Former Resident Died Recently

Friends and acquaintances will be grieved and shocked to learn of the death of Mrs. L. C. Quinsey, a former resident of Lynn county. She died March 19 in the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Watson, at Monument, New Mexico.

The following children were at her bedside to the end: Earl Quinsey, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, Edward Quinsey, and Mrs. Watson.

Mrs. Quinsey had been bed-fast about four months; and although she suffered much, her faith in God never wavered. A short while before death overtook her, she sang "Nearer My God to Thee" in low, sweet tones. She had been a member of the Church of Christ since 1911.

Mrs. Quinsey was born March 12, 1872, and was married March 5, 1891. She was the mother of eleven children, six of whom are living. There lacked one day being two years between the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Quinsey, he having died March 20, 1936.

Mrs. Quinsey was laid to rest beside her husband in the Waurika Cemetery March 20, at 4:30 p. m. All the children were present beside a host of devoted friends. Although her body lies sleeping, we know her beautiful soul lives on. Contributed.

Cornerstone Laid For New Church

A great crowd attended the all-day services at the Baptist Church last Sunday in spite of the inclement weather, although the rain and low temperatures kept most of the expected visitors at home.

The occasion was the home-coming of former members of the church and the laying of the cornerstone of the building which is now to be completed.

The program as published last week was carried out in the main.

The first speaker of note was Senator G. H. Nelson, former member of the church and former superintendent of the Sunday School.

The board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas was represented by its treasurer, Geo. J. Mason of Dallas, a layman.

The third speaker of the day was a former pastor, Rev. B. N. Shepherd of Abilene. He was pastor during the period of time in which the present basement of the church was constructed.

All of these addresses are said to have been very fine.

The program was interspersed with special music, two former members of the church, Mrs. Ford of Amarillo, the former Miss Made-

Rotarians Visit Seagraves Club

Ten Rotarians from the Tahoka club attended the charter night meeting of the newly-organized Seagraves Rotary Club in that little city Tuesday night. The club there has twenty charter members, and its organization was sponsored by the Midland club. Every town of much over a thousand population on the South Plains now has a Rotary club.

Leonard Craft was one of the principal speakers on the Seagraves program, attended by 150 people, talking on the subject "What Rotary Has Done for Tahoka?"

Other speakers were District Governor Ed McLaughlin of Ralls, Ollie Pratt of Midland, and President Jim Kirkpatrick of Lubbock club.

Those attending from Tahoka were: Leonard Craft, Rollin McCord, J. O. Tinsley, Emil Prohl, Tom Garrard, Wynne Collier, Deen Nowlin, Chas. Walden, Harley Henderson, and Charles Townes.

Maasen Produce In New Home

Maasen's Produce moved this week into the new building on Main street recently constructed by D. W. Gaignat and the McCormick heirs for Mr. Maasen's use.

Though some of the finishing touches have not yet been put on, this is a most attractive building inside and outside.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Pitts are preparing to move the Cash Store into the building vacated by Mr. Maasen as soon as the interior can be re-arranged and re-decorated but they are unable to state as yet just when the building will be ready for occupancy, though it is not anticipated that it will be long.

ERROR IN ADVERTISEMENT

We wish to call attention to an error in the advertisement of the Tahoka Appliance Company appearing in this issue of the News.

The top line, "$1.60," printed in bold type, does not belong in the adv. at all. It was inadvertently placed there in the News office. The reader should disregard this line. We regret the error and offer our apologies to the Tahoka Appliance Company.

Here's Where Four Local People Died

Pictured above is the aftermath of the automobile collision near Tahoka Sunday in which four young people, three of them school students, were killed and six other persons were injured. Four of the injured are in a Lubbock sanitarium. Mrs. L. J. Barrett, residing near Wells, and driver of one of the cars is critically injured but reported "slightly improved" Wednesday. Entangled in or scattered about the debris were the nine young people. (Picture courtesy Lubbock Journal)

Baptist Revival Is In Progress

Following the special home-coming and cornerstone-laying services Sunday, a revival was begun at the Baptist Church here Monday night, with Dr. J. R. Hickerson of Commerce doing the preaching and Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber of Gallup, New Mexico, directing the song services.

Mr. and Mrs. Huber were here in a revival two years ago, but this is Dr. Hickerson's first work in Tahoka. He is bringing some very fine messages and the meeting has been growing in interest from the very first service. There have been professions of faith and additions to the church at every night service, there being six on Wednesday night. Services are held each morning at 10 and each evening at 8. Everybody is cordially invited.

Service Station Changes Made

H. B. McCord has sub-leased his Phillips 66 Service Station to Harold Snowden, who will operate the same hereafter under the name of the City Service Station, phone No. 71. He has already taken charge.

W. D. Smith Jr. has leased and is operating the station across the street south of the old Phillips 66 and it will probably continue to carry this name. Its telephone number is 66.

Mr. McCord, who is agent for the Phillips 66 products, has moved his wholesale office into the building. He has retired from the retail business and will devote his entire time to the wholesale business.

The interior of the building is being rearranged and repainted, greatly enhancing its attractiveness.

Meeting At Grassland Church of Christ

E. S. Brown of the Magnolia community requests that we announce that Elder Guy N. Woods of Wellington will conduct a meeting in the Church of Christ at Grassland beginning Friday night, April 1, and ending April 8.

Elder Woods is well known in this county, having conducted a meeting at Grassland on a previous occasion.

The general public is invited to attend the services.

Geo. Hicks Injured In Run-Away

George Hicks received painful facial and scalp wounds Tuesday when a team which he was driving became frightened and ran away with a stalk cutter.

He was given medical and surgical treatment by a local physician, and it is believed that the wounds will soon heal.

He resides on the H. W. Pennington farm southeast of Tahoka.

Music Program At Rotary Club

The Rotary Club was treated to a musical program Thursday. La Voyle Richardson gave two accordion numbers accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Rafe Richardson, on the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Huber, who are here directing the music in the revival at the Baptist Church, gave a vocal duet, with Mrs. Richardson at the piano, followed by a solo by Mrs. Huber with piano accompaniment.

Dr. J. R. Hickerson, the visiting preacher responded to a call for an address and he made a most enjoyable and inspiring talk.

Walter Anglin had charge of the program.

Douglas Finley was present as a new member and Sam Price and W. D. Smith Jr. were received into the club. Mr. Bryant of the state highway department, and W. O. Lockhart, school book salesman, were visitors.

Mrs. H. C. Aten, 87, Buried Saturday

Mrs. H. C. Aten, 87, resident of the Grassland community, died last Friday and was buried at Grassland Saturday. She had been a resident of that community since 1915.

She was well known and highly respected by those who knew her, and the relatives have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

Mr. Aten died several years ago. Details of Mrs. Aten's last illness and of the funeral services were not furnished us.

Terry-Yoakum Project Put On Federal Aid

District Engineer George Garrett, of Lubbock, informed Judge R. A. Simms this week that Highway 84 from the Lynn county line to Bronco, Texas, on the Texas-New Mexico line, had been designated for Federal aid. This comes as good news for the reason that Yoakum county does not have enough relief labor to do the job.

And with this recognition of the importance of the connection of this road with the highway system of New Mexico, and on to the Pacific coast, it is believed that work will soon start that will make this a very important east-west artery of travel. It is also hoped that paving from Tahoka to Post will be finished this year.—Terry County Herald.

W. D. Nevels has been rather seriously sick this week, having become ill at the services at the Baptist Church Sunday. His daughter, Mrs. Willie Lois Hoffman, and husband of Slaton have been at his bedside two or three days, and the other daughter, Mrs. Ruth Sparks of Midland, came Thursday. It is hoped that he will speedily show improvement.

Funeral Services For Crash Victims

Great throngs of relatives and friends attended each of the three funerals held at the Baptist Church here on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons respectively for three of the death victims of the terrible tragedy that was accidentally and so unexpectedly enacted when two automobiles collided on highway No. 9 between five and six miles south of Tahoka Sunday afternoon.

The public schools here were dismissed for the three days because of the disturbed condition of the school pupils, three of the four victims being students of the Tahoka schools, and also in order that the pupils might attend the funeral services.

The first funeral was that of Jay Reed, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reed, which was conducted from the Baptist Church Monday afternoon, Rev. George A. Dale, the pastor, officiating.

Young Reed and his parents resided on the Carver farm three miles south of Tahoka and had been residents of this section several years. He was a popular young man, and a great throng crowded into and overflowed the church in their zeal to pay their last tribute of respect to the dead.

Burial was in the Tahoka Cemetery under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

FFA Boys Enter District Contests

Tahoka High School chapter of the Future Farmers of America will enter three fat Hereford calves in the annual Quality Meat Show at the South Plains Fair grounds in Lubbock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The calves belong to Bryan Wright, Robert Sanders and J. H. Dyer.

The entire class of agriculture students, under Leslie Browning, teacher, will attend the show Wednesday, and participate in a parade and meeting of all FFA boys of this territory.

Friday of next week, the local livestock and dairy cattle judging teams will compete in the annual Texas Tech judging contests.

Methodist Revival At New Lynn

A successful revival meeting is being held at the Methodist Church at New Lynn, according to citizens of that community. A number of professions of faith and additions to the church have already been reported.

The preaching is being done by Rev. Click of Clyde, Rev. J. N. Hester of Southland is the pastor.

Wilson Planning Softball Park

Plans for building a softball park and organization of a six-teams softball league are under way at Wilson according to "Doc" Cook of that place.

Funds are being raised by Cook and others with which to build a board fence around the grounds and to erect bleachers. The park would be used for softball, baseball, and football, the Wilson schools expecting to start the latter sport this fall.

If the project goes over, which now seems certain, lights will be installed for night games.

Among former members of the local Baptist Church who were here attending the cornerstone services Sunday were Mrs. G. E. Lockhart, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Doak, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Allen and their daughter Miss Mary, all of Lubbock, and Prof. and Mrs. B. M. Hays of Woodrow.

Tragedy Worst Of Kind In History Of Tahoka

Cars Crashed Head-On South Of Tahoka Last Sunday Afternoon.

Four young people were killed and six others injured in an automobile collision on highway No. 9 about five miles south of Tahoka about four o'clock Sunday afternoon, the most stunning tragedy that has ever visited our little city, and the people of Tahoka have been busy this week burying their dead.

Those killed instantly by the crash or dying soon thereafter were: Ethelda Shaffer, 14, daughter of Grover C. Shaffer residing one mile north of Tahoka, an eighth grade pupil in the public school here. Her face was badly lacerated, her skull fractured, and her neck possibly broken. Died on way to Tahoka.

