*How's that?
 Father*

Q. Is Father's Day an official holiday?
A. No. The federal government determines official holidays, when government services and employment are either ceased or curtailed. States are free to set their own holiday schedule, but usually follow the federal one. Father's Day is traditional, but informally observed.

Sunday's forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with a 20 percent of thunderstorms. Temperatures should reach the 90s. Humidity will remain high, and winds may gust up to 30 mph during rainfall.

Off the wall: Roller coaster

NEW YORK (AP) — A troop of roller coaster aficionados, screams ready and stomachs primed, celebrated the centennial of their favorite thrill Saturday with a ride on Coney Island's famed Cyclone.

The 57-year-old Cyclone is a descendant of the amusement park's "Thompson's Switchback Gravity Pleasure Railway," built in 1884 and the granddaddy of all commercial roller coasters.

A snooze by today's standards, that 450-foot-long, 6 mph, nickle-a-ride excursion has given way to high-speed thrillers with names such as Demon, Shock Wave and Rail Blazer — some even equipped with light shows and mist generators.

Saturday's ride was part of a centennial tour of the nation's top roller coasters by a team assembled by the makers of Dramamine, a motion-sickness drug.

Panel targets N-dump sites

By JIM BROWN
 Staff Writer
 State legislators, including Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring, will meet in Austin this week to decide what to do about a state agency that has people in West Texas hot over attempts to locate a nuclear waste dump in the Howard County area.

The Legislature's County Affairs Committee sub-committee on low-level nuclear waste has scheduled its first meeting for 10 a.m. Friday to discuss operations of the Texas Low-Level Radioactive Waste Authority.

The authority has tried to acquire land in Borden County and recently signed an option to purchase acreage in Garza County.

"We are still in the process of putting our strategy and format together, but basically the committee will focus on five topics," Shaw said.

Those topics include:
 • A brief overview of the issue and the performance of the waste authority.
 • An analysis of the time-table federal law has imposed on disposing of radioactive materials.
 • Alternatives to shallow land fills for nuclear waste dumps.
 • Communicating to the public on the need to secure sites for radioactive waste.
 • Examination of legislation defining the scope of the authority's responsibilities.

"The authority has been asked to address each of those topics for the committee in some detail," said Shaw.
 "One of the main things that the committee will discuss is: Are we moving too fast in Texas with our

Revered father

Midnight rider was real father of country

By The Associated Press

Paul Revere is remembered for his midnight ride while George Washington was tagging the father of his country. But Revere was a pretty fair father himself, having 16 children he called "lamb" and raising them in a "happy and affectionate" home.

"As far as we know, he was a good father," said Edith Steblecki, a researcher and guide at Revere's preserved home in Boston's North End. "It was very affectionate to STUCK TRUCK — A crowd gathers to watch a wrecking crew lift a tractor-trailer truck that dangled from I-20 Saturday morning after crashing into a guard rail.

Truck totters on I-20 overpass

East bound traffic on Interstate 20 was halted for over three hours Saturday morning after a tractor-trailer truck crashed into a guard rail and threatened to fall from an overpass onto Birdwell Street.

Police said the Ohio-registered truck driven by Ronald Lee Bates of Jamestown, Pa., slammed into the guardrail when Bates swerved to avoid a collision with a car about 7:30 a.m.

Bates, who was rescued from the cabin by emergency personnel, was treated and released from Malone-Hogan Hospital for lacerations to the head.

The truck, which belonged to Ohio Fast Freight, was part of a two-truck caravan returning to Ohio, police said. Bates left Big Spring within hours of the accident to return to his home in Pennsylvania.

Police said the truck destroyed about 20 feet of the highway guard rail. The truck's cabin was pushed off the road, where it dangled for about two hours.

Bates told police that a blue pickup passed him and cut back in front of his rig without signaling.

In an attempt to avoid crushing the pickup, Bates swerved into the guard rail, police reports said.

Police said they have a license number for the pickup and are looking for the driver, who they said failed to stop and aid Bates.

Units of the Big Spring Fire Department, Shaffer Ambulance, Big Spring Police, Texas Department of Public Safety, Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation and several wrecker crews responded to the crash.

The fire department foamed down the roadway, but one of the truck's fuel tanks fell from the overpass and burst into flames near some stockyards while highway crews were trying to cut away the twisted guard rail.

A fire department spokesman said sparks from cutting torches started the fire.

Firemen were able to contain the fuel-fed grass fire within minutes.

The truck had been towed from the area minutes before the fire erupted.

Motorists traveling east on I-20 were routed through Big Spring while the truck was being removed by a large crane.

The highway was not damaged, and highway crews were not able to appraise damage to the guard rail.

The east bound lanes were reopened to traffic about 11 a.m. West bound traffic was not affected by the crash.

Mondale sweeps state delegates

By The Associated Press
 Despite the last-ditch bid for support from Sen. Gary Hart, Texas Democrats on Saturday awarded the bulk of their national convention delegates to Walter Mondale, giving him 119 of 200 and the prospects of five more next month in San Francisco.

The state party's convention in Houston also heard the two men Lloyd Doggett defeated for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination urge their backers to put resentment aside and help Doggett defeat Republican Phil Gramm in November.

And delegates approved a resolution calling for a presidential primary election to replace the current system of precinct and county conventions.

And in Fort Worth, Vice President George Bush told thousands of cheering fellow Republicans Saturday that this is the party's most important political year in two decades, both for the U.S. presidency and for Texas GOP candidates.

About 6,000 delegates and visitors applauded and yelled Red, white and blue balloons cascaded from the ceiling of the Tarrant County convention center. Long lines of Young Republicans marched with banners and shouted "We want Bush."

The address by the vice president was the highlight of the two-day meeting which GOP officials cheerfully admitted was mostly a big Reagan pep rally.

Hart had followed Mondale to Houston on Friday to seek the backing of uncommitted delegates before the state convention met to choose Texas' 200 national convention delegates, the third-largest state delegation traveling to the San Francisco convention in July.

Hart met with some delegates personally, toured the convention floor briefly and vowed "I will not quit" the race.

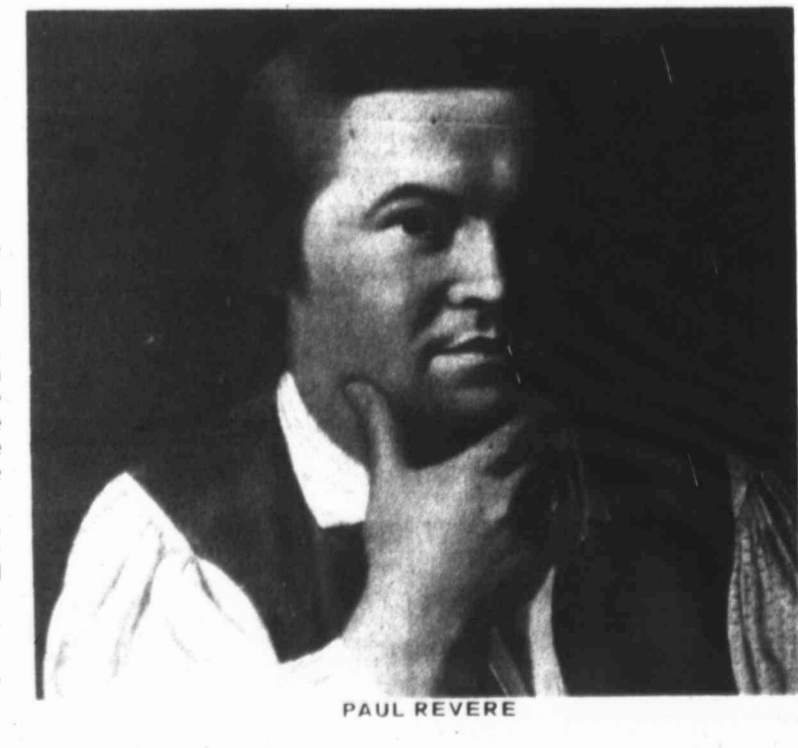

But Mondale forces, who won the majority of state convention seats from the precinct and county conventions, were in control from the beginning.

Negotiations continued into the evening over the exact makeup of the national convention delegation.

Patti Everitt, the party's executive director, said that of the 169 delegates who were chosen based on the support expressed in the precinct caucuses that were held May 5, Mondale got 94, Hart 40 and the Rev. Jesse Jackson 35. The remaining 31 delegate spots went to elected and party officials.

Of those, 25 are Mondale supporters, one is a Hart backer and five remain uncommitted. Mon-

Weather

Clouds to continue

By The Associated Press

Most of the state was under clear to partly cloudy skies Saturday, although afternoon showers fell along the borders of New Mexico and Louisiana.

A weak cold front caused the activity in the west while heating and lots of Gulf moisture started the rains in the East. Temperatures reached the 80s and 90s across the state, with the warmest readings being the North Central's mid to upper 90s. Winds were from a southerly direction at 10 to 15 mph. Winds in the Panhandle were a little stronger at 15 to 25 mph, the National Weather Service said.

The forecast called for partly cloudy with widely scattered to isolated afternoon and early evening thunderstorms through Monday in northeastern and western Texas, and generally fair elsewhere in the north. Highs in the low to mid 90s and lows in the lower 70s were predicted for the northern sector of the state.

