Authorities Can't Prosecute...

Juveniles Continue To Cross Border Illegally

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the next 12 months, from 3,000 to 6,000 juveniles will illegally cross the border from Mexico and commit numerous crimes, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said today.

In most cases, he added, U.S. authorities cannot prosecute the youthful offenders.

The Texas Democrat sent a letter today to Secretary of State Alexander Haig asking him to negotiate an international agreement with Mexico as a first step toward solving the problem.

Fifteen members of Congress from New Mexico, Arizona and California joined Bentsen in signing the letter.

"In many border communities, it has become necessary to simply return these juvenile offenders to the border and release them because of the absence of a formal procedure for dealing with this dilemma," Bentsen said.

"While the Border Patrol does handle some juvenile cases, it is not specially trained nor equipped to deal with the juvenile offender under the substantive due process guidelines mandated by the U.S. Supreme Court."

Many of the violations involve state or local laws, but the states often are unable to prosecute juvenile offenders because of the absence of documentation, he added.

"In Texas, for example, juveniles must be 10 to 17 years of age to be prosecuted under state law. Since these children and young adults are illegal and undocumented, proof of age is difficult, if not impossible to obtain."

El Paso County officers tried to cope with the problem by processing juvenile suspects and then delivering them to a justice facility across the border in Mexico. But questions arose about the legality of sending employees of a U.S. county into Mexico, and the practice was ordered stopped.

"It is not up to the states, on an individual basis, to formulate foreign policy with respect to the treatment of illegal juvenile offenders," Bentsen wrote Haig.

"However, until the federal government establishes such a policy, cities and states along the border with Mexico will continue to grope for alternative and often ineffective solutions."

Bentsen added:

"Crime in our border communities is accentuated when there is an absence of an effective national policy concerning the juvenile offender. We would apreciate any assistance you might lend toward formulating an international agreement with Mexico to deal with this dilemma."

300 Plus Rodeoers In Town For AJRA Finals

More than 300 young contestants saddle up tonight for the opening performance of the American Junior Rodeo Associaton National Finals.

The performance each evening begins at 8 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum. This is the sixth consecutive year for Snyder to host the AJRA national finals.

To particpate in the national finals, contestants had to qualify by winning events in AJRA-sactioned rodeos held in various parts of the country this year.

All participants are 19 years of age or younger. Advance tickets are on sale at the chamber of commerce office. Box seats are $5 each. Tickets for adults are $3.50 each and children's tickets are $2.50 each.

Featured attraction at this year's rodeo is Bob Tallman, America's best-known rodeo announcer, Talman works some 250 rodeos each year and was the youngest announcer to ever work the national finals of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy's Association in Oklahoma City.

Some contestants warmed up for the rodeo by participating in team roping Monday afternoon and slack roping Tuesday morning.

Following tonight's performance there will be racing slack and a disco dance.

On Friday evening, Miss AJRA will be crowned, and several awards will be presented.

Miss AJRA queen contestants are Sande Miller of Odessa; Jinita Williams of Lovington, N. M.; Kelley Jones of Midland; Sissy Doss of Big Spring; Gayla Newton of Gail; and Lisa Pugh of Crawford.

On Saturday night, the final performance, the AJRA World Championship awards will be presented along with several special awards.

Stock producer for this year's rodeo is the Bad Rodeo Co. of Marfa Texas. The producers are Mack Altizer of Del Rio, Sid Evans of Marfa and Lane Foltyn of El Campo. All three are former AJRA contestants.

Rodeo clowns are Rich Chatman of Fort Worth and Chuck Kinney of Sulphur, La. This is the sixth year for Chatman to clown in Snyder. He was also chosen to clown for the PRCA National Finals in Oklahoma City in 1980.

Trustees Okay Contract With Diamond Museum

Western Texas College board of trustees Monday night approved a management contract with the Diamond M Museum.

The contract calls for the college to oversee operations of the private museum including tours and other educational functions. The Diamond M Foundation will finance all operations.

The contract approval ended several months of discussion between members of the Diamond M Foundation and local residents who expressed concern that the museum might be moved from Snyder.

The contract period is for three years and it is hoped that the college can increase traffic and participation at the museum.

WTC already successfully operates the Scurry County Museum on the college campus. The Diamond M Museum was established in Snyder by the late C. T. McLaughlin, and the collection is considered the most extensive private collection west of Fort Worth.

In other business, the board discussed student housing and will open bids on Sept. 10 for construction of an addition to the present dorm.

The addition calls for housing of 48 students. Bids were opened last November, but low bids far exceeded estimates. The college then decided to take alternate bids calling for the college to act as its own general contractor.

In addition, the college is looking into building more duplex apartments rather than the dorm addition. One possibility suggested is a 1,460 square foot duplex that would house three students rather than two.

Because of the student housing squeeze, the board voted to reduce dorm fees for students living three to a room. In the event it is necessary for three students to be placed in a room, the new policy calls for an individual rebate of $12.50.

The board accepted the resignation of three employees. They are Teresa Baize, bookstore manager; Betty Doan, RSVP assistant director; and Marsha Krenek, RSVP director. Mrs. Krenek has since been named bookstore manager.

Three new personnel were approved by the board. They include David Harr, residence halls director; Melissa Harr, assistant director of residence halls; and Richard Powell, assistant professor of biology.

The board approved an increase in fees for the WTC pro shop. Weekday green fees were increased from $4 to $5 and weekend green fees were upped from $5 to $6.

Monthly membership was increased from $5 to $25, and monthly dependent membership was increased from $10 to $12.50.

Annual membership was increased from $200 to $275 and annual dependent fee is increased from $100 to $137. Annual corporate membership was increased from $170 to $240 and annual executive membership was increased from $180 to $250.

Monthly corporate fees were changed from $12 to $17 and monthly executive fee is also $17. Cart shed rentals were increased from $12 to $15 monthly.

Golf cart rentals were increased $2 for two persons and $1 for one person. Fishing fees were decreased to $1.50 on weekdays and holidays.

Trustees accepted the low bid from Pitney Bowes for a bond paper copier for use in the Learning Resource Center. The low bid was $2770 less a $200 trade-in.

Howard Sterling, board secretary, presided at the meeting. Other members present were Bill Jones, R. C. Patton and Edwin Parks.

Resignation On School Agenda

Snyder school trustees are expected to accept the resignation of one board member and consider his replacement at a regular meeting that begins at 8 tonight in the school administration building.

Jerry Rice has submitted his resignation effective Aug. 15. Rice and his wife, Pat, have been transferred to Abilene.

The person appointed will serve until the next school board election in April at which time the position will be filled until the term expires in April, 1983.

Also on tonight's agenda is approval of new personnel and re-assignment of personnel. The board also will approve teacher aides for the 1981-82 school year.

Medical requests for in-district transfers also is up for consideration. The board also will consider increases in school lunch prices for the coming year.

Trustees also will look at the district's sick leave policy that expires on Aug. 31. Several policy revisions also are on the board agenda.

Rain Reported

After several false starts a nice rain began early Tuesday morning, depositing varying amounts of moisture in the area.

Approximately a half-inch was reported in the Snyder-Fluvanna area while Hermleigh reported just a shower. Ira reported one-tenth of an inch of moisture.

Polar received 1½ inches while the Lake J. B. Thomas area received an inch of rain.

Ira Slates Registration

Preregistration of students attending Ira Public Schools for the first time has been set for Thursday, Aug. 13, between the hours of 1 and 4 p.m. at the Ira Public School principal's office.

Parents are asked to bring immunization records for each student to be registered. Texas law requires students to be immunized against polio, DPT, rubella, mumps and measles (rubeola) before entering public school.

A doctor's written verification that a child has had measles or mumps will be accepted in lieu of a vaccination.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neutron weapons stockpiled in the United States could be delivered to troops in Europe "only a few hours" after allies agreed to accept them in the event of a crisis, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says.

The United States, therefore, will not be penalized strategically by keeping the weapons at home in recognition of European "sensitivities" to having them deployed in their countries, Weinberger said Monday.