Delma Carver, 14, daughter of W. C. Carver residing three miles south of Tahoka, a seventh grade pupil in the public school. Her neck was broken and face badly mutilated. Died soon after reaching sanitarium in Lubbock.

Jay Reed, 21, son of J. F. Reed residing on the W. C. Carver farm. His skull was crushed and his neck broken, right arm and right leg broken. Killed instantly.

Johnny Lane, 16 or 17, son of J. L. Lane, a ninth grade pupil in the public school. His body was terribly mutilated, and skull fractured, jaw and neck broken. Died on way to hospital.

The injured are: Dorothy Holland, 13, seventh grade pupil and daughter of County Commissioner Sam Holland of Tahoka; left leg crushed below the knee, mouth injured, teeth knocked out, chest injured; being treated in a Lubbock sanitarium, and her condition reported to be improving.

Norman Carver, 21, brother of Delma and driver of the car in which the nine young people were riding; head injuries, cuts and bruises; also in sanitarium, improving.

Clarence Overman, 15, nephew of Sam Holland, residing near T-Bar school nine miles southwest of Tahoka; right leg broken below the knee, head injury, lacerations and bruises; in Lubbock sanitarium.

Randall Fultz, 17, Tahoka, tenth grade pupil, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fultz, newcomers here; minor injuries.

Turner Rogers, 15, son of W. R. Rogers of the Carles Courts, Tahoka; minor injuries.

Mrs. L. J. Barrett, 37, driver of the other car involved in the collision, residing two miles south of Wells, eighteen or twenty miles southwest of Tahoka; very seriously (Continued on Back Page)

Rain, Sandstorms Here Past Week

Lynn county and the South Plains failed to get their share of the rainfall over the last week end, if man may be permitted to judge what our share is.

At any rate, while practically all other parts of the state were being drenched, Tahoka received only a bare quarter of an inch, according to the rain gage kept by the News.

The rain here was accompanied by a few days of cool weather also, which did not seem to reach far down into the lower altitudes. The mercury here dipped down to 32, 31 and 30 on Saturday, Sunday, and Monday mornings but no ice was in evidence and no damage seems to have been done. High winds have prevailed the last few days, reaching the proportions of an old-time sandstorm Wednesday.

Farmers and business men of this section are not the least bit discouraged, however, for the soil already contains a large moisture content by reason of the rain and snows which fell in February, and besides, planting time in this section has not quite arrived yet.

MORGAN OUSTED BY F. D. R.

TVA Scandal Handed Over to Congress . . . Britain Will Fight for Her Allies, Says Chamberlain

Here in confidential conversation are Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana (left), chairman of the senate committee investigating lobbying, and Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington. The committee's inquiry at present is directed particularly to a campaign against the government reorganization bill and its activities aroused Publisher Frank Gannett to demand its abolition.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Morgan "Removed"

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT "removed" Dr. Arthur E. Morgan as member and chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, reported this action to congress in a special message, and left Washington for a visit to Warm Springs, Ga. Thus the entire TVA row was thrown into the lap of congress, and senators and representatives continued to scrap over whether should be made by a senatorial committee or by a joint committee of both houses.

Mr. Roosevelt ousted Morgan after receiving from Acting Attorney General Jackson an opinion that he possessed the required authority. This is questioned by Senator Borah and other authorities, and it is presumed the matter will be taken up to the Supreme court. Morgan, who was in Chicago, consulted legal friends but did not announce his plans. Senator Bridges and some others hotly denounced the President's action as dictatorial and unjustified.

The President told congress he had named Harcourt Morgan to succeed A. E. Morgan as chairman of TVA, but he did not appoint his successor as a member of the board. Reasons for the removal of Morgan as given by the President were that he had made grave and libelous charges against his colleagues and refused to substantiate them at the White House hearings, and that he had obstructed the work of the authority.

Efforts of administration leaders in congress were exerted to see that no avowed enemies of TVA should be named on the investigating committee. Majority Leader Barkley declaring this a prime consideration. He favored inquiry by a joint committee of five members from each house. Senator Norris wanted it done only by senators, and Mr. Borah thought that would be satisfactory.

House Shows Its Temper

EVIDENTLY the house of representatives doesn't want any more TVA projects started while the affairs of the authority are in such a muddle. By a vote of 186 to 157 it refused to concur with the senate in appropriating funds to start construction of the $112,000,000 dam at Gilbertsville, Ky. In opposition were 111 Democrats and 75 Republicans. The vote sent the matter back to conference.

Months ago the house appropriations committee rejected the proposition to appropriate $2,613,000 to begin the Gilbertsville dam, and the house left the item out of the bill. The senate was induced by Norris and others to put it back, but still the house refused.

Profits Tax Out

PAT HARRISON meant what he said about altering the revenue bill that was passed by the house. His senate finance committee is making the changes. By a vote of 17 to 4 it eliminated from the measure the undistributed profits tax principle, substituting therefor a flat corporation income tax of 18 per cent.

As a further means of stimulating business and investment the committee adopted a provision drastically modifying the capital gains and losses tax. The committee removed capital gains on assets held for more than 18 months from the income tax category and substituted instead a flat rate of 15 per cent, which was what business and industry wanted.

In an effort to clear the way for speedy enactment of the tax relief legislation, the committee rejected a system of wartime taxes and a system of processing taxes on wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice, which the administration desires to finance proposed additional bounties to farmers amounting to $200,000,000 a year.

House Passes Navy Bill

WITH only 100 votes in opposition, the house passed the administration's billion dollar navy bill. The measure authorizes construction of the largest battle fleet in American history by adding 46 combat ships, 22 auxiliaries and 950 airplanes.

The War department announced that army and navy officers were about to study plans for an enlistment program that would put more than two million men under arms within four months of a declaration of war. For this the army would require 1,250,000 recruits and the navy 500,000.

The first 300,000, under existing plans, would be sought as volunteers in the first month, before selective draft machinery like that of 1917-18 was put into operation. Already prepared for quick submission to congress is a draft of a selective service law.

Britain Ready to Fight

GREAT BRITAIN will not flatly pledge itself to fight to save Czechoslovakia from German aggression. But she will use her armaments to fulfill her treaty obligations to France and Belgium, and is ready to go to war in their defense if they are unjustly attacked.

That was the warning to Hitler uttered by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the house of commons, in the most important statement of British foreign policy since the World war.

Declaring his belief that peace will be maintained, Chamberlain said: "I cannot imagine any events in Europe which would change the fundamental basis of British foreign policy, which is the maintenance and preservation of peace. However, that does not mean that nothing would make us fight."

Though he said central Europe was not an area where vital British interests are at stake, he gave plain warning that if German aggression should result in war there, Britain might be forced into it.

He urged peaceful settlement of Czechoslovakia's German-minority problem and offered Britain's help in this.

He flatly turned down Soviet Russia's call for consultation against aggressor nations.

The prime minister said that in the case of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia a task beyond its powers was imposed on the League of Nations, and he admitted that his original belief in the league as an effective instrument for preserving peace was profoundly shaken. But he still believed the league might be revived and strengthened.

Members cheered this declaration, interpreting it as an invitation to the great powers outside the league—the United States, Germany, Japan, Brazil and Italy—to associate themselves with it.

WHAT TO EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss
Describes the Precious
MINERAL SALTS

That You Must Have in Order to Build Strong Bones, Sound Teeth, Healthy Nerves, Rich Red Blood

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

4 East 39th Street, New York.

THE human body is often compared to a machine, but it is far more wonderful, far more complex, than the most intricate machine ever designed to run without stopping, day in and day out, for upwards of 70 years, is also a fully equipped chemical laboratory. For if a chemist should grind a man to mentary source of calcium. And some fruits, such as oranges, figs, strawberries and bananas likewise supply significant amounts.

Indispensable Phosphorus

Like calcium, phosphorus is required by the body in relatively large amounts, and like calcium, it is especially important in the diet of children, because it is deposited in the bones, along with calcium, as calcium phosphate. Phosphorus is indispensable for all the active tissues in the body and plays an important part in regulating the neutrality of the blood. It can be obtained from whole grain cereals, eggs, dried beans, cheese, lean meats, and root and leafy vegetables.

Iron—King Pin of Them All

But measured in terms of food essentials, iron is king pin of them all. It is the supreme element in nutrition because it is necessary for the formation of the hemoglobin or red pigment in the blood. And it is the hemoglobin which carries purifying oxygen to every cell in the body. Recently, it has been discovered that copper is required for the proper utilization of iron.

"Red blooded" is a term understood by everyone to denote health and strength, and it is iron that makes us red blooded. When your children grow pale and listless, lose their pep and lack appetite, it is likely that they are starving for iron. If you become short of breath and "pant" when going up hill, or upstairs, even though there is nothing wrong with your heart or lungs, the chances are that there is insufficient red pigment in the blood—not enough to take up an adequate supply of oxygen and carry it to the millions of cells throughout the body.

There is no excuse for cheating yourself or your children of a full measure of iron, for this mineral can easily be obtained from liver, egg yolk, whole grain cereals, molasses, dried fruits, dried peas and beans, nuts, lean meats and green vegetables.

Iodine—Molder of Men

Almost everyone has heard that iodine is the mineral which helps to prevent that disfiguring enlargement of the neck, known as simple goiter. But few people realize that it is the principal constituent of thyroxin, secretion of the thyroid gland, and that the thyroid functions normally only when sufficient iodine is available.

A wide variety of physiological disorders have been laid to iodine hunger. Obesity is frequently the result of thyroid disturbance. Specialists contend that stubborn skin diseases are associated with disorders of this gland. Many people are accused of laziness who are really suffering from thyroid deficiency. And competent authorities claim that the thyroid likewise influences mental make-up and emotional tendencies.

Iodine is found chiefly in sea-food and in fruits and vegetables grown near the sea. In inland regions, where soil and water are poor in iodine, health authorities frequently add it to the drinking water. And the use of iodized salt is also recommended. By these simple measures, thousands of growing children can be saved from the disastrous results of iodine deficiency.

In general, it can be said that if the minerals calcium, phosphorus, iron and iodine are supplied in adequate amounts, the other minerals will be automatically furnished. But every homemaker should make

Calcium Builds Will Power

There is a close relationship between calcium and sound, healthy nerves. And this precious substance likewise helps us to concentrate mentally—it strengthens our will power—and assists us in acquiring that "do or die" attitude toward life, which is essential in an age when we must all struggle to go under.

Yet despite its importance, it is estimated by that outstanding authority, Henry C. Sherman, Professor of Nutrition at Teachers College, Columbia University, that one-half of the American people—even those with plenty of money—are literally starving for calcium, because they do not know the food sources of this vitally important mineral.

