PENDERGRASS BOOSTED

ORC Changes Pro Set-Up

Olton Recreation Center directors accepted the resignation of assistant golf pro Shem Davis and set up Pro Fred Pendergrass with expanded duties and a new salary.

Davis resigned effective April 1. He is leaving to attend Lee Junior College at Baytown.

The board then decided against replacing Davis, and instead combined Davis' salary with that of Pendergrass, giving the pro the full job.

Pendergrass has been paid $300 per month, with house furnished. He also has income from his golf pro shop and all tournaments.

David has been paid $275 per month.

Under the new agreement, Pendergrass will receive $500 per month, be furnished with a house, and continue operation of the pro shop and tournaments.

In addition, Pendergrass will be responsible for employing and paying any outside labor needed to keep the course in condition.

In other action at their meeting, the directors authorized the purchase of fairway mowing units, expected to run about $750.

The board also authorized the trade of some old equipment for a tractor, if a trade can be arranged.

Plans were set to top dress all greens in the near future, and efforts are being mae to set up a fertilizer program for the fairways.

FRED PENDERGRASS

GOLF TOURNEY SET MARCH 27

The season starts officially for golfers in the Olton area Sunday, March 27.

That's the date set for an Am-Am Tournament, according to Pro Fred Pendergrass.

City Also OK's $100,000 Budget

Olton City Council members called for a $60,000 bond election on paving April 5 and approved a budget nearing $100,000 at a regular meeting Tuesday night.

The council unanimously voted to propose the paving bond, with alderman Doug Jones making the motion and council member Robert Dennis providing the second.

The budget for $99,965 was prepared by James Adair, certified public accountant from Littlefield, and it too was accepted unanimously.

Actually, the budget is already in effect, since the city's fiscal year runs from Oct. 1 of one year to Sept. 30 of the next year.

Adair's figures showed an estimated income by the city during the same period of $114,-100.

Figures from the budget showed an estimated $17,720.-29 surplus at the end of the year available for equipment and expansion.

Council members made another unanimous decision to accept a bid of $5,450 on a road grader for the city from Plains Machinery.

The machine is to replace a current smaller and older model, and the price included trade-in of the older model.

In other decisions, the council approved a suggestion by Mayor W. E. (Bill) Thomas that the city hall offices begin closing on Saturdays.

The move, to become effective March 19, was made in view of the Saturday closing's of other local businesses.

Council members also voted to extend a two-inch water line across Highway 70 to Straw Gin, providing the line was placed on a meter.

Council members running for re-election drew for order on the ballot, with Doug Jones first, Robert Dennis second and C. E. (Charles) Sullivan third. The incumbents are unopposed.

Mayor Thomas also read a letter to the council from Olton School Supt. Ray Schultz which commended the council for having the water tower painted in school colors and having "Olton Mustangs" placed on the sides.

Joe Smith, representing First Southwest Co. of Lubbock, was on hand for the bond vote. The company is handling the drawing of bond papers for the voting.

If passed, the bonds would necessitate an increase of approximately 14 per cent in property taxes for city residents.

The bonds would mature over a period of 16 years, from 1967 to 1982.

Anticipated cost to the city on the paving, covering 23 blocks of paving and 101 blocks of re-topping, would be $48,000, with the remainder of the bond money used to buy equipment for street repair.

Adair also recommended to the council that a fund be set up in the budget to provide enough money for repair work at 4-5 year intervals. The recommendation was made, said Adair, to help provide for the possibilities of later bond elections. He said the fund would then be available to take care of regular repair work.

The vote on the issue will come up along with the regular councilmen election April 5. Absentee ballots will be available in the city hall. Absentee voting will begin March 16 and run through April 1.

In order to vote in the paving bond, voters must have been a resident of Texas one year, a resident of Lamb County six months, and be on the city tax roll at the time of the vote.

Smith brought up the problem as to who was eligible to vote in the election as a result of the new voting law.

Council members decided no action was needed on the subject.

21st Olton Stock Show Gets Under Way Today

The 21st version of the Olton Stock Show takes off today with weigh-in deadline set for 6 p.m.

Grand opening for the show is set for 12:30 p.m. Friday followed at 1 p.m. by the swine judging and at 4 p.m. by sheep judging.

The livestock judging will resume Saturday afternoon at one o'clock with steer judging.

Olton Future Farmers advisor Max Malone said he had approximately 120 entries, but totals weren't complete and he expects the list to run higher.

So far 60 swine, 21 steers, 30 lambs and 10 gilts were entered in the judging.

A livestock judging contest for area FFA chapters is scheduled for 8 a.m. Saturday, and Malone said he expected between 20-30 teams to try for the top spot.

Future Homemakers projects will be judged at 12:45 p.m. Saturday, with the auction of top animals set for 2:30 p.m. the same day.

All participants in the stock show must be a member of the Olton FFA, 4-H or FHA, be between nine and 21, and must be enrolled in school in September of the same year.

Anyone showing steers must have owned the animal by Sept. 1, 1965, and swine and sheep must have been owned at least 90 days before the show.

Exhibitors are limited to three sheep or swine and two steers.

In the sheep division all lambs must be toothed and weigh between 70-120 pounds. Breed divisions will include Southdown, Hampshire, Fine Wool, Crossbreed, Shropshire and Suffolk, Dorsett and other breeds.

Swine classes will include Berkshire, Chester White, Duroc, Hampshire, Poland China, Spotted Poland China and other breeds and crosses.

All swine must weigh between 180-240 pounds. In addition to the barrow show a junior gilt show for gilts farrowed after Aug. 1, 1962, will be set up, with classes for every breed

Bookmobile Goes On Its Own In '66

State aid to provide for the High Plains Bookmobile ends this year, and if the project continues after that, county commissioners must ante up county money to keep it rolling.

The news came from Mrs. Rosalyne Shambline, Texas State Library Field Consultant for West Texas on a recent visit to bookmobile headquarters in Muleshoe.

"This is a year of decision for the High Plains Bookmobile Service," she said.

Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Parmer Counties began receiving the service on a free trial basis in April, 1964 by agreement between county commissioners of the four counties and the state library. The agreement expires Dec. 31, 1966.

After then, the bookmobile can be continued through county appropriations from the general fund. Texas law provides that a county may appropriate up to a maximum of 12 cents per $100 of evaluation for county library service.

Mrs. Georgia Pena, bookmobile librarian, said the library on wheels serves 42 communities in the four counties, carrying 2,000 books a trip.

Books are changed each trip from a 10,000 volume headquarters supply. Libraries in Olton, Littlefield, Friona and Morton may check out collections for use in their libraries, and teachers may check out books for an extended period.

Cost of continuing the service after 1966 would be based on a $14,000 budget for the four counties. Individual county appropriations for the service would be based on the population figures in each of the four counties in 1965.

Mrs. Shambline said county budgets are prepared in mid-year for the following calendar year, and Commissioners will need to hear from citizens in regard to continuing the bookmobile through county appropriation.

REV. WALTER L. UNDERWOOD

Methodists Set Revival

Olton First Methodist Church will hold a weeklong revival beginning Sunday.

The Rev. Walter L. Underwood, pastor of Waples Memorial Methodist Church in Denison, will preach at twice daily services set to run through March 17.

Underwood is a well-known religious writer, and served six years as a member of the script-writing committee for "Pastor Calls", a television series.

Music director for the revival will be the Rev. Oran D. Smith, pastor of Pioneer Memorial Methodist Church in Lubbock.

Services will be conducted Sunday at 10:55 a.m. and 6 p.m. Weekday services are scheduled at 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. A reception will follow the Sunday evening service.

Bykotas Slate Style Show

The Bykota Study Club's annual spring style show will be held Saturday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Olton school cafeteria.

Theme of the show this year is "A Mid-Winter Night's Dream."

Adult tickets are $1 and student tickets are 50 cents. They may be obtained from members of the study club, or at the door prior to the show.

Ware's of Littlefield, who is furnishing fashions for the show, will also give a $100 wardrobe.

BOX SUPPER IS MARCH 29

Olton's Lions Club will sponsor a box supper March 29 to raise money for the foreign exchange student program.

Lion Boss Joe Turner said the event would be part of the regular Ladies Night, and would begin in the school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

Bill Dickenson Jr. will auction off the lunches.

Turner said the public was invited to attend.

City, School Have No Late Entries

No new candidates filed to put put their names on the ballot for the 1966 city council election, and three members who's terms expire were virtually assured of a shoo-in return to office.

When the 5 p.m. deadline passed Saturday, only incumbents Robert Dennis, Charles Sullivan and Doug Jones had to decided to run.

Meanwhile, eight school trustee candidate met and drew names to determine their position on the ballot.

On the ballot, candidates names will appear in the following order: Elmo Bryant, Bob Duncan, Gerald Allcorn, Bartow Riley, Raymond (Cotton) Lewis, Royce Collins, D. M. (Bub) Holt and Dr. C. B. Johns.

Absentee balloting in both races is currently going on. with school board balloting running through March 29, and city council absentee votes available until April 1.

School absentee ballots may be picked up in the school businees office, and city ballots are on hand in the city hall.

The regular school election is scheduled April 2, and the city election April 5.

BOOKMOBILE HERE SATURDAY

The High Plains Bookmobile makes its appearance in Olton Saturday from 9:15-11:45 a.m.

It will be in Spade from noon until 1:30 p.m. Friday, then will travel to Hart Camp, where it will be from 1:45 --2:30 p.m. It will also be in Fieldton Friday, from 2:45 - 3:30 p.m.

Griffin Child, 5, Burned Seriously

Brent Griffin, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Griffin, received critical burns on his back and shoulders Friday morning when his clothing caught fire.

The accident occurred while he was helping his sister, Mandy burn trash.

His grandfather, Charles Bowers, said Brent and Mandy had started back to the house from the trash barrel when Brent picked up a piece of paper which had fallen on the way to the trash. He started back to the trash barrel to put the paper in it.

When she turned around, his clothing was on fire. Mandy rushed into the house to get her mother and when they returned to the yard, Brent couldn't be found at first.

They finally found him in a chicken house, where he had run with his clothes still on fire.

Mrs. Griffin put out the fire and he was rushed to Plainview Hospital and Clinic.

Bowers said Brent had received several transfusions, and was reported by the doctors to be improving.

