New Landings Doom 22,000 Jap Troops

Allied Forces Take Charge Of Green Islands

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press War Editor

In the wake of swift new island landings, General MacArthur announced the end of the 19-months-old Solomons campaign today but declared that in order to assure final victory in the Pacific, "we must defeat Japan's army."

American and New Zealand troops moved into the Green islands Monday and Tuesday in a surprise operation which MacArthur said isolated 22,000 Japanese on Bougainville, Buka, Choiseul and the Shortlands from their sources of supply at Rabaul, New Britain, 120 miles to the west.

The occupation, achieved with only slight opposition, carried the Allies to the very tip of the Solomons archipelago, providing valuable blockade-running bases squarely between Rabaul, target of almost daily air raids, and invaded Bougainville.

Climaxes 750-Mile March

It climaxed a 750-mile march through the Solomons that began Aug. 7, 1942, when U. S. Marines landed on Tulagi and Guadalcanal, and swept north through the New Georgia group.

Gen. MacArthur said: "For all strategic military purposes, this completes the campaign for the Solomon islands."

As for the trapped Japanese troops, the southwest Pacific commander noted the neutralization of the enemy's northern Solomons airfields and blocking of the barge supply traffic from Rabaul, and declared "their ultimate fate is sealed."

In a special statement issued eight hours after his communique, MacArthur asserted, however, that Japan cannot be defeated through blockade and bombing alone.

"Must Defeat Jap Army"

"We must defeat Japan's army," he said, "and for that purpose our strategy must devise ways and means to bring our ground forces into combat with his at decisive points."

Whether MacArthur had the vast Asiatic mainland in mind was not clear. But he did call atten-

Governor Firm On Court Stand

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said today that he would not fill by appointment a vacancy on the bench of the criminal district court of Dallas county, following a reversal by the the court of criminal appeals of a death sentence case involving in part the question of vacancy.

The court remanded to district court for new trial the case of Robert M. Pierson, given the death sentence for the slaying of Thomas Joseph Vittrup, holding that there was no judge authorized by law to approve a statement of facts and bills of exception "at a time when the law said such documents must be approved in order to be considered by this court."

No Effect On Other Cases

Stevenson interpreted the opinion as applying only to the Pierson case and possibly to some others which might have been on appeal under similar circumstances, and as having no effect on cases tried subsequently by judges assigned to the bench by the presiding judge of the district.

The meat of the opinion was that in Pierson's case, rules subsequently adopted by the Supreme court, providing that judges assigned to the bench by the presiding judge might approve bills of exception, were not in effect when Pierson's appeal was perfected.

Stevenson said likewise that he

Rapid Advance Of Red Army Is Continuing

Death Struggle Of Nazis In Dnieper Bend Nears End

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—The Red Army made rapid progress today along the highway and railway between Luga and Pskov toward the communication junctions of Byelaya and Keofilova - Pustin while southeast of Lake Piepus other Soviet units struggled through the dense forests and swamps protecting Pskov on the north.

Down in the northwest corner of the Dnieper bend the death struggle of the German forces trapped in the Cherkasy pocket entered its final stage. There every ravine, trench and clump of woods was the scene of desperate fighting.

Advance Is Spectacular

The advance toward Pskov in the north, however, was more spectacular, for its exemplified Russian fighting tactics as well as any campaign to date — the strategy of fighting down highways and side roads rather than attacking on a straight line front.

Units of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad Army are within 17 miles of Byelaya and less than that from Keofilova-Pustin. These two towns are the immediate Soviet objectives before the main attack on Pskov begins, for they form part of its outer defense system and there are indications that the Germans are hastily throwing up new fortifications.

Thin Belt Of Forests

South and southwest of Gdov, between the southern shore of Lake Peipus and Pskov, lies a thin belt of forests with no such highway as the one connecting Pskov with Luga. The Army newspaper Red Star said that the Germans were concentrating their troops in the forest settlements, and this will probably force the Russians to use wide out-flanking movements to capture them.

The Red Army is being aided by bands of guerrillas who infiltrate behind German-held villages to cut vital supply routes and who then join with the main Russian forces when they close in on the enemy.

Court Not Concerned About Blood Tests

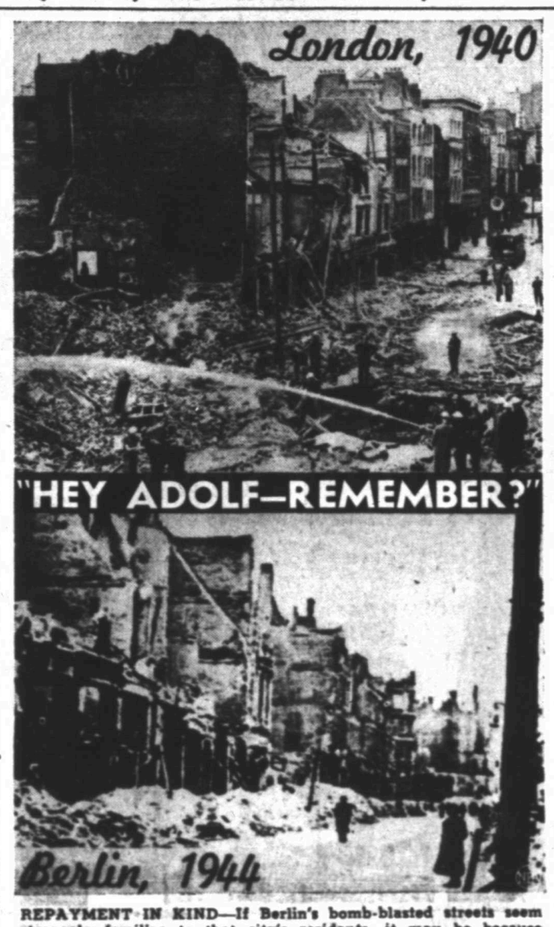

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16. (AP)—Regardless of the blood tests that indicated Charles Chaplin is not the father of Miss Joan Berry's four - months - old daughter, the movie comedian will be prosecuted on federal charges that he violated the Mann act and conspired to deprive his former protege of her constitutional rights, U. S. Attorney Charles H. Carr announced today.

"The federal grand jury indicted Chaplin for violating the Mann act and for conspiracy to deprive Miss Berry of her consitutional rights," Carr said. "Insofar as this office is concerned, he will be tried on those charges.

"The opinions reported by the press concerning the parentage of Miss Berry's child, even if conclusive, are matters concerning the civil action and are not involved in the pending criminal charges by the government."

PARCELS REACH JAPAN

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The German news agency DNB reported in a Tokyo dispatch today that the first shipment of parcels to American prisoners of war has reached Japan via Vladivostok but further plans for distribution will have to be put back because of what the dispatch called bad treatment of Japanese in American camps.

The plane had left Sicily for Bari, Italy, but the pilot overshot his destination, making a crash landing across the Adriatic sea in Albania.

Partisans who found the party after the crash led them to a nearby town, but they were forced to leave almost immediately when a German detachment approached the neighborhood.

Duffy said that for the next nine days they walked from six to seven hours a day, sometimes through knee-high snow.

There followed another six days of hiking along mountainous trails. Duffy had been in touch

Argentine War Entry Halted

(By The United Press)

MONTEVIDEO, Feb. 16 — An Argentine military clique has frustrated an attempt to take the nation into war against the Axis and in effect has seized the reins of government from President Gen. Pedro Ramirez, reliable advices from Buenos Aires said today.

Ramirez, the advices said, virtually was a prisoner of the army colonels, but not under actual arrest. He was understood to have been deprived of freedom of action to the extent that he could not make any decisions without the consent of the military faction.

Dispatches from the Argentine capital said there had been no public disorders as yet, but that nervous tension was running high in military circles.

Continuous Conferences

Continuous conferences were reported among leaders of the army group—principally younger members of the so-called "colonels organization."

Four high ranking members of the Ramirez cabinet have tendered their resignations as a result of the crisis touched off by the planned declaration of war.

Gen. Alberto Gilbert, foreign minister, Col. Enrique P. Gonzalez, secretary to the presidency, Gen. Luis Cesar Perlinger, minister of the interior, and Minister of Justice Gustavo Martinez Zuviria all offered to resign their cabinet posts.

No Decision On Resignations

Ramirez was understood to have made no decision on their resignations, but the Buenos Aires dispatches said the military clique has "suggested" that he elimin-

Japs Give Up Some Positions In Burma

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 16 (AP) —The Japanese have been forced to abandon some of their positions on the Haka front in Burma, while bitter fighting continued today in the Arakan area where an enemy force estimated at 2,000 penetrated Allied lines 12 days ago and engaged in hand-to-hand battles with British and Indian troops.

The Japanese withdrew Feb. 13 after their positions were set on fire, a Southeast Asia headquarters communique said.

Vast Reserves Of Food May Be Political Hot Potato In Election

BY OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Expert

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — Vast reserve stocks of food accumulated for emergency war purposes may become a political and economic hot potato this election year for those charged with the responsibility of allocating the nation's food supply.

It appears clear today that officials of the War Food administration fully recognize the situation. They realize that every move relating to the distribution of food, particularly supplies from the emergency reserve, will be subject to close scrutiny for any possible effect on the November election.

(The reserve stocks, earmarked for a "contingency reserve," include supplies owned outright by the WFA, some being held by the food industry for the government, and some to be taken from production of the next several months.)

Handled In Four Ways

The reserve stocks could be handled in one of four different ways—(1) allocation to the military services and lend-lease recipients; (2) release to civilians; (3) division between war programs and

Bob McEachern Said Driving "Arsenal Car"

Gun Shop Looted At Odessa; Nine Weapons Taken

Developments in the cat and mouse hunt for dangerous Robert McEachern, who broke from the Texas prison farm Feb. 2 and is believed to have blazed his trail into the Southwest with a series of hijacking, burglaries and car thefts, assumed a graver slant this morning when it was announced the latest stolen car he was driving had been converted into a "traveling arsenal."

A man believed to have been McEachern broke into Rex Gun shop at Odessa and took nine guns, including pistols, rifles and shotguns, stole another automobile and fled once more into the backroads he knows so well.

That was the announcement this morning of shortwave police radios over Texas.

Variety Of Weapons

At Odessa were taken a .357 Mangum pistol that officers say "will shoot through the block of an automobile engine;" a .22 pistol with a 10-inch barrel; a .45 automatic pistol with stag handles; a 12-gauge Winchester pump shotgun; a .32-.20 single-action pistol with a 4½-inch barrel; a .41 Colt single-action pistol; a .35-20 Winchester rifle; a .45 automatic pistol with new wood grips; and a .38 S&W double-action pistol with 4-inch barrel.

No ammuntion was reported "missed," but officials said it would be "comparatively easy for McEachern to knock over or burglarize a hardware store and find ammunition that would fit some of the guns he is hauling around."

The latest reported stolen car, at Odessa, was a 1941 Plymouth coach, license 427-547 and motor number P11-29657.

Description Given

On the morning "summary" from the state police shortwave station from Austin came this information on McEachern:

"He is 23, 5 feet 11, 158 pounds, has black hair, dark brown eyes, last was seen wearing blue duck trousers muddy halfway to the knees, a white sweatshirt, was clean-shaven." He was hatless according to that report, although authorities that found the first car he abandoned in his chase back and forth in far West Texas—possibly ranging from Plainview

Labor Stabilization Program Investigated

DALLAS, Feb. 16. (AP)—Joe H. Jones, first assistant U. S. district attorney, says his office is attempting to determine whether certificates of availability, which a worker in essential industry must obtain before he can change jobs, are being withheld when there is good reason for them to be furnished.

He said he was investigating the possibility that the War Manpower commission's (WMC) labor stabilization program is being misused in this area to retain employes at their current jobs.

Meanwhile, Orville W. Erringer, Dallas area WMC director, said yesterday that Washington WMC officials had requested reports on cases of employes who allegedly caused their own discharge from essential industrial plants by acts of vandalism or sabotage.

Jones said that "in the last two months we have had between 40 and 50 complaints from workers that neither their employers nor the U. S. Employment service would issue them certificates (of availability). In many of the cases it appeared the complaining workers had good and sufficient reasons for obtaining other employment."

Limited Mail Service To Italy Is Started

Letters and postcards will be accepted, beginning today, in this country for delivery to Sicily, Sardinia, and the 10 Italian provinces of Bari, Brindisi, Catanzaro, Cosenza, Lecce, Matera, Potenza, Reggio, Calabria, Salerno and Taranto.

Monastery Hill Under Siege Of U. S. Big Guns

Breaches Opened In Nazi Lines Near Cassino

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 16—American siege guns have opened a concentrated bombardment of Monastery hill and "breaches" have been opened in that main sector of the German line overlooking Cassino, it was announced today, but in the invasion beachhead to the west headquarters acknowledged loss of Carroceto, 10 miles north of Anzio.

Warships again battered the Germans ringing the beachhead and RAF Wellingtons flung down block busters in a night attack.

MONASTERY BOMBED AGAIN

AN OBSERVATION POST OVERLOOKING CASSINO, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—Swarms of American fighter-bombers gave the ruined Benedictine monastery on Mount Cassino another heavy bombing today.

destruction of historic Mt. Cassino abbey, which the Germans had converted into a fortress.

German infantry presumably was still in possession of the key hill, above besieged Cassino, were violent battling swept into its 15th day.

Fighting More Intense

The fighting increased in intensity as American soldiers who already hold one-third of the town, continued the methodical destruction of house after house which the Nazis have converted into miniature fortresses.

The lull in ground fighting in the beachhead continued, the communique reporting only patrol clashes in the Cisterna and Carroceto (Aprilia) areas.

Headquarters said Carroceto was in German hands. Fierce fighting has swirled in this neighborhood, with a canning factory there changing hands four times. Allied forces had pushed four miles north of Carroceto to the outskirts of Campoleone, 16 miles below Rome, but German counter-attacks forced them back.

Green Assails Labor Draft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — President William Green of the American Federation of Labor today reiterated his opposition to national service legislation before the Senate military committee, blamed strikes on the government's wage and price policies, and said a civilian labor draft would not add "a single plane, a single ship, a single tank or a single bullet to the nation's war production."

"The major cause of strikes is that the government is attempting to enforce wage stabilization while it has failed to stabilize the cost of living," Green told the committee.

Many Opposition Witnesses

Green led off a parade of opposition witnesses at hearings on the national service bill drawn by Senator Austin (R-Vt) which was revived after President Roosevelt called for a labor conscription act in his new legislative program.

Asserting that "industry, labor and agriculture fear and dread the impact of utter chaos," if the bill becomes law, Green stated:

"The war labor disputes act has not prevented strikes. Neither would a national service act."

Green contended that Britain,

Americans Still Held By Japs Face Death From Malnutrition

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—Several thousand United States citizens still held by the Japanese in the Orient, Congress was informed today, are facing death through malnutrition.

The disclosure was made by Breckenridge Long, assistant secretary of state, during hearings on the State department appropriation bill reported to the House by the appropriations committee.

Discussing plans to bring the Americans back home, Long told the committee some of them have lost from 50 to 60 pounds in weight, "not through illness, but through malnutrition."

Negotiations for the return of about 1,500 of them, Long said, had been started at the time disturbances broke out at the Tule Lake, Calif., Japanese detention center, and the Japanese promptly halted the negotiations until they could investigate the treatment of their nationals in the United States.

Investigation Was Made

An investigation was made by the Spanish embassy on behalf of Japan, Long said, and on the pre-

Over 2,800 Tons Of Bombs Blast Expiring Capital

RAF Armada Believed Largest Ever In Raid On Germany, Including 1,000 Big Bombers; 43 Allied Planes Are Lost

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The RAF smashed Berlin last night with the greatest load of bombs ever dropped on a single target—well over 2,800 tons which cascaded down in a smothering 20-minute attack by 800 to 900 heavy bombers.