Where to Obtain Calcium

The foremost sources of calcium are milk and cheese, which is milk in concentrated form. It is chiefly to provide adequate calcium that homemakers must follow the rule of a quart of milk daily for every child, and a pint for each adult.

Vegetables, such as spinach, lettuce, celery, asparagus, string beans, cabbage, carrots and cauliflower are also a good supply

Breakfast Foods

Mass production of popular brands of breakfast foods to meet the demand created by advertising has greatly reduced the price of many of the advertised brands. The sale of these foods adds materially to the demand and consumption of farm products in the United States.

An Invaluable Aid To the Housewife

IN THIS issue you will find the fourth of the series of articles written by C. Houston Goudiss, famous food expert whose books, radio talks and lectures have made him known all over the country.

In this article Mr. Goudiss discusses the vitally important subject, "Mineral Salts." He shows the necessity of these materials in the diet, and their relation to the building of a strong heart, healthy nerves, rich red blood, strong bones and sound teeth. He also gives the food sources of these salts.

Read each one of these articles as they appear weekly in this newspaper. They will prove invaluable to the housewife in assisting her to keep the entire family mentally and physically fit.

it her solemn responsibility to provide these four in abundance. For only in that way can you insure optimal growth in children, develop vigorous health in adults, and maintain the highest possible tone of every organ in the body.

A Splendid "Service" for Floors

Floors receive rougher treatment than any other part of the home—and it is floors that show up to poorest advantage when neglected—best advantage, when properly cared for! Up to now, attractive floors have required some little time and attention, but this is no longer necessary. For into the field of domestic preparations has come "self-polishing wax"—liquid-smooth, simple to apply, lovely to see. This remarkable preparation goes on easily, quickly, and dries in 20 minutes! Its results are 4-fold: The floors are protected—they are preserved—they stay freshly-clean longer—and they are beautified! A quality self-polishing wax protects and preserves, by forming a film over the surface—hard enough to withstand friction and grinding wear—and tear. It induces floors to stay clean longer, because dirt and grease cannot become imbedded in the wood. It beautifies, because it is shimmering, transparent, and brings out the natural beauty of the wood. And what more could the home-maker ask for? There are, however, various qualities of self-polishing wax available. Only the best should be used, for both the appearance and condition of the floors. But the finest self-polishing wax is a joy to use—its lasting results a joy to see!

Minerals Necessary to Life

It is vitally important that the homemaker should understand the function of these various salts and where they can be found. For if certain minerals are lacking in the body, the heart will stop beating. Without others, the bones cannot form properly. Still others are responsible for the rich red blood that makes the difference between a healthy person and a sickly one. Laboratory experiments have proved that if you leave out the smallest trace of the mineral known as manganese, you destroy the love of a mother for her child. And nutritionists—but unfortunately not mothers—are well aware that less than a thousandth of an ounce of iodine makes all the difference between a normal man and an imbecile.

Calcium—Captain of Minerals

Calcium deserves its ranking position as the captain of the minerals, because it builds the bones, or body framework. And the bony skeleton is to the human being what steel is to a building. Calcium is also the chief constituent of the teeth and upon healthy teeth rests the health of the digestive system and, in turn, the entire body. For food that is improperly masticated is imperfectly digested and fails to nourish properly.

Calcium Builds Will Power

There is a close relationship between calcium and sound, healthy nerves. And this precious substance likewise helps us to concentrate mentally—it strengthens our will power—and assists us in acquiring that "do or die" attitude toward life, which is essential in an age when we must all struggle to go under.

Yet despite its importance, it is estimated by that outstanding authority, Henry C. Sherman, Professor of Nutrition at Teachers College, Columbia University, that one-half of the American people—even those with plenty of money—are literally starving for calcium, because they do not know the food sources of this vitally important mineral.

Where to Obtain Calcium

The foremost sources of calcium are milk and cheese, which is milk in concentrated form. It is chiefly to provide adequate calcium that homemakers must follow the rule of a quart of milk daily for every child, and a pint for each adult.

Vegetables, such as spinach, lettuce, celery, asparagus, string beans, cabbage, carrots and cauliflower are also a good supply

Iodine—Molder of Men

Almost everyone has heard that iodine is the mineral which helps to prevent that disfiguring enlargement of the neck, known as simple goiter. But few people realize that it is the principal constituent of thyroxin, secretion of the thyroid gland, and that the thyroid functions normally only when sufficient iodine is available.

A wide variety of physiological disorders have been laid to iodine hunger. Obesity is frequently the result of thyroid disturbance. Specialists contend that stubborn skin diseases are associated with disorders of this gland. Many people are accused of laziness who are really suffering from thyroid deficiency. And competent authorities claim that the thyroid likewise influences mental make-up and emotional tendencies.

Iodine is found chiefly in sea-food and in fruits and vegetables grown near the sea. In inland regions, where soil and water are poor in iodine, health authorities frequently add it to the drinking water. And the use of iodized salt is also recommended. By these simple measures, thousands of growing children can be saved from the disastrous results of iodine deficiency.

In general, it can be said that if the minerals calcium, phosphorus, iron and iodine are supplied in adequate amounts, the other minerals will be automatically furnished. But every homemaker should make

The prime minister said that in the case of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia a task beyond its powers was imposed on the League of Nations, and he admitted that his original belief in the league as an effective instrument for preserving peace was profoundly shaken. But he still believed the league might be revived and strengthened.

Members cheered this declaration, interpreting it as an invitation to the great powers outside the league—the United States, Germany, Japan, Brazil and Italy—to associate themselves with it.

Breakfast Foods

Mass production of popular brands of breakfast foods to meet the demand created by advertising has greatly reduced the price of many of the advertised brands. The sale of these foods adds materially to the demand and consumption of farm products in the United States.

COPYRIGHT WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE—WNU SERVICE

SYNOPSIS

Ruth Chiswick of L C ranch, obsessed by fear of danger to her outspoken and bull-headed father, Lee, from a band of lawless rustlers headed by Sherm Howard, decides to save him by eloping with young Lou Howard, Sherm's son, and comes to the town of Tail Holt to meet him. While in Yell Sanger's store, a crook-nosed stranger enters, sizes up the situation, and when a drunken cowboy, Jim Pender, rides in and starts shouting, protects Ruth, while Lou Howard hides.

CHAPTER I—Continued

From under the counter where he lay the storekeeper did not announce his presence. He had ducked just in time to keep from being seen.

A crook-nosed man with rusty hair stood beside some sacks filled with potatoes.

"Who in Mexico are you, Sorrel-top?" demanded Pender. "Where's that bald-headed galoot Sanger?"

He did not wait for an answer. In his hands was a rifle drawn from its place beside the saddle. Raising it, he drummed holes in the tinware suspended from the wall. A forty-four had jumped to the hand of the man beside the potatoes, but though the weapon covered the drunken fool it was not fired.

The frightened horse went into the air, and as it came down jammed the rider's leg against the counter. The animal whirled, flung Pender from the saddle, and dashed wildly out of the store. Scrambling to his feet, the drink-crazed man snatched up the rifle and followed his mount. He took a shot at the gelding as it went racing up the street in a cloud of dust. Apparently he had forgotten what he had come to get, for he limped across to the cow-pen in front of the Golden Nugget, selected one, mounted, and rode away with a wild yell.

"Fireworks over," drawled the crook-nosed man, and his weapon vanished from sight. He gave the girl a hand to help her up from where he had flung her. "You were sure right, Mr. Sanger. You know yore town. It livened up like you promised."

Ruth Chiswick stood beside him, breathing a little faster than usual, her cheeks still pale. The man with whom she was eloping came round the corner of the counter. He was carrying a revolver.

"I would sure have got that bird if I hadn't seen he didn't mean business," Lou Howard boasted.

Ruth looked at him, scorn in her eyes. The scorn was less for him than for herself. For hours she had been discovering that the man she had chosen was vain, shallow, and a boaster. Now she knew too that he lacked courage, the one essential virtue on the frontier for men both good and bad.

"Watching him through a knot-hole maybe," the stranger suggested lazily, a hint of derision in his murmured comment.

Lou turned to Ruth. "Let's get out of here," he said sulkily. "Sanger is going to send Spicer down to Ma Presnell's."

The crook-nosed man remembered having seen a sign on the street mentioning that Al Spicer was a justice of the peace.

In a low voice Ruth said, "I'd like to speak with you alone, Lou."

"Sure," he replied. "On the way down to the hotel."

"No. At the back of the store." Her voice was almost a whisper.

He followed her reluctantly toward the small boxed-in office. The girl talked, fast and low. She seemed to be both urging and pleading.

An angry oath ripped into her words. "Have you gone crazy?" Howard demanded, raising his voice. "Think you can make a fool of me?"

She spoke again, trying to calm him. He would not listen. "You can't do this crazy thing. You've compromised yourself. Don't you see it, you little idiot? Folks will talk about you. They'll say—"

Ruth began to lose patience. "Never mind what they'll say. I've made up my mind. I'm going home."

"You got no right to treat me that way. I'm not going to stand for it."

"I'm sorry, but be sensible, Lou. Be glad I've found out in time." He flung a name at her. She looked at him for a moment steadily, then turned and walked up the store.

"My name is Ruth Chiswick," she told the man with the rusty hair. "I'm much obliged to you for looking after me."

"Nothing at all, Miss. I'm a stranger here—name, Jeff Gray."

Lou Howard joined them and broke in curtly, speaking to Ruth.

"Let's get out where we can be alone and talk this over."

The name she had called her still rang hotly in her heart.

"I've nothing more to say to you, sir," she said, and again there was the sting of a lash in the low voice.

Ruth turned to walk from the store, but instead of doing so stood rigid, her eyes fixed on two men riding down the street. To Howard she said, over her shoulder: "You'd better light out; my father is here."

The young man took one look at the dismounting men. "Maybe I had better, to keep from having trouble with him," he faltered.

He left by the side door. The girl did not even notice him go.

"I don't see how Father could have found out already," she said, frowning in thought. "But that doesn't matter. I'll go meet him."

Gray shook his head. That would not do. Decent girls could not go into such a place as the Golden Nugget for any reason. He heard himself, to his own surprise, offering to do her errand.

He walked across the road into the gambling-house.

A big, fat, heavy-shouldered man who was playing solitaire lifted his head as Sid and Mile High came into the Golden Nugget. He beckoned them to him.

"What's all the shootin' about?" he asked.

One of the men playing poker at the next table leaned back to catch the answer.

