

Cotton Crop Estimates Rise to Equal 1959 Production

Cotton ginnings in Collingsworth county reached approximately 13,000 bales Wednesday morning, Nov. 16, and as harvesting progresses, estimates of the total crop rise. A 30,000-bale estimate earlier in the season has risen to 36,000 bales—a crop equal to that of last year, if not a little better.

Around Wellington, the crop is estimated at 25 to 30 per cent harvested. Grade and staple continue to hold up. More farmers are stripping their crop and ginner estimates half the cotton coming in has been machine harvested.

In the Dodson area, the crop is estimated variously at one-third to 50 per cent out. The grade is picking up a little, especially on cotton that is stripped dry, with most of it grading middling light spot or strict low middling light spot. The staple is getting a little shorter, as is expected this time of year. The labor situation is good, ginner reports. Here again, a little better crop than last year is expected. Not only are yields up, there is more acreage. Less cotton was lost to the weather and less is in the soil bank.

Only 20 per cent of the crop around Quail is estimated out. Here again, the crop is expected to pass last year's.

The Lutie area crop is estimated 60 per cent out, with most of the farmers using strippers.

Stripping has just started in the Dozier section, and the crop is estimated 30 to 35 per cent out. As in other parts of the county, the crop will equal the 1959 harvest.

From another standpoint the farmers are benefitting over last year. Hand pulling this year is stabilized at $1.75, without hauling, whereas last year growers paid anywhere up to $2.25 per hundred.

Mr. Owens had lived in Collingsworth county since 1905, when he came here from Buffalo. He soon established himself as a farmer in what was to become the Dodson community and lived there until 1916, when he moved to his present farm east of that town.

Mr. Owens was a leader in the Dodson Church of the Nazarene, of which he was a member 47 years. ## Commissioners to Seek New Road in West Collingsworth

Collingsworth county commissioners court in its regular meeting Monday, Nov. 14, gave its support to a move seeking a surfaced road from the Quail community southwest to the Hall-Collingsworth county line near Memphis.

The commissioners, a group of Memphis residents headed by Clifford Farmer, chamber of commerce manager, and a group of Collingsworth county farmers living in the southwest part of the county will meet with members of the state highway commission in Austin at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 23, to request the road.

Judge C. C. Bishop said the commissioners court endorsed the proposed road as a state highway. "The commissioners will not go along if it takes out of the farm to market road program," he said.

Commissioner Alfred Knoll of Precinct 2 told The Leader:

"We are endorsing a state highway, not a farm to market road. We have already promised a FM road in the Kelley community for the coming year."

Memphis backers of the road are talking in terms of a state highway, and presented their proposition on the basis that it would give an alternate route from Plainview through Memphis and Collingsworth county to Oklahoma City.

Judge Bishop said the commissioners here do not know how much support is being given the road beyond Memphis.

The proposed road would be about 10 miles in length. It would start at the southernmost point of FM1056 now under construction south of Quail and extend southwest to connect with FM2166 at the Hall-Collingsworth line.

Judge Bishop said that Clyde Milam, Clee Parr and a Mr. Montgomery had taken the initiative among residents of southwest Collingsworth.

In other action Monday the commissioners court canvassed the general election and approved it as turned in by the election judges, and voided a charity warrant that was never picked up. The court voted to pay Mrs. Laverne Jones two months salary at $175 a month as full settlement of a claim of $525 for work on the disaster road program. Mrs. Jones is secretary to County Attorney Paul Spillman.

Five orders were passed transferring funds in order to pay bills; and claims were approved.

One order was passed allowing a telephone for the deputy sheriff at Dodson and another order to pay the telephone bill of County Attorney Paul Spillman.

Mrs. Mary Ross' Pioneer Norwood Woman Dies

Mrs. Mary E. Ross, pioneer Samnorwood woman and early-day mail carrier in the county, died in an Amarillo hospital about noon Friday, Nov. 11. She was 93 years of age, and her life had spanned almost the entire period since the close of the Civil War.

She came here with her family in 1899, and settled a mile west of what many years later became Samnorwood. She had lived in the same house since then.