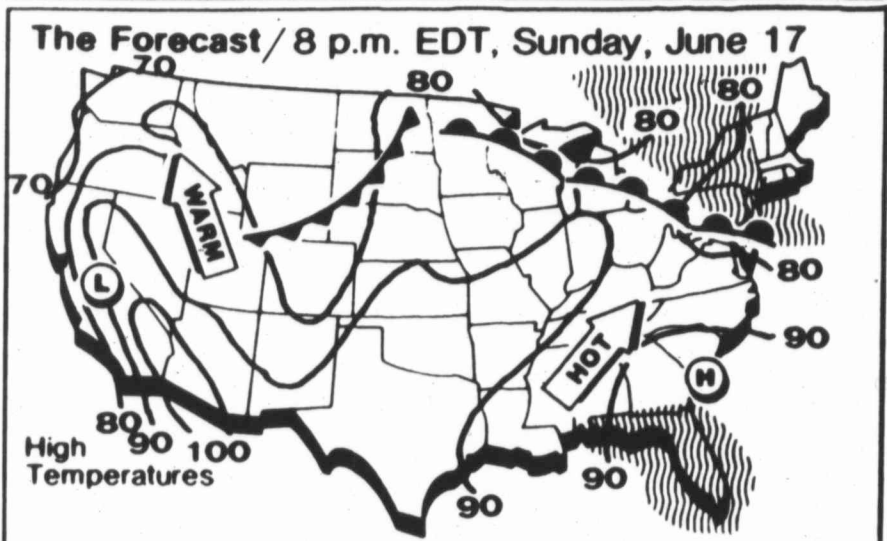

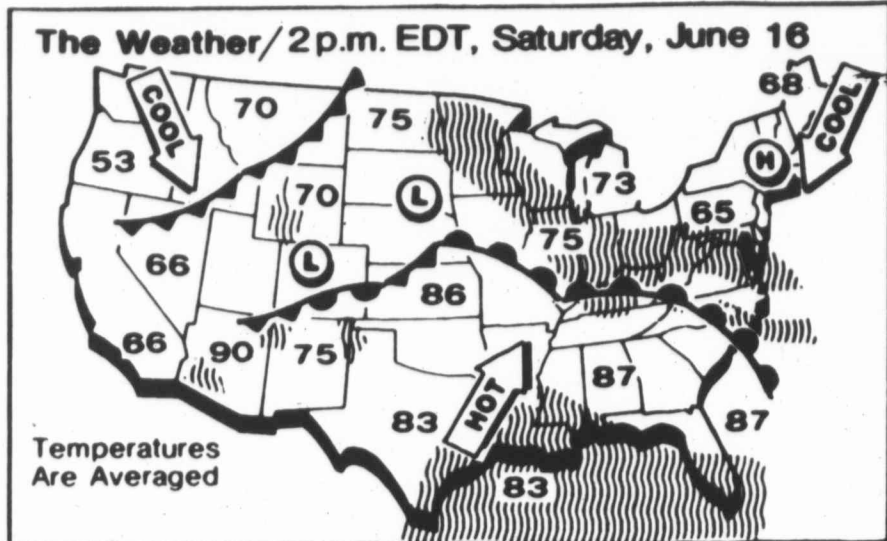

In West Texas, showers were expected to be more numerous in the mountains, with lows in the upper 50s Sunday night. Lows were expected to range from the 60s to low 70s, with highs in the 90s except for 80s in the mountains Sunday and in the mountains and Panhandle on Monday.

The South Texas forecast called for partly cloudy, warm and humid Sunday through Monday, with widely scattered mainly afternoon and evening showers in the southeast, coastal and extreme south. Lows Sunday night were expected near 70 to the mid and upper 70s along the Gulf Coast. Highs should be mostly in the upper 80s along the coast and in the mid to upper 90s elsewhere.

Showers and thunderstorms continued over much of the Midwest, the Ohio Valley and the Gulf of Mexico Coast on Saturday, driving more than 1,000 people from their homes in some areas.

The wet weather, which produced locally heavy rains in the mid-Missouri Valley overnight kept drifting across the upper Mississippi Valley after producing up to 8 inches of rain in southwestern Nebraska Friday night, and as much as 4 inches in eastern Nebraska.

West Texas — Generally partly cloudy through Monday with mainly afternoon scattered showers and thunderstorms, more numerous in mountains. Lows Sunday night 60s except to low 70s south and upper 50s mountains. Highs 90s except 80s in mountains Sunday and 80s mountains and Panhandle Monday.

Police Beat

Man arrested for threat

Big Spring police arrested Larry Gene Stevens, 41, of 1905 Wason for suspicion of attempted capital murder. Police spokesmen said they were summoned to the house at approximately 4:50 p.m. Saturday.

When police units arrived, they observed Stevens attempting to 'kick in' the door of the Wason road apartment, they said. Police said Stevens brandished a butcher knife with a 10-inch blade and threatened to kill the officers.

Hershal Eason, 66, 507 West Third was arrested Friday afternoon for suspicion of discharging a firearm in the city limits in what seemed to be a family disturbance, according to police.

Police arrested Julian Reyna, 30, of Gail Route for suspicion of driving while intoxicated at 12:14 a.m. Saturday along the Interstate 20 north service road. Reyna was later released on $500 bond set by Judge Lewis Hefflin.

Lazaro C. Torrez, 39, of Levelland was arrested at 11:16 p.m. Saturday at Fifth and Presidio streets for suspicion of driving while intoxicated, carrying a concealed weapon and failure to show proof of liability. Torrez was released later in the day on three $1,000 bonds.

Nathan L. King, 22, 711 E. 18th was arrested at 2:02 a.m. Saturday at 19 and Gregg streets for suspicion of driving while intoxicated, failure to maintain financial liability and driving with an expired license, police said.

Lawrence Lea Truscott, 42, of Rome, Texas, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle at the Circle 6 motel, according to police.

Bus wreck injures 43 Texans

LAMAR, Colo. (AP) — Forty-three people from Texas were injured, eight of them seriously, when their chartered bus was forced off a road by an oncoming car as they returned to Houston from a Colorado youth camp, authorities said.

The 42 passengers and the driver, all from the Houston area, were taken to hospitals in Lamar, Springfield and Pueblo, but 35 were released later in the day, a spokeswoman at Prowers Medical Center here said.

Thirty-one of the passengers ranged in age from 14 to 19, and the other 11 were adult chaperones, officials said.

The bus swerved into a ditch to avoid a head-on collision, overturned once and landed on its wheels.

For the record

The address for Robert Mendoza, 37, who admitted violating his parole Friday, was incorrect. Mendoza does not live at 624 Caylor, the present occupant of that residence said. The Caylor address was taken from Mendoza's parole records.

nuclear waste program?" Shaw said. "If you compare us with other states, we are in the forefront of the movement."

Shaw said he feared a nuclear waste dump in Texas could be transformed into a "regional dumping ground."

"It's my opinion, and that of many in Austin, that the federal courts would not allow Texas to turn away states that needed to use the dump while they created their own," Shaw said. "I think that we may need to slow the process down just because of that reason rather than becoming the fourth national dump site."

Shaw also said the committee will question the authority's plans to dispose of waste in shallow land fills.

"Many people throughout West Texas feel that their land is being chosen for reasons other than being the best site," Shaw said. "I have some definite questions for the authority concerning site selection that have not been answered, and I want an answer before we proceed with this program."

In addition to Shaw, members of the sub-committee include Chairman Gary Thompson of Abilene, Bob Eckles of Houston, Arbut Jones of El Paso and Buck Buchanan of Dumas.

wooden Tudor-style house in 1770, an "old house when he bought it," and sold it in 1800, the historian said.

One example suggesting Revere was a devoted father came during a smallpox epidemic in 1764.

"He refused to send his 'lambs' to the pest house," where people with the contagious disease often were sent to isolate them, Ms. Steblecki said. "The chances of kids dying there was much greater."

Instead, she said, "He quarantined them at home."

Ms. Steblecki says she expected about 100 people an hour to pass through the Revere Home this Father's Day. Visitors invariably take notice of the information about Revere's children.

"They say all kinds of things," she said. The usual response, she said, is: "Oh my God, did he really have 16 children?"

Conventions

dale campaign officials said they expect those five to favor Mondale at the convention, making the final breakdown of the delegation 124 for Mondale, 41 for Hart and 35 for Jackson.

The convention also heard Bob Krueger, who finished third in the May 5 U.S. Senate primary, and runoff loser Kent Hance promise to support Doggett.

"Lloyd ran a tough campaign, his supporters ran a tough campaign, and I'm here today to grant all of them amnesty," said Hance, a Lubbock conservative who had ridden his opposition to amnesty for illegal aliens into the runoff election that he lost by 1,345 votes.

Hance also quoted a scene from a Western movie, where the hero told his men after an ambush, "We bury the dead and go on."

"Lloyd Doggett and I can do that. It's more important that our supporters do it," said Hance, who met with Doggett before appearing with him on the convention stage.

"I'm going to be there for Lloyd Doggett and you can count on it," Krueger said.

"If we work together, we can see to it that the Senate seat that has been filled by Democratic giants... can be won from (retiring incumbent) John Tower and Phil Gramm and back to the Democratic Party where it belongs," he said.

Doggett, in a speech punctuated by attacks on President Reagan's policies, said he was confident the party would unite behind him.

"One of the things about the Democrats is that we're not all the same. We tolerate diversity," Doggett said.

"Now the fight is over, we're ready for the reunion and we can pull everybody together."

Doggett discounted the speculation of some party activists and political observers that Hance's conservative supporters might prefer Gramm to Doggett's liberal philosophy.

"We need to have Kent Hance in this party. We need all those Democrats like Bob (Krueger) who are moderates. We need those yellow-dog Democrats who grew up thinking 'conservative Democrat' was one word," he said.

"Our Democratic Party is not a house divided."

Torch passes through Lubbock

LUBBOCK (AP) — It was almost an hour late, but crowds stood fast in Lubbock Saturday as runners in the Olympic Torch Relay carried the symbolic flame through their city in a journey approaching the half-way point to the summer games in Los Angeles.

The torch reached the Lubbock County Courthouse at 4 p.m. and a large gathering along the streets — three-deep in some spots — honored the runners' arrival with resounding applause.

Sunday, the torch is to be carried to Clovis, N.M.

2-year-old Abilene girl shot when she opened front door

ABILENE (AP) — A 2-year-old girl, who thought she was running to greet her father arriving home from work, was shot in the head with a shotgun after answering a knock at her front door, police said.

Sophia Flores was listed in serious condition Saturday in the intensive care unit of the Hendrick Medical Center, a nursing supervisor said.

The little girl was shot at about 9:30 a.m. Friday by a man who came to the wrong house, apparently to settle a dispute with a man who did not live there, said Abilene Police detective John McCoy.

Frank Gonzalez was charged Friday with aggravated assault, said Justice of the Peace Clarence Collins, who set bail at $20,000.

The girl's father, Ruben Flores, a driver for a produce company, said he usually comes home from work between 9 and 10 a.m. each day. He said his wife and children usually are asleep when he returns from his delivery routes.

"I knock on the door loudly before I come in, and my little girl usually comes running," he said. "I just hope she makes it through. Something might be wrong with her, her hearing or something, but just as long as she comes through."

McCoy said "the motive apparently was a dispute" between Gonzalez and another person.

"The arrested party thought the person was living where the shooting occurred" and had been led to believe the address was correct, McCoy said.

Lt. Jack Dieken said that as Sophia was about to answer the door, the man fired a round from a shotgun through the door.

"It was a very tragic mistake," McCoy said.

Forecast cloudy for Field

NEW YORK — Popular television weatherman Frank Field, who has worked at WNBC-TV for 25 years, was unable to agree on a new contract and is out of a job for at least 60 days, his agent says.

Field's last day of work was May 31 and he "will not be returning to the station," a WNBC spokesman said Thursday.

Field was at Mount Sinai Medical Center, where he was admitted Tuesday for minor surgery, hospital spokeswoman Marilyn Baumeil said. She said his condition was excellent and he was due to be released Friday.