Area Vegetable Prospects Studied

In the face of declining profits from cotton and grain sorghum, a small group of area farmers listened with interest to a talk on vegetable growing possibilities on the South Plains..

Doing the talking were three vegetable specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Most of the listeners already had a more than passing interest in the topic, since the event was sponsored by the West Texas Vegetable Growers Council. Co-sponsors for the event was the Lamb County Agricultural Committee.

Dr. John Larsen, with the extension service in College Station, outlined trends in vegetable production in 1966, then discussed methods for proper fertilization of vegetables currently being grown in the area.

Dr. Robert Berry, plant pathologist with the extension service in Lubbock, discussed possible plant diseases and insects which might slow vegetable production, then outline remedies for some of the diseases.

Dr. Jack Kyle, plant breeding specialist with the extension service in Lubbock, then discussed possible mechanized planting and harvesting methods now being developed to make

Stamp Center Seen For Olton

Olton has prospects of obtaining a local trading stamp redemption center, it was learned this week.

Three firms announced they will be handling Buccaneer Trading Stamps, and a representative of the stamp company said it is probable that a redemption store for Buccaneer will be set up here withing the next 60 days.

The three firms taking on Buccaneer were Farmers Butane Co., Moore Food and Olton Super Market.

Already giving Buccaneer Stamps here was Raines Food, which began handling that line last month.

IN ORC BURGLARY

Equipment Valued At $1,500 Taken

A burglar with expensive tastes in golfing equipment picked up enough equipment to last quite a while Monday night.

Someone broke into the pro shop at the Olton Recreation Center and took approximately $1,500 in equipment after ORC directors had finished a meeting in the same building earlier in the evening.

Golf pro Fred Pendergrass said the thief took one complete set of woods and irons, including putter and bag. He also got away with a jacket, golf balls, an automatic pistol, socks, cigarettes and all the change in the shop.

Pendergrass said the thief must have known what he was doing, since he took the most expensive equipment and clothing in the shop.

Pendergrass said the thief broke in through a side window over the cash register on the south side of the building.

The Olton pro said the same night some one broke into the Littlefield Country Club and stole an undetermined amount of equipment.

Pendergrass asked ORC members to check their equipment if any was left in the shop to see if anything else was taken.

Write Us A Letter

"Dear Editor: Now this is what I think."

Did you ever write a letter to the editor? It's fun to see yourself in print. But actually, you're writing not only to the editor, but also to thousands of readers of this newspaper.

That's a substantial group of readers. But don't let that scare you. Write as if you were just talking to one of them. And write to express, not to impress.

What do you write about? Perhaps you are really mad at the editor and want to tell him off on some subject. Perhaps there's some issue that's bothering you. Perhaps you just like to sound off now and then on topics of general interest. The letters to the editor column in this newspaper gives you opportunity to speak your opinions.

We welcome good letters. In writing them, please remember the rules and keep your letter reasonable in length, reasonable in tone, free of defamatory matter. Remember, the editor must boil down your letter if too long, and will take out statements that are libelous. All you have to do is make your letter interesting and constructive. Criticism alone is no good.

We don't recommend that you become a chronic letter to th editor writer ... but we do welcome these letters, from the more the merrier.

FIVE AND TEN YEARS AGO IN OLTON

FIVE YEARS AGO IN OLTON

Five hats and a couple of bonnets have been thrown into the political ring for Olton's annual school trustee election April 1. A last-minute rush at the school business manager's office last week brought these names into the school election picture: O. J. Neeley, Winston Bley, Cleo Smith and Bill J. Langford, all farmers; Don Williams, insurance man; and Mrs. A. E. Cade and Mrs. W. T. Hall Jr., house wives.

Construction will get under way within the next week on 40 blocks of paving approved Wednesday afternoon at a special meeting of the city council.

Olton Recreation Center officers and direcotrs Monday night voted to lower golf and swimming fees for non-members during the next year.

Olton's Second Annual Science Fair will be Thursday and Friday, March 16 and 17 in the All-Purpose Room of the H. P. Webb Elementary School. Sponsored by the Olton Chapter of the Future Scientist of America, the Science Fair is a display of projects representative of work being done in science in Olton Public Schools. Projects from all grades in Olton Schools and Bohner School will be on display to the public.

TEN YEARS AGO IN OLTON

Olton youngsters came back from the Houston Stock Show last week with a cluster of top-flight awards and enough cash to make the trip profitable. Top laurels went to Carl Nafzger who showed the first place Hampshire barrow and then saw his entry wind up as reserve champion of the show in competition with 900 head of fine barrows.

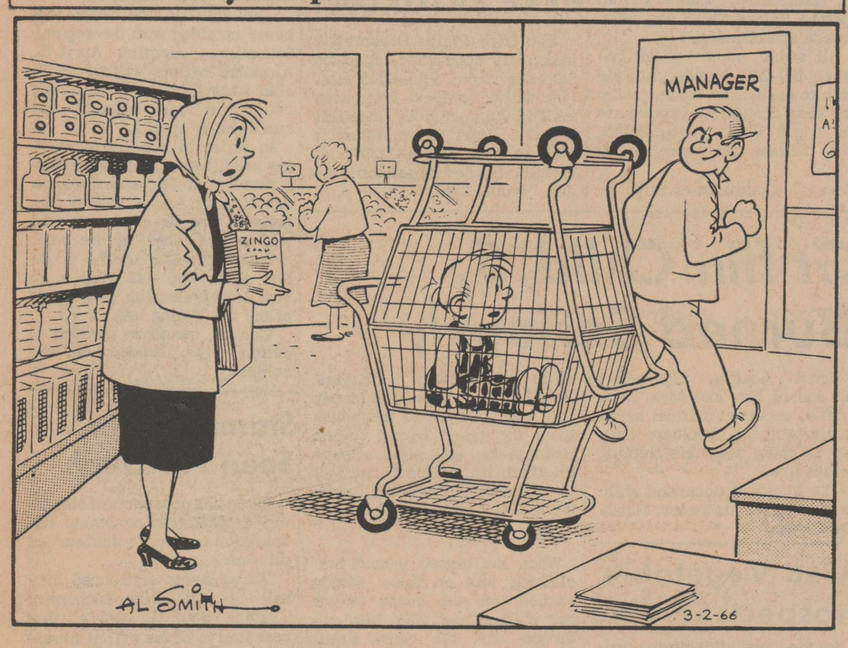

Concert band from Eastern New Mexico University of Portales will give a concert in the OHS auditorium March 13, it was announced this week.

Re-election of high school and grade school faculty members was announced Wednesday by Supt. Carl Macon following a meeting of trustees Tuesday night.

Olton Girl Scouts will observe the 44th anniversary of their organization with a birthday party to be held the afternoon of March 17 in the high school auditorium.

Formal opening of Thompson Bros. Implement Company's new building, one of the most modern in the Panhandle-Plains area, will be held Monday, March 12. The grand opening of the modern new business house will be coupled with John Deere Day, which has become an annual event of consderable interest here.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:

If you've ever answered a guy's letter, please answer mine. There's a girl I like very much and I think she likes me. Whenever we are together, all she talks about is her old boyfriends. I've told her to shut up a hundred times, and she does . . . for a while.

Sometimes she plays sick to get out of a date with me just to go with someone else. Of course, I find out about it sooner or later. When I ask her about it, she admits it. Should I forget her or what should I do? I'm crazy about her.

Two-Timed

Dear Two-Timed:

If you enjoy being a glutton for punishment, she's the girl for you. But any guy with an ounce of sense knows it's bad enough to be used . . . but worse to be abused!

* * * *

Dear Amy:

Is it proper to put a little cologne on men's ties, shirts and coat linings? I say NO, and my husband says YES!

Thank you.

Overcurious

Dear Overcurious:

Men do indulge in cologne on occasions (after shave or shower, etc.), but to go to this extent smells fishy to me!

* * * *

Dear Amy:

My dear friend, a dowager, has me rather upset at what she is doing. Her home is overflowing with rare and beautiful antiques. Her friends, neighbors and even strangers who call upon her for one reason or another are taking advantage of her good nature.

Whatever anyone admires in her home, she gives them. I've had numerous discussions with her over this but she continues to give these priceless old possessions of hers away. She says her children don't want them and she can't take them with her so she may as well give them away.

How can I stop her foolishness? One Meissen bowl was worth about 300 dollars and she gave it to the insurance man.

Lucille

Dear Lucille:

It's unfortunate that you can't see it, but there is nothing foolish in wanting to bring happiness to others. And a person who derives pleasure by giving of themselves or their possessions has reached the ultimate pinnacle of earthly happiness. God Bless her!

* * * *

Dear Amy:

When I was 19 years old, I had plastic surgery done on my nose. To tell the truth, before my nose was fixed, I had never even had a date. I wouldn't have wished my nose on my worst enemy.

After the operation, I was really transformed. I was attractive and started to get a lot of dates.

Now I'm married and happy until I run into people who knew me 'before'. For instance, my husband and I went to a wedding last week. While we were dancing by one of the tables, I overheard some people remark how attractive I was. The next thing I heard was, "I knew her when" from some woman at the table who knew me before my nose was fixed.

I run into this all the time, Amy, and I think it's pretty rotten, don't you?

Transformed

Dear Transformed:

Sure! But women detest flattery when it's directed toward another woman. Hold your head high and don't care who 'nose' it.

* * * *

Dear Amy:

I have been going with a boy for 1½ years. I am 17. My problem is that I have never met his parents. He comes to see me three times a week and on Sundays. I have been to visit his sister a few times. He never mentions much about his parents or home life.

Do you think I should mention that I would like to meet his parents or wait till he decides to take me?

Jane

Dear Jane:

A girl never 'suggest or pushes' to meet a boy's parents. She waits until he offers the invitation. Bide your time. Perhaps the boy is not ready to 'take you home' yet.

MR. AND MRS. BILL REED

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed Honored With Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed were honored with a reception on their golden wedding anniversary, March 6, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the home of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Reed.

Mrs. Glyn Reed received the guests and Miss Gayle Reed, granddaughter of the honorees, registered a total of approximately 100 guests, and 100 gifts.

The serving table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations with gold ribbons. A gold candelabra and a gold cake, in the form of a Bible, completed the arrangement.

