Insane Father Slaughters Family, Then Suicides Deaths Mar Christmas Celebrations; G. A. Rush Dies

Death Angel Lowers Veil Of Sorrow Over Lubbock Yesterday; Pioneer Of Plains And City Teacher Are Called

G. A. Rush, 77, One Of Early Citizens Of Lubbock Is Taken By Illness; Miss Nannie Rush Cooper Dies
Of Eight-Day Illness Early Wednesday

THE PALL OF DEATH descended upon several Lubbock and South Plains homes Wednesday, to mar participation of many families in Christmas cheer and happiness. One pioneer resident of the Plains country, a school teacher and a young married woman were among those who passed away.

Lubbock Pioneer To Be Buried This Afternoon

G. A. Rush, 77, who had been a resident of Lubbock for more than 30 years and who had been active in many of the city's affairs until recently, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Lane, 1801 19th street, leaving two daughters and two sons, with their families, to mourn his passing. As Christmas day drew near, Mr. Rush grew weaker in an illness which promised to be his last from his infirmity. He was in his seventy-seventh year and had been feebly through the winter. Funeral services will be held from the Rix-Sanders funeral home at 2:30 p. m. today. Interment will be in the Lubbock cemetery.

Was Here In 1888

Mr. Rush was among the first citizens in Lubbock, moving here from Plainview in 1888 and assisting with the establishment of this city. His home, which was situated for many years on the knoll where the Central Ward school now stands, was surrounded by a large orchard, shade trees and shrubbery. When Mr. Rush first came to Texas, in 1888, he moved to Wise county, a few years later moving to the Plains. He was born in Carroll county, Miss., in 1852.

Prominent for many years as a member and officer of the Methodist church, he helped to build a number of edifices for that denom-

Miss Cooper Dies From Short Illness

Miss Nannie Rush Cooper, age 28, passed away at six o'clock Wednesday morning, following an illness of eight days. She had been a resident of Lubbock for several years and was for four years a teacher in the K. Carter school. Her father is Mr. George C. Cooper, who resides three miles northwest of Lubbock and survives other than they are Mrs. E. P. McPhail, Amarillo; G. M. Cooper and Mrs. F. M. Osborn, Perrin; Mrs. W. E. Orloff, Dallas; Mrs. New Redman, Tulsa; Mrs. Josephine Ballenger, Miss.; Mrs. Ruth and Marguerite Cooper and John D. Cooper of Lubbock.

Funeral at 10 O'Clock

Funeral services will be held at the First Presbyterian church at 10 o'clock this morning. The Rev. Jack M. Lewis officiating. Burial will be in the Lubbock cemetery, under direction of the Rix-Sanders funeral home.

Homebearers will be Acting-Walter S. Powers, L. Ellis, Robert Hester, N. L. Peters, Jerry J. Clements, T. A. Rhodes, Honorary—M. H. Duncan, Bob Crump, George Dreyer, W. E. Lyle, Smylie Wilson, Carroll Thompson, R. D. Moxley, H. D. Woods, F. R. Friend, S. T. Cummings, J. M. Gordon, O. W. Mc-

Bee Expert Says To Bee Careful!

It pays to bee-hive when you're in the position of George Biggers, Pasadena, Calif., bee expert, who is shown here wearing a nice long beard of honey-gatherers from his own apiary. George does this regularly to amuse his friends, despite the fact that every one of his bees is a stinger. But even Biggers strokes his beard gingerly.

More Planes Will Join In Hunt For Missing Aviators

Three Fairchild Ships Are To Be Flown To Siberia;
Soviet Sends Plane To Aid In Search

SEWARD, Alaska, Dec. 25.—Carrying three Fairchild planes and a complement of Canadian fliers to engage in the search for Pilot Carl E. Eielson and Mechanic Earl Merriam, missing since early November in Siberia, the coast guard cutter Chelan arrived here today shortly before noon.

The Chelan entered Resurrection Bay in a blinding snowstorm and was guided to the Alaska railroad wharf by means of radio signals flashed from the army radio station here. The work of transferring the planes to flat cars for trans-shipment to Fairbanks where they will be assembled and flown to Teller, Alaska, began as soon as the cutter was docked.

To Hop For North Cap
From Teller the planes will hop off across Bering Strait on the 500 mile flight to North Cap, Siberia, near where Eielson and Merriam were believed to have been.

MAN ACTED ALONE

Investigation Reveals One Man After Yrigoyen

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Police investigation into the attempt on the life of President Hipolito Yrigoyen yesterday satisfied them that Gualberto or Gualberto Merinelli acted alone and not as the agent of an organized band.

On the other hand, it appeared that Marinelli, who was killed by shots of the presidential escort, had planned his attempt at assassination carefully.

Hoover Entertains Official Family With Christmas Feast in White House

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—President Hoover's Christmas dinner to his cabinet, which set White House ablaze with light tonight save for its fire-swept west wing, brought to a close Washington's official celebration of the Yuletide holiday.

Unofficial Washington, not only dined, but vined as well for into the night. A dozen or more affairs in honor of diplomats and visiting missionaries, West Point cadets and college under-graduates, briefly set free from school, took on brilliance in keeping with the capital's Christmas custom.

Negro Is Sought After Bodies Of Three Are Found

Aged Physician, His Wife And Nephew Slain By Unknown Person; Young
Negro Object Of Search

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 25.—The motive for the slaying of Dr. Barclay J. Jones, 61-year-old physician, his wife Mrs. Lucy Lane Jones, 32, and her nephew, George Lane, 13, mystified officials investigating the killings since discovery of the three bodies this morning.

All had been beaten to death. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder by some unknown person with robbery as a motive.

Followed Attack
Sheriff Walker Anderson and his son, Deputy Sheriff Anderson, however, expressed belief that the slaying had followed an attack on Mrs. Jones and announced that they were seeking a young negro named Sam who had been employed in the household for the past week.

Sam, the sheriff said, made his home in the basement, where Mrs. Jones' stripped body was found with that of her young nephew nearby. He also said the door of her bedroom had been broken open and her bed was in a state of extreme disorder.

The body of Dr. Jones was found on the floor of a garage. A blood-stained area and a pair of bed-clothes also bloodstained were found nearby.

PAMPA, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Igniting from a prairie fire, a bridge on the Clinton and Oklahoma Western railway one mile east of here was destroyed today. Rail officials said the line, which ran from Pampa to Cherokee, would be tied up for several days until a new structure could be built.

Dallas Merchant Is Santa to Poor

DALLAS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Having never forgotten kindness shown him when he came to the United States, years ago to escape the poverty and hunger of eastern Europe, I. Rude, Dallas clothing merchant, today opened his store and distributed gifts of wearing apparel to 3,700 of this city's poor.

This custom was formed a number of years ago in Denver by Rude where he fought a successful battle against a dread disease. Besides his generosity at Christmas time, the merchant was known for his philanthropy in Denver, where a park was named for him.

BRINGS JOYS-TRAGEDY

Gamut Of Emotions Run In Chicago Yesterday

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Christmas brings its joys and tragedies—fate, some people call it. At the stroke of 12—tolling the moment when Christmas ticks into reality—a baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rizzo.