Senate Okays Exemption

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has one day — today — to work on a bill that gasohol supporters say is vital to creating a Texas market for the alcohol-gasoline fuel.

Senators on Monday approved on voice vote a bill that would exempt gasohol distributors from paying the five-cent per gallon state motor fuels tax through 1986. The measure was sent to the House for action today, the final day of the special legislative session.

Sen. Bill Sarpalius' bill also would give gasohol a tax break through 1991. After 1986, the exemption would drop by a penny a gallon, until it ended in 1992.

Howard Hughes Estate...

Houston Heirs Relieved But Not Surprised By Ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Cousins who banded together to exclude pretenders from a share of Howard Hughes' fortune say they are relieved — but not surprised — to have secured at least half of the eccentric billionaire's vast estate.

Probate Judge Pat Gregory ruled Monday the 16 cousins of Hughes on his mother's side were legitimate heirs entitled to half the estate estimated at between $180 million to $2 billion.

"I'm just relieved that this part of it is over," said Annette Gano Gragg, a Hughes' cousin and Houston architect who testified Monday she had never met the man whose wealth she eventually will share.

"I'm afraid this is just the beginning, we've got a long way to go," she said.

Gregory said the court still must determine how "paternal heirs fit into the picture," and that a final order on the distribution of Hughes's fortune could be delayed for years by pending appeals.

Final settlement of the estate also has been clouded by the appearance of another purported Hughes will in Los Angeles and the continuing battle between Texas and California over which state has the right to levy inheritance taxes.

"We just thought it (Gregory's ruling) was one more step in long and complicated process," said Marilyn Lummis, wife of Hughes' heir Dr. Frederick R. Lummis Jr. of Houston.

The family expected the ruling and did not celebrate their success despite the tensions and annoyances that accompanied the five-year legal drama.

Mrs. Lummis said during years of litigation they got "a lot of crack-pot calls and one woman had charged thousands of dollars in phone bills to us."

But she said the hassels brought "an already close family closer, especially cousins with varying ages." The ages of the maternal heirs range from 19 to 66.

Gregory had ruled earlier this year that Hughes left no immediate family members or a will when he died in April of 1976. The ruling set the stage for the hearings to determine the legitimate heirs.

While evidence on claims by maternal heirs was unchallenged, more than 500 people claim kinship with the eccentric recluse's father and attorneys say the scheduled Aug. 24 trial on who is entitled to the other half of the estate could last two months.

Gregory said after the paternal heirs have been determined and the appeals settled, he would have to decide if the estate could be distributed as it is or if it would have to be liquidated to divide the wealth.

In Monday's hearing Mrs. Gragg and two other cousins — Annette Lummis Neff and Sara Houstoun Lindsey — were the only Hughes' heirs to testify. They read from the family bible, identified photographs of Hughes that were taken from the family album and presented correspondence between Hughes and several of his relatives.

They testified they rarely saw their famous relative. But after he died, the 16 maternal cousins and five paternal cousins entered into an agreement to share the estate among themselves.

Two of the maternal cousins have since died, but their share of the estate would be given to their heirs.

Monday's hearing took place while federal agents searched for the original to the latest of more than 40 wills to surface since Hughes' death.

Martha Graves of Los Angeles gave a California court a photocopy of the will she said was hidden in a locked metal box for 21 years. She said the original was in a briefcase lost on a flight between California and Dallas.

Guerrillas Are Winning Propaganda War Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — While being held to a draw on the battlefield, Marxist guerrillas are "clearly winning" the propaganda war against American attempts to prevent a communist takeover in El Salvador, the U.S. ambassador to that country says.

"In the propaganda battle, we're not very good," while the guerrillas "are doing very well," Ambassador Deane Hinton said in an interview Monday night.

Some members of his own family "disagree profoundly" with American policy, Hinton said.

"They're clearly winning," the ambassador said of the guerrillas. "They're winning American public opinion, too. They have managed to portray the government as nothing but your typical bloodthirsty, autocratic, military dictatorship, which is wrong. They're just wrong.

"And people tend to believe it," he added. "Some of my own kids believe it."

Hinton, a career diplomat who is in Washington for consultations, said he does not disagree with human rights groups in the United States which complain about widespread abuses by Salvadoran security forces.

"There are a lot of things in San Salvador that I don't like one little bit," he said. "But what they don't seem to understand is that there's something worse that could happen."

Hinton left no doubt of his belief that the alternative to the ruling civilian-military junta is a Marxist-Leninist dictatorship.

And, he gave little credence to the claims of opposition leaders that peace will come to El Salvador only through negotiations between the government and guerrilla representatives.

He said the largest of the guerrilla groups has always scorned negotiations, insisting instead there are only two choices confronting the movement: "death or victory."

Hinton, who has served in El Salvador since spring, expressed confidence in the constitutional process now under way and which will culminate in presidential elections in 1983.

Even though some 18,000 persons have died in El Salvador in less than two years, fair elections can be held, he said.

"I'm convinced that there are going to be elections," he said. "I'm convinced there's going to be very widespread participation and that the results will be clean and honest and recognized as such."

He Would 'Kill A Pig'...

Teacher States Youth Bragged

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A junior high school teacher has testified in the trial of two Dumas, Texas, brothers charged with the capital murder of an Amarillo policeman that one of the brothers had bragged that he would someday "kill a pig."

David Fry, a teacher at Dumas Junior High School, said Monday that 20-year-old Guadalupe Gutierrez made the statement on about four occasions during the 1976-77 school year.

Defense attorneys immediately moved for a mistrial, which State District Judge Ed Harris denied.

Guadalupe and Victor Gutierrez are accused in the Christmas night death of 26-year-old officer Berry Joe McGuire, who was shot to death after stopping a car for a routine traffic violation.

Lawyers for the Gutierrez brothers rested their case Monday after 11 days of testimony. Final arguments are scheduled to begin today.

Another brother, 17-year-old Ernesto Guttierrez, also has been charged with capital murder in the slaying and will be tried separately because prosecutors contend he was the triggerman.

Urbano Jaramillo Flores, 17, of Mexico, who was 16 at the time of the shooting, has been certified to stand trial as an adult and will be tried later on capital murder charges.

Woman's Search Is Successful

MIAMI (AP) — When 12½-year-old Rebecca Vadala died suddenly in a hospital, her mother couldn't understand what had happened to her healthy, robust youngster.

"How can a child so full of energy and life, who swam an Olympic-sized pool twice, be dead two days later?" Betty Vadala asked.

Mrs. Vadala became determined to find out. The high-school dropout took a job at the hospital as a nurse trainee and spent the next three years searching medical books for the reason. Her long search recently ended with a $350,000 malpractice settlement obtained by her attorney from two Dade County neurologists.

The tragic story began in late June 1978 when Rebecca began suffering convulsions at her home. Her mother took her to Baptist Hospital, where she was examined by Dr. Wayne Tobin after a two-hour delay, Mrs. Vadala said.

Tobin tried to relieve pressure in the child's head through a lumbar puncture — inserting a needle into the spinal column to remove fluid.

Ten minutes later, the child suffered a cardiac arrest, followed by a slippage of her brain down toward the spinal cord.

After a 15-minute wait, Tobin came out of the child's room and told Mrs. Vadala her daughter's brain was dead. The next day, June 28, the child was removed from life-support systems and declared dead.

Mrs. Vadala said Tobin and Dr. Michael Aptman couldn't answer her questions about Rebecca's death. She said she was upset about that and about the fact that she and her husband were refused a last look at Rebecca before the life-support systems were unplugged.

She spent a lot of time at her daughter's graveside at Miami Memorial Park and more time at the library reading medical textbooks.

Mrs. Vadala completed a high-school equivalency course and decided to pursue her earlier childhood ambition of becoming a nurse.

Sen. Robert Kennedy was shot and fatally wounded in a Los Angeles hotel in 1968.

at wits end

The town of Cooper, Iowa, has brought to national attention a problem that has long plagued small towns... the shortage of a local celebrity.

