U. S. UNDERGROUND—Near Little Rock, Ark., workmen weld together the last stretch of mileage for this 30-inch pipeline reaching from Falfurrias, Tex., to Joliet, Ill. One of the largest systems of its kind in the U. S., the new pipeline, costing $135,000,000, will bring a much-needed increase in natural gas supply to the Chicago metropolitan area and other urban centers in Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska.

Dairy Judging Team to Compete At Houston Show

A 4-H Club Dairy Judging team from Collingsworth County will participate in the judging contest of the Houston Livestock Show Tuesday, February 12, competing with approximately 30 teams from over the entire state for cash prizes and a trophy.

This will be the first time a team from the county has entered the Houston event, one of the largest stock shows in the nation.

Eight boys are competing for the four places on the team, and County Agent J. W. Thomas said this week it is still a toss-up as to who the four will be. Seeking the honor are Buddy Cornelius, Raymond Daughtery, Buddy Wynn, Kenneth Wynn, Jack Lennon, Edel Bonneau and Billy Musick of Dodson and John Thomas of Wellington.

The four team members will judge in the Houston show and the judging of the three high boys will be used. The team will be required to place cattle by the official placing by a judge. They will also be graded on reasons given for grading on one class of cattle.

In the Houston show, they will judge three classes of Jersey cows and three heifer classes.

The three winning teams will receive trophies, and the ten high individuals will receive $200 in cash to be applied on the purchase of a registered animal. This is the only dairy show in the state giving cash in addition to trophies, Mr. Thomas said.

A county dairy judging team participated in two of the three major dairy cattle shows in the southwest during last year, and in each of these a local boy was among the first 10. At the 4-H Club Roundup at College Station, John Thomas was among the top 10, and Edel Bonneau was in the same group in the American Dairy Cattle Judging Contest at Sulphur Springs.

Bank Assets Above Eight Million Dollar Mark as New Year Opens

For the third consecutive year, bank deposits in the county's four banks stood above the seven million dollar mark, and combined assets for the second consecutive year were above the eight million dollar mark.

These figures were revealed this week, with the issuance of the bank statements in compliance with calls from the Comptroller of Currency, the Federal Reserve Bank and the State Banking Commissioner.

The deposit figure for December 31, 1951, stood at $7,485,727.27. This was only about $40,000 less than the deposits for a year ago, $7,525,236.96, when they stood at a high mark for that date in the county's banking history.

Combined assets are only a few hundred dollars below that of a year ago, now standing at $8,090,901.56, compared to $8,091,249.53. This is around a quarter of of million dollars over the figure of two years ago, $7,756,691. It is more than a million dollars above the asset figure at the beginning of 1949, and around a half million more than the January 1, 1948 figure of $7,457,718, a figure which at that time was a high in banking history, but which now drops to fourth place.

Deposits are around a million dollars above the figure at the beginning of 1948.

Of the deposit figure, $6,940,754.47 is in demand deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations, while the remainder is in time deposits, deposits of United States government, states and political subdivisions.

Loans and discounts are a little below those of last year, now standing at $2,311,736 as compared to $2,434,484.53.

Undivided profits stand at $143,732.40, around forty thousand dollars above the figure last year, and more than fifty thousand above the undivided profits of two years ago.

Three of the four banks have held their annual stockholders meetings and elected officers and directors. The fourth bank, the First State at Dodson, was to hold its meeting Wednesday afternoon, January 9.

All officers and directors of the First National Bank were re-elected, R. D. Wiley, president, said Wednesday morning. E. H. Hunter is vice-president; J. D. Glenn, cashier, and William W. McClaskey, assistant cashier. Directors are J. G. Nisbett of Dumas, Mr. Wilye, C. R. Fires, Mr. Glenn and Mr. Hunter.

One new director appears on the list of the City State Bank board, Rex Garrett. Other directors are James Doneghy, Fred LeDerer, Claude Nelson and Warland Brum-

"In asking re-election, I wish to say that I will continue to carry on the duties of my office in line with the same policy I have followed in the past. I believe you know how I stand on matters affecting the county as a whole, our need for a continued sound financial program, our efforts to get more hard-surfaced roads to serve the farmers, and the feeling that the people should be kept fully informed on the affairs of the county. You have only to drive over the roads of my precinct to know what my ideas are on county road upkeep.

More Than Dozen Persons Injured By Falls on Ice During Week

At least a dozen persons received injuries due to falls on the ice during the past week with at least six of them receiving injuries to their left shoulders or wrists.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. C. C. Ravens, who received a fractured left hip when she slipped on the snow and ice at her home in the north part of town. She is the mother of Mrs. Charlie Starkey.

Mrs. Ravens will undergo surgery Wednesday when a pin will be placed in her hip to hold the bones.

Gene Martin received a badly dislocated left shoulder in a fall, and attendants at the Jones-Watkins Clinic said the injury would probably be as long healing as a broken bone.

Also receiving a badly dislocated left shoulder was Leonard Simpson, who is employed by Darvin Nix as a caterpillar driver.

Mrs. Della Wilkerson, who is employed at the school cafeteria, fell in front of her home Wednesday, January 3, and a fractured knee and strained ligaments. She will be in bed for several weeks.

Mrs. Dora Ryan, county treasurer, had a broken left wrist from a fall. The accident occurred as she and Mrs. O. E. Dodson, district clerk, were crossing the street on the west side of the square.

Mrs. Dick Richards, who is employed in the PMA office, slipped on the steps in the middle of the north side of the court house yard, and received an injured right foot. She is able to walk about her home on crutches, but is unable to return to work, a daughter, Mrs. Bill Lowe, said.

Mrs. R. C. Buckles of Stratford received a broken left wrist when she slipped on ice in a driveway of a service station on Highway 83. She and Mr. Buckles were en route home after spending the Christmas holidays down-state and the accident occurred when they stopped here to have their car serviced.

L. E. Tollett was also treated at the Jones-Watkins clinic for an injured left wrist rereived in a fall.

Mrs. J. C. Ward had her shoulder thrown out of place and the ligaments torn when she fainted and fell at her home in the south part of Wellington.

First person to be injured due to icy weather was Fannie Lou White, a teen-ager, who broke her right arm in a fall Wednesday, January 2.

L. E. Tollett received a badly sprained and bruised left shoulder in an accident at Singley Elevator Thursday that spectators described as barely missed being a tragedy. A fellow worker of Mr. Tollett's slipped and fell immediately in front of a heavily loaded truck which was approaching. Mr. Tollett attempted to grab him and he, too, fell, and both men skidded safely away from the truck's wheels.

Mrs. D. E. Ellis, who with her husband M-Sgt. Ellis, fell as they were preparing to leave for their home in Fort Worth, after visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John King. The accident occurred at King Kourt, when Mrs. Ellis slipped on some steps. She received a back injury, but was able to return to Fort Worth that day.

Food Handlers School Planned for February

This school will be held at the community building and for the benefit of the larger cafes which have two shifts of employees, both morning and afternoon classes will be conducted each day. The morning classes will be from 9:30 a.m. until 11:00 a.m. and the afternoon sessions from 4 o'clock p.m. until 5:30 p.m. Both classes each day will cover the same material.