Cake and punch were served from crystal and silver appointments by granddaughters, Nancy Reed and Jean Robb.

The hostess gift for the couple was a set of wedding rings. Mrs. Reed was also presented a gardenia corsage.

Hostesses for the occasion were their daughter and son-in law, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Mills, and Mr. and Mrs. Glyn Reed.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hare, Mrs. S. L. STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

AUSTIN, TEX. --Texas' first big free voter signup is under way.

But top state officials still are "fighting mad" because FBI agents were assigned to keep an eye on registration procedures in selected counties.

"It's an insult to every public official and every citizen of Texas," wrote Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr in a letter to U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach about the FBI check.

Gov. John Connally agreed and further charged the U. S. Department of Justice with intentionally "instigating troubtentionally "instigating trouble" among stormy state political factions.

A three-judge federal court granted Carr's request for a 30-day stay of its order abolishing the poll tax as a voting requirement. Stay was granted in order to allow time to put the new registration law into effect. Therefore, the old poll tax requirement will apply through most local elections this month.

All indications are the initial 15-day free registration (March 3-17) is going smoothly. Interest varies from county to county. Intensive registration drives are under way in the major counties, with all factions trying to sign up more voters who reflect their own views.

Connally and Carr have called on local tax assessor-collectors, who are voting registrars , to provide as many substations and deputies as necessary and to authorize all the overtime needed to assure the widest possible opportunities for voter qualifications.

This is in keeping with instructions of the federal court which conceivably could lengthen the 15-day period if it feels all voters who wanted to register were not given sufficient opportunity.

Carr, meanwhile, has appealed the poll tax invalidation order to the U. S. Supreme Court. However, few feel it will be reversed.

Reversing earlier instructions, the attorney general said Texans over 60 years of age in cities of 10,000 or more who failed to get exemption certificates before Jan. 31 still can sign up free.

Reliable estimates of the number of new voters who will qualify by March 17 have been raised to around 500,000.

CIGARETTE IMPORTS TIGHTENED

State and federal inspectors are clamping down on imported sales that resulted when the state per-pack tax jumped to 11 cents.

Travelers are being warned that they can bring back no more than two packs of untaxed cigarettes from across the border.

State comptroller's agents, liquor control board inspectors and customs officers are making close checks in an effort to enforce the limit.

Comptroller's figures show the total cigarette tax collected for February as $8,500,000. This is nearly a $2,000,000 increase from February, 1965. Actually, however, last month's stamp sales meant 77,778,963 packages of smokes were purchased. This compares with 83,431,387 at the old rate in February, 1965.

Before the last three-cent-a-pack increase, sales sometimes went to more than 100,000,000 a month.

"We're looking at every avenue we can to protect the reve nue of the state," commented Albert Brown, head of the excise and store tax division of the comptroller's office.

TEXAS JOINS COMPACT

Texas will be one of the first states to particiapte in the inter state Compact for Education, Governor Connally has announced.

Compact aims to strengthen the voice of states in formulation of alternative nationwide education policies.

Connally has indicated he is making a bid for location of the compact's central office in Texas.

An interstate commission composed of seven representatives from each member state will develop alternatives in educational policies, gather data on enrollments, conduct research, exchange information with other groups and recommend proposals for financing education.

TWO SELECTED

Amarillo and Beaumont were selected as the sites for two $450,000 pilot Mental Retardation centers sought by 20 Texas communities.

State Board for Mental Health and Mental Retardation said the cost will be shared by state and federal apporpriations.

Other cities considered for the centers were Abilene, Austin, Brownwood, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Edinburg, Longview, Midland, Odessa, San Antonio, San Angelo, Tyler, Texarkana, Temple, Victoria, Wichita Falls and Waco.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SPEAKS

A Childress County constable who accepted a $1-a-day job as a deputy tax assessor-collector for a single day during the poll tax drive put on by the Junior Chamber of Commerce did not vacate his office, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held in an official opinion.

In other opinions Carr concluded:

*A driver's license is automatically lost on felony conviction for driving while intoxicated, but is not so forfeited when a person is convicted of misdemeanor DWI and placed on probation (unless probation is revoked).

*Driver of a pickup, panel truck, carry-all or station wagon of 2,000 pounds or less capacity does not have to have a commercial operator's license even is vehicle is operated in combination with one or more trailers.

*Texas Water Rights Commission is governed by article setting $1,500 maximum for water use pemits (and $200 top for additional use under same permit). Request originated with Sulphur River Municipal Water District and City of Irving applications to take water from Cooper Reservoir.

*Workmen's Compensation law does not have permissive application to county line independent school district (Goose Creek Consolidated ISD) under jurisdiction of a county having population of 1,300,000 or more unless it is wholly located or situated in the county.

*A warrant on Texas Water Rights Commission's appropriation to pay for paper used in printing special engineering reports necessary to state water plan is a legal expenditure.

State Highway Commission initiated plans to make U. S. Highway 271 a multi-lane facility from Paris northward to the Red River and the Oklahoma border.

Facility will connect with a multi-lane highway planned by the State of Oklahoma to extend southward from McAlester to the river.

Among other projects ordered by the commission was completion of a highway loop around the city of Lufkin.

Devil's River Bridge on U. S. Highway 90 west of Del Rio received the American Institute of Steel Construction "Oscar" at a commission meeting here as the best of its class constructed in 1964.

COURTS DECIDED

State Supreme Court held for the typographical union in action requiring the Houston Chronicle and Houston Post to reset in their composing rooms advertisements placed by a local firm through a local advertising agency. Arbitration board held that "national" advertising does not have to be reproduced by the newspapers, but "local" advertising does.

Supreme Court turned down the appeal of Mayor Morris L. Newnham of Ranger to be included on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for state representative in the 63rd District (Eastland, Palo Pinto, Stephens, Callahan and Shackelford Counties). Lower courts held Newnham ineligible to run for the Legislature because he's now serving a term in a "lucrative public office." Actually he draws no pay.

POLICY CANGES

Writing of general liability and automobile insurance policies will be changed by July 1. But the "average driver" won't be affected.

Big change will be introduction of a "jacket" plan which will be common to several types of insurance. Under the "jacket" plan, the agent will insert standard insurance parts, such as fire protection, auto protection, etc.

Basically, the change is designed for business enterprises rather than for individuals. Family policies will not be under the "jacket"" plan.

Under the new method, "an insured now will be covered by liability for injuries to others arising out of his use as a passenger of a land public conveyance, such as a taxicab or bus."

Most significant change in the general liability plan as it relates to automobiles and other vehicles is that the policies will be written on a "per occurance" basis with no additional charge.

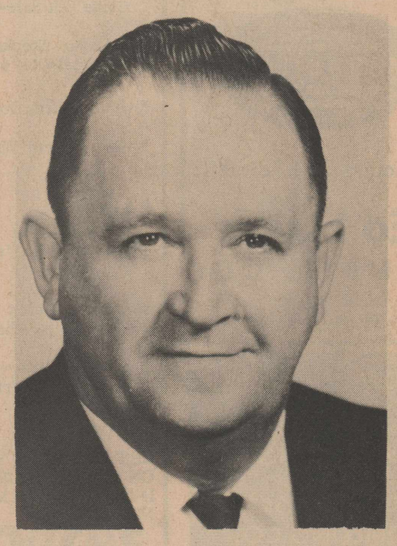

SULPHUR LEASE SALE SET

An April lease sale for development of sulphur deposits on West Texas lands owned by the University of Texas was ordered by UT regents.

Regents will notify oil companies doing business on the lands, requesting a list of tracts for sulphur mining.

Tech Prof Discusses Benefits From High Plains Irrigation

A detailed look at the importance of irrigation to the Texas High Plains is contained in a report prepared for the Texas Water Development Board by Texas Tech agriculture economics Prof. Herbert W. Grubb.

The report, prepared to assist the TWDB in developing the Texas Water Plan, was presented at the recent West Texas Water Conference held at Tech.

Grubb reveals that total local High Plains irrigation benefits presently are estimated at $444 million per year. The estimate is based on an annual irrigated acreage of five million acres and the assumption that irrigation benefits are consumed within the High plains area.

"Of this total benefit," Grubb said, "approximately 22 per cent or $100 million are direct returns to water. The remaining 78 per cent or $344 million, are indirect benefits from irrigation."

Grubb explains that the total High Plains disposable income was reported at approximately $1.8 billion in 1964. "Based on estimates of irrigation benefits, irrigation is responsible for approximately 25 per cent of High Plains income in the mid 1960's", he declared.

Commenting further, the report said "recent estimates made by a High Plains task force show that with present water supplies, maximum potential irrigated acreage in the 42 county High Plains area is 5.8 million acres.

"It is anticipated that this maximum will be reached around 1980 and that by the year 2000, irrigation from present water supplies will be 3.5 million acres or reduced to the level known around 1959.

"Unless efficiency increases offset irrigated acreaged declines, primary benefits to High Plains irrigation will be around $70 million as compared to present levels of approximately $100 million.

If other benefits are reduced proportionately to primary benefits, secondary benefits would be $66 million as compared to present levels of $91 million.

Agricultural inputs tertiary benefits would be $60 million as compared to present levels of $85 million and consumption tertiary benefits would be $121 million as compared to present levels of around $168 million.

"These estimates," Grubb said, "represent an attempt to identify which groups and in what degree these groups benefit from High Plains irrigation.

Since irrigation water supplies exhaustible, many beneficiaries of irrigation will want to consider ways in which these benefits can be used to develop a more permanent water supply."

Prof. Grubb pointed out that "benefits, of course, can be enhanced on annual basis and perhaps extended in time with improved efficiency in using present water supplies, although much is yet to be learned about reducing the amount of water required to produce the composite irrigated acre. As market conditions change, the composition of the composite irrigated acre will change.

"For example," he said, "if the new cotton program results in an across the board reduction in cotton acreage of 35 per cent, primary benefits to irrigation can be expected to decline by about $1.40 per composite irrigated acre, for a total of $7 million.

But there would be a release for other uses of about .12 acre feet of water per composite irrigated acre."

Grubb concluded his report by saying that "there is much yet to be learned about intersectoral relationships within the High Plains economy. Flows between High Plains business firms is important in determining the area's economy level.