Cooper, with its 50 residents, had the courage to "go public" with the announcement that they had no famous citizens and were willing to adopt a foster celebrity.

After all the hopefuls were considered, the committee decided on Johnny Carson. They hoped he would do for them what he has already done for Corning, Iowa.

The problem is a serious one. Can you imagine what it's like to live in a town that wants to sponsor a celebrity Golf Open and there's no one to name it after?

What about a university that wants to honor its most famous graduate and there isn't any?

Or a Fourth of July parade with a parade marshal who has to wear a name tag?

I've seen the shortage of celebrities coming for some time now. And why not? It used to be they only showed up on rare occasions when there were crowds of thousands.

Now they show up for every telethon, sports event, supermarket opening, auction, fund-raiser, parade, dinner, anniversary, graduation, chili cook-off and political rally. That's why most politicians declare their candidacy so early. They want to get the good celebrities in their corner before they're all picked over.

When you think about it, shopping for a celebrity is important. Do you want a bigger-than-life figure like the president of the United States, who will bring gawkers and press people from all over the country trampling down the flowers in the park? Do you want a contemporary celebrity who is serving time and will attract a bizarre crowd of lookers? Or do you want a sex symbol who will bring everyone flocking to drink the local water?

I was on a book tour awhile back in Portsmouth, Ohio, when my hostess said, "You know who was born here, don't you?"

When I shook my head she said, "Roy Rogers' horse."

"Roy Rogers was born here?"

"No, Roy was born in Cincinnati. His horse, Trigger, was born here."

When she saw the look on my face she said, "Look, he didn't raise taxes or muddy up the water."

What more could you want from a celebrity than that?

Your Birthday

August 12, 1981

Through social contacts, you could be exposed to ideas and concepts which will have a positive effect on your lifestyle in the year following your birthday. However, take care this doesn't turn into all play and no work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your plans and ideas will be quite imaginative and productive today, but you may not give them a chance to work properly. Be patient. Stick to the script. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Persons you deal with on a business basis should find you quite amicable. Later this evening, however, those in your social set might get a taste of your temper.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A wide range of topics can be discussed with friends today which will lend themselves to constructive exchanges, but personal family matters could prove to be volatile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You have a good head on your shoulders today and could come up with several clever ideas on ways to make or save money. Unless you're patient, however, nothing will come of them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There may be a ton of interesting things to do today. Unfortunately, many will cost money. If you don't have the funds, don't get involved to begin with.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A cool head will be the essential ingredient you'll need in order to deal comfortably with others today. Mistakes are likely if you get irritable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You don't mind helping another figure out ways he or she can accomplish a project, but doing the actual muscle work is another story.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your mind is completely on your work today and you'll resent others trying to entice you away from it, even for an activity you'd normally love.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Outside pressure may be placed on you today to ignore the dictates of your heart. Don't let anyone stop you from doing what your compassion tells you is right.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Associates may disagree with you today both in spirit and principle. Rather than becoming angry, try to understand their views.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be sure you have everything ironed out properly in advance in joint venture situations today, especially in areas requiring investment or spending.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're quite generous and sharing where material things are concerned today, but you might not be so liberal if others try to impose upon your time or independence.

Jaycees, Jaycee-ettes To Support MD Cause

The Snyder Jaycees-Jaycee-ettes pledged their support to the Muscular Dystrophy Association's (MDA) 1981 fundraising efforts. The action was taken in conjunction with the recent endorsement of MDA by the United States Jaycees, according to Jerry Richardson, president of the Snyder Jaycees.

During the past 3½ years, Jaycees across America comprising 8,200 local and over 320,000 individual members have contributed $5,500,000 to help find a cure for MD. For the 1981 telethon, the Jaycees are committed to a nationwide goal of $2,250,000, making them one of the top corporate sponsors for MDA.

"One of our major goals will be to mobilize community support for MDA," Mr. Richardson said.

"Our chapter has made a commitment to raise $7,500 for MDA and we encourage everyone in our community to assist us in this worthwhile endeavor. This is but one of the many community service projects our chapter conducts each year," Richardson said.

The Jaycees' fundraising efforts will culminate with the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon. Representatives of the U.S. Jaycees will appear in Las Vegas with Jerry Lewis to report on the organization's nationwide fundraising totals, while Jaycees from city chapters will appear on local segments of the telethon and answer pledge phones.

MDA funds a network of 178 clinics throughout the United States where victims of Muscular Dystrophy and related neuromuscular disorders receive diagnosis, treatment therapy, counseling and orthopidic appliances — all free of charge. The association also sponsors an extensive summer and winter camping program and funds a worldwide research effort seeking the causes of and cures for muscle disease.

Here's the Answer

Q. — Some years ago I bought a table with a marble top. I had always thought marble could not be stained, that it was one substance from which almost anything but acid could be removed. Recently, though, we had company and used the table quite a bit. A couple of hours after the company left, my husband noticed a dark stain on the table. We aren't sure what caused it, but it did not yield to ordinary rubbing and we were afraid to use any chemical on it for fear of causing further trouble. We can only guess that the stain was from some peanut butter that had been served with crackers. Is there any way to get this off without damaging the marble, which we now know can be stained rather easily?

A. — Yes, marble can be stained, since it is porous. Unfortunately, the longer the stain has been there, the harder it is to remove. Try this time-tested method: Rub the stain with ordinary household ammonia. Use a clean cloth, rubbing it over the area around the stain as well as on it. A complete rinsing with slightly warm water is necessary. Repeat this procedure three or four times. If the stain is still there, buy some powdered whiting and mix it with a little acetone to form a thick paste, which should be spread over the complete stain. Leave it there for about 24 hours, then rub it off and, again, rinse thoroughly. If the paste seems to have lightened the stain, do the same thing again and, if necessary, again. This method should remove nearly all stains caused by any substance that has fat in it. If it doesn't, find a dealer who sells marble and see what kind of cleaning and polish products he has for stains.

Q. — I have to do some concrete work soon at the rear of our house. I have used concrete before, but never in connection with 2-by-4 studs. These studs will be used as forms. What I want to know is how to keep the concrete from sticking to the wood after it sets?

A. — It normally will not stick, but if you want to make it easier to separate the wood from the setting concrete, coat with oil the part of the wood in contact with the concrete.

Q. — I always seem to have trouble placing fasteners in solid walls. This time I want to attach something to a brick wall. Do I place the fastener into the brick itself or into the mortar? What kind of fastener should I use? Will such a fastener hold as much as 200 pounds?

A. — Use a lag screw shield. Any size will hold 200 pounds, which is considered heavy in most cases but not for this type of installation. Drill a hole into the mortar the same size as the shield, which should be flush with the surface. The screw comes with a head that can be turned with a wrench. Place the screw through the hole in whatever is being hung and then into the shield. Tighten the screw with the wrench. As you do this, the shield will expand inside the mortar and grip tightly.

Q. — I intend to make some flagstones for a walkway. I want them to be a dark gray color. How can I color them?

A. — Since you are making the flagstones yourself, use a brown sand in the portland cement, adding a little coloring powder to the mix.

Q. — Can I use mineral spirits to thin oil paint or is it necessary to use turpentine?

A. — You can use mineral spirits.

The hind legs of some water beetles are lengthened, flattened and equipped with long, closely-set hairs converting them into paddles for swimming.

Duplicate Bridge Club Winners

The Duplicate Bridge Club met Friday at the Snyder Country Club where they played five tables of Howell Movement. Mrs. A. L. Bethel directed.

First place winners were Mrs. Leroy Brown and Mrs. L. B. Thompson. Place two winners were Mrs. B. L. McKinley and Mrs. Nina Crout. Mrs. Ann Davis and Mrs. Prentis Bass won third place and there was a tie between Mrs. Ross Carroll and Mrs. Roger Mize with Mrs. Charles Snyder and Mrs. R. L. Haney for fourth place.

On Sunday Mrs. Scott Casey directed four tables of Howell movement.