Just several hours before, a wreath was removed from a window at the Henry G. Steinbrenner home—and a Christmas tree dismantled. Dolores Steinbrenner, 18 months old, had died—she had fallen from a toy automobile and was fatally injured.

TO ASK GREATER UNIT

Kerville C. Of C. To Aid In Veteran's Hospital

LEGION, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Steps will be taken at a meeting here Thursday, sponsored by the Kerville Chapter of Commerce, to ask the U. S. Veterans Bureau to double the capacity of the veterans hospital here. The expansion, which would be financed out of the $1,200,000 appropriation authorized by congress for more Texas hospital facilities, is needed to care for 176 mentally deranged veterans in state institutions and for 100 additional tuberculars, it was said.

Houston Has Four Fatalities In 24 Hours

(By Associated Press) HOUSTON, Dec. 25.—Houston's fourth traffic fatality in 24 hours and the 102nd of the year occurred about 8:30 o'clock tonight when John Nash of Goose Creek was crushed to death under a street car here. His body was severed.

Eleanor Adams, 22, progress was struck down a short time later and fatally injured in the business district. Her death a short time later in a hospital was the third.

DUNN, N. C., Dec. 25.—Three men were killed late today as an airplane in which they were riding failed to right itself after a loop and crashed to the ground within the Dunn city limits.

The dead are: Alton Stewart, pilot, of Coats; Worth Stevenson, student flier, of Angier; and Hugh Blalock, passenger, also of Angier.

fatality in the 24-hour period. J. G. Chapman, whose companion, Vera M. Williams, was the hundredth Houstonian to die in a motor mishap, still was in a critical condition in a hospital.

Funeral services for Tuesday's other traffic victim, Edwin Finn, 79, father of A. C. Finn, architect, were scheduled for Thursday.

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Two San Antonians were killed by hit-and-run drivers Wednesday. Charles Freudenberg, 32, a barber, was struck by a car driven by negroes and almost instantly killed.

The negroes ran into another car and were wrecked. Three negroes were arrested.

Mrs. Mary Foster, 58, living in Harlandale, a suburb, was struck by an automobile Wednesday evening at dusk as she was on her way home with a sack of feed for her chickens. No one saw the accident but some boys found her body in a ditch.

Farmer Charged With Man's Death Is Shot By Band Of 100 Men And Thrown
From Highway; May Live

JACKSON, Ky., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Chester Frazier, a farm hand, held for slaying his landlord, was taken from the Breathitt county jail this morning, shot a half dozen times, and thrown over a cliff where five hours later his prayers and groans attracted help.

Frazier was brought to a hospital here. When it was learned that he apparently was not to live, his signed statement was taken. He was said to have stated that he recognized several of the mob, but county officials declined to give any intimation of their names pending arrest.

The mob that ravaged the death of Clay Watkins, lawyer and wealthy land owner, worked quietly and apparently under good leadership. Five men, about 2 a. m., slipped into the bedroom of Solie Combs, the jailer, in his home adjoining the jail. Combs said before he was fully awake his arms and feet had been bound. He woke to a warning to keep quiet if he valued his life.

Others Not Harmed
The men did not harm the 23 other prisoners in the jail but sought to escape.

Official Of Company Gets Warning From Thieves

FORT WORTH, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Ten quarts of nitroglycerine and a quantity of dynamite stolen at Duncan, Okla., from the United States Torpedo company has not been located but one clue is being followed by officers of that city, who are fearful that the explosives might be set off in the town, according to M. A. Hannon, superintendent, who is spending Christmas in Fort Worth.

Verdict Says Her Love Is Valuable

The largest verdict in a breach of promise case in this country was won by Miss Bertha A. Clevenger, of Detroit, above when a jury awarded her $450,000 in her suit against John A. Castle, rich Detroit real estate operator. Miss Clevenger testified she had added Castle in his rise from a 24-a-week automobile mechanic to a multi-millionaire realtor.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—J. C. Simpson, an employee of the Eagle Picher Lead and Zinc company, surrendered to deputy sheriffs at Henryetta today after shooting and killing Charles Henry Williamson, 14, Henryetta high school student, in his peanut field. Simpson was brought to Okmulgee.

Simpson admitted the shooting, explaining that he fired at Williamson with a 22 calibre rifle believing the boy had entered his field to steal peanuts, which had been shocked and which he said had attracted other boys. One of two shots which he fired entered the boy's heart.

Congressman's Brother
Faces Murder Charge

JAY, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Charged with murder, Wirt Hastings, nephew of Congressman W. W. Hastings of Tahlequah, was in the Delaware county jail here today awaiting formal arraignment. Hastings was arrested last night, 24 hours after Charles Grayrock, a neighbor, had been shot to death as he sat in the Hastings home near Bernice.

Warehouse And Bulk Of Oil
Plant Burns In Lexington, Kentucky; Tanks Are Saved

(By Associated Press) LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 25.—Fire late today destroyed the warehouse and office of the bulk plant of the Gulf Refining company near here, and was threatening large storage tanks nearby. Loss from the destruction of the warehouse and 800 drums of oil gasoline, kerosene and alcohol was estimated by an employe at $40,000.

The fire was believed to have started from defective wiring. All available apparatus from the city fire department went to the scene and for several hours three streams of water on the nearby tanks and other property.

Firemen were endangered by the explosion of the drums of gasoline and other fuel. The tanks were saved at the outset by the fact that the prevailing wind was away from them.

Red Cross Gets Many Calls for Help During Week; Christmas Provided

A very good idea of the many calls coming to the office of the Lubbock Red Cross is to be had from a perusal of the following excerpts from telephone conversations occurring the past week. The following was obtained from Miss Vera Murrie, secretary of the local chapter of the Red Cross:

"Hello! Yes, Nurse Smith, this is the Red Cross. What are you telling me? Sixteen bitten by mad dog and some of them not able to buy the serum? What did you say it would cost—$30 per child? Well, that may make it a bit hard to get by Christmas, as we have reserved no funds this fall, but we'll find a way. . . . Hello, doctor. Yes, we have just been talking about those cases bitten by the dog. And, doctor, don't run any risk. Send for the serum for any child that you suspect needs it. We can't risk a child having hydrophobia."

Serum Sent For
The serum was sent for. "Good morning, Mrs. Stubbs! What? This woman not able to . . ."

Oklahoma Youth Is Shot Down By Farmer In Field

Charles Williamson, 14, Is Killed By J. C. Simpson, Mine Employee; Theft Of Peanuts Blamed

HENRYETTA, Okla., Dec. 25.—Charles Williamson, 14, Henryetta high school student, was shot and killed today by a farmer named Simpson, as the boy arived at the University of Oklahoma, walked across the farmer's peanut field.

The Williamson boys, sons of Mrs. W. S. Williamson, were hunting their father now dead, served as one clerk of Henryetta several years. Simpson was said to have fired twice with a 22 rifle, one bullet entering the boy's heart. His brother was not struck.

OKMULGEE, Okla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—J. C. Simpson, an employee of the Eagle Picher Lead and Zinc company, surrendered to deputy sheriffs at Henryetta today after shooting and killing Charles Henry Williamson, 14, Henryetta high school student, in his peanut field. Simpson was brought to Okmulgee.