The following year, the mail route from Dozier to Aberdeen was opened and Mrs. Ross became the first mail carrier. Three years later the Rock Island railroad came through Shamrock and the mail route was changed from Dozier to Shamrock. Mrs. Ross continued to carry the mail for a number of years. When this route was established, she passed only one house on her way to town, she often recalled to her daughters.

Books Open

School Board-Patrons Meet on Problems

A group of Wellington school patrons met with the school board in its regular meeting Monday, Nov. 14, for a discussion that centered around the textbook shortage situation, the athletic program, and taxation.

Approximately a dozen and a half patrons were included in the group, school board president Velman Warrick said.

There was no designated spokesman for the group and part of them participated in the questioning and discussions and part did not, he said.

The textbook shortage, an admitted fact by the school board for several years, was inherited from a previous school administration, Warrick declared.

At that time, the books were ordered on the "multiple listing" system, choosing more than one text on a single subject, and under an 8-year contract. It cannot be changed until that period ends, Warrick said.

This means there are not enough books of one kind to take care of certain classes. Additional books can be had from the state department of education, but these can be ordered only after enrollment for a year is completed. The situation was aggravated this year when the state department sent out the wrong books, Supt. Bennett Goodloe told the board.

"This is the last year on the 8-year contract on the text books we have checked," Warrick said.

The school board was then questioned concerning finances of the athletic department and discipline in that department.

The board pinpointed this as resulting from the drop in patronage of athletic events.

"You get 500 or 600 people at a football game now and a few years ago you got 1500," Warrick said. "Since we have the new gym, basketball is making a little money, and football is losing. It used to be the other way around." He es-

The Featherlite Corp., a building materials manufacturer, has conducted the contest for 20 years. Awards on the state and local level total $2,500. Each school awards a winner of $400 to the three top winners and the state level awards total $500.

In the Tech contest, Jones tied for third place, with three top places being submitted for state judging.

Students are given a set of requirements for a certain structure which constitutes the contest problem for which they create a design. They are given five weeks of lab time to work up a presentation.

In this year's competition, the University of Texas, placed second and the University of Houston third.

Way to Cure State Fiscal Trouble - Cut Federal Taxes

The financial troubles of the state of Michigan have been in the news for at least a couple of years. Profligate spending brought on deficits; the state appealed to big corporations to pay their taxes early so it could meet its payroll; legislators, conscious of the total tax load their constituents were bearing, couldn't agree on who should assume any increase.

But inept or profligate state government isn't the whole story. There's another side of the coin—or lack of coin.

A Michigan citizen recently quoted some interesting figures. One is that his state pays the federal government 10 times as much money in taxes as the state collects for its own purposes. Another is that if the federal government would cut its budget by only 2½ per cent, Michigan could collect $100,000,000 more in taxes each year and cure its budget problem.

The Chicago Tribune recently asserted that Chicago gets only one dollar from its citizens while the federal government is taking $12. If the federal tax levy were reduced Chicago could raise more revenue and wouldn't be going to Washington for handouts.

All over the country states and cities are asking for federal aid. The reason is that too many tax sources have been pre-empted by Washington and federal taxes are too high.

Defense spending takes about half of federal tax revenues. Much of the rest is spent on activities the states and communities could perform better if they had the money with which to do it—in other words, if the federal tax collector hadn't already milked the taxpayers dry.

Nehru's Astonishing Viewpoint: United States, Russia Are Alike

India's neutralism, which has baffled Americans ever since that huge and populous country achieved independence, makes more sense in the light of recent utterances by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. The Indian leader finds that the United States and the Soviet Union are more alike than any other two countries and he predicts that this country and Russia will become more similar in future as "machine civilizations."

Now Nehru is a highly educated man. He speaks English eloquently with the Oxford accent. He is the flower of one of the world's oldest civilizations and one which prides himself upon its spiritual motivation.

Yet when he looks at this country he apparently can see nothing but the mass production line and to him Russia is only a country that is trying feverishly to duplicate our material accomplishments.