Forty-three aircraft are missing from the night's operations, which included other forays.

The RAF waited two weeks to deal this crushing blow against the expiring capital of the German Reich. Not since Jan. 30, when Berlin was hit by a force approaching 800 planes, had it made a major attack.

It is believed that the armada sent over Germany last night comprised the greatest number of planes ever to fill the Reich's skies in one night, including 1,000 heavy bombers and more than 200 lighter craft. Berlin received the contents of 800 to 900 big bomb bays.

Billows of flame swept through the city when the assault was finished. Crews of reconnoitering Mosquitos reported a very large field of fire, with smoke pluming four miles into the air.

Feint Attack Made

Just before Berlin was hit a smaller force of Lancasters made a feint attack on Frankfurt-on-Oder, 50 miles east of Berlin, and Mosquitos bombed targets in western Germany and Holland. Mines also were laid in enemy waters.

The heaviest previous raid on Berlin was on the night of last Jan. 20 when more than 2,578 tons (2,300 British long tons) were dropped within an hour. The RAF's heaviest previous raid on a single target was its attack on Hannover about 2,800 tons (2,500 long tons) last Sept. 22.

The air ministry first listed 45 planes lost, but later announced the toll was 43.

A Swedish report quoting private advices reaching Stockholm said high explosives and incendiaries showered down on all sections of Berlin last night.

All Traffic Disrupted

All bus, tram and underground traffic was reported disrupted, Berlin correspondents of Swedish newspapers were almost completely silenced, but the German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau reported from Zurich that the heavy attack started many fires.

DNB, German news agency, declared in a broadcast:

"British air huns carried out another terror raid on the Reich capital. The raiders were favored by the weather. The terror raiders were met by extraordinarily heavy anti-aircraft fire. Damage was caused mainly in residential districts."

Returning pilots agreed a ceiling of heavy clouds over Berlin

Beachhead At Rome Is Solid

Alexander Reports After Inspection

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
United Press War Writer

ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Italy, Feb. 14. (Delayed) — Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander said today that the Allies won the first round in the battle for the beachhead below Rome, are about to win the second round, and will go into the third when they have gathered their forces.

Pronouncing the beachhead solid after a tour of inspection, the commander of Allied forces in Italy scoffed at pessimistic reports he had been reading about it and said bluntly that this is no Dunkirk.

"We had the element of surprise in the first round," Alexander told correspondents. "We won it. The second round now is on, with the Germans having gathered their forces in an effort to drive us off the beachhead.

Winning Second Round

"That round is more than half over. Rather, I should say nearly over, and we are winning it."

During his tour of the beachhead, Alexander conferred with both American and British generals, as well as doughboys and tommies.

He said he was surprised at the amount of "rubbish" he had been reading about the Anzio beachhead, but was sure before coming here that he would not find conditions the way they had been depicted.

He emphasized that he found both the American and British forces in fighting spirit and high morale, and was pleased that they had killed so many Germans.

"I knew the morale of the fighting forces in this beachhead would be strong," he said in describing his tour, part of it under shell fire, "but it was a pleasure to see the confirmation of this spirit which I knew existed. In fact, I want to say that I find the morale and confidence extremely high. It was a pleasure to meet the men and officers in the field."

He said he wound up his tour "full of confidence in this beachhead" and added: "There can be no comparison with Dunkirk. There is no Dunkirk here. That could only be in the minds of some people."

Alexander emphasized, in his analogy to a boxing bout, that the fighting had been hard during the second round, but declared:

"I can assure you that the Germans out in front of this beachhead are a very unhappy lot. They don't like this beachhead, and are suffering many dead."

He recalled that German Marshal Albert Kesselring once was quoted that "the battle is lost when a beachhead cannot be driven into the sea."

India Would Like U. S. Intervention

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—India would like for the United States to intervene in behalf of its independence, Dr. Krisnalal Shridharani of India and follower of Gandi told an audience last night at the University of Texas.

He said many Indians find it difficult to fight for a democracy they want to do their part in the freedom and equality crusade.

"British unpopularity in Asia is a liability, "he declared. "Had better judgment prevailed in high places, we could have had an American — particularly General Stilwell—as head of the Far East war theater, thus minimizing the liability of Asiatic resentment."

The American soldier is highly popular in India, Dr. Shridharani said. "In fact, the Americans are so popular that the British are jealous and fear that the Americans are spoiling the Indians for British rule."

Dr. Shridharani, making a nation-wide tour, spoke under sponsorship of a university student forum committee.

Taxpayers Advised To Wait For New Forms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (U.P.) — Some 50,000,000 income taxpayers who were originally supposed to have filed estimates of 1944 incomes by March 15 were advised today "to keep their shirts on until they hear more about it."

Treasury officials said taxpayers probably will have an added 30 days in which to file the estimates of current income because printing of the 1944 forms is awaiting presidential approval of the new tax bill. The new form entails some changes from the form used in 1943.

Internal revenue officials, asking taxpayers to await further word on a new filing date, said some over-zealous persons who had already filed with the use of the 1943 forms would have to do it all over again.

Army Visual Aids To Be Used After War

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (AP) — The methods of visual training now used to teach men to spot with "deadly accuracy" the shape of planes, tanks or guns in one-one hundredth of a second will be applicable to education and industry after the war, Dr. Samuel Renshaw, professor of experimental psychology at Ohio State university said here. He was one of the speakers at the three-day southwest congress of optometry which opened Monday.

Methods used in training men in all branches of the armed forces to identify objects at distances where they appear considerably smaller than a dime were described by Dr. Renshaw.

Groups Will Discuss Professors' Status

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Severance of service of three University of Texas economics professors will be discussed when representatives of the university's board of regents and the American Association of University professors meet in March or April.

The professors are Wendell Gordon, W. N. Peach and Fagg Foster.

The AAUP's general secretary, Ralph E. Himstead, said he and some other official of the association yet to be chosen, would go to Texas to meet with the Texas regents at one of their regular board meetings.

Himstead telegraphed Jan. 27 Judge John H. Bickett, jr., of Dallas, chairman of the board of regents, the AAUP secretary said, asking when during March or April they could get together. He added that he had not yet received a reply from Bickett.

(In Dallas, Bickett said that the board last October "extended an invitation to the AAUP representatives to attend any meeting of the board. Such meetings are held the fourth Saturday of each month, he said."

The University Professors association has informed Judge Bickett that on the basis of information it received regarding the termination by the regents service of Gordon, Peach and Foster, it has been led to believe "that this action by the board of regents constitutes a violation of the principles of academic freedom." The three teachers had been involved in a mass meeting at Dallas where anti-strike labor legislation was endorsed, and had sought in vain to address the assembly to clean up what they declared were some misunderstandings about the fair labor standards (wage-hour) act.

U. S. Jurisdiction In Service Cases Sought

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Senate decided today the killing or assaulting of a member of the armed forces on official duty is a federal offense and should be prosecuted in federal courts.

The legislation sent to the House would give the federal courts jurisdiction over such offenses by a civilian in the same manner as they now have in the slaying or assaulting of U. S. marshalls and FBI agents.

Doctors Say Chaplin Not Child's Father

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (AP) — Charles Chaplin, 54-year-old movie producer-actor, today was declared in a medical board report to not be the father of the 4-months-old baby of his former protege, Joan Berry, 23.

The report was released by Loyd Wright, attorney for Chaplin, and John Irwin, counsel for Miss Berry, after it had been presented to them by the medical board of three physicians. They were Dr. Roy Hammick, representing Miss Berry; Dr. V. L. Andrews, representing Chaplin, and Dr. Newton Evans, a neutral physician.

Miss Berry filed suit last June to have Chaplin declared the father of her child, which was born last October.

Have a Coca-Cola = Here's to old times

...or welcoming home a sailor son

These days there can be more real welcome in a snack shared in the kitchen than in many an old-time banquet. And with ice-cold Coca-Cola to add refreshment, you have all the makings at hand for a good time. As our men in camp and overseas so often tell, in all the world there's no more cordial invitation than those three familiar American words, Have a "Coke". At your icebox, the same as in P. X.'s around the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the global symbol of American hospitality.

Coca-Cola the global high-sign

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Fate Of Abbey Laid To Nazis

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—Archbishop Francis Joseph Rummel of the New Orleans Roman Catholic archdiocese charged today that the German Army, in transforming the Benedictine abbey Monte Cassino in Italy into a fortress, showed a disregard "for the sacredness of this monument to religion."

"It is deplorable that those sacred edifices should ever come under the crushing wheels of Mars," Archbishop Rummel, ranking Catholic prelate in the south, said. He expressed a hope that what he termed "vandalism" would soon stop.

In a statement to the United Press, the archbishop said:

"Realizing that this is the oldest home of monasticism in Europe, we can not feel otherwise than genuinely shocked at the thought that it becomes the object of military destruction.

"We realize, too, that the situation is brought about by the disregard of the German forces for the sacredness of this monument to religion, and we sincerely hope that their better judgment may still prompt them to withdraw and make unnecessary further vandalism.

"Incidentally, we are confident that our Allied forces will do all in their power to urge the civilians who have taken refuge in the abbey to leave and will furnish these civilians guaranteed protection.

"Under all circumstances, however, it is deplorable that those sacred edifices should ever come under the crushing wheels of Mars."

Postwar Reconversion Plan Is Offered By Senate Committee

BY MARLOW AND ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — The government's efforts to find a way of reconverting American industry to civilian production after the war have moved on a bumpy road so far.

There have been plenty of ideas and talk, and some action.

Now the Senate's postwar planning committee offers a program without any comment on the fact that War Mobilization Director Byrnes has the government's veteran trouble-shooter, Bernard M. Baruch, working on a program.

Baruch reportedly favors having the War Production board handle industrial demobilization. But the Senate committee suggests a law creating an independent office of demobilization.

Supreme On Reconversion

This office would be supreme on reconversion problems after the war, although remaining subordinate to Byrnes till war's end, and would have a director appointed by the President with Senate approval.

To help him, the director would set up a board with which a congressional committee of three senators and three representatives would consult on broad policies.

Already there has been this criticism of the Senate committee's idea: "creation of a demobilization office means one more federal agency on top of all the others. Since manpower is short, where would it recruit its staff except by raiding present war agencies?"

Here are the suggestions upon which the committee wants Congress to act!

The demobilization office should not be an operating agency in the sense that it cancels government contracts with war plants after hostilities.

Should Oversee Job

It should draw up the rules and regulations, oversee the entire job, and issue directives under which cancellations can be carried out by the procurement agencies, such as the War and Navy departments.

All government-owned plants suitable for peacetime production should be sold where this can be done without ruinous over-production in any industry, creating monopolies, or aiding monopolies already in existence.

Speed and fairness in settling contracts should not be sacrificed in an effort to detect fraud prior to settlement of claims against the government.

But there should be machinery to detect and punish fraud.

Guard Against Fraud

Company records — to provide for a complete audit in case of any fraud suspected later—should be kept for a specified time, with criminal penalties for failure to do so.

Unless previous arrangements have been made for their retention by the contractor, government-owned machinery, tools, equipment and inventories should be removed immediately from privately owned plants, even if this means moving them out into the weather for lack of storage facilities.

The Senate committee recommends immediate payment — after the war — of the contract price for all finished goods on hand; immediate payment of 100 per cent of the direct cost of all inventories of raw materials and partly processed goods in the hands of the contractor; and as much, up to 90 per cent, of all other items in the claim as the contracting agency feels will afford the government reasonable protection.

Use Of More Spuds Being Urged By WFA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (U.P.) — The War Food administration today urged increased use of potatoes in the nation's diet, reporting that the supply on hand exceeds the normal carry-over for this time of year.

The WFA pointed out that last year's crop, the largest in history, is moving to market in greater volume than in previous years and at prices fair to growers, distributors and consumers.

If abnormal marketing conditions make it necessary for the government to enter the market, WFA said it is planned to increase potato purchases for distribution to relief institutions. Such purchases would be limited however to areas where normal market channels are unable to move potatoes at support prices.

The WFA urged starch manufacturers, de-hydrators and other potato processors to buy and process as many potatoes as possible during the coming year.

Arrest Of Negroes Breaks Up Racket

A "racket" that had taken more than $200 from soldiers alone was nipped Tuesday afternoon by Lubbock police and juvenile officers.

Four little negroes — three of them are 14 and one 16 — were charged in juvenile court by John W. Wilson, city-county juvenile counsellor, and Syrian E. Marbut, county attorney, after Ralph Goldwater and Bill Lamb, police patrolmen, had fixed identity of those in the ring and had traced the movement of much valuable stolen goods the last three and a half months to an alleged "fence," where they said stolen goods had been sold.

At a hearing to be conducted Friday morning, they will be confronted with evidence they not only stole property from the public-at-large but, in one instance, even from the "fence."

"They stole five pairs of shoes from the place one morning and sold them back to the proprietor that afternoon," Wilson said Goldwater and Lamb had reported.

"The racket that victimized soldiers worked like this," Wilson said. "Three of the negroes would approach a soldier and suggest that they knew where they could buy whisky for $9 a quart. The soldier would give one of them the money and require that the other two stay with him until the third returned — as 'security.' Before long, they too would duck down an alley."

Wilson said the report turned in by Goldwater and Lamb disclosed that one of the boys stole an $11.95 coat, three pairs of shoes, four purses, two pairs of leather gloves and three belts; another admitted taking two belts, two purses, one knife, one telescope, a pair of gloves and a pair of sox; another took three purses, two belts, a yo-yo, a knife, a belt, a sweater, and two sets of underwear; the fourth took five pairs of shoes, 11 pocketbooks and three knives.

The revelations, "coming from the negroes piecemeal," also included an admission that they "found a drunk the other night and took his billfold and $9 from him."

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

The wife's divorce petition said that as long as her husband's financial status made it necessary for the two of them to work and plan together on limited earnings they got along very happily. Trouble came when his income was more than they knew what to do with.

That isn't an uncommon story in America today. For suddenly increased incomes are hard for some families to handle.

People who once had to watch pennies, and to save and plan and scheme, now suddenly start throwing money around. And before they know it they are in a mess. What should have been their good fortune is the very thing that throws them for a loss.

There isn't any need for a sudden increase in family income to have that effect on a family, of course. But to be sure it doesn't, a couple should have a business conference—just as though they were managing an expanding business concern—and do some long-term planning.

As soon as their income increases, they should figure out what the increase is going to mean to them—not in sudden luxuries or silly spending, but in savings for future wants and needs.

NEED DEFINITE PLAN

It isn't enough to say "We'll put the money into war bonds and some day it will come in pretty handy." Most people need to work toward a goal, toward the fulfillment of definite ambitions.

And it is important that both marriage partners are agreed on what the goals should be. Otherwise there won't be any real cooperation.

Whether or not increased income ruins a marriage or serves to smooth out difficulties and make the couple feel they are at last getting somewhere depends largely on whether or not they go right on planning together what they want for tomorrow, just as they did when money was painfully scarce.

Lt. Ned Bradley, Camp Hood, who spent Sunday as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Maude Bradley, 1810 Avenue W, has returned to his base. Mrs. Bradley, who accompanied her son, plans to visit her sons, Earl and Brooks, and their families and her brother, R. L. McKinney of Temple before returning home.

War Bonds Sold Here By Women Total $69,500

Women sold $69,500 in bonds during the recent Fourth War Loan campaign conducted in the residential section, it was reported late Tuesday.

The amount was under the quota set, but the extensive drive staged in public schools was given as the main reason. As it was pointed out, the same places, the family pocketbooks, where women would have turned to get money for their bonds were sought first by the school children.

This is a war story with two endings...