His agent, David Cogan, said a clause in the contract prevents Field from seeking work elsewhere for 60 days, "at the end of which we will look around and see what the best possible offers are."

The kid is not my son

LOS ANGELES — A 12-year-old paternity suit against actor Chad Everett has been appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, an attorney says.

CHAD EVERETT

Attorney Caryll Warner, legal guardian of 11-year-old Dale Everett, said the appeal asks the court to require the actor to undergo sophisticated blood tests that can establish paternity with "99.9 percent" certainty.

The actor's attorney, Edward M. Medvene, said Wednesday he had no comment on the latest development in the case.

In November 1981, a Superior Court jury ruled that Everett, who starred in the "Medical Center" television series, did not father Sheila Scott's son when he visited her apartment on Aug. 16, 1972. At the time Ms. Scott was an extra on the "Medical Center" set.

Blood tests admitted at the trial showed that if Everett and Ms. Scott had had intercourse, there was a 95 percent likelihood he fathered the boy. However, the actor has repeatedly denied having intercourse with Ms. Scott, and his attorney argued that two other men could have fathered the boy.

Violence marks anniversary of riots by S. African blacks

SOWETO, South Africa (AP) — Anti-government demonstrations and rock-throwing skirmishes with police broke out across South Africa Saturday on the eighth anniversary of bloody riots in the black township of Soweto.

Police reported one man killed, four policemen injured and 27 blacks arrested in Saturday's protests.

Police in Bethal, 85 miles east of Johannesburg, said a black man was killed by a bomb that damaged a magistrate's court and a government agriculture office. No other details were available.

In Soweto, the sprawling black township outside Johannesburg, young blacks threw rocks at police for about 10 minutes. Two police trucks spraying tear gas drove among the youths and sent them running into side streets.

No incidents were reported following services in black townships near Pretoria, Cape Town or Durban.

Twenty-seven blacks were arrested and four policemen slightly injured in Graaff-Reinet, national police spokesman Col. Leon Mellet said. He said about 60 youths threw stones at police after a gathering in the town about 375 miles northeast of Cape Town.

One South African reporter was slightly injured in the violence in Soweto, Mellet said.

The clash in Soweto occurred about 100 yards from Regina Mundi Roman Catholic Church, the scene of violence on previous anniversaries of the 1976 riots against white minority government in South Africa.

Demonstrators, singing freedom songs and raising clenched fists, emerged after a four-hour service and threw about 20 rocks at armored police vehicles and scores of police waiting nearby.

About 3,000 blacks attended the service, and most of them left the service peacefully. Black crowd marshals unsuccessfully tried to hold back the demonstrators.

The 1976 riots broke out near Regina Mundi Church and spread across the country in following months. They began with protests by students against a government plan to replace English with Afrikaans as the official language in education. The government later backed off, but by then the issue had broadened to include the quality of black education in a country where separation of the races is institutionalized under the apartheid laws.

This year's ceremonies followed renewed boycotts and protests by black students on the same issue.

Both police and black community leaders had appealed for restraint to avoid the clashes that marked previous anniversaries.

The Azanian People's Organization, legal successor to the banned Black Consciousness Movement, called on people to observe the day with "calm, dignity and respect."

Armored police vehicles were parked on the grounds of Regina Mundi church, but they were moved later at the request of church officials.

Sudan: 315 rebels killed

KHARTOUM — Government troops have killed 315 rebels and seized "great quantities" of arms in recent battles in southern Sudan, a spokesman at the general command of the Sudanese armed forces said Saturday.

The state-run newspaper Al-Sahafa quoted the spokesman as saying the fighting occurred in the Nasir area about 20 miles from the border with Marxist-run Ethiopia. He did not say when the fighting occurred.

The spokesman also said that some 300 rebels were arrested and an undetermined number died when Sudanese troops foiled an attempt by insurgents to spirit 5,000 recruits into Ethiopia for training.

Persian Gulf war flares

BAGHDAD — Iraq on Saturday accused Iran of violating a five-day-old moratorium on shelling of civilian targets, dimming hopes for immediate progress on efforts to stop attacks on vessels in the Persian Gulf.

The U.N.-mediated moratorium called for both sides, which have been fighting since September 1980, to stop attacks on each other's population centers. But Iraqi military authorities claimed Saturday that Iranian gunners had shelled the central border hamlet of Sayed Sadeq for 2½ hours.

Uruguay arrests exile

MONTEVIDEO — The military government on Saturday arrested National Party leader Wilson Ferreira Aldunate as he returned after 11 years of voluntary exile to be welcomed by tens of thousands of supporters.

Ferreira, who has been chosen his party's candidate for president in November elections, had announced his intention to return to Uruguay, and the government had made it clear he would be arrested.

Ferreira's son Juan Raul, who returned on the same ferry, was also arrested.

Sikhs kill politician, priest

NEW DELHI — Suspected Sikh extremists shot and killed a local leader of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's party Saturday and hacked a Hindu priest to death in Punjab state, United News of India reported.

Police and army troops increased patrols across Punjab on the eve of planned protests by Sikhs angered over the military assault on the Golden Temple in Amritsar.

Hardyal Singh, acting president of Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party unit in Punjab's Jullundur district, was gunned down in the village of Gorya by three people in a car, UNI said. The gunmen escaped, the agency said.

Strikers return to work at four Las Vegas hotels

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Musicians and stagehands returned to work at four major hotel-casinos Saturday, leaving only 3,000 workers on strike against six other hotels.

The bitter walkout, longest ever in Las Vegas, began April 2 when some 17,000 members of four unions walked out against 24 hotels.

Vincent Helm, head of the hotels' Nevada Resort Association, said he was "relieved and very pleased" by the workers' return Saturday.

The musicians and stagehands overwhelmingly ratified new five-year contracts with the MGM Grand, Tropicana, Frontier and Desert Inn hotels on Thursday night and Friday. The pacts call for a freeze on wages for five years in exchange for retaining a guaranteed work week, which was a central issue in the strike.

Culinary workers and bartenders returned to work at those hotels earlier.

The four unions had signed independent contracts with 20 hotels before the walkout. Other settlements have continued piecemeal since early May.

About 3,000 culinary workers and bartenders remain on strike against the Four Queens, Sam's Town, the California Hotel, two Holiday Inns and the Marina.

The strike has cost more than $62 million in lost wages and tips. $60 million in tourism revenue and more than $1 million in police overtime.

Trial takes 'chic' out of cocaine

The federal drug trial of Guy Talbot produced an acquittal for the former public worker, but it remains an indictment of some segments of the Big Spring community. The picture painted in testimony last week in Abilene was one of free-wheeling, free-dealing, high profile involvement with an extremely dangerous drug. It's an ugly picture.

Testimony by a parade of witnesses in the trial implied that cocaine — "coke" — is in, the chic drug among wild high rollers. As one witness said, "It makes you feel good, basically," the effects of a small amount providing a 35-to-40 minute "high." There was discussion of wild parties, cocaine as readily available as bean dip, and wild spending. There were high flying trips to Las Vegas and Acapulco.

Underneath it all, though, there was a sense of sadness, of loss. The image of a distraught mother testifying on her son's behalf is a haunting one. The knowledge that one man's headlong plunge into cocaine landed him in substance abuse treatment gives us a hint of the adversary behind the glittering facade.

Four days of well-read testimony may produce widespread benefits for our community, a body of generally law-abiding, hard working, productive citizens. It shows those who might be inclined toward using the drug that cocaine is neither glamorous nor chic. It also makes clear the serious legal complications that can result from this sort of indulgence.

Steve Chapman

Sell vital organs

Anyone who has seen distraught parents on national TV, pleading for someone to donate a liver to a dying child, has felt sympathy for their plight. But hardly anyone understands why the potential beneficiaries of organ transplants have to undergo such indignities. There is a simple reason, and a simple solution.

The immediate problem is a shortage of human organs for transplant. It arose only recently, thanks in part to a new drug, cyclosporin, which safely suppresses the human body's impulse to reject alien organs.

Some 80 percent of heart transplant patients now live at least a year, and half survive five years or more. Ten years ago, 80 percent died within a year. The University of Pittsburgh now keeps 60 percent to 70 percent of liver transplant patients alive for a year or more, more than twice the survival rate in 1980. Kidney transplants, which now number more than 5,000 a year, are so successful as to be almost routine.

This medical revolution has stimulated a huge increase in the number of people who want transplants. But the supply of organs hasn't kept pace. Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Cal., says that, each year, organs are taken from only 13 percent of 20,000 potential donors (otherwise healthy people who suffer brain death in a hospital). In most cases, doctors won't remove the organs unless the donor has consented in advance and his next-of-kin agree.

The result is that thousands of people die every year because they can't get the organs they need. Thousands more victims of kidney failure are condemned to remain on dialysis, an expensive and painful treatment.

What can be done? Despite well-publicized campaigns to persuade Americans to sign "living wills," few bother. The limits of altruism have been reached, even as the number of patients in need of transplants grow.

But there is a way to right this deadly imbalance: legalize the buying and selling of human organs. Well-functioning commercial markets already exist for human blood and sperm, providing donors a financial reward for their trouble and recipients with access to what they lack. Why not allow a market in organs, too?

It would work as follows. Donors would contract with a firm to sell their usable body parts upon their death, with a fee to be paid to their estates. The more daring, or more altruistic, would also be free to sell any organs whose loss wouldn't be fatal — for instance, a single kidney, since the remaining kidney is normally adequate.

Right now, state laws throughout the U.S. are generally interpreted to forbid the sale and purchase of organs. Rep. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., — who is so wise about arms control that he was bound to be wrong about something — wants to preempt any states that might change their minds with an explicit federal ban, carrying criminal penalties of $50,000 in fines and five years in jail.

Gore and his allies, which include many medical organizations, say an organ market is reminiscent of slavery. "Things are bought and sold; people are not, and parts of people should not," he declares. An organ market would make the poor "a source of spare parts for the rich."

But the slavery analogy is faulty. The Africans who were brought to this country to be slaves didn't volunteer for the honor. No one would be deprived of his liver or kidney without his consent. Only those poor who want to make themselves a source of "spare parts" for the rich would be affected.

Some poor people would gain, notably those now getting federally financed dialysis. By covering the cost of kidney transplants, the government could not only free them from bondage to their machines but also save money — about $15 for every dollar spent on a transplant, or some $2 billion a year.

At any rate, it is added to prohibit people from doing for profit what they are allowed to do for nothing. Who is worse off — a woman who donates a kidney to a needy patient, or one who gets paid for it? If there is exploitation here, it is the unpaid donor who is victimized. Potential sellers can look out for themselves.

Worst of all, the prohibition has fatal consequences. It is an odd form of humanitarianism to insist that some people must die to protect other people from doing what they think is in their own interest. If people want to buy and sell organs for mutual benefit, it is presumptuous for the government to stop them.

