CAUSE, NOT PARTY, TO WIN--COX

MANY ARE KILLED IN CLASHES IN CUBAN ELECTIONS

OL' TIMERS SEE RAIN AS OMEN OF COX VICTORY

"Wet Weather Democratic, Dry Republican," Ancient Soothsayers Recall.

Governor Scouts Superstition, But is More Confident Than Ever.

BY B. J. SIMMONS
Correspondent of the Record News.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Governor James M. Cox, democratic presidential nominee, brought his campaign to an end here tonight with the confident assertion that he will be elected president of the United States tomorrow.

As Cox closed his eloquent appeal a drizzling rain was falling outside.

"It is all over," said one of the governor's supporters. "It is democratic weather."

Governor Cox smiled at the suggestion. For generations it has been a superstition that a wet day meant democratic success and a dry day spelled republican victory. The weather bureau forecast for tomorrow is rainy and unsettled weather over the most of the United States.

More Confident Than Ever.

Never since his nomination has Governor Cox appeared to be so confident of success as he was today and this was in the face of printed reports from all over the country that all indications are of Harding's election despite the heavy drift to Cox in the last three weeks.

Cox's opinion is that the count of the votes will show a vastly different result than the republican organization has been claiming.

Confidential reports today to Governor Cox brought the information that his gain in New England has been so rapid that New Hampshire and Connecticut are sure for Cox, and that he has a chance, also in Rhode Island.

California for Cox?

Another telegram to Governor Cox bore the information that California was veering toward the democratic national ticket. Still another said there would be a big surprise in Minnesota, which all along has been looked upon as heavy republican.

Meanwhile democratic managers said they felt certain of Ohio, West Virginia and Indiana. The democratic managers asserted that Cox would have a minimum of 271 electoral votes, five more than enough to win.

ALMADA WILL RULE LOWER CALIFORNIA

By Associated Press.

CALEXICO, Calif., Nov. 1.—Baldomero A. Almada, who was named provisional governor of the northern district of Lower California last June, but who never took office, has been appointed permanent governor of the district, President Merida of the municipality of Mexicali, Mexico, near here, announced today.

Almada relinquished claim to the office when Esteban Cantu, then governor, refused to vacate the post. Almada will succeed Governor Balarezo.

Wrangel's Center Broken by "Reds"

By Associated Press.

SEBASTOPOL, Nov. 1.—The bolsheviki have broken General Wrangel's center and the wings of his army apparently have been crushed. The town of Melitopol and other points have been abandoned and the reds are nearing Perekop.

The red wave is flooding the Taureda region. Wrangel is making a gallant defense. He is prepared to withdraw from the Crimea across the Sivash sea. The reds already claim the capture of Perekop.

Bergdall Taken in Coblenz Lair, Traveler Claims

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The statement that he had caused the arrest near Coblenz, Germany, of Grover C. Bergdoll, wealthy Philadelphia escaped draft evader, was made here today by a passenger on the Steamship Rotterdam, who gave his name as J. W. Hartman, and his address as Philadelphia.

Hartman told customs officials he had once been employed near the Bergdoll home and when, several weeks ago, while he was in the Coblenz area, his attention was called to a young man who had just bought a motor car, he recognized him as Bergdoll.

Declaring that the American army authorities at Coblenz could confirm his statements, Hartman added, "of course, they would not tell you anything about it yet."

LEADERS WANT SCHOOLS FREED

Urge Necessity for Passing Amendment to End Limit.

It was the unanimous opinion of business, educational and professional leaders whom The Record News interviewed Monday in regard to the better schools amendment to the state constitution, which will be voted on today, that that proposal should pass overwhelmingly and that it was closer home and of more importance to the people of Texas than any other thing or person to be decided today.

The amendment provides that any school district may fix by popular vote the amount of taxes which it will levy for school purposes. It is designed to unshackle the educational system of Texas—a system now held down by a fifty-cent tax limit.

Another constitutional amendment which Judge J. T. Montgomery calls especial attention to today is the one providing that the legislature may fix the salaries of the governor of Texas and of other ranking officials of the state. The governor's salary is limited to $4,000 per year now. This is regarded by most business men as a pitiful and ridiculous reward for a man of whom the business ability that a governor should have is expected.

State 39th in Education

Texas is first in size, first in agricultural products, first in production of cotton, third in production of oil, seventh in wealth and thirty-ninth in education, as the government rates the states of the union. Educational authorities and business men blame the tax limit chain for Texas' poor educational showing.

J. A. Kemp

J. A. Kemp, asked if he endorsed the school amendment, said:

"You can't put my endorsement of it too strong. I hope everybody will come out and vote for it. It is one of the great needs of Texas. It should pass unanimously."

Frank Kell

Frank Kell:

"I believe in the better schools amendment. I thoroughly endorse it. It should pass."

Organized Labor

A mass meeting of organized labor here recently adopted resolutions declaring that the amendment should be passed. Labor leaders are strongly supporting it.

Not Partisan Issue

Both the republican and democratic leaders here favor it. It is not a party issue. As Hubert M. Harrison, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, put it: "There is only one side to the question; the amendment should be passed. The Chamber of Commerce believes in it.

Judge P. A. Martin

Judge P. A. Martin, democratic leader, has long been fighting for the amendment. His experience as a member of the school board taught him at first hand the importance of the passage of the amendment.

W. W. Brown

"We must either pass this amendment or raise the valuations beyond reasonable limits," W. W. Brown, secretary of the city schools said Monday in urging support for the better schools amendment, which makes it possible for communities to set their own school tax rate.

"For ten or fifteen years Wichita Falls schools have been handicapped on account of the 50 cent tax limitation," he continued. South Texas is not so solidly behind the amendment as the northern part of the state, Mr. Brown believes and for that reason is anxious that Wichita county give it an overwhelming majority.

"We are for the amendment heart and soul—we are anxious to do anything in our power for it," was T. B. Noble's expression for himself and for the Open Shop Association.

Both the Woman's Culbertson club and the County Republican organization have worked actively in favor of the amendment—and Mr. Culbertson has given a part of every address to its recommendation, according to O. P. Maricle, chairman of the county organization.

P. B. Cox, chairman of the democratic forces in this county endorsed the amendment strongly.

N. H. Martin, president of the Chamber of Commerce, endorsed the amendment for himself and in his official capacity as head of the Chamber

G. O. P. NOMINEE HERE WINDS UP RACE VS. NEFF

Jack Culbertson, Seeking Governor's Chair, Sums Up His Platform.

Points to Advantage of Being Doubtful State in Political Column.

Jack Culbertson, Wichita Falls business man, Monday night closed a statewide campaign for the governorship on the "lily white" republican ticket by telling "homefolks," his own term of address, how he stood on the question of free trade, the League of Nations, labor, Neff and, in conclusion, the better schools amendment.

His platform as offered in the closing campaign address may be summarized as favoring a protective tariff for raw materials as well as manufactured products; opposition to the League of Nations as a "British-made pact and opposed to the American constitution"; opposition to the closed shop; and finally, support for the better schools amendment in order that "another generation may not grow up that does not know its own age."

Kell and McCaleb Speak.

Introduced by Capt. D. M. McCaleb of the Ninetieth division, a democrat who predicted an unprecedented number of A. W. O. L. democrats at the polls today; and by Frank Kell, who after declaring his sense of obligation to support the democratic ticket "if he voted," made the assertion that if Culbertson is elected the state will have made a better selection than a democratic majority will accomplish.

Mr. Culbertson spoke to an audience that filled the parquet and greater part of the balcony at the Wichita theatre. Applause, yells and laughs occurred at frequent intervals during the address.

Discusses World Finance.

Opening his address with a presentation of the political advantages enjoyed by an "uncertain" state and with protestations against a South "solid from prejudice," the candidate went immediately into a detailed discussion of the financial situation, especially as regards the rate of foreign exchange, and the great foreign production of vegetable oils as they affect the market for Southern products.

The speaker carefully traced the development of a situation which he declared now exists in which the American cannot sell his product abroad while at the same time the American market is flooded with imports that undersell the same articles produced within the United States.

A protective tariff on raw materials, an international clearing house for financing foreign trade, or a system of exchange of products without money until the money rate of exchange is leveled, were the solutions he offered to such a situation. Culbertson attacked the Underwood tariff law and asserted that had a protective tariff law on raw materials been in effect during the past several years, foreign importers would be supplying the revenue now coming from "our friend, the income tax."

Attacks Loans to British.

Attacking the goverpment's large loans to England, on which he said no interest had been paid for two years and with which England is making loans to other nations and winning trade from the United States, Culbertson declaring there had been "too much friendship for dear old England

Old Georgia Law May Disfranchise Women at Polls

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 1.—Whether Georgia women will vote in tomorrow's general election remained an open question tonight with the possibility, according to state capitol officials that the question might be decided different ways in different precincts and that court action might follow.

Georgia law for years has required registration at least six months before an election. R. A. Denny, state attorney general, has ruled that the national law confers suffrage on women regardless of Georgia rules as to registration and at the capital it was said managers of some precincts possibly might go ahead on this and permit all women to vote. Governor Dorsey held this view.

'VOTE TODAY' IS PLEA TO LOYAL

County Chairman, Confident, Points to Strong G. O. P. Effort.

P. B. Cox, chairman of the democratic forces in Wichita county, asked the Record News Monday night to conduct a final appeal to members of the party to come out and vote today. While confident of victory, Mr. Cox warned of the dangers of an indifferent attitude on the part of loyal voters in the face of the strong offensive campaign that the republicans have waged.

Mr. Cox especially urged upon the party to throw the full power of its strength behind the better schools amendment to lift the shackling tax limit on money which any district may vote for educational purposes.

"The people of Texas owe it to their county and the national administration to vote the democratic ticket," Mr. Cox said. "A vote for democracy today is an endorsement of that splendid record which our country, acting under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, achieved during the war and the period of reconstruction succeeding.

"People have complained of high prices. But through the present administration, prices have been brought down greatly and the movement is still on full speed ahead to bring about a restoration to normal conditions. War forced the abnormal situation. Any sacrifice was necessary to win.

"Most of the evils which men complain of in America today are indirectly traceable to the sacrifices which war demanded and the unusual conditions which it brought on. The democratic party could not have avoided them. No party could have done it.

"But the administration has, in addition to conducting the successful waging of the war, achieved many great things too numerous to detail. The federal reserve bank system and federal farm loan banks might be instanced.

"Again let me urge every democratic voter to come out today and vote, and vote early to avoid the rush."

INJURIES FATAL TO J. N. BURGESS

J. N. Burgess, oil field worker who was injured Sunday night when a steam boiler exploded on a lease near Bridgetown, died Monday night at a local hospital. Mr. Burgess was employed as fireman on the drilling rig when the boiler exploded. His skull was fractured. He incurred internal injuries. He was brought to this city Monday morning in a Merkle & Lunn ambulance.

The body is being held at the undertaking parlors of the Merkle & Lunn Undertaking company pending arrival of his sister from Bridgetown. No information was available here Monday as to the details of the accident.

CLEAN CHICAGO ELECTION, U. S. AIM

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne announced today that government agents will be placed at all polling places in the city tomorrow as a result of information he has received that plans are under way to commit fraud through vote repeating.

Any evidence of irregularities will be placed before the federal grand jury, according to the district attorney.

GOMEZ BACKERS START SCENE IN HAVANA; 8 DEAD

Scanty Returns Show Gomez and Zay as Closely Contesting.

Liberal Headquarters Claim Their Nominee Carried Havana Province.

HAVANA, Nov. 2.—Returns from approximately one hundred of the 3,002 precincts in Cuba tabulated up to midnight, nine hours after the polls closed in the national election showed that Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, liberal, and Dr. Alfredo Zayas, coalition candidate, were running a close race for the presidency of the republic.

By Associated Press.

HAVANA, Nov. 1.—Eight persons were killed in local clashes in the provinces during the elections tonight, according to reports here.

The followers of Gomez started a demonstration in Havana after the electoral board had temporarily closed its office, without any official returns having been received.

HAVANA, Nov. 1.—The Cuban presidential elections were held today with comparative quiet. No serious clashes were reported up to the time the polls closed.

Four persons were killed last night and two today in minor affrays and some were wounded.

Delay in reporting the result of the first precincts counted led to many sensational rumors, one of which was that the tlegraph wires were cut. The followers of Dr. Zayas were not discouraged by the Gomez demonstration and started one of their own.

At liberal and coalition headquarters the forces gathered in great numbers to celebrate, despite the absence of official information. Some of the newspapers supporting one or the other of the candidates issued extras claiming the election, although the independent or nonpartisan journals declared it impossible to predict the result, which it is believed will not be known tonight.

ALA. FIGHTING BLACK MENACE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 1.—Three negroes known to be dead, fifteen in the Montgomery county jail, and property loss through incendiary fires of Saturday and Sunday night, approximately $100,000 recapitulates the night riding outbreak in the southern part of this county tonight.

Over 100 heavy armed county and city officials and civilian volunteers are on duty at strategic points in the affected area, although it was believed the uprising had been nipped.

Every male white resident in the southern part of the county was reported heavily armed this afternoon, and at Snowden and Ramer, Ala., were keeping an all night vigil against any attacks, threats of which had been floating about during the day.

Larger Vote Will be Cast in Texas

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 1.—Indications on election eve are that state influences will tend to bring out tomorrow an appreciably larger vote than has been cast in Texas at national election time for a number of years past.

Intensive republican and American party campaigns, with republicans claiming victory in two congressional districts—the ninth and fourteenth—and that the result in the sixth is "doubtful," coupled with three state amendments to be voted on are pointed to as likely to bring out more than approximately 25 per cent of the 1,000,000 qualified voters who heretofore have gone to the polls at the November election to ratify actions of democratic primaries.

There was no indication tonight as to how many Texas women would take advantage of their first opportunity to vote in a presidential election. Fair and cold weather, with freezing temperatures in the Panhandle, was forecast for tomorrow.

VOTE FOR HUMANITY TODAY

The choice America makes today will more profoundly affect her destiny than any the nation ever has registered through the ballot box. There is only one issue. America will accept or reject leadership in a world movement to end war for all time. A vote for Harding will be an expression of desire to ignore the command of our traditions from earliest time, to ignore the spectacle of a vast army of our dead and to cynically deny that their sacrifice had meaning.

Harding has played with the League. He has been grossly insincere. He has declared for it under certain circumstances and he has within a week so utterly reversed his position as to exclaim:

"It is not interpretation I am seeking. It is rejection!"

Governor Cox has championed the League from the first moment of battle. Against the republican will he has made the League the supreme issue, and a vote for him will be a vote for the League, a vote for a future more glorious than anything humanity has known before.

A vote for Cox will be also a word to an ill and broken president, crushed by his labors for his country and his race, that the lies and vindictive, cowardly fighting which sent him down have been exposed and that the people for whom he waged a victorious fight against the sinister forces of the Old World recognize his cause and pay tribute to his manner of fight.

Here is that heroic man's word to America in the hour of her decision:

"The nation was never called upon to make a more solemn determination than it must now make. The whole future moral force of right in the world depends upon the United States rather than upon any other nation, and it would be pitiful indeed if, after so many great free people had entered the great League, we should hold aloof."

Texas will vote right today. Whatever the outcome may be in the nation, whatever our future relationship with our fellowman is to be, the state will have a consciousness of a duty well done.

Every vote will help to make the decision more commanding.

NATIONAL FIGHT GOES TO VOTERS

Campaign Ends With Final Surveys—Weather to Prove Big Factor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The seven presidential candidates of 1920 tonight had submitted their case to the jury and awaited the verdict of the electorate tomorrow.

