Reeves Strike To Complete In Gas Zone

Union Oil Co. of California has shut in to take four-point tests and calculate open flow potential, its No. 1 Worsham Unit, Reeves County lower Devonian gas strike, five miles west of the Devonian sector of the Worsham-Bayer field.

It flowed 16 hours through a 1-inch choke and perforations at 18,147-18,240 feet, making 119 barrels of load water, and gas at the rate of 1.8 million cubic feet per day. The section earlier had been acidized with 80,000 gallons.

It was drilled to 18,645 feet, and plugged back to 18,550 feet, in 5-inch casing set on bottom.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 4, block C-7, PSL survey, eight miles southeast of Pecos.

Skelly Testing Two Possible Pay Zones In Eddy

Skelly Oil Co. was testing simultaneously through Strawn and Aloka perforations at No. 1-2 Todd-State, undesignated Aloka and Morrow test, two miles east of the proposed Sand Dunes, South (lower Pennsylvanian and Aloka) gas field of Eddy County, N.M.

It flowed 2 1/2 hours through a 3/4-inch choke and over-all perforations at 13,508-13,922 feet, making one barrel of load water, and gas at the daily volume of 707,000 cubic feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 2-24-51e, 18 miles east of Malaga.

Clearfork Strike Finals In Terry

Texland, Rector & Schumacher, Fort Worth, completed a Clearfork oil discovery in Northwest Terry County, about 3 1/2 miles northeast of the Prentice field.

No. 1 Gulf-Coons was completed on the pump for 38 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 66 barrels of water per day. Production was through perforations at 6,572-6,801 feet. No treatment was reported.

It was drilled to 7,400 feet, and 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom.

The following tops were picked under ground elevation of 3,454 feet: Rustler, 2,433; Yates, 3,107; San Andres, 4,465; Glorieta, 5,917; and Clearfork, 6,572 feet.

Well site is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 18, block D-11, SD&K survey, 13 miles northwest of Brownfield.

Southwest Kent Gets Wildcat Test

A. G. Hill, Abilene, is operator of a scheduled 2,000-foot venture to be drilled in Southwest Kent County, 11 miles west of Claremont. It is No. 1 Percy Jones Trust.

Location is two miles west of the Salt Creek field, but separated by failure, and spots (Continued On Page 11A)

Parr Bond Decision May Be Made Today

By ED TODD
Archer Parr may find out today whether or not he is a free man or whether he must remain in jail while appealing a perjury conviction.

Federal District Court Judge D. W. Suttle Thursday returned Parr's original bond of $121,500 to its donor, Duval County millionaire Clinton Manges, but continued the hearing on Parr's request for freedom under a substitute bond.

In today's hearing, Parr's accountant, Norman Ransleben of Corpus Christi, testified that Parr had not talked about escaping to Mexico should his conviction be upheld; it was "He couldn't flee," Ransleben said, "... his whole life is in Duval County." He detailed Parr's property holdings in the South Texas county. These include his 1,600-acre ranch west of San Diego and another 4,700 acres Parr has leased from his aunt, Mrs. Lillian Moffett.

Parr, he said, raises livestock, including cattle, Quarter Horses, thoroughbred mares and goats. But, Ransleben, a certified public accountant (CPA), said Parr had no cash flow. Parr, he said, has enough "net assets" to cover all of his debts, but has no cash flow whatsoever. The CPA said Parr's debts were between $450,000 and $500,000. But, he said, those assets are tied up in litigation against Parr.

"If he were to flee to Mexico, this (assets) would all go away within 30 days. He would have no assets within 30 days," Ransleben said.

Of Parr's financial situation and the pending lawsuits, Ransleben, a close friend of Parr, said "It's not complicated. ... it's impossible."

Texas Ranger Gene Powell of Kingsville was the government's first witness. He told of seeing Duval County equipment on Parr's ranch.

San Diego banker B. O. Goldthorn was the next witness and was on the stand when the hearing recessed for lunch.

Suttle, in continuing the hearing late Thursday evening, told Parr's lawyer, James Gillespie, "There's no constitutional right to bail after conviction."

Suttle may revoke the bond (as he did with Manges' bond), increase the amount of bond or deny a bond all together.

The 49-year-old Parr has been jailed since July 24, when a federal appellate court upheld Parr's 1974 conviction of perjury; he was deemed guilty of lying to a federal grand jury that was investigating alleged income tax evasions by his late uncle, the 74-year-old "Duke of Duval," George Parr.

Parr had gained his temporary freedom on the $121,500 cash bond posted May 10, 1974, by Manges.

But last March, Manges, who apparently has lost rapport — political and otherwise — with Parr, asked for his money back.

And Thursday afternoon in Midland, Judge Suttle signed an order returning the cashier's check to Manges. He immediately left Midland in his private aircraft.

"I needed my money, and I asked for it," Manges explained in the hearing Thursday. He denied any personal feud or bickering with Parr, but said he has not spoken to Parr in a couple of months.

"Mr. George Parr asked me to put up the bond money," he said under questioning by Gillespie, who has vowed to appeal.

Turkish Official Talks 'Elimination'

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkish Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil said today that U.S. military installations here would be "eliminated" if an American arms embargo against Turkey continued. He gave no deadline.

In an interview carried by the semi-official Anatolia News Agency, Caglayangil said, "If the embargo is lifted we shall establish a new defense relationship with the United States through negotiations."

"But if it becomes definite that the embargo is to continue then the installations will have to be eliminated."

He said he was waiting for a flight to Memphis. The employee told the Star that O'Brien had said he was on union business and also expressed some unhappiness with Hoffa's natural son and daughter.

At that time, O'Brien was reported to have dropped from sight himself. O'Brien had declared, said the employee, that "I was really upset because they waited until 5 o'clock the next afternoon (Thursday, the day after Hoffa disappeared) to tell me ... It was handled very, very poorly."

According to the Star, FBI and Justice Department officials were surprised to learn of O'Brien's visit to Washington.

Teamster officials could not be reached immediately for comment as to whether O'Brien had met with Fitzsimmons or other union leaders.

Hoffa's son, James P. Hoffa, a Detroit attorney, told reporters late Thursday night the FBI would interview more persons today, and he said he still clings to hope that his father will be found alive.

The senior Hoffa vanished after leaving home for a lunch engagement July 30. His car was found in the restaurant parking lot the next morning.

"We are convinced that we will hit the jackpot in this case," said young Hoffa. "We hope we will find some information that will lead to his coming back home."

Hoffa said he suspects some Teamsters officials may have been involved in the disappearance. "There are some relationships and elements in the union that may have done something like this slick abduction," he said.

He also said he has learned that O'Brien admitted to being in the vicinity of the Machans Red Fox restaurant around the time their father vanished. The Red Fox is where the one-time Teamsters leader's auto was found the morning of July 31.

O'Brien today was in West Memphis, Ark., where he returned after being questioned by the FBI in Detroit Wednesday. Since that interview several developments in the case have focused on him.

Also, full refunds will be ordered for customers who paid phone bills at the higher rate—for approximately 20 days—before the Texas Supreme Court reinstated an injunction against the increase.

The refund would amount to about $2.2 million, Hill said.

He said the new, revised increase would provide a rate of return of approximately 8.7 per cent to the company and a 12 per cent return to stockholders.

Hill said he "had no reason to believe" Blackwell would not accept the agreement Monday.

To Ask Dismissal
He said he would ask the judge to dismiss the suit he filed to block Bell's $45 million increase.

Hill said he had often been asked why he filed the suit—an unprecedented legal move by a Texas attorney general—and he said, "It was clear to me that if I did not challenge this unreasonable proposal, no one else would."

Also, he said, "It was clear to me that if there was to be validity to the proposition that a state attorney general was first and foremost the lawyer for the people this was the time to test out that proposition."

Hoffa Family Believes Kidnap Clues Point To Union

By BROOKS JACKSON
DETROIT (AP) — As the search for ex-Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa continued today, his family said "the case could lead back to some individuals in the international union."

Official suspicion settled around Hoffa's foster son Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, who was questioned by the FBI earlier this week and who reportedly had been asked by the FBI to submit to a lie detector examination.

O'Brien is a Teamsters organizer who in recent months reportedly fell out with Hoffa and aligned himself with Hoffa's rival, Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, according to sources familiar with the investigation.

The Washington Star said today O'Brien was in the capital city, site of the union's headquarters, early this week.

The paper quoted an unnamed airline employee at National Airport as saying he talked to O'Brien for about 45 minutes Monday afternoon — five days after Hoffa disappeared — as he was waiting for a flight to Memphis. The employee told the Star that O'Brien had said he was on union business and also expressed some unhappiness with Hoffa's natural son and daughter.

At that time, O'Brien was reported to have dropped from sight himself. O'Brien had declared, said the employee, that "I was really upset because they waited until 5 o'clock the next afternoon (Thursday, the day after Hoffa disappeared) to tell me ... It was handled very, very poorly."

Terrorists Free Four Substitute Hostages After Landing At Tripoli

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Japanese Red Army terrorists freed their final four hostages early today and handed themselves over to Libyan authorities after a four-day drama that began with the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Kuala Lumpur.

Tight security measures were in force at Tripoli airport as the Japan Air Lines DC8 landed after a 6,900-mile flight from the Malaysian capital, Libya's Arab Revolutionary News Agency reported.

The agency said all aboard the aircraft were safe. The flight took 15 hours, including a two-hour refueling stop in Colombo, Sri Lanka.

The plane, flown by a nine-man Japanese crew, left Kuala Lumpur on Thursday with the five terrorists, another five radicals freed from Japanese prisons and the four hostages — two Japanese and two Malaysian government officials.

A Japanese Foreign Ministry spokesman in Tokyo, quoting a report from Tripoli, said ambulances and four or five cars pulled alongside the plane after it landed and the four hostages stepped out unharmed.

The spokesman said the terrorists and the freed radicals left the airport in three cars, but he could not say whether they were in custody or where they had been taken.

Libya said earlier it had agreed to allow the plane to land as a "humanitarian measure to help save human lives," but did not say what arrangements had been made concerning the terrorists.

The freed hostages and the crew were taken to an airport lounge and would hold a news conference later, the spokesman added.

The drama began Monday when the five hooded terrorists invaded the U.S. Embassy and seized 52 hostages, including U.S. Consul Robert Stebbins and a Swedish diplomat.

Stebbins, a 42-year-old father of two from Clovis, N.M., was among the last of the Embassy hostages to be freed. In a telephone interview with the Albuquerque Journal he described the seizure of the Embassy as "like a James Cagney movie — a hell of a lot of gunfire."

The diplomat described his captors "as perfect gentlemen," but he said they would not have hesitated to kill all hostages if their demands had not been met.

Confrontations, which have forced the government to send marines into northern towns, could reach into the Portuguese capital and turn into full-fledged civil war.

Saying the country was "in the most difficult moment of the revolution," the premier warned:

"In the fight against the neo-Fascist phenomenon that lately has been multiplying in our country, severity and repression will be used."

President Francisco de Costa Gomes, pleading for moderation in the face of civil strife and military dissent, said the new cabinet was "a transitory solution."

The cabinet was divided between military men and civilians but contained no members of the nation's two biggest political parties, the Socialists and Popular Democrats, or dissident military officers opposed to the premier's Communist-line policies.

Goncalves named two vice premiers, a civilian and a military man, to head the cabinet. Lt. Col. Antonio Arnao Metelo and Joaquim Teixeira Ribeiro, an economics professor.

But they will remain subservient to the three generals who were recently given supreme political power by the Armed Forces Movement: Goncalves, Costa Gomes and interim security chief Oelo Saravia de Carvalho.

Bank Boosts Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank of New York raised its prime rate today to 7 1/2 per cent from 7 1/4 per cent because of a recent surge in the interest rates which the bank uses to set its prime.

Most other major banks are trailing a quarter of a percentage point behind Citibank at 7 1/2 per cent, but rates are generally considered on the rise.

Explosion Damages U.S. Courthouse At Denver

DENVER (AP) — An explosion tore through an entrance of the U.S. Courthouse in downtown Denver early today, police said. There were no reports of injuries, although damage was extensive.

Police said it appeared that dynamite was deposited at a side entrance to the building. A door and nearby windows were shattered by the blast.

Several hours before the blast, a bomb threat was phoned to the Denver Westside Court building, where night court was in session. The building was evacuated but a search uncovered no bomb.

Police declined to speculate on whether the threat and the actual explosion at the federal building were related.

A watchman who was making his rounds elsewhere in the building reported hearing the blast, but said he saw no one.

A recreation center and bar across the street from the courthouse also incurred broken windows, and an automobile in a garage beneath the blast site was damaged.

Agents of the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms joined Denver police in the investigation.

Barber Appointed DA At Monahans

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has appointed Lawrence L. Barber Jr., Monahans, to be district attorney for the 143rd Judicial District, succeeding Lawrence L. Fuller who resigned.

Barber, 38, currently practices law in Monahans.

Hill Cites Compromise Agreement

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Hill said today Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. had withdrawn its proposed $45 million rate increase on intrastate calls and agreed to accept an average of $20 million over each of the next two years.

Hill said the agreement between his office and Bell, after two negotiating sessions, would be filed Monday with District Court Judge Tom Blackwell.

Claims 'Court Victory'
Hill claimed a "court victory" over the huge telephone company, which had maintained until Thursday afternoon that it needed a minimum of $45 million in the next year to pay construction costs and return a reasonable profit to stockholders.

Hill said the agreement would save Texas consumers $50 million. He figured the savings this way: The new rate schedule would go into effect in August—rather than this past March as Bell wanted—and the company would get a $15 million increase through next March.

$50 Million Saving
Then, from March 1976 to March 1977, the company would be allowed a $25 million increase.

Had the $45 million increase remained in effect, the company would have obtained $90 million, but now will get a total of $40 through March 1977 for the $50 million savings.

In addition, Hill told a news conference, the company has agreed to not attempt to raise rates again until the new state utilities commission makes a full review after Sept. 1, 1976.

Some Refunds Due
Also, full refunds will be ordered for customers who paid phone bills at the higher rate—for approximately 20 days—before the Texas Supreme Court reinstated an injunction against the increase.

The refund would amount to about $2.2 million, Hill said.

He said the new, revised increase would provide a rate of return of approximately 8.7 per cent to the company and a 12 per cent return to stockholders.

Parr Bond Decision Expected Today

peal the case to the nation's highest court.

Gillespie, in a thwarted gesture to gain his client's freedom, told Judge Suttle that another Duval County millionaire-rancher, Praxedis Canales, has agreed to be Parr's substitute bondsman. He said Canales has sunk $121,500 into a cashier's check made out to the federal government.

"I have it in my breast pocket today," Gillespie said.

Suttle took no action on the attorney's offer for substitution of securities. But he did remark that "$121,500 is not a very small amount of money, at least not to me."

Manges, questioned by U. S. Atty. John Clark, had said that he was not at all worried about Parr fleeing the country and thus losing his money. Asked if he was concerned about losing the money, Manges said "not particularly, not more than I would at any other time."

Simply, Manges said, "I needed my money (back) to start with."

Manges could not be moved by Clark, who seemingly was trying to draw out of the millionaire expression of fear and apprehension that Parr would skip to Mexico should his conviction be upheld.

"I've heard rumors, but nothing I can say was true,"

Manges countered.

Clark asked if Parr had been transferring his assets from Duval County to points unnamed. Again Manges was firm. "I've heard rumors about that, but nothing I can say was factual."

Manges did say, however, that he had picked up rumors that "he (Parr) wanted me off his bond" and that Parr was "afraid I was going to go off of his bond because of the rumors."

Rumors, as well as newspaper accounts, had been circulating in South Texas of animosity brewing between Parr and Manges. But the millionaire said, essentially, that he only knew what he read in the newspaper. And he referred to those published accounts as "hearsay."

The government, however, submitted for "the record" a score or so of newspaper clippings dealing with the Parr-Manges alleged controversy and stories surrounding the Parr family and Duval County government.

Manges appeared to take the role of a border-line Parr supporter in the bond hearing.

But definitely pro-Parr was Marvin Foster, Parr's comrade and attorney, who maintained that Parr is still the Duval County judge.

Parr was ousted as the county judge last March by O. P. Carrillo, then a state district judge, on grounds of "incompetency, gross carelessness, and official misconduct," prosecutor Clark recounted.

Foster said that Carrillo, in a jury-tried suit to remove Parr from office, ordered a directed verdict to oust Parr from office. "Judge Carrillo took it away from the jury and decided it himself," Foster said. He implied that a jury verdict is required by state law to remove a public official from office.

"We claim very strenuously that he at this very moment is county judge," Foster said.

However, Suttle referred to a so-called "gentlemen's agreement" in which Parr supposedly had agreed "to step aside as county judge."

That "gentlemen's agreement" apparently was made between the feuding Parr and Carrillo. That was in March.

Also, in the latter part of that month, Foster said Parr's resignation as county judge was accepted by the county commissioners' court, but that he was reappointed judge the same day — March 27 — by the commissioners.

Foster said that Duval County government became enveloped in "turmoil" in late March when Carrillo attempted to oust Parr from county government. But, he said, the county has not undergone any violence.

"I haven't seen any violence at all, except (that of) George Parr to himself," George Parr died April 1 of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Earle To Direct Bid For Passage Of Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Ronald Earle, D-Austin, has been named campaign coordinator for a statewide effort for passage of the proposed new constitution for Texas.

Robert W. Calvert, chairman of Citizens for the Texas Constitution, said Thursday the information and education program that Earle will head will be financed exclusively by citizen contributions.

Calvert was joined in making the announcement by L. Gov. William P. Hobby Jr., Speaker Bill Clayton, and Atty. Gen. John Hill.

Amtrak Strategy Meeting Set Aug. 19 In Big Spring

Chamber executives and city officials from six West Texas communities located along the Texas and Pacific railroad from Abilene to El Paso will meet at Big Spring Aug. 19 to discuss how to go about getting Amtrak passenger service through here, Fred Tyler, Midland Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, announced today.

Tyler said representatives from Midland, Big Spring, Odessa, Monahans, Pecos and El Paso would be present at the strategy session.

Bill Mewhorter, chamber president, said, "If there is going to be an Amtrak service in this part of Texas, we certainly want it to come through Midland."

The Big Spring meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Aug. 19 at the chamber office there, Tyler said.

A study has been initiated by the state, Tyler said, to determine the "feasibility" of getting the Amtrak service to locate on the TP line which runs along Interstate 20. Hoy Richards, who heads the Texas Railroad Plan study from Texas A&M University, is slated to begin the local feasibility study in September.

Area chambers have been notified that Richards will come to West Texas and visit with concerned communities after the completion of the feasibility study.

Espinosa's Bond Set At $60,000

Ramon Diaz Espinosa, 18, 507 W. Nobles St., remained in Midland City Jail today in lieu of bonds totaling $60,000 after being charged Thursday morning with aggravated rape, possession of heroin and burglary.

Justice of the Peace Robert Pine set Espinosa's bonds at $25,000 for aggravated rape, $25,000 for possession of heroin and $10,000 for burglary.

Espinosa was arrested around 4:30 a.m. Thursday at the intersection of Broadway and Kansas Streets after a man residing in the 1600 block of Kansas Street reported a burglary in progress at his home, police said. Police reported that a man had entered the bedroom of a young girl at that address, but fled after the girl began to scream.

Espinosa's charge of aggravated rape is in connection with the reported rape of a young Midland woman in the backyard of her central Midland home early Wednesday morning.

Kate Hinds, 90, Dies; Rites Held

BIG SPRING — Kate Hinds, 90, died here Wednesday.

Services were held at 11 a.m. today in Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Gene Greer, pastor of the Wesley United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Energy Problems Will Be First Task For Returning Congress, Steelman Says

By STEPHANIE WARD

Congress will more than likely tackle energy-related problems first when it returns to work Sept. 4, Rep. Alan Steelman predicted Thursday.