Obviously he doesn't comprehend the difference between our freedoms and government of, by and for the people on the one hand and the tyrannical dictatorship of communism on the other. With such a blind spot, it's no wonder he's a neutralist. But it does look as if our diplomacy should have been able to enlighten him on the differences between this country and Russia in 15 years.

More House Calls by Doctors

One of the loudest and most prevalent complaints that the public voices against the medical profession today concerns house calls by physicians. Getting medical attention has usually required a visit to the doctor's office in most communities.

The practice of diagnosing and treating illness in the doctor's office rather than in the home accompanied the trend toward specialization in medical practice. As medical care grew progressively more scientific, facilities for diagnosing or treating illness were available only in the doctor's office or in the hospital.

Who can't recall a bout of illness that became more uncomfortable because a trip to the doctor's office was necessary?

It is refreshing to note the results of a survey conducted by The Houston Chronicle among members of the Texas Academy of General Practice. The survey showed that the practice of making house calls is on the rise in Texas.

Apparently an increasing number of physicians now consider house calls an essential part of their practice. It is also significant that many more realize the value of personal relationships between physician and patient. Just as it was in the old days, a physician's bedside manner is valuable in treating illness.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where our foreign aid peddlers have finally managed to ring up a sale in Guinea.

My yea-team neighbor says he notes it has been a tough fight, and our boys have been working on the Guineans for nearly a year, trying to persuade them to take some of our old money off our hands.

But perseverance has won out this crew will likely be brought back to Washington now, to teach other teams the technique of the hard give-away.

I guess the election being over means that scads of poll takers will now have to go to the unemployment offices to get their pensions.

My Fate-spanked neighbor says he would just as soon these people found a business of their own to tend to, and quit trying to disrobe the future.

Says this Inhumane Society of Fact Collectors ought to be outlawed on account of their work has bereft him of many happy hours spent in ignorance, believing things will turn out all right.

I see where a Michigan town council has made it unlawful for any family in their city to harbor more than three cats at a time.

My cat-addict neighbor says making everybody's cat ration the same size seems unjust, on account of some families may need 10 or 12 cats, while one cat could be too many for others.

Says he guesses this type of household control is constitutional under the general welfare gimmick, and he expects the Republicans are sorry now they didn't invoke same to put on a legal limit of one Democrat per family.

I see where there has been some proof dug up that neatly dressed high school students and her husband were riding in overturned west of Lelia Lake.

Jake Longino has opened a meat market a block north of the square.

My old bore neighbor says this likely explains why the kids at his old country school learned so fast, as they didn't have many others and had to wear their Sunday clothes to school.

Says this was not psychology, though, but common sense, on account of remembering the willows down the creek made a boy more work-brittle when he was wearing his thin pants.

I see where education is still getting lots of publicity, and everywhere you find people who are in favor of it.

But my leisure-prone neighbor says do-it-yourself knowledge-grubbing is impractical nowadays, with school teachers to train our kids, secretaries to write our letters, politicians to run our business, etc.

Says a man can't hardly afford to take time off from coffee breaks to go to school while the market offers such bargains in learning on-the-hoof.

I see where a prominent medicine man says our people are going crazy over vitamins and this is making vitaminics out of us.

But my vitaminized neighbor says this doctor must be trying to run old piano rolls through his electric diagnoser and it is giving out the wrong answers.

Says he does not either take vitamins because he is capsule-cracked, but on account of he is trying to swap off his old eating habit for one he can afford.

My conniving neighbor says we could fizzle the population explosion overnight by offering a government bonus of $1,000 to each citizen agreeing to have himself taken out of reproduction.

Says this would also cut down the cost of living, on account of couples taking this offer wouldn't ever need anything but a compact car, one bathroom and one telephone.

Claims his idea would also improve the race, because no more babies would have to live with parents who would rather have a motorboat.

The 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will be conducted in this county during the next several weeks, it was announced today by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

The 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will collect information on ownership and size of farms, acreage and harvest of crops, and livestock production and inventories. Information will be collected also on farm equipment, farm income, construction of new farm buildings, farm contracts and farm operator debts. This survey will supplement information collected in the 1959 Census of Agriculture.