The instructor for this school will be Tom Warren, of the Texas State Health Department out of Austin who is highly recommended as being well versed and qualified to conduct these classes along as high a plane as possible. Mr. Warren will use 16 mm. films and slides along with verbal instruction and everyone is assured time well spent while in attendance of these classes.

Those who successfully complete this course will be awarded a certificate in sanitary food handling and the general public of Wellington and vicinity will be assured that all employees who take advantage of this free instruction will be better prepared to serve the public and lessen the spread of communicable diseases, Mr. Ritter states.

W. R. Ritter, Wellington Sanitarian, has completed arrangements with the State Health Department for this school to be held here and following is the daily itinerary for the school:

Guill Eisenhower District Manager

Ben Guill of Pampa, former Congressman from the 18th Congressional District, has been appointed to head the Eisenhower for President Campaign for the 18th Congressional District, Mickey Ledrick campaign manager for Mr. Guill during his campaign, has announced.

The appointment was made by Jack Porter, one of the Republican leaders of Texas.

Mr. Guill is in Washington at present, and in a telephone conversation with Mr. Ledrick said that Eisenhower had pushed the Truman-Churchill Conference completely off the front pages of the Washington papers.

Judge Templeton Seeks Re-Election

Judge R. L. Templeton, county judge, with the following statement authorized The Wellington Leader to announce his candidacy for re-election to that office.

"In announcing my intention to ask for another term as County Judge I wish only to say that I appreciate the past support all my friends have given me and I want to take this opportunity to say I hope that I may deserve the confidence people have shown in me in past years.

"By now you are familiar with my policy and my ability as a public official. I have no intention of making any changes in the manner in which I have tried to carry out the duties of my office. I will always try to keep the people informed on county affairs and county finances, believing that a well-informed public is the best insurance against corruption. I intend to redouble my efforts to achieve better roads and more paved roads and to do this without hazarding the financial condition of the county.

"I like to let people know where I stand and intend to make a wide-open campaign to ask for your support, but if I fail to see you, please consider this my personal solicitation of your support."

They Could Go Either Way

Close Games Predicted as Norwood, Claude Meet

The Samnorwood Eagles and Eaglettes will play the Claude teams Friday night, January 11, in a pair of games where anything can happen.

Claude boys always have a good team and usually are runner up or champion of their district and several times have been regional winner.

"We feel that they have an exceptionally good girls' team, too. They won the state championship last year, and most of their players are experienced. They're very fast, but then the Eaglettes are fast, too, and the teams are about the same size. It's going to be an exceptionally good game, either way it goes," Supt. Orville Cunningham said.

"Claude has a better record than we do, but anything can happen in these games, and we intend to see that it does," he added.

Probable starters for the Eaglettes will be Bonnie Kidwell, Goldie Tippie and Kay Newkirk, forwards; and Sue Moody, Joy Martindale and Janis Oldham, guards.

The Eagles will be without the services of their star forward, Lawrence Overcast, and another starter, Charles Daugherty. Probable starters will be Billy Alexander, Marland Sheffield, George Cunningham, Joe Schaub and Joe Thompson.

Both the Eagles and Eaglettes will play in the Canadian tournament next week end, January 17, 18 and 19.

More Contributions Needed

Ball Games to Raise March of Dimes Funds

Funds contributed to the 1952 March of Dimes this month will become double-barrelled barrages in the war on polio, Paul Spillman, County campaign director, declared today.

"Every dime and dollar finances care of patients, research, epidemic aid and education of much-needed professional personnel," Mr. Spillman said.

Benefit basketball games have been arranged on two dates, with every penny of the proceeds to go to the March of Dimes, the chairman said.

On January 26, the Samnorwood will be host to the games, with the Quail boys playing the Samnorwood boys and the Wellington girls meeting the Samnorwood girls.

The winners of these games will play the Wellington boys Saturday night, February 9, at Quail, and the girls will play the Quail girls the same night, also at Quail.

All games will begin at 7:30 p.m. and admission will be 50 and 25 cents.

Fifty per cent of the funds remain here to finance care of local polio patients needing such help or, in an emergency, are made available to the national epidemic aid fund.

The other fifty per cent is sent to National Headquarters, where it is used for these programs:

That Fighting Rocket Spirit

Boxers to Meet Hamlin In First Home Fights Fri.

The Wellington Skyrockets will fight the Hamlin team here Friday night, January 11, at 8:00 p.m., Coach John Lee announced.

From 12 to 14 fights are planned, and these should be some of the best of the year in the Rocket ring, Coach Lee believes.

The Hamlin boys defeated the Abilene high school team 10 to 4 two weeks ago and their record with other teams has been about like this. The team is coached by Don McGloghlin, one of the best school-boy fighters of the Panhandle when he was on the Lefors team, and a golden gloves champion in the 112 pound class.

"This is the first home fight of the season, and one of only four or five that we will have in Wellington all season. If you like boxing, we urge you to come out and watch these bouts. You'll get a big thrill out of it and the boys need your support," Coach Lee said.

The game with Abilene, scheduled here last Friday, was postponed due to icy roads and was rescheduled for February 8, in the Rocket ring.

"Some of Wellington's greener boys are coming along fine and are shaping up into real fighters. With our more experienced boys, we feel that we will wind up the season in a real way," the coach added.

Barnett For Precinct 4 Race

Cortez Barnett has announced his candidacy for Commissioner of Precinct 4, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

Mr. Barnett said: "I have appreciated the fine co-operation the people of Precinct 4 in particular, as well as that of people in other parts of the county, have given me. If elected I will continue to look after the county's business as I have in the past and will do my best to serve you efficiently. I am not only grateful for your past support; but I want you to know that I will appreciate your vote and support in the coming primary."

Studebaker Offers Entirely New Front End Treatment in 1952 Models Now on Display

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — The "Starliner," a five - passenger, hardtop convertible, is the pace car for Studebaker's 1952 models announced today.

This newest body style by Studebaker is offered in both the Champion and Commander lines, and is available in eleven different two-tone color combinations and two upholstery options. The "Starliner" typifies, both outside and inside, the striking design and appointments of the company's entire series of new models.

Dealers are scheduled to begin their local showings of the new cars early in January, according to K. B. Elliott, executive vice president.

Externally, the '52 Studebakers reveal entirely new front-end treatment and substantial re-styling in the rear. Hoods are longer and lower, with new emblems and ornaments. Grilles embody wrap-around styling and stand out as the most distinctive front-end features of the new models. The massive wrap-around bumpers are equipped with four vertical guards: two, located under the headlamps, to protect the vehicle from the customary bumps encountered in day-to-day driving, and two smaller guards to protect the license plate from damage. Headlamp rims have been re-designed and the parking lights, also of new design, are larger.

The most significant changes in the rear are found in the tail lights and trunk lid handles. The tail lights, which appear to be integral parts of the rear fenders rather than "added-on" assemblies, give the effect of extending the sweep of the fenders and thus a corresponding increase in body length. Their design, however, does not sacrifice any of the increased area of illumination which proved so popular on the '51 models.

Trunk lid handles incorporate new styling on all but the lowest price Champion model. New hood and fender ornaments, along with re-designed stainless steel gravel pads on State Commander, Land Cruiser, convertible and "Starliner" models complete the more prominent exterior alterations.

