Church Picnic Errand Ends In Fatal Wreck

Rafelio (Roy) Franco is a 17-year-old 10th grade student at Colorado High School.

He came to public school by way of St. Ann's Catholic School, where he completed the first seven grades.

There was a parish picnic Sunday--a sort of farewell party honoring the nuns who teach at St. Ann's because, after this term the Catholic church is closing its school.

And Roy was at the picnic with other members of his family.

Sometime after 4 p.m. he jumped into his dad's car on an errand for soft drinks for the picnic.

He didn't know it then, but within a short time he would be driving one of 2 cars in a collision that killed a passenger riding with him, injured his little nephew, and severely hurt a prominent physician.

And, Roy would be held for investigation which could lead to the filing charges against him of negligent homicide or murder with a motor vehicle.

Roy was driving his father's car at about 4:30 p.m., Sunday when it collided with a 2-door auto driven by Dr. Melvin Crymes at intersection of Walnut and 8th Street.

Trailing the youth's car was a police car with Chief Jesse Browning and Patrolman Dan Pfeuffer, who moments earlier had signaled for Roy's car to stop.

Killed instantly in the crash, which police say was caused when Roy's car ran through a stop sign, was Jesus Garcia, 27, whose wife had called police.

Rushed to Root Memorial Hospital in an ambulance with broken right shoulder, cuts and bruises was Dr. Crymes. Roy's 2-year-old nephew, Johnny Franco, with a severe head and face gash, was hurried to the hospital in a car by County Judge Bill Carter and Deputy Sheriff Bill McGuire.

Later Sunday the Colorado High student posted $2,000 bond after Justice of Peace Leonard Henderson explained his legal rights and informed the youth that he was being held for investigation of possible negligent homicide or murder with a motor vehicle at request of Police Chief Browning.

Roy, who has played fullback on 9th and 10th grade football teams the last two years, was back in school Wednesday when he talked to the Colorado City Record.

He talked about the parish picnic. . .about his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Franco, being there. . .about other parents and children,too. . .all in the Cooperatorium of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc.

Then, he related, his brother, Alfred, "sent me to get some soft drinks for the picnic."

The boy said he took his brother's little son with him when he went "in daddy's car" to the Pride Service Station at corner of Hickory and East 6th St.

Roy picked the Pride Station to buy 24 cans of soft drinks because "we have credit there."

After he obtained the drinks--on his brother's credit--Roy was asked by station owner Ray Crowder to give a ride home to another man.

The other man was Jesus Garcia, 27.

At 4:18 p.m. police were called to Garcia's home by Jesus Garcia's wife. When they arrived, there, the woman was not there and a little boy said "they had left". The boy kept saying "gun", according to police.

Before police left the house though, Mrs. Garcia drove up in a car. She said her husband was at the Pride station.

According to police, she also said her husband was drunk and she was afraid of him. When police asked about a gun, she checked the house and couldn't fine a gun that had been there.

Chief Browning and Patrolman Pfeuffer, who had answered the call of Garcia's home, then drove to 6th and Hickory, where they recognized Garcia as a passenger in Roy Franco's car at the service station.

"Ray (Crowder) asked me to give this man a ride home," Franco explained.

The station owner confirms this fact. He told the Record that Garcia had been there, quiet although apparently he had been drinking.

The station owner said he had informed Garcia police had been called, that he should go home.

"He told me he was going home. . .to make it up to his wife and to sleep," Crowder said.

When Roy, his nephew and Garcia left the station in the car, Chief Browning and Pfeuffer were in their police car across (Hickory) the street east.

Chief Browning stepped outside his car and motioned the other car to pull up and stop.

But it didn't. Franco's car turned north on Hickory and moved away.

"I had said okay," the smallish, young Franco said, when asked to give the shirtless, shoeless, sockless Garcia a ride home.

"I was just trying to do a favor," the youth continued.

Franco said he didn't know until Garcia got into the car that he had been drinking.

"I saw the police," the student said. "they waved me to stop.

"He (Garcia) told me to turn.

"I looked at him (Garcia). He put his hand in his pocket. I was scared he would do something to my little nephew."

Did he threaten you?

"Not exactly. I started to stop and he pulled his hand out a little further. . .like he was getting a knife or something.

"I was scared. I was really worried about the little boy."

Franco said he did not know where Garcia lived.

