The post office will follow its regular holiday schedule with no deliveries to homes and the last mail dispatch at 2 p.m. The post office lobby will be open for lock box owners and those wishing access to stamp dispensing machines. All post office sub-stations will be closed.

City Police and the Howard County Sheriff's office will be working as usual to insure that all residents have a safe Thanksgiving Day.

Wives Rehash POW Raid

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two wives of men downed over North Vietnam, have praised the attempted rescue of American prisoners. "Marvelous and daring," said one. But the other wondered what may happen to the captives now.

"I'm stunned, frightened and still excited," Sharon Abbott said Monday after Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird announced a group of Army and Air Force volunteers had staged an unsuccessful raid on a POW camp near the North Vietnamese capital.

"I'm fearful of what might now happen to the men," she added, "and at the same time, I'm glad because if they learn about the raid it will give them great reassurance."

PLUNKETT WINS HEISMAN TROPHY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Plunkett, Stanford's rifle-armed quarterback who is college football's all-time king of total offense and passing yardage, won the Heisman Trophy Tuesday as college football's outstanding performer of 1970.

Plunkett received a total of 2,229 points from the 1,059 electors in a battle as expected with two other highly-touted quarterbacks — Joe Theismann of Notre Dame and Archie Manning of Mississippi. Thiesmann was second with 1,410 points and Manning third with 849.

Plunkett, a 6-foot-3, 204-pounder, is expected to be a top pro draft pick.

REVERSAL OF NIXON WAR POLICIES URGED

Nation Faces Disaster Unless....

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said today the nation faces disaster unless President Nixon puts a bipartisan foreign policy ahead of partisan domestic political considerations.

And he called on Nixon to restore "the habit of consultation between the White House and the Congress, for only consultation gives substance to the idea of bipartisanship."

Aiken, senior Republican member of the Foreign Relations Committee, delivered a broad-ranging foreign policy speech that criticized both policies and the way in which the Johnson and Nixon administrations have abandoned consultation with the Congress.

Referring to last April's U.S. move into Cambodia, Aiken said had the President chosen to consult with the Senate in advance, "I think he would have spared himself and the country much grief. Some of us might have been in a position to stand up and help him, if not by praising his words then at least by supporting his deeds."

Aiken spoke in the midst of the revival in the Senate of angry debate over Vietnam, spurred by the weekend raids into North Vietnam including the unsuccessful bid to free American prisoners near Hanoi.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird came to Capitol Hill today to brief members of the Senate Armed Services Committee on the weekend action.

The Foreign Relations Committee, center of war criticism, also was trying to arrange a session so its members could be briefed on the possible policy implications of the latest war moves.

Republican Senate Leader Hugh Scott hit back at critics of the attempt to free the prisoners of war. He said that during World War II everybody praised commando-type rescue operations but "you do it once in the Vietnam war and all the doves flutter and take a hard-nosed dive at the President."

"This is crazy," Scott told newsmen.

He said it is more important than ever to try to get American prisoners out of North Vietnam because they are being tortured, inadequately fed, and kept in narrow cells in violation of the Geneva convention for the treatment of POW's.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he hopes there are no reprisals from the raid.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield questioned whether the commando raid would be helpful or harmful to the American prisoners of war.

"I wonder about the possibility of re-involvement based on the raids North . . ." he said. "I wonder about the reaction of the North . . . I wonder about the situation which confronts the prisoners of war, whether the commando raid has been harmful or helpful."

Living Costs Dash White House Hopes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs in October took the sharpest jump in six months, the government reported today. The rise of six-tenths of one per cent appeared to dash White House hopes that the nation's worst inflation in 20 years was easing.

PAY 'BLUES'

The Labor Department reported at the same time that the average pay of some 45 million rank and file workers dropped 33 cents a week to $121.03 because of a drop in the work week, and inflation cut purchasing power 2.5 per cent below a year ago.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, the source of the living costs report, said the only break for consumers in October was a drop of three-tenths of one per cent in grocery prices.

The report followed by one day these other developments affecting the economy:

—The Federal Home Loan Bank disclosed plans to pump more than $1 billion into the slumping home mortgage market, to drive down interest rates next year.

TRANSPORTATION COSTS

—The Committee for Economic Development (CED), composed of industrial and financial leaders, called for a return to voluntary wage and price guidelines to help curb inflation.

The living costs report showed transportation costs shot up 1.9 per cent for October because of a big hike in prices of new and used cars and gasoline.

Clothing prices were also up sharply, nine-tenths of one per cent.

The big October price rise pushed the government's Consumer Price Index up to 137.4, meaning it took $13.74 last month for every $10 worth of typical family living costs in the 1957-59 period in which the index is based.

UP AND AWAY

The rise pushed living costs up 5.9 per cent above a year ago, close to the 6 per cent annual rate of rise that has prevailed for most of the past two years.

Before the October jump, living costs in the previous three months had tapered off somewhat and the Nixon administration had began hinting at easing some of its stringent fiscal and monetary policies that have sharply slowed the economy in an attempt to curb inflation.

The bureau said that on a seasonally based adjustment the October rise was slightly lower, five-tenths of one per cent.

The unadjusted figure of six-tenths was the largest monthly jump of that size since last April and the fourth of that magnitude in the past 18 months.

Housing costs rose five-tenths of one per cent in October, recreation costs were also up five-tenths. Medical care rose two-thirds for one of the smaller rises in that category in some time.

The Nixon administration welcomed the lower-interest move of the Federal Home Loan Bank.

As for the CED's proposed wage-price guideposts, the administration has considered and rejected such an idea as unworkable.

CRYSTAL CLEAR

Nevertheless, guideposts should be developed by the existing National Commission on Productivity or a presidentially appointed board, said the business research organization, and excessive wage settlements or price boosts should be publicized in advance, where possible.

"It should be clearly understood that what we are advocating are voluntary wage-price policies," said the CED. "We are opposed to mandatory controls, except in the event of a major war."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board's chairman, Preston Martin, said the first allotment of $85 million to break the high interest chain should be available soon.

NIXON MEETS WITH KY — President Nixon and South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky talk at the White House today after their breakfast meeting.

Hunting Victim, 6, Battling For Life

SALMON, Idaho (AP) — Six-year-old Karyn Prestwich entered first grade this year, and school immediately assumed prime importance for her.

She hurried home every afternoon to spell new words for her mother, Mrs. Donald Prestwich, and to read her first-grade primer. And the slender, blue-eyed blonde couldn't wait to go to school next morning.

DEER MISTAKE

On Nov. 5, Karyn, clad in a red jumper and brown coat, was waiting as usual for her schoolbus at the side of a highway near her home in North Fork, a rural town in east-central Idaho.

One hour later, she was battling for her life in a hospital in nearby Salmon, with a bullet wound in her abdomen.

Lemhi County Sheriff Bill Baker said the child was shot when she was mistaken for a deer.

She was rushed to the hospital by Roy Wells, 52, Torrance, Calif., who was later charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

"The man didn't mean to shoot me," Karyn told the doctor who first treated her. "He thought I was a deer."

She was later transferred to the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City, where she remains in critical condition.

SHE'S FIGHTING

Her kidneys were seriously damaged and a kidney machine is keeping her alive.

"She's really fighting to make it," says Mrs. Andy Hagel, Karyn's grandmother. "The doctors think she may have come around the corner."

Wells visited Karyn several times a day while she was in the hospital at Salmon, and he calls her parents often in Salt Lake City.

The residents of several small towns surrounding North Fork have mounted fund-raising campaigns to help defray skyrocketing hospital expenses for the girl, whose father is a U.S. Forest Service employe.

So far, $1,500 has been deposited in the Karyn Prestwich fund at a local bank. An anonymous donor has sent an additional $2,000 to the Prestwich family, which also includes 3-year-old Kerry and one-year-old Jenny.

Salmon radio station KSRA broadcasts hourly appeals for money for Karyn.

Karyn's parents maintain a constant vigil by their daughter's bedside.

They hope and pray.

RAID FAILS TO FREE PRISONERS

Laird Says Reds Caught 'Completely By Surprise'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today North Vietnamese guards and air defense systems were caught "completely by surprise" in a raid on a suspected POW camp he said was necessary "to show our men the country really cares."

LONG GONE

Laird, emerging from a meeting with senators at the Capitol, said the Pentagon knows of various other suspected POW camps in North Vietnam but most are in populated areas where a surprise landing and rescue mission would be most difficult to attempt.

No prisoners were found in the area that was raided.

In a brief conversation with newsmen Laird did not indicate how many men were in the suspected camp, where they might have been taken or whether the United States might attempt similar missions.

The defense secretary, flanked by an Air Force lieutenant general carrying map cases, said the would-be rescuers found conditions in the raided camp very crude and said, "They confirm our worst suspicions . . ."

OPTIONS OPEN

Laird first disclosed the raid on Monday. Also, a Pentagon source said the United States is keeping its options open on the possibility of more raids to free prisoners.

"We shall continue to make every effort to free our prisoners," Laird said during a news conference. "This mission, this daring mission . . . ," he went on, "does show our dedication to these men and we will do everything that we can in our power to accomplish their early release."

When asked later if this meant more raids, the Pentagon source declined to rule them out, saying officials weren't closing the door on the possibility.

POW ISSUE

Laird himself had hinted at possible similar tactics in the future during his opening remarks Monday when he told of preparing contingency plans for commando raids in the face of Hanoi's refusal to negotiate the POW issue.

Laird's description of the Saturday raid—made even more dramatic by the presence of the commando leader—caught newsmen by total surprise as he related how specially trained Army and Air Force volunteers flew helicopters through enemy fire in post-midnight darkness to land right in the suspected prisoner of war compound.

"Regrettably the rescue team discovered the camp had recently been vacated," Laird said in solemn tones. "No prisoners were located." But, he went on, "If there had been prisoners in the compound at Son Tay, they would be free men today."

MEN DYING

Laird said he ordered the raid with the knowledge and blessing of President Nixon after receiving new information "that some of our men were dying in prisoner of war camps."

The undercover mission was the first mounted to liberate a POW camp in North Vietnam, although, as Laird indicated, helicopters have often flown north of the demilitarized zone to rescue downed American pilots.

In spite of Laird's dour description of the danger facing U.S. prisoners held by Hanoi and his fear for their lives, the commando raid, plus the earlier disclosures of U.S. retaliatory bombing of antiaircraft sites, set off some of the angriest Senate debate since early summer.

WAR CRITICS

War policy critics reacted with surprise and skepticism, and asked whether the administration has given up on negotiating the prisoners' release.

Defending the administration's action, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., said the negotiations have failed.

Immediately, it was asked whether the commando act would bring retaliation by North Vietnam.

The White House answered:

"The United States would hold the leaders of North Vietnam personally responsible" for any reprisals taken against U.S. prisoners as a result of the unsuccessful rescue effort.

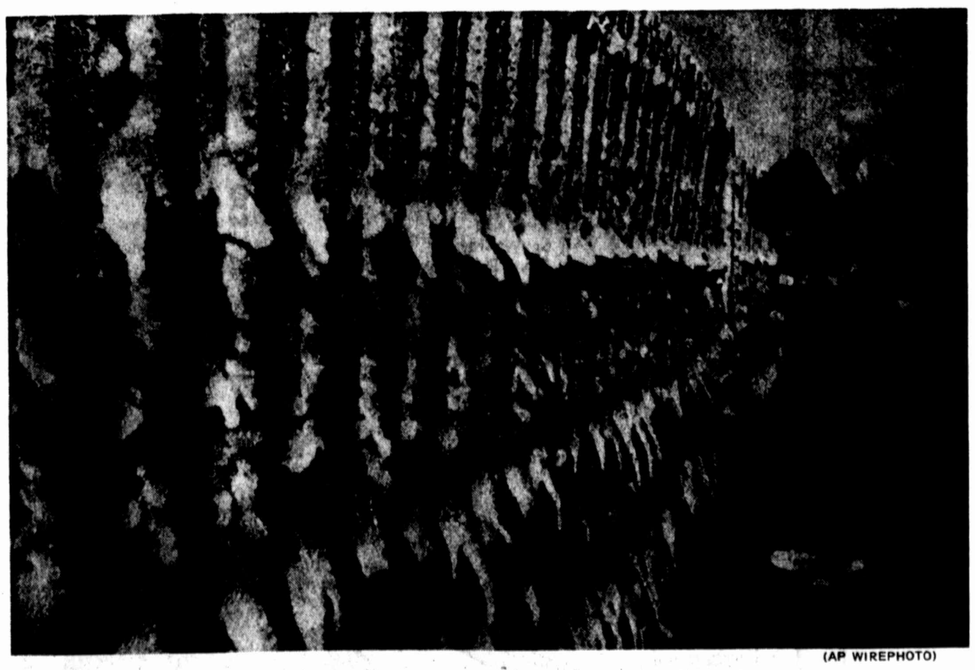

Describing the operation, Laird said the raiders hit the camp at 2 a.m., Hanoi time,

THE STARVING CAN'T WAIT—A Pakistani snatches bag of rice held by U.S. Ambassador Joseph S. Farland at Char Chubdia, East Pakistan. Survivors of the terrible cyclone disaster rushed the envoy's helicopter, seeking food, forcing Farland to take refuge inside the aircraft. Man at right foreground is unidentified.

Disaster Relief Triggers Bedlam

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The instructions were to come forward one by one, receive a relief packet from the U.S. ambassador and shake his hand. The starving Pakistanis couldn't wait.

TWO SLASHED

In the bedlam, two refugees were slashed by rotating helicopter blades, another was hurt in a battle for rice sacks and Ambassador Joseph S. Farland retreated into a helicopter to escape the frantic mob.