Surer, yet softer and easier brake action has been achieved by changes in the brake pedal linkage, the adoption of floating rear shoes in all brakes, and brake linings with greater resistance to "fading." The use of floating, rather than fixed, rear shoes in the brakes makes both front and rear shoes completely self-adjusting. For the motorist this means a minimum of maintenance worry coupled with maximum braking safety.

Other innovations include instrument panel push button starting on all models equipped with automatic drive, a new type of starter for the Commander which is held in positive engagement until the engine is fully operating, moisture-proof ignition systems, and a boost in the generator output to 45 amperes on both the Champion and Commander.

Studebaker's much-talked-about V-8 power plant introduced with such success a year ago on the Commander and Land Cruiser remains essentially unchanged. The efficient and economical 6-cylinder engine which powers the popular Champion series likewise reflects no basic changes.

Heat-resisting, glare-reducing glass for windshields, side and rear windows is optional on all '52 models. Rear view visibility on convertibles has been greatly increased by enlarging the rear window areas by nearly 266 square inches.

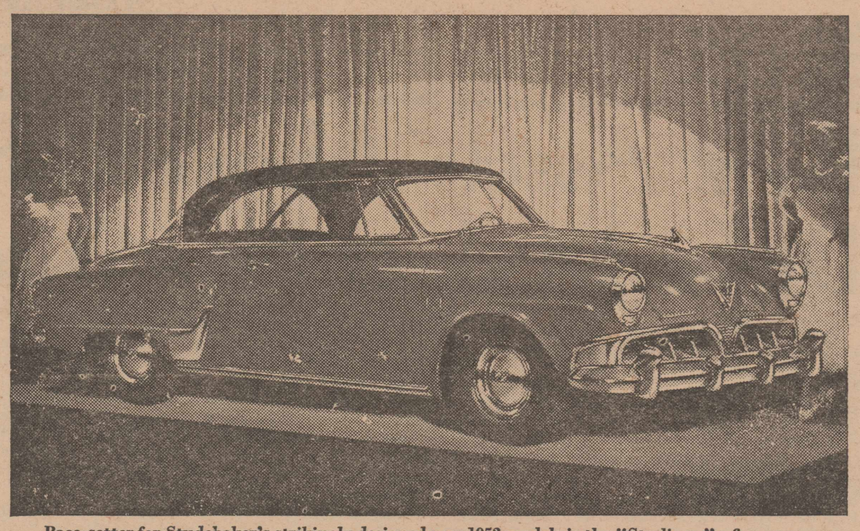
Eleven solid color choices are available in addition to the eleven two-tone combinations offered for the "Starliner." These include four new hues: Cuban red, nocturne blue, Tahoe green, and Piedmont gray.

Steering wheels are Windsor gray in color with red or ivory tenite wheels optional at extra cost. Horn half rings and horn emblems are new on all Commanders and on the regal Champion.

Trim and appointments are eye-appealing and indicative of the luxuriousness characterizing the interiors of the new models. The new instrument panels are attractively designed against backgrounds of Windsor gray. Exceptions to this color motif are the "Starliner" and convertible in which the color of the instrument panel matches that of the car exterior. A satin-like finish is used for the instrument cluster on the Champion, and a brushed finish overlay for the Commander instrument panel. Control knobs are chrome with recessed black letters on chrome background. Radio grilles are of new design.

A Studebaker "first" is the use of "Orlon" acrylic fiber, a new type of fabric for the fold-back tops of the '52 convertibles where light-colored top material is specified. The new fabric is highly resistant to shrinkage and weathering, and possesses exceptional "cleanability."

Upholstery and trim suggest drawing room elegance. Seats are particularly outstanding in comfort, design, materials and colors.



Pace-setter for Studebaker's strikingly designed new 1952 models is the "Starliner," a five-passenger hardtop convertible. It is offered in both the Champion and Commander lines, and is available in eleven different two-tone color combinations. Upholstery trim includes two different nylon options as standard, and two leather options as extra-cost choices.

Button-tufted seat cushions are standard on the State Commander and Land Cruiser; also on the "Starliner" and convertible when nylon trim is specified. Bolstered seat backs, featured in Studebaker's postwar cars for the first time, are standard in the regal Champion, State Commander, and Land Cruiser.

Upholstery fabrics attain new highs for durability and for richness in pattern and color. Seats and seat backs in the deluxe Champion are trimmed in medium taupe, striped pile-and-cord fabric; in the regal Champion, in gray taupe, lace-striped flat cloth. Upholstery in the regal Commander is finished in hickory beige striped broadcloth, and in the State Commander, in silver taupe, terrace weave nylon. upholstery is standard in the Land Cruiser, with a colorful two-tone gray broadcloth trim as an optional selection. Four choices in upholstery trim are offered for the "Starliner" and convertible: Tan and brown-striped nylon; gray and maroon-striped nylon; beige-taupe leather with flax colored rawhide leatherette sidewalls; and red leather with red sidewalls. The latter two are optional at extra cost.

Door trim matches the attractiveness of upholstery and appointments. Door upper trim appears in a variety of materials and patterns ranging from pleated cloth or pleated leatherette to the colorful maroon quilted vinyl in the "Starliner." Sidewalls are trimmed with new cloth fabrics or leatherette. Lower door sections are trimmed in taupe carpeting, leatherette, or stainless steel.

Such well-established Studebaker features and options as automatic transmission, overdrive, hill-holder, one-piece windshields, climatizer and others are continued.

"In performance, safety, comfort and appearance, we believe our 1952 Studebaker Champions and Commanders are outstanding," summarizes K. B. Elliott, executive vice president. "Our dealers are enthusiastic over the new cars, and I am confident that public reaction will be equally enthusiastic."

Mr. and Mrs. Ansel McDowell Jr., left Wednesday for Galveston, where he resumed his work at the University of Texas College of Medicine and she at the University of Texas School of Nursing.

WHAT IS THIS NEW TEXAS MOTOR VEHICLE SAFETY RESPONSIBILITY LAW?

In simplest terms, it declares that a motor vehicle operator who injures or kills another person, or damages his property in excess of $100, must stand prepared to prove his financial responsibility to pay for the probable amount of damage. If he fails to do so, the operator must forfeit his privilege to drive a motor vehicle in Texas.

NOT A NEW TYPE OF LAW

45 States, the District of Columbia, Hawaii and eight Canadian provinces have Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility laws, which upon occasion, require motorists to prove financial responsibility, or their drivers' licenses will be suspended.

INTENT OF THESE LAWS

To promote safety on the streets and highways . . . to insure adequate financial compensation to innocent victims of accidents . . . to strike hard at the reckless and financially irresponsible motorist for the good of the public generally and particularly for the benefit of the safe, careful and responsible driver and pedestrian.

ARE YOU PREPARED TO PROVE YOUR FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY?

Automobile Bodily Injury and Property Damage Liability insurance is the most popular and least expensive method to prove financial responsibility under these laws.

A FARMERS Dividend Paying, Texas Standard form, Non-Assessable Policy is acceptable to the State as security to prove your financial responsibility.

