City Council For Retarded Children Is Organized In Burk

Burkburnett Auxiliary Council for Retarded Children, which was organized last week, is holding its first meeting on Tuesday, March 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The council is organized to help the state of Texas to be the second state in the nation to have a council for retarded children. The council is organized to help the state of Texas to be the second state in the nation to have a council for retarded children. The council is organized to help the state of Texas to be the second state in the nation to have a council for retarded children.

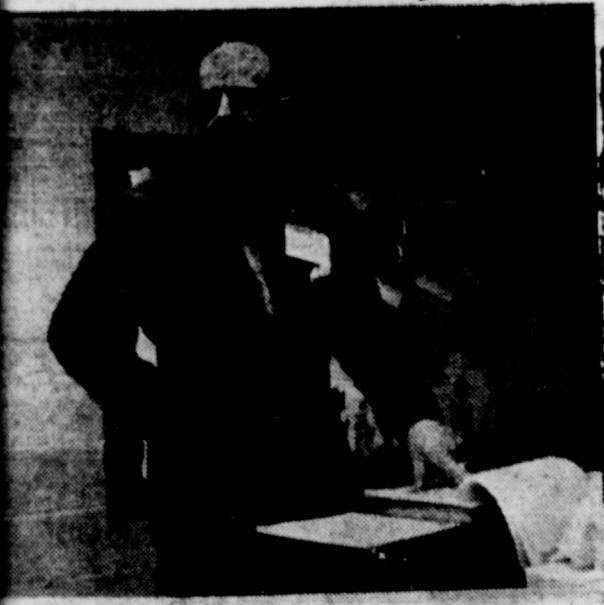

Open House Is Slated Tuesday At High School

Burkburnett High School will hold open house, Tuesday, March 8, 7 to 9 p.m. All faculty members and administration will be in the buildings to meet parents and patrons of the school. Serving as guides will be members of the National Honor Society, announced Society President Jimmy Creel. These students will be prepared to answer questions about school activities.

Local Births

Births were recorded last week to the following local parents, Messrs. and Mesdames: Samuel Leo Cash, boy, Gregory Lyle. Billy Ray Davis, boy, Douglas Aaron. Raymond Ray Pyatt, boy, Roy Lee. Melvin Henry Ruff, girl, Cathy Louise.

Council President Speaks

Pointing out the fact that of the 300,000 Texans who are mentally retarded, only one in one hundred is represented by council membership, Clifford Schmitt urges people of Burkburnett to organize an Auxiliary Council for Retarded Children. Schmitt is President of the Falls Council for Retarded Children.

Auxiliary Council Officers

Newly elected officers of the Burkburnett Auxiliary Council for Retarded Children are pictured, left to right, Clifford Schmitt, President; Mrs. Violet Perry, Vice-President; Mrs. Beth More, Secretary and SM/Sgt. Noe More, Treasurer. Mental Retardation affects three of every 100 people in the United States. Purpose of the Council is to promote the general welfare and to plan comprehensive programs to meet the needs of the mentally retarded.

Among Other Matters

LaWANDA HENRY

In answer to the question about the proper name for Burk residents, Rosy Roark says we are Boomtowners. Are we?

For as long as we can remember, J. T. Gillis has been nagging us to take pictures of citizens of Burkburnett and to interview them. We suspect Gillis just wants his picture in the paper. NO, we don't suspect it—we know it! But in spite of the source of this—we think it's a good idea for a weekly feature. We believe most people have thoughts worth sharing with their fellow townspeople. So—if the Boss gives us the go-ahead, we may be taking your picture and asking questions—such as—What do you like about your town and what CONSTRUCTIVE thoughts do you have on how to improve your town?

Last week we had chosen as nice guy nomination of the week, Mr. A. R. Hill. Seems our view was not only shared, but topped. It couldn't have happened to a nicer man.

Youth from 13 to 17, interested in Civil Air Patrol Cadet Program, if you want more information about this program, call Sgt. Gates at 569-1924 after 6:30 p.m.

"My father had a sense of humor," N. O. Moore, youngest of ten, told us. Fortunately N. O. also has a sense of humor!

Have noted as we walk through the Burk Star, that all of us here talk to the machinery we operate! One talks to the phone. BEFORE the receiver is lifted.

Hardin P-TA To Sponsor 'Keeping Children Healthy'

As part of the P-TA sponsored project for continuous supervision of children's health, a house to house canvass conducted by the Committee for the Hardin P-TA health study begins in the near future. All parents in Hardin School District, whether or not they are P-TA members, will be asked to fill out questionnaires giving health information about each child in the family, from infants through high school students.

The aim of the program is to encourage parents to have each child's health and teeth checked from time to time by his family physician and dentist after he has entered school as well as before, and to follow up on treatment that he needs, such as inoculations that he may have missed or care of physical defects that are discovered.

If the plan is successful it will also mean that every child in school will have a permanent health record kept up to date, one that can be transferred if a family moves to another community.

The Hardin P-TA Unit has the full support of Mr. I. C. Evans, Superintendent of schools, Mr. Morris Simonson, Principal of Hardin Grade School, and Mrs. Letha Moore, School Nurse. If you would like to help with this project please get in touch with one of the above names or Mrs. J. S. Brown, President of Hardin P-TA.

