THE WEATHER

East Texas—Saturday and Sunday partly cloudy

Oklahoma and West Texas—Saturday and Sunday partly cloudy and somewhat unsettled.

THE DAY IN WICHITA FALLS

Although clouds were in evidence throughout the entire day and a breeze was blowing in the afternoon, [illegible] thermometer recorded 100 degrees in the shade at 4 p. m. Wichita Falls experiences much warm weather in the summer and the heat recorded here would be felt greater in localities where there is no breeze. Last year the temperature reached 114 degrees, while reports are coming from the north that many casualties are being reported this year, and yet the temperature only reached the 104-degree mark.

Another feature of the weather conditions in Wichita Falls yesterday was that the temperature rose from 80 degrees at 6 a. m. to 97 degrees at 7 a. m., which will indicate that the days are beginning to open warmer every day.

It is a pleasure and a privilege to live in Wichita Falls.

Grouped Systems With Rail Labor Board to Continue Regarded Full of Promise.

Associated Press Dispatch

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—Consolidation of the railroads of the country into a small number of systems is a rational, justifiable step, full of promise towards solution of the transportation problem, President Harding declared here tonight in the second prepared address of his western trip. Twelve thousand heard the president speak in Convention hall.

"If the system consolidations will not afford the solution," he said, "then our failure will enforce a costlier experiment and the one great commitment which I hope the United States will forever escape."

Public Operation "Blunder."

The executive expressed the belief that this one great commitment—government operation—would be "a colossal blunder, which would destroy initiative, infect us with political corruption, create regional jealousies and impose incalculable cost on the public terasury."

Discussing relations between the carriers and their employes as a vital factor in the transportation situation, the president announced that he favored continuance of the railroad labor board "under such modifications as seem most likely to make the plan successful." He said he was not convinced that the test of this plan had been "a complete and entirely fair one," but added that "there is little to hope for until all concerned are ready to comply promptly with the board's decisions."

"I am frank to say," he continued, "I do not hope for compliance on the part of employes so long as decisions are ignored by the managers."

No Constitutional Bars.

The sort of consolidation of the carriers which Harding advocated contemplates a constitution of the larger systems so that the weaker and unprofitable lines would be able to lean upon the financial strength of the stronger and profitable ones until the growth of the country makes them all earn a just return upon the capital invested." The whole would be under "rigorous government supervision."

Such a consolidation, the president asserted, would "effect a diminution in rates without making a net return impossible" and at the same time would "make sound finance possible for expansion."

"There now appears to be no difficulty about any constitutional inhibition to the voluntary consolidation as authorized by congress," the executive continued, "but the problem of reconciling the interests of the hundreds of different ownerships and managements of lines to be merged into sys-

Verbal Attacks Frequent.

Flashes of verbal attacks and counter attacks came fast and furious from both state and defense attorneys as the warm after baked the court scene. When the by-play took a turn toward irritability, Judge Mullican recessed the session, remarking that they were probably tired out. He concluded

ARGUMENT ON TODAY

Jury Will Get Case Late Today; Quick Verdict Not Expected

Special Dispatch to Record News

ANSON, Texas, June 22. — The fate of Henry J. Toussaint will be with the jury by the middle of this afternoon, it was indicated last night, when both state and defense completed examination of witnesses in the case in which Toussaint is being tried for the murder of his father. Court was adjourned at 6:15 o'clock Friday afternoon.

It was indicated that one or two more witnesses might be called Saturday, this being permissable at the discretion of the court. It was certain, however, that argument would be completed before nightfall. It is possible, but not probable, that a verdict will be reached during the evening.

Sticks to His Story.

As was the case Thursday, Toussaint himself was the chief feature of Friday's developments in the case. Undergoing a rigid cross examination at the hands of District Attorney Bernard Martin of Wichita Falls, the defendant was in the witness chair during the entire morning. He made the same impressive showing that characterized his testimony of the day before, and not once did he vary from the story he had told on direct examination.

Mr. Martin fired questions from all angles, and time and again sought to draw from the defendant statements that would conflict with what he had previously testified to. These met invariably with no success.

Pictures Introduced.

During the course of the examination, Mr. Martin brought out photographs of Toussaint in some of the escapades that had brought him nationwide notoriety before he ever became involved in the murder trial.

One picture shown was that of Toussaint's 75-foot leap from a bridge

TALKING MOVIE WOULD RUIN AN ART, HE SAYS—

Just what the recently accomplished perfection of the talking movie will mean to the motion picture of the future, time will be the best judge, but the announcement has failed to make the sensation in the film world that might reasonably have been expected.

B. P. Schulberg, the young president of Preferred Pictures, who is a ready sponsor of any innovation that may work for the betterment of the screen, sees no turning point in film history in this invention which photographs sound.

"The motion picture," says Schulberg, "is of its very nature a silent art and the introduction of sound is neither logical nor desirable. The force of the screen drama is conveyed through the eyes. The addition of words can only defeat its own purpose of realism. One might as well paint a piece of sculpture as to hope to supplement pictorial action on the screen with spoken words.

"And with the adaption of the human voice to the film we shall lose the only legitimate outside aid to pictures—that of the musical accompaniment. Music adds immeasurably to the effect, because it stimulates the sub-conscious mind along the lines of the screen play. It is soothing and beautiful, whereas the voice in its mechanical reproduction could only be harsh and discordant. I see the introduction of words into pictures as only another result of the misconception that the screen must ape the stage. The proper lines along which to develop are along those of interpretive music—an almost limitless field that has only partially demonstrated its possibilities.

"Schulberg Studios are exercising utmost care in preparing musical scores that accompany Preferred Pictures when they are presented in the theater. Expert musicians are entrusted with their preparation."

Five thousand angular bits of glass are being cut and polished to a fine white brilliance to give sparkle to the Winter Palace, being reproduced for Marshall Neilan's "The Rendezvous."

Renee Adoree, because of her realistic and artistic weeping, has been stricken with a severe case of "Kleig-eyes." She has been doing weeping scenes for the last two weeks for Metro's "Master of Wmoan," and their weakened condition made them an easy object for the merciless attack of the powerful lights. She is at home now under the care of a physician—and the big picture waits.

WHEN TOO MANY TEARS SPOILED A FILM—

Speaking of tears—the ability of an actress to shed tears to order is an unusual gift, but a woman's tears are queer things, and sometimes they play the wrong cue.

Leatrice Joy was working on a touching scene in "The Silent Partner," where she is visiting the bedside of a very dear sick friend, who tells how she has been reduced to poverty by the speculations of her husband. Accustomed to luxury, the dainty woman lies starved and pale in the broken iron bed of a New York tenement room. Her empty pocketbook and expired pawn tickets show how jewels as well as money have gone to satisfy her husband's pleas for more money to gamble.

Leatrice was sitting on the bed by the suffering one. It was an intensely emotional moment. As the pity of the whole thing overcame Leatrice, her eyes filled with tears, she sobbed once, then the tears ran streaming down her cheeks—and ruined a perfectly good makeup, necessitating the retaking of the entire scene.

An orchestra was supplied for the occasion and some snappy music was rendered.

One of the main attractions of the dance was a moonlight waltz in which all the dancers took a part. Punch was served to all who exhausted themselves in their efforts.

Among those present was C. G. Jones, special DeMolay state worker, who spoke to the members of Hope chapter Thursday night following their ceremonial.

TRAFFIC ACTS ARE DISCUSSED

Double Decking and Alley Parking Taken Up By C. of C. Council

Lengthy discussion of the new traffic laws proposed for the city took up most of the hour at the chamber of commerce business council luncheon Friday noon. The matter was gone into from all angles and brought out suggestion after suggestion regarding this or that feature of the new rulings.

Parking regulations drew the principal fire. The announcement by W. W. Anderson, on a committee appointed to represent the council in the traffic matters, that either the elimination of left hand turns or a time limit on parking cars in the down town business districts was coming started a long round of argument.

In the end, however, the council passed a motion putting itself on record as favoring enactment of an ordinance providing for either a one or two-hour parking limit for cars on certain streets.

"Double decking," loading and unloading trucks in alleys behind business houses and "day storage" were all mentioned in connection with the trouble.

A dozen or more speakers presented their views during the luncheon, most of whom seemed to be inclined toward the time limit suggestion.

WHEAT PRICES DROPPING LOW

Production Will Be Much Greater Than Early Forecast

An optimistic view of the wheat yield but a dubious opinion on its value to the American farmer was expressed Friday by P. T. Duncan, general manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, in a brief address at the chamber of commerce business council luncheon.

Regarding the wheat yield, Mr. Duncan stated that production in this territory would be much better than was at first anticipated. Early belief that wheat would average betwen 8 and 12 bushels to the acre are being dispelled, he stated, and there is reason to presume that in many instances a yield of almost normal proportions can be expected.

On the other hand, Mr. Duncan declared, the wheat market has been steadily declining for the past few weeks and it now apears that farmers will get only 85 or 90 cents for the crop. With these prices prevailing, with millions of bushels surplus from last year's crop still undemanded in grain elevators and with a bumper crop coming on for this year the situation is serious, he said.

Verschoyle Tells Business Council of Plans for Exhibition

A promising picture of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair here next October was painted Friday by C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the organization, in an address before the chamber of commerce business council Friday noon. Mr. Verschoyle went into considerable detail regarding attractions that are to be had at the gorunds and presented a rosy outlook for the future.