"He just told me to turn. I turned onto 8th.

"He told me to go faster. I glanced in the rear view mirrow. I saw the police.

"I tried to stop. He pulled his hand a little more, like pulling something out of his pocket."

Did you try to stop more than once?

"Yes, sir."

Police said the car was moving at a fast rate of speed, running through stop signs at Locust, Chestnut and Elm. Their car's emergency red light was flashing.

But police were about 2 blocks behind because they slowed for the stop signs.

"He (Garcia) kept telling me to go faster.

"I got scared that something was going to happen. I was going to run into somebody. . . or something.

Police saw the fleeing car approach Walnut on 8th. Again it ran a stop sign--collision.

Immediately Patrolman Pfeuffer radioed for an ambulance.

The fleeing car, a Chevrolet, turned upside down pointing to the northeast. Dr. Crymes' Plymouth, traveling south on Walnut, was upright pointing northeast, also.

When the police car stopped, Franco was standing beside his car unhurt. Beside him was his little nephew with the ugly gash on left side of his face.

Dr. Crymes was thrown outside of his car, lying in the street apparently unconscious. Garcia was dead in the Chevrolet.

"A block from the accident," the student recounted, "I was trying to stop.

"I put on the brake. Then I saw Dr. Crymes' car. But it wouldn't stop.

"I tried to avoid hitting the car. . .turned. When cars collided I grabbed for the little boy (between the driver and Garcia) so he wouldn't get hurt.

"When the car stopped I pulled myself out. Got the little boy out. That's when police got there."

Roy says he has never been in trouble. His friends support his statement. So do school officials who know him.

"I go to mass every Sunday," he adds. "I can't go mornings for that is when the school bus passes. But I go Tuesday and Friday at 7:30 p.m."

District Attorney Frank Ginzel said investigation was continuing into the fatal wreck. Whatever charges are filed will depend upon the investigation.

Police Chief Browning said the car Garcia was a passenger was searched at the wreck scene and later at a garage. No trace of the gun, which Mrs. Garcia said was missing from their home, was found.

An unopened knife was in Garcia's pocket.

14 Named In 11 New Felony Indictments

Murder with a motor vehicle and robbery by assault were among 11 felony indictments returned Monday by Mitchell County's 32nd District Court grand jury.

Other indictments included charges of theft by fraud, forgery, possession of marijuana and sbusequent offense driving while intoxicated.

Named in the indictment charging murder by vehicle is Alex Rocha, 18, of Colorado City, only survivor of a 2-car high- crash which killed 3 persons last Feb. 21 at 1:30 p.m.

Rocha was severely injured in the head-on collision west of Colorado City on Interstate 20.

Three occupants of the other car--Eddie Wayne Hogue, 24; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dwayne Kelly, 22 and 17, all of Colorado City--were killed in the wreck.

Rocha was reported at the time to have been driving a car wrong-way on the interstate freeway, traveling west in an eastbound lane.

Brigido De LaCruz and Manuel De LaCruz of Mitchell County are defendants in the robbery by assault indictments. They are alleged to have assaulted Eddie Salazar May 9 and taken $25 from him by violence and fear of life and bodily injury.

Salazar sustained a knife wound on that date.

Brigido De LaCruz also was named in a second indictment, alleging burglary of J. Wiley Walker's house at Loraine last Feb. 28.

Four persons from out of state are charged in 2 separate indictments--one alleging possession of marijuana and the other accusing them of defrauding Villa Inn of more than $50.

They are Pauline Tourigny, 21; Mary Dian Jacob, 18, and Lawrence Gravelle, 20, all of Leominster, Mass., and David Albert Zilli, Scottsdale, Ariz.

The four were arrested here April 18 on Interstate 20 by City Patrolman Pete Upshaw moments after they had driven away in a 1970 model car from Villa Inn Motel.

Police had been called to the motel by a motel employee who was suspicious that four motel guests might leave without paying a bill of more than $55. Marijuana charges were filed after police checked the auto.

All four have been held in Mitchell County jail since their April 18 arrest in lieu of $5,000 bond and are wanted in Massachusetts by law enforcement officers.

Indicted on charge of forging and passing a $25 check at C. R. Anthony are Kenneth Dwayne Parrack, 27, and Judy Bullard Parrack, 22, both of Hamilton.