"Further study and quantitative analysis is needed to finally develop effective approaches to solving the long range irrigation water supply problems facing the High Plains."

NEW HIGHWAY MAPS

New 1966 Texas highway maps are off the presses. Initial printing of 800,000 will be the largest in history.

Maps are produced for free distribution by Texas Highway Department's travel and information division.

New map shows 521 more miles of divided highways than appeared on 1965 map and over 22,000 miles of farm-to-market roads, an increase of 7,500 miles over 1965. Also shown are all highways, public lakes, safety rest areas, city routes and mileage between points.

Questions And Answers

From Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the area office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q.--What kind of records should I keep for my income tax return, that I might have to produce if I'm audited?

A--Keep whatever you need to substantiate the income and deductions on your return. Cancelled checks, paid bills, Forms W-2 and 1099, bank books and similar records will be helpful.

Q--Why is my wife's Social Security number so important on a joint tax return? Most of the income comes from my salary.

A--According to the law, your wife should show her account number on your joint return if she had: (1) separate gross income of $600 or more, or $1200 or more if she was 65 or more before the end of the taxable year, or (2) self-employment income, or (3) separate income, such as wages, dividents, or interest, paid to her which the payeris required to report on a return or statement of information.

If the necessary account numbers are not on a return the matching cannot be done, necessitating correspondence with the taxpayer. Failure to include your wife's number will delay the processing of your return and any refund due.

Q--I am retired and have no taxable income. Can I still file a joint return with my wife who is still working?

A--Yes. The fact that either the husband or the wife had no income does not prevent them from filing a joint return.

Q--I paid up the mortgage on my home early but was charged a pre-payment penalty. Is that deductible?

A--Yes it is deductibe as interest if you itemize your deductions.

Q--How much can I deduct for state gas tax this year?

A--On page 9 of the 1040 instruction booklet you will find the amount that may be deducted for gasoline tax on a state-by-state basis.

Q--When can I start excluding sick pay?

A--There are two rules governing when and how much sick pay may be excluded from income for federal tax purposes.

First, if the amount you receive as sick pay is more than 75 per cent of your weekly rate of pay, there is a 30-day waiting period before you are entitled to a sick-pay exclusion.

If the amount you receive is 75 per cent or less, the waiting period is 7 days unless you are hospitalized for at least one day during your absence from work. In that event, there is no waiting period. The exclusion is limited to $75.00 per week for the part of the first 30-day period in which you are entitled to the exclusion. After that, it becomes $100 per week.

Q--My husband and I have separated. Who is entitled to claim the children as dependents?

A--The children may be claimed as dependents by the person who provides more than half their support during the taxable year. Whether this person is you or your husband depends on the financial arrangements worked out between you.

Q--What's the law on estimated tax? Who has to file a declaration?

A--In general terms, taxpayers are required to file a Declaration of Estimated Income Tax, Form 1040ES, and to make quarterly payments of estimated tax when their tax liability is expected to exceed their withholding by $40 or more. See page 6 of the 1040 instructions for further information.

Q--I got a letter from your office asking me to come in for an audit or last year's return. My neighbor, who helped me prepare it, says he is not permitted to appear with me. What should I do?

A--Anyone who helped prepare your return or who has knowledge of the facts reported in it can appear with you when your return is audited.

However, if the audit leads to a proposed change in your tax liability and you disagree with this finding then anyone who acts as an advocate in your behalf must be enrolled to practice, or if he is a CPA or a lawyer, file the required certificate.

MIDNIGHT BLAZE--This fire on the I. V. Fent farm six miles southeast of Olton destroyed a tenant house and heavily damaged a small shed approximately 50 feet south of the house. Olton's Volunteer Fire Department was called to douse the blaze about midnight Wednesday. Cause of the fire was undetermined at press time.

AYES: Aldermen Dennis, Jones, Sullivan, Thompson and Myers.
NOES: None.

The RESOLUTION AND ORDER is as follows:

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Olton, Texas, deems it advisable to issue the bonds of said City for the purpose hereinafter mentioned; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF OLTON, TEXAS:

SECTION 1: That an election be held on the 5th day of April, 1966, which date is not less than fifteen (15) nor more than thirty (30) days from the date of the adoption of this resolution and order, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted to the resident qualified electors of said City, who own taxable property therein, and who have duly rendered the same for taxation:

"SHALL the City Council of the City of Olton, Texas, be authorized to issue SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS ($60,000) general obligation bonds of said City for the purpose of constructing street improvements in and for said City; said bonds to mature serially over a period of years not to exceed TWENTY (20) years from their date, and to bear interest at a rate not to exceed FIVE PER CENTUM (5%) per annum, payable annually or semi-annually; and to provide for the payment of principal of and interest on said bonds by levying a tax sufficient to pay the annual interest and to create a sinking fund sufficient to redeem said bonds as they become due?"

SECTION 2: That said election shall be held at the CITY HALL in the CITY OF OLTON, TEXAS, and the entire City shall constitute one election precinct.

SECTION 3: That the following named persons are hereby appointed officers of the election, to-wit:
W. G. FINNEY, Presiding Judge
ELDON FRANKS, Alternate Presiding Judge.

If the regularly appointed Presiding Judge is unable to serve at the election, the Alternate Presiding Judge therefor shall serve as Presiding Judge. The Presiding Judge shall appoint at least two (2) Clerks (one of whom shall be the Alternate Presiding Judge if the election is conducted by the regularly appointed Presiding Judge) and not more than two (2) additional Clerks, as he deems necessary for the proper conduct of the election.

ABSENTEE VOTING shall be conducted at the City Secretary's Office in the City Hall, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 424, Acts of the 58th Legislature, Regular Session, 1963.

SECTION 4: That said election shall be held under the provisions of and in accordance with the laws governing the issuance of municipal bonds in cities, as provided in the General Laws of the State of Texas, and only resident qualified electors, who own taxable property in the City, and who have duly rendered the same for taxation, shall be qualified to vote.

SECTION 5: That the ballots for said election shall be prepared in sufficient number and in conformity with Chapter 6, V.A.T.C.S. Election Code, as amended, and that printed on such ballots shall appear the following:

"FOR THE ISSUANCE OF STREET IMPROVEMENT BONDS AND THE LEVY OF A TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF"

"AGAINST THE ISSUANCE OF STREET IMPROVEMENT BONDS AND THE LEVY OF A TAX IN PAYMENT THEREOF"

AS TO THE FOREGOING PROPOSITION, the voter shall mark out the statement FOR the proposition or the statement AGAINST the proposition so that the statement remaining statement shall indicate the way he wishes to vote.

SECTION 6: That a copy of this resolution and order, signed by the Mayor of the City and attested by the City Secretary, at the top of which shall appear the words "NOTICE OF ELECTION FOR THE ISSUANCE OF BONDS", shall serve as proper notice of said election. Said notice shall be posted at three public places in said City, one of which shall be at the City Hall, not less that fourteen (14) full days prior to the date on which said election is to be held, and be published on the same day in each of two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the City of Olton, Texas, published in the City of Olton, Texas, the first of said publications to be made not less than fourteen (14) full days prior to the date set for said election.

PASSED AND APPROVED this the 8th day of March, 1966.

W. E. Thomas, Mayor, City of Olton, Texas

THE FAMILY LAWYER

What You Can Insure

Suppose you notice that a neighbor's children like to play with matches in their garage. If you are the dastardly type, a cunning idea might occur to you. Why not take out a fire insurance policy on that garage, wait for a fire, and then pocket the proceeds?

The catch is, you could not collect a cent on such a policy. For you have no "insurable interest" in the garage.

Generally speaking, you cannot take out insurance on another person's property—or another person's life, either—unless you do have an insurable interest. The law says you must have something at stake, some motive for wanting that property—or that life—to be preserved.

That wasn't always so. In the early days of modern insurance, at Lloyd's famous coffee house in London, anyone could take out life insurance on anyone else. Lives of prominent persons became speculative free-for-alls. An inside tip about some dignitary's failing health could be turned into easy money.

But twin evils became apparent: the stimulus to gambling, and the incentive to murder. Such insurance, wrote Oliver Wendell Holmes, "is a pure wager that gives the insured a sinister interest in having the life come to an end." The law responded with the requirement of an insurable interest.

What constitutes an insurable interest? The usual test is financial—whether you would suffer financial harm if the insured property was damaged or the insured life lost.

Thus, if you had a mortgage on that neighbor's garage, you would have the necessary insurable interest. The destruction of the garage would destroy something of value to you.

Similarly, in life insurance, a man has an insurable interest in his wife because she owes him services. And a wife has an insurable interest in her husband because he owes her support.

Even when the financial interest is not so clear, a clear sentimental interest will sometimes satisfy the courts. For instance, they usually uphold an insurance policy that a girl, engaged to be married, takes out on the life of her fiance.

"The relation," explained one court, "naturally inclines her to the hope that his life may be prolonged."

AND JANE ANN DUNCAN

The Olton Stock Show gets underway today and the FHA girls have been preparing for sometime for the three-day event.

As we all know, the FHA has always had a concession stand and exhibit room next to the show barn. This year it's going to be BIGGER and BETTER!!

Last Friday the FHAers loaded up with paint, paint brushes, buckets, mops, and every other cleaning equipment available. Before the weekend was over, the building was cleaned of debris and dust - even a bird's nest - and the rooms were freshly painted. Yes -- we said PAINTED. Every effort is being made to improve the FHA stock show headquarters this year.

So come to see the newly painted building when you take in the stock show today through Saturday. We think you'll find the surroundings much more attractive. And, furthermore, the atmosphere will make the hamburgers, cokes, cakes, etc., taste better!!!

There is also an addition to the regular exhibits. A room has been set aside for a 4-H Club display -- behind a PINK door?!!!

The FHA Motto during the stock show is:

Cooking at our indoor grill
Is fraught with risk and tedium.
We usually get our meat quite rare,
And our hands and fingers medium.

An ambitious group of girls met Monday night March 7 for a regular monthly meeting. Iva Tanner discussed the stock show for '66. There will be exhibits in cakes, pies, cookies, canned goods, handiwork, knitting, and anything else that you would like to enter. Rewards will be given in each division with places from first to fifth.

The climax of the FHA show will be the cake sale, Saturday at 2 p.m. Everyone is urged to attend and support the FHA.

