A Virus In Space

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Doctors again are facing their old nemesis — the common cold, this time in space. And they're not happy about it.

Usually before a launch, astronauts are kept under wraps, their activity limited to the ready room, their meetings with others held to a minimum.

Not so the Appollo 7 trio. They ranged over the Cape Kennedy area. Walter Cunningham went water - skiing. Command Pilot Walter M. Schirra Jr. went hunting. Somewhere along the line they met a cold virus.

Space doctors aren't certain, but they figure Cunningham picked it up somewhere, passed it on to Donn F. Eisele, and it spread then to Schirra who took it into space, and nursed it these last three days.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief astronaut physician, guesses that will be the end of it. Cunningham and Eisele should have some immunity left from their pre - launch bouts with the cold virus.

Of course, that all assumes they had the same virus. If they didn't, Schirra's cold could spread to the other two, but the odds are not great, and doctors are not worried even if it does. It shouldn't interfere with the flight.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Oct. 14, the 288th day of 1968. There are 78 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1066, Normans under William the Conquerer defeated the English at the Battle of Hastings.

On this date in 1644, the founder of Pennsylvania, William Penn, was born in London.

In 1890, the 34th president of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower was born in Denison, Tex.

In 1933, Germany announced it would withdraw from the League of Nations.

In 1939, in World War II, it was disclosed that a German submarine had sunk the British battleship "Royal Oak," killing 800.

In 1944, British and Greek troops liberated Athens from German occupation forces.

In 1947, U.S. Air Force Capt. Charles E. Yeager became the first person to fly faster than the speed of sound. The flight was made in a rocket-powered research airplane at Muroc Air Base in California.

Ten years ago — The threat of a civil war in Lebanon abated as a compromise cabinet was formed, evenly divided between Christians and Moslems.

Five years ago — Algeria charged that Moroccan soldiers had invaded Algeria during a border dispute.

One year ago — U.S. bombers hit a large shipyard and other new targets in the area of Haiphong, North Vietnam.

TAKE REFUGE IN CANAL ZONE — Panamanian President Arnulfo Arias, who took office Oct. 1, took refuge in the U.S. controlled Canal Zone along with his Cabinet. Leaders of the Guard, the country's only military, say they are in complete control of the country in an apparent bloodless coup. (AP Wirephoto)

TWO GUARDSMEN KILLED

Arias Calls For Total War

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer

PANAMA (AP) — Snipers killed two Panama National Guard soldiers in a one-hour battle not far from the presidential palace Sunday night as deposed resident Arnulfo Arias called on his supporters to wage "total war" against the military leaders who overthrew him.

Arias, who took refuge in the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone after the coup Friday night 11 days after he took office, predicted there would be "death and desolation" unless the military chiefs who deposed him "leave the places they control."

Guard spokesmen said two guardsmen were killed and no others wounded in the fighting in the downtown Maranon slum district. But newsmen saw three guardsmen and a civilian hit by gun fire.

A spotter plane circled overhead as guardsmen cleared the area and imposed a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. Crowds were dispersed without difficulty and quiet settled over the city as the curfew went into effect.

The guard is Panama's army.

In a broadcast message taped for a clandestine radio station, Arias said: "The time for action has come. To the streets, men and women of my country. This is the moment for going out on the streets to fight. The order of the day is to take up arms against the little group of military traitors of the fatherland."

Earlier Sunday, Col. Jose M. Pinilla, who led the coup, was sworn in as provisional president and said his government would remain in power only until conditions permit the restoration of civilian authority.

"We do not believe in staying in power indefinitely," he said. "This is but an historical parenthesis which would end as soon as the conditions of law and order are restored."

Pinilla named eight civilians from all three major parties to his cabinet.

The new government said Arias was overthrown because he attempted to "destroy representative democracy." The message said Arias violated the constitution by removing a Supreme Court justice and sought to alter the National Guard's chain of command.

Informed political sources said Arias tried to move too quickly to fill important government and military positions with his own people. These included naming his military aide, Lt. Col. Luis Carlos Diaz Duque, to head the presidential guard, a decision normally made by the National Guard leaders, and the unexpected announcement of Pinilla's retirement after it had been agreed that Pinilla would become the guard's new commander.

Sources said that a few days after his inauguration, Arias met with Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, the guard commandero and other top officers to discuss upcoming command changes.

It was agreed that Pinilla would move up to replace Vallarino and Col. Bolivar Urruti would assume the No. 2 spot. But Thursday Arias announced Pinilla's retirement, after Pinilla had already sent out invitations to a party in honor of his being named guard commander. Urrutia was named by Arias to command the guard. In the new government, Urrutia holds the No. 2 spot.

One source said the guard felt Arias was intent on creating a dictatorship. Other political leaders, including some who backed Arias, said they shared this feeling. There was talk that Arias was packing the Supreme Court and the legislative assembly in his favor.

AN APOLLO 7 FIRST

Live TV From Space

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Flashing a hand-printed sign saying "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming," three smiling Apollo 7 astronauts today performed the first live television show from inside a manned U.S. spaceship.

"It really looks good, I'm amazed," Donald K. Slayton, head of the astronaut office here, radioed to the crew.

The crew turned on the televisios camera at 10:44 a.m. (EDT) as Apollo 7 sped over the southern United States. Pictures at first were snowy, and Slayton reported the signal was "too weak to read."

After the 4½-pound camera warmed up for about two minutes, however, the astronauts could plainly be seen moving inside Apollo 7. The system required a scan-converter to reproduce the pictures.

Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele could clearly be seen laughing as he stood upright wearing his white coveralls inside the spacecraft. Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., remaining on his couch, held up one sign which was difficult to read, but said something like "From the Lovely Apollo on Top of the . . ."

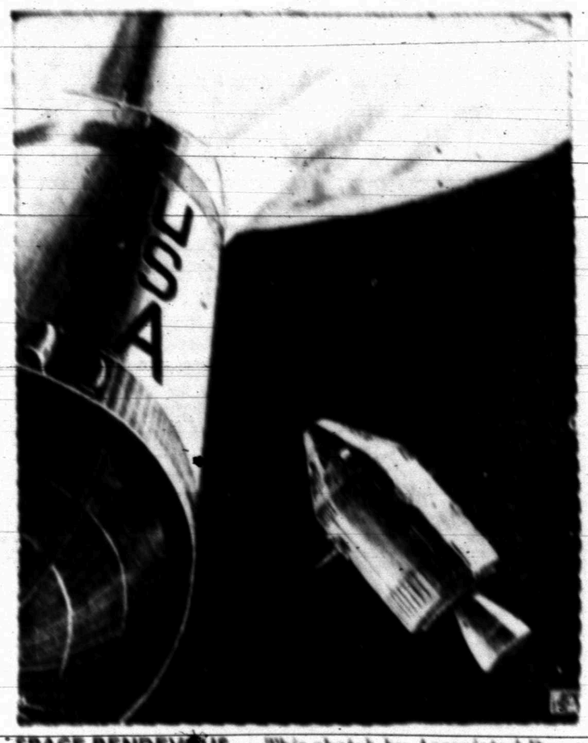

Later, Schirra held up another sign which said, "Keep Those Cards and Letters Coming in Folks."

Holding the camera at the end of its 12-foot cord, one of the astronauts then aimed it out the window to test its ability to see features on earth during the approximately eight-minute transmission.

Walter Cunningham, the civilian member of the crew, was shown only briefly, moving at the left of the screen. It was he who turned the camera on.

Clouds and earth below could be seen, including the Texas-Louisiana coastline. One view also appeared to show the Gulf Coast of Florida as Apollo 7 sped over that state to begin its 46th orbit as the televised show ended.

Schirra, who refused to switch on the camera during the first scheduled telecast Saturday, originally criticized the camera as being an "inferior product." But project officials today said the picture was far clearer than what occurred in previous tests on earth.

Wallace Sets Forth Platform

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — George C. Wallace has set forth his American Independent party platform which he says is designed to restore U.S. leadership abroad and provide relief at home from "turmoil, frustration and confusion."

The former Alabama governor said Sunday in San Francisco he would spend the last three weeks of his presidential campaign bringing the message of the 13,000-word platform to Americans.

In the platform, he asserted that the "root causes" of crime and disorder in the cities "are to be found in the apparent absence of respect for law . . . and the unexplainable compassion for the criminal evidenced by our executive and judicial officers and officials."

His program for cities calls for relocation of "those totally unfitted by training, background and environment for urban living who have been lured to the metropolitan areas by wholly false promises."

Wallace explained his platform before an audience of 10,000 that filled about two-thirds of San Francisco's Cow Palace and gave him an enthusiastic response.

The only dissent came from 300 noisy hecklers. There were no arrests.

Czech Brass Returns To Moscow

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

PRAGUE (AP) — Premier Oldrich Cernik went back to Moscow today for more talks with Soviet leaders.

