in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin, last Friday night.

The evening was spent playing records and games and was climaxed by a hunting trip on Salt Fork Creek. They were accompanied by Sue's father. They used a wild animal call, called up a bobcat and shot him by using a flashlight and rifle.

Attending were Bennie White, Candy Cox, Shiela Collins, Dorthea Rose, Darlene Martin and the hostess.

A girl whose date takes her to dinner should pay discreet attention to prices.

Activities At Church Told

Pastor T. O. Upshaw will be in the pulpit at Central Baptist Church Sunday. His message Sunday morning will be "Then Came Sennacherif." Special music will be by the Ladies Trio.

The Brotherhood of the church is sponsoring a Barbecue for the church Friday night at Lake McClellan. The entire membership is invited to attend.

The Pastor's sermon subject for the evening service will be "The Salt of the Earth." Good crowds have been attending the Sunday evening services and have found the auditorium a cool and comfortable place to be on Sunday night.

VBS To End At St. Paul Church

The Vacation Church School in progress at St. Paul Methodist Church will end Friday with a Sharing Session at 7:30 p.m.

Parents of the children are invited to visit in the classroom of their children and observe the work that has been done during the week. There will be a fellowship period following visitation of the classrooms.

Mrs. Walden Haynes has been the director and there has been an enrolment of 90 students.

The Sunday morning theme will be, "We Must Build Anew!", Matt. 23:29-39, sermon by the pastor, Rev. Jack Riley.

COUNCIL SITE—Ornate Holy Palace of St. Peter's Basilica, Vatican City, is the site of the forthcoming ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic Church, the first since 1870.

Rev. Derr To Speak Before 1st Baptist

Reverend Edward C. Derr, pastor of the San Anselmo Baptist Church in the San Francisco, Calif., area, will be the guest speaker for both services of worship at the First Baptist Church, Pampa, Sunday.

Brother Derr is a graduate of Baylor University and the Southwestern Seminary. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Shamrock for eleven years and then volunteered for service as a Chaplain in the navy.

At the 11 a.m. worship service, Joe Whitten, minister of music will present the church choir in singing "There's A Wideness." Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Aria" by J. S. Back for the offertory.

The 7:30 evening worship is preceded by Training Union at 6:30. The church choir will sing a hymn-anthem and Miss Lane will play, "Siesta" by Lawrens for the organ offertory.

Do Protestants, Catholics, Jews Get Along In US?

Religion In America
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

How are Protestants, Catholics and Jews getting along with one another in America's plural society?

Not very well, according to a candid study published this week by the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The study was made by Eugene J. Lipman, rabbi of Temple Sinai in Washington, D.C., and Albert Vorspan, director of the Commission on Social Action of Reform Judaism. They took a close look at interfaith relationships in ten U.S. cities, ranging in size from New York to Muncie, Ind., and in geography from Boston to Los Angeles.

Their findings are set down with great frankness in a 344-page report entitled "A Tale of Ten Cities."

Tensions, Conflicts Widespread

"The time has come for Americans to stop beguiling ourselves about the realities of our interfaith relationships," the authors assert. Despite much talk about increased understandings and declining prejudice, "religious tensions and conflicts are widespread in America today.

The study pinpoints many issues which are generating interfaith friction. The list includes birth control, bingo, censorship, child adoption, humane slaughter laws, and Sunday closing.

But the most serious source of religious discord, it reveals, is deep-seated disagreement about church-state relations in the field of education.

"Jews are militantly, occasionally almost hysterically sensitive to religious teaching in public schools," the authors report. But Catholics and most Protestant groups are unwilling to see the public schools become "Godless." And as the uproar over the Supreme Court's recent prayer decision demonstrated, they also can get pretty emotional about it.

"The most ominous reef in the whole sea of interreligious relations," the authors say "is the question of government aid to secretarian schools." Catholics feel that their parochial schools are entitled to public support in the costly task of educating one-eighth of the nation's children. But to protestants, "This is the key church-state issue," and the line against tax support for sectarian schools must be held at all costs.

As a start toward genuine "religious coexistence," they suggest that leaders of the three faiths seek opportunities to cooperate in social action projects. They cite examples from the ten cities they studied to show that interfaith effort on behalf of commonly approved civic cause is "the most promising door to improved relationships."

'Consequences Of Sin Are Sure' Is Sermon Subject

The Sunday School Hour at the Highland Baptist Church begins at 9:45 a.m. There is a department and a class for every age group. The teachers in the adult departments will be teaching the lesson "A Call To Repentance."

For the 11 a.m. Worship Service, Sunday, Rev. Allison has chosen as the subject "Consequences of Sin Are Sure." The scripture will be read as found in Romans 6: 1-23.

The Training Union Hour begins at 6:30 p.m. The subject "Must We Worship Alike?" will be discussed in the adult departments. Training Union will be followed by the Evening Worship Service at 7:30 p.m., during which time Rev. Allison will read Ephesians 2: 1-10 and speak on the subject "The Nature of Salvation."

Roy Harper, minister of music, will direct both the Junior and Senior Choirs and the congregation in the song services. He will be assisted by Mrs. Don Stafford, Junior Choir Director, and Mrs. Gene Winegeart, pianist.

Prayer Meeting, August 15, will be lead by the pastor, who will read 1 Corinthians 12:1-21 from the Bible and discuss "The Church At The Worship Service." Adult Choir Rehearsal will follow the prayer meeting, at 8:15 p.m.

TO HEAD DISTRICT CONFERENCE — The third quarterly district conference of the North Texas area Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will convene Sunday in Amarillo. Presiding over the meeting will be, right, Jack Boles, Lubbock, district president and Ralph Hill, Texas mission president. All Latter Day Saints in the north Texas district are urged to be present at the conference.

The Adult Bible Study, "The Gospel of Mark," will be held in the church parlor.

The Sunday Night Service at 7:30 will be conducted by Rev. Pearce, who will speak on the topic, "Three Fools."

Tuesday, August 14, WSCS Dist. Seminar. Wednesday, August 15, Family Night, 7 p.m., Rev. Pearce to show slides from England.

The Lighter Side

On Armed Forces 'Missions'

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At the Pentagon, everyone and everything has a "mission." This shows how much the military lexicon has changed since World War II.

During the war, you'll recall, everyone and everything was a "task force."

In the beginning, the armed forces had more tasks than forces. But toward the end they had more forces than tasks.

It finally got to the point where two WAC corporals couldn't go to the water cooler without being called a task force.

After the war there wasn't much need for task forces, so everyone and everything became an "operation."

Termed Everything "Operation"

No commander in the past 15 years has planned a troop maneuver, training exercise, fire drill, cocktail party or trip to the PX without labeling it "Operation Something-or-Other."

I understand that when a patient in a military hospital is being prepared for surgery it is called "Operation Operation."

Now it appears that operations are being replaced by missions. At least I got that impression from a volume of testimony just released by the House subcommittee on military construction appropriations.

Early in the hearing, Assistant Navy Secretary Kennedy E. Belieu perplexed one of the subcommittee members by referring to the mission of the family housing program.

Asked to elaborate, Belieu explained that "the mission of a house is to keep you warm and contented."

He added, however, that "in Alaska it is different than it is in Florida." I took this to mean that in Florida, the mission of a house might be to keep you cool and contented.

Another Testimony Heard

Near the end of the hearing, the subcommittee heard about another type of mission, this time from Col. W. J. Woolwine, treasurer of the U.S. Military Academ.

Testifying in behalf of a request for funds to modernize a government-owned hotel at West Point, Woolwine boldly asserted that "the mission of the hotel is to provide rooms."

Although Woolwine didn't say so, I deem it logical to assume that a corollary mission of the hotel is to keep the occupants of the rooms warm and contented.

Its mission, however, definitely doesn't include keeping them cool. Witnesses testified that a proposal to air-condition the hotel was rejected by Army headquarters, whose mission is to curtail unnecessary spending.

Dr. Brandt Will Speak On Sunday

Dr. Floyd Brandt, a professor at Northwestern University and a native of Pampa, will preach at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday.

Dr. Brandt and his family are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brandt, 429 North Wells, while on vacation from Evanston where he has been working on a new book. Raised in the local Church, Dr. Brandt received his PhD at Harvard. He has served his Church as an active youth leader here and is now in the Church of Evanston. He has taught courses at McCormick Seminary in Chicago.

The Senior High Fellowship will meet at 6:30 p.m.

DELEGATES—Getting acquainted at Girls Nation in Washington, D.C., are delegates Dianne Elizabeth Sanders, Oahu, Hawaii, center, and Peggy Campbell, left, and Pat Kennedy, both of Rhode Island. Girls were among 100 outstanding high school juniors taking part in Girls Nation, a practical school of politics at American University in Washington, D.C. Delegates were selected from more than 17,000 contestants in most of the states and the Panama Canal Zone.

WEST LOS ANGELES — The Rev. A. J. Soldan, in a final tribute to Marilyn Monroe:

"She was on a mountain of popularity and stardom ... with sometimes the winds of adversity flowing across her. When people met her looking down they left her looking up. She was a wonderful friend. God, I'm not complaining that you took her, I'm only grateful we had her."

AHOSKIE, N.C. — William Melton, pleading guilty to a charge of striking his wife:

"Your honor I spent 16 months on Guadalcanal during World War II. Bombs were dropping and shells exploding all that time, but I had a better time there than with her."

