One of the larger public opinion surveys says that its research on the subject indicates endorsement of President Nixon's plans to visit Red China by a big majority of American citizens.

On the other hand, substantially less than half of the American people are ready to see Red China admitted to the United Nations, the same survey shows. But, slightly more definitely favor UN membership for Red China than oppose it, the exact figure in the survey being 41 per cent for and 40 per cent against. Nineteen per cent, according to this survey, have no opinion on the question, or else have not made up their minds.

It appears from the over-all figures, which show 67 per cent of the people favoring the Nixon trip to China, that more and more people are anxious for the country to try talking things over with the Chinese communists. They reason that Red China must be considered a fact of life, regardless of whether we agree with them on anything, and they have held the reins over that nation for more than two decades.

The figures in the survey are not necessarily surprising in most respects, but some may regard it as surprising that heaviest support for the trip comes from the Midwest region of the nation, with 70 per cent voicing approval. Southerners and Easterners are more skeptical, with 62 per cent and 67 per cent, respectively, approving the trip.

A hope for peace, of course, is the principal factor in the opinions expressed. The survey shows that 68 per cent of the people believe that chances for peace would be enhanced by the talks. But they apparently would prefer to hear how the Red Chinese are going to talk before admitting that country to the United Nations.

Texas Christian University has been fielding football teams since 1896, and Jim Pittman, the current head man, is its 23rd head coach. However, Pittman is only the sixth head coach since 1923. L. R. (Dutch) Meyer had the longest tenure, 19 years, and his successor, Abe Martin, then served 14 years. There was no coach in 1899 or 1900, although they had a team captain. In the only game played in 1899, the TCU team and Baylor played to a scoreless tie. —

New Rail Talks Are Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House scheduled new negotiations today between the United Transportation Union and carriers in an attempt to settle a dispute that has idled four railroads.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the talks are the Nixon administration's continuing "attempts to aid the parties in reaching a voluntary agreement.

Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, acting on another administration directive, met in Cleveland with UTU President Charles Luna Wednesday night. A union spokesman said no progress was made in the meeting.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson told Congress the administration wants a voluntary settlement. "Compulsory solutions are a last resort," he told a House Commerce subcommittee Wednesday.

His statements were backed up at the White House, where Ziegler said no request for emergency legislation would be made unless economic effects of the strike become too great.

The union has added three more lines to the list it plans to shut down in its progressive walkouts.

Already struck in a dispute centered on work rules are the Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western. Added for Aug. 11 are the Erie-Lackawanna, Louisville & Nashville and St. Louis and San Francisco.

Six rail firms are scheduled for strike this Friday: the Atchinson, Topeka & Santa Fe; Houston Belt & Terminal; Alton & Southern; Duluth, Messabi and Iron Range; Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, and the Bessemer and Lake Erie.

Scheduled for Aug. 6 strikes are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago Milwaukee St. Paul and Pacific; Missouri-Kansas-Texas; Baltimore & Ohio, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

CAN'T TURN OFF THE TEARS — President Nixon pats the cheek of 14-year-old Shirley Smith but couldn't get her to stop her tears. The President met the girl from Guthrie Center, Iowa, as he left a portrait unveiling ceremony at the Capitol. She explained the tears: "I love him. I've never seen a President before." Bruce Makes Final Cease Fire Proposal In Paris

PARIS (AP) — David K. E. Bruce, outgoing U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks, called today for immediate negotiations on a general, internationally controlled cease-fire throughout Indochina.

Bruce, 73, made the proposal at the final weekly session of the peace talks he will attend. He is due to leave Paris Sunday and is scheduled to be replaced soon by William J. Porter, U.S. ambassador to South Korea.

The cease-fire proposal has been consistently rejected by the Communist negotiators since it was first put forward nearly two years ago.

Bruce's deputy, Philip C. Habib, is to head the U.S. delegation until Porter arrives in Paris next month.

At last week's session, Xuan Thuy described the cease-fire proposal as "absurd."

Earlier, the Viet Cong charged the elections in South Vietnam are being "feverishly" rigged "under the direct supervision of the American Embassy in Saigon."

The charge was made by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, at the 123rd weekly session of the Paris peace talks. She said American assurances of nonintervention in the presidential election in October is "pure hypocrisy."

The session marked the final appearance at the talks of 73-year-old Ambassador David K.E. Bruce, the chief of the American delegation, who is retiring Sunday. He will be succeeded by William J. Porter, now U.S. ambassador to South Korea, and in the interim the U.S. delegation will be headed by Philip Habib, who has been chief deputy to both Bruce and his predecessor, Henry Cabot Lodge.

Neither Mrs. Binh nor Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese delegate, referred to Bruce's departure in their prepared speeches to the conference.

Legislation On Strikes Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe urged Congress today to enact an administration bill that would establish permanent procedures, to settle transit labor disputes because "we cannot continue to live from crisis to crisis."

Volpe said President Nixon's proposed emergency public interest protection act "is not a pro-management bill, nor is this a pro-labor bill."

"It is a bill which is meant only to protect the people of this nation from becoming the innocent victims of a labor-management dispute within a single industry," he added.

Volpe said the transportation industry was singled out for special legislation because "there is no other industry where the effects of work stoppages have such a devastating effect on our national welfare."

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson had testified that Congress must soon write new legislation dealing with national transit work problems "or get ready to go into the dispute-settling business on a massive scale."

"I urge you to resist the temptation to believe compulsory arbitration and free collective bargaining can somehow lie down together like the lion and the lamb," he told the House transportation subcommittee Wednesday. At the core, each is at war with the other. There must be a choice."

The subcommittee, at hearings on a batch of bills to set up new permanent legislation heading off frequent emergency congressional intervention in plane and train disputes, faces a difficult job, said Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers.

"I hope they have all the wisdom in the world to come up with it," the West Virginia Democrat told Hodgson. "We've been asked for some permanent legislation ... it's going to be a little bit hard to come up with some kind of answer."

Staggers approved of Hodgson's decision declining to discuss the current selective-strike situation. The chairman said strikers and management should have an opportunity to work out their own affairs under Hodgson's encouragement of a voluntary settlement instead of a compulsory solution by Congress now.

Hodgson, urging approval of the Nixon administration's proposed emergency public interest protection act, said: "The public will no longer tolerate national emergencies caused by transportation labor disputes.

"Bargainers no longer fear congressional action as they once did, so more and more disputes will end up in the lap of Congress. This leaves Congress with the choice of either equipping itself to get heavily into the labor dispute-settling business or enacting legislation to forestall assumption of this unwanted burden."

Flood Alerts Posted In Texas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cool front which was nearly stalled along the Red River kept the rainfall spigots turned on over some waterlogged areas in Texas today.

Still more showers and thunderstorms were expected in nearly every section of the state, which less than a week ago still felt the effects of crippling drought in many localities.

The persistent downpours caused the National Weather Service to issue a series of warnings against possible flash floods Tuesday, some remaining in force past midnight. There was no further word, however, of any severe flooding.

In most cases, the worst conditions saw smaller streams rise out of banks to cover roads in low areas and underpasses, principally in North Central and Northeast Texas.

By this morning, most of the thundershowers were moving through areas from Central into East Texas, parts of far West Texas and the north part of the Texas Panhandle.

One of the latest flood warnings covered Hansford County in the Panhandle, where thunderstorms turned loose rain at the rate of one inch per hour during the night.

Similar alerts went up earlier for rains lasting several hours in Dallas, Tarrant, Collins, Kaufman, Van Zandt, Rockwell, Hunt and Rains counties.

Dallas, for example, measured 2.27 inches of rain Wednesday, with more than an inch falling within an hour. Water closed some streets for a time.

Even heavier downpours ranged through towns east of Dallas. Wills Point received 3.10 inches of moisture in six hours, Kaufman 2.80 and Terrell 2.69.

Amounts generally were lighter in other parts of the state. Hemphill in East Central Texas received 2.05, Daingerfield in Northeast Texas 1.76, Lefors in the Panhandle 1.54 and Fort Worth and San Angelo both 1.37.

Turbulence which developed after nightfall caused a severe thunderstorm warning to remain in force until midnight for all or parts of several counties in the southeast quarter of the state. They included Madison, Trinity, Houston and Grimes counties.

While the cool front held temperatures noticeably lower in northern areas of the state, readings farther south went as high as 101 degrees at Alice. Top marks stayed as low as 78 at Fort Worth and Texarkana.

With Nice Smooth Burn

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, their commander a newly qualified space plumber, zeroed in on the moon with a brief engine burst today and were ready to fire into lunar orbit using a new technique that will require split-second manual control.

The one-second course change maneuver at 11:04 a.m. EDT nudged the spaceship onto a morepreprecise path that will take it within 65 miles of the moon's surface later in the day.

Scott, who used a wrench Wednesday night to fix a water leak in the cabin, reported "I guess you can see it was a nice smooth burn."