Farland headed an American relief party Monday to Char Chubdia, a sandbar island in the Ganges River delta which had been without aid since a cyclone devastated the region on Nov. 13. It is near Maijdi, a mainland town where 30 Americans have set up a base to provide relief for as many as possible of the area's two million survivors. The cyclone and 20-foot waves it fostered killed more than 150,000 persons with the count expected to go much higher.

Farland's four helicopters brought in food and two doctors, Henry Wiley Mosely from a cholera laboratory in Dacca and Army Col. Rex Davis, but there were no Pakistani supervisors to keep the throng in check.

SMELLY TASK

As the aircraft landed, their rotors whipped up an almost unbearable stench from bloated cattle carcasses decomposing in the mud. Hundreds of refugees encircled the helicopters. Some swarmed toward a small observation craft which had packets of food in litter racks outside, and two were cut by the still rotating blades.

Farland's aides tried to form the anxious Pakistanis into single lines so the ambassador could make the handouts. The first two came forward nicely and got a sack of rice, molasses and salt along with an ambassadorial handshake. Then the crowd rushed forward, tearing at the food packages inside the aircraft as Farland retreated.

GET OUT

The 200 ten-pound bags of food were hurriedly unloaded, and three 'copters returned to Maijdi for more supplies while Farland's hovered above the crowd. The three returned, dropped their loads from about 15 feet above the milling people, who fought over the sacks dropped.

The helicopters made 15 trips in all.

Eighteen helicopters from the United States, Britain and France are now ferrying supplies to stricken areas and others are expected from West Germany and Saudi Arabia. The Pakistani army has one helicopter in the operation.

Vice Adm. S.M. Ahsan, East Pakistan's governor, said today the military regime has turned down his urgent request for more relief helicopters. The army's aircraft are stationed in West Pakistan, 1,600 miles across India from the devastated area.

Flames Figure In Truck Slam

PLAINS, Kan. (AP) — Richard Eberhart, 28, of Plainview, Tex., was killed Monday when his pickup truck slammed into the rear of a truck on U.S. 160 on the edge of Plains.

The Meade County sheriff's office said the driver of the larger truck, Kenneth L. Hopwood, 40, of Vinita, Okla., said he had slowed down because visibility was limited due to heavy smoke blowing across the road from a field fire.

Senate Upholds Campaign Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has upheld President Nixon's rejection of a bill curbing campaign broadcast spending, the first time in more than five years the chamber has sustained a presidential veto.

Supporters of the measure pulled together a 58-34 margin to override Thursday, but still fell four votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority.

The action left Congress with a presidential promise of an ambitious package of political reforms for action next year. Nixon vetoed the bill on grounds it plugged only one hole in a sieve when comprehensive repair is needed.

HE PROMISED

Nixon promised the administration would work closely with Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott and other members of Congress on a broader reform bill—but gave no assurance he would endorse the final product.

The assistant Democratic Leader, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said he hopes the administration will embrace an over-all campaign reform bill.

Kennedy said there may yet be an effort to revive the vetoed broadcast measure this year by adding it to other legislation.

Scott acknowledged he has only ideas, no draft of legislation for broader campaign reform. He said its terms might include:

—A limit on the period in which a candidate for office can advertise through any medium, starting perhaps six to eight weeks before an election.

—More stringent and comprehensive financial disclosure rules.

$1 TO PARTY

—If it proves feasible, an over-all limit on campaign spending. "We would have to have some formula, probably based on votes, possibly on population."

—A limit on candidate advertising in all media, not only radio and television.

—Possibly a provision under which a taxpayer, by checking a box on his return, could have $1 contributed to the party of his choice.

—A waiver of equal broadcast time requirements, to open the way for campaign debates, and possibly for free network time for the two major party presidential candidates in 1972.

The limitation on broadcast spending proposed in the vetoed bill was seven cents for each vote cast for the office involved in the prior election, or $20,000, whichever was greater.

In addition, the bill required broadcasters to make time available to candidates at the lowest rates they charge any advertiser.

Demo Hall Bids For Barnes' Job

ROCKWALL, Tex. (AP) — Democrat Ralph Hall said Monday he will run for lieutenant governor in 1972 with the firm belief that incumbent Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes will not be seeking re-election.

Hall, the state senator from Rockwall, said he is convinced Barnes will be seeking other offices in 1972.

The 10-year veteran of the state legislature called the lieutenant governor's post the most important position in state government.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

For the first time since 1953 we are planning increases in the rates for many out-of-state calls.

AT&T has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which increases charges for customer-dialed interstate calls during weekday business hours and for all operator-assisted interstate calls.

All rates for calls you dial yourself without operator assistance in the evenings, at night, on weekends or on holidays will remain unchanged or be reduced.

The new rates are filed to become effective on January 19, 1971.

Here are the specific provisions of the new rates for out-of-state calls:

1. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, will be increased — up to 10 cents for the first three minutes.
2. Rates for all operator-assisted calls (including person-to-person, credit-card, collect, and coin telephone calls) will be increased in amounts ranging from 5 cents to 30 cents for the first three minutes.
3. Where rates for the first three minutes of a call are increased, the rates for each additional minute will be increased in a range of one cent to five cents.
4. Rates for station-to-station calls you dial yourself without operator assistance during evenings, nights, or weekends will remain the same — or, in a few cases, actually be reduced. For example, the rate for calls dialed coast-to-coast from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, or 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, will still be 70 cents for the first three minutes.

This will be the first general increase in interstate Long Distance rates in 17 years. During that period, in spite of continuing inflation, interstate Long Distance rates have been reduced repeatedly. Even with the increase, the level of these rates will still be about 14 percent below the 1953 level. Yet in those 17 intervening years, the cost of living has gone up 47 percent.

The new rates recognize the higher labor and equipment costs associated with operator-assisted calls, and are designed to increase total revenues from interstate service by about six percent.

We have filed for the increase so that we can assure adequate earnings to attract investors in a money market which, like everything else, has felt the impact of inflation. This ability to attract new capital is essential if we are to continue to provide high-quality telecommunications service and meet the growing demands for communications services in this country.

Ocean Currents Fishing Threat

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Ocean currents are concentrating pollution in the Texas-Louisiana coastal waters, posing a growing threat to the gulf fishing industry, a university professor said Monday.

Dr. Willis E. Pequegnat, a Texas A&M professor of oceanography, said a large part of the polluted waters from the Mississippi River and from the rivers of Texas collect in the Texas-Louisiana coastal area and are not flushed away by ocean currents.

This, he said, causes poisons-such as DDT and mercury—to concentrate in the Northwestern Gulf.

SHRIMP EXAMPLE

The effects are already being noticed in seafood harvested along the Texas and Louisiana coasts, an area of major importance to the shrimping and fishing industries, he said.

"Some fish from areas of the Gulf now are not commercially valuable because they simply smell bad," he said. "Many species are approaching the point of being unsafe to eat."

When this happens, he said, it's going to happen "very quickly" and will rapidly pass up the food chain.

Should shrimp, for instance, become dangerous for consumption because of the toxic material in their bodies, then fish farther up the food chain, such as red snapper or flounder will very quickly also become toxic.

NOT GOOD

Poisons such as DDT and mercury, he said, tend to have a cumulative effect so that they concentrate more the higher up the food chain they are passed.

Also, he said, species lower on the food chain tend to be able to tolerate higher and higher levels of poisons. Eventually, said Dr. Pequegnat, these species may have to be declared inedible in order to protect humans at the top of the food chain.

"The prognosis at the present time is not good for biological products of the Western Gulf shelf (Texas-Louisiana Gulf coasts)," he said. "We can not continue using the gulf as a dumping ground and as a fishing ground at the same time."

Dr. Pequegnat said dredging operations are a major factor in the pollution of the gulf. Poisons washing down from rivers and streams tend to collect at the bottom of harbors and bays, he said. When these are dredged up, they are often dumped in the Gulf. This causes the poisons to be redistributed in waters rich with commercial fish.

STUCK TOGETHER

Another contributor to the dangerous pollution is the sloppy disposal of industrial wastes, he said.

Dr. Pequegnat said often wastes, such as petroleum products and epoxy resins, are stored in barrels and hauled out into the Gulf.

"They put them into the water and then shoot them full of holes so they will sink," he said. The toxic wastes escape into the water.

"I've seen fish stuck together by epoxy resins," he said.

Dr. Pequegnat made the comments in an interview after delivering a paper to the Water for Texas Conference at Texas A&M. About 200 scientists, engineers and government officials are attending the two-day conference which is on the theme "water development and the quality of the environment."

Oil Company Cut Affects Revenues

Effect of the reduced supplies to oil companies is beginning to be reflected in the Colorado River Municipal Water District revenues.

All oil companies have been cut off from Lake J. B. Thomas as of Nov. 1, and prior to that they were half their normal figures.

At the end of October, revenue from oil companies had fallen from over $100,000 a month in midsummer to $78,076. Increases earlier in the summer, however, give this year a slight bulge over the first 10 months of 1969 — $1,045,942 as compared to $999,577.

The $249,772 sales to cities boosted this source to $2,080,597 for the 10 months as compared with $1,369,307 for the same period in 1969. One of the big factors has been the addition of Midland as a consumer.

Total revenues for October were $330,966, making $3,168,960 for the year, up from the $2,416,005 for the first 10 months of 1969.

Operating expenses for October were $105,628, making $915,187 for the 10 months, down $135,000 from a year ago. The $2,253,772 margin of revenues over receipts was $2,253,772 compared with $1,365,456 for the like period in 1969, but this year the district has begun paying on the $34,500,000 borrowed in 1966 and 1969 for Lake E. V. Spence and expanding the district's pipeline system.

Water billed in October amounted to 1,009,115,000 gallons to the cities, making $7,314,262,000 for the year, or 2,446,951,000 gallons more than for 10 months in 1969. Texas GM Plant Opens

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Employes at the main Texas General Motors plant were to return to work on their regular shifts today.

The company, reporting ratification of national and local agreements by the workers Monday, said some new cars should start toward Texas dealers by the middle or end of the week.

With resumption of work at the main plant here, all Texas GM plants were in operation. The firm said workers returned to parts plants in Dallas, Houston and El Paso Monday.

The Arlington plant makes Chevrolet and Oldsmobile models.

The spokesman said that as of Monday, 130 of the 155 GM plants had reached settlements, including what he called the 49 key plants.

Plea For Help Before Dying

HOUSTON (AP)—Police said today they had no leads in the death of a wounded man who pleaded vainly for help from his neighbors before dying.

Charles L. Hatton, 45, was found lying on the sidewalk outside an apartment house early Monday, dead of a single bullet wound in the chest.

About two hours earlier, he had wandered from house to house in the area, pleading for help.

Police said Hatton pounded on doors about 2 a.m. Monday, calling "I've been shot. Help me."

But nobody would open their door to the man. Several persons called police but when officers arrived they found no one.

Hatton was found by an early morning newspaper carrier. He had taken off his coat, rolled it up to make a pillow, then had layed down on the sidewalk to die.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people we hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives. I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors, and who had children who were friendly with our children (all grown now) and folks we are no longer close to.

Shopping, wrapping and mailing Christmas presents has gotten to be a real chore, and I am not as young as I used to be. I would just as soon get off a lot of people's lists and take them off mine, and if the truth were known, I'm sure they feel the same way about it, but don't know how to get off mine. So how do I get off this merry-go-round, Abby? I would just as soon send Christmas cards to a couple of dozen people who are still on my Christmas gift list. Thanks from . . .

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

DEAR CHICAGO: Around Thanksgiving time write a nice note to thoso folks you'd like to take off the "gift list" and put on the "card list" — and tell them you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly frank. Tell them that this year along with trimming your Christmas tree you are trimming your "gift" list and are sending cards instead. And unless they are dense and insensitive they'll appreciate your sensible and practical attitude and will reciprocate accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: My father chews tobacco and makes it a habit to spit in the kitchen sink where I wash the dishes. I know it's not sanitary and sometimes I fuss at him and tell him so. Then my mother gets mad at me and blesses me out. Is there some help for my problem?

ONLY A CHILD

DEAR ONLY: Even though your father needs to be told, it's extremely difficult for a child to tell him. You don't say how old you are, but if he continues that disgusting habit much longer, save up for a spittoon to wash the dishes in.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office with several men and women. Whenever a certain man in the office gets near me, my foot starts tapping. This doesn't happen with any of the other men. It is very embarrassing as I was not aware of this until this man asked me why I always tapped my foot whenever he gets near me. Even now, being aware of it, I find myself doing it, unconsciously.

This man is very good looking and has a charming manner, and all the girls in the office light up when they see him coming, but I am the only one who does any tapping. What is the matter with me?

TOE TAPPER

DEAR TAPPER: "Toe-tapping" implies "impatience." What are you waiting for?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: After last year's discussions of mimeographed Christmas letters, bragging about everything from Junior's football letter to Moms new mink stole, I thought enough had been said. Not so.

This year we already received a Christmas card, which was a color photograph of Junior's new automobile parked in front of "our new home." That's hard to beat!

P.S.: Seven years ago you advised me to marry the young minister I loved, although my mother was sure I would regret it. (Ministers don't make very much money.) Now, six years and two wonderful children later, I want to thank you for your advice. I never knew I could be so happy.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

'Fish Farmers' Bite Unlawful

AUSTIN (AP) — A 1969 state law requiring "fish farmers" to obtain an annual $25 license is constitutional, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said today.

Martin's official opinion answered an inquiry by County Atty. Warden Terry of San Saba.

A "fish farmer" is defined as "any person, firm or corporation engaged in the business of production, propagation, transportation, possession and sale of fish except propagated for bait purposes, raised in private ponds or reservoirs."