"Jim Pender on one of his toots," Sid replied. "Wants to clean up the town again, Sherm."

Sherman Howard frowned down at the table and shifted a queen.

"He'll go just so far, that bird."

The man at the poker table, a tall, broad-shouldered fellow with black, curly hair, said significantly, "He's here only for a short visit."

"I reckon you're shoutin', Curly," agreed Mile High. "I never liked any of that bully-puss warrior's game."

He mentioned, in a low voice, news that might or might not be important. "Stranger in our midst."

"Where?" asked Curly.

"Over at Sanger's. Drapped in on a big roan that has been rode far."

"What kind of a guy?" inquired Howard.

"Red-headed. Tough as they come. Wears his gun low."

Howard made a sign and a man strolled over from the faro table.

He was a slim, hard-eyed young fellow sporting a fancy silk bandanna tied loosely round his neck.

The name he went under was Morgan Norris. He was known to be a killer.

"Stranger over at Sanger's, Morg," the solitaire player said. "Might stroll over and size him up. Find out if you can where he comes from, what he is doing here, and how long he aims to stay."

Into the Golden Nugget walked two men. Their entrance created a stir, as a breath of wind does in a field of grain.

Out of the corner of his mouth Curly murmured, "Look who's here." Interest in the games momentarily diminished.

The bartender stopped polishing a glass. To Morgan Norris, in a whisper, Mile High gave warning: "Keep yore shirt on, Morg. Let Sherm make the play."

The men who had just walked into the gambling-house had the stamp of their calling written on every crease of their dusty clothes, on every wrinkle of their weather-beaten faces.

Both were big men who had taken on the solidity that comes with years.

Unless his salient, close-shut jaw, his steady, keen, blue eyes gave false witness, the older man, Lee Chiswick, was one of dominant will, one who would fight for his rights.

His companion and foreman, Dan Brand, was a barrel-chested fellow of great physical strength. On his tanned, open face there was the hint of a smile, not unfriendly, as if he offered it to mitigate the hostility of his chief.

A thin, satiric smile rested on the face of Sherman Howard. He leaned back in his chair, opaque eyes fastened on the older of the newcomers.

"Nice to have you drop in on us, Lee. You don't often get around Tail Holt way. We sure feel honored." He nodded at the younger man. "You, too, Brand. Both welcome as the flowers in May. Pete, take the orders. The house is drinking on me."

"I don't drink with you or any of your crowd," Howard said Lee Chiswick harshly. "I'm here strictly for business."

Through the swing doors a man dropped into the Golden Nugget. He was the stranger who had given his name as Jeff Gray.

"Tail Holt will welcome yore business, Lee. You have always been cash on the barrel-head," Howard told the cattleman blandly, ignoring the insult.

"I came to serve notice that anyone who steals my stock from now on will do so at his own risk," Chiswick answered bluntly. "I've given my men orders to shoot rustlers at sight."

A tense silence followed the words of the cattleman, one pregnant with peril. Gray's gaze swept the room. Unless rumor lied, three-fourths of these men present must be cattle rustlers.

Instinctively Gray knew that half a dozen men were waiting for their cue. Howard gave it to them. For the time at least his decision was for peace.

"That's fine," he said with suave mockery. "Sooner we get rid of scoundwags of that kind the better."

"You can pass the word that any I catch will be hanged to the nearest live oak," Chiswick said flatly.

Morgan Norris asked a question, his eyes narrowed, his voice low.

"Having anyone particular in mind, Mr. Chiswick?"

"Meaning anyone the shoe fits," Howard answered for the cattleman.

"And I don't reckon that is anybody present, Morg. If there is any way we can help Mr. Chiswick, we will all be glad to do so. Am I right, boys?"

"Sure, you're right, Sherm," agreed Curly Connor heartily. "If you can use me, Mr. Chiswick, I'm much at yore service."

"Don't want your help," Chiswick flung out bitterly. "I'll look out for my own stuff and find out whether an honest man has a chance against a pack of thieves. What I'm here to tell you is that from now on I'll be sheriff, judge, and hangman on the L C range."

Dan Brand, foreman of the L C outfit, poured oil on the roiled waters.

"Don't get us wrong, boys. We're not here to start trouble but to stop it. This steal is getting so big the L C has got to bust it up or go broke. We don't claim we know who is doing this rustling. If we did, our job would be easy."

"We don't know, but we can guess," Chiswick cut in hardily.

"Out loud?" Norris asked, his eyes slits of menace.

The swing doors of the gambling-hall burst wide open. A wild yell brought everybody in the room to attention. Excitedly a horse did a nervous dance on the floor. Its flushed rider waved a rifle about recklessly. Long black hair fell to the man's shoulders. The chaps were fringed, the fancy vest decorated.

"Way for Wild Jim Pender!" the drunken man shouted.

All eyes focused on him.

"Get out of here, you fool," Curly ordered.

"My night to howl!" Pender exulted. "Me, I'm a wild wolf from the Chiricahuas."

To emphasize the point, or else by accident, a bullet from his rifle plowed into the ceiling.

Half a dozen revolvers roared together. Pender pitched from the saddle like a sack of meal. He struck the floor in a crumpled heap, rolled over, and lay motionless.

Norris thrust his smoking weapon back into its scabbard and caught the bridle of the rearing horse. Someone else ran forward to assist him. The two men got the frightened animal out of the place.

Sherman Howard gave a curt order. "Get the coroner, Sid."

Nobody paid any attention to the body on the floor. It was as if the roar of the guns had banished the strained situation the entrance of Pender had interrupted. The games were resumed. Sounds of voices, the rattle of chips, the spinning of the roulette wheel filled the room.

Wild Bill Pender's adventure was finished business.

Jeff Gray took temporary leave of absence. He had to explain to a girl probably sick with fear that the shooting had nothing to do with her father.

CHAPTER II

The cowboy Sid stood in the doorway of the store.

"Job for you, Sanger," he said. "Fellow bumped off in the Golden Nugget."

Jeff Gray shouldered past him toward the white-faced girl leaning against the counter. "It's all right, Miss Chiswick," the red-headed man told her cheerfully. "Nobody hurt but Pender."

"Who was sure shot into rag dolls," Sid added.

Ruth relaxed limply as the blood poured back into her frozen heart.

"I thought . . . I was afraid . . ."

she murmured, the words drying in her throat.

"Help me carry this stretcher, Sid," requested Sanger. He was coroner and undertaker. In Tail Holt the first of these positions was honorary, but the other was no sinecure.

"Did you tell my father I am here?" Ruth asked.

"Haven't had a chance yet," Gray answered. The other two men were leaving with the stretcher. He continued, lowering his voice: "Mr. Chiswick came to town about some rustling."

"And doesn't know about . . ."

"I couldn't say."

"What is he doing in the Golden Nugget?"

"Serving notice that he is on the warpath against rustlers."

The eyes of the girl opened wide.

"To that gang in there?"

"Looked to me like some of them were sure about it," he conceded.

"Lucky for him Pender picked that time to cut loose his wolf. The boys got the finger-itch out of their systems. I reckon it's going to be all right now. Howard seems to be the big boss, and he is making peace talk."

"Father is so bull-headed," Gray asked for information, reluctantly. This was none of his business, but he had been dragged into it. "This young Howard—any kin to Sherm Howard?"

A flag of color fluttered in her cheeks, but the dark eyes held steadily to his. "Son," she said. Then, sharply, "Why do you ask?"

"If you aim to tell yore father about this little fling, maybe you had better get him out of town first," he suggested.

There was a slurring drawl in his speech that stirred anger in her. Clearly he disapproved of what she had done. She did not hesitate to affront the young men who flattered around her, but she objected to being made the victim of cool contempt.

Science Backs Microbe Into Corner, and Beats Him, Psychologist Asserts

A century ago your life expectancy at birth was about forty years. Now it has jumped to more than sixty and is still going up. Why?

Preventive medicine is largely the answer, according to a statement by G. H. Estabrooks, professor of psychology at Colgate university, writes a correspondent in the Los Angeles Times. In preventive medicine, science either prevents the microbe from making contact with you, or, if he then does, we study his own life cycle and spoil his game by ditching him at some vital part of his own career, Estabrooks asserts. For example, he may be one of the kind that have to spend a part of their lives in another animal and the rest in you.

An example of this is the malaria germ which cannot reach you except through a mosquito, or the germ of bubonic plague that rides on a flea that rides on a rat. Here the stratagem of preventive medicine is to exterminate the mosquito and the rat, rather than to shoot directly at the germ.

When these methods fail we still have our bodily natural immunity to fall back on, for the body already knows how to deal at once with a large part of the germs that hop aboard it, without any outside help. If not, our bodies then can often build up in time an artificial immunity by manufacturing an anti-toxin, or anti-poison, to neutralize the poison secreted by the invading germs. Finally, if our bodies are too weak to do this, doctors inject anti-toxins.

Arizona Crater a Wonder

Near Winslow, Ariz., the great meteor crater is an object of unflagging interest. This tremendous hole, a mile in diameter, was formed by the impact of the head of a small comet that plunged into the earth ages ago and now lies buried more than a thousand feet beneath the surface. The bottom of the crater is about 50 stories deep, and around the rim is an even hill as white as snow, that indicates the intense heat that scorched the earth all around as the flaming comet struck.

ON THE JOB AGAIN

After a vacation of more than two weeks spent in central and south Texas, the editor returned to Tahoka Monday night and got on the job again Tuesday morning. Mrs. Hill remained for a longer visit with her father near Rogers.

We find that the "force" were almost worked to death during our absence but they got out a much better paper while we were gone than while we were here. Say, folks, wasn't that "Spring Opening" edition last week a humdinger? And the paper the week before was no slouch. It might be to the interest of the paper and community at large if we would take a permanent leave.

We thoroughly enjoyed our trip, every inch of it, though we found little time to just sit down and rest and recuperate. Never before in the same length of time did we visit so many places and so many people. It is marvelous how much visiting a fellow can do these days in a week's time. For example, during our two weeks vacation, we visited or called on relatives at Snyder, Stephenville, Hamilton, Waco, Eddy, Moody, Oglesby, Rogers, Temple, Belton, Austin, Luling, and San Antonio, and called on friends at Albany and Seguin. At some of these places two or three families were visited.

Other places which we visited because of their historic interest, their scenic beauty, or our own curiosity were Marlin, Cameron, Rockdale, Salado, Georgetown, San Marcos, Gonzales, and New Braunfels.

Interesting stories could be written about each of the places visited and other places and scenes that we hurried by, but that would take too much time and space for a dozen issues of the News.