Apollo 15 was 14,294 miles from the moon, travening 2,691 miles an hour.

As the astronauts make their close approach to the moon, they will execute a new engine ignition procedure to shoot into orbit.

The new firing procedure is necessary to by-pass a short circuit that developed in the engine system shortly after Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden were launched from Cape Kennedy Monday on their moon-landing expedition.

Astronaut Richard L. Gordon, commander of the Apollo 15 backup crew, worked out the technique in a computer-driven simulator here and passed up instructions to Apollo 15 Wednesday night.

First trial of the procedure is set for 4:05 p.m. EDT today when Apollo 15 sweeps behind the backside of the moon and fires into orbit about 70 miles above the surface.

The short is in one of two electrical circuits which the astronauts can use to trigger the 20,500-pound thrust engine on their command ship Endeavour.

It indicates the firing mechanism on one bank has been armed and that the use of a computer to fire the engine might ignite it prematurely. Mission Control does not believe the engine actually is damaged, but we don't want to take chances

The second circuit is in good condition, but at least six more firings of the engine are planned and to use the second bank for all six might deteriorate it.

Under the procedures worked out by Gordon, Apollo 15 will use computer control and the good circuit for the most critical burns.

Showers Dance Around Area

Showers literally danced around the Snyder area most of the day Wednesday but they were doing a hop, skip and jump.

The south side of Snyder reaped a modest amount of moistures, but the center of town and the north side were left mostly dry. Light showers produced up to .20 of an inch in unofficial gauges in the southwest part of town.

There was only a trace in the official gauge at the city water plant, however.

The heavier showers fell south of town mostly between Snyder and Dunn and between Snyder and Ira. These covered only localized areas, however.

WTC Signup Again Tonight

The Western Texas College director of admissions-registrar Dr. Duane Hood has announced that the college will hold an extra session of pre-registration tonight from 7 to 9 p.m.

"The response to evening pre-registration has been so strong that we are scheduling one more evening session tonight," he said. Members of the faculty will be on hand to talk with anyone interested in finding out about classes and pre-enrolling.

He reported that the flow of pre-registrants had been strong during the pre-registration period and indications are that the total pre-registration will exceed original estimates. He expects a total to be available by Monday.

Bob, Girls To Alaska

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope and a troupe of performers including 130 girls from 17 to 25 years old flew to two bases in Alaska to entertain troops who asked for "Girls! Girls! Girls!"

Billed as the biggest entertainment troupe in USO history, Hope, entertainers Fess Parker, Fran Jeffries, Jody Miller and Miss World 1970—plus the girls, all USO hostesses—left Los Angeles International Airport Wednesday night for Alaska.

The group will entertain servicemen at Eielson Air Force Base and Ft. Wainwright, both near Fairbanks.

SEC Officials Deny 'Deals'

DALLAS (AP) — The regional administrator of the U. S. Securities and Exchange Commission denied published reports Wednesday that there are any backstage deals to absolve Houston tycoon Frank Sharp in a civil stock fraud suit.

Gerald Boltz said the "only kind of settlement which the SEC will even consider with regard to Frank Sharp is a final judgment of permanent injunction as requested in our complaint."

The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story Wednesday that Morton L. Susman, one of Sharp's lawyers, had said he and the SEC were discussing "a settlement to dismiss the case against Mr. Sharp and all his companies."

Sharp, whose Sharpstwon State Bank in Houston closed up after a run by depositors, is one of 28 persons named in the SEC suit which alleges a plot to defraud through manipulation of National Banker's Life Insurance Co. stock.

Sharp has already received immunity from criminal prosecution in exchange for his testimony before a federal grand jury at Houston.

But U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes ruled at Dallas that the immunity Sharp received in Houston does not clear him of possible civil prosecution.

Some of the defendants in the case have entered consent decrees which in effect short-circuits a full trial by their acceptance of the injunction sought by the SEC. They did not, however, have to admit any wrongdoing but merely accept the court's order.

The SEC is insisting on a trial for Sharp according to Boltz.

"While we have accepted consent decrees from other defendants without admissions of violations, we will insist upon a permanent injunction and findings by the court with regard to Sharp.

"Discussions concerning any other type of settlement have centered around only corporate defendants, which are in receivership or no longer under control of individual defendants," Boltz said.

In the Dallas Morning News story, Robert F. Watson, SEC attorney, was quoted as saying the agency is "negotiating with Mr. Sharp's attorneys concerning a settlement" of the case. And Susman was quoted as saying: "We would like to settle it, but we are still very far apart."

Don't be wailing wall for parents' problems

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and the mother of teen-agers, but my biggest problem is my parents! They have never got along, and I hear it every day from both sides. Especially my mother. If she isn't here complaining in person, she's on the phone. She starts out with, "Now I don't want you to think less of your father, but as our daughter you have a right to know what's going on." Then she proceeds to tear him to shreds. [I'm not the only one in the family she complains to, but I am the favorite wailing-wall.]

I have sat them both down and begged them to get professional help and quit running to relatives, but they don't want help. They'd rather complain and make everyone else as miserable as they are.

Abby, I may lay awake nights worrying about my teen-agers, but my parents will never hear a word. Why should I burden them with my problems? They aren't going to solve them for me. On the other hand, I try to keep my parents' problems from my husband and children. I feel like a sponge being sopped from both sides and never allowed to drip.

I know a daughter can't disown her own parents, but if only they realized what they were doing to me, maybe they would let up. In the meantime, how can I keep my sanity—or what's left of it? DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: If you really want to preserve your sanity, you will shut off your parents' complaints in whatever ways are necessary. And don't feel guilty!

DEAR ABBY: With so much talk about controling the population by means of the men having vasectomies, I want to ask you a question: How come I had this simple little 15-minute operation done in a doctor's office in 1952 and it cost me only $25, and today they are charging $250 for the very same operation?

Just because doctors have a license to practice medicine doesn't mean they have a license to steal.

DEARBORN, MICH.

DEAR DEARBORN: Nothing is as cheap today as it was in 1952. But if the doctor who performed your surgery for $25 is now charging $250, why don't you ask him?

DEAR ABBY: Because it is a habit to read the death notices in my hometown paper, I turned to the obits in the newspaper while traveling thru that city.

In funeral notices I saw someone I had known died at the home of a "Sally So and So, a very dear friend, after a lingering illness."

Not that it's any of my dang business, but is it now considered proper to announce to the world that one's sleeping partner has succumbed? Or do you suppose "Sally So and So" was using the obits to let the local townspeople know that she was looking for a relief pitcher? TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: How do you know what the sleeping arrangements were? Perhaps "Sally So and So" was indeed a "dear friend" and nothing more.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

UT Grad To Assist Walker

AUSTIN (AP) — A young business graduate student at the University of Texas has been tapped by the U.S. Treasury department to assist Under Secretary Charles Walker.

William Beasley III of Dallas who got his doctorate in finance from UT-Austin in August, has already begun work in Washington.

As a special assistant, Beasley, 24, will handle assignments from Walker and Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

Beasley's first assignment will be to coordinate the current Lockheed case, in which the federal government is trying to guarantee a $250 million loan for the aircraft corporation.

He received a B.A. degree in 1968 from Duke University, and a master of business administration degree in accounting from UT in 1969.

He was influenced to come to UT-Austin by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Beasley Jr., and an uncle, J. Howard Creekmore, president of Houston Endowment, Inc.

In 1969 Beasley originated and served as interviewer for an educational television series that features interviews with distinguished business executives.

It was through the TV program that Beasley became acquainted with Walker, also a UT graduate, who had returned to the campus for a public lecture.

The under secretary was sufficiently impressed with Beasley's knowledge of finance to ask for copies of several research papers the student had written.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought aid was extended to a dozen more Texas counties Wednesday by the Agriculture Department.

The assistance includes:

Sales of government-owned feed grain at reduced prices and hay transportation subsidies for Brewster, Grayson, Jeff Davis, Johnson, Leon, Midland, Presidio and Tarrant counties. That aid previously had been offered to 171 counties in the state.

Emergey conservation assistance to help livestock operators develop water supplies in Bastrop, Jeff Davis and Live Oak Counties. Earlier 94 counties had been made eligible for that assistance.

Haying and grazing privileges on land taken from production under the cropland Adjustment program in Delta and Hopkins counties. Earlier that assistance had been approved for 165 counties.

Tot Drowns In Swimming Pool

FORT WORTH (AP) — A 3-year-old boy from Longview, Tex., was found drowned in a motel swimming pool about 3 a.m. today by the manager, M.G. Boswell.

The boy was James Robert Spencer, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Spencer.

The parents were quoted by police as saying the child sometimes got up during the night, but was in the room at 3 a.m.

Boswell said the child talked to him several times during the evening.