If Man Explores Planets, He May Take Fems Along

HOUSTON (AP)—If Man ever goes exploring other planets, he may well take Woman with him.

High ranking space officials have discussed for years the possibility of taking women into the astronaut program, but the idea never got beyond talk during the Gemini and Apollo programs.

The main problem was that the spacecraft for those programs were just to small to insure the privacy that two sexes aboard would require.

But when man goes to other planets, many officials believe the spacecraft for such missions will be huge, perhaps the size of a sea-going destroyer.

Then, says Dr. Charles Berry, director of medical operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center here, women may get their chance.

"I think it would definitely be more comfortable if we took women along on lung duration flights, such as a two-year trip to Mars," says Dr. Berry

But he said there's still many problems about crew selection which would have to be studied. He said answers must first be found to such questions as how many of each sex should be in the crew, or should the crew be married couples only, or what are the psychological effects of having women along on a long-duration space mission.

"I doubt seriously that we'll get to the point in our country where we'll try to match up people," he said. "But then again, you don't want to have just one woman among a lot of men. You may create a problem then."

Six Flags Chief Quits

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Victor Palmieri, president of Great Southwest Corp., said Monday about 75 employes of the company, which has headquarters in Arlington, have been released.

The company is primarily a land development and family entertainment park oriented firm.

Angus Wynne Jr., who was recently replaced as president and chief executive officer, is also no longer a director. In other action, Luther Clark, president of Six Flags, Inc., has resigned to take early retirement.

Palmieri said operations of the Six Flags division of the company would not change at this time. He pointed out that the move will not affect the operations of Six Flags Over Texas, Six Flags Over Georgia in Atlanta or Six Flags Over Mid-America currently being constructed in St. Louis. The Mid-America operation is scheduled to open May, 1971.

Most of the people who were terminated were based in the real estate side of the company, the president said.

'Hot' Scoring

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The temperature slipped to 12 degrees and icy winds gusted to 50 miles an hour as Marquette University students concluded an 82-hour football game for charity.

About 16 players and 40 chanting spectators were still on hand at game's end Sunday night, having helped raise $1,100 toward a Christmas toy project for needy children.

The game ended in a score of 788-767.

Pot, LSD Will Linger 'With Us A Long Time'

DALLAS (AP)—A psychiatry professor warns state narcotics officers that marijuana and LSD "will be with us a long time" in spite of efforts to educate young people against drug abuse.

"A sudden and explosive epidemic" of drug use, fed by teenagers' affluence, mobility and a desire to "try it on for size" is outpacing the solutions, Dr. Robert White of the University of Texas medical branch at Galveston, said recently.

He told 100 members of the Texas Narcotics Association they have a "difficult if not impossible task" in enforcing drug laws.

The problem is aggravated by the belief that trying drugs is the thing to do, White explained.

He said some 100,000 of Texas' 500,000 high school students "have tried marijuana at least once.

"There is no evidence that even the most intense educational campaigns have been in the least effective," Dr. White said.

RED ROVER TAKES NAP

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet moonrover has ended the first phase of its lunar operations and gone to bed until the sun reappears Dec. 8 after a 14-day lunar night, Tass reports.

The official Soviet news agency said the eight-wheeled Lunokhod 1 had traveled 650 feet, studied physical properties, soil, roentgen, radiation and cosmic waves since it rolled down a gangplank from Luna 17 six days ago.

Miss Ima Hogg Donates Money For Winedale Inn

ROUND TOP, Tex. (AP)—A new monument to the Germans who settled Texas now is open to the public, a gift of Miss Ima Hogg of Houston.

It is Winedale Stagecoach Inn and several other buildings, located at what once was Truebsal—a word meaning affliction.

And it was just that—affliction—until the Germans who settled there about the 1830s began growing grapes and brought prosperity to the little community off the beaten path between Houston and Austin. They changed the name to Winedale.

The site was donated by Miss Hogg to the University of Texas in 1967 along with an endowment for upkeep.

The restored community consists of the inn, Hazel's Lone Oak Cottage, the smoke house, the barn and the Lauderdale House.

The properties are open to tourists for limited hours for a fee.

DON'T BLOW IT NOW

DRIVE FRIENDLY has made a difference. In 1970, Texas can experience an annual decrease in the number of deaths on streets and highways. As of now, the number of traffic deaths is below that of a year ago. If this trend continues, there will be an actual decrease in the number of Texans killed in traffic—this despite one-half million more licensed drivers than a year ago.

This is practically unheard of. The traffic death trend during the past decade has been almost consistently up . . . 2,254 deaths in 1960; 2,314 in 1961; 2,421 in 1962, and so it has gone, almost without exception, right up to 3,551 in 1969.

But 1970 has been the year of DRIVING FRIENDLY. This has meant obeying traffic laws, planning travel to avoid rushing, not driving and drinking. In other words, maintaining a friendly driving attitude toward others.

Yes, 1970 has been the year of DRIVING FRIENDLY. It can also be the year the relentless trend of more and more highway murders was reversed. But there are still five weeks to go. This Thanksgiving weekend, think of your responsibilities every time you take the wheel.

We're ahead of 1969 now, and we can finish that way. So, DON'T BLOW IT NOW!

This Thanksgiving, Keep DRIVING FRIENDLY . . . it works

Individuality Shows In New Night Fashions

By MARY SUE MILLER

When it comes to what we wear, most of us are influenced by fashion dictums. Custom — business, community and group — has a further bearing on our turnouts. As examples, picture the secretary in her longuette raincoat, the family chauffeur in her camel and raccoon job, the teen in her army-navy store regalia.

But hear this: On evening occasions you simply have to do your own thing. Otherwise where's the allure, your individual brand? Remember, my friend, allure's the name of the game.

Naturally you have to operate within the bounds of available fashions. The successful trick is to select from the many styles offered, the one that looks as though it had been designed for you — your total personality.

Just to get you started on the possibilities now in the stores, this capsule report:

Aubergine narrow velvet pants with matching tunic, bordered with a rainbow of glitter . . . Red taffeta dress with boat neck, cap sleeves, and yards of skirt from a tiny waistline . . . Gold brocade slim skirt, turquoise-lurex shirt . . . Dark gray satin bias skirt, pale gray chiffon bodice . . . Black crepe chemise, a real slink . . . Black organza dress, all fluted frills . . . Peasantly dress in peasanty print with scoop neck and gathered skirt.

As an aside, evening clothes are on the whole less formal, but always long.

So what's your thing? Stay with it!

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, "The Eyes of Youth." To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Hope this might be of some help for your readers in preparing their holiday poultry:

Last year at Thanksgiving I got lazy and made a great discovery about stuffing that old bird.

I made my dressing the night before, storing the dry ingredients overnight in a plastic bread wrapper in the refrigerator.

The morning of Thanksgiving I added the liquid to the stuffing in the wrapper, rolling and squeezing it gently until mixed.

When I tucked about six inches of the mouth of the plastic bag into the cavity of the washed, seasoned bird, squeezing the bottom of the bag as one would a tube of toothpaste, the dressing was neatly deposited within the bird!

A yank on the bag removed it from the then stuffed bird. This procedure can be performed at both openings of larger poultry, or from one end of smaller ones.

I'll never again spoon-stuff fowl, putting crumbs everywhere in my kitchen except in the bird! You can't guess how fast this plastic bag trick is until you try it.

Mrs. D.E.M.

Dear Heloise:

I never destroy my children's school papers. I just can't bear the thought of throwing them away so I write letters on the backs of them to their grandparents.

In this way the grandparents can see how the children are progressing in school.

I send the good with the bad too!

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

My Thanksgiving turkey came encased in a pretty yellow nylon mash bag.

I carefully cut it to size, slit it down the back, whipped it together, added a grosgrain bow on the top and had a darling "whimsy."

And you know what? I wore it to our "ladies-aid." Tee-hee!

Dear Heloise:

My daughters and I have the tall-type boots.

We found that they were for ever flopping over and would wrinkle something awful at the ankles.

We came up with the idea of keeping them upright by placing a tall soda (beverage) bottle in each boot.

It works great!

Dear Heloise:

The glass that fits in the lid of the percolator broke and since it took two weeks for the replacement to come in, I found it necessary to improvise.

I took a double thickness of foil, formed a cap and then pushed it throug the hole in the lid where the glass normally fits.

I then pressed the rest of the foil as it fanned out from the center against the inside wall of the lid to make it secure.

We were able to use this lid very successfully without spillage until the replacement came in.

Helen Ziccardi

Keep it perking, gal! You saved the day with that little bit of "first aid."

Just wish I could drop in and have coffee with you.

LAIRD

about the same time some 250 U.S. war planes were striking missile, antiaircraft and supply targets in North Vietnam's Southern Panhandle below the 19th parallel.

Navy planes dropped lighting flares off the North Vietnamese coast above the parallel as a diversionary tactic to draw attention from the helicopter-borne commando force.

Although the "protective reaction" air strikes to the south may have helped confuse the North Vietnamese, Laird emphasized they were not intended as a cover for the rescue operation.

The raiders, according to accounts given by Laird and Pentagon sources, apparently went undetected by flying in under enemy radar, and drew fire only when they were over the camp. They were aided by an almost moonless night.

RESISTANCE LIGHT

The first helicopter intentionally crash-landed inside the prison compound and the raiders, including some Army Green Berets, destroyed the guard tower. Other helicopters followed. Every building was searched and the locks broken on the detention cells, but no prisoners were found. Enemy resistance was light.

Leading the attack was Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, 52, an infantryman and former Green Beret commander who was introduced by Laird at the news conference along with Air Force Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, 49, charged with over-all command of the operation.

Both officers, Laird said, arrived in Washington earlier in the day from Saigon and were later taken to the White House and commended personally by the President.

BIG SURPRISE

"We caught them completely by surprise," said Simons, adding that his team suffered but one casualty—a man wounded by rifle fire from a Chinese-made AK47. Everyone got out safely, he said.

HELICOPTER PILOT TESTIFIES — Lt. Hugh Thompson, who was a helicopter pilot in Vietnam, is shown in this drawing as he testified at the court martial of Lt. William Calley. Calley is charged with killing 102 Vietnamese civilians in 1968.

Says 'Sharks' Mowed Down Fleeing People

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — A former helicopter pilot said today he saw large U.S. gunships mow down fleeing Vietnamese along a highway at My Lai during the assault on the village in 1968.

Brian W. Livingston, 26, now an investment counselor of Killeen, Tex., testified under cross-examination at the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., that he saw the "Sharks," big helicopter gunships, attack the people along the road.

BODIES FALLING

"I saw bodies falling left and right off the road," he said.

Livingston said he was piloting a helicopter over Highway 521 at the time.

He said he made a low run over the village and saw people coming out onto the highway, and that the gunships then attacked them.

Earlier, on direct questioning, Livingston told an Army prosecutor that he saw between 35 and 50 bodies in a horseshoe shaped trench in another sector of the village.

He described it as "a trench line, horseshoe shaped ditch that goes around the road."

Livingston said he saw no hostile fire and encountered no enemy resistance.

Another helicopter crewman, Calvin D. Hodde, 22, of Ft. Hood, Tex., said he was in another helicopter and that bodies were everywhere.

He was asked where the bodies were, and said they were along a trail and at least 30 were in a ditch.

NO CALLEY

Under cross-examination Monday, another helicopter pilot, Lt. Hugh Thompson, 27, of Decatur, Ga., testified of seeing evidence of atrocities.

Thompson, who was decorated for heroism at My Lai, and his gunner, Lawrence Colburn, 20, of Auburn, Wash., said they saw bodies of elderly men, women and children in a ditch.

Some were alive, they said.

But neither mentioned the name of Calley.

Both told of the unidentified captain shooting a Vietnamese woman lying wounded in a rice paddy, and of "unburying" a young child, unhurt, from a pile of slaughtered bodies in the ditch.

NO HELP

The two witnesses said they got little or no help from American ground troops in rescuing surviving Vietnamese on March 16, 1968, when Calley is charged with murdering 102 civilians.

When newsmen later asked Capt. Aubrey Daniel, the Army prosecutor, why he had not asked Thompson or Colburn about Calley, he replied: "I don't have to answer that."

Colburn, clad in dungarees and an admitted marijuana user, told of seeing bodies along a trail near the ill-fated hamlet, in rice paddies and in a ditch.

He described the ditch as 4 to 6 feet deep and "about one-third full of bodies."

Colburn said they landed their helicopter "to give some assistance to some people in a bunker."

He said the crew airlifted about 15 Vietnamese civilians out of the area.

Later, said Colburn, they returned to the ditch.

"One of the children we saw was still alive. I took a rifle with me and covered Andreotta (a third crewman on board the helicopter; while he went down into the ditch, unburied the child and handed him to me and I took him to the ship."

Then, Colburn said, they took the child to a hospital.

Colbun testified, as did Thompson, that a Viet Cong suspect had fired on them during the helicopter operation. That was the only hostile action he added.

Landowners Object To Compensation

Objections to an award of compensation for utility easements have been filed in Howard County Court by four county residents across whose land Texas Electric Service Co. has obtained easement.

A three-man jury of view commissionn appointed by County Judge Lee Porter completed its assessment of the property values Thursday and awarded compensation to the owners. The special commission since Oct. 30 had been reviewing the land value and the damage installation of the power lines would do to the value of the properties.

The landowners involved filed appeals from the condemnations Monday afternoon, alleging that the amounts awarded are not sufficient to compensate for the full value of the property or for the damage that the utility line will do to the land. The suits were filed with Judge Porter who filed them in the County Clerk's Office.

Suits were filed by J. Y. Robb et ux et al, Morris Patterson et ux et al, George Olufson et ux et al, and Twila Lomax et al.