"The energy bill will more than likely be the first business the Congress will consider when it re-convenes," Steelman told the Midland Rotary Club at its noon luncheon at the American Legion Hall.

Steelman also said the possibility of a severe oil shortage this winter depends on the weather.

"There will definitely be a shortage if a severe winter should come," he said. "We will be at the mercy of the weather."

The days of 30-cents-a-gallon gasoline are also a thing of the past, the Dallas congressman said.

"Cheap energy days are behind us. We have to be realistic and realize that conservation and new sources are the answer," he said. Steelman said that regulatory agencies are phasing out and will continue to do so. "A de-regulation would be to the benefit of the consumer availing less controls, thus, lower prices. Where these agencies are concerned, either reform or total abolishment is the only answer I can see," he said.

"By means of artificial restraints, we are averting the issues and not doing the best job," he said.

The challenges Congress will face in what he called "the new era to come are controls vs. decontrols."

"Philosophies of government are facing a change and the 'battle' concerning control continues. We are now in a position to approach situations from the standpoint of supply and demand," he said.

"America's past has given us insight. We're fortunate in that the years of spending beyond our means and falling prey to all the controls, are over. We should learn from these experiences and work to free the battles between the state and local governments."

"We must also be aware of what the stakes are and just what's going on in our country. Attitudes recorded in recent polls reflect Americans' beliefs and faith in a free market economy because we have seen the effects of all the controls in the past," he said. "There has been more and more spending on the state and local level — some warranted, but some taken on that were unwarranted and not our responsibility," he said.

It is his opinion that federal and state relations depend on revenue sharing. "I feel it is very important that the revenue sharing bill be renewed for the next five years."

"We must walk in peace but always be cautious," he said.

"In being cautious, we must also watch collective bargaining closely because our legal and legislative representation has become so vast as to have caused a monopoly. We now need to restore the principles and instill new optimism while 'keeping our finger in the dike,'" he said.

Steelman said he was sure there will be a windfall profits tax proposal when the Congress returns again but he wasn't sure about the percentages at this time.

Clearfork Strike Falls In Terry

Texland, Rector & Schumacher, Fort Worth, completed a Clearfork oil discovery in North-west Terry County, about 3 1/2 miles northeast of Clearfork production in the Prentice field.

No. 1 Gulf-Coons was completed on the pump for 38 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 66 barrels of water per day. Production was through perforations at 6,572-6,801 feet. No treatment was reported.

It was drilled to 7,400 feet, and 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom.

The following tops were picked under ground elevation of 3,454 feet: Rustler, 2,433; Yates, 3,107; San Andres, 4,465; Glorieta, 5,917; and Clearfork, 6,572 feet.

Wellsite is 1,900 feet from south and west lines of section 18, block D-11, SD&K survey, 13 miles northwest of Brownfield.

Southwest Kent Gets Wildcat Test

A. G. Hill, Abilene, is operator of a scheduled 7,200-foot venture to be drilled in Southwest Kent County, 11 miles west of Claremont. It is No. 1 Percy Jones Trust.

Location is two miles west of the Salt Creek field, but separated by failure, and spots 600 feet from south and east lines of section 162, block G, W&NW survey, abstract 1661.

The scheduled depth earlier had been reported as 1,720 feet.

Gas Well Opens Field In Eddy

Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., has completed No. 1-DG Powell Communitized, as a Wolfcamp gas pay opener in the Atoka, West (Morrow) gas field of Eddy County, N.M.

Through perforations at 6,539-6,683 feet, it gauged a final flow of 2,052 million cubic feet of gas and 34 barrels of 50.6-gravity distillate in 24 hours, on a 1/2-inch choke. Gas-liquid ratio measured 60,240-1.

The well was completed in September, 1974 from the Morrow as a shut-in producer, for 1.01 million cubic feet of gas daily, through a 3/4-inch choke and perforations at 8,365-8,386 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and 1,900 feet from east lines of section 35-17-25e, three miles southwest of Artesia.

Field In Edwards Gets Two Outposts

Two outposts to production have been staked in the Jack Mann (Canyon) gas field of Edwards County, about 15 miles northwest of Rocksprings.

North American Royalties, Inc., is the operator of the 5,800-foot tests.

No. 5-26 Jack Mann, 3/4 mile southwest in a two-well northeast extension area, is 520 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 26, CO&D&RGNG survey, abstract 2358.

No. 6-10 Jack Mann, one mile southwest in the Northeast sector of the field, is 467 feet from north and east lines of (Continued On Page 11A)

Parr Due To Learn Today If He'll Go Free On Bail

By ED TODD

Archer Parr will find out today whether or not he is a free man or whether he must remain in jail.

Federal District Court Judge D. W. Suttle Thursday returned Parr's original bond of $121,500 to its donor, Duval County millionaire Clinton Manges, but continued the hearing on Parr's request for freedom under a substitute bond until this morning.

Suttle, in continuing the hearing late Thursday evening, told Parr's lawyer, James Gillespie, "There's no constitutional right to bail after conviction."

Suttle may revoke the bond (as he did with Manges' bond), increase the amount of bond or deny a bond all together.

The 49-year-old Parr has been jailed since July 24, when a federal appellate court upheld Parr's 1973 conviction of perjury; he was deemed guilty of lying to a federal grand jury that was investigating alleged income tax evasions by his late uncle, the 74-year-old "Duke of Duval," George Parr.

Parr had gained his temporary freedom on the $121,500 cash bond posted May 10, 1974, by Manges.

But last March, Manges, who apparently has lost rapport—political and otherwise—with Parr, asked for his money back. And Thursday afternoon in Midland, Judge Suttle signed an order returning the cashier's check to Manges. He immediately left Midland in his private aircraft.

"I needed my money, and I asked for it," Manges explained in the hearing Thursday. He denied any personal feud or bickering with Parr, but said he has not spoken to Parr in a couple of months.

"Mr. George Parr asked me to put up the bond money," he said under questioning by Gillespie, who has vowed to appeal the case to the nation's highest court.

Gillespie, in a thwarted gesture to again gain his client's freedom, told Judge Suttle that another Duval County millionaire-rancher, Praxedes Canales, has agreed to be Parr's substitute bondsman. He said Canales has sunk $121,500 into a cashier's check made out to the federal government.

"I have it in my breast pocket today," Gillespie said.

Suttle took no action on the attorney's offer for substitution of securities. But he did remark that "$121,500 is not a very small amount of money, at least not to me."

Manges, questioned by U. S. Atty. John Clark, had said that he was not at all worried about Parr fleeing the country and thus losing his money. Asked if he was concerned about losing the money, Manges said "not particularly, not more than I would at any other time."

Simply, Manges said, "I needed my money (back) to start with."

Manges could not be moved by Clark, who seemingly was trying to draw out of the millionaire expression of fear and apprehension that Parr would skip to Mexico should his conviction be upheld.

"I've heard rumors, but nothing I can say was true," Manges countered.

Hoffa Family Believes Union Figures To Blame

By BROOKS JACKSON

DETROIT (AP) — As the search for ex-Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa continued today, his family said "the case could lead back to some individuals in the international union."

Official suspicion settled around Hoffa's foster son Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, who was questioned by the FBI earlier this week and who reportedly had been asked by the FBI to submit to a lie detector examination.

O'Brien is a Teamsters organizer who in recent months reportedly fell out with Hoffa and aligned himself with Hoffa's rival, Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons, according to sources familiar with the investigation.

Hoffa's son, James P. Hoffa, a Detroit attorney, told reporters late Thursday night the FBI would interview more persons today, and he said he still clings to hope that his father will be found alive.

The senior Hoffa vanished after leaving home for a lunch-on engagement July 30. His car was found in the restaurant parking lot the next morning.

"We are convinced that we will hit the jackpot in this case," said young Hoffa. "We hope we will find some information that will lead to his coming back home."

Hoffa said he suspects some Teamsters officials may have been involved in the disappearance. "There are some relationships and elements in the union that may have done something like this sick abduction," he said.

He also said he has learned that O'Brien admitted to being in the vicinity of the Machus Red Fox restaurant around the time their father vanished. The Red Fox is where the one-time Teamsters leader's auto was found the morning of July 31.

O'Brien today was in West Memphis, Ark., where he returned after being questioned by the FBI in Detroit Wednesday. Since that interview several developments in the case have focused on him.

A source close to the investigation said the FBI had requested that O'Brien submit to a lie-detector test to back up his contention that he wasn't involved in Hoffa's disappearance.

Another source said O'Brien admitted in an FBI interview that he was in the area where Hoffa vanished about the time he disappeared, and then again the next morning at about the time Hoffa's car was recovered.

Hoffa's daughter said O'Brien, 41, and her father had not seen one another for seven months, and a source close to the investigation said O'Brien had "made peace" with Hoffa's bitter rival, Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons.

Terrorists Free Four Substitute Hostages After Landing At Tripoli

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Japanese Red Army terrorists freed their final four hostages early today and handed themselves over to Libyan authorities after a four-day drama that began with the seizure of the U.S. Embassy in Kuala Lumpur.

Tight security measures were in force at Tripoli airport as the Japan Air Lines DC8 landed after a 6,900-mile flight from the Malaysian capital, Libya's Arab Revolutionary News Agency reported.

The agency said all aboard the aircraft were safe. The flight took 15 hours, including a two-hour refueling stop in Colombo, Sri Lanka.

The plane, flown by a nine-man Japanese crew, left Kuala Lumpur on Thursday with the five terrorists, another five radicals freed from Japanese prisons and the four hostages — two Japanese and two Malaysian government officials.

A Japanese Foreign Ministry spokesman in Tokyo, quoting a report from Tripoli, said ambulances and four or five cars pulled alongside the plane after it landed and the four hostages stepped out unharmed.

The spokesman said the terrorists and the freed radicals left the airport in three cars, but he could not say whether they were in custody or where they had been taken.

Libya said earlier it had agreed to allow the plane to land as a "humanitarian measure to help save human lives," but did not say what arrangements had been made concerning the terrorists.

The freed hostages and the crew were taken to an airport lounge and would hold a news conference later, the spokesman added.

Explosion Damages U.S. Courthouse At Denver

DENVER (AP) — An explosion tore through an entrance to the U.S. Courthouse in downtown Denver early today, police said. There were no reports of injuries, although blast site was damaged.

Police said it appeared that a Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and dynamite was deposited at a side entrance to the building. A door and nearby windows were shattered by the blast.

Several hours before the blast, a bomb threat was phoned to the Denver Westside Courthouse, where night court was in session. The building was evacuated but a search uncovered no bomb.

Police declined to speculate on whether the threat and the actual explosion at the federal building were related.

A watchman who was making his rounds elsewhere in the building reported hearing the blast, but said he saw no one on the report.

A recreation center and bar across the street from the courthouse also incurred damage, and an automobile in a garage beneath the reports of injuries, although blast site was damaged.

Agents of the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and dynamite was deposited at a side entrance to the building. A door and nearby windows were shattered by the blast.

Earlier this week, bombs exploded inside federal court houses in Everett and Tacoma, Wash.

A Seattle newspaper, the Post-Intelligencer, was told by an anonymous caller the bombings were to protest alleged FBI harassment of Indians on the Pine Ridge and Rosebud Indian Reservations in South Dakota. Pine Ridge was the scene of a June 26 incident in which two FBI agents and an Indian were killed.

The FBI declined comment on the report.

Communist Portugal Premier Forms New Stopgap Cabinet

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pro-Communist Premier Vasco Goncalves formed a temporary government in riot-torn Portugal today and announced it would use "severity and repression" against those who oppose it.

Acknowledging that he had difficulty putting together even a stopgap Cabinet in the midst of the worst political and military crisis of the 15-month-old Portuguese revolution, Goncalves also warned the nation it faced more austerity measures.

Four persons have been killed and scores injured in anti-Communist violence in northern Portugal in the past week. The demonstrators are enraged at the radical leftward turn of the Portuguese revolution despite the clear mandate given to Socialists, Popular Democrats and other moderate leftists in last April's constituent elections.

The Socialists and the Popular Democrats, frustrated with the country's extremist leadership, quit the government last month, provoking the latest crisis.

There were fears that the confrontations, which have forced the government to send marines into northern towns, could reach into the Portuguese capital and turn into full-fledged civil war.

Saying the country was "in the most difficult moment of the revolution," the premier warned:

"In the fight against the neo-Fascist phenomenon that lately has been multiplying in our country, severity and repression will be used."

President Francisco de Costa Gomes, pleading for moderation in the face of civil strife and military dissent, said the new cabinet was "a transitory solution."

The cabinet was divided between military men and civilians but contained no members of the nation's two biggest political parties, the Socialists and Popular Democrats, or dissident military officers opposed to the premier's Communist-line policies.

Goncalves named two vice premiers, a civilian and a military man, to head the cabinet. Lt. Col. Antonio Armao Metelo and Joaquim Teixeira Ribeiro, an economics professor.

But they will remain subservient to the three generals who were recently given supreme political power by the Armed Forces Movement: Goncalves, Costa Gomes and internal security chief Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho.

The ruling trio had earlier

Duval County points unnamed. Again Manges was firm. "I've heard rumors about that, but nothing I can say was factual."

Manges did say, however, that he had picked up rumors that the (Parr) wanted me off his bond, and that Parr was afraid I was going to go off of his bond because of the rumors.

Justice of the Peace Robert Pine set Espinosa's bonds at $25,000 for aggravated rape, $25,000 for possession of heroin and $10,000 for burglary.

Espinosa was arrested around 4:30 a.m. Thursday at the intersection of Broadway and Kansas Streets after a man residing in the 1600 block of Kansas Street reported a burglary in progress at his home, police said. Police reported that a man had entered the bedroom of a young girl at that address, but fled after the girl began to scream.

Espinosa's charge of aggravated rape is in connection with the reported rape of a young Midland woman in the backyard of her central Midland home early Wednesday morning.

Kate Hinds, 90, Dies; Rites Held

BIG SPRING — Kate Hinds, 90, died here Wednesday.

Services were held at 11 a.m. today in Nailey-Pickie Rosewood Chapel with the Rev. Gene Greer, pastor of the Wesley United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Survivors include seven nieces and seven nephews.

Services Continue

A mission conference under way this week at Tall City Baptist Church, 3500 Anetta Drive, has had the Rev. Weeks DuBois as featured speaker. Guest speaker for tonight's service will be John White, a missionary to Australia, while Saturday night's speaker will be Earl Reynolds of Roswell, N.M. The services will be open to the public.

Steelman Still Undecided About Senate Candidacy

By STEPHANIE WARD

Still undecided about his candidacy for the U.S. Senate race, Rep. Alan W. Steelman, R-Tex., said here today, "Should I decide to run, my campaign will be an 'old time religion' campaign."

"The people are hungry to reach out, touch and feel the candidate they will support. The way to get across to them is best accomplished by public rallies and walking door-to-door to the people instead of spending so much money on TV advertising and newspaper ads," he said in a press conference at the Sheraton Inn.

As a leader in the reform movement in the 94th Congress to require policymaking persons in the federal government to file statements of personal financial disclosure, Steelman has already voluntarily released statements on his own personal finances. In doing so, however, he said that he did feel that in the area of revealing income tax returns, persons were in a sense "waiving their right to some amount of privacy."

"This disclosure," he said, "can become a bit touchy if, for example, either the candidate or his wife have at one time sought psychiatric care. People often react adversely to such news and I don't think that it is really a matter of public concern."

Steelman also spoke at a noon luncheon as a guest of the Midland Rotary Club. Public appearances in this area are part of a tour he is conducting to assess the feasibility of running for the U.S. Senate next year.

Of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, Steelman said, "He is taking those published accounts as on grounds of "incompetency, gross carelessness, and official hearsay."

The government, however, misconduct," prosecutor Clark submitted for "the record" a recounted.

Foster said that Carrillo, in a jury-tried suit to remove Parr from office, ordered a directed verdict to oust Parr from office. Judge Carrillo took it away from the jury and decided it himself.

Manges appeared to take the role of a border-line Parr supporter in the bond hearing.

But definitely, pro-Parr was a public official from office.

"We claim very strenuously that he is at this very moment a county judge," Foster said.

However, Suttle referred to Parr as a "gentleman's agreement" in which Parr supposedly had agreed "to step aside as county judge."

That "gentleman's agreement" apparently was made between the feuding Parr and Carrillo. That was in March.

Also, in the latter part of that month, Foster said Parr's resignation as county judge was accepted by the county commissioners' court, but that he was reappointed judge the same day — March 27 — by the commissioners.

Foster said that Duval County government became enveloped in "turmoil" in late March when Carrillo attempted to oust Parr from county government. But, he said, the county has not undergone any violence.

"I haven't seen any violence at all, except (that of) George Parr to himself," George Parr died April 1 of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Parr Gives Race Track To County

Former Duval County Judge Archer Parr is giving his horse race track to the people of Duval County. The race track is on Parr's ranch west of San Diego.

Parr made announcement Thursday night after a meeting in the Midland City Jail with one of his lawyers, Marvin Foster of San Diego; his accountant, Norman Ranfleen of Corpus Christi; and members of his family and friends.

Foster told the Corpus Christi Caller the gift of the race track and grounds "has no strings attached."

Parr was in jail here awaiting conclusion of a hearing on a motion to revoke or increase his bond on a conviction of perjury before a federal grand jury.

Foster said the meeting was held in the lobby of the city jail. He said jail officials "have been very cooperative."

He said Parr was considering the gift for some time, but had been awaiting legal and financial advice. Parr gave instructions Thursday to Foster and Ranfleen to proceed with the transfer of the property to Duval County.

"I want to be a part of the Senate because next year's Congress will be a decisive one and the next six years will be decisive years," he said.

Questioned about decontrol of oil prices, Steelman said, "I would like to see the decision take effect Aug. 31. The decisions concerning the legislation will be constructive."

"We've got to do something to put incentive back into production for the sake of supply and demand — the only ultimate answer," he said.

"In all candor," he said, "I don't think we'll be able to see the entire situation for a while yet. At worst it will be a program of 'phased-in' control."

Steelman said public trust and credibility is vital to those depending upon elected officials. "We can talk of issues," he said, "but there's nothing more important than the trust the public has in us as representatives."

"As Texans are becoming more and more independent, they are also becoming less and less interested in partisan control and support — they are more interested in progress regardless of who does it," he said.

Surge Just 'Reminder' Ford Economists Say

By G. DAVID WALLACE

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Ford administration economists say the recent surge in wholesale prices does not foreshadow another round of raging inflation but instead is a reminder that inflation is still a problem.

"It's still a serious problem but I would say this is no more than a reminder, rather than a new round of inflation rearing its ugly head," said Treasury Department economist Edgar R. Fiedler.

He was voicing the general view of administration economists in the wake of the 1.2 per cent increase reported Thursday for July wholesale prices. The rise, at an annual rate of 14.4 per cent, follows a 9.6 per cent jump in the June consumer price index at an annual rate. Consumer price increases had averaged 5.2 per cent in the three months before that.

The general view of the administration is summarized this way:

—Inflation is still a problem, and prices will continue to increase for a few more months at a rate faster than earlier this year.

—But the increase is transitory, unlike the sustained 12.2 per cent inflation last year and the 8.8 per cent the year before that.

—The basic rate of inflation remains about 6 per cent, and the government's indexes will return there before the end of the year.

However, AFL-CIO President George Meany and his chief economist, Nat Goldfinger, remain skeptical.

"We've heard all of this before," said Goldfinger. "A 7.9 per cent increase in grain prices, reflecting the first speculative reactions to possible large Russian grain sales this year, prompted Meany to complain that Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz 'is back at his old game of deceiving the American people when he says the Russian grain deal will have little effect on domestic prices.'"

"Isn't it about time to ask: 'When will President Ford and his advisers put the interest of Americans ahead of the desires of the Kremlin?'"

The administration's reasoning is that food and farm products, unlike most other components in the price indexes, come down as well as go up. And crops now ripening give hope the current rise will be short-lived.