Mercury High In Blue Crabs

HOUSTON (AP) — A Rice University study team says it has found high mercury levels in edible blue crabs caught in the Galveston Bay system.

The group said in a report that 62 per cent of edible crabs caught in the Morgan's Point area had harmful levels of mercury under Food and Drug Administration guidelines of 50 parts of mercury per billion parts of crab meat.

The report said one crab caught near the Houston Ship Channel had a mercury content of 3,765 parts per billion, more than seven times the maximum allowed by the FDS.

The Texas Health Department said it has found no high mercury levels in Galveston Bay crabs but a spokesman said the department's crab sampling program was not extensive.

The Rice study was funded by the National Science Foundation and the Moody Foundation. Eleven students participated in the 12-week research project.

Crab samples were taken by shrimp trawl from four sites in Galveston and Trinity bays on bi-weekly field trips. Thirty-nine crabs were tested, the report said with mercury content ranging from zero to 3,765. Only three crabs had zero mercury content.

Dudley Johnson, director of marine resources of the Texas Department of Health in Austin, said crabs trapped in May of 1970 in the Galveston Bay system all were within the FDA guidelines.

He said his laboratory presently is running tests on crabs caught in Tabb's Bay near Baytown, but he does not know when the tests will be completed.

Soldier Shot By City Cop

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fellow officers said city patrolman shot and killed a soldier Wednesday while the serviceman was struggling with another policeman.

They reported Spec. 4 George Licon, 21, of El Paso was slain after he seized the gun of patrolman Lawrence Halliburton during the scuffle and it was fired three times.

Patrolman Leonard Paccione told of firing after seeing that Halliburton's pistol had been taken from him.

A medical examiner said Licon was shot three times in the back.

Dist. Atty. Ted Butler said no charge would be filed because he considered it a case of justifiable homicide, but the matter will be taken before county grand jurors.

Licon was assigned to the 78th Engineer Co. at Ft. Sam Houston in San Antonio. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Enrique Licon of El Paso. His wife Maria, 20, said the soldier had been stationed here since last August.

Police gave these details:

Licon grabbed Halliburton's pistol while it was still in the holster and one shot blew out the bottom of the holster. Halliburton's leg was bruised, apparently grazed by the bullet.

Paccione said Licon fired the officer's gun twice as he fell after being shot.

The shooting occurred in early Wednesday morning after Halliburton responded to a call about a suspicious person.

Licon was asleep at the steering wheel of a car and began fighting when Halliburton tried to awaken him. Paccione arrived as the struggle broke out.

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The man used his hands a lot because he was a waiter at a dinner club. He greeted people and asked them what they liked to eat and he brought it to them.

One day he caught his hand in an electric saw.

The spinning steel teeth ripped through his hand, slicing away two fingers and chewing into the thumb.

The operation which followed was delicate. It required another man who used his hands a lot—a specialist.

With great skill and some skin grafting, the doctor restored nearly full use to the waiter's hand.

There was joy. But there was unhappiness. The waiter, 47, had no medical insurance to meet the high doctor and hospital bills.

He borrowed the money to pay off the hospital. But things were tough because he was out of work for three months.

"I don't know what would have happened to my fingers if it hadn't been for him," the waiter said of the doctor, who asked that he not be named, as did the waiter.

The waiter also was a skilled wood carver. And, knowing this, the doctor felt he had done a real service, not only for the man who used his hands a lot, but for the man's family and those who enjoyed his skill with wood.

"I knew he would have paid the bill," the doctor said. He's that kind of person. He's the kind of guy you rarely run into. But I knew if he paid me, it would mean a sacrifice to his family to do it.

"I told him he didn't owe me any money. I said, 'Build me a little model boat sometime.' He said he would. But I guess I've heard that story a thousand times. Frankly, I fogot about it."

But the waiter didn't forget. And that was two and a half years ago.

The waiter recently brought the doctor a replica of the U.S. Constitution—Old Ironsides—with moving parts.

"The most fantastic thing I ever seen. It is a beautiful work of art," the doctor said.

The waiter used an ordinary pocket knife, working from full size blueprints which he scaled down himself.

The three-foot-long spruce hull is topped by white oak masts. There are no nails in the model—wooden pegs hold it together.

The sales are rigged perfectly. The 25 cannon aboard the 18th century frigate are handmade as are the tiny life boats.

The waiter worked 10 to 12 hours a day during his time off the past two years. And after work.

"He was proud of her all right," the waiter said. "He was as happy as anybody I guess I ever saw."

"In all my years of practice, receiving this gift was one of the most gratifying feeling Ive ever known," the doctor said. "It made up for an awful lot of patients who didn't even bother to say thank you."

Damage Light In 2-Car Mishap

Only slight damage was done in a two-car mishap investigated by Snyder Police Wednesday afternoon. The accident which occurred in the 2400 block of Avenue T, involved a 1968 Ford driven by Juan Sauceda of Snyder and a 1968 Buick driven by Maxine Shuler of Snyder. Negligible damage was done to the Ford and minor damage occurred to the Buick.

Officials Shrug Off Back-To-Back Deficits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is on the way to piling up the worst back-to-back deficits in federal government operations since 1943-46.

But administration officials shrug off the two deficits, expected to total more than $40 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, saying they are fiscally responsible.

The reason, they say, is that the budget spending is pegged to the amount of tax revenues the government would expect to receive in times of high prosperity.

In fiscal 1345, the federal deficit, ballooned by wartime spending was $45 billion. As peace returned, the deficit dropped to $18 billion the following year.

The Treasury Department reported Wednesday the deficit for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30, climbed to $23.2 billion, second highest one-year deficit of the post-World War II era.

Officially, the White House says, the deficit for fiscal 1972 will be $11.6 billion. But already administration officials have acknowledged publicly it will be closer to $18.6 billion.

The largest back-to-back deficits in the past 25 years were those in fiscal 1967 and 1968 when President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office.

But the Nixon deficits are more responsible than those, say administration officials, including Treasury Secretary John B. Connally a Democrat and close political associate of Johnson.

The fiscal 1971 budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus on a full-employment basis, Connally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said. It was the third year in a row a full-employment balance or surplus has been achieved.

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," they said.

Full employment is defined as a 4-per-cent jobless rate. The unemployment rate during the fiscal year averaged 5.7 per cent—and got bigger as the year went along.

As the federal budget floundered deeper in the red, so did the nation's trade position.

In June, the Commerce Department said, the nation recorded its third straight monthly deficit in trade, with imports exceeding exports by $363 million, raising the figure for the first six months of the year to $373 billion. This was the first time this had happened in the 25 years the government has been keeping trade figures on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans says the balance could drop to zero this year for the first time since 1893.

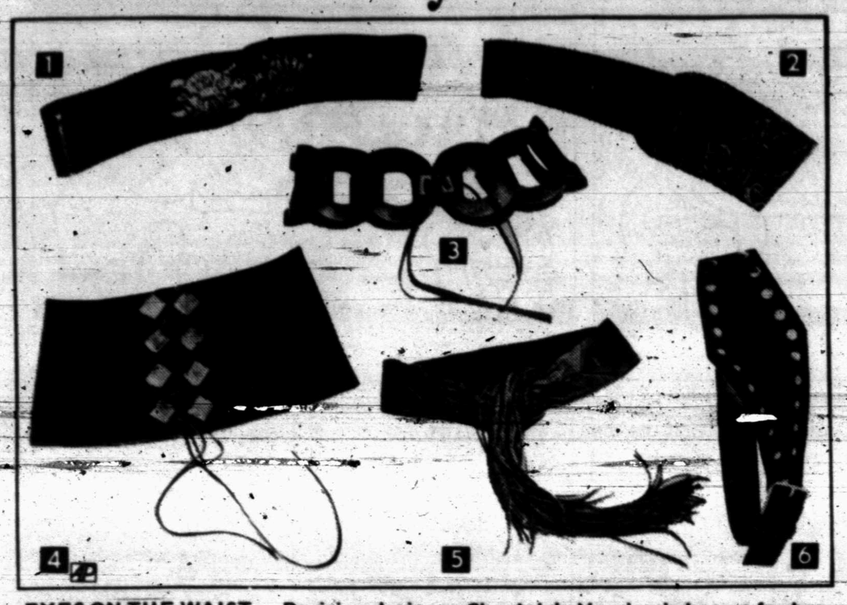
Belts Focus Eyes on Waist



EYES ON THE WAIST — Parisian designer Chantal de Vassieu is known for her men's belts, but this season she has also done a collection for women. 1. A new classic belt establishes an elegant mood. It's executed in contoured chestnut leather and sparked with a golden turtle closure. 2. The hieroglyphic belt is asymmetrically contoured with a cranberry ground and an upraised Egyptian design in a contrasting shade of pink. 3. Interlinked leather loops with a ribbon leather closure make this see-through belt. 4. Six inches of suede gird the waist and accentuate the bodice in this peasant belt. A double row of silver triangles adds a contemporary touch. 5. A narrower suede belt also is embellished with silver triangles and is tied with a thick layer of cascading suede streamers. 6. This waist cincher is done in lavender sude and the shield-like front panel is underlined with gold dots.