A SUBSTANTIAL DIVIDEND IS BEING PAID ON CURRENTLY EXPIRING POLICIES

Thompson and Sandoval in Feature Fight

ROCKET BOXERS WIN OVER CLOVIS IN BEST FIGHTS OF RECENT YEARS

Skyrocket boxers turned in some of the best fights of recent years against the Clovis, N. M. team Monday night at Clovis, and brought home an 8 to 5 victory.

"Both teams were good, and they turned in some of the best high school fights I've ever seen," Coach John Lee declared. "I never saw people of a town any nicer to a visiting team than the Clovis people were to us, and I don't think the judges missed a decision all night."

In the feature fight of the evening, Jimmy Thompson lost a close decision to Luceo Sandoval in the 126 pound class. Sandoval, winner of the novice division boxing for the State of New Mexico last year, has never lost a fight. "These boys had the crowd on their feet for three rounds. Jimmy nearly knocked him out in the second round and the crowd roared. Sandoval got the decision, which was just, but Thompson fought one of the better fights of his life," Coach Lee said.

Winners in the other fights were:

80 lb. Class — Olan Murdock decisioned Johnny Martinez.

90 pounds: Don Hood decisioned Joe Hernandez.

96 pounds: Duggie Jameson won a KO over Andrew Garcia after knocking him out of the ring.

106 pounds: Gary Phillips decisioned Joe Rodriguez.

110 pounds: Raymond Williams of Clovis won a close decision over Billy Branch. This was a draw fight that could have gone either way.

118 pounds: Levia Romero won a TKO over Drew Wyrick. Wyrick had his opponent whipped until the last few seconds of the fight when he got a lick on the nose that blinded him and Coach Lee stopped the fight.

165 pounds: Dan Jameson won a TKO over Raymond Johnson in the second round.

140 pounds: Gene Baird decisioned Merella.

156 pounds: Floyd Hood decisioned Armanda Martinez in one of the better fights of the night. Hood, who is sharpening up, put on one of his best fights of the season.

118 pounds: Eugene Shelton of Clovis won a close decision over Warner Moore.

85 pounds: Bobby Nipper decisioned Garcia.

1132 Pay Poll Taxes

Tax Assessor Hubert Mauldin said Monday that 1132 poll taxes have been paid for this year, less than half the potential of approximately 2,500.

"We are expecting heavy payments during the remainder of this month, since this is an election year," Mr. Mauldin said.

He estimated that there are approximately 750 persons in the county exempted from poll tax payment because of age, but not more than 250 to 300 ever vote, he said.

Mr. Mauldin also reminded that the poll taxes are not listed on the tax notices, as they were for a few years, and he urged all voters to check and see if they paid their poll taxes at the time their property taxes were paid.

January 31 is the deadline for paying poll taxes.

Work of SCD Directors Noted

"The Board of Supervisors of the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District No. 133 are elected by the landowners of the district," J. W. Thomas, county agent, explained this week in outlining the duties of this body.

"Their business is to get the job done with soil and water conservation for their district. They have a pledge of assistance from the State Vocational Agriculture Department, the PMA, the Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service, the Texas State Highway Department, and other agencies capable of lending assistance to this group in getting the best possible job done in soil and water conservation.

"Members of the local board are Jake Tarter, chairman, Wood Coleman, secretary, Alfred Knoll, Frank Coleman, and Frank Ford. These board members serve for five years and one is elected each year," Mr. Thomas explained.

Don Knoll Gets Project Jersey

Don Knoll, Samnorwood 4-H Club boy, has received a registered Jersey heifer through the dairy improvement program of the Shamrock Chamber of Commerce, J. W. Thomas, county agent, announced.

The heifer, Benson's Brampton Oliveretta, was born April 11, 1951. Her dam was Brampton Ciscy Victoria, owned by Ronnie Gooch of Abra, and her sire was Brampton W. R. Oliver, owned by J. B. Cristner, dairyman in the north part of the county.

Gooch's cow was also secured under the dairy improvement program, under which he returned the first heifer calf to the Shamrock Chamber of Commerce, to be given to another 4-H Club boy.

Brampton W. R. Oliver was first brought to the county for use in the Jersey Bull Circle and later was sold to Mr. Christner for $850.

Both animals were secured from Bull and Son, Brampton, Ontario, Canada, who are among the outstanding Jersey breeders of North America. All outstanding Jersey herd bulls in this immediate area have been secured directly from them or are descended from animals bred by them.

In receiving the Jersey heifer from the Chamber of Commerce, Knoll agreed to return to them the first heifer calf, to be given to some other 4-H boy with a dairy improvement project.

Knoll is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Knoll.

He was about 50 years old.

Martin was buried here January 1, with the Kelso Funeral Home in charge.

New Study Hall Plan at Norwood

Study hall periods of the Samnorwood high school can be either individual study or discussion group study, and the time honored permission to go look up a word in the dictionary is no more.

Under a new program just begun, the students are seated at tables, rather than in rows of chairs, and when the teacher keeping study hall wishes it, all those at a table may study together, Orville Cunningham, superintendent, said in describing the change. Each table has been equipped with a large dictionary.

"The students are really enjoying it. We have always had quiet study halls, but in the few days this has been in effect, the conduct of the boys and girls has been improved. We feel that the group study will up the grades, too," Mr. Cunningham commented.

All tables for the study hall were made by Lawrence Skylstad, English instructor, during his Christmas vacation. This included ten tables, each 32 inches in width by 7 feet in length. They were built of white pine, with a plastic gymnasium floor finish used as varnish. This is a permanent finish, lasting from six to 10 years, Mr. Cunningham said.

Belated New Years greetings to all of you. All of us have been down with colds, sinus and kindred ailments ever since Christmas. We are not the only ones. It is all over town.

The moisture was welcomed by the farmers. J. M. Strong's gauge said .95 hundredths of an inch. Mine said 1.20; but it is a well known fact that I predict and record more moisture than J. M. Strong. Evidently J. M. never intends to run for county office. Otherwise he would record things that indicate bigger and better things for the farmers.

Lefty Thomas has made a New Years resolution to try to keep up with his own hat. When the Farm Bureau held their meeting, our county agent was one of the last to leave. There was only one Stetson left and he picked it up and wore it home. The next morning he discovered that he had acquired a 4X Beaver — a much better hat than his modest number. A little more investigation disclosed that the hat might belong to Jay Taylor of Amarillo, who came down for the meeting. Next came the Chamber of Commerce meeting at which Martin Dies was the principal speaker. Lefty wore the 4X to the C of C banquet. Mr. Dies spent the night at Joe Baumgardners. The next morning he was preparing to leave and had his hat upside down in his lap. All of a sudden he exclaimed: "Why this is not my hat. I had a 3X Beaver and this is a 4X." So if Jay Taylor expects to get his original hat back, he will have to fly to Beaumont.

Most of our bad fires happen at night and so most of our people do not realize what our volunteer firemen go through when there is a major fire. But Cicero Smith Lumber Co. burned in broad daylight and a lot of people got an eye opener as to the courage, skill and efficiency of our local firemen. They saw the cool manner in which they went about their work in the midst of danger. Yet the afternoon was comparatively mild for the winter season. Contrast this with the below zero temperatures in which some of our major night fires have been fought and you get a dim idea of the suffering as well as the danger. Everybody appreciates the work of the volunteer fire department. Do any of us appreciate them half enough?