Other survivors include his widow; two sons, four sisters, two brothers and eight grandchildren.

Zuda B. Hughes Dies At Lamesa

LAMESA — Zuda B. Hughes, 70, of Lamesa died Thursday in a hospital here following an extended illness.

Services were to be at 4 p.m. today in the First United Methodist Church here. The Rev. Alvis Cooley, pastor, will officiate, and interment will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Hughes was a native of Jacksonville. A resident of Lamesa for 39 years, she was a housewife and her husband was a Lamesa farmer. She was a member of the Methodist church for 50 years.

Survivors include her husband, Roy Hughes; one daughter, Mrs. Tommy L. Thurman of Houston; two brothers, Marvin Wallace of Baytown and Norman "Bill" Wallace of Ackerly; and two grandchildren.

Two Midlanders Hurt In Wreck

Two Midlanders were treated and released Thursday night from Midland Memorial Hospital after the car they were driving, attempting to out-run highway patrolmen, crashed into a dirt embankment around 9:45 p.m.

Thomas Logan Welch, 20, 1301 S. Moran St., driver of the late model pickup, and Teddy Ray Offield, 20, Rt. 3, were east-bound on U.S. 80, attempting to elude officers, made a complete turn around going west.

Welch then attempted a striking turn on the service road, striking the embankment. The incident was investigated by David Hancock. No charges have been filed.

Lamesa Police Probe Incidents

LAMESA — Lamesa police are investigating two early morning incidents that occurred within five minutes of each other.

Possible burglary was suspected at 5:45 a.m. at Jim's Chili Parlor. At 5:50 a.m., Stogner's Cafe was vandalized after the front glass door was broken out. No entry was gained.

Stebbins, a 42-year-old father of two from Clovis, N.M., was among the last of the Embassy hostages to be freed. In a telephone interview with the Albuquerque Journal he described the seizure of the Embassy as "like a James Cagney movie — a hell of a lot of gunfire."

The diplomat described his captors "as perfect gentlemen" but he said they would not have hesitated to kill all hostages if their demands had not been met.

closed ranks behind Goncalves after a group of military leaders circulated a document attacking his Communist-line policies, opening a serious split in the armed forces.

The document charged that the policies of Goncalves had "defrauded the program of the Armed Forces Movement (AFM)," the 240-member group that engineered the April 1974 overthrow of the long-lived fascist dictatorship.

It added that "Eastern European-style Socialism would be fatal" for Portugal.

The junta — Goncalves, Costa Gomes and internal security chief Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho — denounced the dissident officers, all heroes of the revolution, and called their paper "divisionist and gravely perturbing."

They charged it was an attempt to prolong the crisis and could further inflame antigovernment violence now shaking the country.

There was no clear indication, however, if the dissident officers would be punished.

August Heat Covers State

August heat kept temperatures around normal or higher across Texas today.

After the usual evening round of hot weather showers and thunderstorms, mostly near the coast and in North Texas, skies cleared in most sections this morning. There were still a few showers in the vicinity of Corpus Christi, The Associated Press reported.

Rainfall was heaviest at Pecos on the coast, where the measurement was .84 inch.

Temperatures near dawn stayed as high as 78 degrees in Dallas and Fort Worth. Readings elsewhere ranged from the 50s in the Big Bend country of far West Texas to the 60s and 70s in other sections. The top marks Thursday afternoon went as high as 96 at Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Forecasts again called for mostly clear skies until rising temperatures generated scattered thunderstorms late in the day.

Congress Members Travel Abroad At Public Expense During Recess

By JANET STAHAR
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the name of defense and at the taxpayers' expense, several House and Senate delegations are traveling abroad during the August recess.

The range of trips being taken by members this month include swings into France, the Soviet Union, Romania, England, Germany, Saipan, Cuba, the People's Republic of China, Italy and Switzerland.

Congressional critics call these foreign trips "junkets" because most expenses are paid by the congressional committees which arranged them. Defenders of the trips say members will gain knowledge about the nations being visited.

The delegations usually receive red-carpet treatment from foreign leaders who hope to woo them into looking at their country favorably.

It's the usual practice for spouses to go along, but members must pay for their spouses' expenses. Congressional funds, however, pay for committee counsels or other official aides in the party.

After returning home, they will write newsletters and hold news conferences to tell things they learned about the foreign mood, military hardware, waterways, banks, food supplies and what those other nations think of Americans.

One of the most ambitious trips is the current visit by 19 House members to the Soviet Union, Romania and Yugoslavia. Headed by Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., the members are meeting with government leaders and visiting industrial and agricultural sites.

"Unique Opportunity"

"In the wake of the Apollo-Soyuz space mission and the Helsinki Treaty we have a unique opportunity to contribute to the easing of tensions and the goal of world peace which we all share," said traveler Robert H. Michel, R-Ill.

Michel also said he intends to gain insights into U.S. grain sales to the Soviets — "We want hard dollars and good prices for our products and I hope on my return to be satisfied that will be the case."

Besides Albert and Michel, others in the group include Armed Services Committee Chairman Melvin Price, D-Ill., Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., John Brademas, D-Ind., Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, James H. Quillen, R-Tenn., Phillip Burton, D-Calif., William J. Green, D-Pa., Sidney Yates, D-Ill., Tim Lee Carter, R-Ky., Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., Tom Beville, D-Ala., Marvin L. Esch, R-Mich., Bill Archer, R-Tex., George E. Danielson, D-Calif., and Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J.

In other trips, Reps. William C. Wampler, R-Va., ranking minority member on agriculture, and W. R. Poage, D-Tex., chairman of the livestock and grains subcommittee, are planning a two-week excursion to Moscow, Leningrad, eastern Russia and Mongolia to study agriculture conditions. They will be accompanied by two staff aides.

Armed Services
House Armed Services member William L. Dickinson, R-Ala., and two committee aides are on a week-long inspection of Cuba, the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay and military installations in the Panama Canal Zone.

Another Armed Services delegation will go to Saipan and Tinian to inspect properties that would be leased to the United States for defense under the covenant approved by the House establishing the Northern Marianas as a U.S. commonwealth. That group consists of Reps. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., and Mendel J. Davis, D-S.C., and Del. Antonio B. Won Pat, D-Guam, all members of the military installations and facilities subcommittee.

Joint Group To China
The People's Republic of China is being visited for two weeks by a joint Senate-House group: Sens. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., and Reps. Margaret M. Heckler, R-Mass., Paul Findley, R-Ill., and Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif.

Merchant Marine and Fisheries Chairwoman Leonor K. Sullivan, D-Mo., and the panel's chief counsel are on a two-week trip to Germany and London to study waterways and harbor traffic systems.

On the Science and Technology Committee, Rep. Louis Frey Jr., R-Fla., is visiting space facilities in Paris and the European Center for Nuclear Research near Geneva.

Rep. John Jarman, R-Okla., is the appointed member of the interparliamentary union group holding a conference in London. He also will be stopping in Copenhagen, Oslo, Stockholm and Dublin.

Guam, Manila, Australia and New Zealand are on the itinerary of Joshua Ellberg, D-Pa., chairman of judiciary's immigration, citizenship and international law subcommittee.

Others on the two-week trip include Reps. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., and Thomas F. Railsback, R-Ill. They are looking into programs dealing with refugees.

Chairman Fernand J. St. Germain, D-R. I., and members of the subcommittee on financial institutions supervision, regulation and insurance, are on a two-week trip to meet with officials of banks in England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

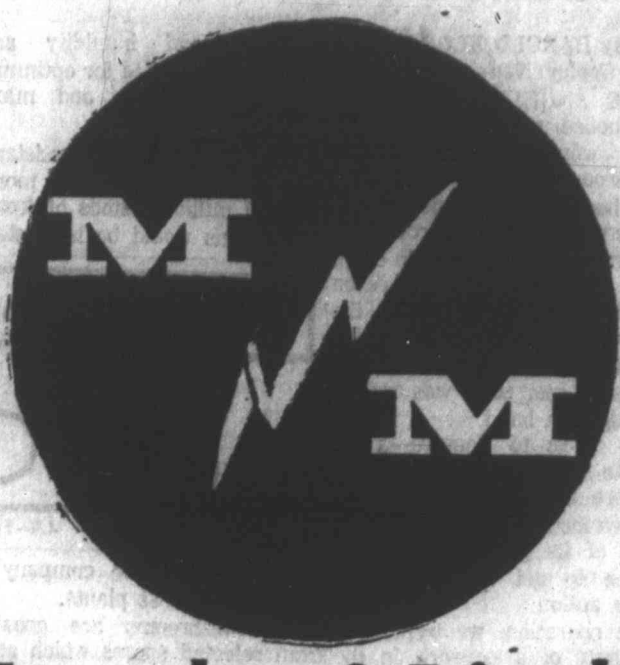

They are gathering information on international banking for pending legislation on foreign bank operations in the United States.

St. Germain said this is his first overseas trip during his 15 years in Congress. Identities of those with St. Germain were not available from either the Banking subcommittee or St. Germain's office.

One of the most unusual trips — paid for by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration — was taken by scuba diver Rep. William Alexander, D-Ark., of the Appropriations Committee and Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., of the Commerce Committee's oceanographic panel.

They spent three days in an underwater research laboratory in the Atlantic off Freeport in the Bahamas. Weicker said afterwards that Congress needs to set a higher priority for ocean research.

George W. Christy, Ex-Circus Owner, Dies At Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled Saturday for George W. Christy, 86, former mayor of the City of South Houston and a one-time circus owner.

Christy, who served as mayor of the suburban Houston town for 16 years, died Thursday in a local hospital.

A native of Pottstown, Pa., Christy bought a bankrupt circus in 1908 and along with his brother, Harold, built the Christy Brothers Circus into one of the premier outfits of its day.

Christy sold the circus in 1944 and dropped out of public view until 1949 when he made the first of 13 races for mayor of South Houston. He was elected eight times. He was defeated the last time he ran in 1971.

Survivors include the widow, Beth, and a son, George W. Christy Jr., of Houston.

Newspaper Sold At San Marcos

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — A newspaper chain based in Charlottesville, Va., will take over publication of the San Marcos Record and the Daily Record from the T. A. Buckner family, a Record spokesman says.

The announcement Thursday marked the end of 50 years of continuous publication of the newspapers by the Buckner family.

Worrell Newspapers Inc. will become owner of the papers as soon as formal sales contracts are complete, probably sometime early next month, the spokesman said.

Both Artichokes And Potatoes Filled With Nutritional Value

By KAY JARVIS
Copley News Service

Potatoes, one of the fine basic foods, and artichokes, elegant cousins to the sunflower, have two things in common—both are magnificent containers for filling with all sorts of good things. If you are a newcomer to the artichoke fan club, the basic preparation is extremely simple.

Trim the stalk so the artichoke stands upright and cut off about an inch from the top. Since they are finger foods, trim the tips with scissors to eliminate prickles. Then stand the artichokes close together in a pot, add a teaspoon salt for each four artichokes, one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons oil, drizzled over the top, and add two or three inches water. Cover and boil until a petal comes off fairly easily, 25 to 35 minutes. Drain them upside down and they are ready to be served hot or cold, with a sauce or a stuffing. Since today's recipes feature stuffing potatoes and artichokes, the palest petals and the fuzzy portion in the center of the artichoke should be removed. It is done easily by scraping with sharp spoon. Don't remove the heart or bottom of the artichoke—they are the tenderest, most delectable portions. If you're a real novice when it comes to artichokes, eating one takes no more than nimble fingers and a full set of teeth. Pull the petals off, dip in melted butter or a sauce if desired, then pull the tender portion of the petal between the teeth and discard the rest. Now, since there is no one who doesn't know how to eat a potato, on to some great ways to put together some great main dishes from the popular potato and the artful artichoke.

Sausage Potato Casserole
4 potatoes
1/2 lb. country sausage
1 tsp. oil
1 onion, finely chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 can (eight and one-fourth oz.) tomatoes
1 can (2 oz.) mushrooms, drained
1 tsp. basil
One-half tsp. oregano
1 tsp. salt
Freshly ground pepper
Sour cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake potatoes one hour or until done. Sauté sausage in oil until nicely browned. Add onion and pepper and cook until onion is limp and transparent. Combine tomatoes, mushrooms and seasonings and add to sausage. Simmer over low heat for five minutes; keep warm. Open potatoes and carefully scoop out most of the potato. Add to sausage mixture and toss lightly. Fill potato shells and serve with sour cream. Makes six servings.

Sour Creamed Chicken In Artichokes
6 tbsps. butter or margarine
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms (about one-half lb.)
1/4 cup coarsely chopped onion (about 1 large)
3 cups cubed, cooked chicken or turkey
3 cups cooked rice
One-fourth cup dry sherry
2 tbsps. salt
One-half tsp. poultry seasoning
1 cup (8 oz.) dairy sour cream
6 medium artichokes, prepared by basic directions
Cherry tomatoes, for garnish
Parsley, for garnish
Lemon butter, optional

In large skillet, melt butter. Add mushrooms and onion; sauté over medium heat, stirring occasionally, about five minutes or until onions are tender. Stir in chicken or turkey, rice, sherry, salt and poultry seasoning. Cook over medium-low heat, stirring occasionally, until mixture is heated through.

Remove from heat; stir in sour cream. Return to low heat and cook, stirring constantly, just until mixture is heated through. Spoon mixture into prepared, hot artichokes, spreading open center leaves. If desired, garnish with cherry tomatoes and parsley. If desired, serve with lemon butter for dipping artichoke leaves. Six servings.

GOOD ENOUGH TO EAT — Artichokes and potatoes are in abundant supply and are especially good when stuffed with meat and vegetable combinations to make a nutritious, attractive meal.

Many Vegetables Taste Better Raw

COLLEGE STATION — Mother Nature's "convenience foods" have a peel you can eat.

Many fresh vegetables actually taste best raw — try cucumbers, sweet peppers and onions this way, Mrs. Gwendolyn Ciyatt, consumer marketing information specialist, suggests.

"Tasty young carrots can be eaten peel and all — just rinse well, cut off the stem end and the tip of the root. Another vegetable in the 'eat-a-peel' category is summer squash. Just wash and slice," this specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

No cooking needed for cabbage and head lettuce either, when they are washed in cold water for a minute, then cut in wedges, chop and break coarsely and serve as a salad. "Sweet corn is a quick cooker when dunked in a kettle of boiling water. And tomato halves, seasoned and buttered, will broil in two or three minutes.

Wedding Dates Easy To Remember

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barnes lay claim to a record of an anniversary date.

Garza-Rucker Wedding Held In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO — Sandra Garza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gonzalo Garza, and Morton Valdean Rucker II, son of Mrs. Helen Rucker and H. J. Rucker of Midland, were married recently in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament in San Antonio.

The Rev. Ralph Smith officiated. Diana Garza was maid of honor for her sister. The best man was Douglas Rucker, brother of the bridegroom. Other attendants were Joleen Schridel, flower girl, and Philburt Munoz, ring bearer. The ushers were Hays Glover and Bob Guidmore.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The mother of the bridegroom was hostess to the rehearsal dinner in the 1836 Club on the San Antonio River.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside at 335 Lullwood St., San Antonio.

Present Bride 'Thoughtfulness' With 'Think' In It

COLLEGE STATION — Bridal gift ideas don't have to stop with June.

One authority describes a fresh twist in giving as "thoughtfulness with 'think' to it."

Incorporating personal experience, household hints, easy-to-follow tips and handy skills into a gift is home economist Janice Carberry's idea of thoughtful giving.

"Many novel ideas in gift giving are meaningful because they're based on the experience and expertise of the women who initiate them."

Mrs. Carberry prefaced specific ideas with the contention that bridal gifts are a special avenue to creativity for many people.

"They come up with things like writing their own 'how-to' cooking or serving tips in the margins of 'tried and true' recipes—or adding instructions on folding fitted sheets to a gift of bed liners, followed by a sheet-folding race at the bridal shower."

Another idea is to "loss in" an extra flat sheet from which the bride can make matching throw pillows or a table cover—and include instructions for that.

Mrs. Carberry, a family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, detailed other gift ideas.

"If you give money, add budget plans. Or if feasible, give a passbook to a new savings account with the first entry made, according to the couple's preferences regarding specific arrangements."

"Another idea is a kitchen wall clock, or other time machine, and ways for managing time. Sharing these kinds of secrets can help the bride with organization that often taken years of know-how to achieve."

"Of course, the bride's interest and skill level will determine many gift choices. 'Shop for the person, not for yourself' is a good rule of thumb," the specialist stressed.

"This is especially important with gifts relating to hobbies, talents or other interests the giver shares with the bride."

"Along with the material part of such a gift, it's thoughtful to add a personal note offering assistance—with plant care, sewing, quilting, tatting, home canning and freezing or even menu planning and shopping."

HINTS FROM Heloise

Hang In There, All You Volunteers!

Dear Heloise: We recently had a charity ball for an organization in our city. The members of our group volunteered their services in every way possible in order to have more money for the cause.

I manned the cloak room for one hour during the evening. When a couple stepped up to check their wraps, the lady said to put both garments on the same hanger!

Apparently, I looked at her rather strangely, because she explained she had two very good reasons for doing so. They were:

1. Her escort would only have to worry with one check.
2. When they were ready to leave, both garments would be together.

I am passing this along to you, because I am sure some of your readers must take care of cloak rooms and it might help them.

Also this method would save hangers because we ran out of hangers before the evening was over.

Had we been able to put two garments on the same hanger, this would not have occurred.

Prenuptial Event Fetes Bride-Elect

A "rice bag and pounding" party for Chris Hunt, bride-elect of Steve Schmidt, was held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Francis Martin, 3321 Cimmaron St.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Don McCoy of Plano, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hunt of El Paso and Rev. and Mrs. Richard Schmidt of Midland.

The serving table was covered with blue and centered with an arrangement of a sugar sack, flour sack and coffee can. Pink and blue daisies and mint were used in these containers.

Special guests were Mrs. Hunt, and Mrs. Jerry Bucklew of San Antonio, grandmother of the honoree.

I've been looking at the new Fall styles and I like the new look—longer skirts, softer colors, and a more feminine touch. They will be perfect for the rush parties I will attend at A&M. I especially like sweaters with skirts and pants for those cold football games. All in all, the new fashions should make my year at A&M more colorful and more enjoyable.

There has been extreme change in the new fall fashions. The apron and big dresses, along with longer skirts will be great for classes. Pants, jeans and their co-ordinates are great for football games, which are so popular in Midland. The new look in denim will fit well with almost all of your activities. The soft fall colors add a feminine touch to your wardrobe.

The pre-dominant look on the O.U. campus this fall will be corduroy pantsuits and skirts. With the arrival of the cold Northern winds will come the striped sweaters and knee-length skirts in shades of rust, hunter green and black.

Special Session (?)

Two Republicans—a senator and a representative—have urged President Ford to call Congress back from its month-long recess to deal with energy legislation.

The President, it is understood, seriously is considering the matter.

Sen. William V. Roth of Delaware and Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. of New York, who sounded the request, said the President made no commitment.

Congress recessed a week ago today and is not due to return until Sept. 3.

Mr. Ford has the constitutional power to interrupt the recess by calling a special session.

Whether or not this would be a smart thing to do is problematical. There is considerable doubt if Congress is interested really in coming up with a realistic energy bill, one which would help rather than hinder. President Ford certainly is aware of this situation and this undoubtedly will have a direct bearing on whether or not he will call Congress into session. The chances are that he will not.

Just prior to the recess, Congress approved a six-month extension of price controls which has kept the price of "old" oil, about 60 per cent of domestic production, at $5.25 a barrel. The President's proposals to phase out price controls over either 30 or 39 months were rejected by Congress.

Existing controls expire Aug. 31, at which time the price of oil could advance to world levels. The free market actually should determine the price of petroleum. This definitely would take care of the uncertainty which has confronted the petroleum industry all too long. The petroleum industry can operate under a free market economy.