He said that, among other things, that the horse races which are to be one of the fair's chief features were to attract some of the fastest ponies in the country. A total of $10,000 in cash prizes are to be awarded, he said.

Eight separate riding devices are to be provided, including some of the latest and most up-to-date machines now on the market. The midway will have 30 shows of a high class carnival type.

In the fireworks displays will be a pyrotechnic exhibition of a gushing oil well and some "fire portraits" of prominent Wichita Falls men.

The speaker stated that he fully expected 200,000 people would be at the fair grounds during the fair period.

HARDING----

tems has proven a task for which no solution has been found.

Small Roads Need Help.

"It is, therefore, being seriously proposed that the next step be to further amplify the provisions for consolidation so as to stimulate the consumption. It is my expectation that legislation to this end will be brought before congress at the next session.

"There are some roads—many of the smaller ones in fact—whose continued operation is absolutely vital to many thousands of people, to considerable towns, to large areas of country, whose revenues simply can not provide financial facilities through earning, pending a considerable growth in community population, say nothing of earning any return whatever on capital invested. No legerdemain of court processes, receivers' certificates, or financial juggling, can save them. They must get more revenue or stronger support or quit operating until the country is more largely developed.

"The railways have become publicly sponsored institutions, and government must find a way to avoid confiscation, avoid starvation, and maintain service and a proper return upon capital which will assure them a growth commensurate with the country's development.

"There is another particular reason which urged the early adoption of the larger-system plan. It would be a long step toward solving the problem of keeping the railroad equipment adequate. Many financially weak roads are unable to provide all the rolling stock they need."

Rail Strike Discussed.

With regard to relations between the railroads and tehir employes, the President declared he did not believe "it possible under our form of government to compel men to work against their will, and do not think it desirable under any form of government."

"I say this," he added, "fully recollecting my vote in the senate in favor of the anti-strike provision of the railroad act of 1920. That was not a provision denying men the right to strike. It was merely a requirement that before the men should strike or the employer should lock them out, both sides should submit their differences to a properly constituted and impartial tribunal, empowered to consider the facts, determine the merits, and make an award.

"It was believed that in the vast majority of cases this procedure would prevent lockouts and strikes; and, in view of the enormous loss to the carriers, to their employees, and to the public resulting from strikes, I profoundly regret that it should not have been possible to give the plan a fair trial. If human wisdom shall ever be capable of setting up such a tribunal as that, and of inspiring both sides of the controversy with complete confidence in it, we will have traveled a long way toward industrial peace.

Urges Waterways Work.

"Personally, I have confidence that the thing is possible. I believe so firmly in the underlying common sense of both organized industry and organized labor, and in the fairness toward both on the part of the great public on which both of them are finally dependent, that I believe at last it will be possible to arrive at settlement of industrial disputes in public services by such a method.

"There is another highly important phase of the transportation problem very much worth our attention. I believe the use of our inland waterways offers the one sure way to reduced carrying charges on basic materials, heavy cargoes, and farm products.

"The federal government has expended approximately $1,130,610,000 on river and harbor improvement. The millions expended on inland waterways and canals, have brought small returns because we have put them to no practical use. We have failed in co-ordinating service and have allowed the railroads to discourage every worth while development.

Asks Railroad Co-Operation.

"I believe we should encourage our water service, we should encourage and enforce co-ordinated service, we should see to an equitable division of rates, and exact rate reductions whenever practicable to operate successfully under rate reduction.

"I wish the railway leadership of the country could see the need of this employment of our water routes as an essential factor in perfected transportation, and join in aiding the feasible plan of co-ordinating service and cheapening charges, not alone as a means of popularized and efficient public service, but as a means of ending the peril of their own fortunes."

Long lines had formed about the convention hall at 6 o'clock, a half hour before the doors were thrown open. Each person was handed an American flag as he entered the auditorium and instructed to keep concealed until the president arrived at 8:05 o'clock.

At that time the audience, which packed to capacity the hall, which holds 12,000, arose in a mass, waving the flags and cheering.

President Sunburned.

The effect was obviously pleasing to the president and Mrs. Harding, both of whom acknowledged the greeting, smiling and bowing, while the ovation continued for several minutes.

On the streets, the overflow gathered to hear the address by means of amplifiers which had been installed for that purpose.

The meeting was opened with prayer and then Mayor Frank H. Cromwell introduced the president.

Harding began speaking at 8:19 o'clock. He seemed to have virtually recovered from the severe case of sunburn contracted during a ride about the city earlier in the day, and which caused him to remain at his hotel during the afternoon, where his physicians treated his swollen lips and blistered face with ice packs. His face, however, still was reddened from the effects of the rays of burning sun.

A burst of cheering that lasted four minutes occurred when the president arose. It was the biggest demonstration that had greeted the executive during his trip.

Latest Sweater For Small Urchin

It is the day of the knitted goods and sweaters in particular are more than popular, they are almost a craze with the feminine portion of the world. The styles are varied enough to suit every taste. It is a very practical fad, too, as the soft, warm wool keeps the chill off on the cool days we experience occasionally in the hottest summers especially in the evenings and early morning.

They are particularly practical for the children who often need a little extra warmth while at play or out riding or on the beaches. Sliporers, coat sweaters, plain and fancy, all are shown in all sorts of colors. The slipover shown in the picture was designed by Manhattan and is a very pleasing Mother Goose design. It has turnover collar that ties in front and a wide border with a noble horse woven in that cannot fail to please any little lad.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING OIL ON PUBLIC LANDS

Operating regulations to govern the production of oil and gas on the leased public lands of the United States, as amended March 3, 1923, have been issued by the department of the interior and may be obtained from the bureau of mines, Washington, D. C. The regulations contain information regarding the powers and duties of the supervisor and deputy supervisors of the bureau of mines staff who have technical supervision of the operation of oil and gas producing properties on public lands. The requirements for lessees of such properties are given in the pamphlet, which also contains information as to oil, natural gas and gasoline royalties.

Texas Textile Delegates Hold Dallas Meeting

Associated Press Dispatch

DALLAS, Texas, June 22.—Delegates representing 30 cities and towns from all over Texas took part today in discussion of textile mill possibilities in Texas. The conference was held under the auspices of the Texas chamber of commerce and was held as a furtherance of the program inaugurated by the state chamber with the operation of a special car of cotton mill specialists over a 2,000-mile inspection trip in Texas several weeks ago. The association's slogan is "23 mills in '23."

Reports made today show almost a dozen cities have active committees at work preparing plans for the organization of cotton mills companies, while Dallas, Mexia and Breckenridge have already organized their companies and are ready to begin construction.

LOCAL LAWYER---

started and continued until after 1 o'clock Friday morning. The hunt was resumed at daylight, but after several more hours search had failed to bring results a friend of Caldwell's who knew his whereabouts was called before the grand jury. From this source it was learned that he was in Burkburnett and instructions were sent to Deputy Frank Watkins at that place to arrest him.

Brought to the sheriffs office here under arrest, Caldwell prepared to make an appearance bond to guarantee his arrival in Anson Saturday morning. A legal opinion from a district court judge here, however, stated that under the circumstances the offense was not bailable and that Caldwell should be taken at once to Anson.

After first arriving here in custody of the deputy, Caldwell started habeas corpus proceedings to obtain his release, but these were dropped when it became apparent that he would be forced to proceed to Anson.

Will Go to Jail First

He left about 6 o'clock, accompanied by Jimmie V. Allred, assistant district attorney, in whose keeping he was placed. The two drove through.

Before leaving the city, Caldwell told a representative of The Record News that he expected to go to jail in Anson Saturday if Judge Chapman of the Thirty-ninth district court did not agree that what he, Caldwell, knew of the Toussaint case was privileged.

His connection with the case started the day after the elder Toussaint was murdered and statements alleged to have been made by Henry J. Toussaint to Caldwell regarding a will left by the elder man are regarded by the state as being extremely important evidence. The will was brought up at Anson Friday in Toussaint's trial and Caldwell's testimony regarding what he knows of the affair is wanted.

Attorneys here were divided in their opinions as to whether or not Caldwell's knowledge was really privileged or not. It was the general belief, however, that the attorney was being held in high contempt of court by Judge Chapman and was liable to a stiff fine.

TOUSSAINT----

into the Potomac river at Washington. His hands and feet were tightly bound, the picture showed, and Toussaint explained that he had made the jump to win a bat with a friend.

Huff Questioned.

Another photo showed Toussaint, clad only in a bathing suit, breaking ice in a lake in the middle of winter, preparatory to taking a plunge in the water.

Following the cross examination, Lee Huff, chief of police at Wichita Falls the time O. H. Toussaint was slain, was called by the state. Mr. Huff was questioned closely regarding the confession Toussaint had made to him the day after the shooting and his testimony was largely the same as that given at Toussaint's previous trial.

One added feature was provided and which was not introduced at the previous trial, in that Mr. Huff stated that Toussaint made statements to him regarding his belief that he was a paranoiac.

Will Discussed.

Another surprise in the case was sprung in the course of Mr. Martin's cross examination regarding a will supposed to have been left by O. H. Toussaint. The matter was brought up when the district attorney began to question Toussaint closely regarding the disposition of his father's estate. Remarks supposed to have been made by the defendant and which dealt with the conveying of most of O. H. Toussaint's property to a brother of the defendant was the object of special interest. No definite assertions of any importance were obtained, however.