Central Texas and South Texas are now enshrouded in the most beautiful robes that Nature can supply. Recently as we visited in that section of the state, we were reminded a thousand times of our Texas state song, "Beautiful, Beautiful Texas." One will not find there the majesty of the mountains or the grandeur of the mighty canyon, but he will be charmed by the sheer beauty of the landscape, the sheen of the gorgeous wild flowers, the enchanting loveliness of the wooded hills, the crystal clearness of murmuring streams that sing their way toward the sea, the chorus of countless birds that flit about and sing their lilting songs among the trees. Any old scribbler would almost be tempted to try his hand at writing poetry down on the banks of the Salado, the San Marcos, the Guadalupe, the Comanche, the Leon, the Bosque, or any one of a score of other streams in that section of the state. West Texas has her beauty spots of an entirely different type and they usually show off a little later in the year, but just now Central Texas and South Texas are strutting their stuff. Divide Texas? Never!

A great Texan passed to his reward Monday when Edward M. House died. A few weeks ago we had occasion to call attention to the fact that the part House played in Texas politics in early life had been greatly exaggerated. But he was a devoted personal and political friend of the immortal James S. Hogg and the suave and sagacious Charlie Culberson, and had no little part in the campaigns which kept Hogg in the governor's chair for a second term and placed Culberson there as the great Texas Commoner's successor. Later, House gained undying fame as the confidential adviser of the matchless Woodrow Wilson during his two terms in the White House. He doubtless had more to do with the shaping of international affairs during the negotiations looking to the treaty of peace following the world war than any other private citizen of America. He was born in Houston 79 years ago. A native Texan, he has brought great honor to the Lone Star State. May he rest in peace.

While we have heard much criticism of the new farm bill everywhere we have gone, yet most of the farmers seem to be strongly in favor of it and we hope that it is given a fair trial. If it works out to their interest it will probably be retained as a permanent agricultural program, unless it should be declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, which now seems improbable.

The freedom of the press was again sustained in a decision handed down the other day by the Supreme Court. A city ordinance had been enacted by a Georgia town requiring persons distributing advertisements or circulars to first obtain a license. Chief Justice Hughes and a unanimous court rendered a decision that this was in violation of that clause of our Constitution which guarantees freedom of the press. How much better it is to live in a country where the freedom of the press and the freedom of speech are guaranteed by the courts of the land than in a country dominated by a Hitler or a Mussolini. We hope our friend Waggoner of the Claude News may be able to find something in this decision to commend. Long live the Court!

CARD OF THANKS

May God's richest blessing rest on each one who helped make our burden lighter during the illness and death of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. H. C. Aten. Your kind words and beautiful flowers meant so much to us during our sad hours—Mrs. D. M. Nixon and family, Mrs. N. R. McClendon and family, Cleve Aten and family, Henry Aten and family, Arch Aten and family, Lee Tutt, Floyd Tutt and family.

John Heck of Wilson was a visitor here Tuesday, and incidentally we found out that he had recently taken a patient to the Hospital in Abilene for treatment, the destitute mother of a poor family who had been terribly crippled by a drunken driver in a car wreck near Littlefield several weeks ago. Mr. Heck had known the family for many years and offered his services and his means free of charge. The patient is improving wonderfully since being taken to the hospital.

FREE TREATMENT OFFERED TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN

We have had our attention called to the fact that there are a number of places in Texas where crippled children will be treated free of charge to the parents or guardians. One such place in the Baptist Hospital in Abilene. All the expense to which a parent will be subject is the cost of transportation to and from the hospital.

We have been requested to make this statement for the benefit of any crippled children who may reside in this county.

Let Us Sharpen YOUR Lawnmower

ON THE IDEAL SHARPENER!

Why push a hard running lawnmower? Make mowing a pleasure by having it sharpened on the Ideal Lawnmower Sharpener—a scientific machine that automatically sharpens every blade absolutely even, with the correct bevel. This gives just the right clearance to obtain the cleanest cut with the least wear—something that can't be done with file or emery dust. When "Ideally" sharpened your lawnmower will cut cleaner, run easier, stay sharp longer and wear longer than when sharpened by any other method.

Safe and Sane BREAD DIET maintains disposition while reducing...

WHILE extreme diets often lead to fatigue, and irritability—the new Bread Diet maintains energy while reducing. Dispositions are not impaired.

Loss of weight can only be achieved by burning up body-fat faster than the body stores it. Many extreme diets accomplish this by cutting down on energy and protective foods, forcing the body to function most exclusively on its own fat—a dangerous procedure.

The new Bread Diet is well balanced, providing energy, muscle maintaining and protective foods. It keeps you well and strong while taking off excess poundage. It burns up completely the fat you lose while reducing without leaving any harmful residue.

Bread is a perfect combination of carbohydrate and protein—especially important when reducing.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR ACCIDENT VICTIMS

great throng gathered at the same church to pay tribute to the memory of Miss Ethelda Eloise Shaffer, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Shaffer, and a student in the eighth grade of the Tahoka High School. This was one of the largest crowds that ever gathered to attend a funeral service in Tahoka. All the seats in the church auditorium were filled long before the service began, and standing room was soon taken. The dining room was then filled with those who could not gain entrance into the main auditorium and scores were compelled to stand on the lawn in front of the church building. Many school children were in attendance upon this service, since Miss Ethelda was a popular student.

Miss Ethelda was a member of the Baptist Church and Sunday School, and the services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dale, assisted by Rev. Ben Hardy, pastor of the Methodist Church. Burial was under the direction of the Harris Funeral Home.

Miss Ethelda Eloise Shaffer was born in Brownfield May 4, 1923, but came with her parents to Tahoka in 1929 and had resided here since that time. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Shaffer and is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sherrod, pioneer residents of Tahoka. Besides her parents and grandparents, she left surviving her one brother, G. C. Shaffer of Andrews, and two sisters, Mrs. Lois McMahan of Tahoka and Mrs. J. M. (Ruth) Parker of Monahans, besides many other relatives. All members of the immediate families were here for the funeral.

Services were held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for Miss Delma Carver, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carver residing three miles south of Tahoka and a seventh grade pupil in the Tahoka public schools. A great throng again gathered for this service, which was likewise conducted in the Baptist church by Rev. Dale but the severe sandstorm that was blowing at the time doubtless kept many away. As on the previous day, many school children were present to honor the memory of their dead schoolmate. The Harris Funeral Home had charge of the burial arrangements as in the case of the other funerals, and the body was laid to rest in the Tahoka Cemetery.

Young Miss Carver was likewise a popular student in the public schools here. She was born in Eastland county but as an infant, she was brought by her parents to Lynn county and has spent practically her entire life here.

Funeral services for her were delayed somewhat to await the arrival of relatives residing in California. Coming from El Segundo in that state to attend the funeral were her sister and brother-in-law.

Snore Cycles Mark Life of the Average Person

It has been established that there are snore cycles in the life of the average person, writes Margaret McEachern in Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Infants snore commonly. Between the ages of ten and thirty years, snoring is rare. But after thirty it increases. This may be because at this age period, people become a little careless about their physical well being. And unless the physical condition which is causing the snoring is corrected, it will increase with the passing of each ten years.

Generally, snoring indicates disturbances in the breathing apparatus, especially an obstruction in the nose that prevents the individual from sleeping with his mouth closed. The obstruction may be a result of polyp, tumor growths, enlarged turbinates, bony deformities, sinus infection or a deviated septum which encroaches on the air space of one nostril.

Strange but true, certain foods may cause a person to snore. Many men and women are sensitive to certain proteins. If they eat tomatoes, for instance, the mucous membranes of the nose have a tendency to accumulate secretions. Chronic inflammation of the nasal linings also may cause an enlargement of the tissues sufficient to obstruct the nose.

In children, snoring commonly is an indication of enlarged adenoids. According to conservative estimates, one out of every eight persons snores more or less regularly. No doubt every person snores occasionally, but the one out of eight is the person to look out for.

Arabs First to Respect the Value of Gibraltar

Even in the days when military science was in its infancy the rock of Gibraltar, rising sheer 1,400 feet, appealed to the imagination of the ancients, who called it, together with its companion, Gebel Musa, on the African coast, the Pillars of Hercules. In all other respects they left the solitary giant alone to his meditations, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

The Arabs were the first to recognize the rock's strategic value. As Moors they crossed the strait in 711, christening it Gebel-el-Tarik, or the mountain of Tarik, their leader's name. They constructed a castle and eventually conquered the whole peninsula.

Nine hundred years later the last Moor was expelled from Spain and he left it where the original one had landed, in the bay of Gibraltar.

On the decline of the Spanish empire the rock passed into British hands.

Napoleon tried to take it when he was building his empire but failed. Thus was created the phrase, "as strong as the rock of Gibraltar."

Mr. and Mrs. Otho Tidwell and their baby, and Mr. Carver's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mann. Also here for the services were Mr. Carver's sisters, Mrs. G. E. Lockhart of Lubbock and Mrs. G. T. Smith of Floydada, and his brother, Mr. Ode Carver of Cisco, and the latter's neighbor, J. B. Eberhart. Other relatives of deceased besides the immediate family are the W. E. Hammonds family. Mrs. Hammonds being also a sister of Mr. Carver.

While services were being conducted for Miss Shaffer here Tuesday, similar services were being conducted in the Church of Christ in Haskell for Johnny Lane 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lane residing in Minnie's Tourist Apartments here whose remains were shipped back to Haskell, his former home, for burial.

His body was prepared for burial by the Harris Funeral Home here but was conveyed in a Haskell ambulance to that city. Levi Billman accompanied the remains and Superintendent W. G. Barrett and Principal Lee Dodson of the Tahoka High School, and Hiram Snowden, Travis McCord, and David Weathers, students, followed later to attend the funeral services.

Upon their return they reported that a great crowd attended the services there, the church being crowded to capacity.

Johnny and other members of the Lane family had been residents of Tahoka only a few months but he had many friends here and was a popular student, as is also his older brother.

Faculty and students of the public schools as well as the people of the town generally have been terribly shocked by this catastrophe unprecedented in the history of Tahoka, and they deeply sympathize with all the bereaved families.

So far as can be determined, nobody seems to have been at fault, the collision being purely accidental and unavoidable in so far as the drivers were concerned, and the people here are not inclined to place blame on any individual.