ALBANY, N.Y. — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, expressing concern over President Kennedy's proposals for a nuclear test ban:

"In the last 18 months; we have moved steadily toward the Soviet position."

BISHOP GIVEN RIDE

CHIPPENHAM, England (UPI) — The Rev. Edward Henderson, 52, bishop of Bath and Wells, was given rides in go karts Wednesday, including one that travelled an estimated 115 miles an hour.

The bishop thanked the driver and added, "if you are ever in Wells call on me and I will show you round the cathedral — but rather more slowly."

Christian Science Services

The practical value of striving for perfection will be stressed at Christian Science church services Sunday.

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson - Sermon to be read. It will include this admonition of Christ Jesus (Matthew 5): "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

Among the correlative citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following:

"The divine demand, 'Be ye therefore perfect', is scientific, and the human footsteps leading to perfection are indispensable. Individuals are consistent who, watching and praying, can 'run, and not be weary; . . .walk, and not faint,' who gain good rapidly and hold their position, or attain slowly and yield not to discouragement. God requires perfection, but not until the battle between Spirit and flesh is fought and the victory won" (p. 253).

VITAL CHRISTIANITY

Ever since man stepped his foot on the stage of human experience and existence he has desired power. Some men have wanted only enough to meet their present circumstances which might be undermining their present happiness. Others have desired power just as an outgrowth of suppressed and coveted goals longed to be achieved. Some men have exercised their power at the expense of their fellow countrymen drenching their land in blood only to meet selfish desires. History reveals the limit to which man will go in order to "get power" only to hold it momentarily and then being forced to relinquish it because they could not tame themselves.

How utterly different is the power eminating from the Roman Cross on which Jesus hung as it stands sharply outlined against the blackness of human depravity that made it possible. Through the centuries men have turned to this power and have discovered something unique among the power-filled things of the world. It continues to "tower o'er the wrecks of time" because it has forceably demonstrated its eternal worth and stark reality. Paul Sherer in his book, "For We Have This Treasure," has said "It is not Christianity that is tiresome; it is what we make it. It is not Jesus of Nazareth who bores men; it is their everlasting effort to dodge Him down the road of their own convenience."

The wisdom of men would fill the pews
The power of God would fill the souls
Fill the souls and the pews will take care of itself.

VITAL CHRISTIANITY IS PERSONAL. Jesus Christ is God's answer to the man who cries out, "I have sinned." That solemn confession has been made by various men covering a wide range of history. The forerunner of Christ did some excellent plow work when he said, "Behold, the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world." This makes the massage of forgiveness very personal.

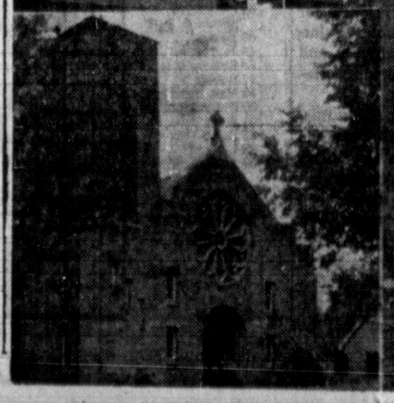

VITAL CHRISTIANITY IS WORLD WIDE. World wide because in its vision it brings men face to face with the truth that we are the recipients of God's grace and mercy. Many people in our world today recognize the leadership of Jesus and yet they do not recognize his saviourhood. The message of "God so loved the world" has in no way been revoked.

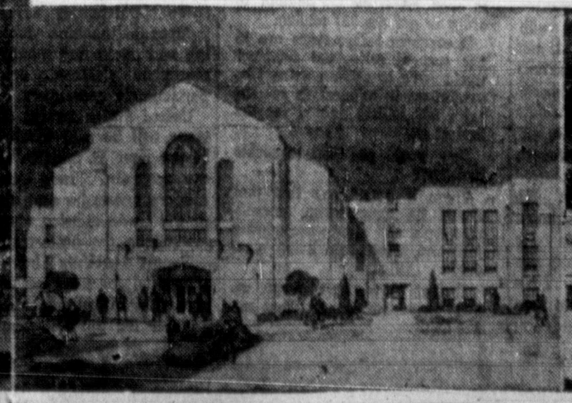

"Ye that have faith to look with fearless eyes
Beyond the tragedy of a world at strife,
And know that out of death and night shall rise
The dawn of an ampler life.
Rejoice, whatever anguish rend the heart
That God has given you the priceless dower
To live in these great times and have your part
In freedom's crowning hour;
That ye make tell your sons who see the light
High in the heavens-their hertiage to take
'I saw the powers of darkness take their flight;
I saw the morning break.' "

VITAL CHRISTIANITY IS SATISFYING. "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied" (Matt. 5:6) Ralph W. Sockman, "The Higher Happiness" provides this thought. "Two brothers entered the ministry. One spent his life in an obscure New England village, growing gray in the service of his little flock. Although his name was not known outside his local community and his salary was most meager, he knew a happiness which was reflected in his benign and genial face. A statement he made, 'The only way a minister can be happy is to feel himself a channel.'

The other brother rose to high ecclesiastical office. He was an impressive and pompous prelate. A view of him etches itself into one's mind. He was riding on a train from one speaking engagement to another. He was uneasy and dissatisfied. He complained that he had not been properly advertised in the city here he had just spoken, and he was fearful he be not properly prepared for at the next place. He hungered and thirsted after his own rights and power, and he was left empty of soul. His humbler brother hungered and thirsted after righteousness, and he was satisfied."

Jesus said, "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."

AN INDEPENDENT FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by any government, with the gift of freedom, and that it is every man's duty to God to preserve his own liberty and respect the liberty of others. Freedom is self-control, no more, no less.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guides expressed in the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands Freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities in harmony with the above moral principles.

Mary Carter And The FTC

There's an intriguing bit of viciousness coming from the Federal Trade Commission respecting the Mary Carter Paint Company of Tampa, Florida.

The Mary Carter Paint Company is a large and vigorous firm which has outlets all over the country. It operates in an efficient manner, does a major job of paint distribution and manufacture and has had for a number of years a particular sales gimmick which it uses with effectiveness.

This gimmick is certainly not original with Mary Carter, nor is it the only firm now which uses it. The gimmick is: "Buy one, get one free." Nearly ten years ago the Federal Trade Commission decided that the only interest of the government when such a gimmick was used was to make certain that the use of the word "free" was not dishonestly employed in any case. That is, if a person were to buy a product with the assurance that a second item was to be given free, the FTC felt that the second item ought to be free in fact, and not a come-on, something with strings or conditions, or in any other way misleading. This fact, in itself, ought to have kept Mary Carter Paint out of the clutches of the FTC, for this is precisely what the firm has done.

Mary Carter Paint prices its product at $6.98 per gallon and it refuses to sell a single can of paint for less than this price. However, if you buy a gallon at that price, you get a second gallon free. No strings. No conditions. No added cost.

Curiously, the FTC has decided that what is a fact in this case isn't a fact. The FTC has ruled, altho there was an instructive dissenting opinion, that Mary Carter Paint is in violation of commission rulings. The theory seems to be that Mary Carter actually values its paint at about half of what it charges per gallon. And then, in order to sell more paint it doubles the price per gallon, but gives a second gallon without cost. So, says the FTC, the price paid by the customer is really the price of two gallons, not one, and Mary Carter is a bad girl.

But this is absolutely specious reasoning, which if followed would forever remove the possibility of any firm ever giving a free premium or a free product to a customer.

For there can be no question whatever that customers pay all the costs. And if a retailer elects to sell ANYTHING at any price, and then gives one additional item with it as an inducement or as an advertising device, the fact is that what the customer pays for the first item IS the total price paid for the two items. And it could be argued that, this being the case, then the retailer actually valued the first item purchased at only half of what he charged for it because he gave away a second item which he must have valued as much.

All that the Federal Trade Commission has done is to cross itself up and in process discriminate against the Mary Carter Paint Compay, which is a fine firm and sells, so far as we can determine some very effective pigmentation.

This is just one more example in which the public is going to suffer. Also, it is another example of how the public will be pettifogged by the workings of the FTC mental peregrinations. For the illusion will be fostered that the FTC is "protecting" the customers. In actual fact, the FTC will be rooking the customers, preventing them from receiving a better bargain and a bit of a dividend from a successful operation.

This will slow down business generally, encourage distrust in the market operations, and lead us toward the total state which is the dream of the socialist fulminators.

Mary Carter Paint Company is taking the matter to the U.S. Court of Appeals and may there obtain a reversal of the FTC ruling. We certainly hope so.

But this is typical of the manner in which the government intrudes in the economy, makes things difficult for everyone and penalizes the customers on the grounds that it is "protecting" something.

Jammed Controls

With the stock market doing back flips and nose dives its's quite possible that Mr. Kennedy, who triggered the conditions, has set the new depression into motion. And this from a man and his advisers, who have always claimed that by federal controls and regulations, the economy could be controlled!

Magazines Want To Keep Subsidy

We have received a long, sad story of woe from the Magazine Publishers Assn. As we read through their 36-page booklet and 2-page news release we get the idea that they are unhappy about the proposed postal rate increase bill (HR 7927).

The magazine publishers, (Time, Life, Readers' Digest, McCall's, Hearst, Curtis, and many others are included) have included the comments of numerous writers for the magazines to help them in their fight against this increase.