The couple have been on bond since their arrest in Hamilton a few days after the forged check was passed at the Colorado City store March 29.

Another indictment involving check passing charges V. L. Middaugh Jr. of Odessa with theft by fraud of $300 in currency from Fuller Foods Feb. 27. Middaugh has been free on bond.

Four persons are named in indictments charging subsequent offense driving while intoxicated following previous misdemeanor DWI convictions. They are:

Sam Timpton of Lubbock, free on bond, accused of subsequent offense April 8 after conviction in Reeves County Nov. 3, 1967.

Steven Hernadez Garcia, of Colorado City, free on bond, accused of subsequent offense April 22 after conviction here

'No' Vote For 3

Only Water-Sewer Carries

You could have taken the vote of Mitchell County Monday and measured all of Texas.

For the decision of Mitchell voters was the same ballot decision for the rest of the state.

Here with a meager turnout of only 526 total citizens casting their ballots, the decision was 'No' to 3 proposed state constitutional amendments, 'Yes' for only 1.

Only No. 4 - authorization for one hundred million dollars in bids for water quality and sewage improvement--received approval from Mitchell County voters.

Defeated were the amendments (No. 1) that would create an ethics commission that would also recommend pay for legislators, (No. 2) that would allow constitutional amendment proposals at special legislative sessions and (No.3) which would remove limitation on state assistance money for needy, aged, needy disabled, needy blind and also provide for needy dependent children.

The same verdict came from all of Texas.

Mitchell County 294 to 225 for the water-sewage amendment. The 'yes' margin came with 5 of the county's 8 voting boxes balloting in favor of the proposal. Two precints voted the amendment down and absentee was tied, 2-2.

The turn down of the other three amendments was definite. Not a single voting precinct favored No. 1, the ethics commission amendment, although the absentee was 2-2.

It was even more emphatic for No. 2. Every box in the county voted 'no'.

No. 2, the assistance amendment, carried by a narrow 2-vote margin in the Loraine balloting. It had a hefty 'yes' vote of 15-2 in Colorado City Oak Street box and was even 2-2 in absentee.

Here is how Mitchell County's precincts voted on the amendments:

No. 1 (ethics) -- Courthouse, 51, for, 101 no; Civic House, 57 for, 96 no; Fairview-Cuthbert 5 for, 10 no; Westbrook, 6 for, 42 no; Buford, 9 for, 12 no; Loraine 18 for, 94 no; Oak Street 8 for, 9 no; Absentee, 2 for, 2 no.

No. 2 (amendment)--Courthouse, 56 for, 95 no; Civic House 57 for, 93 no; Cuthbert-Fairview 3 for, 9 no; Westbrook 15 for, 31 no; Buford 6 for, 15 no; Loraine 33 for, 75 no; Oak Street 7 for, 10 no; Absentee 0 for, 4 no.

No. 3 (assistance)--Courthouse 72 for, 80 no; Civic House 65 for, 90 no; Cuthbert-Fairview 6 for, 9 no; Westbrook 11 for, 37 no; Buford 10 for, 11 no; Loraine 56 for, 58 no; Oak Street 15 for, 2 no; Absentee 2 for, 2 no.

No. 4 (water-sewage)--Courthouse 88 for, 64 no; Civic House 99 for, 53 no; Cuthbert-Fairview 7 for, 8 no; Westbrook 24 for, 22 no; Buford 13 for, 8 no; Loraine 48 for, 64 no; Oak Street 13 for, 4 no; Absentee 2 for, 2 no.

For totals the county vote was No. - 156 for, 368 no; No.2 - 177 for, 332 no; No. 3 - 237 for, 289 no; No. 4 - 294 for, 225 no.

CONVERSATION CORNER

THERE ARE ways and ways and ways to tell when your own flaming youth has become just a spark in the dark.

One way is to pick up and thumb through almost any woman's magazine you come across. They are all without exception written for, edited for, and published for the very young. One recent issue of Good Housekeeping given detailed instructions on how to boil an egg.

Then there are suggestions for peeling a hard-boiled egg and what to do with it once it's peeled.

Nearly always you can find in all current women's magazines pages and pages of new ideas for the use of ground beef, too. Makes you wonder what in the world wives used to serve before hamburger, ground round, ground chuck and ground sirloin solved every menu problem.