It has been announced that two and a half hours each will be allowed for argument, meaning that if argument begins at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the jury will have the case about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Most of the witnesses in the case left Friday night on the return trip to Wichita Falls.

FORD AND HIS ADMIRERS

If he lives President Harding will be the republican standard bearer in 1924. This isn't a forecast; it is a foregone conclusion. All standpat republicans admit it; all progressive republicans admit it and can't help it. A majority vote nominates in a republican convention and four-fifths of the states will send Harding delegates to that convention.

There is no politician living able to tell just what the democrats will do or who will be their standard bearer. It requires a two-thirds vote to nominate in a democratic convention and thus a third of the delegates have it in their power to prevent the nomination of a favorite. This is neither here nor there.

Henry Ford, the political man of mystery, unless he has been slandered, asserts that he is not seeking the presidency, that he has a man's job where he is, that he is not a politician, that he is not a candidate for any office and really can't understand why people everywhere are talking of his candidacy.

This political many of mystery has not said that he would decline a nomination. He has not said that he would, decline the presidency if the people elected him. He has not said that he would heroically resist all efforts on the part of the people to draft him as their candidate for the presidency. But this is neither here nor there.

A New York weekly, which is said to have a tremendous circulation, has completed its presidential poll. More than 250,000 postal ballots were received by the publisher of the weekly. As far as counted the result is astounding. With 164,514 votes counted, Ford led with 54,257; President Harding held the second place with 32,924 and Ford and Harding received more than half the total vote as far as counted.

It will take two weeks to complete the count and the indications are when the finals are in Ford will be far ahead of Harding and the two will have received more than 60 per cent of the total straw vote cast. Collier's Weekly is not a Ford newspaper. Neither is it a Harding newspaper. Collier's boasts that it is a non-partisan journal "and it believes that the opinion of hundred of thousands of readers is more important than the opinion of an editor."

Senator Woodbridge A. Ferris, of Michigan, is a democrat. He was sent to the senate by the Ford followers in Michigan. Michigan democrats never did send a man to the senate in 70 years of American history until Ferris won an election last fall because the independent republicans of Michigan who would not stand for Newberryism in American politics cast their ballots for a democrat for United states senator.

Senator Ferris says that Henry Ford will be a candidate for president; that he hopes to be elected by a majority of the people and then he will say to the world, "I am here because the American people placed me in the high office of president and I am going to conduct this government for the people and not for the politicians or the interests."

Senator Ferris said something else. He asserted that Henry Ford is not a democrat, nor a republican, but the fact that he is not a democrat will rob Ford, should he run, of the vote and the influence of the only democratic senator Michigan has had in 70 years. Senator Ferris is a noted educator, a life-long democrat, a gentleman who is willing to accept the votes of independents, but not willing to break loose from his democratic moorings long enough to vote for even Henry Ford for president of the United States.

Senator Ferris has been governor of Michigan. This happened a way back when Woodrow Wilson was the standard bearer of the democracy and Theodore Roosevelt split the republican ship from stem to stern. But all this has nothing to do with the case.

Why is it, or how is it that a man who is neither a democrat or a republican, who is not a candidate for the presidency, who hasn't a great political machine behind him, and who asserts that he wouldn't give a dollar to hold any political office—how is it that in a nation-wide presidential poll conducted by a great national weekly newspaper the billionaire manufacturer ran first, ran a way ahead of President Harding and paralized the politicians as well as the political forecasters between the two oceans?

AN AMERICAN DOLLAR

According to an American financier in pre-war days 160,500 German marks represented nearly $40,000. Now the German mark is selling at 160,500 to the dollar. Russia a [illegible] bles. In the good old days the populists of America declared that the way to create prosperity and to continue it was for the government to start the printing presses and to supply the demand. This old American Populist plan has been given a fair test in Germany and Russia. Now a suit case full of marks will buy a substantial dinner and a trunk full of Russian rubles represents the purchase price of a pair of American made shoes. Grand old United States. Good old American dollar.

HON. TOM TAGGART

Hon. Tom Taggart has been the political boss of Indiana for a third of a century. He is a democrat, right or wrong. He ran with the moist section of the party until the coming of nation-wide prohibition. He was one of the big leaders who brought about the nomination of James M. Cox at San Fruncisco.

He is the owner of French Lick Springs, fmous resort for democratic politicians and men of affairs who wish to boil out once or twice a year. There was a time when French Lick Springs was the Monte Carlo of American. There was a time when it was famous for its old wines and liquors. This was before the coming of Dr. Andrew Volstead.

French Lick Springs has always kept itself on the map. Hon. Tom Taggart made it so. Now the Hon. Tom has spoken. Next year the democrats will nominate a dry candidate and their platform will be dry. This bars Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Governor Al Smith and Governor George Sisler, the latter the pride of New Jersey.

Hon. Tom Taggart is a wise politician. Senator Samuel A. Ralston of Indiana is a democrat, he is a farmer, he is a banker, he is dry without being a fanatic, he looks like Grover Cleveland. He has the confidence of capital as well as of labor and he wears at his belt the scalp of the Hon. Albert J. Beveridge.

Hon. Tom Taggart sees a deadlock coming in the democratic convention. He knows a man who looks like Grover Cleveland, who is ready to make the sacrifice. There was a time in the remote past when Indiana democrats were all powerful. Hon. Tom Taggart hopes that Indiana democrats will be all-powerful in the future with Samuel A. Ralston in the White House as the successor of Warren G. Harding.

There are times when dreams come true. Hon. Tom Taggart of Indiana hopes that his Ralston dream will come true next year and that a democratic Hoosier will put away a republican buckeye.

PUT THEM AWAY

Illinois lawmakers just before adjournment passed the highway police bill. Its advocates say that, properly handled, a highway patrol will afford the first effective protection that Illinois has given to motorists on its state roads. Activities of bandits, speed maniacs, rum runners and moonshiners, on the rural roads of Illinois, forced through the patrol bill.

Under its provisions a force of one hundred men will be put on the highways this summer. Their duties restrict their field of activity to the highways. These patrols are clothed with powers of arrest. They are not state rangers. They are road patrol officers and they are expected to clear the hihways of all law violators and objectionable characters.

Law abiding people pay for protection. Oout of their pockets come the money to pay the costs of state government. These Illinois lawmakers made an excellent start. Illinois has many citizens who appear to be willing to do almost anything to take down easy money. Put them away.

There has been another cut of 25 cents a barrel on crude oil. Is this the reason why Wall street hammered the prices of oil stocks to a lower level?

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

When the Digestion Strikes.

We cannot see our digestion at work.

We know extremely little about its complicated processes.

If we happen to have good constitutions and get plenty of exercise, we are seldom conscious that we have digestions.

For years we "eat what we please."

Little upsets we put down to the "wrong sort of food."

There are things, w say, that disagree with us.

Unfortunately most of these are things we like. So we go on eating them.

By and by the stomach, instead of merely reporting after a heavy meal that it feels stuffy, begins to complain.

But it doesn't complain till after meals. So we forget it when we are hungry, and keep on eating.

Big breakfasts, heavy luncheons, heavier dinners—and back to work after two of them, and, perhaps, after the third.

One year, two years—perhaps ten years of this—the digestion will endure philosophically, being built for heavy work.

But at last the limit is reached. It goes on strike!

It goes on strike in various ways. Sometimes it just "lays down" and refuses to operate.

Sometimes it does its work in the lazy, slipshod fashion that a discontented workman does his.

But the instant it stops functioning properly there is the device to pay.

Poisons that ought to be disposed of get into the blood.

The blood deposits them in various sections of our anatomy, where they make trouble.

Sometimes the trouble is appendicitis; sometimes it is even worse.

Appendicitis, if acute, must be operated on. That means much pain, some danger, and five or six weeks in bed.

Often stomach ulcers form, and considerable of our interior has to be made over by expert surgeons, who cost a great deal of money.

Again some infection that is passing by looks into our system, discovers the yare weakened by inferior digestion, and makes its habitation there.

Good food is pleasant, and very little of it cannot be eaten safely if eaten in moderation.

But the digestion knows what constitutes a day's work. When it has done all it ought to do it quits. And nothing can make it do more.

Those of us who eat with discretion will live longer and be happier. No delight that the palate can feel is worth the pain and trouble and the risk of driving our digestion till it is forced to strike.

TODAY AND YOU

By MARY BLAKE

CANCER.

Today is one of extremely good fortune. You are probably safe in terminating business nearing completion and trying to initiate whatever you have in mind to do, even though it may seem premature.

A child born today will be nervous and sensative, but usually independent and enterprising.

You have an artistic temperament if today is your birthday. This does not necessarily mean that you will create works of art, but it indicates that whatever you attempt will be done in an artistic manner. You have the spirit of the true craftsman. You must do a thing the best you know how or not at all.

You are observant and critical and notice all that goes on about you in detail, even though it may not concern you, and later you can produce the entire event because you remember it has a correlated whole and as a picture. Life in general interests you because you react it intellectually and emotionally. You enjoy it and criticise it according to your ideals of what it might be.

Rather solitary in nature, you have hosts of associates but very few friends to whom you make confidences. You are self-reliant and self-sufficient and expect others to be the same. You have no desire to know the intimate lives of your friends and expect them to respect yours.