The commission awarded Robb $5,750; Patterson $8,040; Olufson $5,740; and $4,207 to Miss Lomax. The tracts of land are located southwest of Big Spring in sections in Township 1-South.

The suits, which will be set for hearing in County Court at a future date, does not block the utility company's easement, but the landowners will be given an opportunity to plead their case before a jury, according to Judge Porter.

In Martin County, a special commission is still reviewing the cases between TESCO and Martin County residents. County Judge Jim McCoy said that he could not release any information on the condemnation proceedings at this time. He did add that the commission was expected to award compensation to the property owners sometime this afternoon.

Members of the Howard County jury of view commission are Novis Womack, Jack Shaffer and Bill Johnson.

Two Cases Sent Back To County

Verdicts in two Howard County Court civil cases were reversed and remanded to county court recently by the 11th Supreme Judicial District Court of Civil Appeals.

Further action in the cases of Robert Earl Fauver vs. Texas Department of Public Safety and Glenn Edgar Murray vs. Texas Department of Public Safety is pending until the Texas Department of Public Safety decides on further appeal to the Texas Supreme Court, according to County Attorney Bill Eyssen.

Eyssen said that if the case is not again appealed, he will be requested to decide if the cases should be retried in County Court.

Snyder Resident Dies In One-Vehicle Accident

SNYDER — Services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Hubbard-Kelley Funeral Home Chapel in Odessa for Denton Helmstetler, 28, who was killed Monday in a one-vehicle mishap on SH 208. Burial will be in the Sunset Memorial Gardens, Odessa.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace J. P. Billingsley.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries were Lonny Fisk, 25, and Raymond Rios, 22, both of Snyder. Hospital officials said today that Rios is in satisfactory condition, but Fisk is in critical condition although he is improving.

Highway patrolmen said Helmstetler was traveling north on SH 208 in a truck when the vehicle went off the road and overturned, throwing the three men from the vehicle.

An employe of Reneau Casing Service, Helmstetler had lived in Snyder about three weeks, moving here from Odessa. Born Oct. 23, 1942, in Mineral Wells, he was married to Martha Chancey Oct. 2, 1964, in Odessa.

Survivors include his wife; two daughters, Shannon Helmstetler and Dennete Helmstetler of the home; a stepdaughter, Robin Gibson of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Denton Helmstetler Sr. of Odessa; two sisters, Doris Helmstetler and Delores Helmstetler, Odessa; one brother, John Helmstetler, Odessa; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Ruth Helmstetler, Mineral Wells and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Nell Weathersby, Cisco.

No Evidence Time Capsule Drugs Are More Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no evidence so-called time capsule drugs are more effective than regular preparations and in some cases may be highly dangerous, Senate investigators have been told.

One possible hazard cited in testimony was described by Dr. Sidney Merlis, director of psychiatric research at New York's Central Islip State Hospital.

CAUGHT IN LINING

Merlis said a nurse at the hospital died from an adverse reaction to a powerful tranquilizer called Chlorpromazine when tiny pellets from the time capsule, or sustained action drug, were caught in the crevices of her stomach lining and could not be flushed out.

Merlis testified Monday as the subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., opened four days of hearings into government purchasing of drugs.

Sustained action drugs generally take the form of capsules containing tiny pellets with a protective coating of varying thicknesses that wears off gradually, releasing steady and continued small dosages.

The subject of this type of drug came up during questioning of Merlis; Dr. Leo E. Hollister, a medical investigator with the Veterans Administration; and Dr. Jonathan Cole, superintendent of the Boston State Hospital.

Subcommittee counsel Ben Gordon told Hollister that in 1969 the VA bought a tranquilizer called meprobamate from a Danish firm for $1.55 per 500 tablets while at the same time it was buying the sustained release form of the drug from an American firm for $7.25 per 100 tablets.

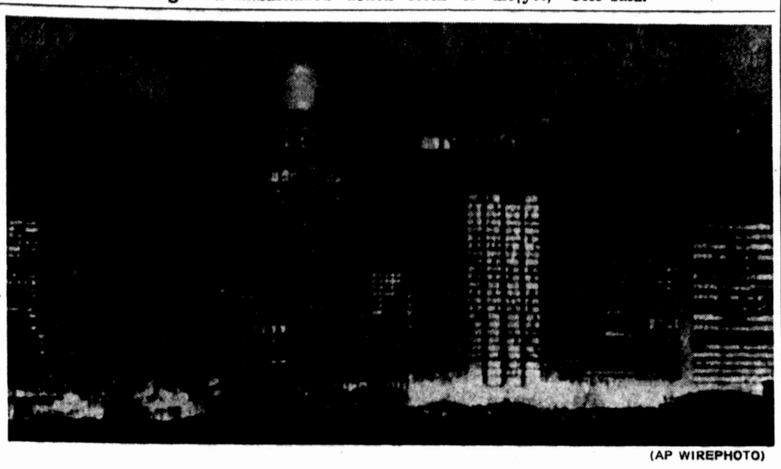

Gordon said the sustained release form cost the VA 2,300 per cent more and he asked:

"Does this kind of buying seem sensible to you?"

Hollister said it did not because there was no evidence the sustained action form of the drug was more effective.

Cole commented that he, too, was against such drugs and said he once told a drug salesman that if he could prove a sustained action preparation was more effective than the regular dosage he would buy it.

"I haven't heard from him yet," Cole said.

Colleges Receive HFC Donations

Presidents of 733 privately supported, liberal arts colleges and universities have just received checks totaling $130,400, L. L. Orr, manager Household Finance Corporation, at 220½ Main Street, Big Spring, announced. These checks range in amounts from $100 to $1,000, based upon the full-time enrollment of the individual colleges.

Since 1956, when HFC established its annual program of unrestricted gifts, these have totaled $1,450,000. Checks were sent to all such four-year accredited colleges and universities in the 43 states in which the Corporation operates. Household is America's oldest and largest consumer finance company.

Report Invasion Attempts By 'Portuguese Fascists'

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Radio Conakry reported new attempts by "Portuguese fascists and their mercenaries" to land in Guinea during the night, after the weekend invasion of the little West African country appeared to have ended.

The government radio in the Guinean capital said the defending forces repulsed "many incursions."

Travelers arriving Monday night in Abidjan, the Ivory Coast capital, said they had seen the invasion fleet sailing away, and the government of President Sekou Toure had told its people to go back to work but to keep their weapons handy.

EUROPEANS KILLED

Despite Guinea's repeated charges that the invasion was a Portuguese operation, there was considerable speculation in Monrovia that the invaders were rebellious Guineans trying to overthrow their Marxist president. It was thought quite likely that such a force had been trained and equipped in neighboring Portuguese Guinea since Toure lets opponents of the Portuguese colonial regime use his country as a base.

However, Portugal denied all connection with the attacks on Conakry.

Guinea claimed that Portuguese warships landed hundreds of mercenaries Saturday night at Conakry, and that many Guineans and a number of Europeans were killed in the next two days of fighting. Radio Conakry said the invaders were repeatedly driven off, but there was no word on casualties among the invading force.

Two Belgians arriving in Brussels said the invasion "appeared to be a complete failure." But that was before Radio Conakry reported landings during Monday night.

An official of Sabena, the Belgian airline, said the situation in Conakry was "very confused," and the airport was heavily guarded by Guinea troops armed with Chinese guns and wearing Soviet-type helmets.

He said there was considerable fear because mercenaries were believed to be hiding in and around the city.

School Board Will Not Meet

The Board of Education of the Big Spring Independent School District will not meet tonight as originally planned.

Supt. S. M. Anderson said the meeting was cancelled because several board members indicated they would not be able to attend.

The only item that was on the agenda for the meeting was the filling of a vacancy on the board that was created when member Grant Boardman resigned this summer.

The board has considered the filling of the vacancy at several meetings but each time decided to table it until all members could be present.

Denies Mafia Has Made Inroads In Houston Area

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. attorney here said Monday his 45-county area has no organized crime of the "family" variety but that another district of Texas will get a federal "strike force" to combat Mafia inroads.

Anthony J. P. Farris, in a press conference called Monday aimed at a response to published reports about organized crime in Texas used the euphemism "family" to talk about Mafia influences.

He said there are 24 families engaged in narcotics, prostitution and gambling enterprises nationwide and they channel some of their illegal profits into [illegible]ate business. He said in Texas there has been some purchase of insurance stock by these racketeers.

But Farris said no such criminal activity has been discovered in his district, which includes Houston, Corpus Christi and extends to Laredo and Brownsville on the Mexican border.

Farris did not say where the federal strike force will locate in Texas.

The charges of Mafia inroads was made last week by Harris County Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert C. Bennett, who told a conference on organized crime meeting in Austin that a state wiretap law was needed to meet the challenge.

Mexico, United States Sign Historic Treaty

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico and the United States signed Monday an historic treaty designed to solve the old problem of just where the U.S. ends and Mexico begins.

Presidents Richard Nixon and Gustavo Diaz Ordaz have referred to the treaty as one of the most significant agreements between their countries this century.

The treaty, which still must be approved by senates of both nations, was worked out after Nixon met with Diaz Ordaz in Puerto Vallarta Aug. 20. At that time they agreed in general terms to a solution of boundry problems.

INJURED PRIDE

These problems, which go back almost to colonial times, have led to war, to invasion and, most often, to injured pride in Mexico which made warm relations almost impossible.

The basic aim of the document is to establish forever a formula for determining just where the boundary is, even through the rivers which form most of it—the Rio Grande and the Colorado—may shift their courses.

Until now each shift in the river bed—and there have been many—led to a dispute over what was Mexican and what was American. Each case had to be dealt with individually and negotiations sometimes took years. One small tract, where the Rio Grande separates Ojinaga, Mexico, from Presidio, Tex., has been in dispute since 1904.

The countries have not even been able to agree on the name of their river which separates Texas from Mexico. In the U.S. it is the Rio Grande. In Mexico it is the Rio Bravo.

The names stay that way under the treaty, one name in the English version and the other in the Spanish, but the United States cedes to Mexico 1,606 acres along the river while Mexico turns over to the U.S. 1,290 acres. The treaty also determines the sovereignty of several hundred tiny islands and establishes that the center of the river's main channel will always be the border no matter how much the river shifts.

It's No Wonder There Are So Many Hippies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Children in Suburbia, USA, are so oversupervised they are becoming the hippies of tomorrow, Dr. Hildegarge Peplau, president of the American Nurses Association, believes.

In Houston recently for a speech, Dr. Peplau talked about the child's world in suburbia.

Mom drives the children to school, picks them up at 3 p.m. and then shuttles them off to Monday's Little League Game, Tuesday's dancing lesson, Wednesday's swimming class, Thursday's violin lesson and Friday's art class.

MOM'S REGIME

With that kind of regime, she says, it's no wonder there are so many hippies, addicts and rioters.

Dr. Peplau, who has worked at Bellevue Psychiatric Division in New York, believes a radical change in child raising has occurred.

It is a change, she explains, that denies children the experience of learning how to compete, cooperate and compromise between the ages of six and nine.

The sign of the 1970s, she says, is adult supervised play.

"A good many mothers won't let their children play with other children without an adult on hand," she says.

Instead, mothers send their children to endless supervised classes because they believe their child's exposure to culture in a suburban art class will get him into college.

NEEDS TO PLAY

"But a child needs to play with children his own age without an adult around."

For the most part, she insists, the results of adult supervised play have been disastrous. She claims the spectacle of hippies, addicts and rioters is an adolescent's attempt to get together in a peer group without an adult watching.

"It's sort of a make-up experience, if a 6-year-old doesn't learn how to fight his own battles, he doesn't know how to test his wits with peers. Later on when he tries, say, as a hippie, he is a misfit in society's eyes."

Money Machine

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A New York State bank will give its credit card users access to a money machine.

Beginning Wednesday, credit card customers of Marine Midland Bank-Western will be able to get a quick $25 or $50 withdrawal by inserting their credit cards into a cash-dispensing machine.

The machines will be installed on the outside walls of two of the bank's branches and would be in service 24 hours a day.

Texan Named Coordinator

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Tomas Villarreal Jr., 27, a native of Edinburg, has been named coordinator for Mexican American education for the National Education Association's Center for Human Relations, it was announced by the CHR's director, George W. Jones.

A resident of Austin, Villarreal has been a high school and university teacher and coach since 1965. He is one of some 15 million Americans who bear Spanish surnames, over two million of whom have special education and economic problems.

"Probably the most difficult part of my job will be to help make America aware of the severe economic and cultural problems faced by children and adults with Spanish surnames — the so-called Spanish Americans which includes Cubans, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, and Spaniards," Villarreal notes. "The black crisis is now visible. There is even a stirring of interest in the plight of the poor, the American Indian, and women. But, the Spanish-speaking, or Mexican Americans, are still an invisible minority despite their growing numbers in urban and rural communities."

"Even though we have some 84,000 unemployed teachers, we still don't have adequate teachers for Mexican American youngsters," Villarreal said.