Farms in the county which will be covered in the 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture were selected at random under the Census Bureau's scientific sampling program to provide a representative cross-section of all farms in the county. Information collected locally will be combined with that collected in other areas of the country to provide national estimates.

Local interviews for the 1960 Sample Survey of Agriculture will be conducted by Louise B. McDaniel.

Woman's Best Friend Carries Out Garbage

BY EDNA MILES

One of the best friends a girl can have in the kitchen is an effective means of getting rid of the garbage. In some homes, this is called a husband.

But in others, it's a gadget that's under the sink and out of sight. It eliminates messy bags, smelly cans and the actual handling of garbage. It also gets rid of unpleasant odors.

This electric food waste disposer is quiet. You don't hear crunching, grinding and moaning. Rather, it reduces the grinding sound to a murmur, the maker says. And it's quick. It gets the job done in half the time of former disposers. It's designed to work on any adequate sewerage system, city or county.

It will shred bones, fruit rinds, corn cobs and husks, vegetable peelings and food waste of every type in seconds. Garbage goes down the drain instead of staying around the kitchen to permeate the air with the odor of decay.

Women who are weary of wrestling with refuse will regard it as one of the small wonders of our age. And so it is.

With a whisper, garbage is swept out of the sink.

Bible Question: "How can we be sure of salvation?"

Bible Answer: "And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments." (1 John 2:3.)

Although some men and churches teach we can be assured of salvation by feelings, the Bible does not teach such. On the contrary, the Bible teaches a way may seem right but be the ways of death. (Prov. 4:12.) To trust in your own heart is foolish. (Prov. 28:26.) A man's heart may be deceitful. (Jer. 17:9.) Our conscience can be seared. (1 Tim. 4:2.) Therefore a man's feelings are not the standard. One must "keep His commandments."

Pamper Your Personal Prosperity with Growth Vitamin $

Every drop of water, every bit of fertilizer that you put on a growing plant is returned to you in value . . . increased many times.

And every dollar spent at home instead of in some other community . . . promotes the growth and luxuriance of your own little personal prosperity tree.

We don't expect the neighbors to water and weed and fertilize our gardens so that we won't have to put out any effort on them. But a lot of us expect somebody else to do all of the trading at home that it takes to support and improve our jobs, our businesses, our schools and churches and other community helps to a richer life.

Trouble is . . . a lot of them are looking for us to keep the ball rolling while THEY go city-shopping.

Let's . . . every one of us . . . remember that loyalty to our home community is merely loyalty to our own economic welfare . . . that scattering our buying power leaves our own personal prosperity plant with less nourishment.

Allen Gives Christmas Card Mailing Hints

"The rugged individualism of Americans is clearly evident in the sizes, shapes and colors of the envelopes they deposit in the mails," says Postmaster Charles Allen. In most instances the variations are reasonable and cause no difficulty, but quite often extremely small or odd-shaped envelopes and brightly colored ones or those of paper with an over-all design contribute to mishandling or loss in the mails.

If the most prompt and accurate postal service is to be given, these recommendations of the Post Office Department with regard to envelopes should be followed:

1. Use any light color that does not interfere with legible address and postmark. Brilliant colors should not be used.

2. Use paper strong enough to withstand normal handling in the mails. Highly glazed paper or that with an over-all design is not satisfactory for showing the address and necessary postal endorsements legibly.

3. Use standard sizes. Envelopes smaller than 2 1/4 by 4 inches or larger than 9 by 12 inches are not recommended.

When window envelopes are used, they are subject to the following conditions:

1. The address window must be parallel with the length and in the lower portion of the envelope.

2. Nothing but the name, address, and key number used by the mailer may appear through the address window.

3. The return address should appear in the upper left corner. Though recommended for all envelopes, this is especially important for the window type since the enclosure sometimes is inserted or slips in such manner that the address is not visible. In such cases envelopes without return address must be treated as dead mail.