Dick Sweat intimates that the Farmers Co-op Gin is contemplating expansion in the next year or two. Nothing definite has been decided by the board of directors; but they have been talking about it.

Maurice Crain, an old schoolmate of mine, was in Wellington last week. He stayed overnight in the home of Andy Bell. He is a brother of Newton Crain, who is Andy's son-in-law.

Old Henry Maurice Crain and Henry Deskins Wells were issue editors of the Daily Texan in the scholastic years of 1922-23. In those days we went by our middle names as we still do. Andy Bell got me off to a very bad start by introducing him as Mr. Jones. I had a fraternity brother named Donk Jones and I knew good and well it was not Donk, who is an engineer and has no more sense of the amenities or manners than does Andy Bell.

I had to take Maurice down to Otis Grill for a cup of coffee and fudge and hem and haw for five minutes before I figured out who he was. I had not seen him since 1923. Was I red in the face when I realized that here was a former co-worker on The Daily Texan?

We had a wonderful visit after I finally figured out who he was, and talked of the other issue editors who were Moran Dunlap, S. M. Pool, Mary Rives Bowman, Ray E. Lee, Jack Logan and Carl Swartz. An issue editor on the Daily Texan in those days was what Virginia Robey is on The Wellington Leader. They did the work each night. The managing editor told them what to do next week and the editor-in-chief came along and told them what they did wrong last week.

Crain is a literary agent. He and his wife, who still goes by the name of Annie Laurie Williams, sell plays and books to publishers and the movies.

He told me that they are excited about their newest find. He is Maxwell Griffith of Terrell, Texas, and the name of his book is "Port of Call." Maurice and Annie Laurie think that it will be a success.

Maurice Crain is better known over the nation as one of the authors of "Stalig 17". It was a Broadway play about life in a German prisoner of war camp. He was a gunner in the air force and his ship crashed and he became a prisoner of war. The play proved to be a great success and has been reproduced as a movie by Paramount.

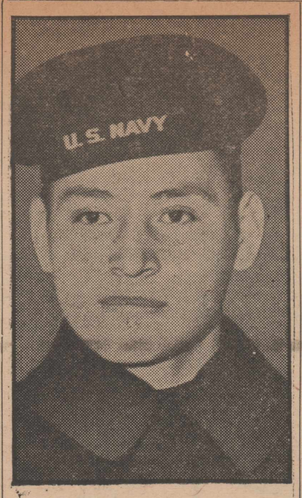
He and his wife have an apartment three blocks from their office in New York. They spend five days there and Saturday and Sunday in their home in Connecticut. I was envious in thinking of how many places he had been and how far he had gone. On my part I gossiped about my daughter Diane and my son Henry, and in a lull in the conversation I asked if he had any children. The modest and forthright man paused and for the first time I saw a little sadness in his eyes. "We wanted children; but we have none," he said. All envy left me then.



I. M. A. SAILOR—That's his name and it fits his job perfectly. I. M. A. stands for Ira Mitchell Alfred, and Sailor is the sailor's last name. I. M. A., a full blooded Chippewa Indian, is presently in training at Great Lakes Naval Station in Illinois.

Mrs. L. E. Stinson, Prominent Hollis Woman, Dies Fri.

Mrs. L. E. Stinson of Hollis, prominent Southwestern Oklahoma woman and a member of one of the first families to settle in this section of the country, died there Friday, January 4. She had been seriously ill for two weeks, but in ill health for the last six years.

Here's John Moltz, on his way to work. And you can bet that not once today will he consider what woke him up

turned morning's dark into cheerful light
furnished him with a hot bath shaved his face
washed and ironed his shirt
cooked his coffee and toast

. . . what, in fact, did practically everything to send him happily to work. Yes, the answer is electric service—a good and faithful servant we all take pretty much for granted.

A servant whose wages are only a few cents a day! When you think about it, your electric service is just about the biggest bargain in the family budget.

Younger Boys Begin Playing

Rockets, Rockettes Play Away From Home

The Wellington Skyrockets and Rockettes will continue to play an away-from-home schedule during the coming two weeks, with the B teams as well as A teams getting into the competition.

The B teams, both boys and girls, will meet the Quail B teams at Wellington Wednesday night, January 9.

Thursday night, the Rockets and Rockettes go to Lakeview for a pair of games and Friday night the Rocket A and B teams will meet the Quanah boys there, while the Rockettes on that day will play in the Memphis tournament.

Next week will find both the Rockets and Rockettes playing in the Canadian tournament, scheduled for January 17, 18 and 19.

Comparative scores show the Wellington teams considerably stronger than Lakeview, Rocket Coach Maxey McKnight said.

Quanah is another story. The Rockets won by luck and one point in an earlier game played here, but McKnight guesses that it will take some hard ball playing to come out even that well this time.

The girls drew a bye in the first game of the Memphis tournament and their first playing will be against Hedley at 1:30 a.m. If they win, they go into the semi-finals, and if they lose they are out.

Don Briggs, coaching the Rockettes, is putting on the court one of the youngest teams in the area, since most of his players are freshman and sophomores. In one game, in fact, he started five freshmen.

"They've lost a lot of games but they play hard and we're well satisfied with the girls," Coach Briggs commented.

There are only two letter players this year, Rugene Black and Nadine Howell, both juniors.

"The girls are trying to learn how to play basketball and of course we try to win, but next year is when we're really going to think about winning our games," Coach Briggs added. "Basketball is very important to the girls, and I think they are taking it more seriously than the boys."

Players include Betty Joe Cagle, Nina McGill, Shirley Pritchard, LaWanda Strickland, Selma McAlister and Sharon Elbert, forwards; and Rugene Black, Darlene West, Betty Maloney, Renee Thomason, Patsy Baird, Nadine Howell, forwards, and Sue Harvey, manager.

Co-captains are Rugene Black and LaWanda Strickland.

The lone senior on the team is Darlene West, while Rugene Black, Betty Maloney and Nadine Howell are juniors.

In addition to these twelve girls, Coach Briggs has approximately 20 girls he is working into a B team squad.

More emphasis is being put on basketball among the younger boys, too, Coach McKnight said, and a junior high team under Coach Aubrey Frazier worked out for the first time Tuesday afternoon.

"We're just trying to build up our B team. There hasn't been time or opportunity to give them too much attention, but they're catching on fine, and we are proud of what they are doing".

Probable starters in the game against Quail will be Bill Harvey, Winifred Bickerstaff, Camal Dakil, who plays on both A and B teams, Odie Hood and Jim McCutchen or Frank Jones. Other B team players are Joe Pritchard, John Cartwright, Kenneth Beard, W. L. Burkhalter, Manzel Zeck, Eugene Brown and probably Clyde Ingram.

GOODNESS, NOTHING BUT GIRLS' LEGS!—Well, Michael Adcock must be forgiven for not doing a double-take on what surrounds him because he's only two years old. In this picture, he's sweating it out in the wings during a fashion show in San Francisco, waiting for his cue to go on stage. Gals behind him, which he completely ignores—but we don't—are preparing to go on, also, to model new-style bathing suits.

structions as to how a waitress should wear a hair net but involves dozens of other categories such as cafeteria personnel, grocers, butchers, dairymen, locker plant personnel, drug store personnel, housewives, PTA members, and home economics students. In other words, anyone involved in food production, processing, shipping, selling, or consumption is definitely the individual that should be in attendance to this school," Mr. Ritter pointed out.