Four girls -- Iva Tanner, Kay Schultz, Kathy Kidd, and Carolyn Carlisle -- were recognized for receiving their state degrees. This is considered quite an achievement and is something for each girl to work toward.

The program was presented by the junior FHA girls. They showed some of the events that usually happen during the stock show.

LET'S HAVE A GOOD STOCK SHOW, THE BEST OLTON HAS EVER HAD!!!!

****

Here it is again, Public School Week. All of the OHS teachers and students put in many hours getting the classrooms ready for the parent visitors last Tuesday night. On display, were various kinds of work the students had done.

****

It seems that last week-end was filled with excitement. Several Olton students went to Ruidoso and snow skied. For Sherry Moss, it proved to be quite an experience!! Didn't it Sherry??

****

Stan Huckabee and Gail Bizzell we hope you two and the other guys had a GREAT time riding bulls Sunday. Oh, yes, we hope you two recover from your misfortunes soon!!

****

If you had gone behind stage last Tuesday night after the grand performance of "Brother Goose," you might have heard the following conversation:

Bobby Turner: I was a smash hit in our school play. I had everyone GLUED to his seat!

Jerri Cross: Wonderful!! Clever of you to think of it!

****

Mrs. Hamilton told her class to write a composition on baseball. One minute later, Rickey Smith turned in his written effort which read: "Game called on account of rain.

****

Mrs. Armstrong: "Sh-hh! The people next to you can't read."

Billy Kemp: "What a shame! But, then, what are they doing in the library?"

****

Mr. Walden: "What is the outstanding contribution that chemistry had made to the world?"

Bruce Hines: "Blondes!"

Talking about conversations ---after eating one of the FHA's hamburgers at the stockshow, you just might hear the remark: "Not only was I able to put it down.... I was able to throw it up."

****

Richard Redinger and Laura Akin, "Congratulations" from for being chosen as the "Best Citizens" for the 4th six weeks.

****

WHO's WHO

Donna Smith: Where did you go AFTER grading State Degrees last Friday night? Di you see anone familiar?

****

Mrs. Struve: "this salad tastes awful. Are you sure you washed it carefully?"

Darlene Struve: "Yes, Mother, I even used soap!"

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

The State Highway Department can buy interest in land needed for enhancement of scenic beauty adjacent to federal aid highways which are a part of the Texas highway system. Attorney General Carr has held.

In other opinions, the attorney general concludes:

*Election workers in counties under 500,000 may be paid for overtime over 10 working hours at polls at rate not to exceed $1.25 an hour.

*Conviction in a misdemeanor case punishable by imprisonment is void where defendant was too poor to employ a lawyer and trial court failed to appoint one for him.

*Game wardens are entitled to $3 arrest fee payable to Parks and Wildlife Department, but fines and trial fees go to county officers' salary funds.

*A prisoner jailed on a misdemeanor charge is credited at rate of $5 a day for time served even though convicted prior to Jan. 1 before new Code of Criminal Procedure took effect.

*An election for abolishment of a consolidated independent school district may not be called within three years after the consolidation election where no charge has been made in the status of the district subsequent to the consolidation election.

*Texas child support orders originating from divorce decrees in state courts should be processed for enforcement though petition is from out-of-state plaintiff.

vegetable production on the South Plains more practical.

Larsen then discussed statewide vegetable research, and Kyle talked about local reseach.

Berry said diseases in vegetables on the South Plains are, "Not a big problem yet, since vegetables haven't been planted much, and there is enough land to rotate crops."

But Berry warned farmers not to treat vegetable diseases as if they were cotton diseases.

"Vegetable diseases generally can't be controlled as quickly as cotton."

Reasons for the slower treatment, said Berry, were that since vegetables were used for eating, strong insecticides or disease control chemicals could not be used as they are in cotton.

He said vegetable diseases may also spread much faster and must be sprayed or dusted more often than non-edible crops.

Berry said the best rig for spraying now being used was a wide boom rig, used at a slow speed, with spraying done many times during the year.

"I did see an airplane used to spray a field with success near Muleshoe," said Berry. But he said approximately twice the amount of chemical had to be used, and he was not sure it would be successful in many cases.

"But the best method of disease and insect control is development of resistant breeds," said Berry.

Larsen said fertilizer needed to be applied to vegetables generally four to six times each year in small doses, rather than on or two large amounts.

He also said most vegetable growers on the South Plains did not fertilize nearly as heavily as they should, and when they did , many times the fertilizer was not placed where the plant could get the best use from it.

Kyle said new mechanical harvesters now being developed in California, Arizona and in the Rio Grande Valley could make vegetable production practical in the Olton area.

His comments came as possible solutions to the labor problems in harvesting vegetables.

Larsen metnioned vegetables being developed which might be better suited to machine harvesting.

"Work is now being done on cucumbers which mature in a very short time, almost all at the same time, By planting these, a farmer could plant two-three crops a year, harvesting the whole plant at each harvest."

He said this in contrast to the usual method used locally of planting a long maturing plant which could not be harvested mechanically, but require hand-sorting and picking. Olton vegetables being developed along the same line mentioned by Larsen were tomatoes and peas.

He also mentioned a new gel currently under development, which could be sprayed on vegetables to prevent freezing to allow later growing seasons.

The same line of thought was mentioned in a petroleum mulch now used in sweet potato planting, which would allow a two-three week earlier planting season.

The three scientists were introduced to the group by Buddy Logsden, new Lamb County agricultural agent for the extension service.

Logsden came to Lamb County from a stint as a county agent for Mitchell County.

He replaced Bill Kimbrough, who retired Jan. 1. Logsden graduated from Levelland High School and Texas Tech and has been with the extension service for 10 years.

He and his wife, Shirley and two sons, Rodney, 9, and Corry, 8, live just west of Littlefield on the Bula Highway.

OPEN HOUSE AT MRS. CARL HOOPER'S ROOM

Family Earnings Go Up Faster Than Living Costs In County

Is the average Lamb County family better off today, in terms of buying power, than it was five or ten years. ago?

To what extent has the rising cost of living eaten into the income gains it has chalked up?

Locally, the figures show, the financial picture is a rosy one. Family earnings have been rising at a much faster rate than the cost of goods and services.

As a result, the average production worker is in much better shape than he was in previous years. His week's pay goes further in the market place than it did formerly.

Just how it shapes up, taking into account both increased earnings and higher costs, is brought out in surveys made by the Tax Foundation, by the Department of Labor and others.

They show that the average working man in Lamb County now earns enough after 35 minutes on the job to buy a pound of round steak, best grade, or the equivalent.

In dollars and cents, the round steak is 14 percent more expensive than it was seven years ago. However, it amounts to less, in terms of his working time, since his wages have gone up more than the 14 percent.

The figures show that per capita income in the local area is 34 percent higher than in 1958.

As a result, local residents have greater buying power than before. For example, a man's wool suit, good grade, can now be bought with 41 hours of work and an automobile tire, size 7.50 x 15, with about 13 hours.

These items and most others, would have cost considerably more, in terms of effort, seven years ago.

The Tax Foundation shows, in a special study, how much time is spent by a typical $10,-000-a-year man (married with two children) during an eight-hour day, to provide for his family's various needs.

It shows that he must work 2 hours and 19 minutes to meet the tax bills, 1 hour and 30 minutes for housing and household costs, 1 hour and 16 minutes for food and tobacco, and 39 minutes for transportation.

The rest of the time goes for apparel, 31 minutes, medical, 21 minutes, recreation, 18 minutes, and all others, 1 hour and six minutes.

Topping Raises Micronaire Says Researcher At HPRF

James Valliant, water engineer at the High Plains Research Foundation, says low micronaire cotton readings during 1965, can be traced mainly to the immature crop on the top portion of the cotton plant.

This top portion not only reduced micronaire readings , it also reduced ginning percentages in many cases, said Valliant.

His remarks came in view of the loss in cotton loan prices due to the addition of micronaire readings in figuring the prices during 1965.

Valliant initiated a study at the HPRF in 1961, on the yield, quality and economics of cotton as affected by mechanical topping.

Results from 1961, 1962, and 1963 indicated longer maturing semi-stormproof cottons gave more desirable response to topping than the stormproof cottons. Topping increased fertilizer efficiency in a two-year study.

Response to mechanical topping is also affected by freeze date and summer rainfall. Increases in yields due to topping in years of average rainfall and average freeze date may be expected as shown from results obtained in 1961 and 1962.

Valliant reported that in 1964 and 1965 , several semi-stormproof and open boll varieties of cotton were compared under topped and untopped conditions. Of the varieties tested, the highest income for the two years was received from mechanically topped Paymaster 111.

Six of the eight varieties tested in 1965 responded to topping with an increase in micronaire.

In 1965, a quality study comparing the upper and lower halves of topped and untopped Paymaster 111 cotton resulted in the topped cotton producing a higher yield, better ginning percent and higher micronaire reading.

The untopped cotton produced 786 pounds of lint with an overall 2.8 micronaire reading, and the topped cotton produced 892 pounds of lint with an over-all 3.1 micronaire.

Jerrell Young of Halfway increased returns from two semi-stormproof varieties, Paymaster 111 and 202, $4.81 per acre and $7.99 per acre due to topping the first week in September, the recommended topping period.

The cost of topping of $.150 per acre was previously subtracted. Increased returns were due to increased yields or quality. Results were taken from fields which were 16 acres and 6 acres in size.

Specific results can be seen in Report No. 176, "Comparison of Yield, Quallty and Economics of Mechanically Topped Cotton with Untopped Cotton" in the 1965 Annual Research Report of the High Plains Research Foundation.

A check of the records show that almost any breed can win at the Olton Stock Show.

The possible exception is in the lamb category, where Southdowns have picked off 16 of 17 grand champion and reserve champion places recorded in the past 10 years of the annual event.

But even that event is marred, since last year a heavyweight Hampshire shown by Steve Moss took the runnerup spot, the first time anything but a Southdown had entered the winner's circle in 10 years.

And in the steer show? There's just no telling.

The grand champion in 1965 was an Angus, in 1964 a Hereford, and in 1963, a shorthorn. In the reserve spot, a Hereford was named last year, but the two previous years an Angus came out number two.