4. The address disclosed through the window must be on white or light colored paper.

By following the recommendations of the postal service with respect to envelopes, business firms and individuals can assure themselves of better mail service and make a real contribution to the efficient, economical operation of post offices in handling over 60 billion pieces of mail yearly.

Arrest Two on Tire Theft

Two Oklahoma men were arrested at Dodson Wednesday, Nov. 9 and charged with breaking into the turtle of a car belonging to R. J. Holland and taking a tire and wheel, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

The sheriff identified the two as J. H. Richey of Greenwood, Ark., and William Henry Hale of Fort Worth. Both are employed as bricklayers on a church construction job at Hollis, he added.

Sheriff Rainey said the tire was found on the car driven by the men, but the wheel had not been located. The theft occurred Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Several Minerals Important to Chick Growth

COLLEGE STATION—There are twelve or thirteen mineral elements which a chick must have if he is to show normal growth and development, says Dr. C. W. Deyoe of the Texas A&M College System Poultry Science department. Six of these minerals, termed macro-elements, are required in concentrations of .02 to 100 parts per million.

Calcium and phosphorus are probably the best known minerals of the macro-element class. The recommendations for calcium content in chick starter rations range from .8 to 1 per cent, with calcium-phosphorus ratio of approximately 1:1 to 1.5:1, continues Dr. Deyoe. Recommendations for phosphorus range from .6 to .75 per cent, with at least .45 per cent being in the inorganic form.

Salt, which supplies sodium and chlorine, is also important in feed formulation. The requirements for this ingredient will vary depending on the amount of fish and meat products used in the ration. The salt content in drinking water may also affect the requirements. In most areas, from 2 1/2 to 5 pounds of salt per ton of feed will supply an adequate amount of sodium and chlorine, Dr. Deyoe says.

Of the trace elements, manganese is probably the best known. According to Dr. Deyoe this mineral is essential for normal bone development and for the prevention of perosis. The recommended level of 55 p.p.m. can be obtained by adding 1/2 pound of manganese sulfate (technical grade) per ton of mash ration, the specialist explains.

Zinc, another of the trace elements, is important to normal bone and feather development. This can be supplied by adding 1/4 pound of zinc sulfate per ton of complete ration. Iodine may be a problem in certain areas due to the low levels in the soils and plants. Iodized salt added to poultry feeds will solve this problem, says Dr. Deyoe.

In conclusion, Dr. Deyoe says that special attention should be given to the calcium and phosphorus content of a ration, and to the ratio of calcium to phosphorus in the finished feed. Of the trace elements, manganese and zinc should be considered to be sure that the supply is sufficient to meet the chick's requirements.

Safety Council Will Award Rural Heroes

COLLEGE STATION.—Texans who exhibit exceptional bravery during a time of crisis or disaster are eligible for the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council's "Rural Heroism Awards."

Three properly engraved plaques will be presented to as many state winners during the annual meeting of the Texas Safety Association next March. Certificates with local presentations are planned for all nominees, according to the Council announcement.

Any heroic act involving personal danger or sacrifice to aid and assist others in time of crisis is eligible for entry in the program, provided the act was performed during 1960. Deadlines for nominations is Feb. 1, 1961. Nominations may be made by any person or any group and they should include complete information and substantiating evidence of the heroic act. This material will be used by the program judges to determine the three state winners.

Nominations should be sent to Heroism Award, Texas Safety Association, 830 Littlefield Building, Austin, Texas.

The Council's Award Committee with L. O. Tiedt of Houston as chairman said that last year's single state winner was J. Manuel Corral, a Mexican bracero laborer who was lowered into an abandoned irrigation well to rescue a three year old boy. This incident occurred in the Dell City area of Hudspeth county.

Acts of bravery occur in many Texas communities each year, and while they do not go unnoticed, the Council wants to express its appreciation to those responsible for making life more pleasant and enjoyable in Texas, especially the rural areas.

Local county agents and teachers of vocational agriculture and Farm Bureaus have, or will soon have, available details on the program.

letic department. "It is not 100 per cent coverage on a lot of things but every child is insured," Warrick told The Wellington Leader.