"To further clarify these basic health courses the three following paragraphs will be of interest.

1. Over 25 communicable diseases can be transmitted by careless, indifferent food handling.

2. Four out of five cases of all reported communicable diseases occur due to disease germs entering the body through the nose and mouth.

3. Sixty five million people eat out every day, and millions more trade at markets, groceries, bakeries, and other food establishments day in and day out, he added.

"Therefore, according to Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer of Texas, "It can be readily seen why the food handlers role is an important one. He can check the spread of such diseases as trench mouth, diphtheria, septic sore throat, scarlet fever, common colds, measles, mumps, and many other contagious diseases including Polio by observing the sanitary principles taught in these food schools." This school has the unanimous backing of Dr. E. K. Jones, Wellington City Health Officer and the entire Wellington City Council and it is hoped by all concerned that all owners and managers will not only encourage their employees and make it possible for them to attend the classes but to set the example by regular attendance they themselves.

at finding a means of preventing or curing polio, March of Dimes grants are supporting research in the nation's leading universities and laboratories.

Professional Education — With shortages resulting from increased demands for professional service, plus inroads made by military requirements, more trained personnel are needed today than ever before, particularly in view of more widespread polio epidemics. March of Dimes scholarships, fellowships and short courses are training more professionals to care for polio victims and to man scientific laboratories.

Emergency Epidemic Aid Fund —This is money made available to any community which has exhausted its local March of Dimes funds caring for patients.

Mr. Spillman emphasized that "the number of new patients every year, plus the tens of thousands of patients from past years still needing help, have left the March of Dimes in debt at the end of each of the past four years. Thus the 1952 appeal must surpass any of the past."

The March of Dimes will continue to the end of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny French and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Starr attended the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas New Year's Day.

Working Girl's Boudoir Wardrobe Should Be Practical

This brushed rayon gown in coral was designed for the paycheck girl. It's edged in white Venice lace, has a mandarin collar, white pearl buttons, and is slitted at the sides for comfort.

BY EDNA MILES

THE girl who earns her own living and must therefore get an entire wardrobe from her paycheck each season quickly becomes a shrewd shopper. When she shops, she looks for practicality as well as fashion.

In choosing boudoir fashions, she passes up gold-etched tricot and the pleated nylon nets in favor of gowns and pajamas that are charming but inexpensive. And, in making her selections, she looks for fashions that are young, that are comfortable, that launder well.

Designer Myrtle Mayfield has done a series of just such gowns and pajamas for Colura in high fashion colors and in warm and washable brushed rayon.

These have a styling that's definitely young. They're done in warm, glowing colors: aqua, coral, pink and sand. Some have clean touches of white in big pompons while others are sparked by bright ribbons.

The mandarin collar, the Peter Pan collar and the dolman sleeve appear in these gowns and pajamas, both for fashion and for comfort. Flowing cuffs are used, too, and often they are piped in a contrasting color.

Warm wear for a wintry night is the over-all pajama in aqua brushed rayon. Waist-length jacket has a wide slit collar touched with coral ribbons.

Where Do We Stand as 1951 Ends?

In starting off the new year, we pay faint respect to 1951, with it's full component of unpleasantness — war in Korea, political corruption at home, pinpricks of harrassment from Reds in many parts of the globe, and the still increasing cost of living. These are black marks on a grim year.

But since one of the weapons of the enemies of Western Democracy is defeatism and unrest — Martin Dies in Wellington underlined this — it is well to give due credit to the progress of 1951, creeping through it was in some places.

Korea continued to hold first place in the American mind, as 1951 started, the United Nations forces were just beginning to recover from their great defeat at the Yalo River. It is true that they were compelled to continue a "police action" war, but even so, the Red enemy was repulsed with casualties estimated as high as 1,000,000. Eventually with Russia out of South Korea, it brought the hint from Malik—Russia still insists she is not a participant —that a truce would be welcome. Bogged down through peace talks were as 1951 ended, when the year began, the Communists had no notion of talking truce.

At the same time we have forged out of the Korean War is what is perhaps the best fighting task force in the history of the Western Democracies.

On the other side of the World, most Americans feel there have been definite gains in Western Europe. In meeting communism's challenge, here is possibly the most important region in the free world, for there are trained manpower, industrial potential and productive capacity greater than in all of Aisa.

The build-up in military strength has been amazing. When General Esienhower took command of the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in 1951, he had only the scattered elements of seven divisions of Allied troops at his disposal.

When 1951 ended. American forces in West Germany had grown to six full divisions, and the contributions of French, British, Italian, Norwegian and Beligun troops have been such that the joint command today includes 26 divisions, most of them ready for combat. This is roughly four times the strength at the start of the year.

As potential powderhouses, Iran and Egypt are less threatening.

There has been progress in other troubled parts of Asia. The peace treaty with Japan was concluded, as one of the outstanding pieces of United States diplomacy and statesmanship in recent years. Then there was the bilateral defense treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the Philippines.

Some of the aid is going to the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa that many Americans believe should have gone earlier, and aid to the French fighting communism in Indo-China is stepped up. To many Southeast Asiatics any sort of aid to England or France, even to fight communism, is signs of American sypathy with imperialism, and it may be that Point Four aid to that area will do a goodwill job for the United States far out of proportion to its now modest size.

At home political corruption, scandal parading after scandal, influence peddling and petty favoritism causes us to ask, "Has national morality sunk lower?"

But all these things were going on long before 1951. Around some of these there had long been suspicious odors, but the climax — investigation and indictment—came in 1951. It can well be that 1951, rather than going down in history as the year corruption will make the beginning of a moral awakening.

Undoubtedly the problems we face are complex and they will continue to be complex. But 1951 gives ground for confidence. It furnishes evidence that the free world is growing strong in a material defense and at the same time it is cleaning house preparing to build more wisely its spiritual defense.

This Is How Rome Fell; This Is How We Might

OF ALL THE MANY NATIONS that have flourished and then declined or died, none ever received such an exhaustive obitary as ancient Rome did at the hands of Edward Gibbon, the English historian who wrote a monumental wrok entitled the "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," covering the long period after Rome passed her crest and was on the way down.

It is a little disconcerting to note how often one encounters the long almost forgotten Gibbon now days and how many are finding a parallel between the times of which he whote and the present. The current issue of The Rotarian contains an article in which Gibbon's summary of the causes of Rome's fall are succintly present in the following paragraph:

First, the increasing luxury, which enervated the stoic virtues; second, the prevalence of divorce, which undermined the family, which is so vital to any civilization; third, the taxation became so heavy that men in despair declared that it was useless to try to save anything for the future; fourth, the civil wars destroyed the flower of Rome's manhood; and fifth, the quanity of citizenship was diluted by the inclusion of slaves and barbarians who felt no thrill of glory when the story of the Eternal City was sung.