Bloodmobile To Visit Burk

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Burkburnett Wednesday, March 9th, at the Burkburnett Bank Community Room. Shown above with signs to be placed at various points in town are: Clyde Conway, President of the Boomtown Jaycees; Jim Johnson; Mrs. Betty Smith, President of the Burkburnett Study Club and Winford Henry. The Jaycees, Henry's Bakery and Preston Dairy will furnish refreshments to blood donors. Mr. Johnson will be serving these refreshments. The Burkburnett Study Club will assist in with the collection of blood.

Cornelius Named CAP Cadets Pay To Insurance Club Visit To Lawton

Nineteen agents of Century Life Insurance Company, Fort Worth, have earned membership in the 1966 Century President's Club as a result of their outstanding individual insurance production records in 1965.

Century President Wm. J. Laidlaw, Jr., announced that T. M. Cornelius of Burkburnett, was named to the President's Club. To be eligible for membership in the President's Club, an agent must write at least $600,000 worth of insurance in a year, and at least 90 per cent of his insurance written in the past two years must still be in force.

Awards will be presented to the 1966 President's Club members at Century's annual sales conference in April in Fort Worth.

YOUR CHAMBER SPEAKS THROUGH THE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITTEE

One of the committees of your Chamber of Commerce for the year 1966 is the "Community Development Committee" composed of Arnold Oliver, Chairman, Mrs. P. A. Carpenter, Lewis Gray Jr., Harold Kennedy, Neal Tullis, and Jess Whitley as members.

The basic goals and objectives of this committee are to seek out and identify community problems, to establish priorities and courses of action to bring about the solution or improvement of these problems.

One of the first actions taken by this committee was to recommend to the Board of Directors that Burkburnett enter and participate in "Operation SPARKLE in '68", an action which the Board quickly complied with.

"Operation SPARKLE in '68" is a two year program of Community Improvement aimed at attracting visitors to culminate in 1968 when Texas will have the greatest inflow of visitors in its history with the HEMISFAIR being held in San Antonio and the OLYMPIC GAMES meeting in Mexico City and Lions International meeting in Dallas. This program is sponsored by the Tourist Development Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. This program is open to any city in the 132 counties served by the WTCC.

Burkburnett has a tremendous geographical advantage over many other cities in that it greets any visitors entering Texas from the north. This immediately brings to mind the old saying "the first impression is the lasting impression."

Plans are already underway for beautifying the main entrances to Burkburnett on the expressway. In conjunction with the Tourist Promotion Committee, other plans and projects will be mapped in the near future as priorities dictate. We are most fortunate in this community to have a vehicle available to carry out those plans in the form of the Community Service Council.

Winners will be announced and awards presented at the 50th annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in April of 1968. Whether or not we receive an award, Burkburnett will be a winner in this contest in that anything done to improve our community during this period will be with us even after Operation Sparkle is over and will greatly contribute to making Burkburnett a better place to live and be proud of.

If you have an idea which might be helpful, please contact any member of the Chamber of Commerce or call our Chamber Manager, Buddy Byars.

Retiring Mobil Oil Co. Employees Are Honored With Open House

Local High School Band Banquet Is Held Recently

The Burkburnett High School Band banquet, sponsored annually by the Band Parents Club, was held February 28th. Theme of the evening was "Moon River" with Andy Williams "Moon River" album providing dinner music.

Highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Band Sweetheart, Peggy Anderson. Miss Anderson was presented with a sweetheart bracelet. Crown was carried by Brian Blankenship.

Janice Ballinger was first runner-up for the sweetheart title and Clydette Cox was second runner up.

Master of the evening's ceremonies was Brent Walker, band president. Special guests were: Band Director Wilkerson and Mrs. Wilkerson, Band Director Jimmie McClain and Mrs. McClain, High School Principal and Mrs. James Pearson and Curriculum Director and Mrs. Hal Mabray. Invited, but unable to attend were Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hill.

Band jackets were presented by Mr. Mabray. David Mooney received the Arion award of the year.

Entertainment was provided by "The Townsment," from Wichita Falls.

A teen-age dance followed the banquet, sponsored by Band Parents' Club. Music by "The Knaves."

Garland Elected To Angus Group

Truman Garland, Burkburnett, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announces Glen Bratcher, secretary.

There were 538 memberships issued to breeders of registered Aberdeen-Angus in the United States during the past month.

The Cafetorium of Burkburnett High School was the scene March 3, of an open house held in honor of two retiring Mobil Oil Company employees.

Presented plaques of appreciation for forty years service each were John A. Durham and Haskell (Hack) Foster, Joe Morris of Wichita Falls, production superintendent of Mobil Oil Co. made the presentations.

Durham began service with the company in Olney, Texas in 1925 as a roustabout. He came to Burkburnett in 1948 as production foreman and retired April 1, as senior production foreman. His plans are to continue living in Burkburnett.

He and his wife, Josephine, live at 729 West 3rd. They have two children, Son, Kenneth is a Marine stationed in Viet Nam and daughter, Mary Helen is a senior at Texas Tech.

H. O. (Hack) Foster retires as a welding foreman April 1. He began service in Duncan, Oklahoma when he was 18 years old. Twenty-five of Foster's 40 years of employment with Mobil Oil Co. were spent in Kilgore, Texas. He was stationed in Kermit for a time and has been in Burkburnett for five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster have five children, Alford, on leave from the Air Force, Mrs. Imogene Deventer, Tucson, Arizona, Paul Lyn, Russellville, Alabama, Mrs. Carolyn Hodges, Clovis, New Mexico and James, a student at Midwestern University. The Fosters reside at 303 South Holly.