Mrs. L. B. Thompson and Mrs. Scott Casey won first place and second place went to Mrs. Polly Ballard and Mrs. J. R. McCrary. Mrs. Virdi Kimbro and Mrs. Prentis Bass tied with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Williams for third place.

Kids' Needs No Threat To Satisfying Marriage

PROVO, Utah. (AP) — Can couples have the best of both worlds — a happy marriage and children too?

Though much research since 1940 shows it's difficult, says a Brigham Young University professor, he believes couples can avoid much of the stress and strain that children pose to marriage without avoiding parenthood.

Dr. Boyd C. Rollins points out that most family studies indicate that, on the average, marital satisfaction begins to decline at the birth of the couple's first child, levels out at the bottom during the oldest child's adolescent years, and then starts rising again about the time the children leave home.

Studies have also indicated that marital satisfaction was higher for couples with no dependent children in the home than for comparable couples with children, adds Rollins, BYU professor of Family Studies and an Associate of the BYU Family and Demographic Research Institute.

Despite such research, he hesitates to label children as the main catalyst for decreasing marital satisfaction.

"Although the amount of time a couple spends together and the amount of time they communicate are correlated with the level of satisfaction toward their marriage or their children, in the studies I have examined the importance married people place on companionship remains high regardless of their situation.

"This suggests that if couples spend a lot of time together children won't interfere with the quality of their marriage," Rollins says.

Rollins discovered that children's activities often push couples into peripheral, timeconsuming obligations which ultimately keep them from spending as much time as they would like with each other and with their children.

'When I did my last study, parents were saying things like, 'My primary interest is meeting the needs of my family. I wish I could spend more time with my kids, but really it's for my kids that I'm working overtime. It's for my kids that I'm working in Cub Scouts and coaching Little League baseball and involved with the PTA and doing this church work and helping with this other community project.'

"Some say, 'Well, we have to sacrifice for the benefit of the kids,'" Rollins continues. "But the kids are not going to be helped if the quality of the marriage is decreased. Indirectly that is going to hurt the kids. It always does."

Rollins' research indicates parents must spend as much time together throughout their marriage as they did when newly wed — if they expect marital satisfaction to remain high. For those couples who managed to maintain a higher level of companionship throughout the marriage, marital satisfaction didn't follow the typical decline when dependent children were in the home.

A higher awareness of the potential threats to companionship and more commitment to companionshp can keep children from hurting marriages, Rollins explains.

For example, one couple had two sons, one in high school and one in junior high. Both boys played basketball, with their games often scheduled at the same time. The parents wanted to support their children and so every week the father would attend one game, the mother the other game and the next week they would switch.

After attending a lecture by Rollins, the couple decided to change the situation. Each boy would now have both of his parents in the audience every other week. In the new arrangement, the parents could enjoy an evening together as well as demonstrate their interest in the sons' athletic events.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Here is a hand for our old friend Pessimistic Pete, who wears both suspenders and a belt and carries safety pins to be really protected.

The contract is a sound, normal three no trump which can be reached after any number of reasonable bidding sequences.

The deuce of clubs is opened. East's jack forces your king and if you are the normal type of player you lay down your ace of diamonds and proceed with the suit until East takes his jack.

East leads the seven of clubs. Your nine or 10 loses to the queen. A spade is led to East's ace and two more club tricks leave you one trick short of your contract.

Now watch Pete at work. He notes that diamonds don't have to break so at trick two he leads a spade to dummy's king. East takes his ace and leads that same seven of clubs.

West wins and leads a seond spade. Pete wins in dummy, leads a low diamond and finesses his 10, and Pete makes four no trump. Suppose that West held the jack of diamonds. Pete would make only three no trump while other players would be making four.

BOUNTIFUL GRAPES--Charles Cain, who lives on the Roby Highway,is very proud of the Thompson Seedless Grapes he has harvested this season. The bunch he is holding in his hand weighed in at two pounds. Cain said he has girdled his grapes which in part contributes to his success. Cain has quite a green thumb as he grows everything from okra to pecans and canteloupe. He also occassionally helps people out with gardening problems, but he claims one big problem is that they don't want to water enough and sometimes their grafs die. (SDN Staff Photo)

Changes Noted At Famous Hospital

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP) — An ultra-modern medical center replaces Albert Schweitzer's rotting wooden huts, but the good doctor's jungle hospital faces the future more troubled than at any time since he died in 1965.

Governments and individual benefactors contributed $5 million, including $1 million from the United States, for the reconstruction inaugurated earlier this year. But no provision was made for operating costs, and donations are drying up because oil-producing Gabon is considered one of Africa's wealthiest countries.

When Schweitzer had his 1913 "revelation" to found a hospital along the Ogooue River in one of Africa's most disease-ridden areas, he could not have imagined that Gabon, then an undeveloped French colony, would one day be a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries with an average per capita income exceeding $5,000.

The oil wealth, drawn mostly from offshore wells, has not penetrated to the interior. Many inhabitants still live in primitive bamboo huts. Most children suffer from chronic malnutrition. Virtually every adult has malaria or another crippling parasitic disease. American aid officials estimate that the true annual income averages less than $80, among the lowest in the world.

Yet Gabon's oil wealth legally bars a U.S. government subsidy to the hospital. Switzerland and West Germany together contribute 35 percent of the $1.5 million annual operating budget. The estimated 1981 deficit exceeds $260,000.

Gabon'u president, Omar Bongo, regards the hospital as a source of pride. His government contributed $2 million to the reconstruction and promised a $250,000 annual subsidy, one-sixth of the operating costs.

In return, the hospital employs 80 Gabonese nurses, an innovation Schweitzer resisted to the end of his life. The physicians and administrators remain exclusively European or American volunteers, plus some 30 white nurses. They come to Lambarene on 18-month contracts at a fraction of their usual pay, motivated by the Schweitzer ideal of service to the poor.

The hospital's French director, Yves Scheidecker, 50, has little patience with the sentimentality of some of the thousands of Schweitzer admirers who still visit every year and stand in silent tribute by Schweitzer's riverside grave.

"Schweitzer is dead," he said. "We can no longer rely on the charity he raised with his writings and his music and his fame. We have to operate like any modern institution, with a budget and a guaranteed income. Schweitzer never had a budget."

Scheidecker expressed fears that the new hospital, with its sophisticated air-conditioned operating theaters, tropical disease research laboratory and water purification plant, could become a white elephant in the jungle.

"It's like putting all your money into buying a Rolls Royce and then having no money left to run it," he said.

When Scheidecker took over the hospital in April, he imposed drastic austerity measures. All construction was halted. An administrative building and a nurses' residential block remain unfinished. One-third of Gabonese staff of 150 was fired. Travel expenses were severely restricted.

Schweitzer's own hut has become a museum, with his spectacles and his famous pith helmet lying where he left them the day he died. But the roof is leaking, and renovation work was stopped for economy reasons.

Even with the spending cuts, the hospital is digging ever deeper into its overdraft. "We can't go on like this much longer," Scheidecker said.

Gabon is ready to take over full financial responsibility for the hospital but would then insist on integrating it into the national health system.

"That would mean a second death for Dr. Schweitzer," said a young Swiss doctor, who asked not to be identified. "We are now the country's only modern hospital. These Gabonese themselves realize that if we came under their control, the hospital would simply disintegrate. You have to take a look at the public hospitals to understand that."

The public hospital in Lambarene has only one doctor — a Romanian volunteer — and much of the equipment is broken or missing.

Some 20,000 patients come to the Schweitzer hospital every year, often ignoring a public hospital much nearer home. Some walk for days through the jungle to get here.

The African traditions on which Schweitzer insisted are maintained: Every patient is accompanied by at least one family member who prepares his meals in an outdoor cooking area, although chickens and goats no longer roam the wards as they did in Schweitzer's days.

Patients are never kept in ignorance about their condition, as in the developed world. When someone dies, a nurse writes "Soul Departed" across the chart, and the family quietly removes the body.

Dutch nurse Maria Lagendyk, 74, came here in 1938. She is one of the few surviving staff members who worked with Schweitzer.