Residents turn away from the tap

Alternative drinking water is enjoying immense popularity at the moment, for two reasons: One, tap water is saltier because of the drought. Two, news that the city's water contains a chemical compound implicated by the State Health Department as a carcinogen, has residents worried about the safety of tap water.

As lake levels decline due to lack of rain, the city's water supplier, Colorado River Municipal Water District, is engaged in a juggling act to keep up with demand. Normally, the water district mixes the good quality Lake Thomas water one-to-two with water from Lake Spence, which has naturally occurring salt pollution.

Because of the low reserve at Lake Thomas, the ratio has been boosted to one part Lake Thomas water mixed with 4 1/2 parts Spence water. There's no cause for concern about supplies for Big Spring, but until we get "the big rain," our water's taste is below par.

In checking with drinking water retailers and suppliers like Ampure of Midland, which sends Ozarka bottled water our way, I found the saltier taste wasn't the only reason residents are interested in alternatives to straight tap water. The more compelling reason is the worry over the chemical compound trihalomethane. Presence of the chemical is above new state standards of 100 parts per billion.

The state says federal Environmental Protection Agency tests on rats have found a "slight probability" of cancer exists for humans who drink about 2 quarts of trihalomethane-tainted water over a lifetime.

Tom Land, manager of the College Park Safeway store, reports that he can't keep up with demand for bottled water, which he estimates has doubled in one year. In a recent week, he ordered 2,500 gallons of his own brand of drinking water and got only 10 percent of that.

Ampure's president Ken Martin says sales of bottled water are up 45 percent from this May to May 1983 in his five-county distribution area. "After the letter from the city (about trihalomethane), we were flooded with calls," he said. The trihalomethane problem exists in Midland, too.

There were 65 new Big Spring customers for Ampure's water in May, compared to 18 new customers in May 1983. In the first eight days of June, the numbers were 24 new customers vs. 2 during the same period of 1983, Martin said. The City of Big Spring letter to residents was sent out May 1, and the following week, Ampure's new customer rep in Midland says, "The phone never left my ear."

Richard Wright of Culligan Water Conditioning service here says business is up about 25 percent from one year ago, and he cites taste as a major factor in the increase. Culligan installs a "reverse osmosis" unit directly into the household water supply, and customers pay a flat monthly rate for as much water as they can drink.

Regular tap water "tastes horrible," Wright says. "If I didn't have a (Culligan) water unit, I'd get bottled water."

Keith Briscoe, city editor and Sunday columnist for the Herald, was the object of rumors rumbling around the city last week during the federal drug trial of Guy Talbot in Abilene.

One of the witnesses at that trial was a man named Keith Briscoe. Close, but no cigar.

Mr. Briscoe is a local guy who makes his money in the oilfield. Mr. Briscoe is from Dallas and has been working at the Herald for 1 1/2 years.

While Mr. Briscoe was testifying in Abilene, Mr. Briscoe was busy in the newsroom riding herd on another edition of the newspaper. I know, I saw him with my own eyes.

Funny how some people hear what they want to hear, believe what they want to believe, and aren't a bit ashamed to spread untruths.

A new city animal shelter is so close to reality, it would be an outright shame if the new building doesn't come to pass. Interest in better treatment for our strays, and better efforts at finding them homes, is encouraging right now.

A local philanthropist, who prefers anonymity, has donated a substantial sum toward a new building. The city has kicked in some money, but still it's not enough.

Local donations toward this effort can make it a reality. Any funds directed to the city and earmarked for the shelter will be used toward that end. Councilman Jack Y. Smith is the city's liaison on the project.

Around The Rim

On Berlinguer

By KEITH BRISCOE

Enrico Berlinguer of Rome, Italy, died Monday at age 67. Funeral services were held Wednesday after an all-night vigil observed by thousands of supporters at the Piazza Venezia.

Berlinguer's obituary went virtually unnoticed outside Europe. That's a shame. A very important character in the story of modern history passed away.

Berlinguer perhaps will have as an important effect on the 21st Century as Karl Marx has had on the 20th Century.

A former underground fighter against fascism, Berlinguer sought to reconcile historical communism with post-war notions of egalitarian democracy. He sought to create a political philosophy in which the ideas of individual freedom and collective justice were compatible.

Although he early on supported the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, he later broke with the Politburo when he began advancing ideas that society could be swayed democratically to institute communism. Bloody revolution was not necessary, he said.

A compact. That was the essence of Berlinguer's philosophy. A contract between the individual and society that recognized the rights of both.

The individual possesses the right to participate freely in determining the direction of his government. Society has the right to develop historically toward communism.

Western democracies, Berlinguer believed, were impeding the advent of communism because they incorrectly assumed that individual rights would be trampled. Eastern communism, he said, was retarding the rights of the individual because of a distorted view that democracy would endanger socialism.

Berlinguer's idea is simple: The people can vote communism into power, and they will eventually do so because communism is the next step in the logical progression of history.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

God's plan for our lives

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Did you ever think about going into politics or business? I think you could have been very successful and made lots of money. — G.D.

DEAR G.D.: No, I never seriously thought about such things after I gave my life to Christ and knew God was calling me into evangelism. My concern has never been "success" in terms of money or power, because I know God's definition of success is very different from that of the world. The person who is successful in God's eyes is the person who is faithful to God's will. As best I know my own heart, my sole desire is to serve Christ and be faithful to his call to me.

That should be true of every person. Do you realize God has a plan for your life, just as much as he does for me? His plan, first of all, is that you would give your life to Jesus Christ by faith, inviting him into your heart as your Lord and Savior. Have you taken that step and committed yourself to Christ? If not, it is the most important step you will ever take, and I urge you to do it without delay.

You need Christ right now to guide you and help you, and you need Christ for eternity. "Salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).

Then ask God to show you his perfect plan for your life. God's Word, the Bible, will help you understand his plan for you as far as the pattern of your life is concerned.

Politics to key LULAC national convention

EL PASO (AP) — When the nation's largest Hispanic organization meets in El Paso this week, the gathering won't attract anywhere near the attention or coverage that the upcoming Democratic and Republican national conventions will draw.

But the meeting by the League of United Latin-American Citizens could be deemed a major political session, especially considering the manner in which political aspirants are courting the Mexican-American vote.

"Politics will play a large role in our convention," said Mario Obledo, national president of LULAC, which boasts a membership of more than 100,000 Hispanics.

"We will be unable to avoid politics, there is no doubt about it," he said recently in a telephone interview from his Sacramento, Calif., law office. "Political issues concern us a great deal."

But the political issues on which LULAC's 55th annual national convention will focus are ones that deal solely with problems especially important to Hispanics, Obledo and other organization leaders say.

Immigration, bilingual education, U.S. involvement in Central America, voter registration and the media are just a sampling of topics to be tackled at the convention, which convenes Thursday. "We want our membership to be informed on all these issues and we want the people involved with the issues to account for their stands," explained LULAC executive director Arnold Torres.

"The issues we plan to discuss will be those we have focused on for several years — key discussions will be held on all of them," Torres said in a telephone interview from his Washington D.C., office.

More than 3,500 people are expected to attend the four-day convention, which is being held in this predominantly Hispanic border city for the first time in more than a decade.

LULAC has invited the major contenders in the presidential race — including President Reagan — to attend, but Torres said it was unclear exactly who would show up from both the Democratic and Republican camps.

The Republicans "more than likely" will send a representative, Torres said, indicating that Vice President George Bush was a possibility.

And for the Democrats, Torres said, "we hope all three — (U.S. Sen. Gary) Hart, (former Vice President Walter) Mondale and (the Rev. Jesse) Jackson come.

But we think for sure Mondale will show up."

LULAC hopes to show its members "the difference between Republicans and Democrats," Torres said. "And we hope to show the candidates that both Democrats and Republicans haven't paid attention to our needs. Their concerns have largely been superficial."

Because the group is non-partisan, no endorsements will be made.

If none of the presidential hopefuls chooses to attend, "it will speak for itself," Torres said. "And our members do remember."

Legal aliens

State report says feds should aid immigrants

AUSTIN (AP) — A state task force says Congress must make available enough federal funds to help states pay for education and medical services for legal aliens.

Texas, with its 2,000-mile long border with Mexico, "and its relatively prosperous economy will continue to attract residents from other states, as well as from Mexico," said the final report of the Governor's Task Force on Immigration.

"Those unauthorized aliens who achieve legalization may place additional demands on public services that are already strained because of federal funding cuts, an influx of residents from other states, and natural population growth," the report said.

Two proposed bills in Congress would prohibit federal funds for public assistance to new legal residents, the report said.

The task force Thursday specifically recommended that states should be reimbursed for public health assistance to aliens who have applied for legal status. The task force also said federal grants of up to $300 per pupil should be made available to schools who educate legalized aliens.

The report was submitted to Gov. Mark White while the U.S. House of Representatives was debating an immigration reform bill. White said copies of the report would be forwarded to Texas' congressional delegation.

The bill for the first time would impose federal penalties on employers who hire undocumented foreign workers, and would provide amnesty and legal status for aliens who have been in the country since Jan. 1, 1982.

White appointed the 28-member task force in March 1983 to examine proposed immigration legislation. An initial report was published in June 1983, and three new sections — on asylum, documentation and reimbursement — were added to the final document.

The task force recommended the creation of an office of immigration and refugee affairs within the governor's office. The new office would be assisted by an advisory board, and the task force said board members should visit Florida to see how that state has dealt with three mass immigrations of Cuban and Haitian refugees during the past 25 years.

"The extent and nature of the political and military conflict in Central America will most likely result in a continued large number of Central American refugees entering Texas," the report said.

The task force recommended that the U.S. State Department develop a "fair and expeditious asylum-granting process with specific guidelines." If such a system cannot be developed, the report said, an applicant "should be given the proper authorization to obtain a Social Security card and should be allowed to work."

The "ideal documentation" for a prospective employee to prove that he is eligible to work in the United States should be a Social Security card, and such cards "should be tamper-proof and counterfeit-proof, with a photograph of the applicant," the report said.