What these comments boil down to is this: That the Congress should "preserve America's great literary heritage by rejecting further postal increase for the nation's magazines." They also claim the increase would be injurious to a free press. This is based on the contention that many magazines are now operating on a marginal basis and any further increase in costs will put them out of business.

The publishers say that if the measure is passed into law (it has already been approved by the House) "a number of magazines will be unable to survive" since publishing costs are becoming prohibitive.

This plaintive statement is followed by the argument that the postal department "was established not to make money, or to break even, but for the dissemination of knowledge."

There we have it. The magazine publishers are asking for a subsidy so they can continue to bring information, amusement and culture to their readers.

Herbert R. Mayes, president of McCall's and a member of the executive committee of the Magazine Publishers Assn., puts their case this way:

". . .the decision on postal rates will have to be weighed, not in pennies per pound, but in the effect on the circulation of ideas to and from free minds — hundreds of millions of them — around the world."

We would certainly agree that some magazines have excellent informative articles. Some have amusing contents. Some contain highly cultural material. Some have none of these.

But, we think that those persons who are interested in receiving this diverse information should pay for it.

If we subscribed to Time magazine (which we don't) we should pay for what we received, not expect other taxpayers to shoulder part of the burden.

If we subscribed to Reader's Digest (which we do), it is because we feel we are getting our money's worth and not because we feel that it is any proper function of the government (by virtue of its ability to seize money from the people) to help provide us with information, amusement or culture.

To us it is this simple: If enough persons want a magazine (or any other product) they will support it, by purchasing it. If not enough want it (in a free market) it cannot continue to exist.

The one, by virtue that it exists on a free market, justifies its existence. The other has no reason for existence.

We ask for no subsidy. We have constantly opposed reduced or free mailing privileges for newspapers. We prefer to take our chances on a free market. The magazine publishers would do well to do the same.

Pull Up A Chair

By Neal O'Hara

A confection featured at New York's Coney Island this summer is a de luxe all-day sucker, 14 inches in diameter and selling at $7.50 each. It is colored lemon yellow, cinnamon brown, raspberry red, mint green, strawberry pink and persimmon green, and boasts 14 orbital swirls. It's claimed it will take 37 hours of constant licking to consume it. . . The size of a person's hand is not significantly related to the strength of its grip, or whether it will be fast or slow, deft or clumsy, in its skills. Among artists, musicians and surgeons who depend on their hands for a livelihood there is an infinite variety of stubby fingers, slender fingers, iarge hands and small hands.

Haadline in the Atlanta Constitution: "Boy, 11, Finds Gun Is Killed As It Goes Off.". . .A portable sonar for divers enables them to "see" with their ears within a range of 50 yards, even in muddy water . . . Sign over a display of garden seeds in a flower shop: "Do not pickpocket the seeds. You are being watched on television."

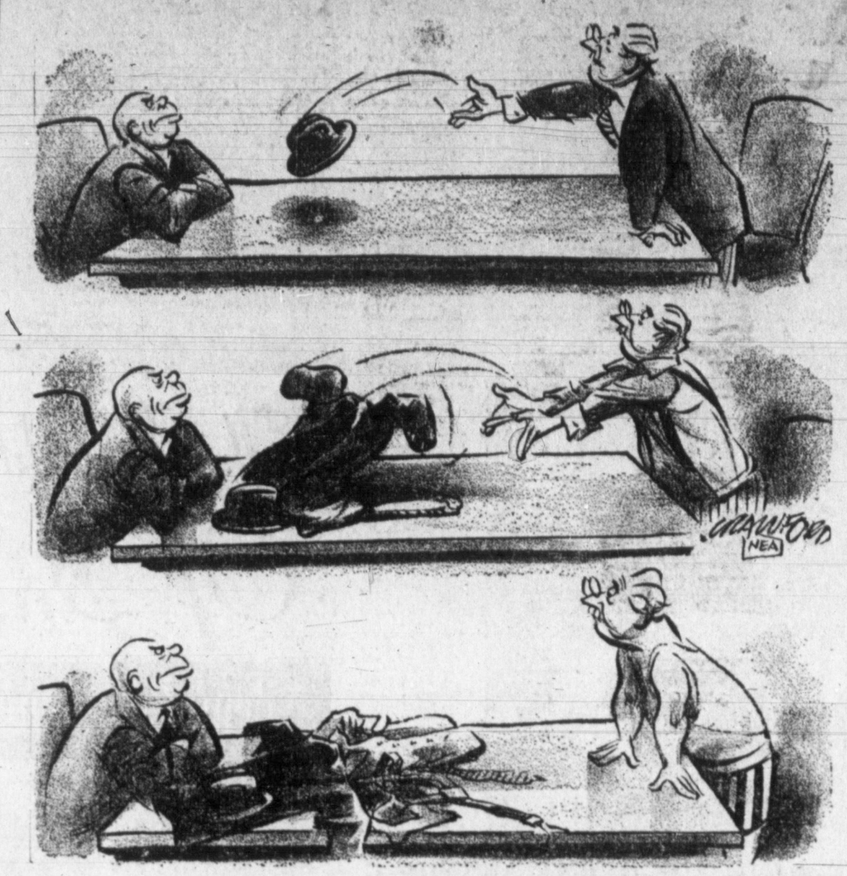

Today's favorite gag: FATHER —"You can't marry my daughter without my permission." BOY FRIEND—"Why not?" FATHER —"Because she's a minor." BOY FRIEND—"You mean I gotta ask John L. Lewis?" . . . Purely psychological: Instead of the usual "c" sign to denote "cents," one major Chicago discount house on its store cards spells out "pennies" thus: "39 pennies."

Green fees on the average golf course in Scotland, where golf originated, run much lower than over here. They run 30 to 50 cents, except at the classier courses where the fee may reach $2. Caddie fees are slightly less than a dollar. And a zealous golfer, for one green fee, at the peak of summer can play in daylight from around 4 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. . . . Sign in a Washington book store: "'You Can Make Money in the Stock Market' — originally $5, now reduced to $1.95."

Thoughts while shaving: 1. Over here, Franklin D. Roosevelt was the first President to be familiarly known by his initials, but the British beat us in that respect. In the 1920s, when the present Duke of Windsor was the Prince of Wales and the idol of all England, he was often referred to a "H.R. H." meaning "His Royal Highness." His younger brother, the Duke of York, who later became King Georve VI, as well as his sister, the Princess Mary, also rated the title of H.R.H., but for some reason, it always seemed to refer to the Prince of Wales . . . 2. Quick, now, was Henry J. the name of a ship, a whiskey, a candy bar, an automobile or a brand of plub tobacco? And, if you give up, Henry J. was the name of an automobile produced by the Henry J. Kaiser interests. It was not long on the market . . . 3. We forget whether it was Weber & Fields or some other pair who always evoked laughter in the theater when one comic asked the other, "Wuz you ever in Cincinnapolis, O-ho-ho?" . . . 4. Three great minds had these varying slants on what is man. Thomas Carlyle observed: "Man is a tool-using animal." Charles Dickens wrote that man is "a being, erect upon two legs." And it remained for Heinrich Heine, the German poet, to make this assessment: "Man — the aristocrat among the animals."

Country editor speaking: "Without commercials, pay - TV offers no pause for loping to and from the refrigerator."

HOW U.S. CAN BECOME A SECOND-RATE NATION

(Christian Economics)

FRED G. CLARK and R. S. RIMANOCZY

The power of modern nations is rated according to only one factor — the quantity and quality of their tools of production.

That is what brought the United States to world leadership.

One of the most significant facts in the world today is that, since World War II, the United States has allowed its stock of tools to go downhill.

A case in point is America's steel industry.

At least 20 per cent of our steel facilities now in operation should be junked.

The reason is simple: in the face of constantly rising production costs, earnings have not been enough to provide the money needed to buy new plants.

For many years this problem has been plaguing steel management.

Since 1958 the industry has absorbed wage and benefit increases of 40 cents per hour without increasing the selling price.

That is why, in April, the steel companies tried for a 3½ per cent price increase.

In answer to the statement — "The time was not right," one may ask — "What time would be right?"

In most cases the steel companies did not want more money for higher dividends — they wanted to have enough earnings left over, after dividends, to modernize their plants.

This point was practically ignored in the irrational uproar that greeted the proposed increase.

It might be asked why management permitted this shortage of tool money to develop.

The answer is: they had no choice.

Here is the story.

A 1960 steel plant costs more than twice as many dollars as a 1940 steel plant.

Half of the reason for this is today's cheap dollar, the blame for which rests with the deficit spending program of the government.

The other half of the reason is that the government has not allowed management to depreciate (write off before taxes) the old plants in terms of the 100-cent dollars originally put into them.

To fully understand what has happened let's consider a 1940 steel plant that cost $25 million.

Today the plant has been written off and the company has in reserve the allowed depreciation — $25 million.

But the new plant will cost $60 million.

This means that an additional $35 million will have to come from somewhere and that somewhere should be earnings.

Because earnings are taxed 52 per cent by the Federal government, the company would have to earn an extra $73 million in order to get the $35 million.

If earnings before taxes are 10 per cent of sales, the company would have to sell an extra $730 million worth of steel to get the extra $35 million needed for the new plant.

How would you like to tackle that one?

There is another fact that should be remembered; second-rate tools also create second-rate jobs and second-rate living standards.

If that is what we want, we don't have to change what we are doing.

No Waiting On Trade Bill For Commerce Department

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Department of Commerce didn't wait for House passage of the Kennedy administration trade expansion legislation to start promoting it. Nor is there going to be any "wait and see" while the Senate makes up its collective mind what to do about increasing America's exports.