Writer, Actress, Producer Never Has A Dull Moment

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — What would you do if all of a sudden you found yourself in a phone booth at Kennedy International Airport talking to a contact in the underground resistance movement in Greece?

Well, if you were Jill Marti, writer, actress and producer of a talk show for WCAU-TV, Philadelphia, you would naturally catch the next flight to Greece and film a documentary for NBC's "First Tuesday" series.

For a girl like her, it's all in a day's work.

Actually she hasn't always been a superwoman. After taking her B. S. (with honors) in political science at the University of Wisconsin, she says, "I didn't know what I wanted to dom I didn't want to go to work. I didn't want to stay at home either. Then I thought, why not go into communications?

"As a political science major I was interested in government, particularly in the developing nations, and i thought, why not communications in this area?"

That's why Jill Marti came to Philadelphia—to get her master's degree at the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania.

"While I was in a class one day there was a speaker from TV Guide Magazine—well I went up to him after his lecture, introduced myself and told him I needed a summer job. He said he'd see what he could do. He talked to the dean about me, but by that time he'd already decided he liked my smile, and I got a job as a researcher in the magazine's editorial department.

"I worked there the rest of the summer doing rewrites, features, columns and articles till one day I got a phone call from the top brass at the magazine. They told me, very politely, they were sorry but they really wanted to let me go.

"I was so upset. I couldn't imagine what I had done.

"That's when they told me Cleveland Amory was leaving the magazine (he was a critic) to do his own television show and he wanted me to go with him as a writer.

"I was so relieved, and I couldn't believe this was happening to me."

With the Amory show Jill went from writer, to associate producer, to producer.

When the show went off the air, Jill kept busy as writer, co-host and associate producer for a number of WCAU-TV prime-time specials. When she wasn't on the air she wrote and produced other shows. But even with all her talent, she eventually ran out of things to do.

There she was. Twenty-four years old, out of work and not a thing to do.

"My parents were planning a trip to Greece, and my mother suggested I go with them. Big whoop. What's a girl like me going to do in Greece with her parents? But the longer I sat there with nothing to do, the better the Greece trip started to look. I decided to go.

"Then something extraordinary happened. I got hold of an issue of Life Magazine and saw a Norman Mailer story in it I wanted to read. I started going through the magazine, and there was another story, one about Greece; Government by Torture. I was horrified. If this story is true, then I didn't want to go there and give them a dime of my money," I thought.

"I made a bunch of phone calls—the writer of Life, the embassy and got hold of no one, they were all out.

"Well I didn't cancel the trip. I checked into Kennedy for my flight to Athens—and made one last effort to get in touch with Life Magazine reporter Christopher Rand.

'I got him on the phone and explained who I was and that I had read the story. I told him I didn't have a legitimate outlet for a documentary film just then, but that if his story checked out, I wanted to do one. I gave him the phone number in my booth.

"The next thing I knew I was talking to someone in the underground resistance movement in Greece. I explained my situation to them. They asked me to change my flight from Athens to Geneva and go to a different phone booth—the line might be bugged.

"The whole trip to Greece was like something out of a spy movie, only it was really happening. I did film a report and when I got back to the states I walked into 'First Tuesday,' and they bought my film."

After her free-lance work with "First Tuesday," Jill settled into a job as producer-reporter of another WCAU-TV daily talk and variety show hosted by the wife of New Jersey's Governor Hughes, "Betty Hughes & Friends."

The associate producer on the program says the show's her life—she lives with it during the day and takes it home with her at night.

Jill agrees. She says, "I'm always listening to what people are talking about and interested in. I try to incorporate that into our programs."

The last of the season ty Hughes & Friends" was shot not long ago and the show is in its summer reruns. That means Jill was forced with another two months with nothing to do.

But she wanted to travel, so she called the American Friends Service and asked them that if there was anything she could do, they should let her know.

"I'm not a Quaker," said Jill. "I just like the things they stand for. They called me back and asked how I would like traveling in the East. The East—I thought they meant New York, Boston, Washington—no, they said, they meant the Far East. It seems the Quakers have projects they sponsor all over the world. And in addition, there is a diplomatic conference scheduled in the Philippines this summer to discuss the problems of Southeast Asia.

"Of course I said I would go."

Patrick Wayne Wants To Have Own Image

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Moustached, casually dressed in an open-neck shirt and navy blazer, Patrick Wayne looks more as if he should be riding a horse across some vast western landscape rather than ordering sauteed trout in a New York restaurant, where the quarters are a bit cramped for his 6-foot-1 frame.

And, true to form—about to embark on a tour to promote his latest movie—where is he most looking forward to going? Texas—of course.

But what would you expect from John Wayne's son, who at this point in his career, though he speaks very warmly of his father, would like to be known as something other than the son of big Duke.

"It's tremendously difficult to create my own identity when my father is a living legend," he says. "But there's no way I can be successful unless I have my own image as Patrick Wayne. The other stuff about acting is pretty objective—developing a technique, getting the role straight, but the identity part is all important."

Wayne's identity problem could be complicated by the fact that his latest role is, in fact, playing his father's son in the film, "Big Jake." But he has plenty to talk about besides growing up in his father's limelight, and he admits there are areas where he and his father disagree. But he doesn't talk about them.

"When I first wanted to be an actor, my father made it a point not to influence me. Very wisely, he wanted to leave it to his children to decide what they would do with their lives," Wayne says.

And Wayne adds that he even went to college with the intention of divorcing himself from motion pictures. For a while, it looked as though he had succeeded because he developed a strong interest in biology. "I thought that meant I should be a doctor," Wayne says. "So I decided to go to medical school. But when I found out what being a doctor was all about, I decided that wasn't what I wanted."

PATRICK WAYNE

"The time I had spent around the business before wasn't work," he says. "It was just being with my father, being out of school, on location, so the industry had a lot of warm spots for me. But I didn't want to forget the fact that it was a business—not just good memories."

He says his first solid screen role was in "The Young Land." Others were in "The Alamo," "The Comancheros," "Cheyenne Autumn," "McLintock" and "Shenandoah." He has also done TV shows, including "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "The Rounders."

"At first I was pushing too hard," Wayne recalls. "It was too much of a commitment, and I had to learn you can have fun at the same time you're working. Now, I'm enjoying it more."

But he admits to a problem most actors are facing—getting work. "Some of the best actors in Hollywood aren't working now," he notes. "An actor can be an artist, but if he doesn't appeal to people, he's out of work and there's nothing he can do about that."

And Wayne also admits that, for him, success would have to contain a certain degree of popularity. "That's not for my ego," he says. "But I think that having an image means being liked, and that's part of being [illegible]

"If an actor is at all serious about the business, he's competing against himself," he continues. "You're your own worst judge—even your own worst critic. And you can judge your own performances, but that's part of happiness too—when you think you're doing a good job."

Wayne is the husband of the former Margaret Hunt and the father of two young children. And talking about the non-acting part of his life, he's as relaxed as can be—fussing about cleaning up after his daughter's rabbit, not quite sure if he wants his wife to work, discussing his love of California and his fear of heights. And what he likes his constant diet to be—"Just taking life easy."

Iceland Scene Of Agent Novel

THE CHILL FACTOR. By Richard Falkirk. Doubleday. $5.95.

Iceland is the scene of this suspense chiller.

The hero is William Conran, a British secret agent who has been called in to help the Icelandic authorities solve a problem. [illegible] is a NATO base manned by Americans, and a minority of the natives are anti-American, grumbling that they don't like to have their country "occupied." The Russians are using this anti-American sentiment as leverage to promote their own interests, and are doing undercover work to agitate the local population.

Conran's chief contact is Sigurdson, an Icelandic security agent. Sigurdson puts him on the trail of three natives working for the Russians, and it is Conran's job to ferret them out. He also works with Martz, the American security man at the NATO base.

Meanwhile Conran has grown very intimate with a sexy airline stewardess named Gudrun, who works on the flights to London—and proves to be more than just a stewardess.

The real double-crosser in this situation is exposed only in the novel's final pages, which of course contain, one of those man-to-man death struggles which seem to be mandatory in suspense stories.

With the exotic background of Iceland and with the elements of sex, gunplay and upmanship, this is a moderately good example of its genre.

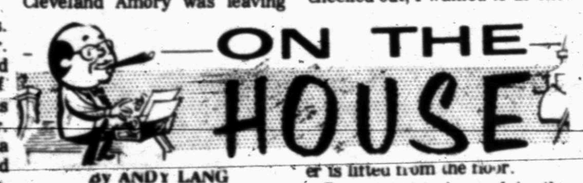
Atlanta suffered a setback in 1864 when General Sherman burned the city.