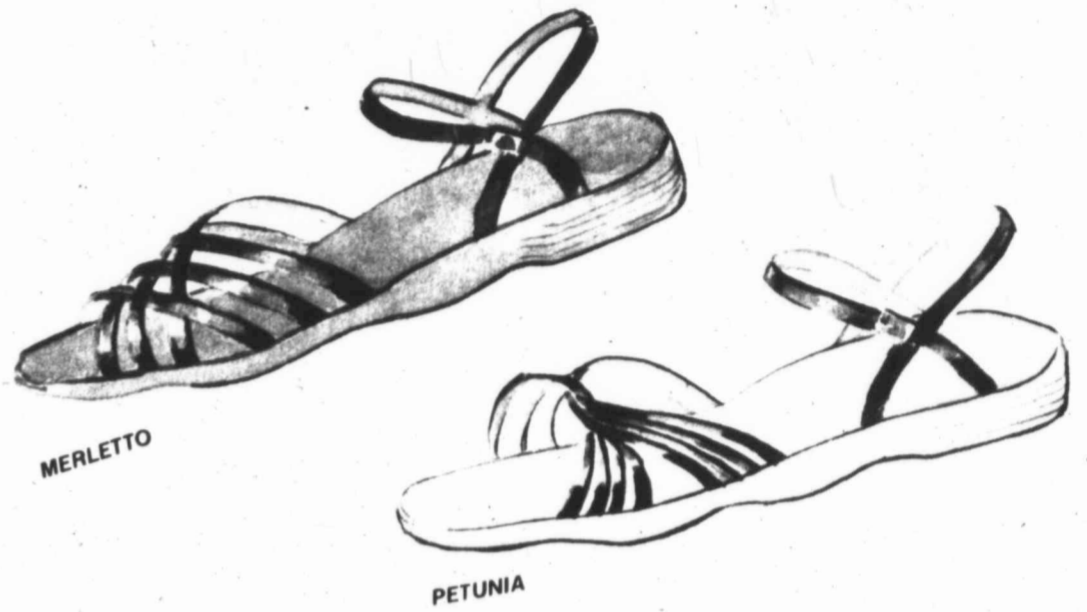

The task force recommended that the Legislature make it a crime to make fraudulent application for such documents as birth certificates and driver's licenses. It also would be a crime to alter the document or to use it fraudulently.

Other task force recommendations include:

- A uniform system for setting bonds for refugees seeking asylum.
- Bilateral commissions between the United States and Mexico on immigration.
- That only those employers who knowingly hire undocumented aliens should be subject to penalties.
- Creation of a state office to monitor employer sanctions in federal legislation.
- Raising the number of visas from 20,000 a year to 40,000 a year for Canada and Mexico, with any unused visas of one country being allocated to the other country.
- Eliminating the requirement that foreign graduates of United States colleges be required to return to their native countries for two years.

If Congress approves employer sanctions, the report said, a provision "must be included to allow the employment of foreign workers on a temporary legal basis when and where they are needed by employers who can prove the unavailability of qualified, willing, and able United States workers."

The task force also recommended a temporary workers program of up to four months where "workers may move between growers to harvest perishable crops in times of emergency."

Information about stock producer

Thought long and hard about what to write about in this week's column and finally, in light of the upcoming Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, an appropriate topic was zeroed in on.

So many times rodeo fans see the finished product and not too many, it is wargred, think about the behind the scenes folks — namely the producer or stock contractor responsible for bringing the thing together.

This year's producer is a young, but experienced man, named Mack Altizer.

Altizer stations himself out of Sonora and is the the son of 1959 world champion calf roper Jim Bob Altizer. Altizer's sister, Sherry, is one of the top barrel racers on the pro rodeo circuit. Altizer is the youngest stock contractor in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) at age 27. Only in his third year as a contractor, Altizer should bring a mixture of the new and old to this year's 51st Big Spring event. "The PRCA needs a young stock contractor than can combine the ideas of the past and present to improve the future," he said. One of his biggest honors to date is having been chosen last year to produce Pecos' 100th Anniversary Rodeo.

One thing Altizer will bring is plenty of good, tough stock. Along with stock from his own Bad Company Inc., Altizer has managed to acquire almost a dozen head of bucking stock from the Ivy Rodeo Company of Fairfield. Combined with his own National Finals caliber stock, Altizer said, "There will be about 34 head of National Finals bucking stock for the Big Spring rodeo." According to the young man from Sonora, "There will be more depth in the bucking stock at this rodeo than ever before and it should be a fast and exciting rodeo."

BEEN AROUND BIG SPRING SCENE

Altizer is one of a number of observers who also feels many of the PRCA's top cowboys will be on hand in Big Spring June 27-30.

He noted that 1983 All-Around cowboy and world champ calf and steer roper Roy Cooper and saddle bronc rider Monty Henson are two who have indicated they will show, barring unforeseen conflicts.

Another good thing Altizer sees for this year's Big Spring rodeo is the fact, "Big Spring isn't competing head to head against the Reno Rodeo this year."

Producing the Big Spring Rodeo for the first time won't necessarily be Altizer's initial brush with the city and its rodeo tradition. He spent two years on the Big Spring scene while serving as president of the Howard College rodeo club during the late 1970's.

RARE BREED

Altizer is a rare breed in that he not only produces rodeos, but also competes in them as well. He will be entered in team and calf roping at Big Spring's affair. Steer roping is the one event Altizer concentrates on, however. "Steer roping allows me to concentrate on the producing end a lot more since there are only about 30 rodeos a year that offer it (steer roping). If I tried something like calf roping or steer wrestling that demanded full time concentration and practice, I couldn't do justice to either of them," he said.

But for now Altizer, "likes both (producing and competing) equally well."

In Olympic track trials

Moses wins 100th straight race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Flawless Edwin Moses reached a milestone Saturday, winning his 100th straight race in the men's 400-meter intermediate hurdles, at the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials in the Los Angeles Coliseum, then tried to shrug off his accomplishment.

Afterward, the usually placid Moses, the world record holder and the 1976 Olympic champion, let out his emotions, giving his mother a big hug.

Moses' victory came in a first-round heat and moved the incomparable hurdler into Sunday's semifinals. The final will be held Monday, with the first three finishers claiming berths on the U.S. team that will compete in the Los Angeles Olympics July 28-Aug. 12.

Moses, assigned the unfavorable outside lane in the eight-man heat, still managed to post the fastest time in the five heats, clocking 48.83 seconds.

"After the ninth hurdle, I looked around," said Moses, who already had established a clear lead. "I just wanted to know where I was."

Among the spectators cheering for Moses was comedian Bill Cosby, a former track and field standout at Temple University.

"The best thing I can say is I'm through for the day," said Moses, whose streak includes 88 victories in finals and 12 in heats. "I'm glad to get the first over and survive it."

"The streak and everything concerning it is insignificant to me. I try to block that kind of stuff out of my mind."

"Now, I'm concentrating on my semifinal race and I hope the computer (which determines lane assignments) is a little kinder to me. I've been stuck on the outside lane for the past few races."

While Moses downplayed his streak, it still is one of the most impressive in the sport's history.

The most consecutive victories by a men's track and field competitor is 116, by former shot putter Parry O'Brien of the United States. He went undefeated from July 1952 to June 1956.

The most consecutive victories by any track and field athlete is 140, by women's high jumper Iolanda Balas of Romania. She went undefeated between 1957 and 1967.

During his streak, the Moses has run under 50 seconds 98 times. In 22 races, he has been under 48 seconds.

Moses' time was the fastest in the hurdles heats. The only other hurdler to dip under 49 seconds was Tranel Hawkins, clocked in 48.90.

Among the others reaching the second round were Andre Phillips, David Patrick and world junior record holder Dannie Harris, a freshman at Iowa State University who is unbeaten in 14 hurdles races during his young career.

David Lee, a member of the 1980 Olympic team, scratched out of his heat, and veteran James King failed to advance, finishing fourth in his heat.

Meanwhile, Carl Lewis, the sensational long jumper and sprinter who is chasing four Olympic gold medals, moved smartly through his first two heats in the men's 100-meter dash.

Lewis breezed to victory in his opening-round heat in 10.29 seconds, then came back and won his second-round heat in 10.14, the second-fastest time of the day.

100th Straight — Edwin Moses is shown here going over a practice flight in the 400 meter hurdles Saturday at the Olympic track trials in Los Angeles. Moses went on to win his prelim heat in a time of 48.33 — his 100th consecutive race in the event without a defeat.

Doss and Stovall headed to national rodeo finals

By BILLY NABOURS
Sports Editor

BOZEMAN, Montana — Big Spring and the Howard County Area will be well represented here starting today with the first go-around of the College National Finals Rodeo.

Native Big Springer James Doss will be going after the top spot in calf roping after finishing second in the Southern Regionals for Southwest Texas State University and Greg Stovall is carrying the colors of Howard College up north through his second place finish in steer wrestling in Southwest Regional competition. The top two competitors in each event and the top two teams in each region qualify for the honor of earning a national title.

when a broken barrier at regionals marred a 9.2 time that would have won. With the penalty, Doss' time went to 19.2.

A broken barrier is not the only thing Doss has had to contend with in a 10 year rodeo career. Once, while competing on the American Junior Rodeo Association (AJRA) circuit he got his hand caught in the coil while roping and was, "out for a month." And until recently Doss' roping horse, Stretch has been hampered with stretched tendons in the right front leg. "He's coming around now and should be ready in time for the roping competition," said Doss.

STOVALL AND STEERS

A team roper since third grade and a steer wrestler since his NATIONAL FINALS ROPER — James Doss of Big Spring is one of two cowboys with local ties who will be competing in the College National Finals Rodeo that gets under way today in Bozeman, Montana. Doss, a former Howard College cowboy, is roping for Southwest Texas State University.

FINALY GETTING CHANCE — For Doss the trip to Nationals is the culmination of a trek that started when he, "started roping at age 11," in a rodeo family. Doss' brother Jessie was a member of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association for several years until recently going the open rodeo route and sister Sissy is contemplating rodeo and academic scholarship offers from both Texas Tech and SWT. Sissy placed seventh in breakaway roping, ninth in goat tying and eighth in All-Around competition for the Howard College women's team during its past season.

"I'm real excited because I'm finally getting a chance at Nationals," he said. Doss came close to earning a trip to Bozeman his sophomore year at Howard College, but fate dictated otherwise sophomore year at McLean High School, Howard College representative Greg Stovall said he, "feels real good," about making the Nationals.

"I should have won the steer wrestling title for our region, but things just didn't go well in the last few rodeos," said Stovall in reference to a 150 point lead that was eventually surpassed by D.R. Daniels from New Mexico Junior College.

To gear up for even stiffer competition at Bozeman, Stovall said, "I've thrown 100 or so steers in the last two weeks to get ready." He expects National Finals steers will be among the freshest he will see. And at 650 pounds it's no small chore to bring one down. "They're (steers) all very, very strong, he said.

Duran undecided about retirement

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Roberto Duran turned 33 years old Saturday, but it was Thomas Hearns who was celebrating.

In the wake of Sugar Ray Leonard's retirement, Hearns regained his power-punch form and emerged as perhaps boxing's major attraction with a two-round battering of Duran in defense of the World Boxing council super welterweight title.