Radio Prague said Cernik would "discuss some of the questions which are the result of the Moscow Protocol" between Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union. This is the Aug. 26 agreement providing for a gradual withdrawal of occupation troops from Czechoslovakia as Soviet demands for reversal of the liberalization trend in Czechoslovakia are met.

Cernik and Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek committed Czechoslovakia to sign such a treaty in their visit to Moscow Oct. 3-4, but considerable opposition to it has been reported from workers and trade union groups.

Dubcek said in a speech Friday night that the only realistic course for the occupied country is to carry out the Kremlin's conditions.

It is the fourth mission to Moscow by Cernik since the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20-21 to halt the Czechoslovak experiment in reforming communism.

In the continuing argument between Prague and Moscow, the Soviet leaders are reported insisting that certain old guard Communists be given in influential posts in the Czechoslovak party and the country's information media.

FCA CIRCULATES PETITIONS HERE

Higher TV Morals Sought

The Snyder Fellowship of Christian Athletes Huddle will conduct a city - wide drive Tuesday evening for signatures in support of a drive to influence improved programming on network television shows.

Persons who wish to sign the petitions are asked to turn on their porch lights between the hours of 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Tuesday. FCA members from the Snyder High School Huddle will be making the rounds with petitions at that time and they will stop at houses where the porch lights are burning.

The caption of the petition reads as follows:

"We the undersigned citizens of the United States of America, deploring the lowering of moral standards which has taken place in our nation, and hoping to see a reversal of the increase in crime rate in the country, especally among the nation's youth, and realizing the tremendous influence television has on our young people, respectfully request that NBC, CBS and ABC networks and all network sponsors, take the following steps in program planning and programming:

"1. Sharply decrease the planning and showing of programs depicting violence and sadism.

"2. Increase the planning and showing of more character building programs for our youth.

"3. Complete eliminate from showing on television all 'For Adults Only' type movies."

The campaign for improved TV programming began during the summer when an organization known as "Christians United For Responsible Entertainment (CURE) was formed in Knoxville Tenn.

Subsequently, officials of television networks advised that they were seeking to de-emphasize violence on television shows for the 1968-69 season. However, the petitions such as those to be circulated by the FCA here, are expected to bolster the appeal and to provide support for the television executives themselves in their pledge of less volence on the electronic screens.

Turning on porch lights will aid the FCA youths here in collecting signatures on petitions, said Roy Carter sponsor of the SHS Huddle of FCA.

"We know our boys can't stop at every house in town, but those who indicate they want to sign petitions by leaving their porch lights on will be given the opportunity to sign."

Shoplifting Case Expands To Big Area

The arrest of two shoplifting suspects here last Friday apparently clears what police describe as the biggest case of shoplifting in Texas criminal history.

"We've recovered over $10,000 worth of stolen property," said Snyder Chief of Police Stephen Clark.

Recovery of the property was made following a search of the house of one of the suspects — Hipolito Perez, 30, 706 Fisher, Sweetwater. A warrant for the search was obtained in City Court in Sweetwater by Chief Clark, Detective Captain Bobby Goodwin, Sweetwater Police Chief Walter Eubanks and Texas Ranger Gene Graves. All of these officers participated in the search.

Clark said the arrest of Perez and a 17 - year - old female cousin clears shoplifting offenses "from Dallas to El Paso and from Lubbock to San Angelo." He was charged with a felony offense of shoplifting in City Court here last Friday and Judge Gene Dulaney set bond at $5,000. The suspect is being held in County Jail here, without bond, however, for parole violation. He had served 18 months on a 5 - year term for forgery, officers said.

The juvenile was turned over to Juvenile authorities here.

"He (Perez) hit six places in a two - hour period here — we've recovered $300 worth of property," said Clark.

Officers said two trucks and two police cars were required to carry the recovered property to a bonded warehouse in Sweetwater where it is being held. Several businessmen from Snyder were to go to Sweetwater this afternoon to determine if they can identify property taken from their businesses.

Most of the property recovered is clothing. Included were 300 to 400 pairs of slacks, 75 to 100 belts, and over 200 neckties.

"The shelves of a garage behind his (Perez') house was just loaded with property," Clark declared.

300 At Firemen's Convention Here

Some 300 persons representing 17 different area fire departments were present for the 60th semi-annual meeting of the Mid-West Texas Firemen and Fire Marshall's Association, held Saturday in Snyder.

Most of the activities, including a barbecue and dance Saturday night, were held at the Scurry County Coliseum.

George Killam, county attorney, was main speaker for the occasion. He praised the firemen for their "courage, bravery and dedication to duty."

Killam said that each letter in the word "fireman" stands for a lofty idea — F for faith, I for integrity, R for responsibility, E for endeavor, M for mankind, A for awareness and N for nobility.

Presiding over the gathering was G. L. Autry, Snyder Fireman, who is president of the association. The host Snyder Department was represented by 10 regular firemen, about 25 volunteers, and their families.

Mayor Bobby McCormick, gave the welcome address. Other Snyder residents appearing on the program were Ann Yielding, Rev. John Bollinger, Floyd Allmand, and Fire Chief Alfred Kohl.

The Snyder pumper team, 2-man and 6-man teams "set the pattern" at the special races held near the City Hall Saturday afternoon.

By mid - morning today, contributions and pledges totalled $15,304.06.

Teachers Strike New York Schools

By BERNIE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The United Federation of Teachers, saying some instructors had been threatened and terrorized in a predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican school district in Brooklyn, struck the nation's largest public school system today for the third time in six weeks.

The union's leader, Albert Shanker, said "this one could be a long one."

Shanker, who asked for and got a strike vote from his union membership Sunday night, told newsmen today that "acts of terrorism and violence have taken place" at Junior High School 271 in Brooklyn's Ocean Hill-Brownsville community school district.

"A Negro assistant principal has been terrorized," Shanker said, "and teachers have been locked up in rooms and told they were going to be killed—and the mayor (John V. Lindsay) refused to do anything about it."

He said parents and other teachers "fear their schools are going to be next."

Three policemen were shot and wounded on duty outside a school in the district Sunday night, as union members were voting strike authorization several miles away in Manhattan.

The shots came from a tenement rooftop.

More than a dozen patrol cars searched the neighborhood in the racially tense district, and 30 detectives launched a door-to-door, cellar-to-backyard search for a man of about 24 believed to be the sniper. He was the object of a citywide alert.

The teacher strike in the nation's biggest public school system—1.1—million pupils—was the third unscheduled student holiday since the school year began last month.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 44-year-old bachelor. I'm perfectly normal, enjoy the company of women occasionally, but I am not looking for any matrimonial involvements. I live alone in a modest bungalow and enjoy my privacy.

My problem is a very aggressive divorcee who moved in next door. She's not bad looking but she comes on awfully strong. She is a rip-roaring Republican from way back and a big Nixon booster. She started in the usual neighborly manner. If she sees a light in my place she runs over, bringing prepared meals, and an armful of Nixon literature for me to read. She's even offered to cook for me, and do my ironing, but I'm not about to fall into that trap. When she's not talking about Nixon, she's talking about marriage.

Last week I had it, so I moved my refrigerator, stove, and TV down to the basement so she won't know if I'm home, so now she telephones me! What should I do?

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NAT: Tell her you're going to vote for Hubert and move back upstairs.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I live in a town where recently a couple who had been married 10 years got a divorce. They weren't divorced 2 months when they decided to get married (to each other) again.

Now I'm all in favor of people getting back together, but I think it should be done quietly.

This couple had a big church wedding with best man, bridesmaids, and the whole works. They even had a picture and write-up in the newspaper, and when they took off for their honeymoon, their car was all decorated with "JUST MARRIED" signs.

I think this is real asinine. People are laughing behind their backs. A friend of mine says she doesn't see anything wrong with it. To settle an argument, what is your opinion?

HOLBROOK

DEAR HOLBROOK: The sign on the honeymoon car should have read: "JUST REMARRIED." That's my opinion.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I can sympathize with the lady who nearly fainted when her little 4-year old wanted to buy some "SEX-APPEAL" at the tooth paste counter.

Color television commercials are even worse. My 2-year-old granddaughter walked right into the TV set and tried to take a donut off the plate.

I spent an hour driving around all over town to find some fresh donuts for her.

Another time she saw someone with a bruised eye and said, "O, you'd rather fight than switch."

NO NAME IN TAFT, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 10-year-old boy, and I don't have anybody to play with. I asked my mother to get me a brother or even a sister, but she told me not to bother her.

I told her I would be satisfied with a dog, but she said a dog is too much trouble. I had a rabbit once, but it died.

Is there some way I can get my mother to let me have a dog?

LENNY

DEAR LENNY: If your mother's only objection to a dog is the "trouble," write out an "agreement," stating you will take the dog for walks regularly, see that it's fed, and do everything you can to relieve your mother of the work of owning and training a dog. Then sign it. It's worth a try.

Many Return For Second Viet Tour

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, the Army and Marines are sending thousands of men back for involuntary second tours to Vietnam.