While more hogs will be slaughtered this summer than last, the rate of increase in pork supply will be lower than it has been since the first of the year. The current uptrend in pork production is expected to turn around in the fall because of a reduction in the pig crop. This has been brought on by higher feed prices, drastically lower prices received for hogs and uncertainties about the effect of the corn blight on this year's corn crop.



By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The women's liberation movement may object to the wording, but the truth is that the resurfacing of a hardwood floor is a man-sized job.

Resurfacing is the term used when the existing finish is in such poor condition that it must be completely removed by power sanding before a new clear finish is applied. Such sanding is best accomplished by using one of the large floor sanders that can be rented at a local hardware store, paint dealer, lumber yard or tool rental specialist. These machines can be rented by the day or, in some cases, by the hour. Unless you want to pay for an idle machine, make sure that you don't take possession of the sander until you are actually ready to use it. Some persons make the mistake of renting them before they have completed such time-consuming tasks as clearing the room of all furniture, refastening loose boards, taking off the shoe moulding and other preparatory steps.

When you rent the drum-type sander that is generally used, also rent an edging machine, which is actually a smaller sander that gets closer to the walls. In using either machine, it is important to remember that, when the motor is on, the base should not be kept in contact with the floor except when the sander is being pushed. If the sandpaper keeps going while the machine is in one place, it will result in an unwanted groove in the floor. Therefore, when you rest or stop for a moment, tilt [illegible] so that the sandpaper is lifted from the floor.

Coarse paper is used in the sander for the first cut, medium for the second and fine for the third. Although there are some professional refinishers who sand the floor diagonally in the first cut, I have found that good results can be obtained by sanding lengthwise with the boards on all three passes. The edger is used for places which the large machine cannot reach. Occasionally it may be necessary to use a hand sander in one or two spots that even the edger cannot properly handle.

Although the sanders are equipped with dust-catching bags, there is no possible way to capture all the dust which is created. Be certain that the room is thoroughly vacuumed after the sanding is completed. This means going over the walls and everything else, not just the floor. If you don't, the dust will settle on the floor later and ruin whatever finish you have applied. In fact, the dust on the walls seems to take a particular delight in dropping to the floor while the finishing material is still wet.

When renting the sanders, have the dealer show you exactly how they operate; most especially, have him demonstrate how to change the sandpaper.

(Squeaky floors and st[illegible] sweating windows and walls, patching concrete and repairing brickwork are among the subjects discussed in Andy Lang's handbook, 'Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N. J. 07666.)

Consumers Say Statistics Don't Tell True Story

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For many weeks now the nearly official line among business economists has been that the consumer has the money to spend but is lacking the willingness to part with his cash.

He fears inflation. He worries about his job. He is concerned with rising taxes. He is, therefore, in no mood to begin new endeavors. Instead, he hoards his money in fear of that proverbial rainy day.

As a result, retail outlets complain that sales are sluggish. Seldom have they had to put forth more effort to spark enthusiasm. And all the time they must fight the tendency of shoppers to buy down to lower price goods.

That's pretty much the consensus. It was recently and typically expressed this way by the Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly publication:

"Consumer income—buttressed both last year and this by a series of government actions, including increased Social Security benefits, federal pay hikes, and the end of the income surcharge—has been sufficient to fuel a more vigorous expansion in retail activity than has actually occurred. What's been lacking is not the means but the will to spend.

There is no shortage of statistical evidence to "prove" that the means are there. Personal income rose $6 billion in May. The rate of personal savings is at a 20-year high of 8.4 per cent of take-home pay.

That's what the statistics show. The mail suggests something else—a credibility gap involving the statistics, a growing belief among ordinary people that "they must be talking about somebody else."

Surveys show that regardless of those statistics, a lot of Americans can't discover the increase in personal income, nor can they find those big savings the statistics indicated they have.

"Did it ever occur to you that we consumers are not buying because we don't have any money left after taxes to buy with?" Thus begins a typical complaint from a writer who considers herself an "ordinary" American.

"I need a new refrigerator. Mine is 17 years old and almost shot. I can't afford to buy one. My breakfast set is falling apart after 17 years and we can't replace it.

"My husband is a teacher and makes about $15,000 a year after many years on the job. We don't have stocks or extra property. We have only a home, and we are still paying for it.

"There is nothing left after we have fed our three growing sons. We don't have any loopholes where we can escape federal income taxes, state income taxes, state tax on purchases, real estate taxes—you name the tax, there are more of them.

"My husband and I are in our mid-40s. We suffered through the big depression and my husband was injured in the war. We have never really enjoyed any of the luxuries so many people have had all these prosperous years.

"But we are in the majority, and we are really the common consumer you people talk about. I say again, investigate. We are not buying because we do not have any money to buy with. We reduced our buying not because of worry about inflation but because we can't buy first quality any more. We are reducing our standard of living because we can't do anything else.

"I recently made a plea for consideration of what taxes are doing to us mentally as well as physically, mistakenly thinking our senator would be concerned. His reply was that it really is too bad that we are having a rough time, but that all there was left to do was to lower our standards.

"Why don't you people print the facts, that people are not buying because someone else is spending the money they earn, and that what's left goes for food—and I mean plain food."

And that concludes a common complaint from an ordinary American who feels that the statistics, the averages, the alphanumeric picture drawn by the computer, fail to portray conditions as they actually are.

Junior Editors Quiz on FIBER GLASS

QUESTION: How was fiber glass invented and by whom?

* * *

ANSWER: In 1893, a dress made of fiber glass woven with silk was exhibited by Edward Libbey at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago. Nothing further was heard about fiber glass until the Owens Illinois Glass Company and the Corning Glass Works conducted experiments from 1931 to 1938 and developed commercial methods of making this form of glass.

It was discovered that a small ball of glass, about the size of a marble, could be heated in an electric furnace and pulled out to produce miles of glass fiber or glass wool as it is sometimes called. Then this glass fiber or thread is spun on a large bobbin or spool. The glass yarn is stronger than steel and will not stretch, burn or rot. Also it is flexible and lends itself to many uses.

Firemen use fiber glass suits which are indestructible in the hottest fires. Draperies and table cloths are also made of the material. The substance is combined with plastics for use in the construction of automobiles and aircraft. More uses are found for fiber glass constantly. Since it does not conduct electricity, it has been used for insulation on wires. It does not retain moisture and for this reason is valuable for the insulation of homes against heat or cold. 7-29

Grand Jury Increase Asked

DALLAS (AP) — Members of the spring session of the Dallas County grand jury want the number of grand jurors increased from 12 to 14 and their pay raised from $5 to $10 a day.

The panel members made their request to Dist. Judge John Mead before ending their service.

Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said it probably would take action by the state legislature for the changes to be made.

The grand jury also recommended that Wade have at least one Spanish-speaking interpreter attached to his office and that all grand jury panels have at least one minority member. They thought narcotics officers should be better briefed when presenting their cases.

Julie Has Gown And Will Travel

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "World, here I come. Have beaded gown, will travel."

That is the new slogan of Miss Julie Wilson, now appearing at the Rainbow Grill here, who in any popularity contest among her peers would rank as one of the best-liked performers in show business.

As a screen, television and super club star, she has shown her skill at handling audiences. Now she has decided to see if she can handle her career all by herself.

She felt that career had reached some kind of crisis earlier this year when there occurred a lull in it that periodically frightens most stars.

Only the year before she had starred in two Broadway shows. Unfortunately, "Jimmy" lasted only three months and "Park" only three days.

"I was ready to quit show business three months ago," Julie recalled. "Nobody called, nobody offered me a job. I hadn't been on television recently, and unless you're on television everybody thinks you are dead or retired.

"I decided that if agents can't do it for you, you have to do it for yourself. I decided to be my own agent and manager. I figured that nearly 30 years of show business must have taught me something."

After an amicable parting with her agent, the singer set out to do her own booking. She has been phenomenally successful. She has made a couple of television appearances, has signed up for a series of top supper club bookings, and is considering another Broadway show.

Her office? It's a three-bedroom ranch house she recently bought in her home town, Omaha, Neb.—where she feels her two sons, Holt, 7, and Michael, 6, will be able to grow up in a freer and less fearful atmosphere.

"The kids are my life," she said. "Anyway, all you need for an office is a telephone."

A lifelong capacity for friendship is one key to Miss Wilson's successful upsurge. Nobody who meets the breezy, down-to-earth, hazel-eyed singer is likely to forget her.

"Money you lose, friends you keep"—that is the way she sums up her philosophy. It could well sum up her career so far, too.

Miss Wilson started at $40 a week in a touring edition of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" and danced and sang her way up to the $5,000 a week bracket.