Johnny Carter was nineteen . . . and just about the nicest kid you'd ever want to meet. You couldn't know him five minutes without seein' pictures of his girl, his folks and his young sister . . . He'd haul 'em out and tell you how they were the best people in the best town in the best country on earth . . . And you'd believe him. Well, Johnny fought in Tunisia in the mud and rain and heat. He fought in Italy . . . in Germany . . . He fought and sweat and did without all the way to Tokyo. He wanted to get home bad . . . He wanted to see the best people in the best town in the best country 'til it hurt! And he came within one day of doing so . . . But twenty-four hours before the war ended, an Axis bullet put Johnny to sleep . . . forever.

That's one ending...here's a better one...

. . . He wanted to get home . . . and he did! . . . Because some folks who di'n't know Johnny bought war bonds and those bonds put more fighting weapons on the front . . . and they lopped twenty-four hours off the war. Remember this . . . that every bond you buy speeds victory, saves life. Think it over. Then . . .

Two Men Made Up Knotty Tax Forms

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 — If you're aghast at the income tax forms and wonder how they got that way, here's the story:

The Internal Revenue department has two men, a lawyer and a clerk, who ever since the last war have had a full time job making up tax forms.

They watch tax developments in Congress and as soon as a bill is finished they pitch in to whip up a tax form to comply with it.

Then they take it into what the department calls its "forms committee," which is composed of division heads dealing with income tax.

Is Sent To Brass Hats

They work it over and finally send it up to the brass hats — like the head of the department's income tax unit, the assistant secretary of the Treasury and even Secretary Morgenthau himself.

The brass hats have to give it a final okay but the real work is finished before it ever reaches them.

Is that all? That's all. It took five months to shape up the present forms which are giving the population screaming meemies.

Is there anything wrong with this way of doing it? Some people think so, and here are some of the reasons they give:

First, the forms are made up by these men who are so familiar with taxes that they are far removed from the puzzlement that besets the average citizen.

No Scientific Sampling

Second, they take no scientific sampling with a group of average taxpayers.

If they had worked out a number of forms and then tested an average taxpaying group they could find that some of the things which seem simple to them are difficult to others.

(We understand that this year a test between two forms was made with a small group in New York).

In 1913, the first year of income taxes, only 357,598 persons had to make out forms. They were the richest of the rich, who could turn the problem over to their lawyers: They paid that year $28,254,000 in taxes.

50 Million Paid In 1943

By 1939 the number of taxpayers had grown to 7,600,000. They paid $928,000,000. By 1943 the number climbed to 50 million, paying $18,500,000,000.

That increase since 1939 means that now even the least-schooled and least intelligent have to make out returns.

There is another side to the story, of course. Congress itself has scrambled the tax law so that work of making up the forms is a vastly complicated procedure. Nobody but experts could figure what Congress had in mind.

Thus the very complication of the law is a cinch to make the forms complicated. But critics think they might be less complicated if the internal revenue department experts got closer to a down-to-earth, scientific basis.

Tech Enters Animals In Ft. Worth Show

Texas Technological college will enter only three Aberdeen Angus steers and one bull and two Hereford bulls in the Fort Worth fat stock show March 10-19, according to W. L. Stangel, head of the Tech animal husbandry department. Entries have been restricted sharply because of the war.

Stangel, who has been an official of the show for many years, is superintendent of the Aberdeen-Angus department for this year's show. He also announced that 40 fat experimental steers would be marketed at Fort Worth on March 8.

Approximately $65,000 in cash premiums will be distributed this year to contestants and exhibitors in all departments of the show. The premiums include more than $30,000 for cattle and other livestock, $10,400 for horse show classes and $23,275 for contestants in the world championship rodeo.

Got To Shoot "Bear" First, Says Knudsen

DALLAS, Feb. 16 (AP)—Lt. Gen. William S. Kundsen, director of production for the War department, today warned against any belief that the war is about over, saying:

"Don't sell the hide until you've shot the bear."

General Knudsen, in Dallas on an inspection of war plants, said war workers should give everything they've got to furnish men on the fighting fronts with more than might be necessary.

"The war will stop when the enemy is licked," he said. "I'm sure we're going to win. When, I don't know."

Col. Monroe To Take Duties In California

Transfer of Lt. Col. F. M. Monroe from the command of the 309th College Training detachment (aircrew) at Texas Technological college to headquarters of the Western Flying Training command in Santa Ana, Calif., was announced here Tuesday.

Colonel Monroe plans to leave by automobile Friday. His successor has not been announced, said Lt. Don Budge, public relations and tactical officer.

In civilian life a public utilities executive in Berkeley, Cal., Colonel Monroe has had an Army reserve commission for 13 years. Originally an infantryman, he transferred to the Air Forces when going on active duty on Oct. 16, 1940, at Lindbergh Field, San Diego, Cal., as commandant of cadets at the Ryan School of Aeronautics.

In September of 1941, Colonel Monroe was transferred from San Diego to the staff of Maj. Gen. Barton K. Yount, who heads the Army Air Forces training program, at Fort Worth. In March of 1942, he went to Santa Ana as assistant to the adjutant general, in charge of the officer section. It is to that post which he returns.

Colonel Monroe, then a major, came to Lubbock from Denver where he had been transferred from Santa Ana in February of last year to command a Denver university detachment similar to the one at Tech. He is married and has one young son. The Monroe residence here has been at 2809 Twenty-eighth street.

Blinded Radioman Asks To Be Thrown Out To Lighten Plane

BY DOUGLAS WERNER
United Press War Writer

A BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 16—The radio operator turned his blinded, bleeding eyes to the top turret gunner and pleaded:

"Throw me out . . . I'm hit badly and no use to you now . . . It'll save 175 pounds and maybe get you back to England."

They told about it at this base today as they framed a recommendation for a Congressional Medal of Honor for that radio operator—Technical Sgt. Forrest L. Vosler of Livonia, N. Y.

The turret gunner didn't jettison Vosler and the shell-battered Fortress plunged into the English channel after the crew had dumped out everything else that was movable in an effort to stretch its last few pints of gasoline.

Dropped From Formation

But that's getting ahead of the story. To go back to air battle over Germany in which the Fortress "Jersey Bounce" was pounced on by cannon-firing German fighters—two of the Fort's engines were shot out by flak and the "Jersey Bounce" dropped from formation. The fighters crowded in for the kill.

One shell burst in Vosler's radio cubicle. Fragments pierced his legs, chest, face and eyes. A direct hit on the tail disabled the tail gun and knocked out the tail gunner.

Vosler struggled to his gun but with his legs and thighs perforated by shell fragments they wouldn't support him. He crawled on his table and groped for his machine-gun.

The German fighters were just a blur but he kept his machinegun hot. Just before the fighters turned away one last 20 mm shell burst squarely in front of Vosler's face. More fragments tore into his face and eyes.

The crew began to throw equipment overboard, hoping to nurse the staggering ship across the channel. Vosler stumbled about, blood streaming from his face.

Rigs Emergency Set

Working by touch, he rigged an emergency radio set and bent over the key to send out repeated SOS calls. Now and again he toppled over the key unconscious. Always he would recover and continue the call . . . "SOS . . . SOS . . . SOS."

Then he made a decision. He called to top turret gunner, Staff Sgt. Standley E. Moody of Lewiston, Me., and asked him to toss him through the hatch to lighten the load by another 175 pounds. It might be enough to stretch out the gasoline so the rest could make the English shore.

Vosler reminded Moody that he always had said before the beginning that he wanted to be thrown out of the plane if ever he was seriously wounded.

Moody refused—gently.

The big ship lunged into the channel and Vosler crawled out of the radio hatch. He held the wounded tail gunner from sliding off a wing until they were able to get into a dinghy.

The rescue launch arrived in a few minutes.

Sight In Right Eye

At first doctors believed both Vosler's eyes would have to be removed. Lately there has been improvement and he has been able to distinguish light with his right eye.

"There's not much improvement to be expected from the left eye," Flight Surgeon Harold Broady of Lowell, Mass., said. "There may be some chance of improvement of the right eye. The flak in the rest of his body will in time be removed."

Officers hoped Vosler would be able to see a general pin that Congressional Medal on his tunic. He is the second member of the Hells Angels bomber group to be recommended for the Congressional Medal in recent weeks. The first was 2d Lt. Charles W. Spencer of Peoria, Ill., bombardier, who stuck to his post although badly frozen.

Texas Exceeds Fourth War Loan Drive Quota

DALLAS, Feb. 16 (AP) — Nathan Adams, state chairman of the Fourth War Loan drive, said last night that Texas exceeded her $395,000,000 quota by $1,388,215, and sent a message to Texas' 36th division, fighting in Italy, advising the men of that fact.

Adams' message sent to the division's commanding general said:

"As promised Texas fighters in the 36th division by radio through you Feb. 3, Texans today exceeded the $395,000,000 Fourth War Loan Texas goal by $1,388,215, unofficially, with a much greater total to be recorded when final official figures are known, thus backing the attack of our fightiing sons with fighting dollars."

The state chairman said Texans as individuals and business firms have invested $1,938,204,077 in U. S. Treasury securities since the summer preceding Pearl Harbor, a figure exclusive of investments by Texas banks.

Hitler Urged To Recall Troops

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16 (AP)—The German commander in northern Finland was reported today to have urged Adolf Hitler to recall his troops to avert their entapment by a Russian-Finnish peace, direct negotiations for which now appear to be underway.

A German source said the request had been relayed to Berlin by Col. Gen. Edward Dietl and asserted there were indications that a number of transport officers, essential for any large-scale movement, already had been assigned to Dietl's command.

This informant expressed doubt that Hitler would follow Dietl's advice, particularly in view of the fact that the Russians recently have recaptured vital nickel mines in the Ukraine, leaving Finland as Germany's chief remaining source of that vital metal.

Abandons Headquarters

He said, however, that Col. Gen. Hans Juergen Stumpff of the Nazi Air force had virtually abandoned his Finnish headquarters in favor of Oslo. Stumpff also was reported to have ordered the withdrawal of German fighter and bomber squadrons from the Rovaniemi and Kemi airfields in Finland to Norway.

While Helsinki would neither confirm nor deny that peace negotiations with Russia are underway, it was disclosed that Juhu Kusti Paasikivi, former Finnish cabinet minister who arrived here last week, had conferred yesterday with the Soviet minister to Sweden, Mme. Alexandra Kollontay.

(The British radio said today that Eljas Errko, former Finnish foreign minister, who also arrived in Stockholm recently, had returned to Helsinki. The broadcast was heard by CBS.)

SOVIET UNION HAS NO OFFICIAL COMMENT TODAY

MOSCOW, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Soviet Union had no official comment today on reports abroad that Finland is eagerly seeking peace terms.

The Russians have received full reports on Finnish shelling of Leningrad and other participation in the war at the side of Germany. Thus the people regard the Finns with almost the same hatred as they have for the Germans.

tion to Japan's immenes holdings on the Asiatic continent, Manchuria, Korea and northern China, and observed that "her outlying islands of the Pacific represent an important outpost position it is true, but no longer decisive."

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, expressed belief recently that Japan would have to be defeated from land bases in China.

Still, there was no letup in the regular air pounding at key Japanese positions in the southwest Pacific, and if the Seabees who landed in the Green islands follow their Solomons pattern, there soon may be a new Allied airfield within easy striking distance of those bases.

The deteriorating enemy stronghold of Rabaul was attacked again Monday, with 171 tons of bombs strewn on its three airdromes. Eight planes were destroyed on the ground, and between seven and 12 of 40 interceptors shot down. We lost three fighters.

On nearby New Ireland, heavy bombers dropped 113 tons of bombs on Kavieng and Panapai airdromes without interception, and Momote airdrome in the Admiralty islands was pounded with 90 tons for the second straight day.

The Tokyo radio reported without confirmation that American naval units bombarded Taro island of Maloelap atoll in the Marshalls Monday, declaring the Japanese garrison counterattacked the sea forces and "drove them off."

Maj. Gen. Charles H. Corlett, commander of the Seventh army division which participated in the capture of Kwajalein atoll in the Marshalls earlier this month, disclosed that two Japanese admirals were among the 8,000 Japanese killed in the campaign.

civilians; or (4) held for disposition in 1945.

The possibility that these supplies might be released to civilians was suggested by the bureau of agricultural economics, the statistical arm of the WFA, in a recent report on prospective meat supplies. The report said civilian supplies probably will be about the same as in 1943.

WFA officials are inclined to dismiss such a possibility as academic. Pointing to potential military, lend-lease as well as foreign relief requirements, they say they expect the bulk of the reserves will be needed eventually for non-civilian purposes.

A short subject which will warm the heart of every sportsman who sees it and which, for its uniqueness and photographic beauty will interest those not even remotely interested in outdoor affairs, is "Mallards In Flight," which starts today and runs through Saturday at the Lindsey.

Made in the Texas Panhandle during the past duck season, "Mallards In Flight" depicts duck-hunting as done by experts. It features the shooting of Gene Howe, publisher of the Amarillo Globe-News who writes "The Tactless Texan" column in those papers; and Eltinge Warner, of New York, the publisher of the outdoors magazine, "Field & Stream." Jim Maggard, a Texas game warden, also appears in the picture and handles "Squire," a two-year old Chesapeake retriever, which promises to become one of the nation's best dogs of his type. The dog is owned by Bill Gunn, Amarillo business man.

Professionally produced by Pathe-RKO for exhibition in the nation's movie theaters, "Mallards In Flight" has its locale on the Howe "Big Bull" ranch, located in Hemphill county, 120 miles northeast of Amarillo and 20 miles east of Canadian. It is a 7,000-acre outfit on which the Amarillo publisher breeds fine cattle and pursues his hobby of hunting. Howe is a member of the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster commission and is nationally known as a crack shot with both rifle and shotgun.

"Mallards In Flight" is one of two "sportscopes" made by Pathe-RKO on the Howe ranch. The other, a quail picture, is "On Point," and will be shown here at a later date.

Both films had their premier showings in Amarillo yesterday and Otto Lang, who did the photography work and who is the nation's outstanding authority on skiing, flew there for the occasion. Lang is currently making some skiing pictures in Utah.

working under a conscription act, had had more strikes proportionately than this country.

"One Agency Needed"

R. J. Gray, acting president of the building and construction trades department of the AFL followed Green with the assertion that "all that is necessary is to set up one agency of government to handle labor relations, namely, the United States Department of Labor, and tell the union working people what is needed of them."

The "citizens' committee for a national war service act" subsequently put a statement into the committee record to dispute Green's assertion about the comparative prevalence of strikes in Britain, asserting:

"For the three years, 1941, 1942 and 1943, the number of man days lost because of strikes has been, on a proportionate basis, three times greater in the United States than in Britain."

"Their reply was "no, that they would prefer to wait and to do this in their own way," Long said. "So, we are hung up for the time being on that."

Another State department attache, Nathaniel P. Davis, foreign service officer, said as far as he could learn, most American Army officers above the rank of major who were captured in the Philippines were taken to Formosa, and a few officers and men were taken to Manchuria.

Fighting In Italy

gave direct support to infantry on both the beach and main Fifth army front. A-36 Invaders struck a sharp series of blows at railroad yards in the suburbs of Rome. (The Paris radio said the Rome area was attacked again today and that Castel Gandolfo was hit yesterday).

The Germans launched their first attack in several weeks against Eighth army positions, sending infantry and light tanks against Indian troops. The assault, described as on a "small scale" was beaten back.

In the town of Cassino, doughboys were forcing their way through blistering machinegun fire from steel-reinforced concrete pillboxes in the dwellings.

Clearing weather brought virtually every type of Allied aircraft into action, and Liberators also struck at the Poggibonsi railyards 20 miles south of Florence. Nine enemy planes were downed, including four over the beachhead, while the Allies lost one.