"He had no money to install electricity and running water," she said. "He would be pleased with the new hospital. But some of his ideas would no longer be acceptable today. In his time, the white man did everything.

"We must find a way to bring the Schweitzer spirit up to date."

Firefighter Hot Topic In Bullhead City, Ariz.

BULLHEAD CITY, Ariz.(AP) — Firefighter John Baudouine, the man who put Bullhead City on the national weather map, is a hot topic around this parched town these days.

He was just trying to set the record straight when he moved the town thermometer 300 feet, but instead he set off a duel in the sun that has businessmen battling the federal government over a matter of degrees.

Baudouine, who takes care of the local weather station for the National Weather Service, removed the thermometer from its perch on the relatively cool, well-watered front lawn of the fire department and put it in a dry desert ploy behind the building.

Official temperatures soared, and official indignation followed.

Four times in August, Bullhead City was America's hot spot — with temperatures ranging from 113 to 115 degrees. It was No.1 on the charts three days in a row and Monday fell just 1 degree behind the 112 degrees posted by Blythe, Calif.

Bullhead City, population 16,000, is just across the river from the casinos at Laughlin, Nev., and the local Chamber of Commerce said the propaganda about the heat is driving away business.

"I don't think it's fair to the people that sunk their livelihood into a business in Bullhead to have this derogatory advertising go out because it is keeping people away," said Dick Smith, owner of the Five Grand Cafe and leader of a drive to either return to the readings of yesteryear by putting the thermometer back or withhold the readings from the weather service.

Smith has presented a petition with the signatures of 145 businessmen to the Chamber of Commerce asking just that.

"The people that have been coming here know it's hot, but they don't know why all of a sudden it's the hottest spot in the nation," Smith said. "People think we're having a heat wave."

Smith said business has cooled by 20 percent to 30 percent, and he attributes the entire drop to the thermometer change, which brought an immediate 4- to 5-degree increase in the official readings.

Baudouine counters that the weather service recommended the move, and he agreed with them, saying, "We were not getting legitimate readings on the grass because we water it.

"Temperatures have always been that hot, it's just the fact that now they are being recorded and turned in to the weather service."

Joe Heath, an insurance salesman and president of the Chamber of Commerce, said he would survey the club's members, but right now he doesn't see why everyone is getting hot under the collar.

"We are in an economic slowdown, not just in Bullhead City, but everywhere," he said. "Some of our local people are reaching out to grab something to explain why their business is slow."

Temperatures, by the way, have been generally cooler this summer than last.

McKitrick New Kiwanis Head

E. B. "Mac" McKitrick, Edmonton, Alberta, was elected president of Kiwanis International, July 1, during the organization's 66th annual convention in New orleans, La., according to Wayne Burney, president of the Noon Kiwanis Club of Snyder. He will assume office Oct. 1, 1981, at the start of Kiwanis' administrative year.

The convention traditionally serves as the "annual meeting" for Kiwanis.

McKitrick, a 24-year veteran of Kiwanis, has been a member of its governing board for the past seven years. He is a chartered accountant.

Collecting too much iron?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can a normal healthy man, young or old, collect too much iron in his body from eating too much blackstrap molasses or prunes? Under normal conditions, can the two be eaten every day? No blood has been lost. I am just speaking of your diet under working conditions. I realize that women need far more iron than men.

DEAR READER — There are many factors that affect the absorption of iron. If you get vitamin C when you consume iron, its absorption will be enhanced. If you have whole wheat cereal, the fiber in it will decrease your iron absorption. Within reason I would not think a healthy man would absorb enough iron from either molasses or prunes to be a problem. There are a few people with medical problems who do have to be careful about iron absorption, and that is the main reason the iron in bread was not increased beyond its present levels.

Blackstrap molasses is a good source of iron. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Handbook No. 8 on food values, 100 gms contains 16.1 mg of iron. That is quite a lot and I would be surprised if you would be using that much a day. Prunes contain far less iron. A 100-gm portion of dried uncooked prunes contains only 3.9 mg of iron. A 100-gm serving of prune juice contains 4.1 gms.

Cooking in iron cookware increases iron intake. To give you a more complete guide as to what factors affect iron intake, I am sending you The Health Letter number 17-6, Nutritional Aspects of Minerals. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Women in the childbearing years require more iron than adult men because of loss of blood with the menstrual period. The amount varies widely but it is generally about twice the requirements for men.

DEAR DR. LAMB — One of my co-workers who travels has been mentioning the beneficial effects of colonic irrigation. He says it is not particularly for constipation but rather to periodically completely rid the system of all waste materials. Although some cramping evidently occurs, he says that when combined with vibration and abdominal massage the overall feeling is pleasant and relaxing. There are a lot of places providing this service to a lot of people.

He and I will soon be on business in a city with a health club offering colonic irrigation and he wants me to try it. I am curious and my wife finds it all interesting and wants to try it, but I am also apprehensive. I will not try this if you say it is harmful.

DEAR READER — My advice is to forget it. There have been some deaths reported from coffee enemas. Water enemas that do not contain the same salt composition as the water in your body tend to draw out needed body salts; this can be harmful. For years people have been intrigued with the idea that undigested food residue in the colon was harmful to the health but there is little evidence to support that notion.

Apparently, some people do get pleasure from such things, which is part of the explanation for the enema habit at home. In most cases people would do better to establish a good bowel habit with good nutrition and forget enemas, colonics and laxatives.

Patterson Named Campaign Head

The Lone Star Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation announces the appointment of Mrs. Mamie Patterson as Chairman of its 1981 Breath of Life Campaign in Ira.

The campaign will be held to provide the community with information about cystic fibrosis and to raise funds to support research, education and care programs for CF patients.

The number one genetic killer of children, Cystic Fibrosis is inherited and incurable--claiming three lives each day. An estimated one in 20 Americans is a symptomless carrier of the recessive CF gene. Currently, half of all children born with CF dies before reaching their 20th birthday.

Astros-Giants Provide Plenty Of Excitement

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Baseball's 714-game sitting streak appeared to be completely forgotten by 20,842 fans at Candlestick Park.

They were on their feet in the bottom of the ninth inning, responding to the comeback efforts of the San Francisco Giants, who fell just short and lost 6-5 to the Houston Astros Monday night.

"You could tell the fans enjoyed themselves. There was an ovation after the game ended. I know it was because the Giants almost pulled it out, but it told me the fans were glad we're back," said Dennis Walling of the Astros.

The Giants and Astros players, back from the two-month strike which wiped out 714 big league games, provided plenty of excitement over three hours. Afterward, fireworks originally planned for use July 4 were shot off over Candlestick.

Only 11,115 fans paid their way into the park. The rest came in free on "Top Students Night." The Giants' average paid attendance before the strike was 14,094.

"It would have been a great game to win. Now we've just got to forget it and win the next one," said Giants Manager Frank Robinson, whose team has a six-game losing streak but is 0-1 in the new National League West standings.

"It was an interesting game. That seems to be the only kind they play in San Francisco," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon, recalling a 14-inning, 9-8 victory here in May.

Walling's two-run, pinch-hit double in the top of the ninth sent Houston ahead 6-4 Monday nightm and Darrell Evans of the Giants doubled home a run with two out in the bottom of the inning. The game ended with San Francisco runners at second and third as second baseman Joe Pittman speared a line drive by Larry Herndon.

"I was just trying to keep the fans around. They call me Mr. Excitement. I get into a jam and then work out of it," said Frank LaCorte, the reliever who faced the Giants in the ninth and saved a victory for Joe Sambito, 2-3.

Before doubling in the ninth, Evans connected with a LaCorte pitch and hit a drive into the right field seats, foul by about a foot. A homer would have made the Giants 7-6 winners.

"I thought that was the ballgame," admitted LaCorte.

There were 21 hits in the game, 10 by the Astros and 11 by the Giants. Evans and Houston's Cesar Cedeno had three hits apiece, and the Giants got homers from Joe Morgan and Herndon.