The Army plans to return about 18,000 this year, the Marines some 6,000.

Until this year, the number of nonvolunteers ordered to a second round of war service has amounted only to a trickle.

But this has changed because of the length of the war, the high manpower turnover stemming from the one-year duty tour in Vietnam, and the tight supply of seasoned officers and noncommissioned officers.

Many career servicemen also are becoming eligible for involuntary second tours in Vietnam because they have been away from the war zone for at least two years.

The Army, Marines and Navy had set that as the hoped-for interval between tours, although some exceptions had been made in such scarce skills as helicopter pilots. The Air Force has had no specific interval policy, but has tried to give everybody a turn before tapping men for second tours.

The involuntary second tour trend will affect career servicemen rather than draftees because young men serving two-year draft hitches may not be returned to the war.

The Army contingent will include 4,950 officers mostly in the captain-major-lieutenant colonel bracket, and 12,900 enlisted men, chiefly senior noncommissioned officers.

The Marine returnees will include 1,000 officers and 5,000 enlisted men.

Between them, the Army and the Marine Corps account for about 80 per cent of the 540,500 American servicemen in Vietnam.

With a 50,000-man-a-month turnover, the Army and Marines have the biggest problem in maintaining a flow of key officers and noncoms to Southeast Asia.

King Croesus Workshop Discovered

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A workshop where King Croesus had his gold refined has been discovered at Sardis, Turkey, by members of an American archeological expedition.

The find, announced by Harvard University, was a refinery where pure gold was extracted and treated during the time when Croesus, the last king of Lydia in Asia Minor, made Sardis a byword for wealth and introduced the system of coinage into the marts of the civilized world.

The worshop was uncovered on the Pactolus Torrent, which according to the historian Herodotus, was famous in antiquity for its gold-bearing sands.

Croesus reigned from 560 B.C. to 546 B.C.

The scientists, representing Harvard, Cornell, and other universities, excavated the area inch by inch, recovering numerous tiny bits of refined gold—droplets, foil and gold leaf exhibiting traces of processing and working. They also recovered fragments of crucibles, blowpipe nozzles, and other gold-working apparatus.

One Hurt In Mishap At Circle Here

Billie Lewis, 23, 211 E. James, Hermleigh, sustained minor injuries in a two-vehicle collision at the East Traffic Circle at the intersection of State Highways 208 and 180 at 7 p.m. Sunday. She was taken by private vehicle to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and later released.

Investigating City Police Patrol Sergeant D'Wayne Jernigan and Patrolman D. D. Tullis said she was a passenger in a vehicle operated by James Clenton Lewis, of the same address. Damage to his ½-ton 1964 Model Ford truck was estimated at $350.

Damage to the other vehicle, a 1964 Model Plymouth operated by John Raymond Clements, Flagstaff, Ariz., was placed at $800.

Three other passengers were not injured.

Actress Refuses To Disrobe For Film

LONDON (AP) — Blonde actress Sarah Atkinson, 23, says she won't strip nude to portray a sex orgy in a new play called "Hank's Night."

She says her director "cannot insist that I take off my bra and panties unless he wants to fire me. I was asked to strip completely but I was quite adamant that I would not."

"I asked Miss Atkinson to remove her underclothes only because that is what the script requires," says the American director, Charles Marowitz.

Short Course On Livestock At Fluvanna

FLUVANNA — A beef cattle short course for farmers, under sponsorship of the Fluvanna Young Farmers, will begin at 8 o'clock tonight at the vocational agriculture building at the Fluvanna School.

A series of meetings will be held at the same hour, with W. W. (Bill) Holtzsapple, beef production specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and Department of Animal Science at Texas A&M University, to be the instructor.

Holtzapple is a graduate of Texas A&M, where he majored in agricultural education with most of his work done in livestock production.

He taught vocational agriculture at Hearne for a year and served as county agricultural agent for nine years in San Augustine County. This is his third year with the special program. He has had considerable experience in working with beef cattle and operated his own farm with beef cattle and poultry as the main enterprise. Holtzapple also has worked with commercial and registered breeders and has carried on an active education program in beef cattle production.

While the short course is in progress, Holtzapple will be available to assist cattlemen with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Bill Jennings, vocational agriculture teacher at Fluvanna High School.

Registration fee for the short course is $2 per person.

Tremors In Australia

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A severe earthquake hit a wide area around Perth this morning, but first reports said the only casualties were persons cut by broken windows and crockery.

A second and less severe tremor occurred an hour later in Perth.

Buildings rocked and shuddered, and many developed cracks.

The roof of one hotel collapsed and police cordoned off some Perth streets.

Electrical service was also disrupted.

The first tremor lasted about 20 seconds. People ran screaming from their homes in the confusion.

But he loves baseball, too, and "warms up" for computer classes by doing cartwheels.

was the Haskell team with a time of 21.1 seconds. Merkel was runnerup with 23 seconds while Rotan was third with 77). In the 6-man race, Haskell was first with a time of 14.2 seconds. Rotan and Merkel tied for second with a 14.6 timing. However, in the runoff, Rotan was timed in 14.2 for second place while Merkel's 14.6 was good enough for third. Haskell also was tops in the 2-man race with a 12 flat timing. Runnerup was Roby with 15.4, while Rotan was third with 15.5.

Although the Snyder teams could not officially compete in the races, they set the pattern in each race and were clocked at 13 seconds in the punter race and 14.5 seconds in the 6-man race.

Trophies were presented to the top three teams in each race.

Members voted to hold the October meeting next year at Haskell. The spring meeting will be held in April at Baird.

Out of town guests were from Anson, Baird, Clyde, Colorado City, Hamlin, Haskell, Merkel, Roby, Rochester, Rotan, Stamford, Loraine, Lubbock, Vega, Jayton, Imperial and Waco.

Rehearse For First Play

HOUSTON (AP) — A cast of 25 rehearsed today for the opening performance in the nearly completed Alley Theatre, a $3.1 million building with two stages.

The new Alley was dedicated Sunday to Nina Vance, who founded the theater 21 years ago and has remained as its principal director.

The six-story structure in the center of Houston, will open Nov. 26 for Betrolt Brecht's "Galileo" on the main stage of the 800-seat auditorium.

W. McNeil Lowry, vice president of the Ford Foundation, told the audience Sunday that this country must adopt a policy to support the arts.

"The facts are plainly that the economic crisis of the arts has lasted overlong. . .and that only a national policy in support of the arts can alleviate the continuing erosion of our cultural resources and of the personal vitality of many key artistic producers," Lowry said.

"The problem is not to 'sell' the Congress" a fine arts program, he said. "The problem is to understand that in relative terms the United States, which helps to develop other countries, is an 'underdeveloped country' in the arts. . ."

The Ford Foundation gave the new Alley a $2.1 million grant, largest ever received by a resident professional theater.

Depression Intensifies

MIAMI (AP) — A tropical depression hovering for several days over the northwest Carribbean intensified today. The National Hurricane Center said it could grow into a tropical storm within 24 hours.

Squalls with winds gusting to 40 miles hit at Jamaica and Cuba as the depression began moving northwest at 10 m.p.h. Pressures were falling.

A weather pilot took off at 10:30 a.m. for an early afternoon flight into the disturbance.

The depression was centered near latitude 17.0 North, longitude 82.5 west, 50 miles off the northeast tip of British Honduras and 100 miles southeast of Swan Island.

"Although no strong surface winds have yet been observed," the Hurricane Center said, "conditions are such that if pressures continue to fall a tropical storm could form within 24 hours."

Continuance on its present course would take the disturbance toward the Yucatan Channel leading into the Gulf of Mexico.

RADICAL STUDENT GROUP

To Destroy 'American Myth'

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Members of the Students for a Democratic Society, saying they intend to "destroy the myth of American democracy," are planning a nationwide student strike and big city demonstrations coinciding with the Nov. 5 presidential election.

Offfcers of the radical organization meet today to work out details of the plan outlined in a four-page resolution adopted by the SDS' national council at a weekend conference on the University of Colorado campus.

The SDS objective, said one officer, Tim McCarthy, "is not so much to disrupt the election, but to show the fraudulent nature of the election. We're going to destroy the myth of American democracy."

Besides calling for "a national strike of high school and college students on Nov. 4 and 5" and for "large militant SDS regional demonstrations in major cities," the resolution adopted Sunday:

—Declared "elections are a fraud because they foster the illusion that people have democratic power over the major institutions of society. In fact, jails, courts, schools, factories, and army, and the election process itself are controlled by a ruling class."

—Demand immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam. "We support the people's war in Vietnam" the resolution said. "We support people's liberation struggles throughout the world."

—Called for an end to "racism," adding: "We affirm the right of black people to defend and liberate themselves by any means necessary. We demand that the police be disarmed."

Bernardine Dohrn, one of SDS' three national secretaries, said there will be student demonstrations "in at least six, eight or ten" major cities as the presidential campaign draws to a close. She mentioned New York, Milwaukee, Boston, Chicago, Washington and Los Angeles, but said no firm sites had been selected.