Over the years, seven Angus, seven Herefords and five shorthorns have been either one or two in the local show.

Swine are just as tough to pick, with Durocs holding a slight edge in 10 years of judging. Six Durocs have been number one or two, but last year they failed to scratch. The honors went to a pair of Hampshires in that show.

The Hampshires run number two, with five first or second spots, Poland Chinas have been picked four times, and Berkshires and Chesterwhites, twice each.

There's certain to be a new champion in the winner's circle of the steer division this year, since Dennis Givens was last year's winner, and he's no longer eligible for the contest.

Reserve champ Curtis Hall will be back, however, and is eligible to try for the top prize.

The same situation exists in the swine classification, where Curtis Schaefer had the top barrow last year. Schaefer is gone, but reserve champ Tim Givens will be back.

Sheep judging will likely be another top contest, with grand champion winner Marlos May and reserve champion winner Steve Moss both eligible.

And stock show officials are hoping for a new auction record, but that may take some doing, since last year's show brought in a record $12,879.25.

Average steer sales were 32 cents a pound, with Givens' champion bringing 75 cents a pound, and Hall's reserve 55 cents. Total steer sales brought $5,488.77.

Both Schaefer's grand champion and Tim Givens' reserve champion barrow brought the same price per pound as the grand and reserve champion steer.

Average sale price was slightly over 32 cents a pound, and $4,616.65 was collected for the sale.

Marlos May's grand champion Southdown brought a record $1.50 a pound, with Moss' reserve champion bringing $1. Total lamb sales were $1,933.37, with lambs bringing an average of 50 cents a pound.

Both junior and senior Olton FFA livestock judging teams will be trying to move up a notch from last year, when both placed second. Tulia took top honors in the senior contest, while Bovina was first in the junior show.

High senior chapter livestock judging individual is sure to have a new name, since Olton's Joe Costello was last year's top point-getter.

In the FHA show, Rheta Hulsey will be succeeded by a new high point winner in the senior division. Miss Hulsey was first last year with 143 points.

Sue Church collected 62 points to take the junior FHA title last year.

A breakdown of past winners in the local show for the past 10 years includes Givens, grand champion, and Hall reserve grand champion, in the steer division in 1965.

In the 1965 swine show, Schaefer showed the grand champion, while Tim Givens had the reserve champion.

David Britton picked up both grand and reserve champion honors in the gilt division, while Marlos May had the grand champion lamb, and Steve Moss, the reserve champion.

In 1964, Danny Sides took top honors in the steer class, while Charlotte Brigance, who was reserve champion at the Lamb County show this year, showed the reserve champion for the show.

In the swine category, Kevin Britton showed the top pig, a Duroc, while Danny Sides picked up another top spot with his reserve grand champion Duroc.

Schaefer started his Olton winning in the 1964 show, showing the grand champion gilt, while Britton had the reserve animal.

Billy Carson had the top lamb in the show, while Neil Andrew placed the reserve grand champion.

Curtis Hall almost took all the top spots in the 1963 show, showing the grand champion barrow, grand champion gilt, and the grand and reserve champion lambs.

Jimmy Bennett and Keith Berry took runnerup honors in the barrow show.

In 1962, Butch Hudgins had the grand champion steer, while Eddie Carson had the number two animal.

Gary Johnson had the grand champion and Randolph Schaefer the reserve grand champion the same year, while Charlie Burrus had the grand champion lamb, and Robert Duncan had the reserve grand champion.

Jimmy Tollett picked up the grand champion steer honors in the 1961 show, beating out an animal shown by Larry King. Robert Struve showed the grand champion barrow, while Don Blades had the reserve champ.

In the same 1961 show, Jarold Simmons had the grand champion lamb, and Carl Motley had the reserve grand champion.

Jerry Mathis picked up two grand champion trophies in 1960, showing the top steer and the top barrow.

Sharron Dennis completed the grand champion list with her lamb, while Jimmy Moss was second in the steer judging, Kenneth Blades second in the swine show, and Neal Burrow second in the lamb division.

The 1959 show had no double winners, with Nancy Brigance, Weldon Motley and John Lynn Burrow taking the grand champion spot in steers, swine and lambs.

Eddie Carson placed second in the 1959 steer show, while Roy Neal Jones was number two in the swine showings, and Jarold Simmons runnerup in the lamb division.

Harlan Carson took the top spot in the 1958 steer show, followed by Ronald Oursbourn.

In the same show, Jerry Moore had the top barrow, while Roy Neal Jones had the reserve grand champion.

Jones took top spot in the lamb division, beating out Darryl Dennis, who showed the reserve champ.

In 1958, Joe Castillo had the grand champion steer, while Sherrill Alexander had the second spot steer.

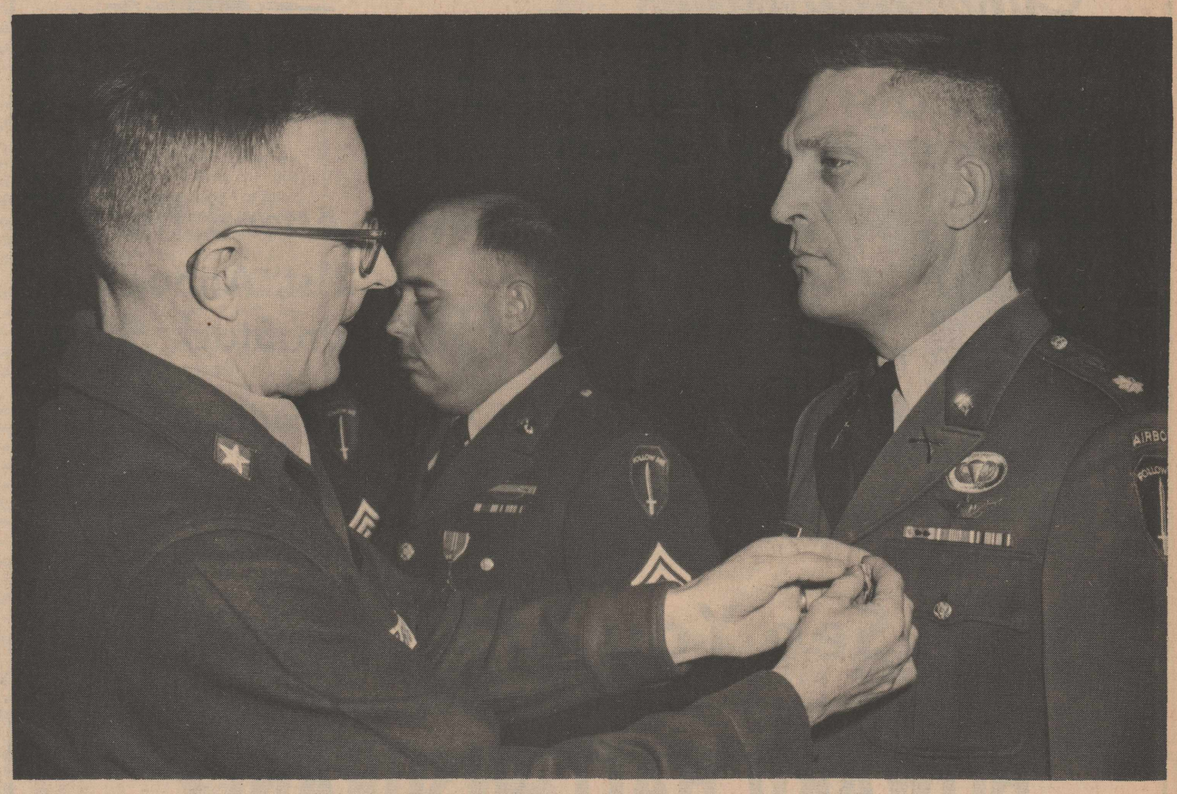

Jerry Peterson showed the grand champion barrow in the 1957 show, followed by Don Edwards.

Ronnie Dennis had the grand champion and Darryl Dennis the reserve animal in the lamb show.

In 1956, Wayne Bodkin had the grand champion steer, while Sherrill Alexander had the reserve grand champion.

T. J. Smith showed the grand champion barrow, while Gayle Machen had the reserve grand champion.

Houston Hamby walked off with the grand champion trophy in the lamb show, and Ronnie Dennis took the reserve grand champion.

TAKE COOK'S TOUR -- A group of area residents relax in Southwestern Public Service's mobil kitchen after having dinner in the trailer last Thursday in Olton. Left to right are Ralph Glover, SWPS manager in Olton; Earl Brock, district SWPS manager from Dimmitt; Linda Gilreith, SWPS home service advisor from Plainview; B.M. Nelson, publisher of the Castro County News in Dimmitt; Paul Hilburn, superintendent of schools in Dimmitt; N. F. Clevenger, president of the board of Plains Memorial Hospital in Dimmitt, and Andy Gardenhire, superintendent of schools in Hart. The trailer features the latest in electric commercial cooking equipment, and is set up to demonstrate the equipment for food service operators, contractors, dieticians, and school and hospital board members.

Track Team Tries Abernathy Meet

Olton's Mustang track team found the pickings pretty slim at the Idalou Track Meet last Saturday, picking up a total of eight points.

Steve Spain took fourth in the 120-yard high hurdles, Dale De Berry was fifth in the 220-yard dash and Charles A. McClain was fifth in the 180-yard low hurdles.

The team travels to Abernathy this Saturday for their second outing of the season.

Small Businessmen In Lamb More Numerous Than Average

Figures just released by the Government show that the number of businesses in operation in Lamb County is at a high level.

There are more of them flourishing in the local area, in porportion to population, than in many parts of the country.

The survey, which was conducted by the Census Bureau, in cooperation with the Social Security Administration, also provides data on the number of people employed and the size of payrolls in every section of the United States.

The report was compiled from tax reports submitted by employers last year, under the social security program. It was based on figures covering the prior year's operations.

Listed in Lamb County are a total of 497 active business establishments.

Of this number, 325 have 3 employees or less, 102 have from 4 to 7 employees and 55 from 8 to 19. The remainder are bigger.

Some 97 percent of the total are small businesses, with fewer than 20 employees each.

The ratio is high. Elsewhere in the United States there are 90 percent in this category. The ratio in the West South Central States is 91 percent.

The proportion of establishments in this group indicates the extent to which moderate-size enterprises are supported locally.