President Ford, incidentally, has indicated that he will veto Congress' extension bill, despite the pleas of some members of Congress.

Congressional leaders, however, are holding their legislation until the end of the month to prevent a possible pocket veto which would eliminate an override attempt.

Roth and Conable pointed out that "Congress has repeatedly told the President and the American people it needs more time to develop an effective energy program, but instead of acting it has taken five recesses in seven months."

They added that "it's time that Congress showed some energy on the energy problem. The nation's welfare must take priority over the personal convenience of members of Congress."

This certainly is true, but what will it take to bring the majority of members of Congress to this realization?

Sunflower What???

Driving through the West Texas countryside these days, it is right startling all of a sudden to see huge fields of sunflowers.

Yes, this is correct—sunflowers, which have developed into one of the region's big cash crops.

It used to be that farmers would do most anything to get rid of them. Now, they are cultivated extensively—and profitably.

And it all has come about as a result of a health food craze.

And up Windber, Pa., way comes the newest and "nuttiest" ice cream flavor! You guessed it—SUNFLOWER! What else! The flavor is derived from a blend of sunflower kernels, seasoned in sea salt. (Don't ask us why the sea salt.)

Windber, Pa., incidentally, is in the same area (Latrobe) which gave America the first banana split in 1904. And now a scoop of sunflower ice cream to really split it!

Hiroshima: Where The Nuclear Age Began

MOSCOW — Although the threat of war, and the ultimate catastrophe, nuclear war, was the most profound reason for European Security Conference delegates to be here last week, the last thing on their minds was Hiroshima.

Yet, Hiroshima is where the Nuclear Age began — the place where the first atomic bomb was used for war. It was on a clear day, Aug. 6, 1945, 30 years ago, that the A-bomb detonated, sending a blinding purple flash across the city, and then a gigantic red ball of fire and deafening explosion.

Thirty years is a generation — hundreds of late-night movies; scores of international crises rendered in the press, on radio and television; millions of shells fired, bullets spent and bombs dropped in conventional war. But none of this hit the frightened world as hard, or left a more permanent memory, as Hiroshima.

At first, the Japanese had no idea what happened, though Japanese physicists knew that an A-bomb could be built. The people of Hiroshima were accustomed to air raids, indeed; went through one in the early hours that morning of Aug. 6, with the all-clear sounded only 35 minutes before the A-bomb hit.

In the immediate vicinity of the hypo-center (location of the bomb strike), the heat soared to 5,000 degrees centigrade. Soon, fire engulfed the city and a wind blew from all directions, finally pouring black rain in torrents on the survivors.

The black rain, bearing radiation, lasted two hours but left lifelong effects. In a way, those at the blast center were the most fortunate, for they simply disappeared into the atmosphere.

Those within a radius of two miles suffered the most horrible burns imaginable. Their blood cells were destroyed. They suffered enormous thirst and cried desperately for water. They bled and vomited and developed diarrhea. People were dying, but already looked like charcoal.

When the reports of this unimaginable disaster reached Tokyo, no one at headquarters could understand the situation. A city in havoc from one bomb? So the next day, investigation teams were sent to Hiroshima.

When the first team set its plane down at Hiroshima Airport, an army general aboard noticed that "every blade of grass had turned brown and bent in one direction. I looked toward town and found nothing obstructed my view except a tree trunk scorched totally black. Nobody met us. Finally, a man tottered out of a shelter. His face was charred. He was the airport commander."

One member of the team, Dr. Yoshio Nishima, asked for a corpse without exterior injuries, for post-mortem. When the greatly inflamed liver was extracted, he declared: "See this? There's no doubt about it now. This is the atomic bomb." (Dr. Nishima died in 1951 from liver cancer. His Hiroshima exposure killed too many white blood cells.)

Some 83,000 were killed in the blast; another 70,000 have since died from burns

'They've Put A Tail On Us, Sir'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — A small omission by President Ford before he departed for Helsinki struck anguish in the hearts of a few aging diplomats in one of Washington's forgotten corners.

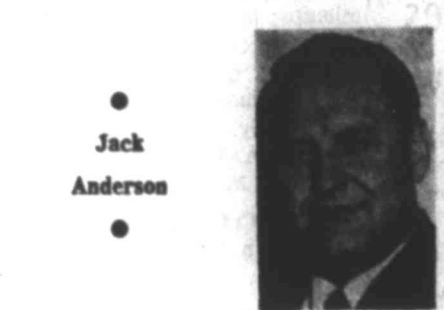

The advance text of the President's departing statement carried this passage: "The United States has never recognized the Soviet incorporation of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia and is not going to do so in Helsinki."

But when it came time to say the words, Ford left them out. The omission caused deep gloom in the dusty old mansions which house the Lithuanian and Latvian legations on Embassy Row.

The document President Ford signed in Helsinki, in effect, accepts the European borders as they existed at the end of World War II. This leaves Russia in permanent possession of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, which Soviet troops occupied in the spring of 1940.

The State Department insists the Helsinki agreement does no such thing. It "will in no way alter the existing U.S. position on the Baltic question," said Assistant State Secretary Arthur Hartman. And a White House spokesman declared that the President still stood by his deleted remarks about the Baltic states.

But the million Americans of Baltic blood have reason to fear the worst. The time is approaching, many suspect, when the fiction of an independent Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia will end. Their 35-year-old dream of returning to a free homeland, they fear, is about to fade away.

For Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, in his relentless pursuit of détente, is unsympathetic to their cause. The only reason the State Department still pays lip service to Baltic independence is to placate the vocal Baltic-American community.

Nowhere is the pathos of this situation more evident than in those gloomy mansions where the last vestiges of the legitimate Baltic governments are wasting away. Legations representing the three nations have been financed since 1940 with Baltic government assets, which the United States froze after the Soviet takeover.

In the sparse old mansions, the fading diplomats try to cover up the gnawing ache by reassuring one another that Gerald Ford won't let them down.

We spoke with the Lithuanian charge d'affaires, a kindly, Old World gentleman dressed in an immaculate but cheap blue suit. He led us through dark hallways, turning on lights as we walked, to a sparsely furnished drawing room "where it's cooler."

An aide, the only other accredited diplomat in the mission, pulled thick, velvet drapes across the drawing room

Oh, Those Smashing Tailors Of Beersheba

WASHINGTON — There has been a great deal of excitement in the United States and Israel over suspicions that Israel might be working on the development of an atomic bomb.

Apparently U.S. State Department officials are furious because, when the Israelis built their atomic energy plant 20 miles outside of Beersheba, they told the United States it was a textile plant. The United States was kept in the dark until recently when CIA photographs revealed that the building wasn't what it was cracked up to be.

It was just by chance that the Americans didn't find out the secret six months ago.

I heard the following story from an Israeli taxi driver high in government circles.

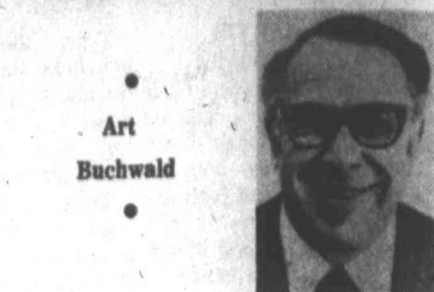

It seems that an important American diplomat stationed in Israel needed a new suit; and since someone had told him about the new textile plant, he decided to go out there and see if he could possibly get one wholesale.

As he drove South toward Beersheba, Israeli intelligence agents were alerted, and a half-hour before he got there the head of the atomic energy plant was notified that an American was coming to buy a suit.

A hurried conference was called with the other scientists to decide what to do. They were afraid that if they refused him entrance he might get suspicious and start prying into the plant, so the scientists agreed the only sensible thing to do was let the diplomat in.

The scientists all removed their white smocks, rolled up their sleeves and stuck pins and needles in their vests.

When the American diplomat arrived, he immediately was ushered into a large room where he saw men cutting suit forms out of asbestos patterns.

The head of the plant greeted the diplomat. "What can I do for you, sir?" he asked.

"I was wondering if I could buy a suit wholesale."

"Naturally. That is what we make here. What did you have in mind?"

"Well, what do you have?"

The head of the plant said, "Perhaps you would like something in cobalt blue? Or maybe a nice uranium brown? How about a cosmic gray double-breasted with pinstripe particles. It's the latest thing."

"No," said the diplomat, "I don't want anything flashy. You wouldn't have a light gray flannel?"

"Perhaps," the head said. "Please let us take your measurements. Just go in the fitting room behind that 6-foot wall of lead and take off your clothes."

The diplomat went in. "These fitting rooms are very well protected," he said.

The head of the plant smiled. "Our customers like privacy, and there's so much activity around here that we don't like things to pile up. Just a minute, I'll call the fitter. Shimson, would you please come in with the measuring instruments?"

Shimson yelled out, "Ten, nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two, one, oi!"

"What kind of measurements are those?" the diplomat wanted to know.

"Enough with the jokes, Shimson," the head said angrily, "let's have the measurements."

Shimson chuckled and called out, "Waist U-235; relatively good chest; there is a hexagonal prism in the left shoulder; the right sleeve needs reactor."

"What about the lapels?" the diplomat wanted to know.

"Don't worry," Shimson said, "we'll smash them down if they are too large."

Shimson measured the pants, and then the diplomat put on his clothes again. "Don't you have any materials to show me?" the diplomat asked.

"Are you interested in camel's hair?" the head of the plant wanted to know.

"I might be," the diplomat said. "Do you have any swatches?"

The head of the plant said, "We'll do better than that. Kishon, the man is interested in a camel's hair suit."

One of the men left the shop and five minutes or so later, he brought in a camel which he had borrowed from an Arab nomad.

The head of the plant said proudly, "Here we don't fool around with swatches. Here the customer sees the entire camel."

"All right," the diplomat said. "Can I charge it?"

"Negative or positive?" the head of the plant wanted to know.

"I don't care," the diplomat said.

"When should I come for my next fitting?"

The head of the plant said, "Why should you, an important man, drive to Beersheba again? Our tailor from our retail store in Tel Aviv will call on you. You still will be entitled to our wholesale price. But please, kind sir, do not tell your friends about us because we have too much work now, and if we take any more orders the plant will explode."

Richard Nixon: America's 'Political Exile' One Year Later

By KENNETH REICH
The Los Angeles Times
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — It was a March night at the Montebello (Calif.) Country Club and Julie Nixon Eisenhower, addressing a dinner of the Whittier (Calif.) Historical Society, had a rare direct message from her father.

There were three things, she said, that Richard M. Nixon had told her to say had impressed him about Whittier when he was a child.

One was the love of family there. A second was the devotion to church. The third was the "spirit of racial equality" that permeated the Whittier community. Her father had been so disappointed in later life, she said, when he left Whittier and found that the same spirit did not motivate others.

After her speech, the young Nixon aide who had accompanied Mrs. Eisenhower to the gathering exclaimed in a sincere tone to a reporter: "Wasn't that sweet?"

The aide was Dr. Franklin Gannon, a Rhodes scholar who is helping the former President write his memoirs. The speech and the comment he made on it — in the view of some of those who have been closest to the former President — reflect the atmosphere of unreality that they believe surrounds Nixon in San Clemente as he works on the opening chapters of a much-heralded book for which he stands to receive a $2.5 million advance.

One year ago today Nixon announced his resignation from the Presidency at the climax of an unprecedented personal and governmental scandal. The next day he arrived in San Clemente, beginning what his White House news secretary, Ronald Ziegler, has called "the first American political exile."

It remains by most evidence a sad, often lonely experience. Nixon seldom emerges into public view, his health remains precarious, his views toward what has befallen him often are bitter and doubt often is expressed by those in contact with him that his book — his only present attempt at public self-expression — will be a candid one.

The first 200 pages of what may be two volumes beginning to appear in late 1976 or early 1977 are due at the Beverly Hills offices of agent Irving Lazar in September. Hoping to negotiate a lucrative magazine serial and paid when the CIA, FBI and other investigations will alter public views of Watergate.

"More revelations have to come out," Korff said, "more staggering to the imagination, and then there will be a sharp change of opinion."

Similar "perspective" views are expressed by former Nixon speechwriter Patrick Buchanan. Now a columnist, Buchanan is said to have turned down a proposal from the former President that he move to San Clemente and assist him with the book.

Mention is made in such Nixon defenses of such official aspects of the Watergate scandal as bugging, wiretapping, misuse of the CIA and other government agencies and the cover-up.

But the personal aspects of the scandal — the expenditure of more than $1 million in federal funds on Nixon's private properties, the assessment of $476,431 in back income taxes against him and the acceptance of large gifts by the Nixon family from foreign governments — go unmentioned and are said not to be part of the book plans either.

Physically, Nixon has improved, although he remains about 10 pounds under normal weight, still sleeps 12 hours a night, tires easily and must have his blood pressure checked twice a day. He is under medication to prevent a recurrence of the phlebitis that made him critically ill last fall.

He generally puts in a full work day, six hours of it usually on the book, golfs weekly, swims regularly, has lost his phlebitis-caused limp and is seeing a wide variety of visitors.

Two pictures of Nixon emerge in interviews with those who have seen him. One is that he is making physical and emotional progress, that he is doing relatively well. Another is that he remains on very shaky ground. One source goes so far as to suggest that Nixon is incapable of being honest about the events which forced him to resign.

But the fact that his attorneys recently agreed to have him submit to 11 hours of questioning by Watergate Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth Jr. and staff attorneys at San Clemente indicates that they thought he would bear up satisfactorily under such a test.

A number of those who have dropped in once or irregularly to see Nixon report finding him in good spirits. For instance, Margaret Brock, long active in the California Republican party, says that on a recent 45-minute call the former President seemed to her "very settled down in his office... very keen, very alert, right with it, politically and otherwise." Actor Michael York, who also dropped in, found him "gracious and charming."

But a man who has both visited him in San Clemente and entertained him at his own home, when asked about Nixon's health, replied simply: "I hope he gains peace of mind."

Korff, asked when the former President might grant interviews, answered that he does not think he is emotionally ready yet.

Nixon is known to have seen at least one journalist, New York Times columnist William Safire, but he agreed to see him only as a former presidential speechwriter, not as a journalist.

Those seeing Nixon or visiting his offices must be cleared in advance. Gates to the Nixon compound and working offices are electronically controlled and the grounds are continually patrolled by elements of the 33-man Secret Service contingent which guards him.

Even the phone numbers of the Nixon offices, which are run at public expense, are unlisted, and a reporter who tried recently several times in one day to reach Nixon aide Jack Brennan found the next morning that the main office number had been changed overnight.

The former President frequently walks secluded beaches, mainly on the nearby Camp Pendleton Marine base, but he apparently does not feel free to walk the beach immediately in front of his home, which has been opened to the public since he resigned and is now often a campsite for surfers and other youngsters.

A visit to this beach not long ago found campers expressing hostility to Nixon.

"The man who lives in that house over there has been on public welfare for 20 years," one youth said, while a Secret Service man standing on a hill inside the estate eyed the scene through binoculars. Someone had painted in big yellow letters on the Nixon beach fence the slogan, "Tourists Go Home."

Recent pictures showing Nixon greeting bathing suit-clad young people on a beach were taken at Red Beach on the Camp Pendleton base, where access is limited to those with some connection with the military.

The former President reportedly has encountered some hostile gestures from motorists when he has been recognized on drives in the San Clemente area and vandals recently painted big "X's" in the Avenida del Presidente in the Avenida del Presidente street signs leading to his home.

But there is support for the former President, too. Scores of San Clemente volunteers, coordinated in part by the wife of the local police chief, regularly have worked at Nixon's offices, helping to sort through and answer the 2 million pieces of mail he reportedly has received since his resignation. Nixon aides say that much of it is sympathetic.

If there is any area of the former President's life that seems definitely brighter now than in the past, it is personal finances.

The book advances received from the Warner Paperback Library may amount to $700,000 by fall. Nixon already has advised his colleagues at USC that nothing will be done toward constructing the library until the courts rule on the dispute, a ruling which is not now expected until the late fall and which may well be appealed.

At the end of July, USC informed the Nixon Law Office Preservation Foundation that a proposal by it to sell to the university Nixon's first law office in La Habra, Calif., also must remain contingent on the court ruling.

Although the House of Representatives cut a Ford Administration request for $263,000 for the present fiscal year back substantially, the Senate voted less of a cut and the compromise gave Nixon more funds ($210,000, including $60,000 for his pension and $150,000 for staff salaries and office expenses) than he might have expected.

Furthermore, the tremendous legal expenses that have made life difficult for lesser Watergate figures are not proving a burden for the former President. The Korff fund-raising effort is increasingly well organized around the country and seems likely to pay all legal costs.

Russia wing and a wing devoted to his family — may be more ambitious than USC's, where there has been some opposition in the faculty toward the library.

'We'll have our day again,' former President tells visitor television appearance by Nixon to precede the book, Lazar recently expressed hope that these first pages "will be his best shot."

However, reports emanating from San Clemente are that, aside from a preface, the former President is proceeding chronologically with his writing and is not yet out of the 1940s.

The few Nixon Watergate comments that have been reported indicate that when he does reach the Watergate episodes his theme is apt to be exculpatory. Both the CBS and NBC television networks have recently broken off negotiations with Lazar, apparently in part because they could not obtain an agreement that Nixon would be willing to discuss or answer questions on Watergate in proposed documentaries on his presidency.

Far from admitting personal guilt beyond "mistakes and misjudgments," Nixon has been reported to have discussed the role of aides, compared wrongdoing in his administration with alleged wrongdoing of a more serious nature in other administrations and expressed the view that, when his perspective put in historic perspective,

All 131 Aboard Survive When Airliner Crashes At Denver

DENVER (AP) — "It was like trying to get out of a sardine can," said one of the passengers after a Continental Airlines 727 jetliner plummeted from an altitude of 100 feet on takeoff and skidded across a grassy field. All 131 persons aboard survived the belly-down crash.

Hospitals reported that 50 persons were treated, 26 were admitted.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) said it would be premature to speculate on the cause of Thursday's crash. But he added that wind turbulence had been reported in the area.

Passengers and airport officials said an engine burned briefly, apparently before the crash, but there were no flames inside the plane.

The FAA spokesman said the plane, on a flight from Denver to Wichita, Kan., took off from Stapleton International Airport about 4:20 p.m. with 124 passengers and 7 crew members aboard. He said it ascended about 100 feet, then dropped on its belly in a grassy field just beyond the runway and skidded for a quarter of a mile. The landing gear had been retracted before the plane hit, he said. The impact cracked the plane's front and tail sections.

Ed Suddarth of Los Angeles, a passenger, said he noticed the jet was not making an ascent as steep as required. He recalled telling a companion, "This plane is not going to make it." Then the jet hit the ground. "There wasn't any warning, there was nothing," Suddarth said.

He said several passengers began screaming but there was no fire in the passenger area "and that's what saved our lives."

The passengers rushed to escape and "it was like trying to get out of a sardine can," he added.

Lois Anderson of Wichita said she had no time to worry as the plane descended. "These things happen so fast," she said.

Bert Walther of Ponca City, Okla., said, "I heard some screams, but, in general, people behaved very well."

Suddarth said that as the plane crashed, he thought of the June 24 crash of an Eastern Airlines 727 at New York. That crash claimed 114 lives and was the worst single plane disaster in U.S. aviation history.

'One Cottonburger — Hold The Mustard' May One Day Become A Reality

By ANN WORLEY
The Dallas Times Herald
NEW ORLEANS — It will undoubtedly be awhile before the sign out in front of the corner drive-in proudly flashes "16 billion Cottonburgers Sold," but that day may be coming.

And, though it may be comforting to know that if you like your hamburger with mustard and pickles you'll probably like your cottonburger the same way, the thought of ordering a juicy, medium rare cotton-eye steak is still rather jolting.