TOMORROW

—CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are really stirred up now to get things done and your motto now should be "I Produce Results." However, as no one can live in the world by himself, you would be wise to consult with others. Instead of being determined you are not going to have anyone else take any of the credit or the benefits.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Get an early start on all those responsibilities you have to handle, working with speed and accuracy. See what you can do to make your mate happier. Tone down on the temper.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are tempted to argue with an associate who does not agree with you, but it is better to cooperate, instead. More diplomacy is necessary if you to keep out of trouble. Think.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan your work for the day and don't try to pick an argument with a co-worker. Getting much done should be your aim. Try not to do anything that could be harmful physically, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are bent on having a good time regardless, but this could cost you a pretty penny in more ways than one, so desist. Use energy for whatever is of a constructive nature. Ponder well some new investment.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you do not stop being so demanding, you will turn a molehill of confusion into a mountain today. Get at the bottom of things and then you know how to handle matters quietly and effectively. Show wisdom.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept. 22) Although there are powerful planetary forces against you today, you can weather any storm and accomplish a good deal just the same. Drive with utmost care and be sure you know what the other fellow is doing. Avoid accidents.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Spending unwisely or arguing with others could prove agonizing just at this time, so think. Make improvements to property in your own orginal fashion. Show that you have excellent taste.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You feel very powerful today and could get into trouble with others if you do not in trouble with others if you do not use tact, caution. Do not doubt others so much. Too much emotionalism with others could hurt you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Analyzing recent happenings will show you the path to greater success in the future. Listen to what an expert has to suggest and follow the best advice. Pigeonhole other ideas given you for future use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A partner lights into you quite mercilessly today, but this is only because he or she knows you can do better, which you can. Get busy and use energies constructively. Put emotionalism on the shelf for awhile.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show care in speaking with a higher-up or you get into a peck of trouble now. Listen to what an associate has to suggest, and follow finest ideas only. Being a patriotic citizen is very important right now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) In your eagerness to acquire greater knowledge, be careful you do not irritate new friends, acquaintances. Think well before you talk, write letters. Double checking everything is wise also.

Bentsen Ranks No. 92 In Senate Seniority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new senators who take office in January are equal—but they'll soon find out that some are more equal than others.

Though all 10 will become senators the same date, the Senate Rules Committee has already prepared a seniority listing to help in such things as selecting offices, parking places and Senate desks.

OLD SYSTEM

It's a system that has been used for more than a quarter of a century.

Thus, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, returning to the Senate after a six-year absence, will be No. 91, while Lawton Chiles Jr. of Florida will be No. 100.

One new senator, Adlai E. Stevenson III of Illinois, occupied his seat last Tuesday, since he was elected to fill the last four years of the term of the late Everett M. Dirksen. Stevenson is now No. 100, but in January he will outrank his fellow newcomers as No. 90.

For those who take office the same date, they are ranked in this order: former senators (Humphrey is the only one), former House members (seven of the newcomers), and James Buckley of New York and Chiles.

Within each category, the length of congressional experience and then the population of the state determine seniority.

AHEAD OF TAFT

Thus, the seven past and present House members coming to the Senate will rank in this order:

No. 92. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. of Texas.

No. 93. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

No. 94. William E. Brock III of Tennessee.

No. 95. John V. Tunney of California.

No. 96. William V. Roth of Delaware.

No. 97. J. Glenn Beall Jr. of Maryland.

No. 98. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut.

Buckley gets 99th spot ahead of Chiles because New York is bigger than Florida.

Before the new members get a shot at the offices being vacated, those who are already here get a chance, starting with No. 1, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga. Most senior senators don't move.

One thing that is not determined absolutely by the seniority list is the assignment of senators to committees by the Democratic Steering Committee and the Republican Committee on Committees. But seniority plays a part when two senators request the same spot.

People who cook with pride cook with GAS.

Mrs. Rolan Simpson does.

Some of the world's best cooks are found in the kitchens of America. But, good cooks don't just happen. They work to make themselves good, and they give themselves every cooking advantage possible . . . like gas range cooking.

Besides being the most economical way to cook, gas is also predictable. You always know just how much heat you're getting because you can see the flame. And, precise temperature control is what nine out of 10 professional chefs agree makes the difference between outstanding cooking and just plain cooking. Gas gives immediate response and constant temperature, so important in oven cooking.

So, give yourself every advantage and cook with gas. Remember, people who cook with pride cook with gas.

Here's one of Mrs. Simpson's favorite recipes.

PIONEER NATURAL GAS COMPANY

WALNUT ROLL

Mrs. Rolan Simpson, 3213 56th St., Lubbock

Brush a jelly-roll pan, 10x15 inches, with oil, line it with wax paper, and oil the paper.

Separate 7 eggs. Beat the yolks with ¾ cup sugar until the mixture is pale in color and thick enough to "ribbon." Beat in 1½ cups ground walnuts and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Fold in egg whites, stiffly beaten. Spread the batter in the prepared pan and bake the cake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 or 20 minutes or until it is golden. Cool the cake in the pan, cover it with a damp towel and chill it.

Dust the cold cake generously with sifted confectioner sugar and turn it out on a board covered with two overlapping sheets of wax paper. Carefully strip the paper from bottom of cake. Spread cake with 1 cup heavy cream, whipped and flavored to taste with sugar and vanilla. Roll up the cake, using the paper as an aid, slide the roll onto a flat serving platter. Sprinkle with more confectioner sugar. (Rum or almond flavoring is also good.)

Lame Duck Session Has Snares

The lame-duck session of Congress now under way will, in the opinion of Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, be a "disaster." In a limited sense this may be true, especially for the Nixon administration, but in the larger sense the session was inescapable.

Agreement must be reached on a farm bill. An import restriction bill is still alive, although it should have been scuttled long ago. Essential appropriation bills cry out for action.

It is all very well to say the Congress should have disposed of all important legislation before it recessed to permit most of its members to campaign. The fact that Congress did not complete its business and adjourn until January may be regrettable but it is also irrelevant.

Democrats and some Republicans certainly are not going to make life easy for President Nixon during the session. Sen. Charles Goodell, "purged" by his party, and Sens. Joseph Tydings and Albert Gore, defeated by Republicans, may have a few scores to settle before they return to private life.

The tone of the session may have been set by Senate defeat of an administration-backed occupational safety bill. Further punishment for the administration is likely in store.

But President Nixon can hardly be so lacking in discernment as to believe that his all-out campaign would not bring him some misery. He will have to stay in the "kitchen" where it is hot and take the good with the bad.

Hoover Retort A Swan Song?

J. Edgar Hoover's sharp rejoinder, provoked by former Attorney General Ramsey Clark's book, has the earmarks of a swan song. It is also an invaluable plug for the book, "Crime in America." Hoover called Clark, among other things, "a jellyfish . . . a softie."

Clark had said Hoover never was effective in fighting organized crime. Clark said the FBI's efforts against organized crime were "half-hearted" and claims that only 19 indictments of organized crime figures were obtained in 1960 but (after Robert Kennedy's and his own tenures in the Justice Department) the indictments increased to 687 in 1960 and 1,166 in 1968.

It is noteworthy that of all the attorneys general, only Kennedy and Clark were ever openly critical of Hoover. Hoover's comments recently disclose that the feeling was mutual.

Hoover is 76 years old. He has run an operation that has survived many administrations, even as a division of the sometimes-political Department of Justice. He had maintained a keen regard for the public image of the department and there never has been any doubt that he was — and is — in charge. For 45 years, he has been the Director and the capital D is significant. Yet, he is human, as his blast indicates.

In any case, the public fuss will focus on Clark's charge that the fight or organized crime has lagged, and inevitably will force an audit of the battle against organized crime.

'No Flush Law' Is The Solution

WASHINGTON — There was a shoot-out in Phoenix last week which has national implications. The police, taking advantage of a "no knock" law, raided a house where they suspected hippies had narcotics. Unfortunately, at the time of the raid the hippies had moved out and a married couple had moved in. Since the raid took place at 1:30 in the morning, the husband refused to believe the men were police and shot one. He in turn was shot. The police sergeant said after the raid, "It was a misunderstanding. The couple probably felt they were defending their home against some hippies, and the officers thought they were fighting some criminals."

NOW, OPPONENTS of the "no knock" law have always claimed the big danger of it was that if the police enter someone's home without knocking they could get shot.

Since the Constitution permits you to defend your own home, it is possible that more policemen will be shot than narcotics will be found.

This will make the cops uptight, and so, to protect themselves, they'll start shooting first, and before you know it there will be blood baths all over the country.

THE REASON law enforcement officials say they need the "no knock" law is that, if they knock first, the suspects inside the house will flush narcotics evidence down the toilet. Only a strong "no knock" law, they claim, can prevent anyone from dashing to the bathroom.

This sounds reasonable but, as we have seen in Phoenix, it can only lead to a shoot-out, because the people inside the house can never be certain that the people crashing into their home are policemen.

THERE IS A solution to this problem which we think could satisfy the law-and-order people, as well as the innocent home owner.

I am proposing that the "no knock" law be stricken from the books and replaced with a "no flush" law.

This is how it would work: The police would still have to get a warrant to enter someone's home. They would also have to knock before entering. But if it were a narcotics or gambling raid, they would have to shout at the top of their voices, "This is a raid. Anyone who flushes the toilet will be arrested."

ONE POLICEMAN would be stationed by the water meter nearest the house or apartment to monitor any fluctuation in water pressure during the raid.

When the police enter the apartment, they will have the authority to check the bathrooms. If anyone flushes during the raid, he will be assumed to have committed a crime, and this evidence will be accepted by the court as prima-facie evidence of guilt.

The "no flush" law may be considered by civil libertarians as an invasion of privacy, but it is certainly more acceptable than a "no knock" law, and safer, too.

I MADE this suggestion at the annual meeting of the American Bar Assn. in St. Louis in a speech last summer, but they only laughed at me.

So I've decided to take my case to the public. Would you rather have the police crash in on you at 1 o'clock in the morning with warning? Or would you rather first hear a knock on the door and give up your bathroom privileges while they're searching through your home?

Billy Graham

I asked forgiveness from a friend whom I wronged, but he has not forgiven me. What can I do? D.Y.

When you forgive, or ask forgiveness, a spiritual power is released to you — whether the person wronged grants forgiveness or not. It is the attitude of your heart that God looks upon and honors.

Chesterfied said: "Little, vicious minds abound with anger and revenge, and are incapable of feeling the pleasure of forgiving their enemies." The narrow soul knows not the God-like glory of forgiving. They miss the blessing of taking the sponge of graciousness and wiping out the sordid happenings of the past.

You have done all you can do. Now, "Go thy way and sin no more." He who does a wrong against another suffers twice: once for the remorse for having done wrong, and again, for the agony of knowing the offended might never forget it. So, you have learned one of life's most valuable lessons, and you must tread softly lest you offend others, and compound the agony of conscience that comes through hurting others.

The important thing is: God has forgiven you. He says: "If we confess our sins (and you have), he is faithful and just to forgive our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." The last part of this promise is poignant. When He touches our hearts, we are cleansed of impure thoughts, and untoward acts. His Presence makes all the difference.

SYDNEY (AP) — A woman's remark overheard in the city: "He's so useless he couldn't drive a red hot nail through a pound of butter."

Which caused another woman to say she knew a man who was so hopelesss "he couldn't pour water out of a boot even with the instructions written on the sole."

Evidence Of Easier Money

NEW YORK (AP) — A combination of factors is contributing to the sharp decreases in interest rates for business and government, and some bankers foresee even more reductions on the horizon.

Permitting the rates to fall is a weak demand for credit by companies that have battened down to ride out the recession, and an improving supply of money resulting from an "easier" Federal Reserve policy.

As a result, supply and demand have changed their relationship in recent weeks. Lenders are now less in a position to get their way completely, although they still hold the stronger bargaining position.

Here is sime evidence of easier money:

—The discount rate, which is the rate charged member banks by the Federal Reserve, was cut earlier this month to 5.75 per cent from 6 per cent, and some bankers speculate it is headed lower again.

—The prime interest rate, which large commercial banks charge their best corporate customers, has been reduced 1.5 per cent to 6 per cent this year.

—Municipalities are finding it less expensive to borrow. The municipal bond index maintained by the Bond Buyer newspaper has fallen from about 6.4 per cent in mid-October to less than 6 per cent now.

—Three-month Treasury bills are near 5 per cent compared with more than 6 per cent in October and more than 7 per cent in May. Long-term Treasury bonds, at 6.9 per cent in September, are below 6 per cent now.

—Commercial paper rates, which are the rates companies charge each other for short-term borrowing, were cut in recent days as much as ½ point to between 5 and 6 per cent.

The question that puzzles most ordinary Americans is how they benefit from these developments, and the answer is that they don't gain directly in the sense that personal loans and mortgages are going to be lower.

They do indeed benefit indirectly, of course, when their city borrows at a more favorable interest rate or when the corporation whose shares they hold is able to do business less expensively.

Most people, though, want to see a direct reduction in their borrowing costs before they are willing to concede that an easier money situation exists. But these reductions will be slow to come, especially for long loans.

The savings and loan industry, which makes most of the nation's mortgage loans, is plainly concerned that inflation will be with us for a long time, and is making certain it doesn't get bound into long-term commitments at rates too low.

If strong evidence develops that inflation has been curtailed, mortgages may get cheaper, but the reductions quite likely will be slow to come.

A Successful Bachelor Is . . .

NEW YORK (AP) —Jumping to conclusions:

Neither too much wine nor the pains and pangs of old age bring out the worst in a man's personality as much as having to drive in crowded traffic when he's in a hurry to get somewhere. Yet man persists in making his inventions his gods —the automobile, the airplane, plastics, the computer—and in the end they may destroy him by making him too neurotic to endure. Already he is at the mercy of things he created to make his life more leisurely and comfortable.

The dullest conversation possible this time of year is that between two suburbinites discussing the troubles they have getting to and from work in bad weather—and the new ways they plan to attack crabgrass next spring.

One of the mysteries of life is why so many secretaries fall in love with their boss when they know so much more about him than his wife does.

Experience is like a second-hand car. You may regard it as valuable but you can never sell it at a profit to anyone else.

If you took the words "stupid" and "cool" out of the average teen-ager's vocabulary, he'd be half tongue-tied.

A man who makes his first million is never happy until he makes his second just to prove to himself that the first one wasn't all luck.

A philosopher is a man who, the longer he lives, feels the less he knows for sure—and therefore is willing to learn from younger people who are more confident of their wisdom.