Snake Lives on Eggs

The egg-eating snake of South Africa is a harmless reptile and lives almost exclusively on eggs. It is pale brown in color with three rows of darker blotches. In describing the food habits of this species, scientifically known as Dasyplis scabra, Raymond Ditmars, authority on reptiles, says: "Characterized by the presence of only a few teeth in the rear part of the jaw bones the food of the species is restricted almost entirely to eggs. To aid the snake in cutting through the shell is an ingenious development in the throat. There are knife-like points extending into the esophagus that cuts the egg as it passes into the throat." This snake can swallow an egg as large as a hen's even though its body is about the diameter of a person's finger. It grows to be a yard long. After the egg has been swallowed the shell is crushed and expelled from the mouth. Three eggs make a big meal and after that the egg-eater is likely to fall asleep for three weeks.

"Left" Has Many Meanings

REPORTS FROM THE COUNTY CLUBS

Miss Lilith Boyd, H. D. Agent

MIDWAY WOMEN STUDY 1938 FARM OUTLOOK

Midway H. D. Club met Thursday, March 24, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Pete Curry.

After ten minutes spent in recreation, followed by a short business session, the program as scheduled in the year book was carried out, the subject being "The Farm Outlook for 1938." The prospect is that the economic position of American agriculture will be fairly well maintained during 1938.

Since the money income available to the average farm family has been larger in 1937 than in any year since 1929, the net income is expected to be somewhat lower this year than last, but the decrease in income does not necessarily mean a corresponding decrease in the level of living. Farmers may be able to get more of their living from the farm and they may be able to spend their available cash more effectively. The practice of thrift is not new to farm families.

The club plans to have their next meeting at the home of a neighbor who is not a club member. On

STARS AND BARS ON U. S. COINS

For the first time in the history of this nation the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy appear on a United States minted half dollar. A replica of the Confederate flag appears on the commemorative half dollar issued by the U. S. government to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg and the final reunion of the surviving veterans of the war between the states. The coins, limited to an issue of 50,000, sell for $1.65 each. They are available through the Pennsylvania State Commission, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania.

April 28 they meet with Mrs. Howard Draper, where Miss Boyd will demonstrate sponge cake making.

Members present were: Mmes. G. A. Edwards, R. L. Littlepage, Howard Draper, Alice Duncan, I. M. Draper, R. B. Floyd, Rufus Slover, J. F. Thomas, Pete Curry, Otis Curry, and R. D. Donaldson.

Valley of the Nile Is a 700-Mile-Long Oasis

The valley of the Nile is nothing more or less than a 700-mile-long oasis, with the great wastes of the Libyan desert bounding it on the west and the Arabian desert on the east.

At times, writes a correspondent in the Detroit News, the two great deserts try hard to meet, compressing the Nile valley into a mere thread consisting of little more than the river. For the greater part, however, the valley ranges in width from three or four to fifteen miles.

Except in those places where the deserts encroach or the fantastic multi-colored sandstone hills crowd in, the floor of the Nile valley resembles nothing so much as a great rambling checker board, its squares blocked out by an intricate system of irrigation ditches, which suck their life-giving water from the river.

Once every year the 180 sluices of the great dam at Assouan are opened and the Nile rises more than a man's height, the unleashed waters overflow its banks and, from the Sudan to the approaches of Cairo, spread far and wide over the floor of the valley. For three months these mechanically-controlled flood waters cover the land, seeping deep into the rich earth and irrigating it for the next year's crops.

With the coming of the flood waters the fellahs, or peasants, who have been careless of the sites on which they have erected their mud huts must watch their miserable homes melt away before their eyes. Then, loading their all, which is usually next to nothing, on a camel, they move back to higher and drier land and start building anew.

After the water has subsided it is drawn from the river during the next nine months by water wheels and dumped into the deep transverse ditches from which it flows, in turn, into smaller channels running parallel to the river.

Valentine Day Dates to

Martyr of Third Century

Valentine day is an observance which seems to be connected with the first signs of spring rather than with the careers or character of any of the several Saints Valentine, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Happening to occur on the date consecrated to a Roman martyr of the Third century, it has simply appropriated his name for what was probably a pre-Christian custom in England and Scotland.

The tradition is that on this date the birds choose their mates for the year. Various old British writers, including Chaucer, allude to such a belief. Emulating the birds, it was the custom in old Britain, for each young maid and man to receive by lot one of the opposite sex as "valentine" for the year. From this observing the more recent forms of observing the day.

St. Valentine was a priest of Rome who was imprisoned because he had given assistance to persecuted Christians. He became a convert himself while in prison, and although he is said to have restored the sight of his jailer's blind daughter, he was martyred by being clubbed to death. The date of his martyrdom is given as February 14, 269.

College for Poor White Orphans

Girard college at Philadelphia, Pa., is an institution for the vocational education and maintenance of poor white male orphans, as the donor of the trust fund expressed it.

The college was founded under the will of Stephen Girard and opened January 1, 1848. By a provision in the will no ecclesiastic, missionary, or minister of any sect whatever is permitted to hold office in this institution or to enter its premises at any time or for any reason. That provision should, however, not be interpreted as a reflection upon any sect or person; on the contrary, the founder's desire was, as he himself stated, simply that the minds of the boys reared by the institution should be kept free from the confusion of denominational controversies so that on their entrance into active life they may adopt such religious tenets as their natural reason may enable them to prefer. The purest principles of morality were to be instilled into the minds of the scholars.

We had fifteen members present, two new ones, and five visitors. Everyone seemed to enjoy the meeting very much.

We invite anyone to come over on club day, which is first and third Friday of each month.

We are very proud of our club house.—Reporter.

Hudson's Bay Company Ruled

For nearly 200 years the Hudson's Bay company ruled huge portions of Canada. Wherever it established a trading post it had the right to govern, says the Washington Post. Company men trapped and hunted for some furs, bartered with savage Indians for others. They lived in isolated fort-like posts, often saw other white men only twice a year. They had to be fighters. Disgruntled Indians, competing traders frequently attacked their posts.

Famous Cathedral in Havana

The cathedral of Havana is a famous church. It is built of native limestone; it is also the most noteworthy architectural. It was erected between 1656 and 1724 and was long believed to shelter the bones of Columbus. Historians dispute about his tomb, some holding that it is in Santo Domingo, whence his bones were supposed to have been taken some decades after his death, some holding that it is in Havana and some in Spain.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

THE LYNN COUNTY NEWS

Indianola, Ghost Town of Gulf Coast Country, Has Interesting History

Mrs. Nora Billingsley, who has been spending several weeks down in the Gulf coast country, has sent us the following interesting story of old Indianola, once a prosperous seaport town on Matagorda Bay which was almost utterly destroyed by a storm sixty-two years ago. The sites of hundreds of defunct towns which were once prosperous may be found in Texas, but few have a more interesting history than old Indianola. Mrs. Billingsley's letter follows:

Cities seem so permanent to me that I have often wondered how they can, with the passing years, be sometimes so utterly destroyed and lost that their very site is uncertain, but Indianola, which was once the county seat of Calhoun county, is an example in our own state of how this can happen. Of this once prosperous and thriving city nothing remains except a few old cisterns and the tumbled ruin of concrete slab that was once the court house, and against which the waves of the bay now dash ceaselessly.

"There used to be streets out there," a woman told me pointing to the water.

Briefly, Indianola, from 1852 to 1875 was the main gateway to the great Southwest. It was the biggest point of entry on the Texas coast, handling more shipping than Galveston. The Morgan Line of steamships then ran to Indianola from New York, New Orleans, Pensacola, and many other points, and goods brought there by water, were hauled by ox wagons to all sections of West Texas and into Old Mexico. Ox wagons came in long trains from Mexico. Oldtimers tell of seeing these freighters lined up sometimes for a mile, waiting to get to the wharves. One old man told me "I have seen the wagons so thick you could hardly get across the street. There were a few mule teams but mostly oxen."

At this time property values were high in Indianola, business lots selling for as much as four thousand dollars. Everyone was prosperous. Slave trading was at its peak, and the smuggling of tobacco was good business. We do not now think much about the slave trade of these bygone days but it is said that "record of the county clerk's office at Port Lavaca disclose the wealth of the early days was centered in slaves."

In 1860 the assessed value of slaves in Texas was sixty-four million dollars, about one-fourth of the total value assessed.

In 1875, Indianola was swept by a hurricane that brought not only stupendous property damage but in which many lives were lost. Fearful suffering followed the storm. Food was scarce but the greatest misery came from lack of water. The city was supplied with drinking water from underground cisterns, and the water in these had been ruined by the overflow of salt water. Quilts drenched by the rain that accompanied the storm were squeezed out to supply the babies and children with enough water to keep them alive till water could be shipped in.

The town was rebuilt but never again enjoyed the prosperity it had known before the storm.

In 1886 another hurricane hit the ill-fated city. This time few lives were lost but Indianola was nearly destroyed. In that year the county seat was moved to Port Lavaca, and the inhabitants left to make their homes in other towns of Southern or Central Texas.

The big, old rusty fire bell of Indianola is a prized relic which rests in front of the Shell Fish Cafe in Port Lavaca.

"And what did they do when the fire bell rang?" I asked Mrs. Ben Miller, aged 79, who lived at Indianola through both storms. "What equipment did you have in those days for fire fighting?"

"We all grabbed buckets," she answered. "That was our equipment and it was as good as other towns had then."

Recorded on the headstones in the old Indianola Cemetery are birthdates of people born more than a hundred years ago, and on many the date of their death show they were drowned in the big storm of 1875. Many of the stones are fallen but many others are still upright. Most of the grave yard is now unfenced and cattle pasture over it.

but I thought this part less desolate than the family plot which is protected by strong iron fence, for inside this there is an impenetrable jungle of scrubby chapparal and in its safety deep among the graves and fallen headstones a mound of upturned earth shows where some wild thing has made its den.

But Indianola, though gone, is far from being forgotten. The third Sunday of May each year is "Indianola Day," when the old residents and their descendants get together again. This meeting was formerly held at Victoria and perhaps other points but for some years now has been held at Port Lavaca. The wife of the editor of the Port Lavaca Wave told me of the determination shown by some of these old people to attend this gathering as long as they can move or be moved. The ranks of the real residents of Indianola are getting thin now, but their descendants carry on. I read an account of the meeting held in '33. The crowd was made up of people from thirty-one towns and cities.

On Indianola Day they meet at the auditorium and after the songs, speeches and other features of the program are over they adjourn to the court house lawn, where lunch is spread. Then, if the weather is good, they drive to Indianola.

As these old timers walk about this desolate waste of mudshell, where their homes once stood, I expect they see Indianola as it used to be. They hear again the merry calls of sailors from foreign ports, the blasts of steamboat whistles, and the bustling activity of the days that are gone. But it is now a windswept desolation, wrapped in silence that is broken only by tireless lapping of the waves.