The bustle of months ended tonight at national headquarters where campaign strategists rested, their summing-up complete. The candidates retired to seclusion to receive the decision of the American people.

With the voters rested also, the duty of deciding which party should control the senate and which party should control the house of representatives, with the electorate of many states rested the duty of choosing governors and legislators.

Party leaders who, week after week had been directing the destinies of their candidates and focusing their attention on the League of Nations, pulled down their desk tops, put on their hats and went home. Before they left their headquarters they had scanned last minute reports from state chairmen, but almost as closely they had studied the reports of the government weather bureau.

The state of the weather on election day was considered most important.

There are districts with streams which, when flooded, can not be crossed even on mule-pack, and in certain states where the contest is close, every ballot plays its part.

Ballot to Be Heavy.

With addition of women to those who choose the electoral college, party leaders of course expect a vote greatly swollen over that of 1916. Should the skies open, the downpour could hardly discourage enough voters to hold the total below that of four years ago. And the ballot counters are not expecting a smaller, but a much larger task—so large, indeed, that the count may possibly not be known until much later than in other presidential years.

Governor Cox will receive elections returns at his office in the Dayton Daily News, a member of the Associated Press, where special telegraph instruments, including a receiver used in the Cleveland campaign of more than a quarter of a century ago, have been set up. Chairmen Hays and White, together with other republican and democratic leaders, will gather at their respective headquarters here tomorrow night, to receive the reutrns.

WAR OR PEACE IS ISSUE--WHITE

Vote for Cox Will Jail Militarism Forever, Says Chairman.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Victory for the democratic presidential candidate will mean that "militarism goes to jail forever" and republican success will mean that "militarism is free to murder and pillage again," George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, declared today in a final campaign statement. He asserted that the democrats "have fought an absolutely clean fight."

Mr. White's statement follows:

"There is one great decision before the American voters tomorrow: Shall this nation join the league with safeguarding reservations and thus assure world peace, or shall this nation reject the league and let militarism continue to run at large?

"If sufficient American voters mark their ballots for James M. Cox, militarism goes to jail forever. If sufficient voters mark their ballots for Warren G. Harding, militarism is free to murder and pillage again.

"The peace of the world and the prosperity and progress of the United States depend upon the votes of Americans tomorrow. The issue has been clearly made. Senator Harding no longer denies that he will not resubmit the treaty and covenant to the senate and return to his program of a separate peace with Germany, at whose hands 81,000 American soldiers lie dead abroad. The only way to obtain the league and peace is through a vote for Cox. This proposition is no longer even disputed.

"We have fought an absolutely clean fight. We have contended with honor against tactics ranging for deceitful strategy and misrepresentation to sacrilege. Throughout we have held aloft, unstained, the banner of the League of Nations. The American peole will carry it over the top tomorrow to certain victory."

NORTH AND SOUTH CHINA REUNITED

By Associated Press.

PEKING, Nov. 1.—The Peking government has just issued a proclamation declaring that there has been a reunion of North and South China and calling for the election of a new president.

The proclamation cites an announcement by General Tsen Chun-Hsuan, the chief of the southern military government, of that government and reunuciation by the provinces of Kwang-Tung and Kwang-Si of their declarations of independence.

A VICTORY FOR HUMANITY SEEN BY OHIO CHIEF

Cox Has Faith in Good Judgment and Patriotism of the American People.

Governor Asserts Harding's Election Would Mean Only Turmoil.

By Associated Press.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Governor Cox, in his last speech of the campaign here tonight, summarized his arguments for the League of Nations. He predicted victory for himself, not as the representative of a party, but as the leader of a clause.

The governor also renewed his attack on Senator Harding on the league issue, declaring the republican candidate was "wiggling and wobbling" and the senator's election meant "controversy and confusion."

The governor and his party arrived here by special train early in the evening from Dayton and left on the return journey immediately after his speech.

On his way here from Dayton the governor and his party stopped at Deshler, a railroad town, where many had gathered at the station, awaiting in a drizzling rain the coming of the candidate. Governor Cox responded with a rear platform speech, a forerunner of his argument here tonight.

"I have always had faith in the good judgment and patriotism of the American people," said the governor, "and an analysis of the past tells us that in all of our history whenever a moral issue has been presented it has been met with the approval of the American electorate. If there ever was a campaign based entirely upon a great moral issue, this is the campaign, because the thing to be decided is whether the civilization of the world shall tie itself together in a concerted purpose to prevent the tragedies of war.

"I hope we will have good news tomorrow night. When I say good news, I do not speak of a democratic victory. I speak of a victory for humanity which will be a victory for humanity world-wide, having a significance that touches every man, woman and child in the civilized powers of the earth."

"The Next President."

The governor had no special address prepared for the meeting here, but in it he reviewed and summarized the various arguments he had made in his transcontinental tour of his long campaign. His visit here on election eve was in conformity with a political superstition of party followers here who say the governor's only defeat in an election was encountered when he failed to end his speechmaking in this city. Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Dan Mahoney, daughter of the candidate, accompanied him on his trip to this city.

The governor ran afoul of bad weather here, but the big coliseum was filled. Congressman Shorewood of this city, one of the veteran members of the house of representatives, introduced Governor Cox as "the next president," and the crowd answered with wild applause that continued for a minute. As the crowd ended its greetings, a big floral horseshoe, bearing the inscription, "James M. Cox, Our Next President," was carried upon the stage and presented to the candidate. First, Governor Cox attacked the republican platform, asserting efforts were made in its preparation to please various party leaders, with the result that "absolutely nothing was left in their declarations."

"They said the negro vote would come to them practically solid," said the governor. "There has been entirely too much said about social equality for the future serenity of the nation."

Turning his attention briefly to Senator Harding, Governor Cox declared the "republican candidate was picked to fit the party platform," and the crowd applauded.

Martyrs to Watch

"The spiritual eyes of 81,000 American boys who fell in the war," declared the governor, "will look upon you tomorrow at the polls to see whether we are a nation of honor or a nation of repudiators."

The governor repeated again his "conspiracy charges," accusing Senator Lodge and other republican senators as "conspirators in hatching a plot to defeat the league."

"After tomorrow, one of the conspirators will be a private citizen residing at Marion, Ohio."

Many in the crowd arose to their

WILL PREVENT ERRORS; SAVE NEEDED TIME

You may clip the copy of the ballot printed opposite this column, go through it at your leisure at home or in your office or shop and check the persons and propositions for whom or which you intend to vote. Taking this checked copy from the paper, you will save a considerable amount of time by copying from your own checked copy onto the official ballot.

Time will be a very important factor in the national election today. The election machinery has not been increased. Some increase in the number of voters was brought about by the recent extension of time for voting. A vast increase has come about in the last year in Wichita Falls and Wichita county through the increase in population.

At the first primary election though only a little more than half of the vote came out, some of the ballot boxes were rushed. A few voters went away rather than wait.

There are 52 offices on the official ballot. Six different parties are included. Three constitutional amendments are offered. One is to increase the total tax rate that towns of less than 5,000 population may levy from one-fourth of 1 per cent to one-half of 1 per cent of any one year.

The second, and most important, to lift the cramping, shackling limit of $1 tax upon the $100 valuation for school purposes. Removal of this limitation is generally endorsed. It is voted for by voting for an amendment to Section 3 of Article VII of the state constitution.

The third amendment is to allow the legislature to fix the salary of public officials. One ridiculous salary limit which will be thereby removed is the limit of $4,000 upon the salary of the governor of Texas, the first executive of the state.

idge will observe the trend of the results.

Franklin D. Roosevelt will watch the progress of the struggle from his home in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Debs at Prison.

Eugene V. Debs, presidential candidate for the socialist party, nominated to run with Seymour Stedman, Chicago lawyer, will receive returns from the election at the Atlanta penitentiary, where he is confined for violation of the espionage act. His party leaders express conviction they will poll a vote two or three times as great as that of 1916.

In a presidential year unique in the number of parties with candidates in the field, other contenders for the presidency and vice presidency are:

Prohibition, Aaron S. Watkins and Leigh Colvin.

Farmer-labor, Parley P. Christensen and Max Hayes.

Single tax, Robert C. MacAuley and Richard C. Barnum.

Socialist labor, William W. Cox and August Gillhaus.

In all, 531 members of the electoral college will have to be chosen and of these 266 will be required for election of a presidential candidate. In the last election President Wilson had 277.

U. S. Asked View of Blockade to Assist Wrangel

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The United States has been asked what its attitude would be with regard to a blockade of southern Russia as a measure of assistance to the anti-bolshevik leader, General Baron Wrangel. In making this announcement today, the state department officials would not say what government had made the inquiry.

The state department has asked for more information on the proposed blockade and meantime is withholding its answer. Which of the European countries have agreed to the blockade has not been revealed, but the understanding at the state department is that it is opposed to it.

France has recognized General Wrangel and has been assisting in his campaign against the soviet forces.

C. M. & ST. P. IS PAID OVER 13 MILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—Payment of $13,750,000 to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad in settlement of all matters growing out of federal control was announced today by the railroad administration.

The main differences between the railroad administration and the railway company were in matter of maintenance of way and structure, equipment, depreciation and interest, the administration stated.

Mutual concessions were made in reaching the adjustment for the cash payment of the balance due on compensation and the fund of the debt due the administration in accordance with the transportation act, first mortgage bonds of the railway company being deposited as collateral. The adjustment was made as of November 1, 1920.

LABOR LEADERS HIT EFFORT TO INFLUENCE MEN

"The Texas Federation of Labor has no right to tell the men which way to vote, and I can safely say that the labor vote will go solidly democratic throughout the state, as well as nationally," said Eaton Williams, editor of the Labor Journal, in commenting upon the action of George Slater, president of the State Labor federation, in urging union labor to vote for the American party candidates.

This action from the state labor leader was discussed at a meeting Thursday at Fort Worth of the Trades assembly, and although officials insisted that the resolutions adopted were "not for publication," it was learned from a reliable source that the resolutions do not approve of Slater's action.

Resolutions passed recently by a Waco labor organization condemned the action of state officials of labor who urged desertion of the democratic party and advocated votes for the American party. They declared that the democratic nominee for governor, Pat M. Neff, has always been fair to union labor and has declared himself to be in favor of collective bargaining.

In answer to rumors circulated locally that state labor organizations would support the American party as an expression of their objection to the present administration in the adoption of the "open ports bill" and the sending of troops to Galveston, Mr. Williams stated that although this action opposed the principles of organized labor it was not of sufficient importance to cause a desertion of the democratic party.

Ohio, Bitterly Fought For, is Ready to Vote

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 1.—Approximately 2,000,000 Ohio voters, nearly 700,000 of them estimated to be women, were waiting tonight to cast their ballots tomorrow for president, United States senator and state officials, from governor down.

Probably never before in the state's history has there been a more determined or bitter political struggle. Much of the national campaign has centered in Ohio.

The closing days of the campaign have been fraught with a bitterness, probably never paralleled, occasioned by the circulation of stories concerning the private lives of the presidential candidates.

While Governor Cox was closing his campaign with a speech at Toledo tonight, Senator Harding remained at his home in Marion, where he will celebrate his fifty-fifth birthday tomorrow. The republican candidate completed his campaign with a speech here Saturday night.

Governor Cox will vote in Dayton tomorrow, while Senator Harding will vote in Marion. The democratic candidate will receive election returns tomorrow night in the office of his Dayton newspaper, while Senator Harding will get returns at his residence in Marion.

Both democratic and republican state organizations tonight held fast to their former predictions for success.

CITY TO START STREET PAVING PROGRAM SOON

Only routine matters were taken up at the meeting of the council Monday night. The regular meeting night of the council was changed from Thursday night to Monday by action of the city council last week. In the absence of Mayor Cline, acting Mayor Curlee presided.

The paving of seventy-five blocks in the city, provided for by one of the bond issues approved by the voters in a recent election, will be gotten under way as soon as possible, Street Commissioner Curlee announced. It was pointed out by Mr. Curlee that the paving of Tenth street from Broad to Denver, one of the streets to be paved, should be rushed to completion in order to relieve the present congested traffic on Tenth which, if continued, will necessitate a large repair bill for that street.

The kind of paving to be used was discussed at the meeting. Mr. Curlee stated his opposition to concrete pavement. City Engineer Montgomery will present figures as to the costs of different kinds of paving and his recommendations at the next meeting of the council.

It is expected that the bonds will be approved by the attorney general and other detailed matters connected with their sale arranged within the next two weeks. The bonds have already been sold.

George Thorburn, city clerk, was appointed corporation clerk by the council. The new office is provided by the new charter. Mr. Thorburn has been acting in that capacity since the charter went into effect. Following his appointment Mr. Thorburn appointed Day Captain Ehlers of the police department as his assistant. The appointment was confirmed by the council.

ONE DEAD, ONE MISSING AND $110,000 LOST

Special to Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 1.—H. G. Whiteside, member of the real estate firm of Whiteside and Russey, was killed, J. Balentine, St. Louis, a traveling salesman is missing and believed dead, seven persons were injured and $110,000 of property was destroyed by fire here from 12:30 to 3:30 a. m. Monday.

The McLain Hotel, operated by Gorman and Dougherty and valued at about $75,000, was destroyed. Three stores were burned. The hardware store of J. G. Word was damaged. The postoffice was damaged by water.

Seven persons, overcome by smoke and slightly injured, were dragged from the burning hotel. The high flames attracted practically the entire population of Seymour and persons from distants points, some coming from Bowie, to fight the fire.

Men, women and children, caught without having time to dress, rushed from the hotel in their night clothes. Heroic rescues of persons overcome by smoke were made by members of the fire department.

At midnight Monday, workers who had been searching through the ruins in an endeavor to find Balentine, the missing salesman, had not found his body or anything which could be identified as human, remains. He registered at the hotel and is believed to have been in his room when the fire began.

Whiteside was overcome with smoke and burned to death before aid could reach him. Trapped in his room, all avenues of escape were cut off. He had taken an active part in the development of Seymour. He came here from Baylor county. He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Whiteside of Seymour, and by three sisters and six brothers.

The fire started with explosion of a gasoline coffee urn in the Majestic Cafe, which was on the ground floor of the hotel. Within 15 minutes flames broke through from every window. Many guests escaped by letting themselves down from windows with ropes made of sheets tied together.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank our many friends for the friendly acts and kindness extended to us in our bereavement, in the loss of our beloved wife and daughter, Lourene Wood.

The sympathy expressed and the beautiful floral offerings will ever be uppermost in our minds.

FINAL APPEAL TO G. O. P. VOTE MADE BY WHITE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, tonight addressed a "final appeal to the republican voters" urging, when they enter the polls tomorrow, to ask themselves this question:

"Have the republican party more claim on me than the peace of the world? Shall I permit the mistakes of party laders to sacrifice the League of Nations?"

"To this question," said Mr. White, "there is but one answer in the hearts of the millions of patriotic men and women who make up the republican party. It is 'no.'

"And yet the republican party managers and senators are asking voters to sacrifice world peace for party policies. Senator Harding has finally and definitely decided to stand with his managers and the senate leaders, rejecting the league, whatever reservations are proposed and accepted, junking the treaty of Versailles, tending to Germany a separate peace and summoning another peace conference. This is the inevitable course which he must follow, since he has stated that he will not resubmit the treaty and the covenant to the senate.

"Even if he should be able to induce the 41 nations now signatory to the treaty to tear it up and frame another, it would require at least two years before another peace could be ratified and it is generally admitted by such eminent international authorities as Messrs. Taft and Root that what Senator Harding proposes is impossible. Therefore, we shall have the treaty free to prey on human kind as they were in 1914.