One of the troubles with telling your troubles is that half the people you tell them to don't give a hoot, and the other half are glad you finally got your comeuppance.

Things could be worse. If men wore antlers like moose, it would be even more of a nuisance riding to work by bus or subway.

A successful bachelor is a guy who can give three girls lingerie for Christmas and still stay free.

There is plenty to be grateful for this Thanksgiving Day. For example, in a noisy world half the pianos in America bought by parents to instill music in their children relapse into silence within six months and become simply pieces of living room furniture. the only sounds they make are when they're dusted.

Frightened When Doctor Found Heart Murmur

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My niece was told by a physician that she had a heart murmur but he gave her no explanation or directions as to the care of herself.

Could you explain what a heart murmur is? And what the care of the patient should be?

She is very upset about it, and I'm afraid she will make an invalid of herself unless she has a better understanding of the matter.—Mrs. E.H.P.

A heart murmur is an unusual sound heard with a stethoscope, but it's pretty common for people to have heart murmurs. The cause is a rushing or gurgling sound as blood passes through the heart valves. Some are called functional murmurs — not associated with heart disease — and are quite innocent. Others are organic -- due to a valve defect or a congenital heart disorder.

In conjunction with other symptoms — if any — a murmur can have some significance. It is also possible for it not to mean anything, so far as health is concerned.

Since the physician gave no instructions, it is hard to conceive of any reason for concern in this case. But, I grant you, some people do panic at even hearing about a "murmur," which is why many doctors don't even mention a murmur unless there is some good reason to do so, other than its mere presence.

There's no reason why your niece should worry herself into being an invalid. When she understands more about how her heart operates, and thus can comprehend how a murmur can occur without indicating any disease, she'll sleep better and, I trust, stop worrying herself into being a "heart cripple." Pointless worrying is probably one of the worst things she can do in this circumstance. She should try to get her doctor to explain its significance in her case.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 13, had rheumatic fever three years ago. She is fine now but the doctor advised me to continue giving her two penicillin tablets every day until she is 21.

Please advise me because I fear she will get immune to the penicillin and it wont do her any good and might harm some of her organs, for example, her kidneys.—Mrs. I.J.

The greater risk would be not giving the penicillin. Rheumatic fever has a known habit of recurring if a streptococcus infection comes along. The purpose of the penicillin is to catch any such infection in the bud, and stop it before it gets going.

There is no easy way to be certain, when a cold or sore throat starts, whether it is strep or virus — not at first. Cultures are necessary.

So to be safe, or to keep your daughter safe, follow your doctor's advice. She won't become immune to the penicillin. If she happens to become sensitive to it, you can switch to some other medication.

As to damaged organs, strep (and rheumatic fever can affect kidneys, ears, skin as well as the heart. Taking the penicillin avoids this. Such preventive treatment is ordinarily recommended well through adolescence. The target of age 21 is wise.

Thanksgiving Prayer

There comes a time in every man's life when honesty enters his relationship with God. And on that day, each man gives thanks in his own way for his destined days upon the earth.

BE IT BASE or beautiful, man's body is the wonder of the world — his mind the miracle of the ages — and his spirit the eternal flame.

Of all Thanksgiving prayers, the one I most remember is "A Man's Thanksgiving" by Arthur W. Newcomb:

"GOD OF COMMONSENSE, I give Thee thanks for the heavy blows of pain that drive me back from perilous ways into harmony with the laws of my being; for stinging whips of hunger and cold that urge to bitter strivings and glorious achievement; for steepness and roughness of the way and staunch virtues gained by climbing over jagged rocks of hardship and stumbling through dark and pathless sloughs of discouragement;

"FOR THE ACID blight of failure that has burned out of me all thought of easy victory and toughened my sinews for fiercer battles and greater triumphs; for mistakes I have made, and the priceless lessons I have learned from them;

"For disillusion and disappointment that have cleared my vision and spurred my desire; for strong appetites and passions and the power they give when under pressure and control; for my imperfections that give me the keen delight of striving toward perfection.

"GOD OF COMMON good and human brotherhood, I give Thee thanks for siren songs of temptation that lure and entangle and the understanding of other men they reveal; for the weaknesses and failings of my neighbors and the joy of lending a helping hand;

"FOR MY OWN shortcomings, sorrows and loneliness, that give me a deeper sympathy for others; for ingratitude and misunderstanding and the gladness of service without other reward than self-expression."

The Puzzle Of The Drug Problem

WASHINGTON — At the height of the Rockefeller-Goldberg governorship campaign in New York each candidate made extravagant promises of money and help for heroin addicts. In the judgment of observers with expert knowledge of the gravity of drug addiction in New York, these promises were not only unrealistic but deceptive when measured against the need.

ONE THING is certain — the drug culture is spreading rapidly. It is spreading from the ghettos, where it has long been deeply embedded, to the white suburbs. In New York the estimate is 100,000 heroin addicts; in other cities — Washington, Cleveland, Chicago — from 10,000 to 20,000. A startling statistic is the estimate that 60 per cent of the inmates of New York City jails are addicts who committed crimes to get their daily fix.

WHILE THE use of hard stuff — heroin, LSD — is increasing, the big spread is in marijuana. Almost everyone concerned agrees that more and more young are smoking grass, which is readily available from pushers. This being true, a great many people — specialists, doctors, parents — are asking whether the present effort to punish those who sell and use marijuana is the correct one.

Sensational news stories have pictured marijuana "addiction" — it is not rated an addictive drug — in horrifying terms. A study two years ago by Drs. William McGlothlin and Jolvon West, psychiatrists at the University of Oklahoma, noted the hazards of continuing use of the drug, one being the role it plays in encouraging the hard stuff.

BUT THEY pointed to several reasons to believe that marijuana is less dangerous than alcohol. Both doctors have publicly stated that in their opinion marijuana in the population as a whole is no more dangerous than alcohol.

Sensational reports turn the young smokers off when the dire consequences are not confirmed by their own experience. The danger is that they will then believe that the perils in the use of hard stuff have similarly been exaggerated. The resemblance to the Prohibition era, when a massive illegal traffic in alcohol corrupted every aspect of American life, has some relevance.

A STUDY of drugs and the young by a distinguished woman physician, which will come out early next year, will advocate legalization of marijuana. It would be done with a government agency controlling the non-profit sale under carefully standardized conditions and with strict penalties protecting minors. This would presumably eliminate one of the worst abuses, which is marijuana laced with other more dangerous drugs and the variations from the mildest and relatively nontoxic marijuana to a form brought in from Mexico close to hashish in potency.

THE ARGUMENTS on the other side are many. Even though marijuana may be proved hardly more harmful than alcohol, why legalize another drug when an estimated 7 per cent of present users of alcohol are alcoholics, sick human beings? That's several million people. And would not the legalization of marijuana open the way to, say, 7 per cent or more of all marijuana users becoming pot heads — a pot head being a chronic user as sodden with the stuff as an alcoholic with booze.

But the present situation, even with the Federal law modified to make the use of marijuana a misdemeanor rather than a felony, is intolerable. The facts, given all the rhetoric about "permissiveness," are hard to face up to. But they cannot be swept out of sight.

Politicians And Their Free Drinks

WASHINGTON — In Washington, government and politics also are affected by the ambiance of the genteel hash houses to which our leaders repair between and after hours. Policy decisions are subject in particular to how many and what kind of alcoholic beverages are consumed during these determinedly happy intermissions.

Thus it is consistent with coverage of the nation's cosmic issues to say a few hundred words about a practice lately adopted by saloons which serve food, of a sort, with their booze. These watering places advertise "all the drinks you can drink with dinner" for the price of the meal.

PERUSING THESE come-ons, I find my emotions as mixed as the cocktails favored by aging maiden aunts. One part of me views with alarm, the other reacts with a well-bred sneer in behalf of the tippling giants I have encountered in a merry lifetime spent in the company of journalists and politicians. Either way I look at it, this new gimmick seems to offer evidence of a weakening of the nation's moral fiber.

FOR INSTANCE, I am not sure I want my hirelings in government to while away their after-hours in emporiums, however elegant, that in effect give away their spirits gratis. Most politicians, even those achieving a measure of statesmanship, are determined free loaders.

A martini or two before dinner is a capital and gracious thing. It causes a man to think kindlier thoughts about his neighbor, and even his in-laws. But when a gaggle of policy makers are trying to decide whether to declare war on Trinidad, I do not wish them to be exposed to a place where alcohol flows without charge.

ON THE OTHER hand, there is a suspicion — which whelped the aforementioned sneer — that the free-drink houses are playing it safe, and know it. That is to say, they are aware that people — even politicians and newspapermen — are not the classic guzzlers of old, and that therefore they can with impunity let the boys have at the popskull.

OLD, LONG-BURIED friends come to mind who would have plunged the free-drink joints into instant bankruptcy. Bob Ruark counted the day misspent when he failed to polish off a fifth of Scotch, and the justly revered Ernie Pyle was not referring to a dry cereal in World War II press camps when he called his "Breakfast of Champions" the three fingers of raw gin he ingested upon arising. Columnist Heywood Broun and Doug Gilbert, drama critic for the old New York World-Telegram, kept their desk drawers stocked with expensive schnapps against ailments of the soul.

I SUPPOSE this was naughty of them, but they were men of brilliance, if not genius, and the best of company.

Ah well. It is feckless to dream of these giants. We shall not see their like again in a profession dominated by Ph.D's with the latest in eyeglasses. But in the interest of national security, the other me offers a cogent suggestion to Washington publicans featuring the free-drink gimmick. Nail a sign on your doors, gentlemen, reading simply: "No politicians above the rank of county commissioner."

What Others Say

Under federal law, a head of a household may make up to 200 gallons of wine a year, taxfree, in his bathtub or anywhere else in the house, as long as it is for his own consumption.

Thousands of amateur vintners take advantage of the law, and some bachelors in Cleveland recently decided that it sounded like a good idea, reports the Wall Street Journal.

"Uh-uh," said the Treasury Department. The exception is open only to heads of households, and bachelors don't qualify.

"A most unusual and probably unconstitutional law," says one of the men.

But it's either go to the Supreme Court or go to the altar. Either prospect does not have the bachelors exactly enthused.

Professional Counseling Saves Money, Time, And Headaches

Success in finding a job or in finding the right person to fill a position is better assured by consulting a professional employment service.

Each employer has the right to demand the person best qualified for the job, considering the requirements of the job, the salary to be offered, and the availability of applicants. With this in mind, Mrs. Sue Brown and Mrs. Ruby Taroni, the experienced personnel counselors at Big Spring Employment, carefully evaluate each applicant before he is sent for an interview.

They spend many hours of hard work pre-screening job applicants so employers do not waste time interviewing applicants who are not qualified for the job opening. The agency refers only those who fill the job's requirements and needs. Fewer applicants are rejected because the employer sees fewer people, and fewer rejections make for better public relations. There is also a smaller personnel turnover, and the quality of employes tends to rise. Many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the services of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

Big Spring Employment carries on an extensive testing program in the area of office skills, exposing applicants to personnel tests designed to test adults in business and industrial situations. Both the employment counselors and the employers may refer to these test results as an aid in placing applicants and an indicator of future possibilities. All services are handled on a confidential basis.

From the $75-a-week clerk to the $25,000-a-year executive, job applicants come to Big Spring Employment because they know private agencies are specialists in job-hunting and can place them in desirable jobs sooner than they could locate jobs by themselves. Applicants desiring employment in other parts of the state or country can be referred for interview through associated agencies.

The employer receives extra benefit from elimination of advertising costs. The services of Big Spring Employment are free to the employer, and their normal business procedure saves him time, money, and headaches. By using technical services provided by the agency, a personnel manager is free to solve other problems confronting him.

Their office is in the Permian Building, where the phone number is 267-2535.

Longhorns And Ector Tangle Here At 8:00

DAVID NEWMAN

Big Spring High School tries another toughie tonight, clashing with Odessa Ector at 8 o'clock in the local gym.

Ron Plumlee's club broke even in two starts here last week, upsetting Amarillo Palo Duro before losing to state-rated Plainview. The Longhorns, although giving away a lot of height, knocked over Palo Duro by 19 points and then yielded to Plainview by 20.

The game this evening may mark the return to action of letterman Randy Womack. Womack, one of three veterans back from last season, has at least been given the OK to start working again. He has been hobbled by a bad ankle.

Big Spring got excellent performances out of such boys as Ted Smith, Richard Bullard, Jesse Olague, David Newman, Mike Randle and David Carter last week.

Bullard scored 30 points in the Palo Duro game while Olague equalled that against Plainview.

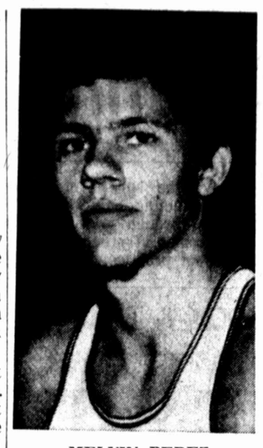

Ector, which is coached by ex-Forsan star Albert Oglesby, displayed great class in cooling off Odessa Permian last week. The Eagles again are tall, rangy and know where the bucket is.

Perry Cooksey and Quincy Wallace are no longer with the Ector team but the Eagles may be as tough as they were a year ago, when they made a run at the District 2-AAAA championship.

Big Spring is a far different club than it was a year ago. It presses all over the court and runs the fast break. The Steers made a big hit here when they knocked off Palo Duro. They also gave Plainview plenty of problems before losing.

The Bovines invade Crane Friday night for a joust with Arlen White's Golden Cranes. White formerly placed and coached in this area.