At the same time, there is no dearth of larger-size firms in the county.

The report shows that Lamb County's business concerns provide gainful employment for 2,315 people in "covered" jobs. By covered is meant employment that falls within the scope of the social security program.

Not included in the tabulation are domestic workers, members of the armed forces, farm workers, civilians employed by the Federal, state and local governments and self-employed persons.

Wages and salaries have also been climbing, bringing payrolls to a new high. The local payroll subject to social security taxes has reached $7,548,000 a year, according to the current report.

New businesses are springing into existence at a substantial rate, although not as frequently as in former years.

The hazards are greater. The amount of money needed to go into business is much larger these days, while the chances of immediate success continue to be slim.

Cotton Referendum Bill Narrowly Passes In House

The enabling bill for a cotton producer referendum to be called on a $1 per bale research and promotion fun, House Resolution 12322, squeezed through the U. S. House of Representatives and was sent to the Senate March 3 by a margin of only 6 votes, 189 to 183.

The narrow margin came as a complete surprise to many, and the "Skin-of-the-teeth" nature of the victory was emphasized by the fact that five members of the House who had voted against the bill changed their votes to favor the bill before the official vote was announed. Several hours of heated debate preceded the roll call vote.

Major contention developed in the debate over how the proposed referendum would be decided. As introduced and eventually passed by the House, either the two-thirds of the producers voting or producers representing two-thirds of the volume of cotton produced by those producers voting would constitute approval. Some House members felt approval should be by two-thirds of producers voting without regard to the volume of the cotton they represented.

Rep. Thomas Abernethy, D-Miss., was the chief proponent of striking the "volume" provision and introduced an amendment to that effect. It was barely defeated by a vote of 185 to 191.

Abernethy pointed out that only a small percentage of all growers could settle the outcome because they produce two-thirds of all the cotton.

Opposing Abernethy's amendment, Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., said it would allow a minority of growers to defeat the program even though they produced only five percent or so of all the cotton.

The National Cotton Council, which fathered the legislation, seeks to get the Chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., to sponsor the bill in the Senate.

The bill could reach the senate floor sometime in the week beginning March 6 if no complications arise.

Veteran Benefits Listed Under 1966 Readjustment Act

The Veterans Readjustment Benefits Act of 1966 which was signed into law March 3 by President Johnson provides a permanent program of benefits to veterans who have served or who will serve in the U. S. Armed Forces since Jan. 31, 1955.

Chief among these benefits will be education, home loan guaranty and the extension of VA hospital benefits on the same priority basis as for wartime veterans.

Thus approximately four million veterans discharged from the service since Jan. 31, 1955, ranging from "cold war" veterans to those now on duty in Vietnam, become eligible for benefits somewhat similar to those granted the veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict.

At the same time, provision has been made for 600,000 additional veterans who will be returning to civilian life each calendar year to participate in the same benefits.

In all cases, to be eligible the veteran must have discharges that are other than dishonorable and they must not already have used up their eligibility under previous programs.

All the new benefits, with the exception of the educational assistance program, went into effect immediately upon the President's signing of the bill. The educational assistance provisions will go into effect June 1, 1966.

The benefits established by the new law are:

Educational assistance, home and farm loans, medical care, job counseling, job placement, Federal employment preference and the issuance of burial flags.

A brief summary of each follows:

In the direct loan program, the new law raises the maximum loan possible from $15,000 to $17,500. Veterans with unused and unexpired World War II or Korean Conflict entitlement will have that previous entitlement cancelled and will become eligible under the new law alone.

However, during the period their cancelled entitlement would have been available such veterans not only need not pay the statutory guaranty or direct loan fee under the new law but they may also secure loans for business purposes as well as for home and farm purposes.

Note: Both the educational assistance and Loan Guaranty provisions of the new law will apply to those persons who remain in the service after two years of military duty.

MEDICAL CARE. Veterans who have served after Jan. 31, 1955, will be eligible for admission to VA hospitals on the same basis as wartime veterans.

The priorities are: First -- Veterans with service-connected disabilities have top priority for admission; Second -- Veterans with service - connected disabilities but who are seeking treatment for some other ailment will be admitted as beds are available; Third -- Veterans without service - connect disabilities may be admitted to VA hospitals if (1) hospitalization is deemed necessary, (2) they are financially unable to defray the cost of the hospitalization, and (3) beds are available.

OTHER BENEFITS. The new law also makes provisions for job counseling and job placement, both of these under the auspcies of the Veterans Employment Service of the U. S. Department of Labor; and Civil Service preference in Federal employment.

A United States Flag will be provided for use at the funeral of veterans who have served after Jan. 31, 1955, and to be retained by the next of kin.

Veterans who believe they are eligible for any of these benefits except the education assistance program, can write, telephone or visit VA Offices located at 1400 North Valley Mills Drive, Waco, Texas; 2208 Main, Dallas, Texas; and 1612-20 19th Street, Lubbock, Texas.

Veterans interested in the educational benefits are reminded that they cannot start any courses until after June 1, 1966, and it will not be until mid-April that the proper forms and instructions will be ready.

EDUCATION. Veterans with more than 180 days active duty, any part of which occurred on or after Feb. 1, 1955, will be eligible for one month of college, vocational or similar education for each month or fraction of a month on active duty.

Those taking full-time courses will receive $100 per month if they have no dependents; $125 a month one dependent and $150 a month with more than one dependent. Proportional rates will be paid for part-time courses.

The income of the veteran will not be considered. Application blanks and full information will be available at VA offices and at colleges and educational centers sometime in April, well in advance of the June 1, 1966, starting date.

The maximum period allowed will be 36 months but this may be reduced by the amount of educational assistance previously recived under a VA educational program. Since the program starts by law on June 1, 1966, there can be no retroactive payments.

There is no deadline date to enter upon the education program and veterans will have eight years from the date of their last discharge from active service to complete their courses. However, the first cut-off date will not be until March 3, 1974.

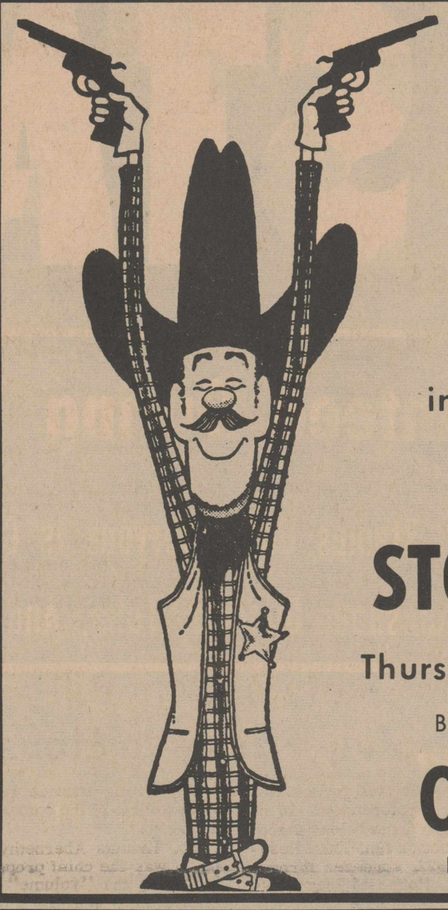

LOAN PROGRAM. Veterans with more than 180 days of active duty will be eligible for VA guaranteed home or farm loans or VA direct home loans in areas where such loans are authorized.

They will have until ten years after the date of their last discharge from active service plus one year additional for each three-month period of active service to make such a loan, with a maximum deadline date of twenty years after the date of discharge from the qualifying service.

For those veterans who have already been out of the service for a period of years, a minimum entitlement date has been set at ten years. VA guaranteed loans will be made at 5 1/2 percent interest rate.

The new law authorizes the Administrator of Veterans Affairs to establish an interest rate as he determines the requirements of the loan market, but not to exceed the rate in effect for loans insured by FHA.

A one-time non-recurring fee not to exceed one-half of one percent of the loan amount is payable by the veteran but may be included in the loan and collected by the lender. However, it must be remitted to the VA before a guaranty certificate may be issued.

USDA Allows Counties To Measure Allotments

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has approved 16 of the 23 Texas High Plains counties for accepting producer certification of planted cotton acreage in 1966 , including Lamb County.

This is a part of a pilot project in which USDA is trying to reduce ASCS operating costs by letting farmers measure their own acreage and then certify to the accuracy of their measurement at the ASCS office. Probably about one-fourth of the self-measured farms will be checked later.

Donald A. Johnson, executive vice president of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., doesn't think very many farmers will do their own measuring because of the stiff penalties imposed in the event of error, even within the allowable tolerance.

Unless the county ASCS committee determines that a scheme to defeat the objectives of the program is involved, producers will be allowed a certain tolerance without losing all payments and other program benefits.

Planted or diverted acreage may deviate from that the farmer has certified to by no more than the larger of two acres or five percent of the farm allotment, but not more than 15 acres in any case.

If the farmer's measurement error falls within this tolerance, he will still be penalized in the form of reduced payments.

If the error exceeds this range, the producer will lose all program benefits and be required to return any payment already made to him with six percent interest.

And after certification of acreage, he will not be permitted to plow up the overage in order to get back in compliance.

Within the established tolerance, the penalty is twice the loan rate (21¢) times the projected yield for the farm times the acreage by which the farm fails to comply.

Therefore, a farmer with 200 acre allotment could overplant up to 10 acres without losing all program benfits.

But he would be subject to a per-acre penalty of 42¢ per pound times his projected yield on each of the 10 extra acres.

With a 500 pound projected yield the penalty would come to $210 per acre or a total of $2100.

Johnson feels that with such a severe penalty farmers will not be able to afford the chance of error. And by having the ASCS office either pre-measure cotton land or measure it soon after planting, the danger of having payments reduced can be avoided.

The ASCS will charge a fee for either pre-plant or post-plant measuring. Pre-measurement cost to the farmer, according to Lubbock County ASCS Office Manager Walter Wells, will be $10 per farm, plus $5 per plot measured, plus five cents per acre, and the farmer will be required to pay nine cents per mile for whatever mileage is involved.

The fee for measuring acreage after planting has not been set, but Wells says it will be only about half as much as the pre-measuring fee.

So some farmers who do not plan to put down fertilizer or herbicides before planting may prefer to do their own pre-measuring and call on the ASCS to verify the acreage with a post-plant measurement.