When the cottonburger does make its appearance, the chances are that its production will have been developed and perfected in the test-tube crammed rooms down the long, tiled corridors of the Southern Regional Research Center (SRRC) in New Orleans — in conjunction with work by Texas Researchers and private industry.

A recent tour of the SRRC, the home of 155 research scientists currently, gave an insight into how those scientists are playing modern-day pioneers, perfecting technology in many areas, all dealing with local crops, cotton, rice, peanuts and sweet potatoes, for example.

The SRRC operates under the auspices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service and is one of five such centers. The others are located in Philadelphia; Peoria, Ill.; Berkeley, Calif.; and Athens, Ga.

All but the more recent Athens facility were built in 1940 under Congressional authorization and all are refunded annually by Congress as part of the annual agricultural appropriations legislation.

Initially the funding of the New Orleans facility was provided by a surplus of cotton.

Not only did the cotton farmer not have the market he wanted for all of his product, he also didn't have the research facilities to come up with more uses for that product to increase the market. Even today, 35 years later, cotton remains king of the facility, with some 87 per cent of the research conducted at SRRC dealing with the cotton plant in one way or another.

The decision of what commodities will be researched at the center remains in the hands of Congress, but the scientists do retain some flexibility. In the case of cotton, for example, the scientists as a group determine the priorities of the research needs in deciding what percentage of available funds will be given to fiber, what percentage to the study of food products.

"Most of our ideas come from scientists," according to Ben Kopacz, SRRC's assistant director. "We do not work on any individual concern. We work on national concerns and problems — pollution, energy, world food problems, human health and safety."

World food problems, the need for feeding more people a better diet from less raw materials, have prompted the study of obtaining a high-quality protein from the lowly cottonseed, for example. At SRRC scientists developed the method for removing the gossypol, a substance in cottonseed that is toxic to humans. Corresponding Research in Texas has followed other paths from production of the cottonseed flour through work by Texas Tech University and private industry in Lubbock to Research with feeding diets high in cottonseed protein by Texas Woman's University in Denton.

At SRRC currently, of the 87 per cent of research devoted to cotton, roughly 70 per cent deals with fiber and related areas. Some 17 per cent is being devoted to edible items such as cottonseed protein and oil. That leaves 13 per cent which is being divided between peanuts and other commodities including sweet potatoes, rice and sugar cane.

The "cottonburger" itself may never come about under that name but it could do so either with cottonseed protein either with cottonseed protein extending beef as consumers have seen soy protein do, or with cottonseed protein simulating beef in a beef-less product. The scientists at SRRC know how to combine the right proportions of cottonseed protein isolate with water, know just how much heat to add and know that all it takes then is a couple of beef bouillon cubes to make a product they say the average person couldn't tell from ground beef. The process, of course, is more complicated than that description sounds.

For years the cottonseed was virtually ignored as a possibility for human nutrition because of two factors, the toxic gossypol and the emphasis on other vegetable alternatives such as soy protein.

Now, in the face of food shortage — and even more important protein shortages — for many of the world's peoples, the emphasis on finding new protein sources has been expanded from soybeans to just about anything that isn't nailed down as the world population continues to increase. And, now, scientists, primarily through the development of the Liquid Cyclone Process (LCP) at SRRC, have discovered a way to remove the gossypol from the cottonseed, leaving materials that are high in protein and digestible by humans.

The main thrust of the SRRC research when it comes to cottonseed for dinner is to study the production of protein isolates and their uses in foods. The possibilities are almost staggering — cottonseed flour is 45 to 55 per cent protein, cottonseed protein concentrate is 70 per cent protein and cottonseed protein isolate is 90 per cent protein.

Not only that, the protein content of the cottonseed flour can be increased by scientific methods that toss out some of the components, leaving more of the protein-filled parts to up the protein percentage. Carrying that theory farther is how one arrives with the concentrate and the isolate.

The cottonseed proteins have a blandness going for them so they take well to flavorings. What they don't have so far is an absence of color, but the SRRC scientists continue in their attempts to overcome that hurdle. The goal is a product that can be used in almost any food item to boost the protein content without adding any flavor or color of its own.

There are two forms of the cottonseed protein isolate. One is hard to dissolve in liquid — not good for "beefing up" soft drinks, perhaps, but with possibilities as a protein supplement in baked goods and cereals. The other is highly soluble, even in citrus acid — that could lead to a "super orange juice," maybe, a drink that could pack a terrific nutritional punch.

That latter form of the isolate, the one that is soluble, is the one that can be "texturized" in a variety of ways ranging from a chewy mass — the cottonburger — to a clear gel.

Even more research, this of a strictly agricultural nature, has succeeded in producing a "glandless" or gossypol-free cottonseed. Future research will determine which path science follows, the glandless variety or the original type with the gossypol removed through the LCP process or by another method. It should be said that while progress to date has been great, much work remains to be done.

Jaycees To Host State Meeting
Midland Jaycees will be host for a conference and district workshop here Saturday.

The one-day event in Midland's Desert Inn is planned to allow each member of the Jaycee state president's cabinet an opportunity to present a program on his individual area of responsibility. The workshop will offer "how-to" sessions on projects, competition, finances and membership recruitment. Each session will be followed by a question-and-answer period.

Saturday's meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m.

Harris County Sets Record Bond Vote

HOUSTON (AP) — A $175 million improvements bond election has been set for Sept. 27 by the Harris County Commissioners Court.

The amount is $25 million more than the court had discussed prior to setting the date. It also is a record proposal for the county.

The proposal, which does not call for a tax increase, includes $90 million for roads and bridges, $65 million for flood control, $15 million for jail facilities and $5 million for parks.

Ford Warns New Mideast War Could Bring U.S.-Soviet Confrontation

By RUDY ABRAMSON
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — President Ford said Thursday the House has jeopardized American foreign policy and undercut national security by refusing to lift the embargo against shipment of military arms to Turkey.

Using his strongest language since the dispute arose over Turkish military arms sales, the President called House refusal to lift the embargo "the most serious, wrong decision since it has been in Washington, which is 27 years."

The President's comments in an hour-long televised interview on the Public Broadcasting System came a week after Turkey turned down his offer of $50 million in outright military grants in exchange for continued permission for U.S. operations on Turkish military bases.

Though Ford has vowed to continue pressing for removal of the embargo imposed by Congress early this year, the administration appears left with little leverage.

In the interview Thursday, Ford blamed the Cyprus crisis, which led to the congressional order of arms embargo, on the previous Greek government, which sought to unseat Archbishop Makarios from the presidency on Cyprus.

"It was the Greek Government; it was the previous Greek government that tried to throw Makarios out and assassinate him and the previous Greek government (which) wanted to move in with Greek troops and take over Cyprus," the President said. "As a result of Greek violations, the Turks moved in and, unfortunately, have dominated the situation. But the whole . . . problem arose by the unwise action of the previous Greek government."

The embargo against U.S. military aid and sales to Turkey was imposed after the Turks invaded the island, Turkey, after congressional refusal to lift the ban, has ordered the United States to end activities on more than 20 bases in the country.

The President said refusal to lift the embargo has weakened the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, damaged U.S. national security interests, and has failed to create conditions for settlement of the Cyprus issue.

Two days short of his first anniversary in office, Ford was interviewed for an hour by Public Broadcast System correspondents Paul Duke and Martin Agronsky. The interview, taped in the solarium on the third floor of the White House, was telecast on about 150 stations Thursday evening.

In response to questions, Ford also renewed his warnings that failure to settle the Middle East dispute could bring the United States and the Soviet Union to a direct confrontation.

Ford said that since he took office last August, the Soviet Union has acted in a "very responsible way" in the explosive Middle East dispute. But he warned that in another Mideast war "the potential of a confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union is a possibility."

Both Israel and Egypt must now understand the necessity of being flexible, he said.

"Israel has to be more flexible, and, I think, Egypt has to respond. If there isn't movement in the Middle East right now, the potential for war is increased significantly and a war in the Middle East has a broader potential ramifications than any time in the past."

The President cited restoration of confidence in government as the chief accomplishment of his administration thus far.

But he predicted the future will recognize his tenure in office. "For a successful implementation of economic policy that will provide jobs in the private sector . . . and in foreign policy that will expand our efforts for peace throughout the world."

Richard M. Nixon announced

one year ago today that he would resign from the presidency and Ford was sworn in the following day, Aug. 9.

That unprecedented change of leadership, Ford said Thursday, proved that the constitutional system works. He said he has worked to insure that a Watergate scandal cannot occur again.

Asked about a statement by former Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski that Nixon would still be President if he had destroyed White House tape recordings, Ford replied, "If he (Jaworski) made that judgment, I certainly am not going to undercut it."

On other subjects, the President:

— Firmly defended the East-West security agreement signed last week in Helsinki, saying it makes less likely the possibility of military conflict in Europe. Besides opening up East-West communications, he said, the agreement improves chances for reductions of military forces in Europe by both Eastern and Western countries.

— Said the current U.S. welfare system either ought to be junked and replaced by a new system or at least "tightened up very, very greatly." The domestic council will conduct hearings across the country this fall, he said, to solicit public and expert views on the new directions for social welfare programs.

— Said congressional control over the Central Intelligence Agency must be strengthened, but refused to discuss specific recommendations he will make to the Congress.

Refugee Thousands Flee Angola On 'Safety Trek'

By LARRY HEINZERLING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Tens of thousands of refugees are pouring out of Angola on a "great trek" to safety from the violence-torn Portuguese colony where an estimated 5,000 people have died in the past year in fighting between rival liberation groups.

The massive exodus is the largest flood of white refugees fleeing an African nation since the bloodshed and chaos in the former Belgian Congo (now Zaire) in the early 1960s.

Abandoning their homes, farms and jobs, they are leaving by air, land and sea in a desperate bid to escape the growing bloodshed in what is potentially one of Africa's most prosperous nations. Many have flown to Portugal but others are escaping in long convoys of cars and trucks to emergency refugee centers in neighboring South-West Africa.

Heart Surgeon Michael Debakey Weds Actress

By Bob Barnes

TREMSBUETTEL, West Germany (AP) — Heart surgeon Michael Debakey has invited film stars and royalty to his wedding in this village near his bride's hometown.

The 67-year-old Debakey and 32-year-old actress Karin Fehlihaber tied the knot officially in a civil ceremony in the United States.

Ex-King Leopold of Belgium, actor Curt Jurgens and singer Frank Sinatra are among those invited to the reception in the 18th century Tremsbuettel castle, which has been converted into a luxury hotel.

It was the second marriage for the surgeon from Texas, who has four grown sons. His first wife died and he met Miss Fehlihaber two years later at a cocktail party in Houston in 1973.

Three rival African movements are fighting for control of Angola, which is scheduled to be granted independence on Nov. 11.

The three rival movements are the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, the Chinese and Zaire-supported National Front for the Liberation of Angola and the socialist nonaligned Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

150,000 Already Gone

Angola was home to about 450,000 whites before the collapse of the 500-year-old Portuguese empire last year following a military coup in April. An estimated 150,000 have already fled the country and returned to Portugal on commercial flights from the Angolan capital of Luanda.

Portugal's national airline, TAP, has been unable to cope with the refugees. Airline authorities recently announced plans to use charter flights to help evacuate about 200,000 in the next three months.

However, thousands who are fearful that the airlift may never get off the ground have made their own plans. They are filtering south by car and truck to the more peaceful southern area of Angola.

20,000 Now In Lisbon

An estimated 20,000 are already crowded into schools and exhibition halls in Nova Lisboa, the country's second largest town.

Hundreds are arriving daily from other towns and villages to the north and Red Cross officials predict the tide from the countryside could eventually involve more than 100,000 people.

South African authorities estimate about 20,000 persons are trying to reach South-West Africa, and that some 2,000 refugees have already passed through the border town of Oshakati, including 1,000 last week.

Lumbermen Stripping Proposed Big Thicket Park Area

DALLARDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — While two congressmen attempt to push through a bill to protect the East Texas "Big Piney Woods" from lumber harvesters, buzz saws and bulldozers are wreaking havoc on the area, environmentalists say.

U.S. Reps. Charles Wilson of Lubbock and Bob Eckhardt of Houston are sponsors of the bill that would provide immediate transfer of Big Thicket land to the federal government.

Environmentalists say the Big Thicket National Preserve, 84,550 acres of Deep East Texas forest, is being despoiled by small lumber companies.

The National Park Service, which plans to buy the area in the next one to three years, says there is nothing it can do about destruction of the woods.

The Big Thicket, 12 separate pockets of quiet wilderness, was designated a national biological preserve last October.

Since then, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Park Service have been surveying the land preparatory to acquisition.

No money has been appropriated yet for purchase but Park Service officials have said they expect some funding within six months to a year.

The Big Thicket Association, the organization that spearheaded efforts to save the forest as a public monument, estimates that about 2,000 acres of the woods have been stripped of their marketable timber.

Maxine Johnston, past president of the association, and now its legislative committee chairman, recently led a Wilson aide and a troop of newsmen to the scene of one logging operation.

Miss Johnston expressed her discontent above the roar of machinery, the crackling of snapping branches and the thud of tall trees slamming into the ground.

"The landowners have got to know that the Park Service will pay them for their land as well as the timber standing on it. Many of them think they will be paid just a pittance, but that is not true," she said.

Park Service spokesmen have confirmed that the landowners will be paid market value for their land and trees when money is appropriated by Congress.

"Until we purchase the land, there is really nothing we can do," said Rinehart Johannsen, local Park Service acquisition officer.

"We do not own the land, and we cannot stop them. It is their property, and they can do what they want with it until we acquire it."

Johannsen said the only possible avenue he can see to stop the cutting would be a lawsuit by individuals asking for an in-

Jacobsen Bond Hearing Set At San Angelo Today

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — One-time milk lobbyist Jake Jacobsen was to appear here today at a bond hearing in connection with state charges of felony theft pending against him.

Jacobsen was released from the Travis County Jail late Wednesday after he agreed to appear at the bond hearing.

The Austin lawyer was arrested following indictment by a Tom Green Grand Jury here charging him with four counts of felony theft stemming from an $825,000 loan he authorized while he was an officer at the San Angelo First Savings and Loan Association.

Trial For Captain Of Cuban Vessel Moved To Houston

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox says the trial of a captain of a Cuban boat seized last weekend by the Coast Guard in the Gulf of Mexico will be transferred to a federal court in Houston.

The captain, Robert Ayo Gonzales, pleaded innocent Thursday to a federal charge of fishing in U.S. territorial waters.

Gonzales entered the plea at arraignment here before Cox.

Ayo waived his right to a jury trial. The Class A misdemeanor charge carries a penalty of up to one year in prison or a $100,000 fine, or both.

Cox said he could not try the case next week as requested by Ayo's lawyer, Michael Krinsky of New York.

The judge is to meet Monday with Krinsky and Ayo's local counsel, Rudolph Garza, to set a date and time for trial.

Mills To Face Masonic Trial

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, still recovering from a five-month bout with alcoholism, faces a trial Aug. 22 that could result in his ouster from the Masons.

Grand Master J. Lee Overstreet said the proceedings were brought because of Mills' drinking and escapades with stripper Fanne Foxe.

"I can't talk to you about it, I just can't talk to you about it," said Mills, a 32nd degree Mason. "I'll tell you all about it after it's over."

Mills, 66, former House Ways and Means Committee chairman, returned to Congress in May after being hospitalized for treatment of alcoholism.

Dockers Refuse To Load Grain Ship

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — A Yugoslav cargo ship partly loaded with American wheat bound for the Soviet Union sat in port today after longshoremen refused to finish loading the grain.

The six or seven longshoremen who were loading the vessel left their jobs about 3 p.m. Thursday, according to a clerk at the Continental Grain Corp. dockside elevator here.

The work stoppage apparently was the first in response to a recent resolution by the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) not to load grain bound for Russia from East and Gulf Coast ports unless its members are convinced it will not damage the U.S. economy.

There were indications that prices go up here. I don't blame them."

The crewman was referring to the sale of American wheat to the Soviet Union.

The ship's chief officer, Lujio Domacin, said the ship cannot be moved until it is full or the 20,000 tons already on board are removed.

Union sources said local ILA officials will check with ILA national headquarters in New York before taking any further action, the newspaper said.

Tom Sexton, chairman of the Maritime Commission in Corpus Christi, said the local longshoremen had notified him they will not load any Russian-bound grain, in accordance with the national ILA decree.

A spokesman for the ILA local said the absent dock workers were "sick."

The newspaper quoted one of the 31 Banija's crewmen as saying, "People are mad because it's making the bread

Beware Of Doubling For One-Trick Set

When the opponents bid game, West made the voluntarily, beware of doubling "safe" opening lead of the king for a one-trick set. A redouble may put you in a position where you are giving 4 to 1 odds that you will defeat the contract, and you are seldom that sure.

West might well have opened the queen of clubs. South would play low, and East could defeat the contract by taking the king of clubs and shifting to a diamond.

SETS UP SPADE

West took the ace of spades and led another club. South ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and led the ten of spades from dummy. He discarded the low diamond from his hand, letting West win a third spade trick with the jack.

South was satisfied, since he had set up dummy's last spade as the eventual tenth trick for a score of 1,000 points.

West could have defeated the contract by a club lead, but this was undeserved luck; the cards might well have been placed so that no defense would work. If West had passed, his opponents would have scored only 620 points. The double cost him 410 points and could hardly gain more than 100 points.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your left, bids one diamond, and partner doubles. The next player bids one spade. You hold: S-Q 10 9 5 H-K J 7 D-8 7 5 C-A 6 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Double. Your partner should have good spades for his takeout double, and you should defeat one spade badly if the opponents stay there. The spade bid may be an attempt to talk you out of your best suit (for example, the bidder may have only one or two low spades), and the double is the best way to expose the ploy.

South Viets Now Ready To Discuss Offshore Oil

Agence France-Press
HONG KONG — South Vietnam is ready to discuss offshore oil prospecting and exploration with foreign governments and companies, according to a statement by the Provisional Revolutionary Government read over Gai Phong radio.

The statement, monitored here, said all agreements for the search and exploitation of natural resources concluded by the former regime headed by ex-President Nguyen Van Thieu were null and void. Now that South Vietnam was "entirely free," the PRG had decided to continue the search for oil on South Vietnam's continental shelf and would warmly welcome foreign participation.

Firms which previously operated in South Vietnam were eligible to open discussions with the PRG, the statement declared. Any agreements must respect the sovereignty and independence of the South Vietnamese people and would have to be on the basis of a partnership in which the partners shared the profits equally, the statement stressed.

The announcement was foreshadowed by an interview given recently by Nguyen Huu Tho, the president of the National Liberation Front, who said South Vietnam badly needed scientific and technical cooperation with other countries in order to promote development and that Saigon was willing to accept international cooperation over offshore oil under certain conditions.

Sterling Gas Pool Gains Extensions

Two extensions have been completed in the upper Cisco gas pay in the Credo, East field of Sterling County, by The Sterling Co., Midland.

No. 1-29 Reynolds, 3/4 mile southeast extension, finalized for a calculated, absolute open flow of 620,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 7,388-7,960 feet, which had been acidized with 3,500 gallons and fractured with 65,000 gallons and 65,000 pounds.

Location is 1,200 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 22, block 23, H&TC survey, eight miles northwest of Sterling City.

Second Gasser

No. 1-32 Reynolds, 1/4 mile southwest of the No. 1-29, was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 800,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with gas-liquid ratio of 6,833-1.

Production was through perforations at 7,508-8,073 feet, which had been acidized with 5,500 gallons and fractured with 70,000 gallons and 70,000 pounds. Gravity of the distillate is 46.4 degrees.

Location is 1,157 feet from north and 1,223 feet from west lines of section 32, block 23, H&TC survey, eight miles northwest of Sterling City.

Both of the projects were slated to be drilled as wildcats.

Shallow Explorer Set In Val Verde

Foy Boyd & Associates, Midland, intends to drill a 2,500-foot explorer in South Val Verde County, 1 1/2 mile north of Comstock. It is No. 1 Robertson.