Simpson admitted the shooting, explaining that he fired at Williamson with a 22 calibre rifle believing the boy had entered his field to steal peanuts, which had been shocked and which he said had attracted other boys. One of two shots which he fired entered the boy's heart.

After he had done this, Lawson, believed to have become deranged from a blow he received on the head a year ago, went into the woods and shot himself to death.

Arthur, a 19-year-old son, who was visiting an uncle near Germantown, in Stokes county, a few miles from Walnut Cove, was the only member of the immediate family to escape the crazed man's carnage. He was prostrated when he returned home and learned of the tragedy.

Christmas Passes Quietly in City

City and county officers report this the quietest Christmas in the history of Lubbock, in point of noisome firecrackers, drunkenness, gambling and other law violations.

Only 11 arrests were made by the city and county, combined, all Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. These were for drunkenness and gaming.

City police arrested three for drunkenness and three negroes for crap shooting. County officers arrested three drunks and two gamblers.

Besides the quietness, Sheriff Wade Hardy said, "I believe there was more Christmas shopping here this year than at any other similar season. Folks seemed intent upon going to stores for their presents and going home. We received no calls because of disorderly conduct. The past week-end recorded more law violations than did Christmas."

Man Is Believed To Have Become Suddenly Insane In Committing Act; Bod- ies Carefully Laid Out

WALNUT COVE, N. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Becoming suddenly insane, a Stokes county farmer today slew his wife and six children, and after laying them out for burial went and killed himself with a shotgun.

The body of C. O. Lawson, the 43-year-old father and husband, was over their breasts. The heads of the home with a shotgun wound in his chest.

Beats Three To Death
At the home were the bodies of Mrs. Lawson, 38; Marie, 17; James, 7; Raymond, 5 and Mary Lou, four months. The mother and her oldest daughter had been shot in the chest, apparently with the same gun the father used to end his own life. James, Raymond and Mary Lou had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument.

In a tobacco barn, a quarter of a mile away, neighbors found the bodies of Carrie Lawson, 14, and Mari-belle, 10. They had been shot in the back. Blood on snow outside of the building led to the discovery of the bodies in the outbuilding.

Bodies Carefully Prepared
The father, after he had slaughtered his wife and children, carefully prepared them for burial. He closed their eyes and folded their hands over their breasts. The heads of the five victims found in the home were placed on pillows. Old sacks were folded under the heads of the two girls whose bodies were found in the tobacco barn.

After he had done this, Lawson, believed to have become deranged from a blow he received on the head a year ago, went into the woods and shot himself to death.

Arthur, a 19-year-old son, who was visiting an uncle near Germantown, in Stokes county, a few miles from Walnut Cove, was the only member of the immediate family to escape the crazed man's carnage. He was prostrated when he returned home and learned of the tragedy.

Famed Men Spend Day In Estates

Rockefeller And Edison Are In Florida For First Time For Christmas Day; Party Is Planned

(By Associated Press)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 25.—For the first time in a long series of winter visits dating back to 1888 both John D. Rockefeller, sr., and Thomas A. Edison, were at their Florida estates for Christmas Day.

The aged inventor gave up his holiday at home in the north with his children and grand children to make an early start on rubber experiments at Fort Myers. He planned a quiet day devoted to reading several volumes on Agronomy and entertaining intimate friends. Mrs. Edison last night was one of the sponsors of a community celebration.

Mr. Rockefeller arranged his annual Christmas party for Friday night. A few to whom he is known as "neighbor John" were receiving invitations to his home. The Cassments, for the exchange of gifts about a giant evergreen, the singing of old songs and simple refreshments.

Short Circuit Is Blamed for Blaze

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25. (AP)—Belief that the fire in the west wing of the White House last night was begun by defective wiring was strengthened today by reports of two men who discovered the flames.

Russell Wood, secret service man, smelled smoke and called Richard Trice, also a member of the White House police force. The two climbed the stairs to the attic of the executive offices and found it full of smoke. They put a fire extinguisher to work and then turned a switch but the lights failed to work.

Trice said he believed failure of the electricity indicated that a short circuit had started the fire.

Simplicity Is Seen in Paris Clothes for Children

BY ROSETTI

PARIS, Dec. 25.—Fifteen years ago the tiny French girl was made to resemble as much as possible an over-dressed doll. Many ornate dresses, a mass of lace frills, intricate ribbons, even Pompadour curls in which the poor little suffered fared nothing to sit or work, even less play.

So far as evolution in clothing for children goes, Paris is very much to the fore today and there is a very noticeable English influence in the way French boys are dressed. They wear sensible clothes, sensible woollens, which do not exclude a very decided regard for prevailing styles and fashionable colorings.

The small girl from six years on wears a sweater and diminutive pleated skirt just like her mother. Over this she wears a light-colored, often a short circular cape for extra comfort.

Simplicity Is Notable

For best wear and for simplicity, the modern child's dress is also very simple in line and devoid of cumbersome frills and fanciful trimmings. Even coats, which years ago would have been considered unadvisable for a child, are today thought quite smart and up-to-date. Thus have such colors as white, pink and pale blue been superseded by browns, beiges, greens and even some shades of purple.

Namoo, sheer linen, cambric and organdie the season vie with crepe de chine, velvet and other silk fabrics in the choice of party dresses. Smoking has been enjoying a tremendous vogue in Paris as a decorative medium even for dressy frocks and, shirred ribbon adorns many models in the form of galons, mo-

New Yorkers Gave Over Half Million

Charity Donations Responded To Generously By Many; Day More Than Just Cold December Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—New Yorkers gave more than a half million dollars that Christmas night more than just a cold December day to the city's needy.

The New York Times, which made its annual appeal for the "hundred neediest cases," announced receipt of contributions totaling $545,577. The Evening Post collected $50,711 for its "Old Couples' Christmas Fund," the New York American raised $138,358 and also provided Christmas dinners to 17,000 persons.

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, concentrating on the neediest cases in its community, raised $15,000. The New York Herald-Tribune raised funds to send poor children during the holidays to the homes of persons who had offered them hospitality, and the Evening World sponsored a Christmas show for the 10,000 children in its "Kiddie Klub."

Program Planned For Gil's Drive

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 25. (AP)—Next year's program of the national anti-alcohol commission, created by President Gil last April, will continue along the lines of persuasion and education, rather than creation of restrictive measures, to curb the drink habit in Mexico.

Beginning January 1, the commission will have funds with which to work and so will be able to expand its activities, thus far limited by the fact it had no budget. The money, to be supplied by the government, will give the commission means of extending its educational campaign to the most remote parts of the country and reach precisely the people who owe their fondness for alcohol to ignorance.

President Porfirio Gil's aim in launching his anti-alcohol campaign was to carry to the people the conviction that the drink habit brings moral and physical unfitness and to impress them in uplifting forms of diversion so as to keep their minds off liquor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25. (AP)—First almost thwarted Santa Claus today. A short circuit in electric wiring started a smoky blaze in the auditorium of the Level club, a Masonic organization, where $7,000 worth of gifts for poor children were stored.

The 250 members of the club seized armfuls of the presents and carried them to safety. Then, when the flames were extinguished, they took the gifts back inside, ready to be distributed this afternoon.