ELDER DRENNON NOTES

I was much pleased with the fine large edition last week. It seems we will have to send the Senior Editor away again. The paper is showing a healthy growth of late. I guess it is because I am writing some each week. A man told me at the track meet last week he read my notes first; so, you see, Frank, I am due some consideration.

Speaking about the track meet, when I heard last, we (O'Donnell) were in the lead in points. So, Tahoka will just have to recognize us. We have a dandy school, fine faculty from the superintendent down, and the very best of co-operation. When we heard of the tragedy on the highway between O'Donnell and Tahoka, we were reminded again that it is dangerous to turn the car over to the children, especially when too many are in one car. This is not meant as a reflection on the parents of the children killed, but just as a warning.

It looked like our fruit was going to get nipped Saturday night, but we are glad it did not and here is hoping it does not. All we need to make this country as good as East Texas is a good fruit crop.

While last Lord's Day was a damp, cold day, the attendance was fair. I believe the people are better at attending church here than at Tahoka. Also, they give fine. The treasurer read all bills paid and a small balance, which is fine, when you know that about six hundred dollars was spent on the parsonage last month.

Yours for more optimism and less pessimism, and I do mean optimism.—R. P. Drennon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Gagnat returned Monday from a business trip to Childress and Hedley. They report the rain in that section as very fine on the wheat.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deep appreciation for the many words of comfort, acts of kindness, and the floral offerings on the death of our boy, May God bless you all.—Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lane and family.

Mrs. Clyde Hartman, who has been so seriously sick, is much improved but it still confined to her bed most of the time. It is hoped that she will be up again in a few days.

The Thousand Dollar Prescription

Not long ago one of the country's foremost medical men was called to attend the only child of a very wealthy man.

When the specialist presented his statement for professional services, his client objected strenuously to the charge of $1000.

"Why," said the enraged parent, "you only devoted one hour of your time and wrote just one prescription. That fee seems unreasonable."

"Yes," replied the specialist, "I was in attendance only one hour, but the knowledge in saving your child's life was the result of over 30 years of study!"

And the account was paid in full!

The materials in a prescription and the time consumed in compounding may seem to amount to very little when considered separately. However, what you are really paying for is professional services, and these necessarily have to be reckoned with when determining the final cost of any prescription.

To become an expert pharmacist, it is necessary for one to devote practically his entire time to the business of prescription compounding.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Door of Death"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, boys and girls, this is the pay-off. A bird who had an adventure—in church. I've always known that Old Lady Adventure was no respecter of persons. Now it seems that she doesn't respect the cloth either.

Henry B. Willson of New York city is the lad who found adventure down at the end of the old sawdust trail. "As a boy," Henry says, "I had more than my share of particular escapes, but one in particular has left such a scar on my memory as time will never efface. Anything even today, that represents confinement—anything from a small room to a tight collar—throws me into a panic."

Well, there's a curious reaction. The minute I started reading Hank Willson's letter—the minute I hit that opening paragraph of his, I wanted to know what sort of a scare it was that would make a man go nuts over a tight collar. And I guess you boys and girls will want to know, too. So here's the story.

Hank Used Kerosene to Start the Fire.

Hank was raised—as they say down South—in a little village in Georgia that went by the name of Cedartown. And like most kids did in small towns in those days, he worked around at various odd jobs to earn his spending money. Hank's dad was the pastor of a church in town, and one winter Hank had the job of taking care of the church furnace.

Now there are probably a million ways of starting a fire, but Hank's plan was to throw a bunch of paper in the furnace, chuck a lot of wood in on top of that, and then saturate the whole business with kerosene. It's a darned good way to get a blaze going quickly, but some horrible things have happened to people who used kerosene too freely in places where it was never meant to be used.

In fact, a very horrible thing DID happen—to Hank. Hank built fires in the old church perhaps two dozen times—always

The Fire Blazed Up on the Instant.

In that one particular way of his. And then he built one that brought Old Lady Adventure down on him like a ton of bricks.

Early one Sunday morning, Hank got up, put on an old sweater, and started out to do his job. He tossed in an armful of crumpled newspapers, and followed that with a couple armfuls of wood. He poured the kerosene on, giving the furnace an exceptionally liberal dose. Then, with a box of matches in one hand, he stuck his head and shoulders in through the furnace door to arrange the wood so that it would be sure to take fire quickly.

Caught in a Blazing Trap.

So far, everything was all right. But it was the matches that did the damage. You know, when you've got a box of matches in your hand, it's the most natural thing in the world to light one. You do it automatically—absent-mindedly.

Well—Hank doesn't know what got into him, or where his wits were at the moment, but before he knew what he was doing, he had lit a match and—WITH HIS HEAD AND SHOULDERS STILL STICKING HALF-WAY THROUGH THE FURNACE DOOR—applied that match to the kerosene-soaked wood and paper.

The fire blazed up in an instant. Hank's first reaction was to jerk his head and shoulders back out of the furnace door. He tried to do just that—but it didn't work. His sweater had caught on the catch of the furnace door, and though he fought like mad to draw back out of the way of the spreading flames, he couldn't work himself free.

Hank screamed. But his screams were so muffled by the furnace that no one in the street heard him. Meanwhile the fire was getting hotter—and closer. Hank's face was beginning to cook. His sweater caught fire and broke into a blaze. Death was leering at him through the flames that licked and lapped at his body.

"It was the most horrible fate I could imagine," Hank says. "And it was happening to me."

Fox Terrier Gave the Alarm.

About that time, though, Hank became conscious that there was some sort of commotion going on behind him. A little fox terrier had come wandering in through the open cellar door, and the dog seemed to know that something was wrong. He started to yelp and whine, and run back and forth between the furnace and the cellar door.

Early on a Sunday morning, when no one was about, that yelping little dog might easily have gone unnoticed. But fate had decreed otherwise, it seems, and down the street came an old negro. The old fellow was curious to see what strange happenings would make a dog act so at a time when most dogs are asleep, and he stuck his head in the cellar door.

That old fellow got the shock of his life. For what he saw was a furnace burning merrily, and a half portion of an eight-year-old boy sticking out of the door. He grabbed Hank by the legs, yanked him out, and slapped out the fire that was consuming his sweater.

Hank's hair was all burned off, and his face and hands were in a well-cooked condition. Two minutes more, and it wouldn't have been any use bothering with him.

That's why he doesn't like confinement. Even a tight collar reminds him of that furnace door.

Speed of Birds

The Baltimore oriole makes 26 miles an hour, as does the black duck. The sharp-tailed grouse makes 33 and the robin 36 miles an hour. Pigeon fanciers will be interested to know that an authority puts the speed of the homing pigeon at 45 miles, but the starling makes 51. The eagle flies a mile a minute and so does the mallard and the Canada goose. The pheasant is in the same class, but the canvas-back, that prime prize of sportsmen, must be taken at 72 miles on the wing.

Early Prize Fighting Rules

Under the London ring rules a round in prize fighting ended when a man was knocked, fell or was thrown to the ground. Some rounds lasted many minutes, others only a second or two.

Tropacocaine, a Drug

Tropacocaine is a drug having the general anesthetic and mydriatic qualities of cocaine. It is an alkaloid and is extracted from a small-leaved variety of coca growing in Java.

Time Affects Ancient Pyramids

Of the seven wonders of the ancient world, the pyramids of Egypt alone have defied time and the destructiveness of conquering armies. There is probably no other man-made structure in existence that will outlive these sanctuaries of the Pharaohs which were built by master engineers. The largest pyramid, Khufu or Cheops, contains 2,300,000 blocks of stone, each weighing about 2½ tons. Originally it was 481 feet high, but due to age and long exposure to the elements its height has been cut to about 450 feet.

FINDING OURSELVES IN SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-38.
GOLDEN TEXT—"What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"—Mark 8:36.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What Peter Found Out.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Life Count Through Service.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Finding the Richest Life Through Service.

"Finding ourselves" seems like a singular, almost self-contradictory expression, but it refers to a sound principle recognized by psychologists as well as spiritual leaders. As a matter of fact, modern psychology has begun to recognize and use spiritual laws and principles which alone bring about human happiness and efficiency.

A word of warning—let no one who studies this lesson fall into the serious error of thinking that some formal religious service will bring redemption and favor with God. We are saved by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ—"not of works, lest any man should boast." It is then by the new birth that we are "created in Christ Jesus unto good works which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them" (Eph. 2:8-10).

It is the Christian who needs to "find himself in service." Only as he thus yields to Christ does he really find the life worth living. The words of Jesus in verse 35 are solemn and gloriously true.

I. Clear Confession (vv. 27-30).

Even those who deny to our Christ the recognition of His deity, and the devotion of life which is His just due, must, if they are at all intelligent, admit that no man ever lived who has made such an impact on human history. Even in the days of his life on earth those who did not accept Him as Christ regarded Him as the resurrected form of one of the nation's greatest leaders. Now unbelieving men speak of Him as the great founder of Christianity, a mighty leader, a wonderful example, or an unequalled teacher.

It is not enough that we stand with the mass of humanity who may thus admire Him, but who do not count Him as Saviour and Lord. The question comes to us as it did to the disciples, "Whom say ye that I am?" "Thou art the Christ"—this alone suffices as the foundation for Christian testimony and conduct.

II. Corrected Error (vv. 31-33).

Although Jesus was not yet ready to have His Messiahship proclaimed to the public, He was prepared to teach His disciples concerning not only that important truth, but of His rejection and death. "He began to teach them that the Son of man must suffer . . . be rejected . . . killed and . . . rise again."

Note the divine "must." While it is true that wicked men showed their hostility toward our God and His Christ by hanging Him on Calvary's cross, yet it was to die for our sins that He came into the world. The cross has rightly come to represent God's love to the world rather than man's hostility to God.

Error now asserts itself, and strangely enough it is the very one who had the clearest grasp of the truth regarding the Messiahship of Christ and boldly expressed it who now objects to the revelation of the coming death and resurrection of Christ, and lends his voice to rebuke the Master for speaking of it.

Satan hates the cross and the open grave. Jesus won the victory over him there. He did not want to hear of it before it took place and used impulsive Peter for a mouthpiece to object. He doesn't want to hear about it now and uses many a skillful and gifted preacher to speak against it. "The offense of the cross" (Gal. 5:11) has never ceased.

III. Consecrated Life and Service (vv. 34-38).

"Let him deny himself" (v. 34). That command we have construed to mean that we should perform little acts of self-denial, foregoing some comfort or pleasure, possibly for a few weeks. It does not mean that at all—but does mean the renouncing of self and self-will, and a complete yielding to God's will. Likewise, to take up one's cross does not mean to bear some of life's little disagreeable experiences; it means again to die to self and to live for Christ.