Drill site is 990 feet from north and east lines of section 84, block N, GH&SA survey, six miles south of Wink. Planned abstract 1944, some 35 miles southwest of the Vinagaron (Pennsylvania) field.

API Publishes New Pipeline Map Set

WASHINGTON — The 1975 edition of a set of six detailed maps of the nation's liquid petroleum pipelines, prepared by the American Petroleum Institute's Department of Transportation, is now available.

Stock Offers Inundating Minnesotans

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — State Securities Commissioner John R. Larson says Minnesotans are being flooded with offers to buy unregistered securities of oil and gas firms.

Larson said Thursday he has issued "cease and desist" orders against two Texas companies offering interests in oil and gas lands. Larson said the interests are considered securities under state law and must be registered before they can be sold.

Named in the orders were Gulf States Energy Corp., Dallas, and Palmer Petroleum, Inc., Gladewater, Tex. Larson said some oil and gas firms have registered their offerings with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) but not with individual states. Larson said he has asked the SEC to help in halting unlawful sales of securities in states that have their own strict regulations.

BTA Schedules Deep Exploration

BTA Oil Producers, Midland, filed permit application to drill a one-mile south outcrop to the Wink, South (Montoya-Ellenburger) field of extreme Southwest Winkler County. It is No. 3-7407 JV-S Winkler.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and east lines of section 84, block F, G&MMB&A survey, six miles south of Wink. Planned abstract 1944, some 35 miles southwest of the Vinagaron (Pennsylvania) field.

The maps cover the contiguous 48 states and the southern portion of Canada. The maps show ownership and line size of the pipelines, the location of pumping stations, terminals, LPG underground storage, refineries, gas processing plants, oil fields, and state, province, county and parish boundaries.

The maps measure 42 by 96 inches. The scale is one inch to six miles, cover areas of heavy pipeline concentration, including Beaumont-Port Arthur, Chicago, Cushing (Okla.), Los Angeles, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

The maps may be ordered by individual sections, by sets of three, or by a full set of six, from the Publications and Distribution Section, American Petroleum Institute, 1801 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Strawn Producer Completes In King

The Anne Tandy field of Southeast King County gained its sixth 5,400 Strawn well and a 1/2-mile southeast extension to that pay with completion of Taubert, Steeds-Gunn & Moders, Wichita Falls, No. 8-N S. Burnett Estate.

It finished 220 barrels of 38-gravity oil per day, with gas-oil ratio of 200-1, through perforations at 5,388-5,396 feet.

Alaska Pipeline Contractors Facing First Big Project Goal

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Pipeline construction contractors on the trans Alaska pipeline project are facing the first major goal of their portion of the project: 50 per cent completion by the end of the 1975 construction season.

The goal was set by the pipeline department of Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the firm responsible for the design, construction and operation of the 800-mile-long line.

For the week ending July 20, 22.6 per cent of the pipeline portion of the project had been completed, including placement of 55.6 miles of pipe (45.5 miles below ground, 5.5 miles above ground and 4.6 miles of river crossings).

Frank Moolin Jr., senior project manager of the pipeline department, said contractors will attempt to complete 50 per cent of the total work effort by the beginning of November. This includes right-of-way clearing, workpad construction, a portion of the above ground pipe support system and a considerable amount of pipe installation.

The pipeline is scheduled to begin operation by mid-1977 and to reach initial operating capacity of 1.2 million barrels daily by November 1977.

During the week ending July 20, the contractor for section 20, H. C. Price Co., completed 124,000 cubic yards of gravel workpad, bringing the total completed in that section to about two-thirds of the workpad required. Section 3 extends 145 miles from south of Fairbanks north to the Yukon River.

Also in section 3, with 10 drills now operating, 256 vertical support members were set during the period. This was an increase of 175 over the previous week.

Price has completed installation of 7,416 of the 13,278 vsm's needed in section 3. For the entire project, more than 70,000 vsm's will be needed to elevate about half of the pipeline.

The section 3 project manager for Alyeska, Marty Nelson, said some of the most unpredictable terrain on the pipeline lies in his territory. He said several design changes from buried to above-ground installation of pipe, and vice versa, have been required in the section due to soil conditions. Such changes require time not entirely provided for in construction schedules, Nelson said.

However, Alyeska engineers have discovered that a portion of workpad originally planned for winter construction can be redesigned for summer construction.

To make river crossings on the Chena River and Moose Creek in section 3, the pipe will be concrete-coated in the field. The crossings will be installed in winter when the river and creek are frozen.

Other winter work is scheduled, also. At Globe Creek, survey stakes indicate where crews will construct a workpad through the area during winter.

A girder bridge is scheduled for construction in the section, at the Tatolina River. From Lavenogood pipeline camp to the Yukon River, work is under way on development of material sites, access roads and pipeline workpad.

Elsewhere, Associated-Green, the pipeline construction contractor for section 4 north of the Yukon River, placed 509 vsm's to lead all other sections. Total vsm's in place in section 4 was 4,298, of 14,838 vsm's needed.

In section 5, Arctic Constructors completed 3.9 miles of river crossings on the Sagavanirktok River, north of Happy Valley pipeline camp.

At the terminal at Valdez, tank construction continued on three ballast water treatment tanks, site excavation, the east tank farm and berths for crude oil tanker transports.

On one of three water ballast tanks, workers completed the top ring of steel wall, roof supports and framing.

Site work and excavation continued for the power plant and vapor recovery plant at the terminal.

Tank construction continued at the east tank farm. Roof supports and framing were erected on three tanks. Foundations were completed for two tanks, and foundations were under construction on three others.

Fast Tripping With Kissinger

By RICHARD E. MEYER

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —

Monday, 9:15 p.m. Henry Kissinger's shuttle is off and flying. Gov. Patrick Lucey tells Kissinger's dinner audience not to worry. He and Gov. Wendell Anderson of neighboring Minnesota like the state line where it is, thank you.

Tuesday, 1:15 p.m., in Minneapolis, Sen. Hubert Humphrey introduces Henry Kissinger to 1,380 persons for lunch. Humphrey makes what he calls the supreme sacrifice. So Henry Kissinger can begin his speech, Humphrey stops talking.

Still Tuesday, now 7:30 p.m., but back in Milwaukee, Henry Kissinger throws out the first pitch at the major league All-Star game. At lunch, he'd said he might use an underhanded delivery, to give the pundits something to write about. Now he throws with his right hand. Twice. Speculate, pundits.

For three days last week, Henry A. Kissinger shuttled across the Midwest, enduring wit and exercising it, shaking hands, signing, autographs, speaking at lunch and dinner, meeting with civic leaders, briefing media executives, holding news conferences and appearing at the ultimate baseball game short of the World Series.

Could the secretary of State be running for something? No, he said. He'd stopped short of kissing babies. "I am not taking these trips in order to have an impact on the political situation. I believe strongly that the foreign policy of the United States is a nonpartisan effort."

It was, however, Henry Kissinger's sixth trip since last November to such centers of diplomacy as Kansas City, Mo., Atlanta, Ga., and Houston, Tex.

If Kissinger wasn't being political, what was he doing?

"The conduct of our foreign policy requires strongly the support of the people..." he said in Kansas City last May. "The reason I'm doing this is to give them a sense that the government has a foreign policy and that they should have confidence in it."

Now, in Milwaukee, he told reporters that the trips also give him an opportunity to find out what civic leaders are thinking about foreign policy.

Was he trying to get around Congress to the people?

"These trips are not designed to get around Congress," he replied. "For the benefit of the local press, the Washington contingent that is here is trying to get me to say something that will make great news in Washington: namely, an admission by me that I can learn something from anybody."

"Which would be an historic event."

Nonetheless, Kissinger's trip had many trappings of a campaign.

Tanned, just back from talks in Europe about arms limitation and the Middle East, Kissinger, 52, resembled nothing so much as the cowboy he once compared himself to, "the cowboy who comes into town all alone on his horse."

He dismounted from his White House jet at 3:25 p.m. Monday at the Milwaukee airport to applause by his hosts from the Institute for World Affairs then rode downtown.

A score of persons stopped Kissinger in the lobby of the Marc Plaza Hotel to shake his hand. Some were women, who cooed and gushed; one said: "I his jet, this time in Minneapolis."

Power, Henry Kissinger!

once said, is the ultimate aphrodisiac.

Nancy Kissinger unpacked on the 24th floor, where an elevator was held for the Kissingers' private use. Six to eight inches taller than her husband, her brown hair slightly streaked, she padded down the hall barefoot, carrying clothing over her arm in flight bags.

Below, on the fifth floor, Henry Kissinger briefed local dignitaries.

Later, he spoke to more than 1,050 persons who paid $12.50 apiece to hear him as they crowded around tables under crystal chandeliers with their elbows almost in their neighbors' veal cordon bleu.

After Gov. Lucey's introduction, and his assurance about the Wisconsin state line — a reference to Kissinger's efforts to find a satisfactory boundary between Israel and Egypt — Henry Kissinger warned developing countries not to force their will on the United Nations by bloc voting, "lest they inherit an empty shell."

He answered audience questions, written on 3x5-inch cards and screened by the League of Women Voters.

Q: Wouldn't a dozen of the best minds in each state pooling their wisdom be of some help in the quest for peace without force?

A: Problems of war and peace are generally best dealt with from inside of government. "But I probably won't take that point of view after I leave this position."

Laughter.

Kissinger got four standing ovations.

At 9:30 a.m., Tuesday, Kissinger dismounted again from his jet, this time in Minneapolis.

After a nine-car caravan to the Radisson South Hotel in suburban Bloomington, he attended another session for civic leaders, including Humphrey and Gov. Anderson.

They said he asked how America would react if U.S. technicians were used to operate an electronic surveillance system between the Egyptians and the Israelis. The replies were mixed, they said.

Lunch, Kissinger said of Humphrey's five-minute introduction: "When I saw my introduction was going to be 'brief remarks' by Sen. Humphrey, I thought, 'Someone must be kidding.'"

In his speech, Kissinger defended détente and called the Apollo-Soyuz space flight evidence of progress in cooperation with the Soviet Union.

At a news conference, Kissinger talked about such regional concerns as grain and oil from Canada. At the end, an Iowa editor bubbled enthusiastically: "Sir, I just want you to know you are the best secretary of Defense this country's ever had."

Shell Oil Given Favorable Ruling In Rent Charge Case

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) does not have authority to control rents Shell Oil Co. charges its service station properties.

Shell filed a suit against the FEA last January claiming a 1974 FEA order prevented the oil company from passing along cost increases to its station operators.

U.S. District Court Judge John V. Singleton Jr. said in his opinion Thursday that the federal allocation act did not give the FEA the specific authority to control rents, only the authority to control gasoline prices.

Shell leases or sub-leases to dealers about 10,000 service stations. Some of the leases provide for rent to be calculated by the volume of gasoline delivered while other leases are by a flat monthly sum.

Chen Enjoying Life After Years As Political Prisoner In China

CARMEL, Ind. (AP) — Chen Shih-chang looked like any other proud grandfather as he sat in a comfortable middle-class living room with two giggling little girls on his lap.

But for the 73-year-old Chen, his daughter's home in this Indianapolis suburb is a dramatic and sudden contrast to 26 years as a political prisoner in China.

He has been a military leader and prisoner in China, virtually forgotten by his countrymen. Now, he is content to spend his retirement playing with his grandchildren and resting.

Chen retains memories of his days as a lieutenant general in the National Chinese Army and his imprisonment in the People's Republic of China.

He last saw his daughter, Jocelyn Chou, in 1949, when Communist forces led by Mao Tse-tung took control of mainland China. She was 11 then.

Chen met his son-in-law, Gen. Claire Chennault, Cheng Chien Chou, for the first time when Chou journeyed to Hong Kong earlier this year after Chen's release to arrange a flight to the United States. He had never seen his grandchildren.

His wife and two sons, one of whom he never has seen, remain on Taiwan, where the family fled with the late Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government in 1949. Chen says he has been unable to gain an entry visa to Taiwan.

Chen's career as a professional soldier spanned the Nationalist movement. In 1927, he participated in a 1,200-mile march to Shanghai, led by Chiang Kai-shek to recover territory from warlords still entrenched after the fall of the Manchu Dynasty in 1911.

He was sent to Manchuria in 1933 to fight the Japanese invaders. He later was in charge of supplying the World War II ground forces for the Flying Tigers, a group of American volunteers commanded by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault.

Chen was captured by Communist forces as he was evacuating troops at Fuchien in southern China to Taiwan.

"I don't know why they kept me for 26 years," he said. "Hope for release grew less and less as the years wore on."

Chen was shuttled from one prison camp to another. He said he suffered no physical torture and was in generally good health after his release. He became a skilled carpenter, gardener and cook.

Last April, the Communist released 293 political prisoners. Only 10, including Chen, chose to leave the mainland and live on Taiwan.

They have not, however, received the entry permits that would allow them on Taiwan. Reports from the island said entry applications were being processed, but that the men first would have to condemn communism publicly.

Chen declined to comment on his political views. His son-in-law said political statements might adversely affect his efforts to return to Taiwan.

Unable to see his wife and sons, Chen came to the United States.

U.S.S. Texas Christening Ceremonies Set Saturday

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The 11,000-ton guided missile cruiser U.S.S. Texas will be christened here Saturday in ceremonies attended by Texas Gov. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe.

Janie Briscoe will smash a bottle of champagne against the Texas' bow, thus putting into service the fourth military vessel to bear the name of the Lone Star State.

Texas has not had a vessel named for the state since the decommissioning in 1948 of the battleship U.S.S. Texas, now a state monument permanently berthed near LaPorte, Tex.

Also on hand for Saturday's 11 a.m. launch of the nuclear guided missile cruiser will be Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and Navy brass.

The Texas is 585 feet long, can steam at over 30 knots, and is powered by two nuclear reactors, and will carry a ship's company of 497 men. Her keel was laid in August 1973.

She is armed with missiles, twin five-inch guns and torpedo tubes. Her main role is protection of aircraft carriers from enemy submarines and aircraft, a vastly different role from that of her predecessor.

Capt. Peter Fiedler, a native of San Diego, Calif., has been named to command the Texas. He is a 1954 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a background principally aboard destroyers.

The cruiser Texas will become part of history that included the Confederate ironclad ram Texas and two battleships named Texas.

The battleship now moored near Houston at San Jacinto Battleground ended its glorious career in 1948 after seeing action in two oceans during World War II.

The Texas played prominent roles in three of the war's most important engagements, beginning with the D-Day invasion of Normandy on the French coast.

During the gray forboding of that June afternoon, the battleship Texas steamed in close to shore and leveled German artillery obstacles that had stymied advancing U.S. troops. Beginning at 12:23 p.m., the Texas' 14-inch batteries fired salvo after salvo at the German emplacements, reducing them to rubble. Again, at 2 p.m., the Texas' great guns belched smoke and red-hot steel at German troop columns menacing the advancing Americans.

"Without that gunfire, we positively could not have crossed the beaches," the Army's 1st Division chief of staff would write later.

The Texas plowed heavily toward Iwo Jima where she lay offshore at 4,000 yards and began a rolling barrage with her ear-ringing 16-inch guns. After softening Japanese-held beaches for Marines, the Texas steamed toward Okinawa where on March 25, 1945 she beat off Japanese suicide plane attacks and pounded the island with storms of naval artillery shells.

Chen Enjoying Life After Years As Political Prisoner In China

CARMEL, Ind. (AP) — Chen Shih-chang looked like any other proud grandfather as he sat in a comfortable middle-class living room with two giggling, little girls on his lap.

But for the 73-year-old Chen, his daughter's home in this Indianapolis suburb is a dramatic and sudden contrast to 26 years as a political prisoner in China.

He has been a military leader and prisoner in China, virtually forgotten by his countrymen. Now, he is content to spend his retirement playing with his grandchildren and resting.

Chen retains memories of his days as a lieutenant general in the National Chinese Army and his imprisonment in the People's Republic of China.

He last saw his daughter, Jocelyn Chou, in 1949, when Communist forces led by Mao Tse-tung took control of mainland China. She was 11 then.

Chen met his son-in-law, Cheng Chien Chou, for the first time when Chou journeyed to Hong Kong earlier this year after Chen's release to arrange a flight to the United States. He had never seen his grandchildren.

His wife and two sons, one of whom he never has seen, remain on Taiwan, where the family fled with the late Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government in 1949. Chen says he has been unable to gain an entry visa to Taiwan.

Chen's career as a professional soldier spanned the Nationalist movement. In 1927, he participated in a 1,200-mile march to Shanghai, led by Chiang Kai-shek to recover territory from warlords still entrenched after the fall of the Manchu Dynasty in 1911.

He was sent to Manchuria in 1933 to fight the Japanese invaders. He later was in charge of supplying the World War II ground forces for the Flying Tigers, a group of American volunteers commanded by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault.

Chen was captured by Communist forces as he was evacuating troops at Fuchien in southern China to Taiwan.

"I don't know why they kept me for 26 years," he said. "Hope for release grew less and less as the years wore on."

Chen was shuttled from one prison camp to another. He said he suffered no physical torture and was in generally good health after his release. He became a skilled carpenter, gardener and cook.

Last April, the Communist released 293 political prisoners. Only 10, including Chen, chose to leave the mainland and live on Taiwan.

They have not, however, received the entry permits that would allow them on Taiwan. Reports from the island said entry applications were being processed, but that the men first would have to condemn communism publicly.

Chen declined to comment on his political views. His son-in-law said political statements might adversely affect his efforts to return to Taiwan.

Unable to see his wife and sons, Chen came to the United States.

U.S.S. Texas Christening Ceremonies Set Saturday

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The 11,000-ton guided missile cruiser U.S.S. Texas will be christened here Saturday in ceremonies attended by Texas Gov. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe.

Janie Briscoe will smash a bottle of champagne against the Texas' bow, thus putting into service the fourth military vessel to bear the name of the Lone Star State.

Texas has not had a vessel named for the state since the decommissioning in 1948 of the battleship U.S.S. Texas, now a state monument permanently berthed near LaPorte, Tex.

Also on hand for Saturday's 11 a.m. launch of the nuclear guided missile cruiser will be Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and Navy brass.

The Texas is 595 feet long, can steam at over 30 knots, powered by two nuclear reactors, and will carry a ship's company of 497 men. Her keel was laid in August 1973.

She is armed with missiles, twin five-inch guns and torpedo tubes. Her main role is protection of aircraft carriers from enemy submarines and aircraft, a vastly different role from that of her predecessor.

Capt. Peter Fiedler, a native of San Diego, Calif., has been named to command the Texas. He is a 1964 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy with a background principally aboard destroyers.

The cruiser Texas will become part of history that included the Confederate ironclad ram Texas and two battleships named Texas.

The battleship now moored near Houston at San Jacinto Battleground ended its glorious career in 1948 after seeing action in two oceans during World War II.

The Texas played prominent roles in three of the war's most important engagements, beginning with the D-Day invasion of Normandy on the French coast.

During the gray forboding of that June afternoon, the battleship Texas steamed in close to shore and leveled German artillery obstacles that had stymied advancing U.S. troops. Beginning at 12:23 p.m., the Texas' 14-inch batteries fired salvo after salvo at the German emplacements, reducing them to rubble. Again, at 2 p.m., the Texas' great guns belched smoke and red-hot steel at German troop columns menacing the advancing Americans.

"Without that gunfire, we positively could not have crossed the beaches," the Army's 1st Division chief of staff would write later.

The Texas plowed heavily toward Iwo Jima where she lay offshore at 4,000 yards and began a rolling barrage with her ear-ringing 16-inch guns. After softening Japanese-held beaches for Marines, the Texas steamed toward Okinawa where on March 25, 1945 she beat off Japanese suicide plane attacks and pounded the island with storms of naval artillery shells.