Another resolution adopted by the conference, attended at times by upwards to 1,000 SDS members and nonmembers, promised stepped up efforts to organize SDS chapters in high schools.

As council delegates from chapters across the nation departed the Colorado campus, a controversy lingered over the SDS' treatment of reporters and photographers covering the weekend sessions.

Television cameramen, newspaper photographers and radio newsmen with tape recorders were bodily ejected from a student union building meeting hall in a brief shouting and shoving match with SDS members Saturday.

Saying they feared a repeat of the scuffle, university officials agreed to SDS demands that cameras and tape recorders be barred from the meetings. Gov. John Love, saying he deplored the situation created on the campus by the SDS, called for the university to re-examine its policies toward such groups as SDS.

The SDS responded Sunday by adopting a motion to censure Love for his views.

Doctors To Hear Snyderites' Son

Dr. Stanley Lightfoot of Dallas, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Lightfoot of Snyder has been named to speak to the American College of Clinical Pathologists at Miami Beach, Fla.

His topic will be "Cirrhosis Following Jejunocecostomy in the Treatment of Obesity."

Dr. Lightfoot is in his third year of specialized training at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, where he has been elected president of the resident doctors.

Appeals Issued To News Media

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's news media was urged today to head off unfair last-minute political attacks by refusing to publicize any new issues raised during the last five days before election.

The Fair Campaign Practices Committee urged newspapers, and radio and television stations to reject both stories and paid political advertisements raising late issues.

If new political attacks must be reported during that period, the committee said, newsmen should be required to make every possible effort to report the answer at the same time.

The committee sent to all news media a study it has made of the use of political smear attacks in the closing days of a campaign and the methods some publications and broadcasting stations have used to deal with them.

The study disclosed that the chief method is to alert news staffs to watch for questionable attacks by campaigners during the final stages of the campaign.

About half the organizations replying to the committee's questionnaire have a cut-off date after which no new charges are publicized, but in most cases the cut-off applies only to advertising, not news stories.

The committee said it was the opinion of many editors that alert, informed newsmen were the only safeguard against last-minute abuses by political campaigners.

Strike Threatens At LTV Electrosystems

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Workers at LTV Electrosystems in Arlington voted Sunday to strike if an agreement is not reached with the company by Oct. 21, union officials said.

The workers, represented by United Aerospace Workers, Local 848, voted almot 100 per cent officials said. Union negotiaters rejected a company offer Sunday.

The strike would affect about 20,000 workers in the North Texas area. Company officials said more talks are planned today.

Nation To Honor Ike On Birthday

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower turned 78 today, celebrating along with a nation that will honor him throughout the week.

The five-star general, still a patient at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, has been rated as having made a "miraculous" comeback so far from a mid-August heart attack —perhaps the worst of seven he's suffered since 1955.

The word "miraculous" was used recently by Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the army surgeon general, to describe Eisenhower's recovery.

There was no advance word on any birthday celebration plans at the hospital itself where Eisenhower, for some time now, has been allowed to sit up in a chair for about a half hour several times a day.

But, in effect, the country began celebrating the old warrior's birthday Sunday—the beginning of "America's Salute To Eisenhower Week," as proclaimed by President Johnson Sept. 14.

President Johnson, on the day he issued the proclamation, said America "has always spoken with one voice and affection for a beloved leader — Eisenhower.

"Dwight David Eisenhower," he said, "led us bravely in war. He served us devotedly and well in peace.

"Always he committed the gifts of his heart and the wisdom of his leadership to the strength of America's unity. Throughout his lifetime of duty, he has shown us the qualities that we admire most in our fellow man, the qualities of greatness that run deep in the spirit and the history of America—honor, courage, compassion, integrity."

Johnson paid another tribute to Eisenhower Sunday when he signed a bill—"on behalf of a grateful nation"—authorizing up to $5 million in matching grants to Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

The liberal arts school was founded in 1965 as a living memorial to the former chief executive.

Humphrey Reserves Prime TV Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has reserved one hour of prime television time for next Sunday night and has invited Richard M. Nixon and George C. Wallace to share it with him in a three-way debate.

Humphrey made the announcement in telegrams Sunday to Republican Nixon and American Independent Wallace and offered to foot the entire bill.

The Democratic presidential candidate said the time was reserved with the Columbia Broadcasting System from 10 to 11 p.m.

President Critical Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson returned to the capital today after ending a Texas weekend the way it began —criticizing Congress.

Reluctantly signing a bill providing a one-year extension for government subsidies for merchant vessels built in U.S. shipyards, Johnson lamented Sunday that Congress had not adopted his plans to restructure and revitalize U.S. merchant marine policy.

After more than 30 years of subsidy, Johnson said, "the United States finds itself with an outmoded merchant fleet whose survival is almost wholly dependent on continued and ever-increasing federal support."

He decried "piecemeal legislation" in this field and called on the next Congress "to get on with the vital task we have placed before it" to launch a completely new maritime program.

The bill was one of 25 Johnson signed over the weekend. One of them was a farm bill he signed during the flight to Texas Friday and which prompted him to accuse Congress of sweeping farm problems under the rug.

The President, his daughter, Luci Nugent, and 16-month-old grandson, Lyn, went to Texas Friday night after a visit to former President Harry S. Truman in Independence, Mo.

Mrs. Johnson had remained in Washington, with the Johnsons' older daugbter, Mrs. Charles S. Robb, who is expecting her first baby late this month.

Poll Says McLain Best

NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion Detroit Tigers and the Chicago Cubs each have placed two men on the major league all-star team as selected in the annual Associated Press poll:

Denny McLain, baseball's first 31-game winner in 37 yards, and catcher Bill Freehan are the Tigers voted to the team. The Cubs had half the infield—second baseman Glenn Beckert and third baseman Ron Santo.

The rest of the infield has Willie McCovey of San Francisco at first and California's Jim Fregosi at short. Pete Rose of Cincinnati, Curt Flood of St. Louis and Boston's Carl Yastrzemski make up the outfield while Dave McNally of Baltimore is the left-handed pitcher.

Rose received the most votes, 169 out of 214, while Fregosi edged Bert Campaneris of Oakland in the closest battle 65-58.

McLain received 112 votes for right-handed pitcher to 100 for St. Louis' Bob Gibson. The voting was conducted on the basis of the regular season.

Besides Gibson and Campaneris, the second team has Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets as the left-handed pitcher, Johnny Bench of Cincinnati the catcher, Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs at first, Cincinnati's Tommy Helms at second and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore at third.

The outfield is Frank Howard of Washington, Willie Horton of Detroit and Ken Harrelson of Boston.

Gary Wins Despite Fans

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — Gary Player won the fifth World Match Play Golf Championship Sunday before a gallery that cheered for the little South African's opponent.

Player beat left-hander Bob Charles of New Zealand 1-up over 36 holes in the final.

He got into his final match with Charles by defeating Tony Jacklin of England with a birdie 4 on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff earlier in the day.

Player and Jackin were tied Friday after 36 holes, and play was rained out Saturday.

The large galleries cheered loudly for Jacklin throughout the match.

Rams Beat Packers, Cowboys Best Eagles

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bart Starr hurt himself and the Green Bay Packers by warming up the regular way. Maybe he should have tried Sonny Jurgensen's method.

Starr pulled a muscle in his passing arm while warming up Sunday and then stood on the sidelines as the Packers lost 16-14 to the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams for their third defeat in five National Football League games.

Jurgensen, weakened by a severe cold, slept in a storage room for two hours before the game, then went out and threw two touchdown passes in leading the Washington Redskins to a 16-13 victory over Pittsburgh, 0-5.

The victory lifted the Redskins above the .500 mark at 3-2 and moved them to within a game of the New York Giants in the Capital Division. The Giants, 4-1, fell out of a first-place tie with Dallas by being upset 24-21 by Atlanta, 1-4, while the Cowboys were trouncing Philadelphia, 0-5, 34-14.

Los Angeles, by boosting its record to 5-0, kept pace in the Coastal Division with the Baltimore Colts who smashed San Francisco 42-14.

In other NFL action, Detroit moved into a tie for the Central Division lead at 3-2 with Minnesota by downing Chicago, 1-4, 28-19 as Minnesota was upset by New Orleans 20-17 and St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21.

New Orleans, Cleveland and St. Louis share the Century Division lead with 2-3 records.

In the American Football League Sunday, Denver upset the New York Jets 21-13, San Diego surprised Oakland 23-14, Kansas City topped Cincinnati 13-3 and Houston blanked Boston 16-0. Buffalo and Miami tied 14-14 Saturday night.

Bruce Gossett's 27-yard field goal, his third of the game, came four plays after Packer corner back Herb Adderley was called for interference against Jack Snow, giving the Rams a first down on the Green Bay 25.

One of three interceptions against Zeke Bratkowski, Starr's replacement set up Los Angeles' touchdown in the third period. Willie Ellison scored it from the one. Donnie Anderson ran four yards for a Packer score in the second period and Tom Brown put Green Bay ahead 14-13 by returning a punt 52 yards.