The Senate Finance Committee under Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., has not yet set dates for hearings. But Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., who gave the trade agreements legislation a hard time when it was last up for renewal in 1958, says he will support the new bill. This is an unexpected break. He says there will be some unspecified amendments to the House-passed bill, but that these changes will be acceptable to the administration.

All of the 11 Democrats and three of the six Republicans on the Senate Finance Committee are expected to be for the trade program, and it is hoped the Senate will clear committee early in August. By that time Commerce Department's own trade promotion drive should be in full swing. It includes several principal items.

There's a new, slick paper, 52-page magazine to replace the old Foreign Commerce Weekly. First issues of the new publication, titled "International Commerce," cover world trade and foreign investment opportunities, business outlook abroad, foreign and United States government actions affecting American exports. In effect they present hundreds of want ads giving leads on foreign markets by country and product.

With only 12,000 out of 300,000 United States manufacturing concerns now in the export business, circulation of the new publication is limited. Price of the new weekly has been set at $16 a year to cover costs. It is hoped to build up circulation as more U.S. firms get into international trade.

A special feature of the June 25 issue covered reports from a six-man mission of United States businessmen which visited eight German industrial centers in five weeks to promote trade.

This was the first of the 101 trade missions sent abroad under Commerce Department auspices to concentrate on machinery sales. Previous missions have tried to make across-the-board presentations of all United States exports.

Reports from the mission to Germany show over 300 U. S trade opportunities developed for industrial machine tools, printing and packaging machinery and materials, electronic equipment—particularly computers.

United States foreign trade missions will be sent to 18 countries in the next 12 months, expanding the program. Trade development officers are to be sent abroad after the trade mission visits, to follow up on the hottest prospects.

Export exhibits have been scheduled for showing at 11 foreign trade fairs this fall and the number for the full year will be increased over the 17 showings in the past year. In addition, permanent trade centers will be opened in Frankfurt and Tokoyo. They will be similar to those already operating in London and Bangkok. Rotating exhibits of United States exports will be displayed.

When these trade fair exhibits were begun eight years ago by U.S. Information Service, they were largely for prestige. Now, under Department of Commerce, they are being converted to sales exhibits, orders being taken for goods on display.

This will give the American exhibits sent abroad an advantage over Communist country displays which show only models, with nothing offered for sale and no orders taken.

Commerce Department has just increased to $50 the fee charged for making foreign trade contact surveys for American business firms. But for this fee, any would-be exporter can get a foreign market evaluation for his product, with selected prospects for sales outlets abroad.

Commerce department's "E" award program for American exporters who do outstanding foreign trade development has honored 44 United States firms thus far, in 17 states. Two-hundred cases are being considered for awards.

In addition to promoting United States products abroad, the export drive is being carried on in this country.

There will be a Department of Commerce exhibit at Chicago's International Trade Fair this fall. The idea is to interest more midwest manufacturers in the export business. This campaign will be carried to other regions in the future.

Pegler Says:

FHA Loan Policy Given Blame For Repossessions

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

TUCSON — James Allison, the editor of the Midland, Tex., Reporter-Telegram, and president of the Chamber of Commerce, offers a wistful interpretation of the collapse of the market for family dwellings in that financial and technical capital of the West Texas petroleum empire.

My own superficial observation had been that the economy was out of joint because the Big Fellows of international oil were restricting West Texas production to eight days a month as a favor to their overseas possessions. Mr. Allison ignores this factor to insist that loan policies of the Federal Housing Administration are the cause of the slump which only two weeks ago had thrown about 700 Midland dwellings onto the market and moved the FHA director of 73 Texas counties to shut off "acceptances" of new subdivisions.

Meanwhile, back at the ranch at San Angelo, in the sheep and goat country, the Standard-Times tumbled to a similar situation. The Standard-Times ran a loud piece by Dave Anderson headed "Repossessed Homes Glut West Texas Market —Little Down, Long Terms One Cause For Troubles." There was a five-column photograph of Jefferson Heights, a local phenomenon which materialized in the last few years, now known by the familiar and depressing name of a "repo area." The cut-lines said:

"This is Jefferson Heights, San Angelo's last big speculative building development where more than 100 houses now stand empty. They were repossessed by FHA and Veterans Administration when buyers walked away without completing payments. One street alone has 30 repos. On July 3, the FHA had for sale in this area 108 repossessed houses, slightly more than half of the total of 191 the FHA had for sale on that date. Other areas with high repo concentrations are College Hills, Western Hills and Glenmore."

Anderson's story said the Government had 47,000 such homes on its hands across the nation, and further as follows: "The large surplus of empty homes hurts real estate business and in some places depresses values. The FHA and VA have slapped freezes on many communities, including San Angelo. Builders can't get loan commitments from the FHA or VA unless they have a buyer before they build the house. Some local sources say home construction is off 50 per cent.

"Mrs. Shell Barth, local real estate board president, blames the high foreclosure rate on the fact that FHA and VA home owners often have hardly anything invested in their homes, often after living in them several years. The minimum down payment is three per cent, but local sources admit that builders have sometimes found ways of eliminating even this requirement. Loans have been increased from 20 to 35 years" and few of the houses seem to have the stamina for more than 15 years of wear and tear with successive broods of children.

There are many such in Tucson which three years ago were enchanting, especially by contrast in my own eyes with the cheeseparing squalor of Khrushchev's luxurious little cells in the new 12-story hives in Modern Moscow. They had two bathrooms, three bedrooms and, many of them, a teevy room with a hot-dog and coke bar giving onto the kitchen. But many of them looked like hell in a few months and the lowdown, shiftless quality of the nesters was in part responsible. Having nothing at stake and no pride in their credit, floaters of the type called Oakies and Arkies in "Grapes of Wrath" proved that they were no better in pretty homes than they had been in their box-wood California shacktowns in the Great Depression. The prices of the repos have been in the range between $12,500 and $14,500. In California today signs along the freeways offer homes with no down payment.

Notwithstanding Mr. Allison's contention that the Government's idiotic loan policies are the only local economic sore spot, the fact persists that oil and gas are now down-at-the-heel industries which, with less restriction, might be blow-hards as of yore. Moreover, the loud-mouth economy which formerly shot craps with sheaves of $100 bills last year adopted a penny-ante sales tax to make up for revenues foregone by self-denial of taxes on oil and gas waiting to be sold.

Odessa, 20 miles from Midland, is a major and growing industrial center of the petrochemical trade. But when Paul Kayser, the president of El Paso Natural Gas, recently hove up at a big speaking party of corporation executives he dealt in gaudy generalities and shunned the fact that his own stock has fallen from 32 to 19-plus in a few years. There was no lack of markets or reserves, but the Federal Power Commission had clamped down limits on prices at the wells. He even had to lay off exploration experts because there is little incentive to find new reserves.

Facts You Should Know On Appendicitis Condition

Important facts you should know about appendicitis — compiled by surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital:

Acute appendicitis develops in more than 200,000 Americans each year. It is accountable for over 2,000 deaths yearly.

When the inflammation is seen in its earliest phases, the death rate is less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. When it is seen a little later, after the inflamed appendix has burst, the death rate rises to 3.6 per cent. And, if the operation is still further delayed, for whatever reason, and an abscess forms around the inflamed and burst appendix the death rate exceeds 13 per cent.

Despite great advances in surgical treatment, including use of miracle drugs, the death rate in the last group of appendiceal abscess has not been significantly reduced. And, what is especially important to prospective patients, the record shows that persons with appendicitis are seen no earlier in their disease today than they were 23 years ago.

In the report, the surgeons tend to excuse referring physicians for this delay.

If their conclusion is correct, and if it is applicable to the country as a whole, then the cause for the continued mortality must rest with patients, especially the elderly, and with the parents of young patients who delay seeking medical consultation at a time when the inflamed appensixcan be removed almost without risk.

For that reason, it may be wise to consider the early signs of acute appendicitis:

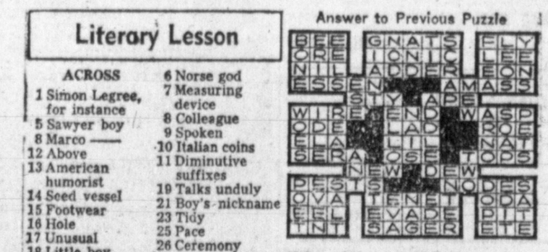

Pain in the right lower region of the abdomen that may, as a matter of experience, first begin in the pit of the stomach before it settles down below; fever, however slight, perhaps only a few tenths of a degree above normal; tenderness when the painful region is ever so gently poked.

And, in the case of infants and children too young to express themselves, whining and crying with a tendency to draw up the legs when approached.

If and when distress persists and is accompanied by fever and nausea or actual vomiting, the time for amateur observation has come to an end and the problem had best be turned over to the nearest physician.

Palmer Leading American Meet

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, thanks to a hot putter, was off and running today in his drive to break his all-time money winning record, with a two-stroke lead in the $50,000 American Golf Classic.

His first-round three-under-par 67 gave him a two-shot advantage over George Bayer, Jim Ferrier and Mike Souchak and put him in a good position to pick up enough prize money to exceed the $72,262.85 he won in 1960.

Winner of seven tournaments this year, including the Masters and British Open, Palmer has picked up $71,198 in official money-winnings thus far. And first or second place in the classic would put him over his 1960 record figure. First place in the classic pays $9,000 second place $4,600.