SLOW PITCH TROPHY — Pat Bingham gazes at first place trophy that will be handed out Sunday afternoon following the championship finals of the Men's Open State Slow Pitch Softball Tournament at Hogan Park. Thirty-four of the top teams in the state will be after this beautiful award.

Taylor Brothers Defend Title

By BOB DILLON
Taylor Brothers' Jewelers of Corpus Christi head a strong 34-team entry field in the Men's State Open Slow Pitch Softball Tournament which gets underway tonight with four games on tap at Hogan Park.

The Jewelers are defending state champions and bring an amazing 124-18 won-lost record and have plenty of home run power in the likes of Mickey McCarty, Rick "Crusher" Scherr, Clark Adkins, Ken Mitchell and Buck Buchanan.

Taylor Brothers has enough size to scare the Dallas Cowboys to death. Scherr stands 6-5 and weighs 290 pounds while McCarty, a former TCU basketball great, is 6-7 and tips the scales at 270. Buchanan is 6-5 and also weighs 270 pounds.

Corpus Christi Power Heavy Favorite

Fans will get to see the Corpus Christi powerhouse at 8 p.m. today when they open play on diamond No. 2 against the Lubbock Stars.

The Jewelers have hit 1,400 homers in 142 games with McCarty paving the way with 184 round-trippers. Scherr has slammed 165 and Buchanan 134 while Adkins, an all-tourney selection here last year, has 78 homers. Silmon has 85 homers.

Not only will softball fans get to see Taylor Brothers tonight, but Goodrich Service Center of Midland follows at 9:30 in a tilt with Lubbock Budweiser on the same diamond.

Taylor Brothers not only hits the ball long and far, but with high percentages. McCarty is hitting at a .665 clip while Scherr owns a .644 average. Buchanan is hitting .616 and Adkins .636.

In playing 142 games, the Jewelers have won championships in tournaments in Fort Worth, Corpus Christi, Bay City, Laredo, Knoxville, Tenn., Atlanta, Ga., Orlando, Fla., Denver, N.C. and Kingsville. They finished second in tournament play in Houston, Amarillo and Wichita, Kan. The Amarillo tourney was the TAFF Meet last weekend.

In the Denver tourney, the Jewelers beat last year's national champions, Howard Furniture from Denver.

In the other 8 p.m. contest, Gibbs-Weeks of Big Spring takes on Beverage Sales of San Angelo on diamond No. 1 while on the same diamond at 9:30 p.m., Rosana's Realty of Abilene battles Webb Air Force Base of Big Spring.

Those four games get the gigantic tourney under way with the finals set for 2:50 p.m. Sunday on diamond No. 2.

Oldsters, Rookies Lead PGA's First Round Run

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "Are you aware?" a reporter asked Jack Nicklaus as the world's greatest golfer savored his even par 70 in the opening round of the PGA Tournament, "that you are trailing such household names as Benson, Wampter and Dougherty?"

"Who?" Jack asked. "I know Wampter, but the others—how do you spell that last name?"

Nicklaus' consternation was generally shared as the pros' big family championship—moved into the second round behind a phalanx of the most implausible pace-setters imaginable.

Oldsters and rookies, the infirm and the downtrodden and the down-and-out are on top, kicking divots in the faces of golf's aristocrats — Nicklaus, Weiskopf, Trevino, Palmer and Player.

Hayes shot 67, three under par over the back-breaking, 7,180-yard Firestone course. "It's too soon to get excited about leading this tournament," he said nervously.

Tied for second with 68 were Bob Benson, 35, a club pro from Easton, Conn., who operates a couple of bowling alleys on the side, and Larry Hinson, a gaunt young man with a withered left arm whose fortunes of late have been so depressing he was considering a different career.

"It's been awful the last couple of years," Hinson, a seven-year tour player from Kings Mountain, N.C., said. "I've been tempted to look for something else to do."

Benson's main claim to fame is that as a teen-age assistant pro in Palm Beach, Fla., he gave lessons to the Kennedys, correcting a hook of the late President John Kennedy.

Bill Casper, 44, a two-time Open champion who has been devoting more time to his 7,000 fruit trees in Utah than to golf. Wampter and Casper were tied at 69 with Bob Wynn of Santa Clara, Calif., a free-wheeling, 35-year-old tour veteran, and Ed Dougherty, a mustachioed Pennsylvanian.

When Dougherty applied to the PGA for membership, the application asked for "Achievements." Dougherty, 27, wrote "none." His biggest thrill came last week-end at the Westchester Classic, he said, when he looked up to see his name on the leader board.

"I had just made a birdie," he said. "But right after that I bogeyed. By the time they got to the 'y' on the leader board they were taking down the 'D.'"

It was not until the first day standings got down to the par 70s that names of the advance favorites began to show up.

Nicklaus was tied at that figure with eight others, among them Tom Weiskopf and British Open champion Tom Watson. The others were Al Geiberger, who won the PGA on this same course in 1966; former champion Ray Floyd; 51-year-old Art Wall, Bruce Devlin, long-hitting Jim Dent and Mike Morley, one of the plugging tour brigade.

First Round Leader
The first round leader is a slim Oklahoman, one Mark Hayes, 26, playing his second year on the tour and in his first PGA, his bags carried by a man with a broken arm and a Masters degree in business.

Four Break Par
Only four other players managed to break par. They included a pair of grizzled veterans, Fred Wampter, 51, who hasn't played the tour in 15 years, and Gary Player, seeking his third PGA crown, shot 72. Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer had 73s. Johnny Miller, pro golfer's Player of the Year in 1974, skied to a 78 and was so disgruntled that he hinted he might take the next plane home to San Francisco.

Midland Belts San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO — Second baseman Bill Huisman knocked in three runs Thursday night to spark the Midland Cubs to a 10-2 victory over the San Antonio Brewers in a Texas League game.

The win moves Midland to within 2½ games of league-leading Shreveport in the Western Division.

San Antonio jumped in front of the Cubs in the first inning off starter Mike Krukow. Rich Guerra was hit by a pitch and Mike Hanna followed with a single. Wayne Cage then blasted a triple to score both runs, but Krukow settled down to get the side out. In fact, he retired 11 of the next 12 batters he faced after the two-run outburst.

Huisman cut the lead to 2-1 in the second inning with a solo homer and the Cubs added two more runs in the sixth for a 3-2 advantage before a seven-run explosion in the eighth.

In the sixth inning, Al Montreuil singled, Bill Bright doubled him and scored on a single by Huisman for a 3-2 lead.

Then came the eighth inning. Steve Clancy had the big blow—a two-run double. Mike Sember, Huisman, Wayne Tyrone, Jose Ortiz and Mike Umfleet added singles during the uprising.

Norm Werd was the losing pitcher while Krukow went all the way in scattering seven hits to pick up his ninth victory of the season.

The loss was the Brewers' sixth straight and the two tangle again tonight with Dan Corder pitching for Midland and Joe Flannagan on the mound for the Brewers.

Midland returns home to the friendly confines of Cubs Stadium next Tuesday against Shreveport in a big five-game series.

Channel Swimmer Recalls Record

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Florence Chadwick forgot until somebody reminded her that 25 years ago today (Friday) she started the world.

"How time flies," said the lady who broke the quarter-century-old record for swimming the English Channel from France.

At that time the crowd at Cape Griznez was cheering for somebody else at 2 a.m. on Aug. 8, 1950.

The attention was given glamorous Shirley Mae France, who was in line for a motion picture contract if she lowered Gertrude Ederle's record. Miss France went gliding into the water, her body coated with a mixture of lanolin and paraffin as protection against the chilly surf.

She also had a sponsor while Miss Chadwick, at 30 the oldest competitor and an unknown, was there only with her father. But Miss France left half a can of the grease on shore. A spectator offered it to Florence Chadwick who, unfamiliar with it, applied it to her bathing suit instead of just her body.

It isn't easy to explain how the Church can help you find strength and comfort. You can't prove it by mathematical equations, but once you experience it, you have no doubts. And, having felt it, you want to share this deep, abiding peace with others.

No matter how stormy it is outside, in the Church you can find peace. Isn't it wonderful to know that you can take all your cares and worries to God and feel His peace and quiet? Then, having found this peace, you can carry it with you wherever you go. Through the Church you can help others find it.

Peace — God's peace — the Church — God's Church. Are you acquainted with them?

Ex-White Fathers Superior Takes Wife

Agence France-Presse
ROME — Theo Van Asten, 52, former superior of the "White Fathers" whose denunciations of massacres in Mozambique brought worldwide criticism on the old regime in Portugal, has left the order and taken a wife.

Father Van Asten decided he could "continue to serve the Third World as a married layman more effectively than within the institutions of the church," a spokesman for the 3,400-member order, whose work is concentrated in Africa, said here.

After 20 years as a priest during which he taught theology in Tanzania, Father Van Asten was chosen to head the White Fathers in 1967. At subsequent bishops' synods, the Dutch superior outspokenly challenged the church's conservatism.

In 1971, he asked the churchmen at the synod to change their lifestyle and to show "true understanding, charity and justice toward priests who leave the ministry."

"Would caring for children or the affection of a wife really be more dangerous for a priest than caring for riches and the fumes of incense?" he asked. In 1974, he challenged the church's structures "almost exclusively masculine in a world which is more than half made up of women."

At the 1974 synod, he also objected to "the fact that the church is too often identified with the capitalist world by peoples who do not belong to the capitalist world."

"It is a fact that too often, in the eyes of non-Christians, the church has seemed to con-dem violence against right-wing regimes while tacitly accepting it against left-wing regimes," he added.

Last year, Father Van Asten asked to step down as head of his order and has since dropped out of sight in Rome, where friends say he has been busy working on behalf of the poor.

In a letter to the White Fathers, their current superior,

Jean-Marie Vasseur, announced that his predecessor had decided to leave the order after long and careful reflection and expressed his respect for that "personal decision."

The White Fathers continued to feel attached to Father Van Asten, whose competence and human and religious qualities they had always appreciated, he added.

'Youth Day' Slated Sunday

"Youth Day" on Sunday at First United Methodist Church will initiate a series of special events during Youth Week there next week.

The Rev. Roger Loyd of Lubbock, United Methodist campus minister at Texas Tech University, will be the resource speaker and leader for the special week.

As one of the preliminary events to the upcoming 90th anniversary observance of First Methodist Church here, youth of the congregation will lead the various worship services Sunday.

Youth speakers will be presenting a "Youth Trilogy" at the 8:30 and 10:55 a.m. worship services. The theme for the services will be "90 and New Beginnings." Speakers for the 8:30 a.m. service will be Larry Oliver, Janie Good and Steve Graham, while participants in the 10:55 a.m. service are to be Kevin McCarter, Lyn Daniel and Jim Artley. Worship leaders will include Barbara Goolsby, Steve Noah, Mike Gilmer, Mark Gilmer, Gary Grafa, Helen Cross, Luther Hawley and Linda Ewan.

A youth choir providing music at the worship services will have Copper Butman and Loretta Bybee as the soloists.

During the evening worship hour beginning at 5:30 p.m., the visiting minister from Lubbock, Mr. Loyd, will be in the pulpit. He will speak on "Faith of Our Father's Children." A male youth quartet will provide special music at the service.

Youth Week activities at First Methodist will continue through Wednesday. Activities will begin at 6:30 p.m. each day with a dinner in the church fellowship hall, followed by music and singing led by Mrs. Gary Hall and by special presentations by Mr. Loyd whose theme for the youth emphasis will be "Movin' On—My Personal Journey." The days' events also will include such things as a swimming party on Monday, a skating party on Tuesday and an all-night "lock-in" retreat and party at the church Wednesday night, concluding with a wake up breakfast Thursday morning.

The Youth Week events are open to all youth of the First Methodist congregation of seventh grade level through college age.

Rev. Roger Loyd

Rally Series Ending Sunday

Gardens Assembly of God will conclude its current series of Sunday evening outdoor rallies with a service at 7 p.m. Sunday in Wadley Barron Park, West Cuthbert and North A streets.

The rallies began in late July and have continued each Sunday evening since. The services feature special music by instrumentalists as well as by the Gardens Assembly choir, and messages by the Rev. Paul L. Cox, Garden Assembly's pastor.

Pulpit guest for the concluding event Sunday will be Jack Daniels, director of the High Sky Girls Ranch who is an ordained Methodist minister.

The service will be open to all residents of the city and surrounding areas.

Croft New Head Of Laymen's Group

ST. LOUIS — Cloyd R. Croft Jr., a 40-year-old management consultant, is the new executive director of the International Lutheran Laymen's League, sponsor of the Lutheran Hour on radio and co-sponsor of the television program, "This Is Your Life."

League president Gus S. Melde of Dallas, Tex., announced Croft's appointment recently. The new executive director, who will begin his duties with the League on Sept. 1, was introduced to the organization's leadership at the 58th annual convention of the LLL this week in New Orleans.

Croft, who succeeds B. F. Jutzi as executive director, is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University with a degree in industrial engineering.

Special Crusade Planned

Faith Temple Church, 1605 N. Terrell St., will conduct a special crusade next week.

According to the Rev. W. C. Kenan, host pastor, the "spiritual explosion" is planned Monday through Sunday, Aug. 17, with three services to be held each day. The crusade will draw outstanding evangelists and speakers to the city, he said.

The initial service each day will be at 10 a.m., followed by afternoon services between 1 and 3 and evening services beginning at 8 o'clock.

Bible institutes during the 10 a.m. services will be conducted by Mrs. Verna Murray of Berkeley, Calif., as well as by Mrs. Bertha Kenan and Mrs. Darnell Wallace, both of Midland.

Mrs. Kenan and Faith Temple's Youth Deliverance Choir will have charge of the first evening service on Monday. Evangelists who will be preaching at subsequent evening events include Charles Tanner of Lubbock on Tuesday, George Lewis of Fort Worth on Wednesday, Frederick Gant of Dallas on Thursday and La Dell Thomas of Waco on Friday.

Mr. Thomas also will be in charge of special youth hour programs at 11 a.m. Thursday and Friday.

Another highlight of the crusade will be the soul winning clinics to be conducted by Evangelist W. T. Hickman of Milwaukee, Wis., from 1 to 3 p.m. daily. There also will be special "talent hours" from 7 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday and Friday, and two skits are to be presented at 7 p.m. Thursday as a preliminary to the evening service beginning at 8.

Following special events, which are to be announced, planned for Saturday, the revival emphasis will conclude on Sunday, Aug. 17, with Pastor Kenan preaching a special sermon at 2:30 p.m. that day. An anointing service also will be held.

Verbrugge Resigns Midland Pastorate

The Rev. Ben Verbrugge, O.M.I., pastor of Midland's St. Ann's Catholic Church the last 4½ years, is leaving the post next week to become treasurer of the Oblate Province, with headquarters at San Antonio.

The Roman Catholic order's province includes the states of Texas, Colorado and Louisiana as well as Mexico. Father Verbrugge will assume the treasurer's duties in mid-August.

Father Verbrugge, a native of Woensdrecht, Netherlands, came to Midland in March, 1971 from the pastorate of St. Patrick's in Brady. Previously he had served parishes at Eliza, Laredo and Eagle Pass.

In addition to his duties as a parish priest, Father Verbrugge has designed several Roman Catholic churches including St. Timothy Church in San Antonio, completed in 1972. He also designed and drew the plans for St. Patrick's in Brady, a church-in-the-round.

Following his ordination in August 1941 at Weert, Netherlands, Father Verbrugge served his church in Holland for nearly 11 years, three of them as Provincial Bursar, before coming to the United States in the early 1950s.

Week-Long Revival Beginning Sunday

Tower Baptist Church will begin a revival Sunday, to continue through the following Sunday.

The Rev. Gary Elmore, new pastor at Tower Baptist, will be in the pulpit for the series and Roy Reynolds will lead the song services. Pat Kidwell will be pianist and Allen Murray will be organist.

Sunday services will begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., while weekday services next week will begin at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Student Conference Slated At Glorieta

GLORIETA, N. M. — Conferences of special interest to students and young adults are scheduled next week and the week after at Glorieta Conference Center here.

This year's Student Conference at Glorieta will be held next week, while a "Horizons Conference" scheduled Aug. 16-22 will be open to youth and young adults interested in knowing more about church vocations as well as those who already are committed to such vocations.

The latter conference will be conducted during the annual Bible Preaching Week at Glorieta. Next week's student convocation will offer a total of 115 workshops, mission forums, personal development seminars, leadership labs. The conference will be open to students, Baptist Student Union officers, BSU directors and others working with students. Assembly programs, led by personnel from the Southern Baptist Sunday school, home mission and foreign mission boards, along with pastors, foreign missionaries and a student group from Oklahoma Baptist University, will cover a variety of topics.

Bible teacher for the week will be William Hendricks, a professor of theology at Southwestern Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth.

The Horizons Conference Aug. 16-22 is the first large-scale meeting of its kind to be held at the Glorieta center, according to Howard Foshee, secretary of the church administration department of the Southern Baptist Convention's Sunday School Board.

The conference is designed to give those interested in church vocations a foundation for making the right decisions for the work God is calling them to do," Foshee points out. Planning and preparation for church vocations will be among topics surveyed, he said. The program will feature discussions of self-awareness, the Biblical basis for vocations, study in finding direction in the selection of occupations and the effect that personality characteristics have on vocations. Also included in sessions will be presentations from individuals who are involved in various types of vocations related to the church and the denomination.

NBC Plans To Make Christmas Turkey Out Of Peacock

By TOM SHALES
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — Nobody ever thought of a name for the NBC peacock — at least, not one that stuck. "We just call it 'The Bird,'" says an NBC employee.

By Christmas, The Bird will probably be extinct. In its corporate wisdom, NBC has decided to phase out the peacock and send it off to that commercial menagerie in the great beyond where Elsie the Borden Cow, Dino the Sinclair Dinosaur and Little Nipper, the dog who listened for "His Master's Voice" from the gramophone, still presumably romp and play, but sell nothing.

The NBC peacock would have been 20 years old next year.

In its heyday, The Bird heralded every color show on the network. Then, by late 1966, every show on the network was in color, and the peacock was spreading its animated feathers more than 100 times a week while an announcer said, "The following program is brought to you in living color on NBC" and some rippling music played.

But recently, the phasing out was apparent. Last week, Johnny Carson noticed that the peacock was missing from the beginning of his show. He seemed to get a little misty-eyed. By this time, the peacock had been reduced to appearances before the "Today" show, at the start of the afternoon schedule (1:30 p.m. in the East) and prior to certain sports events and specials.

NBC vice president Gerald Rowe was grilled recently on the apparent demise of this friendly old icon.

"I don't want to be vague," said Rowe, under intense questioning. "The truth is we are in the middle of a whole design reorganization. We'll have a new company logo, everything. The new format will go into effect in about six months, and I'm afraid no provision has been made for the poor old bird."

"I would think the damn thing would eventually disappear," Rowe said.

Like so many things, the peacock outlived its essential purpose, which was, bluntly, to sell color TV sets for RCA, the company that happens to own NBC, and which pioneered color. Now that most families own a color television set, there is no need for a repeated 12-second reminder to go out and buy one.

Corporations have gone in a lot lately for streamlining their images. In the past decade the rage has been to shorten lengthy, mellow old company names into the quick and the catchy. Cities Service became Citgo, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing became the 3M Co. (see how catchy it is?) And the Radio Corporation of America, in 1968, became just plain, easy-to-remember, RCA.

It was at that point that RCA gave the boot to that nice old dog Little Nipper, who had kept his gramophone vigil for years on appliances and record labels. People who liked the pooch objected. "We got letters and things," an RCA spokesman recalled. "They always hate to see something like that go. But the company was changing its whole image."

John T. Graham, who designed the original peacock (after color symbols like a butterfly, a rainbow and an American flag were tried and discarded), is redesigning NBC's image right this very moment. This means a definite farewell also to the NBC trademark with the N and the B on the cop of the C. Nobody could possibly get sentimental about that. But the peacock — will there be public protest?