Jurgensen threw a 17 yard scoring strike to Jerry Smith in the opening period, and, then with the Redskins trailing Pittsburgh 10-9 in the third period, he escaped being tackled in the end zone to launch a 96-yard drive which he climaxed with a 49-yard pass to Smith.

Atlanta got its upset of the Giants when Lee Calland intercepted a Fran Tarkenton pass in the end zone with 1:16 left. The pass came on a third-and-one foot situation on the Atlanta 12. Tarkenton did throw three touchdown passes but they could not offset three Atlanta scores on runs and a field goal by Bob Etter.

Don Meredith threw two touchdown passes as Dallas marched past Philadelphia. Kicker Sam Baker faked a punt and passed 58 yards for one Philadelphia touchdown.

Earl Morrall hit two scoring strikes for Baltimore and John Unitas, making his first appearance of the season, threw one. Preston Pearson got the Colts started by returning the opening kickoff 96 yards for a touchdown.

Mel Farr rambled for 138 yards, caught six passes for 72 more and scored three touchdowns to spark Detroit over Chicago.

In the National League, Los Angeles tipped Green Bay 16-14, Dallas stomped Philadelphia 34-14, New Orleans upended Minnesota 20-17, Atlanta surprised the New York Giants 24-21, St. Louis beat Cleveland 27-21, Detroit slugged Chicago 28-10, Baltimore hammered San Francisco 42-14, and Washington nudged Pittsburgh 16-13.

Booster Club Meets Monday

The Tiger Booster Club meeting for tomorrow (Tuesday) night has been moved up to 7:30 p.m.

The group will meet in the high school cafeteria to see films of the Snyder-Colorado City game and hear scouting reports on this week's opponent — Sweetwater.

President Vonnie Black reminded all members that Homecoming is being planned this week, and he urged everyone to support the team in its annual battle against Sweetwater.

Coach Wayne Tyrone reported that a few of the boys were nursing sore muscles and bruises following the game Friday night, but that he expected everyone to be ready for Sweetwater.

Is '68 Year Of The Raiders?

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Writer

Would you believe the year of the Red Raiders?

This prospect loomed larger than ever today after Texas Tech kept history from repeating by holding off a frantic Texas A&M surge to retain a 21-16 victory in a crucial Southwest Conference football contest.

Saturday's victory gave Tech two big ones in the conference—the other was over Texas—and a share of the lead with Arkansas, also 2-0 in the league after a 35-19 triumph over winless Baylor.

Southern Methodist's aerial show continued to draw raves as the Ponies struck late to defeat Texas Christian 21-14 and Texas put together a desperate drive in the closing minutes to whip Oklahoma 20-16 in other weekend games.

Any suggestion that the Raiders are on the downhill grade to the Cotton Bowl brings a hasty reminder from Tech Coach J. T. King that the Raiders are sticking by their motto: "Take 'em one at a time."

King has a point. Although the Raiders have been successful at Hog-killing time the past two seasons, Mr. Arkansas Razorback is growing fatter with victories each Saturday.

The Hogs, now 4-0, get their big test this week against the rejuvenated Texas Longhorns, who now may be equipped to trim the Razorbacks down. If they don't, it may be up to Tech on Nov. 23.

The showdown between Texas Tech and A&M was almost like watching film of the 1967 game in Lubbock when the Aggies scored on the final play for a scrambling victory.

Edd Hargett, the magician in the Aggies' conquest last fall, connected on a 37-yarder to Tommy Maxwell to the Tech 37 but Maxwell fumbled and the Raiders recovered. End of rerun.

The Arkansas-Baylor fray also produced a few scary moments for the Razorbacks, whose lead shrank to only three points in the fourth quarter.

The Bears surged from an early 21-0 deficit to trail 21-19 before the Hogs pulled away, scoring their final touchdown with 11 seconds to go.

SMU proved itself worthy of a contender role in its come-from-behind victory over TCU, which ran and passed for a 14-3 halftime lead.

Chuch Hixson got cranked up in the second half and Jerry Levias' 89-yard punt return for a touchdown to successfully open the Mustangs conference campaign. They're 3-1 for the season.

The Texas victory couldn't been sweeter for the Longhorns and their coach, Darrell Royal, who said after the game that some campus factions were "out to get me."

Asked about his game plan, Royal said: "If I said I didn't have one, I'd be crazy—they're after me down there anyway."

Texas' victory also served notice that the Longhorns—despite an early conference loss to Tech—still may have something to say about the title.

It was the Longhorn's passing, of all things, that produced the game-deciding touchdown. Newly installed quarterback James Street took the 'Horns downfield on three passes to Daryl Comer in the waning moments.

Steve Worster ran 13 yards and then went in for the score from seven yards out.

This week Rice is at SMU, TCU is at A&M, Arkansas is at Texas and Texas and Tech entertains Mississippi State.

Broncos Steal 5 Passes, Rip Jets

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

So it's impossible to get through a 14-game season unbeaten. Joe Namath just wants to get through two games unintercepted.

The New York Jets golden arm is still having trouble telling the good guys from the bad guys and that little problem has kept the Jets from pulling away in the Eastern Division of the American Football League.

For the second time in three weeks, Namath had five passes stolen, and for the second time in three weeks, the Jets bowed to a heavy underdog. This time it was a 21-13 loss to lowly Denver Sunday.

The defeat dropped the Jets to 3-2 and kept Boston snapping on their heels despite a 16-0 loss to Houston, which climbed back into the chase. Boston is 2-3 and Houston, the defending division champion, 2-4.

Oakland, on the other hand, lost for the first time in 15 games, dropping a 23-14 decision to San Diego, which not only dropped the Chargers from the unbeaten, but plopped them out of first place in the Western Division.

The Chargers relinquished the lead to Kansas City as the Chiefs raised their record to 5-1 with a hard-fought 13-3 victory over Cincinnati. Oakland fell to a second place tie with San Diego at 4-1.

Miami and Buffalo tied 14-14 Saturday night in the only other game as Buffalo's Dan Darragh pitched a three-yard scoring pass to Gary McDermott with 18 seconds left and then McDermott caught a two-point conversion pass from Ed Rutkowsky.

"I stink," said a disgusted Namath, who was intercepted five times two weeks ago in an upset loss to Buffalo and then threw only to teammates in last week's victory over San Diego.

"When he's good," said Bronco defensive tackle Dave Costa, "He's great. But when he's bad, he's terrible."

Only one of the interceptions led to Denver points, but they cut short most of New York's offensive hopes.

Namath did manage 20 completions in 41 throws for 341 yards and his 60-yarder to Don Marynard tied up New York's only touchdown.

He had one final chance after passing the Jets 82 yards to Denver's three-yard line with six seconds left. But his last pass on fourth down hit the goal post.

Fran Lynch scored Denver's first two touchdowns on short runs and the climax came when Steve Tensi passed 72 yards to Eric Crabtree in the third quarter.

San Diego stopped Oakland one victory short of tying the Charger's record of 15-straight regular season triumphs as Dennis Partee kicked field goals of 27, 27 and 29 yards and Lan7e Alworth caught nine passes for 182 yards and one touchdown. But they shared the spotlight with a defense that intercepted two passes, recovered three fumbles and allowed the Raiders only 16 total yards in the final quarter.

Kansas City relied on a grudging defense and Jan Stenerud's 52 and 46-yard field goals for a 6-3 lead after three quarters until Len Dawson drove the Chiefs 64 yards for the clinching touchdown.

Bob Davis, a second-year quarterback filling in for Pete Beathard, ran 17 yards for a key first down and then scooted seven yards for a touchdown as he guided Houston past Boston. John Whittenborn took care of the other scoring with field goals of 44, 15 and 34 yards and the defensive handed the Patriots their first shutout since the first game of the 1966 season.

ALTITUDE GETS HIM

Clarke Collapses In Mexico

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Americans were blanked, breathless but far from beaten after the first day's competition in the 19th Olympic Games.

Naftali Temu of Kenya won the lung-bursting 10,000-meter run—a drama-spiked race that left veteran Ron Clarke unconscious—and Mohammed Nas Iri of Iran set a world record in taking the bantamweight weightlifting title.

Those were the only two gold medals handed out on Sunday and the United States was not a factor in either of them.

But the U.S. track team gave notice that it would, along with Russia, be the dominant force in these troubled Games, marred on opening day by a soccer fight, illness and high-altitude drop outs.

Temu, a slight 23-year-old out-dueled Mamo Wolde of Ethiopia in the stretch and won in the relatively slow time of 29:27.4. Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia was third and Juan Martinez of Mexico, who had led most of the way, was fourth.

Clarke, holder of 17 world records but never a winner in the Olympics, was second with three laps to go, but faded back in the 7,347-foot altitude.

It was at that point that Kipchoge Keino of Kenya, another veteran, dropped out. With three laps remaining, he pulled into the infield, lay down for a seconds, then got up and finished.