"Republican voters have the power to prevent this. They have the power to save their own party from the common fate and general menace of war which the election of Senator Harding will engineer.

"It will be a greater victory for them if peace is insured and if republican partisanship is successful. We should all consider it an American, and not a democratic victory. I appeal to them to do it. I feel confident they will."

The following telegram from Governor Cox to his running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was made public at headquarters of the national committee:

"You have made a brilliant and effective campaign. I congratulate you and thank you most heartily for it. All good wishes for you and yours."

Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"Many thanks for your telegram. It has been a privilege to be your teammate in this fight for honesty and ideals. You have contributed great to every living cause of progressive democracy. The Roosevelt family sends its warmest regards to all you and hope we may have a reunion soon."

MID-CONTINENT OIL MEN ELECT CLINE

Walter D. Cline of this city was re-elected president of the Texas and Louisiana division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association at a called meeting of the board of directors held at Fort Worth. Frank Cullinan of Dallas, formerly of this city, and well known in local oil circles, was elected vice president of the association.

W. M. Massie of Fort Worth was elected secretary, and Howard Bennett, secretary. Newly elected members of the executive committee include W. B. Pyron and J. D. Collett, both of Fort Worth.

Irish Turmoil Fatal to Many

DUBLIN, Nov. 1.—Reports of shooting and reprisals over the week ending continue to be received here from various parts of the country. District Inspector of Police Killigher was shot and killed last night at Granard. At Tullamore a police sergeant was wounded by an unknown man and died. Two constables were shot dead at Killorglin last night. A police patrol was attacked in Abbey Dorney, a constable being killed and two others wounded. A constable was wounded at Causeway.

Armed civilians captured and destroyed the Littleton police barracks yesterday, taking all arms and ammunition.

In Trallee a naval driver was wounded and reprisals followed, the city hall and a shop being burned.

J. W. CULBERTSON'S CHILD BAPTIZED HERE SUNDAY

Through an error in The Record News, it was stated that baptismal services were held Sunday morning for Sarah Lee, 7-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack C. Culbertson. The infant was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culbertson of 1008 Van Buren street.

Asks Wilson to Help Farmers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Extension of immediate credit relief to the farmers by executive action, pending the reconvening of congress, was asked of President Wilson today by George P. Hampton of the Farmers' National council.

In company with William H. Johnson, president of the International Association of Machinists, Mr. Hampton called upon Secretary Tumulty, who is understood to have promised to present the request to the president at once.

It was contained in a letter which said the proposals he presented were endorsed by Mr. Johnson, Bert M. Jewel, American Federation of Labor; Warren G. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

CALL BOY HURT MYSTERIOUSLY MAY SUCCUMB

In a dazed condition and unable to explain how or when was injured, Herman Bell, call boy for the M., K. & T. railroad, was found about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon across from the general offices of the railroad on Ohio street. The boy, who is 16 years of age, had a severe wound on the head. His face was badly skinned.

He was taken to his room on Lee street by Y. P. Garrett, special agent of the M., K. & T. railroad, and given medical attention. He became rapidly worse Monday night, and, in a delirious condition, was removed to a Dallas hospital. Physicians called his condition critical.

Garrett, working with the police, was unable to explain the mystery of the boy's injury Monday night. About noon he was sent by Chief Dispatcher Pyles to 205 Travis street and 908 Fifth street. He made the calls on a bicycle. The bicycle was found in front of the First Methodist church, Lamar and Seventh streets, and it is believed that he was injured there in a manner undetermined. The bicycle was wrecked.

Came in Truck.

Shortly after noon Mrs. Bloodworth, living at 608 Lee street, saw a large machine driven by a man with no other occupant but the boy drive up to the adjoining house and let the boy out at the sidewalk. Later she saw the boy running around the house in a queer manner.

According to the story told by Mrs. Bloodworth to Special Agent Garrett, she saw that the boy was injured and asked him how it had happened. He was unable to tell her, and while she was calling a physician he ran away toward the Union depot. He was found near the station in a dazed condition.

Hit by Automobile?

Mr. Garrett believes that Bell was injured at Seventh and Lamar streets, although no one had been found Monday night who had witnessed the accident. From the condition of the bicycle, police believe that he was struck by an automobile, possibly the one which brought him to his room on Lee street. The machine drove rapidly away after letting the boy out on the sidewalk. Railroad officials and the police have a description of the man driving the machine.

The injured boy had been employed as a call boy on the railroad only a short time. He is an orphan, but is believed to have a brother living in the city.

MERRY PARTY VIEWS THE CITY FROM AN AIRPLANE

With C. D. Neil as pilot, a merry party, composed of Misses Marion Maer and Ruby Avis and Messrs. Ralph Dunkelberg and Ed Showers enjoyed a delightful ride over the city Sunday afternoon in an airplane. The conclusion reached by the party, after viewing the city from the air, was that it was more beautiful from that distance than from the ground.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY ENJOYED.

Black cats, spooks and jack o' lanterns greeted the Wi-Chi-Ta Camp Fire girls and their friends Saturday evening as they entered the home of Miss Marie Berry by the back door and masked as ghosts and were served with punch highly spiced with quinine.

Contests, music and games were indulged in by the spirit visitors until a late hour, when the guests unmasked and were served a dainty salad course with black cat favors. Those who enjoyed the affair were Misses Thelma Williams, Lorene Phillips, Era Lee Lewis, Helen Kennedy, Hazel Noe, Katie Simmons, Mary Underwood, Edith Berney, Marie Berry, Grace Albritton, Gladys Coleman; Messrs. Joe Mooring, Ernest Highfill, Jimmy Moran, Baily Kinley, Earl Mezner, Cornelius Chewing, Gilbert Long, A. W. Greenfield, Tom Mahoney, H. W. Tatum and Charlie Williams.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Tuesday night, Pioneer lodge, No. 49, Knights of Pythias, will hold their regular weekly meeting at their castle hall, 603 Scott avenue. There will be balloting on applications, and a class will be initiated in the rank of page.

Dr. Duval, chancellor commander of the local lodge, will go to Fort Worth Wednesday morning for a final conference relative to setting a date for having the Azotos temple, No. 175, Dramatic order Knights of Khorassan of Fort Worth, visit the city and put on the Dokey ceremony.

THE PERSONAL SIDE.

Miss Elizabeth Hall, chief deputy in the county clerk's office, is in Paducah, Texas, where she went to attend the wedding of a friend.

Miss Grace Tancred, who is a student at the State university, is at home, where she will remain a few weeks on account of the illness of her mother.

Miss Ruth Calvert, deputy collector of internal revenue, has returned to the local office of the internal revenue department, after spending a month in Dallas.

Mayor W. D. Cline is in Dallas, where he went to attend a meeting of the directors of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, Texas-Louisiana division.

Sheriff Bob McFall, who has been ill for the past week, is again able to be on duty at his office in the count house.

Judge Guy Rogers has returned from Amarillo, where he went to bring back his daughter, who has been the guest of her grandparents for the past few weeks.

Attorney J. A. Hughes has returned from Amarillo, where he went on business.

The Diary of an Engaged Girl

IN THE RESTAURANT.

So many things have happened within the last 24 hours that my poor, little head is fairly whirling. I fear that my brain has weakened. But my, I should waste a thought on much, when it's all in such a glorious cause.

The Count Imperata (I give him his full title, to myself) is some count. Neither locksmiths nor obstacles of iron or steel, not even a mother, could keep him from getting what his young heart desires. I never have met a youth with such tenacity of purpose.

Yesterday afternoon mother and I drove sedately down to the Plazza Colonna—had our coffee—then sat and watched the festive 5 o'clock Roman crowds. As soon as the heat of the day is past, the people, one and all, swarm out into the streets and public squares to enjoy the cool of the evening. I have never seen so many handsome men and really beautiful women as I have here in Rome, in any other city that I have been in. The men are graceful as panthers—and chic in their clothes. Words fail me. The women are dark, with ravishingly lovely skins and languishing eyes that make you dream. For an artist, like myself, this is the city of the world.

But here comes the thrill. While sitting at our ices, I, with one eye on mother and one on every handsome Italian that passed by, spied Ettore, and not any too far away. Wasn't that too beautiful and daring for words? There he was, standing on the corner, puffing a cigaret, and watching me for all he was worth. I felt my spine stiffen with astonishment and then I felt myself blushing hard and the corners of my mouth quivering to smile my delight at this most fearless of lovers. With great difficulty I managed to keep my lips in place, and munch calmly on my biscuit, even though my heart was beating a rapid-fire gavotte, and, well, oh, everything was happening to me that could possibly happen to the heart and senses of a girl.

Mother began to talk about dad and the house and some other remote things, and I could hardly keep my mind on what she was saying at all. I was too busy wondering just how Ettore had arrived at the particular sopt he was draping, and just what he intended to do.

To my horror I saw him cross the street and saunter by us. Fortunately for Romance, he had his velour hat well down and mother happened to be absorbed in her ice or there would have been trouble.

That exotic count sat down at a table just a few feet removed from ours, and, facing me, never took his eyes off me from the moment he sat down till the time we left—which luckily was not very long after his entrance. I was getting desperately fidgetty. Ettore has the most beautiful eyes I have ever seen in a man's head. And yet with all his good looks he is a regular beman—no mistake about that. I feel so weak in the head and everything when I just think of him—funny, isn't it? So many people, men, I mean, have lost their heads completely about me, but I never have lost mine—over anyone before, but now——

Before we left the cafe there was a note in my hand. Ettore had bribed the waiter to slip it into my hands just as I was modestly walking out of the place, in the wake of my stern mother!

RECIPES FOR A DAY

Very Good Cookies—Take one cup white sugar, one cup brown sugar, mix well with one cup butter, add two well beaten eggs, one cup sour milk, two teaspoons soda (level spoons, not heaping), flour to stiffen; flavor to suit. Roll out, bake in medium oven.

Stuffed Apples—Bake tart buttered apples until tender, but not broken. Scoop out centers and mix with new pickle relish and mayonnaise. Chill and serve on lettuce leaves.

Crown of Pork With Onions—Take pieces containing six ribs from each side rack of pork, having two pieces same length and height. Remove back bone and make an incision between the ribs, trim each rib above the eye as for French chops; turn the rib bones outside and sew the two pieces together. Mix cup of sausage meat with cup of bread crumbs, add beaten egg and additional seasoning if needed. Put crown in roaster and sausage mixture in open space inside the crown, cover the bones with buttered paer, dredge with flour, salt and pepper, and roast about two and one-half hours, more than one or one and a half Saute to a delicate brown enough small onions to fill the crown, add stock and let cook until tender, glazing the onions with stock as it cooks away. Remove crown to serving dish, place onions in center and serve.

ITALIAN DISHES

Macaroni and Spaghetti Paste—For every quarter pound of flour use one egg and two tablespoons of warm salted water. Take as much flour as needed, make a hole in the center and put in the water and eggs. Beat them up with a spoon, mixing the flour in gradually, then knead well. Roll the paste into very thin sheets and place them on a clean cloth to dry for half an hour. This paste will not keep for days, and must always be put into boiling water or broth to cook. If soaked before cooking the flavor is spoiled.

Macaroni a la Creme—Boil three-quarters pound of fresh macaroni in plenty of salted water until tender, with an onion stuck with two cloves and a tablespoon of butter. Drain it well (taking out the onion) and put it back in a saucepan with one-half cup butter, three ounces grated Swiss cheese and four ounces grated Parmesan cheese, a small pinch of nutmeg and a pinch of pepper. Add one-half pint of veal broth and four or five tablespoons of cream. Cook for five minutes, stirring well and serve hot.

About Blanching Macaroni and Spaghetti—Put an earthenware pot filled with water on the fire, and two tablespoons of salt and boil. Put in three-quarters pound of fresh macaroni, twisting it around carefully so as not to break it. Boil for seventeen minutes, then remove from the fire; drain and put it in cold water; drain again, and it is ready for use. Spaghetti is blanched the same way.

DIG UP SEWERS TO FIND $13.000 RADIUM

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 1.—In an effort to locate a milligram of radium valued at $13,000 carelessly dropped by a woman patient in the Faxon hospital here today, workmen began to dig up the sewers in the vicinity of the hospital.

The mineral was the property of Dr. George M. Fischer of this city and was being used on the woman's breast in the hope of curing cancer. Because it irritated her, the woman, who did not appreciate the value of the radium, went to the bathroom, took the bandage off and threw it away.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HI BANQUET PLANNED

Invitations have been issued to the annual junior-senior high school banquet, one of the most elaborate of the social activities among the upper classmen.

The banquet is to be given at the Wichita club on Thursday evening of this week. Donovan Weldon and Polly Clark are members of a committee on arrangements. They are planning an extensive program.

An octette to represent the Boys glee clubs was selected by members of the club to take part in the program. The singers chosen include C. E. Danheim, R. L. Mathis, Carl Sparks, Jewell Whatley, Eben Keith, Myron Lyle and Phillip Pink.

WHY OUR CERTIFICATES ARE DESIRABLE

The three essential requisites of a satisfactory investment are embodied in the Certificates of Deposit issued by the City National Bank of Commerce. They are secured by this bank's ample Capital and Surplus and yield interest at the rate of between 3 and 4 per cent per annum depending on the length of time for which they are issued. They are readily convertible into cash being redeemable at sight and unlike ordinary investment securities are not subject to depreciation in value through fluctuations in the stock market.

They make an excellent form of investment where money is available for short periods.

TRIO OF YOUNG PRISONERS GET OUT OF PRISON

The third juvenile jail delivery within as many months was effected sometime between midnight and 8 o'clock Monday morning in which four young prisoners made good their escape, three of whom had only been "in" since Sunday at noon.

The latter three, Freddie Hostler, 14, of 1011 Indiana street; Claude Reeves, 13, of 1106 Ohio street; and Carl Hopkins, 16, of 1216 North Third street, were arrested by operatives of the Shelton detective agency early Sunday morning as the result of investigations extending over a period of more than a month of several robberies of hardware stores and an auto supply company.

They were said by authorities to have made complete confessions of their activities during the past several weeks and disclosed information which led to the recovery of a large part of the stolen goods. They were being held pending action of the juvenile court as various business men effected by their alleged activities were said to have expressed intentions of prosecution.

The fourth boy to make a getaway was J. C. Britain, 16, who was being held here for Oklahoma juvenile authorities charged with stealing a silk shirt and other articles of wearing apparel from a store in his home town. He was arrested here about a week ago by Juvenile Officer Morgan.

According to statements from Mr. Morgan, who discovered the escape of his youthful prisoners upon starting his round with their breakfast.

Not a single boyish voice squealed with the delight as had formerly been their wont upon discovering the approach of "chow!" Not a soul was there to partake of the county's bounty! And becoming convinced that something out of the ordinary had occurred Juvenile Officer Morgan began an investigation which disclosed a door which had been torn away and used as as an aid to escape. A steel bar, one of many guarding a window, bent beyond all hope of repair, next met Mr. Morgan's wandering wondering gaze.

And his deductions proved correct. They had "flitted."

The boys had torn the shower bath door from its hinges and used it as a lever to bend one of the bars in the window. After this was accomplished it was an easy matter to squeeze their small bodies through the 12-inch opening to the top landing of the fire escape. It was only a question then of ascending a stairway, which had been provided so accommodatingly by county authorities, to the courthouse ground and thence to liberty.

Mr. Morgan stated that a search had been instituted for the four young alleged offenders and that it was only a question of few days before their re-arrest would be effected.

ELECTION BRINGS HOLIDAY TO CITY

The banks will close today.

Election day is a legal holiday. No announcement was made from the postoffice as to whether or not it is bound by the holiday. Business generally will pay no attention to the election insofar as closing-up goes. Nearly all firms will allow employes to get off duty long enough to vote.