Palmer's putting was the story of his par-shattering round, which earned him the $1,000 bonus money for the best 18 of the day. He had 10 one-putt greens, and only 27 putts in all.

"It's the best I've putted all year, by far," Palmer said. "When I started out and saw the greens were slow I thought I might have a bad day on the greens, because I like them fast, but now it's obvious I like them slow, too."

Wind Swept Course

Palmer's 67 was considered remarkable because of a strong wind which swept the 7,165-yard Firestone Country Club course with its par of 35-35—70.

Only Palmer, Bayer, Ferrier and Souchak were able to break par. Jim Ferree was at even par 70 while at 71 were PGA champion Gary Player, Don January, Tommy Aaron, Jon Gustin, Mac Main and Jack McGowan.

Five strokes off Palmer's pace at 72 were U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Art Wall, Jerry Steelsmith, Doug Ford Tommy Bolt, George Knudson, Phil Rodgers, Jerry Barber, Jacky Cupit and Dave Ragn.

Defending champion Jay Hebert, Sam Snead, Cary Middlecoff, Bob Goalby, Frank Stranahan, Pete Cooper, Ted Kroll, Mason Rudolph and Charles Sifford, the only Negro on the PGA tour, were among those at 73.

Palmer, starting out with two birdies, went out in 36, one over par, but came home in 31, four under. Except for a string of three bogeys starting with the sixth hole he might have had a sensational round.

Four Birdies Helped

His four birdies on the back nine enabled him to take over the lead.

He sank a 20-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole, put his five iron second shot 30 feet from the pin on the par five 500-yard second hole and two - putted for another birdie. Then came three pars and that string of three bogeys.

His putter let him down the only time during the round on the sixth hole where he three - putted from 30 feet. He bogeyed the seventh when he missed the green with his approach and the eighth when he trapped his drive.

After parring the ninth, he put together three straight birdies. On the par four 405-yad 10th, he put fom t cup and sank t putt.d s his nine iron second eight feet from the cup and sank the putt. His wedge second on the par four 3 5-yard 11h carried to within 12 feet of the pin and again he canned the putt. His six iron tee shot on the 180 - yard par three 12th carried to within six feet of the flag.

Palmer's other birdie came on the par five 625-yard 16th, where he ran a 60-foot putt home.

Score Hurls Indians To 5-1 Win

By United Press International

Southpaw Herb Score hurled the pace-setting Indianapolis Indians to a 5-1 win over Dallas-Fort Worth Thursday night and the 15th triumph in their last 17 American Association games.

Omaha, in second spot eight games behind the tribe, collected two unearned runs and a legitimate tally in the seventh inning to break a 2-2 deadlock and whip Oklahoma City, 5-2. The Denver Bears nicked the Louisville Colonels, 3-2, for their eighth win in the last nine tilts.

Tonight's schedule was a repeat with Dallas-Fort Worth at Indianapolis, Louisville at Denver and Oklahoma City at Omaha.

Packers Battle Cowboys In Exhibition Tonight

By United Press International

The world champion Green Bay Packers, who manhandled the College All-Stars a week ago, pick on someone their size Friday night when they play the Dallas Cowboys at the start of a full weekend schedule of 11 pro football exhibition games.

The Houston Oilers, champions of the American Football League, also are in action, meeting the Denver Broncos at Atlanta, Ga.

Eight games are scheduled for Saturday night — six in the National League — and two in the AFL. On Sunday, the lone game pits the New York Titans of the American League against the Buffalo Bills at New Haven, Conn.

Atlanta, under consideration as an AFL expansion site, will stage pre-season games in each league within 24 hours. On the night after the Oilers play the Broncos, the NFL's Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Bears play there.

In other Saturday night NFL games: The New York Giants take on the St. Louis Cardinals at Canton, Ohio, site for the new pro fotball Hall of Fame; the Los Angeles Rams and the Washington Redskins clash in the annual Los Angeles Time charity game on the West Coast; the Philadelphia Eagles play the Baltimore Colts at Hershey, Pa.; the San Francisco Forty-Niners meet the Minnesota Vikings at Seattle's World Fair, and the Detroit Lions are at home against the Cleveland Browns.

Two Saturday night AFL games pit the San Diego Chargers against the Dallas Texans at San Diego and the Boston Patriots against the Oakland Raiders at Providence, R.I.

NEW ORIOLE

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles called up relief pitcher Dick Luebke from Rochester of the International League today after placing stricken southpaw Steve Barber on the disabled list.

Barber, who is suffering from monoucleosis, a blood disorder which requires a long period of rest, will be on the disabled list for 30 days although the Orioles fear he may be lost to them for the remainder of the season.

Boston, Mass., is the largest of the U.S. state capitals; Carson City, Nev., is the smallest.

Roebuck Pitches Dodgers Past Phillies To Maintain NL Lead

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers committed a colossal blunder — and cheerfully admit it — in the case of reliever Ed Roebuck, who hasn't lost a game now in more than two years.

Roebuck, a somewhat shopworn 31-year-old right-hander, ran his season record to 8-0 Thursday night when he was credited with an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies that maintained the Dodgers' lead at 5½ games in the National League race.

This is the same Roebuck whom the Dodger brass called "useless" when he came up with a sore arm and was unable to throw at all in 1958.

In all fairness to the Dodgers, Roebuck looked like he was all through four years ago. They gave him another chance in 1959 and when he still couldn't pitch, he was given his outright release after all other major league clubs refused to take him, even for the $1 waiver.

Remained In Farm System

Roebuck went back to the minors but chose to remain in the Dodgers' organization. It turned out to be a fortunate decision for Los Angeles.

Taking over for starter Pete Richert Thursday night, Roebuck, who suffered his last defeat on Aug. 8, 1960, choked off a Philadelphia rally in the top of the seventh and became the pitcher of record when the Dodgers clinched the game with six runs in the bottom of the inning.

Lee Walls' pinch triple off loser Dennis Bennett tied the score at 3-all and Walls then scored the go-ahead run on Ted Savage's throwing error. Frank Howard connected for another triple with the bases full off reliever Jack Baldschun later in the same frame.

Bennett, tagged with his eighth defeat in 12 decisions, had a 2-0 lead until Tommy Davis' 18th homer with one on tied the score in the sixth. Davis drove in three runs during the game and now has a total of 115.

Reds Increased Streak

Cincinnati made it four in a row over Houston, 7-3, San Francisco downed the New York Mets, 7-1, and the Milwaukee Braves blanked the Chicago Cubs, 1-0, in the only other NL games scheduled.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox snapped the Los Angeles Angels' four-game winning streak, 6-0, the Minnesota Twins cooled off the Kansas City A's, 12-10, the Detroit Tigers beat the Washington Senators, 8-5, and the Boston Red Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 4-0. Rain washed out the game between the Yankees and Orioles.

Southpaw Jim O'Toole held Houston to seven hits in evening his record at 12-12 for Cincinnati. Wally Post tripled home two runs off loser Hal Woodeshick in the first inning and Frank Robinson hit his 23rd homer in the third. The Colts broke a 38-inning scoring drought with two unearned runs in the fifth.

Sanford Won 15th

Jack Sanford registered his ninth straight victory and 15th of the season with a three-hitter against the Mets. Catcher Tom Haller paced the Giants to victory with a three-run homer in the sixth and Orlando Cepeda belted his 23rd homer in the same frame. R. L. Miller absorbed his eighth defeat without a victory.

Joe Adcock's 23rd homer of the year off Bob Buhl brought the Braves their triumph over the Cubs. Tony Cloninger struck out 10 men but got into a jam in the ninth and Claude Raymond came on to preserve the shutout.

Knuckleballer Eddie Fisher slowed down the Angels with a three hitter and Sherm Lollar gave him all the margin he needed when he put the White Sox ahead with a two-run double off loser Eli Grba in the fourth. Jim Landis hit his 14th homer in the sixth.

Twins Tied For Second

Rich Rollins' two-run single in the ninth was the Twins' margin of victory over the Athletics. The victory moved the Twins into a second-place tie with the Angels, both of whom are five games in back of the Yankees. Kansas City kayoed starter Lee Stange during a six-run rally in the fourth to go ahead, 8-4, but Danny Pfister couldn't hold the lead.

Bill Bruton drove in three runs with a pair of singles and also contributed three spectacular catches to pace the Tigers to victory over the Senators. Rookie Howie Koplitz won his third straight without a loss although he needed Sam Jones' help in the ninth. Chuck Hinton and Jim King each homered for the Senators.

Bill (no-hit) Monbouquette limited the Indians to eight hits in becoming the second straight Red Sox pitcher to shut out the Tribe. Gene Conley blanked Cleveland on four hits Wednesday night. The Red Sox scored all their runs off Barry Latman in the first inning on two errors, doubles by Ed Bressoud and Carl Yastrzemski, Frank Malzone's two-run single and a sacrifice fly.

Coyotes, Demons Are Picked To Cop AAAA, AAA Grid Crowns

LUBBOCK (UPI) — Wichita Falls and Dumas will ride the wings of fame into repeat performances as Class AAAA and Class AAA football champions, according to a poll of coaches Thursday at the 30th Annual Texas High School Coaches Assn. Clinic.

The consensus of coaches interviewed in the two top classes is that the powerful Coyotes will defeat Houston Lamar in the Class AAAA finals and Dumas will stop San Benito in the Class AAA race.