Freight Cars Hit

One formation of Invaders caught a string of nearly 200 freight cars in the Tiburtina yards on the outskirts of Rome, hitting them with 500-pound bombs. Another slashed at an equally large concentration at the Trastevere station on the banks of the Tiber.

All the A-36 Invaders returned safely. It was their first raid against the Rome area.

(Douglas Amaron, Canadian press war correspondent, said in a dispatch from the Eighth army front, that columns of smoke, observed Monday night on the coastal road about six miles northwest of Ortona, were believed to have resulted from German demolitions in anticipation of a renewed Allied offensive).

A Navy announcement said destroyers shelled Velaluku and Brato on the island of Korcula off the Dalmatian coast on the night of Feb. 12-13.

to El Paso and, some believe, to Carlsbad, N. M., where $220 was taken in a Monday night hijacking—said an old hat had been abandoned with the car and a "hat sack" was in the car, indicating perhaps he had acquired a new hat.

Two of the automobiles it had been theorized linked with McEachern's escape were reported found, but one of them, from Albuquerque, N. M., was found to be in possession of three other men, according to Amarillo police, who made the arrest Tuesday night.

Seen Near Lampasas

The state police broadcast informed officials McEachern two nights ago had been seen in the Lampasas section; that he drove to Hico, turned toward Meridian and Waco.

"Knowing McEachern the way we do, we do not consider it unusual that he would be reported from various sections over the state," one investigator said. "He sure whips a car around. It isn't his, so what has he got to lose, particularly since he is under sentences totaling more than 200 years plus life, if you want to count his whole record?"

Demo Chief Named On Centennial Staff

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP) — George H. Butler of Houston, chairman of the Texas state Democratic executive committee, has been appointed to the central council of the board of directors of the Texas centennial of statehood commission.

A. Garland Adair, statehood commissioner and curator of history in Texas memorial museum, Austin, received formal notification of Butler's acceptance. Jesse H. Jones, secretary of commerce, will be chairman of the federal participation in the statehood observance.

Record Assault Rocks Berlin

prevented accurate observation of the results and also impeded the defenses.

The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet's Berlin correspondent reported that two houses used temporarily by the Swedish legation were destroyed by fire bombs.

28,000 Tons On Berlin

Berlin now has received almost 28,000 tons (25,000 British long tons) of bombs in a series of 15 heavy attacks beginning Nov. 18, 1943. The total heavy bombers lost on these night raids is 467, an average of 31 a raid.

Frankfurt-on-Oder, a city of about 70,000, was attacked only once before, in October, 1940. Its main industries manufacture machinery and chemicals and it is important as a railway center.

Among the hundreds of planes which flew to Berlin was the largest force of heavy bombers ever to operate from Royal Canadian Air force bases in Britain. It was composed of four-engined Lancasters and Halifaxes of which four were missing.

Over 1,000 Sorties

A communique declared that the bombers "took the offensive against Germany in very great strength, flying in all operations over 1,000 sorties.

"The main objective was Berlin where well over 2,500 tons of high explosive and incendiary bombs were dropped, a heavier load than in any previous attack on any objective in air warfare."

Hundreds of big bombers launched the deluge of bombs soon after 9 p. m., and returning fliers said that in a matter of minutes a crimson glow sprang up through the cloud screen which obscured their view of parts of the city.

Ordinary Opposition

The fliers said they encountered no more than ordinary anti-aircraft fire and only a few night fighters, although enemy interceptors springled flares all over the sky.

The traffic over Berlin was so congested as the big planes thundered in on their bombing runs that one pilot reported he had almost bombed another formation of Lancasters beneath him.

One Lancaster completed its 82nd raid to establish a record for the RAF bombing command.

Last night's raid on Berlin followed another furious daylight assault upon targets in northern France yesterday by hundreds of Allied planes, including large formations of American Liberators, Thunderbolt fighter-bombers, and medium bombers.

The total Allied losses in these sweeping operations were two medium bombers and four fighters, a communique said last night.

It was disclosed meanwhile, that Thunderbolt fighters, since going into action recently into this theater, have shot down 657 Nazi planes against losses of 186.

Argentine Crisis

ate only Gilbert and Gonzalez.

The colonels were believed to have intervened when they discovered that Gilbert and Gonzalez practically had a declaration of war against the Axis ready for Ramirez' signature.

The younger officers were understood to have forced the GOU (Grupo Officiales Unidos, or Group of United Officers)—the army colonels who put the Ramirez government in power in the June 4 revolution—to support them in opposing the action planned by Gilbert and Gonzalez.

Some Favored War

Advices from Buenos Aires said some members of Ramirez' revolutionary regime, which broke diplomatic relations with the Axis last month, wanted to declare war on Germany as a result of a strong Nazi note demanding the immediate release of Gen. Fredrich Wolf, former German military attache at Buenos Aires and Santiago, Chile.

Germany threatened reprisals against Argentine diplomats still in German-occupied territory if Wolf were kept under arrest as a leader of one of the spy rings whose exposure led to Argentina's diplomatic break, it was said.

Another report said the war declaration had been drawn up following the sinking of the Argentine ship Rio Iguazu off Trinidad, but the Buenos Aires government denied any vessels had been sunk.

Extreme Tension Reported

Extreme tension was reported between factions of Ramirez' regime favoring entry into the war and those opposed.

Others who have resigned or are expected to resign reportedly include Interior Minister Gen. Luis Cesar Perlinger, Agriculture Minister Gen. Diego I. Mason, Information and Press Secretary Col. Hector L'Advocat and Undersecretary of State Dr. Oscar Ibarra Garcia.

Army automobiles were reported clustered about government buildings in Buenos Aires yesterday and the city was reported in a "high state of unrest" with troops and extra police on the alert. The president was understood to have conferred with high army and navy officers during the day.

Prewit To Continue At Extension Helm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — James D. Prewit, whose authority as acting director of the Texas A. & M. college agricultural extension service was due to expire today, will continue in office.

M. L. Wilson, federal extension director, said Prewit will continue his duties until a permanent appointment is made.

Wilson said he felt certain that the War Food administration and the board of directors of Texas A. & M. college would acquiesce in this temporary arrangement.

A. & M. directors are slated to consider the matter at a forthcoming meeting.

House Studies Appropriations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. (AP)—The House appropriations committee sent to the floor today legislation appropriating $231,304,700 for the Senate, Commerce and Justice departments for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The total was allocated in this manner: State department, $44,234,500; Justice, $116,477,200; Commerce, $70,593,000. The aggregate was $5,987,700 below budget estimates.

The legislation was accompanied by almost 1,000 pages of printed testimony, from high-ranking officials.

Hull Issues Warning

From Secertary of State Cordell Hull, who told the committee at one point that it was "too late in life for me" to join "the bureaucrats," came warning that the war is not "all over but the shouting;" from Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones came a statement that much of the $2,700,000,000 invested by the government in airplane and engine plants will have to be written off as a dead loss, and from J. Edgar Hoover, head of the FBI, the admonition that juvenile delinquency is "sweeping the country."

Hull told the committee that winning of a military victory was but one phase in the program of "bringing about peace and future world stability."

"A durable, just and stable world order" was Hull's definition of the final goal of the war.

Hull Defends Policy

Hull defended the department's good-neighbor policy with other American republics, asserting that "we have no idea of the difference it would have made in carrying on this war from the beginning if we had had the hostility of these countries and things had been as they were when we commenced this policy of the good neighbor."

Secretary Jones' testimony came under questioning about the disposition of government-owned war plants. The government, Jones said, will have no need for the output after the war but some of the buildings and equipment could be converted to peacetime use.

Court Vacancies

would not fill vacancies on district court benches in Wichita and Harris counties, noting that under today's opinion by Judge Lloyd Davidson, no contingency similar to the Pierson case can arise.

No Judge To Act

"There having been no judge authorized by law to approve his statement of facts and bills of exception at a time when the law said such documents must be approved in order to be considered by this court, the appellant has been, without fault or neglect on his part, deprived of his right to have an authorized statement of facts and bill of exceptions before this court on appeal," said the written opinion by Judge Lloyd Davidson on the Pierson case.

"No man should suffer the penalty of death at the hands of the law until he has first been accorded all his legal rights."

Pierson's trial was held before the late Judge Grover C. Adams in April, 1943. Judge Adams on July 1 overruled the motion of Pierson's attorneys for a new trial and Pierson was given 60 days to prepare and file a bill of exceptions. Judge Adams died on Aug. 25, five days before the expiration of this period.

Final Action Delayed On Subsidies, CCC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Final action on legislation to continue the Commodity Credit corporation (CCC), and to repeal food subsidies, was delayed today by failure of House and Senate conferees to agree on the bill's wording.

The President is expected to veto the measure, after which the decisive test will come when Congress ballots on the question of overriding or sustaining the veto.

Inability of the conferees to reach a quick accord at their first meeting yesterday means that the statutory life of the CCC will lapse after tomorrow, since the two houses now have insufficient time to act on the conference committee report even if an agreement is reached today.

Former "Child Bride" Is Granted Divorce

PERRY, Okla., Feb. 16 (U.P.)—A sensational "child bride" marriage that sent the bridegroom to prison for perjury has ended in divorce, district court records showed here today.

The divorce was granted yesterday by District Judge Roy Carver to Opal West Burns, who leaped into the headlines in 1937 when, at the age of 12, she married John Lawrence Burns, then 38.

Mrs. Burns, reported employed at an Oklahoma City war plant, charged her husband with extreme cruelty and neglect of duty

Exchange Ship Goes To Lisbon

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. (AP)—The exchange liner Gripsholm pointed its bow across the Atlantic again today, this time toward Lisbon where more than 1,000 Axis war internees will be exchanged for a similar group of Americans, including wounded and sick soldiers now Nazi prisoners.

The sleek Swedish motorship, carrying enemy diplomats, German nationals and prisoners of war, sailed out of New York harbor yesterday, assured of a safe passage by all belligerents. It is expected to dock in the Portuguese port about Feb. 24.

Names Will Be Announced

In announcing the ship's departure last night, the State department in Washington revealed for the first time that American sick and wounded would be among those being repatriated.

The department said that names of those who will board the Gripsholm in Lisbon will be made public as soon as they are received.

On the day the ship lands, railroad trains will arrive in Lisbon from Germany with an undisclosed number of seriously sick or wounded American soldiers, about 156 relief workers and newspaper correspondents, 95 officials of other American republics, about 375 nationals of the United States and other American countries, and a number of American diplomats.

Boy Narrowly Misses Electrocution Here

Ten-year-old Billy Cartwright was back in school this morning—and lucky to be there.

Firemen and relatives said the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cartwright of 2217 Ninth street and several other boys were playing late Tuesday with a ball that lodged on the garage. Billy climbed on the garage to recover it. To get under electric wires strung across the roof, he lifted three of them. He screamed when 220 volts of electricity coursed through his body.

Weakened, his knees sagged and his body slumped. The current was not strong enough to hold him to the wires, so he fell clear, said John Nugent, assistant fire chief.

He required no medical attention. Had the boy been standing on the ground when he touched the wires his injuries probably would have been fatal, it was suggested.

with Allied headquarters during the trek and he now asked that planes be sent to pick up the party.

Again the Nazis stepped in. Just before the planes were due a German infantry and tank force moved into a fortified village commanding the landing ground in the valley below. Duffy hid the party in the hills on the opposite side of the valley.

Then the rescue squadron roared in. For 15 minutes the fugitives witnessed a battle between the planes and the Germans. Finally the squadron left.

Nurses Are Praised

A five-day forced march, mostly without sleep, ended their trip. They reached safety just two months after the take-off on what was to have been a two-hour flight.

Duffy, a hard-bitten Yorkshireman, paid his tribute. "Those nurses were brave," he smiled. "They showed no signs of fear, even in the tightest spots."

Names of only ten of the 13 nurses were available here and none of their home towns was known. They included Gertrude Dawson, Lillian Tacina, Agned Atensen, Eugenie Rutwoski, Pauline Kenable, Lois Watson, Ann Kipcso, Stephanie Markowitz, Elna Schwart and Frances Nelson.

M. F. Bullard Dies Suddenly At Home

M. F. Bullard, 50, died suddenly about 7 o'clock this morning at his home near Levelland following a heart attack. He became ill about 5 o'clock and died before the arrival of a doctor.

Bullard, a former Lubbock resident, had lived in Hockley county about ten years.

He is survived by the widow, a daughter, Mrs. R. H. Morris of the residence, two sisters, Mrs. E. R. Easley of Knott; Mrs. George Cooley of Comanche, Okla.; and two half-brothers, Floyd Hughes of Orange, and Earnest Hughes of Oklahoma.

Funeral services probably will be held in Rix chapel Thursday afternoon with Rev. Jeff Welch officiating. Rix Funeral home reported. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery.

Experimental Plants For Gas Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16. (U.P.)—The House, warned that the nation's natural petroleum reserves may be exhausted in 15 years, appeared ready today to approve legislation authorizing the government to build experimental plants to produce gasoline from coal and shale.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Jennings Randolph, (D., W. V.), headed the list of business before the House and Randolph said he expected passage after adoption of minor amendments.

Randolph said the Interior department's bureau of mines, which would direct the experiments, had estimated the cost of three experimental plants at around $30,000,000, with about three or four years required to get them into operation.

GASOLINE BAN EXTENDED

MADRID, Feb. 16 (U.P.) — The suspension of American gasoline imports to Spain will be extended through March it was indicated today when it was revealed that no Spanish oil tankers have left Caribbean ports this month.

TWICE 'DEAD'—Arthur Lance, above, of East Chicago, Ind., has twice been "dead," but, as seen above, is still lively enough to work in a war plant—on the "graveyard" shift, of course. In an auto wreck eight years ago, he was taken to a morgue, as dead, but when attendants prepared to embalm him, he snapped out of it. Recently he collapsed after eating canned pickled herring. An inhalator rescue squad believed him dead, but his wife persuaded them to continue working and sure enough, he came to.

News Briefs

Seminole authorities this afternoon sought a "dark man weighing approximately 180 pounds" in connection with assault with intent to murder a woman at Seagraves. The man is a former convict, members of the state highway patrol here said they had been informed. Description of the man was broadcast by KGZW, the Lubbock police shortwave station. Capt. N. R. Smith, of the state patrol, planned going to Seminole this afternoon in connection with the case and to appear before a Gaines county grand jury investigating an assault on another woman in that county recently.

A 49-year-old former convict who had told officials he had been hijacked at 9 o'clock Saturday night near Stanton, Martin county, by a man who answered description of Robert McEachern, southwestern desperado who is a fugitive from the penitentiary, admitted in a signed statement here that his yarn was a hoax, it was announced this afternoon by Capt. N. R. Smith of the state highway patrol. The man, who will be charged at Plainview, was brought to Lubbock by O. D. Jackson and Marvin Blount, state highway patrolmen of Plainview. He admitted having converted more than $300 to his own usage, officials said, and that he had gone to the penitentiary in 1934 from Bowie county, for forgery.

A 72nd district grand jury impaneled Monday morning by Judge Dan Blair likely will not complete its investigation this afternoon, unofficial rumors in the courthouse indicated. Judge Blair gave only one specific charge: for the 12 men to investigate alleged illegalities in the Lubbock Flats district, where at least two recent murders have happened. It was expected that approximately 14 bills of indictment might be returned, based on formal complaints referred to the jury for investigation.

Demo Committee To Study Soldier Vote

HOUSTON, Feb. 16 (U.P.) — The State Democratic executive committee probably will be summoned into session sometime next month for consideration of the soldier vote problem, Chairman George A. Butler said today.

"We hope that by that time Congress will have taken some sort of action, so we will know just where we stand," he said, indicating that he believed definite federal action prerequisite to final action by states on the issue.