Offices at the county court house will be open during the entire day Tuesday.

Any non-jury civil suits that may be presented for trial in the Eighty-ninth district court during the day will be disposed of by Judge P. A. Martin. Trial of felony cases will be resumed Wednesday.

Judge Edgar Scurry, in Seventy-eighth district court, excused the jury and adjourned court until Wednesday morning at the conclusion of the trial of Rex Candlish, alias "Silver Top" King, late Monday evening.

Dinky Car Tries to Run Over Big One; Is Worsted

It's bad enough to have automobiles running over your streets cars and tearing them up, but when the cars get to "rough-housing" one another on the same track that's the last straw. All of which happened to L. J. Allbritton, manager of the Wichita Falls Traction company Monday afternoon.

A big factory line street car was coming in Lamar street when it stopped at Eleventh to discharge passengers. This was something the motorman of a smaller Southland car, which was following close behind, hadn't "lowed for." So the dinky crashed into the big car and then bounded back.

Passengers were shaken considerably, but not injured. A number of women passengers on the Southland car contributed enough screaming for a first class catastrophe.

WEDDING DAY MONDAY FOR MICHNAS

Two marriage licenses, in which either members of the same family or which show a remarkable coincidence in that three of the four principals have the same name, were shown by the court records Monday.

Julius A. Michna obtained a license to wed Miss Clara Michna. Ed Michna got a license to marry Miss Leona Matuska. The names of none of the participants appear in the city directory. Efforts to locate them through police aid also failed.

COUNTY TO GET $1,546,416 OF TAXES IN 1920

An increase of more than $20,000,000 in tax valuation on property of Wichita county is shown by the new tax rolls made public Monday by the county tax assessor, which shows a grand total of $93,468,650. The valuation in 1919 was $73,043,810.

The new rolls do not include the unrendered leases and royalties, although they will be entered in the supplementary roll which is to be compiled at an early date.

The assessed poll taxes, 4,075, as shown in the roll, amount to $6,112.75.

Out of the total valuation, compiled on a basis of $1.42 on the $100, the district schools of the county, not including Wichita Falls and Electra, will receive $219,161.82; the county will receive $747,749.20, the tax rate being 80 cents on the $100; and the state will receive $570,050.45, a tax rate of 62 cents on the $100. This makes a total tax of $1,546,416.47.

The total valuation is figured on a basis of acreage, city and personal property.

Assessments in the Waggoner oil fields offset the loss, with a good margin of $12,000,000 in the Burkburnett section.

GAS COMPANIES BARTER TO BUY NEW FUEL HERE

F. M. Lege, Jr., Dallas, president of the Lone Star Gas company, which supplies the North Texas Gas company, and so indirectly supplies the residents of Wichita Falls with natural gas, told the Record News over long-distance telephone Monday night that his company and the North Texas were conferring with W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls in regard to taking over any surplus of production which may remain from the new Texhoma gas field after the industrial wants there are served this winter.

Mr. Hamilton and his associates are connecting the new gas field with Wichita Falls by pipe line.

Mr. Lege said that the Lone Star had told Mr. Hamilton that it would entertain any proposal he would make for sale of the surplus. Monday night no deal had been concluded, but Mr. Lege thought sure that one would be made either between Mr. Hamilton and his associates and the Lone Star or between Mr. Hamilton and his associates and the North Texas.

During the agreement existing between the oLne Star and North Texas the latter company agrees to buy its output from the Lone Star. So a deal with Mr. Hamilton et al. would be an indirect one or one by special agreement.

The conference will be continued today. Mr. Lege said Mr. Hamilton remaining over for the meeting.

and too little care for the United States."

A protracted cheer, punctuated by stamping of feet and yelling, followed this statement and other declarations of an anti-English nature.

Turning then to a discussion of the League of Nations, Mr. Culbertson deplored its having been made a political issue, denounced the treaty as pro-English, as involving America in foreign war, as out of harmony with the American constitution and at last as "no good to anybody."

In mock heroics, the speaker quoted supporters of the league as declaring Article 10 the "heart of the treaty." "I call it the appendix" he cried "and say 'cut it out!'" The audience applauded with enthusiasm.

"I hold my right to work superior to your right to quit work" was Culbertson's definition of his position in the labor question. He denounced Samuel Gompers as a product of the London Ghetto and a misleader of the American laboring man.

"I am qualified to speak on the other question because I have employed many men on the farm and on the mill. I have never had any trouble with labor. I can see their viewpoint. The laborer has to come out of this radical closed shop idea and the employer has to go half way or maybe more and the two must meet in the middle of the road," he asserted.

Okeys Sending of Troops

Supporting the action of Governor Hobby in sending troops to Galveston during the recent longshoremen's strike, Culbertson nevertheless held the open-port bill a bit rigid and blamed the Galveston city officials and police as well as labor for the situation.

Speaking at last of the "gentleman from Waco," Culbertson condemned what he termed his opponent's inconsistency on the labor question with the charge that he is a "professional politician" and that he "doesn't know his age."

Lauds Record News

In a brief discussion of his campaign experience, the candidate declared that he had received experience. That candidate declared that he had received fair and courteous treatment all over the state by the people and to a large extent by the press. "I have met a few papers who refused to print anything from the republican party without being paid," he said, "but there are some real newspapers in Texas. Among them are the two El Paso papers, the San Antonio papers, the Austin Statesman, the Dallas Times Herald and the Wichita Falls Record News.

Ending abruptly with a laughing "I'm not asking you to vote for me tomorrow, I don't care what you do, I've got a good job." The candidate appealed for the support of the better school amendment.

Besides the speaker, Mr. Kell, Captain McCaleb and Colonel Griffith, County Chairman O. P. Maricle, Mrs. Maricle, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Smock, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Swartz, J. J. Lory, J. C. Bradshaw, John W. Naylor, O. T. Bacon, C. H. Clark, L. H. Roberts, C. E. Rogers, B. B. Greever, Orville Bullington, H. H. Martin, Fred T. Couper and M. J. Gardner occupied the chairs on the stage.

REICHERT WINS CHAMPIONSHIP OF WICHITA FALLS IN TENNIS—BEATS GALLENKAMP BY 5 POINTS

The Record News' city-wide tennis tournament, which has been going on for the last few weeks, came to a spectacular close yesterday afternoon, when Ted Reichert defeated Gallenkamp in the finals of the tournament by the scores of 6-4, 6-8, 7-5, 7-5.

The two players, who were the survivors of more than 60 entrants, gave a superb exhibition of the game and were so evenly matched that at no time during the match was the outcome a certainty. It was one of the hardest fought matches ever seen in this section and about 50 tennis fans braved the wind to witness the play-off.

The tournament which Reichert won was initiated and put over by Record News' publicity at the request of H. S. Rogers and M. A. Ellis. Out of it has grown the Wichita Falls Tennis association, which will permaneatly support the game here.

The match was played under adverse tennis conditions, the cold not only preventing the players from warming up quickly but also deadened the balls by contracting the air inside, making their bounds uncertain and causing one or the other of the players to miss badly. During the last two sets the attempt was made to keep them constantly supplied with heated balls, and the action improved their playing considerably.

The closeness of the play of both men will be seen by the point score, which shows only five points difference in four sets of play. The total number of points made by the winner was 172, while Gallenkamp's total was 167. Reichert gathered in 26 games to Gallenkamp's 22. Only three "love" games were played, Gallenkamp gathering in two of these and Reichert one, while the "deuce" games were numerous, there being 12 of the drawn-out variety.

Reichert started out like the proverbial whirlwind, taking the first three games before Gallenkamp could get started. Gallenkamp took a new lease on life in the fourth game, however, and from then on it was anybody's match. The pace set was fast, and it is doubted if it could have kept up if the struggle had gone to five sets, which it came very near doing.

In the fourth and last set, with Reichert on the top end of two sets to one, Gallenkamp took the lead and had Reichert 5-3 in games and 40-30 in points, or "point set," needing only one point to tie the sets, when Reichert came from behind with some wonderful placement shots and took the next three points and the game. It was during this period that the audience witnessed some of the prettiest tennis that has been seen in these parts for some time.

Reichert's net play was one of the outstanding features of the match, and time and aagin he drove Gallenkamp to the far end of the court with his volleying. Gallenkamp was hard to catch napping, however, and earned the applause of the gallery on innumerable occasions by his return of almost impossible shots.

Gallenkamp played in hard luck in the third set, when he broke a string in his racquet and had none to substitute, being forced to finish the match with the broken racquet, which was quite a handicap, considering the brand of tennis that was being displayed on the other side of the net.

All in all, the match was a fitting climax to the first Wichita Falls championship tennis tournament.

The trophy which is being presented to the winner by the Southern Electric company, together with the prizes for second and third places, is to be given at a supper gathering held some time this week to be attended by the participants in the tourney and their friends.

15 VERNONITES TO PROTEST AT LOCATION OF BIG WICHITA IRRIGATION PLAN RESERVOIR

Fifteen Vernon business men will appear before the State Water Commission, which has jurisdiction over Texas streams, at a public hearing at Austin November 15 to voice certain objections to the proposed site of the Big Wichita Irrigation project reservoir, for the building of which $3,500,000 of bonds were voted recently. This announcement was made to The Record News Vernon correspondent Monday.

F. N. Lawton, manager of the Irrigaton District work, will leave for Vernon Tuesday to investigate the protests or objections which the Vernon business men may have.

The Vernonites claim that they will be joined with citizens of Seymour in the protest. They object on the alleged grounds that the building of the lake will interfere with or make more expensive the building of a road between Vernon and Seymour—a road which would cross about the center of the big lake.

Mr. Lawton said that county authorities have let a contract to a Dallas bridge building company to put a steel bridge six or seven hundred feet long across the river about the middle of what will be the center of the proposed reservoir.

But he declared that all objections could easily be met. A concrete road over the top of the big dam will be built. This is about six miles above the center of the lake and the point where it is proposed to cross the channel with the Seymour-Vernon road. Mr. Lawton said that a bridge could also easily be built at the other end of the big reservoir, about six miles in the opposite direction from the proposed crossing.

Instead of building an expensive steel bridge, a wooden bridge, built on piling and of the type now used across the rivers in this section, could be easily put across the lake at the point where the road would cross, Mr. Lawton presented as a third alternative. He said the bridge would have to be about three quarters of a mile long.

Vernon complainants say that the road proposed will serve an oil territory which is being tested out around the recent Sigler well. Mr. Lawton said that it was questionable how much traffic this oil development could be shown to have produced. He said the principal Wilbarger oil traffic is toward the Piper pool—a direction not towards the proposed lake.

Even if English interests take over the Waggoner holdings which will be wanted for the lake reservoir, Mr. Lawton said it would make no difference so far as construction of the lake is concerned. He said that an arrangement, he believed could easily be made with the new British owners, if the reported sale negotiations go through. In any event, the land is subject to condemnation and expropriation proceedings at an appraisal board value.

feet cheering the governor's prediction.

"I cannot tell where Senator Harding stands on the league question, for I have not read today's newspapers," said Governor Cox.

"Can anyone tell where he stands?"

After a brief pause, a voice in the crowd answered:

"I guess not."

"Traitors for Harding."

The governor then recounted what, he said, were several of the "many positions on the league' taken by the republican candidate, asserting "Senator Harding was attempting to "wiggle and wobble" into the presidency."

"Every tratitor in America will vote tomorrow for Warren G. Harding," declared Governor Cox.

A man in the crowd sitting near the stage arose and moved toward the rear doors.

The crowd laughed at him, and the governor remained silent during the uproar. "It's getting too hot for him," shouted a voice in the crowd. Then as the noise subsided, the governor remarked, "There's one voter for Harding who is going to the polls early for he wants to be sure to cast a vote for the loser."

Urging the league's adoption, Governor Cox said that world-wide prosperity would follow.

SILVER TOP IS FOUND GUILTY; GETS 2 YEARS

Rex Candlish alias "Silver Top King," was found guilty of assault with intent to murder and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by a jury late Monday evening in Seventy-eighth district court.

Trial of the case began Monday morning before Judge Edgar Scurry.

Candlish was charged by indictment with an assault upon Deputy Sheriff Bert Shouse on the night of October 15 in a restaurant at Kemp City, as the result of which, Shouse was shot through the left leg.

According to statements from witnesses Shouse and another officer arrived at the restaurant just in time to see three men making their getaway from the front door. Shouse was said to have grabbed "Silver Top" by the right hand, in which he held his gun, and was shot during the struggle which ensued.

The deputy held to his man, however, and finally subdued him. The two other men, who were said to have been with "Silver Top" in the alleged commission of a hold-up during the night, made their escape at the time but were later captured.

The two other men are "California Stepper," or Goldie Seaborn and J. Kaiser.

County Attorney John Davenport and Attorney C. C. McDonald prosecuted the case for the state, while Judge E. W. Napier, who was appointed by the court, acted as counsel for the defendant.

VAN WORMER TALKS OF AUTO ACCIDENT

F. E. Van Wormer of the M. and V. Tank company, one of the persons in the automobile accident at Tenth and Brook street Friday night, in a statement to The Record News Monday disclaimed all intention of wanting to make the accident a mystery. He said that if anything was being held back it was at the hospital or the other party in the accident because he did not want to conceal anything.

Mr. Van Wormer drove the car which collided with a machine driven by Dr. James W. Powers. Dr. Powers and another occupant of the car he was in were taken to the Wichita General Hospital. Though the hospital is suported by city and county funds, attaches there refused to give the names of the persons admitted when The Record News, representing the public, asked for information. When Night Police Captain Humphris, making an official investigation, telephoned for the names the hospital did not give them even then, but referred the police to an associate of Dr. Powers'.

Mr. Van Wormer said that car of Dr. Powers was wobbling as it came down the street. He said that he (Van Wormer) was driving on the right hand side of the street. Seeing the other car swerving, he attempted to swerve out of the way and the two cars accidentally ran together at a short angle. Mr. Van Wormer said. Both cars went to the curb. Mr. Van Wormer and Dr. Powers and the other injured man were taken to the hospital in another car.

OFFICE FOR CLERK IN COUNTY COURT

Work was started Monday on the erection of a partition in the courtroom of the county court at law to separate space in rear of the court-room for use as an office by the court clerk.

New furniture and office fixtures will be installed, including fireproof safes and filing cabinets in which all records of proceedings of the court will be kept.

Entrance to the clerk's office will be obtained through the courtroom and the county judge's private office in extreme rear of the courtroom.

Until the work has been completed, Judge Guy Rogers will continue the trial of civil cases in justice of the peace court room in the basement of the courthouse.

CONSERVATION MEN COMING HERE THURS.

Eugene Bullock, chairman of the Fort Worth conservation district, of Fort Worth, with a number of fire insurance field agents, will visit Wichita Falls on Thursday of this week for inspection of the business and manufacturing sections of the city, and to take the lead in the organization of city officials and fire insurance agents for a permanent fire prevention league.

A committee to work with the conservation officials of the district will be appointed.

Fire Chief McClure has called a meeting of the officials and insurance men for Thursday. He is acting upon the request of S. W. Inglish, secretary of the Texas conservation and fire prevention committee of the national board of fire underwriters.

BURGLAR SWALLOWS BUNDLE OF LOOT

(By International News Service.)

BERLIN.—Arrested here, Willi Pansin, a burglar, who formerly drove the Berlin police chief's motor car, was found to have swallowed the proceeds of his latest robbery.

It was noticed after his arrest that he walked with difficulty and that his stomach appeared abnormally large.