Careful attention should be given to the solemn questions asked and statements made in verses 35-37. These are not the reasonings of a man—they fall from the lips of the Son of God. What, He asks, will you give in exchange for your soul?

Ask Me Another A General Quiz

1. Which of our states has only three counties?
2. What is the record made in the major baseball leagues for circling the bases?
3. When was paper money first issued in this country?
4. Why is the stage referred to as the legitimate stage?
5. Were any decisive battles fought on German soil during the World war?
6. Is the new San Francisco-Oakland bridge high enough to permit all boats to pass under it?
7. In the expression, "Poor as Job's turkey," is the Job of the Old Testament meant?
8. Was Edward Everett Hale related to Nathan Hale, the patriot of the Revolution?
9. How many parts of speech are there?
10. What part of what state is farther north than any other in the Union?

The Answers

1. The state of Delaware has only three counties. It has only one city (Wilmington) with a population of over 100,000.
2. The recognized record for circling the bases is 13.4 seconds, made by Evar Swanson of the Cincinnati Reds, September 15, 1929.
3. In 1690 by the Massachusetts Bay colony. It was gradually issued by other colonies until in general use by all.
4. It is so called in the sense of its being normal, regular, conformable to a recognized standard type.
5. No.
6. The vertical clearance at the center of the bridge is 220 feet above mean high water, so boats can easily pass under it.
7. As turkey is American by origin, it seems incorrect to associate this job with the ancient Hebrew. Poor, of course, refers to a thin and weak fowl, not to the lack of money.
8. He was his grandnephew. Edward Everett Hale's father, Nathan Hale, was a nephew of the Nathan Hale who was hanged by the British as an American spy.
9. Eight: Nouns, pronouns, adjectives, verbs, adverbs, prepositions, conjunctions and interjections.
10. Lake of the Woods county, Minnesota.

TIPS to Gardeners

Protecting Flowers

AN EARLY season flower pest is leaf beetle, a chewing insect whose presence is indicated by holes in the leaves. Found most often on Alyssum, zinnia, marigold and annual phlox. Remedy: Use stomach poisons in the form of sprays containing arsenicals or pyrethrum.

Snapper, dragon, aster, petunia and verbena are the principal victims of the cutworm, a chewing insect which cuts off plants at the ground. It should be combated, says Gilbert Bentley, flower expert of the Ferry Seed Institute, by placing about a spoonful of poison bran bait around the base of each plant.

Aphids bother almost all the popular flowers except zinnia. They cause wilting, crumpling and discoloration of the leaves. Spray or dust with pyrethrum or nicotine sulphate.

Downy mildew shows up white all over a plant and discolors to black, killing leaves and rotting stems. Remedy: Dust regularly, but lightly, with flowers of sulphur.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

THIS pink and white chintz apron with pink gingham frills should inspire anyone to make long strides towards the kitchen. It is easy to cut. The material required is 1½ yards of 36-inch-wide chintz or cotton print and one yard of plain material.

For the skirt of the apron, cut a piece of paper or cloth 27 inches wide and 23 inches deep. Fold this lengthwise through the center, as at A, then measure down from the top of the fold and in from the corners the distances indicated in the diagram and mark the dots. Using the dots as a guide, mark the outline of the apron skirt as you see it in the diagram. The dimensions for shaping the bib are given in the diagram at B. The pocket is a 5-inch square with lower corners rounded as shown here at C. The apron ties are cut 6 inches wide and 36 inches long. The strip for the belt should be cut 2½ inches wide and a facing strip the same width should be cut for it. The shoulder straps are cut 4 inches wide and then creased lengthwise through the center.

The strips of the plain material for the ruffles are cut 6 inches wide. The ruffle material before it is gathered should be 2½ times the length of the space it is to fill after gathering. Use the machine hemmer foot shown here at the lower left for hemming the ruffles and the machine ruffler for gathering them.

BAPTISTS LAY CORNERSTONE FOR BUILDING

line Ely, and Mrs. B. M. Hays featuring this part of the program. Short talks were also made by E. R. Allen of Lubbock, a former member of the Church, who superintended the building of the basement, W. L. Knight, a member of the former building committee, Deen Nowlin, A. J. Edwards, and Dr. K. R. Durham of the present building committee.

On account of a light rain which was falling the services outside the building incident to the laying of the cornerstone were very brief.

The pastor, Rev. Geo. A. Dale, made one of his characteristic fine talks. Rev. B. N. Shepherd removed the brick which inclosed the depositary box, and Rev. Dale then placed the articles in the box and the cornerstone was made secure in its place.

On the stone are engraved the names of the members of the former and present building committees, as well as the pastors, as follows:

Present committee: Deen Nowlin, chairman, W. M. Harris, K. R. Durham, A. J. Mullins, H. F. St. Clair, A. J. Edwards, Geo. A. Dale, pastor, 1938.

Former committee: E. R. Allen, chairman, W. D. Nevels, W. L. Knight, E. I. Hill, W. B. Edwards, B. N. Shepherd, pastor, 1925.

Articles placed in the cornerstone were: a Bible, a copy of last week's issue of The Lynn County News, the names of the donors to the building fund, a letter written by Rev. B. N. Shepherd and another written by Rev. Geo. A. Dale to any future pastor of the church who might be here when and if the building should at some future time be torn down or destroyed.

PLAY WILL BE GIVEN AT NEW HOME

A play entitled "Melodrama in Nankipoo" is to be given by the P. T. A. of New Home in the New Home High School Auditorium next Tuesday night, April 5, beginning at 8:30 p. m., according to Mrs. Lloyd McCormick.

The play is said to be a fine one and a large crowd is expected to be present to enjoy it.

Ducks Wise to Numbers;
Select Position in Line

We often observe ducks marching in single file. Never does one crowd ahead of another, never do they bunch. Is there any reason for this? Perhaps this little incident will inform us, writes C. A. Scheinert in Our Dumb Animals.

Five White Runner ducks had a narrow runway leading into their house. Each night they filed in, one by one. Their owner wondered if they always came in the same order, tagged them to find out, after observing one particular duck was always third. And for 30 consecutive nights of observation, they came up to the runway, entered the house, in exactly the same order.

"The casual observer will say 'instinct.' But why and what for? Isn't the word 'instinct' just a name to cover up human ignorance, lack of understanding?" their owner said.

He believes, after such a test, that ducks can count, to a limited number, at least. How else would they select their positions in line? He also believes, after years of experience with wild waterfowl, that they are able to communicate with one another and intelligently plan their course of action. Other observers tell us that ducks appear to select their own leader, and his aides, whom they follow loyally. The man quoted above also believes that ducks understand us, for he can call them and they come to him, put their necks into his hand—one by one—and again always in the same order, each awaiting his turn.

Otter Once Held Sacred

Because He Killed Frogs

The otter has a scheme of his own to fill his hours with happiness. He doesn't care to walk on the ice. Instead, he throws himself on it and slides. He loves to slide down steep hills into the water. The banks are often thirty or forty feet long, and very slippery. And none of the neighbors throws ashes on them. The otter has a big place in history, asserts Lee Eubanks in Our Dumb Animals. Ancient Persians held him sacred because he killed frogs, which overran Persia. The man who killed an otter had to go out and kill 10,000 frogs. If he refused, his punishment was severe, in deed. The otter goes back to pre-Biblical days. In old Sanskrit he was called an udra. Mid-European countries called him uder, odder, and finally otter.

The rare sea otter is born in the ocean; born at sea in a bed of kelp. An otter can swim a quarter of a mile under the ice. He blows out air in a bubble directed against the ice. When the air strikes the ice its freshness is restored, and Mr. Otter draws it into his lungs again.

Though the otter is a good swimmer, he acquires the art. His parents must coax and coach him.

FOUR KILLED, SIX INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENT

injured, her injuries including a pierced lung, fractured hip, fractured nose, fractured right leg, broken ribs, body lacerations and bruises; in Lubbock sanitarium. Very slight chance for her to survive.

Several of the injured were given treatment by Drs. L. E. Turrentine and Emil Prohl. Fults and Rogers did not go to a hospital.

The crash occurred Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Barrett was driving south in a 1938 model Chevrolet and the 1933 Ford coach occupied by the young people was moving north toward Tahoka. Members of the youthful group are said to have been returning to Tahoka from T-Bar, where they had gone for Overman.

Sheriff B. L. Parker quoted eyewitnesses as relating that something apparently went wrong with the Ford. It suddenly swung to the left side of the road so that the two cars came together almost head-on. Both machines were almost completely demolished, and the fact even more of the occupants did not meet death is remarkable to anyone viewing the ruins of the cars.

Those who reached the scene soon after the crash said that scenes of horror greeted them. The body of Ethelda Shaffer was laying beside the wrecked machines, and possibly one or two others were thrown clear of the wreckage. The body of one of the boys hung grotesquely from one of the shattered windows. Faces, heads and hands of practically all the victims were masks of blood. Groans and screams of the injured and of horrified spectators added to the confusion.

Dr. J. H. Stiles of Lubbock chanced to be driving near the scene and reached the spot soon after the crash. He immediately began giving first aid, sedatives being given all those able to take them. A citizen from Coleman stood guard over traffic, since the wreckage was just under the brow of a slight hill and the danger of other wrecks was great.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Reid were among the first arrivals on the scene, and Mrs. Reid gave what aid she could to the injured and dying, while Mr. Reid rushed to town for more aid. E. L. Smelser, Tahoka truck driver, was an early arrival, and on the pleadings of young Carver, went for the latter's parents. Turner Rogers, who was only slightly injured, had gone to town in one of the first cars to arrive, however, for an ambulance and medical aid. Others were brought to the offices of Dr. Turrentine and of Dr. Prohl for treatment.

W. O. Robertson, Harris ambulance driver, on arrival at the wreck scene, picked out two of the victims that he thought most in need of immediate care, and rushed with them to Lubbock, but both died.

Sheriff Parker, and two members of the state highway patrol, J. H. Jackson and T. C. Laws, were also early arrivals.

No one seems to know the exact cause of the accident. The Carver car was just coming over a "rise", or small hill, when something went wrong with the car, possibly the steering gear or a flat tire causing the car to pull to the left. Also it is possible that the brake was put on and the car thrown across the road.

Mrs. Barrett, still sitting in a car at the scene of the accident, told Sheriff Parker that the approaching Carver machine seemed to go out of control. Both cars are thought to have been moving at speeds of 45 or 50 miles per hour. The nine boys and girls killed or injured were in the one car, while Mrs. Barrett was alone in her car.