Tracy Smith of Arcadia Calif., was the best American, finishing 11th. Billy Mills, who scored a surprise victory for the U.S. squad in the 1964 Olympic, did not qualify to defend his title.

Clarke collapsed, was unconscious and had to be given oxygen after finishing and was suffering from double vision and lack of concentration.

Nassiri, of Iran, did a backflip on stage after winning the gold in weight-lifting. He bettered the world record in the jerk with 330¾ pounds and had an Olympic record total of 810 pounds.

Foldi Imre of Hungary took the silver medal and Henryk Trebicki of Tunisia the bronze.

The United States had to be content with a strong showing in some preliminary events, a basketball victory and a 49 flat 400-meter hurdle mark by Ron Whitney of Boulder, Colo., bettering the listed world mark.

There was one major disappointment—a fifth-place finish in a heat by Harvard's eight-oared crew, which puts them in the repechages.

Geoff Vanderstock of Los Angeles finished second in his heat of the 400-meter hurdles and qualified for the next round.

The United States qualified a full complement of three through two rounds of the 100 meters, led by Charlie Green's wind-aided 10 flat, and put three more in the finals of the shot put topped by Randy Matson's 67-10¼ toss, topping the Olympic record. He made only the one throw.

George Woods and Dave Maggard also qualified.

Willye White and Martha Watson qualified for the women's long jumps finals, but were back in the pack, Miss White seventh and Miss Watson tied for 10th.

Tom Farrell was second in his 800-meter heat to qualify for the finals, along with Ron Kutschinski.

In rowing the U.S. coxless pairs won ther heat, while the coxed pairs and coxed fours also reached the semis after second and third-place finishes respectively.

A rash of illness was reported on the Harvard eight, perhaps accounting for its poor showing, and Bill Maher Detroit, a member of the double sculls collapsed after he and John Nunn won their heat. He was taken to the infirmary for rest and is expected to be ready for their competition.

The U.S. basketball team scored an 81-46 first-round victory over Spain while Russia won its first game, beating Poland 91-50.

The fight occurred at soccer match between Israel and Ghana with two members of the Ghana being escorted off the field. Israel won 5-3.

IN BROKERAGE INDUSTRY

Paperwork Still A Problem

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The resolution of paper problems in the nation's stock brokerage industry is turning out to be an even more painful and frustrating process than was foreseen.

Headway is being made when compared with the crisis days of July, and some long range changes in work methods are being made that assure better bookkeeping in the future.

But, in the words of Lee D. Arning, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, who is optimistic over the long term, the immediate progress hasn't been satisfactory.

Sources close to the situation now estimate that little or no advance was made during September in bringing records up to date and in getting overdue stock certificates into the hands of their owners.

Main obstacles to progress have been the inability to find experienced clerks to process paperwork, and the renewed surge in trading volume.

Average daily volume in September rose to 13.4 million shares from 10.7 million in August. The larger figure cannot yet be handled smoothly. While the old backlog was being reduced, therefore, more paper was being piled on.

High volume, however, is something the exchanges now realize will be around for a while. Up to April 1, the busiest day on the New York Exchange was Black Tuesday, the day of the big crash on Oct. 29, 1929. But since April 1 the figure has been topped 14 times.

Because of such pressure, stock certificates that should flow smoothly from seller to broker to bank to broker to buyer become clogged in the pipeline, misrouted, delayed and lost.

Because of high volume, the August figure of $3.1 billion worth of overdue stock certificates—called fails because the selling broker has failed to deliver them to the buying broker within five days—is expected to rise.

Last Thursday was the final day for brokers to report their September total of outstanding fails. Results won't be released until later this week, but a sampling of 55 firms indicates that ground might have been lost.

This perhaps was the major factor in decisions by the major exchanges to continue Wednesday closings through October. Earlier they had hoped for a return to normal length trading weeks by mid-month.

The long range outlook may be more encouraging.

The crisis in paper has resulted in a fundamental overhauling and modernizing of many firms. More discipline is being ordered by exchanges. And the somewhat greedy orientation of brokers toward sales alone is giving way to a concern for customer service.

A Central Certificate Service, a depository, that is, where stocks held by brokers can be stored, is gradually replacing the old system of running around streets and alleys with bundles of stock. Soon they will be transferred by bookkeeping only.

Prodded by the Securities and Exchange Commission, the once neutral personalities of exchanges have become more aggressive. Self-regulation once was a concept only; now it is more of a reality.

Of 650 New York Exchange member brokers, 46 now are restricted by Exchange orders. Some have been forbidden to advertise for more business. Others have been refused registration for new salesmen. A few firms have had ceilings placed on their volume. Some have been ordered to sell branches.

Only the mute future knows whether these efforts will be successful, but the immediate past gives some measure. "We've made a hell of a lot of progress," said Arning; more, he said, than the statistics might show.

He concedes, however, that no dramatic recovery is in prospect.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

Pay Raise For Lawmakers

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

Texans will decide Nov. 5 whether to give the men that make their laws their first pay raise in eight years.

Voters also will determine if the living and traveling allowances for legislators are to increase.

All of that is in a proposed constitutional amendment, No. 5 on the ballot.

The proposal would raise salaries of legislators from $4,800 a year to $8,400, an increase of $300 a month.

It would also give them an extra 20 days of living allowance, at $12 per day, and would pay for one round-trip home a month at the rate of $2.50 for every 25 miles. Now they get one round-trip per session.

"We would be better off staying down here and studying these bills," Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton told the last legislature. "I don't think we should be encouraged to go home for the weekend."

A 1960 amendment authorized an annual salary for legislators, not to exceed $4,800, plus per diem of $12 for 120 days of the regular session and 30 days of each special session. But in 1965, Texans defeated by 61,559 votes out of nearly half a million cast, a proposal to increase the per diem to $20 and extend payment over the full 140 days allowed for a regular session and the full 30 days of a special session.

Another proposal, No. 14, would make a slight change in restrictions on the eligibility of legislators to run for another office during their legislative terms.

It would clear up controversies such as in 1966 when state Sens. Franklin Spears and Galloway Calhoun Jr. had to go to court to get on the Democratic party primary ballot for attorney general because their Senate terms expired a few days after the attorney general would have taken office.

The proposed salary increase basically adds up to whether a legislator is considered a part-time or full-time official.

"We are a part-time legislature. I can't sell that to the people back home at $700 a month," Jamison said.

"The job of a member of this body is a full-time job and I think it justifies a full-time salary" said Rep. W. C. Sherman of Fort Worth.

The argument by Sherman and others that the legislature leaves them little time to devote to a private business or profession is offset by the argument that the proposed $8,400 salary for what might be called a part-time job is far above the full-time salary drawn by the average Texan.

Those favoring the salary-expense changes also say it is unrealistic to cut off per diem allowances even though expenses continue until the end of the session, which usually runs 140 days. Opponents say it would be just another financial burden on the state.

The paid up extra trips home are necessary, some say, so legislators can tell what their constituents want them to do. Opponents say a trip a month is not nesessary since the lawmakers can stay in constant touch by telephone or telegraph, without cost to themselves.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the increase in pay and living and traveling allowances.

Those favoring the eligibility change say it merely straightens out a 1966 amendment which unintentionally overlapped terms by setting the beginning date of a legislator's term of office as the date the regular session convenes.

They say it does not change existing restrictions designed to prevent a legislator from resigning to take another government job which was either created or raised in salary or fringe benefits while he was in the legislature.

Opponents say any relaxation of the prohibition, even for a few days, would set a bad precedent for future legislatures.

Bulletins From Boyle's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Girls are still more eager than boys to go to the altar. A survey of teen-agers found that 42 per cent of the girls, but only 14 per cent of the boys, expected to be married by their 21st birthday. Some 23 per cent of the boys—only 13 per cent of the girls—expressed doubt about ever getting married.

Speaking of weddings, heres how the desert Bedouins prepare a marital feast: Cooked eggs are stuffed in fish, the fish in cooked chickens, the chickens in a roasted sheep, and the sheep in a whole roasted camel. What a crazy, mixedup canape.

Ever wonder why a bird can fly and you can't? Well, besides their feathers, birds have another advantage. They have air sacs in their bones that connect with their lungs. When birds take a deep breath it helps make their bodies lighter.

You may hold a flea in disdain, but he has a low opinion of you, too. Most of the 1,750 varieties of fleas would rather dine on dogs or rats than people. If, size considered, you had the hopping power of a flea, you'd be able to leap a distance of almost two football fields.

Quotable notables: "Laugh at yourself first, before anybody else can."—Elsa Maxwell, quoting the death-bed advice given by her father.

New on the market: A fresh complexion aid for milady called "sea cream." It's made from an essence of seaweed, mosses and ocean minerals. But you don't dive into it—you just rub it on.