You are neither affectionate nor demonstrative, but you have a profound sense of loyalty and respect for persons whom you admire. Your philosophy is one of solitary strength and isolation. You should go far with it and achieve great distinction.

You have a great gift of expression, because all experiences stir among emotions within and you must express them or explode. You have many natural talents mostly manual, such as drawing or sculpture. You should be a good craftsman with any tool.

You are a born grambler but at the same time you have a keen sense of money, and you might have a great financial career because you would not hesitate to assume any risk that premised excitement.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

Life's uncertain,
Death is sure;
Use prevention—
Beats a cure.

Love your wife? Insure your life.

A chill, a fever, then a sweat; that's malaria—What you bet?

The rational treatment for a broken bone is to set it and rolint it, then let it alone.

Raging fever—restless head,
Dire infection's rapid spread,
Helpless, all, we stand and dread
The termination.

The old farmer who used to gas on the step now has sons who step on the gas.

The infected point of a cambric needle is more deadly than the sterile point of a bayonet.

Simple scratches, don't neglect them—
Even though they're but a mark;
For the fire that sweeps the forest
Is often started from a spark.

In automobile racing, the thing is to make the circuit in the shortest possible time without getting killed.

The best physicians don't treat pneumonia—they MANAGE it. The only treatment known is present in the patient's own tissues.

POEMS THAT LIVE

WHEN WE TWO PARTED.

When we two parted
In silence and tears,
Half broken-hearted,
To sever for years,
Pale grew thy cheeks and cold,
Colder thy kiss;
Truly that hour foretold
Sorrow to this!

The dew of the morning
Sunk chill on my brow;
It felt like the warning
Of what I feel now.
Thy vows are all broken,
And light is thy fame;
I hear thy name spoken
And share in its shame.

They name thee before me,
A knell to mine ear;
A shudder comes o'er me—
Why wert thou so dear?
They know not I knew thee
Who knew thee too well;
Long, long shall I rue thee
Too deeply to tell.

In secret we met:
In silence I grieve
That thy heart could forget
Thy spirit deceive.
If I should meet thee
After long years,
How should I greet thee?—
In silence and tears.

LITTLE HENRY FORD HAS COME OVER TO PLAY WITH THEM

The VANISHING MEN

By Richard Washburn Child

They find the prehistoric city and the bones of Hennepin. Hennepin, Peter said, had been blackmailing Parmalee.

"A better way—to kill him?" Brena gasped.

"It is all there—here in the sand—a record," DeWolfe said. "A ghastly record. Seven years have gone, but in this deep fine dust never disturbed by wind, there still remains the story."

He paused; lit a cigarette; went on. "There around the entrance are the marks of horses' hoofprints—almost lost—but still readable—three horses, two saddled and one carrying the packs. They came in two horses abreast, and the pack horse led behind. Two men in the saddles. Night came on. One man slept. The other crept to the animals — and rode away!"

"Rode away? Left Jim Hennepin here?"

"Yes, beyond hope—no horse, no water!"

"How do you know?"

"Because, Brena, when the three horses went out from this place into the desert their footprints are in single file—one man led the other two. I will show you. It is in the sand—a record and a good guess."

He was silent and he broke his silence with a cry.

"I can see him—Hennepin—awakening, realizing, seeing far away the little galloping specks in the pale moonlight with the treacherous man upon the leader—a tiny bobbing figure. I can hear the curses hurled after them. And he—the one left—alone under the moon, alone under the sun, alone under the moon again—without a drop—rushing out into the desert, only to be driven back to the shade after weary marches dragging through the sand, huntign among the rocks, crazed with thirst, gone mad, cursing, blittering mad—his tongue black—the end—perhaps a thought of you—the cur!"

He looked up at Brena; he set his jaw.

"I'm sorry," he said. "But I can see it so clearly—the terrible retribution in this place of silence. His screams echoing back from the rocks, his curses rising into this thin pale blue sky and the vultures swinging overhead."

"Seven years ago!" she whispered. "Yes, seven years. And four years of torturing fear—that was the pay of the one who rode away."

"Compton Parmalee?"

She said it without any external sign of emotion.

"Yes," said Peter. "He had succeeded in wiping out one blackmailer. But another, more terrible, sprang up—fear."

"He feared discovery?"

"Yes, and something else. He could never feel sure that Hennepin was dead. That was the curse upon him—the fear the murderer feels, twisting and [illegible] threats, those curses, those promises of vengeance coming across the moonlit desert as he rode away that night."

She shuddered.

"Yes," said Peter. "That was why Parmalee destroyed the map. He had probably ridden back to some other settlement after shooting Hennepin's horse in some gully and he wanted to wipe out all evidence. For months he resisted the temptation — that burned and scorched inside—to see you."

"To find out whether I had been told anything about Hennepin's destination? And then when he wasn't sure—when there was that scrap of paper not accounted for—! Peter, it is too horrible; he proposed that strange marriage in order to go away and take me with him. He was afraid I might remember some word—give some clew!"

"No," replied Peter. "It was that of course. But that was not all. The spark of real man that you saw in him was there, Brena. Terror put it out at last, but the real tragedy of Parmalee was that he had that spark."

He waited for her to look up again; she had been staring down at the yellow-gray dust.

"I suppose you can see," he went on, "I suppose you can see now what was in his mind. Two pictures. One was the picture of Jim Hennepin alive—that great muscular athlete who drank hard, the love of death oaths, the degenerate temper, the sly sullen ways of carrying a vengeance through. He saw him in his mind—escaping from the desert, Brena—heaven knows how—but escaping by some desperate effort, some miracle, some way that Parmalee's brain could not conceive, but yet couldn't be put out of range of possibility. He saw Hennepin seeking him. Yes, he saw it—a picture—a thousand haunting pictures—Hennepin with his malicious, desperate, haunting eyes and his terrible muscles. He saw him smelling along the trail for his quarry."

"At last that imaginary Hennepin became almost a reality," said Brena. "Compton shot at him once—at a reflection in a piece of glass. He never knew when Jim might come—and kill.

"But he saw the other picture too. He saw the buzzards hovering over what was left of Hennepin, he saw a whitened skeleton grinning up at the sun-lit sky and at the stars, Brena. That's what he saw. And some day, some one would somehow come there. Perhaps at the very minute a prospector, dirty and unshaved, or some accursed archeological explorer from a university was in that very town where they had bought the horses and was telling of the skeleton and of finding the skeleton of the ridderless horse with the bit still held between the white teeth. He might have that bit in his pocket! Some one recognizes it. Somehow the chain once started never ends until—"

"There comes a hand upon the shoulder," said Brena, as if in a dream, "and a voice saying, 'We have looked a long time for you.'"

"Yes. There wasn't one fear," Peter said, marking two lines in the sand with his forefinger. "There were two fears. They fought each other and their battleground was Parmalee's soul. It was trampled into a wallow of terror, of questioning, of doubt. Do you know, Brena, that somehow there creeps into me a great pity for him?"

"If he had been able to put his finger upon some button that would have blown him to bits he would have taken it," she said. "But he had an exaggerated instinct for self-preservation. It threw him back from any approach to suicide."

Peter, getting up, came to her and put his hand upon her shoulder as if to give her strength. She had spoken with a voice too evenly measured to deceive him as to the strain she felt.

It had been a long pull for her, he thought. The last steps, though they might lead out into the sunlight of freedom, were upon rough ground—rough even for a man.

He was wondering how he could save her from pain. He wanted to have this surgery over, and to have it over there was only one way.

"It was inevitable that he would come here—in the end," he said. "He had to see. He had covered his terrors by a cowardly process of trying to make you believe that some mystery that clung to you was the cause of them. He feared that he would allow you to know in some mad moment. He was coming to the end of his rope."

"Yes, the end of his rope."

"He had to make the hideous pilgrimage at last. How could he tell you where he was going—even the direction? It might lead to the uncovering of his movements. And then when at last he had made up his mind to come, he felt almost gay—the very promise of an answer to which of his two fears he must devote himself gave him a moment of something almost like gayety. What perversion!"

Peter stopped and looked up at the ugly symbol of Kuk-ul-can carved on the rocks.

"He procured a copy of Father Carlos' map a second time," he said. "He had to have it to find the way. After four terrible years he revisited the Pueblo Mescalero, 200 miles from nowhere. It called him back. He had to come."

"He bought a high-powered car, Brena," said Peter. "And all alone he came."

"And where is he now?" she cried out at last, in sudden disclosure of her pain. "Do you know? Where is he now?"

She looked searchingly at Peter's sun-bronzed face, where upon the surface of youth lines of strength had been engraved by war, and lines of tenderness perhaps by a great new understanding of love and life.

"He is here again," he answered. "He is here!"

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

How Should Water Be Delivered So That It Will Be Used Most Economically?

If two men are farming side by side and one is raising cotton and wheat and the other alfalfa and truck; the alfalfa raiser will require and use more water than the cotton grower.

If both these men are paying the same water tax then either the cotton farmer is being overcharged or the alfalfa grower is not paying what he should.

The only just way and als othe way that makes for the most economical use of water, is to have each man pay exactly in proportion to the amount of water delivered to him.