The school audit showed that athletic department receipts for the 1959 school year were $8,836.91 and expenses $13,484.38. The $4,415.00 difference came out of local maintenance funds.

Some of the group felt the need for additional teachers, Board members replied that the district already is paying two teachers out of local funds and the only way to increase the number of teachers is to raise taxes.

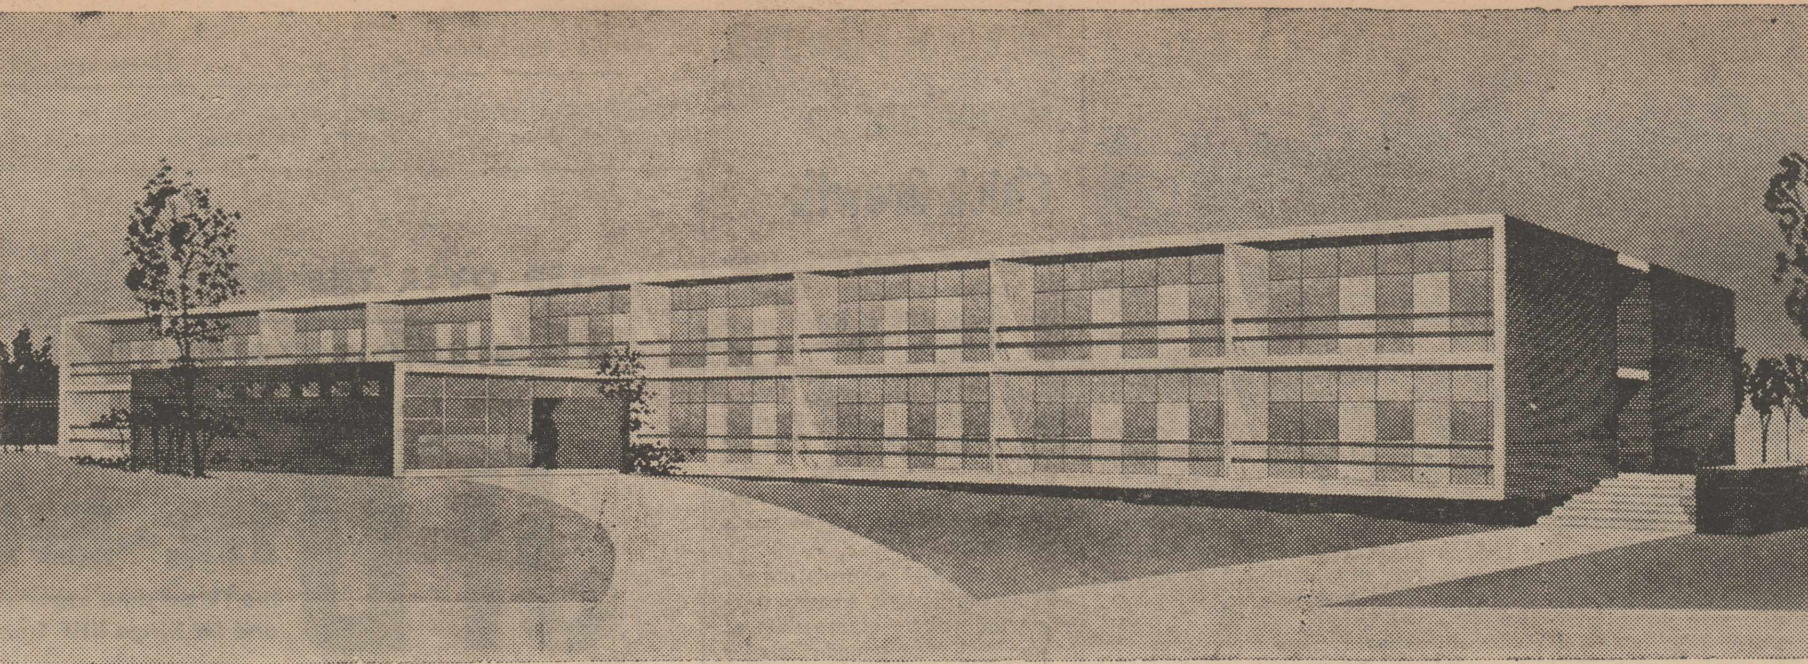

Regarding school financing in general, Warrick said that the school books are open to anyone wanting to come to the business office and examine them.