The Democrats will soon announce their 1944 convention city, Butler said. Republicans announced last week that their 1944 convention will be held in Houston.

MONKS BELIEVED SAFE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Rt. Rev. Alfred Koch, archabbot of St. Vincent monastery, Latrobe, Pa., said today he understood that monks of the abbey on Mt. Cassino left for provinces south of Rome several weeks before Allied bombing of the famous monastery.

COURTENAY MARSHALL DIES

BEAUMONT, Feb. 16 (AP)—Courtenay Marshall, secretary of the Magnolia Petroleum company, from April 4, 1911, until his retirement June 1, 1932, died yesterday at a hospital. He started work with the firm as chief clerk in the Beaumont office in 1902. Marshall was a native of Ireland.

British Ship, 24 Men Lost

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Feb. 16 (AP)—Twenty four members of the crew of 44 on a 7244-ton British freighter were lost when the ship piled onto Boon island ledge, about 12 miles off York, Me., in a driving blizzard Friday and split in two, the First Naval district public relations office disclosed today, with approval of the British admiralty.

The motor vessel crashed onto the rock at 1:23 p. m. (CWT), and pounded all night by terrific seas, broke up Saturday morning with the forward half remaining fast on the ledge and the aft half floating crazily away to sink later, Chief Engineer Svend Haagensen related in an interview.

Rough Seas Halted Boats

Rescue ships stood by but could not get close enough to take off the men. The rescue craft, including Coast Guard and U. S. naval vessels, rendered daring service, however, in picking up survivors from the tempest-ridden seas. Thirteen bodies were recovered later.

Thirteen of the survivors were taken to Portland, Me., and seven more were brought into Portsmouth. Virtually all required hospital treatment.

Most of the ship's lifesaving equipment either was washed into the sea or smashed when the vessel split, and some rafts capsized after they hit the water.

Haagensen related that he was one of 19 men in the forward section who plunged into the boisterous ocean as the ship split. Fifty foot swells, he said, were running during the night.

Capt. Weston Is To Leave Post At Tech

Capt. Henry Dale Weston, 3220 Twentieth street, who has been assistant professor of military science and tactics at Texas Technological college since September, 1940, and has been director of training for the army specialized training unit at the school, has been ordered to the officers' reassignment pool at Fort Sam Houston, Texas. He has been at Tech longer than any other officer now there, and probably has been in Lubbock longer than any other officer. The announcement of Capt. Weston's transfer was made by Major F. E. Hangs, professor of military science and tactics at the school and commandant of the army specialized training unit.

A graduate of Oklahoma A. and M. college, Capt. Weston was an engineer officer in the Army for a year before coming to Lubbock. He formerly resided in Stillwater, Okla.

Mrs. Weston is planning to go to the home of her parents in Wewoka, Okla.

Dr. Qualia Speaks At Rotary Luncheon

Dr. Charles B. Qualia, head of the department of foreign languages at Texas Tech, was principal speaker at noon today as Lubbock Rotarians held their regular weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Hilton.

Doctor Qualia, introduced by Dr. Harry L. Kent, program chairman, outlined efforts being made through the State Department of Education and other vehicles to improve relations between Americans of Anglo and Latin descent. He said the Lubbock public schools, the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, and an organization of Latin-Americans living in Slaton were doing fine work along this line, "in fact," he said, "well in advance of the program outlined by the state department."

President W. W. Rix was in the chair. Approximately 110 persons were in attendance.

Court Rules Against Use Of School Funds

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—The state supreme court today ruled that Texas banks, acting as school district fund depositories, cannot use current school funds on deposit to pay teachers' salaries for past years.

The decision was in the case of the City State bank of Wellington against the Wellington Independent School district.

The case concerned 1941-42 school year income in the bank being checked on to pay teachers' salaries and other debts of the preceding school year. The court held this could not be done.

More than $6,400 had been spent out of the 1941-42 funds to pay the 1940-41 debts, and the bank may lose this amount under the court's ruling.

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 16 (AP) — Helsinki dispatches to the newspaper Aftonbladet quoted Estonian reports today as saying that Red Army troops have established a bridgehead across the Narova river at Krivasuo and that a dangerous situation for the city's German defenders has developed within the past 24 hours.

The Germans are said to have ordered the evacuation of all Estonian towns east of Tapa and in Reval (Tallinn) governmental archives are said to have been packed for speedy departure of the puppet officials.

British Have Paid $100,000,000 To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The British have paid back $100,000,000 of $390,000,000 borrowed from the United States to pay for war supplies contracted for in this country prior to lend-lease, the House was advised today.

A Reconstruction Finance corporation spokesman, Henry A. Mulligan, treasurer, gave the details to a House appropriations committee during hearings on the 1945 commerce appropriation bill.

Ration Holiday Is Proposed

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (U.P) — The National Canners association today considered a proposal to urge the Office of Price administration to declare a holiday on the rationing of all green ration-stamp processed food between March 1 and June 30 because of the huge amount of home canning done by housewives last year.

The proposal, which was passed unanimously yesterday by the association's planning committee and board of directors, said that an estmaited 150,000,000 to 260,000,000 cases of home-preserved fruits and vegetables have been amassed by housewives.

"This is a tremendous reserve, and in a sense, constitutes a type of hoarding because housewives with these canned foods still can purchase processed foods at stores," the proposal said.

Seeking removal of rationing restrictions on canned goods, canners hope to free the market of processed foods now held by wholesalers and retailers, providing greater incentive for consumption. Hoarding of the home-pack also would be cut down during such a period, a spokesman explained, because a new home canning season soon will be started.

Ask Price Adjustments

The association drew up petitions that price regulations be adjusted to provide fair and reasonable profits and production incentives; that rising raw material costs be reflected in retail ceiling prices; and that a pricing method be announced so that the canning industry will operate for future production.

Walter F. Straub, director of food rationing for the OPA, denied that warehouses are packed with foodstuffs. Warehouses are filled only at embarkation points, he said, where an endless flow of food moves for shipment abroad.

Straub estimated that food retailers would save $35,000,000 annually with the increase ease of handling the new ration tokens, to be inaugurated Feb. 27.

Col. Philip G. Burton, director of labor for the War Food administration, said that a "mobile task force of 126,000 able-bodied, experienced inter-state and foreign workers" is planned to alleviate the farm-hand shortage.

Federal Wage Board Withholds Decision

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — A decision was withheld today by the federal wage adjustment board for construction workers after hearing a Texas challenge of its jurisdiction regarding wage scales of employes engaged under contract by a state on public works.

Texas officials, although specifically concerned with highway construction projects, declared that the issue involved affected all construction work financed by funds of a state, county, city or any other political subdivision.

The board, meeting yesterday to consider an application by the international union of operating engineers, Houston Local No. 450, to increase rates of engineers in the San Antonio area, comprising 48 counties, heard the Texas officials protest that it had no authority to decline wage levels on road projects financed with state funds.

Two alleged Army deserters were turned over to military police Tuesday when arrested by Glynn Hudgens, a city-county official, who encountered them at a depot here. They had gone to meet a train bringing to Lubbock the wife of one of them. One of the men was a 24-year-old Shallowater man.

E. L. Wheeler of Wolfforth has resigned as county jailer and been replaced by Ike E. Madden of Slaton, a law-enforcement officer many years, it was announced by Sheriff Tom Abel. Madden was night watchman before Abel came to Lubbock 12 years ago to become sheriff. He is married and has a married daughter and a son in the armed services.

Canada has doubled her steel production since the outbreak of war.

Boost Is Given Work Of Ickes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The self-styled curmudgeon of the New Dealers, tough-talking Interior Secretary Ickes, had what his friends regarded as a vote of confidence from the House.

It agreed by a vote of 186-159 to give him another assistant secretary of the interior at $9,000 a year.

Much of the preceding debate was by Republicans and they split in their appraisals of Ickes and the job he has done.

Representative Gearhart (R-Calif) termed him "a fearless, courageous, fighting man." Representative Smith (R-Ohio) declared "I want to see the secretary of the interior stopped in his mad grasp for power just as I mant to see other departments similarly stopped."

Courage Is Cited

Representative Calvin D. Johnson (R-Ill) told the House "Ickes is the one individual in Washington capable of saying yes or no, and having the courage of his convictions. I'm rising in defense of a man who is trying to do a good job, and that's unusual in Washington."

Smith charged it was Ickes' intention to "fascistize" the oil industry and declared the interior secretary is leading a movement for creation of "labor armies." Ickes proposes, he explained, a three-year post-war public works program for some of the returning soldiers. Smith said this was "forced labor."

Speaker Rayburn took the floor to urge passage of the bill. He told the House it was not a question of "going out and grasping power," but of providing an assistant to take care of the many additional duties that have been placed in the Interior department by the war.

UNAWARE OF ORDER

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP) — War Minister Sir James Grigg told Commons today he was unaware of any order issued to the ATS (Women's Auxiliary Territorial service) forbidding them to speak to American negro troops except in the presence of whites.

Westerners Bow To Sandies, 40 To 25

Second Title Game Set Here Friday

AMARILLO, Feb. 16 — Using their superior altitude, the Amarillo Golden Sandies hung up a 40 to 25 victory over the Lubbock Westerners here last night in the opening game of the District 1-AA championship series.

The Sandies bounded away into an early lead, and were never headed off. The Sandies throttled a threatening Westerner rally in the second period of the game without ever turning over the lead to the Westerners, and won in the last half with ever widening margins.

The series will be resumed Friday night at Lubbock, and in case a third game is needed, it will be played Saturday night in Lubbock. The site of the third game was decided here tonight by the flip of a coin.

Graves Sets Pace

The Sandies were paced by Rufus Graves, who nosed out Bill Cope, the Westerner star, by one point for scoring honors of the night. Graves dropped seven field goals into the bucket and added a free pitch for 15 points. Cope finished the night with five field goals and four free pitches for 14 points.

John Bob Watts was second in line for the Sandies by pushing in eight points to nose out Manderson of the Westerners, who counted seven points.

The game drew a banner crowd and was well officiated with Sgt. Powell and Lt. Rigan from the Amarillo Army Air Field serving as officials.

Sandies Take Lead

The Sandies pulled away to the lead early in the ball game and reached the end of the first quarter leading 10 to 3. The Westerners hit their stride in the second period with Cope leading the way and at the halftime had whittled the advantage down to 20 to 14.

But in the last half, the Sandies could not be stopped and pulled up to a 31 to 20 advantage by the end of the third quarter and then coasted in through the final period to win.

The game was the 13th win of the season for the Sandies, as against four setbacks, and was the third loss for the Westerners, and the first of the season to a high school team. The Westerners have won 12 games.

Longhorns And Owls To Clash Tonight

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP)—University of Texas Longhorns will have two desires they hope to see fulfilled when they clash with a quintet of Rice Institute Owls here tonight.

First off, the Longhorns would like to defeat the Owls, thus knocking them from the Southwest conference lead in which they are tied with Arkansas.

Next, the Texas team would like to keep Rice's towering center, Bill Henry of Dallas, from breaking the conference scoring record which he has tied with 214 points for the season.

Rice's sizzling brand of ball, however, appeared to overshadow the Longhorns' hopes for their final home game. Texas' season closes Feb. 21 with A. and M. at College Station.

DRAFT HITS TIGERS

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP) — The Detroit Tigers received word today that Don Ross, their handy man outfielder, has received 1-A draft classification at Los Angeles.

The Tigers have half a dozen others in 1-A, and one of these, shortstop Joe Hoover, is up for his draft physical examination at Los Angeles.

Beau Jack Batters Maxie Berger For One-Sided Victory

CLEVELAND, Feb. 16 (AP)—The batteries for last night's game—oh, we forgot, it was a boxing match—featured Beau Jack, the New York conception of the lightweight championship, in the pitcher's box, and Welterweight Maxie Berger, who should have known better, on the receiving end.

Berger, 27-year-old New York and Montreal leather pusher, did receive a sizeable check, but he'll go back to club fighting.

Leaping in to register with slashing left hooks and following up with staggering rights, the Beau took all except the sixth round on the Associated Press score sheet—he missed that one because Referee Joe Sedley penalized him for low punching.

Berger Down In Seventh

Berger went down for a two-count in the seventh after absorbing a choice assortment of the Jack artillery but he managed to stick it out for the full 10 rounds.

Jack hurt Berger as early as the opening round when he connected with four solid left hooks and opened a cut above Maxie's left eye.

Jack reached the peak of his performance in the seventh. A right hook staggered Berger and another right dumped him on the canvass. He arose after a two-count and went through the motions of countering but staggered into more of the Jack offerings.

The Beau came into the ring at 138 pounds for his over-the-weight match, five and three-quarter pounds less than his opponent. The gross gate of $30,000 represented contributions by 8,206 customers.

Lubbock, Slaton Split Double Cage Bill

Lubbock cagers gained an even split with the Slaton High school cagers last night at Slaton with Coach Russell Wimberley's Cowboys on the short end of the 15 to 11 count with the Slaton Juniors, but Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Cowhands evened the score by winning 34 to 21 in the nightcap.

In the opening game, the two teams battled on even terms all the way with the local club edging out in the final minutes. Roberts of the winners was high point man with five points. Ross of Slaton and Payne of Lubbock tied for runnerup honors with four points each.

T. J. Price and Bob Crawford set the pace for the Cowhands in the nightcap with Price gaining top honors of the night with five field goals and four free pitches for 14 points. Crawford looped in four field goals and two free pitches for 10 points to trail Price.

Second scoring honors of the game went to Waltus of Slaton who dropped in six field goals for 12 points.

The game will be returned later at Lubbock, but the dates have not been set for the battles.

Revolta's Stock Up In New Orleans Open

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16 (AP)—Curly-haired Johnny Revolta, the recovery wizard from Evanston, Ill., made himself a strong contender for the New Orleans $5,000 all war-bond tournament championship next week by virtue of his victory over Byron Nelson in the Texas open.

Although it was Johnny's first tournament triumph in some time, New Orleans golf fans recalled that he always finishes in the pay-off circle. He has been in every New Orleans open since the event was established.

The tournament proper gets under way Feb. 25 and will extend through Feb. 28. It will extend through Feb. 28. It will be preceded by a pro-amateur tournament.

Golden Glovers Leave Today

Team's First Bouts Set Thursday Night

With grim confidence in their ability to bring home some titles, the Lubbock Golden Gloves boxing team left today for Fort Worth where they will start firing in the first round matches Thursday night.

Arriving in time for weighing in ceremonies this afternoon, the Lubbock fighters will not get into action until Thursday night. All eight champions will take their bow in the spotlight against some of the titlists from the larger cities over the state.

The Lubbock district champions, who were named at Texas Tech's gym two weeks ago in a big three-night tournament, will be in charge of Flight Officer Bob Rings, the coach of the South Plains Army Air Field team which won four title at Tech, and Staff Sgt. Stanley J. Prisbeck who also helped coach the SPAAF boys.

On Returning

Only one man among the tight will be making a return trip to Fort Worth, Wiley McCarty, the bantamweigh slugger from Littlefield, being the only 1943 champion to repeat this year and return for crack at the state title. But along with him will be some of the classiest boxers ever to represent the area in the colorful Fort Worth event, including two former champions in the SPAAF group who are favored to go along way in the state fistivities.

In their opening bouts Thursday night, some of the Lubbock champions will be facing soldier competition from other parts of the state. With four SPAAF men on the team, the Lubbock group will boast one of the stronger soldier entries in the tournament.