Grid Stars Will Start Grind Today For Dixie Classic

Initial Training Sessions To Open In Dallas Today

Morrison And Phelan Call Groups Together; Intensive Practices Scheduled For All-Star Clash

DALLAS, Dec. 25.—Initial training sessions were called for tomorrow for the Southwest and Middle West All-Star football squads, which New Year's Day will meet in the second annual Dixie Classic at Ombly stadium, home of the Southern Methodist University Mustangs.

Coach Ray Morrison of the Mustangs, grooming the Southwestern players, expected to have a full squad at the stadium for the preliminary workout. The same was true of Jimmy Phelan, coach of the Big Ten champion Purdue eleven, who has called many great and near-great players to his team at Fair Park stadium.

Drills To Be Mild
Opening drills were expected to be mild affairs in which rival coaches will spend more time playing players at positions rather than attempting any rough work. It will be a different story from Friday until the game though. Starting Friday with the exception of Sunday, practices will be held each day. All workouts will be secret.

Four more huskies arrived today bringing the total of Mid-Westerners here to 12. Others were expected tomorrow. The four arriving today were Dynamite, the Embury and H. P. of Midland, Allen Holman of Gulf State and Richard Nesbitt of Drake.

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—Bud Taylor and Earl Mastro, feather-weight fighters, spent Christmas finishing the strenuous part of their conditioning for their ten-round return engagement here Friday night.

The winner has been promised a match with Kid Chocolate, Cuban brawler. With this in prospect, action promises to be exciting. Mastro, the Chicago transfer, rules a favorite to defeat the Terre Haute terror.

In their previous bout, Mastro and Taylor battled two swift rounds to what was declared a draw, with the judges and the referee all agreeing on the verdict.

First, Carners won from Stribling on a foul; then Stribling won from Carners on a foul. Now they ought to fight out a rubber match to see who can foul first.

Petition Allowed In Anti-Seine Law

Temporary Order Given In Case At Galveston; Fishermen Claiming Big Loss Under New Law

GALVESTON, Dec. 25.—Operation of the anti-seine law, to have become effective January 1, was suspended by a temporary restraining order issued by Judge C. G. Dibrell in the 56th district court Tuesday. Hearing has been set for January 4. The order was issued upon petition of F. P. Stephenson on behalf of himself and all other licensed market fishermen living in Galveston county and is directed at the state game fish and oyster commission local game wardens and other law enforcement officers.

The law, passed by the 41st legislature, makes it a misdemeanor to fish with a seine or net in Galveston bay and a large number of other enclosed bays and inlets along the Texas coast. It is attacked primarily on the ground that it conflicts with other laws and is so indefinitely framed that it is impossible of understanding. Plaintiffs also allege the threat of defendants to arrest them for having in their possession seines, seines and other tackle owned prior to January 1, 1929 violates the constitution of Texas and the United States. The petition attacks the law on the ground that it is confiscatory because it makes valueless $500,000 worth of fishing equipment.

Theatre Owger And Daughter Injured By Explosion

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 25.—O. T. Woodluff, owner of a theatre here, was slightly injured and his daughter, Mrs. H. Klein Schmidt, was burned last night when a Christmas package delivered to Woodluff at his office in the theatre building exploded as he was opening it.

Football Clashes Hold Spotlight on West Coast; Six Elevens Preparing For Games on New Year's Day Card

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Football workouts this morning were included in the Christmas Day festivities of the football stars who will meet here New Year's Day in the annual East-West Springers football game. The two squads were engaged on perfecting the half dozen formations given them by the respective coaches. Andy Kerr of the east and Loevy of the west.

This afternoon the players were guests at Christmas dinners. An injury to Tom Dowley, half-back from Colgate, continued to worry the East team's coaching staff today. Dowley wrenched a knee in a scrimmage against Stanford Monday, and may not be in shape by time for the game.

Practice sessions to date indicate the eastern team will depend largely on ground play while the westerners will go after victory in the air. The eastern boys have been installed favorites.

Pitt Panthers Off For California Tilt
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 25.—Thirty-three football players of the University of Pittsburgh, their mentors and other members of the official party entrained tonight on special coaches for their trip to the Pacific coast. The Panthers meet the University of Southern California in the Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's Day.

A light tapering off drill was held indoors today. Three workouts are planned on route. The first is scheduled for tomorrow on Washington University field at St. Louis. Friday the Panthers are due in Dallas, Texas, where they will be entertained and will work out on the Southern Methodist University gridiron. The third is scheduled for Saturday at a high school field in El Paso, Texas.

A Layover of one day at Tucson, Ariz., has been planned. The squad expects to arrive at Pasadena, Calif., the morning of December 30. All players have been reported in good condition. In order to have plenty of reserves, Coach Sutherland is taking along 14 backfield men.

Trojans Take Lazy Workout For Panthers
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Christmas brought a lay day to a hard-working squad of University of Southern California football players and turkey and Yuletide cheer replaced classrooms and a gridiron in the athletes' grid for the New Year's Day game in Pasadena with Pittsburgh.

Tomorrow the Trojans will trek back to Harvard field to smooth the rough spots in the attack with which they hope to wrest victory from the powerful Panthers of Pitt.

Pitt's invasion of the West will find a welcome proclaiming them favorites. The storm-tossed Trojans' erratic football record of the past season was in strong contrast to the even tenor of victory credited to the easterners.

Boxing Suffers Big Blow During Year; Records Set

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Staff Editor

The old year in sport is dying. Battles of the diamond, the ring and the gridiron have been fought and the records written. Before turning the page to start on the sports chronicle of 1929, let us see what the outstanding events have been.

Boxing has suffered. Gene Tunney retired as heavyweight champion toward the end of 1928, marking the end of his battle with the promotion of his title to a younger man. The sport also lost one of its best friends in Tex Rickard, who died when the year was young during the promotion of his battle between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling in Florida. The heavyweight division has felt the passing of Tex kindly; without him it has been leaderless. For Tex was the friend of the big fellows.

Besides the Tunney retirement and the death of Rickard, boxing also has been stricken with an epidemic of foul fighting, culminating in the recent Von Porat-Scott affair in New York City. This fight led the New York Boxing Commission to adopt a measure cutting down on the pay of a fighter who delivers a foul blow.

But won on a lighter changed hands during the year. In this war, when Joe Dundee fouled Jackie Fields in Detroit. The only other title that changed hands during the year was the featherweight title, which went from Jimmy Ring to the tending Alvin Rocco.

There have been thrilling and sentimental moments in the world of sport during the year that is passing, however. Here are a few the writer remembers, taken at random from all branches of sport.

The Philadelphia Athletics of the Philadelphia Athletics of the Chicago Cubs, four games to one. The Athletics did what never had been done in a world series, overcoming an eight-run lead in a single inning to turn back the Chicago team.

The final game was dramatic, too. The Athletics, battling their way to victory after they had gone into the ninth inning with a two-run handicap.

The use of the star of Max Schmeling, the first fighter from Germany ever to reach the boxing heights. It was Schmeling's technical knockout of John Paddock that earned him a chance to fight for the world heavyweight title. Interest in the campaign of Schmeling will mark the beginning of the New Year in sports.