"I tend to doubt that people are concerned with the internal doing of corporations as they try to improve their image," said Rowe. "I don't think anyone's heart will be broken."

Besides, the peacock had become something of a joke around the network, and not just to knee-jerk jokesters like Johnny Carson, either. But Rowe recalled that, years ago, when Jerry Lewis wanted to open one of his NBC shows with a spoof on the bird (probably Lewis in feathers), the network said no — just the way MGM had said no decades earlier when the Marx Brothers wanted to open one of their pictures with Harpo growing — silently of course — instead of Leo the Lion.

Why would the network care about a little joke like that? "Typical corporate nonsense," said Rowe.

Zimbalist Turns To Golf In Search Of Real Challenge

The Los Angeles Times epitomizes law, order and conservatism. The TV series has run its course after nine years — unless you're a rerun watcher — but Zimbalist has not lost his interest in maintaining an orderly world. Nowadays, however, his world is a good deal of the time a golf course.

When he read recently that an Establishment man who a manufacturer had invented a ball that would neither slice nor hook, but would always maintain a true trajectory, Zimbalist took umbrage at a Los Angeles Times editorial that said of the ball: "Golf should be easier. It's a perverse, frustrating game. It provokes coronaries, broken marriages and bickering that destroys lifelong friendships."

"A golf ball that always flies straight would do more to increase the life expectancy, reduce the divorce rate and improve the mental health of Americans than all the doctors, marriage counselors and psychiatrists put together."

This caused Zimbalist to take pen in hand.

"I was dismayed that The Times rejects man's inalienable right to remain a duffer," he wrote. "Some things in life should be made easier, and others should not. There is a round he expounded on his certain romance in futility views.

"Package our dreams on an assembly line, and you deny us our dreams. Let the golf course remain the last refuge of the impossible. Let greatness be something we are born to or earn with great application but let it not be something we buy in a six pack."

Zimbalist is a member of the Lakeside Golf Club here, where he is a 9 handicapper with a smooth swing. During a recent

Don Williams: Classic Example Of Good Ole Boy With Sense

By MATT YANCEY
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Don Williams appears unreal. Nobody can be that country.

Wearing jeans, a western shirt and the old worn hat that has become somewhat a symbol for him, his appearance is positive.

Williams is the classic good ole boy who's been around a little, seen what's worth seeing, ignored the unimportant and who now holds a firm knowledge of who he is.

The manner fit so well that he was cast in just that role as a backup musician in Burt Reynolds' film "W.W. and the Dixie Dancekings," a period movie about a touring country band in the '50s.

Williams has been in country music for only three years. Since first coming to Nashville, he's had several top hits, has recorded four albums and now has a fifth "Best of" type album in the works.

The hits include "The Ties That Bind," "I Wouldn't Want to Live If You Didn't Love Me," "Amanda," "We Should Be Together," "Don't You Believe" and "The Shelter of Your Eyes."

The songs' style, like the singer, is slow, soft-spoken and deliberate.

Holding a cigarette between his thumb and forefinger, he complains of having to spend more time making personal appearances now that his records have become a success.

"I'm always looking for what's next," he explains. "When I write a song or make a record, it's a projection. Personal appearances are almost like doubling back; it's an after-the-fact type thing."

Williams says he would rather spend his time on his farm or taking his son fishing. He wants his children to have a rural upbringing.

"You learn something by cutting hay and baling it," he says. "It's responsibility."

"I told my son that his job was to take care of the chickens. He got to know all about each one of them, their habits, everything. It taught him compassion."

For a brief while, Williams wasn't all that country. After getting out of the service in 1964, he formed a rock and folk group called the Pozo-Seco Singers. Centered in Chicago, the group was best known for their single, "Time."

turned to Texas after becoming dissatisfied with pop. "I just got tired of feeling that I was put upon," he says. "They were always looking at what had happened, wanting you to go where somebody else had already been."

After spending a year away from music, Williams came back with a definite commitment to country, the kind of music he says he felt more at home with all along. "Pop music is younger, the first love situation," he says. "Country has been primarily for adult listeners."

"Some of my songs talk about the tragedies of love but none of them are about triangles," he explains. "I don't think there's ever been a love situation where there hasn't been some anguish along with the great times."

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Five police officers said a San Antonio police sergeant shot and killed a suspended patrolman who took five persons hostage and held policemen at bay for more than five hours Thursday night. They identified the slain patrolman as Fay Dorrough,

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State regulations on what life insurance agents must do when encouraging a policybuyer to switch policies give agents that sell whole life policies an advantage, the State Insurance Board was told Thursday.

Agents selling term policies which, in contrast to whole life policies do not build up a cash value, urged the board to change the regulations adopted in 1974.

The regulations prohibit an agent from selling a policy that replaces previous coverage until he has given the customer a signed disclosure statement would be more favorable than if you replaced existing insurance with new insurance."

The notice adds that, "for your protection," the prospective buyer should check with his present insurance company before making a decision on "this important financial matter."

These regulations "foster unfair competition and the restraint of trade," said Dan Hirsch of Richardson, a Truth in Life spokesman.

"I am violently opposed to notifying the old company," Hirsch said. "You are requiring me to send my information to my competitor by law."

Austin lawyer J. Sam Winters of the Texas Life Insurance Association contended, however, that proposed changes by Truth in Life could lead to "unscrupulous persons . . . preying on the naive and unwary because they may not need, perhaps, a high premium, and to the detriment of the benefits of the insurance which they already own."

To permit a customer to decide "if he wants his insurer be notified of replacement," he puts a premium on a clever slick-talking salesman who, he can talk a consumer into substituting one policy for another, should have little trouble talking him into not having his insurance company notified."

Winters said his association included 32 life insurance companies, and it objected to the proposed changes.

comparing benefits, costs and cash values of the two policies. The agent also must provide a notice setting forth reasons why the customer might regret changing policies. In addition, the company selling the new policy must notify the firm lo-

The mandatory comparison statement "shows that the protection provided by the regulations is primarily for cash values—not the consumer. 'The life insurance public' is again left to be spoon fed whatever information the giant companies in their wisdom deem fitting to hand down to the poor insurance-ignorant consuming public," said the Texas Committee for Truth in Life Insurance.

MOSCOW — The real reasons for the Soviet Union's decision to buy grain on world markets again probably are known only to a handful of top planners.

In some regions, notably the Volga Basin, the Southern Urals and Northern Kazakhstan, drought threatens the spring harvest. In other parts of the country, particularly the Euro-the heels of the winter harvest. In some places the spring wheat is being harvested a month earlier than usual.

"This has created a simple problem of logistics," said one Western expert. "The pressure on men and machines has been enormous.

There have not been enough combine harvesters, trucks and cleaning equipment to go round. So you can look for record yields

Several term insurance agents who are members of the committee protested language on forms to switch policies. For example, on the back of the comparison statement is a

The United States Department of Agriculture has now downgraded its estimate of the Soviet 1975 cereals harvest to about 185 million tons — from an initial 210 million tons at the beginning of the year. The complete harvesting in eight days. There are also the usual tales of machinery standing idle for lack of parts and of badly needed lorries piled up at ports along the Volga, instead of hauling grain in the Siberian plain.

Market Advances Modestly

NEW YORK (AP) - Hopes for a slackening in upward pressure on interest rates helped set off a moderate rally in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 5.24 at 821.03, and gains took a 54 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange after trailing in the early going.

Brokers credited the advance to hopes that a leveling off in the nation's money supply during August as shown in Federal Reserve figures issued late Thursday would allow the Fed to stop taking steps to make credit tighter.

Anaconda was the most active issue on the Big Board, up 2 1/2 at 18 in trading marked by a 50,000-share block at 17 1/2. Crane Co. said late Thursday it planned to make an Exchange offer for 23 per cent of Anaconda's stock.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was unchanged at 86.34.

Trading was relatively light. The market hesitated at the outset after New York's First National City Bank announced another increase in its prime lending rate, from 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 per cent.

But some investors evidently were hoping that the recent upturn in the basic charge on corporate loans wouldn't go much further.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .09 to 46.19.

Some Insurance Men Complain

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - State regulations on what life insurance agents must do when encouraging a policyholder to switch policies give agents that switch whole life policies an advantage, the State Insurance Board was told Thursday.

Agents selling term policies "in contrast to whole life policies do not build up a cash value," urged the board to change the regulations adopted in 1974.

The regulations prohibit an agent from selling a policy that replaces previous coverage until he has given the customer a signed disclosure statement comparing benefits, costs and cash values of the two policies. The agent also must provide a notice setting forth reasons why the customer might regret changing policies. In addition, the company selling the new policy must notify the firm losing its policyholder.

The mandatory comparison statement "shows that the protection provided by the regulations is primarily for cash values—not the consumer. The life insurance public is again left to be spoon fed whatever information the giant companies in their wisdom deem fitting to hand down to the poor insurance-ignorant consuming public," said the Texas Committee for Truth in Life Insurance.

Several term insurance agents who are members of the committee protested language on forms to switch policies.

For example, on the back of the comparison statement is a notice that, "As a general rule, it is not advantageous to drop or change existing life insurance." Also, the notice states, "The present insurance company can often make a desired change on terms which would be more favorable than if you replaced existing insurance."

The notice adds that, "for your protection," the prospective buyer should check with his present insurance company before making a decision on "this important financial matter."

These regulations "foster unfair competition and the restraint of trade," said Dan Hirsch of Richardson, a Truth in Life spokesman.

"I am violently opposed to notifying the old company," Hirsch said. "You are requiring me to send my information to my competitor by law."

Austin lawyer J. Sam Winters said his association included 32 life insurance companies, and it objected to all the proposed changes by Truth in Life could lead to "unscrupulous persons...preying on the naive and unwary and causing them to buy insurance they may not need, perhaps at a high premium, and to lose the benefits of the insurance which they already own."

To permit a customer to decide "if he wants his insurer to be notified of replacement," Hirsch said, "a clever, slick-talking salesman who, if he can talk a consumer into substituting one policy for another, should have little trouble talking him into not having his insurance company notified."

$20,000 IN VENTURE CAPITAL

To produce and promote my game: CAPITAL GAINS

The game has been played successfully in over 60 trial runs with players in Odessa and Midland. It is superior to Monopoly and will overtake Monopoly in time.

My game has other unique features:

—It promotes Midland in the board design.

—It promotes the free enterprise system.

—I will even put the investor's self-portrait on the $100,000 bill.

The largest denomination bill used in the game.

Platelet Donors Give Life To Victims Of Rare Disease

By BILL PETERSON
The Washington Post
WASHINGTON — Eleven-year-old Frank "Trip" Green III died July 1 at the National Institute of Health's Clinical Center, but his father returns to the center each week to help another young man live.

The trip "brings back bad memories," Maj. Frank D. Green Jr. concedes. "But I haven't ever regretted it and I'll keep making it as long as I can."

He hesitates, collecting his emotions, then adds: "It's my way of trying to repay NIH and the medical profession for what they did for my son."

Green is one of 65 persons who spend from 2 1/2 to four hours each week, sometimes commuting long distances, to donate blood at the NIH Platelet Center in Bethesda.

The center removes the small translucent disc called platelets from the blood. Platelets aren't particularly unusual. Everyone has them and they rapidly produce themselves. They cause clotting of blood.

Victims of aplastic anemia, like Trip Green, or leukemia, can't produce the tiny cells because of bone marrow malfunction. Thus, they need transfusions to stop fatal bleeding when organs or blood vessels are damaged.

"Platelets kept my son alive for a year," says Green, who first learned of his son's disease in July 1974. "He was not only able to live, but to live quite a normal life at home with us. He was in Scouts, played in the school band, went on vacation with us, did almost everything. He didn't consider himself sick."

"You don't know how much that extra year meant to us," he says.

Trip was a serious-minded, mature kid, a fifth grader. "Supersmart," his father says. "A real savvy kid."

He loved to fish and camp. He read all the time, magic books especially, for magic was his hobby. And he would give magic shows on ward 11W at the NIH Clinical Center.

Trip's illness pulled the family closer together, said Maj. Green. They camped and hiked, savoring the moments and learned to appreciate their son more than ever before.

fore. Trip earned his Lion and Arrow of Light badges in Cub Scouts.

"He handled it all very well," his father says. "He had a lot of guts."

Until last spring Trip lived at home with his parents and 5-year-old sister in Alexandria. He visited the Clinical Center, where he was a research patient, only for treatment and platelet transfusions.

His father vividly remembers the first one he received. Trip's condition had deteriorated rapidly. He was weak, his skin pale. "He looked like he was dying," his old former sand company worker from Rittman, Ohio, who was hospitalized three doors from Trip's room.

Green had met Hilly while visiting his son. "He is a real nice, clean-cut kid," he says, "I like him."

Green became Hilly's donor. Giving platelets to Trip had eased his feelings of helplessness during the illness. However, he had lingering pangs of guilt.

"I know better than anyone else how important the platelet program is," he says. "But I had only been giving for my own son. I felt that platelets move into his body. Green doesn't see this process, or visit Hilly. But he knows Hilly is there, depending on him.

Most platelet donors don't know who they are helping. Green was told of Hilly only because his son was on the same ward.

"It's better to keep names anonymous," says Dr. Paul V. Holland, Platelet Center project officer. "If they become too involved, it's almost like losing a member of their own family if their patient dies."

Anyone from 18 to 65 who two kids I really couldn't do that. With this I know I'm really helping someone. It makes me feel good inside."

Her husband, a Prince George's County policeman, initially protested when he saw how much time the visits took.

But Mrs. Tomgren persisted. "My family is reasonably healthy and I wanted to help someone whose family isn't," she said, sitting in the center, located in two white trailers in a NIH parking lot.

She had gotten up at 6 a.m. while her children still slept to visit the center. It was now 10 a.m.

Joseph Casey, who has been donating platelets weekly for five years, was on a bed a few feet away with two long spaghetti-like hoses attached to his right arm.

The procedure is a simple, almost painless one, not unlike donating blood, he said. A pint of blood is removed from your body, then put on a centrifuge to spin out the platelets. The rest of the blood is returned to the donor's body. The process is repeated until platelets have been removed from a total of four pints.

"I used to work with leukemia patients (at NIH)," Casey said. "So I am familiar with their needs."

Catherine Wright, another donor, has a more immediate reason. Her 4-year-old daughter has leukemia and she knows how difficult it is to find donors to match platelet types.

"If you can match someone I think it's terrific to be able to prolong someone's life," says Mrs. Wright, of Smithsburg, Md.

She drives 120 miles round trip to visit the center twice a month. But, she says, the distance doesn't bother her.

Platelet transfusions extended her daughter's life last winter, giving her strength until drugs forced her illness into remission, she said. "If it's possible for me to help anyone else, I'm certainly going to do everything I can."

'Nobody realizes how many good people there are around'

father recalls. "It was miraculous what his platelets did. In 10 minutes his condition was completely turned around."

Green supplied his son with platelets each week for six months until Trip's body became sensitized to his father's cells and rejected them. His mother then became his donor.

Maj. Green's platelet type was put on file at the Platelet Center along with about 11,000 other persons who have been type tested. Each time a patient needs platelets, the file is searched for a matching type. Sometimes this is futile because of the odds of exactly matching two people are about 5,000 to 1. Often imperfect matches are paired.

Last May Green was told he had been matched with another victim of aplastic anemia. The victim turned out to be Bernie Hilly, a 21-year-was selfish, that I should help someone else. that my blood could keep two of us going."

The match was a good one. "When I came in here my gums bled constantly and my nose bled," Hilly said from his Bethesda hospital bed in his soft boyish voice. "The platelets stopped that. It gave me a better appearance and a chance at getting well."

Trip Green died July 1. By then, his transfusions had increased from one a week to several a day. "He had a pretty good idea of what was happening to him," his father says. "But I'm not sure if he knew how it would end."

On July 2, Maj. Green made his regular platelet donation. He has been back, each Wednesday since. Two hours after he leaves, a small plastic packet, about the size of a sandwich bag, is carried to Hilly's room. A needle is inserted into his arm and the hasn't had cancer, epilepsy, TB, malaria or several other diseases can be tested for their platelet type and become a donor.

Once a donor is matched with a patient the donor comes to the center anywhere from once a month to once weekly. Many donors have relatives with cancer or leukemia, according to Gail Welcome, center manager. Others simply want to help others.

"Nobody realizes how many good people there are around," says Miss Welcome.

Nancy Tomgren comes once a week from her home in Bowie, Md. Her sister, who has the same platelet blood type, flies in from Chicago each month.

Mrs. Tomgren heard about the Platelet Center on television. "I was looking around for something useful to do," she recalls. "I thought about getting a job. But with

Ford-Congress Marriage Case Of Incompatibility?

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after President Ford took office and expressed hopes for a good marriage with Congress, the record of vetoes, override attempts and flat disagreements looks like a clear case of incompatibility.

Yet Ford's personal popularity with his former congressional colleagues, by all appearances, has held up remarkably well. This is especially true among House members—Democrats as well as Republicans—who were undisputedly happy to see one of their number make it to the White House, even by the somber path that events charted for Ford.

There are some Democrats who argue that the relations between Ford and Congress cannot accurately be called confrontation. Of course, this line could be strategic as the Democratic leaders of Congress try to persuade Ford not to veto the extension of oil price controls. Approval of the six-month extension would give more time for the tortuous process of working out a compromise energy policy.

Majority Whip John J. McFall, D-Calif., for one, contends that what is going on is executive-legislative bargaining carried to the ultimate with vetoes, efforts — usually unsuccessful — to override and then more compromise attempts.

As for personal relations at Ford's frequent get-togethers with members of Congress, McFall grinned and asked, "How could I not be civil with Jerry Ford?"

A Republican assessment, from Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts, is that the Ford-Congress personal reunions are "very cordial, very warm." That goes for Democrats, "but not to the extent of giving him a vote," Conte said.

There are occasional dissonances, complaints that Ford, like others before him, is becoming inaccessible.

A Democratic subcommittee chairman said he was concerned about a situation under his jurisdiction that he thought required immediate attention, so he wrote asking for an opportunity to discuss it with the President.

"I got back a flunky letter saying it was under consideration," he said.

Ford has unsurprisingly used the huge publicity opportunities of the presidency to berate the Democratic-controlled Congress for what he says is a failure to come to grips with the energy crisis and recklessly refusing to hold spending to a level that could abate inflation.

His nationally televised speech in which he ripped off calendar pages to illustrate his charge of foot-dragging still rankles some Democrats.

Majority Leader Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., who from time to time plays golf with Ford, began weeks ago making a daily brief speech at the beginning of the House session denouncing the administration and not sparing the President.

In one of his latest blasts before Congress recessed, O'Neill said: "You name it. He's vetoed it ... It's hard to think of any group of Americans who haven't been hurt by President Ford's vetoes ..."

"He's a good friend, but he's been a disaster for the country."

But a Republican who has attended some of Ford's informal sessions with his old colleagues told a reporter, "You ought to see Tip when he's with the President. It's good old Jerry, hugs, gifts. Then he gets on the floor the next day and kicks the —out of him."

Public slam-banging of the opposition without disturbing personal friendships is an old story to the political professionals in Congress.

Ford, ascending to the presidency at a time of national shock, rode in on a wave of good will on the part of the public and especially of his old congressional associates. All say he is affable, friendly and decent, with a personality wholly different from that of his predecessor.

Britons Cleanest People In Europe

Agence France-Presse

BERNE — Measuring cleanliness by the amount of soap used, the British are the cleanest people in Europe.

According to figures published by the Swiss Union of Soap and Detergent Manufacturers, for 1974, each person in Britain used 40 ounces of soap.

Other countries, in order of cleanliness, are Switzerland, 37 oz. per person; Germany 34 oz.; Sweden, 33 oz.; France 22.6 oz. and The Netherlands, 22.2 oz.

The northern boundary of Manitoba was extended to Hudson's Bay by the Canadian government.