An estimated 200 people attended the open house and saw master of ceremonies Jim Shipman present to Mr. Durham, a long-handled shovel mounted and inscribed, "To John Durham. This shovel and John made 40-plus years with Mag and Mobil, July 2, 1925 to April 1, 1966—From the boys."

Mr. Durham plans to hang this "plaque" from his co-workers, over the fireplace of his lake cabin. A fishing rod and reel were also presented.

Foster received a U.S. savings bond from Mobil Oil Co. employees and an antique cutting torch, mounted. The inscription read: "To Hack, this torch and Hack started with the company March 26, 1926 to April 1, 1966—From the boys."

OBLIGATION OF GOVERNMENT

A bill has been introduced in Congress which, if passed, will shift the cost of federal meat inspection from the government to the meat industry. And it has met with strong—and completely justified—criticism from industry leaders.

A statement issued jointly by the American Meat Institute, the National Independent Meat Packers Association, and the Western States Meat Packers Association goes to the heart of the matter. In its words, "In 1906, Congress established the principle that the cost of meat inspection should be borne by the government as an essential public health service. This principle was reaffirmed by the Congress in 1948.

"It is wrong in principle and contrary to the public interest when a regulatory agency of the government is paid for by the industry it regulates."

Meat inspection is not a voluntary service. It is mandatory for products moving in interstate commerce and currently covers about 85 per cent of all commercial livestock slaughter in this country. Meat inspection is a public health activity. It is administered by a government agency, the Department of Agriculture. It is a proper obligation of the government.

CREATING POVERTY

A leaflet published by a union states: "This session of Congress must also increase the amount and broaden the coverage of the FEDERAL MINIMUM WAGE—the most effective means of combatting poverty."

This union is entitled to its views and to press for legislation which it wants. But a great many people who have studied the matter hold grave doubts that increase after increase in the minimum wage, coupled with broadened coverage, is the way to help the poor. In fact, they think it is more likely to have the opposite result.

To begin with, arbitrarily increased wage rates, which are not geared in any way to a worker's value and productivity, cannot help but force commodity prices up and give another boost to inflation. The burden of that must fall on those least able to bear the added burden—pensioners, recipients of welfare, and the great numbers of people who live on modest fixed incomes from one source or another. It is certainly evident that every time prices rise more poverty is automatically created.

Secondly, these arbitrary wage rates which are not reflected in productivity can severely limit opportunity for employment. The employer is forced to cut marginal employment to the greatest extent he can. This is especially apparent in such service businesses as retailing. And thus the unskilled have less chance to get jobs and gain the experience that will qualify them for higher pay.

Many a plan, well intended for improving the lot of lower-income groups, has boomeranged. That is inevitable when wage rates are pegged by fiat at unreasonable levels.

BUSY AS BIRD DOGS

The growth of the natural gas industry has been among the striking phenomena of recent times. In region after region, demand has soared with no end in sight, and the investor-owned gas utilities have been kept as busy as bird dogs in meeting it.

Southern California, whose population increase has been nothing short of stupifying, provides a striking example. There small local gas companies were combined into an integrated distribution system which is the largest in the world. In 1947, the managements of the two gas distribution utilities pooled their efforts and resources to undertake the first pipeline bringing out-of-state gas into the area. These investor-owned companies have followed a simple but vitally important guideline: To provide the greatest advantages to all customers.

And the customers, as the statistics show, like what it offered. Since the end of World War II, the companies have been adding new customers at the rate of about 100,000 a year as of a recent date, their number totaled more than 2.85 million. And servicing these gas users is a job of king-sized proportions. For instance, in a single year, as many as four million calls are made in customers' homes, to turn on or turn off gas meters and to inspect or adjust appliances.

The utilities, let it be emphasized, are good citizens of the multitude of communities they serve—and they are big and dependable taxpayers. Those are dominant characteristics of investor-owned enterprise.

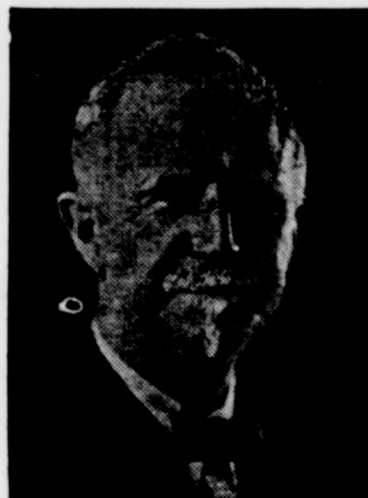

It's Summertime

SENeca was right, as hundreds of thousands of modern Americans learn to their sorrow every summer. They know how easy it is to get sunburnt, and just how painful, inconvenient, and unattractive that sunburn can be. Summer is often a time for other burns, also—burns from barbecues, burns from camp fires. They, too, can be very painful.

ANCIENT ROMANS could do little but grin and bear the pain of burns. This is where times have changed. Soothing, long-acting, anesthetic Nupercainal Cream will relieve the pain and itching of most cases of simple burns and sunburn. But remember that severe or extensive sunburn or other burns can be serious. In such cases, consult a physician promptly.