Yankees Slip Past Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) - The New York Yankees came back - and so did the New York Yankee fans.

"I'm not surprised," said Tommy John. "Yankee fans don't surprise me. They're enthusiastic for their team."

The Yankee left-hander pointed to a paid attendance of 40,373 at Yankee Stadium Monday night to show that baseball was alive and well, despite the 50-day strike that soured some fans on the sport.

John also showed that his arm was alive and well by pitching seven sparkling innings of two-hit ball.

"It was like having 50 rainouts," said John with a smile, "then coming back to pitch on the 51st day. No problem."

The Yankee pitcher, of course, referred to the 50-day players' strike that ultimately resulted in 59 days of inactivity. It may have left some rusty, but obviously not John.

Starting the second half of the season after a nine-day tuneup period, the Yankees seemed perfectly capable defensively. Dave Winfield, for one, made two brilliant plays in left field - one a diving grab of a Leon Roberts line drive in the second inning and the other a leaping catch that saved a home run off the bat of Buddy Bell in the seventh.

But the teams only had seven hits between them in a 2-0 Yankee victory, perhaps a tipoff that the hitters' timing was off.

"The timing is not what it will be," Winfield admitted, "but that will come. Still, it wasn't hard getting back into action. Not when you've played the game so long."

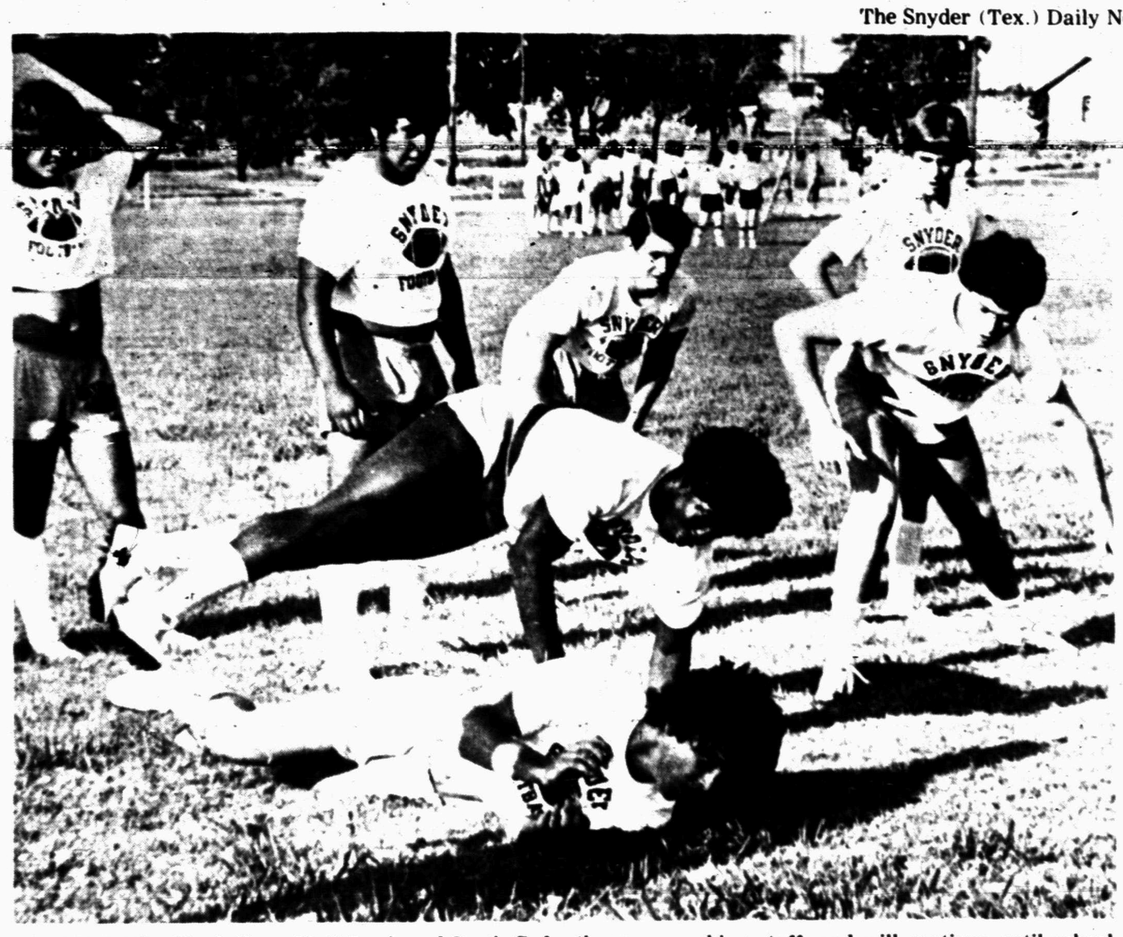

Perhaps not in top mid-season form, players from both sides got back into the swing of things - especially Al Oliver.

"I felt great out there tonight," said the Rangers' designated hitter. "I got good wood on the ball all four times I was up. I felt like I never left."

Oliver had prepared for this comeback by playing racquetball and strengthening his arms.

Many players were exhilerated by the crowd.

"The fans were hungry to watch baseball," said Texas starter Danny Darwin, "just like we were hungry to play it. It was just great being back."

Before Crowd Of 60 Thousand...

Pete Rose Belts 3,361st Basehit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Pete Rose, proving an old adage that age is a state of mind, is the National League's new all-time career hit leader.

The 40-year-old Rose singled through the shortstop hole into left field in the eighth inning of Monday night's game against the St. Louis Cardinals to erase Stan Musial's 19-year-old mark of 3,360 hits.

The Phillies lost, 7-3, to the Cardinals, but it's doubtful if there was anyone in the crowd of 60,561 spectators who went home unhappy.

The fans came to see Rose get the big hit and they were rewarded by the first baseman, who had gone 0-for-3 before slashing the second pitch from Mark Littell for the record-breaking hit.

"It was an inside fastball and I hit it to left field," said Rose of his 3,361st basehit.

Rose had tied Musial's 22-year career record on June 10, his last game before baseball's 50-day strike, with a first-inning single off Nolan Ryan.

Rose recalled that as he waited in the on-deck circle for Littell to finish his warmup pitches. He told his son, Petey, honorary Phillies' bat boy: "Watch this, I'm going to get a hit."

When he went to the plate, Rose said he took a lighter model of a Japanese-manufactured bat with the numbers 3,361 etched on the end.

"I wasn't swinging well. I don't know why. I didn't have the snap in the bat. But I didn't want to disappoint 60,000 people."

As Rose spoke, the telephone rang, and Rose jested, "tell the President to wait a minute."

The joke was on Rose. It was President Reagan trying to get through to congratulate him.

It took about five minutes to make the connection, as an unidentified voice repeated, "Mr. Rose, just a moment. We'll call back."

Rose looked toward the back of the room and asked his agent if it was O.K. to talk with the president.

Rose rattled off one liners as he waited for the connection to come through.

"It's a good thing it isn't a missle on the way," he said.

"Can you imagine, they can send a man to the moon but I can't talk to the president."

He added, "Well, I've waited 19 years for this - I can wait a few more minutes."

Finally, Reagan did get through.

"Hello, Pete Rose?"

"Yes sir," replied Rose.

"How ya doing?" Rose asked the president.

"We were going to give you five more minutes and that was it," Rose joked.

"We've been having some trouble here getting through and I just wanted to call and congratulate you. I know how you must feel and I think it's great," Reagan said.

Holman One Match From Winning Title

AUSTIN (AP) - Marshall Holman is one match away from his fourth Professional Bowlers Association victory of the year and third Texas title after he walked away with the top-seeded position Monday in the $110,000 Aqua Fest-Mr. Gatti's Open pro bowling tournament.

Holman won six of eight matches in round five to build a 347-pin advantage over David Soutar, a PBA Hall of Fame member. Holman, with a 222 average for 42 games and a 17-7 match play record, was never seriously threatened after rolling a 290 in his first game of the tournament.

"I've won the tournament; now I'm going to go out and win it again," said Holman. "I understand the format."