The prison doctor advised him to undergo an operation, but Pansin refused, saying that he would rather be operated on at his own expense. Next day he was found in his cell with a deep knife wound in his side.

An X-ray examination, says the Berlin Post, revealed "a mountain of foreign bodies" in Pansin's stomach, including silver spoons, small forks, a number of screws and a silver nail file.

PARIS BARBERS MAKE YOU TAKE SHAMPOO

(By International News Service.)

PARIS.—Whether you want your head washed or not in Paris you almost have to have it. The congress of barbers has just decreed that gentlemen who have their hair cut without demanding a shampoo as well must pay 50 centimes more. The barbers say they are acting in the interest of personal cleanliness.

NEGRO FOUND GUILTY OF PANDERING; JAILED

Charles Frazier, negro, was found guilty of pandering in the city police court, Monday morning and fined $100. Unable to pay the fine he was committed to city jail.

Frazier was arrested Sunday by City Detectives Bullard and Johnson following information from the guest of an uptown hotel that he had been approached by the negro. The latter was employed by the hotel as a porter.

FORMER JAIL WILL BE VOTING BOOTH

(By International News Service.)

BOSTON.—The Montvale jail in Woburn, decaying from lack of use, is to be torn down by order of Mayor Golden and a voting booth for women erected in its place. The passing of John Barleycorn from the precincts of Woburn has made the jail useless. Where once "jags" slept off the effects of "booze," women will soon cast their ballots.

EASTERN OHIO MINERS DEDICATE NEW TEMPLE

(By International News Service.)

BELLAIRE.—Eastern Ohio miners dedicated their new $200,000 temple hr Saturday, Octobr 30. Th nw ple here Saturday, October 30. The new structure was erected by 16,000 members of the organization, all of whom will be idle that day, most of them coming here for the dedication ceremonies. The building contains the largest theatre in town. It is situated on a lot at the southeast corner of the city park on ground purchased by business men.

The headquarters will be moved here from Bridgeport next month. They have been located in that city for ten years. National officials of the miners' union spoke at the dedication ceremonies. Special trains on four railroads handled the crowds to the city.

MEXICO STRIKE THREAT.

MEXICO CITY.—There are threats of two more strikes. Coal miners in Coahuila are talking of enforcing demands by a walkout and spinners in Orizaba are preparing to quit work for the same purpose.

KISSED IN DARK BY "BELOVED CHEATER"

A beautiful girl who does not believe in kissing—two men—then the girl is kissed in the dark and she finds that kissing is not so bad after all, but—who is the man? This is the unusual theme of the Robertson-Cole Special, "The Beloved Cheater," which features that act of hearts, Lew Cody at the Empress today.

Bruce Sands (Lew Cody) is the idol of the "deadlier Sex," the sort with whim men make friends in self defense—or at the dictation of their wives. He is the sort who can't help making love to every girl he meets, but always remains a bachelor.

Then there is "the girl" who becomes engaged without changing her ideas against kissing and her fiance who is foolish enough to promise to respect her wishes.

The real romance of the girl's life commences when she is kissed and she discovers that it was not her fiance who kissed her.

Of course she does find the man only to lose him, for the "Beloved Cheater" refuses to let her sacrifice her happiness by marrying a man of his type.

CULBERTSON TALKS TO ELECTRA CROWD

Introduced by Ernest R. Moore, prominent business man of Electra, Jack Culbertson, candidate for governor on the republican ticket, addressed an audience of about three hundred persons at the Liberty theatre in Electra Monday afternoon.

Col. George Griffith accompanied the party from Wichita Falls, supporting Mr. Culbertson's address with a discussion of the League of Nations and a denunciation of what he termed the extravagance of the democratic administration. Mr. Culbertson limited his discussion chiefly to state issues.

County Chairman O. P. Maricle, T. B. Smock, D. C. McCaleb and Cullen Massey attended the meeting, the first republican campaign speech of the pre-election season at Electra.

Woman Burned in Burkburnett Dies

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Will Roden, who was severely burned Saturday afternoon, died last night at 10 o'clock in the Martin Hospital where she had been placed by attending physicians. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove. Burial arrangements will be made tomorrow.

The Saxon-Harris revival closed here today. The religious campaign is considered a great success.

The burial of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Snider took place this afternoon in the Burkburnett cemetery. The baby was the first child in the family in 16 years. Their only other child being in her seventeenth year.

PEREGRINE FALCON APPEARS IN LONDON

(By International News Service.)

LONDON.—A peregrine falcon—an unusual sight in London—visited the neighborhood of St. Paul's cathedral recently and caused one death and universal consternation among the pigeons.

About fifty of these half-time pigeons were wheeling around the dome when the falcon arrived, closed its wings, and swooped down at about 150 miles an hour.

The pigeons dived to cover. A burst of feathers fluttered and danced in the air; one pigeon had been struck and was being carried off.

The peregrine falcon, the corsair of the air, is extremely rare. It usually haunts high and desolate cliffs on lonely parts of the coast.

A hundred years ago, however, it used to haunt the region of St. Paul's.

SCHOOL GIRL WANTS TO BE SNAKE CHARMER

(By International News Service.)

CARLINVILLE, Ill.—Louise Graham is 16 years of age and pretty and well up in her studies at school. But Louise has a penchant for snake charming, and every time a carnival would leave the town simultaneously the girl would forsake her family fireside.

Invariably the girl would find herself stranded in the next town. But she stubbornly announced her intentions of repeating her performance until the day she became one of the beautiful women who handle the reptilian monsters.

Authorities took Louise in custody and decided to send her to the training school at Geneva. They have the word of local nose-rouge specialists that snakes haven't been seen there since the days when the Volstead act was merely a discredited rumor.

BIG SUM FOR ADVERTISING WICHITA FALLS ENDORSED BY C. C. BUSINESS COUNCIL

Expenditures of a large sum of money by the Chamber of Commerce for general publicity for the city of Wichita Falls and advertising in manufacturing and trade papers to attract new institutions have been endorsed by a majority of members of the business council, according to a compilation of the answers to a questionnaire distributed among members.

Answering the question, "Do you believe the Chamber of Commerce should spend a large sum of money for general publicity outside this city, 22 members answered yes; 17 answered no. A majority of 30 to 6 answered affirmatively the query "Do you believe we are ready to advertise in the Manufacturers Record or other trade publications to attract new institutions."

This majority of opinion is in line with the recent announcement of policy from the Chamber of Commerce, opening an era of outside advertising following a long period devoted almost entirely to internal improvements.

The forty-two men answering the questionnaires had spent periods ranging from one month to 20 years in Wichita Falls. Only one of them was born here. The others came from 16 towns in ten states. Eighteen Texas towns were represented.

Eleven of the number were attracted to Wichita Falls by reading of it in newspapers. A majority, 26, came here without any inducement from friends and relatives; 19, a majority of those answering that specific question, became citizens here through private business interests without knowing much of the town in general.

Most of the signers of the questionnaires were of the opinion that good schools, churches, and good living conditions bring more new families to a city than do prosperous business conditions. Fourteen of them believe both play an important part. A few stood for good business as the chief attraction.

The council members endorsed the Chamber of Commerce policy in encouraging neighborliness through block parties, Fairs, demonstrations, newspapers and magazine articles, and city improvements were suggested as effective means of outside advertising.

A copy of the questionnaire was enclosed in every copy of "Better City" distributed Monday. Readers are requested to sign them for return to the Chamber of Commerce.

EX-CONDUCTOR IS LITERARY WINNER

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Knut Hamsun, Norwegian author and formerly a conductor on the old Halsted street horse car line, back in the early eighties, has won the 1920 Nobel prize for literature, friends have just learned here.

Hamsun came here from North Dakota where he had worked on a farm, and after being discharged from the horse car line began writing books instead of collecting fares, he went east and obtained a berth on a New Foundland fishing boat. He returned to Norway in the early 90's and in 1893 brought out his first volume—his collection of "Pan" poems.

During the holidays the chief guest in the household was a little nephew.

The aunt was frankly amazed at the astonishing exhibition of his appetite.

"Heavens!" she exclaimed, one day. "I hope you don't mind my saying so, Louis, but, for a little chap, you certainly eat a whole lot!"

Louis, however, was not in the least taken back by this.

"Remember this, auntie," he said, very solemnly. "I ain't so little as I look from the outside."

Little Bobby came in the other day crying and rubbing several bumps caused by a series of "butts" administered by a pet sheep.

"Well, Bobby," said his mother, "what did you do when the sheep knocked you down?"

"I didn't do nothin'; I was gettin' up all the time."

CHICKENS WIN PRIZE

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 1.—A pen of five Barred Plymouth Rocks owned by M. A. Lee of Seadrift, Texas, won first prize in the third Texas national egg laying contest at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, which closed today. Lee's chicken layed 994 eggs during the contest's duration of one year.

Shorty puns into "Snapper" Teebo!

Atlanta, Ga Wednesday.

Dear Pete.

Checked up our old dormitory pal "Snapper" Teebo this morning waiting on an appointment down Peachtree Street. "Snapper" wanted to know a bookfull about my visit to the Camel factories. "Tell us, old apple seed", says 'Snapper,' you're on the inside!" 'Snap' still has that mighty annoying way of saying "But that doesn't surprise me!" Some day I'll soak him—maybe that will be a surprise!

Anyhow—when I explained about the millions of Camels R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. made daily what does the old bird sputter but: "Why, Shorty, they'd have to make that many to supply the demand! Camels have the quality smokers want! And, they have the most wonderful mellow mild body and the most refreshing flavor ever created in a cigarette! Of course they make Camels by millions; of course they buy enough revenue stamps from 'Uncle Sam' every work day to build a duplicate of the Winston-Salem post office! Why not? Smokers will have Camels!

But 'Snap' finally got to spilling some real nobby Camel selling stuff! "Shorty," says he, "write the Reynolds folks for me that I travel and talk some with the world in a year's time. And I want to put it on record that in all the times I've pulled Camels out of my pocket to supply somebody's shortage I've heard enough good things said about 'Em to fill a volume—'That's my brand', 'Camels are a wonderful cigarette', 'Like getting money from home', etc!"

"And, Shorty, what's the answer? Why—Camels quality and Camels blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos meet the universal taste! That's it! Get me right, boy! They all open their shutters for Camels'. You'll find that all over the nation! And, that's the hole story, old golf ball!" Pete, you pet phonograph, did you ever hear a better record?

Sincerely
Shorty.

WOODROW WILSON, THE MAN

It is rare indeed for any one to consider the presidency in the light of a job, but it is a fact that a conscientious chief executive is called upon for more downright drudgery than any other official in the world. The position still runs exactly along the lines laid down in 1787, when the population of the entire country totaled less than the census of New York today, with the result that the duties are a queer, impossible jumble of tremendous problems and absurd clerical routine calculated to break the strongest. At a moment when the President is considering some vital domestic question or facing an international complication, nothing is more likely than an enforced halt while he affixes his signature one thousand times to papers that should never get beyond a third assistant secretary.

The difficulties of the place are added to by the popular point of view with regard to public servants. The head of a great corporation would not hold his position a day were he to waste his energies in time-wasting activities designed only to advance personal popularity, yet a President is confidently expected to leave his office door open for all who choose to "drop in.' America is now a world power, and American government has become a tremendous complexity that centers all the ceaseless striving of 110,000,000 people, and yet the executive head of this huge corporation is expected to hold to the formula of conduct laid down in the days of tallow dips and stage-coaches. Professional politicians are largely to blame for this, with their continual emphasis upon the office rather than the task, their campaign mumeries and their buncombe about, "simple, rugged Americanism." The vulgar charlatanism of campaigns has done much to confuse democracy with mere physical boisterousness, and in many minds there is an actual insistence upon hand-shaking, shoulder-clapping, and ability to remember first names as the real democratic tests.

Even had he been strong enough to stand the physical strain of such a conception, it is much to be doubted if Woodrow Wilson would have attempted to live up to this caricature. His temperament precludes the tricks of the professional office-seeker, the labored lord-of-the-manor graciousness that passes for "democracy," and his conscience forbids the fawning, time-wasting activities of the professional office-seeker. As a historian and an publicist, he had made careful study of the duties of the chief executive, and it was in 1908, long before he had thought of filling the office, that he wrote this conclusion:

No other man's day is so full as his, so full of the responsibilities which tax mind and conscience alike, and demand an inexhaustible vitality. Men of ordinary physique and discretion cannot be presidents and live, if the strain be not somehow relieved. We shall be obliged always to be picking our chief magistrates from among wise and prudent athletes.

He knew, therefore, that he would have to choose, at the very outset, between popularity and service. Either he could consider the office politically, disregarding duty in the interests of personal acclaim, or he could assume it as a task to be discharged in honor and high faith, thereby surrendering all hope of applause. He made his decision as an American, not as a politician. After estimating the task in terms of routine and national needs, and measuring the demand against his strength, he saw plainly that the one chance was a careful, systematic, scientific conservation of every ounce of energy. Taking up the study of his problem with the cool detachment of an engineer in charge of a plant, the president and his physician worked out an iron regimen, a fixed daily program that ordered every minute of his life with machine-like exactitude.

Certain hours for work and sleep, regular mornings for golf and regular nights for the theater, a scientific diet, and stern caution against waste effort of every kind. It was not only physical habits that were forced under rigid discipline, but mental habits as well. Never at any time disposed to solitude or reticence, but one of the most companionable men that ever lived, the president had never failed to find a large part of his pleasure in the give-and-take of conversation. The trouble was, as with every eager, vivid personality, that he gave more than he took. His talk was no mere adventure in anecdotes, but a broad sweep across the whole of life, illuminating everything that it touched. Such contacts, inevitably entailing an expenditure of nervous force, had to be surrendered. Interviews were confined to official importances, and personal approaches increasingly gave way to the submission of memoranda. In the quiet of his study every paper received the painstaking attention of the president, but even this larger efficiency failed to soothe wounded vanities. As he was permitted no excitement at meals, even eating became a business. This deprived him of one of Roosevelt's greatest assets, making the White House table a quiet affair instead of the gathering place that the president would have liked.

Only his doctors knew. Not once in all the driving years did he confess the fight that went on in loneliness from day to day. Someone has said that the president's greatest weakness is an utter inability to "grandstand." This lack was never more apparent than in connection with his struggle against exhaustion. A word, a gesture, would have won him understanding and sympathy, but he would not speak it, would not make it. He won and continued to win, but victory was never assured. There was always a shadow that hung over him, always the fear that each new day might bring the added ounce of strain that could not be endured. And so each hour that he wrested from his battle was devoted to the task, not to the man.

These conditions of the president's life should serve to explain many of the inconsistencies that have baffled observers, resulting in biographies that are no more than studies in contrast. One man sees him as a thinking-machine, cold, remote, aloof, utterly devoid of animal heat, while another sees him as a man of warm impulses, intensely human and winningly genial. Both are true pictures, one being the man, the other the president: One a normal person, impulsive and companionable, the other the creature of an iron discipline, compelled to live within himself because it was the only way in which he could live and discharge the duties imposed upon him by his official oath and his conscience.

It did not seem possible that human strength could stand the terrific strain of the peace years, yet when America entered the war the president seemed to find new wells of energy on which to draw. Throughout the struggle he did the work of ten men. While it is true enough that no one was "close" to the president, it is also true that he himself was close to every man connected with government. He had his hand on the pulse of each department, and his knowledge of detail was as amazing as it was often disconcerting in the hour of report. He did not seem able to divest himself of a feeling of personal responsibility for every soldier that he sent to France, and this virtual obsession drove him relentlessly. What the youth of America was doing appealed to him as so wonderfully fine, so shot through with a splendor of sacrifice that he looked upon any sparing of himself as nothing short of betrayal. After a crowded day—for, despite alleged "aloofness," he saw people in a steady stream of five, ten and fifteen minute interviews—he gave his evening to the papers that stacked his desk, typing off comment, suggestion, or instructions on his own battered little machine. It took six weeks invariably to get a ruling from the state department, but the president replied either at once with a dictated letter or else on the morning of the second day there came the small envelope with its little typewritten page, all curiously neat, signed "W. W."