Wells says the pace of farmers signing up for the 1966 farm program has slowed considerably this week. In fact, he has asked that PCG advise farmers who have already made up their minds on program alternatives to sign up now instead of waiting until the last few days before the end of the sign-up period April 1. If they don't, he said, some farmers will be waiting in line at the last minute.

Final Services Held For Mother Of Local Woman

Funeral services were held Feb. 27 in Lindsey, Okla., for Mrs. Allie Lambert, 79, who died Feb. 25 in Durant, Okla.

Mrs. Lambert, who made her home in Durant, was the mother of Mrs. Loyd Blackwell of Olton. She would have been 80 April 25.

Survivors other than Mrs. Blackwell include six sons, two other daughters, 54 grandchildren, 52 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Crosbyton Scene Of Last Rites For Henry Fisher

Funeral services were held March 7 at 3 p.m. for Henry E. Fisher, 78, who died March 6 at his home following a heart attack.

Officiating minister was the Rev. Wayne Grizzle, retired Baptist minister, and burial was in Crosbyton Cemetery under direction of King Funeral Home.

He was born in San Saba County and moved to the Kalgary community in 1928. He farmed there until his retirement in 1963. when he moved to Crosbyton.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Edith Parsons of Spur and Mrs. Norma Wahl of Lubbock; two sons, M. G. Fisher of Olton and Darrel Fisher of Kalgary; one sister, Mrs. T. P. Mull of Plainview; one brother, Charlie Fisher of DeLeon, 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for the cards, flowers, words of sympathy and food which was brought at the death of my mother, Mrs. Allie Lambert. Your remembrance at this time of sadness will never be forgotten.

A word of thanks also to those who brought food and sent cards and flowers to my husband while he was in the hospital. May God bless each of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Blackwell.

Olton Students On Honor List At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK -- Dean Willa Vaughn Tinsley of Texas Tech's School of Home Economics annouced today that Rose Marie Horn, senior from Olton, and Tanya Lynn Bryant, junior from Olton, both made the Dean's Honor List for the fall semester.

Attainment of a place on this roll is indicative of high scholastic achievement, since an undergraduate student, to become eligible, must earn a semester grade-point average of 3.00 or above.

Miss Horn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin horn, and Miss Bryant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ross Bryant.

AMA TELLS RELATIVES...

Don't Baby Handicapped

Does someone in your household have a physical handicap?

Today's Health Guide, the American Medical Association's manual of health information and guidance for the American family, points out that it is understandable and quite normal that you should wish to "do for" the disabled member of your family, but it may be more helpful to allow him to do for himself.

To make sure that you are really being helpful, it is wise to check with the patient's physician and have him outline the patient's real capabilities and limitations. It is sometimes possible that the patient is not interested in minimizing his physical problems. Real psychological problems are best handled with the advice of a physician, but there are several factors that illustrate the type of problems that may be encountered in living in a household with a handicapped person --

*The dependent nature of some people, which their disability tends to accentuate.

*The lack of intellectual ability or educational background.

*Plain laziness.

*The need to let others do the work after having spent a lifetime of "doing for others." (The parents who feel that the children should take care of them.).

*The aesthetic type who may object to equipment or to certain techniques (such as use of mouthstick, wearing of splints, etc.) because they are not cosmetic or graceful in use.

*The expectation of complete recovery, so that devices are not seen as a necessity.

Once you know what can be realistically expected of the handicapped individual, and you know that he is desirous of receiving help, then your help can prove invaluable. Even here, though, a few points or procedure may prove useful to you--

*Offer help, but don't try to force it upon someone.

*Find out what activity is most important to the individual and start with that--be it eating, putting on make-up, reading, or playing cards.

*Seek the patient's ideas. Otherwise you may be only gratifying your own desires.

*If possible, seek the guidance or consultation of a physician.

*Keep an open and receptive mind to the ideas of others.

*Keep devices simple.

Farmers Can Use Computer To Find Best Use Of Land

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service has initiated a new electronic computer service which tells the land-use combinations and tow-patterns likely to produce the highest net return under the current cotton program, reports Buddy C. Logsdon, Lamb County agent.

The decision-making tool will be explained in an educational meeting to be held March 14, in the Security State Bank meeting room in Littlefield at 9 ing room in Littlefield at 9:30 a.m.

At the session, which is open to all interested people, an Extension farm management specialist will be on hand to discuss the new system.

Logsdon said farmers using the service fill out forms to submit information on such things as land, cotton allotment, other allotments, yields and production costs.

A set of forms, available at the county agent's office is prepared for each plot of land designated as an "ASCS farm;"

The computer service costs $30 for each ASCS farm, Logsdon said, but trial runs made at Texas A&M's Date Processing Center indicate the fee can be returned many times in better returns.

Growers using the tool should receive the computer analysis about one week after their information is received at Texas A&M.

Logsdon said that for the analysis to meaningful, information on such items as production expenses needs to be highly accurate.

KITCHEN KORNER

BY LELA GALLION

The 17th of March being St. Patrick's Day, we think of green and Irish stew more than any other foods.

We like Irish stew is it is cooked slowly. On days when I'm cleaning house or ironing I cook stew as I'm close to watch that it doesn't cook dry. I cook 2 lbs. boneless stew meat for 5 to 6 hours over low heat. Try it and see if your broth doesn't have more flavor.

IRISH STEW
2 lb. stew meat
Water to cover
Salt and pepper

Cook slowly for several hours adding water as needed.

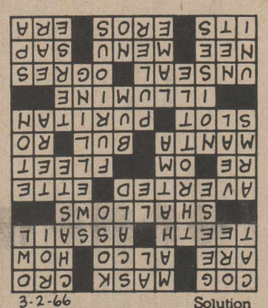

ADD:
5 carrots cut in inch chunks
5 potatoes (medium) cut in inch chunks
1 large onion diced

Add any other vegetable you like well such as parsnips or cabbage if desired.

Cook until vegetables are well done. Serve very hot.

GREEN SALAD
1 large pkg. lime jello
1 -303 can spiced grapes(drain)
1 -303 can crushed pineapple
2 c. boiling water
1 c. cold water

Dissolve Jello in 2 cups boiling water, add 1 cup cold water, crushed pineapple undrained, then the spiced grapes. Let set. Serve on lettuce leaf, dribble salad dressing which you have mixed with a little milk over the top. Very tasty and pretty.

Soil Service Urges Study Of Water Use

BY BAILEY MAYO
Soil Conservationist

Many of our leading agricultural leaders of today who are in research and carrying out studies of water use tell us, "This area's principal irrigation water supply will be essentially eliminated in the foreseeable future if current use trends continue."

This is a problem faced by Soil Conservation Districts throughout the entire High Plains Area.

One of the primary aims of the Lamb County Soil Conservation District is to assist land owners and operators to develop and use a sound conservation plan which includes a plan for efficient use of rainfall and for irrigation water. Conservation must start where rainfall is first received and irrigation is first applied.

Mr. E. L. Alexander says, "The potential for reducing water waste and prolonging the present water supply in the immediate future lies with the owners and operators. For, unless they are willing to truly practice conservation, the present water resource will continue to be mined and any additional supplies developed will be wasted." (Mr. Alexander is Assistant State Conservation Engineer, Soil Conservation Service, Temple, Texas).

The first step to be taken in the conservation of water is to use water where it falls, thus lessening demands on irrigation water. The three primary methods of irrigation in this area are the level furrow, or bench, the graded furrow system and the sprinkler irrigation.

In excess of 90 percent of the systems in this area are "graded systems". These systems are not the best because even under good management we loose rainfall, and irrigation tailwater is often a problem. With a graded system on sloping land you will impound very little water. When the rains come, too much of the time it runs off.

Results published at the High Plains Research Foundation have shown that benching not only paid for itself, but maintained the productivity of the soil by reducing erosion, rekuced production costs as better use was made of irrigation water and less water was pumped due to no loss of rainfall.

Sprinkler irrigation is beginning to become more and more evident here in the county. Perhaps the best selling points of the sprinkler are as follows:

1. Efficiency of water used. A uniform application can be applied on sloping and rolling land as well as on flat tight soils.

2. Amount of water applied. If you need only one or two inches of moisture to get a crop up and growing, this amount can be applied quickly and efficiently and the field can be watered quickly.

Conservation of Soil and Water is just direct responsibility. I encourage each of you to take full advantage of the technical and financial help which is available through the various programs the the technical assistance provided by the Lamb County Soil Conservation District.

Each operator should be able to determine the right amount of water to apply at each irrigation on the basis of moisture holding capacity of the soil and the need of the crop.

With a good system and good management, efficiency can be increased and considerable amounts of irrigation water will be saved.

HOW TO CONSERVE WATER--Workers install underground irrigation pipe on the D. J. Hoose farm, four miles north of Springlake. Undergroup pipe installation is one of the methods recommended by the Soil Conservation Service to conserve water and cut production costs.

Boy Scout District Sets Exposition In Plainview

The Haynes District Boy Scouts announced today the 1966 Scout Exposition will be held Saturday, March 19, from 2-9 p.m. at the Plainview-Hale County Agriculture Building south of Plainview.

Scouting celebrates 56 years of "service to our country" this year.

The theme of this year's Scout Exposition will be "Camp and Crafts" to emphasize the major activities in scouting. This is the first time the exposition has been held in Haynes District All previous shows have been held in Lubbock.

There have been 27 booths reserved at this time and plans are under way to take care of at least 100 booths. There will be booths by cub packs, boy scout troops and explorer posts.

Topics will cover collections, handicrafts, rope making, wood carving, Indian crafts, den doodles, model crafts, safety, fire building and cooking, first aid, camping, electricity, citizenship in the home, community and nation, hiking, tower building, radio, aviation, communications, marksmanship, conservation, skin diving, etc.

Marshall Pharr is Exposition Chairman. James Davenport and Lloyd Woods are Haynes District ticket chairmen and tickets are available at their offices.

Tickets are 50 cents per person, and all scouts will be asking the public to buy tickets for the exposition as the scouts can win a free trip to Six Flags or to Philmont Scout Ranch, plus many other prizes.

Each booth will be judged on a point system by the Plainview Jaycees and winners will receive awards.