District 4 - AAAA predicted champion Wichita Falls returns three starters among 17 lettermen and will have the cream of the crop from a powerful B team. District coaches were unanimous in picking the Coyotes and said they "will be as good as last year."

Dumas, which won the Class AAA crown with a 12-2 record, returns 18 lettermen and five regulars, including all-state end 225 pound Kelly Baker.

The 4-AAAA playoff lineup, according to the coaches poll, should see Wichita Falls dispose of Odessa Permian, Tyler, and Houston Lamar in its march to the crown.

BRAVES ACTIVATE TAYLOR

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Outfielder-catcher Bob (Hawk) Taylor, recently released from the Army, has been placed on the Milwaukee Braves' active roster. Pitcher Hank Fischer has been optioned to Louisville of the American Association to make room for Taylor.

RECORD IS OFFICIAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The University of Oregon's four-mile relay team today officially holds the world record of 16 minutes 9.0 seconds. The team of Archie San Romani Jr., Vic Reeve, Keith Forman and Dyrol Burleson set the mark.

Lamar was given the nod to the finals only if it can get out of its 9-AAAA district race which boasts such powers as Houston Milby and Houston Bellaire.

A new face has been added to the danger list in AAA. Orange is the choice in 9-AAA in its first year after a drop from Class AAAA. Orange, with 10 lettermen and six starters returning, is expected to reach the quarterfinals before powerful San Benito moves in.

Ironically 16-AAA coaches feel San Benito may meet its toughest foe within its own district. Opinion was that Mercedes, could keep the semifinalists from getting out of conference play. The two teams meet at Mercedes in the Rio Grande Valley's battle of the year.

Dumas is expected to defeat Brownwood and Carrollton before reaching the finals and San Benito

NAM Answers Challenge 'How Profits Make Jobs'

HOUSTON, Tex. (Spl) — The National Association of Manufacturers, challenged by AFL - CIO president George Meany to show how profits make jobs, yesterday made public its detailed response. The NAM emphasized "there will be virtually no unused capacity in either manpower or material resources when the possibility can be seen for employing them at a profit."

The NAM study was released by Charles R. Sligh, Jr., NAM executive vice president, to whom Meany tossed the challenge during the recent White House Conference on National Economic Issues.

Sligh said the profit study has been in Meany's hands since July 16. The AFL-CIO chief acknowledged receipt of the report soon after, but without comment thus far.

Copies of the NAM statement have been transmitted to President Kennedy, Secretary of Commerce Hodges, and other government officials. This was done, Sligh explained, because the report went well beyond the profit-job relation — which the association inferred was rather obvious —and analyzed major aspects of the current economic situation.

The study also made recommendations for government, union and business action to overcome chronic unemployment and sluggish economic growth.

At the White House Conference, Meany asked Sligh to tell him "how much profit business needs" and "how this profit is going to be translated into jobs."

"The phrasing of Mr. Meany's questions suggest a possible misconception regarding the function of profit in our economic system," NAM's report said. "The point is not that profits as such create jobs, or that profits after they are earned can be translated into jobs at some calculable rate of so many dollars per job.

"It is business activity undertaken in the expectation of profit which creates jobs. If the profits are realized, the jobs continue and perhaps grow in number. If the profits are not realized, the jobs and the companies which offer them eventually disappear."

At present, the relationship between costs and prices is such that many types of activity do not offer reasonable prospect for profit and thus are not undertaken, the Association said, adding:

"Furthermore, fears that the fundamental causes of this situation are not about to be corrected discourage investment which would mean new products and new jobs in the future. Because of the fact that actual realized profits and prospects for profit in the future are below what they might be, jobs which would otherwise be created are lost."

The NAM noted there was "nothing very new or original" in this conception of the way the American economy works, and reminded Meany of this resolution, adopted by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor on January 31, 1940:

"We have learned the lesson that when opportunities for profit diminish, opportunities for jobs likewise disappear."

The Association said no one can say how much profit business "needs," noting that the economy consists of nearly five million separate enterprises, each responding to changing conditions in its own way.

The study emphasized that changed in the profitability of business operations are a cause, and not simply a result, of changes in the level of economic activity—a view supported by the impartial research of the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Analyzing recent economic trends, NAM called attention to these developments:

1. The tendency for compensation of employees to increase faster than their productivity. Between 1957 and 1961, average hourly wages increased at an annual rate of 4 per cent, while average hourly output increased at an annual rate of only 2.5 per cent. The gap is the increase in unit labor costs.

2. The recent past has not been a period of inflationary price rises. The upward creep in the consumer price index has been due mainly to increases in services, but the wholesale price of industrial products has shown practically no change since 1958.

3. An increasing squeeze on profits during the past decade. Despite the cyclical rise during 1961, corporate profits after tax for that year were only 4.5 per cent of gross national product. The only postwar year in which the profit percentage was lower was the recession year 1958.

Three successive five year periods show the following record of profits as a percentage of the GNP:

1947 through 1951. . . .7.2 per cent
1952 through 1956. . .5.2 per cent
1957 through 1961. . .4.6 per cent

The facts on costs and prices, and the facts on profits, support the view that "current economic difficulties are the result of a squeeze on profits by increasing labor costs which cannot be recovered in increased prices," NAM concluded.

The Association recommended four steps be taken to expand job opportunities and encourage business:

1. Reform of the tax rate structure and depreciation allowances, along the lines of the Herlong-Baker bills already introduced.

2. Elimination of government control and regulation of business and intervention in the free market which goes beyond the legitimate function of preventing fraud, coercion or monopoly abuse.

3. Restoration of collective bargaining to the level originally intended — between an employer and the duly recognized representatives of his own employees—to relieve the squeeze on employers resulting from unearned wage increases, insisted on by unions which have the power to dictate their own terms, and the resistance of markets to higher prices.

4. Frugal spending practices on the government's part. The financing of numerous government spending programs must be borne by the private sector, and such programs reduce the incentive and curtail the supply of funds for the expansion of our private enterprise economy.

ONLY SO HELPFUL

SWINDON, England (UPI) — Local police are only so helpful.

When a vacationing family contacted them to "please put a note on our doorstep to extend the time for no milk," the officers declined.

NERVY BANDIT

TAUNTON, England (UPI) — Henry Salter, 32, was fined $14 Wednesday for stealing a pair of trousers because he had the cheek to return to the store and ask that they be exchanged for a pair that fit.

Political Unity Negotiations Are Said 'Cracking'

PARIS (UPI) — Western Euabout the dream of a politically-united Europe.

A three-month logjam in political unity negotiations appears to have been cracked.

Prospects look good now for a Western European "little summit" meeting in Rome in September at which plans for a politically united Europe will be launched again — this time with real chances of success.

The six European Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—have been trying since last summer to agree on a blueprint for a politically united Western Europe.

Amazing Progress

They have achieved an amazing degree of success in the field of economic unity. Their aim is to try to match this with a political union which ultimately would point the way to a United States of Europe sometime in the future.

But they have run into some major snags along the way.

Chief of these is that some of the Common Market countries are shooting for a genuine political union, including a European government and elected parliament and other "suprenational" features.

Strongest supporters of such a plan are Belgium and the Netherlands.

But French President Charles desGaulle, who is against any surrender of French national sovereignty, has vetoed this blueprint. He wants nothing stronger than a loose federation of independent, sovereign states, whose leaders would meet periodically to discuss political policy, defense and cultural relations.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, originally one of the "supre-nationalists," now has moved closer towards the line of thinking of De Gaulle, whom he greatly admires.

The whole problem has been enormously complicated by Great Britain's request for admission to the Common Market.

At a conference in Paris last April, Belgium and the Netherlands refused flatly to go ahead with the political unity talks until it is known whether Britain will be a Common Market member or not.

But during Adenauer's recent state visit to Paris he and De Gaulle agreed that political unity negotiations should be lifted off dead-center as soon as possible.

The next stage now is expected to be the meeting in Rome at which De Gaulle, Adenauer and other government heads of "the six" will try to get the whole political unity idea off to a new, more auspicious start.

PEACE IN THE PACIFIC—Two threatening situations in the Pacific have been eased by negotiation and compromise. Most serious problem was Netherlands New Guinea, where 1,000 to 2,000 Indonesian paratroopers had been dropped over the last three months to fight the Dutch. Indonesians wanted to make the area, which they call West Irian, part of their far-flung island nation. Under the settlement, it will be placed under United Nations stewardship for nine months. Dutch authorities will phase out their administration during the first half of the period, then Indonesians will begin moving in. Strong guarantees were made to insure the right of self-determination to the 700,000 native Papuans. To the northwest, Britain and Malaya have agreed to create a new federation formed of Malaya and, 450 miles across the sea, Sarawak, North Borneo and Brunei, former bastions of the British Empire. It will contain 10 million people. Britain will retain use of its huge Singapore naval base.

Glenn Ford Likes Cowboy Movies, And MGM Studio

HOLLYWOOD
By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Glenn Ford looks back at the scores of cowboy pictures he's made during years of film acting and wishes he was riding a horse again.

Ford hasn't made a shoot 'em up western in 2 years, since "Cimmarron." Since then, he's been confined to pictures where horses are few and hardly a gun is drawn in anger.

Wearing a business suit for his next picture, "The Courtship of Eddie's Father," Glenn sat in his dressing room waiting for rehearsal to start, and said he missed having horses around the set.

"If I had a choice, I'd do nothing but westerns," said Glenn, who has done more than 40 of them. "For some reason or other, I feel at home in westerns."