I saw him many times when his face had the gray of ashes, but the one complaint that I ever heard was on the score of sleepiness. "I'm getting like Dicken's fat boy," he laughed one day. "I could go to sleep at an angle of ninety-five degrees." The importance of husbanding his energies, however, made him less and less willing to spend them upon the trivial, and the immaterial and irrelevant became increasingly unbearable. There was so much to do, and always the fear of being hampered in the doing by some rebellion of the body.

Mental habits have a clutch as strong as the physical. As time went by, with increasing necessity for husbanding hours and energy, it was easy to see the growing dominance of the intellectual factor in the president's equation. He came more and more to view every problem mentally, to look into the minds of men rather than into the hearts of men. America possessed him to the exclusion of Americans, and in increasing degree he gave his thought to the people as a whole rather than to individuals. A revolt against the charlatanism of politics, with its emphasis on palliatives, gave intensity to his search for causes and cures. On every side he saw politicians and papers trying to content people with thrills, and his determination grew to make people think. With his mastery of language, his rare ability to give words poignancy as well as point, it would have been easy for him to dramatize himself, but he shrank from this usual political trick as unutterably cheap, wholly unworthy. On his trip in support of the League of Nations, for instance, it was suggested to him that it might be well to "warm up a bit," and his answer was an indignant refusal to "capitalize the dead."

It was a course that had no other end than unpopularity, for the American people prefer to confine the business of thinking to their own personal affairs. When they turn to politics it is for amusement, for excitement, for indignation, but never for intellectual activity. The President, by his continual appeals to mentality rather than to the emotions, became a trial. The war, with its opportunity for intense feeling, saved him from actual disfavor for a while, but the reactions of the armistice sealed his doom. People turned back definitely and irritatedly to their own personal concerns, and the continued insistence of the President upon national and international affairs both bored and angered. Couldn't he see that they were busy! Yet only the President has lost. Every word that he said, every appeal that he cried, has found a lodgment in the hearts and minds of the men and women of the United States, and while they may dislike him for making them think, the thinking is being done. He has been, in truth, a school-master, and not all that we get from a teacher ever softens humanity's curious resentment at having to be taught.

In the last analysis, what happened to Woodrow Wilson was the thing that happened to Lincoln, that happened to Washington—the dream of a race, the spiritual passions of a people, the necessities of menaced liberties, joined to lift him from the homely companionships of the average to the loneliness of the type.

What is America, after all—not the America that we sing when the verses are remembered—but the America that is in the hearts of men, that is the hope of mothers, the inheritance of children? It is a light that has never failed since first it rose, a dream of ideals more glorious than armies, a vision of struggle against the injustices of life a working theory of spiritual progress that shall make tomorrow finer and better than today.

No people in all history were ever less concerned with the material. Money is merely the symbol of achievement; our passion is progress, and high endeavor our happiness. At once pacific and militant, incurably religious yet incessantly questing, clamorously and revolutionary in the same breath, curiously sophisticated and unalterably naive, freedom is the one note that brings every discord into harmony. Controlled by a law of averages for the most part, giving mediocrity an easy indulgence, it is only when danger reaches down to the soul of America that the type is demanded and evolved. And well for these great souls if, like Lincoln, they pass on in the moment of supreme achievement, for there is nothing more cruel, more savage, than a people's reaction from high emotionalism.

ADJUTANT GENERAL SEES LAWYERS HERE

Adjutant General Cope of the state of Texas stopped over in Wichita Falls Monday en route to his home to vote, and conferred with H. P. Brady, Texas Ranger, commanding the force of six Rangers at present patrolling the Northwest oil fields.

Activities of the men who have been here for several weeks were commended by the adjutant general. According to information from Brady Monday, the adjutant general expressed no intention of having the Rangers removed soon.

JUDGE MARTIN WILL NOT ORDER DRILLING STOPPED

Judge P. A. Martin Monday morning in Eighty-ninth district court overruled a motion introduced by the defendant in the case of C. B. Farquharson against the Fresno Oil company to instruct the receiver, W. T. Willis, to cease drilling wells on the company's lease.

MANY SUITS SHOW THIS LOOSE PANEL EFFECT IN BACK

The new fall suits show many touches which have not been seen for some time. Embroidery and fur trimming are two of the most notable features. The fur usually trims the collar and often forms tabs or pocket patches, as on this pretty suit of peach bloom. Another feature which is often seen is the loose panel back effect with a belted front. That is a very distinctive feature of this suit.

DEATH OF INDUSTRIAL "WEAK SISTERS" CERTAIN

DETROIT, Mich.—Recession of business in Detroit and the fact that 50,000 men are out of work in the city received official cognizance this week when the Michigan Manufacturers' association appealed to Mayor Couzens to speed up public work to neutralize the effect of the layoff and the mayor responded with a call to employers to support a ration system to hold skilled workmen in the city.

Another Milestone

The present depression, it is predicted, marks the passing of a new milestone in Detroit's advance and will witness the death of industrial "weak sisters" and their replacement by a more substantial industrial structure.

Automobile heads, backing their statements with figures, declared that far from facing a market oversold, the number of potential domestic buyers of automobiles could not by any chance be exhausted for eighteen years and that at the end of that time production is not more than it is today the entire output will not more than fill the demand for replacement.

Net Layoff

Of the 50,000 men out of work in Detroit today according to John H. Lovett, manager of the Michigan Manufacturers' association the net layoff is about 35,000. The average number of floaters in the city is said to be 15,000. If Detroit was not a star in the center of the stage and the layoffs were in other than automobile factories the number of men out of work experts think would hardly be noticed.

The rumors on the streets that the automobile industry is "going to the bow-wows" finds general contraction in automobile row.

"There are in this country approximately 20,000,000 men eligible for military service, that is between 18 and 45 years of age," said Alvan McAuley, president of the Packard Motor Car company.

Potential Buyers

"To them can be added 5,000,000 potential buyers consisting of men above that age and women. This is exclusive of export trade.

"There have been 7,000,000 automobiles sold and 1,000,000 are required annually to replace those scrapped. So, as we are producing only 2,000,000 cars annually and 1,000,000 are scrapped, we are eating into the potential buyers at the rate of 1,000,000 a year. It would require eighteen years on those figures to unsell the market.

"Some may say that some of these 18,000,000 are day laborers, who don't buy motor cars. But they do buy and every sale of a second-hand car creates the sale of a new one.

Recession Period

"Undobtedly we are in a period of recession, but the fundamental conditions are good. The temporary lull in buying affects all lines and not automobiles any more than any other, but it is only temporary and improvement is going to be very fast after the elections."

Although the past week has been marked by more price reductions in passenger cars and trucks these new additions to the list of those recorded last week are regarded generally as a natural sequence of the price wave which started the downward movement.

Just how many more concerns will drift along with the downward current it is difficult to say at this time. On the toher hand, the growing number of guarantees that have been announced would indicate that the force of the movement has spent itslf, leaving behind a growing determination on the part of those who have merely stood by and looked on to stand their ground. However, it is evident that the auctual proportions of the movement cannot be gauged for some months to come.

Somewhat Down

Passing on to the commercial car makers, the Diamond T truck is now selling anywhere from $350 to $1,000 cheaper than formerly. Federals dropped from $100 to $150. The Indiana Truck corporation followed suit with drops ranging from $135 to $400, and the Stewart also fell anywhere from $135 up to $705. The Selden was still another which announced that hereafter its price would be from $100 to $170 cheaper than formerly.

Along with the price changes it is significant to note that guarantees by seven organizations mark the week's developments. The Holmes' Automobile company guaranteed the price of its machines until next spring, which was the time set likewise by the United States' Motor Truck corporatoion. The Haynes Automobile company and the Nordyke & Marmon company both decided upon July 1, 1921, as the extent of time on which they would offer a guarantee. January 1 was the date settled upon by the Premier Motor corporation. The Reo Motor Car company and the International Motor Truck corporation both selected April 1, 1921, as the date upon which their guarantees would expire.

No Changes

Although not advancing any actual guarantees, several companies expressed the intention of making no changes. Among these were the Cole Motor Car company, the Elgin Motor Car corporation, the Stutz Motor Car company of America, Inc., White company and the Stearns Motor Car company.

U. S. SCHOONER COPS CUP FROM NOVA SCOTIANS

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 1.—The Gloucester schooner Esperanto came from behind in a heart-gripping race today and won from the Lunenburg schooner Delawana by 7 minutes and 15 seconds, official time, thereby clinching the cup and $4,000 in prize money. The win gave two straight victories to the United States in the international series between the Nova Scotia fishermen and their Massachusetts rivals.

Keen judgment and matchless sailing ability of Capt. "Marty" Welch of the Gloucester boat was said on all hands tonight to be responsible for winning today's victory when he brought the Esperanto from behind after 22 miles of the 40-mile course had been sailed and, on the final leg, which was a dead beat to windward, increased his lead. The superior ability of the Esperanto to work to windward was admitted to be a factor in the result.

$25 Worth of Genuine Pathe Records Free

Two More Reasons for this Nation Wide Demonstration

The first is: Because both we and the manufacturers who are co-operating with us in the conduct of this sale, were afraid of embargoes and transportation tie-ups this fall and were determined to make our shipments before shipping channels became blocked with the crops and coal, as we were going to make sure that no patron of ours should lack the desired talking machine this Christmas.

This sale was planned months ago. The phonographs were manufactured months ago. All details and plans were worked out months ago, and the phonographs allotted for this sale in Wichita Falls are now on our floors for you to make your free and unrestricted choice.

Thus, we guarantee to deliver the identical instrument you select, and it may be delivered to your home at once, without delays or indefinite waiting.

The second is—Because the Pathe Company want to emphasize to the persons who wish to buy and own a phonograph, that phonograph manufacturers are not profiteers.

The Pathe Company is one of the largest manufacturers of phonographs and phonograph records in the world. It is not, and never has been, a profiteer.

Its phonographs and records are sold today at a price which more closely approximates the good old before-the-war prices than any other merchandise of a similar nature. And it will take a long time and a lot of reducing before other commodities come down to the fair and reasonable prices of Pathe phonographs.

While nearly all commodities, even the barest necessities, have advanced to double their former prices, yet here is the genuine Pathe Phonograph, Model 10, today, of them for you to select from, with complete equipment, everything necessary to your full enjoyment of your machine, together with $25 worth of genuine Pathe Records, all for $150.

And what is more, you can have good terms—Terms that will surprise you.

These are the facts that prompted this stupendous sale which is planned to be held from coast to coast. They constitute two of the main reasons for organizing this great demonstrating selling campaign, and they afford you a most extraordinary opportunity to own a phonograph you will ever be proud of, at a price and upon terms you should jump at in eagerness to procure.

Conditions of Sale

1—The phonograph offered in this sale is the 1921 genuine Pathe Phonograph Model No. 10, 43 inches high, 20 1-2 inches wide and 20 1-2 inches deep, as shown in cut, in Mahogany, Walnut or Oak, 5-ply, absolutely the most substantial cabinet construction on the market today, equipped with:

One indestructible genuine Pathe Sapphire Ball (full-tone) and one indestructible genuine Pathe Sapphire Ball (half-tone), for playing Pathe Records.
One Universal tone arm and sound box for playing all makes of records.

$25 WORTH OF GENUINE PATHE RECORDS—YOUR OWN SELECTION FREE.
One hundred steel needles.

2—The total price for this entire outfit is $150.

3—Ask for our terms—"You'll be surprised."

4—This equipment, including the $25 worth of records will be delivered to your home, immediately, upon receipt of your initial payment. Freight or Express charges will be prepaid to all points within fifteen miles.

5—The Pathe Phonograph included in this sale is guaranteed for one year, both the manufacturers and ourselves agreeing to replace any defective parts without charge during this period. Writtten guarantee to this effect furnished with each phonograph.

Bridget was one of the new type of "domestic help." She knew all about the science of the thing. One day her mistress remarked to her:
"The water you brought for luncheon this morning tasted rather peculiar, Bridget."
The Irish maid bridled as she replied: "Sure, ma'am, there's wan thing about it, I know there wasn't a single germ in it, for I ran it all through the mincing machine twice."

Guilty, Judge? We're Guilty as Flowers in May

"Guilty, judge? Why we are as guilty as the flowers in May and ought to be hanged to the old-time lynching post."

The gravy train had rolled in for the "law," 13 of 'em in a bunch. For the first time in ancient history enough confessed disreputables to fill the city jail had breezed in and admitted it all—pleaded guilty without exception.

And many were the high crimes and misdemeanors to which they admitted.

A pretty lass of 16 or 25 was first haled before Night Chief Humphris as the chief offender. Faces grew stern as a festively decorated accuser solemnly avowed to the chief that she, that girl with the man's clothes on, had refused to drink coffee. It was awful, the sort of sensation highjackers feel when the law has the goods on them.

She was duly found guilty and assessed 99 years in the city dungeon.

Next culprit was a modest youth who wore mere citizen's clothes. He had refused—mean thing—to deck out in spooky garb. A deserter from our glorious cause is he, fair chief, quoth the ringleader of the self-confessed crooks.

"Guilty or not guilty?" declared the chief as he wrote down $100 and costs on the police blotter.

And then there was another man in khaki garb. She sat down in the holy place—the swivel chair where Lee ("Terrible") Huff presides in daytime and Boss Humphris squares himself at night.

Oh shocking crime, she crossed her legs the wrong way—the left one hung over the right. And everybody knows the right should be first.

Boss Humphris was appealed to. Twenty-nine dollars and 29 days, he said.

The hour grew late and Night Sergeant Mays had had no chew. It was very depressing. His indignation at the violation of peace and order grew apace as his stomach called loudly and louder for justice.

"Just lock 'em all up, chief," he said. And the chief thought that was much simpler and all was well. Into the jail they went. The door was locked behind. No worse criminal has trod that path before and the way was clear. The chief went back downstairs. A newspaper reporter, acting as desk clerk, was sent up with Night Sergeant Mays to take the names of everybody. This was carrying things a bit farther than expected. Publicity, you know, is worse than fines. It began to look like a practical joke turned inside out.

The names were all taken down. The door clanged to with a rusty metallic clang and all was darkness and song. They sung "Hail, hail, hail, the gang's all here, so what the h— do we care," and lots of other high brow stuff.

After about an hour of this, the cry "Let us out," broke in rudely. The chief compromised and sent them all home in the Black Maria.

"Huff said let the kids have all the fun they want so long as they don't get too rough, and that's what I'm doing," Humphris explained.

And Mays pulled his whiskers into a knot and spat a beautiful hit clear across the police station into the cuspidor target and said, "Amen!"

The bunch of Halloween culprits gave their names as follows: Hickory Bent Double, Patricia Jane Murphy, Jack Calvin, Susie Quarles, R. R. Sikes, R. C. Smith, Minnie Jones, Claiborne Henderson, Cecil Atkins, Dave Jones, Frank Mitchell, H. D. Kaern and J. T. Crawford. But say, buddie, the information is kinda doubtful if you want it for census use.

DAILY FINANCIAL, OIL AND MARKET NEWS

GRAIN COTTON

HIGHER CABLES GIVE COTTON SHARP ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The cotton market showed a sharp advance today owing to higher Liverpool cables, unfavorable weather in the South and reports of a firmer spot situation. Late months made the highest prices of the day in the late trading with May selling at 20.85c, or 100 points net higher. That delivery closed at 20.75c with the general market closing steady at a net advance of 57 to 90 points.