Roger W. Babson Weekly Report

INFLATION

Babson Park, Mass. — Inflation is in the air. Nearly everybody is talking about it. Only a handful of people know anything about it. And, unfortunately, those who claim to know are now busily disagreeing with each other as to how serious it is and whether something should be done about it or not.

What It Is

Old-school economists say that inflation is a climb in the money supplies of a nation greater than the increases in that country's output of goods and services. More or less humorously, it has been said that inflation is too much money chasing too few goods around.

Such definitions are undoubtedly correct . . . as far as they go. But what Mr. and Mrs. Consumer know is that inflation means rising costs for everything they have to buy. Furthermore, they have learned in previous periods of rapidly rising prices that the cost of food, clothing, rents, services, etc., has a nasty habit of advancing at a faster pace than their income. For all of us then, inflation is simply mounting prices and costs. The more rapid the spiral, the greater the hurt.

Why It Is Bad

Frustrating though inflation may be for the wage or salary earner, there is always hope that a raise may come along. Of course, the pay increase will never catch up with the zoom in prices and costs. But it does give hope of a catchup some day.

In inflation, however . . . for the elderly, the pensioner, the thrifty saver of small means . . . there is not even hope. This group has "had it," as far as being able to maintain the purchasing power of their savings or their income from pensions is concerned. Think of it—in the past two decades alone, the purchasing power of our dollar has been slashed by two-fifths! Those who retired at the end of World War II (and there are many still living) have had their visions of a comfortable existence as senior citizens rudely jarred. Some are in dire straits. But today's crop of older people in small contrasted with the big bulge in over-65ers who will be coming along in the next two decades. By permitting inflation to snowball now, we are assuring this increasing segment of our population that they will be afflicted with years of misery in the 1970's and 1980's.

The Breakout

1965 may prove a landmark in the inflation that now seriously threatens. For it was in that year that wholesale prices broke out of the long rut they had been marking from 1958 through 1964. In those seven years wholesale prices varied only a tiny bit; but last year they soared 3%. And the pace appeared to be accelerating as the year closed and the new one opened.

Not to be outdone, the plodding advance in consumer prices—which had been climbing something over 1% annually—suddenly spurred, racking up a gain in 1965 of 2%. Worse still, our studies suggest that the hardship of this 2% hike was much greater than the figures indicate; for meat, the big item in the housewife's food budget, rose over 13%, with beef prices alone soaring double that figure.

Behind the Bulge

The behind-the-scenes spade-work for today's price spurts has been long in the making. The great moving force has been mushrooming credit—at historic rates and quantities. Then take wage increases above productivity gains, Uncle Sam's continued budget deficits, more spending abroad than foreigners spend here . . . and you have a pretty good formula for inflation. But if you add the jetpursuit of spending for Vietnam (for things that will be thrown away) you have a super-duper concoction of a nation-rocking economic blowoff.

Can Anything Be Done?

Our prescription for the avoidance of inflation and its grim consequences is more spiritual than economic: Avoid greed! The greed of business, the greed of strong unions, the greed of politicians seeking votes at all costs . . . these greeds combine to push us closer to the inflation precipice. Each group must ask itself: Is it good for the country? Certainly not: Is it good for me? The nation is at war, and sacrifices should extend behind the lines of battle. For the duration, more taxes and less affluence may save us all from great woe later.

Time to Pray..

Life can be so full and active... There are the school hours, time for study, and for a growing child there must be recreation. Also a time for eating is necessary, and a time to be with the family. One of the most needed times is to be with God in prayer. There are times that we should give thanks to God for our food, and times to seek his guidance and watch-care, and there are times to pray with others. This we can do by attending church.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

CONSTRUCTION BOOM IN JEDDA

Jedda, Saudi Arabia—(HK)—The Red Sea port city of Jedda, which receives hundreds of thousands of pilgrims and other visitors a year, is undergoing a construction boom.

In fact, Mayor Ali Fadak said the city now has no unemployment at all, but instead is faced with a labor shortage.

Economic stability and security are the most important factors in encouraging the boom and construction, Mr. Fadak said. A rise in per capita income also plays a major role.

As a result of these incentives, the city last year issued more than one thousand licenses for building private houses, and 400 for large buildings.

The city, which is the gateway to Mecca, averages not less than $2.22 million a year for the opening, asphalt and beautification of streets. Nearly 50 streets were paved last year, the Mayor noted.

An additional $444,000 is budgeted for new streets this year.

Among other projects now being pushed by the municipality are:

... A modern slaughter house, for which more than $750,000 has been allocated;

... A scenic seashore boulevard;

... A new, modern fishery;

... An auditorium, to be called King Faisal Hall, to be used for lectures, pilgrim affairs and other purposes.

Among the city's largest projects is the Employees City, which is to provide for the needs of low-income workers, the Mayor said. It will include 658 modern houses, including public utilities and parks.

Another major undertaking is a sewage system for Jedda. A contract has been awarded to a British firm for the complete technical study of the project, which is now under way. The system has thus far been allocated an appropriation of more than $1 million. It is expected to take four years to complete, Mayor Fadak said.

NEED STORAGE SPACE? STEAL IT — with steel!