Doesn't the "then and now" comparison reach right out and hit you in the eye? We have all the causes of Rome's decline present in present day America, even the civil wars, if one recognizes that class wars can be as destructive in their way as shooting wars between sections of a country. We have no "slaves and barbarians" literally, but we have plenty of immigrants who have not grasped what America stands for and been spiritually assimilated. And we certainly have all the other factors in full measure.

We shall probably hear more about Mr. Gibbons and the books he wrote way back in the eighteenth century, but the big question is: Will we continue to set the stage for some future Gibbon to write another and even grimmer story?

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek gets off into medical science this week, his letter reveals.

Dear editar:

With another year already started and nothin we can do about it, I was out here yesterday wonderin what the next twelve months will bring forth, especially in a business way, and I noticed the wind rollin a newspaper along over my pasture toward the barn and I was hopin it would blow inside so I could go out there later in the day and pick it up and it did and last night after supper I sat down to see what's goin on in the outer world and had just got through readin the comics when I began checkin up on the health of some more tax collectors.

I tell you, flu is bad around here but it must not be anything compared to what them Federal tax collectors have.

Why I know lots of people who have gotten sick in their time, a bank president who was laid up in the hospital several weeks, a preacher who was out of his pulpit three months, a doctor who had to go to the hospital a month, lots of business men who have to stay at home a week or two, farmers who have to lay around the house when they'd like to be plowin, but I have never seen any of em react like a tax collector. Resignin from their work is the last thing all my acquaintances want to do, in fact, they can't get back to their jobs fast enough to suit em, but you take a tax collector, he gets sick and the last thing he wants to hear about is his job. Just mention it and he seems to take a turn for the worse.

I tell you, mdeical science has a long way to go just in doin something about the common cold and the walkin flu, but I doubt if it'll ever get around to a cure for Tax Collector's Sickness.

As I understand it, the disease is peculiar, it strikes without warnin. You can be healthy, robust, almost domineerin today, but something comes up at the office and tomorrow you're flat of your back, can't answer questions, have great difficulty rememberin facts, and seem to lean more heavily on lawyers than doctors. You seem to go on the feelin if you can just get away for a while everything will blow over.

Personally, I never have cared much for work, but I've never had to get sick to quit, and I blame sure haven't quit to get sick.

When the average man gets sick, for example, it's frequently because he's been tryin to do too much, but with tax collectors it's the other way around, they haven't been collectin enough, or they been collectin enough but haven't been depositin enough, or they been collectin in the wrong place, although personally I've always felt they've collected enough from me. But the main oddity about Tax Collector's Sickness is that nobody dies from it and while it incapacitate the individual collector for continued work in that line, somebody else always turns up to take his place. The government doesn't let the torch go out.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Bible Reading Is Spoiled By Literalism

Bible reading can be an exciting, poetic experience. But too often cold western literalism shatters the fragile images that have made the Bible an enduring literary masterpiece.

Full of the imagery that has characterized the literature, both secular and sacred, to emerge from the east, the Bible was intended to be symbolic. Never was it meant to be literal, factual or completely realistic.

Examined with a critical eye to their plausibility, many of the Bible's parables seem to lack authenticity. For their convincing moral object lessons, however, the parables are without rivals.

Study the Parable of the Sower. It is not bolstered by cut and dried proofs. In fact the sowing of seed by hand is difficult for we of the machine age to imagine.

Describing our hearts and minds as seeds of truth that must be offered to God, the parable is as timely today as it was centuries ago. Its theme, that the sowing of our spiritual seeds will be futile unless the ground has been properly prepared, will never cease to be a fundamental truth.

Another parable in which the actual details seem inconsequential when compared with the story's inspirational theme is the Parable of the Mustard Seed. Memorable is its message that great things in God's economy grow from small beginnings.

For those whose faith must be substantiated by fact, the growth of Christianity itself authenticates the Parable of the Mustard Seed.

Looking Ahead With George S. Benson

TO PROFIT IS NOT ANTI-CHRISTIAN

There is a conspiracy working in America today which has as its first objective the building up of public resentment against the profit motive. The hidden powers in this conspiracy are the Communists and the Socialists. They wish to destroy public acceptance of the profit motive, as the first fatal step in destroying the American capacity for production which has made America the strongest nation in the world.

Norman Thomas, head of the American Socialist Party for the past 20 years, says, "The American profit system can only be prolonged under the impetus of mass insanity and the brutality of fascism." William Z. Foster, head of the American Communist Party, says substantially the same thing. Such public statements from the heads of the two movements seeking destruction of the American way of life won't surprise many people. But it may be surprising to learn that the same attack on the profit system is being carried on, either unwittingly or through cleverly planted propaganda writings, in some influential church literature and widely used school and college textbooks.

PROFIT MOTIVE DENOUNCED

As this column is being written, I have before me an educational booklet published by a leading church. It denounces the profit motive and calls for the elimination of the profit system. This booklet says: "The profit motive tends to excite the exploitive impulses, glorifies selfishness and rewards graft." It recommends a "profitless" production - for - use system with the government owning and operating the facilities of production and distribution, precisely as is advocated by Thomas and Foster.

In most cases such attacks on our American profit system in church literature stem from sincere but misguided idealism among the clergy or whoever writes the literature. However, some of it comes from calculating conspirators. All of it helps push America along toward the objectives of Socialist Thomas and Communist Foster. The few churchmen who openly attack the profit motive contend that it is unChristian, out of harmony with the teachings of the Bible. In this they misrepresent the Bible.

GOD'S OWN LAW

The profit motive may be said to be one of God's own laws. In a sense it is the "reward motive," operating within the natural law of compensation which is basic in economics and in our spiritual life. Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote, on the Law of Compensation: "Human labor, through all its forms, from the sharpening of a stake to the construction of a city or an epic, is one immense illustration of the perfect compensation of the universe. The absolute balance of Give and Take, the doctrine that everything has its price, is not less sublime in the columns of a ledger than in the budgets of states, in the laws of light and darkness, in all the action and reaction of nature."

Jesus said (Mark 10:28-30): "There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's, but he shall receive a hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers and children and lands . . ." The Master here was speaking specifically of material profits — a hundredfold!

BIBLE TEACHES SHARING

The apostle James dealt with a business situation embodying the profit motive and he did not criticize it. Some people (James 4:13-16) were boasting that they were going into the city to buy and sell and make profit for a year, and the apostle addressed them thus: "Ye know not what shall be on the morrow. Ye ought to say, If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this, or that . . ." The rebuke was for ignoring the power of God over their lives; no criticism was made of the avowed plan to make profit.

The Bible teaches that the Christian use of profits requires sharing. And yet here again the Law of Compensation is shown to rule: the man who does not share his good fortune with another misses the spiritual rewards which are far greater than the material ones. Nowhere in the Bible is there a suggestion that a person should be forced — by another individual, or an organization, or the government — to share his earnings or his savings. Force is not a tool for making Christians. And the profit motive is not a man-made law; it is the driving incentive in the spiritual as well as the material life. Heaven itself is the reward for a Christian life.

Lord Jim Says--

By Bill Hughes

Got several books for Christmas that all should read. One is called the "Road to Bithynia" by Frank G. Slaughter, and the other, "My Six Convicts," by Donald Powell Wilson.