First prices were 37 to 57 points higher After the close of Liverpool, prices reacted slightly under realizing, but there was little Southern selling and the market firmed up later as a result of covering for the holiday tomorrow. January sold at 21.25c and March at 20.98c. Private cables attributed the strength of Liverpool to absence of hedge selling. According to trade advices, there has been a slightly better inquiry for goods in the Manchester market.

Exports for the day were 43,527 bales, making 1,047,784 so far this season.

CANADA TO HAVE BIG WHEAT SURPLUS

By Associated Press

OTTAWA, Nov. 1.—An estimate of the Canadian grain crops for 1920, issued today by the dominion bureau of statistics, showed that Canada should have 190,000,000 bushels of wheat for export in excess of last year.

All other grains showed big increases over the crop of the preceding year.

The bureau's estimate of the wheat crop is 293,361,000 bushels, against 193,260,000 bushels last year. This estimate shows some 4,000,000 bushels more than the one issued two months ago, exceptionally favorable weather in the Canadian northwest resulting in a much heavier yield than anticipated.

100 PERCENT DIVIDEND

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—A stock dividend of 100 percent was recommended by the board of directors of the United Fruit company at a special meeting today. It was voted also that a dividend of $4 per share be paid January 15. This would be equivalent to $8 a share on the present stock.

JOE, POLICEMAN'S DOG, BRINGS PAPERS, CHECKS UP ON MISSING ARTICLES; HAS FAMOUS RECORD

Benjamin Franklin said something about not telling what don't sound true, but all the same there's a little story about Joe, who is dog inascot of the police force and the bosom companion of Night Patrolman W. J. White, that must be told despite warnings.

Joe came into town with White not long ago and with him came a string of clippings from Salt Lake City newspapers that violated all that Franklin precept. And White told things about his dog that forced him to take a stack of iron men out to back it up. And he's still got the iron men.

In the first place the Salt Lake City papers say that Joe was trailing a trio of thugs that his master and other officers wanted when Joe fell 85 feet down an abandoned copper mine shaft. The shaft was 240 feet deep and it had 100 feet of water in it. The ledge was 85 feet down. The shaft was divided into two compartments.

Dog Is Rescued

In the face of protests from the owners of the mine that it was absurd to try to recover the dog, White persisted. Rocks were thrown down the hole on both sides of the compartment. It was thought that the dog would howl if hit and prove wether or not he was alive. The nearest compartment to the trail Joe took gave no response. The farther one did. A board ledge had to be built before men could throw rocks along the side of the farther ledge. The dog responded and he was rescued at a cost of several hundred dollars, after staying in the hole for 36 hours.

That's what the Salt Lake papers say and what White swears to.

Finds Lost Articles

White can't lose anything. Matters not where he stops when he moves on Joe checks up. If there are any stray packages left Joe takes no chances, he picks them up and starts after White with them.

One night White left a pair of gloves concealed in a crevice on the steps of a Scott street building. When he got over to the police station he missed the gloves.

"Didn't you forget something?" he told Joe.

Joe started pell mell back to Scott street. Finally he found the gloves and trotted back to headquarters with them.

When White comes into the police station to report Joe goes to sleep under the desk, but he always notes where White sits. Be it flashlight, a box of matches, handkerchief or any article that may be left where White was when he moves on, Joe checks up on it and carries them along.

Carries Newspapers

Every morning at about 2:30 o'clock White and Joe call at The Record News office to get a paper. While White reads his he sends Joe back to police headquarters to carry Night Captain Humphris a paper. When Joe comes in at headquarters if Humphris is not at his accustomed desk Joe starts on a search. Nobody else gets the paper. First Joe trails over to the restaurant where Humphris eats at night. If he is not there, Joe starts around the downtown beats and stays on the job until he delivers the paper. As a carrier Joe is hard for any ordinary newsboy to beat.

Joe is a half breed. His father was a full blooded, registered Shepherd. His mother was a Scotch collie with a pedigree as long as your arm.

White will back Joe to whip anything in sight. He has a yell like a coyote's. While he was delivering Humphris' paper one night White left The Record News office in an auto on a call. Joe couldn't pick up the scent because White used the car.

All the downtown business section straightway heard from Joe. Men who work at night and who knew Joe picked him up in a car and started out to find his master. Joe made music all the while.

He has a collection of tricks that would make an easy living for Joe and his master in vaudeville. Tell him, "kiss me," and Joe springs to the command with more alacrity than a first class Baby Doll.

BUSINESS ON STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Business on the stock market was irregular in movement and contracted in volume as was to be expected in view of the holiday in London and tomorrow's suspension of operations in all the markets of this country.

Events over the week-end presented no change from recent conflicting conditions.

Sales amounted to 550,000 shares.

In the bond market price tendencies were upward, all the Liberty issues with one exception strengthening.

Total sales, par value, $13,850,000.

COFFEE FUTURES DOWN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The market for coffee futures here opened at a decline of 10 to 31 points. Actice positions sold 33 to 38 points net lower, with March declining to 8.55, but the reaction was checked at this level and March rallied to 8.84. That month closed at 8.70, with the general list closing at a net decline of 19 to 25 points.

Spot coffee, quiet and nominal; Rio 7s, 8¼@8½ cents.

RAW SUGAR EASIER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The local market for raw sugar was easier and prices declined quarter cent under more liberal offerings. There were sales of 25,000 bags of Cubas, prompt shipment, at 7 cents, cost and freight, equal to 8.01 for centrifugal.

The decline in raws led to another reduction of half cent in refine dsugar by one of the leading refiners to the basis of 10.50 for fine granulated or a new low record for the year. Other refiners were unchanged at 11.00 to 12.00. The sugar futures market was steadier, with the exception of December, despite the decline in raws, and closing prices were 5 to 30 points net higher on covering for over the adjournment tomorrow. December was easier earlier under liquidation and after showing a decline of 10 points rallied and closed unchanged.

KANSAS CITY GRAIN.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 1.—Cash wheat—No. 1 hard, $2.10@2.15; No. 2, $2.10@2.20; No. 3, $2.10@2.20; No. 1 red, $2.28; No. 2, $2.26.

EXPORT BUYING GIVES WHEAT SLIGHT UPTURN

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Buying on the part of houses with seaboard connections led to a moderate upturn in wheat values today after the market has been depressed during most of the session.

Prices closed firm, at the same as Saturday's finish to 1½c higher, with December $2.09½ to $2.10 and March $2.02 to $2.02½. Corn closed ⅝c net lower to ⅛c advance, and oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅜ to ⅞c gain In provisions the outcome was a rise of 17c to 85c. Corn and oats failed to reflect the raily in wheat, profit taking sales on the part of floor traders counting as a bearish factor.

Provisions, although dull, were higher as a result of an upturn in the hog market.

FELONY CASES WILL BE TRIED ON WEDNESDAY

Two felony cases which originated as the result of investigations by the special grand jury, which recently adjourned its session until November 15, have been set for trial Wednesday in the Seventy-eighth district court before Judge Edgar Scurry, according to a statement from County Attorney John Davenport Monday. They are: State vs. W. F. Faggart, charged with allowing operation of a gambling house on his premises, and State vs. P. J. Bridgefelt, charged with operating a gambling house.

In the event that both cases are not disposed of by Wednesday, trials will proceed until completed.

District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones announced the setting for trial of a number of felony cases before Judge P. A. Martin in Eighty-ninth district court, beginning Wednesday. They are as follows:

Wednesday.

Harry A. Johnson and Lee Toncray, charged with theft over $50.

Hunter Russell and Blackie Harrington, charged with theft over $50.

Hunter Russell, charged with forgery.

Bennie Davis, charged with theft over $50.

"Oh, come," protested the Englishman. "I think your rivers are just as sickly as ours."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, they are all confined to their beds," replied the visitor.

In a list of fifteen leading makes of automobiles, ranging in price from $1,200 to $6,000, an analysis of prices prior to recent reductions is illuminating.

It shows that, in percentage increase since 1917, the Franklin ranks fourth from the lowest. The Franklin percentage differs from the lowest record by only 12%, while it shows a margain of 54% below the highest increase.

In the light of these comparisons, it is plain that the Franklin Car represents by far the greatest value among automobiles today.

SENATOR CAPPER TAKING AIM

Senator Capper starts upon his campaign against board of trade speculation in wheat and other grains by stating a self-evident proposition. It is that fictitious deals, which really have nothing to do with legitimate sales and deliveries of the commodities dealt in, damage the producers of wheat and other grains, without benefiting the consumer's. He reasonably insists that the farmer should have a moral guarantee that the market for his grains will be fairly stabilized. That may be taken to mean, no doubt, that the farmer's market should be controlled, as other markets are presumed to be controlled, by the so-called law of supply and demand. Of course, Senator Capper has no difficulty whatever in establishing the fact that the market for wheat, for instance, cannot be even measurably stabilized so long as fictitious speculation in wheat is permitted.

The price offered by buyers of wheat in the states where the grain is produced and actually delivered is the fictitious price established and reflected in the wheat pit of the boards of trade, and in seasons of the year when the bulk of the wheat crop is offered for sale the price is kept down to the lowest point to which it can be forced by shrewd manipulation, or by the uncertainties incidental to fluctuation. Senator Capper points out that this wheat, bought at the lowest possible price, does not find its way into mills or into ocean transports, but that it is held and sold, finally, in the markets of the world, at a price established in fact, by the law of supply and demand. Thus it is that the consumer, who sometimes sees lower prices for wool reflected in the reduced price of clothing, or a lower price for raw sugar in Cuba reflected in a lower price for refined sugar at the corner grocery, seldom sees the price of bread governed sympathetically by the actual price which the farmer receives for his wheat.

The Kansas senator declares that wheat speculation on the Chicago Board of Trade has cost the wheat producers of the United States $909,000,000 in the last two months, of which the loss to the farmers of his state approximates $140,000,000. He says this loss has been reflected in a gain to the consumer of barely one ounce of bread in the loaf at the old price. The present grain crop of the country has been sold, or oversold, five or six times by the speculators, with actual deliveries, as a result of their transactions, of about 1 per cent of the grain dealt in.—Christian Science Monitor.

FUTILE FARM CORNERS

There are more than 1,000,000 farms in the great grain regions of the west given to a greater or less extent to the production of wheat, while the membership of the Wheat Growers' association, which has declared a "strike" against the sale of wheat until the price reaches $3 a bushel, does not exceed 70,000 by its own claims.

But this is not the chief reason why the attempt to lift and hold up the wheat market by arbitrary power is doomed to failure. If every wheat grower in the United States were in such an association the failure would be equally certain and pronounced. What attends and follows all pools and corners of numerous memberships would attend and follow this attempt. If, and as the price began to rise in consequence, the members would begin to sell out on one another under a variety of promptings ranging from those of cupidity to those of necessity. The demand for wheat would be put into a waiting attitude and the greater apparent success of the effort the wider would be the advertisement that huge stocks of wheat were accumulating over the market, likely at any moment and certain finally to fall with crushing effect, and the last state of prices would be worse than the first for the cornerers.

It is always so in a free and open market. Economic law is not thus to be overcome or defied. The situation for the average wheat grower may be desperate, though we doubt it. But this is not the way to its correction.—New York World.

Paris is again reporting the breaking down of the soviet government in Russia. But it may be wise to wait for it to break up.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

"SUPERIORITY" LOST

There was once a canny little boy, there is hardly a community in the United States that has not claimed him at some time or other, who is said to have asked his father, or rather scores of him are said to have asked their fathers what "woman suffrage" would be like, and upon having it explained to him by said perent, to have commented: "Why, that will be just like a cat running under the wagon instead of a dog!"

Probably the little boy is one of the long queue standing in line today to register; and doubtless he is chatting to his mother, or sweetheart, or to the unintroduced girl just ahead of him, without any sense of strangeness in the situation at all.

So quickly as all that does baseless prejudice melt away when it has once been pushed out into the sunlight of common sense. The little boy, standing chatting in the line, does not realize, evidently, that the United States has no longer a "superior sex."

The superiority, by the way, was a variable quality, sometimes claimed for the feminine sex, as certain to be lost by standing in line talking to the little boy, and then again, sometimes it was the boy's sex, who must find out about things so as to be able to correctly inform the girl's sex. Today there are no overlords, or ladies!

On the Spur of the Moment

THE JURYWOMAN.

The saddest words of tongue or pen
I mutter like all other men:
"My wife is on the jury."
I must stay home and mind the kids
And do whatever my wife bids,
For she is on the jury.

For when she hears the call of state,
She beats it from the old home plate
In patriotic fury.
And leaves the dishes in the sink,
In years gone by ne'er did I think
That she'd be on a jury.

But she is of judicial mind,
Like all the others of her kind.
I've known that since I wed her.
And judgments rendered from her throne,
And couched in language quite her own,
I never have gainsaid her.

I pity all the lawyers who
Will try to put their theories through
With oratorical fury.
And try to make black look like white.
They'll have to talk all day and night
When my wife's on the jury.

The state had provided an illiterate prisoner, who was in the dock for murder, with a young counsel, who made a most touching appeal on behalf of his poor, helpless client. The young lawyer's speech to the jury was so pathetic that when he sat down the jury was shedding tears and ladies were weeping all over the court.

When counsel resumed his seat the prisoner turned to the deputy sheriff with the query, "Who's that bloke that has been talking?"

"That's your counsel. He has been pleading for your life."

"Ain't he a dismal cove?" said the prisoner.

"BEHOLD MY WIFE!" AT THE MAJESTIC

Hailed by the critics and motion picture public as one of the finest productions of the current season, George Melford's "Behold My Wife" is coming to the Majestic theater today. The story was adapted from Sir Gilbert Parker's novel of the Canadian orthwest, "The Translation of a Savage."

The central characters are the aristocratic son of an English family and the simple Indian girl whom he encounters in Canada while he is on business for the Hudson's Bay company. Receiving word from his fiancee back in England that she has broken with him because of his family's objection to their marriage, the youth, in a fit of rage, marries the Indian girl and sends her back to England as his wife to disgrace his blue-blooded sires. Then he proceeds to hit the toboggan in his own way. However, dramatic events work a transformation in both the young Englishman and his bride and the ending is a happy one.

The action is interpreted by a distinguished cast including Mabel Julienne Scott, Elliott Dexter, Milton Eills, and Ann Forrest. Frank Condon adapted the story to the screen. It is a Paramount picture.

Representative Sumner of Texas seldom tells an old story. So when, recently, he told an exceedingly antiquated yarn, several friends who were with him were greatly surprised. One man in the crowd, however, laughed uproariously at the old story.

After the crowd had dispersed one of Sumner's friends asked him why it was that he spun such an archaic tale.

"I knew there was a fellow in that crowd who wanted a job," Sumner explained, "and I could not exactly determine which one it was. Now I know. It was the man who laughed."

The new quartermaster on the good freighter Sioux was at the wheel and was rattled. First the ship swung madly to port, then to starboard, and then back again, the old skipper stood her antics as long as he could, and then burst forth. CULBERTSON IS G. O. P. ISSUE IN LOCAL VOTE

What strength will the republicans show in this city and Wichita county in the national election today? Locally, this is the outstanding partisan question to be decided today, if inquiry among a large number of representative citizens can be taken as a guide. More particularly the question revolves around the number of votes that will be polled by Jack Culbertson of Wichita Falls, the regular republican candidate for governor. The question of the better schools amendment, though of superior importance to Texas, if not a partisan issue.