In other business, the board accepted the audit of books for the year 1959-60 as prepared by Frank R. Baker, Mangum accountant, and reviewed by Judge Luther Gribble.

The board discussed but did not take action on filling the vacancy on the school board, created by the resignation of John Holton. Holton is a stockholder in the bank which acts as school depository.

Board members attending the meeting were Warrick, A. J. Fires, Frank Campbell, Elvis Crawley, Fred Cox and Jones Singley. Other present, in addition to the group of citizens, were Supt. Goodloe, Baker, C. A. Crawford representing the Classroom Teachers Association, elementary principal Jack Davis, and Mrs. Heber Brantley, school business manager.

School patrons attending the board meeting were Eli Wolf, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mauldin, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Holliman, Dennis Holliman, Clyde Ingram, Woody Wood, Buddy Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Childress, John Ford, Milburn Derryberry, Charles Allen and Doug Bergvall.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

AMERICA'S COMPETITIVE STRUGGLE

One day recently the owner of a small hardware store in the outskirts of Cleveland drove his pickup truck to a warehouse in the big city's wholesale district. He wanted to buy 50 spools of barbed wire. On the loading platform he saw two stacks of barbed wire, one stack with several hundred spools, the other with only eight or ten.

He approached the big stack of barbed wire. A shipping label showed that it had been manufactured in Dusseldorf, Germany. The small stack showed the brand name of a leading Cleveland steel mill.

The store owner examined the imported and the home-produced barbed wire. The quality was identical. Only the price was different. The barbed wire made in Dusseldorf was $40 a ton cheaper than the Cleveland product; 20% less per spool. The hardware merchant was amazed. He knew that Dusseldorf barbed wire had traveled more than 3,000 miles. He shook his head in disbelief—and bought fifty spools of barbed wire made in Dusseldorf, Germany.

Thousands of Products

This episode could be duplicated in many American warehouses and stores. Cameras made in Japan and Germany, transistor radios and other electronic equipment manufactured abroad, plywood, men's and women's clothing, typewriters, chinaware, and an unending list of products made in foreign countries are jamming the showroom floors and shelves all over America. And they are taking away business from American manufacturers who cannot meet the price competition.

A midwestern company that has been in business for 58 years making fencing nails and wire, closed down one plant primarily because of its inability to meet foreign competition. Another steel mill which used to ship 25,000 tons of barbed wire sold only 220 tons in 1958. To the employees of these mills, foreign competition is a very real and pressing problem.

Exporting Jobs

Not only are the foreign-made products taking away business in the domestic American market, they are taking away business in the world market. The most significant fact is that we are exporting jobs. It is simple arithmetic: When foreign-made goods are bought by Americans we are supporting and creating jobs in foreign countries; and when American-made goods are left on the shelves because of their high prices, we are destroying jobs here in America.

Our basic trouble is that rising labor costs in America have pushed up prices so that our American goods are being priced out of the markets. There are other factors involved, but this is the big one. America's rising industrial productivity has not been passed along to reduce prices of our products. And yet, in Europe, Japan and some Asian nations competitive products are being made at much lower cost—so much lower that they can be shipped across oceans and still sold, at good profit, at considerably lower prices than the American product.

Teamwork Needed

In recent months I have talked to many leading manufacturers about this problem. It is actually threatening the whole American enterprise system. These manufacturers tell me that we can catch up with foreign competition in a few years if production costs can be held in line. They have shown me their profit statements. On the average, American manufacturers are making less than 6% profit on each sales dollar. If all this profit were to be cut out, many foreign-made products would still sell 15 to 20 per cent cheaper than American-made.

So profits are not causing the difficulty.

The solution to this problem which is jeopardizing the jobs of millions of Americans—and actually endangering the economic security of all of us—is for organized labor to take a clear, long-range view of what's happening, and then pitch in with our industrial management to regain our lost position in the world markets. Everybody's economic welfare then would gradually improve and we would overcome a grave danger to our whole economic system.