It has been the practice on many projects and still is, to either deliver water on a continuous stream, or where rotation is practiced to deliver the same amount to each farmer dependent on the amount of land owned and payment is made on an acreage basis instead of for water used.

The idea back of this was to compel the speculator, the man who was holding his land without farming, to put it in cultivation. It was thought that if he had to pay whether he used the water or not he would figure it was cheaper to cultivate hi sland and get some return out of it. In reality this worked out just about as intended and many acres of land have been placed in cultivation for no other reason.

However, this did not eliminate the injustice that existed between farmers who were using different amounts of water.

It is now common on many irrigation projects and especially the government projects, to allow a given amount of water for each acre of land, after an acre foot to the acre, and then charge for each acre foot delivered above this amount.

This method not only causes the burden of cost to be placed where it belongs, but it surely makes for economical use. When a farmer finds that the more water he uses the more he has to pay, he begins to devise means to make his water go as far as possible.

If water is delivered here on the basis of cost per acre foot it will be one of the most powerful incentives for the economical use of water that could be employed.

More Truth Than Poetry

GOOD ADVERTISING

King Solomon, so we have always supposed,
Was the mightiest king of his age;
A monarch who rolled in unlimited gold,
As well as a super-brained sage.
We've read of his palace; we've read of his mines;
We thought he had power galore.
With dozens of houses and hundreds of spouses,
And servants and slaves by the score.

But since they've been digging, with pick-axe and spade,
In the hills that look down on the Nile,
They have dug up remains of monarchial reigns
Of a far more magnificent style.
A half-dozen Pharaohs, that far exhumed—
All learned professors agree—
In the days of their prime were ten times more sublime
And fifty times greater than he!

They all had more wealth, and they all had more wives;
They ruled over wider domains,
And the book that they wrote, which historians quote,
Reveal far superior brains.
And though we believed that no ruler on earth
Such a dominant sceptre could swing,
We cannot gainsay that he was in his day
No more than a seventh-rate king.

However, this proves that the fame a man earns
Is not through deserving of his.
The name that descends through the ages depends
On what his publicity is.
King Solomon might not have been very great;
To little, perhaps, he amounted,
But what mattered that to the old autocrat?
The ads that he got were what counted!

Spuds Take Last Game Of Trip From Crabs

RIP WHEELER GETS ANOTHER VICTORY BY HOLDING CRABS CREW TO EIGHT BASE BINGLES

Bescher and Grigsby Get Homers in First Frame, Starting Fast Scoring That Gives Salms 10 to 4 Win; Wheeler Has Bad Inning.

GALVESTON, June 22.—Rip Wheeler was responsible for another Spudder win here today when he hurled steady ball through nine unsteady innings while the Salms mixed hits with errors and took a 10 to 4 victory from the Crabs in the last game of the season. Wheeler allowed only eight hits, and was never in danger with the exception of the third inning, when he let down for a moment, allowing four hits to be counted by the Galveston c[...]

..Bescher and Grigsby slammed home runs in the first stanza that gave the Spudders a flying start toward a win with three counters marked up in the first frame. Bescher hit his first trip up, the ball going over the right field wall, and Coombs and Tanner went out at first. Cotter singled to left and Grigsby duplicated Bescher's feat, with a crashing blow that sent the pill over the fence for a round trip, accounting for two runs. Weiss filed to Bittle.

Crabs Score Four

In the second Graham got better and the Spudders were retired in order, the Crabs being given the same treatment by Wheeler. In the third, however, the Crabs made up for lost time by pounding Rip for four base hits, counting a quartet of runs. Wendell and Graham went out, before Bittle started the hitting with a single to center. Wheeler walked Wisterzil and Ostergard, filling the bases, and Bittle and Wisterzil crossed the rubber on Brown's long hit to left. Munson singled to center, scoring Ostergard, Brown stopping at second and Kearns sent Brown across with a single to left, before Distel forced Kearns for the last out.

The Spudders did not stay long at the bottom, and in the next inning chased a pair of runs across the plate, again taking the lead, which they held for the rest of the game. Grigsby got on via the four balls route, and was sacrificed to second by Weiss. Wistrezil and Kearnrs formed a combination that put Berger out and Grigsby was held at second. Bischoff beat out a slow one toward third. Grigsby failing to advance and both Grigsby and Bischoff scored on Wheeler's timely double to the right pasture, Wheeler taking third on the throw. Bescher failed to score him when he went out at first.

After the fourth stanza when Wheeler let a quartet of Sand Crabs across the rubber, Rip steadied and held the Galveston crew on his hip, without another counter. The Spuds got right again though in the sixth and four runs resulted.

More in Sixth

Weiss started the rampage by walking to first, and Bescher followed him with a free trip after Weiss got to second on a wild pitch. Bischoff laid one of his favorites down the third base line and beat it out, filling the bases, and Wheeler and Bescehr filed to Kearns. Weiss crossed the rubber on Coombs hot single through short, and when Tanner hit to Distel Berger, Bischoff and Coombs scored on a wild heave to first base.

In the mixup with Kearns at first Tanner was badly spiked, but continued in the game after a doctor had bandaged the cuts in his leg.

Just to keep up the good work the Spudders chased a final counter across the rubber in the ninth. After Grigsby popped to third Ostergard fumbled Weiss' grounder, letting him reach first. He stole second, and after Berger flied to Bittle, Bischoff scored him with a single to right. Bischoff was run down between first and second. His hitting for the day accounted for several of the counters, Bischoff getting three safe cracks out of five trips to bat.

MILLERS LOSE TO UTILITIES

Blue Allows Only Three Hits in Seven Innings of Play

The Utilities got the best of a fast seven-inning fray in the Twilight league play yesterday afternoon, beating the Mill & Elevator club 4 to 3.

Blue, pitching for the winners, allowed only three hits in the battle, keeping his record for the least number of hits counted off of any hurler in the loop, while Burt allowed seven. Errors played a prominent part in the scoring, each club making six errors. Score:

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Or a Wee Bit Ahead Houston In Cold Storage Quanah at Bat

QUANAH—Castles Queen Rook.

There is nothing startling in either of these moves. Wichita had a chance to pick up a stray knight but didn't. When asked about it one member of the team remarked that the field already looked like a fire-swept prairie, why scrape it with a safety razor.

Godchaux Meets Adair Today in Champ Golf Play

ROEBUCK COUNTRY CLUB, Birmingham, Ala., June 22.—Frank Godchaux, of Nashville, and Perry Adair, of Atlanta, will compete tomorrow for the most coveted trophy within the reach of a southern amateur golfer, the championship of the Southern Golf association.

Both players reached the finals after hard struggles today which at times looked like anybody's victory. Godchaux won yesterday with more or less ease, but his sailing today was anything but smooth. The morning round he was forced to put everything he had in his game to overcome Harris one up in 19 holes, while Al Ulmer of Jacksonville carried him to the home green in the afternoon round before wining two down to the long hitting Tennessean.

Adair likewise was set a merry pace in the morning round by Bobby Baugh, the 17-year-old Birmingham boy, but finally won one up on the 18 green. He had less difficulty in the afternoon round defeating H. G. Seibels, Alabama title holder.

Stellbauer Sold to Omaha Club by Cats

FORT WORTH, June 22.—Bill Stellbauer, outfielder of the Fort Worth Cats, has been sold outright to the Omaha club of the Western league, President Paul LaGrave of the local club, announced tonight. Stellbauer was released to get down to the player limit, after the signing of Stump Eddington, former Beaumont manager, who joined the Cats at Beaumont last Sunday.

Stellbauer, who is with the Cats at San Antonio, will leave at once to join the Western leaguers.

HE'S MISSED BY GIANTS

The return of Virgil Barnes to duty would be a welcome sight to Jawn McGraw, Giant boss. Virgil underwent an operation at the start of the season and has not been available for duty since. When the younger brother of Jesse is right he is a dependable winning pitcher. With him available McGraw could shove his Giants farther into the lead.

SPUD SECRETARY BREEZES INTO CAMP AND SAYS CLUB WILL WIN

Everything Ready for Opening Game on Home Lot

J. Will Gray, Spudder secretary, breezed into camp yesterday, 24 hours ahead of the Spudders, to smoothe over details for the long stay at home and fix everything for the reception of the club when they get in this afternoon. The team will come home on the 1:20 train this afternoon, barely in time for the opening of the series here against the Beaumont Exporters at 4 o'clock.

"The Spudders are in the best shape of the season, with the exception of some small injuries," said Gray, "and they are going to win the pennant. Of course, with several players out of the game, the club is handicapped to an extent, but with a full number the holes have been patched up. In another day or two the club will be complete again, and with a new hurler in the lineup to help out the 'big four' that have had to do all the work, there is little to complain of. It looks like a bunch of wins for the Spudders in the home stay."

And at the same time Walter Salm wires, "Club fighting hard—will win." He will bring his crew back to meet Beaumont this afternoon, then to play practically every club in the loop in succession, and is confident that they will win.

A large crowd is expected to welcome the team, as it disembarks at the Union station today at 1:20, before the first game of the series, and it is expected that the attendance at the game will be large, as the Spudders come home.

Yale Wins Historic Rowing Race Over Harvard by Five Lengths

Associated Press Dispatch

REGATTA COURSE, New London, Conn., June 22.—Sweeping to rowing glory that it has not known for nearly a decade, Yale's powerful varsity crew, climaxed this season's remarkable comeback under home-bred coaching methods, with a spectacular victory over Harvard, as dusk was settling this evening over the picturesque Thames river course.