New York—(HK)—A simple and inexpensive way to solve your home storage-space problem is with sturdy, warp-proof steel shelving units and steel peg board.

Shelves are useful in every area of the home. Don't overlook the backs of closets or cabinets as a place for extra shelves. They can also be freestanding to serve as storage tables and benches.

There are a variety of steel shelves that come ready-made, and one of the most versatile is a steel shelving unit that is much like a youngster's Erector set. Using slotted steel angles which come packed with corner braces, nuts and bolts, storage frames for shelving can be readily assembled.

When lack of space makes shelving unfeasible, strong steel hook board is recommended. Made of cold rolled sheet steel, it can support heavy items without the board's being distorted. Steel peg board can be used in the garage, work room, den, tool shed, recreation room, kitchen, or laundry room for hanging such items as power tools, power lawn mowers, shovels, garden sprinklers, sporting equipment, household utensils, etc. The material can also be used for room dividers, plant holders and wall partitions.

NEW STUDY:

211,000 Dealers Compete For Gasoline Sales in U.S.

New York—(HK)—A new study shows that competition has become "rough, tough and hazardous" among the nation's 211,000 retail dealers for their respective share of the 175 million gallons of gasoline sold daily throughout the U. S.

Savage price wars frequently contribute to the problems of the service station, the majority of which are owned by independent businessmen.

These price wars occur because of constant demand for gasoline. California, for example, uses more gasoline than any other state in the Union, 6.9 billion gallons a year. Latest figures compiled by the American Petroleum Institute show that the Golden State is followed in consumption by New York, Texas, Illinois and Ohio.

The survey also showed that the smallest consumers of gasoline were Alaska, Hawaii, Vermont, Wyoming and Delaware.

The report showed that California, as the top consumer, also had the largest number of service stations, 17,545. Texas, New York, and Pennsylvania followed in that order. Alaska has only 104 gasoline stations, Hawaii, 442; Vermont, 548; and Nevada 555.

Harold M. Fleming, who conducted the study on competition concluded that gasoline marketing has grown on the principle, "Let the best man win!"

Fleming, who published his report in the recent book, "Gasoline Prices and Competition", said there were two reasons for the highly competitive nature of the gasoline business:

- 1) The freedom with which people can enter it, price their gasoline, and use different selling methods;
- 2) The ease with which the buyer, the motorist, can examine the market in his normal travels.

Feeding Pets Is Big Business

New York—(HK)—Americans spent more than $700 million for commercial pet food in 1965 to feed 26 million dogs, 28 million cats, 20 million canaries and parakeets plus some 23 million aquatic pets.

Steelways, publication of American Iron and Steel Institute, said the pet food industry has grown from a purr to a roar in the past 20 years and about 3,000 firms now manufacture or market dog or cat foods.

The publication said that about two billion steel cans for pet food are produced annually, or about 41 cans for each household. The canned dinners vary from completely balanced diets of proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals and vitamins to gourmet mixtures of liver, chicken, turkey, bacon kidney and eggs.

Steelways noted there are twice as many household pets as families in this country. In some neighborhoods they outnumber humans three to one. Investment in pets, plus the amount spent on their upkeep, totals about two billion dollars.

Petdom USA is estimated at more than 100 million cats, dogs, aquatic pets, canaries parakeets—plus uncounted millions of hamsters, rabbits, chameleons, monkeys, mice, ocelots, crickets crabs and others.

The industry has a big potential, since statistics of the Pet Food Institute in Chicago show that at present commercial foods supply only about one-fifth of the total caloric intake of the nation's cats and only about one-third of the needs of dogs.

P-TA Holds Monthly Meeting Recently; Establish Library Memorial

P-TA met for the meeting at 7:30 p.m. on March 5th. The meeting was held at the Hardin Grade School. The P-TA presented a report from the committee by Mrs. V. Bruce. Also it was voted to raise the dues for the year, 1967-1968. Also a project was decided upon. Mrs. W. T. Zimmerman presented the program. The theme was for the Founders' Day program. Two Texas life memberships were presented to Mrs. J. S. Brown, President and Miss Jewell Reed, a third grade teacher. Mrs. Zimmerman also presented a check to Mrs. Morris Simpson to set a memorial fund for Mrs. Dessie Grubbs, a former teacher at Hardin Primary School, for the new library. All donations will be accepted and the persons will be recognized. These donations will be given to Mr. Simpson.

Mrs. Essie West won the attendance award in the Primary. Mrs. Ruth Forrest won the Hardin Building. The coffee and cake were served. Almost 75 members. The next meeting will be March 12th.

AFB Hospital Receives Special Commendation

Sheppard AFB — The USAF Hospital at Sheppard was commended recently for maintaining standards deserving of recognition by the Joint Commission Accreditation of Hospitals.

This communication is the result of a detailed survey and action conducted in January. With this action the hospital was fully accredited for a third year. This maximum accreditation symbolizes the highest level of excellence in all of medical procedures and patient care. It demonstrates the responsibility of the medical sector of our society to regulate, audit and disseminate.

The program comes under the major member organization which set the standards; American College of Surgeons, American College of Physicians, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association. The accreditation survey teams include the competence of the medical staff, their technical skills, diagnostic acumen, the physical plant, para-medical and ancillary support, administrative procedures and the completeness of recording and filing all case records. Reviewed are the educational programs, the academic standards and the research programs, all of which contribute to providing current and quality care for the Air Force community.