First Pairings

Those making the Fort Worth trip and their pairings for Thursday Night as announced by state officials include Jerry Edwards of Tahoka, flyweight champ, who will battle the Camp Fannin champion, Wiley McCarty of Littlefield, who won the bantamweight title for the second straight season, meeting the winner from the Childress district; Wayne Miller of Tahoka, featherweight champion, who will meet the Beaumont titlist, Staff Sgt. Joe Dugan of Bristol, Penn., and SPAAF, lightweight champion, who will meet the Amarillo district champion, Pfc. Ardus Ward of Malta, Idaho, and SPAAF, welterweight champion who will fight the Abilene titlist, Sgt. Ernie McGarrity of Dyersburg, Tenn., middleweight champ who will meet the El Paso district winner, Joey Music of Lubbock, light heavyweight champion who will meet the San Antonio champion, and Sgt. Clyde Jones of Perryton, and SPAAF, heavyweight champion who will battle the Odessa titlist.

Texas League Told Ft. Worth Is Out

FORT WORTH, Feb. 16 (AP) — If the Texas League is reactivated this year, it will be without a club from Fort Worth.

League officials have scheduled a meeting for Feb. 27 to study prospects for reopening this season.

But in advance of this meeting, President Stanley A. Thompson of the Fort Worth club said today the Cats wouldn't play ball in '44.

"I have talked the matter over with Tom (Brown) and Charley (Lupton) and neither of them want to put any money into it at this time," Thompson said. Brown and Lupton are two principal stockholders of the club.

Rogers Hornsby will not be retained as general manager. Hornsby said today that he wired acceptance of an offer to manage the Vera Cruze, Mexico, club and would probably arrive in Mexico City Sunday to sign a contract.

Raiders Finish Fast To Nose Out LAAF

Grove Scores 25 To Lead Techsans

Coach Polk Robison's Texas Tech Red Raiders refused to admit defeat and came from behind twice last night at the Tech gym to beat the Lubbock Army Air Field Fliers, 58 to 56, in a thrilling finish that brought the collegians their second straight win over the soldiers.

It was big Don Grove, rangy Tech center that set the pace for the winners, and was the star of that wild last half rally that brought Tech victory, the second in a row over the Fliers.

Grove poured 25 points through the meshes in the ball game while his running mate, Nolan Weeks, helped him along by adding 13 more to the Tech total while Hubert Bechtol poured five field goals into the hoop for 10 points. These three members of the Red Raiders accounted for 48 of the Tech points in the ball game.

Reese Gets Hot

Leon Reece, sharp shooting Army forward, proved to be a thorn in the sides of the Red Raiders, and he trailed Grove for scoring honors by pouring eight field goals and three free pitches through the hoops for 19 points Bruce Prior trailed him in the scoring department with 13 points to tie with Weeks for third honors.

Hubert Bechtol sank the first field goal for an early Tech lead, but it was a short lived one. The Army five came back and roared out front to a long 18 to 5 lead over the youthful collegians.

The Red Raiders gave the first hint of what was to come as they rallied, and pulled up to 18 to 11 before the soldiers scored again on a free pitch. Grove then broke into the clear to sink a crip shot, then shot froom well out on the floor for another to push the score to 19 to 15. Greiser then looped one, then Bechtol matched it. The Army then added a free throw, then Reese lofted one from the corner to start the soldiers to rolling again, and LAAF pulled away then to a 30 to 23 lead at the halftime intermission.

Coach Polk Robison's kids came back strong in the last half, and with Grove, Weeks and Kerr hitting the baskets, pulled up and cut the soldier lead to 39 to 36.

Cooper Starts Rally

The two teams roared up and down the court, both shooting freely and with the Army leading 45 to 40, the Red Raiders started another rally with Delbert Cooper setting the spark off with a couple of crip shots to pull within one point and set the stage for Weeks to arch one through the hoop for the first Tech lead since the early minutes, 46 to 45.

Volz regained the lead for the soldiers with a long one, then the Army seemed to have the situation in hand and pulled away to a 54 to 49 lead.

But again the Red Raiders went wild, and Weeks fired a couple into the meshes in fast order to pull within one point, then Grove again sent the Red Raiders into the lead with a field goal to make the score 55 to 54.

Bechtol added another two pointer to ice away the ball game, but Reese hit another pair of free throws to move within one point, then Grove sank a free throw to end the scoring.

Only two defending champions are back. They are Pfc. Tom Attra of Brooks Field and San Antonio, light heavyweight, and Sgt. Manny Ortega, featherweight from Biggs Field and El Paso.

MAY PLAY RYDER CUP

DETROIT, Feb. 16 (AP) — The 1944 version of the war-orphaned Ryder Cup golf matches probably will send Craig Wood's cup squad against an All-Star challenge team selected from the nation's armed forces, it was made known today. Walter Hagen may captain the challengers.

Childress Five To Play SPAAF

Texas' Top Service Team Here Tonight

The South Plains Army Air field's Winged Commandos will get the season's greatest test tonight at 8 o'clock when they defend the home court against the invasion of the Childress Army Air field five. The Childress club is rated as the top service team in Texas, and ranked on a par with the Rice Owls in the Dunkel rating.

SPAAF is not rated in the Converse rankings because information on the team was not sent in time to be compiled.

Childress began playing a difficult and jam-picked schedule as soon as the cage season opened last winter while SPAAF was still having its schedule difficulties. The cagers from Childress have defeated the University of Texas and the University of Oklahoma as well as both Sheppard Field teams and numerous other college and service teams.

The Childress Bombardiers are ranked behind Norfolk university, the University of Kentucky, Pensacola Naval Air Station, Norfolk Naval Station and Rice Institute in the Southern rankings.

SPAAF meanwhile will be pepped up to knock off their eleventh win of the season, no matter what the record of the opponent is. SPAAF has lost two out of twelve games this year, rolling up 631 points against the opposition for an average of better than 52 points a game.

Leason "Stormy" McCloud has scored 218 points in twelve games for an average of 18 points a game, and is the SPAAF high-scorer, followed by Long John Kline with 135 points.

McCloud, former All-American forward at the University of Colorado, has averaged 23 points a game for the last five games.

Although the Childress record is impressive, the SPAAF lads say that tough competition is just what they've been crying for ever since the season opened and are confident they can wallop the Bombardiers, especially if McCloud, Kline, Edwards, Conley, Kalfain and the rest of the boys have one of their hot nights.

SPAAF will take on Texas Tech in the SPAAF Rec Hall at 8 o'clock Thursday night, when the Commandos will be gunning for their sixth straight Lubbock City League victory. If the Commandos defeat Tech for the second time Thursday night, they will have a clean sweep of the league.

SPAAF is looking forward to the tourney to be conducted at the Tech gym between Tech, SPAAF, LAAF, and the Engineers Feb. 25, 26 and 28, and, in addition, other games are being sought to round out the season in style, it was announced at the field.

Lou Gehrig Winner In Popularity Poll

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (AP) —The late Lou Gehrig, the immortal iron-horse of baseball, was an easy winner in the war bond sports committee's popularity poll that ended at midnight.

The final tabulation, subject to revision by last minute votes, gives Gehrig 14,825 votes. Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, was second, with Ward Cuff, of the football Giants third, Babe Ruth fourth and Christy Mathewson fifth.

BASEBALL FIGURES

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (AP)—There are 196 American league baseball players in military service but the eight clubs have a total of 260 players on their rosters for the 1944 season.

The league's annual Red Book today disclosed the number now available, but there might be some cut off by draft into service before the season opener April 21.

Chicago and Washington have the most players, each 39.

Four hundred and ninety pounds of tin are needed for the electrical system of a ship.

Childress Wins In 2-AA Playoff Opener

GRAHAM, Feb. 16—The Childress Bobcats stormed to a 38 to 31 victory over the Graham Steers here last night in the opening game of the playoff for the cage title in District 2-AA. The winner will meet the Lubbock-Amarillo winner in the bi-district games next week.

The Graham Steers barely fell short of the leading Bobcats in the final period, but in spite of the sensational rally were unable to overcome the big margin the Cats had stacked up earlier in the game.

The Steers held the score close in spite of the fact Red Orr star center played throughout the game with an injured knee. Orr, who usually leads in scoring stacked up only four points during the contest.

Risenhoover and H. Kitchens led Childress with 14 to 12 points. Sims with 13 points and Ward with 7 points led for the Steers.

Dazzy Vance Thinks Kids Can Fill Gaps

HOMOSASSA SPRINGS, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—If the baseball player shortage gets any worse, the big leagues may have to start grabbing 15 and 16-year-old hopefuls from the sandlots, says Arthur C. "Dazzy" Vance, one-time speed ball king of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The old Dazzler isn't worried about the brand of ball they'll play if it gets down to them.

Dazzy, who will be 51 years old March 4, has been out of the game a long time and hasn't any starry-eyed hopes that the oldsters can pitch in and help out during the emergency.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

GOOD NEIGHBORS

Dear Plainsman: Don't you get a bit tired of the bickering between states? I do. Is it necessary? Psychologists tell us that "bragging is a defense mechanism." Is it possible then that these persons who brag have discovered virtues in another state which their home state does not claim, and therefore find it necessary to verbally defend it? It would seem that way.

That bit of reasoning though is, in itself, ridiculous. For if all states were exactly alike, why would our pioneer ancestors have bothered to leave the East Coast? No, they were looking for a place in which to live, to be free and pursue happiness. Their requirements for that location were as diversified as is our country itself.

You wrote recently in your column that "perhaps" Texans brag too much. Yes, I think they do, but they are not alone. We, as a nation have been criticized again and again by the Europeans as "intolerable braggarts." Why can't we let others know of our civic state and national, pride by our commendable ways and actions?

I think it is too bad that persons coming into a state for the first time so often make their first personal contacts with the poorest examples of that state. First impressions are so important. That was my unfortunate experience when I came to Texas two years ago. And I must admit, it took a full year for me to feel at all kindly toward Texas and Texans. I feel very differently now and am proud to call them friends and neighbors.

That brings me to a question I'd really like to leave with you. Our country is spending a great deal of time and money on our "Good Neighbor Policy." How can we hope to impress our foreign friends with that policy if we do not practice it within our borders? It seems to me that neighborliness, like charity, should begin at home.

Sincerely,
Mrs. M.,
Lubbock.

LOCAL NEWS DEPT.—In New York, one of the stunts to increase the purchase of War Bonds is a popularity contest with sports celebrities as candidates. A citizen buys so many dollars worth of bonds, is permitted to cast so many votes—the number being in ratio to the amount of his purchase. Ranking in fifth place in the contest is Lt. Don Budge, now of Lubbock and the Tech Pre-Flight detachment, topped, in order, by Lou Gehrig, the late Yankee baseball star; Ward Cuff, professional footballer; Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants, and Babe Ruth, the old home run king. Budge, probably the world's best net player and holder of the title of World Tennis Singles champion, tops 45 others in the contest, including such present and erstwhile luminaries as Christy Mathewson, Jim Thorpe, Jim Braddock, Joe Louis, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Ty Cobb, Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio and Sammy Baugh.

One of our neighbors, M. C. Roberts, of Texico, N. M.—just barely over the state line between Lubbock and Clovis—is one of the leaders of a new political organization. "The American Democratic party"—an organization of "old line Democrats" who oppose the New Deal and left-wing factions which have captured the party's name. Along with former Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, and others, Mr. Roberts attended a recent Chicago meeting of the party's national committee, of which he is a member. Mr. Roberts, in the seed business in Texico, has a son, Lt. W. R. Roberts, a U. S. Army Air corps pilot, who formerly went to Texas Tech and now is a prisoner of the Germans.

Among the Pre-Fighters now at Texas Tech is a former trombonist in "big name" dance bands. He is Robert D. Roper, about 22, of Halstead, Kans. In latter 1942 and early 1943, he played with Del Courtney; from March, 1943, until donning a uniform, he tootled with George Olsen.

The continued rapid advance of the Russian armies is all the more amazing when it is taken into consideration that at almost every other jump they stumble over an important railroad junction!

SINCE one after another of the New Deal stalking horses are being pushed in front of microphones to plug for a law which would give the government control over the every-day lives of all our citizens—the so-called "National Labor law"—perhaps it wouldn't be out of line to hear what some of the men on the fighting fronts think of the idea.

Recently we received an unsolicited letter from Jimmy Kennedy, of Lubbock, now a master sergeant in the Army overseas. If Sergeant Kennedy is right, the fighting men do not take kindly to the suggestion that their mothers, dads, sisters and wives be turned over, as industrial serfs, to the whims of the politicians.

Reports Sergeant Kennedy, in part:

"The majority of the men in my unit are definitely against the proposed law . . . We feel that if this bill becomes law, one of the things we are fighting for (personal freedom) will be lost . . . Better than 90 per cent of the men I've heard discuss it (the proposal) are against it."

Sergeant Kennedy was prompted to poll his mates on the subject, and to write the letter to us, because recent Army newspapers have carried articles quoting administration spokesmen as claiming the fighting men approve of the universal labor draft.

Before he left Lubbock about two years ago, and entered the Army as a volunteer, Sergeant Kennedy was well known among young civic workers. He was employed here by Levine's.

J. D. McPHAUL, former sales manager for Lubbock Auto company and now owner and manager of his own agency at Lamesa, rightly takes us to task for forgetting to include his former boss, Harry Morris, in our list of Lubbock men who have stayed at the same work, with the same firm over the past 20 consecutive years here.

To The Plainsman, scallions for overlooking hardworking, affable Mr. Morris, to J. D. McPhaul, an orchid for jogging our memory!

Travis is very much upset, since his brother admonished him to take good care of "Rosie," and have her on hand when the brother returns home.

Anyone who has seen a dog answering to "Rosie's" description should call Travis at Telephone Number 2-2815. The dog was wearing a leather harness, but no tags, when Travis last saw her.

HOW many automobiles—and some of 'em were darn good ones, too—can you remember among those which once were well known, but which eventually passed from the American scene?

Do you remember the Brush? The Pierce, later the Pierce-Arrow? The Pope, Knox, Locomobile, Palmer-Singer, Franklin, Croxton-Keeton, Hupmobile, Pierce-Racine, Parry, Jackson, Clark, Flanders, Chalmers, Abbott, Rambler, Owen, Havers, Haynes, Overland, White, Winton, Mormon and Lozier?

It is being bandied about that the post-war era will see one—if not several—small, cheap cars which will put every U. S. family on rubber. But if any of them are to be the cheapest in American history, they'll have to get under $485. That's what the Brush "Everyman's Car" cost in 1911.

Maybe the post-war era will bring out some new high-priced jobs, too. But it'll have to go some to beat the $5,000 that the George N. Pierce Co. charged for its 1906 product. The Pierce company's "Great Arrow Touring car" carried seven passengers and had "a new 4-cylinder 40-45 horsepower motor" in it, too, b'gosh!

THE man who for 21 years had enjoyed the distinction of being Uncle Sam's oldest pensioner departed this life the other day, just on the verge of reaching 123. He was Mark Thrash, a negro and former slave, who worked for the Chickamauga National park, at Chattanooga, Tenn., between the years of 1894 and 1922, since which he has been in retirement.

That old Mark earned his pension, we have no doubt. That he deserved one, we do not doubt, either.

But old Mark worked for Uncle Sam before that gentleman found it politically expendient to hire about one out of each 10 of his adult nieces and nephews, as is the case today. With nothing but the law of average in mind, and with old Mark as a basis for figuring, the year 2,000 should find quite a few of today's federal employes retired on pensions; there may even be a few—as hardy as old Mark—who'll still be getting their checks in 2025!

Blood Runs Cold

BY ANN DEMAREST

(Copyright, 1944, By The Associated Press).

YESTERDAY: Norton tries going down the drain pipe and it crashes to the ground. Miss Wells asks permission to go to the movies, but is trailed to the apartment of a man named Perry.

Chapter 16

Charles Whitefield

Fortunately for me someone knocked at the door. The Sergeant crossed the room and admitted a man I hadn't seen before.