Her goal, she says, is "to learn how to accept what life offers, the good and the bad, cheerfully. For every bad night, you have many beautiful nights."

Texans Like Canoeing

AUSTIN (AP) — Next to motorboating, canoeing is Texans' favorite means of getting about on water, says Jeffee Palmer of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

And canoeing is increasing in popularity in Texas. One canoe manufacturing firm in New York reports a 136 per cent increase in canoe sales since 1966, and an Arkansas company reports a 500 per cent increase for the same period.

The number of fatalities due to canoeing accidents has been low, less than 10 since 1967 for the whole state, Palmer said. Although the canoe is an unstable boat, an overturned canoeist is rarely in serious trouble since a canoe will float even when it is full of water. It will also stay within reach after the accident.

SAY TOP GOP LEADERS

Nixon Defectors Will Be Back

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of conservative organizers and editors has broken politically with President Nixon, but Republican leaders say the defectors will be back because there's no place else for them to go in 1972.

"Sooner or later, these conservatives are going to look at the alternatives," said Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, the GOP national chairman. "They certainly aren't going with any of the Democrats. And there aren't any alternatives on our side. Nixon's the nominee."

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona said he wasn't surprised at conservative dissatisfaction.

"But I don't believe this is going to amount to much, because when the chips are down, they're going to be with Nixon," Goldwater said. "The alternatives are too frightening."

"From a practical point of view, the conservatives have nowhere else to go," said Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Goldwater and Dole agreed Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, the GOP figure who would loom as a potential rallying point for a conservative revolt, is a Nixon loyalist, and will remain one. This view is shared by others in the administration who say there is nobody on the right with credentials and inclination to oppose Nixon.

"We do not plan at the moment to encourage formal political opposition to President Nixon in the forthcoming primaries, but we do propose to keep all options open in the light of political developments in the next months," the 11 leaders of conservative organizations and publications said Wednesday in announcing suspension of their support of the administration.

The best-known name on the list was that of William F. Buckley Jr., editor-in-chief of The National Review—and brother of New York Sen. James L. Buckley.

The senator avoided direct comment, and said through a spokesman he wasn't involved in the dissent, and wholeheartedly supports Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Sen. Buckley, elected on the Conservative ticket in New York in 1970, now lists his affiliation as Conservative-Republican. The two top men in the New York Conservative Party were among signers of the statement.

Despite the statement issued in Buckley's behalf, the New York senator has expressed his own misgivings about some policies of the administration, especially at Nixon's planned visit to Communist China.

Goldwater has expressed conservative misgivings, too, about Nixon's proposed welfare overhaul, and about deficit spending by the administration. But the Arizona senator has guardedly endorsed the mission to Red China.

Senators Want State To Buy Depository

DALLAS (AP) — Two Texas senators called Wednesday for the state to purchase the book depository from where President John Kennedy was assassinated to insure "respect, dignity, protection and importance to this most valued historical site."

Kennedy was killed by bullets the Warren Commission said were fired from the Texas Schoolbook Depository in November 1963.

A Nashville, Tenn. business executive, Aubrey Mayhew, has purchased the red brick building for $650,000, announcing he plans to turn the seven-story building into the world's foremost "tourist attraction."

State Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas said the state should buy the building for a museum. He was joined by Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin who said he had at first wanted the building destroyed but changed his mind "since it is obviously going to be a museum anyway."

McKool said the book depository shares a place in history with Ford's Theatre where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated.

Because our perishable foods (such as eggs, dairy and bakery foods) sell so fast at Safeway that they are off our shelves in a matter of hours, freshness is assured. But we take no chances. The perishable foods Safeway manufactures or processes carry dates which our store people use to make certain that only fresh foods are sold. Here, for example, is how the date looks on a carton of Safeway Brand eggs:

A date like this is printed on the end of each carton. When the numbers "1-15" appeared, our employees knew the carton was not to be sold after January 15. Being positive no cartons remain on our shelves after the printed date ensures that all Safeway eggs you buy will remain fresh and good for many more days with proper home refrigeration.

Wrong Team Hears Manager

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"All I ask," Oakland Manager Dick Williams was commenting before the game, "is that my players hustle and not beat themselves."

The Robinsons of Baltimore must have overheard him—with a couple of astonishing results.

Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' vacuum cleaner of a third baseman who has been voted the American League's top man at the hot corner for 11 successive seasons, suddenly turned butterfingers Wednesday night.

He committed three errors on a pair of two-out grounders and slapped into a pair of rally-wrecking double plays that seemed to give Oakland a 2-0 victory.

But in the bottom of the ninth inning it was Frank Robinson to the rescue.

John "Blue Moon" Odom had checked the Orioles on just three hits before singles by Don Buford and Merv Rettenmund knocked him out with none away.

Big Frank wasted no time against reliever Roland Fingers, who only the night before had been victimized by Brooks' two-out, two-run homer in the ninth that powered Baltimore to a triumph.

Frank pounced on his first pitch, driving it deep into the right field bleachers, catapulting the East Division-leading Orioles to a 3-2 stunner over the A's, front-runners in the West.

In other American League contests, the Chicago White Sox rallied to beat the New York Yankees 5-4, Milwaukee silenced Boston 5-0, California topped Cleveland 5-1, Detroit overhauled Kansas City 8-7 and Washington blitzed Minnesota 7-1.

In the National League, St. Louis whipped the New York Mets 6-3 and San Francisco nipped Atlanta 2-1 in afternoon action, Houston flipped Philadelphia 6-3, the Chicago Cubs bombed Montreal 16-2, San Diego beat Cincinnati 4-2 and Pittsburgh zipped Los Angeles 4-0.

"It just wasn't my night," understated Brooks Robinson, who couldn't recall ever committing three errors in an inning.

Frank, meanwhile, hadn't gotten a hit in 15 at-bats before the climactic clout, his 17th round-tripper of the year, and his average had dipped below the .300 mark, although he was among the league leaders in runs batted in with 60 going into the game.

So when the elated Orioles stormed into the locker room after the victory, Brooks grabbed him and shouted:

"It's about time you were doing something. We've been carrying you for a long time."

Ron Swoboda cracked a two-out homer in the top of the ninth, his first of the year, to put the Yanks ahead 4-3 before the White Sox swarmed back in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Andrew's leadoff walk sent New York starter Fritz Peterson to the showers and pinch singles by Pat Kelly and Carlo May tied it up against Lindy McDaniel.

With one away, Ed Herrmann slapped an apparent double play grounder at shortstop Gene Michael, whose relay to Horace Clarke at second base got the second out of the inning.

But Clarke's toss to first bounced past Danny Cater and Kelly steamed home with the winning run.

Rookie Jim Slaton of the Brewers blanked the Red Sox on just three hits, the 17th shutout by the Milwaukee staff this year.

He got plenty of support as Tommy Harper had a two-run homer and Ted Kubiak smacked a two-run double.

Shortstop Jack Heidemann booted a pair of routine grounders providing the Angels with a pair of fourth-inning runs, the only ones they needed as Rudy May went the route, scattering six Indian hits.

Al Kaline and Rats Brown unloaded two-run homers in the bottom of the ninth to carry the Tigers back from a 7-4 deficit. Chuck Harrison had a three-run blast for the Royals.

Bill Gogolewski had a one-hitter for seven innings before tiring, then Joe Grzenda came on as the two Washington hurlers, backed by Frank Howard's two-run double and a three-run uprising in the ninth, combined for a four-hitter to tame the Twins.

Vida Blue Tries For 20th Victory

BALTIMORE (AP) — Vida Blue, Oakland's sensational southpaw, goes after his 20th victory of the season tonight as the Athletics try to salvage the final game of a four-game series against Baltimore.

Blue, who celebrated his 22nd birthday on Wednesday, has beaten the Orioles twice this season by 1-0 and 2-1 scores.

The hurler, the loser of three decisions, edged Pat Dobson 1-0 early in the season in Oakland and topped Jim Palmer, tonight's opponent, 2-1 in Baltimore.

Oakland Manager Dick Williams said although Blue probably will pitch about 300 innings this season, he did not believe the youngster had been overworked.

"Only once has he thrown more than 150 pitches in one game," Williams said. "His average is about 120.

"Most young pitchers hurt their arms throwing sliders. Vida doesn't throw one, and I don't want him to, either. He has a smooth motion, not herky-jerky."

GEORGE VILLANUEVA

WTC Signs Tennis Star

The signing of Terrell High School tennis ace, George Villanueva, to the Western Texas College Tennis team makes him the second tennis athlete to sign on with a full tennis scholarship, Mrs. Mickey Baird, WTC tennis coach has announced.

Villanueva 18, a May 1971 graduate won the district singles title in 9-AAA competition with 6-0 and 6-3 scores. His team won the district title with 15 out of 45 points but gave way to Mount Pleasant in regional finals.