The Fastest Human
George Simpson's wonderful 100-yard dash record of 9.25. The mark was made with starting blocks, one of which is becoming more general. The A. A. U. accepted Simpson's mark as a record made with starting blocks. But the fact remains that George is the fastest human.

The death of Miller Huggins during his important job of rebuilding the failing Yankees.

The battles fought by the unbeaten football teams, precipitating a nation-wide football argument over the national championship. Of the undefeated Notre Dame, by virtue of her difficult schedule, seems to have accomplished more than any other eleven.

The defeat of the world's greatest golfer, Bobby Jones, by young Johnny Goodman of Omaha in the first round of the national amateur tournament at Pebble Beach, and Jones' smashing victory over Al Espinosa in the open.

Clear demonstration of the supremacy of Glenna Collet in the field of women's golf in the United States, and the great game of Joyce Wethered of Great Britain returning from retirement.

The winning of the British open tournament by Walter Hagen, who later failed signally in the American golfing events.

Leo Diegel's second victory in the Professional Golfers' tournament in Los Angeles when he beat Sarazen, Farrell and Hagen on successive days.

Horton Smith's great 289 at La Grève to win the richest open championship of the year.

Clyde Van Dusen's powerful race through the mud and rain at Churchill Downs to win the Kentucky Derby.

Reigh Count's gallant races in Great Britain and the great horse's failure to win the race Cup—Columbia's Victory.

Official Record Of Star's Hitting Announced As .398

Former Pitcher And Castoff By Other Clubs Comes Through; Hornsby Makes New Runs Record

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Frank J. (Lefty) O'Doul of the Phillies was formally proclaimed champion batsman of the National League today with the issuance of the official averages for the 1929 season. O'Doul, a former pitcher and cast-off by other major league clubs, led the pack with an average of .389. Official averages had credited him with an even 400.

O'Doul procured 254 hits during the campaign, establishing a new major league record. This topped by four safes, the record of 239 established by Rogers Hornsby for St. Louis in 1922. O'Doul and Lloyd Waner of the Pirates each registered 181 singles.

Rogers Hornsby, who won the most valuable player award as a result of his consistent efforts for the Chicago Cubs during the season, broke a National league record by scoring 136 runs. Hazen Cuyler, New York Cub, scored 144 runs for Pittsburgh in 1923 to establish the previous high. Hornsby led too with the most total bases, 410.

Klein Sets Mark
Hornsby, however, saw one of his league marks shot away by another newcomer in such select class. Chuck Klein, also of the Phillies, making a new home run record with 43 homers in 1929.

Johnnie Frederick's 52 two-base hits were enough to create another record and Lloyd Waner led in triples with 20. Freddy Maguire, Boston, topped the sacrifice hitters with 36 and Kiki Cuyler showed the way to the base stealers with 43.

Five players participated in all the games their teams played and Philadelphia had three of the exclusive quartet, O'Doul, Arthur Whitner and Hurst. The others were Hornsby of the Cubs and George Siler of the Braves, who probably played his last season as a regular.

O'Doul is the fourth player to lead the National league while wearing the uniform of Philadelphia and the first for nearly 20 years. Sherwood Magee had the honor in 1910. Ed Deleahanty topped the heap in 1899 and Billy Hamilton in 1891.

O'Doul won the batting championship by 17 points from Floyd (Babe) Herman of Brooklyn. The Robin outfielder took the runner-up position from Hornsby by a single point.

The field of college carmen under adverse weather conditions at Poughkeepsie where the California shell was sunk.

Babe Ruth's marriage to Claire Hodson and his home run the first time at bat on the day of his wedding.

Jack Sharkey's right hand crashing against the chin of Tommy Loughran, knocking out the Philadelphia batter in his first engagement as a heavyweight.

Amazing individual efforts by Al Masters, Albie Booth, Russ Saunders, Willis Glassgow, Gene McEever and Jack Elder on the football field. Gene McEever's 130 points to lead the nation in scoring.

The disclosures of Ray Barbuti Olympic hero, in regard to amateurism and his "price."

Roy Riegels' long run the wrong way in the Pasadena Rose Bowl and his subsequent fighting back to gain a place on several All-America elevens.

Helen Wills' splendid game, proving her superiority over the field in every event in which she was entered.

The great running of Whichone, the two-year-old champion of the year, the time comeback of Blue Larkspur after being beaten in the Kentucky Derby, and the splendid riding of Melvin Knight in bringing in more than 140 winners during the year.

Low Fonseca's fight to win the American League batting championship in spite of the handicap of an injured knee.

Lefty O'Doul's blazing away to National League batting supremacy with a mark of .398, after McGraw had traded him down the river to Philadelphia.

These have been outstanding among the thrills of the year. Summing it all up, it has been a fruitful year in sports. May 1929 bring sports followers twice as many!

SHIRES: YOU JUST CANT KEEP HIM DOWN

If you think Arthur (the Great) Shires is going to fold up just because George Trafton knocked him around a little, you have another guess coming. "I've just begun to fight," said the Powerful One after taking a licking from the former Notre Dame football star in Chicago the other night. "There's no bound in me."

The crowd that witnessed the Shires-Trafton brawl received a valuable little lesson, by the way, in physical training. Both of the young men, who have been living an athletic life for several years, were so used up after the first wild round that they merely pedaled around the ring during the last four, too stupid to raise their hands. The fact also is a commentary on the rigors of boxing, the most strenuous game. After seeing Shires and Trafton waddle around, you can understand how a fighter is an old man at 30.

ROCKY PATH AHEAD
Mr. Shires (2-0) probably understands that he has a long way to go before he is a fighter. In his first engagement, with the esoteric Dan Daly, Arthur simply stepped out and smacked Dan on the chin and that was all of that. Shires' brawls with Lena Blackburne were not such strenuous affairs either. The first time Shires met fairly rugged opposition he failed. What would Shires do against a professional fighter when he is called suddenly against a football player whose wind was not the best and who entered the ring with a large roll of flesh amidships? However, Arthur is willing to learn. And he has an alibi for his defeat at the hands of Trafton.

HE CREDITS TRAFTON
"I gave away too much weight but I guess I showed the fans I could take a punch as well as throw one," says Arthur. "I was dizzy for two rounds after George socked me with that right in the first round. But I went out on my own power."

Then, modestly, Arthur adds: "I want to give Trafton full credit, however, for the fight he put up." That shows you how seriously this young ball player takes himself.

HONORS REPORTERS, TOO
Shires gives a great credit to the gentlemen of the press.

"You newspaper fellows have made me," he said the other day. "I'm just another inspiration for stories. The fact that I am good at anything I try is circumstantial, of course."

"I'm just an accident that came upon you people in a dull season. I was along at just the right time for you. During the last year there hasn't been much to write about—the inauguration of a president, the crash, a few catastrophes here and there—but there wasn't much doing at all until I showed up."

Well, well!

every event in which she was entered.