By Mary Whitman

Christopher Columbus, had freckles.

Lions live ten years longer than tigers, even though they're identical under the skin.

When there were a million Indians in North America, there were fifteen million Indians in South America.

"Unusual facts — human interest — help history, and geography come alive," believes George Elrick, who has written nine adventure stories to go with new juvenile map sets designed by Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wisconsin.

The General Whitman book-and-map series is a fresh approach to teaching, and can be used at school or at home. Boys whose heads nod over a wheat surplus will sit up and take notice when the trouble-shooting General roars through a country. Each of his adventures in book form can be followed on a full-color, up-to-date map.

The globe-trotting young General travels by jet, is a racing car buff, and can keep his balance on elephant or camel. On a reconnaissance jaunt through Egypt, the young reader learns about camels. They can go a month without water but can drink twenty-five gallons in three minutes. He learns about early engineering, too. The Great Pyramid was built with hand labor and measured with a knotted string but was only a half-inch off perfection.

The youngster also learns to visualize as he reads, points out researcher Elrick, who pored through twenty or more reference books a day preparing the stories. The Great Wall of China becomes properly massive to a student when he learns it would reach from New York to Omaha. History and culture are sketched in a way to whet curiosity, and start a grammar-schooler leafing through his text books and making trips to the library.

Geography can be a jumping class when the answers are free to find.

New Form Of Fluorides Cuts Tooth Decay

Vitamins with fluorides taken daily can reduce cavities in children up to 63 percent, three Indiana University dental scientists have discovered. Their study showed that the vitamin-fluoride product can be as effective in preventing dental caries as fluoridated water.

This is the first time a controlled study using a type of fluoride administration that appears to be acceptable and practical for general use has shown results comparable to water fluoridation.

Their research project, reported in the Journal of Dentistry for Children, demonstrated that:

- After 36 months of product use, there was a reduction in dental caries of 63 percent in the primary teeth.
- In the permanent teeth, dental caries were reduced 43 percent after three years of product use. Most of the children were too young to accumulate much experience with permanent teeth, however.

Dr. Joseph C. Muhler, reporting for the dentists, stated that the fluoride-vitamin supplements used in the study (Tri-Vi-Flor drops, Poly-Vi-Flor drops and Poly-Vi-Flor chewable tablets) are an effective and practical method of supplying fluoride when it cannot be obtained through central or municipal water supplies.

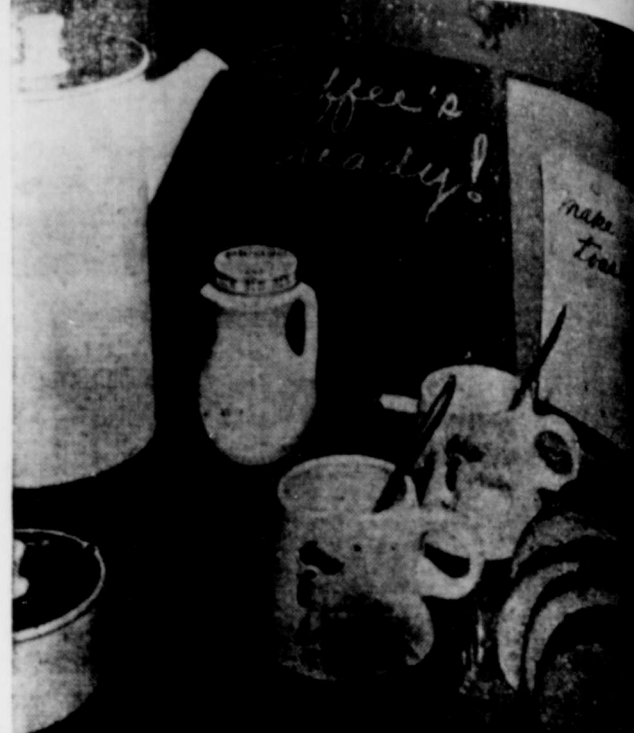

The results of this study are important because 63 percent of the population does not have access to fluoridated water supplies, recommended by dentists as the simplest method of protecting teeth against dental caries.

In the Indiana study, children as young as possible were included; 86 percent were under three years old. This was done because it is known that fluorides ingested in the body help teeth that are forming and calcifying, but have not yet erupted through the gums. In these children's temporary teeth, the reduction in tooth decay was evident after only 16 months of product use. Benefits increased as use continued.

The report stressed that the greatest benefit of the fluoride-vitamin supplement would be gained when taken from the earliest possible age through the time when the permanent teeth are formed — about age 8-10.

Parent and parent acceptance of this form of fluoride supplement proved high. Very few children withdrew from the study, the scientists said, evidently because the habit of taking daily vitamins had already been established. In a previous study of sodium fluoride tablets alone, nearly 80 percent withdrew.

Coffee Nook For Early Birds

Welcome early birds with a steaming pot of coffee. When Dad slips in for a first glimpse at the paper. When anxious guests wander down, although brunch is planned for mid-morning. For all who gather in the kitchen eager for conversation, set a coffee corner.

It need not be elaborate, but arrange a help-yourself tray with all the "fixins." In a cozy spot away from the work center, set out cups and saucers the night before. First thing in the morning, plug in or brew fresh coffee or tea. For heartier appetites, have bread ready to toast. And if you like, jam and a glass of fruit juice rounds off a snack out to a well-balanced breakfast.