He lettered in tennis for three years at Terrell High and was a four year football letterman there. While at Terrell he was a member of the Senior Service Society. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Villanueva 900 Houston St., Terrell

Villanueva will reside in the temporary athletic dormitory facilities at the Beacon Lodge when school begins. In response to a look at the school, he said, "It's beautiful. I can barely wait until school starts."

E.J. Holub Might Be Finished

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — The training camp of the Kansas City Chiefs at William Jewell College in Liberty is quieter, now that center E. J. Holub, "the Holler Guy" is gone.

Holub, a 10-year professional football veteran, returned to his Lubbock, Tex., ranch Tuesday where he will consult with surgeons about an injury to his knee.

The 6-foot-4, 236-pounder from Texas Tech, may hold a record for knee operations—eight. He also has had an operation for a hamstring injury.

"They're acquainted with E.J.'s history," Coach Hank Stram said of the Texas doctors. "They've performed all of his operations. There is a strong possibility he'll need another one. If so he'll probably miss the entire season."

What Stram didn't say was that another operation would probably end the 33-year-old Holub's football career.

"The doctor says I have the knees of an 80-year-old man," Holub said a year ago. "He said I couldn't stand another knee operation."

Holub, who was an all-American Football League linebacker in 1962 and 1963, was switched to center in 1968.

Ironically, the man — who was nicknamed the Chiefs' "Holler Guy" — slipped away from the camp quietly.

"I saw him at dinner," said Jim Tyrer, an offensive tackle. "He said 'see you later.' At 10 o'clock I went to his room and he had gone."

Jack Rudnay, the man who replaced Holub as the Chiefs' starting center last year, said Holub came by before leaving. "He said he'd be back," Rudnay said.

"He asked me 'Who's going to yell at your when I'm gone?' And he said, 'I sure thought I had another year in them,' meaning his knees."

"He yelled at everybody," Rudnay,a former Northwestern standout, said. "He got veterans mad at him and he made the rookies nervous. But he got it done. It's not going to be the same without him."

"When people like this leave you," said Stram, it's tough."

Lamonica Eases Raiders' Minds

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Daryle Lamonica has finally emerged from the fig orchards and taken a load off the minds of the Oakland Raiders. But Green Bay's worries have just begun with Bart Starr first coming out of surgery.

Although Wednesday's operation on Starr's throwing arm—his right one—was termed a success and he was reported in satisfactory condition today, it only meant he would not be available to the Packers for 12 weeks. Green Bay is desperate for a quarterback right now.

Without Starr, the 37-year-old, 15-year veteran who led Green Bay to two Super Bowl titles, the Packers will start their exhibition season with 39-year-old Zeke Bratkowski, coming out of two-year retirement, at the vital spot. And behind him as rookie Scott Hunter of Alabama and free agent Gary Lane.

On the other hand, the news was all good in Oakland where Lamonica reported to training camp for the first time, saying he has agreed to a multi-year contract expected to approach $100,000 a year. And still better, Lamonica pronounced himself in shape after workouts in the fig orchards near his Fresno, Calif., home. He immediately did some passing in team drills.

Lamonica, who led the Raiders to one American Football League crown and three successive Western Division titles arrived 1½ weeks late after his holdout for money in line with other top National Football League passers.

As he held out for a hefty raise from his $65,000 a year on a previous three-year pact, the Raiders were going with George Blanda and Ken Stabler sharing the signal calling duties.

Green Bay, without Starr, could use either Blanda or Stabler. Doctors at Mayo Clinic in Rochester Minn. where Starr underwent surgery, said Starr won't be able to throw for at least 12 weeks "with full authority." That means all of the exhibition season and the first four games of the regular season.

Oiler Veteran Put On Waivers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers placed offensive tackle Spain Musgrove on waivers Wednesday, reducing their number to 58 for the first pre-season game Saturday against Los Angeles.

Musgrove, a fifth-year lineman, was making a switch from defense. A Utah State product, he joined the club last season as a free agent.

The Oilers' most recent acquisitions, Ron Billingsley and Gene Ferguson, were due in camp shortly from San Diego.

Coach Ed Hughes said the pair might be used on kickoff teams for the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio, against the Rams.

Receivers Mac Haik and Ken Burrough remained out of action, nursing injuries. Haik has a bad ankle and Burrough a broken toe.

Center Bobby Maples, still favoring an injured knee, worked out in shorts Wednesday and may see action against Los Angeles.

C-City Wins Over Snyder

The Snyder Rebels will have their work cut out for them tonight but they are still in the running in the Junior Teenage Tournament being unreeled in Towle Memorial Park. The Rebels fell to Colorado City 4-3 in the second round last night.

In order to win the tourney Snyder must win 3 consecutive games this evening. In the first one scheduled for 6 p.m., the Rebels will meet Haskell who eliminated Rotan 4-3 Wednesday.

The winner of the Haskell-Snyder contest will then play Colorado City. If C-City should win that one it will be the champion, if it loses the two teams will then play another game with the winner taking the championship. The team that wins the tourney will advance to the state tournament that will be in Sweetwater early in August.

Snyder jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the top half of the first inning last night. (C-City was the "home" team) Widgen Emerson tripled and came on a single by Larry Beard who also scored on an error by the catcher and a single by Robert Braziel.

Colorado tallied once in the bottom of the first Clayton Salmon scored after having reached base on a double. Snyder had men to reach base in every inning except the 4th but had trouble getting them around to home plate.

C-City tied the score at two-all in the 2nd with the big blow being a triple by Rudy Costillo and then went ahead 3-2 in the 4th.Snyder knotted the score with a lone run in the 5th when Sid Perry reached base on an error and then came in on a single by Danny Brumley.

Once again however C-City took the lead by scoring one in its half of the 5th and then added another in the 6th for a 5-3 lead. Snyder seemed to put on a rally in the 7th when the first two men up Cary Coffee and Perry reached base on errors with Coffee getting a run. However C-City pitcher Ed Warren settled down and got the next 3 men out to save the victory.

Haskell took the lead over Rotan with 2 runs in the first and was never headed. Single runs were then scored in the 2nd and 4th frames. Rotan talliied once each in the 1st 2nd and 4th innings and threatened in every other frame but could not push any more runs across.

Merger Bills To Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was scheduled to receive today legislation permitting merger of the two professional basketball leagues.

Bills to partially exempt the National and American Basketball Associations from the anti-trust laws were to be introduced by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., with 15 to 25 cosponsors, and Rep. Jack B. Brooks, D-Tex., and 15 others.

The legislation would give pro basketball the same exemption Congress allowed for pro football five years ago.

Sources said the Senate Judiciary Committee probably will hold hearings on the measure about the middle of September, after returning from the month-long August vacation.

There was no indication when the House Judiciary Committee will hold hearings.

California Has Mosquito Crisis

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A type of mosquito which can infect humans with deadly sleeping sickness is reported out of control in California because it has developed immunity to all known pesticides.

Representatives of the state's health and agricultural agencies met Wednesday to seek new ways to control Culex tarsalis mosquitoes.

Richard F. Peters, director of mosquito abatement for the California Department of Public Health, said that after a quarter-century of using increasingly potent pesticides, the chemicals are no longer effective and the insects are multiplying rapidly, especially in the state's irrigated, agriculturally rich valleys.

The mosquito can carry Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), which is sweeping Mexico and Texas, and another variety of sleeping sickness often fatal to humans, Peters said.

"There is a mosquito crisis in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys," he said. "We have a mosquito explosion in these areas and it is likely to spread to other parts of the state. We are greatly concerned."

The meeting dealt first with the threat of VEE to horses, where it is fatal about 60 per cent of the time. It affects humans less severely, somewhat like influenza. Plans were made to organize "an army of veterinarians" to immunize all of the state's 400,000 horses.

VEE has not reached California, but Peters predicted it will because of traffic from Mexico.

Culex tarsalis is known to carry two other kinds of sleeping sickness. One, the St. Louis strain, affects only humans, mostly adults, and usually is not fatal.

The other, Western equine encephalitis, is often fatal to humans, health officers said.

An outbreak in California in 1952 affected some 800 persons. Fifty died and another 50, mostly very young children, survived with permanent brain damage.

Tests for the Western strain are being conducted in all parts of the state, he said.

"The way things stand now," said Dr. Robert van den Bosch of the Division of Biological Control at the University of California at Berkeley, "animals and people are going to die."

Better water management is needed, he said, and new ways must be found to control mosquitoes through natural enemies such as insects and fish which eat the larvae of mosquitoes, he said.

Savannah To Be Mothballed

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Preparations began Wednesday to entomb the N. S. Savannah, the world's first nuclear powered merchantman in mothballs.

The $54 million vessel has fallen victim to the spiraling cost of living in the 1970s.

Crewmen at Todd Shipyards started preparations for the actual defueling process which begins in September prior to mothballing the 2,500 ton vessel, according to R. R. Allen, project manager for the ship.