The 26-year-old righthander needs one more game in the championship match Tuesday against one of the four lower qualifiers to earn the $15,000 first prize.

Holman rolled a 1,784 series for the round and now has a match play record of 17-7 and a tournament total of 9,847 pins.

He won the PBA's two previous tournaments this year in Grand Prairie and Houston, and is in a position to sweep the state if he wins this year's final Texas tournament in Austin.

Charlie Tapp of South St. Paul, Minn., who had trailed in third place during most of the tournament, moved to second in the sixth round. Shooting for his first career PBA crown, the 30-year-old Tapp averaged 213 overall, nine pins per game less than the leader.

Collins Takes Early Match

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - Eighth-seeded Sandy Collins breezed to a 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Peanut Louie and Betsy Nagelson beat Anne Kyomura, 1-6, 7-5, 6-0, in the first round of the third annual Central Fidelity Banks international tennis tournament at the University of Richmond.

Second-seeded Pam Shriver survived a shaky second set for a 6-1, 7-6 triumph over Sharon Walsh.

Season 'Opens' Before Apparently Happy Fans

by The Associated Press

Not everyone has caught Baseball Fever yet, but the symptoms of a healthy return of major league play were evident on the first night of the Second Season after a decisive 50-day players strike.

Most of the 13 games that marked the reopening of play Monday drew average or better attendance, although several were spurred by special promotions, and in the case of San Diego, free admission.

Only at Chicago and Cleveland were the crowds abnormally sparse, but there was no sign that the fans there harbored any more antistrike hostility than anywhere else.

The most successful game from an attendance standpoint was at Philadelphia, where 60,561 saw the Phillies' Pete Rose get his 3,361st hit for an all-time National League record.

But many fans haven't forgiven the players and owners for depriving them of the game for eight weeks since June 12.

"I don't care if they win or lose, I'm going to boo," said Agnes Pleis at the Cardinals-Phillies game. "I've had season tickets for 11 years, but I'm not getting them next year. No way."

"I won't be going back," said self-described longtime Orioles fan Bob Rutkowski, who picketed outside Memorial Stadium before the Orioles-Royals game, trying to persuade others not to enter. "I don't know if it'll be forever, but it'll be years."

It is that kind of negative reaction that worries Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who was in Philadelphia to see Rose beat Stan Musial's record. His presence at Veterans Stadium was not announced to the crowd.

"We'll be watching attendance very carefully in the next few days," Kuhn said. "We don't expect fans to be enchanted with what's happened. But I think you'll see fans pick up their enthusiasm as the season goes on. I see some disaffection; I'd be foolish if I didn't think there was any."

Padres owner Ray Kroc, who in his hamburger commercials says "you deserve a break today," gave his team's fans a break, letting them in free for the Reopening Game with Atlanta. A capacity crowd of 52,000 accepted his hospitality.

Crowds also were far above-average at New York and Montreal.

Mayotte Wins Over Hayes

STOWE, Vt. (AP) — Unseeded Chris Mayotte upset seventh-seeded John Hayes 6-3, 6-4, and eighth-seeded Ron Hightower was upset by Gilles Moretton, 6-3, 2-6, 7-6, in the first day of the Stowe Grand Prix Tennis Tournament.

In other matches, John Davis defeated Juan Nunez, 6-0, 6-4; Matt Mitchell triumphed over Jorge Andres, 6-3, 6-2; fifth-seeded Tim Mayotte defeated Gewan Maharaj, 6-3, 6-1; Lloyd Bourne beat Morris Strode, 6-4, 7-5, and Mike Leach defeated Matt Doyle, 6-4, 6-3.

Richard Burns Is Hospitalized Following Dirt Bike Accident

Richard Burns, 13, was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital Monday for observation after he was involved in a dirt bike mishap at 12:06 p.m. at KSNY Drive and Lamesa Hwy.

Burns was driving a 1974 Yamaha dirt bike when the mishap occurred. A small girl, passenger on the bike, was uninjured. No other vehicle was involved. Officer Don Whittenburg took the accident report.

In other activity, Pearline Selman at the Food Basket on North College, told police an undetermined amount of cash had been taken from her purse sometime between 6:30 p.m. Sunday and 1:30 p.m. Monday. The theft was reported at 2:08 p.m. Monday.

Three male juveniles, two 12 year-olds and one 7 year-old, were taken into custody at 3:40 p.m. by Lt. Steve Warren in connection with a criminal mischief on the Santa Fe Railroad tights at 17th and Ave. L Aug. 1. The three were released into the custody of their parents.

A fight broke out in the Wild Country Club parking lot at 11:26 p.m. and police were called to the scene. Two men, one 21 year-old and one 28, were taken into custody by Sgt. Wade Norris and Officer Keith Ward. One was charged with public intoxication and the other was charged with public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

At 1:18 p.m., a 22 year-old man was taken into custody at 13th and Ave. R for driving while license suspended.

Texas Senate Approves Redistricting Proposal

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — In a vote similar to President Reagan's recent coalition victories in Congress, the Texas Senate has approved a bill that could help Republicans gain control of Congress in the 1980s.

Eight conservative Democrats joined eight Republicans on Monday to pass a congressional redistricting bill that critics say could increase the number of Texas Republicans in the U.S. House of Representatives from five to nine.

Although the bill was finally approved 18-13, the key vote was 15-16 against sending the measure to a conference committee.

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, noted that Texas Democrats who had voted with Reagan on his recent budget and tax cuts had been called "boll weevils" and "turncoats."

"I can find no word to call them other than heroes," said Wilson. "And this bill will allow us to send more people of that kind of fabric to Washington."

Legislative approval of the bill was viewed as a blow to Democrat Jim Wright's chances of becoming the first U.S. House speaker from Texas since the late Sam Rayburn.

The GOP already has a Senate majority, and lacks only some 30 members to become the majority party in the House.

The redistricting bill reflects population gains that will increase the size of the Texas delegation from 24 to 27.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, angry over what he considered the defection of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton on redistricting, quoted Rayburn in saying he would "forgive and remember."

Mauzy, D-Dallas, predicted Hobby would face Democratic opposition in the 1982 primary as a result of his support of the redistricting plan.

Texas Democrats "are not going to nominate someone who uses his office to help the Republican Party to the detriment of the Democratic Party," Mauzy told reporters.

"In my view," said Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, Hobby and Clayton "have relinquished their right to call themselves Democrats. Hobby, Clayton and the so-called Democrats who voted with them are Quislings who deserved to be recognized as the sellouts they are."

Gov. Bill Clements, the state's first Republican governor in over 100 years, said, "Texas is a conservative state, and the bill reflects what is right for Texas."

Republicans got a redistricting bill they wanted despite their minority status of 38 out of 150 House members and eight of 31 senators.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, credited Clements with the GOP victory. "He has made such effective use of his powers that when he stomps his foot and bellows, some people are so cowed you can almost hear them moo," said Doggett.

He said Republicans had stuck together since the regular session began in January, yet "the Democratic Party has been unable to assure the loyalty of elected leaders."

Mauzy said the "keys" to passage of congressional redistricting were Hobby and Clayton, who rammed his own version of a redistricting bill through the House on Sunday after hardcore Democrats had sought a plan denying the GOP any congressional gains.

U.S. Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, whose political future is gravely threatened by remap of that area, said Clements had been "dishonorable" in refusing to admit he simply wanted a plan that would benefit Republicans, rather than claiming his main interest was a minority district in Dallas County.

Mattox, a spectator in the Senate, told reporters Clements had cut deals with Hobby and Clayton to get the bill through the Legislature.

He said Clements had promised Hobby he would not campaign against his re-election bid next year, and had offered Clayton his help in getting the job as director of the Lower Colorado River Authority, which pays $90,000 a year.

Clayton denied any such deal, and Don Rives, Hobby's executive assistant, said Mattox's statement was "absolutely not true. There has been no conversation about that at all."