JV units of Big Spring and Ector clash this evening at 6:15 p.m. The Big Springers, sparked by 6-6 Robert Wallace, have won over both Palo Duro and Plainview, giving an indication that big things can be expected of the Steers next year.

MELVIN PEREZ

Perez Named To All-Star Contingent

LEVELLAND — Host South Plains won its own basketball tournament here Saturday night, defeating Ranger College in the finals, 81-68.

Albert Moore of the Texans, named the meet's Most Valuable Player, led the winners with 24 points. Teammates Gene Perry and Tom Jordan each had 18.

Sidney Johnson paced the Ranger club with 14.

Cochise, Ariz., first round conqueror of Howard County JC, captured third place by outscoring New Mexico JC, 106-99. Charley Jones counted 29 and Kenny Crawford 23 for the Apaches while Charley Banks had 20 for the Thunderbirds.

In consolation finals, Schreiner Institute upended Odessa College, 109-84. Howard County claimed seventh place by turning back Cisco, 101-97.

In addition to Moore, the all-tournament team included Melvin Perez, Howard County; Jordan, Banks and Wilson Barrow, Cisco. Also Stan Johnson, Ranger; Clyde Dickey and Frank Gibbs, Cochise; and Orren Prunty, Schreiner.

Baeza, Klahr Singled Out

Following is a list of football players in the Big Spring area who were singled out for their play in games involving their teams last weekend:

FORSAN

Tommy Brumley, 155-pound sophomore, has served notice that his district should be hearing more about him in the next couple of years by copping the Back of the Week award for Forsan.

The Lineman of the Week contest was extremely close with RICKY KLAHR, 189-pound senior.

BORDEN COUNTY

Lineman of the Week is OSCAR BAEZA, a guard who was chosen for his stellar defensive play against Loop.

MIKE TOOMBS, a 120-pound junior halfback, was named Back of the Week, also for his defensive effort.

Notre Dame Skids In Football Poll

By The Associated Press

Ohio State replaced Notre Dame as the No. 2 team in The Associated Press college football poll today, diminishing the possibility of the Fighting Irish meeting Texas in a Cotton Bowl battle between the top two teams in the nation.

Texas, which did not play over the weekend, held onto the top spot but Ohio State's 20-9 revenge victory over Michigan vaulted the Buckeyes from fifth to second. They had started the season in first place.

Nebraska remained third with a 28-21 triumph over Oklahoma but Notre Dame's 3-0 squeaker over Louisiana State resulted in a drop from second to fourth. LSU inched from seventh to sixth by one point despite the setback.

Arkansas, heading for a Dec. 5 shootout with Texas for the Southwest Conference crown and the right to face Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed one spot to fifth with a 24-10 decision over Texas Tech, which had been ranked 19th but fell out of the Top Twenty. Tennessee drubbed Kentucky 45-0 and shot from eighth to seventh.

Michigan, which saw its unbeaten dreams tumble in Ohio Stadium, slipped from fifth to eighth. Arizona State, still undefeated following a 33-21 win over New Mexico, remained in ninth place but Mississippi, idle over the weekend, rose from 12th to 10th while the Air Force went from 10th to 12th after a 49-19 blasting by Colorado.

Texas garnered 20 first-place votes and 794 points from a panel of 45 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. Ohio State received 14 votes for No. 1 and 760 points while Nebraska had six first-place votes and 718 points and Notre Dame pulled down three top ballots and 676 points. The other two first-place votes went to Arizona State.

Aggies Salty, Says Royal

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—There's nothing wrong with Texas A&M that a litle good luck, for a change, wouldn't cure, says Texas Coach Darrell Royal. But not this week, thank you.

Royal is especially concerned about how the ball bounces for the Aggies Thanksgiving when they line up against his undefeated, top-ranked Longhorns.

"I don't believe I have ever seen anybody that has had the bad things happen that they have had happen," Royal told his weekly news conference Monday. "I'm afraid we're due some bad luck and they're due some good luck."

Royal said he was "very, very concerned" about the "talk of Notre Dame, talk of Arkansas, talk of the Arkansas pep rally and all those things ... The whole attitude can't help but be pushed over onto our football team."

He said while Longhorn fans make plans for "Shootout No. 2" against once-beaten Arkansas Dec. 5, the Aggies are "taking dead aim on us."

The Aggies, he said, "could adopt a go-for-broke attitude, while they can rely on us playing it close to our vests."

To make his point that A&M is much stronger than its 2-8 record would indicate, Royal said the Longhorns will be the fifth team among the top seven in the nation that the Aggies have played.

Walik's Kickoff Runs Spark Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Billy Walik, whose performance was singled out by both coaches as a major factor in the Philadelphia Eagles 23-20 National Football League upset over the New York Giants, compared his job with that of a sprinter in track.

Walik, a 180-pound rookie, returns kicks for the Eagles. He carried four for 146 yards on Monday night's NFL weekly television presentation. He raced 57 yards with a second period New York kickoff to set up a subsequent field goal, and 45 yards with a third quarter return that started the Eagles toward their winning fourth period touchdown.

"It's like being a sprinter in indoor track meets," Walik said of his specialty. "In track you wait around a lot until it's time to run and then you let fly for 50 or 60 yards and hope you timed it right. In returning kickoffs, you look for the hole and try to hit it before it closes."

Coach Alex Webster of the Giants said Walik's flying feet signaled the end of his team's six-game winning streak and it helped drop New York into a second place tie with the Dallas Cowboys in the NFL's National Conference Eastern Division. The Giants and Cowboys are each 6-4, now 1½ games behind the leading St. Louis Cardinals 7-2-1.

"What hurt us most was Walik's kickoff returns which gave them great field position," Webster said in the quiet of the Giants' dressing room. The New York coach also credited the Eagles ability to control the ball in the final period with a big part in Philadelphia victory.

The Eagles tallied their winning touchdown on a 1-yard keeper play by quarterback Norm Snead 52 seconds into the final period. They killed 9:26 on the clock after getting the ball with 10:16 remaining. New York finally got it with 50 seconds left, but could get only to midfield.

Eagles' coach Jerry Williams said Walik's returns and the ability of the Eagles' defense to contain Giants halfback Ron Johnson were the key factors for his team, which has won two and tied one in the last three games after losing the first seven. Johnson, the NFL's third leading ground gainer before last weekend's games, managed only 35 yards on 16 carries.

New York scored in the first period for a 3-0 lead on Pete Gogolak's 29-yard field goal.

The Eagles recovered a fourth down bad pass from center at the New York 1 and scored on Snead's keeper run in the second quarter to lead 6-3.

New York took advantage of a fumble recovery to go back in front on a two-yard burst by Johnson and a 29-yard Gogolak field goal made it 13-6 with 42 seconds left in the half.

Jayhawks Play Trojans Tonight In Mesquite

Boasting a .500 record after four starts, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks pop up in Mesquite today where they tangle with the rugged Christian College of the Southwest team in a return game. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Hawks edged CCSW, 91-86, in the season's opener for both teams here last week. CCSW has since lost to Lon Morris.

HCJC is starting a road trip which will find them swinging into Kansas for the annual Garden City Holiday Classic before returning home.

The locals go to Lubbock Dec. 1 for a joust with the Texas Tech freshmen. On Dec. 3-5, they will take part in the Odessa tournament. They visit Abilene Dec. 7 for a game with the ACC freshmen and won't be seen here again until Dec. 12, at which time they open Western Conference play against New Mexico Junior College of Hobbs.

The Hawks fought back to win seventh place in the South Plains tournament last week after losing successive starts to Cochise, Arizona, and Schreiner Institute. The game with Cochise was determined in overtime.

Likely starters for HC tonight will be Melvin Perez, Lawrence Young, Decell Lewis, Archie Myers and Kenneth Neal.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue:

Former pitcher star SANDY KOUFAX:

"After all those years, I still don't know the best way to pitch to Hank Aaron. If I had to pitch against him tomorrow, it would be like starting zero-to-zero. I wouldn't know what to do."

* * * *

Los Angeles wit JIM MURRAY, discussing umpire Ken Burkhart's strange call in the last World Series:

"He's like Eddie Stanky. He can't hit, run or throw — all he can do is beat you."

* * * *

BUBBA SMITH, star lineman for the Baltimore Colts, referring to John Sandusky, defensive coach for the club:

"If it sounds like I'm freak for John, in essence I am. If he told me to put an inside move on that door over there and then knock it out, I'd try."

* * * *

Columnist SYDNEY J. HARRIS:

"The vanquished usually lie to themselves about the causes of their defeat; but, then, so do the victors usually delude themselves about the causes of their victory."

* * * *

TOMMY HUDSPETH, Brigham Young football coach, talking about reincarnation:

"It would be just my luck to come back to earth as a football coach."

* * * *

BERT ROSE, general manager of Irving's Texas Stadium:

"We definitely expect to have it ready for the Cowboys and North Texas for next season. We still have a few key decisions to make, including the playing surface. Installation of the roof and the excavation of the bowl will probably start about Dec. 1."

* * * *

BABE PARILLI, age 40, rationalizing on the success of Oakland's George Blanda:

"All this doesn't surprise me at all. I've known George since college. He was a senior at Kentucky when I was a freshman. We've been friends ever since. George is one of the most unusual people I've ever met and perhaps the greatest competitor. There are a lot of good competitors in pro football but only a few truly great ones. George will never quit. If he's down, he'll bounce right back. Physically, to do what he's doing at his age, he has to have a different chemical makeup from most people."

* * * *

JOHN ELLIOTT, former UT-Austin gridder who is now a defensive star for the New York Jets:

"There's only one way to play and that's to charge full speed ahead when the ball is snapped. You have to penetrate. If you wait to see what the guard does, you're in trouble. He's moving; you're still reading the key."

* * * *

TV sports announcer HOWARD COSELL:

"Sportscasting is a bottle that was put to sea many years ago and has been lost. I am simply trying to bring the tenets of good journalism to television. If I were a newscaster I wouldn't even be controversial ... Through the years, I've needled sports writers and I expected to get it back and I did. Certain writers — it would be tasteless to mention names — didn't let me down. And I took it ... I expected a mixed bag of criticism. One writer called me 'the master of the cheap shot.' Some people hate me, yes, and there's also a devoted cult that loves me ... I appear on at least one campus a week. The young people love me."

* * * *

JOE MORGAN, infielder for the Houston Astros:

"Some people thought I didn't want to play the outfield last season and didn't think I tried as hard as I should have. That isn't true. I think the real truth was that they overrated what I could do. It would have taken me quite a while to learn how to play the outfield."

Watching Tech Is Hard On Ex-Coach

WACO, Tex. (AP) — J. T. King perched on the edge of his seat in the Baylor Stadium pressbox recently, his face impassive as the Bruins and Texas Tech struggled below.

Alert eyes moved neither to the left nor to the right, but always focused straight down on the action. Only his large, rough hands showed emotion, clasping and then unclasping as the tension ebbed and flowed.

At halftime, King relinquished his seat for a few moments and admitted, "When you miss coaching is right now."

He meant Saturdays—game days. He could tell it like it is because a year ago he was the Red Raider head coach.

I'm probably taking it a little harder because I recruited those youngsters," he continued. "It's kind of like they're your own boy."

King's 1969 Tech team finished with a 5-5 record and a tie for third place in the Southwest Conference. After the season it was decided that a coaching change would be made. The nine-year head man was promoted to athletic director and given the rather ironic task of picking his own successor.

Young Jim Carlen of West Virginia was the choice and apparently it was a good one. The Red Raiders now carry an 8-3 record and voted earlier to accept an invitation to the Sun Bowl Dec. 19.

I think coach Carlen is handling the football situation real well," says King. "His total interest isn't just winning. He's interested in the youngsters and the welfare of the university."

Carlen's concern for the player reminds the Tech athletic director of his college coach at Texas, under the legendary D.X. Bible. "Bible is one of those men who was not only a great coach but also a great individual. He was interested in the players just like coach Carlen is."

King's day begins much the same as when he was head coach.

"I was an earlier riser as a coach," he says. "I used to get over there at the office at seven in the morning. Now I get over there about 7:30. I find that you can get a lot of work done before the public starts circulating."

His work ends much sooner now, though. He no longer has practice in the afternoons. He works with a different game when he leaves the office at 4 or 5 p.m.

"One of the things I have done is play a lot of golf," he says, noting that he started playing regularly during spring drills last year. It was the first spring in many years that he hadn't spent on the football field.

"My game goes up and down," he says. "I guess you'd call me a low 80's shooter."

Though King follows the Red Raiders' fortunes closely, his new position demands that he also keep an eye on attendance. He proudly notes that Tech is assured of averaging approximately 44,000 in home game attendance, quite amazing since Jones Stadium's official capacity is 41,500.

ENEMY WOUNDED — A wounded North Vietnamese soldier is dragged by Cambodian troops back to their headquarters. The man was wounded during a fire fight near Kompong Cham, Cambodia.

SAM Missiles Fired At B52s Over Laos?

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command refused to comment today on speculation that North Vietnamese surface-to-air missiles—the SAMs supplied Hanoi by the Soviet Union—have been fired recently at U.S. B52 bombers attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail near the border between Laos and North Vietnam.

An American military spokesman said no B52s have been lost to enemy fire, but he declined to say if any had been fired on.

Because the B52s fly at 30,000 feet, the SAMs are the only antiaircraft weapon in the North Vietnamese arsenal that might hit them.

MAIN TARGETS

The speculation that SAMs may have been fired at B52s over Laos stemmed from information given in Washington about the U.S. raids on North Vietnam last weekend.

Officials said the main targets were missile and antiaircraft gun positions and stockpiles of war materials on approach routes to the Mu Gia and Ban Karai passes between North Vietnam and Laos, and on other routes to the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the purpose of the strikes was to protect the lives of American pilots flying reconnaissance over North Vietnam and also those "flying missions associated with interdiction of North Vietnamese military supplies throughout southern Laos moving toward South Vietnam."