Avenging Parrot

that, and Sevier confirms it. But whether or not he was really sleeping and was aroused by your charming voice, Cap'n just confidently to realize the economic waste and turn it off, who can say? Tenth and last, but by no means least, Cap'n Watson, friend Henry left New York the evening of the very day on which Dan Griffin's wife, Sally Graves, as she called herself, was brutally and mysteriously murdered. Well, what about it, my dear Watson? You're a big juicy fellow. What do you deduce from them?"

The parrot, as if infinitely weary, turned his back upon the loquacious young detective. Dundee shrugged and laughed. "Right you are, my dear Watson. Ten facts, and not one shred of actual proof that Henry Dowd is either Dan Griffin or that he was ever in Mrs. Hogarth's room! Am I barking up the wrong tree, Cap'n? In your honest opinion am I not?"

Cap'n turned slowly about, cocked his head and drooped that paper-thin smile again, giving an effect of sly mirth. "I'm afraid you're right, old man," Dundee agreed. "All well, I simply can't get steamed up about Henry. Just can't bring myself to the point of clapping him on the shoulder and saying, 'The jig is up, Dan Griffin! I charge you with the murder of Sally Griffin, Mrs. Emma Markins, known as Mrs. Emma Hogarth, and Cora Barker. On the other hand facts are facts, and I wish you'd quit winking at them.'"

"Help! Murder! Police!" Cap'n shrieked suddenly. "Yes, Cap'n," Dundee said solemnly. "both you and your mistress warned us, and we let it happen. I'll never forgive myself—but let's get on to my dear Watson!" He cleared his throat huskily. "If Henry Dowd isn't Dan Griffin, who is? I confess I've toyed with the happy theory that Arthur B. Wheeler is no longer with us might be the villain, and Daisy Shepherd his tool, the actual strangler. Now that is your clue for a deep, serious chuckle, Cap'n!"

But the parrot did not laugh. "No?" Dundee raised his eyebrows. "Sorry you're a original source of humor as Watson. You see, neither Dowd nor Wheeler was in New York on June 2. Wheeler is undoubtedly as little like Dan Griffin as a man could be, and granted that Wheeler could so easily desire Mrs. Hogarth's money, he would return here to rob her, or that he would have the power to bribe Daisy, and to rob her, there is no earthly reason why Mrs. Hogarth should have uttered the now historic words, 'Bad penny upon sight of either of them. And furthermore, if Cora Barker had known one atom of evidence against either of them she would not have hesitated to tell it. And still furthermore, Arthur Wheeler is today, and has been continuously for the last two weeks a guest of an extremely low-rate hotel in Chicago, as Lieutenant Strawn looks pains to learn by wire."

Again the parrot turned his back on the detective. "Good, Cap'n? Or simply disgusted with my stupidity?" Dundee asked solemnly. The fact is, Cap'n, I don't know where to look for the 'bad penny,' and yet unless some whole theory is cooked up, he must be living in the house. Lawrence Sharp? Far too old to be Dan Griffin and not conceivably the 'bad penny' to whom Mrs. Hogarth addressed her last remarks. Walter Styles? Parrot-young, and besides, he's practically a native of Hamilton. Forgetting the Dan Griffin theory for the moment, it is possible that Mrs. Hogarth, who, just an hour before had driven him away from her door with her cane, would have halted him jovially or even sarcastically as a 'bad penny,' when he hove over her window sill? Furthermore, Norma Paige has given him an alibi, and that's enough for me."

"Well," the parrot cocked his green-and-yellow head, and drooped his eyes. "So you're on to the fact that the 'bad penny' are you?" Dundee demanded. "Well, to make a shameful confession, Cap'n, my heart has been broken several times before, and will probably be broken again. I seem to have fallen into the habit of adoring girls who are already engaged or married. . . . All of which is beside the point, and I don't blame you for turning your back on me."

"Well, we've only got Bert Magnus left, haven't we, old timer? I do seem to bump into Bert every time I turn a corner in this case, but I think you'll agree that there's only one thing to chalk up against him. He is the only man in the house, besides Henry Dowd, that had never met Mrs. Hogarth. . . . No, I'm forgetting. There's another thing. Bert was in Philadelphia on June 2, and Philadelphia is only two hours from New York. But wait! It's worse than that, and he scribbled among his small collection for a copy of the telegram with which the Philadelphia police department had replied to his request for information regarding Herbert S. Magnus. 'Halt! M. Magnus is still clear Cap'n! Lillian Landlady, Mrs. Christine Starlin, not at home Sunday, June 2 until late afternoon, having spent Saturday and Sunday in Atlantic City but Magnus had supper with family and bed had been slept in Saturday night. . . . Philadelphia. . . . New York, two hours.' Landlady, say!"

He returned the telegram to the table and gazed as he fingered the small collection of trash bag 'clues.' "See how hard up I am for a Dan Griffin, Cap'n? Bert Magnus can't be Dan Griffin because he's indisputably Bert Magnus, formerly of Riverside, California. Didn't leave Riverside until February, 1934, and Dan Griffin was at that very time working in the Belton bank, which he neglected to rob until May of that year. And during those more than five years, Bert has been in regular correspondence with his family. Not only does his family so assure me, through the Riverside chief of police, but I've seen some of the letters with my own eyes. Of course I didn't read them through, Cap'n. Just glanced at them to make sure. He stopped short, then uttering a sharp exclamation, he dashed from the room, not taking the trouble to excuse himself to his strange audience."

Five minutes later he was back in his room, his handsome young face pale with excitement, a open book in his hand. "The skeleton key," he said huskily. "Am I right?" "Well listen, Father is broken because you won't come home, even for a visit, Bert. You know, I'm getting a little afraid he'll die without you again, and as for me, I'm sometimes frightened at the thought that I might not even know my own dear brother if I met him on the street. You see, I was only 12 when you left, and five years is a long time. You haven't even sent us a picture of yourself, and I'm always sending you snapshots. Your letters are wonderful, though, and I'm so glad you're looking at our scenario-writing again. I'm so thrilled. I remember how excited I was over that first story of yours. It was called 'More To Be Pitted,' wasn't it? But I'm sure you have much grander plots now."

Dundee dropped the letter. "Well, I'm Cap'n, want you please to be good and hand on the radio. But without waiting for the radio he plunged out of the room again. It was half an hour before he was back, in one hand a sheet of torn manuscript typed on white bond paper, the other gripping the latest version of "More To Be Pitted," the very script upon which Magnus had been engaged on the night of Mrs. Hogarth's murder. "And there it was in the trash bag all this time, Cap'n! he brightened the bird, as he fitted torn fragments of the white-paper manuscript together. For 10 minutes there was silence in the room, except, for the rustling of paper. Then he read, his eyes darting from the perfectly typed white sheets to the badly typed yellow ones. "Almost word for word the same!" he cried and made a grab for the telephone. "Hello, hello! Police headquarters? . . . Western Union, please! . . . Hello! Western Union? Detective Dundee, homicide Squad, Police Headquarters, speaking. . . . Right! Take a telegram, please to Chauncey Smith, optician, Riverside, California. . . . Ready!" (To Be Continued)

MERRY XMAS FANS!!!

OL' SANT' NUCK FLEED EVERY STOCKING IN THE STUDIO TO THE BRW!!!

I GOT A CONTRACT FROM THE STUDIO CALLING FOR ALL THE HONEY I WANT IN THAT MEANS GIRLS!