Flashing across the finishing line fully 6 lengths of a gallant but badly beaten Crimson 8, the Blue shell closed its 1923 season with an undefeated record and gave the Elis the first victory since 1915 in the rowing struggle with their ancient rivals.

This morning the Yale freshmen and junior varsity added their measure to the blue tinge of triumph that settled tonight over the 56th annual regatta between the two universities. The Eli cubs sprang something of an upset by winning from the Cambridge yearlings by five lengths, while the New Haven junior varsity scored even more decisively over the Crimson second crew, leading the way by five and a half lengths.

Back of the impressiveness of Yale's victories today was one of the most signal triumphs for the American coaching system in the history of rowing records. For tonight, Yale's man of the hour, the "miracle worker" of oarsmanship, was young Ed Leader, product of the far West, University of Washington, who in his first year at the helm raised Yale to rowing heights it has seldom known in recent years. No trace of the English rowing system, that riled Eli aquatics for some many years, was visible today.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

Well, folks, the Spuds are homeward bound! They'll be in on the 1:20 train this afternoon, and a big crowd will be at the station to meet them. Just in time to follow them to the park to see Beaumont get whipped in the first game of the home trip!

* * *

They finished their road trip in fine style yesterday, too, beating the Sand Crabs easily 10 to 4. Got a new lease on the top of the loop and looks like they are going to stick there, with the team going strong and a long home stay ahead of them.

* * *

Rip Wheeler was largely responsible for the win yesterday. He had the Crabs in the palm of his hand all the time, except in the third inning, but they didn't get far with the Spud ironman. Rip let down for a while in the third frame, and they chased a quartet of counters across the rubber, but it didn't do them any good, for he promptly put the lid on and they didn't get any more. And, in the meantime, the Salmite sticks were working regularly and 10 good runs were marked up on the Spudder score board. Pretty good way to end a trip, isn't it?

Rip has had a hand in several wins since the Spuds left the home port. He did the ironman stunt and annexed a couple of games from Houston, took one from the Bears and finished by holding the Crabs to eight bingles yesterday. Ripper is in his stride and will make it hot for any club that faces him now.

Rip has won 11 games and lost 1 in his last 12 starts. The one he lost was on the last home stay, just preceding Rip's little vacation that he took as the Spuds departed, and the Cats got to him. It has been predicted that he is due to lose, but he seems to be good for a lot more than his 11.

* * *

A new face will be shown at the club house today when George Stueland dons the Spudder uniform for the first time. Stueland breezed in yesterday afternoon from Chicago, and will work out with the Salms' today. He registered at the Kemp last night.

* * *

All of which reminds us that Stueland is a mighty good hurler, who can make the ball do all sorts of tricks with that good right paw of his. He will take up his regular work in the Spudder staff at once, and will be a valuable addition. Salm has been needing a man just like him all season, and it looks like he has at last rounded his pitching crew into shape. True, he might use another southpaw, but with such hurlers as Stueland on the mound, the absence will hardly be noticed.

* * *

The Spuds will play the Exporters here for three days. They will get in this afternoon just in time to get ready for the first game.

BRASS BAND

We are wondering if a certain individual who told Walter Salm at the start of the trip that a band would meet him at the station if the team returned in first place, will keep his world. It all came about like this:

"G'bye, Walter, good luck."

Good-bye. We will return in first place."

"Well, if you do, I will meet you at the station with a brass band."

And we wonder if the Spudders will be welcomed home today with a brass band. They're in first place, And the man who made the statement has not forgotten, for if he tried it would be impossible, with his friends reminding him every few minutes. Anyway, they will get a rousing reception.

GIBBONS NOT TO BE PUNCHED

Sparring Partners Box But Do Not Pound Tom in Workouts

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

SHELBY, Mont., June 22.—Henceforth Tom Gibbons, esteemed challenger for the heavy weight title, is incommunicado with gentlemen of the press. The St. Paul entry is not wearing the high hat. Nothing so formal. His manager, Eddie Kane, has merely decided that Gibbons' attention must be drawn away from the impending fight with Jack Dempsey July 4 and a newspaper man is an impromptu specialist. He will talk science to a scientist, non-stop dancing to a nut, bricklaying to a brick layer and fighting to a fighter.

It also is probable that Gibbons will indulge in a secret workout or so within the next several days. He seems to feel that something of the kind is demanded and is willing to oblige.

"If Tom goes through with that idea," said Kane today, "it will not be with the idea of keeping Dempsey guessing. It is barely possible that we might pull something we do not care to have the public witness."

Just what that indefinite something may be is a bit beyond our limited resources. We might suggest that Gibbons allows few of his adept sparring partners to him at least one good, old fashioned wallop somewhere about the neck and the waist line. We seem to remember that Dempsey is something of a puncher, but Tom Gibbons has either forgotten or ignored the fact.

All of his workouts we have witnessed have been concentrated on the business of avoiding a punch. The challenger is agile as a gazelle, but the bout is scheduled to go 15 rounds and Dempsey is certain to hit him hard at least once during that time. He cannot hope to avoid Dempsey in a long distance bout any more than a heel can avoid the pavement.

Dempsey has surrounded himself with a coterie of rough citizens. They may be more punched against than punching, but in the long run they give the champion what he wants—a target that may reach out any time and soak the shooter on the chin. Every man in the Gibbons camp is a boxer and a perfect gentleman. Gentlemen sometimes make imperfect sparring partners.

There is for example, Bud Gorman, a 215-pound entry with the build of a stevedore and the maner of a collegian. He can hit and box, a worthy combination, but he does little fighting against the challenger. Hand-to-hand mixups in which the spirit of give and take is uppermost, apepar to be taboo.

Jimmy Delaney is a very gifted light heavyweight with the punch of a non-alcoholic vermouth. He and Gibbons give quite a plausible exhibition of slipping punches, but here the challenger merely sharpens his speed, already sharp to the point of being downright amazing. The rest of the men includes Tillie Kid Herman, George Hanley and Billy Morrow, an indifferent featherweight.

No Salary Limit Violations in Spud Camp Harvey Emphatically Declares; Says No Charges Made

Speaking of reports that the Wichita Falls Baseball association was charged with violation of salary limit rules, R. O. Harvey, president of the Spudder association, emphatically denied that such was the case. He stated that the visit of Mike Sexton, who is expected to arrive today in the Spudder camp, will be a mere formality, according to rules of the association governing the minor leagues.

"Wichita Falls has not been charged with violation of the salary limit rules," declared the Spudder prexy, "and reports that we have overstepped the limit are false. Sexton, as president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, is required to visit all minor clubs each year, and his coming here is in line with his regular inspection duties. He will find the Spudders O. K. as far as salary limits are concerned, and has not made any charges of violations as far as we have been notified."

Sexton has visited Texas league clubs in the south, where they have been playing the past few weeks, and so far has found no violations of the rules. He will probably arrive in Wichita Falls today, and will visit the Spudders, completing his trip over the Texas loop.

STUELAND DROPS IN TO JOIN SPUDS

George Stueland, right handed hurler from the Chicago Cubs, arrived in Spudderdom yesterday afternoon, and will report to the Spud skipper this afternoon when the club comes home for a series here. He got around to the club house and looked the park over yesterday afternoon, after registering at the Kemp for the night.

Stueland is a fast right hander who will round out Salms' hurling staff. He will d[...] the uniform today and work out with the team, and will probably take his regular turn in the box within the next few days.

Muny Golf Club Members Warned To Play Matches

Entrants in the match play tournament of the Municipal Golf club are warned that all first-round matches must be completed by Monday night, in order that play in the second round may be started. Practically all of the 40 first round matches have been completed, but with a few still unplayed, it is urged that entrants finish them. All not played by Monday night will be dropped from the lists.

It is the plan of the Muny club directors to play off one round each week, the players choosing their own date of play after being matched, the entire tourney being completed in about six weeks. As the number of matches is lessened it is probable that the time will be shortened, but for the time present players will be allowed a week in which to contest their match.

NEW JERSEY BOXING COMMISSIONERS MAY SUSPEND LEONARD

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 22.—The New Jersey boxing commission today notified the New York athletic commission that it would suspend Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, unless he fulfilled his unexpired contract to meet Charlie White. The New York commission will consider the matter at its next meeting Tuesday.

The Leonard-White match was called off after the champion received an injury to his mouth which kept him out of the ring for some time. Meanwhile his manager, Billy Gibson, has matched him to meet Lew Tandler at the Yankee stadium July 23. White wants Leonard to box him first.

Dempsey Kayoes Oklahoma Giant In First Minute

Associated Press Dispatch

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 22.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, today wound up "Big Ben" Wray in less than 60 seconds after the Sayre, Oklahoma, giant, with his 7 feet, two inches of pugilistic ambition, spent 4 days traveling 2,000 miles to satisfy his craving to try himself out against the heavyweight champion.

Wray, a former cowboy and oil rigger down in Oklahoma, was stretched on the rosined floor of the ring, completely knocked out, and with a possibly fractured jaw in less than a minute after he came out of his corner to box Dempsey, even against the best wishes of his manager, Tex McCarthy, an old time heavyweight.