Duran's three-championship career, during which he scored 57 knockouts, appeared over Friday night although he said after the fight: "I don't know, I haven't made a decision yet."

Duran and Hearns left town early Saturday. There was no news conference.

Hearns' stunningly easy, three-knockdown victory set up an intriguing match against Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion who scored a 15-round decision over Duran last Nov. 10 in Las Vegas.

"The Hit Man is back, all the way back. The Hit Man was just on vacation for a little while," said Hearns, referring to himself by the nickname he once disliked as an amateur.

Friday night he became only the second man to knock down Duran and the first to knock him out.

"I'd like to move on to the middleweight division and challenge Marvin Hagler," Hearns said. "I can see him shaking like a leaf now."

"The fight is on as far as we're concerned," said Emanuel

Steward, Hearns' manager-trainer. "Being realistic, I think the fight will take place in October or November at the earliest."

Hagler is to defend the title in October against Mustafa Hamsho, the WBC's top contender whom he already has beaten. The fight originally was scheduled for July 20.

So dominating was Hearns that the proud Duran asked as he left the ring, "What did I do wrong?"

Most ringside observers, including WBC president Jose Sulaiman, think Duran would be wrong to continue fighting.

The Panamanian no longer is an attraction. No one will pay him $1.8 million, which is what he made Friday night. Professional boxing is not a sentimental business.

If the man once known as "Hands of Stone" decides to continue, he would be in danger of becoming an "opponent" for young, hungry fighters looking to put a legendary name on their records. His main attraction would be as a curiosity.

"I was fighting a legend," said Hearns. "He was the greatest fighter I've ever faced in the ring."

The rise to fame started for the one-time street fighter in 1967. The decline began after he scored a close, but unanimous decision over Leonard for the WBC welterweight title.

Since the victory over Leonard on June 20, 1980, Duran, whose career record is 76-6, lost four of nine fights and scored only two knockouts.

Generals turn Gold blue by 27-7 count

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Brian Sipe three for three touchdowns and Herschel Walker tallied twice Saturday to lift the New Jersey Generals to a 27-7 United States Football League victory over the Denver Gold.

Sipe connected on 12 of 20 passes for 181 yards and Maurice Carthon gained 88 yards in 14 carries to pass the 1,000 yard rushing mark for the year as the Generals improved their record to 13-4.

Carthon, who finished the game with 1,007 yards, joins Walker, who has already run for 1,277 yards this year, in becoming only the fourth pair of players on the same team to run for 1,000 yards each during a season in pro football history.

Tim Spencer and Kevin Long of the Chicago Blitz each topped the 1,000 mark last year, while in 1972 Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris reached that plateau for the Miami Dolphins of the National Football League. Rocky Bleier and Franco Harris each ran for 1,000 yards for the NFL Pittsburgh Steelers in 1976.

Denver lost its third in a row and its eighth in its last nine. The Gold fell to 8-9 overall and saw its slim Western Conference hopes for a playoff spot further diminish.

The Generals scored on their second possession after defensive end James Lockette picked off Ken Hobart's first pass of the game at the line of scrimmage and returned it 4 yards to the Denver 27. Three plays later, Walker took a pitchout and circled in for 10 yards and a touchdown.

Roger Ruzek, who was successful on three of four conversions, booted the extra point.

Denver took the ensuing kickoff and marched 70 yards to the Generals' 7 but Brian Speelman's 25-yard field goal attempt sailed wide right.

AIMING FOR LA — Kelly Rogers has his aim toward Los Angeles and the 1984 Olympic Shooting Trials. Rogers is among some 90 marksman gunning for two remaining spots on the team. Shooters will shoot at 400 birds during a five day period and Rogers feels a 390 to 392 will earn berths on the team.

Rogers aims for spot on U.S. Olympic squad

LOS ANGELES — Kelly Rogers of Big Spring starts down a long road here today that hopefully will end in a berth on the United States Olympic Trap Shooting team. Rogers and 95 other shooters are in the city that will host the 1984 Summer Olympics as they compete in the U.S. Olympic Trials. Of the 96 shooters competing only the top two will earn positions on this year's team.

"We'll be shooting at 400 scores over five days," said Rogers, a 19-year old student at Texas Tech. "I figure it'll take around a 390 to 392 score will make the team," he said. Rogers added, "There will be a lot of experienced shooters at the trials and it'll be tough, but I think I have a good chance." He mentioned, however "1988 is the year I'm going for."

Duo continues U.S. Open battle

Irwin, Zoeller remain 1-2

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — After 18 holes of struggle and 11 lead changes, of drama and excitement and illegal cameras, the third round ended just as it began. Hale Irwin leads Fuzzy Zoeller by one shot going into Sunday's final round of the chase for the title in the 84th U.S. Open Golf Championship. "If ever there was a head-to-head duel, it would have been today," said Irwin, who eventually was handed the lead when Zoeller found bunkers on the last two holes and bogeyed them both. "On 17, I threw up. And on 18 I got REAL sick," Zoeller said. Irwin, who won the American national championship on the same Winged Foot Golf Club course 10 years ago, now has led or shared the lead at the end of the first three rounds. As it was at the end of 36 holes, the third-round margin is one.

Irwin's at 205, five under par. And Zoeller is at 206, four under. Each had a third-round 69. Zoeller, the 1979 Masters champion, said the bogey-bogey finish would not bother him. "I've already forgotten what I did on the last two holes — and the other 16, too. That's the difference between a pro and an amateur. I don't want to take today's round to dinner." Both made reference to constantly clicking cameras. "We had a very enthusiastic gallery," said Irwin, who backed away from at least three shots. "We had some problems with people without press badges taking photos." "The spectators all had their cameras," Zoeller said, "and they got some good pictures. It didn't bother me — I don't concentrate enough for it to bother me — but I feel sorry for Hale." Zoeller and Irwin, who were paired in the last two holes in the third round, will be paired again Sunday. But they are not overlooking the other two men under par.

Australian Greg Norman and Jim Thorpe. "I never forgot about them, and I won't be looking past them tomorrow," Irwin said. "And don't think it's down to a four-man race," added Zoeller. "There are some other folks back there could still be in it — like Jack Nicklaus." They were tied for the lead on four separate occasions. Irwin led twice. Zoeller had the lead alone four different times and they were never separated by more than one stroke all day. In the end, however, Zoeller bogeyed the final two holes from bunkers, handing the lead back to

Phillies beat Cubs for third time, 8-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Ozzie Virgil's two-run homer capped a five-run first inning Saturday and powered Marty Bystrom and the Philadelphia Phillies to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The triumph was the fourth straight for the Phillies while the Cubs lost their third in a row, all to the surging Phillies. Bystrom, 3-3, pitched eight innings for the victory while Rick Reuschel, 3-3, suffered the loss, much to the dismay of a standing-room-only crowd of 40,723 at Wrigley Field, largest of the season.

Juan Samuel started the Phillies' big first inning with a single, moved to third on a base hit by Garry Maddox and scored on a single by Von Hayes. Mike Schmidt followed with an RBI single and Joe Lefebvre's groundout delivered another run before Virgil homered into the left field seats.

Expos 3, Pirates 2
MONTREAL (AP) — Andre Dawson delivered a bases-loaded single with none out in the 11th inning to lift the Montreal Expos to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

Miguel Dilone opened the inning against reliever Kent Tekulve, 2-6, by lining a triple that rolled to the fence in left-center field. Both Tim Raines and pinch-hitter Pete Rose were intentionally walked but Dawson foiled the strategy by ripping a single into left field past the drawn-in Pirate infield.

Jeff Reardon, 3-1, earned the victory with a scoreless 11th inning. He had relieved Bill Gullickson, who scattered seven hits through the first 10 innings, his longest career outing.

The Pirates held a 1-0 lead until Montreal scored twice in the fifth, then tied it 2-2 in the sixth.

Yankees 8, Orioles 3
NEW YORK (AP) — Lou Piniella, playing his last game, knocked in the go-ahead run with a groundout and Butch Wynegar drilled three hits, including a two-run single that keyed New York's three-run fourth inning, as the Yankees downed the Baltimore Orioles 8-3 Saturday.

Jay Howell, 2-4, making his first start this season after 23 relief appearances, allowed seven hits and one run over five innings. He struck out six and walked three before getting relief help from Ray Fontenot and Mike Armstrong, who gave up a two-run homer to Cal Ripken in the ninth before closing out the victory.

After Baltimore took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Rick Dempsey's two-out RBI single, New York went ahead 2-1 in the third against Scott McGregor, 8-5.

The Yankees added three insurance runs in the eighth, two on a single by Winfield that gave him three RBI for the day.

A's 6, White Sox 4
OAKLAND (AP) — Dave Kingman hit his 17th home run of the year and Jim Essian added two doubles to power Oakland past the Chicago White Sox 6-4 Saturday for the A's fourth straight victory.

Steve McCatty, 4-5, scattered nine hits in 7 2-3 innings and improved his lifetime record to 7-0 against the White Sox. He walked none and struck out five before giving way to Bill Caudill, who pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for his 14th save.

Kingman's homer, his third in four games since coming back to action from an injury, gave the A's a 2-0 first-inning lead off Floyd Bannister, 4-6. Rickey Henderson led off with a single and two outs later, Kingman hit a 2-2 pitch into the left field bleachers for his 49th and 50th RBI of the year.

Chicago scored an unearned run in the fifth. Vance Law singled, took second on a grounder and scored when Scott Fletcher's line drive glanced off the glove of Oakland shortstop Tony Phillips for an error.

Singles by Phillips and Henderson put runners on first and third in the A's fifth. Bannister's wild pitch scored Phillips and moved Henderson to second. Lopes followed with a single to score Henderson and give the A's a 4-1 lead.

The A's added two runs in the sixth. Bruce Bochte singled with one out and scored on Essian's second double of the game. Essian, who moved to third on the throw to the plate, scored on Bannister's second wild pitch of the game.

Ron Kittle's two-out, two-run homer in the eighth inning, his 16th of the season, made the score 6-4 and drove McCatty from the game. The White Sox added a run in the ninth on an RBI single by Steve Christmas.

Blue Jays 7, Red Sox 0
TORONTO (AP) — Luis Leal stopped Boston on a two hits and Bruce Martinez drilled a two-run homer and singled home another run to pace the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-0 victory over the Red Sox Saturday.

Major Leagues

Leal, 7-1, was touched for a single by Rick Miller in the second inning and then set down the following 13 batters before Jim Rice doubled to lead off the seventh. Overall, Leal struck out nine, which tied a career high, and walked one as he notched his second shutout of the season.

Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Damaso Garcia doubled, stole third and scored on Lloyd Moseby's grounder.

SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

by Pat Gray

Just about anyone who has ever seen a baseball game can tell you that the "bleachers" are rows and rows of wooden benches located in the most distant outreaches of the stadium. However, few can tell you that "bleachers" got their name from the effect that a dazzling summer sun can have on the bodies and clothes of diehard fans who sit in them. "Bleacher bums" is a self-named phenomenon of the late 1960s and early 1970s at Wrigley Field in Chicago. These yellow-hard-hatted fans swilled beer, taunted opposing players and swore allegiance to the Cubs. They functioned for a time as the tenth man on the Chicago Cubs team.

Whether your car needs major or minor auto body work our staff of technicians at PAT GRAY BODY WORKS are highly qualified to do the job right the first time. Our personal concern for every customer's needs is one of the reasons why we enjoy an outstanding reputation in the area of body work. We are located at 700 N. Owens, Big Spring, 263-0582, 263-2374. Rebecca and Deanna
Perhaps you sang a lovely song,
Or sat quietly in a chair;
Perhaps you sent beautiful flowers,
If so, we saw them there.
Perhaps you sent or spoke kind words
As any friend could say;
Perhaps you prepared some tasty food
Or maybe furnished a car;
Perhaps you rendered a service unseen
Near at hand or from afar;
Whatever you did to console the heart
We thank you so much,
Whatever the part.

No news is good news

Radio station wins right to broadcast only music

GLoucester, Mass. (AP) — The only radio station in this fishing port broke its tradition of never reporting the news by telling listeners of a court ruling that in effect upheld the station's news-free format.

The listeners of WVCA-FM weren't complaining. They say the news that the classical music station will stay alive is "wonderful."

WVCA-FM broadcast the story not once, but three times, Simon Geller, owner and operator of the one-man station, said Saturday.

"I just made the announcement, 'I have some good news that I have been promising since March ... the court has finally handed down the decision reversing the denial of license of renewal to WVCA announced by the FCC in 1982,'" Geller said.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia on Friday ordered the Federal Communications Commission to reconsider its denial of license renewal of the station.

The FCC had refused to renew the license, saying WVCA didn't meet the informational needs of the community because it didn't broadcast any news.

But the appellate court refused to accept the FCC's reasoning.

"Focusing on the programming Geller proposed, the FCC concluded that Geller would not offer a new voice to the community because he offers 'no voice at all,'" the court said.

"Therein must lie the conclusion that Geller's programming is of no value to the community, despite extensive testimony to the contrary. This type of (program) content evaluation is ... unreasonable."

Geller, 64, said he celebrated the decision by doing what he's been doing for 24 years from the small studio in his basement — playing classical music.

The decision was welcomed by fans such as Ted and Betty Rochow of nearby Rockport, who have listened to the station for a 12 years.

"It's wonderful, simply wonderful," said Rochow, 76, who followed the court case from the beginning.

Rochow, who is retired, said he and his wife even received an on-air "thank you" from Geller for their contribution to the station. Rochow wouldn't say how much he donated.

The case began in 1975 when Grandbanke Corp. challenged Geller's license renewal by filing an application of its own for his frequency.

Geller never disputed the fact that his programming consisted almost entirely of classical music.

"I don't broadcast news because it costs too much money," he said. "I have to either hire someone to gather the news or get it from a wire service, and I simply don't have the money."

Grandbanke argued that Gloucester, which is about 30 miles north of Boston and has 28,000 residents, deserved a radio station that would inform the community. It pledged to devote almost 29 percent of its broadcast week to non-entertainment programming.

In such cases, the FCC tries to balance the applicants' qualifications by assigning credits for various attributes of the current station. In 1982, after an emotional, closed-door debate, the FCC voted 5-2 to deny license renewal.

The appeals court, however, said the FCC failed to justify how it could reduce Geller's credits because of his lack of news, and must now reconsider the case.

Geller said he was surprised by the response to the court decision. On Friday, a Boston television station crew showed up at his home and led their news report with his story.

"I was surprised," he said. Previous developments in the case were "put it on as a filler in the end."

Joy to the world!

By JOY CULWELL
C-City Correspondent

What my Daddy told me

My friend, Bob Motley told me something that was written on his aunt's tomb stone. It was so good that I wrote it down.

"To live in the hearts of those left behind is to live forever." I got to thinking about that.

My dad will live forever then because he certainly lives in my heart and in the hearts of my husband and son. Who could forget that character?

He certainly wasn't perfect but he was the most fun of anybody I have ever known. He played in my playhouse with me and brought me treasures for my "dream house" built in the shade of that massive old live oak tree in our front yard east of Breckenridge.

My earliest memory is of laughing with him. He found so much joy in life and he shared it with all who would let him. He loved to go and do and he took me with him. I saw how he could make someone happy with a joke or a funny line. I would watch people as he walked away. They were always smiling. I wanted to grow up and be like that.

We have so many family jokes that are based in Daddy's humor. Because of him we can laugh when things go bad. In 1950 Daddy was flying to Japan and they were out over the Pacific. An elderly lady sitting by him got very upset when she saw fire coming out of one of the four engines. "Oh, Mr Collins, what if this plane were to crash?" The lady said. "What do we care? This plane doesn't belong to us," Daddy replied. The lady relaxed and laughed with him. I always loved that story because it showed an attitude that I could copy. Why go to pieces over a little fire coming out of an engine?

Many years later our son was visiting us and he left his car in the street in front of our driveway. It was a Hardin-Simmons University car because our son was their recruiter at the time. Anyway to make a long story short I went out to my car to get milk and I just put it in reverse and hit the side of the HSU car. Now don't tell me it was silly to do that because I know that. I sat there waiting for our son to come out. I just knew he was going to be angry and justifiably so. He came out and got in the car and drove it around the block and parked it in front of the house. When he got out of the car and walked toward me he put his arm around me and said "It's all right Mother. That car does not belong to us!" Yes, Daddy we'll remember you forever! I came in the house and called my insurance company. Thank You, Daddy, for the example.

Happy Father's Day!

MARTIN COUNTY — Entering Stanton on Interstate 20 west (upper right) people are welcomed by this popular billboard; (lower left) Grant Mabry pastes up an edition of the Stanton Reporter, the weekly newspaper; and (lower right) the old Martin County Jail, a historical landmark.

'Stanton wasn't any bigger than it is now, just the other towns around it were smaller.'

County's history spans 100 years

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer

Martin County has been busy during the past 100 years creating her history.

In 1881, the Texas and Pacific Railroad laid tracks from Fort Worth to Sierra Blanca following a route suggested by Captain Randolph B. Marcy of the U.S. Army. He and a party of soldiers scouted this area in 1849. Section houses were built every ten miles along the route; the one in Stanton was called "Grelton."

Four German Catholic priests and a layman of the Carmelite Order arrived Aug. 15, 1881 at the Grelton section house via the Texas and Pacific Railroad to establish the first settlement here. The men were Father Anastasio Peters, Father William Fuhrwerk, Father Anton Keber, Father Albert Wagner and Adam Konz, all of Scipio, Ks. John Konz, Adam's father, became interested in the area and talked Peters into bringing a group to the area.

UNDER PETERS' GUIDANCE, a mission, monastery and a working community of German families began. A town was surveyed and built and the name was changed to Marienfield which meant "Field of Mary."

Later, J.B. Konz brought his family to Marienfield. He built a house, store and a post office, and became the town's first postmaster. In March 1882, John Konz joined his sons Adam and J.B. in Marienfield.

Joe Mundloch was the first child born in Martin County. His father, Nicholas Mundloch who died in 1883 was the first to die and be buried in the Catholic cemetery. The first marriage occurred when Joe's mother, Margaretha Mundloch, married J.J. Peters in 1885.

Martin County was created from Bexar District in 1876 and named for Republic of Texas Senator Wylie Martin. Martin County was joined to Mitchell County for five months for judicial purposes and then to Howard County. In 1884 the county was organized, officers elected and a courthouse built. A petition signed by 150 voters was presented to the Howard County Court to obtain a separate county government for Martin County.

The first county officers were Frank Lester, county judge; A.D. Gerhard, sheriff; J.J. Konz, tax assessor; G.S. Jones, county attorney; H.W. Rich, deputy sheriff; Daily Lester, county and district clerk; E. Carter, sheep inspector; and W.M. Work, hide and animal inspector. Commissioners were Ferdinand Haas, Peter Gloden, Frederick Sommers and J.W. Warren.

A contract for construction of a combined courthouse and jail was awarded Jan. 8, 1885 to the construction firm of Martin, Byrne and Johnson of Colorado City for $24,000.

WHEN ST. JOSEPH'S Catholic Church was built in 1881, it was the only Catholic Church between Fort Worth and El Paso. Later, other churches were organized including the Baptist Church in 1898; Church of Christ in 1904; Methodist Church in 1904; First Christian Church in 1906; and Presbyterian Church in 1907.

By 1890, the town and county were becoming more Protestant than Catholic and the town's name was changed to "Stanton." Stanton, chosen by the school children, was named for Edwin M. Stanton, who was Secretary of War under President Abraham Lincoln. The Stanton Public School was established in 1884. In 1894, The Sisters of Mercy established a convent and a boarding school in the old monastery, which had been closed earlier. The Carmelite priests sold their property to the nuns who built more buildings. The school, named "Our Lady of Mercy Academy," grew from an enrollment of 16 to 150. A tornado tore some buildings down in 1938 and the school never reopened. The property was sold. Today, only the old Monastery/Convent building remains deserted.

The railroad also played a part in the history of Stanton and Martin County. It was a big cattle shipping station along the line. "At the time the county seat was chosen, it was a choice between the center of the county (Tarzan) and the railroad (Stanton)," said Frances Biggs, whose father and grandparents came to Martin County in 1909.

In the early 1900's, Stanton also had two hotels and a skating rink.

EVEN THOUGH Martin County's population has decreased during the years, Stanton has managed to grow. In 1939, Martin County had a population of 6,300 with 1,384 living in Stanton. In 1950, 1,594 people were living in Stanton, while the county's population decreased to 5,541. In 1977, 2,302 people resided in Stanton, while the county's population dropped to 5,000.

Besides Stanton, Martin County also includes the communities of Brown, Walcott, Three Leagues, Flowergrove, Ackerly, Lenorah, Courtney and Klondike.

Martin County also has a library and a museum in Stanton. The Martin County Historical Museum is a project of the Martin County Historical Commission, which raised $90,000 for the new building in 1978. It was first housed in the old Martin County Jail building in 1971.

The history of the Martin County Jail began in 1885, when the original cell was built. In 1908, the cellblock was moved from the southeast corner of the courthouse to the northwest corner, and a two-story red sandstone jail was built around it. The jail was used as a detention facility from 1908 to 1975 for county prisoners and later for city prisoners. The jail also has served as a library and county storeroom. Today the old jail building is a Chamber of Commerce office and Visitors Center. A grant for the jail's restoration was also secured by Martin County Historical Commission.