AN' LOOK WHAT I GOT—A PAIR OF ROLLER SKATES—NONE SKATE BY?

(GUFF) MMMMM...IT'S 100 PER CENT!

A CLOSE UP OF THE BOTTLE!

SANTA DON'T EVEN FORGET THE GAVE THAT IS VISITING HERE IN THE STUDIO—

IT SAYS—YOU ARE INVITED TO STAY HERE IN THE STUDIO AS LONG AS YOU LIKE—

OH BOY! I'M NEVER GOING TO STAY HERE! I'D PRETTY WELL TOO, DON'T YOU THINK?

CAN YOU IMAGINE IT—A WHOLE BOX OF CHOCOLATE COVERED CHICKEN BONES—

FINAL NOTICE!! ALL GOOFY GANG MEMBERS ARE ORDERED TO BE ON DECK TOMORROW!!

BIG SISTER

AND NOW I SUPPOSE YOU WANT TO KNOW WHERE I'VE BEEN, WELL, SIR, JUST AFTER I WROTE YOU TO COME, HOME MY EMPLOYERS WANTED ME TO DO SOME RUSH WORK IN ANOTHER CITY, SO I WROTE AGAIN TELLING YOU TO WAIT A WHILE.

JUST AS I WAS LEAVING FOR THIS OTHER CITY I GOT A LETTER FROM YOUR AUNT SAYING YOU HAD ALREADY LEFT FOR HOME, SO, THINKING YOU MUST BE HOME BY THEN, I HURRIEDLY WIRED YOU A MESSAGE AND SOME MONEY FROM A SMALL JUNCTION WHERE I CHANGED TRAINS AND WENT ON MY WAY.

I GUESS NOBODY'S HOME. BECAUSE YOU WERE NOT HOME YET THIS WIRE DID NOT REACH YOU AND WAS RETURNED TO THE AGENT AT THE JUNCTION, WHO, NOT KNOWING WHERE I WAS, COULD NOT NOTIFY ME. THREE DAYS AGO I LEFT FOR HOME, AGAIN STOPPING AT THE JUNCTION. THE AGENT RECOGNIZED ME AND, EXPLAINING, GAVE ME MY MONEY DISTRESSED. I ARRIVED HERE CHRISTMAS EVE, PEERING THRU THE WINDOW, TO MY JOY I SAW YOU SAFE AND WELL, AND WHILE YOU SLEPT I SLIPPED IN WITH THE THINGS I'D BROUGHT FOR YOU—

AND HERE WE ARE!

YES, AN' YOU DON'T KNOW HOW GLAD WE ARE TO HAVE YOU!

HIGH PRESSURE PETE

YOU'RE A HECK OF A SPORT, HANK—I ASKED DOLLY TO COME SWIMMING WITH ME, AND THEN YOU BUTT IN!

TUT-TUT—GO DIG YOURSELF UP ANOTHER MAMA!

IDEA!

HEY PETE—WHERE'D YA GET TH' BIG TRUCK HORSE—SOME COW!!—GET THAT TUB OFF BEFORE SHE BREAKS TH' ICE—ETC.—ETC.—ETC.

WHAT'S THAT!

GREAT SCOTT! MY WIFE!!!!

ETTA KETT

HE'S HERE IN NEW YORK!

ONE OF THE BOYS GAVE OVER AND GAVE ME A GIFT—AND I DON'T HAVE ANYTHING FOR HIM—SO I GAVE HIM YOUR PICE!

NEW UP ALL THE NEW DOWN TROCKS YOU SURE DON'T NEED ANY TONG FOR YOUR NERVE!

CAN YOU TIE THAT—GIVING AWAY MY NEW CHRISTMAS PIDE—WHAT DID HE SAY—DID HE KNOW YOU GAVE MY PIDE?

DON'T BE BILLY—BARLOW HASN'T ENOUGH BRAINS TO SUSPECT MY TROCK—BUT HE DO ACT SORT OF FUNNY!

YEAH, I SHOULD THINK HE WOULD! BARLOW IS THE GUY WHO GAVE IT TO ME!

OUT OUR WAY—

HERE'S A LUNCH, YOU'LL NEED IT 'FORE YOU GIT BACK—AN' MAYBE YOU'LL HAVE SOME GROCERIES LEFT WHEN YOU GIT HOME.

Brothers Charged After Victim Dies Of Stab Injuries

Jack And James Milsaps Named In Murder Count; Examining Trial Will Be Held This Week

(By Associated Press) ORANGE, Dec. 25.—Charges of assault with intent to kill against Jack and James Milsaps of Beaumont were changed to murder today following news of the death in Houston of Howard Booth, 28, whom the brothers are accused of beating, stabbing and robbing, on the night of November 27. The Milsaps are held in county jail here.

Thanksgiving morning, Booth was found on the Old Spanish trail, three miles east of Beaumont and was taken to Hotel Dieu in that city. He had been brutally beaten and was exhausted from loss of blood. The Milsaps were arrested by Beaumont officers and turned over to Orange county authorities.

Accidents

(Continued from page 1) The street and carried it to a local garage. BEAUMONT, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Mortie C. was injured today last night when he was struck by an automobile as he stepped from a motor bus at Nederland. He is without recovering consciousness.

Red Cross

(Continued from page 1) care for her child and look at the same time? Laved her three times, did you say, but the county jail will let me care for just one? Well, yes. We can't let a mother who needs her child will allow so much a month for the care of the child.

Democrats Blamed For Mixing Hoover With Tariff Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the national republican congressional committee said last night in a statement that all this incessant effort of bringing the president's name into sugar lobby discussions and mixing his name with the tariff case is a part of the democratic party's strategy to bring about a split in the republican ranks.

Robbery Motive Is Advanced In Death Of Two Arkansans

TEXARKANA, Ark., Dec. 25.—(AP)—With robbery motive advanced as the motive for the slaying of Bud Morgan and Ed Dudley, 25, farmers, with an acre 35 miles north of here, Little River county, Ark., officers tonight searched for the slayer. The bodies of the men were found in a field near Morgan's house last night.

Advertising Has Long Pull Here

An analysis of the local advertising situation is being made by William Levine, manager of the Peoples Store, Lubbock, yesterday published a letter from Tatum N. M., in which the following was included: "I have been in Lubbock, Missouri, for some time, and I could not say there is a long pull to get them out and started."

Poultry Show for Big Spring Carded

BIG SPRING, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Second Annual Poultry show and school will be held in Big Spring, January 16-17, according to Fred Keating, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. Among men of prominence to be here and assist with the show and school will be J. E. Standford, Texas Editor of the Southern Agriculturist. Poultry and dairying has been one of the major agricultural projects to be stressed by the chamber of commerce on its 1930 program and will be among the major activities during 1930, according to C. T. Watson, manager. An additional number of show coops for poultry will be obtained and premiums offered for the persons exhibiting the best birds. Poultry clubs are among the club projects advocated by the county and home demonstration agents in their programs for Howard county.