Invested In Cattle

Ford has invested money in cattle and some of his best pals are rodeo riders, cowboys and wranglers who care for horses around movie studios.

"I like the people that are involved in making westerns," he said. "The directors, crews and wranglers, they're all my friends. They make up a little world of its own here in Hollywood and it's less phony.

"The guys are fun to be with, whether it's to drink with, play poker with or work with. I'm more comfortable with them."

Glenn recently signed a contract with Metro Goldwyn Mayer studios for five pictures, and he considers the giant lot almost like a ranch where he can hang his boots.

"A lot of people wouldn't do it," he said, talking about his contract for five pictures with one studio. "But one of the things that hasn't changed in our business is the advantage of having a home studio.

Feeling Of Warmth

"I've known them for years and I know the crews. There's a warmth between us."

Glenn spent years at Columbia, but moved over to MGM in 1954 and has used it as a home base ever since, even though he made films for other producers when his contract allowed. His pact with Metro ran out recently, but he quickly agreed to another one.

"My first contract here was on a handshake over dinner," he said. "It was a mutual respect that has been honored over the years

You can't buy this mutual respect or put it in a contract."

Citing the advantages of a major studio committment, Ford said he has expert advice on scripts, scenery, technical details, casting and other phases of moviemaking at his disposal.

"There's somebody you can discuss a project with who has no ax to grind," he said. "Even if I want to do a picture for another studio, I can ask MGM's opinion."

No Postal System

Althought it has no internal mail system, the South Atlantic island of St. Helena, site of Napoleon's exile, derives most of its income from the sale of postage stamps to philatelists.

Foreign Commentary

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN
United Press International

HONG KONG (UPI)— Marshal Chen Yi, Communist China's foreign minister, recently surprised Western correspondents in Geneva by engaging them in an informal give-and-take that is rare with any Chinese Communist diplomat anywhere.

Among other things, he spoke of Sino - American relations and of Formosa. Peiping's thinking on these two subjects is indissolubly linked together.

Peiping's statements on Formosa have been consistent from the beginning in 1949, when the Communists came to power on the Chinese mainland and the island became Chiang Kai-shek's last bastion.

Peiping's announced objective of extending its rule to Formosa, as distinct from the military or political tactics necessary to accomplish this, has never been in doubt.

Americans Unwelcome

The Communists are serious about this. When the talk of "the Americans occupying China's territory of Formosa," their viewpoint is one of chasing foreigners from their country, not of attacking a foreign government.

"We can wait 10 or 20 years," Chen Yi told his listeners. He meant it, Hong Kong diplomatic observers believe.

In the past, the Chinese Communists have made it clear they would be willing to settle the Formosa "question" by political means instead of by armed force. This might mean offering some form of local autonomy to the Nationalists under the Communist flag.

For instance, Chou En-Lai said in a speech July 30, 1955, "if possible, the Chinese government is willing to enter into negotiations with responsible local authorities of Formosa to map out concrete steps for its peaceful liberation.

Awaiting Change

So far as is known here, this offer still stands.

"The people in Peiping are waiting for the day when they will be dealing with a leader on Formosa who will ask the Americans to withdraw from hisscountry," one observer in Hong Kong said.

"No self - respecting Chinese—Communist or Nationalist — will admit that the present situation can be perpetuated. No Chinese wants an independent Formosa. Nor does he want two Chinese governments. He thinks of 'Mother China' as being one, and only one."

Notes From Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market continues to chart a selective and cautiously bullish price pattern, and there is no technical evidence that an important top to this intermediate recovery phase has been reached, according to Kenneth Ward.

The Hayden, Stone & Co. Analyst says "this certainly is no time for too much bearishpess. Confidence is gradually improving; investment funds are plentiful, particularly from institutional sources; good yields and sound values are prevalent throughout the list and, with a large short position providing latent buying support, the recovery from the May-June lows seems likely to be extended eventually. We would therefore continue to take advantage of all minor profit-taking setbacks to initiate, reinstate or augment positions in recommended stocks."

L. O. Hooper of E. F. Hutton & Co. says it is his opinion that the market, on any subsequent decline in this cycle, will not be as violent as it was in May or June. Right now he says he would discourage extreme thinking in either direction and expect "rather intense, highly critical selectivity."

NEW YORK (UPI)—A. Spear & Staff analysis, based on earnings of 22 of the 30 industrials in the Dow average, puts earnings at $9.04 for second quarter, or $36 on an annual basis.

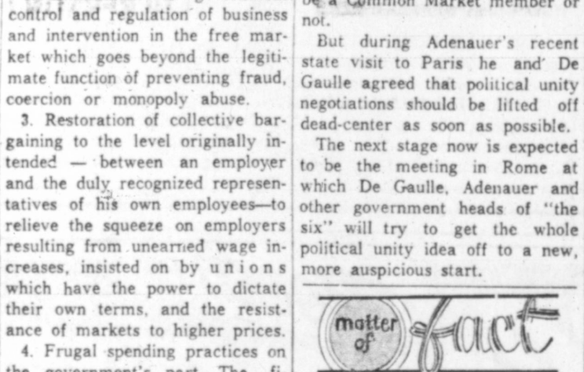

At a price-earnings multiple of 16, the advisory service notes, this would peg the Dow at around 376, or moderately below the current level.

If earnings dip, Spear notes, so will the Dow. "However, downswing periods in business are typically followed by recoveries and if such a cyclical business upsurge occurs after a tax cut, there would be a double-barreled impact to restore investor confidence and move the Dow substantially above present levels."

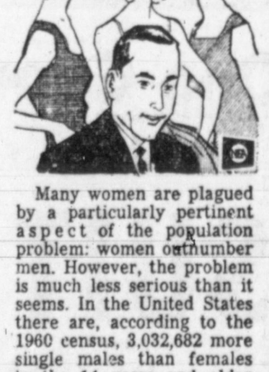

Bach & Co. says we have now seen six consecutive sessions in which the industrial average has closed above its mid-July peak while both the Railroad Average and the Advance - Decline Line (total gains vs losses in any given session charted graphically) have remained below similar levels. "Considering the unfavorable technical implications of such a divergence, we suggest that short term trading accounts consider moving out of about 25 per cent of their current long positions. Issues sold now can be replaced at the time when major technical factors begin to show strength in unison."

Basis of Radio

Henrich Hertz, in 1887 showed that waves emitted by an electric spark produced another spark in a nearby loop of wire and these "Hertizian waves" are the basis of radio.

TEEN TRENDS—Who has what in teen-age land is shown in chart above, based on a survey conducted by the Bell System. For instance, three-fourths of those in the survey owned a wrist watch. Booming teen-age market in all kinds of goods is an important factor in the nation's economy.

matter of fact

Many women are plagued by a particularly pertinent aspect of the population problem: women outnumber men. However, the problem is much less serious than it seems. In the United States there are, according to the 1960 census, 3,032,682 more single males than females in the 14-years-and-older bracket.

In Thalidomide Case

Narrow Escape For US

EDITORS: The following is the last of three dispatches on the thalidomide tragedy. It spells out existing government rules for regulating new drug products and explains new legislative proposals, being advocated for the protection of the public.

By RONALD H. NESSEN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's narrow escape from the tragic consequences of thalidomide on newborn infants paradoxically shows both the effectiveness of current drug laws and the need for tighter restrictions.

Existing regulations, enforced with dogged determination by Dr. Frances O. Kelsey of the Food and Drug Administration, blocked the sale in this country of the German-developed sedative which has been blamed for the birth deformities of children in Germany, England and Canada.

But there were no rules to prevent the American manufacturer, W. S. Merrell Co., of Cincinnati, from sending thalidomide to 1,231 doctors for testing on human patients.

There is no rule requiring that patients be advised when they are given an experimental drug. There is no rule requiring that the government be notified in advance when a manufacturer distributes medicine for so-called "clinical testing" on human beings.

President Kennedy told his new conference last week the government was considering how to tighten administrative procedures to make the testing of new drugs on humans less dangerous. The new regulations were expected to be announced shortly.

Kennedy also urged Congress to approve this year the legislation he proposed to toughen safeguards against dangerous and useless drugs. The bill is needed, he said, "to prevent even more serious disasters" in the future.

No drug may be sold in the United States unless it is approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

About three in every 10 drugs submitted to the FDA are rejected. It takes the agency an average of 62 days to approve a new drug. However, many cases stretch out for six months or more and in some instances the process takes two or three years.

Before applying to the FDA, a manufacturer tests a new drug on several species of animals. If no ill effects show up, the next step is to try out the compound on humans.

This is done by sending the drug to a selected list of doctors who agree to give it to their patients and report back the results.

Kennedy, FDA officials and others feel this is one of the most dangerous points in the drug testing process.

Among the new administrative moves under consideration by the FDA to make this step safer is stricter policing of doctors supplied with experimental drugs to make sure they have adequate test facilities and submit meaningful reports to the manufacturer.

Also said to be under study are new regulations to require drug makers to notify the FDA when they start testing a new medicine and to inform the agency immediately if any injurious side effects turn up during tests.

Under current procedures, a drug manufacturer comes to the FDA only after tests on animals and humans are complete and the firm is seeking approval to market the product.

In September, 1960, the Merrell Co. applied to the FDA for permission to market thalidomide, a drug widely used in Germany and elsewhere abroad as a sleeping pill which left no hangover and was free of the danger of overdose.