Yes, genuine cooperation, with elimination of featherbedding, without any cut in wages, and without longer hours.

HOW TO BE A "GOOD" WITNESS

By far the most vital people in our system of justice are witnesses. Everyone else in a trial exists to hear what they have to say.

Chances are you worry about stepping up, taking an oath, and telling your story in court. Actually, almost anyone can be an effective witness if he merely follows a few simple rules.

1. Don't memorize your story word for word. That is the surest way to make your testimony sound "phony." Rather think over what you saw and heard so you have a clear mental picture of what you observed.

2. Listen to the questions you are asked with care and answer thoughtfully.

3. Give a simple, direct answer in your own words. Don't be rushed.

4. If you err—and people often do—correct yourself at once. If you can't remember some detail, say so. Don't bluff!

5. Tell the truth. Don't figure which side you may help. Don't identify yourself with either side.

6. Stop when the judge or an attorney breaks in, and don't try to sneak an answer before he can stop you. What you might say could end in a "mis-trial."

7. If they ask you: Certainly, you have talked to other people about the case—the lawyer, for example; and yes, you are receiving the lawful witness fee to make up in part for the time lost from your job.

Ordinarily, no one has a desire to be a witness in a lawsuit, but the day may come when your testimony may be absolutely necessary for a just verdict in some case.

Remember, unless witnesses give understandable and truthful testimony our law will fail to do justice. If you are called, be a "good" witness.

FARM PROFITS LOW

Farm profits are such that the average owner must of necessity do his own supervision and as much of the work as the clock will permit. Less than 1/2 of 1% of all farms are operated by managers.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bell have returned home after being away for most of the summer and fall months. He is employed by Hardwick-Etter Company. During part of the time they were away, Mrs. Bell visited her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Terry and small daughters, Lisa and Deanna, in Albuquerque.

Shooting Hints Can Improve Your Hunting

Highly successful hunters have developed certain ways of shooting that work for them. Sheldon Smith, president of a company that manufactures fine shotguns and rifles, offers this quick run-down of significant pointers:

The first step in good shooting, according to Mr. Smith, is holding the gun properly. The expert lifts the gun to shoulder level, holding the butt two inches out from the shoulder. He puts his face firmly against the stock first, and then pulls the butt back snugly against his shoulder. These motions are practically instantaneous with most experienced hunters.

When shooting, both eyes should be kept open, and head and gun should always be moved as a single unit, never one without the other.

The basic key to successful shooting, says Mr. Smith, is leading the game by the correct distance. Unless game is moving directly toward or away from the hunter, he must always shoot a certain distance ahead of the target.

There are two ways of leading that work and one that doesn't. An expert but difficult method is moving the gun quickly along the path of the game and shooting while the gun is pointed at the game but still moving ahead rapidly. Only an expert with instant reflexes can kill game this way. This is so-called "snap-shooting." An easier method is moving the gun more slowly along the path taken by the game, moving it ahead to allow the estimated necessary lead, and then shooting while the gun is still in motion.

The way that insures a poor shot, according to Mr. Smith, is to stop the motion of the gun before shooting. The gun should always be moving when you shoot, and you should follow through smoothly, always in the line of motion of the target.

Surviving Mrs. Kelly are three sons and three daughters: R. V. Kelly and Shirley Kelly of Burbank, Calif.; Gurrie Kelly of Los Angeles; Mrs. Louis Patterson of Wellington, Mrs. Bryce E. Foster of Los Angeles and Mrs. Otis D. Emert of Quail.

Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. Eunice Crowell of Houston. There are eight grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brewer, Mrs. Winfield Vaughan and Mrs. Ray King were in Texarkana over the week end to attend the funeral of Coy Brewer, a brother of Ben Brewer. A sister, Mrs. N. B. Coughran of Abilene came home with them to visit a few days before returning to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe King and family of Texline Booster Camp were here on Thursday and Friday visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray King and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stall.