Both books are easy reading, being well written and can be enjoyed for sheer amusement alone. On the other hand, both are capable of generating a lot of thinking. Both are a challenge to modern conceit about our superior way of life. Both hold a clew to the why of our troubled world. Both suggest a means by which to help ourselves.

"The Road to Bithynia" is a religious novel, a truly beautiful story, among other things. But primarily, if one can read it and keep his or her personal convictions out of the way, it goes far in explaining why Christianity has become so splintered, and so divided, hence, losing much of its potential influence for good in the world. But this is not all, because it closes upon the means of doing something about it if we will just grasp and act upon the simple fact that God's Will and love of God is superior of man's ego and arrogance as a source of power by which to achieve peace and happiness.

"My Six Convicts" is the story of a psychologist's three years, living among and working with criminals, particularly on the problem of drug addicts. Many incidents recited are full of humor and hence the book may be read for a laugh. But beneath this surface, lies facts of life and man's imperfect law and so-called justice that should be a challenge to every American citizen not in a penal institution. It strikes at a basic weakness of America and Americans today. It casts a revealing light upon the basis of today's scandals and corruption, not alone in government but in business as well.

It advances a number of reasons why convicts, dope addicts, and criminals of all sorts are not just a problem that belongs to the law and the Departments of Justice and law enforcement. It reminds us of the fact that this class of society are people too, Americans; and that they were not just born to this class by God's Will but that everyone of us are accountable for a share in their lot, by reason of our own imperfections and neglect of the Ten Commandments.

It reminds us of how microscopic is the line between free-men ond the criminal cast.

While the subject matter of the two books is utterly different and are written about people nearly two thousand years apart in time, they have much in common, and both beautifully and brilliaitly plead for Christ's Great Commandment, "Love your fellow men as I have loved you."

Wischkaemper to Press Seminar

Preliminary Report Released

Full Record of County Farming Given in Census

Collingsworth farms in 1950, besides all the cotton and wheat and livestock grown, produced a set of figures that will be the agricultural measuring stick for the county for the next five years.

This surprising array of information about county farms has just come in the preliminary 1950 Census of Agriculture, just released by the Bureau of Census.

Generally, the date is based upon the tabulation of reports for all farms in the county, made when the 1950 census was taken, however on a few items, the report was made on the basis of a sample of approximately 20 per cent of the farms. Crop yields are based on the 1949 crop year, the last harvested at the time the census was taken in early 1950.

The number of farms declined between 1945 and 1950 from 1,110 to 1,038. Of the county's 575,360 area, 496,811 acres, or 86.3 per cent was in farm land, and this, too, was less than five years previously when 512,014 acres were in cultivation.

The average value of the land and buildings on Collingsworth farms in 1949 was $25,918, and five years earlier, when land values were lower, the county average was $11,217. The per acre value had also risen from $24.30

Of the total land in farms, 215,590 acres was harvested. There were 419 acres of cropland used only for pasture, 13,580 acres not harvested and not pastured, 2,594 acres summer fallowed, and 926 acres of woodland pastured. Forty acres of woodland (shelterbelts) wasn't pastured. There was 240,889 acres of pasture — approximately 37,000 acres less than five years previously. House lots, roads, wasteland, etc., accounted for 11,273 acres.

In 1949 there was one irrigated farm of 160 acres. Five years previously there had been 8 acres of irrigattion on one farm.

Nine hundred and fifteen farm operators lived on the farm they operated; 114 did not. This is substantially the same as the number five years earlier.

The county in 1950 had 387 farms of 160 acres or less, and 86 farms with less than 50 acres. There were 78 farms from 180 to 219 acres; 67 from 220 to 259 acres; 287 from 260 to 499 acres; 137 from 500 to 999 acres; and 82 farms in the county of 1,000 acres or more.

There were 1,207 white farm operators and 11 colored operators.

Sale of certain types of farm equipment has already put the 1950 figures out of date, but at that time there were only 140 farms out of the 1,038 served by telephone, five less than were served in 1945.

The number of farms having electricity nearly doubled during the five year period 1145 to 1950, with 808 users on the latter date. The average monthly electric bill was $4.92. There were 240 electric water pumps, 84 electric how-water heaters, 80 home freezers, 122 electric washing machines, and 109 electric chick brooders.

County farms reported 259 grain combines, 41 hay balers and 1,323 tractors. No tractor, horses or mules were reported on 101 farms; 27 farms were worked by teams alone; 328 by teams and tractor, and on 582 farms, there were no horses at all.

The trading center was located more than 10 miles from 454 farms, from five to 9 miles for 294 farms; one to four miles from 247 farms; and less than a mile from 30 farms. Two hundred and eighty two farmers reported they had to travel five miles or more on dirt or unimproved roads.

On certain specified farm expenditures, machine hire accounted for $791,281 on 904 farms; hired labor for $2,594,612 on 941 farms; $556,015 for livestock and poultry feed; $719,905 for livestock and poultry purchased on 612 farms; $152,947 for seeds and plants bought on 841 farms; $461,047 for gasoline and other fuel on 970 farms; $224,618 for tractor repairs on 883 farms; and $132,662 for other farm machinery repairs on 665 farms.

Eight farms reported no sales of products in 1950 and 17 reported that less than $250 worth of products were sold.

On the other hand, 164 farms sold from $4,000 to $6,000 worth of products; 205 from $6,000 to $10,000, and 374 farms a little more than one third, reported sales of products at $10,000 or more.

As to the type of farms, 740 were listed as cotton farms, 42 as cash grain farms and five for other field crops. There were 92 stock farms and 73 general farms.

All farm products sold from Collingsworth County farms for the 1949 crop year amounted to $10,695,642, a little more than double the money received from farm products in 1944. Crops in 1949 brought in $8,731,432 and livestock $1,964,210. By comparison, crops in 1944 brought Collingsworth farmers only $3,579,552 and livestock $1,597,039.

There were less than half the number of horses and mules on farms in 1950, with 930, compared to 1945, when there were 2170. The county had 25,114 head of cattle, 8,146 hogs and no sheep. There were 50,127 chickens on county farms and 16,861 turkeys.

As to the crops that Collingsworth harvested in the 1949 crop year, there were 14,185 bushels of corn, 584,159 bushels of grain sorghum for seed, 4,125 tons cut for silage, and 14,971 cut for dry forage. There were 431,703 bushels of wheat, 18,550 bushels of oats, 8,750 bushels of barley, 6,564 bushels of cowpeas threshed dry, and around 120 bushels harvested for green peas and 14 tons cut for hay. The peanut yield was 507,991 pounds, and one farmer saved six tons of peanut vines for hay from 12 acres of land.

Alfalfa growers cut 9,391 tons for hay and 50 tons of wild hay were cut from 18 acres. There were 54,922 bales of cotton harvested from 106,358 acres of land, compared to 26,920 bales on 63,493 acres in 1944. On fruit crops, there were 13,989 peach trees, about a third of them below bearing age. From those of bearing age, 11,095 bushels were sold. Pears, cherries, plums, grapes and pecans were harvested in small amounts. Eight farmers reported they had 26 fig trees growing, 14 of bearing age, from which they harvested five pounds of figs.

This isn't by any means all the information the Census Bureau has on Collingsworth County. There's enough to fill four pages of finely-printed, letterhead size paper. It's simply surprising how many figures these farms can produce.