This raised the possibility that the enemy had fired on the B52s as well as smaller U.S. fighter-bombers. Both fly missions against the enemy supply traffic through Laos.

WON'T TALK

North Vietnamese missile batteries were first moved into Laos nearly a year ago. Six SAM launch sites were observed in the area where the Mu Gia Pass, a major North Vietnamese supply route, enters the Laotian panhandle. Fighter-bombers attacked the missile sites then after three SAMs were fired at a flight of B52s.

The U.S. Command spokesman also refused to say whether any of the giant Stratofortresses participated in the weekend raids on supply depots in North Vietnam. He referred newsmen to Laird's statements, which did not specify the types of aircraft that made the strikes.

In the war today, only ground skirmishes were reported in South Vietnam, and the U.S. Command said field reports indicated there were no American battlefield deaths Monday. It was the third day this month that no Americans were reported killed in action.

CRITICIZES AIRCRAFT CONTRACT — Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., criticizes the Pentagon's decision to grant a billion-dollar contract for the International Fighter to California's Northrup Corp. He told a Capitol Hill news conference Monday that awarding of the contract to the California firm over a Texas firm, LTV Aerospace Corp., has nothing to do with his criticism.

House Speaker's 'Pal' Gains Suspended Term

NEW YORK (AP) — Lobbyist Nathan Voloshen, who pleaded guilty to influence peddling charges and conspiring to misuse the office of House Speaker John McCormack, was given a suspended sentence today after a government disclosure that he has cooperated in a new investigation of corruption.

The 72-year-old Voloshen, an old friend of the 78-year-old McCormack, was indicted with Martin Sweig, a longtime aide to the speaker, on charges of conspiring to get favors for Voloshen's clients and lying to a grand jury about it.

Voloshen, who could have received up to 20 years in federal prison, and who has been in ill health, clutched a cane as he heard Federal Judge Marvin E. Frankel brand his influence-peddling activities "crimes of the utmost heinousness, crimes that tend strongly to corrupt the democratic process."

Voloshen, who could have received $160,000 in fines, instead was fined $10,000.

Good Response To Scout Camporee

One of the first Lone Star district camporees in several seasons also turned out to be one of the best here last weekend, according to Scout officials.

Ralph Beckham, director, said there was outstanding response with 12 troops represented with some 200 boys and leaders. He also said cooperation in staging the event was extraordinary on every hand. The Order of Arrow Indian dance team staged a program at the council fire Saturday, and all troops staged skits.

Boys pitched camp at the Roundup grounds southeast of the Comanche Trail Park after school Friday. Saturday they participated in 10 Scout-skill events, which counted along with camp inspection toward ratings.

The President's award went to Troop 14 (Harvey Hooser, scoutmaster), Troop 179 (Bill Priebe), Troop 16 (Bill Mims), and Troop 146 (Jim Hohlt); blue ribbons to Troop 6 (Jim Gaylord), Troop 13 (Rufus Fowler), Troop 300 (Dr. Clyde Thomas), Troop 1 (Jimmy Lockhart); red ribbons to Troop 11 (John Cline), Troop 5 (Dan Ballard); yellow ribbon to Troop 17 (Ivory Harper).

Cancer Chem Discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Cancer Institute team has discovered a chemical that may lead to an early diagnosis of leukemia and could eventually help provide a leukemia treatment, The Washington Post reported today.

An enzyme in the lymphocytes, or clear blood cells, was found by Drs. Robert C. Gallo, Sue Yang and Robert C. Ting in research they reported earlier this month to scientists at a conference at the Pasteur Institute in Paris.

Gallo is on the staff of the cancer institute and the others are with Bonetics Research Laboratories in Kensington, Md.

The chemical they found apparently brings to life dormant leukemia viruses, which then act to turn cells cancerous.

Further research is planned to test the team's work, the Post said.

The enzyme was found only in patients suffering from lymphocytic leukemia, or blood cancer. None was turned up in normal persons.

But the discovery is expected to touch off more research to find similar enzymes that cause other forms or cancerous growth in humans.

Spending Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, G-Tex., voted Monday to refuse to override President Nixon's veto of the bill setting limits on radio and television campaign spending. The vote was 58 to 34, not enough to override the veto. A two-third vote was required to override.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted to override.

Vitamin C Sales Jump

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vitamin C sales have jumped at several pharmacies almost overnight, apparently the result of news stories about a scientists' remedy for the common cold.

Pharmacist Harry Fleming reported an increase in sales "one thousandfold."

Two-time Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling told a news conference at Stanford, Calif., last week that ascorbic acid —Vitamin C — is an effective cold cure if properly used.

Pauling suggested cold sufferers take about one-half teaspoon of the powder form of ascorbic acid each day until the cold disappears.

When a person first catches a cold, he said, about one gram of ascorbic acid should be taken each hour.

A survey here Monday showed sales had doubled at one pharmacy since the article was printed here Friday, and had increased by 300 per cent at another.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♡	Dble.	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♣

An impulsive play by East at the opening gun nullified the inspired lead of his partner in defending against South's three no trump contract.

West gave considerable thought to his opening lead. From the bidding, it appeared that South was well fortified in hearts, and that West's best hope therefore was to locate his partner's suit. West chose to select clubs for his attack and he opened the deuce of that suit. But for East's lack of cooperation, this would have been the killing defense.

The jack of clubs was played from dummy and East without a moments hesitation, covered with the queen — which held the trick. A club was returned to West's ace and a third round cleared the suit as South won the trick with the ten. Declarer proceeded to drive out the ace of diamonds, but since West had no more clubs left and was unable to get his partner in, South succeeded in running off with 10 tricks.

As soon as East put up the queen of clubs, he retired himself permanently from the play. Observe the effect, if he permits the jack to hold the first trick and contents himself with giving an encouraging signal by playing the eight of clubs. When West gets in with the ace of diamonds, his ace of clubs will drop the king and another club to East's queen will enable the latter to cash two more tricks in the suit.

The play of the eight can hardly lose. If West has four clubs, then declarer's remaining card in that suit will drop on the next round. What if South doesn't have the ten of clubs? Well, in that case he would surely put up dummy's king on the first trick since the opening bidder is clearly marked with the ace.

C-City Council Fills Vacancy

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Frank Brownfield, vocational agriculture teacher at Colorado High School, was selected by the Colorado City Council during a Monday night called meeting to replace Paul Hunter who resigned from the council Nov. 9.

Brownfield has lived in Colorado City four years and is the owner of a downtown business property as well as a teacher in the Colorado school system.

He was in Lubbock Monday night at the annual District 2 Gold Star banquet where his daughter, Marsha, 17, was recognized as the Gold Star Girl from Mitchell County.

The council also heard a proposal from Floyd A. Hunter, Greenville attorney, to collect deliquent taxes. Hunter would receive 15 per cent of collections. The council did not act upon the matter but will consider it at the regular meeting Dec. 14.

Elect President

Jack Shaffer was elected new president of Big Spring Board of Realtors during Monday's meeting at Holiday Inn. Serving with him will be Mrs. W. D. Rowland, vice president; Mrs. Thelma Montgomery, secretary, and Mrs. Lee Hans, treasurer. They will be installed Jan. 2. Robert McDonald, current president, presided at the meeting.

Will Reveal Plans For Mustang Park

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Parks and Wildlife Commission has aired its differences over Mustang Island in a public hearing, and Chairman Pearce Johnson says he will decide today or Wednesday whether to approve purchase of land on the island.

Only Johnson has the power to sign an application for 1 million in federal funds to help pay for the land. He said Monday he would discuss his opposition to the proposal in private.

The other two commissioners, Harry Jerzig of San Antonio and L. P. Gilvin of Amarillo, have voted to buy as much of the island from Mrs. Sam E. Wilson Jr. of Corpus Christi as they can for $1,100 an acre.

OFFER TO SELL

Mrs. Wilson has offered to sell 7,495 acres of the land.

"Certainly these people ... are entitled to an answer," Jerzig told Johnson, gesturing to the crowd of conservationists at the regular commission meetin. "I think it is up to the chirman to . . . tell us when the is going to sign the application. . . . I pitch out that as a challenge to the chairman."

He said when one loses a vote —as Johnson did—"he should be a good sport in going along with the majority."

Gilvin said the commission had held two executive sessions already, and "I have voted and haven't reconsidered."

HE'S UPSET

Johnson then went into a long explanation of his opposition, saying the land hasn't been surveyed, the department's park division recommended against its purchase and no plans had been made for the island's development.

"I don't spend money without knowing what I am doing—whether it is mine or the taxpayers," he said.

He also said that Corpus Christi was seventh in priority for new parks under the state's comprehensive outdoor recreation plan. He displayed a stack of letters and telegrams, which he said came from parks experts backing him up.

Johnson said that "another thing that upset me" is what he said was a "comment" that the department staff has lined up Jerzig and Gilvin "in retaliation" to vote against a park that Johnson favors.

'THAT'S A LIE'

"That's a lie!" Gilvin burst out, with Jerzig nodding agreement.

Harvest Trails Behind 1969

The cotton harvest in the Pecos territory appeared to be tailing off last week with 9,400 samples classed as compared with 11,650 in the comparable week a year ago. So far the Pecos office has classed 43,100 bales, compared with 52,000 through the same date a year ago, said L. L. Wells, officer in charge.

Forty-five per cent classed strict low middling; 13 per cent middling; 8 per cent strict low middling plus. Another 14 per cent graded in lower white grades, and 20 per cent in light spotted grades. Predominant staple was 1 3-32nds with 31 per cent, although 6 per cent went at 1 5-32nds inches. The lowest staple was 1 1-16ths.

Fifty-four per cent miked 3.5-4.9 compared to 72 per cent a week earlier and 83 per cent a year ago. Smiilarly fibre strength was off slightly at 84,000 psi, compared to 90,000 in the week a year ago.

Senator Vows Fireworks Over Insurance Hike Plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Sen. Oscar Mauzy promises fireworks over the State Insurance Board's proposed statewide average increase of 18.6 per cent in auto insurance rates.

"Obviously, the insurance industry has had its way again today," Mauzy said in a statement Monday afternoon.

"But the 62nd legislature will convene on Jan. 12, 1971. I predict that the insurance industry will find that the people of Texas, speaking through their elected representatives, will not allow this economic miscarriage of justice to stand unchallenged."

JAN. 1 TARGET

The 18.6 per cent increase would take effect if the board continues its rule of limiting the increase in any category of car insurance to 25 per cent. If the board imposes the actual increases its staff said are indicated by insurance company losses, the average increase would be 23 per cent on private passenger cars.

Board chairman Ned Price said the board intends to put new rates into effect by Jan. 1 after conducting further hearins in Dallas and Houston.

At a news conference last week, the board said it would abide by the 25 per cent limit on any increases, which insurance companies oppose.

Board member Durwood Manford said Monday he favors a catastrophe allowance to ease the sting of the 25 per cent rule on the companies.

HIGHER PREMIUMS

Insurance agents, traditionally opposed to rate hikes, backed the companies' plea for higher premiums on grounds this would ease the current shortage of car insurance for eligible drivers.

"If the increase is not adequate, we are not going to increase the market at all," said Russell Perry, president of a holding company that owns seven insurance firms.

"The public cannot understand and I do not understand increasing the rates when companies have been very generous in dividends paid to both stockholders and policyholders," Mauzy said.

"Where is the reform the people of Texas have been promised?" he continued.

LAPDOG CHARGE

"Where are the reports showing how many thousands of dollars the industry spent last year influencing legislation and legislators? . . .

"When is the State Board of Insurance going to recognize its responsibility to be the watchdog for the public rather than the lapdog for the insurance industry?"

Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown said the proposed increases "constitute a tragic abuse of government regulation and the free enterprise system."

Says State Board Misleading Public

DALLAS (AP)—State Sen. Oscar Mauzy said Monday that the state insurance board is misleading the public with claims that inclusion of investment income in rate-making will cause an increase in auto insurance rates.

"That is palpably false," he said.

GOLDEN EGG

Mauzy said the increase is being caused because the board has "bought hook, line and sinker the industry's pitch that they are guaranteed a profit of 11.8 per cent. If the board adopts the industry's position of a guaranteed profit, then they will become a party to killing the goose that lays the golden egg," he said.

He said higher insurance rates will bring federalization of auto insurance.

Mauzy claimed insurance companies in Texas enjoyy a monopoly since all motorists are required to have insurance but rates are set by the board and companies are therefore freed from price competition.

'LUDICROUS' RATES

He said insurance company claims that they need profits comparable to competitive industries are "ludicrous" since the rates are set by the board.

Consumer advocates in recent years have argued that insurance companies should take into consideration the profit they earn from investment of premiums when they prepare their rates.

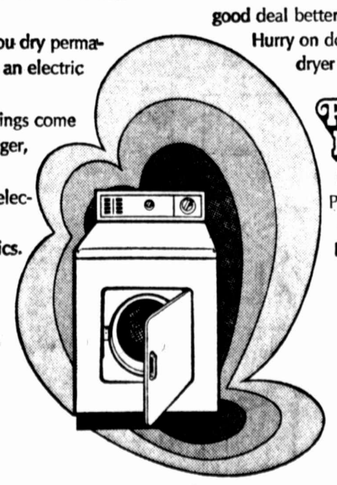

Mauzy said insurance companies use two types of bookkeeping to make their losses appear bigger and their income smaller.

For example, he said, a policy written Dec. 1 for $120 will show one-twelfth of that amount as income for the year. In so doing, he claimed, the company employes the "accrual" method of accounting in which income and in most cases outgot spread over the life of the transaction.