* * *

READING a new magazine can make a woman who already knows how to boil an egg and mix hamburger for skillet suppers feel not so very new herself, any more.

Let her turn to the fashion pages is she needs further proof of how new she is not. Not one single model is wearing bi-focals with this season's bikinis, bloomers, boots, britches, and beads.

Let her sample the fiction while the hair-do dries and she'll find the heroines are mostly 32-year-old mothers of four little youngans and married to a husband "in love" with some 20-year-old gal who drives a white convertible.

Such a state of affairs does nothing much for what might be called the mature morale.

* * *

OTHER WAYS to find out when you've crossed the crest of the mountain are all too numerous.

When you ask the man in your life "Oh, did you see the moon? and he grins back, "Heck, didn't know we still had one," chances are you've slowed down some. And so has he.

When you sometimes go to church via radio or TV because you can sit and listen with the shoes off that could be another indication that your "git-up-and-go has got up and went," like that jolly jingle says.

OH WELL. Change is life. And life is change. Have seen in one lifetime postage stamps for first class mail jump from two cents to eight cents. It's a change called prosperity.

DID YOU KNOW that the T.D. Wimans are vacationing in South Carolina? Card from them says "Crops and scenery beautiful here, and the fishing excellent at Lake Murray." They added "Hope it rained there." It did, Monday night, but there was more sound of thunder and fury of lightning than such a little rain really rated.

Hear tell that Hilda May and Flo McShan are home after a ten-day vacation stay in Ruidoso, N. M.

And that Naomi and Dr. Bill Rhode left last Thursday for Montreal, Canada, where they are visiting second daughter Anne and her husband Carl Youngstrom. The doctor and Naomi will return via Wisconsin to see first daughter Susan and her husband John Bennett.

Club Traces Art of Flower Arranging From Greek Times

Members of Colorado City Garden Club heard Mrs. Bruce Johnson of Loraine tell of "flower arranging in a changing world" when they met last Wednesday in Community Center.

Mrs. Johnson traced flower arranging from early history of Greece to modern day trends.

In addition to Greek methods of displaying garlands and wreaths, the speaker told of arrangement characteristics of the Early Dutch, French and English.

"In the Early American period," Mrs. Johnson explained, "people who came from Europe brought only what was needed for necessities in the home so they put wild flowers in handsome wooden bowls, cream pitchers and sugar bowls."

Later during Colonial period, club members heard, flowers came from private gardens.

"Modern arrangements show a definite form of line, hogarth curve and abstract design used in a variety of containers," she continued.

Displaying an assemblage depicting India, Mrs. Johnson reported that an assemblage is composed of component parts attached to a board used to give a message, usually of abstract design and can be lighted.

Two capsule tables-a functional table and exhibitional table-and a mobile, featuring copper tubing, red gladioli and black base were arranged for club display by Mrs. Johnson.

Final arrangement by the program leader, classified in new flower show award class, was "The New Courthouse", showing an eagle, symbolic of justice, landscaping of grounds and red gladioli representing life and excitement in a new building.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Dennis Wright and Mrs. Willis Jones.

Attending also were one new member, Mrs. Don Stewart, and Mrs. Billy Bruce Bridgford, Mrs. Earl Brown, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Margaret Aden, Mrs. A. H. Jackson, Mrs. E. M. Owen.

Mrs. S. A. Palmer, Mrs. George Lay Powell.

Also, Mrs. Floyd Shepherd, Mrs. L. J. Taylor, Mrs. George Willis, Mrs. Roy Davis Coles and Mrs. Johnson.

Final meeting of the current club year will be June 9 featuring installation of new officers by Mrs. G. D. Foster.

Installation will follow breakfast in garden at country home of Mrs. Billy Bruce Bridgford. Hosting the 9 a.m. affair with Mrs. Bridgford will be Mrs. Powell and Mrs. Hubert Bassinger.

Calkins President For FICB

W. H. Calkins has been named president of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston to replace W. N. Stokes Jr., who is to retire May 31 after 38 years of service to farm credit banks.

"We feel we have made an outstanding selection in choosing a man with agricultural credit background of Bill Calkins," Thompson said.

"His abilities are the type needed to head an organization such as FICB which is growing at the rate of millions of dollars each year."

The Intermediate Credit Bank discounts loans for 34 Production Credit Associations and 11 agricultural credit corporations throughout the state.