Drawing big crowds is no guarantee of victory for a political candidate. In the 1896 presidential race, William Jennings Bryan traveled 18,000 miles through 27 states and was heard by more than five million people. But William McKinley, who conducted a "front porch campaign" at his home in Canton, O., won by more than half a million votes.

High cost of health: Americans spent $33.1 billion in 1967 on medical services—up 10 per cent in a single year.

We tend to think of epidemics as characteristic of the Dark Ages, but the global influenza of 1918 was one of the most costly in history. It killed 21 million people throughout the world, more than 500,000 in the United States.

Worth remembering: "It is very hard to fight temptation. There is always the nagging thought—it may not come again."

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "Nowadays people know the price of everything and the value of nothing."

Junior Editors Quiz on FATHOMS

QUESTION: Why is the word fathom used in speaking of depths at sea?

ANSWER: Measurements of depth enable sailors to know whether there is safe water under their ships or perhaps dangerous shoals. From early times, sailors have lowered weights on ropes to find out where the bottom is. Handling rope all the time, it was important to have a simple, quick method of measuring its length. By holding a rope up with outstretched arms, the sailors had such a system; they called the length of rope between the fingertips a fathom. Since some sailors had long arms and others short, a more exact system became needed, and it was decided that a fathom was just six feet. But the word fathom was retained and is still used. Nautical charts are marked in fathoms, and the marks on the lead line the sailor is casting overboard (lower left) indicate the number of fathoms when the lead comes to rest. Much modern sounding is done by sending echo signals down from a ship and measuring the time spent in bouncing back up from the bottom. Even with such a modern system, the old word fathom is still used to indicate depth.

ON MAJOR CAMPAIGN ISSUES

George Wallace's Answers:

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — George C. Wallace says that if he's elected President he'll ask Congress to overturn Supreme Court decisions defining the rights of criminal suspects as a step toward maintaining law and order.

Wallace, the American Independent party's candidate, emphasized that he regards action against crime and civil disorders as primarily the responsibility of the states.

Nonetheless, he contended that his election as President would bring about stronger law enforcement because it would be "a moral boost to the policeman" and "a mandate to the officials back in the states to stand with their police and not handcuff them."

The former Alabama governor was interviewed Oct. 4 in Buffalo, one of his stops on a campaign swing through seven key northern states.

Wallace said he regarded Vietnam and law and order as the main issues of the campaign. He expressed hope that the war can be settled by negotiation, but said he'd place a time limit on negotiations, and seek a military victory with conventional weapons if no agreement was reached.

Wallace declined to outline any specific steps he'd take to win a military victory, other than to say that he would rely heavily upon the advice of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Questioned about specific plans for combating crime and disorder, Wallace was asked if he would recommend congressional action to overturn the Supreme Court's Escobedo and Miranda decisions.

"Yes, I would," Wallace replied. "I said that many times. I think those two decisions have helped bring about the increase in the crime rate and they really, in effect, made second class citizens of the policemen in our country."

The 1964 Escobedo decision and the Miranda ruling two years later held that a suspect has a right to the presence of a lawyer during police interrogation, that he has a right to remain silent, that he must be warned that any statement he makes can be used against him, and that the prosecution can not use a confession as evidence unless it shows that "effective steps were taken to secure the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination."

Asked how he would go about preventing or putting down racial disorders, including rioting and looting, Wallace said police should be "allowed to use whatever methods are necessary to prevent the breakdown of law and order and then if it does break down, they ought to be allowed to use whatever measures are necessary to stop it."

Here are the questions and answers:

Q. We would like to begin Governor, by discussing the law and order issue. Law and order has been described by all three candidates in the presidential election as one of the main issues of the campaign. All are for law and order, but few specifics have been advanced to deal with the problem. What we would like to do is try to clarify this by suggesting that we take law and order and break it down to specific problems and ask you how you would deal with each of them.

First, how would you combat the growth of organized crime which has steadily increased despite the efforts of the FBI and other police forces?

A. Of course, at the federal level we have many federal statutes regarding organized crime. I think the Justice Department ought to be more vigilant and I think the President ought to speak out on the matter of organized crime. I think he ought to lend the moral support of the presidency to the local law enforcement officials in the combating of organized crime.

Q. As of now though you see no need for any additional federal laws to combat organized crime?

A. No, I don't think we need any additional laws. We need a common sense interpretation of existing laws. We need some common sense application of rules of jurisprudence involved in confessions, involving obtaining evidence so that each time you arrest and convict someone for crime they won't be turned loose because of the Supreme Court rule that the confession was taken, for instance, without a lawyer present. The different decisions of the Court have handcuffed the police and law enforcement officials throughout the country in their fight against organized crime and also crime on the streets.

Q. If you were President would you ask Congress to pass legislation that would overturn the so-called Miranda and Escobedo decisions?

A. Yes, I would. I said that many times. I think those two decisions have helped bring about the increase in the crime rate and they really, in effect, made second class citizens of the policeman in our country.

Q. How would you deal with the widespread growth in recent years of petty crime, mainly committed by young people, that infests every area of the country? Tied to this question is the growth of drug addiction, since much of the crime is committed to obtain money for narcotics?

A. Well, we see people in high places with their permissiveness on the matter of crime in the streets, the matter of looting and arson. No one has any respect for the law any more and I think this encourages and helps to bring about the commission of petty crime and also drug addiction and everything else, because it is the thing to do and you can do it and nothing happens to you, nobody is going to bother you, you can't convict anybody. I think that plays a part in that. I aso think that the Justice Department and the states ought to really bear down on this matter of marijuana and LSD.

Q. Would you consider any federal legislation, perhaps to outlaw LSD and marijuana?

A. I don't know that you need any further federal legislation. I don't think we ought to move into any more areas of law enforcement. I think that the states ought to handle it. However transporting marijuana, LSD, across the state line is or should be a federal offense, but I think by and large we ought to leave the matter of law enforcement to the states.

Q. How would you deal with racial disorders, rioting and looting?

A. I don't know whether you should call them racial disorders. Usually racial disorder is between races, people of two races, you don't have much of this in the country at all. We do have a few militants who bring about the breakdown of law and order and then a few other people are caught up in the mob action, the hysteria of the moment, and loot and burn and commit arson. I think the police ought to be allowed to enforce the law. I think they have to be allowed to use whatever methods are necessary to prevent the breakdown of law and order and then if it does break down, they ought to be allowed to use whatever measures are necessary to stop it. We've used every other method of trying to stop disorder, we passed every piece of legislation advocated by the militants and otherwise.

Q. You talk about the militants being responsible, and "militant" seems to be something of a relative term. Would you identify the militants?

A. You might say militants are activists, revolutionaries, anarchists, and even Communists. Grand jury investigations in various parts of the country have shown the Communists involved. I'm talking about a person who stands up and says let us burn the town down is militant, he is a revolutionary.

SPECIAL CARE — E. T. (Pat) Patterson, president of Hillside Memorial Gardens, sits in the new office of the company at its location on the Colorado City Highway. Patterson feels that Snyder is fortunate to have a "special care" cemetery. "Usually, you don't find a cemetery of this type in cities with less than 25,000 population," he said.

Improvements Continue At Hillside Memorial Gardens

Hillside Memorial Gardens continues to attract the attention of local residents and outsiders as well. One reason Hillside attracts attention is because the firm continues to make improvements.

"We have a continuing improvement program," explained E. T. (Pat) Patterson, president of Hillside. In recent years, the firm has constructed new concrete walk-ways, new fencing, paving, etc. The grounds are always well kept and the shrubbery always is well trimmed. At this time of year, the mums are beginning to come into bloom.

Perhaps the fact that Hillside Memorial Gardens is such an attractive place is the reason why people enjoy driving out the Colorado City Highway just to look over the grounds. Of course, many people have loved ones buried there. But, often passing motorists stop in town and ask about "the beautiful resting place" south of town.

Not many towns the size of Snyder have such an attractive, professionally cared - for cemetery as Hillside Memorial Gardens. One reason — other than overall excellent appearance — that many families are beginning to purchase lots at Hillside is because it is the only perpetual care cemetery in Scurry County.

Perpetual care means just what it implies. It means that the resting place of your loved one always will have a pleasant appearance.

"There's no tax or monthly charge — you just make one payment," explained Patterson. He said money for the perpetual care lots is placed in a special fund administered by the state banking department. Interest from this fund provides for the "special care" to the lots. They are cared for "year-around" by professional Memorial personnel. The money in the fund can never be taken out. Even if the ownership of Hillside Memorial Gardens should change (which is doubtful), then the new owners would be required by law to continue the "perpetual care" service at Hillside.

In order to more efficiently operate the Gardens, Hillside has established its main office at the site on the Colorado City Highway south of town. Patterson, the president, has recently moved his offices into the new building.

"Not only is it easier for us to operate from here," said Patterson, "but it also is more convenient for our property owners."

The new building for the Hillside offices also houses the manufacturing plant for Hillside Monument Company.