The Oklahoma giant, weighing 250 pounds, proved to be an absolute novice with nothing but courage and a desire to trade punches with the heavy weight champion. He came out to face Dempsey with his left hand extended, but with his right pressed tightly, close to his chest, boxing timidly like a novice.

WILLARD WILL APPEAR BEFORE DOCS MONDAY

NEW YORK, June 22.—Jess Willard will appear before three physicians in Jersey City Monday for the examination required by the New Jersey boxing commission, to make sure that his physical condition is good enough to meet Luis Angel Firpo of Argentina. The examination, it is stated, will be made in the office of Dr. Thedore Lemmerz.

Willard continued his training at Yonkers today, and tomorrow will come to New York for practice with his sparring partners. Meanwhile, a telegram has been received from Firpo, who has been in Texas, stating that he will reach here tomorrow, and giving instructions that six or seven husky sparring partners be obtained. He probably will begin training Sunday.

BANKS SUPPORT STOCK RALLY

Inside Buying Continues But Trading Is Not As Extensive

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 22.—Strong banking support and a continuation of inside buying brought about another sharp rally in today's stock market, but trading was not on as extensive a scale as it was earlier in the week.

The market was led for a time by the railroad shares, much of the buying of which apparently was based on speculative expectation that the May earning statements soon to be published will show up as well as those of April when 6½ per cent was earned on tentative valuation. Several of the dividend payers showed net gains of 1 to 2½ points. Good progress also was made by some of the so-called speculative shares, particularly Southern, Frisco and Erie issues. Reports of a possible increase in the Atchison common dividned were set at rest today by President W. B. Storey, who declared that such action was not only unlikely, but inadvisable at this time.

Most of the so-called pivotal stocks in the industrial group also recorded good gains. The rally which set in just before the close, was largely the result of covering by shorts in advance of the week end.

Call money held at 5 per cent throughout the day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet, with no change in rates. Foreign exchanges with few exceptions held steady. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.61½ and French francs around 6.20 cents. Italian exchange touched a new low for the year at 4.51 cents.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 22.—The cotton market showed the effect of bullish private reports on end-June acreage and crop prospects again during today's trading. The subsidance of July liquidation evidently left the market freer to reflect the growing apprehension of another short yield and a moderate volume of trading was reported on the advance, which carried October contracts up to 25.20 or 40 points net higher. July sold at 27.74, making a net advance of 51 points, and last prices wer within a few points of the best with the market closing irregular at net advances of 20 to 42 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 8 to 14 points on steady Liverpool cables, and soon turned firmer. One private report made the crop condition 68.5, the increase in acreage at 6 per cent, and the indicated yield 1,450,000. Another placed the condition at 71, the increase in acreage at 8.5 per cent and the indicated yield 10,740,000 bales.

The better tone to the stock market was encouragement to buying on the crop outlook, and commission house demand became more active on the late advance of some 40 to 51 points above yesterday's close. December sold at 24.71 and closed at 24.62, and late prices were within 9 to 12 points of the best.

Port receipts today 6,567 bales. United States port stock 334,603. Exports today 8,811, making 4,577,150 so far this season.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 22.—To all appearances the cattle market was steady Friday. Receipts were small, the estimate being placed at 1,500 head of cattle and 500 calves. The best steers here sold at $8.65. Odd calves cleared up to $8. Cows of good quality went at a range of $2.75 to $4.75.

Hog receipts were only 600 head, but quality made a fairly good average. Wagon hogs sold to order buyers at $7.25 and carlots went to packers at $7.20. Bulk sales made a range of $7@7.20. Pigs were taken at a spread of $5@5.50, the market being about steady.

Steady prices wer paid for sheep and the market was moderately brisk with about 2,000 head on sale. Wethers sold at $7. The best lambs here went at $13, the market on that class being called lower.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Cottonseed oil was barely steady at the start, but a few buying orders near the close encountered light offerings and continued high bids. Higher cotton more than offset the poor showing in lard. Sales 7,900 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 11.35 bid. July 11.10; September 11.00; December 8.81, all bid.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 22.—Cattle receipts 3,000; slow, uneven, about steady; top steers 11.00; yearlings 10.25; bulk 10.25@11.50; grassy kind all classes, rather sharply discriminated against.

Hogs, receipts 38,000; unevenly 10 to 25 cents lower; top 7.45; bulk 7.20 @7.40; packing sows 6.00@6.40; pigs 6.25@7.00; estimated holdover 12,000.

Sheep, receipts 11,000; lambs mostly 50 to 75 cents lower; top 15.50; bulk 15.00; culls mostly 9.00; sheep scarce, mostly steady.

WHEAT PRICES TEND UPWARD

Absence of Southwestern Hedging Sales Aids Advances

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 22.—Wheat tended upward in price today, stimulated by unusual absence of hedging sales from the southwest and by lack of rain in North Dakota. Closing quotations were firm, ¾ to 1¼, with September at 1.05¾ to 1.05½ and December 1.07⅞ to 1.08. Corn finished at half to 1¼ cents gain after the July delivery had touched a new high price record for the season of 84¾ cents. Oats closed ¼ to ¾ cent up and provisions 2@5 to 6 cents down.

Notwithstanding that the winter wheat harvest is general through northern Oklahoma and southern Kansas, as well as in the Texas Panhandle, it became more and more apparent today that hedging sales against the new crop were lacking in volume.

Shorts were anxious buyers in the corn market and much of the gains in price were held at the finish. Oats followed corn. Declines in the value of hogs weakened the provisions market.

Honest, now, did you?
But how about your cow? You were only annoyed.
SHE WAS TORTURED.
Do you think for a minute that she was letting down all her milk?
Tests have proven that even a slight pricking with a pin at milking diminishes the milk supply. Then imagine the effect of a whole swarm of hungry flies—each taking his bite at milking time.

STOCK JOBBERS DEPRESS OIL

So Says Senator Curtis, Charging Advance "Tip-Offs"

Associated Press Dispatch

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Depression in the price of crude oil during the last three months was said today by Senator Curtis of Kansas to be "primarily for the purpose of stock jobbing." He charged that "certain stock jobbers have been systematically placed in possession of advance information regarding the reductions to be made in the price of crude and refined" oil.

Senator Curtis said he had received many complaints from small petroleum producers and refiners in Kansas and Oklahoma about what seemed to be a fictitious condition prevailing in the oil industry and that he had made a study of the problem.

Declaring that newspapers had made open charges that the present condition was started and had been fostered by "the son of a very wealthy oil man and his associates for the purpose of raiding the stock market," the senator asserted that "time after time the country has been flooded with 'rumors' of cuts in crude oil prices," and that "each time the 'rumor' was accompanied by 'raiding' of the stock market.

"Instead of one cut in crude oil prices to meet changed conditions in the industry," he continued, "there were many cuts so timed as to aid in stock market operations and it is alleged that advance information was received by several brokerage firms.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS SEEN BY BRADSTREET'S

NEW YORK, June 22. — Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

A very fair measure of improvement in crops and a smaller gain in retail buying and in trade with jobbers of summer goods, following clearing skies in the South and West, have made for a better croup outlook in the Northwest. These natural developments in a favorable direction for the week are to be considered against failures of two old financial houses, which unsettled the stock, cotton and other speculative markets. June will see another decline in price index numbers, it is fairly certain.

Green and Key Will Speed Down With Second Well

Special Dispatch to Record News

ARCHER CITY, Texas, June 22.—Despite the discouragement in being forced to abandon the first test, Green and Key, have spudded in on their No. 2, Edwards, Bruner survey, near Scotland. Indications are to the effect the second test will be drilled to the 1,446-foot sand in record time. The sand encountered in the No. 1, which is only 25 feet from second test, was so encouraging that many operators have obtained acreage for protection. Should the second test make a producer, several of the active independents will be well entrenched with close in acreage.

The Dulmar Oil company's Crawford and Plowman No. 5, H. Corzine survey, is being put on the pump, and will be good for 20 barrels daily, is the opinion of operators visiting the test Friday.

The Trammel Oil company's W. L. Andrews No. 1, J. C. Turley survey, is regarded as a sure producer from sand found at 925 feet. Preparations are being made to put the well on the pump. Conservative operators state the well will make 30 barrels daily.

Raw sugar futures closing: July 5.69; September 5.74; December 5.32; March 4.24.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Rhubarb Marmalade or Relish—Four pounds of rhubarb partly cooked, three and one-half pounds sugar, one and one-half pounds raisins, juice of one lemon, juice and pulp of four oranges, minced peel of two oranges. Cook until it will jelly.

Corned Beef—Canned corned beef should not be overlooked by any housekeeper. It is perhaps one of the most versatile meats and can help out a breakfast, luncheon, dinner or picnic menu with equal grace. It is excellent cut in slices and served cold with potato salad or in sandwiches. It is easily sliced if chilled before the can is opened. Slice with a thin, sharp knife and cut across the grain of the meat.

Delicious Pineapple Charlotte—Soak one-half package gelatine in three-fourths cup cold water for several hours, then place the bowl in a pan of boiling water, and stir frequently while the gelatine is dissolving. Turn a can of crushed pineapple into a large bowl and add one and one-half cups of sugar and juice of two lemons. Now stir in the dissolved gelatine and the whites of two eggs. Place the bowl in a pan of ice water and stir the mixture frequently. When it begins to thicken beat with a whisk until light and frothy. Turn into a mold that has been lined with ladyfingers or strips of sponge cake. Set on ice to harden. At serving time turn out on a flat dish. Serve with whipped cream or custard sauce.