The application was handed over to Dr. Kelsey, a Canadian-born pharmacologist and physician. It was her first assignment upon joining the FDA.

In the face of what she recalls as Merrell's "ever anxious" desire to win approval, Dr. Kelsey was not convinced by the data the company submitted claiming thalidomide was completely safe.

When the 60-day period after which the firm automatically could have marketed the drug expired, she ordered an extension. She did this again and again with the backing of her superiors.

In February, 1961, Dr. Kelsey chanced to read in the British Medical Journal a report suggesting that use of thalidomide over a long period might lead to a condition marked by numbness and itching in the hands and feet.

This was th efirst hint that the drug might have toxic effects.

Then, Merrell was notified from Europe late last November that thalidomide given to mothers in the early months of pregnancy was suspected of causing phocomelia — a heretofore rare malady in which babies are born with flipper-like arms, missing limbs and other deformities.

On Nov. 30, 1961, Merrell notified the FDA of this report and withdrew its application for approval to sell the drug in the United States.

At the same time, the company contacted the doctors testing thalidomide on humans and warned them not to give it to women of child-bearing age.

In March, Merrell told the doctors to stop using the drug entirely and destroy or return any remaining supplies.

By then it was clear that thalidomide had caused thousands of babies to be born deformed in Germany, England, Canada and other foreign countries.

The new drug legislation Kennedy wants Congress to approve would give the government control over manufacturing standards of medicine makers. The firms also would have to prove to the FDA that new drugs are effective as well as safe.

To accomplish this, the bill would require new drug applicants to open to government inspectors all records on the safety and effectiveness of a medicine.

Drug names would be standardized, the government would be given new authority to police the sale of barbiturates and stimulant drugs and a federal safety stamp would be required on cosmetics.

The government would be able to order a drug withdrawn from sale if dangerous side effects showed up after the FDA had given its approval. At present, the government must seek a court order to halt the marketing of an approved drug.

The House Commerce Committee has held four days of hearings on the measure. A committee source says more hearings are planned but no date has been sent. The outlook for the bill is not good.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has written its own drug bill which Kennedy says is too weak.

In criticizing this bill, Kennedy pointed to the complaints of Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., whose subcommittee conducted lengthy hearings on the drug industry.

Kefauver says the committee bill, a toned down version of his own recommendations, is weak because it lacks these provisions:

—A requirement that drug manufacturers meet specific production standards.

—A requirement that all drug advertising contain a full description of any side effects.

—A requirement that a new drug win positive FDA approval before it can be sold. This would replace the present practice of letting a manufacturer sell a medicine unless the FDA raises an objection within a speficied period.

Woodward Sets Rodeo Aug. 29

Thrills, spills, beauty, talent and international flavor are combined to make the 32nd, internationally known, RCA approved, Woodward Eks' Rodeo, Aug. 29 through Sept. 1.

The event will open with a mammoth parade on Aug. 29 at 11 a.m., and grand entry time for each performance of the rodeo will be at 8 p.m. and the Rodeo Queen contest will be at 7 p.m. on Aug. 30 at the arena.

The Woodward Elks' Rodeo had its beginning in a pasture north of Woodward on July 4, 1929, and has been held annually, with the exception of two years during World War II, when, because of Presidential request no large crowds were brought together. From this meager beginning, because of dedicated cattlemen, ranchers, merchants and rodeo fans, this rodeo has grown to be one of the leading rodeos of the nation and annually attracts top contestants and spectators from many parts of the world. At one rodeo, guests registered from 35 states and seven foreign countries. The rodeo is now held in a modern arena at Crystal Beach Park and 500 seats are being added this year to help handle capacity crowds. The arena will now have a seating capacity of nearly 9,000.

A rodeo gallery, a real pictorial history of rodeo, is maintained in the Elks' Lodge quarters in Woodward, and contains pictures of all-time rodeo greats, governors, world famous feature acts and rodeo parades of the Woodward Rodeo. The thousands of pictures provide hours of entertainment for present day rodeo stars when in Woodward.

The fast running commentary by Cy Taillon, famous rodeo announcer and TV master of ceremony, will keep you informed of every event and action. Cy not only announces rodeos in English, he also announces Canadian rodoes in French. Each year you see and hear Cy announcing the Sports Spectacular Rodeo from the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Fanfare and music is provided by Ruby Nance and his rodeo band.

Real western hospitality reigns in Woodward all during the rodeo, entertainment is provided for all rodeo personnel, and every comfort possible is provided for those attending. A doctor, a registered nurse and ambulance service is provided at the arena during each performance.

New Birth Control Technique Is Said Effective

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jamaica women, in an 18-month field trial of family planning, have proved the effectiveness of a simple technique of birth control which costs only one-half cent per application.

A report in the New York State Journal of Medicine notes that the experience in Jamaica public health clinics could act as a guide in setting up public health action on the critical problem of family planning, especially in under-developed countries.

Dr. A. R. Parchment and Aubrey Russell, of the St. Elizabeth and Manchester health departments, reported that the technique used during the trial "reduces the pregnancy rate very substantially." It involved use of a foam-producing liquid used with an insertable moistened sponge.

The sponge, a plastic type related chemically to foam rubber, is moistened on each side with just one-fourth of a cubic centimeter of the foam-making liquid.

Pressure on the sponge produces thousands of tiny bubbles containing a type of safe and effective spermicide used in other chemical contraceptives.

The liquid was chosen because it is the cheapest and also particularly well adapted to hot, humid climates.

One ounce of the stuff, costing clinics about 30 cents, covers 60 exposures when used as directed, according to the New York firm (Durex Products Co) that supplied material for the field trial.

Dr. Parchment and his associate said the foaming liquid was distributed to patients in small dropper bottles to make measurement easy.

Mathematically, as the investigators figure it, the results indicate that if a woman in the West Indies were to use the simple technique for 25 years, she could expect one pregnancy.

Higher Rate Predicted

This compares with an expectation of from 17 to 20 pregnancies during 25 years in the population there.

The investigators said the widely used diaphragm method was too complicated for their patients and also that the cost is beyond what the family or a governmental service can usually afford.

"The oral contraceptive as now available also has drawbacks for this group, not only from the point of view of expense and need for close medical supervision but also because of the necessity of taking it 20 out of each 28 days," Dr. Parchment and his associate reported.

"This demands a kind of discipline and responsibility which is difficult to find in such groups."

Man Lynched After Killing Missionary

SANTA CRUZ, Bolivia (UPI)— A pool-hall operator who shot and killed a Roman Catholic missionary priest from Troy, N. Y., was lynched Tuesday night in nearby Montero, it was reported today.

An angry mob hanged Mario Saravia from a tree in Montero's central square minutes after his bullets had taken the life of Father William C. Kruegler, a 32-year-old Maryknoll missionary.

Father Kruegler had complained to local authorities that Saravia, whose pool hall stands near the Maryknoll mission in Montero, caused street disorders on a recent national holiday by selling liquor to minors.

Stores Are Sold

HOUSTON (UPI)— Lacks Auto Supply Stores, one of Houston's oldest and largest chain operations, was sold Wednesday to Whites Stores of Wichita Falls.

A. I. Lack, who founded the firm in 1932 with a single store in downtown Houston, said the down payment was $1.25 million with final figures to be reached after a complete inventory is made.

Commercial canners purchase 80 per cent of the U.S. tomato crop every year.

Calendar Catches Up With '63 Wheat Plan

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The calendar has caught up with the administration's plans to reduce the 1963 wheat crop and to cut into the huge bread grain surplus piling up storage costs.

The administration had counted on Congress to adopt a new farm bill designed to cut wheat and feed grain production and eventually to eliminate mountainous surpluses of these commodities that had been accumulated under the price support program. These surpluses were eating up taxpayer money at a great rate in the storage costs.

Congress didn't do what the administration wanted. The House killed the administration farm bill several weeks ago. The Senate had passed a companion bill but had stalled on getting around to a conference with the House.

Time was running out. Planting time for the fall-planted 1963 wheat crops got nearer. Farmers began bombarding the Agriculture Department for word about the wheat program for next year.

So, to quiet the restive farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman Wednesday ordered an Aug. 30 referendum on wheat marketing quotas for the 1963 crop bases on permanent legislation. This dated back to the agricultural act of 1938.

This legislation provides that the minimum national acreage for wheat shall be 55 million acres.

If two-thirds of the wheat farmers approve marketing quotas based on the prevailing national allotment, the wheat price support for the 1963 crop will be $1.82 per bushel. If they disapprove, the support rate for cooperators will be $1.21 per bushel.

If the 1963 crop is 200 million bushels more than this year's crop of 1 billion bushels, it means that the government investment in wheat will be kicked upward by about $364 million — 200 million bushels times $1.82—plus storage costs of 13.5 cents per bushel on 200 million bushels, or about $27 million.

Services Pending For Teacher Who Died In Desert

WINTERHAVEN, Calif. (UPI) —Funeral services were pending today for Manford W. Buckmann, an Amarillo, Tex., school teacher who died in the desert apparently from lack of water.

Buckmann's body was found beneath a bush in the desert 47 miles northwest of Winterhaven Tuesday.

Authorities estimated that Buckmann had been dead for five or six days.

His body was only two miles from a ranch. Deputy sheriff Bob Russell said Buckmann passed within feet of an old gold mine where water had collected.

Buckmann traveled toward a dry area, deputies said. Almost any direction, other than the one he took, would have brought him to water.