Prisoner Mobbed

(Continued from page 1) out Fugate's cell, hustled him out and drove away. The jailer's son, Louis Combs, sleeping in an upstairs room, heard the noise and gave the alarm. A deputy sheriff fired a few shots as the crowd drove off and then search was begun. Sheriff E. J. Coekrel was aroused. It was five hours later when Jim Butler, a farmer, heard a man praying and groaning. He summoned help and Fugate was brought to the hospital here. It was not believed that he could survive the wounds and exposure. He had been shot in the head, body and limbs and had suffered greatly from lying in the heavy snow at the bottom of the ditch. He had been buried some 20 feet from the roadway.

Democrats Blamed For Mixing Hoover With Tariff Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the national republican congressional committee said last night in a statement that all this incessant effort of bringing the president's name into sugar lobby discussions and mixing his name with the tariff case is a part of the democratic party's strategy to bring about a split in the republican ranks.

Hoover's Christmas Marred By Fire In Executive Office; His Files Are Saved; Structure Is To Be Rebuilt

President's Observance Of Holiday Broken Into Tuesday Night; Offices To Be In Living Quarters

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—President Hoover left his living quarters in the White House and their Christmas decorations today to inspect the charred and soaked interior of the executive offices, where yesterday he had cleared his desk preparatory to enjoying a restful holiday.

So far as Christmas Eve was concerned, it was anything but restful. As the president and Mrs. Hoover sat at dinner with their son and with the children of the White House secretaries as party guests, an alarm of fire reached the table.

Mr. Hoover and the men diners blazing themselves and watched the destruction of the recently remodelled offices. Today the president decided the structures should be rebuilt immediately.

He conferred with Col. U. S. Grant, superintendent of public buildings and grounds here, who was requested to have contractors notified that bids would be asked early tomorrow.

In the meantime 20 carpenters placed timbers under the sagging roof to prevent it from falling.

Christmas Day started as does every morning for the president—in a frolicsome game of tossing the medicine ball. His partners were Secretary Wilbur, Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board; Lieut. Commander Joel T. Boone, the White House physician; and Mark Sullivan, a friend.

To Be In Living Rooms
Tomorrow office work of the White House will be carried on in the living quarters. Mr. Hoover will occupy the historic Lincoln study.

George Akerson, one of his secretaries who assisted in rescuing the documents in the president's desk last night, will use the ancient cabinet table of President John Adams as a desk in the hall outside.

Walter Newton and Lawrence Richey, two other secretaries, will have their offices in bedrooms adjoining.

Within three or four days, the entire executive offices will be moved to the state, war and navy building, which is just across the street from the building destroyed. The room the president will use there for the rest of the winter will be one occupied by secretaries of the navy until the removal of the navy department to another building during the World War. In late years it has been at the disposal of General John J. Pershing for an office.

The cabinet has been called to meet as usual on Friday. Instead of gathering around the big table in the cabinet room, the room and the table having been badly wrecked the department heads will confer with their chief in the Lincoln study. All other business likewise will be conducted from there.

Files Are Saved
A check-up today revealed that all the presidential files except those in the basement had been carried to safety, and they were only slightly damaged by water. Newton, however, lost an accumulation of papers gathered during the 10 years he was a member of the house of representatives.

Akerson informed newspaper men that experts had told the president all the evidence pointed to a short circuit in the wiring as the cause of the blaze. He said it was likely poor wiring had been done when the work of remodeling was in progress three months ago.

Guard Placed Around Grounds
A guard of soldiers placed around the White House grounds last night was withdrawn today and Executive avenue, which runs alongside the burned building, was a promenade for interested Washingtonians who missed the excitement of the actual burning.

The street was covered with ice caused by the freezing of tons of water which poured down onto it.

Unless a person could show that he had business in the White House grounds, no one was allowed to enter. Scores of workmen were cleaning up the wreckage and carting files to the main building.

Inspects Ruins
In his inspection trip, the president went from the top of the ruined building to the basement. He showed a keen interest in the methods of experts who attempted to find the cause of the blaze and

Christmas Breaks Up Alimony Club

Twelve Husbands Freed For Holidays, But Not Longer; By Judge; Reconciliation Of Couple Affected

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 25. (AP)—The magic spell of Christmas tide penetrated the stone walls and iron bars of the alimony club today and gave 12 husbands their liberty for the holidays, if not longer.

Judge Joseph Sabath was the medium through which the Christmas spirit worked, freeing the dozen men in jail for failure to meet the court's alimony orders.

Selathial Dillenbeck, alimony clubman was in jail for not paying his first wife $1,300. She was in court when he was released and after he told the judge freedom did not do much good since he had no carfare to get home to his second wife, the first wife stepped forward and handed him a $5 bill.

Another of the men, Gerhardt Johnson, in arrears $110, walked out of court arm in arm with his wife, Judge Sabath effecting the reconciliation.

Still another went back to jail. He was Walter Snyder, whose answers to the judge's questions regarding a possible settlement of the alimony differences were so defiant the court ordered him returned to his cell.

All those freed were given until February 5 to make some arrangements for meeting their alimony payments or else go back to jail.

Medical Journal Comments On Falk's Discovery

CHICAGO, Dec. 25. (AP)—Publishing the preliminary report of Dr. I. S. Falk of the University of Chicago on his isolation of the influenza germ, the Journal of the American Medical Association in this week's issue says that while Dr. Falk's work is of great interest, it does not warrant the assumption that the way to an influenza vaccine has been found.

"The University of Chicago investigators do not seem to have gone far beyond previous research on influenza," says the journal.

walked with them over the charred rafters of the attic where the fire had made such headway.

In his own office he faced a desolate sight. Long strips of heavy green wall coverings were torn away and the floors were buckled by heat and water. The ceiling had been ripped out and had crashed onto his desk, covering it with plaster and plaster netting.

The great grand chandelier which hung in the center of the room was in a closet alongside with a small iron safe. The desk later was removed to a porch on the east side of the building.

Dallas Officers Holding Hijackers

DALLAS, Dec. 25. (AP)—Police today believed they had in custody two men who paid their way from Washington state to Dallas by hijacking expeditions in the towns through which they passed in a stolen car.

The men were arrested at Will Point last night two hours after a filling station here had been held up and $75 taken. Brought back to Dallas, the men made a statement, police said. Their car, according to police, was stolen in Washington, license plates were appropriated in Los Angeles, and travelling expenses from kind-hearted filling station attendants approached under the guise of seeking directions.

Detectives communicated with towns along the route to learn whether other filling stations had been robbed by two men in a large car with a California license.

Snook Loses Out In Second Appeal From Death Chair

Convicted Slayer Must Die On Night Of January 31, State Supreme Court Decision Says

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 25.—Dr. James Howard Snook, former Ohio State University professor, convicted slayer of Theora Hix, his co-ed mistress, was a step closer to death in the electric chair tonight as a result of the state supreme court refusing his motion for the right to file a petition in error and for a review of his conviction.

In a decision signed by five of the seven judges of the state's highest tribunal, the court dismissed the motion for right to file a petition in error and this action automatically threw out motion for a review.

The court's decision came as a surprise for it had granted the killer of the pretty co-ed a stay of execution until January 31, next.

As the case now stands Snook must go to his death in the electric chair at Ohio penitentiary here the night of January 31. His counsel, however, publicly said an appeal would be carried to the United States Supreme court and if necessary to Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio.