As he came in he said gravely, "Mr. Kimball tells me I'm wanted by the police."

"What's your name?" The Sergeant regarded him coldly.

The man drew off his heavy gloves and rubbed his hands together briskly. "It's damn cold out," he said easily. Then, looking at the Seargeant, he said, "The name is Charles Whitefield. I live in the third floor front apartment." There was a faint smile at the corners of his mouth. "I'm an artist, thirty-three years old and," he added piously, "I'm not married, thank Heaven."

His smile was obvious now and his tone held too much levity for the Sergeant to digest in comfort. I was finding Mr. Whitefield interesting. He was a short, thin fellow in a blue chinchilla overcoat that covered him from neck to heels. Except for the coat, there wasn't anything to distinguish him from a hundred other men.

"What do you know about this?" the Sergeant asked.

Charles Whitefield waved a newspaper under the Sergeant's nose and said, "Only the little that the papers had to offer, but enough to learn that you must be the Sergeant Long of the Homicide Squad."

He bowed politely, but the Sergeant, seeing the twinkle in his eye, flushed. Personally I found the man more refreshing than the other inmates, but the Sergeant looked at him with an accusing eye.

"Where were you last night?" he asked.

And then I wondered if I were mistaken in thinking that behind Mr. Whitefield's nonchalant look there was a wariness. But he answered without hesitation, "In my apartment."

"All evening?"

"Right. I got in about seven and didn't stir out again until this morning." He bent down to brush the snow from his shoes.

"Did you hear anything unusual during the evening, or particularly between eleven and one?"

The man seemed suddenly bored with the questioning. "No," he said and lighted a cigarette, looking at Dirck and me with mild interest.

The Sergeant shot out the next question. "Who was with you?"

If the artist hesitated, it was only for an instant. "A girl."

"Who?"

He smiled. "I prefer not to say. A nice girl, though. She didn't murder anyone."

"I'm the one to decide that."

By this time I had scant sympathy for the Sergeant. He got very little out of people because he made them angry right away. Mr. Whitefield faced him now with a stubborn look, apparently determined to say nothing.

With an irritated gesture Sergeant Long walked to the window, gnawing on his cigar. Dirck fumbled in his pockets for his cigarettes, lighted one and then said in a casual voice: "I can understand how you feel about giving the lady's name, but since she obviously had nothing to do with the murder, you would be doing no harm in telling it. Besides, we've accounted fairly well for the comings and goings of everyone in the house and it might be some help to the Sergeant." He leaned forward earnestly. "You see, she might have seen someone and we could do a little verifying of time."

Whistling In The Dark?

The Sergeant turned away from the window. "What time did she leave your apartment?"

The artist answered him sullenly. "I really forget, possibly a little after midnight."

"It must have been later than that," Dirck said quietly. "Her room-mate got home at twenty past twelve and she hadn't come in yet."

Charles Whitefield's jaw tensed and he looked at Dirck swiftly. For a minute I didn't quite grasp what he meant, and I think the Sergeant was dumbfounded, too. Then it dawned on me that Adrianne Wells had been up in his apartment. I wondered how Dirck knew about it, or whether he was whistling in the dark.

"I guess she did leave a little later," Whitefield admitted. "You see, I was giving her a drawing lesson and the time passed very quickly."

"Have you been seeing much of Miss Wells?" the Sergeant inquired.

"Oh, a couple of evenings a week," he said carelessly.

"And did you know Joan Kent?"

He shook his head. "Only by sight."

"And you have no information you can give me about last night?"

The man shook his head, and the Sergeant seemed to lose interest. He told him he could go, but not to leave the house without permission.

After Mr. Whitefield left the Sergeant turned on Dirck furiously. "You didn't tell me she was up there."

"I didn't know for sure," Dirck replied. "It was just a hunch."

"Wait until I get hold of that young lady," the Sergeant said with a grim smile. "Out dancing, was she?"

Then I remembered the person who was crouching on the stairway.

"Who could that have been on the stairs last night?" I asked them. "Mrs. Evans was out until midnight. The MacDonald boy was on Long Island, and Mr. Whitefield is the only other person on the third floor."

The Sergeant favored me with a kindly look. "We'll turn you into an investigator yet. If Adrianne Wells was so busy taking a drawing lesson, she wouldn't have been wandering around, so who was it?"

He picked up his hat. "I'm going up to see Whitefield again. He must be deaf if he didn't hear all that commotion."

And then Dirck and I went back to my apartment.

"Is candlelight kinder to your complexion," he asked as he slumped into a chair by the fireplace, "or do you always sit around in the dark?"

I put another log on the fire and paid no attention to him. He lighted a cigarette and smoked for awhile. "I wish we could get hold of some of these missing men," he said after a couple of minutes.

'A Faint Idea'

"Do you suppose all of the missing men did it?"

"Probably none of them. It's my guess," he said lazily, "that it was Ishi, the Jap, who's been upstate for a week. He did it to get her diamonds."

I looked up. "Did she have diamonds?"

"No, but it's as good a theory as the Sergeant has to offer."

I leaned back in the chair again. If Dirck knew anything he wasn't giving it away. I tried to figure out a logical reason for murder. Fragments of the interviews would creep into my mind. Adrianne Wells know something and Mary Ann was too composed when the Sergeant asked her about Joan's half- or step-brother, or whatever it was. I never could keep them straight. For a moment or two I'd think I had an inkling and then the whole thing would tangle up again. I wondered mostly about Richard MacDonald and yet I was pretty sure he was honestly upset about his sister.

After five minutes of heavy thinking I couldn't restrain my curiosity, so I said, "Have you any idea who's responsible for all this?"

He smiled slightly. "I have a faint idea, Miss Howarth, but how I can ever prove it it is more than I know. That man Lathrop bothers me. From what I know of him

THE "OKLAHOMA" SAILS AGAIN!

Probably most of those who say pictures of what was left of the Battleship Oklahoma after the Japs had finished at Pearl Harbor wondered how that upside-down hulk ever could be useful for anything except scrap. Certainly it was a dead loss so far as immediate values were concerned.

But now has come the good news that, although the Oklahoma definitely was down, it was not out. This news was contained in the terse Navy department announcement the other day that the 29,000-ton "battlewagon" is "afloat." Clearly, if the Oklahoma is not ready for action already, it won't be long now.

It is reported further that the battleship has been modernized, which means that it probably would be a match—if not more than a match—for any except the Jap sea giants of most recent construction.

True, the Oklahoma has been on the sidelines for something like 26 months. The Navy does not reveal—for reasons that are readily understandable — whether the re-conditioning job has been finished as yet.

But the fact is evident that, within the space of two years or a little longer, the fleet has ben or will be strengthened by the addition of a battleship which would have required four yearrs or longer to build.

It is a job finished in time to be of value in this war—in time to give the Oklahoma an opportunity for personal vengeance for the injuries suffered.

(Copyright, 1943, For The Journal)

THE Squelch Proper: A gay place emcee accidentally dropped a glass of scotch into the lap of a ringsiding lady.

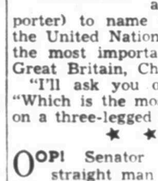

The clown kept making quips about it, none of them amusing to her. And he wouldn't stop.

"I hope you're not annoyed!" he persisted.

"Go on with your act," she said. "I've housebroken pups before!"

Ain't It So? A New Yorker was telling Noel Coward that the awful thing about the war was that too many Southern soldiers in Northern camps were marrying New York gals.

WINCHELL

"Awful?" said Noel. "It should improve New York women's manners."

$64 Question: The President, they say, was asked (by a reporter) to name the member of the United Nations he considered the most important ally. "Is it Great Britain, China or Russia?"

"I'll ask you one," FDR said. "Which is the most important leg on a three-legged stool?"

OOP! Senator Taft played straight man for the delightful snappers of Senator Green, coauthor of a bill to permit soldiers to vote.

Said Taft: "We are being asked to give ballots to persons merely by writing Democrat or Republican, without knowing who the candidate is—when he might be a thief or a jailbird!"

"Yes," said Mr. Green, "he might even be in the Senate!"

Boomerang: Sally Bland is a dancer appearing at a night spot near the place starring the famed Sally Rand. A newspaper erroneously spelled Miss Bland's name Rand. The fan dancer sizzled and threatened doing something about it.

The payoff is a howl. Sally Bland got so irked she wanted to sue the newspaper — claiming it hurt her reputation!

AND It Did: Carl Brisson recalls when John Barrymore, in his later years, was cautioned by a pal: "You should take better care of your reputation."

"On the contrary," said the star, "I've always seen to it that it took care of me!"

Of All Things: Sherman Billingsley, the Stork club owner, has mike-fright. Last year, frixample, he agreed to appear on "Duffy's Tavern," but at the last moment ran out, scared stiff. Ed Gardner went dizzy seeking a substitute, and was very irked with Mr. B., who said he'd rather pay plenty than appear on the radio.

The other day Paramount Pictures, which paid him $100,000 (just to use the two words "Stork club" for a film title), reminded Billingsley that the fee also meant that he agreed not to permit the use of the name Stork club on the radio—nor must Billingsley make any radio talks for the next seven years. Haw!

HAW: The managing editor of a New York newspaper was informed that a columnist's stint hadn't arrived — and press time was an hour away. The editor phoned the colyumist at home and asked him to rush the carbon. The clunk said he made none.

The editor instructed a staffer to dig up one of his old colyums from a year or so back. "Read it and make sure," he added, "that no dead people are in it."

The paper ran the colyum — and nobody noted the difference!

Bore-glar Alarm: "Dear Walter," passionately writes H. K., "You have more fun. An echo complains you used an old gag he used. He made the complaint in a column, the theme of which he brazenly swiped from you!"

LOVE Letter Dep't: "Kankakee: Uncle Sam does have a second name. It's Wilson. — Dr. E. G. Wilson" . . . B. T. Molenda wires from Detroit: "Surprised to hear you say Uncle Sam has no last name. U.S.A.—his initials—stand for Uncle Sam American."

I Don't Believe It: Bob Christenberry says the reason they make a sailor's pants so tight is so he can't bend over to shoot craps.

QUOTATION Marksmanship: Fannie Hurst: Children jingling with laughter as if they had swallowed sleighbells . . . New York Irishman Bosses Infantry Outfit

By ERNIE PYLE
Journal War Correspondent

IN ITALY, Feb. 16. (By Wireless) —For several days I've been living with an infantry company of the 34th Division. The 34th is the oldest division on this side of the Atlantic. It has been away from home two full years.

Two years is a long time overseas, even if you do nothing but travel around and work hard. But when in addition you fill two years with campaign after bitter campaign, a division of men becomes eventually wise and worn and old, like a much-read book or a cottage that wears its aging stone stoutly, ignoring the patchwork of new concrete that holds it together.

ERNIE PYLE

Today out of any front-line rifle company of around 200 men in the 34th, you find usually fewer than a dozen men who came overseas with the division originally. In one battalion not a single one of the original officers is left.

That doesn't mean they've all been killed, but it does mean that through casualties of all sorts, plus sickness and transfer and some small rotation back to the States, a division has almost a complete turnover in two years of fighting. Only its number remains the same. But even a number can come to have character and life, to those who are intimate with its heritage. I was with the 34th as long ago as June of 1942, in Ireland, and I have a feeling about it.

New Yorker In Charge

I came to the regimental command post in a jeep after dark one night.

Regimental handed me down to the company I was to stay with. They were bivouacked for the moment in an olive grove, with their company command post in a stone Italian farmhouse — the first time their CP had been inside walls since they hit Italy five months ago.

The company commander is Lt. John J. Sheehy, of New York City. The division was originally all Iowa and Minnesota men, but now you'll find men from everywhere. The Iowans are the veterans, however, and they still stand out.

JACK SHEEHY is tall and thin, and quite young, and of course he's Irish. In the regiment he is considered pretty remarkable. Any time you mention him among higher officers, they nod and say, "Yes, Sheehy is a case."

I don't know exactly what causes this, but I gather from inuendo that he is addicted to using his noggin in spectacular ways in the pinches, and that he fears neither German soldiers nor American brass hats. He is an extremely likable and respected company commander.

Lieutenant Sheehy used to be a clerk for American Airlines in New York. He says that after the war he's going into salesmanship of some kind, because he figures his gift of gab will carry him through—which surprised me, because during all the time I was with him he was far from garrulous, but actually very kind and reserved.

Proud Of His Boys

I've never seen a man prouder of his company than Lieutenant Sheehy, and the men in it are proud, too. I've been around war long enough to know that nine-tenths of morale is pride in your outfit and confidence in your leaders and fellow fighters.

A lot of people have morale confused with the desire to fight. I don't know of one soldier out of ten thousand who wants to fight. They certainly don't in my company. The old-timers are sick to death of battle, and the new replacements are scared to death of it. And yet the company goes on into battle, and it is a proud company.

ONE night I went into a little Italian town with some pilots to see the movie, "This Is the Army." The Air Forces had taken over a local theater, and as long as you were in uniform all you had to do was to walk in and sit down. About a third of the audience were pilots and the rest mechanics. I couldn't help but be interested in their reaction to the picture. On the whole they applauded, but every time the action got a little gooey or mushily patriotic, you could hear a combination boo and groan go through the audience. Soldiers at the front can't stomach flag-waving from back home.

Suggestion Is Made

I've just had a letter from a couple of lieutenants in the Army postal service enclosing their plan for saving soldiers a lot of letter writing.

Their plan is based on the theory that the soldier could write just one V-letter and have it mailed to eight or 10 different people back home. That would be accomplished by writing extra addresses on a special pad; then in the laboratory the letter could be photographed over and over, slipping on a new address each time.

It's a novel idea, but I've inquired around among soldiers about it and I've yet to find one who wants to write the same thing to a lot of people.

Slaughter Pipeline To Operate April 1

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—Lack of demand and not lack of crude oil is the only thing to keep the Stanolind company's new Slaughter field to Drumright, Okla., pipe line from beginning capacity operation, Maston Nixon of Corpus Christi said today in a letter to Railroad Commission Chairman Beauford Jester.

Nixon, chairman of an industry-petroleum administration for war sub-committee, said Stanolind planned to begin operating the line by April 1.

He said Stanolind had informed him it has three 85,000-barrel tanks full of oil in the West Texas field, and that three other tanks will be finished and full by April 1. The 475,000 barrels required to fill the line will be available, Nixon said, and the company is running about 7,000 barrels of oil daily into storage for that purpose.

Campbell Is Bank District Chairman

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 16 (AP) — New chairman of the second district of the Texas Bankers association is Collin D. Campbell, president of the Nixon State bank. He was elected at a banquet here last night and San Antonio was chosen as the location for the 1945 meeting.

Addressing the gathering, J. O Gillham, president of the Texas Bankers association and executive vice president of the Brownfield State bank, said he favored a service charge be adopted by banks and recommended that bankers should not have the total responsibility of supporting operations.

Political Shots Are Exchanged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — The political duck hunting season was wide open today as Republicans volleyed replies to a double-barreled attack by Senator Pepper (D-Fla) on two potential GOP presidential nominees — Governors Thomas E. Dewey of New York and John W. Bricker of Ohio.

Pepper declaimed in the Senate yesterday that the governors are "retreating, shifting, vacillating, word-mouthing" candidates whose foreign policy views are vague, and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) promptly retorted that the "New Deal" must be alarmed at the strength displayed by the Republicans.

Knock Called Boost

"This is a case where a knock is a boost," said Taft, who is supporting Bricker for the nomination. Off the floor, Taft added: "The fact that Pepper, who voices the extreme New Deal viewpoint, is attempting to interfere in the Republican choice of a candidate by attacking Governor Bricker indicates to me the New Dealers are afraid of the governor's strength if he is nominated."