Democratic loyalists also have said Clayton did the governor's bidding in exchange for submitting the speaker's water fund proposal to the special session.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am white, male and 75 years old. My wife of 56 years died seven months ago, and I am in dire need of sexual contact. I have always had a tremendous sex drive and am at a loss for relief.

I've tried any number of massage parlors and call girls, but such contacts are so cold, mercenary and fleeting. They are also very expensive for a man on a fixed, limited income.

I desperately need the warmth and satisfaction of an intimate physical relationship. My deceased wife's female relatives refuse my attentions and call me a "dirty old man."

The only person who has offered me even a glimmer of hope is my widowed daughter, age 55, but I ruled that possibility out because it is illegal and incestuous.

My wife knew and understood my needs. She even sanctioned several discreet affairs in her later years. Can you please help me before I go crazy?

75 AND VIRILE IN PA.

DEAR 75: A man of any age who "desperately needs the warmth and satisfaction of an intimate physical relationship" should look for a woman with the same needs. A romance, and possibly marriage, could result.

However, if all you want is an outlet for the "tremendous sex drive" that threatens to drive you crazy, don't exploit any innocent women, and don't approach family members.

In the meantime, see a physician about quieting your unfulfilled needs.

DEAR ABBY: My housework can wait. That letter from PATTY IN TACOMA, the 25-year-old woman who's unhappy because she looks like a teen-ager, has made me write my first Dear Abby letter. Patty doesn't know when she's well-off.

My problem is just the opposite. I look older than I am, but to make matters worse, my husband looks much younger than he is. We are the same age, but lately I'm constantly being mistaken for Leonard's mother. I think the gray hair is doing it.

Don't tell me to dye my hair — Leonard says he likes gray hair. (His mother was prematurely gray.) I know I'm overweight, but Leonard says he likes me this way, and he keeps bringing me candy and pastry, which I love and can't resist.

Believe me, I don't enjoy looking like I'm my husband's mother, so what should I do?

J. IN SPRINGFIELD, MO.

DEAR J.: You may not enjoy looking like your husband's mother, but apparently your husband enjoys it. If you really want to look years younger, go on a sensible diet. Tell Leonard if he brings home any more sweets, he will have to eat them. Then wash that gray right out of your hair! Leonard might even like the new you better. And if he doesn't, you'll be stuck with a girlish figure and a dye job that doesn't last very long anyway.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old man who has lived with a problem I have hated since I was 14. I had tattoos put on both arms, and they are ugly. It was a lousy job in the first place. My name is tattooed on my left arm, and the printing is crooked and smeared. On my right arm, I have a cross that isn't even finished and a sword that doesn't look anything like a sword.

I tend bar on weekends and never wear short-sleeved shirts, no matter how hot it is, because I am so ashamed of these terrible tattoos. I want them off!

Where does a person go to get rid of tattoos? How much does it cost, and will it leave scars?

THE TATTOOED MAN

DEAR TATTOOED: See a dermatologist or a plastic surgeon. There is no standard price; it will depend on the number of visits required to complete the procedure. Whether it will leave scars will depend on the skill of the doctor who removes the tattoos.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: In answer to EMBARRASSED, regarding guests who ask for a "grand tour" of the house: May I suggest how some of San Francisco's sharpest (also wealthiest) hostesses handle this? They simple say, "This is our entertainment area; the rest of the house is private." Period.

Two Women Involved...

Sheriff's Dept. Probes Report

The Sheriff's Department is investigating a report of a woman pulling a gun on another woman near Lake Thomas Saturday night. Reports indicate a man had visitation rights with his daughter and took her on an outing at the Lake. The girl's mother tried to take her back and at one point called the sheriff's office and asked what they would do if she shot her husband. They told her she would be arrested.

The woman then allegedly pulled a gun on her ex-husband's girlfriend, who was driving the girl back into town, and ordered her to pull over. The girl was then taken home by her mother. Misdemeanor charges may be filed in the case.

In another incident, the home of Joel Griffin, West 30th, was robbed. The Griffins were on vacation when the theft occurred but it was discovered by their son Aug. 5 and reported to the sheriff's office. The Griffin's returned home Sunday and reported $500 in china, chrystal and pottery; $300 radio stereo combination; and a $200 trombone was missing.

2 Satellites To Be Launched

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Two satellites built by RCA Corp. are to be launched in 1984 as part of a new General Telephone & Electronics Corp. communications system.

GTE, based here, announced Monday that it had awarded a contract worth more than $100 million to RCA to build the two satellites plus one spare. They'll be operated by GTE's Satellite Corp.

David F. Piske, vice president-general manager of the subsidiary, said the system would be able to handle up to 30,000 simultaneous telephone conversations or 300 two-way video conferences.

Felony Charges Are Filed

Felony charges have been filed in Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway's office against two persons.

Joe Refugio Gonzales is charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle which belonged to Frank Grimmitt, and with driving while intoxicated.

Bernadette Elizabeth Armaturo is charged with assault on a peace officer. Charges allege Armaturo kicked Officer Don Cheek in the legs with her knee and struck him in the face with her fist.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes, died in 1930.

Lustrous pewter heirlooms make lovely remembrances for Christmas, Mother's Day and other special times. Skilled engravers use the drawings of Hallmark artists to create molds from which these handsome plates are produced. They are cast in fine pewter with 92 percent tin content, a measure of quality by New England craftsmen. Hand-buffing heightens the intricate shadings and detail of the finished piece. Each is gift-boxed with display stand, and ready to start a new tradition.

Don Adams Laundry Has Added Several New Washers, Dryers

The folks at Don Adams Laundry are continually making washday a more efficient and pleasant time for you. Don Adams has just installed 7 new dryers, 2 especially for wash and wear fabrics, and 4 new front-load washers.

The laundry is open 7 days a week, 24 hours a day. This enables you to do your laundry at your convenience, not at someone else's. An attendant is on duty from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and an attendant checks in at the laundry several times during the day on Sunday.

Don Adams Laundry has all the conveniences a laundry needs and then some. A dollar bill changer, a soap dispenser with choice of detergent, soil remover, bleach or fabric softener, and a pay telephone are all provided.

After the wash is done, an adjoining room is provided for folding and hanging clothes. This room is complete with tables and rolling clothes hampers.

The laundry is now equipped with 72 washers; 60 commercial-duty, Maytag top-load washers and for larger loads, 12 front-load washers are available.

The firm also has 35 dryers (including 6 special dryers for delicate and permanent press fabric) making for more efficient washdays.

Don also sells and services Electrolux Vacuum Cleaners. He keeps several models and parts on hand to cut down your waiting time.

Whether your needs are for laundry or house cleaning, Don Adams can help. Go by 2400 26th Street (corner of 26th and Avenue X) and see for yourself.

Snyder Bookstore Has SMURF Related Items, Bibles, Books

Snyder Bookstore and Gift Shop introduced the SMURF to Snyder and is the place to buy all Smurf-related materials.

Owner Donna Gray invites everyone in to see the Smurf Collector's Center. There you'll find not only the orginal Smurf, but scores of other Smurfdom material, too.

See key chains, mugs, party favors, stuffed Smurfs, Smurf Puffy Stickers, toothbrush holders, Smurfgrams with messages for Moms and Dads, stamp a Smurfs, Smurf night lights and Smurf posters.

With school just a couple of weeks away, now is the time to be thinking of back-to-school supplies such as dictionaries, thesauruses and Cliff's Notes. Snyder Bookstore has a good supply of each.

Visit the sale table at the bookstore and you'll be able to take advantage of such bargains as stained glass quotes on sale for $2.95. Or get ready for travel with suede leather luggage tags for only 75 cents. One group of Smurf jewelry is on sale for $1.25, and "Treat Your Bible", a conditioner for fine leather is now only 25 cents a package.

Handmade wooden toys games and puzzles by Pickles Gap are on sale right now at Snyder Bookstore and Gift Shop. They make unique and appreciated gifts.

Of course in addition to all this, the store is just chock-full of books and Bibles. If you haven't been in lately, go by the west side of the square and browse--you'll find something you need.