Of course, Bell - Seale Funeral Home — operated separately but in conjunction with Hillside Memorial Gardens and Hillside Monument Co. — continues to provide funeral services with good taste and dignity. And the cost really is not as much as one might expect.

Death Claims Television's Kate Bradley

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bea Benaderet, matriarch of television's "Petticoat Junction," is dead at 62—the victim of pneumonia and lung cancer.

The blonde, brown-eyed actress was starting her sixth season playing Kate Bradley. She had filmed five episodes for the current run when she was forced to return to the hospital Sept. 26.

The vivacious performer underwent radiation treatment last year at the Stanford Medical Clinic in Palo Alto for a lung tumor.

Upon her release, Miss Benaderet told a newsmen, while recuperating at Palm Springs—

"Every day is beautiful to me . . . I feel fine, better than I have felt in years."

She died Sunday in Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles.

Prior to top casting as the quick-tongued mother in "Petticoat's" Hooterville, Miss Benaderet was Blanche Morton, wife of fastidious Harry Morton—next door neighbors in the long run of the "George Burns and Gracie Allen Show." In this part, she excelled in repartee.

Another vehicle, "The Beverly Hillbillies," featured her as cousin Pearl Bodine—mother of Jethro—in the first year of that show. Then the creator of the Hillbillies—Paul Henning—chose her as the operator of the Shady Rest Hotel in his "Petticoat Junction."

Much of her early success derived from her talent at dialect.

She was a part of the vocal cast of the TV cartoon show, "The Flintstones," and played many other roles on radio and television.

She was Gertrude Gearshift, who spoke Brooklynese, telephone operator on the "Jack Benny Program"; Amber Lipscott on "My Friend Irma;" the maid, Gloria, on "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet;" Eve Goodwin on "The Great Gildersleeve" and Mrs. Carstairs on "Fibber McGee and Molly."

A public funeral is planned. She leaves her husband, sound technician Gene Twombley; a daughter, Margaret Kilfoil, 20; a son, Jack, 27, and a granddaughter. The family home is at suburban Studio City.

Modern banking techniques, were born during the Holy Crusades. Crusaders wished to send money home and to borrow money while in the Near East. Thus, letters of credit came into common use whereby monies put on deposit in Europe could be drawn in the form of credit in the Near East.

Negro Claims Services Are Racist

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—A Negro major charged on Sunday that the "American military services are the strongest citadels of racism on the face of the earth." Today he was transferred to a new job and said he was happy about the change.

The Army officer, Maj. Lavell Merritt of Chicago, said he had asked some time ago to be transferred from the training section of MACV, the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, because he said there was discrimination in the section. He said he was transferred today to MACV's operations section.

Merritt, 40, gave newsmen an eight-page statement Sunday in which he told of Negro officers laughing when a white officer "tells the funniest nigger story he knows."

"The black military officer group is the largest collection of identifiable accommodationists in America," he said. "The real tragedy, of course, was in our self-denial of manhood."

Sources at MACV headquarters said they understood Merritt had requested a transfer several weeks ago "because he was unhappy there." They said he became eligible for promotion to lieutenant colonel in 1966 but was passed over three times.

Merriitt said he will complete 20 years in the Army in January "and I'll have to take my retirement then." Other officers said Merritt as a reserve officer is required to retire on completion of 20 years of service.

Merritt said that when he leaves the Army he plans to "go back to school and get a teaching certificate. The government is asking for teachers in the ghetto, and that's where I want to teach, in my ghetto in Chicago."

Patricia Neal Film Ready

NEW YORK (AP) — Surrounded by old friends from show business, a "very happy and relieved" Patricia Neal watched Sunday night the first movie she's made since she suffered two crippling strokes almost four years ago.

"I'm just delighted," she said as she arrived for the premiere of the film version of "The Subject Was Roses," Frank D. Gilroy's Pulitzer Prize winning play.

Several hundred motion picture and stage stars turned out to applaud Miss Neal at the premiere and to toast her at a post-opening party at Sardi's.

Miss Neal, 42, was stricken in February 1965, while filming in Hollywood. The two strokes left the Academy Award-winning actress partially paralyzed and unable to speak.

"When the producer and director came to me and asked me to do the film, I didn't think I could," said Miss Neal Sunday night. "But my husband thought I could," she added, looking at Roald Dahl, the British mystery writer to whom she has been married for more than 15 years and the person she credits with encouraging her recovery.

The movie tells the story of an Irish-American family in the Bronx just after World War II.

QUIET, INTENSE, SOMETIMES ANGRY

The Many Moods Of Nixon

By SAUL PETT
AP Special Correspondent

ENROUTE WITH RICHARD M. NIXON (AP) — "I say and you say," the candidate says, beginning quietly in the foothills of his basic theme.

Fists clenched, his arms begin slowly to move out and up from his sides. . ."That when the strongest nation in this world can be tied down in a war in Vietnam for four years with no end in sight; when the nation with the greatest tradition for respect for law is torn apart by unprecedented lawlessness". . . His arms move farther out and up and he begins to lean back from the hips as the clauses pile up like logs thundering down a narrowing river.

"When the richest country in the world can't even manage its own economy; when a nation that has always been respected in the world, when respect for the United States of America falls so low that a power like North Korea dares to seize an American naval vessel on the high seas". . .His upper torso leans farther back, now to the left, now to the right. His eyes roll up and back with the evangelical concentration of a man trying to keep the non-spiritual world out. . .

"And when the president of the United States of America, for the first time in history cannot travel abroad or to any major city in this country without fear of a hostile demonstration" . . .It is a long and difficult sentence and as he climbs higher toward the summit, his voice gets thinner, his neck muscles bulge and one wonders, will he run out of breath?

"Then it's time for a new leadership for the American people. . ." He has made it. The crowd is roaring. . .

"And that's what you are going to have. . ." The last words are lost in the rising roar. At the finish, his arms are all the way up and out, as far as they can go and the hands have snapped open, fists no more but now open palms of acceptance, and Richard Milhous Nixon once more has socked it to 'em.

This clearly is the one sentence he counts on most to make him the next president of the United States. It is the one that gets the loudest response. It is the basic theme of his basic speech and two or three times a day, five days a week, north, south, east and west, he delivers it with the same high fervor.

Richard Nixon tells his crowd he will end the war but doesn't tell them how because of the peace negotiations in Paris. He tells them we need law and order with justice at home. He will achieve justice among the deprived, he says; with new housing, new job and training programs provided by private industry with the help of tax incentives and government credits, He also says government spending must be reduced to curb inflation. He says repeatedly we need less people on the welfare rolls and more on the payrolls.

Like the American flag, Pat Nixon is always behind him, sitting with quiet patience on the platform. She sits with a small smile, her hands demurely clasped on her joined knees. She tries gallantly to appear interested in the same speech she has heard many times before. Now and then she even nods in gentle agreement, as if freshly persuaded.

Nixon's crowds are good but not overwhelming in size or passion. Nixon always tells them they represent a new tide sweeping him toward Washington. He always tells them who they are: the quiet Americans, the forgotten Americans, who have been obeying the law and paying their taxes and supporting their schools and churches. The crowds are notable for their orderliness and relative lack of anger. There are very few Negroes. There are occasional peace hecklers—the pale girls and the long-haired boys in their drab jeans—but they are quickly drowned out by the red-cheeked, wholesome-looking Nxion girls in their white straw hats and white dresses. Invariably, when Nixon ascends the platform, the multicolored balloons go up by the hundreds, the band plays and the girls squeal.

Campaigning, Nixon reveals a variety of moods and levels to the electorate.

In a formal radio address, he delivered a quiet dignified treatise on his conception of the nature of the presidency which many observers found distinguished. At a high school youth forum in St. Louis, he fielded a great variety of questions, some unfriendly, with skill and poise. At rallies, he always begins with a folksy attempt at regional rapport. Most candidates do. Nixon tries a little harder.

There is the intense Nixon, the man of literal gestures, whose arm goes up with rising farm costs and down with falling farm prices. There is the relaxed, self-deprecating Nixon, who is reminded by the presence of young people in his aduience that he tried out for all sports in school, never got one letter but learned a lot on the bench. He also tells young people they are probably worrying about getting into college, which reminds him that he once got into the electoral college but this time he'd graduate. There is the fair Nixon, who, speaking of the differences between himself and Hubert Humphrey, is quick to add, "they are honest differences of opinion and I respect him for his," the Nixon ever careful not to impugn the other man's motives.

Generally slower to counter-punch than in other campaigns, Nixon can still be nettled by reporters' question. When he is, his smile becomes more determined and his dark eyes harden.

"I'm not afraid of anybody, I'm not afraid of any audience, I'm not afraid of any press conference. Don't plant any words in my mouth to the effect that I'm afraid to debate Mr. Humphrey. I've done it (debate) before and I'll do it again and we'll win next time."

Commenting on Humphrey's readiness to "take the risk" of halting the bombing in North Vietnam, Nixon says: "I would respectfully submit that the risk is not his." The risk, says Nixon, would be to the American and South Vietnamese troops.