That Culbertson will not only poll more votes locally than any other republican candidate in the state's history is conceded by the most ardent of the Neff supporters. His percentage of the total vote will also be higher than that of any previous candidate, they admit. The republican county organization has been most active and the results will probably show at the polls during the day. His supporters claim that he will carry the county and the prediction is not without the realm of the possible. Betting odds, however, are heavily against this overthrow of precedent.

Figures Against Jack.

Figures are also against such an unprecedented result, declare the democrats, and they produce the figures to prove their contention. They point to the number of qualified voters that have paid their poll tax, the democratic primary pledge, and the claim that they will receive at least an even break in the new woman vote. "Jack Culbertson is a strong candidate, but he is not a super-man," they conclude.

As to the figures, the county tax collector states that 8,935 men and women have paid their poll taxes or have received exemption in the entire county. County Clerk Harris is authority for the statement that the figure represents the maximum number of votes that can be polled. His statement was made in answer to a question as to whether women might vote regardless of whether or not they had paid their poll tax.

A court in Harris county recently ruled that the action of the special session of the legislature in allowing women to pay their poll tax did not exclude them from the polls if they failed to take advantage of the opportunity. But the question has never been brought up in any other county, but Harris and the ruling of the attorney general, that the tax must be paid, will govern the local election board today.

Women Vote Estimated Here.

This fact, locally, eliminates to a considerable extent the unknown quantity—the women vote—that has caused politicians considerable worry in other states. Only sixty-six women in the county took advantage of the delayed opportunity to pay poll taxes.

Of the total of 8,935 qualified voters, over 5,000 are "barred" from voting for Culbertson or the rest of the republican ticket by their pledge taken when they voted in the first democratic primary held in July, the democrats claim. This pledge has in times past been observed by those who have taken it.

Republicans emphatically deny that the voter is legally or morally bound by that pledge to vote the democratic ticket today. They point to the unquestioned fact that the state supreme court has ruled the pledge invalid. They claim that a pledge which was taken when it was invalid is not binding morally any more than it is legally.

And then there are democrats who supported Mr. Bailey and who say that they are "going fishing in November."

There remains some 4,500 qualified voters—some women, but mostly men—who did not vote in the primary. The republicans claim that practically all will vote the straight republican ticket, both state and national. If they do, the minority party in the past will still, nevertheless, remain in the minority unless the "pledged" democrats should remain away from the polls today. Therein lies the republican chance of local victory.

If the supporters of Cox and Neff remain away from the polls today in considerable numbers, Jack Culbertson has an outside chance to calling his home city and county on the republican map. Otherwise, history will repeat itself locally.

"STRANGE HOW WOMEN SUFFER"

Says Tennessee Lady, and Will Just Go Suffering, She Says, When Cardui Is Right at Hand.

Caryville, Tenn.—Hoping her experience may benefit others who suffer from disorders common among women, Mrs. Charles Rains, of this (Campbell) county, says: "I had womanly troubles till I couldn't rest, couldn't sleep, and was nervous and suffered a great deal of pain in my head, limbs and back. I would get to the place where I couldn't move without a great effort.

"For years I had known of Cardui and it is strange how a woman will just go on suffering when the best remedy in the world is right at hand—but we do!

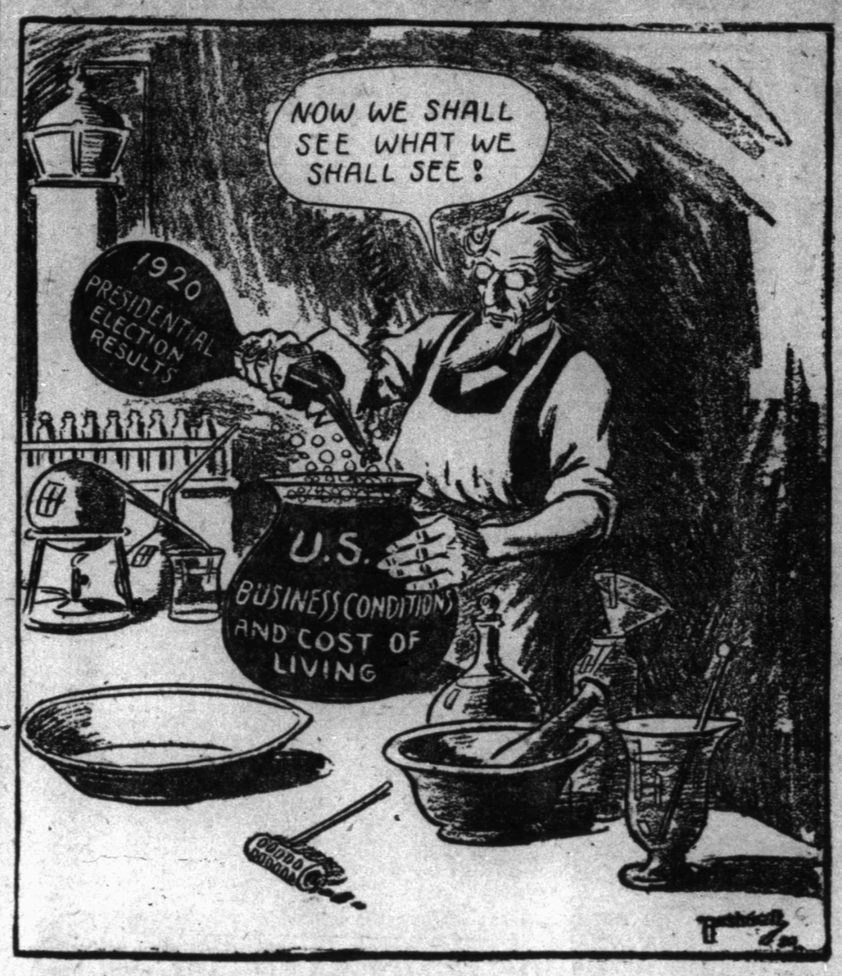

"But finally the pain was worse, my suffering so great I knew I must do something. A friend mentioned Cardui and we sent for it. One bottle helped me.

"I took a course of Cardui, regained my strength, built myself up and felt like a new woman.

"Can I recommend Cardui? Yes, and gladly, for it is a God-send to suffering women. I hope when they suffer with the troubles common to women they don't wait, but get this sure remedy at once."

Any druggist can supply Cardui promptly. Call on yours today.—(Adv.)

THE ACID TEST

"THE LOVE FLOWER" SHOWN AT OLYMPIA

Every time we see a Griffith picture we are compelled to repeat one statement. He is in a class by himself.

One can't help but say it over and over again, after thinking of the Wonderful production, "The Love Flower" which was shown at the Olympic theater last evening where it began a two days engagement.

Here again the greatest of producers has tread on thin soil and with a theme of the love of a daughter for her father, a love that would even have her plot her own death to save him torment, he has treated it with exquisite delicacy and sureness and given it those inimitable touches as only he can do, making of the whole a matchless product of the screen and which compares with greatest favor with all of his former matchless screen stories.

B. F. JOHNSON NAMED RELIEF CHAIRMAN

B. Frank Johnson who has been asked to accept the chairmanship in Wichita county to raise money for millions of children in Eastern Europe has written E. A. Peden, chairman of the American Relief division in Texas, requesting personal appointment with Peden before accepting the position.

The request of Mr. Johnson came from Mr. Peden, at the head of the food conservation program in Texas during the war. Mr. Peden is working under Herbert Hoover, national chairman.

The funds are to be expended for providing food for 3,500,000 in Europe said to be suffering from privation.

PICKS POCKETS WHILE UNDER "THIRD DEGREE"

(By International News Service.)

ATLANTA, Ga.—A robber bolder than Captain Kidd is Will Jordon, according to City Detective T. O. Sturdivant, who accused the man of picking his pockets while under a grilling third degree at the police station recently.

Sturdivant missed some important papers which had been taken from his pockets.

"I knew I had them while talking to Jordon, so I went back and searched him and found them in his pockets," the detective said.

Jordon is charged with having figured in fifteen or more daylight burglaries in Atlanta's fashionable Druid Hills millionaire residential section. Among the articles reported stolen by the man from one house was a bull dog.

8 HOURS WITH THREE SHIFTS FOR PATROLMEN

The eight-hour day with three shifts for patrolmen on the city police force went into effect Monday evening, the first shift of ten patrolmen going to work at 4 p. m. For the present, the eight-hour shift will apply to patrolmen only. The change from the former twelve-hour schedule was made as a result of the efforts of Police Commission Bralley and Chief of Police Huff. On their recommendation the city council recently authorized an increase in the police force to provide for the three shift program.

Whether the eight-hour schedule will eventually apply to the detective force and other departments of the police force has not been decided, according to Chief Huff. The future policy of the police department in that respect will depend to a great extent on the results obtained by the city patrolmen, Mr. Huff declared.

The duties of a patrolman require the men to be on their feet practically all the time and this has been the main reason for their shift being cut to the eight-hour according to police officials.

The new schedule for the patrolmen may necessitate an afternoon session of the police court, according to Police Commissioner Bralley. If possible, this will be avoided, Mr. Bralley declared, but if necessary in order to co-operate with the tri-state schedule it will later be provided for. With the morning session only patrolmen on the four-to-twelve shift are needed as witnesses will have to report during the day.

The police department now has twenty patrolmen affording ten men for each shift. Ten men have been added to the force during the last week, they being selected by Chief of Police Huff from a large number of applicants. The following men have been added to the force: C. W. Criswell, A. E. Bridgewater, R. H. Stearman, J. P. Busby, Sam Elliot, C. W. Jenson, P. C. Taylor, Thomas Shook, H. L. Maybrough, W. J. Butler, C. Brown, Claude Roberts, Alex S. Dechert and J. E. Sullivan.

PETROLEUM ASS'N TO CHANGE BASIC LAW

Changes in the constitution of the Western Petroleum Refiners association, following the admission of Texas into the organization, are to be voted upon at a meeting of the association in Oklahoma City on Friday morning.

Enlargement of the executive committee, provision for a second vice president, and the adoption of special dues for Texan members will be considered. All Texas refiners have been invited.

Vernon Hardware Store is Robbed

Special to Record News

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 1.—Thieves broke into the hardware store of Herring-Showers last night and took merchandise valued at $300, consisting mainly of guns, pocket knives, shells razors and money.

No clue to the perpetuators are available. The Wilson Drug Store at Harrold was robbed the same night, also two stores at Oklaunion. Merchandise was taken at both places. It is thought the burglaries were committed by the same parties.

Manager Transferred

J. E. Frazier, for eight years manager of the local branch of the Southwestern Telephone & Telegraph company has been transferred to the Hillsboro office as manager. The present manager at Hillsboro will succeed Mr. Frazier at Vernon. Mr. Frazier has been manager of the plant at Quanah, Wichita Falls and Vernon.

Youth Is Missing

Frank Cummins, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cummins of the Farmers' Valley community has been missing from home since Saturday a week ago and all efforts to locate the lad has been futile. He was last seen driving a team of mules belonging to his father through Oklaunion. The father and son drove the team to Tolbert, left the team with a friend, and the father came to Vernon by train. During the father's absence, the son called for the team and drove off. No reason can be assigned for the actions of the boy, as he was apparently well satisfied with his home environments.

For Cotton Warehouse

The committee recently appointed to raise the necessary funds to build a cotton warehouse at Vernon report that sufficient funds have been subscribed to build the warehouse and buy the site upon which to erect the warehouse. The building will be sheet iron with concrete floors, providing absolute protection to cotton and other commodities that might be stored in the building from the elements. Work will commence at once on the building.

Teams to Clash

The Vernon and Electra High school football will meet at Electra for gridiron honors. At a game at Vernon, Electra was victorious. In the game Saturday the score was Electra 13, Vernon 7.

Rain Hurts Cotton

Accompanied by a heavy south wind a steady rain set in Saturday afternoon, continuing throughout Sunday. While the rain is helping wheat and other grain crops, it is a detriment to cotton and feed crops ungathered in the fields.

That Evening Smoke Before the Cheerful Fireplace

calls for a real cigar. After a busy day, a "little difference" with "her," or what not that makes this merry old world sometimes strenuous and you need a dependable friend—just try the soothing influence of a WICHITA CLUB. It is both pleasant and satisfying and will not disturb slumbers later on.

Not too strong—not too mild—not too extravagant—not too cheap—just right—that's WICHITA CLUB.

MADE IN CLUBHOUSE AND LADY CLUB STYLES

Where Smokers Congregate

Peter Pippins Predominate

The numerous "calls for this cigar should be sufficient assurance of the satisfaction obtained in our popular Peter Pippin.

The old adage, "Where there's smoke there's bound to be fire" is no exception in this case. If, by any chance, you have not already tried one—the next time you buy a cigar, call for PETER PIPPIN, Two for 25c

PROBABLY YOU TOO ARE AFFLICTED WITH THAT EPIDEMIC "COMMON SENSE" THAT INSPIRES YOU TO CURTAIL EXTRAVAGANCE

You don't "hit on all four" unless you're smoking a good cigar—yet you are still under the impression that there is no such thing as a GOOD 10c cigar. To you we wish to recommend PETERS EXPERIENCE. That's the cigar to back you on your drive on the H. C. of Smoking. Just figure a moment on what you can save in a year by adopting the Peter Experience habit in place of the 15c and 25c cigar. Also "Worthmore"—2 for 15c, is everything its name implies.

COUNTY CLERK RULES ON WHO CAN VOTE HERE

A. W. Harris, county clerk, though making telegraphic inquiries to decide more positively before the polls open today, was uncertain at a late hour Monday whether men more than sixty years of age are exempt from paying poll taxes in this city in order to vote today.

The law provides that they shall be exempt in cities of more than 10,000 inhabitants. As a matter of fact everybory knows that there are more than ten thousand persons living in Wichita Falls. But the legal question is bothering Mr. Harris.

He has received notice from the Bureau of Statistics that there are 40,079 inhabitants in this city. But the notice was "subject to correction." That's the hitch. The only notice finally and definitely received is that of the 1910 census which gave Wichita Falls about eight thousand population, or two thousand less than the required minimum for the exemption to be effective.

If their residence and other qualifications are okey, there is no doubt that discharged soldiers are eligible to vote without paying poll taxes.

In so far as this county goes, women must have their poll taxes to vote, County Clerk Harris said. The injunction granted at Houston which permits women to vote in this election without paying poll taxes, applies legally only to Harris county, where Houston is. The case is on appeal to the higher courts. It is a constitutional question.

No such suit has been brought here. No other judicial district except that at Houston is affected.

The special act regarding registration of women for this election—an act passed at the extra session of the legislature recently—provides for payment of poll taxes by women. And that still rules here, Mr. Harris said.

Mr. Harris added that he had received no ruling from the state attorney general on this subject.

"POINT OF VIEW" AT THE PLAZA TONIGHT

Putting two and two together and getting six, according to modern mathmetics, proves that sometimes a girl may think and believe things that seem so—but are NOT.

Because her family was in temporary financial difficulties, Marjory Thorncroft went to the altar secretly believing that her marriage with David Lawrence was mercenary.

A series of happenings, however, proved otherwise and Marjory awoke one fine day to the fact that really and truly, way down in the bottom of her heart, she loved David Lawrence—and no one else. Of course, David was nice looking.

These are the points made by the plot of "The Point of View," a new Selznick picture starring Elaine Hammerstein at the Plaza tonight.

For a real good smoke, smoke Peters Pippin, two for 25c; Peters Experience, 10c straight; Worthmore, two for 15c. For sale at all cigar stands. Stehlik & Baber, distributors. Phone 2331. 222-224 Bob Waggoner Building.—Adv.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspironal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter If Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle o f Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't b e-bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.