Most important, though, wake-up cup of coffee is the best cup of the day. It's readily available and it's creamed. Now you can serve it just right with it. It's the non-dairy "cream" the pitcher-package that to the table ready for a screaming need. Good in tea or hot chocolate, it's perfect flavor. It's a serving and low-calorie, it's the modern way to luxury touch to favorite drinks.

For family or guests, or late breakfast, "ready" goes best with any dairy "cream."

OUR HEALTH

by J. M. Amberson, M.D.

Winter Health Hazards

Although we enjoy the invigorating cold snap in the air and the exhilarating sports of the season, winter is rife with health hazards.

Skis, skates, and sleds can spell fun, but they also can be potential dangers. Falls and spills are common after a year of inactivity. Don't spoil your winter with recklessness. Shoveling sidewalks to make them safe for others can mean a health hazard for you. Slipping, naturally, is the prime danger. But muscle and, more important, heart strain are unfortunately too often the result of this "do-it-yourself" attempt. You may find it cheaper in the long run to pay a local teenager to do the chore for you.

Upper respiratory infections (URI) are the most common health hazard in winter. In a recent year, nearly 200,000,000 acute respiratory illnesses required medical attention, not to mention the hundreds of thousands of cases never attended to by physicians.

Now that winter is in full blast, you may be interested in learning about a new oral anesthetic solution which is available in pharmacies without a prescription. Called Chloraseptic, clinicians have found it quite effective for relieving the pain of a sore throat due to cold — often pain relief achieved in within seconds after spraying or gargling.

Let me caution you, however, that Chloraseptic or medications like aspirin should be used when there are no complications such as high fever, malaise, or if the sore throat only lasts for a brief time. If you have a high fever or other complications, or if the cold or sore throat seems to linger on for more than 8 days you should see your physician.

A minor sore throat is usually of no great consequence, but a physician's advice is needed to make certain that it is a minor sore throat and not a more dangerous illness.

When Dogs Howl

Howling is one of the most annoying dog bad habits and usually occurs with pets which have been spoiled or with inherently shy dogs. Make up your mind to change Rover's bad and annoying habit. Here's how, from the experts at the Purina Pet Care Center.

Put the dog's bedding in an indoor kennel or room with a lock-shut door and lock Rover in. Scold the dog when he howls to get out. Say "No" in a very stern voice. Make his stay half an hour, then when he's quiet praise him and let him out for an hour. Repeat the plan all through the day. Make him sleep in the box at night. Scold and if necessary punish him if he howls. Whatever you do, don't give in and let him out while he's howling or all your efforts will be wasted.

The next step is locking the dog in his kennel or room and then leaving the house. But stay close enough to listen. If he howls, rush back in, and scold or punish him. Dogs are smart, so don't tip off your presence when you stay close to listen. If he can sense your nearness he won't howl; so you'll think you have cured when you really haven't. If he can be permanently cured of his bad howling habit you'll be happier — and so will your neighbors.

Mrs. Klinkerman Hosts Theta Epsilon Chapter Monday

Theta Epsilon Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority met Monday evening, February 28th at 7:30 p.m. in the Reddy Room of the Texas Electric Building, with Mrs. Elmer Klinkerman as hostess.

No! AT THAT STAGE, MAPLE SYRUP TASTES MORE LIKE WATER! SYRUMPONERS OFTEN USE IT, INSTEAD OF WATER, TO MAKE COFFEE!

TOO LATE? NEVER!

If your fall plans include fishing in the Everglades or off Balboa, you are probably not too concerned about the fishing problems the "back home" folks must face this time of year.

This is a confused period for most stay-at-home anglers across the land. The steelhead run hasn't begun; solid ice is still some time away; and hunting has entered the outdoor picture.

As a general rule, fishing's good in most places, across the experts at Mercury outboards. In fact, they add, in many spots it's better now than any other period of the year.

To capitalize on autumn's fishing bonanza, all one must do is don warm togs, ignore a football game on TV, and hustle off to the nearest waters.

Weather will play a dominant role in both comfort and fishing success. Keep an ear tuned to forecasts. A high barometer and fair conditions indicate good results, while an approaching cold front usually signals problems. The key right now is air temperature and clouds that obscure the sun and, consequently, lower water temperature. As long as the water is favorable to fish activity, you can expect action.

The presence of natural baits is another indicator of results, regardless of their abundance. In areas where frogs are still hopping in the shallows you can reasonably be assured of strikes.

Incidentally, latch on to any terrestrial creatures you might chance across. If they are good fish bait in any season, they're at a premium now.

Late fall should not discourage the angler, say the Mercury people. Just "git up 'n go."

But, they admonish, be sure the season's still open for the species you seek.

BUSINESS Keys to Success

How To Improve Your Aim

Shooting for success, many an executive has missed the target because he used a shotgun when he should have used a rifle. He scattered his efforts all over the lot, when he needed to blast the center of the nervous and elusive target that we call business success.

The reason was simple: the shotgun was the only weapon available to him. It remained for the new science of communications theory to give businessmen and industrialists a more accurate weapon in the war on inefficiency and sloppy management — both personal and corporate.

The widespread implications of this simple development are just now being felt.