Pepper told his colleagues in a general indictment of Republican foreign policy views since 1920 that Wendell L. Willkie, the 1940 presidential nominee who is running again, "probably had made himself unacceptable to the 'old guard,' which still is—as it always has been—the Republican party, because he is known to have courageous convictions about international collaboration after the war.

Planning Expert To Talk To Kiwanians

O. H. Koch, Dallas city planning engineer, will speak at the weekly Kiwanis club luncheon in Lubbock hotel Thursday noon if his train arrives in time, according to information given this morning by L. Wesley Read, chairman of the Lubbock city planning commission.

Koch is the author of a master plan for the future development of Lubbock which has been adopted in principle by the city commission. He has accepted an invitation to be here Thursday and Friday for a series of talks and conferences in connection with the plan.

The engineer has advised, Read said, that he will be aboard the Santa Fe train due in Lubbock at 8:50 a. m. However, under war conditions, the train frequently runs late.

The principal talks to be delivered by Koch will be at a dinner attended by members of numerous official groups in Hilton hotel Thursday night at 7 o'clock and a general mass meeting to which everyone is invited in the American Legion home, 910 Texas avenue, Friday night at 8.

Annual Subscription List Closes Feb. 25

The subscription campaign for 1944 Westerner World, school annual, will close Feb. 25, Mrs. Dick Cozby, publications director at Lubbock High school, warned today.

Mrs. Cozby urged that parents and relatives wishing to buy an annual must report to the principal's office in the high school and pay the down payment of $2.50 before Feb. 25 as no subscriptions will be taken after that and no extra annuals will be available in May when the shipment arrives. When annuals are delivered soon after May 1 subscribers are to pay another $1 due on the books. The same regulations are applied to students planning to buy annuals.

Subscribers are urged to apply for the books this week and during the early part of next week.

Confusion On Ration Tokens Is Explained

There has been quite a bit of confusion as to whether ration tokens will be given as change for brown and green food ration stamps valid after Feb. 27, according to Arthur V. Bullock, Lubbock district information executive of the Office of Price administration.

Bullock said the answer to this is, that tokens will be given as change for brown and green stamps valid after Feb. 27, but the browns and greens will have a point value only as shown on the face of the stamps, while reds and blues will be worth ten points each.

Bond Sales In City Continue To Mount

Tuesday added $52,712 in total sales and $14,175 in Series E sales to Lubbock county's quota-smashing figures in the Fourth War Loan drive, according to reports at the close of business from the three local banks, First Federal Savings and Loan association and the postoffice.

Totals were boosted to $4,139,483.47, or $542,483.47 above $3,597,000 quota, for all bonds, and to $1,260,421.50, or 65,421.50 above $1,195,000 quota, for Series E issues.

Series E, F and G bonds sold during the remainder of February will be added to quota figures, drive officials have been advised.

Still not included in county totals are the sales at Lubbock and South Plains Army fields. These sales, it was explained, will be credited to proper quotas—some in Lubbock and others elsewhere—through Washington.

The new total at SPAAF Tuesday afternoon was reported to be $217,000, as compared with a quota of $100,000 set by the post for itself. It was said, however, that the sales have been reported in maturity values. Quotas are based on present values. The figures also include salary deduction purchases which may not be applied on drive quotas, it was announced.

Meanwhile, bank officials reported that information needed to complete the processing of a few bonds bought during the drive is not complete. Some of the women purchasers did not indicate on their applications whether they are married or unmarried. It also is desirable, as an added protection to the buyer, although it no longer is required, that the full given names—not merely the initials—of the purchaser be recorded upon the bonds.

State Schools Could Be Operated Cheaper

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP) — State supported colleges may operate for the current biennium ending Aug. 31, 1945, at a cost of $5,000,000 less than expenditures authorized by the legislature.

Penrose Metcalfe of San Angelo, chairman of a Senate investigating committee, estimated this reduction under authorized expenditures might devolop if other colleges realize savings in ratio with those already reported by Texas A. & M. college.

Concluding a study of financial and administrative affairs at A. & M. yesterday, Metcalfe learned that that institution has spent $265,000 less from last Sept. 1 to Feb. 1 than was authorized for teachers salaries.

Americans Will Have To Do More Walking

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 16 (AP)—Americans are going to do a lot more walking and a lot less riding in 1944, Charles F. Phillips, national head of the OPA's mileage rationing program, said today.

Increased demands by the military forces for both tires and gasoline soon will be felt more keenly in all parts of the nation, he said in an interview.

American rubber plants are now turning out approximately 1,000,000 new passenger car tires a month, of which about 750,000 are being allocated for essential civilian needs, the OPA official said.

"However, even with the mileage restrictions in force now, we could use 1,400,000 tires a month for essential needs."

Oil Aid From Britain Urged

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16—The Senate Truman committee asserted today that because the United States thus far has "borne the brunt of oiling this war," it would seem fair to ask Great Britain to turn over "a compensating volume of proven reserves outside this country."

On the basis of present depletion, the committee said, the known oil reserves of the United States amount to only a 14-year supply. It warned that technological advances may increase the already tremendous rate of consumption in the future.

Declaring that the acquisition of foreign oil rights is essential to national defense and industrial development in the future, the special war investigating committee made petroleum the first subject of its annual report. Other war problems will be dealt with separately in subsequent reports.

U. S. Has Borne Brunt

"The United States in particular, and the western hemisphere as a whole, has borne the brunt of oiling this war," the committee reported, "simply because we had developed and exploited our domestic petroleum reserves to a greater extent than any other nation."

"For that reason," it continued, "it would seem fair to ask our allies, particularly Great Britain, to recompense the United States for this excessive depletion by transfer to us of a compensating volume of proven reserves outside this country."

The committee listed four possible approaches to acquisition of foreign oil rights but conceded there may be others. It is up to Congress to decide which course should be followed, the committee said.

Free Enterprise Urged

The committee's suggestions were:

1. "The government may continue the policy which has prevailed for at least two decades of leaving private American companies free to take whatever action they may determine upon with government assistance limited to that available through normal diplomatic channels. With other countries conscious of the critical importance of petroleum to their national security, this course would be apt to result in difficulty, for the private American oil companies concerned."

2. "The second possible approach would be by full diplomatic backing for American enterprise in exploring and developing foreign petroleum reserves . . . This would mean the same sort of vigorous support that is accorded by certain other governments to their nationals abroad in cases where their national interest, as distinct from the private interests of citizens, is vitally involved."

Government Ownership Hit

3. "The government to participate in ownership of concessions . . . it might discourage private enterprise, and there are inherent difficulties in placing the government in partnership with large private financial interests."

4. "The government to take over sole ownership of certain foreign oil reserves. The latter possibility can be immediately ruled out. Complete government ownership of foreign oil concessions would presuppose a radical change in our economic system."

Boy Faints When He Wins Real Army Jeep

HOUSTON, Feb. 16 (U.P.)—Probably the happiest lad in the nation today was 16-year-old Albert Odom. He was the owner of a regular Army jeep.

Albert won the jeep last night at a 4th War Loan celebration by guessing that pennies, nickels and dimes in a pickle jar amounted to $59.87—just two cents more than the judges found when they counted the coins.

He bounded onto the stage to give the judges his ticket when the number was called, then fainted. The judges helped him from the stage as he confided to reporters that his first ambition was to "take a trip to Galveston" in the jeep.

Victory Garden Week Set Feb. 27-March 4

AUSTIN, Feb. 16 (AP) — Gov Coke R. Stevenson called on local defense co-ordinators to get behind a campaign which has as its goal one million 1944 victory gardens in Texas.

In a proclamation setting aside Feb. 27-March 4 as Victory Garden week, the governor noted that there will likely be 20 per cent less canned goods available to housewives during the year.

It was estimated that there were 880,000 victory gardens in the state in 1943. The average produced 800 pounds of food despite severe drouth in some regions.

High Frequency Radio Range Finders To Be Put On Planes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (AP) — Military and civilian planes are being equipped with new high frequency radio range receivers in preparation for a changeover to improved sending equipment on the nation's airways.

This was learned today along with disclosure that the Civil Aeronautics administration (CAA) soon will replace some of the more than 100 radio range stations taken from federal airlines early in the war for use on military air transport paths around the world.

Automatic Devices

Range stations are automatic devices which outline airways by sending out on a narrow beam the code signals for the letters A and N, designating right and left of center, with a steady hum marking the line along which the letter signals merge. The hum is the "on course" signal.

Thomas Bourne, director of the federal airways, said the CAA expects to begin installation of the very high frequency equipment in May.

High frequency equipment is superior to intermediate frequency ranges in its ability to send an absolutely clear signal through any kind of weather. High frequency lacks the distance possible with intermediate frequency, but is much more accurate. The high frequency shortcoming in distance will be overcome by increasing the number of ranges.

Nazi General Has Faith In Defense

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Field Marshal Karl von Runstedt, commander of German forces in western Europe and one of the outstanding soldiers of our time, manages to convey the impression of a great faith in Germany's destiny in his quiet statement that he is prepared for the coming Allied invasion and awaits it calmly.

There was no gutteral Hitlerian shouting as the marshal told simply how the Nazi anti-invasion defenses include large-scale ground mining, arrangements for flooding big areas, and "anti-tank obstacles and walls far more diversified than in the Maginot line." The German reserves, he said, are so grouped that they can launch quick counter-attacks.

Maybe Von Runstedt is bluffing when he says there will be "no withdrawal in my field of operations." However, I see no reason to doubt his sincerity.

The marshal means business. We should be asking for trouble if we didn't recognize this.

However, Von Runstedt seems to have stretched a vital point when he said that Hitler's Atlantic wall can't be outflanked by invasion.

Vast Underground Army

It's outflanked already — before the invasion has started. It's outflanked by the vast underground army of Frenchmen and other nationalities of the occupied zone who are all set and waiting for the invasion day.

That's the Allied "secret weapon," and it may prove to be the most destructive in our armory.

In France alone the underground army runs into many millions, who are organized and are kept in touch with the Fighting French leaders in Algiers by liaison men.

Then there's another force in France composed of former officers and men of the disbanded French Army.

These trained soldiers don't engage in the ordinary sabotage, but are being kept under cover for the invasion day. One of their big jobs will be to seize and hold strategic points for the invading forces — an invaluable service which may turn the scales.

No reproach attaches to the United States Fifth Army for the distressing necessity of bombing and shelling the Germans out of the ancient Benedictine monastery atop Mount Cassino. The Hitlerites were holding up the Allied offensive, and were taking American lives, by utilizing the building for military purposes. We held our fire as long as possible, and then had no alternative but to shoot.

That's an old Prussian trick. Europe is strewn with churches and cathedrals which through two wars the Germans either wantonly destroyed or brought to ruin by utilizing them as military posts. In view of this, one wonders what may happen to the priceless relics of Rome if we lay siege to the capital.

he isn't erratic in the least, and why he hasn't shown up at his hotel all night gets me." He jumped to his feet. "You must be starving. Where do you want to have dinner?"

"Anywhere but the Knife and Fork," I said promptly. "I've had wheat cakes there twice. Last night and this morning. I'd like a bear steak or a side of beef."

He groaned. "I knew you'd be hungry, so I cashed a check on the way up here this afternoon. Put on your bonnet and we'll go to a highclass place on Fourteenth Street. The steaks are four inches thick and the fried onions are something to cry over."

"I'm on my way," I said. "Steak will be fine and I want at least ten vegetables."

"Somehow," he said thoughtfully, "such a large appetite doesn't seem to go with that fragile look you have."

"I always fool people," I said, putting on my red felt hat. "That's why I'm not popular. It's too expensive to feed me."

He helped me into my coat. "There is one thing I'd like to do before we go. There are some drawings of Joan Kent's in her room that I'd like you to take a look at. I don't know a thing about them, so I can't tell whether they're good or not."

"If we don't hurry I'll eat two steaks," I said, "but for a small sum I'm willing to enlighten you on the world of art."

As we went down the hall I ashed, "What will the Sergeant say if we poke around in there?"

"He gave me a key. Beautiful. He thinks I'm harmless."

He unlocked the door to Joan's apartment.

"You know, I thought the Sergeant was going to arrest me a while back," I said as we went into the room."

"There is a look that lurks in your blue eyes that baffles the Sergeant." Dirck turned on a lamp at the desk. "He doesn't know whether to fall for you or lock you up."

Women Lose Monopoly On Two-Way Stretch

Men's Postwar Clothes To Be More Comfortable Than Adam's

BY JAMES L. BIXBY
United Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 — Postwar clothes for men, equipped with the two-way stretch and described as "more comfortable than Adam's," were displayed today at the convention of the Merchant Tailors and Designers association of America.

Merchants were enthusiastic about the new styles which they said heralded the "first definite advance in designs in 100 years" and expressed confidence that all government restrictions on male attire would be lifted by spring.

"I understand that the order prohibiting vests, pleats, and other limitations are to be rescinded about March 1, Tony Williams, New York designer and president of the organization, said.

Restrictions Said Wasteful

"Restrictions imposed on clothing manufacture have wasted rather than conserved materials," he added.

A supply of great quantities of wool in the United States has eliminated need for further adherence to the restrictions, he said.

But association members have not been waiting idly for the green light from the government before advancing postwar styles in men's suits and coats.

They displayed clothing equipped with deluxe adjustable bands to permit expansion when a man is seated and to take up the slack when he is standing.

Comfortable For All Types

The man with the bay window or the streamlined, athletic type will be equally as comfortable in the suit of tomorrow, Raymond Twyeffort, another New York designer, explained, modeling a deluxe suit equipped with adjustable waistbands in the vest and trousers to permit expansion when sitting.

Twyeffort said postwar clothing will be fitted while men are seated, abolishing the tradition of fitting the standing form because men sit 85 per cent of the time.

Concealed bands in the pleats of the coat will permit full movement of the arms while sitting at a desk, driving or riding, Tyweffort said.

Adjustment Is Easy

"The ease with which the wearer can adjust the waistband of the trousers, to relieve pressure when sitting, or after a heavy meal, is amazing," he said. "Just lift the tab on the adjustable clasp and fix the waistband to the proper fit."

The new waistbands will eliminate the use of suspenders and belts entirely, he said.

Fred Nordstrom, Chicago, demonstrated a man's felt hat which can be zipped in two and folded neatly into the coat pocket. His inspiration came from a magazine article which said that one man had invested $138 in hatcheck tips.

Negro Youth Held In Robbery Of 35 Men

DALLAS, Feb. 16 (AP)—A huge negro youth, fugitive, police said, from a reformatory at Gatesville, Tex., was arrested here today in connection with the robbery over a period of a year of 35 white men.

Officers said the men were robbed at the point of a knife and mistreated. One of the victims was stabbed repeatedly.

Churchill Writes To Stalin On Polish Rift

LONDON, Feb. 16 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill was reported today to have replied to Marshal Stalin's recent letter on the Russo-Polish dispute, in a fresh attempt to bring together Moscow, London, and the Polish government-in-exile.

While there was no indication what Churchill said, it was known that he talked with Polish Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk and and Foreign Minister Tadeusz Romer before framing an answer, and a public statement on the latest British stand is expected in Churchill's next appearance before Commons.

Mikolajczyk has postponed his visit to Washington, it was announced thus renewing hopes for a rapprochement and showing at least no complete breakdown yet in attempts to solve the knotty United Nations problem.

It was also understood there had been an exchange of American-Russian views between President Roosevelt and Stalin, with the United States inclined to support the British. The British, although apparently willing to accept the Curzon line as the basis for negotiation between the Russians and Poles, are believed to be reluctant at Stalin's demand for removal of some members of the Polish government whom Moscow considers to be anti-Soviet.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve.