The 595-foot ship will be mothballed at Orange, probably next June, Allen said, exactly 10 years after the Savannah went to sea as the pride of the American merchant fleet.

But soaring operating costs, a dwindling shipping industry and the Savannah's tonnage limitations conspired to scuttle her.

Allen said the Savannah was too costly to operate and has been too costly to retire.

The defueling process involves removing the ship's uranium and nuclear generating plant.

There have been efforts to mothball the Savannah since 1967 but public outcry each time gave her a renewed lease on life.

Many foreign ports balked at accepting her because of her nuclear assemble.

The Savannah was built and went to sea in 1962 by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration.

Allen said several government offers to sell the ship met blank stares from shipping companies who cited the ship's high operating costs and limited capacity.

The Savannah carried cargo and up to 60 passengers and 100 crewmen.

Wil Files Divorce Suit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ousted Methodist minister Wil Schaefer has filed a suit for divorce here against his wife of 14 years.

A Methodist church jury stripped Schaefer of his credentials as minister earlier this year because he refused to sever his relationship with a divorcee, Mrs. Judy Nash.

Schaefer was pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Laredo when the relationship with Mrs. Nash was disclosed.

The divorce suit says the Schaefers were married May 27, 1957 and separated last Jan. 19. The couple's separation was the result of "discord and conflict of personalities", the suit claims.

Kevin Is 'Fine'

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Reunited with his mother after 10 days in the wilderness of Wyoming's high country, young Kevin Dye said he was fine. "But then," she said, "he always says fine."

The 9-year-old boy's physician said the fact that the retarded and epileptic youngster is hyperactive probably enabled him to survive chill nights on only water from mountain streams.

The youngster apparently played a game of hide-and-seek with search teams before his stamina gave out and he was unable to continue fleeing would be rescuers. Search parties said he was seen at least twice but when they went to the spot he was gone.

He was found Wednesday lying near a tiny stream 2½ miles from the cabin of a family friend where he was last seen July 18.

Two hours later he was in a Casper hospital a bit scratched, a bit bruised but too weak to have lasted another 48 hours in the open, his physician, Dr. Robert Fowler, said.

The boy is also a victim of Aphasia, which limits his ability to understand and use language.

"His doctor told us that if we went about it gently, over a period of time we might get some information from him," the youngster's mother, Carolyn Dye, said.

The doctor described Kevin as hyperactive and said the unusual endurance that his constant activity has given him probably helped him survive nights on which the temperature dipped to 35 degrees.

He said Kevin had lost 15 of his 85 pounds.

During his 225-hour ordeal, Kevin managed to elude thousands of volunteer searchers, Air Force and National Guard helicopter crews, numerous tracking dogs, and for most of three days some of the top rescue teams in the Western States.

Slow Delivery

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — Secretaries at the city Police Department recently found two 50-cent parking tickets in the mail. The tickets were dated Sept. 26 and Sept. 27, 1969.

And one of the tickets had been postmarked at Grand Island Sept. 29, 1969, and the other at Cairo, 13 miles away, on the same date. Each contained the required 50 cents.

Probe Asked On Picken's Job

AUSTIN (AP)—A liberal leader in the Texas Senate has asked a House committee to investigate a possible conflict of interest in Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa taking a job as a Congressional railroad lobbyist.

"It would appear that a flagrant conflict of interest exists," Sen. Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, said Wednesday.

Mauzy said since it is "common knowledge" that Pickens was a "loyal member" of Speaker Gus Mutscher's team during the recent legislature the House General Investigating Committee also might want to "explore any other alleged involvement of the 'speaker's team.'"

Mauzy made no other reference to "alleged involvement" nor did he say specifically how anyone else might figure in.

Pickens, 34, has been in the legislature since 1965. Mutscher named him chairman of the insurance committee for the past session.

A letter by Mauzy to Rep. Menton Murray of Harlingen, investigating committee chairman, noted that the House adopted an amendment by Pickens May 19 to Mauzy's bill substituting comparative negligence for contributory negligence.

"In view of his employment as a railroad lobbyist, it has been speculated that Mr. Pickens' amendment was offered in contemplation of his employment by the railroad industry rather than as a member of the House of Representatives representing the citizens of Ector County," Mauzy's letter said.

Mauzy said Pickens' amendment would have exempted from Mauzy's bill cases arising out of accidents at railroad grade crossings.

The entire comparative negligence proposal by Mauzy later died in a House-Senate conference committee. Mauzy's bill would have allowed a plaintiff a personal injury suit to collect some damages even if he was partially at fault.

Reagan Won't Accept Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California says he would not accept the Republican nomination for vice president even if the GOP denied the nomination to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Californian said he thought he could do more in his present position.

"I don't have political ambitions to go any further," Reagan said in a televised interview with William F. Buckley. "Much can be done and much has been done in California. Forty-nine other states really keep an eye on California. California is kind of a microcosm and has been a pacesetter."

Farmers Paid Higher Prices

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices paid farmers for key products were the main reason for a rise in consumer food costs last month, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Cost of a selected "market basket" list of food rose 0.6 per cent in June, including retail price increases for beef, pork, frying chickens and fresh fruit. But farmers' share of the food dollar dropped from the June 1970 level.

The farm value of the basket of food rose 1.6 percent from May, while middlemen collected only 0.1 per cent more, their lowest rise in four months. Over the long haul, however, rising middleman costs have been the larger factor in consumer food price increases.

On an annual basis, the entire market basket in June cost consumers $1,251 for a typical household. Of that, farmers got $481 and middlemen $770.

In May the selected list cost $1,243, of which farmers received $473 and middlemen, allowing for rounded figures, $770.

A year earlier, the June list cost $1,228 and included $480 for farmers and $748 for middlemen who transport, process and sell the items at retail.

Thus, farmers in June, while contributing most to the one-month retail price increase, gained only $1 in their share of the market basket while middlemen boosted theirs $22 from a year earlier.

Today's report showed retail prices for market-basket foods rose 1.9 per cent from a year earlier. During the same time, farmers averaged only 0.3 per cent more while middlemen prices were boosted 3 per cent—10 times the farm rate.

Put another way, the June increases left farmers with a 38-cent share of each consumer food dollar, same as in May and one cent less than in June of last year.

The analysis was in a monthly report issued by the Economic Research Service, started last April to call attention to factors involved in retail grocery prices.

AP Science Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The geologist who taught the Apollo 15 astronauts what to look for on the moon says they may have too many assignments to handle during their 67-hour stay.

"They have an incredibly jam-packed schedule," Dr. Leon Silver, geology professor at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Calif., said Wednesday.

"It is an absolutely physically backbreaking job. And to ask them to be intellectually alert, imaginative and prepared to encounter things that we can't anticipate ourselves while they are doing programmed tasks is too much," Silver said in describing what David R. Scott and James B. Irwin will look for during their three moon walks.

Asked if he had tried to get NASA to relax the schedule, Silver said: "That's not my job. But we must be very, very cautious not to overload the men.

"Most people don't realize how challenging their physical and intellectual tasks are," he said in an interview elaborating on a statement. "If they bring them both off, it will be incredible.

"We have to reach a balanced position in the number of assignments we give them in the limited time they spend on the surface. These are superior people and they may bring it off, but we should continually try to reach some sort of balanced position."

Dr. Joseph Allen, a scientist-astronaut who has worked closely with Scott and Irwin preparing for the mission, said Wednesday Silver "is right in a sense. Maybe we have given them too big a bite to chew.

"But I do think we're going at these traverses with a basically different philosophy than we've had on any of the past missions," Allen said in an interview.

"We've tried to get away from this idea of dictating specifically where they should find themselves at a particular time to do a task. We've tried to reduce the idea that somehow the mission is less successful if they don't get through the whole list of activities. We'll think they've done quite well if they get through 30 per cent of the planned activities."

Scott and Irwin land on the moon Friday afternoon and embark on the first of three lunar excursions Saturday morning. They spend 20 hours in all moving about the lunar surface using a battery-powered lunar rover. They'll also deploy an array of nuclear powered scientific instruments.

Silver has been training Apollo astronauts in their geology field work for three years. He spent 15 months teaching the Apollo 15 crew. He said the astronauts are top rate observers whose abilities must be focused on the geological aspects of the moon.

Johnny Carson Withdraws Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Television talk show host Johnny Carson has withdrawn a suit in which he sought to prohibit early morning window washing activities which disturbed his slumber.

A spokesman for the cooperative where Carson has a $375,000 apartment would say Wednesday only that an amical settlement of the dispute had been reached. Carson was not available for comment.

Road Work Set For Gaza Strip

GAZA (AP) — The Israeli military government in the occupied Gaza Strip has appropriated $215,000 for the improvement of roads and street lighting in Gaza City during the last half of 1971.