Suggestions.

When a Bowl Slides—To prevent a bowl from whirling all over the table when you are stirring with one hand and adding some ingredient with the other, lay a towel folded into double thickness under the bowl.

For a Kitchen Table—When putting oilcloth on the kitchen table, try pasting it on with ordinary flour paste instead of tacking it and see how much longer it will last. It also come off easier, when you have occasion to put on a new piece. Brass ornaments for the corners can be bought very cheaply and aids in the economy and attractiveness.

Items of Interest to Housewives.

Cost of Living—The cost of living in the United States in March was 68.8 per cent higher than the average of the year 1913, according to a computation announced by the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics, based on retail commodity prices and housing costs in thirty-two cities. Food was 42 per cent higher, clothing 74.4 per cent, housing 62.4 pr cent, fuel and light 8.2 per cent, furniture 17.4 per cent and miscellaneous commodity prices 100.3 per cent. Housing costs recorded their highest level in March over the entire period from 1913, while food prices showed a decrease from last December of 3.6 per cent and clothing prices increased 3 per cent.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS.

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county: greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Edgar Combs by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Eighty-ninth district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in July A. D. 1923, the same being the 2nd day of July, A. D. 1923. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 7th day of June A. D. 1923, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 14,452-C, wherein Maude Combs is plaintiff and Edgar Combs is defendant and said petition alleging, that plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married in the month of July, 1918 and lived with him, until on or about the month of July, 1921. That defendant for more than a year prior to their separation commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical treatment toward her that forced her to leave him, since which time she has not returned. That defendant would curse and abuse her, call her all kind of vile names, that he would strike and choak her, all of which has rendered their further living together as husband and wife insupportable.

That there was one child born of their marriage, Nellie Fay Combs, now 3 years of age.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and that upon final hearing hereof she have judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony, and that she be awarded the care and custody of her child, for costs of suit and for such other and further relief, that she may be entitled to.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of June, A. D. 1923.

A. F. KERR, Clerk.
District Court, Wichita County, Texas

STRAW VOTES

One of the signs of the approach of the presidential campaign is the opening of the straw vote season. Straw votes have been largely discarded as indications of the wind's direction in politics. They are so undependable, varying according to times of taking, and changes in political conditions are so likely to occur that wiseacres have ceased to rely on them. Even drowning candidates don't cling to straws any more. A recent straw vote by one of the magazines indicated considerable strength for Mr. Ford, with President Harding a close second, and the situation shifting in several states, as the returns came in. Out of 86,000 ballots the preference seemed to be for Ford, Harding, Smith and Hughes. Votes for several other candidates and possibilities were given as follows:

McAdoo, 7,685; Smith, 4,613; Hoover, 3,629; LaFollette, 2,689; Wood, 1,962; Borah, 1,429; Underwood, 1,283; Davis, 1,022; Lowden, 626; Wilson, 623; Ralston, 388.

This might interest some folks who like to figure on possibilities, but little improtance need be attached to it, because various and sundry things are likely to happen politically within the next few months, and a number of new possibilities hitherto undreamed of may push to the front accordingly. It is impossible to predict with any degree of accuracy from straw votes. They do not even furnish talking points. Who knows but what the situation may show so complete a transformation as the birth of a new party or the actual discovery of an issue by the republicans?—From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

Davidson, president of the Wichita Falls Art association, and who is proprietor of the new establishment, will have charge of the new business. This is the first establishment of this kind to be started in Wichita Falls and will be a great aid to people who wish to purchase high price rugs, antique furniture and beautiful paintings without making a special trip to Dallas or the large cities in the East.

The average length of life in the United States is 56 years. This is 15 years more than it was in 1870.

A WARM CONVERSATION.

A man had been in a public telephone box for half an hour. He appeared to be bored, and, though he held the receiver to his ear, he made no attempt to speak. At last one of the crowd outside, exasperated with waiting, opened the door and asked, pointedly: "Are you speaking to anybody?" The silent one replied: "Yes; I am speaking to my wife."—Judge.

TOWN STUFF'S BOOK REVIEW.

"The Charge of the Light Bread Brigade," by Cook Baker, author of "Jelly Rolls and Bank Rolls," "Buns That I've Been On," etc. This healthy work of Mr. Baker smacks of the true style of vindictive defense characterized in his other efforts. The theme is a defense of the baking fraternity for charging more than 5 cents a loaf for light bread. General economic conditions that hovered over the bread-eating American public after the war is one reason advanced by Baker for the article charge of the light bread brigade. "I say if people don't think sure-enough, well-baked light bread is worth more than a paltry nickel a loaf let 'em eat hoe cakes or bake their own. If the French people had have had bread like we put out today, Napoleon would never have had to gotten his plough cleaned at Waterloo." These extracts taken at random from "The Charge of the Light Bread Brigade" give a hint of the good things to be found in the work.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY.

Jim Smith was notoriously slow pay. He owed quite a bill at the grocery for pork. One day, as his credit was becoming badly strained he walked calmly into the grocery, and said, "Mr. Black, I want to pay you for the pork I have had and want some more."

"Certainly," said the delighted proprietor, as he hastened to wait on his customer.

Taking the package of pork, Jim Smith started to go.

"Wait a minute," said the proprietor. "I thought you wanted to pay for the pork?"

"I do," remarked Jim, as he resumed his homeward way, "but I can't."

AND THEN HE FELL OUT.

The young editor had just founded a new magazine—one of those highbrow things with pale gray covers and uncut pages—and was eager for applause, recites the American Legion Weekly.

"What do you think of it?" he asked the celebrated literary critic to whom he took a copy for examination.

"Well," replied the other, wearily but warily, "the stuff you rejected must certainly have been rotten."

Arthur Salmon tells a fish story that despite the author sounds rather reasonable. Accompanied by R. Vernon Fite of the Wichita State bank, Lester Jones of the same institution and Chief J. L. McClure they went to Electra lake, where they met Sam Summers and Bill Gant of Electra and caught 25 pounds of bass. They hooked about 125 in all and they averaged about a pound and a half—so says Arthur.

A suggestion that the term Call Field was now obsolete and that "Fair Grounds" should by all means be substituted was made Friday by C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association. Mr. Verschoyle asked that the city forget Call Field and remember Fair Grounds in the future. SHE TOOK ALL OF HIS MONEY

Then Wife Refuses to Move to City, Husband Charges

Charges that his wife refused to come to Wichita Falls to live with him and that when he left New Orleans to take a position here she obtained all the money had on deposit in a New Orleans bank, were made Friday in district court by a man who sought a divorce from his wife. The separation was granted.

The petitioner told the court that he married the girl while he was in the navy and that after being discharged he sought to bring her to this city, where he had a position and a home. She refused to come, he stated, and after he left New Orleans she took all his money from the bank and had it deposited to the credit of her father.

After hearing all testimony in the case, the plea was granted by the court.

Today will be the last Saturday that the summer school students will be compelled to attend school, according to A. K. Presson, principal of the school. The school has been in attendance for the past five weeks and the pupils have attended school six days a week since the school started. This plan was adopted to allow the pupils to be dismissed one week earlier and in this way avoid attending school during the warmest summer weather.

It has not been definitely decided whether the pupils will attend school July 4. The summer school will be dismissed July 13.

Glue and varnish are made from certain seaweeds.

FAMILY ROW AIRED IN COURT

The old wheeze of "mother against son" came into being in the Thirtieth district court Friday, when a family rumpus over an automobile was brought before Judge H. R. Wilson for settlement.

It was a friendly argument with the mother and four or five younger children arrayed against an older and married son.

During the course of the trial it developed that the family had owned an automobile and that disputes over who should have it and when had caused domestic turmoil. Some complicated financial transactions including a "loan" by the married son, a trade of another car and some other matters were brought into the case.

After protracted legal bickering, Judge Wilson suggested a compromise settlement that all parties agreed to and the litigants left. The married son is to be paid for his interest in the machine, which he is to relinquish when the settlement is affected.

NO STRENGTH OR APPETITE

Louisiana Lady Says She Used to Suffer from Morning Until Night, and Was Weak and Nervous.

Chacoahoula, La.—Mrs. O. J. Pelegrin, of this place, writes that she was very uneasy about her weakened condition six months before her baby was born. "I suffered from morning until night with my sides and back," she says. "I was so nervous. I didn't have any strength or appetite. I couldn't rest night or day, I was so worried about myself.

"I began taking Cardui. After taking three bottles I was much improved. I gained in strength. I was able to eat and sleep. I took fifteen bottles in all and grew strong and well. My baby is the very picture of health, and I am well and so glad I found the Cardui. It is a splendid tonic for womanly troubles."

The medicine which Mrs. Pelegrin took is a perfectly harmless, vegetable extract of mild-acting medicinal herbs. Thousands of other women, who have taken Cardui, have reported recovery of strength and normal health by consistent use of this well-known remedy.

When buying, please look at the label. Don't take any medicine that may be offered. Get CARDUI, the Woman's Tonic. One of its principal ingredients has been recommended by the medical profession, for female trouble, for over 200 years. Its success in relieving these complaints, in many thousands of cases, is proof of its genuine medicinal value.