In 1887, the first newspaper "The Marienfield News" was published by the Martin County Immigration Committee. In 1904, the newspaper was published by LeRoy Lancaster as the "Stanton Courier." The newspaper's name was changed to the "Stanton Reporter" in 1905. Grant Mabry, editor-publisher, and wife Connie now own the Stanton Reporter, a weekly newspaper.

FRANCES BIGGS remembers "how the (town's residents) used to gather on Saturday. People came early to get a parking place on Main Street. Everyone came from all parts of the county to visit, and all the stores stayed open late."

Mrs. Biggs also remembers election night in Stanton. "On election nights, there was a huge blackboard put above the drug store's awning. We all stayed in town until the results were final. Children were put to bed in the cars."

Stanton used to play Midland and Big Spring in sports, Mrs. Biggs said. While the other towns grew, Stanton remained the same size. "Stanton wasn't any bigger than it is now, just the other towns around it were smaller."

Martin County's birthday bash in full swing

By RHONDA WOODALL
Lifestyle Writer

Martin County has planned a big birthday bash to celebrate its Centennial, June 2 through July 14.

The Martin County Centennial began with the opening of the Centennial headquarters, June 2. Store hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturdays. The headquarters serves as a store and a place for committee meetings.

To stir up community interest, residents have formed Centennial Chapters. Chapters include Brothers of the Brush for men who sport beards; Centennial Belles for women; Little Shavers for boys; and Little Miss Belles for girls. For men who aren't able to be brothers of the brush, shaving permits are available. Each person that is a chapter member receives a certificate and a button. When a person appears in public, he or she must have the Centennial button on. Failure to do so could result in arrest and trial at the Kangaroo Kourt. Kangaroo Kourt is held each Friday.

Ronnie Treece from the Rogers Company in Pittsburgh, Pa., will direct the Martin County Centennial. Rogers Company is a business that helps stage civic celebrations and also helped Martin County celebrate her 75th Jubilee 25 years ago.

Arriving in Stanton June 4, Treece has sat up his office in the Centennial headquarters and is managing the entire Centennial celebration. "I'm the resident (company) representative that will be here throughout the centennial," Treece said. The Rogers company has sent people to Stanton three or four times in the last year to set up meetings and a governing body for the Centennial.

Treece's major project to undertake is the production "Centennial: A Story of Martin County." The production, written by Treece, is based on Martin County history. "The history was compiled by Historical Committee and sent to me. Then I sifted through it and wrote the show."

The show consists of two acts and an intermission, and will involve about 300 Martin County residents.

Most of the cast will pantomime happenings in Martin County history from the time of the conquistadors to the present. The show will be narrated by a story teller named Sam Houston. It will begin at dusk, July 10-14 at the High School Stadium.

Advanced tickets can be bought from First Lady contestants for $2.50. At the gate, general admission tickets are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. Reserved tickets are $4. For $10, a person can purchase a patron ticket which provides preferred seating and parking and his name in the program. For more information call the Centennial office at (915) 756-2700.

Approximately 18 women are participating in the First Lady contest. The women sell tickets to the "Centennial" which are counted as votes. The woman with the most votes will be crowned Centennial First Lady at the costume ball, July 7. The next six top girls will serve as members of the Court of Honor.

Activities for Martin County Centennial include a promenade, kangaroo kourt and dress-up day each Friday until July 13. The Altar Belles will play the Chiming Belles in a croquet game, Tuesday evening. All Martin County Belle chapters will have a box supper at Shelburne Park beginning at 6:30 p.m., June 21. A Bridal Fair and a Brothers of the Brush softball tournament will be held June 23.

Other activities include a softball game between the Cotton County Belles and the Stray Belles, and the Men's Hairy Leg Contest, June 29. Frances Tate will promote the Martin County Centennial, June 25, on "Good Morning West Texas." Grover and Irene Springer will talk about the Centennial on "High Noon," June 27.

Each Saturday morning in June a caravan will travel from Stanton to neighboring towns to promote interest in the Martin County centennial. The caravan will travel to Lamesa, June 23, and Garden City, June 30.

On July 14, Old Settlers Day will end the festivities. Activities for the day will include a beard judging contest; a parade at 10 a.m.; an ice cream parlor; games and Old Fiddlers Contest at 1 p.m.; and a barbecue at 6:30 p.m. Several class reunions also will be held.

Fitness Acts

By Lewis Chamberlain

The word aerobic means "with oxygen." Aerobics are activities designed to stimulate the heart, lungs, and blood vessels. It is steady exercise that demands an uninterrupted output from your muscles for at least 12 minutes in your target zone (60-80% of your maximum heart rate). Aerobics use large muscle groups rhythmically and continuously. Aerobics are activities which are performed at a rate that is not overly strenuous. Some excellent aerobic activities are cross country skiing, bicycling, swimming, rope jumping, dancing, jogging, etc. Aerobics burn fat!

3 Keys to Making an Activity Aerobic:

- Frequency: at least 3 times a week
 - Intensity: 60-80% of your maximum heart rate
 - Time (Duration): at least 12 minutes in your target zone
- The Dance Gallery & Fitness Center can help you become "aerobic" with daily Aqua-Aerobic and Aerobic Dance classes for men and women.

Dave Trusty roasted to well-done

DAVE TRUSTY was the guest of honor at a surprise roast June 7 at KC Steakhouse. The party was thrown by the crew of KWKI-KKIK radio stations and about 45 people attended. Dave is moving to Baton Rouge, La.

Dave was roasted to a well-done state for about three hours. "We've never seen Dave Trusty for a loss of words, but at this point he was," said the station's advertising consultant, ROBYN DRAKE. "He didn't know what to say at the end, but he seemed impressed."

His staff presented him with a gold money clip "to hold all the money he was going to make in Baton Rouge," Robyn said. They also presented several gag gifts that I will not disclose the nature of. "He did a lot for Big Spring," Robyn said. He has helped many charities, including the MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY ASSOCIATION and the MARCH OF DIMES.

Natural collagen, which actually has a dollar market value, is a protein that is a component of the human skin. Changes in the collagen network contribute to the formation of wrinkles and the appearance of aging skin. Collagen is also an ingredient in many skin products, such as creams and moisturizers. While collagen cannot actually penetrate the skin, a collagen enriched product "clings" to the skin surface and has a water-binding quality that helps reduce the amount of water loss by the epidermis. When the skin is kept moist, the cells become plump and swell slightly. The result is a temporary smoothing effect upon tiny surface lines.

Reader appreciates formality

DEAR ABBY: You said, "There is no way a man can demand to be called 'Mister' without coming across as arrogant, pretentious and self-important."

Wrong! Perhaps you've been eating in too many restaurants that require the staff to say, "Hi, I'm Brice, I'll fill your water glass," and "Hi, I'm Nancy, I'll be your breadbasket girl." Have you ever asked some intelligent restaurant employees how they feel about saying that? They hate it.

That kind of cheap familiarity spills over into the rest of life, demeaning everyone who is victimized by it, usually the young and women. Sit in a doctor's office and listen to the staff call the patients: "Sally, Dr. Fletcher will see you now. Mr. Jones, Dr. Smith will see you now." If informality is so terrific, what's wrong with, "Sally, Sam will see you now?"

Formality is terrific stuff. It allows for room to become more familiar. But when you start out on the chummiest plateau, there's nowhere to go.

CONSERVATIVE IN DAYTON

DEAR ABBY: There is a woman in town who divorced her husband. Shortly after the divorce her ex-husband died. As soon as that happened, she started calling herself a widow.

Can she do this, Abby?

A TOUCH OF CURIOSITY
DEAR TOUCH: Obviously she can because she is doing it.

Does calling herself a widow make her one? No. She's a divorcee whose former husband is dead.

Now I also have a "touch of curiosity": What difference does it make what she calls herself?

Guess Who Is Over The Hill?

Happy 31st!

Introducing LA brand from Anheuser-Busch.

Here's why it's not just another beer:

Why a beer with only half the alcohol?

Today you've created new options in the way you live, relax, and play. You've got new priorities in recreation and physical fitness.

There are times when you want the taste and refreshment that only beer can provide, without the alcohol content of traditional beer. And now, you have an additional choice.

Now you have a real beer choice. Anytime.

One smooth taste of LA and you'll know you've found a beer that's a good idea anytime.

As a matter of fact, LA tastes so good, that if we didn't tell you, you might not ever notice it only has half the alcohol.

LA truly delivers all the taste and drinkability of a premium pilsner. That's because LA is brewed with the pure natural ingredients and uncompromised quality you've come to expect from Anheuser-Busch.

LA. A whole new brand of beer enjoyment from Anheuser-Busch.

LA is the newest member of America's finest family of beers which includes Budweiser, Bud Light, Michelob, Michelob Light, Busch and Natural Light.

A premium pilsner beer with one slight difference.

All the taste of our regular beers...

with only half the alcohol.

How we take out half the alcohol and leave in all the taste:

The Anheuser-Busch brewmaster has developed a special natural brewing process which produces less alcohol.

All other steps, from our finest natural ingredients to our slow natural aging are performed in the same traditional manner as other Anheuser-Busch beers.

For the way you live today...

It's a whole new ball game out there. And LA is a whole new brand of beer for today's lifestyle. For people like you who enjoy the taste of a great pilsner beer, and the benefits of a little less alcohol.

It's a beer whose time has come.

For the way you live today, LA.

Q.: I heard an interesting term used by a real estate agent. What is "curb appeal"?

A.: "Curb appeal" is one of the things you should be extremely interested in when selling your home. It is, essentially, the first impression a prospective buyer has of your house — literally from the curb as he pulls up in front of the house in the real estate agent's car. If you've been in the market for a home, think back a moment, and you'll probably remember curb appeal. As you got out of the car, if a house struck you as being "messy" or "rundown," that's probably the impression you carried all through the house, no matter how gorgeous inside. "Curb appeal" is one of the first things you should check if placing your home on the market.

MR. AND MRS. WELDON RAINEY

Dr. Donohue

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am 18 years old and six months ago I suffered a rapid heart. I had to go to the emergency room. I like biology, so I know pretty much about the heart, like the pacemaker of it. I was wondering if there could be anything wrong with my pacemaker? Should I always be scared of this happening? — J.M.

Were you told why it happened? The medical report should indicate that, and that should be reviewed by your own doctor. There are conditions, some of them present from birth, that cause rapid heartbeats. A prolapsed mitral valve is one. And there is a condition where a faulty connection between your natural heart pacer and the lower chambers leads to rapid heartbeat.