Perception psychologists, who have designed everything from submarine periscopes to aircraft carrier decks to teaching machines, say that successful action means the attainment of a goal, and goals can be attained only by accurate knowledge of a situation.

In other words, you've got to see the target — in bright, clear light, if you want to be sure of hitting it. In modern industry, your most powerful weapon is information. More and better information generally helps you to set more realistic goals for yourself. It also helps you to reach them.

Here are three questions you can use to improve your aim in shooting for success in any field:

1. What information do you need? Sales campaigns have failed, products have been left unsold, industries shut down, because someone didn't have enough information.

2. How do you get the information you need? The best answer to this is the simplest — ask questions. Many avoid asking questions for fear they'll be thought ignorant. Actually, the opposite is true. The late William E. Knudsen, General Motors production genius, had an infallible method for picking foremen: "I hire the guys who ask the most questions."

3. What do you do with the information once you get it? One specialist in adapting information theory to management problems, the Charles Bruning Company, division of Addressograph Multigraph Corp., divides this into two questions — (a) what is the ideal result of this action? and (b) what are the realistic limits or possibilities? Repeated failure to reach unrealistic goals, says Bruning, will cause you to lower your sights. Repeated success — based on an informed appraisal of the situation, will help you raise your sights.

Failure to obtain and use information properly is no longer a barrier to success on the job. New office machines — from typewriters and teletypes to addressing machines, office duplicators and copying machines — have made the smallest office into a potential publishing house, able to spread a wealth of information among those who need or want it. Is your employer making the best use of his "information potential"? Are you?

Letter From An Old Church

Dear Readers:

Even tho St. John the Divine Episcopal Church is one of the newest church buildings in Burkburnett we can trace our lineage directly to the Apostles. There are very few churches that can do this. Have you investigated your church? Was it Our Lord Jesus, thru the Apostles, who began your church or is yours' one of the hundreds began by man. I invite you to come to the Open Community Forums held every Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Episcopal Church, 1000 S. Berry St., in Burkburnett to hear the history of Christianity since Christ ascended to sit on the right hand of God. The Forum is open and informal for all questions to be asked.

The members of St. John the Divine held a Pancake Supper Feb. 22, Shrove Tuesday at the home of the Sanders. A very delightful and informal time was had by all.

Wednesday, Feb. 23, began a very serious time in the Church year. At 7:00 p.m. the members participated in the ancient service of imposition of ashes and holy communion. For the following six weeks a time of fasting, self-examination and prayer, more rigid than at anytime the rest of the year. We can then, with God's help, discipline our spirit and body, and re-dedicate ourselves to God's service.

The vestry will meet Friday, March 4th at 7:00 p.m. for their regular monthly meeting. Reverend Alanson Brown of Good Shepherd Episcopal Church, Wichita Falls, will be guest speaker, March 8th at 7:30 p.m. at the regular monthly meeting of the Women of the Church. Father Brown will speak on Pentecost, the coming of the Holy Spirit on that glorious day. We urge everyone to come and welcome any visitors.

I have really been long winded for my first letter, but I have so much to share with you — so until next time.

God Bless You

Winter drivers should keep a cool head at all times. According to the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Insurance Companies, driver panic is prime factor in many skidding mishaps. You can overcome that "helpless" feeling by avoiding sharp turns of the steering wheel and by turning steadily in the direction of the skid. Resist any impulses to jam on the brakes. It may only increase the force of the skid.

Wesleyan Service Guild Meets For Recent Salad Supper

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist Church met Tuesday, March 1st, 7 p. m. in Fellowship Hall with a Salad Supper. Joye Pirtle gave the invocation. Those enjoying the delicious supper and fellowship were one visitor, Mrs. Carl Miller and Mesdames Martin, Kirsh, Nichols, McKinnis, Kelly, Morris, Edwards, Evans, Yarbo, Duvall, Pirtle, Misses Lou Ann and Nell Grady.

After the supper, President Estella Martin presided over the business. The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the new year which were accepted. President, Estella Martin; Vice President, Lou Ann Grady; Recording Secretary, Maurine Yarbo; Treasurer, Lucille Duvall; Promotion Secretary, Bertha Majors; Spiritual Life, Joan Evans; Publicity and Literature, Joye Pirtle; Supply, Ethelyn Melton; Christian Education, Bessie Kirsh; Christian Social Concern, Dottie Sams; Co-ordinator, Hettie Gilbert.

Maurine Yarbo brought a challenging book review "realm of our calling." The time has come for the Christian to deepen his commitment and take up arms as a soldier of the Cross. For the church needs soldiers to win the battle for Christ in the world of the 20th Century. Maurine closed with one of her poems.

If Christ, the King of Glory, should suddenly appear
As in the Beth'lem story, how would we receive him here?
Would we sing Angel's glad refrain and hasten to adore?
Or would we crucify again? Reject Him, as before?
We weep because they slew him, yet walk, as then, alone.
Oh! if we really knew him, how we'd worship at his throne!
Our souls would soar above the realms of mortal sin and shame,
A weary world we'd overwhelm, and earth for Jesus claim.
Awake, ye men and nations! Our Lord appears today.
Prepare His battle stations, don His armor for the fray.
The War of Heav'n at last begun, and earth to God must yield:
Our leader, His beloved Son; our hearts, his battle field.
